

The Cooper Hill Treatment Plant

One of the referendum questions to be voted upon next Tuesday is a proposed $500,000 bond issue for renovations to Manchester's Cooper Hill Treatment Plant.

The proposal is backed by most of Manchester town officials, including Jay Giles, superintendent of the water and sewer department. He has invited the public to an inspection of the plant, Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m., and has prepared the following list of questions and answers, to acquaint the voters of the problems and needs there:

QUESTION—What is the function of the Cooper Hill Plant and where is it?

ANSWER—The plant filters about two million gallons of water each day from the Globe Hollow Reservoir and delivers it to the town water system. The plant is located off Cooper Hill St., about half way between Pine and Cedar Sts.

QUESTION—Why does the plant need renovation?

ANSWER—The plant is about 40 years old, was not designed to treat water for domestic consumption, and is not equipped to treat and filter the Globe Hollow supply effectively. The plant was constructed by Chesney Bros. in 1916 to treat water for industrial purposes and functioned in that way until 1955, when it was purchased by the Town of Manchester Water Department.

After the purchase, pumping equipment was installed and the water department began delivering water to the town system, in order to supplement its other water supply sources. Because of its age and original design, however, the plant has not been capable of producing a completely satisfactory water supply—free of objectionable tastes and odors.

QUESTION—The cost of the renovation is estimated at $500,000. What will be done for that amount of money?

ANSWER—The plant will be furnished with new mixed-media filters (sand and anthracite), new piping and valves, a new electrical system, new pumps, chemical storage facilities, water testing equipment, and up-to-date controls.

QUESTION—An emergency generator will be installed in the plant to provide power for its operation during a blackout.

ANSWER—The quality of the Cooper Hill water supply will be greatly increased. The new filters will permit the use of carbon to remove objectionable tastes and odors and will filter half again as much water as the old filters do now, giving the plant a capacity of three million gallons of water per day.

QUESTION—The control instrumentation at the plant and the four wells will permit the proper and economical operation of those sources of supply by eliminating over-pumping and under-pumping situations.

ANSWER—Will the renovation of the Cooper Hill plant eliminate the need for a water tank, which will store water from the plant prior to its discharge to the sanitary sewer system, will be constructed adjacent to the plant in order to comply with the requirements of the State Department of Environmental Protection.

QUESTION—How much will this renovation cost me if I have my own well or if I'm a customer of the water company in the North End of town?

ANSWER—Nothing. The bond for the renovation will be paid for by water revenue received from town water customers in the South End of town.

QUESTION—How much will this renovation cost me if I'm a Town Water Department customer?

ANSWER—Nothing more than you are now paying for water. The water rates will not be increased. They were increased two years ago in order to improve such as the Cooper Hill renovation could be financed.

QUESTION—How will this renovation project affect the water service in the town system?

ANSWER—The quality of the Cooper Hill water supply will be greatly increased. The new filters will permit the use of carbon to remove objectionable tastes and odors and will filter half again as much water as the old filters do now, giving the plant a capacity of three million gallons of water per day.

QUESTION—The control instrumentation at the plant and the four wells will permit the proper and economical operation of those sources of supply by eliminating over-pumping and under-pumping situations.

ANSWER—No, but it will definitely help. The renovation will include the installation of larger pumps which will help to supply the increased demand for water during the summer. The Nike water storage tank, which was put into service last June, was definitely a factor in the elimination of a water ban this year, and the Cooper Hill renovation will increase its effectiveness in the future.

QUESTION—If the renovation is approved by the voters when will the project get under way and when will it be completed?

ANSWER—If approved, the contract for construction will probably be bid in January 1973 and hopefully the project will be completed by August 1973.

Recycling Pipe Made Of Recycled Waste Materials

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Sewer pipe made of crushed, recycled glass has been installed in a section of the sewer system of this Long Island community. The pipe was produced at Brookhaven National Laboratory where scientists have developed a process to convert nonreturnable bottles into useful products by mixing the glass with a liquid plastic.

Peace Pact Signing Date Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — One week after Henry A. Kissinger's word that "peace is at hand" for Vietnam, still-unresolved difficulties are casting an aura of uncertainty over just when a final agreement might be reached. "I don't see Thieu as a stumbling block," he said. "He hasn't been yet."

Last Thursday the presidential adviser said peace is within reach in "weeks or less" and a final negotiating session with North Vietnam should take "no more than three or four days."

President Nguyen Van Thieu had objected to seven of the nine points in the peace plan worked out by Kissinger and Le Duc Tho. Agnew's version was different. "I don't see Thieu as a stumbling block," he said. "He hasn't been yet."

Washington officials said Monday the pipe is stronger and lighter than conventional clay or concrete pipe and is potentially competitive on an economic basis.

Plainfield Couple Wins $75,000 Super Lottery

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

A crowd estimated at over 500 persons was in the Manchester Army today for the weekly drawing of the state lottery and saw a Plainfield couple leap for joy when their name was called for the $75,000 prize in the Super 75 drawing.

The winning couple is Arthur and Rita LeClair. The winning ticket was in Mrs. LeClair's name, and the ticket was bought for her by her mother, who lives in Mooisip.

One place where they can spend most of the money is for a new well, Mrs. LeClair explained. "Our well went dry over a year ago and we've been carrying water from Mooisip almost the entire year."

Today's Manchester drawing was brought here through the efforts of the Main Street Guild. The Guild conducted a sales promotion in conjunction with the drawing and sold tickets for it right up to the last minute — 10:30 p.m.

Four Hell's Angels Arrested

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — Four Hell's Angels have been taken into custody and authorities say more arrests are possible in connection with the discovery of three bodies on a remote ranch rumored to be a burial ground for the motorcycle gang.

Those arrested Wednesday were identified as William Mark "Zora" Milton, 22, Alameda; Edward Junior Carter, 24, Richmond; Chester M. "Festus" Green, 29, Richmond; and

Parochial Case Before Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, with the noticeable absence of its solicitor general, has asked the Supreme Court to approve payments from State revenues to parents of parochial-school students.

In a memorandum to the court on Wednesday, the government said Pennsylvania's direct-payment system is unconstitutional since it does not "entangle" church and state.

The memorandum was signed by Daniel M. Friedman, the deputy solicitor general. His boss, Erwin N. Griswold, who usually speaks for the government in the high court, declined for what he termed "personal reasons."

Appeals have been filed by J. Shane Creamer, the Pennsylvania attorney general, and by a group of parochial-school parents. The government, in support, said the payments do not violate the 1st Amendment's provision for separation of church and state because they are made to the parents.

Old Home Yields To Progress

The old Kittel house on Bissell St. was torn down early this morning to make room for a parking lot as part of the Manchester Evening Herald plant expansion and modernization program. The lot is now being enclosed in a concrete and steel frame and will be firmly bolted to the wall in the ladies' lounge.

Photo Filched

MIAMI (AP) — A nude photograph of actor Burt Reynolds once graced the walls of the ladies' lounge of a socially elite club in Miami, but not for long.

"It probably turned someone on," said club membership director Pat Gibson. She reported Monday that an unknown powder room patron stole the framed photo, taken from the centerfold pages of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Miss Gibson said the photograph of Reynolds in the buff was put in place about four weeks ago at the Mundy Club at Sailboat Bay in suburban Coconut Grove.

She said a second copy of the photo is now being enclosed in a frame of glass and steel and will be firmly bolted to the wall in the ladies' lounge.

AVOID WASTE IN FINISHING By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
You can sometimes lead a high card to begin a finesse. The idea is to hold the lead with that high card if it isn't covered. However,

Declarer would hope to hold the first trick in dummy with the ten of spades and thus be in position to take a second finesse. If East covered, South would have to rely on finding three spades in each hand. His own last spade would then become established.

Another entry
In this case, dummy had another entry, the ace of diamonds. Hence South didn't have to rely on a 3-3 break in spades. He could afford to lead a low spade from dummy for the first finesse.

He won the first finesse with the queen, returned to dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another low spade for a second finesse. The time east was obliged to play the king. South took the ace, led a spade to dummy's ten and later took fourth spade trick with the jack. This was all he needed for his contract.

