13,000 Teachers On Strike In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Public school teachers in the nation's fourth largest city went out on strike today, refusing to give up what the School Board says is the shortest high school working day in the nation.

Affected are 13,000 teachers, 5,000 paraprofessional union members and 285,000 pupils, who are due to begin classes Thursday.

The teachers were to report for work today.

Bargainers for both sides agreed that the key dispute centers on the board's demand that secondary level teachers extend their work day from five hours to five hours, 40 minutes.

The board, $52 million in debt, has offered raises of $330 a year to the 5,000 city teachers now at top scale, but also has asked that other salaries be frozen and that 485 positions be phased out by adjustments in class size in an effort to save $11 million.

The teachers, in a list of 400 demands, have asked for pay raises averaging 34 per cent on their scale that now ranges from $8,900 for a beginner to $17,000 for a veteran with a Ph.D.

Jack Soloff, negotiator for the board, said, "Senior high school teachers in Philadelphia have the shortest day of any in the United States...I feel the problem we face with the PFT (Philadelphia Federation of Teachers) crystallizes around this one issue."

John Ryan, the union's negotiator, said, "We're willing to negotiate on the salary package, but we'll definitely not negotiate on the longer high school day or larger class size."

The teachers are demanding a 25-student class size, based on enrollment. The school board wants to base the class size on attendance, which would increase the student ratio.

School Supt. Matthew Costanzo has indicated the city's 280 public schools would not remain open unless enough teachers showed up to work. Mary Mealey, president of a faction called the Philadelphia City Education Association, said her group with a "couple thousand members" would cross picket lines.

The executive chairman of the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board, Abe Belz, said it would review the situation to see if fact-finding moves are necessary.

Arab Terrorists Kill 2 Athletes, Hold 13 Hostages

MUNICH (AP) — West German radio reported today that Olympic officials planned to suspend the games, at least for an interval, because of the action by Arab terrorists.

MUNICH (AP) — Arab terrorists armed with submachine guns broke into the Olympic village today, killed two Israelis and held 13 more Israeli hostages in their living quarters. The Arabs, who had boxes of explosives, threatened to kill all the hostages unless 200 Arab terrorists held in Israel were released.

They first set a deadline of noon-7 a.m. EDT. Later a West German spokesman said an extension of the deadline was achieved in negotiations between the terrorists and Mohammed Chatib, head of the Arab League office at Bonn, who had rushed to Munich.

The Olympics, founded to foster international understanding, were thrown out of balance. After an emergency Cabinet meeting, Israel asked West Germany to halt the games, reliable sources reported. But the games went on, for the time being at least.

Chancellor Willy Brandt called a meeting of the West German Cabinet, then flew to Munich from Bonn to supervise in the negotiations.

Brandt appealed to all Arab nations to do everything they could to help achieve safe release of the hostages.

Police surrounded the Israel building and negotiated with the terrorists. Israeli diplomats rushed to Munich from Bonn. The Arabs refused to surrender.

One of the dead Israelis was identified by the Bavarian Interior Ministry as Moshe Weinberg, 32, a wrestling coach. He was shot twice in the head and once in the stomach as the Arabs broke in before dawn.

The raid, a daring and apparently well planned operation,

Town Democrats To Choose Slate

Unless developments in the legal arena change their plans, Manchester Democrats will meet tonight to select candidates for two assembly districts and to ratify their choice of delegates to two other political districts.

Both the Federal District Court in Hartford and the State Supreme Court were scheduled today to take up the court ordered redistricting plan under which the political parties are proceeding.

The Democratic Town Committee is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. at party headquarters at Main St. and E. Middle Tpke.

The party is required by court order to nominate candidates for the two assembly districts which lie entirely within the town. They are the 12th, which corresponds roughly to the district now represented by Donald Genovesi, Republican; and the 13th, which corresponds roughly to the district now represented by Francis Mahoney, Democrat.

Republicans will make their choices for those districts Thursday night, unless court action upsets the schedule. Mahoney and Genovesi are both reportedly interested in being nominated again.

Democrats who have been mentioned as possible opponents for Genovesi are Paul Grobert, William Bronnell, Anthony Pietrantonio and John Hutchinson.

The Democratic party's need to ratify delegate selections made Saturday morning stems from the fact that the party lacked quorums of town committee members from the 3rd Senatorial District and from the 14th Assembly District, both of which are shared with other towns.

It did have quorums Saturday when it picked delegates for the 4th Senatorial District and for the 9th Assembly District, also both shared with other towns.

The Republicans met Saturday and selected their delegates to multi-town districts with little trouble. Republican quorum requirements were less stringent because the party's town committee is elected at large rather than by district.

Jets Batter Rails, Radar

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets attacked North Vietnam's northwest railroad to China Monday and destroyed two radar stations used to direct surface-to-air missiles at American planes, the U.S. Command announced today.

On the ground, North Vietnamese forces mounted their third attack since last Friday against South Vietnamese bases in the central highlands. The Saigon command said the assault was beaten back and claimed 130 North Vietnamese were killed, 100 of them by air strikes.

Government losses were five killed and 13 wounded, the command said.

The U.S. Command reported that American jet fighters-bombers carried out more than 220 strikes across North Vietnam Monday, with the northwest railroad and the radar stations the major targets. Other attacks concentrated on bridges, supply trucks and water craft, mostly in the southern sector of North Vietnam.

