Bias Against Women Said To Be on Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — From college campuses to doctors' offices, women are discriminated against in virtually every aspect of American life, says a federal report released today. Prepared by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the report accuses HEW itself of widespread sexual bias. Among its findings: —Although women make up 63 per cent of the HEW work force, they hold only 14 per cent of the top jobs. —Physicians are more likely to dismiss women's symptoms as neurotic or as normal female problems—"sometimes only physical diseases are beyond treatment."

—The proportion of women among graduate-school enrollments and candidates receiving degrees was less in 1970 than in 1960. —Based on academic achievement, the women selected for graduate training are on the average more highly qualified than the men. —The median income of women 65 and over is less than half the median income of men in this group, $1,397 compared to $2,828. —Women are encouraged or even forced to retire earlier than men, despite the fact they have a longer life expectancy. The report was issued by HEW's Women's Action Program, created in February 1970 "to improve the status of women who work in the department and to evaluate the impact of HEW programs on women in society."

"To date," it states, "the most active and effective efforts to combat sex discrimination have come from the department's contract-compliance division, the Office for Civil Rights." During the past two years, the report said, more than 300

Mayor Tells Youth Its Voice Counts

Mayor John Thompson met yesterday with about 25 members of the Youth Commission and tried to assure them that their recommendations would be given consideration equal to that given recommendations of other town commissions. A few commission members seemed skeptical about the fate of any recommendations they might make. They cited a recent one day dispute between Manchester High School teachers, administrators, and students over a suggested change in exam policy. That dispute has since been resolved. "I don't think you should wait until you have a problem," Thompson said. "As a commission you have the right, the responsibility to make recommendations." He later added, "If you feel your recommendations are being handled in a patronizing way, you have the right to come to the Board of Directors and ask why you were appointed when you are not listened to."

Thompson told the youths that as a commission they have the right to request a budget, but noted that they had better prepare a request soon because budget preparation is going on now. Commission members aired several specific recommendations which they have been considering. Thompson generally responded favorably to them all, but urged that they be formalized in letters to him so that the recommendations would be more official. He suggested that the commission make a recommendation on whether there should be a SAM program this summer. He also said that communication between him and the commission would be facilitated if U.S. trade unions, a figure higher than the percentage of Negroes in the total population —15 per cent compared with 11 per cent.

Clean Air Plan Gets Extension

HARTFORD (AP) — The federal government has extended for three weeks the Jan. 30 deadline for Connecticut's new clean air plan. Mr. Ledbetter is president of the Vermont Young Republicans, and Robert F. Jones, 31, is president of the Vermont Young Democrats. Carroll Hughes, spokesman for the Air Pollution Division, State Department of Environmental Protection, said the extension will give the state more time to complete the plan. Public hearings on the regulations are scheduled for later this month, Jan. 28 in New London, Jan. 29 in Bridgeport, and Jan. 31 in Hartford. Although only 300 copies of the full 87-page regulations were printed up, Hughes said another 300 condensed copies would be printed in time for the hearings. A state agency, created Oct. 1, 1971, just did not have time to formulate the regulations, Hughes said.

Sheinwold on Bridge

BRIDGE NOT PERFECT IN MATCH OF TITANS By ALBERT SHEINWOLD The bridge wasn't absolutely perfect a month ago when the Dallas Aces, current world champions, lost a match at the Las Vegas Hilton to the Italian Blue Team, winners of 12 world championships between 1967 and 1969. The defenders must often make their plays quickly and casually for fear that a pause for thought would tell declarer too much. The quick casual play is sometimes "wrong," as in the hand shown today.

