

Nixon Scores Personal Victory

GOP Gets Solid Control Of State Assembly

HARTFORD (AP) — It will be a new ball game in the General Assembly next year, with Republican majorities playing ball with Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

Aided somewhat by reapportionment but more by the coattails of President Nixon, the GOP captured solid control of both the Senate and House in Tuesday's election.

In the Senate, there will be 23 Republicans and 13 Democrats; in the new 151-member House, there will be 92 Republicans, 58 Democrats, and one representative of a minor party.

Democratic leaders such as Senate President Pro Tem Charles T. Alfano, Senate Majority Leader J. Edward Caldwell, House Speaker William Ratchford, House Majority Leader Carl Ajello, and Deputy Speaker James J. Kennelly will be relegated to minority roles.

Republican leaders such as House Minority Leader Francis J. Collins and his deputy, Gerald F. Stevens, are in line for bigger things, and Senate leadership roles may be awarded to the likes of Sen. Florence Finney, Sen. Lewis Rome, and Senator-Elect Nicholas A. Longo.

Gov. T. Clark Hull, who has a tie-breaking vote in the Senate will no longer have to hang around to see if his vote is needed, as he has had to do with the Democrats in tenuous 19-17 control of the upper chamber.

But most of all, Governor Meskill should be able to count on a "honeymoon" with the General Assembly as he begins the second half of his four-year term. That would be a far cry from the veto-ridden record of his first two years in office.

The Republican governor will be looking toward the next gubernatorial election in 1974, and a sympathetic and cooperative legislature will give him the madd

A number of Democratic legislators managed to win re-election Tuesday despite the preference of their districts for Nixon. For instance, Alfano, Caldwell, and Sens. Louis S. Cuttito and William Sullivan of Waterbury, William Strada of Stamford, Joseph Dintelli of Bristol, and James "Jerry" Murphy of Franklin were all re-elected.

Other victorious Democrats such as Sens. Wilber Smith and Joseph Paulino of Hartford, Joseph Lieberman and Anthony Carlone of New Haven, and Harry Burke of East Hartford were from cities which voted for George McGovern, as was Senator-Elect John V. Zisk Jr. of New Britain.

Democratic representatives from Norwich, Waterbury, Bristol, Vernon, Winchester, and other towns which voted for Nixon also managed to swim upstream to victory.

But Meriden, Wallingford, New London, Stamford and other pro-Nixon towns dumped their incumbent Democratic legislators — among them, Deputy House Majority Leader John F. Papandrea of Meriden and Judiciary Committee co-chairman John A. Carozzella of Wallingford.

While Hartford kept a solid Democratic lineup of two senators and eight representatives, Bridgeport kept its two Senate seats and eight House seats evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats.

Of the 38 members of the new Senate, nine will be freshman lawmakers, six are making the transition from the House to the Senate, and 21 are re-elected incumbents.

Of the 151 members of the new House, 93 are re-elected incumbents. Twenty-three of the incumbents who sought re-election were defeated, and all were Democrats except Joseph Marinone of Windsor Locks.

Comebacks Highlight Manchester Balloting

By SOL COHEN (Herald Reporter)

There were many election stories in Manchester yesterday: President Nixon's impressive comeback after losing here to Democrat Hubert Humphrey by 1,227 in 1968; First District Congressman William Cotter's equally impressive comeback after losing to Republican Ann Uccello here by 2,018 in 1970; the ticket-splitting and the stamming of a potential Republican sweep by the Democrats, the election of the Republican and one Democratic state senator, and two Republican and two Democratic state representatives by Manchester districts; and the narrow defeat of the school-addition proposal.

However, the biggest election story of all for Manchester has to be the automatic recount ordered in the race for probate judge. The latest tally for judge of probate shows Democratic William Fitzgerald with a razor-thin 92-vote lead over Republican Ronald Jacobs 11,923 for Fitzgerald and 11,831 for Jacobs. Independent candidate Gerald Bartlett wound up with 277 votes.

Because Fitzgerald's margin is less than one-half of one per cent of all votes cast for the office, an automatic recount will be held, as required by state statutes.

Jacobs, who had the option of waiving his rights to a recount, said today, "In fairness to all the people who voted for me and because state statutes provide for an automatic recount, we will let the recount go forward. I will not initiate it. I already have congratulated Bill Fitzgerald on his victory. Now, I will let fate take its course."

Town Clerk Edward Tomkiet and chief election moderator John Stua said the recount will take place as soon they complete plans for it.

Up until about 11:30 last night, Fitzgerald had a comfortable lead of 185 votes. Then the absentee ballots were counted in Voting District 4, the Martin School. Fitzgerald's margin dropped to 92.

Yesterday's turnout was about 67 per cent of eligible voters — with 24,703 voting and about 22,300 eligible. The turnout was 92 per cent in the 1968 presidential election. It averaged about 90 per cent in previous national elections. Most of the dropoff yesterday was attributed to the confusion under reapportionment, with voters uncertain which of the 10 voting districts were theirs and others not sure of the location, even though they knew the district number. At Voting District 9, the Keeney St.

School, three potential voters gave up, after trying to find the school on Keeney St. They complained later they should have been told it was off Hackmatack St.

President Nixon was the high voter-getter in Manchester and took all 10 voting districts. He received 14,044 votes — 3,631 more than the 10,413 received by Sen. George McGovern, U.S. Rep. John Schmitz of California, the George Wallace Party candidate, received a total of 800 — an average of 80 a district.

Republican State Sen. David Osgard of Manchester was re-elected in the 4th Senatorial District, which is comprised of about 40 per cent of Manchester plus all of Glastonbury, South Windsor, Bolton, East Windsor, Coventry, Hebron and Andover; and State Sen. Harry Burke of East Hartford was re-elected in the 3rd Senatorial District, which is comprised of about 60 per cent of Manchester plus the entire town of East Hartford.

Re-elected in the 13th Assembly District was Republican State Rep. Donald Genovesi, and re-elected in the 12th Assembly District was Democrat State Rep. Francis Mahoney. Both districts are entirely within Manchester town boundaries.

South Windsor Rejects School Bond Issue

By BARBARA VARRICK (Herald Correspondent)

By a vote of two-to-one, voters in South Windsor defeated the controversial $1.9 million bond proposal asked for by the Board of Education to build an addition to the present high school facility to solve an overcrowding problem there.

Also, by a three-to-one vote, the townspeople supported a $2.5 million additional sewer-line installation project to correct septic problems in three residential areas of the town.

Approximately 7,450 ballots were cast in yesterday's presidential election and the addition proposal received support of 2,214 voters and 4,246 opposed it. Some 900 voters did not indicate a choice and the question went down by 2,191 votes.

The addition became a bitter issue in the remaining months before the election. The board met with opposition to the addition when a group calling themselves the Concerned Citizens for Responsive and Responsible Government (CCRGG) and a later formed Citizens Against the High School Addition (CASHA) group publicly opposed the board's choice at meetings of the board and its own gatherings, through letters to newspaper editors and through press releases, as well as door-to-door campaigning. A petition for implementation of a Wapping-High School Complex plan, the utilization of a nearby elementary school containing 23 rooms as a high school annex, was signed by 1,800 registered voters calling for a referendum on the use of the school.

The board held fast to its contention that there was a severe space shortage for high school students in the town, and, rather than close an elementary neighborhood school to the younger children, the problem would best be resolved at the high school level with an addition. However, the choice of the board was not unanimous and some board members opposed to the plan, struck out against the building addition with statements concerning projected enrollment.

The crux of the argument for utilization of the elementary school by the CCRGG and also for probable other plans by the CASHA was that projected enrollment figures based on the facilities study report done two

Nixon Win Sparks Stock Market Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices surged ahead in the stock market today in heavy postelection trading, with President Nixon's landslide victory touching off a new rally that followed four days of sharp gains last week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, most widely watched indicator in Wall Street, was up 7.90 to 493.70 after the first 30 minutes of trading, and advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange were ahead of declining issues almost 4 to 1.

The Dow average rose past the 1968 high of 493.21 and was at the best level since February of 1968. The all-time high at the close of a trading day was 595.15 on Feb. 9, 1968.

Securities analysts were generally agreed that the market would get a lift from the President's re-election, but their opinions varied on how long the rally might last.

Larry Wachtel, vice president of Bache & Co., said "I see an upward bias for the next three months," but Robert Johnson of Paine, Webber Jackson & Curtis said the upsurge "might be relatively short."

Johnson added that "I think the principal contribution is that one uncertainty in the market has now been resolved. The market doesn't like uncertainty."

Landslide Rivals FDR's 1936 Smash

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF AP Political Writer

President Nixon has won landslide re-election by carrying 49 of the 50 states, but despite his triumph the Democrats kept firmly in control of Congress.

Only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia withstood the Nixon tide Tuesday and wound up in Democrat George McGovern's almost invisible column.

Nixon's 531-17 electoral vote majority over McGovern rivaled Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1936 victory of 523 to 8 over Alf Landon. The Republican President, scoring his greatest personal triumph, won about 61 per cent of the popular vote, matching Lyndon B. Johnson's 61.1 per cent eight years ago.

But the Democrats picked up a net of two seats in the Senate to widen their control there to 57 to 43, gained a net of one governorship when Daniel Walker edged GOP incumbent Richard Ogilvie, and lost about a dozen seats in the House.

"This is a personal triumph for Mr. Nixon — and not a party triumph," said Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole.

With 86 per cent of the nation's precincts counted, the popular vote stood: Nixon 41,837,396, or 61 per cent. McGovern 25,806,308, or 38 per cent.

Though totals were incomplete, the vote appeared to have fallen well short of the 80 million to 85 million predicted for the first presidential election open to 18-year-olds. A projection by the National Broadcasting Co. put it at barely one million more than the 73 million who voted in 1968.

As mounting returns proclaimed his lead won overwhelming support both contenders had turned "the contest of the century," Nixon told the nation by television from his White House office that now "it is time to get on with the great tasks that lie before us."

Then, he drove with Mrs. Nixon to a downtown Washington hotel. Joined by victorious Republican running-mate Spiro T. Agnew, he appeared before a crowd chanting the Republican campaign slogan of "four more years" to express "thanks for making our last campaign the very best one of all."

McGovern, who maintained to the last that Tuesday's results would prove wrong the pollsters who predicted he faced massive rejection, wired Nixon his support for efforts to "lead us to a time of peace abroad and justice at home."

But the South Dakota senator told his supporters in Sioux Falls, from where his 22-month quest for the presidency began, that "we do not rally to policies we deplore," adding "so let us play the role of the loyal opposition."

That opposition is likely to center in the Senate where the Democratic majority that survived Nixon's sweep with increased ranks stands ready to challenge many of the President's programs as it has over the four years of his first term.

Though Nixon's victory was never in doubt from the first trickle of votes early Tuesday

'Streeter' Leads Millions Abroad Viewed Coverage Of Vote Results

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—It's hard to believe, but last night's television coverage of the presidential election was seen live and mostly in color by millions of viewers in 16 foreign countries.
Satellites made it possible, The foreign report was broadcast from four studios at NBC, which ran this year's international election night television pool.
Network correspondents ranging in nationality from Denmark to Danish stood before the camera, trying to explain in their own language our turbulent way of electing a president and the Congress.
It was a far, sophisticated cry from 1948, when a U.S. presidential election was televised by the networks for the first time.
Today's international coverage wasn't even national then. The technology hadn't advanced to the point where a television signal could be relayed from the Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., the election night headquarters of President Harry S. Truman.
Perhaps it's just as well. The only scene television would have shown was one of tired, bedraggled reporters lounging around, talking to each other and waiting for the next news item.
"We didn't know where he was that night," said Frank Bourgholzer, NBC radio's man at the Muehlebach in 1948 and now a television correspondent for NBC News in Los Angeles.
Truman, as Bourgholzer and the others learned the next morning, had spent the night at the Plaza Hotel in Ecclestone Springs, 30 miles northeast of Kansas City.
The watch at the Muehlebach wasn't particularly productive. Radio had no projections, no computers to speed the vote count in an election all the polls said Truman was certain to lose.

DO something

This is the third year the Manchester Jaycees have run the "Do something" program. Inspired by President Nixon's Volunteer Action Program, it is a campaign to encourage local residents to help other people. This can be done by interested persons donating their time and efforts to any one of several local organizations. Volunteers are needed that can donate their time on a scheduled weekly or monthly basis. Some of the volunteer needs to be fulfilled are: Drivers for the Manchester Branch of the AMERICAN RED CROSS. Volunteers are needed to drive the Red Cross station wagon on scheduled day trips or "on call" delivery or pickup of medical supplies or equipment. Volunteers must be between 18 and 72 years of age and can specify their own number of hours to drive. The Red Cross also needs clerks, hospital volunteers, first aid instructors and staff aides.

DO something

Adults to assist the COMMUNITY CHILD GUIDANCE CLINIC with transportation to and from the clinic and teen-agers and adults to sit for pre-school children while their mothers attend group meetings. There is also a need for office help.
Adults to drive individuals to and from the CHILD AND FAMILY SERVICES agency. Adults and teen-agers to assist with tutoring of children. In general, the job qualifications are varied. Some demand the trained skills of the therapist, the knowledge of a nurse, or the training of a teacher. All demand a desire to help.
If you would like to find out more about the volunteer needs, please complete the form below and mail to "Do something," c/o Manchester Jaycees, P.O. Box 88, Manchester, 06040.

Health Insurance Firm Target Of Federal Suit

KANSAS CITY (AP)— The U.S. Attorney's office announced here that it is filing suit against Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Kansas City for violation of Phase II price control regulations.
The companies are alleged to have increased premium rates on group health insurance. The government is challenging the method by which these increases are determined.
Assistant U.S. Atty. Vernon A. Foschel said the issue is that the insurance company is using projected figures based on previous years, rather than actual figures in determining a rate base.
The government also contends the insurance company's expenses are based on projected figures rather than actual figures.
George A. Beck, president of Kansas City Blue Cross, declined comment except to say he had not been notified of the filing. He said he thought it inappropriate that the government had released information about the complaint "before it has been served on the so-called violators."
Foschel said there are some 600 Blue Cross-Blue Shield group plans, and the court action is based on only eight representative ones. He declined to specify in detail the formula as required by Phase II regulations.

Bridgeport Man Arrested

BOSTON (AP)— The FBI said it arrested Lawrence Townsend, 34, of Bridgeport, Conn. Tuesday on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.
The FBI said Townsend was arrested in the Roxbury section and has also been charged by the Bridgeport police with shooting at two police officers June 28, 1971.
He was also believed connected with the gunshot wounding of two other Bridgeport police officers on March 19, 1972, a spokesman for the FBI said.
Townsend was expected to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate here Tuesday night, the FBI said.

