Meskill Reaffirms Income Tax Stand

HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill says, provided the General Assembly doesn't lower the state sales tax by more than one-half of one per cent.

Meskill made the projection in an interview broadcast Sunday on Hartford radio station WFOP.

Meskill, who said he continues to oppose a state income tax, was asked if he would be recommending one. "I never have in the past, and I don't have any intention to do so in the future," he responded.

Meskill criticized recent court decisions against government aid to parochial schools.

"Those who attack parochial on the church-state issue," he said, "are really attacking the taxpayers of this state."

Meskill said he would continue to oppose a state income tax, but he would be recommending one if the legislature were to do so in the future.

Harold McKusick COVENTRY - Harold A. McKusick, 61, of South St., a retired Connecticut State Police officer, died Saturday at Windham Community Memorial Hospital, Windham. He was the husband of Mrs. Elsa Acton McKusick.

Mr. McKusick was born in Chester, Vt., and had lived in Coventry for the last 29 years. He was a foreman with the Civil Aviation Conservation Corps from 1942 to 1946, a state silviculturist from 1946 until 1965, when he was named a forest ranger. He retired from Washington from Boston said he saw the car pull across the tracks, but could not stop in time. The train suffered minor damage and was delayed an hour, Penn Central officials said.

MAN KILLED

Blank Gasket Damages Sub

GROTON (AP) - Failure to remove a blank gasket from the drive system of the U.S. nuclear attack submarine Pargo caused $50,000 in damage, says a Navy spokesman.

The damage occurred over several days in late August and was discovered Sept. 10, the spokesman said Saturday.

Failure to remove the gasket at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics during an overhaul was termed accidental by the Navy.

The gasket caused damage to bearing surfaces by keeping oil from reaching them, the spokesman said.

Some 100 concerned citizens, including many state and local government dignitaries, braved the nippy fall to participate in the outdoor dedication ceremonies.

"We have come a long way and still have a long way to go," Steele said. Steele further stated he would do all he could to bring federal monies into Connecticut to aid this project.

New Hope Manor, a brick house nestled high atop a hill surrounded by ponds and meadows, generates warmth and stability. Its tastefully decorated interior boasts two old fireplaces, beamed ceilings, and cozy bedrooms, will be home for those who honestly endeavor to "kick the habit."

With the compassion and understanding of a dedicated staff, namely Kathleen Gligio of Manchester, director, and assistant, Sister Dianne Moretti of West Hartford, New Hope Manor will indeed be new hope for young addicts.

Benjamin Terry, president of the Society for Savings, who funded the New Hope fund raising drive for the business community, said, "We're with you all the way."

It was announced at the ceremonies, that New Hope directors have received $10,000 of the $50,000 appropriated.

In a quick trip from Bradley International Airport in Windsor where he had just completed a flight from Washington, D.C., U.S. Rep. Robert H. Steele compared the battle against drug addiction here and in Vietnam, and acknowledged the tremendous job done by Kathleen Gligio, New Hope Manor director, and the many other people who struggled over the past 1 1/2 years to bring this home to a reality.

Benjamin Terry, president of the Society for Savings, who funded the New Hope fund raising drive for the business community, said, "We're with you all the way."

Previously, the government had vetoed a bill stipulating that the $50,000 had to come from the mental health department budget. Later, he approved of the funds' appropriation.

State Mental Health Commissioner Ernest A. Shepherd, commenting on the home, said, "The director, Kathleen Gligio, and the staff have done a superb job in identifying the need for this facility. It was Shepherd's department which appropriated $50,000 toward the home's budget."

Mr. Madeline Uccello of Manchester, president of New Hope Manor, extended her thanks to all those who contributed to making "this day possible." "For those who may still have reservations about our program, I would ask just one thing please help our child to grow so that no longer will we have to close our ears to the anguished cry, 'Oh my God, please help me,'" Mrs. Uccello said.

Bailey Says Polls Could Be Wrong

HARTFORD (AP) - Current public opinion polls may be wrong about where voters' sympathies actually lie, says State Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey.

"The public opinion polls have been wrong before," Bailey said in a weekend statement, "and they can be wrong again."

"Former President Harry Truman showed in 1948 how easy it is to be misled by the polls and a united effort by all Democrats can do the same this year," he said.

Board Continues Project Concern

MANCHESTER, CONN., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1972 VOL. XCII, No. 14

The board of directors of the Manchester Housing Authority met Tuesday afternoon at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the authority's headquarters at 100 North Main St.

The board, which is headed by Mayor McCoy, discussed the progress of the authority's housing projects and the need for additional funds to complete the projects.

The board also discussed the authority's financial situation and the need for a bond issue to raise the necessary funds.

MacGregor Denounces Espionage Allegations

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer

President Nixon's campaign director, Clark MacGregor, has angrily denounced allegations of political espionage against the Nixon camp, while Sen. George McGovern has hurled the charges.

MacGregor said: "The mudslinging, name-calling, the unsubstantiated charges, the innuendos, the guilt by association, the character assassination, the second-hand hearsay, are all tactics exclusively employed by the McGovernites and their apologists."

MacGovern, meanwhile, said Republican spokesmen were trying to excuse political espionage and added: "These ambitious men apparently will stop at nothing to preserve their own power. They would undermine the republic to save their White House parking spaces."

The charges grew out of the June 17 break-in and attempted burglary at the Democratic National headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington. Subsequent allegations by McGovern and others that Nixon campaign supporters engaged in widespread espionage activities against the Democrats.

Most of the statements by both political camps centered on the issue Monday with just three weeks remaining until the Nov. 7 election.

One who didn't mention it was President Nixon, who made a surprise appearance before the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, which was being held in Washington.

He told the frequently cheering audience that there will be no settlement of the war that "imposes a Communist government on the people of South Vietnam" and "under no conditions will we abandon our prisoners of war and our missing in action."

Train Crew Jailed For Homicide

PIEDMONT, N.C. (AP) - A federal judge has found five train crewmen guilty of homicide in the rail disaster Oct. 15 which killed more than 200 persons.