The Air Force said F4 phantoms attacked three unnamed bridges along the northwest rail line at points 66 and 76 miles northwest of Hanoi and about 75 miles south of the Chinese border.

Heavy clouds prevented an assessment of the damage, the Air Force said.

The northwest railroad as well as the northeast, have been under continuous attack by the Air Force in a five-month campaign to cut the flow of war supplies from China into North Vietnam.

The radar stations knocked out were located 17 miles southeast and 10 miles northwest of Hanoi. The pre-dawn North Vietnamese attack in the central highlands hit the Bau Can base camp, about 12 miles southwest of Pleiku City. The position, manned by about 100 government militiamen, was first shelled then attacked by infantrymen.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, noted increasing North Vietnamese pressure within a 25-mile radius of Pleiku City, the capital of the Central Highlands.

He said the North Vietnamese 320th division had moved

Athletes Quiet In Tragedy

MUNICH (AP) — Among the athletes, murder came almost unnoticed to the Olympics today.

Athletes walked and chatted, toted canoe paddles over their shoulders and listened to polka music over the Olympic Village loudspeaker system while police bargained for the lives of Israeli competitors.

In the big social hall and television room off the main shopping plaza, athletes lounged on the floor the same way they've done every day since the beginning of the Games, watching an equestrian event on the closed circuit television system.

One channel showed a police car at the gate and then pictures of the Israeli headquarters, but there was no sign of siege or catastrophe.

Duane Bobick, the American heavyweight boxer who was fighting this afternoon against Cuba's Teofilo Stevenson, may have been an exception. He looked shocked when a reporter told him the news and said his mind raced to Olga Connolly, the American flag bearer who has circulated antiwar and anti-violence petitions among the athletes.

Luis Friedman, a Uruguayan team official whose delegation shared the same building as the Israeli's, recalled that the Palestinian terrorists who invaded the village "spoke pretty bad German" as they pointed sub-machine guns at him and ordered him to return to his room. Friedman then worried about his team's breakfast: "The Arabs said we couldn't even go into our steward's room. My people had to go without fruit," he told a reporter.

At the Israeli housing unit itself, the police had cordoned off the area, but there were only a handful of curious waiting to find out what would happen.

Tension did seem to grow as word spread about the Palestinians' ultimatum and the deadline neared.

More and more athletes gathered in television rooms, and their attention was turned increasingly to a German TV account of the siege.

But alongside the television set, showing the village drama, another TV set was tuned to a kayak race.

The Israeli quarters is a three-story building of glass and white concrete. A larger group of apartment buildings housing athletes faces it. The Italians and a number of Arab teams live nearby, but not directly adjoining the Israeli quarters.

The Israeli team is a small one, with only one track and field participant, a 50-kilometer walker. There are also swimmers and sharpshooters and a woman track coach for the Walker.

One Killed in Fiery Stratford Blast

STRATFORD (AP) — An explosion of undetermined origin ripped a chemical plant early today, killing one person, critically injuring three others and causing $375,000 in damages, fire officials said.

The explosion destroyed the plant of the Ware Chemical Co., which manufactures toluene and heptane, two flammable chemicals used in the manufacture of plastic and rubber products.

Police tentatively identified the dead man as Robert Bilde of New Fairfield, whose body was discovered under cement block rubble.

The identification was based on comparison of a key in his pocket with the ignition switches of cars parked at the plant, police said.

Three employees—Ricardo Oliver, 18, Joseph Balog, 45, and John Piontek, 22—were reported badly burned and in critical condition in Bridgeport Hospital.

"It was a very shattering explosion, and later on, a short, muffled one," said Edward F. Harrigan, captain of the guard at a neighboring Raybestos-Manhattan parking lot. Residents as far as 10 miles away said they had been awakened by the explosion.

The blast sent part of the Ware plant's roof into the Raybestos-Manhattan parking lot. Residents as far as 10 miles away said they had been awakened by the explosion.

Flames shot 80 to 90 feet into the air from the inside of the plant, described by firemen as "about the size of a car dealership."

Five firemen suffered minor injuries from chemicals and smoke, a Bridgeport Hospital spokesman said.

The state fire marshal's office, state police and a state Labor Department investigator arrived in Stratford to examine the ruins.

Authorities said there were only four persons in the plant at the time.

Disgusted Fans Quit Rockfest

BULL ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Thousands of tired and disillusioned rock music fans deserted this scorching peninsula early today, leaving behind tons of trash ranging from makeshift shelters to pants.

The last band at the Labor Day weekend Soda Pop Festival packed its equipment shortly after midnight, a few hours after promoters had left.

Between 25,000 to 35,000 fans remained at that point, still waiting for performances by headlined groups that were promised, but never appeared.

Police estimated nearly 300,000 young people flocked to the 900-acre island in the Wabash River between Indiana and Illinois for the three-day celebration. Promoters said they had expected no more than 75,000.

The homeward trek caused a mammoth traffic jam.

Although the site is in Illinois, the only access is a one-lane Posey County, Ind., road.

Indiana State Police said they

Both Candidates Show Confidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both President Nixon and challenger George S. McGovern appeared relaxed and confident today as they faced the main stretch in their presidential campaigns.

Nixon, who was in San Clemente, Calif., for the Labor Day holiday, planned to travel to San Francisco today to meet with his Citizens Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality. He was to fly to Washington afterward.