THE STORK REIGNS IN FRISBEE LAND

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)— In the annual championship frisbee, mark, down this name: "The Stork."
Dan "Stork" Roddick holds the national long distance frisbee throwing record and he led Rutgers to a 28-27 victory over Princeton on Monday in the first intercollegiate Ultimate Frisbee game.
"Long live the Stork!" cried one ecstatic Rutgers fan.
"Have you ever seen anything like it? He's beautiful!"
Frisbee is the game played with a plastic disc, nine inches in diameter, which floats through the air like a flying saucer about to land or a discus thrown at 90 miles per hour.
Ultimate Frisbee is a relative of football. One team "throws off" to the other, which tries to pass the disc down the field until the frisbee sails over the goal line into an offensive player's hands. If the frisbee touches the ground the defensive team gains possession and moves it in the opposite direction. The playing field is 60 by 40 yards and the game lasts 48 minutes.
Players are not allowed to run with the frisbee, only pass it, and a touchdown is scored much the way a touchdown is scored in football. One important rule: No tackling of downers.
When the two teams began playing it appeared that the bruised Princetonians would rout their lighter opponents, as the Tigers jumped off to a 3-0 lead.
But then "The Stork" struck. His long bomb downfield for a touchdown was followed minutes later by a tally in which "The Stork" leaped high to snare the wobbling platter below a crowd of tiger jerseys could bring it down.
Roddick, at 6-foot-3 the tallest man on the field, quickly became the favorite of the crowd of about 1,000 that gathered to cheer for the home team.
"The Stork" so labeled because he towers over his opponents, is a 24-year-old bearded graduate student at Rutgers, who has been playing frisbee since 1964.
"It's in my blood," he says, flexing his fingers during a practice session. "I'm a frisbee freak."
At the Seattle World's Fairgrounds, Roddick gave a frisbee tossing exhibition. It was then, he said, that he set the world's record for the frisbee throw: 210 feet, 9 1/2 inches.
When he's not tossing the frisbee he's studying for his master's degree in sociology and working on his thesis.
And in the annals of championship frisbee, mark down another name: Peggy Delahanty. Miss Delahanty was the first woman to play in an intercollegiate frisbee match. She played for about two minutes for Rutgers Monday, drawing the oohs and aahs of the crowd. But it took but one bad pass by Miss Delahanty for the fickle spectators to mount their favorite cheer: "We want the Stork!"

Heads Realtors

Louis Dimock of Notch Rd., Bolton, today was named president of the Manchester Board of Realtors Inc. and the Multiple Listing Service of Manchester Inc.

He was elected at the annual meeting of both corporations at the Manchester Country Club. He will take office Jan. 1, 1973.

Others elected today, to serve both corporations, are: Herman M. Froehle, first vice president; Richard E. Merritt, second vice president; Lillian G. Grant, secretary; Frederick M. Gault, treasurer; and Robert D. Murdock, directors.

Dimock, who will succeed Carlton W. Hitchins as president, had served as first and second vice president of both corporations, and was chairman of the board's 1971 legislative committee.

He was a member of the 1971 legislative committee of the Connecticut Association of Real Estate Boards, and he is a member of the Multiple Listing Service Special 16-Point Committee, affiliated with the national association.

Dimock is chairman of the board of deacons of the Bolton Congregational Church, and he is an adult adviser to IOH (Instructors of the Handicapped).

Over 400 scout-oriented people attended the dinner and scouts from Manchester presenting the colors were: Michael Joy, Post #12, both of 142 Woodbridge St.; L. Mark Halper, of 48 Elsie Dr. and James Foster of 11 Dorothy Rd., both of Troop 98; and Douglas Hauschild, 93 Constance Dr., Troop 302.

William Keegan, also an Eagle Scout from Troop 302, of 427 Parker St., handled the closing ceremonies and spoke on what scouting has meant to him.

Coed Elis Facing Uncertain Welcome

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Women undergraduates are welcome at Yale.

Just how welcome remains to be seen, as witnessed in a current controversy on the Ivy League campus.

"Even on its limited and somewhat cramped basis, coeducation at Yale has been a success," declares Yale President Kingman Brewster Jr. "There is no discernible sentiment for rescinding the decision to admit women to Yale College."

But when Yale's trustees meet next weekend to officially approve coeducation at Yale, they will face a variety of contradictory proposals on how much coeducation Yale needs.

Women first joined the undergraduate ranks in Fall 1969 when 500 freshmen and undergrads coed joined the some 4,100 men. In the most recent freshman class, there were 325 women and 1,625 men.

Alternatives now under consideration include: a 50-50 male-female quota; a "sebring" policy under which students would be chosen regardless of their sex; a slight increase over the present one-to-four ratio of women to men.

"Anything other than 50-50 is discriminatory," says Christa Hansen, a senior from the San Francisco Bay area.

Deaf-Blind Learn Photography Jobs

ROMNEY, W. Va. (AP) — Deaf and Blind children in experimental joint classes at the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind here are being trained for photography-related jobs.

"Once this class proves to be the success we expect it to be, many and more classes will be integrated with both deaf and blind," predicts Dale Rawlings, a counselor for the deaf and blind.

"We think we're the first" with such integrated classes, instructor Charles Thompson said.

Thompson teaches the students, enrolled in the school from throughout West Virginia, skills in television photography, editing television tape, still photography and processing and printing of both black and white and color films.

Everyone gets a chance to try everything, but the deaf students concentrate on the visual aspects of the course such as film editing and picture taking, while the blind are setting up and operating equipment and performing darkroom work. The darkroom equipment has settings and numbers printed in braille.

"I think this will be very successful for both groups," Thompson said. "Once we get the program underway full-time, we will be able to place students in jobs. We already have people crying for these trained technicians."

He said that if he gets a student who is well-motivated and who has ability, he can train him in one year.

German Authoress Advances Theory Contrary To Women's Liberation

BORDEN (AP) — The "Manipulated Man," also thinks that women are stupid and getting more so every day; that men are brilliant but locked into stultifying jobs; that housework is a pleasure and man is deprived of it and that all of this stems from mothers who condition their children into manipulative and slave roles.

The book was originally published in Germany where it made the best seller list before it was launched in seven other European countries.

In London, novelist Kingsley Amis called it "Total Twaddle" and one reviewer wrote "to know her is to hate her." But others praised the book as the best argument yet against women's lib.

Now Miss Vilar has added a special chapter devoted to the American male and is preparing for a lecture and publicity tour in the United States.

Regarding the American trip Miss Vilar said in an interview: "Sometimes I'm afraid. But I have to do it. If you are going to change things you have to change things in America. American is so influential. You have to go to the lion..."

Miss Vilar actually wrote the book in New York almost two years ago during a five month visit in which she lived in an East Village Hotel and made research trips to suburbia.

The book is, she said, an illustration of a theory she calls, "the pleasure of non-freedom." She says she would have written the book even if there had been no women's movement but she chose her words with the thought of making a change because of it.

"The libertarians were very loud and so this had to be very loud or nobody would notice it. It was very important that they notice it because I really think they are wrong."

Basically her theory is that the male is brilliant and capable of doing great things with his freedom but his intelligent thoughts frighten him. He seeks the security of the enslaved and marries.

Conditioned by his mother from childhood to believe that he is smart and responsible and that girls are incapable and helpless, he easily assumes his responsibilities. He is therefore bound for life in stultifying jobs. For the American male this is all compounded by the high standard of living and the emphasis on success.

"In no other country do mothers so pitilessly train the male infant to perform. No other society exists where the male sexual drive is exploited for money so unscrupulously," she wrote.

Girls, though born intelligent, Miss Vilar says, are taught they don't have to think because men

Pollster Forecasts Right On

NEW YORK (AP) — The major national polls came close to the mark in measuring the outcome of the presidential election on Tuesday night.

With 88 per cent of the national vote counted, President Nixon led McGovern 61 to 35 per cent.

The final pre-election Gallup poll, released Monday, showed Nixon with 61 per cent and McGovern with 35 per cent.

When the undecided vote was allocated, Nixon led McGovern 69-30 per cent, the poll reported.

The last Harris poll, released Sunday, gave Nixon 59 per cent, McGovern 36 per cent and 5 per cent undecided.

Nixon's sweep of all southern states had made slight gains in the next to last survey, he trailed Nixon 59-36 per cent, a difference of 23 points.

The final poll, however, showed a 26-point difference.

Louis Harris said Sunday that there had been some last-minute improvement in McGovern's standings, according to figures then being analyzed.

But he quoted no figures and declined to make any predictions, saying this was a "year of volatility."

Both the Gallup and Harris polls were based on random samplings, done by selecting a number of localities around the country and conducting a set number of interviews.

Blind Couple Can See With their Hearts

By PAT BORDEN
Charlotte Observer Staff Writer
GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Ethel Thomas describes the meeting with her husband Wes 20 years ago as love at first sight, but the two have never seen each other.

That is, not with the eyes, all most people see, because they both are blind. Instead, they looked with their hearts, and what they saw was sufficient to last through all these days, which included raising a son, born a year after their marriage.

Ethel was born in Deep Gap, the youngest of nine children. Her family included the famous guitar-player, "Doc" Watson, who also is blind.

When she was a tiny girl of 8, Ethel left behind her mountain crossroads community and went to the Governor Morehead School for the Blind in Raleigh.

It was a frightening experience for her, especially since she was separated from her family from September to May her first three years.

"When a new principal came my fourth year," Ethel said, "he insisted that everyone go home at Christmas. That was a little better, but I never got used to being away from my family."

It was at a dance in April of her last year at the school that she met Wesley. He was too shy, she remembers, to ask her for a date himself, but had a friend come by to ask her for him.

Their future together was soon sealed. They finished school in June, married in September and moved to his home in Gastonia.

"I lived with his mother for the first two years," Ethel said. "She was the best mother-in-law I could have had. She left me alone and let me do things for myself unless I asked her for help."

As a result, Ethel became self-sufficient as a wife, cook, housekeeper and mother.

When her son, Stacy, who is sighted, was born, Ethel had no trouble except in giving him liquid medicine. Except for her own aches that

When Stacy was grown, I knew I wouldn't have enough to do to keep my mind and I can't stand to sit around the house."

Past years prove her distill of idleness. About the time Stacy entered junior high school, she began taking ironing.

"I bought just about all my son's clothing that way," she said. "I'd much rather do ironing; you can put ironing aside and do it when you feel like it."

Ethel made her decision to go out into the world about two years before Stacy graduated from high school, but she called the personnel director at Gaston Memorial Hospital before taking any steps towards her goal.

"I told him that I wanted to be a medical records transcriptionist and that I knew there were blind people doing it all over the state, but first I wanted to know how he felt about hiring blind people," she said.

"He told me that he didn't care what a person's handicap was, so long as she was qualified for the work."

After taking a refresher course in typing and dictaphone and a training course in medical records transcribing, she wasted no time in applying for a job at Gaston Memorial. After so much effort, she was told there were no openings at the time. Her dreams became reality the very next day, however, when a job opening did come into being at the medical records library.

Ethel's life is by no means restricted to her place of work, however. On a recent long weekend's trip, she and Wesley took off for Durham to visit friends. She wound up spending that Monday afternoon helping her friend get caught up with her transcribing.

"I was even offered a job," she said, "dimpling flashing at the corners of her mouth."

A Wise Decision

President Nixon's sweep in yesterday's balloting to a second term was no surprise. Once again, the pollsters were right and if they continue to score well perhaps the Truman-Dewey campaign will be forgotten once and for all by the historians and political strategists.
 The President deserved re-election. He has accomplished much in a difficult situation, particularly in the field of foreign affairs. There's a good chance the electorate, in giving Nixon four more years, found his attempts at fiscal restraint appealing.

In the closing days of the campaign, the President showed courage in pocket vetoing 11 measures to forestall spending nearly a billion dollars in this fiscal year and nearly three billion dollars over the next two fiscal years.

George McGovern denounced the President as Mr. Veto, and what he is vetoing is you, and your rights and your chance for a better life.

Let's look at the facts: The President signed a $9 billion dollar Social Security and welfare measure with a broad range of benefits for the elderly but vetoed two bills aimed at helping the old because "both authorized excessive expenditures, duplications, or fragmentations of effort which could actually impair our effort to serve older Americans more effectively."

 One of the bills would have established a national institute on aging, as if another bureau or another study would be needed. The other would have provided $850 million dollars for public service jobs and extensions of a variety of programs.

The President's reasons for the vetoes, "because the funds required are not available and would not be available without the higher taxes I have promised to resist," was apparently sufficient for a great many taxpayers.

McGovern battled valiantly against the odds which were against him throughout the campaign beginning before the primary battles early this year.

His defeat may prove to be not a repudiation of his ideals but rather, it may well be the candidate was a man who arrived before his time. At 50, the senator cannot be brushed aside in the years ahead for, despite his defeat, he remains a strong factor in the Democratic party.

At the same time McGovern, in our opinion, never once issued a firm, solid statement on any issue, either domestic or foreign. He changed his mind, as often as he changed his shirt, which we are told is at least twice a day on the campaign trail.
 So, once again, the people have spoken and it was a wise decision.

No Combat Pay for Teachers

Under a new contract signed between the New York City Board of Education and the 78,000-member United Federation of Teachers, a salary schedule for classroom teachers in the city's public schools will range from $9,500 to the top of $18,100 this year.

By September, 1974, minimum and maximum salaries will go up to $9,700 and $20,350 respectively. The length of service required to qualify for the maximum is seven and a half years.

Not bad, you might say, for a job that includes some 10 weeks of vacation each summer, plus Christmas and Easter holidays. And it wouldn't be bad, except the contract makes no provision for combat pay.

In the first three weeks of October, 18 incidents of robbery of teachers and some parents in New York City schools were reported.

Not a Glider

The current advertising campaign for a certain kind of automobile claims that the car is quieter at 60 m.p.h. than a glider flying at the same speed.

It has been extremely painful for "glider" enthusiasts. Not because they lose in the decibel contest but because the aircraft pictured in the advertisement is clearly a sailplane, not a glider. A glider is something little kids throw around. It's what they used to drop troops on the Nazis in 1944. It's something the Germans pushed off the sides of hills back in the 1930s.

 But a sailplane, which some would go so far as to claim has no equal as an expression of a perfect conjuring of art and technology, of form and function, is an aircraft capable of soaring—of rising higher than its point of launch and of staying in the air indefinitely, as long as its pilot can find a rising air current.