South would go down if he led the ten of spades from the dummy. East would cover with the king, and South would make only his own three high spades. West's nine of spades would prevent South's last spade from ever winning a trick.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold Spades, K-7; Hearts, K-10-8; Diamonds, Q-J-3-2; Clubs, Q-J-4-4.

Answer: Pass. You have 12 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid, but in this case you should opt to pass. Avoid opening a borderline aceless hand.

Polish TV Has Mixed Show Fare

WARSAW (AP)—Without fanfare, Poland's television viewers are being treated to a mixed invasion of Western films and variety shows—a sharp contrast with what's available in austere Russia.

The television stations are operated by the Communist government. News and political programs pushing the party line still abound, as do countless war movies and documentaries to remind Poles of Hitler's Germany. But most evenings the authorities manage to turn the propaganda tap off for two or three hours to accommodate some entertaining film. Lately there's been a growing tendency to show more Western-produced shows along with regular East bloc offerings.

Poles can focus on shapely mimicked girls dancing in an Italian show.

Poland is also getting acquainted with the pistol-packing marshal of "Guns Smoke," Britain's "Gold Robbers," a series about a hijacked plane loaded with bullion, and America's court experts, "The Defenders."

France has been represented with light-hearted crime installments of "Arsene Lupin."

As weekend treats Warsaw people often watch such Westerns as Marlon Brando's "One-Eyed Jacks," or comedy movies with Jack Lemmon.

Big-name singers like Little Tony of Italy, Britain's Cliff Richard, France's Sacha Distel, America's Dionne Carroll and Scotland's Andy Stewart have all appeared lately on Polish screens.

News items continue to be carefully selected for their political slant. Flag burnings of the Stars and Stripes in demonstrations abroad and attacks on America for bombing North Vietnam appear regularly in a Poles' diet of foreign news.

Typical of a major news item for television: "Let's have a look at our sugar beet campaign. We know that factories have already supplied 1½ million tons of sugar, and here is a chart which shows how much it is being purchased."

The camera switches to a studio anchorman who announces: "Now we'll have a talk with our reporters from various cities."

On comes the face of the Wrocław correspondent. "We are a real sugar district. We have 12 plants in our area which process from 20,000 to 22,000 tons daily." Anchorman: "And now let's hear Lodz, how is it there?"

Lodz city newsman: "I must say sugar production is going quite fine. And here is one more fact which I got at the last minute before entering the studio."

Rockville Couple Chosen To Represent Milk Group

Glenn and Marietta Luginbuhl of Shenpat Lake Rd., Rockville, will be among six Young Cooperator couples of Yankee Milk, Inc. who will represent the cooperative at the annual convention of the National Milk Producers Federation. The convention will be held Nov. 28 through 29 in New York City.

The couples were chosen on the basis of their efficiency in operating their farms and also on the amount and quality of their service to their community.

The Young Cooperator program is designed to inform young farm couples of the purposes, objectives and policies of their cooperative. It is a two-way operation with the Young Cooperators also having an opportunity to question management on programs and to suggest their ideas on how the cooperative can serve them best.

The development of future cooperative leadership is one of the functions of the program.

Council-Manager Government Said Best for Manchester

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

"If you want professionalism in government, if you want the most representative, the most efficient and the best functioning government for your town — the council-manager government, as you have now, is the best for you," the Manchester Charter Revision Commission was told last night.

The speaker was Miss Patricia Stuart, assistant extension professor in the University of Connecticut's Institute of Public Service, an acknowledged authority on city and town government, and a member of the Mansfield Charter Revision Commission, which recommended that town's council-manager form of government, created by a recent referendum.

Miss Stuart was the fifth speaker to appear before the Manchester CRC at four consecutive weekly study sessions, and was the fourth to recommend the council-manager form of government. The CRC scheduled the four meetings to compare the council-manager and strong-mayor governments, prior to making its recommendation to the Board of Directors.

The proposal for a change to the strong-mayor form of government comes from the executive board of the Manchester Property Owners Association.

CRC chairman John FitzGerald said last night the 15-member commission will meet again on Nov. 15, and the main item of business then will be a vote on the basic question, "Should Manchester change its form of government to a strong-mayor form?" The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. Following the vote on the basic question, reports will be submitted by the various subcommittees.

The only one of the five speakers heard by the CRC who recommended the strong-mayor form of government was Danbury Mayor Gino Arcanti, who appeared here on Oct. 25.

Backing the council-manager form of government, in addition to Miss Stuart, were Carlton F. Sharpe, former city manager of Hartford and now a visiting professor in municipal administration at the University of Hartford; Richard C. Lafferty, a former town manager in Pennsylvania and now director of municipal consulting services for the Connecticut Public Employees Council; and David Bauer, former town manager in Wethersfield and now general manager of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce.

"To me," said Miss Stuart last night, "is a choice between professionalism and political responsiveness. The strength of a council-manager form of government is its emphasis on management. The chief executive is a professional — a trained person — constantly concerned with improved methods of management."

Asked how a council-manager form of government can be responsive to the people, she replied, "To me, responsiveness means the supply of services to all the people, in the best manageable way, and delivering to the people the best quality government at the least possible cost."

She acknowledged that, in some municipalities, the political involvement by the electorate is more important than in others and that a strong-mayor form of government might satisfy that political involvement.

However," she added, "I can't be convinced that the strong-mayor government is more responsive to the needs of the people than the council-manager government. Under the council-manager government, the council has a key role. It becomes the citizens' advocate. It makes the final decisions, upon recommendations by the manager. It is comprised of community leaders and, even though it is elected on a partisan basis, there exists within it a degree of non-partisanship — something that's good for the people."

Bolton Christmas Fair Set Dec. 2

Christmas in the Country, the annual Yale fair sponsored by the women of St. George's Church, will be held Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the parish hall, Rt. 44A, Bolton.

Alma Amundsen, general chairman, announces that a wide variety of holiday items will be offered, including a table of Christmas greens and decorations, gift items and baked goods.

Other attractions will be a children's room featuring a fish pond, Santa Claus and a shopping table with gifts for the small pocketbook. The seventh and eighth grade Sunday school classes will sponsor this room.

Handmade gift items, a white elephant table, candles, fresh baked bread and other "goodies," and a remnant table will also be featured.

A refreshment booth will offer food and drink during the day.

Several area craftsmen will display and sell their wares at the fair. They are Trevor Jones, iron craft; Robert Woods, rock gems; Myrtle Carlson, portrait painting; Millicent Jones, pressed flower pictures; and Bonnie Kelly, hand-made cards.

Manchester Garden Club, CapriLand Herbs and Sarah Coventry jewelry will also have booths at the fair, according to Mrs. Amundsen.

Persons wishing to contribute newspapers are asked to tie or bag them and leave them in driveways or in front of their homes. A collection truck will also be stationed at the town hall for persons wishing to bring papers there.

Cigarettes Confiscated

WALLINGFORD (AP) — At least 1,000 cartons of apparently black-market cigarettes were confiscated and two men were arrested Wednesday as a result of a lengthy investigation of illegal cigarette sales, police said.

Rocco Lombardi, 36, the resident of the home where the cigarettes were found, was charged with sale of untaxed cigarettes.

John Cozzens, 60, of Hamden, who police said drove away from Lombardi's house as a patrol car arrived, was arrested by North Haven on three charges related to the possession and transportation of untaxed cigarettes.

The cigarettes could represent a profit of as much as $19,000 if they were bought in North Carolina. That state, which is the source of much of the illegal flow of untaxed cigarettes into Connecticut, has a 20-cent tax on a carton. The Connecticut tax is $2.10.

Set Friday For Naming Candidates Speak On Roads, Schools

HARTFORD (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders have decided to appoint a successor to the late sheriff of New Haven County, J. Edward "Jack" Slavin on Friday.

Henry T. Healy, a Democratic state central committee member from Derby, is reportedly the leading contender for the job.

"He's certainly in the lead right now," said Senate President Tom Charles T. Alfano Tuesday.

The House is scheduled to convene Friday morning and the Senate Friday afternoon to appoint the new sheriff.

Alfano said he read an attorney general's opinion on the procedure for filling vacancies in the sheriff's office, and is satisfied that the General Assembly has the power to make the appointment.

