BRIDGE CRIME PODED TO BRIDGE DETECTIVES
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Today's crime story is short and sad. All bridge detectives should be able to spot the criminal, even without fingerprints. Spotting the crime may be equally simple, but let him who has never sinned at the bridge table cast the first stone.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable
Opening lead—King of Clubs
West opened the king of clubs, dummy put up the ace and East ruffed. South twiced and squirmed for a few more tricks, but eventually had to give up a diamond trick to West's king. Down one.

A very short story, and very sad. It's always disappointing to lose a slam with such a fine hand. In this case it was more than disappointing. South committed a bridge crime. See if you can detect the crime before you read on.

When dummy plays a low club as the first trick, West can hold the trick with his king. East can trump the ace of clubs. When dummy plays a low club as the first trick, West can hold the trick with his king. East can trump the ace of clubs.

Further opens with one spade, and the next player passes. The hold: Spades, 10-7-5-4-3; Hearts, 7-4; Diamonds, J-8-7-5-2; C, None.

What do you say?
Answer: Bid four spades. This jump to game promises good trump support at least four cards, usually more, a singleton or void suit and not more than 9 points in high cards. In this case you have just about the minimum in high-card strength, but your freakish distribution should see you through the contract. You bid four spades not only to get to a makeable contract but also to keep the opponents from bidding a game or slam that they may be able to make.

UConn Government Expert Speaks to Charter Group
Miss Patricia Stuart, an assistant extension professor in the University of Connecticut's Institute of Public Service, will appear before the Manchester Charter Revision Commission Wednesday night, in the commission's fourth and final review of the council-manager versus strong-mayor form of government.

Following Wednesday's meeting, the commission will hold other weekly meetings to determine its recommendations for charter changes.

Doctors Named AAFF Fellows
Five Manchester area physicians were named fellows of the American Academy of Family Physicians at the fall annual meeting and scientific assembly held in New York City.

They are Dr. Richard M. Demko, Dr. Robert Keener, Jr., Dr. John Vincent Pripano, Dr. John C. Wright, all of Manchester, and Dr. Marjorie Purcell of Ellington.

The degree was conferred in Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum, and the scientific assembly was held in the Coliseum. The degree of fellowship is the acknowledgment of successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or attainment of diploma status in the specialty of family medicine as a result of passing a certifying examination administered under the aegis of the American Board of Family Practice.

The AAFF, headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., and representing more than 32,000 family doctors, is the nation's second largest medical association and the only national medical group that requires members to take continuing study. They must take a minimum of 150 accredited hours every three years.

Off-Track Bet Seminar Topic
Police Chief James Reardon will represent Manchester at a seminar Wednesday, scheduled by the Connecticut Commission on Special Revenue. The seminar is to brief the state's municipal officials on a proposed off-track betting program, tentatively planned for early in 1973.

Public Act 805, which created the Commission on Special Revenue, provides for a state lottery, an off-track betting program, and race tracks.

The law permits off-track betting by local option and requires approval by city and town officials plus a public hearing, prior to the issuance of off-track betting permits by the state.

Wednesday's seminar, scheduled for 2 p.m. at the State Police Academy in Meriden, will focus on planned operations, facilities, and arrangements for the state and local officials.

According to Paul Silvergeld of Glastonbury, chairman of the commission, "We must have the cooperation of local officials if off-track betting is to be successful in the state. We are prepared to answer their questions and will carefully consider any comments and suggestions."

About Town
Miss Julia S. Beadle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Hammond of 24 Oakwood Rd. and a senior economics major at Emmanuel College, Boston, Mass., has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Richard Rittenband, a candidate for the representative of the First Congressional District will be guest speaker tonight at 6:30 at the Rotary Club meeting at the Manchester Country Club.

Omomads in Britain
LONDON — An American pop music group, the Omomads, has arrived in Britain for a short tour to a rousing welcome by some 5,000 teen-agers.

Many of the British youngsters who greeted the Omomads at London's Heathrow Airport on Sunday, had slept at the air terminal overnight to catch a glimpse of the Americans.

They got a bonus when a second American pop group, the Jackson Five, also arrived in London.

Along with the fervor and work of actual delinquency, the Omomads stirred up in an election campaign, there are had moments, at least there were in Andover. Many weeks ago, two bug signs with the names of Steele and Nixon were posted at a location on Route 6 in town, where they stood undisturbed.

One day motorists going by noted that the sign was defaced. Someone had taken black paint and written over the sign.

Then, early last week, signs showing McGovern and Shriver were stolen from in front of Democratic headquarters located at the home of Charles Phelps on Hebron Road.

At a regular meeting last week of the Democratic Town Committee, a resolution was passed where the members stated they would be glad to have the sign removed. The committee urged other public spirited

Prisoner's Lack of Patience Costly
It was his third escape. And while it was the most unfortunately-timed he would have been paroled in three days, but he hadn't been told.) It would seem to illustrate the very bad luck of some prisoners in Europe, get caught, and, in the process, draw around them, ever more tightly, the web of imprisonment.