Calling a sailplane a glider is like, well, like calling an LTD a jalopy.

The War on Drugs

WASHINGTON—Nelson G. Gross, who labors under the title of Senior Adviser to the Secretary of State and Coordinator for International Narcotics Matters, holds out a ray of hope for America's all-out but still inadequate war against drug abuse.
 Gross, whose name may never become a household word, says it can be "confidently anticipated" that the necessary 40 member states of the United Nations will have ratified by next spring U.S.-sponsored amendments to the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs aimed at putting teeth into international narcotics treaties.
 Gross, whose name may never become a household word, says it can be "confidently anticipated" that the necessary 40 member states of the United Nations will have ratified by next spring U.S.-sponsored amendments to the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs aimed at putting teeth into international narcotics treaties.

As now constituted, the Single Convention is a joke. Its International Narcotics Control Board (INCB) has never had a strong mandate to control the illicit traffic in narcotics—estimated conservatively by the UN at from 1,200 to 1,400 tons of heroin, convertible into 120 to 140 tons of heroin. The INCB has no power to investigate, monitor, or penalize suspected violators of the pact nor to impose restraining international sanctions.

Per example, certain countries were authorized to produce opium for export in order to fulfill legitimate medicinal needs. But this authorization is contingent upon local enactment of enforceable legislation.
 Although the Single Convention became effective on Dec. 13, 1954, it was not until 1966 that Turkey, one of the authorized states, finally put a licensing law on its books. No penalties were imposed on the Turkish government.

McGovern battled valiantly against the odds which were against him throughout the campaign beginning before the primary battles early this year.

Support Case Mountain
 Gentlemen:
 Please be advised of the Manchester Junior Women's Club recognizes the need for open space in our community and has and will continue to support the purchase of Case Mountain.
 Last year, through the efforts of this organization, 1,200 copies of "Christmas in Manchester" Christmas Cards. This sum was designated toward the Case Mountain Fund. These cards are available to the community again this year and, as before, all profits will be donated for the same purpose.
 We realize the great loss all would suffer from the transfiguration of such beautiful country to rows of new houses and hundreds of asphalt drives and hope everyone will join us in support of the Case Mountain purchase.

Time for Reminiscing
 Dear Sir:
 First I will begin by saying I know these poems of my aunt will bring happiness into your heart and that I appreciate it so much. She and Uncle Ed Filbig are very wonderful people. Since my being in Manchester for 45 years, I moved to California in 1961 and have settled now permanently in Bardonia, Calif., a very small beautiful community of 300. It's a home I've always dreamed about and as the saying goes "I'd dream a lot and wish a lot you're bound to have these wishes come true.
 I have a very large correspondence and I'm very grateful to say that I have kept up with my old friends and remain confident the same old feelings exist. But my wish is to come to California so fulfilled and I'm happy to say I have made many wonderful and dear friends here. Thank God for letters, for over the years, our correspondence has been a joy.

My Aunt
 She's sweet, she's grand, sincere and true,
 Her face it beams and smiles for you.
 She's never cross, your cares she'll share,
 Her hand'll rest on mine, she's always there.
 Words in music, sweet and true,
 Are gathered in my thoughts for you.
 Good you are, nice you are,
 Proud to say, "My Aunt," you are.

My Aunt Annie
 "My Aunt Annie"
 The loyalty that stands behind
 An aunt as grand as you,
 Deserves much more than life
 To be brought into my heart.
 The devotion shown by you,
 "Annie" many years ago I wrote
 A poem you're forget,
 In your many letters across the
 You bring it up a lot.
 I reminisce so many times
 In years so long have past,
 And think of the precious things
 You've brought into my heart.
 Uncle Ed I admire you to
 The closeness you two have
 Sixty years of happy wedded bliss
 Have proved you're deeply cared.

Beautiful Bardonia
 I can't admire Bardonia enough
 With it's very elegant view.
 The beauty that surrounds this land.
 And the warmth of friendly
 views.
 The freshness of the groves and flowers
 And the mountains surrounds it
 by one and all.
 A very pretty pleasant community enjoyed
 by one and all.
 The early morning hours are fresh.
 This healthy air to breathe.
 To see the birds and hear them
 sing.
 They too love what Bardonia brings.
 I reminisce a lot and still can't Believe it's true.
 We're living on the lovely land
 Bardonia it's ours to you.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

One of the aids factors about this business is that you are always fighting a deadline and so we are writing this column with the election at hand, when our thoughts are solidly on the election, and also realizing full well that the column won't appear until Wednesday when it's all over.
 However, we still think it appropriate to share some of our thoughts with you on the presidential campaign which is now history.

For some time, we shall probably vividly remember George McGovern's comment: "I am a thousand per cent for Tom Eagleton and I have no intention of dropping him from the ticket." Within a week, he gave Eagleton the boot and picked Shriver for the vice presidential nomination. Later, he said he may have made a mistake.
 As the campaign drew to a close, the number one expression of many was, "Thank God It's Over." It's undoubtedly true that neither candidate had the style of Dwight Eisenhower, John Kennedy or Harry Truman.

And while we always felt that one of the jobs entrusted to the news media was to urge people to vote, Jack Knight of the Knight Newspapers said he wouldn't cast a vote for President. While we think him wrong, you can't help but admire his honesty.
 It will be difficult to forget the Watergate caper and probably Richard Nixon's involvement in it.
 George McGovern was the knight on a white charger that promised something for everybody.
 Many a time, over a coffee cup and elsewhere, there was the comment that the winner, whomever he might be, is the loser of two evils.
 Oh well, it only happens every four years.

We published several letters in the Open Forum, prior to the election, urging support of this or that candidate and were happy to do so.
 However, in several instances, it seemed like the candidate wrote the original letter and then passed it on to his friends to copy, affix their signatures, and mail to us.
 There's really nothing wrong with that procedure except a letter would be much more effective if it contained some original thinking on the part of the writer.
 But then again, thinking is difficult and some of us don't want to take the time to face up to the task.

Now that we have survived another election, perhaps we can concern ourselves with community betterment.
 The Manchester Land Conservation Trust, Inc., is seeking charter members and it's a good place to put some of your money because it is an investment in the future. The Land Trust will be dedicated to fostering the acquisition, preservation and maintenance of open space lands and water resources, large and small, throughout the community. The organization will encourage the protection of animal, bird and plant life within these natural resources.
 You can become a charter member with your contribution of $25 or more and it's deductible. You ought to join. Make your check payable to Manchester Land Conservation Trust, Inc. and mail to the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, 222 East Center St.

You might find it of interest that the Boeing Co. of Seattle has gone into the cattle-raising business in a move toward more diversification from the aerospace industry.
 According to the national columnist, Bob Considine, Boeing has some 3,000 acres of land under irrigation in the state of Oregon with the goal of turning some 150 square miles of dry marginal land into a productive agricultural and business community.
 The company is providing land, water, access roads and other facilities, leasing the land to farmers for pasture or raising crops.
 In addition, the firm is setting up a series of 10-acre irrigated circles for cattle-fattening. Cattle will be weighed into the pasture, then out, and Boeing collects on a per pound weight gain.
 Boeing already is deeply in mass transport. A mini-bus "people mover" operating in Seattle is now being tested in Seattle and will be put into operation this fall at Morgantown, W. Va., moving people to and from the West Virginia University campus.

If the lady of the house went on a shopping spree over the last week or so don't fault her too much because she is simply following the pattern set by the federal government.
 In the final week of the 92nd Congress, there were expenditures authorized totalling more than $100 billion, according to Commerce Clearing House. The authorizations include:
 Water cleanup, $25 billion; revenue sharing, $30 billion; $700 million for federal aid for airports; just under $30 billion for the programs of the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.
 Social security benefit increases, $6 billion; just under $6 billion in supplemental appropriations for various federal agencies; $3.5 billion for federal aid in rehabilitation of the handicapped; $2 billion for programs for the elderly; $2 billion for public works projects; over $4.5 billion for this year's budget for the Department of State, Justice and Commerce; more than $2.7 billion for foreign assistance programs.

We don't know how many folks read the comic strip, Matt and Jeff, which was started in The Herald awhile back.
 However, it has certainly been successful, and it will observe a fifth birthday anniversary next Wednesday. As such it is the oldest continuously published comic strip in the world.
 Any comic or feature that can survive the lures and dislikes of the public for 45 years has to be a good one.
 Happy Birthday, Matt and Jeff!

Part of The Herald's staff has made the switch into our addition which is nearing completion. The personnel in our composing rooms, where the newspaper's advertisements are made ready for the printed page, made the move Monday.
 It now appears that our editorial, advertising and business departments will make the move around Nov. 15 depending upon the arrival of new office furniture.
 We had considerable work remaining in our circulation, press and plate making departments and it looks like a Dec. 1 target date.
 We will keep the same telephone number with the move but come up with a new address, 10 Brimard Place, which might be a bit confusing for awhile. At the same time, Herald Square, might be an appropriate address. What do you think town fathers?
 Our open houses will be in January because it is impossible to do justice to them in the busy month of December.

Election Turnout New High

The largest number of Americans ever to vote in a presidential election went to the polls Tuesday, but the percentage of potential voters casting ballots was the lowest since 1948.

With the votes from 20 percent of the nation's precincts tabulated, 69,900,000 votes had been received. At this rate, when the remaining precincts are counted, an estimated 77.5 million votes will have been recorded.
 The previous record vote was 72 million in 1958.

The Census Bureau has reported that there are 140 million citizens over 18 years of age who were eligible to vote this year.
 Included in that 140 million figure were an estimated 11.5 million 18- to 20-year-olds enfranchised when the 25th Amendment lowered the voting age in federal elections to 18.

On the George Wallace party ticket, John Schmitz received 15,000 votes while Charlie Burke won 14 votes for the House seat in Congress.
 Two presidential write-in votes were recorded, one for Maine's Sen. Edmund Muskie and two for Shirley Chisholm.
 Of the 106 absentee ballots submitted, 102 were valid. A total of 494 persons voted in favor of the constitutional amendment concerning challenges and number of jurors, while 196 voted against it.

The percentage of potential voters casting ballots 63 per cent in 1968, 40 per cent in 1964, 54 per cent in 1960, 65 per cent in 1964 and 61 per cent in 1968.
 The Census Bureau had estimated that 85 million Americans would vote Tuesday.

Local Notes
 Approximately 50 Bolton residents were on hand when the polls closed, to hear the results read by Catherine Peterson, moderator.
 Local color was provided by town council member Marshall Taylor who arrived sporting a "ballad hat" and by several "Italians for Nixon" buttons which were in evidence around the hall.

As in past years, the Bolton green took on a festive carnival air as residents gathered at the grove for coffee, donuts and conversation during the day. Each party served goodies from its own camper on the green, and each was decorated with colorful signs and balloons.
 A bake sale for the benefit of the Bolton Scholarship Fund was an added feature at the polls.
 Hope Grunke, chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the President, noted that it is a tradition of more than 20 years ended last night, when Bertha Schmitt of 26A and Helen Herrick of Bolton Center Rd. served coffee at the Republican booth as a team for the last time. The two senior citizens have worked together serving coffee to voters on election day for more than two decades, and will now pass the job to other community members.
 High School Vote
 A straw vote taken at Bolton High School earlier in the day earlier closely paralleled state and nationwide results, according to principal Norman Shaw.
 Results were: President Nixon, 191; McGovern, 78; Schmitz, 1; congressional representative, Cotter 128; Rittenberg 10; Burke, 1; state senator, Odagard, 143; Flanagan, 104; state representative, Miller, 162; Wilson, 66.

Andover Repeats National Pattern

Andover and 1700 votes cast yesterday out of a possible 1700 maximum, which makes the turnout somewhere near the 99 per cent mark, high as voter turnout goes, but the usual for Andover, which has some voter turnouts of as high as 97 per cent.

Local Elections
 After a breather of two months to allow for the winter Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, the town's two political parties can start getting ready for the town's local elections in May.
 President Nixon got 834 votes compared to 446 for McGovern; Stein won by the expected large plurality with 712 votes against Hillman's 346. State Senator David Odagard defeated Democratic candidate Mrs. Estelle Flanagan 97 to 47, while state representative Mrs. Dorothy Miller, annexed 555 votes to Mrs. Cynthia Wilson's (D) 489.
 Elected as Registrars of Voters were Mrs. Beatrice Kowalski for the Democrats and Mrs. Janice Libby for the Republicans.
 The Constitutional Amendment dealing with jurors was passed with 371 yes votes and 168 no votes, indicating that many people did not vote on the question, either deliberately or through oversight.

Petersen Set
 The town of Andover, often selected as a key precinct town, has a history of electing the winners. If the candidates win in Andover, they have usually won in whatever district they are running for.
 Yesterday's election proved no different. The pattern of voting in Andover was echoed by the votes in the other communities, with the republicans taking all the towns, with the exception of Mrs. Flanagan edging out Odagard in South Windsor, where both were running for the first time, due to the redistricting.

 Approximately 50 Bolton residents were on hand when the polls closed, to hear the results read by Catherine Peterson, moderator.

Steele Credits Aides

By BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

A jubilant Congressman Robert Steele, at a Republican victory party in Vernon last night, gave credit to the many people who worked for him during his campaign for his overwhelming victory in the 2nd District. He especially thanked the Youth for Steele groups throughout the District.

Steele, top vote-getter in Vernon as he was in most all other towns, said he had 2,000 volunteers working with him and of these 900 were in the 2nd and under, age groups. He added, "In my campaign two years ago I pledged to bring action to the job and I believe I fulfilled this pledge." "I ran on my record," Steele commented.

Republicans from all Eastern Connecticut attended the victory party given by Steele and many local Democrats appeared to congratulate the young congressman who makes his home in Vernon. Steele appeared a bit weary as he stood on the stage at the Rockwood Club and hundreds of hands bid him good night. Steele did not miss one of them and went to bed to have to shake the hands of two admiring senior citizens who could not make it up onto the stage.

Thomas Carruthers, Vernon's Republican Town Chairman, and that party's candidate for Senator from the 35th District, won in a 4-60 vote over his Democratic opponent, Michael Flashing victory smiles at each other (wives of candidates work hard too), the top vote-getter on the Republican ticket, Congressman Robert H. Steele and his wife, Betty, bid adieu to the crowd at the Rockwood Club in Vernon. The occasion was the victory party given by Steele at the Rockwood Club in his hometown, Vernon. The party was attended by Republicans from all over the 2nd District.