The opinion stemmed from the late Gov. Wilbur Cross's appointment of two sheriffs in the 1930's. It said that the appointments were valid only on an interim basis while the legislature was not in session.

The present General Assembly is in the midst of a special session, so it apparently has the power to fill the vacancy left by Slavin's death without any involvement by the Republican governor, Thomas J. Meskill.

The job of sheriff pays $13,500 a year in salary, but is a real income for an energetic deputy.

Two subjects continually crop up in his door-to-door campaign throughout the district, Cromie says — the inability to meet constantly rising property taxes and a lack of confidence in the programs and votes of Governor Thomas Meskill.

In most cases people admit the school systems need more money, but because of a fixed income or an inability to anticipate normal salary increases due to the state's present economy or because of federal wage controls, they feel unable to pay increased taxes.

A surprising number of people have expressed regret for their voting for Meskill in 1970, adding they planned to vote for Democratic legislative candidates in an effort to provide legislative opposition to the governor's attitudes and programs, according to Cromie.

These people were particularly critical of Meskill's "undermining of state institutions and refusal to furnish the General Assembly or the press with accurate financial information and his dictatorial running of the state government," the Democrat said.

They would also favor granting members of the General Assembly the free mailing privileges enjoyed by federal representatives, to improve communications with constituents.

FORD FOUNDATION GIVES $1 MILLION TO BALLET

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation has announced a $1 million grant to Ballet Theater Foundation, Inc., which produced American Ballet Theater.

This is the first grant Ford has ever given to Ballet Theater Foundation and is the largest grant the foundation has ever received.

The grant will be given in four annual installments beginning in 1972. The money is to go into a permanent cash reserve. Ballet Theater can use it, but at the end of the fiscal year all deficits must be met.

This means that at the end of four years, Ballet Theater Foundation should have $1 million for an endowment fund.

Our Choice Is Nixon

Our choice for President is Richard M. Nixon. We don't subscribe 100 per cent to all of Mr. Nixon's programs and policies. We are disappointed the President hasn't spoken out more openly on all the issues. We are disappointed that he hasn't spoken out on the Watergate affair yet heartened somewhat by the fact that he has ordered a second investigation into the facts.

However, the President has made great strides toward a responsible solution of wide-ranging problems both at home and abroad. A few examples: The withdrawal of more than 500,000 Americans from Vietnam, including all ground troops, and the recent progress toward a negotiated settlement; Initiatives in normalizing relations with Communist China by traveling to Peking;

The Moscow Summit and the strategic arms limitation agreement; Imposition of wage and price controls to help control inflation, boost economic recovery, and despite some shortcomings they are working;

Expansion of world trade and participation in world monetary reforms; The maintenance of a strong U.S. defense, which is of particular interest to Connecticut, despite heavy pressures for sharply reduced defense spending;

The approval of a $50.2 billion federal revenue sharing program. The President's opponent has failed to present a convincing case in any issue. Sen. George McGovern's inability to crystallize his views and present a believable program has been clearly evident. His conduct of the campaign has been marked by indecisiveness, blundering and excursions into both fallacy and fantasy.

We believe the South Dakota senator will be an honest, sincere individual. We also can't help but feel that George McGovern was the Democratic party's "victim" for the 1972 election with our thinking that the party knew Mr. Nixon would be difficult to beat and thus McGovern was sacrificed. We can't help feeling a bit sorry for the Senator in that although he leads the top of the ticket, few Democrats, if any, wish to be aligned to his coat tails. Democratic Congressman Bill Cotten was quick to point out the other day that he doesn't go along with McGovern's defense program.

Inside the Democratic party, Sargent Shriver has pointed out on some occasions that he draws larger crowds at political gatherings than does George McGovern.

We certainly don't question McGovern's sincerity, nor his motives. Whether his objectives are all in the national interest is debatable. Yet, we simply can't subscribe to his suggested means of solving some of the problems that face this great country and the world. His confusion simply doesn't equip him well for the presidency.

There are honest differences of opinion between President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern and that's the way it should be. We believe there is a clear need to follow the course charted by Nixon during his four years in office.

'Swords Into Plowshares'

Sen. George McGovern, in his latest swing through the Nutmeg State, has pledged a program to keep employment up despite his pledge to cut back on defense expenditures.

The idea of turning "swords into plowshares" is not new nor is it undesirable. However, in a complex and highly industrialized economy it is, unfortunately, easier said than done. The senator made a good case for himself in generalities but upon sober reflection, we wonder if he really can bring it off.

There is no question the engineering talents and skills which now go into defense-related production can be redirected into other endeavors. It might well be that in time, United Aircraft, could be producing mass transit vehicles instead of armored helicopters.

The nagging question is not that such a transition should not be made, not that such a transition wouldn't mean maintaining a high level of employment; and not that such a transition wouldn't mean a better-balanced economy for Connecticut which is less susceptible to the whims and vagaries of Congress and the ever-changing foreign policy of this nation which in the final analysis is determined just as much, if not more, by external rather than internal forces.

And there is the rub. If we understand the Democratic standard bearer correctly, no one would lose his "defense" job until he could get a "peace" job. To create these "peace" jobs will require more than moral leadership; these will require heavy infusions of federal cash. Take mass transit for example, it has not been technology, as much as a lack of capital, that has held back modernization. Connecticut is currently faced with the loss of its privately-owned bus system because it is cannot earn a reasonable profit.

What we are trying to say, without trying to be a wet blanket, is that before you can sell "plowshares" there must be a market for them and the buyer must have the money to pay for them.

One of the bitter fruits of the Southeast Asian war will be the policies, which go back to prior administrations, of maintaining a "guns and butter" economy.

Unlike after World War II, when American industry faced a huge backlog of war-accumulated consumer demand, today's defense-oriented industry faces tough and established competition in the consumer market place.

The South Dakota senator has made a valiant pitch for the votes of those men and women who face most directly the impact of an end to the war and a shift away from a defense-oriented economy; but implementation details are sadly lacking.

As so often happens in political campaigns, the candidate in his election-eve oratory, is finding it easier to tell the voters what they want to hear rather than what they should know.

Regardless of the outcome of the election, America will have to find a way to hammer the "swords into plowshares" and unfortunately, no one, since biblical times has come up with a patented formula to do it painlessly. Peace, no matter how wonderful, has a price tag too.

WASHINGTON - Even allowing for the depressing fact that both candidates sometimes manage to make Warren Harding in retrospect look inspiring, this is a ghastly Presidential campaign.

The hatred abroad in the land is almost unmanageable. There is plenty of guilt on both sides, but it seems to me the most tragic manifestation of the country's paranoia concerns itself with the Vietnam War.

There are honest differences of opinion between President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern and that's the way it should be. We believe there is a clear need to follow the course charted by Nixon during his four years in office.

Quiet and deliberative, thoughtful and unassuming, Bill has a way of competently handling any task.

We need a state representative who is not down the line follower of our all too powerful governor.

Let's send an independently minded voice to represent from this 12th District.

A vote for Bill Broneil Nov. 7th will provide that clear Democratic voice.

Sincerely, Joyce Outman, 49 Tanner St., Manchester.

Vote for Flanagan: Dear sir: I have known Estelle Flanagan for several years now.

I had the good fortune to have worked with her in past campaigns and to have witnessed her efforts in various civic activities in Glastonbury and elsewhere.

Unfair: To the editor: We are out raking our leaves today because the town intends to collect them.

Why I wonder do we bother raking them? Down the street is a family with five children and a lawn that is covered with leaves. Do they rake them up? No. Know where they'll land in a few days? You guessed it, right on our lawn which means we'll have to rake it all over again.

South Windsor New Group Opposes School

A non-partisan group of 57 people have organized and will work against the Board of Education's proposal to build a $1.9 million high school addition to solve an overcrowding problem.

The group, "Citizens Against High School Addition," are using the initials CASHA for recognition.

The members of the group believe the administration and the board have been leading the voter "down the primrose path" and therefore have organized to inform the voting public of the "facts," they say.