Robert Norman Bastiere, now 24, from Hartford, pulled what might be called "most get-away" escape three years ago, when he was 18 and ran away from the reformatory at Chebster. That got him to the state prison at Somers and he was later paroled.

His next mistake was fishing without a license at Snipic Lake in Rockville. He was searched and found to have in his possession a switchblade knife, thus the court appearance in Tolland County Superior Court, at that time located in the Memorial Building right in the center of town.

The court's detention cell is right over the building's main entrance. The room was conveniently crowded that Aug. 15, 1969, and a metal screen in the window was sufficiently flexible. Bastiere bent it back, slipped through, and ran down a ledge, hopped over to a high iron gate and easily climbed down to the sidewalk. Apparently no one was watching.

A block away, a man was standing beside his car, the engine running, and a metal screen in the window was sufficiently flexible. Bastiere bent it back, slipped through, and ran down a ledge, hopped over to a high iron gate and easily climbed down to the sidewalk. Apparently no one was watching.

This led to a two-to-five-year sentence on a charge of escape for Bastiere which, on July 16 of this year, he was still serving at the Osborne Prison Farm in Enfield.

Not realizing he was to be paroled within the week, Bastiere walked away, without permission, and was recaptured the next day.

Last week in Hartford County Superior Court Bastiere was given a one to two-year sentence. It was suspended, but meant back to prison anyway to serve out the remainder of the sentence which was almost written off.

Andover Charter Revision Work Under Way
The Andover Charter Commission, formed late last winter to write a charter for the Town of Andover, has been meeting in regular work sessions in an effort to accomplish the huge task before them.

The Charter Commission, which lost its original chairman and a few of its members, also had its activities slowed down during the summer months, when it is difficult to get a full group together without running into vacation and holiday absences.

Chairman Walter Lorenz said that the group has been concentrating its efforts on trying to familiarize itself with the Town's form of government, the state statutes governing it, and the system as it now works. Lorenz said that the purpose of the Charter Commission is not to change the town government but to write a charter that reflects the government we now have.

Lorenz added that in interviewing town officials, the commission finds that there are many changes that have been recommended as to procedures, policies, time limits, etc., which are operating changes suggested and do not change the form of government. Whether any such changes will be written into a charter, Lorenz said, will depend on the townspeople themselves and what they wish to have done.

Interviews conducted by Mrs. Barbara Cody, secretary of the Commission, said that the group has already contacted the Fire Department with the Board of Selectmen, the Board of Finance, the Board of Education, the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Board of Tax Review.

Also interviewed were the Town Tax Collector, the Town Clerk, the Dog Warden and the Constabulary.

The Charter Commission will continue its working session with various town officials in order to have the necessary background for writing the actual charter. Suggestions from the public are not only welcome, according to Lorenz, but highly solicited.

The Commission will be posting a schedule of regular meetings at which the townspeople may come and be heard

Andover Political Tempo Increases Over Weekend

The political campaign in Andover reached a feverish pitch last weekend, with momentum last weekend, and personal canvasses by the different candidates for office. Saturday saw State Sen. Dave Odgaard of Manchester, who now represents Andover in the newly created 4th District, continue his door-to-door visits of the constabulary.

Mrs. Dorothy Miller, state representative also visited Saturday.

Last week, the two Democratic candidates for the seats campaigned in town going door to door to meet the public. Running for the Senate seat is Mrs. Estelle Flanagan of Glastonbury and making her first try for the House is Mrs. Cynthia Wilson of Hebron.

More Reading
Added to all the hubbub of the election campaign, workers from both parties were busy all week distributing campaign literature and pamphlets to add to the voters' accumulation of reading material.

Bolton Box Supper Set For Saturday

Plans are complete for the box supper party Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Herick Memorial Park recreation building. It is being sponsored by the Bolton Democrats.

Ladies planning to attend are asked to bring supper for two in a galaxy decorated box or basket which will be sold to the highest bidder. Gentlemen will bring whatever basket intrigues them and will eat with his creator.

Baskets should include everything necessary for the meal, such as napkins, glasses and silverware.

Music for dancing will be provided after the meal.

Climbs
KATAMANDU (AP)— Three members of a Japanese expedition conquered 23,738-foot Annapurna South on Oct. 21, negotiating the difficult ascent for the first time in history, the Nepalese Foreign Ministry announced today.

Annapurna South peak was conquered in 1964 by another Japanese expedition which climbed the northwestern face of the mountain, and in 1970 by a French team that climbed the south face.

It was the fourth Japanese success of the Himalayan season. Other Japanese expeditions this fall have conquered 22,703-foot Takucho Himal, 23,774-foot Puthi Huinchul and 21,742-foot Patraji Himal.