Victory Kiss From Mother

Incumbent Dist. Congressman William Collier gets a big kiss from his mother, Mrs. Mary Collier, last night in Hartford following his re-election. He defeated Republican Richard Rittenband and American Independent Party candidate Charlie Burke. (AP photo)

Retiring Senator Robert Houley seems to be saying "let me touch you" to fellow Democrat Thomas Dooley who was the only Democrat to win in Vernon. Dooley kept the Assembly District seat he has held for the past two years, winning over Republican John Giulietti. He will represent Vernon's 50th District. Houley, who acted as Dooley's campaign manager, did not seek re-election. (Herald photo by Linton.)

Schools Flunk Again

For the third time in five years, a school referendum to provide additional space in the system flunked. By a margin of 670 votes—24 per cent of the 18,686 votes recorded—the town electorate yesterday turned down Question 2, which proposed the expenditure of $6.3 million for additions and renovations to Bennet and Illing Junior High Schools.

There were 9,563 votes against and 9,093 for. The referendum was defeated in six local districts by 963 votes; it carried in the other four by 493.

By districts opposing, the margins were District 1, 229; District 2, 97; District 6, 187; District 7, 261; District 8, 101; and District 10, 118.

In favor and the margins were District 3, 230; District 4, 33; District 5, 34; and District 9, 196.

Today, Paul Greenberg, who steered the referendum through as chairman of the building and sites committee, said, "I feel bad for the kids. It's going to delay their going to schools they should attend, at least for some time."

In 1968, voters turned down, by 547 votes, a question that proposed the expenditure of slightly less than $2 million for construction of Center Springs Park School as a replacement for Lincoln School. At the same time, two others passed for renovation of the heating systems at Nathan Hale School and Bennet, and for the purchase of capital physical education equipment.

Last November, three school referendums were crushingly defeated. A proposed $1.7 million Northeast Elementary School by 2,043 votes; a proposed $8.57 million Southwest Junior High School by 1,815; and a proposed $300,000 Junior high swimming pool by 4,097.

Over the last five years, voters also okayed renovations and new vigils at three elementary schools: Robertson, Nathan Hale, and Keeney St.

State Transportation Commissioner A. Earl Wood Tuesday night denied such an offer was ever made and said the state's only offer 25 per cent subsidy of a transit district losses was the same for every area where a transit district existed or would be established.

Book Review

FRANCIS DRAKE PRIVATEER. Contemporary Narratives and Documents Selected and Edited by John Hampp, Jr., University of Alabama Press, 288 Pages, $12.75.

Of all the truly great Elizabethans, Francis Drake was the most elemental, probably the most daring, certainly the best educated. That is what makes this collection of his chief writings pertaining to him so interesting. It is written by other hands, however much or little he may have edited at least one — no convincing and interesting. Any temporary obscurity has been at the political level just the descriptive.

John Hampp, who put the volumes together, possesses a lifelong interest in Elizabethan literature. He has selected the best of the available material, and he has done so with a skill and care that is a credit to both Hampp and the University of Alabama Press. The paper stock makes one feel he is reading the old parchment, and the type and illustrations support this atmosphere of history revived.

Also, much more attention is paid to the issues with variations on the mother tongue played in America and the English-speaking countries, Australia, Canada, etc. Perhaps the fact that the new editor, R. W. Burchfield, is a New Zealander now a fellow at St. Peter's College, Oxford, may have contributed subtly to this approach. The present editors are very appreciative of the imaginative insights of H. L. Mencken in "The American Language," as the editors of the previous supplement were not. And quotations from such as Henry Miller, D. H. Lawrence and Philip Roth to illustrate the raucous success would make the earlier editions open their eyes wide — then blink. Incidentally, some of those studier words centuries ago were cleaner, almost clinical.

The clues lead him to the sadistic Nazi who had been in charge of the Riga camp. Then on to the discovery of a secret organization of SS men who had fled Germany at the end of World War II. Had established a base of operations in South America, and now with their long concealed, stolen fortunes, were infiltrating the political and commercial structures of West Germany.

Even worse, they had established a secret German factory to produce nuclear devices that might touch off a worldwide conflict. Miller has found a lead that he will overcome. But first he has to go through many devil facts, assume disguises and make impersonations.

As in his highly popular "The Day of the Jackal," Forsyth has used some bits of actual fact to weave a tense, fictional suspense yarn.

He conceals until the very end the real motivation behind Miller's dangerous exploits, but when the revelation comes it puts the whole narrative into focus.

Forsyth is a fine technician, and imaginative as well, so that he gives the reader a first-class thriller.

On Nov. 16, Steven's composition "Arches" will be played by the Hart Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Vytautas Marjosius who, at one time, served as director of the Manchester Civic Orchestra. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and will be in Millard Auditorium.

Stevens describes the composition he wrote last summer as "rather lyrical, somewhat contemporary." He has composed several other compositions, mostly for smaller ensembles.

If you've stored homemade mayonnaise in too cold a place, causing it to curdle, you can recondition it. Put an egg yolk in a bowl and beat it slightly. Then add the curdled mayonnaise, a little at a time, beating it in thoroughly as you add it.

Albano Forms Youth Ballet

Ballet is not a civic or regional company approach, but rather an ensemble of serious dancers working toward a professional performing dance career.

The design for the repertoire is strictly classical story ballets and supportive neo-classical abstract etudes.

With schools in Hartford, Waterbury, and New London, and a branch school in South Windsor, the Albano Youth Ballet becomes a state-wide performing classical ballet company.

Like the major European companies, the Albano Youth Ballet is an apprentice company to a larger performing troupe. The company is opened to dance trainees between the ages of 14 and 21, both male and female.

Definite height and weight requirements are among the criteria which include musicality, expression, and potential professional performing ability. A major criterion is that the dancers be Connecticut natives.

According to Joseph Albano, artistic director, "The Youth Ballet is a major step toward becoming a Naval aviator. A 1972 graduate of Louisiana Technical University in Ruston, La. and a 1967 graduate of East Catholic High School, he joined the Navy in May 1972.

Philae Temple Workers Get U.N. Rations

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — Gaber Mohamed lifted the 100 pound sack of wheat to his shoulder and collected a ration of sugar and a piece of soap and one of tea.

A few feet away, just outside the U.N. World Food Program (WFP) office, Ali Aly was loading his ration on a donkey for his wife home to his wife and three children.

This was the scene at the U.N. agency, distributed the first ration to 600 workers engaged in preparing a new site for the 5,000-year-old temple of Philae, endangered by the waters of the Nile river. The new site is the site of Agilkia, 500 meters away from the partially submerged temple.

The WFP is contributing $2.4 million in food to the workers over the course of the five-year salvage project.

"We want to attach the workers to the project through their stomachs... in this case to save the ancient heritage," says General Harbi, resident WFP representative.

Most of the men help build the Egyptian-Soviet Aswan High Dam, within sight up river from the temples. Their forefathers helped the British build the Aswan low dam, just down river, in 1902.

They are no strangers to the burning sun and desert heat of Aswan, and the cold clear rushing waters of the Nile which have seeped around the temples one month a year for the last 3,000 years.

Harbi hopes that the restoration of Philae temples, and their removal to the nearby dry site will attract new waves of tourists to Aswan.

A few miles upstream from this riverbank team in the desert, steel derricks break the skyline above the temples as bargains prepare trusses for steel plates of a cofferdam.

A deafening explosion of 1,500 pounds of dynamite heralds shouts of joy from the workers, as a job which would take weeks with pick and air hammer is done in moments, loosening more rock from the island to which the temples are to be moved.

Famed Parrot Gives Up Drink but Is Still Mean

By DENNIS BELL
CARCROSS, V.T. (AP) — The world-famous Carcross Parrot is probably the oldest, meanest, ugliest, dirtiest bird north of the 60th parallel — but he remains as his Yutan community's one claim to international fame.

The Carcross Parrot seems to have been in the Yutan area since the Klondike Gold Rush of 1898. He is at least 125 years old and has lived in the Carcross Hotel since 1918.

He has survived a fire that flattened the premises, fall frost and ferocious winter blizzards and has outlived everyone who ever owned the tiny 22-room hotel, and that's quite a few people.

The Carcross Parrot gets his mail. People as far away as California have heard about him, and some have even traveled all the way to the Yukon after hearing about him from parents or grandparents.

The time was when the Carcross Parrot had a reputation as one of the most formidable drinkers in the north. "They miners used to stagger out of the adjoining bear parlor and slip him a shot here or a scotch neat."

"The parrot used to be quite a drunk," said Dorothy Hopcott, who has owned the hotel since 1959. "People would come in and give him a few belts. He'd get so drunk he'd fall off his perch and lie on the bottom of his cage with his feet sticking up in the air."

But the parrot got religion. A few owners ago, the hotel was run by a man of piety who tossed down the Carcross Parrot's purple prose and cut off his booze ration.

According to the locals, the former owner patiently taught the bird several choruses of "Lead, Kindly Light" and eventually eliminated the somewhat raucous chantes from his repertoire.

There's nothing worse than a reformed drunk, so the saying goes, and the Carcross Parrot is no exception. Nowadays, anyone who comes out of a nearby little six-table pub gets squeaked at. Then he turns sudden. "He can't stand drunks," sighed Mrs. Hopcott. "He can smell beer fumes and he gets mad."

Nobody is too sure how the bird got to the Yukon, but the first recorded owner was a Captain Alexander, who operated the Engineer mine near here during the First World War.

The good captain and his lady left the parrot at the hotel to make a trip to Vancouver in the winter of 1918. They went down with the Princess Sophia, a CPR steamship that sank in

Ancient Village Found in Finland

HELSINKI (AP) — An Arctic Stone Age village, described as a "very rich" find, was discovered in northernmost Finland recently.

The discoverer, Dr. Aarno Erä-Edo, of the Prehistoric Department of Finland's National Museum, said he is not sure if the village is a 10,000-year-old village of the "Komon" Stone Age culture.

"This very rich site must not be missed by the methods now available to us. The site must be preserved as a first class museum finding and cared for future generations who will know better excavation methods," Erä-Edo said.

The site is in the peninsula close to the Arctic Ocean some 60 kilometers north of the Pele River near the town of Utajoki.

The Komon people lived in the northernmost Scandinavian peninsula some 10,000 years ago, shortly after the end of the last Ice Age.

The newly found village is only one among several others not yet discovered. Erä-Edo said. He urged an intensified methodical search along the Pele River as soon as possible, so that "treasures of uncalculable value" are not missed by the planned construction of roads and buildings in that area.

The sites are vulnerable, Erä-Edo said, because the habitations of the Komon people are protected only by a layer of some 10 centimeters of peat moss. In some places the peat has been torn away and exposed since the destruction of the elements, the scientist explained.

Erä-Edo has been studying the Komon culture for many years. The village was discovered in 1968 from Komon Mountain in Norway where the first remains of this culture were found at the beginning of this century.

Several other sites where the Komon people lived have been found in Norway and Russia.

The first word of the ancient village came to Erä-Edo from a priest, Rev. Elias Kytömäki, who had found strange quartz objects on the banks of the Tana River. He contacted archeologists at the Finnish National Museum, and Erä-Edo started his excavations.

The origin of the Komon people has not been established by the scientist. Erä-Edo believes they lived at the banks of the Tana River for a very long period.

Erä-Edo said his findings indicate the Komon people used primitive tools of quartz and granite. The tools were not ground but cut by means of

South Windsor Emil's Dum Sweeper Loses Steven's Vote

It seems, at this point, that no matter what program is implemented to pick up fallen leaves in the town, Emil Lucek, public works department director, is not going to satisfy everyone.

At the Town Council meeting Monday, councilman Howard Fitts complained of the 55 back-breaking bags he has managed to fill with leaves from his lawn and asked for something to be done with the "extremely wide use of the distributed plastic bags" for the leaf program. "Garbage is appearing at the town landfill site in the bags, which is costing the town money," he said.

But the bagging program has not been the only way the leaves were being collected. A vacuum was used to make an early pass and this also met with rebuttal, but not from a taxpayer, but a young resident of South Windsor, nine-year-old Steven Williamson of 263 Woodland Dr., addressed his complaint in a letter to "Emilie and the dum leave sweeper."

He wrote, "Dear Emilie! One November first a dum yellow leave sweeper sprade my lunch bag willie I was waiting for the bus. And I had my favorite candy bar in the bag. And the sweeper dumped the leaves in the same basket ball box that I practice in. I have those stumped dum leave sweepers." I was signed by Steven.

The letter, now tacked up on the bulletin board in the department office, will get "an official reply as soon as possible" Lucek said.

In the meantime a change in scheduled pickups has been made. The program was to begin Nov. 13 but will begin Thursday in the eastern area of South Windsor. Because of the high leave density in this area, the bagged leaves will also be picked up in the east Friday. On Monday, the central section will be serviced, and on Tuesday the western sector.

The following week, the bagged leaves will be collected on Nov. 18 and 17 in the east; Nov. 20 in the central area and Nov. 21 in the west.

During the Thanksgiving holiday week, the eastern section will be covered on Nov. 27 and the remaining central and western portions on Tuesday and Wednesday, weather permitting.

All leaves must be bagged and left near the curb for collection by the town.

Commenting on the "loss of town money," Lucek said that originally the town expected that 20,000 bags would supply the residents needs, but he has had to distribute 10,000 more which costs the town $1,800. He said he believes, because the town will not be using the vacuum as much as it had in previous leaf pickups, the program might show a balance at the end of the pickups.

POND LINER MARKET DOUBLES
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ecological concern for clean water and water conservation led to sales of plastic liners for waste ponds to 140 million square feet this year, says the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

This volume of shearing is double the amount used in 1970 for that market, Goodyear reports.

Famous Women To Be Honored

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — This Finger Lakes village, site of the first Women's Rights Convention in 1848, soon will be honored by a national women's hall of fame.

A National Honors Committee of 25 women and men has been mulling over a list of 30 prominent American women of the past and present who have been nominated for enshrinement.

Mrs. George M. Bantvannis, president of the Hall of Fame corporation, said, plans are to keep the identities of the honored women a secret until the Hall of Fame is opened officially.

Initially, the hall will be housed in a campus building at Elmwood College, a liberal arts school in Seneca Falls.

The corporation hopes eventually to construct its own building on land the college already has agreed to donate.

Mrs. Bantvannis said, and aid from foundations and individuals is being sought.

Seneca Falls gained prominence 124 years ago when pioneer suffragettes Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott convened the Women's Rights Convention here. Mrs. Stanton and Amelia Bloomer, another early activist, resided in the village.