Spokesmen for the group are Mrs. Jean M. Geselman, Marie Agnes and Mrs. Catherine Rose. CASHA said that the Citizens Facilities Committee and the Concerned Citizens Group, along with some members of the education board, are fighting against an organization that is determined to "win no matter what depths they have to stoop to in order to sway public opinion."

They say proponents of the addition have presented figures which are inaccurate and tax rates which do not include the cost of equipment, maintenance, staffing or parking lot alterations.

They added that the addition supporters have "even tried to make the package more palatable by voting to use Capital Gains Funds to help pay for the addition."

In their acknowledgment of the overcrowded high school situation, the CASHA members said students admit it exists only in corridors and the cafeteria. CASHA agrees South Windsor is a growing town and may ultimately need to expand its educational facilities, but repudiates the proposed addition labeling it a "white elephant" that will compound the overcrowding problem that the "public will live to regret."

They maintain that the proposed addition is "inadequate in many areas, that it reaches the height of absurdity."

The group urges voters to read information that will be made available to them before Nov. 7, election day, which they believe the information on the building program will prove to be a "waste of taxpayer's money."

Let's send an independently minded voice to represent from this 12th District. A vote for Bill Broneil Nov. 7th will provide that clear Democratic voice.

Sincerely, Joyce Outman, 49 Tanner St., Manchester.

Vote for Flanagan: Dear sir: I have known Estelle Flanagan for several years now.

I had the good fortune to have worked with her in past campaigns and to have witnessed her efforts in various civic activities in Glastonbury and elsewhere.

I, therefore, urge you to give your vote to Estelle Flanagan, a woman with the charm and spirit necessary to get the job done for us in the State Senate.

Very truly yours, John Kiddish, 29 Union St., Manchester.

Boosts Broneil: Dear editor: I have known Bill Broneil for a good many years and I know him to be highly qualified to represent the residents of the 12th Assembly District in our State Legislature.

He is an Army war veteran who has demonstrated many problems of the discharged veteran. He will work hard and long to develop employment opportunities for these young men and women. Please give your vote to Bill. He remembers.

Suspicious Fire Hard To Control

A fire in the vacant Maczey residence on Grant Hill Rd. last night had firemen baffled when it stubbornly refused to be quelled until late into the evening.

Ronald Knapp of Dunn Rd. happened to be driving by the house at about 7:20 p.m., noting the blaze, and phoned in the alarm.

Fire officials noted the blaze was apparently of suspicious origin.

North Coventry Volunteer Fire Dept. assistant chief Charles White suffered slight injuries as a result of battling the fire.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Several years ago, Olive Wilk and her husband Michael were out to dinner with the Wilks couple. The two men had just returned from a trip South to play golf. "Now," the gentlemen said, "we want you two to go to Bermuda." The ladies took a 10-day trip to the scenic island.

The year 1951 was the beginning of many visits to Bermuda. Olive now goes there 2 or 3 times a year. Sometimes she will go with a friend, sometimes with her husband; then again, with her children. Her married children have each received a honeymoon trip to Bermuda as a wedding gift. When the Wilks celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding, their children reciprocated in kind.

On her second trip, Olive became acquainted with the Talbot Brothers, who are the famous Bermudian Calypso group. Since then, she has made fast friendships with many native Bermudians who have visited the Wilks at their 71 Hawthorne St. home.

Mementoes of the Wilks' many visits can be seen throughout the house. There are Royal Doulton figurines, bone china jewelry, perfume in elegant little bottles, fine English wools. A beautiful piece of blue goods, seen by a friend, will probably be made into a long evening skirt for holiday wearing.

Olive is an energetic, gregarious person. She appears to be highly efficient. The mother of five children, she has only her two youngest at home — Dana and Dorrie. The names of all five begin with the letter "D". David is married, lives in Norwich, Conn. Deborah is married to David King (another David — another "D") of Manchester. Students at the University of Maryland, they have one son, live in Wilmington, Del.

Douglas brought another "D" into the family when he married a girl with the same name as one of his sisters — Deborah Nickerson of Manchester. They live in New York state.

Olive met her husband Michael in Willimantic where both grew up. They moved to Manchester because of Mike's job — sheet metal worker in the Experimental Department at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

Olive is a registered nurse. At first, she took private duty cases, then worked a few months at Manchester Memorial Hospital. For the past seven years, she has been with the offices of Drs. H. Johnson and D. Warren, local internists.

One of the many reasons why Olive likes Bermuda is because she loves to play golf. "I am so involved with my family most of the time that I thoroughly relax when I go there," she says. "We have made such wonderful friends and it has added so much to all lives."

It was not surprising when Olive came up with a Bermuda dinner menu for her gourmet group. About a year ago, the Wilks joined three other couples. They get together about once every two months so that each woman is hostess only once a year. The hostess selects the menu, sends the recipes to her friends. She is then responsible for providing the beverages and one item on the menu but not the main dish.

Bermuda night begins with rum swizzles and hors d'oeuvres which included codfish balls in a chili sauce dip. There was Bermuda fish chowder and cassava pie for which we gave you recipes in our June 15, 1972 column featuring native Bermudians, Herbert Bascome.

Olive brought back a Bermuda hind a fish of the grouper family, which was served with creole sauce, an avocado salad, and the famous hop 'n' John, the traditional dish of peas and rice served in the Bahamas. It is also seen as hopping John or hoppin' John. Our South also serves this dish which is important to some as a New Year's Day tradition.

The menu of the evening was presented in the shape of a traditional Bermuda house hand-colored in typical colors of pinks and greens. A lovely watercolor of the Wilks' favorite island hangs on the dining room wall — An Island of Paradise, as Olive calls it.

She shares with us four authentic Bermuda recipes.

Bermuda Cod Fish Balls
With Chili Sauce Dip
1 lb. dried cod fish flakes (covered with water and soak overnight)
1/2 cup potatoes (soak so that when mashed there is about 1/4 more potato than drained cod fish)
1/4 teaspoon thyme
2 eggs
Drain cod fish and rinse well. Add to mashed potatoes. Add

Dr. Warren Addresses Auxiliary

Dr. David Warren, president of the Hartford County Medical Association and Manchester physician, was guest speaker at the quarterly meeting and luncheon of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary held recently at Willie's Steak House.

Topic of Dr. Warren's talk was "What's New in the Little Black Bag," in which he explained the change in medical care in the last several years, the increased consumer demand for medical service, increased use of the emergency room, and the formation of medical groups.

Dr. Warren said that the Hartford County Medical Association is an action group founded in 1972 consisting of a board of directors who meet monthly and a membership of 4,200.

He also spoke on providing quality medical care for less money. Under this program, the doctor and the hospital must be efficient and reasonable cost. The consumer must be ready to accept care as it is readily provided; the insurance carrier has to recognize and provide total payment in the most efficient, the hospital, home or office, and the government must be ready to finance care where others fail.

Following his presentation, Edward Kenney, hospital administrator, discussed hospital projects, including construction, administration, and various activities for both the hospital and the auxiliary.

Mrs. Alan Krupp reported that there are two new hospital services in the hospital: x-ray department and emergency room.

Mrs. Roy Behlke was appointed by Mrs. Irving Bayer to act on the term of Mrs. Robert Kenoff, resigning membership chairman.

Mrs. Philip Sumner, auxiliary president, expressed her thanks to all who helped make the luncheon a success.

Upcoming events are Careers Day, Nov. 4 at the hospital; Pink Fantasy dinner-dance, Dec. 1, at the Gastonville Hills Country Club; workshop hospital and community health needs, free lunch and annual awards ceremony, Jan. 22; and the annual meeting and luncheon, April 30.

Mrs. Gordon of West Hartford, a former resident of Manchester for several years, will talk on the occult, together with making individual predictions and answering questions.

She is the owner of "The Fortune Cookie," a boutique in Newport, R.I. Refreshments will be served after the program.

South Windsor DeGiacomo Opposes High School Wing

One more Board of Education member, Fred DeGiacomo, does not favor the proposed $1.9 million high school wing at the school site. He privately requested that the wing be dropped from the plan.

In a prepared statement, DeGiacomo said he feels the high school addition, as proposed, is inadequate if the academic structure of a four-year high school is to be kept intact.