The crewmen, who were accused of drinking and having women aboard the engine, were not charged with these accusations. But Judge Jose Becerra Santiago ordered their "formal imprisonment" on charges of attacks on the general means of communications, injuries and property damage as well as homicide, all due to "serious negligence."

Under Mexican law a judge reviews evidence in a case and either drops charges or declares the formal imprisonment of the accused. The next step is sentencing.

Democrats Narrow Slate For November Balloting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty state legislators put their jobs on the Democratic party line Monday, and 15 emerged to take on Republicans.

Of the five that lost the party's primary for General Assembly candidates, three of them fell to fellow incumbents thrown into the same districts under the Selden reapportionment plan. The plan reduced the size of the state House from 177 to 151 seats and redrew many lines.

In Bristol, three incumbents faced each other for the Democratic nomination in the 78th House district, a race won by Rep. Robert J. Vicino of Bristol over Reps. Woodrow T. Violette and Kenneth J. Rock.

In New Haven, incumbent Thomas W. O'Dea defeated Rep. Edward S. Gudecki. And in Torrington's 65th district, John Mischkowski, the "father of the lottery," defeated by one vote fellow Rep. Addo Bonetti.

The fifth losing incumbent was Rep. Leonard G. Frazier of Hartford, who lost to Abraham L. Giles.

With two exceptions, the endorsed candidates won the Democratic primaries. The exceptions were the victories by Rep. Paul LaRosa of Hartford over Joseph A. Marcello, the endorsed candidate in the 3rd House district, and by Andrew Giles of Hartford defeated Rep. Leonard G. Frazier.

—10th District—Rep. George W. Hanson Jr. of East Hartford, the endorsed candidate, defeated James E. Foran of East Hartford.

—11th District—Rep. Richard C. Willard of East Hartford, the endorsed candidate, defeated Dennis L. Brandt of East Hartford.

—23rd District—Rep. Dominic J. Badolato of New Britain defeated Henry J. Glazowski of New Britain.

—26th District—Rep. Leon Hermon of New Britain defeated Joseph P. Clanci, all of New Britain.

—18th District—Sen. James J. Murphy, the endorsed candidate, defeated former Sen. William Stanley of Norwich.

—20th District—Endorsed candidate Joshua M. Hiero of East Lyme defeated David Gill Proctor of Old Lyme.

—29th District—Endorsed candidate Maurice J. Ferland, a former senator, defeated Ronald P. Coldere of Putnam.

—74th District—Rep. James J. Palmieri of Waterbury, the endorsed candidate, defeated Joseph F. Canillone of Waterbury.

—78th District—Rep. Robert J. Vicino defeated Reps. Kenneth J. Rock and Woodrow T. Violette, all of Bristol.

—79th District—Andrew Grande of Bristol defeated endorsed candidate Marco W. Masciotti of Bristol.

—82nd District—Rep. Albert R. Webber of New Haven defeated Phyllis Medvedoff of New Haven.

—96th District—Rep. Thomas W. O'Dea of New Haven defeated Rep. Edward S. Gudecki of New Haven.

—99th District—Rep. Vincent R. Gallardi of East Haven defeated Harry E. Morgan.

—124th District—Rep. Agnes P. Simons of Bridgeport, the endorsed candidate, defeated John J. Moranaki of Bridgeport.

—131st District—Rep. Samuel Liswak of Bridgeport, the endorsed candidate, defeated Louis Stollman of Bridgeport.

Two Congressmen Aboard Weather Hampers Search For Missing Aircraft

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) - A small armada of private planes zipped in poor weather today to search for Alaska's rugged southern coast for a light plane carrying House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three others. The plane was long overdue and presumed down on a campaign flight for the state's only House member.

A spokesman for the Air Force's Rescue Coordination Center said the forecast for today was for strong wind, an overcast and "very marginal weather."

A heavy cloud cover and rain prevailed in the search area as some 30 planes prepared to join an electronically equipped Air Force HC130 on the rescue mission.

The Air Force plane had flown an Anchorage-to-Juneau pattern through the night in search of the missing plane, which failed to show up late Monday on a 560-mile flight from Juneau.

Aboard the two-engine Cessna 310 were Boggs, 58; Rep. Nick Begich, a 40-year-old Democrat; Begich's administrative assistant, Russell Brown, 37; and the pilot, 38-year-old Don E. Joz.

Boggs' administrative assistant, Gary Hymel, said in Washington that the last radio contact with the plane came 12 minutes after takeoff Monday, when Joz filed a flight plan. There was no sign of trouble.

"We assume that the airplane is down," an FAA spokesman said Monday night.

Boggs, who left Washington on Sunday and had been due to return this morning, had gone to Alaska to campaign for Begich, a native of Ely, Minn., who is seeking re-election to a second term.

Officials said the HC130 is capable of picking up locator beacon signals while flying at high altitudes above bad weather.

The poor weather conditions fog in the area of Prince William Sound on Oct. 14, the coast threatened to keep Civil Air Patrol planes out of the sky today. They were thrown into the search Monday night but were pulled out due to darkness.

Trashaway Bid For Garage is Denied by ZBA

By DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter)

Trashaway Inc., the town's contractor for garbage collection, Monday night was denied a zoning variance which would have allowed construction of a repair garage on W. Center St.

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals, acting in closed session after a public hearing, voted 2-3 to grant the variance. ZBA Chairman Rudolph Pterro and representing developer Alexander Jarvis, who opposed the two favorable votes.

Trashaway was seeking the variance to allow construction of a four-bay repair garage on a parcel on the north side of W. Center St. adjacent to Hay Brook.

The company maintains an existing garage at that site which houses Trashaway garbage trucks, a requirement of the town contract, according to Atty. Herbert Phelon Jr., who represented the applicant at the public hearing.

In the closed session, ZBA member John Capagnolo said an adverse effect on the center of town would be avoided if the town contract, which requires that Trashaway should build the repair garage in a business zone.

At the hearing, Atty. Phelon said the garage would be incidental to the existing primary use — the housing of garbage trucks on the site.