McGovern carried his Democratic campaign into Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles, while his running mate, Sargent Shriver, was in Boston and planned other stops at Portland, Maine; Springfield, Mass.; and Albany, N.Y.

"My spirit is revived, my hopes are high," McGovern said after 5,000 cheering supporters greeted him on his arrival in Seattle Monday night. "I'm ready for the uphill fight against Richard Nixon and I think we're going to win that fight."

But McGovern said "if the election were held today, I would lose."

Nixon was described as "most relaxed" as he invited reporters and photographers to a poolside cocktail party at the Nixon home in San Clemente. He led them in a hole-in-one contest on the golf practice area on his property, but there were no holes in one.

Labor Day is the traditional starting time for the presidential campaign which ends with the election on Nov. 7, although the

Robbers Held By Man-Wife

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — A man and wife team of off-duty Los Angeles police officers stopped a bank robber as he fled from a Bank of America branch with $609 in a paper bag, authorities say.

Sgt. Andrew A. Blodgett and officer Barbara Blodgett, were riding by the branch Friday when they saw a man run from the building, investigators said. Blodgett pulled his car in front of one into which the fleeing man jumped.

Then on-duty police arrived and arrested Nate Hinton, 48, and John Adams, 38, driver of the getaway car, authorities added. Both men were booked for investigation of bank robbery.

GOT A RAT PACK
MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Caroline Cook took three tame rats home as pets. Soon a few more "appeared."

Now, 14-year-old Caroline has some 40 rats, and is advertising them for sale.

Her mother explained: "A friend of Caroline's gave her three brown and white tame rats. Two turned out to be females and the other a male, but at the time we couldn't tell the difference."

"We know the difference now."

Sheinwold on Bridge

TAKING UP BRIDGE ALTERS CHARACTER
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Before he took up bridge, my friend Gino Scalmandre was optimistic and aggressive. Now he's just the opposite: aggressive and optimistic. You can see what I mean from the way he bid the hand shown today. There's nothing wrong with the way he played it.

East dealer
Both sides vulnerable
Opening lead—Ace of Hearts
West opened the ace of hearts, hoping to catch that trick or for any trick his partner might have for his double. (By the way, don't try to learn anything from that double. Scalmandre's friends are just as optimistic and aggressive as he is.)

Scalmandre ruffed the ace of hearts and led the ace of diamonds, somewhat relieved when both opponents followed suit. When East discarded a heart on the king of diamonds, which came next, Scalmandre remarked dolefully: "There's always a reason for your doubles, isn't there?"

East looked hopeful, but Scalmandre proceeded to demonstrate the my reason East might have had was a poor one. Declarer cashed the queen of diamonds, won a finesse with the queen of spades and ruffed a second heart. He led a club to dummy's king to ruff a third heart with his last trump, and then led another low club.

Discards Spade.
Reduced to four spades and the jack of trumps. West couldn't gain by ruffing since then he would have to return a spade. West therefore discarded a spade, and dummy's ace of clubs won. Scalmandre continued with a club to the queen, and West was in the soup. Whenever he ruffed (then or at the next club trick), he would have to return a spade to give declarer a free finesse. If he didn't ruff, declarer would simply take the first 12 tricks.

Incidentally, perhaps I should point out that it pays to bid optimistically and aggressively if you can play the cards well.

Hearts, K-Q-8-3-2; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, 10-8-7-5.
What do you say?
Answer: Bid four hearts. You will probably make this if your partner has strong clubs, but you have no way of finding out. Conservative players will bid just two hearts with this kind of hand.

Rum, Romanism, Rebellion Revisited

The Rev. S. D. Burchard had a churchman's dream audience on that day in 1884 when he mounted the dias in New York's Fifth Avenue Hotel and began to orate to an audience of fellow clergy, who supposedly represented all major denominations.

In what he perceived as the interest of the Republican party, then occupying the White House, Rev. Burchard declaimed against the Democrats as the party of "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion." The phrase went unnoticed for the moment, but soon was on everyone's lips and had disastrous consequences for the GOP as Democrat Governor Cleveland was swept into the mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Modern presidential campaigns likewise have been full of such verbal faux pas and 1972 has already produced more than its share.

The McGovern camp, for example shudders at the mention of the number one thousand, which has been its chief contribution to the lexicon of political never-never land. McGovern, it will be recalled, not so long ago touted a hastily contrived plan to give every American one thousand dollars per year. Unfortunately, the idea, whose price tag would be a cool $210 billion dollars annually did not include a way to raise it, but only to spend it. Fellow Democrat Hubert Humphrey said simply that "George got out of a program he didn't understand."

Then, of course, McGovern pledged "one thousand per cent" support of his hapless running mate, Sen. Tom Eagleton, who subsequently collected on slightly less than that from the Democratic standard bearer.

President Nixon, it would seem, has remained remarkably free from such slips. One reason, no doubt, is that he subjected himself to fewer press conferences than many of his predecessors. Another is that he has had Mr. Agnew to say many of the things publicly which he himself is saying privately.

Other Democratic contenders, who shoot down like wooden ducks in a shooting gallery when the contest began in earnest, had their own moments they would prefer to forget. The most unforgettable, of course, remains Edmund Muskie's tearful performance in the snows of New Hampshire that cooled his own nomination once and for all and relegated him to a footnote in the history of the 1972 campaign.