He adds if additional money is to be spent on education he would prefer to see it used for teachers and teaching tools rather than a facility that is "inadequate for the next few years and superfluous after." The alternative does not have to be the Wapping Plan or double session, he said.

DeGiacomo said the proposal includes 23 additional academic classrooms, but in reality it only adds eleven new rooms. In the architect's presentation, a public hearing held by the Public Building Commission Oct. 19, it said 12 existing rooms would be used to enlarge the existing classrooms, art and home economics area which would all be replaced by the new wing, dropping the total number of additional new classrooms from 23 to 11.

"I cannot see how it is possible to drop the four new classrooms for students in rooms—much less give them the tools and instruction necessary for a good education."

He also mentioned that the elementary population will have dropped to 1,000 students. There will be over 800 seats available in the 1974-75 school year when the proposed addition should be completed.

Mrs. Rossi criticized the Board of Education member Mrs. Margaret Rossi has criticized the issuance of releases to newspapers and the public. She said she feels the board members are given the opportunity to review the contents, and has publicly asked the South Windsor board to begin working on a committee of the whole to prevent surprise reports.

She listed three recent releases she is interested in seeing and having for her files, one which was summarized by Board of Education Chairman James Arnold this week. It is the chairman's interpretation of the

Giulietti Firm Against Income Tax

John L. Giulietti, Republican candidate for representative from the 16th General Assembly District, said he has taken a strong stand against the imposition of a state income tax while charging that his Democratic opponent Thomas Dooley has "indicated that he is not against the creation of a state income tax altogether."

While calling Dooley an astute politician Giulietti said, "But I've seen no popular support of a state income tax." He added, "The voters have a real choice on election day, a state income tax or no state income tax."

"As I understand Mr. Dooley's position, he would favor an adjusted gross state income tax if the sales tax were substantially lowered and my position is directly opposite to this," Giulietti explained. He emphasized that a state income tax, in conjunction with a lowered sales tax, would cause increased administration expenses in collecting each dollar because two tax systems must be maintained.

The Republican candidate further indicated that he feels a state income tax would give legislators an additional tool to raise tax dollars for unwanted or unwanted state services. He added, "I was one of the concerned citizens who went to the Capitol, during the last legislative term, to voice opposition against this unpopular tax."

Expressing concern as to how an adjusted gross income tax, if passed, would be applied against the average working man's wages, Giulietti said, "This sort of tax would create two separate income taxing systems, one federal and the other state and therefore only the large corporations and wealthy individuals would be able to pay the battery of tax lawyers and accountants to decipher the two tax schemes."

Giulietti said the average wage earner would suffer as he would be left to his own resources in filing two types of income tax returns and would quite possibly miss legitimate state tax deductions.

Rittenband Confident He Can Unseat Cotter

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

Richard Rittenband is confident he will be elected First District congressman next Tuesday. He predicted Wednesday, "I'm going to win. It may be a very close election and by a very narrow margin — but I'll win."

The South Windsor Republican is waging a spirited campaign to unseat the incumbent Democrat — U.S. Rep. William Cotter of Hartford. Cotter, in 1970, defeated former Hartford Mayor Ann Uccello by only 1,165 votes. Rittenband said he feels he can wipe out the margin next Tuesday and he based his confidence on three factors.

EDUCATION: Trinity College, BA, 1948; Doctor of Law, University of Connecticut, School of Law, 1952, with honors; Boston University Graduate School of Taxation, LL.M., 1966.

EMPLOYMENT: Aetna Life Insurance Co. — 1948 to 1953. Allstate Insurance Co. — 1953 to 1964. Private Practice, 1964 to present.

AFFILIATIONS: Former Director, Town of Manchester (1958-Feb., 1960) Secretary and Director, Manchester State Bank. Financial Secretary, Temple Beth Shalom. FAMILY: Attorney Jacobs and his wife, Ruth, reside at 65 Highland Drive, Manchester, with their three children, Mark, 23, Linda, 19, David, 15.

His involvement was direct and specific. The alleged involvement by the Republicans, on the other hand, is very ambiguous and certainly not directly attributable to the President.

Rittenband then listed the three factors in his reason for predicting his election. "It is what appears to me to be the strong run by the President, and it is going to help me."

He acknowledged, "Certainly, he's bound to be some 'outcast' effect and naturally I welcome it. However, I think I've made an impression on my own that has convinced people I will be a hard-working, independent congressman — concerned about specific problems in this district."

He named as one of the specific problems the need for jobs east of the Connecticut River, especially at Pratt & Whitney in East Hartford.

"Very few people know," he said, "that I am the first candidate from either party to reside east of the river and to run for First District congressman. Many have wanted to run, but none received the nomination."

He said, "I find from people in the district — especially people in Manchester and South Windsor — an appreciation of my intention to be home each weekend and to be readily available to my constituents. I intend to maintain our South Windsor home and my wife and our two children will return with me each weekend."

Rittenband listed several reasons for his belief that he is better able than Cotter to solve the specific problem of jobs east of the river.

"I already have a promise from House Minority Leader Gerald Ford that I have an appointment to the Armed Services Committee waiting for me," he said. "In addition, I will be close to the Nixon administration. I support him, whereas Cotter has been a carping critic of the President. I feel I can be a more effective advocate for the people of the district."

He said that Cotter's record proves he hasn't been an effective advocate. Defense spending in this area dropped $168 million during Cotter's first year in office, when compared to the amount obtained by former Congressman Min Daddario in his last year in office, he insisted.

"I favor a strong national defense," Rittenband said, "and Cotter, by supporting McGovern, supports his defense cuts."

"What I mean, essentially, is that the President presents his defense budget to Congress — in McGovern's instance, a reduced defense budget — and that the Congress can't raise it. It can only

A poll of 388 students and faculty at Manchester Community College showed them almost equally divided between President Richard Nixon and Sen. George McGovern, with a slight preference for McGovern — 186 to 192.

The poll was conducted by Miss Cynthia Stein and the social science classes taught by Assistant Prof. Jay Stager.

Of the 388 who voted, 133 are Democrats, 54 are Republicans and 197 are unaffiliated. The remaining 34 are not registered voters.

Of the 133 registered Democrats, 42 voted for Nixon. Of the 54 registered Republicans, 9 voted for McGovern. The unaffiliated vote was almost evenly split.

EWY Secretary Elliott Richardson will campaign in Manchester Saturday morning for Richard Rittenband, GOP candidate for First District congressman.

The two will visit the residents of Mayfair Gardens, the homes of the elderly off N. Main and N. School Sts. They are expected there about 10 a.m.

William Bronell, Democratic candidate in the 12th Assembly District, has been endorsed by the Connecticut State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and by the Northern Area UAW.

Bronell said that one of the most glaring differences between himself and his Republican opponent, State Rep. Donald Genovesi, is "my total opposition to a state income tax."

He said, "My opponent voted for a state income tax during 1971 legislative session and has publicly endorsed such a tax on many occasions. I want the people of the 12th District to know I will vote against a state income tax when it comes before the next legislature."

State Rep. Muriel Yacovone, East Hartford Democrat running for re-election in the 9th Assembly District, has been endorsed by the Connecticut State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and by the Connecticut River Ecology Action Corporation.

Mrs. Yacovone, a member of the General Assembly's environment committee, is one of 12 legislators endorsed by the ecology group.

Arthur Shattuck, Republican running for state senator in the 3rd District, has criticized his Democratic opponent for a vote concerning the Connecticut Commission on Special Revenue.

He said that State Sen. Harry Burke voted against placing the commissioners and their staff under the provisions of the Connecticut Code of Ethics Law.

"Anywhere gambling is involved, there is always a possibility of improper influence," Shattuck insisted. "The requirements of the ethics bill would help uncover any wrongdoing. Sen. Burke's vote was wrong."

Manchester Mayor John Thompson has endorsed the reelection of U.S. Rep. William Cotter, the Democrat incumbent in the First Congressional District.

Local Questions Often Liveliest

By DON MEIKLE Associated Press Writer

Should you be able to buy a bottle of Scotch in Roxbury? Should Watertown's municipal employees have to retire at the age of 70?

Should the city of East Hartford buy a golf course? These and other questions of local import will be answered yes or no when Connecticut voters go to the polls next Tuesday.