Atty. Phelon also stated that another provision of zoning regulations — that repair garages cannot be established if any part of the proposed building will be within 400 feet of a residentially zoned dwelling on the same side of the street. There is a house in a Residence B Zone immediately adjacent to the site.

Atty. Phelon, attempting to prove a legal hardship as required by state statute, said the town

Vernon Awarded $300,000 Grant

Cromie Wins In 53rd Race

Atty. Richard Cromie of Coventry, the endorsed candidate for state representative from the 53rd district, won yesterday's challenge primary over Tolland's Charles Thibault by a 30 vote margin.

Both candidates won in their home towns, with the town of Willington acting as the deciding factor with a 108-50 vote in favor of Cromie.

Coventry residents cast 353 votes for Cromie, 189 for Thibault.

Tolland voters reversed the results giving 348 votes to Thibault and 189 to Cromie.

Under the new rules, voters turned out in the three towns averaged between 30 and 35 per cent of the eligible Democratic voters.

Steele pledged my campaign to a redoubling of effort and to a second victory for an affirmative Democratic legislative program on Nov. 7, Cromie said last night after hearing the news of his victory. He had won the convention endorsement 8-3 gaining the support of delegates from the two towns which he carried during yesterday's primary.

"Those who know the Democratic party, understand this primary has strengthened rather than weakened our organization," Cromie added.

Democratic voters were disappointed in the results of the primary, and blamed those interested in education for his defeat. "I'm a much stronger candidate for the middle class people," Thibault stated adding, "I ran on the basis of supporting labor and industry, and probably

Joy Head of Pupil Services

In a four-part motion last night, the Board of Education named Nathan Joy acting director of pupil personnel services at a change in salary or length of work terms; abolished the position of principal of Lincoln School, which he held since 1952; established the position of director of pupil personnel services and set the salary range and an approved advertising the new position.

Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said that since the board's decision to close Lincoln School, Joy has been carrying out some of the duties associated with pupil personnel services in addition to clearing up work at Lincoln.

In recommending establishment of the position of director of pupil personnel services, Dr. Kennedy commented, "During the past two years there has been a dramatic growth in the area of services for exceptional

In elaborating on the growth of special programs, Dr. Kennedy cited an increase in the learning disabilities staff from one to eight and one part-time to three full-time psychologists; an increase in the number of pre-primary program; two language handicapped classes; and one perceptually handicapped class and a learning disability class at Nathan Hale School.

The position of director of pupil personnel services will be an 11-month one. The salary was set at between $17,500 and $20,115 on the master's plus $3 credit hours schedule.

ELJEM SPEAKING from LUTZ JUNIOR MUSEUM

THEO R. BADENHUIZEN
Museum Director

The fall season is at its height now in New England and the leaves are showing their annual kaleidoscope of color. The red brilliance of the maple trees is never disappointing.

This is a particularly beautiful time for a walk in the woods and the 53-acre Oak Grove Nature Center with its extensive trails lends itself ideally for this purpose.

The leaves of most of the trees there (as elsewhere) are made up of a number of pigments which vie with each other for dominance during the fall. The most important life-giving pigment in the leaves is the green chlorophyll which, together with the sun, converts carbon dioxide and water molecules into sugars, which are transported in the sap to all parts of the tree and serve as its nourishment.

When the leaves begin dying off in the fall, the chlorophyll, which masked the other over-present pigments, the main ones of which are the red of anthocyanin, the yellow of xanthophyll and the orange of carotene (yes, it is found in carrots, from which it got its name).

At the same time that these colors appear in the leaf, an abscission layer forms at the base of the leaf-stalk or petiole, which is the reason why the leaves then fall easily off the tree. This is nature's way of preventing loss of precious sap by pressuring the point of attachment of the leaf to the tree.

A rain or wind storm can quickly strip a tree of its leaves and they are in this stage during the fall.

The carpet of fallen leaves such a nuisance in well-tended yards, are really quite a boon in the forest because they form a protective and insulating layer against the coming winter cold. This helps many plants and animals, when buried under it, survive temperatures below freezing until next spring. Most insects by now have completed their life cycle and are respectively awaiting the inevitable winter, with the notable exception of the woolly-bear caterpillar, destined to become the Isabella moth.

This little fellow has only now made its appearance and can be found bustling about from plain leaf to leaf, still eating away. It is a two-tone model, with stubby hairs, black at the front and back and brown in the middle. The amount of black and brown hairs is apparently temperature-dependent. It is thought that most of its length is black, the coming winter will be severe if most of it is brown conditions will be milder. It appears that the woolly-bears are mostly brown this year, which is a hopeful sign that maybe we will not have such a bad winter ahead of us. They hibernate as caterpillars during winter and pupate in the spring.

Vietnam Troop Strength Down

SALON (AP) — U.S. troop strength in Vietnam dropped by 600 last week to 34,600 men, the U.S. Command announced today.

The Army cut its forces to 300, the Air Force by 300 and the Navy by 100. President Nixon has directed that total U.S. military strength in Vietnam be reduced to 27,000 by Dec. 1.

The command's weekly summary does not list some 100,000 American servicemen fighting the war from bases in Guam and Thailand and on ships off the Vietnam coast.

Hal Boyle Asks... How Normal Are You?

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're losing your marbles, you ought to be the first to know, shouldn't you?

Then maybe you can do something about it before the world gets around.

That's why it's a good idea to check up on yourself occasionally, just to see if you need a few screws tightened or to rearrange your prejudices in this civilization, having the right mental attitude is an integral part of the game.

Fortunately for you, today we have a do-it-yourself test that will enable you to tell whether you're still an average heel on an even keel, or whether you need to be doctored somewhere for an overhaul.

Here is the test. All you have to do is answer the following simple questions. Try to be as honest as your nature will allow.

During a long drought, does it seem to you that more rain falls than it should?

If you saw three great big bullies beating up on a guy twice your size, you'd just walk right by and let them go on having their fun, wouldn't you?

Do you ask yourself at least a dozen times a month, "Where does all my money go," when you know darned well where your money goes?

Now then don't you get the sneaking feeling that your favorite bartender is paying more attention to the wags of other guys at the bar than to your wags?