Mr. Nixon is still being haunted, however, by his so-called 1968 "secret peace plan" to end the war in Vietnam. Although many credit him with remarkable progress in winding down U. S. participation there, the impression that he would come into office and pull off an international miracle, ala president Eisenhower and Korea, has persisted.

It is also noteworthy that American politics does not demand that a presidential candidate be right, but that he sound right. It will be remembered that a country already wary over Vietnam went to the polls in 1964 and elected President Johnson for fear his opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, would lead the U.S. further into the abyss of war. No one needs reminding that LBJ, once elected, proceeded piecemeal to carry out his opponent's war platform.

George Romney's "brainwashing" of 1967 perhaps will remain the classic case in this half of the 20th century of a phrase being a candidate's downfall. Romney used the phrase in explaining the charge of stance on the war in Vietnam ("When I came back from Vietnam in 1965, I had just had the greatest brainwashing that anybody could get," he told a TV interviewer). Although opinion polls years later indicated much of the voting public had come to agree with him, in the campaign of 1968 it didn't matter.

The saddening aspect of all this is that good men have been judged and rejected by a fickle public, not because of what they were, but because of what they said. Although others might forgive human frailties, unfortunately for American politicians the pundits are mercilessly unforgiving in their remembrance of what they deem bad. Is it really a shame to cry? Is there a man alive who has not said something foolish that he wishes others would forget?

If there is one lesson to be learned from recent American politics, perhaps it is that voters would do well to ignore the enticings of the pundits and the political cartoonists and look beyond phrases to judge the essence of men seeking high office. For, like a woman's garment, mere words usually are intended to half reveal yet half conceal the person within.

Our Youth's Newest Fad

You know our young people, always searching for something innovative and different. So it's little wonder a startling new fad is sweeping the country. It's called marriage.

Not only are our young people rushing to get married in droves—and even two at a time—but big, formal weddings are coming back.

This certainly is good news for fathers who'll have to shell out a couple of grand for their daughter's nuptial ceremonies.

And if you don't think any father in his right mind isn't happy to shell out a couple of grand to see his daughter married, consider the typical case of Wilbur Wasp.

Mr. and Mrs. Wasp, middle-aged, middle class and middle-of-the-road, lived in Middleville, where they raised their beloved daughter, Winifred.

Like any decent, intelligent, middle-class daughter, Winifred, on reaching the age of consent, went off to live in Greenwich Village with a struggling young poet named Irwin, who was struggling to learn how to spell.

Winifred changed her name to "Ms." and she and Irwin were quite happy. Mr. and Mrs. Wasp, of course, were quite shocked. They never mentioned Irwin in their letters and told acquaintances Winifred was "living in New York with a friend," (whose name, when pressed, they could never seem to remember.)

So all went well for a couple of years. All went well until Winifred wrote that she and Irwin were coming home to Middleville for a visit. It was then that Mrs. Wasp nervously asked the question of Mr. Wasp that has shocked thousands of American households this past decade.

Dr. Henry Kissinger did not make his quickie trip to Saigon because of a breakthrough at the Paris peace talks on Vietnam.

It can be said with authority this meeting with President Thieu of South Vietnam had been arranged before Kissinger's secret session with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in Paris. The Kissinger second-day meeting with Thieu, advertised as "unexpected," had also been arranged in advance.

But recently captured documents reveal North Vietnamese commanders in the South have been ordered to make preparations for an early ceasefire. They are to divide their troops into two categories. One group would stay aboveground and available for movement back to whatever cease-fire lines are decided on.

At the same time, men close to the secret Paris talks say the North Vietnamese meeting with Kissinger in Paris have not modified their still surrender demands in the slightest. They still insist on a coalition government dominated by Communists, an American-arranged withdrawal from Vietnam, complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and an end to U.S. aid for Saigon.

Mr. Nixon is still holding out against any give-in or face-saving compromise with Hanoi which would amount to giving the Communists what they demand. But this Nixon determination may not last for long.

Kissinger did discuss new possibilities with Thieu in Saigon. Time is running short before election day. Despite the public opinion polls showing him the heavy favorite, Mr. Nixon is nervous about November, remembering past years when he may decide to make for himself a local library.

"We're going to have a race for them to grow, so please take care of mine best." — First Lady Pat Nixon, planting a tree for herself and one for President Nixon during a ceremony in Hawaii.

"It was the only offer I had making me feel like a human being, that someone really looked me up to offer me help." — A Philadelphia woman, responding more to Hanoi's liking elderly Americans who qualify for food assistance programs.

"Faith has Power" — "Now there was at Joppa a disciple named Tabitha, which means Dorcas or Gazelle. She was full of good works and acts of charity. And it became known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord." — Acts 9:36 and 42

When any person makes use of the gifts God has given him to show love, concern, and assistance to those in need, his own faith is strengthened and others have reason to believe in the Lord. Dorcas was a woman of good deeds and daily help to the poor. It had a great effect on all whom she lived. This is one of the most powerful ways we can witness to our faith and win others to the Kingdom of God. Let my life be a witness to you, Lord.

We have adopted a new policy that all such letters must contain the name and address of the author and they will be published with the letter. Please don't ask us to withhold the name of the author.

Keep your letters concise enough to make your intended point and of course we reserve the right to edit them.