South Windsor Fund, Transfer Explained By Councilman

This weekend, Councilman Lee Mainelli explained the reason he feels the South Windsor Town Council was motivated into transferring $300,000 from the Capital Goals and Improvements Fund to the school building account providing the $1.9 million high school referendum addition is approved by the voters.

In contending the action was in the best interest of the town, Mainelli said the transfer was a logical way to minimize the tax burden on the town while meeting education needs in a responsible way.

Mainelli said the high school already operated under crowded conditions and "we (the council) have seen that this will only get worse." He said he feels the addition of Whapping School to the high school complex would seriously compromise the ability of the town to maintain the "fine elementary school educational system we now have."

In clarifying the flexibility of the Capital Goals and Improvements Fund it is ultimate purpose is to reduce the tax burden to the town by enabling the council to reduce the cost of projects by reducing the need for paying interest charges. The use of the fund means the need, Mainelli said.

More Spending, More Taxes

Congress adjourned without granting President Nixon authority to hold federal spending to $250 billion dollars during the year that began July 1. But it overrode his veto of a bill calling for four times as much as he wanted for stringent water pollution controls.

The result of these actions is to increase the likelihood of higher taxes as President Nixon warned. Unless the President is re-elected and is given a working majority in Congress, higher taxes are certain. But Nixon plans to do everything in his power to hold down spending and avoid a tax boost.

Members of the House were willing to abdicate their responsibilities for curtailing excessive spending but the Senate, which has consistently opposed Nixon on important issues, refused to go along.

In effect, Congress said, "We enjoy spending the people's money and we don't know when to stop or where to cut."

Individually, every member of Congress knows there is waste and duplication in government. The President knows it. The taxpayer knows it. But there is no agreement on the places to cut.

As it stands, President Nixon will not be obligated to trim more than $6 billion dollars from current programs, an unpopular and highly controversial task, but he is going to try.

Wilbur Mills, the Democratic chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, led the fight for the spending ceiling. He acknowledged "We do not have control of spending in the present situation."

Pointedly, Mills asked the House: "Do you think that any of our people at home can have any confidence in the way we run this situation? They do not have it and you know it."

Every American is aware of governmental extravagance and is sick of mounting taxes.

Mills said the people want something done about it and are going to elect a Congress that will work to control inflation and to control federal spending.

We hope he is right. The future of the country depends upon drastic changes in the way Congress handles the people's money.

Streamlined Airport

Getting there is definitely not half the fun, as any seasoned air traveler can attest.

As air transportation has grown and airports have expanded, the problem is not just getting to the airport but to the airplane itself. Any plane within a half-mile of the ticket counter is close.

They've done something about it in Kansas City, where a new $250-million airport goes into operation in November.

A design concept called "gate arrival" shortens to about 300 feet the distance from parked car to parked airplane. Instead of a main terminal building with long concourses extending fingerlike out to the plane, there is a cluster of one-level, C-shaped buildings in a triangle formation.

A passenger can drive into and park in the open center of whichever C his plane is departing from. Planes are positioned on the outer perimeter of each building. In 22 steps from the terminal entrance—the width, not the length, of the terminal—he's checked in and boarding the plane.

It's possible, airport officials say, that a passenger embarking on one of the huge jumbo jets may walk farther to his seat after he enters the plane than he did through the terminal.

The Innocent Bystander

Fit To Be President

Loren, along with all that goes with it.

Well, who could resist promises like that? So customers bought Blatant's widgets by the barrelful. Unfortunately, the wonderful promises didn't come true. And when they didn't, Blatant blamed his suppliers, the neap tides, the low price of frog's legs and the second Cleveland Administration.

But soon, nobody listened. For, naturally, if you don't keep your promises in business, you go belly up. And Blatant did.

Next, he decided to become an accountant. "If I can handle vast sums of money," he said, "I will prove I am fit to run for President."

At first, he was a tremendous success. For he had an amazing ability to make his clients happy. Of course, to make them happy, he had to prevaricate a little. Like telling them they were making money hand over fist. When actually they were losing it donkey's ears.

Then he decided to become a doctor. "If I can heal the ill of man," he said, "I will prove I am fit to run for President."

At first, he was a tremendous success. He made wondrous promises of cures, led to patients about their condition, prescribed good-tasting, worthless medicine, and eventually led his address book in the left pancreas of a lady on the operating table. After blaming everybody else like that, Blatant announced that he wouldn't dignify the charges with an answer. "So, naturally, he lost his medical license. Job followed job. He lost them all, because he couldn't stop making promises he couldn't possibly keep, telling lies to make people happy, and ducking responsibility for his mistakes. So he told his Sainted Mother he was going to run for President.

"Do you really think, dear," she said, "you've proved you're fit to run for President?"