North dealer. East-West vulnerable. Opening lead — Nine of Hearts. Pietro Forquet opened the nine of hearts from the West hand, and Jim Jacoby won in his hand with the aces. Declarer had only seven immediate tricks, and the art of playing a hand of this kind is to let the tricks as quickly as possible in the hope of encouraging a defensive error. Jacoby therefore promptly ran his clubs. The defenders saw that there was no way to stop declarer from taking nine tricks if he had a heart lead to dummy; and they discarded all of their hearts. Declarer kept two spades, two hearts and two diamonds in the dummy. When South then led a low spade, Forquet quickly and smoothly played low. This was a mistake. West could have defeated the contract with absolute certainty, if West could take the queen of spades and the ace of spades followed by the ace of diamonds. Then he could lead a spade to put declarer back in his hand. South would have to lead diamonds, giving East the last two tricks. When West actually played a low spade, declarer could have reached dummy by playing the jack (if South had K10-9 instead of K7-6 of spades) by playing either the jack or the nine. Once in the dummy, declarer could cash two high hearts.

If given the choice, she would rather ride than walk. These characteristics typify many teenagers today, and this point in similarities was made at a senior citizens' meeting this week. Mrs. Marijana, unlike all other South Windsor High School students, is a native of Zalesnik, Yugoslavia, and a participant in the American Field Service (AFS) program.

solely not" motivated by any anxiety at the White House following the Soviet Union's announcement on Jan. 5 that they had put into operation the world's first large commercial breeder reactor.

Schlesinger, in effect, reiterated statements he made to the Associated Press in an interview last week. He said then that the United States is not too concerned with the Russian project because there is no assurance that the plant is safe and also from the standpoint of producing power.

He also said the Russian plant at its present stage of development is not a true breeder reactor. "It may take some years before it realizes its potential," Schlesinger said.

The AEC chairman said the capacity of the proposed U.S. plant will be the range of 300 to 500 megawatts.

The AEC said proposals to build and operate the plant were also made by a group of major utilities from New England and the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Interconnection, Empire State Atomic Development Associates, and the Southern Company-Middle South Utilities.

Revenue Share Fight Ready

ber of families in the United States with incomes under $4,000.

The next division within each state would be by counties or equivalent units, and on the same basis. The amount each county government retained for its own use would be determined by the ratio of its tax revenue to those of other local government units within its boundaries.

Finally, the division among the municipalities or other general government units in each county would be on the basis of population and number of poor families.

The element of need—as determined by poverty population—figures at practically equal level of the Mills formula. The original administration proposal did not contain a formula for redistributing need or urbanization, though some witnesses indicated the formula could be modified.

Distribution of the $1.8 billion set aside for the states would be much simpler. The money would go into what the bill significantly designates as the state government income tax incentive trust fund.

In general, each state's share would be an amount equal to 10 percent of the state's own income tax collection.

Under the plan, the state could receive a sum greater than 6 percent of the total federal income tax paid by its residents.

And, for two years, every state would be guaranteed a sum not less than 10 percent of the federal tax paid by its residents. This would give time for states with no income tax to enact one, or for others to increase their tax rates if these were extremely low.

The local governments would be required to spend the funds provided them in specified fields: public safety, environmental protection, public transportation, youth recreation programs, health, financial administration.

The states, however, could use their funds for any purpose, even to increase the allocation to some of the other subordinate governments.

As a further inducement for states to make maximum use of income tax, the Mills bill provides that the federal government would, on request, collect state income tax for a state whose tax system is compatible with that of the federal government.

Existing federal grant-in-aid programs to states and local governments would not be affected by the Mills bill.

Youth Must Pay For Funeral

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Juvenile Court judge has ordered a 16-year-old boy to pay the funeral expenses for a girl who died of an overdose of drugs he gave her.

"If the young man had money to pay for drugs, he should have money to pay for the funeral," Hamilton County Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz said Thursday.

Schwartz said he had placed Steven Farmer, 16, on probation and fined him $50 after he admitted to possession of drugs and said in court he had given some to the girl.

The youth was ordered to make the restitution to the parents of Carolyn K. Walker, 16, of Highland Heights, Ky. The expenses were said to have been around $1,200.

Mrs. Walker was found dead Aug. 13 in a Cincinnati apartment.

There are three new vegetables available for the first time this year. It is Dianthus Queen of Hearts, a pink that has bright red blossoms. Queen of Hearts was announced as a winner last year, but a partial crop failure in the California farm where the seed was being produced kept it off the market. There was a good crop apparently last fall.