The idea of the Hall of Fame was given birth more than three years ago by a group of local women, who held an organizational tea to interest others. The corporation now has about 115 members, mainly in eastern states, who pay annual dues of $5.

Fat Nixon, wife of the President, is an honorary member of the board.

"We went into it full force, securing legal counsel to set up a constitution and handle incorporation and soliciting suggestions for women to be honored from members of the public, national organizations and newspaper editors," Mrs. Bantvannis said.

Official documents of the hall state that women to be enshrined must be or have been United States citizens "whose contributions to the arts, athletics, business, education, government, humanities, philanthropy and science have been of the greatest value for the development of their country."

At first, the hall will contain commemorative plaques of the honored women, but it is planned for sculptured busts to be placed in the hall later, along with a library and museum of their accomplishments. Mrs. Bantvannis said.

After the initial election, at least five women will be elected to the hall at five-year intervals by the honors committee.

Library Will Open Sunday Afternoons

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON
(Staff Reporter)

The Mary Cheney Library is planning to increase its service hours to patrons by opening Sundays, from 1 to 5 p.m., through the winter months. The Library Board, in announcing that the experiment has been under consideration for some time, said that the date of the first Sunday opening will be announced later.

The Manchester library will be one of the first large libraries in the state to try the Sunday afternoon opening. All facilities will be available, including the children's room and reference room.

Concurrent with its announcement of the expanded service, the board released statistics relative to the tentative status of the West Side branch of the library system.

On Oct. 4, the board announced that, because of diminishing use, the branch would be closed at the end of last month.

Yielding to public demand, the board later announced that, after a study, the branch would be closed until the end of January next year.

Figures for the last two months, the continuing study brings out, reveal no positive reaction by borrowers to the possibility that the branch may be phased out of the system. A comparison of 11 days when the facility was open in October with the same number in September shows a decrease of 106 books borrowed. Even including a twelfth day of service in September, the drop was 67.

From 1966 to the present year, the materials circulated from the West Side branch and number of registered borrowers both went down 50 per cent. The largest percentage of loss was among the adult population.

A survey of the first six months this year, covering 74 days when the library was open, indicates that on only three days did 10 adults use the branch; on 20 of the 74 days, adult users were two or fewer; the average for adult users was three; and average daily use by children, exclusive of Washington School class visits, was 12. On 80 of 100 days from January through August this year, fewer than 50 books were taken out.

A study of the cost to maintain the West Side branch reveals that it is approximately $9,000 a year. This breaks down to $1.30 per book circulated.

The corresponding cost per book circulated from the Whitton Memorial and Mary Cheney Libraries is 84 cents.

Figures used included the average cost of new books purchased, cost of processing the books, the salary of the staff member, and miscellaneous expenses.

While the Library Board said that it is fully aware that the services of a public library cannot be measured by money spent, it added that it is a factor to be considered.

Election Reaction Abroad

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A number of foreign leaders and newspapers expressed hope today that President Nixon's landslide election victory would accept progress toward peace in Indochina.

There was little Communist comment on the U.S. balloting yet and the only word from the North Vietnamese renewed the accusation that Nixon was stepping up and prolonging the war.

South Vietnamese and Cambodian officials were delighted at the election outcome.

"We are very happy," said Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam in Saigon. He added that the President's victory will impel Hanoi to be "more logical and more constructive in forthcoming discussion."

National Assembly deputy Tran Van Tygen said Nixon's victory "can help stop the confusion among Vietnamese people who were afraid of an unjust solution" if McGovern were elected.

A spokesman for Cambodia's President Lon Nol said "we are convinced the re-election will have a decisive influence on the re-establishment of a just and durable peace in the entire Indochinese peninsula."

The Thai government, another U.S. ally in Southeast Asia, also was pleased. Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, the chairman of the ruling junta, said the President's victory strengthened his position to continue to promote peace.

There was no immediate comment from Peking, but a Japanese correspondent in the Chinese capital said Nixon's re-election aroused the expectation that he would further strengthen ties of friendship between the two nations.

In Moscow, news of Nixon's triumph was broadcast in a brief, factual radio and television report. There was no commentary.

European reaction included a two-point rise in the dollar on the Frankfurt money market and messages of congratulation from government leaders.

Among the comments:

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt — "Your re-election is of extraordinary significance for the peace of the world." Brandt spoke of "our joint political efforts" toward peaceful reconciliation in Europe.

French President Georges Pompidou — "Warmest congratulations on your brilliant re-election."

Premier Lars Korvald, Norway — Nixon's "traveling foreign policy" paved the way for the landslide win. He hopes a peace agreement in Indochina can be a reality soon.

Denmark — "Nixon has no other choice but to make peace now." But he said he fears Nixon will pursue a laissez-faire line in political, racial, social and cultural matters at home.

Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Japan — He is confident that Japan and the United States "will continue to work closely together...for freedom, peace and prosperity in the world" and will further strengthen their "friendly and cooperative relations."

"A customer is not an outsider to our business — he is part of it.

"A customer is not a cold statistic — he is a flesh and blood human being with feelings and emotions like our own, and with biases and prejudices.

"A customer is not someone to argue or match wits with. Nobody ever won an argument with a customer."

Leo M. Harvey

Industrialist Endows Israeli Award Program

By STEVE MONTIEL
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Like millions of other immigrants to the United States, Leo M. Harvey got his surname from a telephone book. That was more than six decades ago.

Today, Harvey's name is connected with an annual Israeli award program for science, technology, peace and literature. The Israelis hope the awards will ultimately become as prestigious as the Nobel Prizes.

Two American scientists selected by the Technion-Israel Institute in Haifa, Israel, were the first winners of Harvey Prizes in September. Harvey contributed $1 million to the American Technion Society for the annual awards of $30,000 to each winner.

Harvey says the idea of the awards was his, but not the name of the prize.

"I wanted to call it the Israeli Prize," he said in an interview. "I've always wanted to help the Israelis," Harvey said. "And I'm helping myself at the same time because I'm Jewish, too."

Harvey was born in Vilna, Lithuania, Jan. 4, 1886. His given name was Leo Mayer

Horwitz, but that was changed when he migrated from Russia to the United States via Germany in 1907.

An immigration officer opened a telephone book, found the name Harvey, and Horwitz became Harvey.

Harvey talked at the desk of his downtown office, where he spends much of his time although he retired as board chairman of Harvey Aluminum Inc. five years ago.

At 86, Harvey has slackened the pace that brought him great wealth as an inventor and industrialist.

"I did enough for myself," he said. "How much longer can I live. Five years? The tempo is too great."

An engineer by profession, Harvey said he has about 200 patents under his name. They include the pop-top lid now commonly used on cans of beverages and other food products.

"It's enough for one man," he said.

Harvey's first big money-making operation was the Harvey Machine Co., which grew from a three-man shop he started a few years after arriving in the United States. He had moved from New York to Los Angeles in 1916, and by World War II, the Harvey Machine Co. was manufacturing special machinery as one of the biggest such plants on the West Coast.

In the 1960s, Harvey entered the aluminum market with an operation that later became a multimillion-dollar enterprise.

But Harvey said, it could be born again, he would become a surgeon.

"Why? To fix things up," he said. "The most precious thing there is — life. There can't be anything more precious."

Harvey moved to Los Angeles on his doctor's advice after two bouts with pneumonia.

"I'm here. He's dead," Harvey said.

"My doctor here says I must have enzymes in me that keep me going," he said. "My grandmother died at age 112. Harvey had seven brothers and sisters. One surviving brother is 81, one sister is 80 and another is 68. He has two sons and a daughter, and his wife, who is disabled, lives with him at the circular home he designed in the hills north of downtown.

The house is filled with works of art Harvey has collected for the past 40 years.

Kissinger Declines Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger declined the City Council of Churches Family of Man award for "excellence in the field of peace," a spokesman for the organization of Protestant churches has confirmed.

The spokesman said that Kissinger was selected for the bronze medallion last September, but he turned it down for the present time "because of his negotiations and the things he was involved in."

Copies of letters exchanged by Kissinger and the Rev. Dan M. Potter, executive director of the council, were given to The Associated Press by the Rev. A. Kenneth Smith, who said he removed them from file cabinets during a sit-in protest at the council's offices.

In a Sept. 9 letter to Potter, Kissinger wrote:

"This is a great honor that I would like in principle to accept. Because of this year's particular circumstances, however, I believe I must respectfully decline to receive the award at this time."

"I would be very pleased if it were possible for it to be given next year or if the circumstances warranted reconsideration at that time."

Potter replied that his organization did not want to "jeopardize your effectiveness in the international arena" and said he was certain Kissinger would be considered for the award again next year.

The sit-in by a group of 10 clergy and laymen began Oct. 31 over the council's alleged failure to take a strong stand against racism. The organization issued a statement denouncing racism last Thursday but Smith said he was not satisfied with it and the sit-in continued.

Smith and the other clergymen said the church organization had been "disgraced and embarrassed" by the choice of Kissinger. They said "the soul of the New York Protestant church was sold to the warmongers of the world."

Minimum Tour Price Rule Dropped

LONDON (AP) — The British government's Civil Aviation Authority has suspended its minimum price rule for European package tours effective next Oct. 15 and said the control had proved ineffective.

The decision means that tour companies can charge as little as they choose for vacations. Major travel companies have been campaigning for this for years.

The decision comes after the widespread adoption by travel companies of part charter arrangements on scheduled airline services.

The CAA warned, however, its decision "should not be regarded as an invitation to travel organizers to engage in destructive pricing policies."

It warned tour companies with low-profit margins because of cut-price competition that it would take account of pricing policies when considering whether their financial resources were sufficient to justify the grant of travel organizers' licenses.

Da Nang Rice Scandal Punishment Blunted By Sensitive Politics

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP)—It was the September Festival, celebrating the autumn harvest, when refugees from Quang Tri started getting chicken feed—low-grade, unsorted broken rice mixed with dirt, gravel, styrofoam balls and nylon slivers.

The rice had been purchased with U.S. aid dollars. Vietnamese officials were making a lot of money on the deal, and their American advisers had to blow the whistle on their allies.

Thus came to light the Da Nang rice scandal. More than a month and a half later, there are widely differing estimates of how much rice and how much money was involved.

Yunus Ahsan of the U.S. War Victims Advisory Office says it was "about 2,000 tons of rice." "I don't know how much it was worth," he said.

Other officials say the investigation ordered by President Nguyen Van Thieu is more of a face-saving gesture than a desire to punish the guilty. They point out that Col. Nguyen Ngoc Khoi is still mayor of Da Nang despite evidence of his involvement in the swindle.

U.S. officials halted distribution of the bad rice and began investigating. They didn't like what they found— "it was very sensitive," said one U.S. official. "It named no names."

But Daily refuses to discuss the case further, saying, "The Vietnamese are handling it. It's just a small case of corruption in a vast system."

Other officials say the investigation ordered by President Nguyen Van Thieu is more of a face-saving gesture than a desire to punish the guilty. They point out that Col. Nguyen Ngoc Khoi is still mayor of Da Nang despite evidence of his involvement in the swindle.

Young Mobiles On The Move

In reducing their staffs, however, many companies failed to reassure competent workers whom they wanted to stay. Some of these talented people lost their sense of direction, said Jennings. They too expected the ax.

It is nothing unexpected. Just as winter chills when the kettle is heated, so also do the spirited, talented young managers begin to move about when the economy gets hot. It is predictable.

Eugene Jennings, who has spent his adult life—his is a bit on the far side of 40—studying executive mobility, maintains that this group is the avant-garde of job changers, and that younger and older executives will follow their lead.

"This group is vital to understanding business economics," he said. "They have the most mobility, the greatest capacity to be optimistic. They are a good barometer of optimism. When they move it means people are betting on the future."

Petroleum Firms Charged With Trade Law Violations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. and Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) have been accused by the Federal Trade Commission of trade-law violations.

The FTC announced it is preparing a complaint against Phillips for allegedly compelling its dealers to accept anticompetitive lease agreements.

It accused Standard Oil (Ohio), known as Sohio, of coercive practices against its dealers and unlawfully fixing the retail price of gasoline through "temporary competitive allowances."

The FTC said its complaints would be issued under a consent-order procedure giving each firm 10 days to notify the commission whether it wants to consent to a consent order agreement or face formal charges and hearings.

Vintage Skyraiders Key In Air Rescue Missions

NAKORN PHANOM AIR BASE, Thailand (AP) — Long silk scarves trail from the pilots' parachute harnesses as they land their planes into position for take off. With smoke and oil pouring from the engine cowlings, the ancient Al Skyraiders roar down the runway and lift off over the muddy Mekong River toward the North Vietnamese border 85 miles away.

Before long they rendezvous with the equal HH53 Super Jolly Green Giant helicopters, the second partner in what has been called the most daring flying job of the Vietnam war.

The slow-moving Skyraiders and helicopters team up to rescue American pilots shown down in Laos and North Vietnam. Nearly 200 pilots have been saved from prison camps by the rescue team's seat-of-the-pants flying.

Most of the pickups occur over dense jungle, often with intense anti-aircraft fire around them. The helicopters lower a sling to the grounded pilot while the propeller-driven Skyraiders protect the helicopter and downed pilot.

When the Skyraiders are in position, the helicopter pilot is told to lower the sling into the jungle and direct the pilot to the ground. "We usually fly at tree-top level and entice them (the enemy) to shoot at us. Our primary mission was to rescue the downed pilot," said Harding.

Comebacks Highlight

Westbrook defeated Democrat C. Decker of South Windsor by 137 votes — 4,873 to 4,736.

Sen. Odgaard and Rep. Yacovone were re-elected in the 4th Senatorial District.

The only referendum question to lose was a proposed $8.8 million bond issue for renovations and additions to the Illing and Bennett Junior High School.

The proposed $8.8 million school-construction bond issue was opposed by the Manchester Property Owners Association, which backed the other bond issues.

The Cotter campaign committee held a party for almost 100 people at the East Hartford Elks' Home.

Odgaard was re-elected by a slim margin — over Democrat Estelle Flaanagon of Glassboro. He received 10,261 votes to Flaanagon's 9,029.

State Rep. Burke carried the 3rd District by 3,285 votes, getting 23,294 to 19,719 for his Republican opponent — Arthur Shattuck, also of East Hartford.

Democratic State Rep. Mahoney defeated Republican Hilary Gallagher by a slim 374 vote margin — 4,283 for Mahoney to 3,909 for Gallagher.

State Rep. Yacovone defeated Republican Carl Zimser of Manchester by 1,026 votes — 5,393 to 4,367.