"No, I've proved," said Blatant glumly, "that I'm not fit for anything else."

Moral: To be a good American, do as your leaders say. But never, for heaven's sake, do as they do.

They're Not Whistling Dixie

WASHINGTON — President Nixon and White House aides have been insisting for some time now that despite his big lead in the polls his reelection should not be taken for granted — and maybe they're not just whistling Dixie.

Nixon should be safe on the various issues involving foreign policy. His performance on the Vietnam War and on seeking a detente with Red China and the Soviet Union stands up well against George McGovern's promises to do everything better and faster, and — on the war issue — doing them on the enemy's terms. But a miscalculation on the domestic front could prove costly.

The President, who has never been sold on wage and price regulation, waited until August 1971 to impose controls on the economy. The evidence continues to accumulate that he should have acted sooner.

That evidence is implicit in the Commerce Department's report that the rate of inflation, while slightly higher in the July-September period than in the April-June quarter, remained well under the averages of any of the past three years. Naturally, the administration is claiming progress on the anti-inflation front. But while the inflation rate is right on the administration's target of 3 per cent for this year, all it was only 2.7 per cent in the full year since controls were imposed.

It is not caviling, therefore, to suggest that the situation would be a lot healthier had Nixon acted a year, or even six months earlier in cracking down on the high cost of living. Indeed, the President's own economic aides privately admit it, while intoning the usual malarkey about a President's duty to move cautiously in meddling with a free marketplace.

Thus, while there is no disputing that Nixon finally is bringing inflation under control, he must live until Election Day with the worrisome thought that he could have done better. Any housewife will testify that prices are still too ruddy high — the Price Commission has just approved price increases of from 3.47 to 8.96 per cent for three large coffee manufacturers — and housewives also have the vote.

Meanwhile, the unemployment situation remains static. It was pegged at 5.5 per cent of the working force in September, which is an improvement over 1971 when the rate hovered around 6 per cent, but the problem hasn't been solved — and Election Day is near.

This is giving McGovern new ammunition for his speeches charging that Nixon doesn't care about the working man, but favors the rich. McGovern has a right to worry — a little.

McGovern's weakness in this debate is that his own anti-inflation plan is suspect. He has said, although not recently, that he would abolish controls and go for a policy of government guidelines on wages and prices. McGovern's argument is that inflation is caused by the greed of a few big corporations and big labor unions and that it can be licked by cracking down on those fat cats. If they can be curbed, he says, the little guys will fall in line for competitive reasons.

Well, maybe. But the guidelines failed John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, with the result that inflation was running wild by the time Nixon took office. McGovern never mentions that bit of history, which is smart. Instead, he fires away at the high cost of "Nixon's hamburgers," and the generally big crowds that have been turning out for his speeches low it. Hearing their cheers for his opponent, Richard Nixon has a right to worry — a little.

Congratulations

Dear Sir: Dick Rittenband deserves a word of congratulation for his courage in opposing President Nixon's veto of the $24 million Clean Water Bill.

Mr. Rittenband has made it clear that he believes that Federal spending must be held down but he also clearly believes that in something as important as a clean environment some things must come first.

It is never easy for a politician to oppose the stand of his party's President but Dick Rittenband has shown that he has the courage needed to make the difficult decisions as well as the easy ones.

Sincerely,
G.A. Darsi

Vote No

To the editor: On election day Nov. 7th, the voters of Manchester are being asked to approve a multi-million dollar school improvement and renovation package by the Board of Education. It must be evident to every reasonable practical taxpayer and voter that the board has gone much too far in what it calls a moderate approach.

Let us not forget that about $2 million has been spent on Bennett Junior High School over the past few years. Over crowding does not exist at Bennett. In fact, the total projected pupil population for Bennett and Hing has reached its peak and, as in other grades in our schools, is on the decrease.

With more space available at the former Manchester High School as well as at the former trade school on School Street why the great need for all the extra expansion?

Why was a figure of over $400,000 proposed for new windows when corrective repairs could be made for much less than $100,000? Of course the new windows would furnish local hoodlums and vandals a much more expensive target but will make the same mess if broken. And how about those architects' and engineers' fees which would amount to $100,000?

The Board of Education continues to ignore the impact of the voters into approving the referendum, but he believes that a defeat would result in double sessions which "is the only alternative to what 'is' a careful study." He further concludes that this alternative, "double sessions would be a failure."

According to the Cobden choice to be made by the voters on the overcrowding problem, it is not a choice between competing plans, but is in approving an inexpensive addition or failure to solve the problem.

He said the board has made 19 major studies through the means of the Citizens Facilities Committee and the school administration to find another plan to solve the problem. He said the "Wapping Plan" in four different versions was studied by the facilities committee, the administration, the Concerned Citizens and the board, but he feels none of the versions is the plan "practical solution."