We're most happy to publish opposing views as long as letters are in good taste and they avoid personalities.

Remember The Board

To the Editor: I attended a hearing on the closing of Lincoln School. Only three of the eight board members were there at the start of the meeting; also the new superintendent, about three quarters of an hour after the meeting had started, a fourth member arrived whom we would have been just as well without as he contributed to the evening was to look severe and accented.

Why this so-called Board of Education deems it necessary to close schools when there is a very bad shortage of space on the Junior High level is beyond my conception. Create more shortages and ask for more money to build or add to other schools.

I would advise all Manchester residents to defect any referendum too, in the future, for school expansion, even if it's to buy paper clips. Also, elect to the Board of Education people who have the interest of the people at heart, or at least listen with some intelligence to the will of the majority.

To the town residents who have attended Lincoln School and to the people who have children there, don't be dismayed. This 50-year-old edifice, unfit for youthful habitation, will rise again. As kindergarten children to sixth graders trudge through the snow, rain and sleet, across the dangerous intersections to some alien school, they will walk by their neighborhood school which is and behind has been remodeled, complete with new plumbing and heating systems (which is primarily the reason it was closed as a school) into some fine office for the town of Manchester.

Will the only time the voice of the people will be heard is after riots, demonstrations, burning or looting? Why don't the people in authority listen? Please, remember the names of the Board of Education when they come up for re-election.

'Zee Rocket Goes Up And Goes Boom' for A Guianan Watcher

CAYENNE, French Guiana (AP) — A businessman is talking about the most recent test of a space center established to bring progress to this French possession: "Zee rocket goes up in see air, zen set goes down in see air and like a big firecracker set goes boom!"

Unsuccessful space shots are about the only thing booming these days in French Guiana, on the northeast coast of South America. This is legally a municipal department of France and elects one member to the Chamber of Deputies in Paris. Its 50,000 inhabitants are French citizens.

Cayenne, with a population of 30,000, has the flavor of a sleepy colonial town. People work half a day Saturday and usually knock off work until Tuesday.

"We are very big here for the weekend," explained one resident. The largest industry is a plant packing shrimp at the edge of the Cayenne River just outside town, where the jungle begins. The plant, 80 per cent owned by the Borden Corp. of the United States, employs 300. It has 40 shrimp boats under contract.

"We're the biggest employer in French Guiana of any private industry," said Gene Webster, 33, the fleet manager. He is from Aransas Pass, Tex.

"Up until we got rolling with the shrimp, Borden came to Cayenne in the mid '60s, the biggest export here used to be licium."

"I know that sounds kind of funny, but we first set up an ice-making plant which produces 75 tons a day, to put in the boats to keep the shrimp cold.

We were selling it to other boats too, so people around here began to think of it as an export."

It is estimated that France spends $25 million a year to support French Guiana, much of it on imports.

Almost all food and consumer goods must be brought in. This means French wine, mineral water and beer with meals. Tomatoes from neighboring Surinam bring about $1 a pound. Eggs cost 10 cents each.

"The French like to point out that the local inhabitants, descendants of blacks, Asians and whites, receive the same benefits in social services as the folks back home, but the lack of development has caused frustration.

About 10 years ago Charles de Gaulle established the space center at Kourou, 30 miles up the coast. That fishing village of 600 grew to 6,000 residents living in blocks of modern flats surrounded by spacious malls and paved roads.

But the program, with the financial and technical participation of other West European countries, has been disappointing. Several countries, notably Britain, are said to want to pull out.

Amtrak offers a wide variety of tours, from a one-day Jersey City tour to Washington for half the usual fare to a 15-day Chicago-Los Angeles trip. The western one has a return via San Francisco and Reno and costs about 20 per cent less than the regular rail fare.

The longer tours are generally offered by Amtrak in cooperation with a regular tour firm. The tours are sold for an all-inclusive price which makes it difficult to say just how much is for rail passage and how much for the other features.

However, one recent traveler discovered that he could spend $618 for two people for a trip from New York to Los Angeles and back on the regular train. But a longer trip, fares only, on an excursion ticket was only $284 for two. This called for a 9-day trip via Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and Los Angeles but did not include hotels and meals along the way.

Another Amtrak innovation is a rail car to Florida, including a rental car for seven days. This means French wine, mineral water and beer with meals. Tomatoes from neighboring Surinam bring about $1 a pound. Eggs cost 10 cents each.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Blystone at Landing Zone Bally had said that South Vietnamese anti-aircraft forces had pushed into Viet Nam, and in Boston, Monday, implied that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans were "apparently involved" in the alleged bugging of Democratic National headquarters in Washington.

He said he concluded this from what he described as the insistence of federal judges on questioning them.

The top attractions, Joe Cocker and Black Sabbath, had refused to play earlier in the weekend after demanding more money. Two other featured rock groups, The Doors and Faces, failed to perform.

Dave Jamison, a staff coordinator for Evansville promoters Robert Alexander and Andrew Duncan, cited problems transporting the musical equipment onto the island through outgoing traffic. The groups themselves were flown in by helicopter, but the equipment was hauled in trucks, Jamison said.

Jameson said most of the crowd were gawkers. Only 20,000 fans paid admission before the concert was declared "free" and promoters lost money, he added. He would not estimate the loss.