Democratic State Rep. Mahoney defeated Republican Hilary Gallagher by a slim 374 vote margin — 4,283 for Mahoney to 3,909 for Gallagher.

Joy and Gloom For Democrats

BY DOLG BEVINS Herald Reporter Education ends next week, said the defeat of the school question — for renovations to Bennett and Illing Junior High Schools — was "kind of discouraging."

Democratic Manchester Mayor John Thompson, after expressing satisfaction with wins for FitzGerald, Mahoney, and Cotter, said he was disappointed at the school referendum vote.

Tom Chairman Ted Cummings, "real pleased" with the FitzGerald and Mahoney wins, said "they showed that local Democratic headquarters at the school referendum vote.

At about 9:30 p.m., Bronelli, fairly quiet, prepared to leave Democratic headquarters to go congratulate Republican incumbent Donald Genova.

The commotion at Democratic headquarters subsided after 10 p.m., as most party workers and candidates left for home — or continued celebration in some cases.

At 7:30 p.m., the place was sparsely sprinkled with party workers, candidates, and those seeking a vicarious piece of the action.

Missing Solons Re-Elected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reps. Nicholas Begich, D-Alaska, and Hale Boggs, D-La., missing for more than three weeks since their light plane disappeared in Alaska, won re-election Tuesday.

Begich won a second term as Alaska's only House member over Republican Donald E. Young. Boggs, the House Democratic leader, was suspended for his seat in the New Orleans District.

Boggs' majority-leader role will have to be filled, at least on a temporary basis, when the 93rd Congress begins in January. But until the two are finally declared lost, their congressional seats will remain empty.

Body's Support All members contribute to the expense of the United Nations organization, wealthy nations paying more than poorer ones. The United States pays a little less than one-third of the U.N.'s expenses. The United Nations has a rule that no nation should pay more than 30 percent of the U.N. budget.

This Was GOP Quarters

BY JOHN A. JOHNSTON Herald Reporter The bubble of voices and other assorted noises were somewhere between a Quaker meeting and Times Square on New Year's Eve in the room that had the proportions of an oversized bowling alley. Fill in your own details.

The walls were plastered with pictures of national and local candidates, as well as go-go slogans. At 7:30 p.m., the place was sparsely sprinkled with party workers, candidates, and those seeking a vicarious piece of the action.

Half an hour later, with the polls closed, it was a reasonable facsimile of the 42nd St. subway platform at rush hour last night.

When the count was complete and Dobkin, Republican Town Committee chairman, introduced him, Genova expressed his appreciation to all in headquarters and on the committee. "Every time I come in here, I thought you were all born with telephones in your ears," he said.

Herald Purchased A Year Ago Today

One year ago today The Herald became an affiliate of Hagadone Newspapers of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, a division of Scripps League Newspapers, Inc.

Sale of the paper was announced that morning to Herald employees by Thomas F. and Walter R. Ferguson, marking an end of almost a half century of ownership by three generations of the Ferguson family.

Duane Hagadone, who became president of the new Publishing Co., successor to The Herald Printing Co., appointed Burt L. Lyons as the paper's new publisher.

During the year, the paper has converted from a hot metal process to the computerized photo-typesetting system. A new building program is near completion, and the composing room produced Monday, Tuesday and today's paper from its new quarters in the building.

Editorial, advertising and business operations will be relocated in the new building within ten days.

brand of politics of which we can all be proud. I have known of Fran since I was a youngster, and I am sure he will represent Manchester, very well in the legislature.

About his apparent defeat, although a recent will be held for the office of judge of probate, Atty. Ronald Jacobs said, "I want to congratulate Bill (FitzGerald). He ran a very fine campaign and worked very hard. I am sure he will do a very fine job."

With returns still being awaited from area towns but re-election to the State Senate seemingly assured, Odgaard commented, "I am pleased with the plurality and will do my best to be deserving in the next two years. I offer my heartfelt thanks to those who helped me and wished me well during a very difficult campaign."

summing up the hectic week behind him, Dobkin said, "I am very pleased on the presidential side, but I am a little disappointed in the reaction of Atty. Allan Thomas, Board of Education chairman, to the defeat of the referendum for additional and renovated schools. The only one of four local questions to be turned down."

"I am obviously disappointed," he said. "I thought we had proposed a program that people in this community would buy. It was a reasonable program that wouldn't have cost the individual taxpayer money. Where do you go from here? 'I don't know.' We have some serious thinking to do."

State Campaign Leaders View GOP Victories

HARTFORD (AP) — The mood never changed Tuesday night at the state Nixon and McGovern headquarters.

From the first television results until the final tally were in, Republicans at an election night party at the Polish National Home knew that the President would be re-elected.

And in a bare, warehouse-like headquarters a mile away, most McGovern supporters arrived suffering from a depression that only deepened as the evening wore on.

"I knew a month ago that we would lose," said Shol Israel, a young press representative for the McGovern campaign, who, on the record, made only optimistic statements during the campaign.

"For the last few weeks, I was trying to prepare the more emotional people around here," Don Tucker, the 29-year-old state coordinator of the McGovern campaign, conceded Connecticut at 9:08 p.m. before a roomful of campaign volunteers.

Nixon Scores

Though Nixon's coalition clearly had the edge over Republicans, Democratic challengers withstood the GOP onslaught in a number of states, including at least four veteran Republican senators — Gordon Allott of Colorado, Jack Miller of Iowa, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware and the venerable George Chase Smith of Maine, beaten at age 71 by Democratic Rep. William Hathaway.

In the House, meanwhile, the Republican gain in the early-morning hours stood at a mere nine seats, far short of the 41-seat majority needed to give the GOP control of the House.

Democrats were on their way to a possible increase in their margin of governorships, which stood at 39 to 20 before the election.

Nothing's Clear After Elections

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remnants you can't escape from hearing after a national election: "The people have spoken." "I told you right at the start who the winner would be." "We may have lost the battle, but that doesn't mean we have lost the war." "I don't know whether the best man won or not. All I know is that my man lost."

"I admit I told you that if we didn't win this one, I'd push a point from Times Square to P'he's Peak, but—uh—I was just kind of exaggerating a little to make my point."

"It's all a lot of hot air anyway."

"Maybe, now that we've got that out of the way, everybody in the office can get back to business."

"Yes, I did tell you that I I lost I'd pay you on the day after election. But that was last week. What I'm telling you this week is that I can't pay you until next week."

"To tell you the truth, the last one I really treated was Calvin Coolidge, but I forgot why."

"What difference does it make to us, anyway? We still have to go on working five days a week from here to eternity."

"The way those fellows talked, I thought that when we woke up the day after the election the world would look completely changed. But everything looks like it's still in the same mess it always was."

"Oh, come on now. Just because you lost the election, that doesn't mean you have to lose your temper, too. Nobody likes a sorehead."

"Well, if that's the way you voted, both of us might as well have stayed in bed and saved ourselves a trip to the polls."

"If my husband knew how I really voted, the little nunny would be mad enough to turn me out of the house."

"The time has come now to close our ranks, reconcile our differences, put our noses to the grindstone and, with our eyes on the stars, march forward to the building of a nobler America."

"All I can say is that the rest of the country may have given him a blank check—but I didn't sign it."

"I wish one of the candidates had promised a hangover cure as well as just solve all our economic problems."

"Either way it doesn't make my paycheck any bigger."

"Now that it's over, Henry, are we still going to move to Australia like you said we would if it didn't turn out the way you wanted it to?"

Spanish Political Organization Idea Dashed By Franco Leader

By PHIL PASTORET
MADRID (AP) — Spain's chief political spokesman threw cold water Tuesday on the idea of letting Spaniards form political groups.

"I am not afraid of ghosts or political parties for a very simple and elemental reason: because I don't believe in either ghosts or political parties," Francisco Fernandez Miranda told a parliamentary commission.

He also told the deputies that Spain will not accept political conditions for integration into the European Common Market.

Fernandez Miranda holds the rank of Cabinet minister but it was obvious he was reflecting views of conservative members and those of the country's leader, Gen. Francisco Franco.

The minister is secretary-general of the Movement, the heir to the ultrarightist Falange party that helped Franco to power in the Spanish civil war.

Political parties have been banned since Franco took over in 1939.

Proposals to let Spaniards form "political associations" were shelved about 18 months ago. Franco, in speeches since, has declared those who are hoping to form such associations are mistaken.

Answering questions from the deputies, Fernandez Miranda insisted he was not saying "no" to political associations. But he, in effect, buried the idea by arguing they inevitably lead to political parties.

Some more liberal members of the Franco Cabinet have been urging liberalization as Spain's preferential trade agreement nears a Jan. 1 deadline when the Common Market expands.

He said the problem preventing Spain from entering the Common Market was basically economic, not political.

"We have to enter in this community because Spain and Europe fit together. But we will accept nothing that affects the sovereignty and dignity of the Spanish people."

CHANGES IMAGE
BERWICK, Iowa (AP) — Mrs. Kenneth Diehl says her eyes have "improved with age" and that her eye doctor told her she doesn't have to wear glasses anymore, except for reading. But over the years, her husband became so accustomed to seeing her with glasses that he can't get used to her without them. So she continues to wear glasses to please him.

Not All Precincts Are In

LITTLE DIOMEDE, Alaska (AP) — It took a special parachute drop to deliver ballots to this tiny Bering Sea island, a rocky outpost of democracy in the shadow of Siberia. Before the island's official returns are in, the next president may be settled in office.

Despite the hardships, Alaska election officials expected a 100 per cent turnout yesterday among the village's 37 registered voters.

Little Diomedes Island, so rocky the houses are built on stilts, has no room for an airstrip. And it is virtually cut off from the outside world in late fall and spring when the mushy Bering Sea ice won't support a temporary airfield. There also is too much ice for a boat to cut through.

As is the custom here, election officials chartered a bush plane recently to drop a well-wrapped bundle of ballots, marked by bright yellow streamers, to the Eskimo village of about 100 persons.

The twin-engine plane straddled the International Dateline, separating today from yesterday, to make the drop after three approaches under the watchful eye of a Soviet garrison on Russian Big Diomedes Island, three miles away.

The charter flight from Nome, about 100 miles away on Alaska's west coast, cost $175—nearly $5 per voter. But Mrs. Joann Harbut, election supervisor in Nome, believes the extra effort is worthwhile, pointing with pride to the fact that every single eligible voter had registered as of last month.

But she says retrieving the ballots, as usual, will have to wait until winter sets in although the unofficial results will be radioed to her office.

"This is always a problem," she said. "We won't be able to get them until December or January when the ice freezes over and a plane can land."

It could be, then, that the votes here won't be counted officially until after the next president is inaugurated next Jan. 20.

This fluke in the back eddy of a technological age that will focus a presidential victor before Little Diomedes' polls are closed apparently hasn't discouraged the villagers. Nearly every man, woman and child turned out to wave and cheer when the ballots were dropped.

Cure Guaranteed?

Gerald was a born skeptic. When a doctor suggested surgery for the stiffness in his left arm, Gerald demanded a flat guarantee of good results. The doctor, confident of success, gave the guarantee.

But the operation, through no one's fault, turned out to be a failure. Gerald duly sued the doctor on grounds of "breach of contract."

A doctor, like an engineer or a carpenter, can make a legally binding guarantee if he is so inclined.

Nevertheless, since medicine is not an exact science, the seldom happens. Courts point out that doctors often do—and should—give "therapeutic reassurance" to their patients without intending to make a positive guarantee.

"The doctor's reassurance that his patient will be all right," said one court, "must not be converted into a binding promise by the disappointed or the quarrelsome."

In another case, a doctor remarked to his patient that a certain treatment would "make a new man out of you."

When the treatment was tried with less than complete success, the patient too claimed damages for breach of contract.

But the court found no basis for liability. The judge said no reasonable patient would read into the doctor's comment a positive assurance that he would indeed become a new man.

A special problem has arisen in connection with sterilization procedures that fail to prevent the later conception and birth of a child. Even assuming that the doctor has given a firm guarantee, has the patient actually suffered any harm by having a baby?

Some courts have simply recoiled at the idea that a baby is a liability—at least, if mother and child are healthy. Denying one such claim, a judge said: "The cost was outweighed by the blessing."

Social Security

Q. I work for a dairy bar in Manchester. My employer makes all employees keep a record of the tips we receive because he says tips have to be reported for Social Security along with my wages. Is this correct?

A. Cash tips count for Social Security when they add up to $40 or more a month from your work for one employer. These earnings must be reported along with your regular wages, and Social Security taxes paid.

Q. Is there any special form that must be used to keep a record of my tips and to report them to my employer?

A. Internal Revenue has a form you can use to keep a record of your tips as your employer may have a special form he wants you to use. You may use either way or you may just put all the necessary information, your name and address, your Social Security number, your employer's name and address, the amount on a piece of paper, sign it and date it.

Q. My employer withholds Social Security taxes from my regular wages. Why is it as important that my tips also be reported?

A. Your Social Security retirement and disability payments are figured from your average earnings. It's important to make sure you get credit for all your earnings, including tips, so that Social Security benefit checks you and your family get will be as big as possible.

Q. How do I pay my Social Security taxes on the tips I make at my job as a waitress? Does my boss withhold this money?

A. You pay Social Security contributions on your tips just as you do on your regular wages. Your boss does not withhold this money from your tips. He deducts the contribution on your tips from your regular wages or uses money you give him for this purpose.

Q. I understand that I can get Social Security credit on the tips I receive. What is the procedure I have to follow?

A. In order to get Social Security credit for your tips, you must keep a record of the cash tips you get. If your cash tips are $20 or more for any month, make a report in writing to your employer by the 10th of the next month. Your employer reports your tips for Social Security credit along with your regular wages.

Dems Control Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The voters who gave President Nixon his landslide victory Tuesday also elected a Democratic majority to the House and Senate.

The Democrats widened their margin in the Senate by at least two, the Republican incumbent was running ahead in Michigan in the last undecided race. If he loses his seat, the division in the new Senate would be 57 to 43.

With only seven of the 53 House races undecided, Republicans had made a net gain of 11, compared with the 41 needed to take control. And six of the new Republican replace conservative Southern Democrats who generally had voted with the administration.

The Senate outcome was an especially hard blow to Republican hopes. The GOP had written off the House as a paralytic, unworkable, but needed a gain of only five to take control of the Senate and thought there was a real chance.

But there was consolation for Republican strategists working for a full two-party system in the South, where many voters in recent years had shown readiness to vote for Republican presidential candidates, but stuck with Democratic candidates at other levels.