Doesn't it annoy you when your wife makes you sit still and snap beans for the dinner table while she is giving you a bawling out for your misdeeds?

No matter how understanding you try to be, don't you secretly feel that teen-agers of today are a bit doper than when you were a teen-ager yourself?

Remember the officer you used to say you'd beat up as soon as you got out of the service? If you bumped into him now, would you have two or three drinks with him for old times' sake, particularly if you figure he'd pick up the check?

Now and then, although of course you wouldn't admit it out loud, don't you concede that if you were given the task of running the government, that it would have to be pretty much of a full-time job?

Of course, what with the level of brains that run in her tribe, your wife could never really be as smart as you. But sometimes don't you kind of admire the

Vernon LWV To Study Election Laws

A study of election laws will be the topic of discussion at a general meeting of the Vernon League of Women Voters to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings Bank on Park Place.

Republican Registrar George Maharan and Democratic selectorman David Williams will be the guest speakers.

Social Workers Hear Dr. Muro At Workshop

Dr. James Muro will be at Robertson School Thursday morning to conduct the initial workshop for public school social workers and principals in a special study institute during the school year.

He is director of the "Schools Without Failure" program at the University of Maine.

Manchester is one of four state units invited by the state Department of Education to participate in the institute. It is titled "Internalizing New School Social Work Models in Local School Districts to Maintain Multi-Handicapped Children in Regular Classrooms." The institute is funded by a state grant.

Dr. Muro's role in the workshops will be to focus the attention of school personnel on the use of humanistic qualities and behaviors in school and enable them to introduce the approaches into local schools. He will discuss and demonstrate a variety of ways to use reality techniques in the classroom, specifically, dramatic techniques, role playing, and class meetings.

Dr. Muro will return Nov. 16, when he will be available to members of the pupil personnel services staff in the morning and in the afternoon will demonstrate at a school. Other full-day visits are scheduled for February and April.

CHOOSE RIGHT SUIT TO AVOID DANGER
By FRED SHEINWOLD

When you're not sure which suit to develop, consider the possibility that one of the opponents may be menace. Develop the suit that keeps the dangerous opponent out of the lead.

West opens the three of spades, and dummy's queen wins the first trick.

From this you will gather that West has the ace of spades. If East should win a trick later, he will lead a spade through your king. West will then defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

You don't mind giving up a trick to West because West can't attack the spades without giving you a second spade trick. In short, East is the dangerous opponent and West is the safe opponent.

Develop Clubs
For this reason you develop the clubs. At the second trick you lead the ten of clubs from dummy and let West for a finesse.

Sooner or later, West will take his king of clubs. He may then switch to a diamond, but you decline to finesse in that suit. Instead, you run for safety, collecting one spade, three hearts, two diamonds and three clubs.

You would play the hand differently if East happened to win the first trick with the ace of spades. (Switch the ace and the seven of spades and this would happen.) Then you would hold up your king of spades until the third round of that suit and you would go after the diamonds by finessing the ten of diamonds around to the queen. In this case East would be the safe opponent and West would be dangerous.

Daily Question
Partner bids one club, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades, 10-7-4; Hearts, J-10-7-3; Diamonds, Q-7-2; Clubs, 7-4-2.

What do you say?
Answer: Pass. You need 6 champions' park.

A MODERN PHARMACY

Today self-treatment at home is on a level of medical sophistication our grandmothers would hardly have suspected. In the first place, people are far better educated medically than was the case a generation or two ago.

Health information that has been widely disseminated through newspapers, magazines, and books. These well-informed people then have the benefit of an enormous wealth of packaged remedies and treatments for minor ailments which carry built-in safeguards in their strictly controlled testing and labeling.

Proper medication alleviates a great amount of discomfort. Fill your prescriptions at LENOX PHARMACY, 299 E. Center St., Tel. 649-0966 for free delivery. Open 8-9 Sun. and Holidays 8-8. Symbol Of Finest Pharmacy Service. GHT Dept., Film, Cosmetics, Candy. We honor Master Charge Cards.

Lutz Director Speaks to PTA

Waddell School PTA will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Pupils in the school's Grades 5 and 6 are invited if accompanied by a parent.

Theo R. Badenhuizen, Lutz Junior Museum director, will speak on new programs and opportunities offered at the museum.

The new Waddell tote bags will be on sale. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria after the meeting. In charge of arrangements are Mrs. Andre Dalgard, Mrs. James Kost, Mrs. Joel Belanger, Mrs. Benny Kois, Mrs. Charles Sabia and Mrs. Peter Maricolas.

The PTA will hold a pumpkin sale at the school parking lot Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Financial Plight Of Cities Worsens

City governments are in a financial hole and it's getting deeper, reports Commerce Clearing House. Revenues of all city governments in the country totaled $37.4 billion in fiscal year 1970-71, an increase of $4.7 billion over the previous year.

But the city expenditures totaled $39.1 billion in 1970-71, making for a net loss of $1.7 billion. This was $200 million more on the minus side of the ledger than in the year before.

Property taxation continues to be the predominant source of funds, supplying more than a quarter of total revenues. Talk among city fathers these days is of "revenue sharing," in which the federal government will ante up generous injections of money for the hard-pressed state and local governments, with the hoped-for result that increasingly unpopolar property taxes can be eased.

But Uncle Sam can only give to the people what he takes from them in the first place and he is already running tremendous deficits himself which are paid for through inflation, another kind of taxation.

Cynical students of the situation take a wait-and-see attitude. Rather than helping the cities out of their financial plight, revenue sharing may only enable them to dig deeper holes.

The Energy Crisis

One of the best overviews of the much-warned-of energy crisis was presented recently by John L. McLean, chairman and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Co.

Discussing the nation's domestic energy gap and its implications for national policy before the World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh, he predicted that by 1985, the United States may have to import approximately 40 to 55 per cent of its oil requirements from foreign sources, chiefly Middle East nations.

This is nearly four times as much as we currently import and could by the early 1980s, amount to a deficit in the U.S. balance of trade in fuels "in the $20 to $30 billion range."