He emphasized two major "faults" in each — it does not provide the high school with room or facilities needed to accommodate the additional 450 students the board will have, and maintains there would be a need for an addition and major renovation to make the plan acceptable to solve the problem.

He further said that the 12-month school year was investigated in cooperation with East Hartford school's system which revealed it was "a failure," a long term solution and would require changes in state laws to provide adequate funding and major changes in life styles of all families with school age children.

The 6-3-3 plan (housing elementary schools with 6, 3, 3 grades, the middle school from 7-9 grades, and the remaining three grades in the high school) although it received moderate support at a public hearing, Cohen said a study requested by the board found the present middle school cannot handle an extra grade level of students and would require the moving of sixth and seventh grades back to the elementary school. He added that the middle school would require major building modifications and an addition to accommodate the ninth grade and its program.

According to Cohen, it was no sense to the board to put an addition on the high school — it is overcrowded and will continue to be," he said.

Calling on the voters for support of the addition to the high school, Cohen said it now becomes the responsibility of the voters to determine the course of the town's educational future for the next 10 years, adding that the additional space can be provided for with less than $5 cents a week, "or double session for the next 10 years."

Hebron Rham High School Group To Discuss Needs Tonight

Enrollment at Rham High School during the 1973-74 school year will be approximately 200 students over capacity, according to Mrs. Katharine Siban, chairman of the educational needs committee appointed by the Regional District 8 Board of Education.

The committee was appointed last June when it was apparent that the stand of his party's President but Dick Rittenband has shown that he has the courage needed to make the difficult decisions as well as the easy ones.

Mr. Rittenband has made it clear that he believes that Federal spending must be held down but he also clearly believes that in something as important as a clean environment some things must come first.

Registration for boys interested in participating in the Hebron Youth Basketball program this year will be held on Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. at both the elementary schools.

To be eligible to play, boys must be in the fifth or sixth grades and 10 years old before Jan. 1, 1973. There will be a fee of $1 per boy or $6 per family to cover insurance for the program.

An additional sign-up day will be set prior to tryouts for the teams which is scheduled for Nov. 11 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Gilead Hill School.

Boy Scouts of Troop 28 have launched the annual fund raising drive this week visiting homes in the Hebron area.

According to Mrs. Joseph Kearns, secretary for the troop, the first time a boy visits a home, he will be taking orders only. He will then return with the items ordered and collect the money, all in plenty of time before Christmas.

The Scouts will not be in uniform during the campaign, but will be wearing their Troop 28 name on the order blank attached to the tray in the display kit.

Funds collected by the boys will be used to pay for a week of troop camping next summer and to replace and purchase additional equipment for Hebron's growing scout unit. Also, each boy will be competing for prizes to be awarded to scouts taking the largest dollar volume in orders.

South Windsor Board Member Sees 'Double Sessions' If Bond Issue Fails

If the $1.9 million high school addition is voted down by residents Nov. 7, Board of Education member David Cohen says the "only other alternative" is his opinion, to solving the overcrowding problem would be "double sessions."

In a prepared statement, Cohen said, "We (board) did not want to be charged with blackballing the voters into approving the referendum," but he believes that a defeat would result in double sessions which "is the only alternative to what 'is' a careful study."

Boos Don't Bother Morton Who Wins Cheers in End

DALLAS (AP) — "Let 'em boo," said a satisfied Craig Morton. "When I'm throwing touchdowns and the Dallas Cowboys are winning, I can live without the cheers." The longtime No. 1 whipping boy when pro football fortunes wilted here, Morton passed for three scores Monday night and set up a fourth in a 28-24 win over the Detroit Lions. "Sure, I heard them boo when I was introduced," said the 29-year-old Morton. "It's a free country, I'm not telling them who to vote for ... and I'm not telling 'em who to applaud." Roger Staubach, engineer of Dallas' world championship of 1971, is healed from his pre-season shoulder separation. He's ready to play, hungry for a comeback. But, Morton has the job and won't let go.

"As long as Roger and I are in competition, there will be Staubach fans and Morton fans," said the 6-foot-4 Californian. "It's a way of life for me in Dallas, but all I can do is perform."

Morton was a port machine, heaving a 39-yard touchdown bomb to Billy Parks, of 33 yards to Calvin Hill and a 15-yarder to here-to-fore unknown running back Mike Montgomery.

A 27-yard screen from Morton to Montgomery set up a one-yard touchdown scored by the second-year man who came from San Diego in the deal for the controversial, untalkative, idle Duane Thomas.

Dallas, 5-2, pulled within a game of Washington's Redskins in the National Conference East while Detroit plunged back into a tie at 4-3 with Green Bay in the NFC Central. Morton was 11 of 19 for 206 yards in a game where pass play was less than 20 times.

"Detroit is better on offense than defense," said Morton, "so we tried to play keepaway."