They may not be as weighty as the question of who should be president of the United States for the next four years, but the local questions sometimes stir lively controversies in their communities.

The questions are put to the voters on the same ballots that bear the names of Nixon and McGovern. However, only a fraction of the people who vote for president usually take the trouble to exercise their right and privilege to decide local referendum issues.

Even state-wide referendums attract the attention of relatively few voters. On Nov. 3, 1970, when 1,121,090 Connecticut citizens voted in the state election, only 123,269 voted on the most controversial of the four state constitutional amendments on the ballot — the 18-year-old vote.

Some of the local questions on the ballot in 11 Connecticut towns and cities concern the spending of money and therefore may arouse more interest than abstract constitutional matters.

District Firemen Quell Fire in Grain Elevator

Manchester's Eighth District firemen surmounted difficulties in reaching a fire in a grain elevator Wednesday, and quickly doused about a ton of smoldering grain.

Firemen, called to the Central Connecticut Co-Op Farmers Association complex at 10 Apple Pt. at about 2 p.m., found that fire equipment would not reach 50 feet in the air to get into the grain elevator.

To reach the fire, the Eighth District men took an elevator in an adjoining building, crossed a catwalk, and let down a rope to haul up hose to the shaft.

When a ton of grain was damaged in the fire, which was apparently started by sparks from a nearby welder's torch. No damage estimate was available.

A second charge against Gustafson, conspiracy to violate the state narcotics act, was nolle prosequi (not prosecuted) by Prosecutor John Lombardo.

Gustafson was one of five youths nabbed after a Manchester Police search of the 47 Princeton St. home. Those cases have not yet been disposed of in court.

LWV Backs Bonds For School Wings

The Manchester League of Women Voters (LWV) has come out in support of the bond issue proposals for renovations and additions to Bennett and Illing Junior High Schools. They are combined as Question 2 on Tuesday's referendum.

"League support is based on a four-year study of the Manchester school system and a review of previous consensus on the school building program," the LWV said.

It gives these following reasons:

- The two junior high schools are inadequate in terms of space to house and educate the entire student body under a cohesive junior high program.
- Space now being used in the high school by illing ninth graders is needed particularly for programs to meet the needs of students who go directly into employment. The additional space would allow the non-college-bound student training in vocational programs to prepare for employment in areas such as mechanics, graphic arts, etc. In addition, it would allow for expansion of work study programs (COEP). To accommodate the increasing number of students who wish to participate.
- Space at the entire secondary school level is needed for programs for students with learning disabilities. The introduction of such programs for elementary school children is commendable; however, it does not help the students whose needs were

$5,684 Low Bid For Carpeting

Manchester-Belmont Rug Co. of 218 Hartford Rd. is the apparent low bidder, on an alternative bid, for approximately 550 square yards of carpet to be installed in the original Robertson School building, which is being converted to central administration offices.

The bid was $5,684.33.

Other bidders, with the square yardage the same as that specified unless indicated, were Sullivan and Son, West Haven, $8,000; Michael Floor Covering and Carpeting, Main St., Coventry, $6,183.20, for 578 square yards; Professional Floor Covering Co., Wetherfield, $6,340; Lewis Shop, Plainville, $6,577.44, for 579 square yards.

Also, Carpet Barn, Windsor, $6,896.80, for 592 square yards; Blue Furniture Store, 1115 Main St., $7,129; M. Frank Higgins and Co., Hartford, $9,474.30, for 594 square yards.

No plans to bid were received.

"Two years ago," says the LWV, "our support as well as that of the majority of Manchester voters was given to make renovations and additions to three elementary schools for much the same need."

The LWV also said: "The comprehensive plan offered by the Board of Education will provide the space and renovations needed to improve our secondary school system at less cost than the plan proposed last year."

"In the past, the need for additional and improved school facilities has won voter approval primarily on the basis of increased school population. Today, and in the future, the need for improved facilities must be evaluated on the basis of program. The League of Women Voters of Manchester does not view program expansion as frills, but rather as a necessity for adequate training and education of Manchester's youth to enable them to become productive and satisfied adults."

When jars and bottles pick up an unpleasant odor, fill the jar with water adding three tablespoons of dry mustard seed and allowing it to stand overnight. Wash and rinse the next day.

Tolland School Question: Build or Transfer

Arguments for and against the need for the construction of the second phase of the middle school will hinge on the over-crowded condition of the school and the lack of specialized facilities, such as science labs, home ec rooms, and the gym.

At present the middle school has no special purpose classrooms, no gym, no showers, no science labs or industrial arts or home economics rooms. The classroom used for home economics does not even have a sink, and gym classes are held in the cafeteria along with hand classes on the stage, resulting in over 250 children using the room at the same time. Lunch shifts are overcrowded and rushed, due to the need to use the all purpose room for gym classes.

Tonight's town meeting will be asked to appropriate $35,000 for preliminary drawings for the 47,000 square foot second phase construction, containing classrooms, gymnasium, home economics, science and industrial arts facilities.

It is the first of three town meetings at which approval will have to be given before the addition is finally approved for construction. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Hicks Memorial School gym.

Board of Education member Robert Dean quoted Connecticut Public Expenditure Council enrollment capacity statistics for the middle school of 814 students with actual enrollment of 864 students. The enrollment will increase by an additional 50 students in September and by 100 students in 1974.

Opponents to the addition, led by Folke Ericson, are expected to propose the eighth grade classes be moved to the high school where there is sufficient capacity to house the students for several years, according to the CPCEC report.

School administrators are quick to say that the eighth grade classes would overburden the special facilities at the high school, such as science labs, home ec rooms, and the gym.

At present the middle school has no special purpose classrooms, no gym, no showers, no science labs or industrial arts or home economics rooms. The classroom used for home economics does not even have a sink, and gym classes are held in the cafeteria along with hand classes on the stage, resulting in over 250 children using the room at the same time. Lunch shifts are overcrowded and rushed, due to the need to use the all purpose room for gym classes.

Moving the eighth grade classes to the high school would require the hiring of eight additional teachers, according to Dean. Those advocating the moving of the eighth grade to the high school look to the tax dollar savings involved in delaying the construction of the estimated $1.9 million addition to the middle school.

Dean cites a 105 per cent increase in construction costs since the high school was built seven years ago, and notes that the present state aid school construction formula of 50 per cent will immediately reduce the cost of the support of 34 of those contacted; two for President Richard Nixon and 14 still undecided on how they will cast their ballots in Tuesday's election. Most of the undecided voters were independent voters.

The Tollanders Square Dance Club will hold a club level dance Friday night at 8 at the Hicks Memorial School.

Modern Juries Fall Short Of Cambyzes Zodiacal Standards

By JUNE LINTON (Herald Reporter)

Cambyzes II, who was the King of Persia 2,500 years ago, positively would not have tolerated the two criminal juries which have been chosen this term in Tolland County Superior Court.

In all probability, no jury chosen any term would satisfy his requirements, even if they were all-male. His were really the days before women's rights.

One day last month Judge Anthony J. Armentano casually mentioned, in the process of inducting a jury panel as to its duties, that to satisfy that ancient Persian king's requirements, "it was necessary for all twelve good men, and true, serving on jury duty, each to have been born under one of the 12 signs of the zodiac, thereby according each member a different planetary influence, enabling them to render a just verdict."

On checking the birthdays of the two juries, just to see how these juries stacked up in this regard, it was found that in both, there were six jurors born under four of the signs.

In the first jury, which brought a verdict of guilty for an attempted escape, the influences of Leo and the close trio of Capricorn, Aquarius and Pisces were missing.

Neither jury had any conservative Capricorn, "tough as a keg of nails," and "respecting authority and honoring tradition," according to Linda Goodman's "Sun Signs," the source of these and the following characterizations. On the subject of Capricorn, the defense may have exercised a challenge to excuse him, had he declared himself.

Neither did either jury have his opposite, Aquarius, according to Miss Goodman, "a natural rebel who instinctively feels all old customs are wrong," and that "revolutionary change is what the world and people need... who won't budge an inch when he has a firm conviction... and tradition and authority leave him unimpressed." If an Aquarius did

Actually Judge Armentano, who started all of this in the first place with his interest in history, felt both juries surprisingly representative astrologically, considering the vagaries of chance and of challenges.