The diplomatic and national security aspects of this whole situation demand a great deal of attention, he said, as does the impact on the world financial structure of as much as half a billion dollars flowing into the oil-producing countries between now and 1985.

Not only the United States but Western Europe and Japan will be heavily dependent upon the Middle East for their oil requirements. Russia, he says, will be the only major world power in the coming decade that will be self-sufficient in energy resources.

Nevertheless, McLean declares that the consumption of energy should be encouraged — provided it is used efficiently to socially desirable ends — because "it inevitably increases the overall efficiency of our economy."

He suggests a number of areas in which we could conserve energy without impairing economic growth. Some examples: About one-fifth of our energy is used for commercial and residential heating. Here significant savings could be made through better insulation.

About one-fourth of our energy is used for transportation. Here significant savings could be made through the development of mass transportation and smaller and more efficient automotive engines.

Another 25 per cent of our energy is used for the generation of electric power in processes which waste about 70 per cent of the energy input. Here significant savings could be made through the development of more efficient systems.

"We will inevitably experience rising energy costs, says McLean, as the nation moves from a period of abundance to growing scarcity in energy materials, "but it can be absorbed in our economy without serious disruptive effects."

He notes that for the past decade, the real cost of energy in the United States has been declining. Today, we spend only 2.8 per cent of our national income for fuels, which give each man, woman and child in the country the energy equivalent of 1,350 full-time manual workers.

"Our most urgent problem," he asserts, "is one of adequacy and continuity of energy supplies, not one of energy cost."

To meet this problem, he calls for the establishment of a single, high-level government agency to develop a comprehensive national energy policy and to coordinate all national efforts relating to energy matters, while leaving the task of discovering and developing natural resources in the hands of private enterprises.

"Clearly," McLean sums up, "there is a wealth of opportunities for cooperative resources in the development of new energy sources.

"And clearly, there is a need for cooperation in the development of a sound framework of political relationships with the countries of the Middle East to promote stability and peace in that area."

Raising A Flap

A United Air Lines pilot recently was in the soup, we understand, for letting a presidential candidate sit at the controls of a chartered Boeing 727 in flight. The candidate, George McGovern, is no stranger to the cockpit and it probably seemed like a good idea to his press agents for him to pose for pictures seemingly flying the jet. It would serve to remind voters of Mr. McGovern's bomber pilot role in World War II, when he guided a B-24 through some harrowing missions. But United and the Federal Aviation Administration were not pleased to have an amateur commanding a commercial jet. The Domestic Issues

WASHINGTON — Apparently they're going to hold a Presidential election on Nov. 7 whether anybody cares or not. Accordingly, it seems timely if not exactly imperative to note that neither President Nixon nor George McGovern is in very good shape on the job domestic issues.

These issues are the high cost of living and high taxes, and if the voting were restricted therefor our two tigers might have to be content with a draw. It would seem clear at this point that Nixon is ahead on points at this stage only because the electors either favor or are antagonistic toward his foreign policy.

But both Nixon and McGovern are on shaky ground on tax reforms and high prices. Aside from rather vague promises to reduce property taxes for older citizens, Nixon doesn't seem to have a tax reform plan — if, as is proper, one dismisses his carefully hedged promise not to ask Congress for a tax boost. Nixon's out here is that a spendthrift Congress might force an across-the-board increase. At the same time, prices have continued to rise during Nixon's first term because he was late in establishing controls.

McGovern's tax reform plan seems to be whatever his audience at a given moment desires. It is originally he announced he would seek the right to help the poor, but he waffled on that just enough to spread confusion. Now all the polls show in favor of McGovern's plan.

So it will be back to the old thinking caps for presidential campaign managers grown tired of posing their man eating cheese blains, wearing an Indian headdress and admiring someone's moppel. But maybe that hot pilot issue isn't such a winner after all. Few presidential aspirants have been able to manage a plane better than Barry Goldwater, and look what happened to him! — (Wall Street Journal.)

The Emperor's Clothes

Once upon a time, there was a country called Wonderland. And it was the Nicest Country in the whole wide world. To be sure, it had its faults. It wasn't a very strong country. It had only a tiny, little army. So it didn't have too much influence in world affairs. And, therefore, it was forced pretty much to mind its own business.

Nevertheless, when there was an election, the Candidates went all over the country making promises. Week after week, they promised that whatever else they did, they would, above all, "keep Wonderland the Strongest Nation in the whole wide world!"

Then one day, a little boy in the crowd asked a question. "Why?" asked the little boy. "The people around him frowned and scratched their heads and pointed their fingers at the Candidates. "Yes, why?" they asked.

The Candidates frowned and scratched their heads and went off to consult their political advisors. And, as candidates will, they henceforth promised instead to "make Wonderland the Nicest Country in the whole wide world."

And everybody lived happily ever after.

Moral: Why, indeed?

Strictly Political

To the editor: I am always amazed to see the reactions and comments of political people through the year and especially around election time.

Suddenly major political issues of our time cannot be talked about openly and a decision made, pro or con. Issues become too political to take a personal stand and vote that way.

The Board of Directors is to be excluded from being strictly political. In the meeting Oct. 11, they all allowed time to form in their evasion of personal, not political responsibilities.

It's just too bad that politicians consider themselves Democrats or Republicans first and personal human beings second.

Supports Jacobs

Dear editor: Informed Manchester citizens are well aware of the great services rendered to the community through the Probate Court by his Honor — John J. Wallcut.

His expertise and compassion and judgment at the level of the local Probate Court to a high extent throughout the State of Connecticut, we have been most fortunate.

We can continue to be this fortunate by casting our ballot for Hon. John J. Wallcut in the November election. His qualifications in keeping with the present tradition of the Court, I suggest that those who do not know John Jacobs, ask one who does and an informed reply will support my opinions.

Boasts Rittenband

Dear Sir: Now that election day is almost upon us, the politicians are entering into their silly season. Congressman William Cotter is fitting about the district telling us how much he has done for us during the past two years. I am aware of very little positive accomplishment that has resulted from Cotter's two years in office. I know he seems unable to secure defense contracts for this district the way his predecessor Min Daddario used to do.