Joe Schmidt, the tough sideline coach who coaches the Lions, said Dallas' 14 quick points put Detroit in a hole from which it couldn't dig. "We're still tied for first in our division," he said. "I still think we can win it."

Dallas benched its two $60,000-a-year wide receivers, Bob Hayes and Lance Alworth, until the final five minutes while two younger fellows, Ron Sellers and Parks, handled the main work.

Prentice Triumphs In Playoff

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — I took a two-day play and 10 extra holes before JoAnn Prentice finally won the Corpus Christi Ladies Professional Golf Association Open. She claimed $3,000 first money in the event by shooting a birdie on the final hole Monday to beat out Sandra Palmer.

The two had tied with Kathy Whitworth with 21st after the regulation holes Sunday at the Pharoos Country Club, and all three went into a sudden death playoff. Miss Whitworth was eliminated on the third extra hole before darkness interrupted the play Sunday evening.

Continuing Monday, Miss Prentice and Miss Palmer both carded pars until No. 10, where both reached the green in two strokes. Miss Prentice sank her birdie putt while Miss Palmer three-putted from 60 feet.

Penny Jayve Gridders Win Against Tribe

In a Jayve game that lacked any consistent offense by either visiting Penny High or host Manchester High yesterday afternoon at Memorial Field saw the Knights squeak out an 8-6 victory. Playing even football through the first period, Manchester drove deep into Penny's territory on the fine running of Jeff Rice and Mike Mollet. The Tribe scored on Mike Miller's run up the middle. The extra point conversion failed.

Penny took the ensuing kickoff and returned it to midfield. The next play a 50-yard scoring strike tied the score at 6-6. A fake kick of the extra point resulted in an easy two points for Penny. The second half was scoreless. Manchester now sports a 1-3-1 record. Hall High will visit Memorial Field Monday.

UConn Athletic Facilities Victims of Own Success

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — The University of Connecticut's athletic facilities have become victims of their own success.

Increased student enrollment, including the largest number of women ever enrolled at the university, have brought about demands that the facilities just can't meet, says Athletic Director John L. Tom.

Some specifics he lists to back up this point are: About 5,000 students are involved in intramural sports but there's "not a place for them in an intercollegiate event or practice is going on."

The same facilities are in use today as were 20 years ago despite the fact, there are twice the number of athletes competing on the intercollegiate level. 750 varsity squads, 500 at the freshman level.

Faculty members wait for two years for a locker room in the men's facilities. The other was to make recreation facilities and certain intramural sports co-ed.

Two basic steps have been taken to alleviate the situation somewhat, he explains. One is to fund more available facilities comes at widely-varying times of the day.

To rectify the situation, he says, "We're talking of a long-range plan" for undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and staff. "During this school year we will come up with such a plan," he says, adding that "my own opi-

Obituary

W. Herbert Crockett

W. Herbert Crockett of Seattle, Wash., formerly of Manchester, died last Friday in Seattle. Burial took place in Seattle Monday.

He was born in Manchester June 9, 1911, a son of the late William J. and Lena L. Crockett. He was a 1929 graduate of Manchester High School and of Boston University in 1934.

Mr. Crockett was active in the insurance field in Seattle where he was owner and president of the Pierce and Crockett Insurance Agency. He had served as president of the Kings County Insurance Agents Association and the State of Washington Insurance Agents Association. He was associated with numerous business and financial institutions in the Seattle area.

A Mason, he was a past master of his lodge, a Scottish Rites Mason (32nd degree), and at one time had been a Grand Lodge officer but resigned because of a heavy business schedule.

He was also a past president of the College Club of Seattle.

He is survived by his wife Betty, three sons, six grandchildren, a brother T. J. Crockett of Manchester and a sister Mrs. Jean Smith of Windsor Locks.

Joseph Karas, 57, of Hartford, brother of Mrs. Anna Butkus of Manchester, died Sunday at West Haven Veterans Hospital.

Born in Suffield, he lived in Hartford most of his life. He worked at Chandler-Evans Control Systems, Division of Colt Industries, West Hartford, for four years. He was previously employed by the former Olivetti-Underwood Corp. for 22 years.

Other survivors are his wife; 2 sons; a daughter; a brother; 2 sisters; and a grandson.

Funeral services were held this morning at Talariski Funeral Home, 380 Maple Ave., Hartford, with a Requiem High Mass at St. Augustine's Church, Hartford. Burial was in Soldiers' Field, Northwood Cemetery, Wilson, with military honors.

Carl N. Welch

ELLINGTON — Carl N. Welch, 77, of Ashford died Sunday in Manchester Memorial Hospital. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Lily G. Welch of Ashford; and 2 daughters, May Craig of Hartford and Patricia Willis of Ellington. Mr. Welch donated his body to Yale University. There is no funeral or calling hours.