California is the source of all the new annual flowers except the simula from Colorado. Some were developed in the Los Angeles area and others in the central valley between the Colorado range and the Sierra. Both regions have abundant sunshine and warm temperatures and must depend on irrigation to supply water to the fields.

One cucumber, Two Cabbages. There are three new vegetables available for the first time this year. One is a cucumber and two are red cabbages, one early and one late. The cucumber is called Victoria and has been bred to have a high proportion of female flowers, each producing a fruit, giving expectation of a heavy crop. The late cucumber is called Victoria and has been bred to have a high proportion of male flowers, each producing a fruit, giving expectation of a heavy crop. The late cucumber is called Victoria and has been bred to have a high proportion of male flowers, each producing a fruit, giving expectation of a heavy crop.

Wall Street Maintains An Eye on the Maverick

By JOHN CUNIFF

Perhaps the most convincing of Regan's arguments involves Merrill Lynch's own experience. It is investing heavily in new accounts and opening 400,000 during the past year at the very time some brokers were discouraging such business.

Regan maintains that small accounts can be profitable not only for Merrill Lynch but for other brokers too. "We can make a profit on a $50 order," he said, adding that it wasn't also alone that permitted this.

Proper management, he said, is the key to success in the brokerage business.

Regan was asked if he believed the Dow Jones Industrial Average would reach 1,000 points.

"I don't think the Dow is indicative of the state of the market," he said. "We're international investors and we're looking at the average it would be at about 1,100 today."

The market, he suggested, is in a better shape than indicated by the industrial average, which is made up of 30 stocks. "I don't think it matters whether the Dow goes over 1,000, but the market is going much higher than currently."

Bolton School Board Okays New Arts Program

The Bolton Board of Education voted last night to introduce a "cross-discipline" creative arts program in grades 7 and 8 to replace the present industrial arts.

The course, to be taught by the Bolton Junior Women's Club to allow a part-time art teacher to work twice a week for a full year and would be a co-ordinated approach to the three subjects. At present, students meet two periods per week for a half year in limited to boys and home ec to girls. Under the new program, boys and girls would have classes together.

The proposal for the program was prepared by Marion Nicolay of the art department, Irene Tabaksky of the home ec department and Roger Titus of the industrial arts department.

Therapeutic arts program would cover a wide range of subjects, concentrating on areas where the disciplines overlap, such as: drawing, painting, color, theory, and project design; lettering; material study; including painting, wood, metal, textiles; mechanical drawing; perspective study and general design.

Special attention would be given to individual projects which would be shown at 7:30 p.m. choice and design. Mrs. Tabaksky stressed the importance of teaching people to follow through on one project from initial idea to finished product.

Familiarization with hand tools would be emphasized and students would purchase wood-working, carving, small jointing work (framing), and creative stichery.

In his speaking campaign to arouse interest in the issue, Browne said repeatedly that he was greatly concerned at the inability of the U.S. aerospace industry to finance the costly development programs that would lead to the improved airplanes the airlines will need 10 or more years hence.

The problem is not so much research and development, Browne said, but the long and difficult process of getting the point where revenue starts coming in.

There Has To Be A Better Way

The officials who must make all the preparations for holding elections to the Connecticut General Assembly next Nov. 7 are approaching the deadline when they must begin to know what they are doing...

If the courts, as seem likely, leave the new reapportionment in effect, there is going to be an involved and expensive process which the individual cities and towns must follow in order to divide themselves up in the reapportionment pattern.

After the task has been achieved, the result is still going to be a grotesque hodge-podge of gerrymandering. The obvious fact is that this hodge-podge has been created not so much by any clever scheming for political advantage...

From all this, there is one basic, if still unsatisfactory, conclusion. There ought to be a better way of accomplishing reapportionment than the dead end process set up in the new state Constitution.

The problem of finding that better way should be a number one urgency every day the Legislature is in session. There is time to change the Constitution, again, before another census dictates another reapportionment.

Instant Government The latest exercise in true democracy the residents of the region now called the new nation of Bangladesh reported was last year when they were given an opportunity to vote freely for candidates to the Pakistani Parliament.