On the other hand, I did receive a circular from him just a few weeks ago offering me free cookbooks and pamphlets from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. I guess that leaves us with a choice, jobs or cookbooks.

I intend to vote for Mr. Cotter's opponent Dick Rittenband. I believe he can do more for this district.

Sincerely yours,
Linda Jean Susca

Today's Thought

Children of God
For now you are all children of God through faith in Jesus Christ. For all who are led by the Spirit of God, they are children of God.

So now we can tell who is a child of God and who belongs to Satan. Whoever is living a life of sin and doesn't love his brother shows that he is not in God's family.

Dear friends, God the father chose you long ago and knew you would become His children. Yes, dear friends, we are already God's children, right now, and we can't even imagine what it is going to be like later on. But we know this, that when He comes we will be like Him, as a result of seeing Him. (1 John 3:2)

WHERE THEY STAND
THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

REPUBLICANS
Here and now we reject all proposals to grant amnesty to those who have broken the law by evading military service. We reject the claim that those who fled are more deserving, or obeyed higher moral law, than those next in line who served in their places.

DEMOCRATS
To those who for reasons of conscience refused to serve in this war and were prosecuted or sought refuge abroad, we state there is great dissatisfaction among our troops and prisoners of war have returned.

The positions above were extracted from the official 1972 platforms of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

Vernon Program Increases Visits by RPHNA

With the initiation of the coordinator program at Rockville General Hospital, more referrals have been received by the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association on patients being discharged from the hospital to their homes.

Visits to evaluate the home situation were made by the public health nurses on these referrals and plans for treatment were set up together with the physician, patient and family. The coordinator program was initiated about two months ago. To date a total of 897 visits have been made, and of these, 210 were for bedside care and treatments and 590 for health promotion. Divided into towns, 537 were made in Vernon; 108 in Ellington; 102 in Tolland 44 in Bolton and 86 in Somers. Mrs. Ann Henry is now acting as part-time coordinator at the hospital and to replace her on the regular nursing staff, Mrs. Betty Sullivan has been hired.

The association is continuing, this year, a program started last year which entails the hiring of a Nurse Practitioner at the Rockville General Hospital. The nurse practitioner will be in charge of the clinic and will be the first of a series of psychiatric consultations have been held. The nurse practitioner will be Mrs. Deborah Bresal, instructor of the nursing school at the center. A public health nurse visits on a weekly basis. To date, 200 children are registered at the center.

The distribution of Nobel prizes on the night of December 10, 1901, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Bernhard Nobel, and whose will the prizes are awarded.

Patros agreed that the arrangement is far from ideal, and said he was willing to listen to alternative plans from students and teachers. Use of volunteer lunchroom aides was discussed as a possible solution to the supervision problem.

Negotiation Groundwork
Preliminary work on the 1973-74 budget began and the board set aside Nov. 9 and 16 to consider personnel proposals.

In making the decision not to accept the offer, the board reasoned that when the superintendent is also the superintendent of the school, the possibility of using an "objective" outsider as agent was not possible.

Enrollment Dings
In his monthly report to the board, Castagna stated that school enrollment is down this year with a total of 996 students compared with 1007 in October 1971.

A breakdown shows 369 in the elementary school, compared with 393 last year; 313 in the middle school compared with 329 last year; and 301 at the high school compared with 277 last year.

The special education rolls show 13 students this year compared with 8 last year. Castagna notes that tuition costs in the area are going to rise 18.75, which is $5,388 more than the amount budgeted.

Castagna reported that the school board request for an appropriation of $3,600 for replacement of typewriters at the high school was approved by the Board of Finance in September and will be on the agenda at the next town meeting.

Bolton will have a "skin" field on one of its baseball diamonds this spring, according to the board. The board unanimously approved a request by Ernest Reed to make improvements on the field in exchange for use of the field for the school's football team on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons during the football season.

Reed, the team sponsor, stated that there is no "decent" field in town and that Bolton players must travel "all over the state" for games. Although several of the boys are from town and around Bolton, a high school field would serve as a convenient place for the team.

Permit to use and improve the field was granted with the proviso that the school will sponsor its second annual roast beef and ham supper Saturday at St. George's Church, Rt. 445.

There will be two sittings, one at 5 p.m. and one at 6:15 p.m., according to class president Brian Bredlow.

It's Not The Medium; But The Message

LONDON (AP) — A bank note from Seychelles Islands is money with a message.

The word is clearly spelled out in the waving fronds of a cluster of palm trees depicted on the note alongside a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II. It is evident when the note is turned on its side.

Authorities on the British crown colony in the Indian Ocean seem so embarrassed by the discovery they are trying to stop the program from leaving the island's shores.

But some are being smuggled out. Their scarcity value in London is such that the notes are fetching three times their face value of just under four pounds — about $20 — among collectors.

A woman who brought one back said: "We could take out notes of all other values easily enough but we were relieved of the 50-rupee ones. It seems they want to keep 'em."

SERVES 11 MAYORS
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Alma Luck Brown has been secretary to Richmond mayors since 1948 and has so far served 11. She's had a new boss every two years with the exception of one who served two terms.

It takes six months to a year to learn what one mayor expects, and by the time I feel I'm some real help and benefit to him, he is going out of office," said Mrs. Brown, who started to work for the city in 1938 as a temporary worker. "I had to learn to be flexible, to do what they want and do it the way they want it done."

The 1:30 afternoon session, to be held in Student Services building, will concurrently consider three basic concerns in the establishment of a group-home care system.

Leaders in the discussion on the problem of financing a group home will be Wes Forbes of the New Haven Training and Research Institute, and John Lukens, special assistant in the state Department of Children and Youth Services.

Garbage in,

We're working on ways to convert ordinary household waste into fuel for electricity

It's true. The trash you throw out every week might someday be returned in the form of electric energy.

Basically there are two approaches of interest to the Northeast Utilities companies and state and community representatives working together.