Campaign Leaders Assess Strategies

HARTFORD (AP) - With less than a week of campaigning to go, the leaders of the state McGovern and Nixon campaigns are already wondering how they would, if they could, do it all over again.

"I wish I could have spent more time in the field myself, going out and talking with the people of Connecticut on a person-to-person basis," says Don Tucker, state coordinator of the McGovern campaign.

"I concentrated too much of my time in the office," he says. Earlier in the campaign Tucker said he considered his role principally a "staff" or "clerical" one.

Charles Coe, state coordinator of the Nixon campaign, says if he could start all over he would have more than the six field men who provided his contact with local Nixon organizations.

"One field man had 41 towns to deal with," he says. "Forty-one is just too many towns." Both men say they are launching final get-out-the-vote campaigns and battling apathy.

"The most serious problem we have had all along is voter apathy, and I think that was caused by our lead in the polls," Coe says. "What we're in the process of doing now is working on our get out the vote mechanism."

There have been "trial balloons" in Washington indicating that pay hikes will be held to less than 3 per cent per year if Nixon is reelected, Glover said.

Glover told newsmen in an interview Tuesday at a UAW hall that Nixon's efforts to slow inflation are "a deliberate plan to create unemployment."

Four more years of Nixon policies would be disastrous, said DuChesni, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers and Eugene Glover, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists.

Tucker plans to have workers pass out sample ballots at every polling place and urge McGovern supporters to cast their votes.

Leaves Money To Uncle Sam

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) - The U.S. Government is now $85,000 richer, thanks to the terms of a will of a retired St. Louis truck driver who died last January.

William Metz, 61, turned that his life savings be turned over to the government. He was a bachelor who lived alone for many years.

While working at the Beck and Corbit Trucking Co., Metz bought many $100 savings bonds. Most of the money in his estate was turned over to federal officials in Washington Monday by Frank E. Fitzsimmons, international president of the Teamsters Union.

BARBS Airplane Takeoffs, Landings, Limited

BERN, Switzerland (AP) - A ban on late night takeoffs and landings at the Geneva, Zurich and Basel airports went into effect today as the neighbors can sleep better.

Scheduled airline flights are prohibited between 12:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. and charter flights from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m.

A government spokesman said the ban was imposed because the interests of persons living near the airports can no longer be ignored. The airlines claim air traffic now will be denser and louder during the remaining operating hours, and residents associations asked for a ban of at least eight hours.

High School Notes

Joe Erardi, outstanding soccer player for Manchester High this season, is reported heading for Southern Connecticut State College next fall. Erardi, injured early in the season, has come on strong lately to bolster the Tribe's game.

Brad Steurer, former Manchester High goal-tender, now performing for Keene State College in New Hampshire, just missed setting a national record. He recorded seven consecutive shutouts, but missed on his eighth game. Steurer, over a two-year period, has 16 shutouts. Tom "Chip" Conran, also a player for Keene, has missed the last two games due to a leg injury.

Jim Moriarty-Bob Allbro and Bill DiYeso have been touting the sideline markers for all Manchester High home football games.

Lending vocal support to the Indian football games as well as soccer matches have been Linda Pisch, Cheryl Brunoli, Patty Conran, Doreen Gagnon, Mary Flinnegan, Cathy Marshall, Bonnie Chase, Robin Douglas, Robin Hall and Diane Peritone. All are varsity cheerleaders for MHS this season.

The MHS Athletic Boosters Club, growing by leaps and bounds, produced its first football game program last Saturday and followed up with a well-informed program for the Wethersfield soccer game Tuesday.

CIAC Soccer Pairings

Looking into the crystal ball for possible CIAC Soccer tournament berths in the Class I Division finds Pioneer High of Westport being ranked No. 1 with a 13-0-1 season mark. Conard High tied with Danbury for second with 11-1-1 records. Manchester should be fourth at 11-2-1.

Ellington High should be a strong favorite to repeat as Class S soccer champs with a current 14-0 mark. Chris Harned, brother of Court Harned, has a season output of 25 goals.

Cross country runners to watch for in the upcoming State Open are East Hampton's Bruce Clarke, Farmington's Bruce Fiori and Maloney High's Gary Desjardins. A darkhorse threat is Kevin Deschamplain of St. Jovite.

Ski Touring

Ski Touring, probably the hottest thing to hit the snow-sports snowmobiling, has caught on like wild fire. This season in New England, New York and Pennsylvania, 160 workshops will open to give instructions in assistance in ski touring.

The workshops will teach the essentials of technique, equipment, clothing, waxing, safety measures, demonstrations and an easy tour for beginners. All can be obtained for a very small fee from the workshops.

First Entry for Race

New York State modified stock car champion, Richie Evans, in the burnt orange No. 6 Pinto, is the first official entry for the Spring Sprint, Sunday afternoon, April 15, at the Stafford Springs Motor Speedway. Last season a record crowd of 11,000 turned out for the first major race in the Northeast.

The trio of Dick Berggren, Lew Boyd and Bruce Cohen will not handle the show, instead Stafford brought the show rights from them.

Bobby Allison, NASCAR's leading money winner with $255,060, has a chance to win the Winston Cup driving championship with a good finish at Texas in December. Three-time defending NASCAR king, Richard Petty, holds a slim 12.9 point lead over Allison.

To date, Allison has won 10 grand national events in the Junior Johnson-prepared Chevy.

Early Returns Indicate Another Big Race Field

By Earl Yost

Early returns indicate that another gigantic field will answer the starter's gun Thanksgiving morning — three weeks from today — for the 38th edition of the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester. The popular holiday classic, sponsored by Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, starts at 10:30.

Listed among the first 70 entry blanks were the familiar signatures of Charlie Robbins, Charley Dyson, Jim Keefe, Dave Dunsky, Dennis McCormack, Paul Phinney and Terry Gallagher.

The race is open to male runners and sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union. Only registered runners may compete.

Will Hadden, general chairman for the Tall Cedars, expects a field of at least 400 for the 1972 edition.

Despite blizzard conditions last year the morning of the race, a field of more than 300 started and 188 finished with Andy Barfoot being clocked in the winning time of 24:45. No accurate count of starters was kept as many jumped into the run after registrations closed and also shortly after the gun sounded.

The biggest starting and finishing field was two years ago when 418 started out with 383 finishing. The race was won by Gallagher who third last year in eight inches of snow in near freezing temperatures while the biggest winner was an East Catholic High grad, now attending Holy Cross, was fourth behind Barfoot and John Wake. Dunsky placed 10th a year ago.

Robbins, Phinney and Dyson are the elder statesmen among men who have competed. For Robbins, a practicing M.D., this year's race will be his 37th and 21st in a row. He is coming up over - to place in 71. He is a former two-time winner. Dyson, 38, broke the tape first once while a cyclist wearing the colors of UConn. Phinney, 50, is a retired Manchester High cross country and track coach.

Two Last Place Entries Defeat Division Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The World Hockey Association, with its 12 brand new teams, offers one commodity big league hockey has sought for a long time. Instant parity.

In a league where every team is starting out fresh, there is little chance for one club to dominate another. The best example came Wednesday night when the WHA's two last place clubs beat the two division leaders.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints, last in the West, whipped division-leading Winnipeg 5-0 and Philadelphia, on the bottom of the East, knocked off frontrunner Cleveland 7-5. In the only other WHA game played Wednesday, New England tripped Chicago 4-2.

Philadelphia, with only one victory in its first nine games, got four goals from Danny Lawson and some spectacular goalkeeping from Marcel Paille to beat Cleveland.

Lawson kicked out 42 shots and Paille scored three of the Blazers' first four goals. Derek Sanderson also connected for Philadelphia.

Rude Greeting in Toronto Accorded Buffalo Sabres

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Montreal Canadiens were on the road but had themselves at home in Pittsburgh. The Buffalo Sabres, however, found a rude greeting for them in Toronto.

The Canadiens remained the lone unbeaten team in the National Hockey League Wednesday night, whipping the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-1. It was the worst beating the Penguins have ever had at home. Toronto led the Sabres' 19-game unbeaten streak.