Two Republicans were elected to the House from Mississippi and one from Louisiana, the first since the Reconstruction period after the Civil War. And in Virginia, William Scott defeated Sen. William B. Spong to become the first Republican senator from the Old Dominion since 1696.

The ticket-splitting voters across the country conformed to no pattern, but ousted conservative incumbents here and liberals there.

Democrat William D. Hathaway ended the 24-year Senate Republican Conference and senior Republican member of the Armed Services Committee.

But the Democrats lost a Senate seat in North Carolina. Rep. Nick Galifianakis, who defeated Democratic Sen. B. Everett Jordan in the primary, was defeated in turn by a self-described conservative Republican television editor, Jesse Helms.

A stunner was the defeat of Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and administration stalwart, by Democrat Floyd K. Haskell. Allott had been expected to win easily.

In Rhode Island, Democratic Sen. Clairborne Pell, once regarded as an underdog, won a comfortable margin over John H. Chafee, who resigned as Secretary of the Navy to carry the Republican standard in the Senate race.

Four Senate seats vacated by incumbents changed hands and the net result was a stunner. Republican Dewey F. Bartlett defeated Democratic Rep. Ed Edmondson in Oklahoma to take over the seat vacated by Democrat Fred R. Harris.

The New Mexico seat left open by Democratic Sen. Clinton P. Anderson went to Republican Pete V. Domenici, who defeated Democrat Jack Daniels.

In South Dakota, McGovern's home state which he failed to carry the voters chose a Democrat, Rep. Jamey Abourezk, for the Senate seat.

Sweep One Of Nation's Big Landslides

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only three times in the recent past has there been a presidential landslide approaching the magnitude chalked up by President Nixon over Democratic challenger George McGovern.

The usual definition of a presidential landslide is a victory with 60 per cent or more of the popular vote.

With more than 76 per cent of the nation's voting units counted early today, Nixon had more than 60 per cent of the popular vote.

Lymon B. Johnson won 61.1 per cent of the popular vote in defeating Barry Goldwater in 1964, with 43,126,568 votes to 27,176,736. It was the highest percentage of the total vote captured by a presidential candidate since popular vote records were first kept in 1824.

Johnson's 13.9-million vote plurality was the largest margin in a presidential election. He carried all but six states and officially won the presidency by an electoral vote margin of 486 to 52.

Franklin D. Roosevelt carried all but two states — Maine and Vermont — in his crushing defeat of All London in 1936. It was the nearest anyone has come to carrying every state in modern political history.

He had 27,761,612 votes to London's 16,681,913 and he won 522 to 8 in the Electoral College. Warren G. Harding was the

Freighter Slams Into Road Bridge

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — Five persons were killed and divers searched for six others listed as missing today after a freighter slammed into the side of a highway bridge over the Brunswick River here Tuesday night.

South Vietnam Gearing Up For Tourism
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government is planning for a postwar tourist boom. Americans may get a chance to fish in B22 bomb craters.

Le Thai Khuong, director of the national tourist office, says he would like to turn the country into a vacation paradise with the sandy beaches of Yang Tau becoming Southeast Asia's answer to Acapulco.

Foreign visitors would hunt tiger and elephant around Ban Me Thuot and other areas of the jungled central highlands.

The once thriving American air base at Cam Ranh Bay, now a ghost city, and Phu Quoc Island in the Gulf of Siam, currently home for more than 20,000 North Vietnamese prisoners of war, would become seaside resorts.

Visitors would cruise into Da Nang, the major port and military base in the north, and tour the former capital city of Hue. Its 19th century Citadel, modeled on Peking's Forbidden City, is now a military encampment.

The government doesn't plan to bar tourists from the remains of war.

Khanh says: "After the beautiful scenery, they will see the destruction of war — the bomb craters of the B22s. Some have fish in the bottom after six months."

Rose Bowl Queen Is Pasadena Coed
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Sall Ann Noren, a 20-year-old student at Pasadena City College, has been named the 1972 Rose Bowl queen.

Miss Noren, who has red hair, brown eyes, stands 5-foot-9 inches tall and weighs 136 lb. is a major in secretarial science and wants to become an airline stewardess.

Her hobbies are golfing and skiing.

She has two brothers and lives with her family in Altadena.

Queen Sall and her royal court of six princesses will reign over the Tournament of Roses parade and the Rose Bowl football game on New Year's Day.

Ford Seeks Car Price Increase
WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing the cost of federally mandated safety and anti-pollution equipment, Ford Motor Co. has asked the Price Commission for a $91.53 price increase on each of its 1973 cars.

And the commission has granted the Pilibury Co. an 11.3-per-cent raise in the price of flour due largely to higher wheat costs.

The government originally had tried to talk Ford out of the increase and the company agreed to cut it back to $59.

In its statement of third-quarter earnings, Ford reported it would ask for the $91.53-2.78-per-cent increase.

General Motors Corp., the nation's largest automobile manufacturer, has asked for a price boost, but it held it to $54 a car, or 1.53 per cent.

The commission last Aug. 29 rejected Ford and GM requests saying they were in danger of violating allowable profit margins in the third quarter.

The commission has granted American Motors Corp. and Chrysler permission to increase prices on 1973 models, but the two companies have not put all of the allowed increases into effect for competitive reasons.

In the earlier action, Pilibury will be able to increase its regular flour prices by 11.29 per cent in the Western United States and by 15.13 per cent in the East.

Also, buyers of self-rising flour in the East may be paying as much as 1.69 per cent more under the order. A 1.79-per-cent maximum increase in the price of bleached flour also was allowed.

A Pilibury spokesman said the firm had not decided "at this time" just what it would do. He added, however, that Pilibury would not raise the price of flour sold in grocery stores the full amount because "that would put us above our competition and we'd lose sales."

He said grocers "probably have enough on hand to carry them through the first of the year."

Introducing Finast's

HONEST VALUE one price only

finast

Here is "Honest Value"
TRIM: The price-per-pound means little if the trim is poor. At Finast we always have the same close trim on all meats at all times on sale and off. We call that HONEST VALUE.

GRADE: All meat and poultry have grades very similar to cloth. You know the difference between silk and cotton, but are confused on meat and poultry grades. The best poultry you can buy is U.S. Grade A. Finast sells only Grade A chickens. That's HONEST VALUE! All our best is U.S. choice. It costs more than the lower grades beef, but we feel choice is the best value for tenderness and flavor. We call that HONEST VALUE.

FRESHNESS: All our meat is cut right at the store to assure you of freshness at all times. We realize you store your meat purchases for use later in the week, so you can see the importance of freshness controls. We call that HONEST VALUE.

GROUND BEEF: At Finast, we grind only meat from U.S. choice beef cuts. No imported frozen meat or fresh cow or bull meat added to reduce fat levels. When you do that you reduce flavor levels drastically. By the way, our fat levels in ground beef are lower than those required by the Federal Government. We call that HONEST VALUE.

INSPECTION: All our warehouses that handle the meats and poultry for our stores are Federally inspected. In addition, we maintain our own staff of inspectors at each warehouse as double assurance that all products meet Finast's high standards. We call that HONEST VALUE.

POULTRY: Let's take a whole chicken, that's one price, cut the same chicken in half, that's another price (higher), cut the same chicken in four parts, that's another price (higher). Sure it costs something to cut it up, but we at Finast are going to sell all chicken and fowl whole, split or quartered at the same price. That should make a lot of cents savings to you.

PORK: The big favorite is center cut pork chops or center cut roast. Thin chops generally cost 10c to 20c per pound more. Not at Finast - thick, thin or as a center cut roast, they will be sold at the same price. That's cents saving to you.

BEEF: Big changes here and big savings for you. A sirloin steak, at cuts thick or thin - ONE PRICE ONLY. Thick round steak - full cut, thick or thin ONE PRICE ONLY. Ground beef, any size package - ONE PRICE ONLY.

BACON: Finast premium bacon, thick slice or thin slice - ONE PRICE ONLY.

FRANKS: Finast all beef or skinless - ONE PRICE ONLY.

THE HONEST VALUE—ONE PRICE ONLY sure makes a lot of sense to us and we are sure it will mean more cents savings for you.

Stamps In The News

The world-famed Spanish Riding School of Vienna is being hailed patriotically by Austria on its 40th anniversary. Six new stamps depicting figures of the beautiful white stallions have been issued to commemorate the occasion, much to the delight of those who specialize in Austria as well as those who have topical collections on horses.

The "hauts école" of the Spanish Riding School teaches the Spanish stallions to execute in perfect balance, sometimes galloping on three legs while other times doing walk steps. Exhibitions of the horses in the U.S. have attracted thousands in auditoriums while millions have seen them on television.

"Topical Time," official publication of the American Topical Assn., has as its main feature this month an article on "The Spanish Riding School of Vienna" to coincide with the issuance of the new Austrian stamps and the souvenir sheet released with it. The story traces the development of this unique breed of horses via stamps issued by numerous countries around the world. Your local dealer has these stamps available for purchase.

Many stamp groups are now hard at work in preparation for the "Jerusalem '72" exhibition scheduled in Israel Dec. 15 to Dec. 30 next year - over a year away from its opening. A report from Jacques Minkus who is taking a prominent role in this exhibit notes that the time of the year - Christmas - was chosen because many Christians make pilgrimages to the Holy Land and would increase attendance. The exhibition will be under the auspices of Zelman Shiner, President of Israel.

Ghana commemorates the 60th anniversary of the Boy Scouts with a set of five new stamps. The 5-cent stamp shows a senior scout and a cub scout together with the Ghana scout badge. The 15-cent depicts a boy scout in front of his tent. The 30-cent illustrates sea scouts in their hand-made canoe. The 60-cent features a woman leader of the cub scouts with her pack. The highest value pictures a scout training school session. A souvenir sheet also was issued with the individual stamps.

The highly publicized world championship matches between America's Bobby Fischer and Russia's Boris Spassky have now given rise to added stamp issuances featuring the game of chess.

Tunisia has just issued a single commemorative 10-hour stamp of the XXII Chess Olympiad. The design shows stylized chess pieces superimposed on squares from a chessboard.

West Germany's Welfare set of eight stamps feature a prominent chess piece on each, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency, Berlin, as is often the case in German stamp situations, has followed suit with a similar set.

Did you know... that the earliest envelope, bearing the first stamp issued by the United States was cancelled July 2, 1847, and was sent from New York City to Indianapolis. (Our first stamp - a black 10-cent featuring George Washington - was cancelled in a brown 5-cent showing Benjamin Franklin.) But the first person to receive this letter was not happy - because it arrived with 10 cents postage due on it!

Democrats Gain Several Governorships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have increased their majority of governorships by one, while being Missouri to a Republican for the first time since 1940.

Walker, Illinois' new governor, beat a candidate endorsed by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley in the primary and walked 1,197 miles through the state clad in denim and a red farmer's stock cap.

Arkansas' stampers, who won his first term two years ago over Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, piled up a 2-1 margin over Lon E. Haycock, a farmer state legislator's commissioner who had been a key man in the Rockefeller administration.

Rockefeller served in the Peace Corps under Sergeant Butler and currently is secretary of state.

South Dakota—Sen. George McGovern did not carry his home state, but Democratic Gov. Richard F. Knapp won re-election. His Republican opponent, Carlisle Thompson, attacked Knapp for asking the state personal and corporate income tax—higher than that of any other state.

Walker criticized Ogilvie's "political hypocrisy in saying we didn't need a state income tax and then putting one through the legislature," while Ogilvie said voters understood the need for the tax.

Penalty Kicks Decide Thriller As Darien Upsets Indians, 7-6

Kiernan, Committee Saluted

The golfing tournament season has ended at the Manchester Country Club for 1972 and Frank Kiernan and his Tournament Committee rates a salute for a job well done. Golfers at Manchester could add a little sunshine in the life of Ida Mattern by sending her a card at Hartford Hospital. The popular golfer has headed up the Women's Division publicity for seven years and authored many excellent articles each month in the club Bulletin. Stan Hillinski, current club champion at MCC, and Erwin Kennedy 1971 champ, have won better than $1,000 in merchandise this season in the Pro Shop. Hillinski is No. 1 on the list with $320 credit due. Alex Hackney, MCC golf pro, reported that this season produced the wettest June ever as well as the coldest October in his 20 years, plus, as the club. The latter singled out Dick Hassett at the annual Trophy Night last week as the club's most improved golfer after coming back following knee surgery. Norm Clark, current club prey, has to attend stag Trophy Night when he turned an ankle and had to be content staying home and watching All in the Family. Joe Skinner, MCC president in 1971, joined the retirees three weeks ago and is looking forward to travel abroad. Tom Meegan has been named the "best dressed golfer" at MCC by an unofficial voting committee.

Penalty kicks decided a first round CIAC Class L Soccer Tournament game at Memorial Field yesterday afternoon when 18th rated Darien High outlasted Manchester High after four overtime periods, 7-6. The first round meeting could find no winner after regulation play followed by two five minute overtimes, plus two eight minute sudden-death overtime periods. When it boiled down to penalty kicks, each side was awarded five with the downstaters capitalizing on all five to four for the fourth-rated co-CIAC champion Indians. The two evenly-balanced squads were deadlocked at 2-2 after four quarters.

Five players from each side took part in the penalty kicking. Parker Antia converted to dash the Red and White's hopes of winning in regulation time and forcing the extra periods. It was a well-played game with Darien's short passing game very effective against Coach Dick Danielson's crew. The latter cited lapses in the Manchester backfield which led to both Darien goals. The local line had several golden opportunities to score but it just wasn't in the books.

On a free kick from 25 yards out, Manchester backs headed the kick on goalie Skip Sullivan's head and into the net at 10:16 to knot the count in the first quarter. Bill Gruber was credited with the tally.

One sour note happened during the victory celebration by Darien players on the field after the final whistle. Several Manchester fans stole 10 pieces of sweat equipment from the Darien bench.

Manchester entered play with an 11-2-1, won-lost-draw record while Darien was 7-4-1 during the regular season. Got on Right Side of Media

New Texas Rangers' manager, Whitey Herzog, made a big impression with the media when he announced the 15-minute clubhouse ban will be eliminated next year. Ted Williams was a stickler for a cooling off period and he never allowed writers in the clubhouse in either Washington or Texas during his managing career. The New York Giants and the New York Jets have agreed to terms for their annual pre-season exhibition game at the Yale Bowl. The date will be Aug. 15. Yale's Dick Jauman was credited with nine clean blocks in the first half against Dartmouth. He's also the second baseman with the Ell baseball team. Fordham University has announced it will award a limited number of grant-in-aid football scholarships starting next fall. Five such scholarships will be allowed each year. The Rams, a major football power from the 20's thru the 40's, dropped the sport in 1954 and came back 10 years later on a club level and regained varsity status in 1970. Bob Healy, during his glittering high school basketball coaching career, twice guided his teams to State CIAC Small School Tournament championships, the first in 1963 and the second last March at Ellington High. The CIAC and Manchester High both were neglectful in not making available the starting line-up for tournament soccer games played yesterday. Quarterfinals will be Saturday, semifinals Tuesday and the finals in each of the three divisions - Small, Medium and Large - Saturday, Nov. 18.