What happened next was that the Pakistan government sent its troops into Bangladesh to reverse the effect by brutalizing the believers in independence. This led to civil war, and to the exodus of millions of refugees, which provided India with the necessity, the opportunity, or the excuse, whatever proportion of the three things it may have been, for moving into East Pakistan.

With such background, on how the brief experience of the people of Bangladesh with democracy turned out there is obviously no very serious quarrel with what might be termed certain gentle infringements on the principles of democracy as Sheikh Mujib took over the other day and launched the new nation on its formal existence.

When Sheikh Mujib appeared in Dacca, released from prison by Pakistan, he was wearing, instantly, the title of President of Bangladesh. He had been elected President. It turned out, at a secret meeting of his own political party back last April, while he himself was in a Pakistani prison.

Arriving in Dacca in the status of President, Sheikh Mujib then used the authority of that office to proclaim a Constitution. As soon as he had proclaimed a Constitution, Sheikh Mujib then appointed a Chief Justice. As soon as he had a Chief Justice to preside over proceedings, Sheikh Mujib himself resigned the office of President and then watched as the Chief Justice administered the oath of office to a new President, one Abu Sayeed Chowdhury.

As soon as President Chowdhury had completed his oath, he formally appointed Sheikh Mujib Prime Minister.

This, apparently, put Sheikh Mujib into the position and title from which he intends to run the new country, undoubtedly with more deference to the principles of democracy than it ever enjoyed as a part of Pakistan. The danger exists in Bangladesh or elsewhere, that this simple, direct way of doing things will seem more appealingly efficient than the democratic process ever can be.

Candidate Lindsay If John Lindsay insists on running for the Presidency, he should do the decent thing immediately and resign as Mayor of New York. Not next month, not after the first polls are taken and the campaign treasury chest is filled, not after the Florida primary, now.

This city simply has too many problems to afford a Mayor who is splitting his time between New York, and the primary still another unrelated campaign to afford a Mayor who is splitting his time between New York, and the primary still another unrelated campaign to afford a Mayor who is splitting his time between New York, and the primary still another unrelated campaign.

You simply cannot ask a New Yorker $20 cents to go on a dangerous and dirty subway train, where he reads that private business have come up with million dollars for their Mayor to send their 12-year-old kids to public schools because they might become drug addicts, a city where the alumni seem intractable where only solutions people seem capable of are more studies and more commissions and more taxes. The new Mayor will be pleased at very many more pictures of the Florida Governor risk the hazards of the Florida Governor risk the hazards of the Florida Governor risk the hazards of the Florida Governor.

This is not to say that if Lindsay were here all the time any of these problems would be solved. The honest answer, for example, are probably just another result of the city's long protracted nervous breakdown, and do not move to be probably could do nothing about many of them. Most of the other problems will only get worse until the federal government starts giving New York a fair share of the money it sends to Washington.

But at the same time New Yorkers need to believe that someone is doing something about what is wrong in their city and their city, and that someone is the Mayor. If they believe that, he is making all of his decisions with a view toward a national constituency, if he places the White House dream over the City Hall reality they will believe again that they have been deceived. I think they feel that way now. We can't sustain that unless we move to the argument for the Lindsay candidacy is that he is taking the city's problems to the country. If he is serious about that, then he should make it a full-time job. He should go all out, put on a spectacular campaign to get to every corner of America, because it is a case that deserves to be shouted from the rooftops. Someone has to tell this country that if the cities die, the country will die with them.

But if the Lindsay candidacy is only a dry run to gain national attention and stature with a race for the Governorship scheduled for 1974 and the Presidency in 1976, then we are being defrauded. If a single phone call is made from a city square on behalf of the candidacy, we are being defrauded. If anyone on the public payroll works for the candidacy when he should be working each of the city's 370,000 civil servants to devote at least six weeks a year to actual physical labor cleaning up the yards, alleys, streets, lots and parks of New York; he tells our young people to stay home instead of answering draft calls at least until the Federal government shows as much concern for our town as it does for the timber districts of Asia; he would move City Hall to the venal in Brownsville, and let all the visiting dignitaries, astronauts, heads of state and other noble types travel there to see what the great government has done to the richest city on the earth.