Jacques Lemaire and Marc Tardif each scored twice for Montreal. The Canadiens' goalkeeping was aided by goalie Gerry Mavorich and Ivan Coyne who had one goal each for the Canadiens. The Penguins' single goal came from Lowell McDonald on a second-period power play.

Investigation of NCAA Requested by AAU Prexy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jack Kelly Jr., president of the Amateur Athletic Union, has called for a congressional investigation into the activities and function of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Kelly, a former Olympic oarsman, said Wednesday he will ask that a special commission be formed to determine the legitimate scope of the NCAA's activities, including methods of enforcement employed by the NCAA's executive offices under Executive Director Walter Byers.

In a prepared statement, triggered by the announcement last week that the NCAA intends to withdraw from the Olympic movement, Kelly said, "There is intrinsic evil in Mr. Byers and his lieutenants. It is the blatant intimidation and harassment of these athletes and their schools that strikes at the very core of their personal freedoms."

Coaches' Corner

By Dave Wiggin—Manchester High
Saturday's win over Penney High of East Hartford was probably as important as any win we have had this year. It was a "must" game for us and if we had lost, I shudder at what it would have done to our players. We started the Penney game with seven new people, either because of injuries or poor performances of previous games. Although we didn't set the world on fire, our performance was better than it has been in the last two games, and the regulars of the past, are now going to have to earn their positions before they get them back.

I though we controlled the game both offensively and defensively and really felt it would only be a matter of time before we started to click. Except for a false play, Penney would not have scored and probably not even have threatened. When they did score and then went ahead, it could have been time for us to fold our tents and call it a day. Fortunately this was not the case, and with our beautiful strike from Rick Milka's arm, we were back on top to stay.

Offensively, Bob Walsh, John Murphy and Jim Colla were outstanding in the line. Ron Roy gave us his best day when we needed him and his running helped Penney from keying on Steve Santolucito. I was pleased with Steve's running this week and after an off day against Bristol, it must have made him feel good to be able to bounce back and play such an important part in our win.

The 76ers dropped deeper in the Atlantic, 9 1/2 games off the pace. In the only other NBA game played Wednesday night, the Detroit Pistons trimmed the Seattle SuperSonics 116-106.

Cartlon Unanimous For Young Award

NEW YORK (AP) — To the surprise of absolutely no one, Philadelphia's Steve Carlton won the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the National League.

Cartlon was the unanimous choice of the 24-man committee of baseball writers — two from each NL city — for the honor after turning in a remarkable 27-10 record for the last-place Phillies.

The team left-hander, who accounted for 46 per cent of Philadelphia's 39 victories last season, is only the sixth unanimous selection in the 16-year history of the balloting and the first Phillie ever to win the award. He also is the first man to win the award while pitching for a last-place team.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, expected to be extra active in baseball's winter trade market, have made their first move, a four-player swap with the Atlanta Braves.

Kuhn Puts $2,500 'Touch' on Finley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The only words that I can use to describe Saturday's 18-13 defeat to Wilbur Cross High School was that it was a crushing defeat. Never before in my seven years of coaching have we lost such a heart-breaker. Our players totally outplayed Wilbur Cross all afternoon. We had the ball game won (13-12) with but eight seconds left to play and we were downed on our next game Cross an opportunity to knock a punt for the winning touchdown. If I had called a sweep to the outside, we probably would have run out the clock to preserve the win.

When we boarded the bus after the game, they were just stone silent. Their isn't much you can say to a gully bunch of young men with tears rolling down their cheeks. In their hearts they knew that they had outlived, outstayed, and outplayed the team they just lost to.

Defensively, our players turned in an outstanding performance. We only made one mistake and that occurred in the second quarter when we gave up a 36-yard touchdown pass. It's impossible to single out any individuals because everyone who played made a valuable contribution.

Phils Surprise Naming Ozark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Danny Ozark, the surprise sweepstakes winner in the Philadelphia Phillies managerial derby, says there's nothing wrong with the perennial last-place baseball team that proper attitude and fundamentals can't cure.

The 48-year-old Ozark, handed a two-year contract to manage the Phillies, said the team was lax in fundamentals and had a losing attitude. He told his first news conference here Wednesday night that the 1972 Phillies threw too many times to the wrong base, made many wrong plays and stood at the plate taking too many third strikes.

Before Ozark described the Phillies as a team loaded with young talent that needs proper instruction to become a National League pennant contender, General Manager Paul Owens told how the veteran Los Angeles Dodgers' minor league manager and coach got the job.

Midweek Practice No Picnic for Miami Dolphins Fernandez Well On Game Dates

New York - Midweek practice is no particular picnic for the Miami Dolphins under the twin prods of Don Shula's demands and a Florida sun that can give you a quick tan even in November. Figuring that practice is bad news and skipping practice is good news, DT Manny Fernandez will wind up the year with almost one-seventh more good news than most of his fellow Dolphins. He has managed largely to be unavailable for practice prior to playing in the past two Dolphin victories by the simple expedient of being in the hospital with respiratory ailments allegedly diagnosed as a touch of pneumonia and a deep chest cold.

Miami free agent so treated from a point west of the Mississippi. Of perhaps more importance was that he was signed not so much for his defensive lineman ability as for the fact that he had a good Spanish name. Metro Miami was burgeoning in 1968 with play with Spanish antecedents and inclinations. It might not help but it certainly wouldn't hurt. So Fernandez was signed and it was not until a year later that they found out he couldn't speak a word of Spanish, that they hadn't been mono-lingual. He could play defensive tackle better than most, and the proof was that he was voted the club's top man in this department four straight years. The first couple of years it wasn't too much but in the two years the club drove to a playoff and under a Super Bowl under Shula it was a singular honor.

Fernandez plays defense in singular fashion. Deputizing him to take a particular "number" is a waste of time and breath because he can't see numbers. Everything is a pleasing blur without his glasses (20/200), and he can't wear contacts. He sort of feels around for the foe. Once he latches on everything suddenly becomes equal or a little less equal.

Miami had a good draft the year Manny came. Big Larry Conka was the top pick and there were others like Doug Crusan, the tackle; safety Dick Anderson; Conka's roommate and running-mate, Jim Kluck. Further on down the club went for a couple of defensive linemen picks, men who didn't make it.

The man who did, Fernandez, didn't look particularly impressive when he was signed up at the Dolphins' training site that season. Today, in Miami's press book there's a special mention of his quickness, mobility, strength and team leadership in getting to the passer.

Larry Brown Special When Carrying Ball

New York - This is about Larry Brown. Next week, or the following one, this extraordinary running back of the Washington Redskins will rush for his 1,000th yard this season. Shortly thereafter, maybe a couple of plays, maybe the next game, Brown will run for yard 4,000 in his fourth NFL season. Only two players have achieved this plateau in their first four NFL or AFL campaigns, Jim Brown, with 5,055 yards, and Cookie Gilchrist, 4,010.

Last Sunday, in Washington's 23-16 victory over the New York Giants, Brown rushed for a club record 191 yards; his fifth trip over 100 this year and the 17th in his 47-game career. This pushed his NFL-leading rushing total to 841 yards. Additionally, Brown has gained 289 yards on 24 pass receptions and is the league's only grand achiever, with 1,130 yards. What makes this 5-11, 200-pound young man, who found football at Schenley High School an escape from the pressures of Pittsburgh's tough Hill District, the NFL's premier runner after an unheralded entry into the pros

Plackicker Missed One Game for Good Reason Crowned Homecoming Queen

Turning out for full practice, she found she was "leg weary." But her male teammates gallantly offered to give her some booting pointers and she soon developed a soccer style punch. Zumberis says Theresa asks no favors and receives none - except she doesn't scrimmage and she dresses with the cheerleaders. "And the no scrimmage rule is mine, not hers," he adds. "But there are still four games this season and Theresa hopes to atone for last Saturday, when the Mariners lost 14-12 to Melbourne. To prove it, she'll be on the bench for five games, Theresa was sent in to try for the extra point. She missed twice. "I just hardly ever miss, but I did," she said ruefully at Tuesday's practice.