One is the possibility of operating an electric generator with steam purchased from an incineration process operated by others near one of our power plants. The second would be to determine if solid waste — properly prepared — could be burned in our own boilers.

There are many problems to be solved, but we're hoping that we can reduce the environmental hazards long associated with town dumps and help meet growing needs for electricity at the same time.

It's something to think about next time you take out the trash.

didn't support education enough to win in the other towns."

The former Tolland first selectman and current selectman had hoped to carry the other two towns. He fell just short of his goal with a 2.5 to 1 ratio.

"If I had been elected I would have been difficult to stay on as selectman...now I will stay on and do my job," Thifault explained when asked what he would do next. He also emphasized he will continue in his role of Democratic town chairman, and as such "support all Democrats, and work for the Democratic party."

Cromie will face Jesse Brainard, a Coventry councilman and the Republican nominee for the post, in the Nov. 7 elections. Brainard led off Cromie's victory during last night's town council meeting.

Cromie's primary victory insures the town of Coventry will be the home town for the district's representative, an advantage previously held by Tolland. Incumbent GOP State Rep. Robert King of Tolland decided against seeking reelection earlier this year.

New Haven Teachers File Suit

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The New Haven Federation of Teachers filed suit Monday in Superior Court to enjoin the Board of Education from implementing a number of administrative orders by School Superintendent Gerald E. Barbarelli last week.

The federation, exclusive bargaining agent for all public school teachers, has been negotiating for a new contract to replace one that expired June 30.

The teachers claim the administrative changes underdred their bargaining rights because of the changes should not be negotiated.

According to the superintendent's bulletin of Oct. 10, changes were made in grievance procedures, lunch period assignments, notices to individual teachers and establishment of a committee between union and the board for cooperative education planning.

The teachers also claim the sick leave and lunchroom changes violate state law.

A show-cause order, issued by Judge David M. Shea, requires the board to appear Oct. 25 to answer why permanent and temporary injunctions should not be granted.

Bill Signing Ceremony Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will sign the revenue-sharing bill in Philadelphia's historic Independence Hall Friday.

Invitations are being sent to 50 governors, members of Congress, mayors of about 100 cities and various state and county officials to attend the ceremony, which is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

The President evidently intends to dramatize the importance of revenue sharing by signing the legislation in Philadelphia, where the Constitution was framed.

Revenue sharing was one of Nixon's major proposals for the 92nd Congress. It will provide for distribution of $5.3 billion from the federal treasury to state and local governments this year and slightly higher amounts in the next four years.

The checks for the first six-month period will be mailed on Oct. 27.

School Wings Meeting Topic For Tonight

A public information meeting on the Nov. 7 $5.8 million referendum for additions and renovations to Benning and Illing Junior High Schools will be held at 8 p.m.

It is sponsored by the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Robert Stone, league education committee chairman, will be moderator.

Speaking on implications of the referendum and answering questions will be Paul Greenberg, board of education chairman; Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools; and Dr. Richard Lindgren, Illing principal.

Brochures on the proposed additions and renovations will be distributed and preliminary sketches will be available for viewing.

GOP Campaigning Disappoints Weicker

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., expressed disappointment Monday in the campaigning of Republican candidates, especially at the congressional level, this fall.

"I don't think they're fighting as they ought to," he said, "and without singling out any specific candidates."

"I think we're going to find in the Nov. 7 election we haven't moved too far as a minority party," he added.

Weicker reiterated his prediction that Connecticut Republicans would gain more seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, creating a 53 split with the Democrats among the state's six congressmen. He declined, however, to comment on the part state government has played in the bus situation.

Weicker noted that his absence from a recent fund-raising dinner in New Haven frustrated New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had received attention. He explained that he was nearby at one of the opening events of the new coliseum, because he had made the commitment before a three-day visit as a Chubb Fellow. He will be living in one of the undergraduate college's residential units.

Weicker said he is concerned about the growing bus problems in and around the state's six largest cities. He said, "The federal government hasn't measured up in this area. Perhaps we wouldn't have this crisis if it had."

Robber Sentenced

HARTFORD (AP) — Convicted bank robber Richard St. Clair Wellington, 39, was sentenced to 20 years in prison Monday after a federal judge said Wellington's record "had to be stopped."

Wellington, formerly of Bangor, Me., has been linked by federal prosecutors, to 13 bank holdups. His sentencing was in connection with two one-at-a-time West Main Street branch of the Savings Bank of New Britain last November and one at a Portland, Me., bank last year.

Court records indicated that the New Britain robbery netted $6,137 while $6,970 was taken in the Maine holdup.

"We can't condone that, you know that," the judge told the defendant Monday referring to Wellington's record.

Pro Basketball Salaries Highest Despite Two-League Hockey War

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench earns $82,500 a year as supercatcher of the Cincinnati Reds. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar makes about $82,500 a month during the Milwaukee Bucks' basketball season.

Pro basketball's salaries make virtual amateurs of affluent heroes from other sports despite a two-league war that is skyrocketing hockey paychecks.

Football and baseball stars, many of them living on less than $100,000 a year, suffer by comparison.

Jabbar's incredible $400,000 deal with Milwaukee—and you wonder why they call them the Bucks?—is trailed handsomely by Walt Frazier's $350,000 from the New York Knicks and Jerry West's $300,000 from the Los Angeles Lakers.

Charlie Scott, two years out of the University of North Carolina, jumped from the American Basketball Association to the rival National Association's Phoenix Suns and his fee hit the $200,000 class.

Will Chamberlain, a bachelor with a $1 million hilltop castle, read about teammate West's new contract and decided to hold out for renegotiation of his $250,000 salary. He finally was given more than $300,000.

After electric bills and maid service are expensive these days.

Arnie Gilmore left Jacksonville University for $260,000 yearly with the ABA's Kentucky Colonels.

Remember George Mikan? The former DePaul great was voted the top player in basketball for the first half of the 20th Century, including a brilliant stint with the Minneapolis Lakers.

Mikan, an early giant at 6-feet-10, finally managed to make $20,000 a year in the late 1940s.