Gertrude A. Bourret

Mrs. Gertrude A. Bourret, wife of Albert Bourret of 21 Stock Pl., died suddenly yesterday in Ashland, Pa., while she and her husband were en route to visit their son in Texas.

Born Dec. 4, 1897, she lived in Manchester all her life.

Survivors besides her husband include two sons, James Brennan of San Antonio, Tex., and Thomas Brennan of Manchester; a brother, Robert McLeary of Manchester; a sister, Mrs. Clarence Custer of Andover, and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the W. P. Quish Funeral Home at 225 Main St. followed by a funeral Mass at 9 a.m. at St. Bridget Church. Burial will be in St. Bridget Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

A MODERN PHARMACY

With serious injury, the first 15 minutes to 30 minutes are critical. . . And the first aid required is of the advanced kind that the average citizen rarely knows. Training in what to do — and not to do — about fractures, hemorrhage and impaired breathing. . . The best hope, then, is that an ambulance will arrive quickly with skilled attendants who can give the patient expert attention. . . Bolton Bulldogs Capture Division Title

The Bolton Bulldogs pony league football team copped the northern division title in the Charter Oak Football Conference Sunday, stunning the East Windsor Chargers 32-0.

Bolton scorers were Mark Kiser who contributed two touchdowns and three conversions; Craig Jensen, who scored on a 52-yard pass from Paul Kiser; and Paul Groves who was credited with one touchdown and one conversion.

Coach Gil Boissoneau cited Craig Jensen for his work in the offense, completing 88 yards in passes. He also noted that Mark Kiser ran very well throughout the game in spite of wet and slippery field conditions.

Defensive standouts according to Boissoneau, were Paul Kiser, Dane Ward, Tony Morrone and John Stamp.

With a 6-0 win-loss record going for them, the Bulldogs meet Tolland, southern division champs, Sunday in a playoff contest at a field yet to be announced.

Tigers Roar

The Bolton Tigers midget football team also came away winners Sunday, topping the South Windsor Admirals 36-14 and ending the season in second place with a 5-2 win-loss record.

Scoring honors were shared by Shannon Young with two touchdowns; Brian Molde with one touchdown and one two-point conversion; Peter Ryba and Mark Ouelette with one touchdown apiece and Jim and

Crash Claims Four in Family

ELLINGTON — A former Ellington woman, her husband and two children were killed last week when returning by plane from a visit with relatives in Ellington.

Mrs. Florence Jacob, 50, Joseph Jacob, 47, Susan Jacob, 17, and Thomas Jacob, 11, of Morton, Ill., were killed when their small private plane crashed in a cornfield near Pekin, Ill. A daughter Donna Jacob, a student at Western Illinois University, was not aboard the plane.

They had been visiting Mrs. Jacob's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lanz of 5 Lanz Lane, Ellington. Their plane left Ellington Airport about 9:30 a.m. Oct. 23.

Also killed in the crash were two friends whom they had picked up when the plane stopped in Philadelphia. All six were from Morton. Jacob was president of Foster-Jacob of Peoria, Ill. He was flying a company plane.

Besides her parents and daughter, Mrs. Jacob leaves two brothers, Albert Lanz Jr. of Albany, N.Y., and Kerwin Lanz of Morton; and four sisters, Mrs. Harriet Clarke of Morton, Mrs. John Getz of Morton, Mrs. Lois Gebler of Ellington, and Mrs. George Foxe of Carrol Stream, Ill.

Mr. Jacob leaves two brothers, Raymond Jacob and Kenneth Jacob, and a sister, Mrs. Harlan Kaiser, all of Morton.

Funeral services for the six were held Friday in the Morton Apostolic Christian Church with burial in the Church Cemetery.

CAB DRIVER

A year ago this man was a Cab Driver. He got to know Manchester's people driving that cab. The elderly who rely so heavily on the cab service; the school teacher whose car broke down; a house wife doing her weekly shopping; a businessman returning home from the road; an injured child in need of emergency treatment; they all rode in his cab.

East Hartford Man Killed In Ohio Accident

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — A one-car accident on Interstate 70 south of here today killed men from New York and Connecticut, the Ohio High Patrol said.

The victims were identified as Frank Hight, 32, of East Hartford and Spec. A. Waman E. Applegate, 21, stationed at Hancock Field, Syracuse, N.Y.

Police said the car driven by Applegate left the interstate and struck a bridge abutment.

They said Applegate's leave papers indicated he was en route to Indiana when the accident occurred.

Ingram Industries Awarded Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army has awarded a $4,197,093 contract to Ingram Industries Division of McGraw-Edison Co. in Bristol for the manufacture of mechanical time fuses.

The contract, the office of Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., announced Monday.

"If Connally had been at the battle of The Alamo," said McGovern, "he would have been cheering for the Mexican general, Santa Ana. They say in South Dakota that, if Connally had been at the battle of the Big Horn, he would have been out recruiting Indians for Custer." The crowd howled.