Duncan and Alexander faced contempt of court charges in White County, Ill., today for alleged violations of an injunction issued against the festival.

Lettuce Boycott Gains Strength

HARTFORD (AP) — The United Farm Worker's boycott of iceberg lettuce picked up support from several legislators and groups in Connecticut during the Labor Day weekend, said an organizer of the boycott.

George Sheridan, a member of the union, said Saturday that the New Haven Food Co-op, voted unanimously to join the boycott. He said the New Britain Clergy Association and the New Britain Central Labor Council issued statements backing the effort to gain union recognition.

Among legislators endorsing the boycott were state Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven; William J. Sullivan, D-Waterbury; and Joseph Dinelli, D-Bristol; and Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven.

Quake 'Dusts' Coastal Area

HOLLISTER, Calif. (AP) — A huge cloud of dust soared high into the air and the walls of a fire station cracked after an earthquake on the famed San Andreas Fault.

The dust rose about 3,000 feet Monday for about 10 miles along the dry San Benito River, stretching from the California Division of Forestry fire station in River Valley to the tiny town of Paicines in central San Benito County.

"It extended as far as we could see — almost one continuous dust column," said Gale Fawcett, a fire apparatus engineer.

The fire station overlooks the valley in 25 miles south of Hollister.

The quake was recorded at 4.5 on the Richter Scale at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena and 4.75 at the University of California at Berkeley.

Ratwizer said objects were knocked off shelves at the fire station and that a few cracks appeared in walls and in a concrete slab floor at the station's well. A water heater moved, tearing the ceiling.

The quake struck about 11:04 a.m. Afterquakes were felt about 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m., but there were no reports of damage.

Teeth Ruined By Food Surplus

FARMINGTON (AP) — Mothers can damage their one-year-old teeth by feeding them more food than they really need, says a University of Connecticut researcher.

A child's growth rate normally drops dramatically between the ages of one and two and he no longer wants to eat as much as before, says Dr. Cosmo R. Castaldi, head of pediatric dentistry at the university's School of Dental Medicine.

Public Speaks Tonight On Board Agenda Items

Public reaction to a proposal for town acquisition of Case Mt. Park by the Manchester Conservation Commission which dates back to 1965, will be heard again by the Board of Directors tonight. The board's meeting will be at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

HUD (the federal department of Housing and Urban Development) has set aside a grant of $300,000, predicated on a state grant of $150,000 and a town appropriation of an additional $150,000. The 212 acres of Case Mt. Park have been offered to the town for about $600,000. HUD grants for open space acquisition are on the order of 50 per cent federal funds, 25 per cent state funds and 25 per cent town funds.

An application already has been filed with the state for its share.

Mayor John Thompson, in placing the item on tonight's agenda, said the people of Manchester "have been fortunate over most of the present century in having access to this beautiful natural park, due to the public spirit of the Dennison family (owners of the tract)." He added, "Hopefully, through utilizing the state-federal open space program, this area can be preserved for future generations, and may require further study and consideration.

Among various proposed appropriations and allocations are several of interest to North End residents. They concern proposed allocations for improvements to the Community Y and facilities at Robertson Park.

The items are: $13,500 for replacing the Community Y building to N. Main St. and paving its parking lot; $19,500 for installing lighting at Robertson Park; $2,000 for refueling the lot there and for another parking lot at Union Pond. An additional $14,000 allocation is being proposed for reconstructing two tennis courts at the West Side Oval.

Another Zanuck Born Into an Eventful Family Situation

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was a great week for Richard Zanuck. His wife came home from the hospital with their second baby boy. He went off to Miami to serve as a delegate to the Republican National Convention. And he began one of the most impressive film contracts in recent times. Dick Zanuck took all three events with his customary calm. At 38, he has grown accustomed to a hectic life. He was producing movies by the age of 24. At 27, he was in charge of production at 20th Century Fox. Seven years later, he was president. Then came the famous falling out between Richard and his father, Darryl F. Zanuck, when both became enmeshed in the film company's falling fortunes. Richard left under fire, joined Warner Brothers as head of creative operations. In July he and partner David Brown signed with Universal to produce 20 films in five years.

This Richard Darryl Zanuck has held top positions at three major studios in 18 months. Dick Zanuck has none of the flamboyance of his polo-playing father. As he settled into his new Universal office, he talked quietly, but with a touch of irony.

Reporter on Television Got Hired the Hard Way

NEW YORK (AP)—The people who run television news programs are "talent." This is a good idea. Any reporter who survives an audition deserves the job. At newspapers, job applicants show up with their best published work and a keen eye. In television, they show up with old news film clips and polished teeth. Then they go to audition on-camera. We auditioned on-camera a few months ago on the advice of a friend in television. He thought it would be instructive to see what journalists go through when forecasting for microphone.

The tragedy occurred in Los Angeles at a station which shall be nameless—owned by a major network, which also shall be nameless. For that matter, so will those who set up the audition. They arrived after a restless night spent smiling in a mirror and gurgling consonants. An acolyte presented us to the station's news director, who inspected the prospective talent, read his four-minute script and dispatched him without further ado to makeup. That's right, makeup.

Convict Dies After Escape

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—An escaped convict who turned himself in to federal officials at home has succumbed to cancer. J. D. Byars, 55, a convicted moonshiner and counterfeiter, was returned to Tennessee two weeks ago. He died Friday in a clinic at nearby Smyrna.