And how about Bill Russell? His rookie contract with the Boston Celtics was $20,000 in 1956, about the same as Jabbar hauls down for a week of NBA play.

Pro football's oldtimers would have given their shoulder pads for more pay. In the 1950s, only the top stars got a real contract.

"Linemen played for $90 a game and up," says Mel Hein, a former New York Giant great who now works in NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle's office. "Red Grange might have been bagging $15,000 a year and Ernie Nevers never made more than about $12,000."

Sammy Baugh was a hero of two decades ago with the Washington Redskins, but he supposedly made only $30,000 as the most celebrated player of his time.

It was, of course, a bidding war that also shot NFL pay to higher levels. College kids got huge bonuses and veterans often doubled their pay overnight.

When the NFL absorbed the American Football League a few years ago, the huge bonuses dropped off and salaries slowed in their streak to the sky.

Baseball got its first $200,000-a-year performer when Hank Aaron started chasing Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs, was signed to a three-year pact in 1971 by the Atlanta Braves.

However, the Babe's incredible $80,000 salary in 1928 was—in the pre-income tax era, probably worth more than Jabbar's current $400,000 deal.

Carl Yastrzemski is a $167,000 player for the Boston Red Sox, while in the $150,000 class are Willie Mays of the New York Mets, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Bob Gibson of St. Louis.

Ted Williams busted the $100,000 bracket 15 years ago and anybody with two great seasons expects that much in the modern market.

You can bet that Johnny Bench will make it when the Reds pay him in 1973 for his deeds of this season which included topping the National League in home runs and runs batted in.

These are the team sports, men who are guaranteed their money whether they perform well this year or not. In individual endeavors, the huge paydays are there, but it's almost always on a performance-or-else basis.

Jack Nicklaus is nearing the $300,000 mark in pro golf. Rod Laver became the first tennis player to earn $1 million accomplishing it in nine years. Billie Jean King earned $100,000 on the 1971 tennis tour, the first woman athlete to hit such a plateau.

Professional jockeys make more than $55,000, and Pele, the Brazilian soccer star, is a millionaire who gets $300,000 from whopping percentages based on how often he plays.

With all this in mind, the modern father doesn't quite know what to do with his young son.

Should he train his hitting eye? Develop a golf swing? Learn to dunk a basketball?

Town Continues Project Concern

The Board of Education last night voted to accept the recommendation of Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, to renew the Project Concern for this school year. The approval included deletion of two Kennedy items that result in the elimination of 1 1/2 teaching positions.

Currently, 46 children are bused from Hartford to local elementary schools, an increase of about eight over last year. It is estimated that tuition income will be approximately $30,000. The project concern agreement with Hartford has been renewed since its institution in 1966.

Superintendent's Report
Dr. Kennedy said that a check with the original successful bidder for installation of an exhaust fan in the high school chemistry laboratory revealed that the $2,150 figure still holds. He has authorized the work to be done. At last month's board meeting, student representatives on the board called attention to potentially dangerous fumes that collect in the laboratory.

Staff Action
The board accepted, with regret, the resignation of Charles Crotti, maintenance supervisor, effective Oct. 27. On Oct. 30, he will assume the post of potentially dangerous fumes that collect in the laboratory.

Committee Reports
Beldon Schaffer, personnel and finance committee chairman, said that the board will recommend Dr. Kennedy's expected 1973-74 budget by the end of December. The superintendent set Jan. 8 as the outside date and added that he will submit a line or function object budget for the financial comparison and one by program.

Vernon
Town May Restore Old '44 Steps'
The "44 steps" leading from High St. to Brooklyn St., abandoned several years ago, may be replaced by the town. Plans for relocating the steps in the redevelopment area are being studied through Mayor Frank McCoy told the Town Council Monday night.

Mayor McCoy told the council that he had met Monday afternoon with representatives of the Development Corp., developers of the renewal area, to discuss previously proposed plans to install steps down from the High St. area and ending to the rear of a new apartment building in the renewal area. The matter was discussed several weeks ago after the council received a petition signed by 65 residents of the St. area who said their only means of access to the shopping area was by way of the steps.

Previously Alco had indicated it would contribute to the expense of installing the steps as long as the town would be the renewer. On Monday, representatives of Alco told the mayor they were willing to grant an easement, but no money had been set aside for construction of the stairway. Mayor McCoy said he would ask the Department of Housing and Urban Affairs to consider a possibility of allotting an amount of the mayor's salary to be used for the stairway.

Kissinger Returns To Paris
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, is back in Paris today meeting with North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy in another round of peace talks, the White House announced.

The peace talks are being resumed during a five-day break during which both sides consulted with their respective governments. It is Kissinger's 20th trip to Paris and 25th day of private talks in an effort to reach a settlement of the Southeast Asia conflict.

The White House said Kissinger left Washington Monday morning, while President Nixon was substituting for him in an appearance before the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Action.

The time of Kissinger's return will be announced when it is known, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. Kissinger's last session of talks with the North Vietnamese continued for four days.

Senate Hands Nixon Two Setbacks

Richard Lafferty of the Connecticut Public Expenditures Council tells members John Sullivan and Eugene Montany. (Herald photo by Peter Holzmeyer, associate researcher for the CPEC, and CRC members.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate last night rebuffed President Nixon on two fronts, denying him unlimited authority to cut federal spending and overruling his eleventh-hour veto of a water-pollution-control bill. At 1 o'clock this morning, two hours after Nixon had stilled down the $24.6-billion antipollution authorization measure as "staggering, budget-wrecking," the Senate voted 52 to 12 to override him.

The vote was nine more than the necessary two-thirds. Thirty-four Democrats, including presidential candidate George McGovern, and 18 Republicans voted to override; Nixon won the support of four Democrats and eight Republicans.

After the House meets at noon today, Democratic leaders plan to try to win the necessary two-thirds margin to override and thus enact the measure over Nixon's objections. The Senate vote to kill the $250-billion spending ceiling which Nixon had asked for the current fiscal year. The Senate last week had approved the ceiling, but Nixon had asked for the current fiscal year. The Senate last week had approved the ceiling, but Nixon had asked for the current fiscal year.