On the subject of the imminent cease-fire in Vietnam, he said he welcomes it. "The sad question is, however — why, Mr. Nixon, did you wait four years to bring this war to an end?"

He chided the president. "Only a few weeks ago, his administration was ridiculing the McGovern-Shriver plan to withdraw our troops and bring our prisoners home within 90 days of a cease-fire," he said. "Now, they say they'll do it in 60 days. If we had said 60, would they have said 30?"

He called on the president to "quit letting South Vietnam President Thieu dictate our policy in Southeast Asia. Say to him, 'You're not going to dictate war to us.'"

He repeated his pledge that, if elected, his administration "will plan for a peace in which we utilize the labor of every engineer, every machinist and every aerospace worker. And we will take the necessary steps to provide a job for every man and woman in this country who is able to work."

Charging that "not one person on the White House staff is working on a program to convert from a wartime to a peacetime economy," he said, "By contracting with private industry and with government help, added to the cooperation of Congress, we

Town Bonding Schedule In Favorable Condition

BY DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter)

If Manchester voters approve a Nov. 7 referendum question for renovations of the town's two junior high schools, there would probably be no increase in taxes, Manchester Mayor John Thompson said today.

The town has a "very favorable bonding indebtedness picture," Thompson said, as four bond issues will be completely retired by the time the town would start making payments on bonds for the proposed Bennet and Iling Junior High Schools renovation.

The renovations (Question Two on the Nov. 7 voting machines) are estimated to cost $6.8 million. About $3.9 million of that estimate would be financed by a town bond issue; the remaining $2.9 million would be funded by state grants.

Based on projections by Town Controller Thomas S. Moore, the $3.9 million in bonds would be issued in fiscal year 1974-1975, and the first full year's principal and interest payments would be made in fiscal year 1975-1976.

Those first full payments on the proposed Bennet and Iling renovation bonds would increase the town's bond payment requirements to about $678,000 for fiscal year 1975-1976, according to Moore's projection. Bond payment requirements now (fiscal year 1972-1973) are about $765,000.

But the 1975-1976 payment requirement would be the "peak," Mayor Thompson noted. In fiscal year 1976-1977, the requirement would be lower than present requirements; and from then on bond payment requirements would continually decrease, according to projections.

Part of the reason for the decreasing bond payment requirements, Thompson said, is that the town will make final payments on four bond issues by the end of fiscal year 1974-1975. Those four issues now require principal payments of $340,000 per year.

Those four bond issues reaching maturity over the next few years are the 1952 issue for Buckley School construction and additions to Bowers and South Schools; the first and second issues, in 1953 and 1955, for Manchester High School; and the 1964 issue for North End redevelopment.

Continually decreasing interest charges, as well as anticipated retirement of the four bond issues, put the town in a "very favorable situation," according to Moore. "We're under ten per cent of what our bonded indebtedness could be," Moore said.

Considering diminishing bond payment requirements, anticipated federal revenue sharing funds, and any possible increases in the Grand List, the town will be able to meet demands for additional services without increasing taxes, Thompson said. Thompson said voters can act on the school referendum question without worrying about increased taxes. If voters consider junior high school renovations a priority, the mayor added, the renovations can be done now more favorably than in the past — or probably in the future.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, echoing Thompson's sentiments, said "now is a good time" for school renovations. Contractors are anxious for work, Weiss said, and the town might get better bids on renovations now.

Thompson, in reporting the town's bonded indebtedness picture, emphasized that he was not speaking for the Board of Directors or for his political party.

Sikorsky Funeral Rites Conducted

STRATFORD (AP) — As five helicopters flew by in a final salute to the man who invented helicopters, Igor I. Sikorsky was buried Monday.

The Russian Orthodox cemetery, which Sikorsky chose as his burial place, is on a hilltop a few miles from where he conducted the first successful helicopter flight in the fall of 1939.

Sikorsky died of a heart attack Thursday at his Easton home. He was 83 and retired, but had continued to make weekly trips to advise personnel at the plant he had founded.

A large blue-and-white Sikorsky helicopter hovered high above the golden-domed St. Nicholas church during the services and flew escort as the long funeral motorcade traveled the five-mile route to the cemetery.

The fly-by of the five helicopters was an emotional highlight for many of the mourners and brought many of them to tears.

Four of the aircraft represented the four branches of U.S. military service, all of which use the helicopters produced by the Sikorsky Division of the United Aircraft Corp.

More than 200 mourners jammed the small church or stood on the sunlit lawn, listening to the requiem mass, carried outside on two loudspeakers.

Sikorsky left instructions that there be no eulogy and that the funeral service be limited to 25 minutes. However, it lasted more than twice that long.

His four sons carried the casket from the church.