Byars was sentenced to eight years in a federal prison in 1959, but he escaped from a prison honor farm at Terre Haute, Ind., four years later and dropped out of sight.

Six weeks ago, Byars turned himself in to federal officials at Renton, Wash., after doctors there told him he was dying of cancer.

He had been living in Seattle where he had an importing business. Federal authorities confirmed his identity and permitted the escapee to remain free on parole so he could return to Tennessee.

He wanted to come home more than anything else in the world," Mrs. Painter said. "The idea of coming home gave him his will to live."

On Braniff, the delayed first class passenger can get a hotel room and a $5 dinner if he speaks up, but the coach passenger will get no more than a $3 dinner, and no free hotel room.

The Civil Aeronautics Board thinks all this may be discriminatory. The CAB Friday launched an investigation of the so-called courtesy services which are provided passengers in the event of flight delays or cancellations.

Most of the airlines provide similar services when a passenger holds a confirmed reservation and the delay exceeds four hours, the CAB said.

These include meals during normal meal hours, one long-distance telephone call or a breakfast, bulkhead seats, and a scheduled flight to or from the hotel or city center.

Communique from an Hawaiian Summit Session

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP)—Here is the text of the joint statement issued Friday by President Nixon and Prime Minister Tanaka of Japan. The statement is the result of their summit talks. The Prime Minister Tanaka and President Nixon met in Hawaii August 31-September 1 for a three-day summit session. The talks were held in an atmosphere of warmth and mutual trust reflecting the long history of friendship between Japan and the United States. Both leaders expressed the hope that the meeting would mark the beginning of a new chapter in the course of developing ever closer bonds between the two countries. The prime minister and the President reviewed the current international situation and the prospect for the relaxation of tension and peaceful solutions to current problems in the world, with particular reference to Asia. It was stressed that the maintenance and strengthening of the close ties of friendship and cooperation between the two countries would continue to be an important factor for peace and stability in the evolving world situation. Both leaders reaffirmed the intention of the two governments to maintain the treaty of mutual cooperation and security between the two countries and agreed that the two governments would continue to cooperate through close consultations with a view to ensuring smooth and effective implementation of the treaty.

1. The prime minister and the President recognized that the President's recent visits to the People's Republic of China and USSR were a significant step forward. In this context, they shared the hope that the forthcoming visit of the prime minister to the People's Republic of China would also serve to further the course of relaxation of tension in Asia.

11. The prime minister and the President discussed cooperation in space exploration including Japan's goal of launching geostationary communications and other applications satellites. The President welcomed Japan's active interest in and study on the development of a meteorological satellite in support of the global atmospheric research program. 12. The prime minister and the President expressed satisfaction with their talks and agreed to continue to maintain close personal contact.

LESS DENTAL WORK (HASTINGS, New Zealand (AP) — This was the first New Zealand city to fluoridate its water supply to avert tooth decay, but today Hastings is short of dentists.

Since the city council began injecting sodium fluoride into its water supply in 1954 at the rate of one part per million, dental decay among residents under 25 years has been halved. Now, the city of 45,000 has only seven dentists, and three of those are over 50.

Guess What!

Labor Day started 78 years ago. It was first suggested by a carpenter Peter McCutcheon. It is a special day set aside to honor all people who work. It comes the first Monday in September.

People who work offer GOODS or SERVICES.

Workers who offer goods GROW or MAKE things for other people. A farmer grows food. A car maker makes cars. A toy maker makes toys.

Workers who offer services DO things to help others. Nurses, doctors and teachers offer services.

The two main types of workers are the BLUE-COLLAR and the WHITE-COLLAR. These are labor terms that started years ago when most office workers wore white shirts and most laborers wore blue.

WHITE-COLLAR workers include your secretaries, sales clerks, engineers, teachers and managers. They wear street clothes to work. These people work on a salary.

BLUE-COLLAR workers include your truck drivers, repairmen, mechanics and factory workers. They usually wear something to protect their clothing or a uniform. They are usually paid by the hour for what they do.

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe. She had lots of children and she knew what to do. She dressed them at Madri Madds 691 Main Street Manchester.

Trevino In Good Frame For Golf World Series

Lee Trevino has not done well in two previous shots at the World Series of Golf, but he goes into this weekend's big showdown with the momentum of a tournament victory and "my game together."

Trevino warmed up for his Akron, Ohio, tourney against Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Gay Brewer by winning the $25,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford Open in a one-hole playoff with Lee Elder.

"I have the momentum," said Trevino. "I'm in the best shape I've ever been in. My legs are strong. I'm hitting the ball farther than ever before. I've got my game together."

"I think my chances are excellent in the World Series of Golf, especially going with a win. I'm pretty charged up."

Trevino, who won the British Open by one stroke over Nicklaus earlier this summer, had not won a tournament in the United States since May.

And he had to drop a 12-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to get into the playoff with Elder and then sink a dramatic 16-footer on the first sudden-death hole to win the $125,000 tournament.

Elder, attempting to score his first tour victory and to become the first black to qualify for the prestigious Masters Golf Tournament, could have won the $125,000 prize had his five-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole not hung on the lip.

"You wonder what you have to do to win," said a dejected Elder, who won $14,300.