NHL Islanders' Voice Belongs to Eddie Cain

By Earl Yost

Voice of the New York Islanders in the National Hockey League belongs to Eddie Cain. The Manchester Ed Cain is the No. 1 man behind the microphone for the new expansion hockey entry which plays its home games at the new and beautiful 14,000 seat Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, Long Island.

Calling the shots for major league hockey isn't anything new for Cain, a one-time right-handed baseball pitcher with Manchester High and Manchester American Legion teams. Before landing the Long Island position two months ago, Cain served with the National Football League Players' Assn. in the Promotion Department. It was prior to the grid post that he called the shots for the Minnesota North Stars in the NHL while serving as sports director of KSTP-TV in Minneapolis-St. Paul. While in the Twin Cities, Cain handled the Bud Grant Show, the latter being head coach of the Minnesota Vikings. Now 30, Cain has been in the broadcasting business for more than a decade. It was in Lakeland, Fla. in 1970, where he broke into the field by handling radio and television sports shows in Lakeland at Jim Goodson's behest.

Olympic Torch Out for Denver

DENVER (AP) — The Olympic torch will not be passed to the Rocky Mountains in 1976, top organizers of the Winter Games said Tuesday after voters in Colorado cut off state funds for the event. The anti-Olympics drive was led by Citizens for Colorado's Future (CCF) composed mostly of young people. Meg Lundstrom, 24, a CCF director, said opponents thought the Olympics would cost too much money and would encourage laissez-faire growth in Colorado. State Rep. Richard Lamm, D-Denver, a long-time foe of the Games, said the cost issue became the dominant one at the campaign's close. Lamm said the Olympics traditionally have huge cost overruns. Olympic organizers said the Games would cost $8 million, but opponents argued that the event would really cost much more. Many voters apparently thought taxes would be raised because of the Games, Lamm said.

Delaware Tops Lambert Voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Delaware maintained its lead Tuesday in the weekly voting for the Lambert Cup, awarded annually to the top Division II college football team. Unbeaten Bridgeport, Middlebury and Amherst and once-beaten Williams followed in order. Bucknell ranked sixth, followed by West Chester, Northeastern, Vermont and Trinity.

Delaware again was a unanimous choice of the eight-member selection board. The Blue Hens defeated Villanova last Saturday. Boys are needed for the Middle Basketball League. All boys between the ages of 10 and 12 interested in playing should contact the West Side tonight at 8:15. The clinic will be Nov. 8, 13, 14, 15. All who attend will be placed on teams.

NFL Post-Season Pairings Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League announced Tuesday the pairings for the post-season playoffs and championships leading to Super Bowl VII Jan. 14 in Los Angeles. Post-season play begins with divisional playoffs the weekend of Dec. 23. In the American Conference, the Central Division winner hosts the West Division champion and the East Division winner hosts the "wild card" team—the one with the best record of the three runner-up clubs in the conference. If the East Division runner-up is the fourth qualifier, however, the pairings will be changed so that the East winner hosts the West champion and the Central Division takes on the "wild card" club. In the National Conference, the Eastern winner hosts the Central champion and the fourth qualifier is at the East winner—unless the runner-up is also from the East. In that event, the Eastern champion will host the Central winner and the "wild card" team will visit the Western winner. The conference playoffs will be held Sunday, Dec. 31. As in the past, if a runner-up qualifier wins a divisional playoff, it will be ineligible to host its conference playoff.

Official Recognition Asked Girls Ask to Run In Holiday Event

By Earl Yost
Females in the annual Five Mile Road Race? The year isn't too far distant in regards to the Manchester event staged every Thanksgiving morning when members of the fairer sex will be welcomed. Diane Kellsey, a member of the girls' cross country team at Manchester High, has officially requested, via a letter, that the doors be opened to girls and young women as official entrants in the Five Mile. Kellsey is general chairman of Nurture Forest, Fall Cedars of Lebanon. The girls have been lowered in practically every community in Connecticut that stages road races which permits males and females to compete. Following is Miss Kellsey's letter:

I am writing this letter in request that you initiate a deviation in your usual procedures concerning females in the Thanksgiving Day turkey race. Perhaps this year you would consider letting females compete officially. Each year the number of women participants grows larger and larger; this Thanksgiving the female field is expected to double. I personally know of several girls from neighboring towns who expect to come to Manchester for this year's race. Karen Zoccor, last year's state mile champion, is one of them. This year girls cross country was officially recognized by the CCLL. The girls competing at a high school level are dedicated athletes, serious about competition. We obviously cannot compete at a male level, but it is only fair that there should be some female division for us to compete within. After all, there is a Schoolboy Division, shouldn't there also be a Schoolgirl Division? You cannot ignore the number of female runners to drop off. They will only grow larger and larger. The Boston Marathon has finally recognized women as official competitors—must women still be stubbornly overlooked in Manchester? Thank you for your consideration. Diane Kellsey

Olsen's Defensive Play Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll take that Merin Olsen on my team any time," said Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin. That, in effect, is what he said last Sunday. Los Angeles' defensive tackle was all over the Falcons, helping to shut down both the food and back and saving the Rams what would have been a 30-20 victory. The Rams sacked Atlanta quarterback Bob Berry six times for 44 yards in losses. Olsen did two of them singlehandedly and led the charge on two others. In addition, he had four unassisted tackles and one assist. "Watching myself in films," Olsen once said, "I look like a bull elephant and also stopped running back Fred Willis on a fourth-and-inches situation at the goal line to preserve the Browns' 20-0 shutout; and Minnesota safety Jeff Wright, who intercepted a pair of passes to set up a touchdown and field goal in the Vikings' 37-8 trouncing of New Orleans. "Watching myself in films," Olsen once said, "I look like a bull elephant

Consistency Pays Off Steelers' Guard In Top Company

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Consistency" said Pittsburgh Steelers offensive coach Bob Fry. "That's the thing that puts him in the company of the best." Fry was referring to guard Bruce Van Dyke, whose play from the Cincinnati defense Sunday as the Steelers rallied to a 17-14 victory and grabbed hold possession of first place in the American Conference Central Division. Five Associated Press National Football League Offensive players of the week award usually goes to the glamour boys of pro football—glittering running backs, strong-armed quarterbacks and fleet receivers. But for his performance against the Bengals, the 6-foot-2, 235-pound Missouri graduate received the honor. Van Dyke has a reputation as a fine full-out guard, a lineman who races in front of his running backs and blocks. He was particularly effective against the Bengals. "I guess I got a few good shots in the open field this week," said the seven-year veteran. "I guess that's the most glorifying thing for a guard." His performance was outstanding by two counts. —Mike Redl, Cincinnati's cat-quick defensive tackle, had sacked enemy quarterbacks 25 times and had a raft of unassisted and assisted tackles. He had spearheaded a defense that was far and away the best in the NFL, particularly against the run. But playing opposite Van Dyke, he did not get to quarterback Terry Bradshaw once and had only three assists on tackles.

East Catholic High Cross Country Coach Steve Schimick goes over pre-race strategy with his two leading performers, Jim Gulletti and Henry Schoebel. Both youngsters starred all season with the Eagles.

Hines Found 'Home' In New Fullback Role
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Hines, who was a flanker during Army's training camp and was switched to fullback at the start of the season, found out late last week that he would be a fullback Saturday against the Air Force. "It's basically the same set of plays," he said, "but I like fullback a lot better. There's more blocking at fullback. You're going head-up on the linebacker all the time and you get a headache after a while." Hines, a 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior from Chester, Pa., didn't get a chance to do much blocking Saturday. He was too busy carrying the football 38 times for 227 yards—sixth best in Army history—including a 64-yard run in the final period that offset the losses of a 219-yard victory over their service academy rivals. As a result, Hines was named National College Back of the Week by The Associated Press. "It was the most important way we've had this year," said Coach Tom Cahill. "It was the right type of day for Bob. He's a strong runner with good balance and he was a great factor for us." Hines has been Army's workhorse, carrying 23 times against Nebraska and Texas A&M, 24 against Rutgers and 38 against Air Force.

Superstar Status Regained As Bench Again Named MVP

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was a sunny afternoon last May when Johnny Bench sat in the Cincinnati Reds dugout, pondering his fate as a superstar gone sour.

The National League's Most Valuable Player in 1970, Bench had slumped to a .238 batting average in 1971, and the Reds left from pennant winners to fourth-place finishers.

In May well into the 1972 season, Bench again was hitting at his humble 1971 level, and the pressure was showing.

College Football Picks LSU and Alabama Headlines Slate

NEW YORK (AP) — "It will," said Charlie McClendon, "be a heckuva physical game. We'll be going nose to nose and jaw to jaw."

The Louisiana State football coach was talking about Saturday's classic Southeastern conference match-up in Birmingham of unbeaten teams between the Tigers, rated sixth nationally, and second-ranked Alabama.

Bench finished the campaign with 125 runs batted in and a .270 batting average as the Reds won the NL pennant and Tuesday was named the 1972 National League Most Valuable Player.

Bench became the sixth player in National League history to repeat as MVP.

Only three other catchers—Roy Campanella, Gabby Hartnett and Bruce Leonard—have captured the NL award.

Bench is one of baseball's most sought-after figures, a place with 21 votes, with reasons for his 1971 decline. His 1970 MVP award brought a dizzying round of banquet appearances, a host of celebratory Bench later admitted left him out of shape entering the 1971 season.

He endured Manager Sparky Anderson's rigorous spring training program this year, yet started slowly, drew bitter criticism from Cincinnati fans who expected better.

Then came the Houston series, and things turned around for the 6-foot-1, 200-pound Bench, a swinger both on and off the field.

Barry Falls Short Of Foul Line Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry noticed it. Of course, he would have. He was chasing a National Basketball Association foul shooting record and he wanted the conditions to be perfect.

"The basket doesn't look right to me, it looks a little high and a little off center," said Barry before he and his Golden State Warriors met the Buffalo Braves Tuesday night.

Perhaps thinking too much about the whereabouts of the basket, Barry missed his first foul shot in 40 tries this season—but the Warriors found everything okay for field goal shooting enroute to a 105-81 victory at the Buffalo Auditorium.

The Warriors wiped out a 53-51 Buffalo lead at the intermission and charged by the Braves with a hot second half led by Jeff Mullins shooting and Clyde Lee's fine rebounding work.

Barry wound up with 16 points in the game. However, he had 2-of-4 from the free throw line, an unlikeliest Barry performance. The Warriors' flashy forward had hit 39 straight and was after the NBA record of 55 held by Bill Sharman.

In Tuesday night's other NBA game, the Atlanta Hawks nudged the Baltimore Bullets 109-107 in overtime and the Los Angeles Lakers turned back the Houston Rockets 125-109.

In the American Basketball Association, the Indiana Pacers trimmed the Memphis Tams 124-116 and the San Diego Conquistadors whipped the New York Nets 118-108.

Mullins scored 14 of his game-high 22 points in the last half at Buffalo. Lee wound up with 18 rebounds in just 27 minutes of work, also a game-high. Buffalo's Bob McAdoo had 21 points while Elmore Smith, playing with his right arm in a cast because of a fracture, had 11 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

George Trapp's basket with 2:14 left in overtime gave Atlanta its victory over Baltimore. After the basket by Trapp, who scored 22 points and had a career-high 18 rebounds, both teams missed scoring opportunities.

Pete Maravich, who led the Hawks with 28 points, hit a layup with eight seconds left in regulation time to send the game into overtime tied at 101. Mike Riordan led the Bullets with 28 points.

Jackie Robinson stealing home in 1950, against the Phillies in Philadelphia.

Robinson Wanted to See Black Manager But it Will Come Late for Ex-Star

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jackie Robinson was too tough to die of a broken heart.

But not long ago he said he had really lost interest in baseball because "I am convinced that there will not be a black manager in my lifetime."

Before the second game of the 1972 World Series, Robinson was honored by major league baseball for his contribution to the game as well as to the fight against drug usage by youth.

Robinson accepted graciously but said he could not be content until there was a black manager on the sidelines.

What he saw on those sidelines that day were two managers who had been in the game since the 1920s, Robinson was honored by major league baseball for his contribution to the game as well as to the fight against drug usage by youth.

And he has seen former teammates and former rivals bounce around in the locked and lily-white managerial clubs: Alvin Dark, Eddie Stanky, Gil Hodges, Don Zimmer, Gene Mauch, Wes Westrum, Cookie Lavette, Lockman.

Robinson has said that black men such as Henry Aaron, Frank Robinson, Maury Wills, Bill White, Jim Gilliam, among many others, were as qualified as any, more qualified in fact, than white players would not respond to a black manager.

"Players," Robinson had said, "are concerned only with winning and with money. Do you know who was the first Dodger to give me tips? Dixie Walker! And he had been the staunchest opponent to my joining the Dodgers."

Robinson said he would not want to be a manager. That is academic. He was never offered a job, Robinson died of a heart attack.

Some of Rickey's philosophies survive. After the A's World Series victory, Dick Williams said, "We won it because we played Branch Rickey style baseball."

Two days later, Jackie Robinson died of a heart attack. Rickey was the Dodger owner who broke the major league color line with Robinson, despite the intransigence of the other 15 club owners.

Look, Ma, No Toothbrushes! Amazon Indians Have Healthy Gums

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, (AP) — The toothbrush is bad for your gums, a team of Brazilian dentists has concluded, after studying the eating habits of the primitive Yanomami Indians in the wilds of the Amazon jungle.

Four dentists from Santa Maria Federal University in the far southern Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul recently spent 21 days among the Yanomamis on a volunteer mission to the remote northern territory of Roraima.

Telling Story In A Nutshell

Placing Canadian Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau's current parliamentary dilemma in a nutshell is his poster hanging in his Ottawa office. Trudeau, left, is in a minority position holding only 109 seats of the 304-seat House of Commons and his opposition the Progressive Conservatives having 108. The New Democratic party has the balance of power and the consensus is it won't be long before the cat falls to the floor. (AP photo)