Trevino, whose victory pushed his official 1972 winnings to $168,956 to keep him second behind Nicklaus' record $202,482, said he felt like "a heel" for taking the victory away from Elder.

"I know how much this means to him, with the Masters and all."

Trevino said he had won, and then had to lose. "I would have liked to have won, but I would have liked to have won to him, with the Masters and all."

Fairfield Golfer Only State Man to Survive Cut Gentle Finds Pro Tour Rugged

WETHERSFIELD (AP) — When you're making a profit, it's a great life. When you're not, it's rough.

That about sums up the life of a pro golfer as explained by Fairfield's John Gentile, the only Connecticut pro on the tour who survived the cut Saturday at the Greater Hartford Open which ended Monday at the Westchester Country Club.

"I was considering quitting the tour even up to this morning," said Gentile, who joined the Professional Golfers' Association circuit in January after graduating from the players school in Palm Beach, Fla., last fall.

"When you play mediocre over here, you don't make it. It's hard to play good week after week," said Gentile who finished with a four over par 288 and a $217 check at the GHG.

But he says he's going to stay on, "at least for three years. I figure if I'm not showing a profit by then, I'll drop out."

When he gets depressed — and playing an over par round at a course like Westchester, considered as easy as it is by the pros, is one of the things that depresses him — Gentile says his wife and family in Fairfield come to the rescue.

"I tried playing the tour alone for two months but I didn't like traveling without my wife," said the 25-year-old Gentile who was married four months ago in Miami. "It was lonely."

John S. Gentile is the pro who introduced Gentile to the pro links at the age of 11. "I used to be hung up on baseball as a kid," he explained, adding that he got hooked on golf and now lives at the Westchester Country Club.

"The thing I dislike the most (about the pro tour)," he said, "is the traveling and the motels." And there's not much socializing on the tour either, something he says he also misses.

The reason for the lack of the Professional Golfers' Association circuit in January after graduating from the players school in Palm Beach, Fla., last fall.

He feels his swing is good enough and is pleased with his driving, at least from an accuracy viewpoint if not distance.

The six-foot, 130-pound Gentile says he's trying to gain weight to get some extra muscle behind the golf ball, especially on courses where you need a longer drive to get to the greens in regulation.

Gentile, who represents the Patterson Club in Fairfield on the tour, says he used to put better and in that realm of the game now feels he has to regain some confidence. Most of the greens the pros play on are "perfect. I just don't have the confidence on the greens I used to have," he said.

But he's staying on the tour, despite the fits of depression, the suitcase living, despite losing to the "big boys" even when you're playing par or slightly over par golf.

Take, for instance, his performance at the Bahamas Open earlier this year: one under after three rounds and then, tied for 3rd position when the tourney was over. "I got a little disgusted — started wondering whether it's really worth it out here."

Then comes the encouragement from his wife, from his family. "I've learned a lot. I think I'm beginning to mature. I've decided to give it three years," said Gentile.

Old Pro Fred Stolle Anything But Happy

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Pam Teeguarden was tickled and Roscoe Tapper was jubilant, but the old pro, Fred Stolle, was anything but enthused.

All three knocked off topspeeded players during the sixth day of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Monday, but Stolle, the Australian who won the men's singles in 1966 and was runner up in 1964, has seen it all before.

Stolle, 33, beat fifth-seeded John Newcombe, 7-6, 4-6, 5-7, 7-4, as Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., ousted seventh-seeded Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, and Miss Teeguarden felled by the women's second seed, Evonne Goolagong of Australia, 7-5, 6-1.

More seeded players will be eliminated today when topspeeded defending champ Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., meets Andre Gimeno of Spain, seeded 14th, and Arthur Ashe of Miami, seeded sixth, meets doubles teammate Bob Lutz of Sausalito, Calif., seeded 13th.

The most exciting match of the day pits 1969 winner and third seed Rod Laver of Australia against Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., seeded 11th. Both players won tough five-set matches their last time out.

Stolle sipped beer after his match and told newsmen his victory was a lucky one. He and Newcomb met in the 1966 finals with Stolle winning the crown after a lucky one. "I'm just glad it didn't go five sets today. The way Newk was starting to play I'm sure I would've lost the fifth set," Stolle said.

Billie Jean Displays Winning Form

Billie Jean King, 23, won her first Wimbledon title on Monday night and repeated the feat of a costly lesson.

"We found out a lot by losing Saturday night," said Coach Harry Sinden after the Canadians handed Russia a 4-1 setback at Major's Lea Gardens to avenge a 7-3 loss at Montreal.

The Canadians' left in the wake of the well-conditioned Soviet players in the opener, made their playing specialties in check.

Phil Esposito, U.S. Courtyer, Peter Mahovich and Frank Mahovich scored for Team Canada. Alexandre Yakushev broke Team Canada goaltender Tony Esposito's shutout early in the third period.

The Canadians came through with three third-period goals, the first by Courmyer while the Soviets were a man short and the second by Peter Mahovich while the Canadians had a man in the penalty box.

"The game Saturday was a conditioner for us and by the third period tonight, we seemed to be getting over the hump," said Phil Esposito. "After two games now we're pretty close to being in condition and this is going to make a big difference."

The third of the four Canadian games will be in Winnipeg Wednesday night.

One of the big differences in the Team Canada performance from the opening game was their decision to keep a close check on the Russians who had been allowed to use their freewheeling style to advantage in the first meeting.