That Mayor would, in effect, declare war on the United States. He would make it possible for New Yorkers to stop paying taxes to Washington and start paying them directly to City Hall; he would immediately institute a modified form of the British system for dealing with heroin addiction, without waiting for the permission of the Federal government; he would push for legislation that would require each of the city's 370,000 civil servants to devote at least six weeks a year to actual physical labor cleaning up the yards, alleys, streets, lots and parks of New York; he tells our young people to stay home instead of answering draft calls at least until the Federal government shows as much concern for our town as it does for the timber districts of Asia; he would move City Hall to the venal in Brownsville, and let all the visiting dignitaries, astronauts, heads of state and other noble types travel there to see what the great government has done to the richest city on the earth.

Political Parade By DAVID S. BRODER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — There is an outside chance that something substantial may emerge from the New Hampshire presidential primary — a discussion of some of the fundamental economic questions facing the country.

It is not quite Munkie's for man anyway. Simultaneously, Humphrey is lavishing attention on Rizzo the hard-bellied ex-police chief who is probably the state's most popular politician today. Humphrey aides even emphasize that they have rented the Philadelphia headquarters used by Rizzo in his 1971 campaign. Rizzo's friendship, they hope, will attract Felo Cameli, head of the powerful Philadelphia party organization and a longtime admirer of Munkie.

But things are seldom what they seem in the rolled waters of Pennsylvania Democratic politics. Thus, Shapp's talk about remaining uncommitted is widely interpreted as an attempt to avoid trouble until Saturday, when he elects one of his own staffers as state Democratic chairman. Shapp's closest supporters here operate on the premise he will soon thereafter announce an outright Munkie support.

As for Rizzo, his regrets for involvement in both Humphrey's and Munkie's campaigns are far from enthusiastic. Humphrey, regarding his law-and-order statements (such as the one delivered here Monday) as political cosmetics. Rizzo still likes Sen. Henry M. Jackson best but is troubled by his failure to pick up support. So, the mayor may well just sit it out.

Superficially, Shapp's misshrouded behavior of late feeds the Humphrey camp's hopes. Although wooed ardently by Munkie for months, Shapp has rejected all entreaties — at least until the Federal government shows as much concern for our town as it does for the timber districts of Asia; he would move City Hall to the venal in Brownsville, and let all the visiting dignitaries, astronauts, heads of state and other noble types travel there to see what the great government has done to the richest city on the earth.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 13 Manchester Session Drug charges filed the dock of yesterday, and pre-sentence reports will be filed. Probation Officer Stephen Bavier's brief case, as an attempt to keep up with an incredible boat pluck on him by the court.

Six youths arrested after a July drug raid on 296 Main St., Apt. 10, all pleaded guilty to charges of possession of controlled drugs were noted. Bavier will be expected to present the background on William B. Danouso, 19, of certain address, Mark B. Oregan, 19, of Rockville, Ronald McKinley, 20, of Vernon, James O. Pagan, 21, and Dennis Newcomb, 18, both of Rockville, and Stephen C. Paradis, 19, of 299 Main St., and present the reports Feb. 24, when they will all be sentenced.

McKinley also faces sentencing on this day on an unrelated charge involving a December incident at the Northville High School. Charges of loitering on school grounds, and still another unrelated charge of drug charges against McKinley were noted.

Norton also has another drug count against him, and Pagan will be sentenced on unrelated charges of possession of controlled drugs and possession of a vehicle while the right to drive is under suspension, and breach of peace also on charges against Pagan of resisting arrest, and indecent exposure were noted.

The July Main St. drug raid, at which all six youths were arrested, came as a result of surveillance, according to police, and the breach of peace charges came after an alleged scuffle at police headquarters.

Out of court, Bavier said he has 14 pre-sentences reports to work on, including the ones he was assigned yesterday. Added to duties with 156 probationers, Bavier said the work load is almost insupportable.

A Manchester brother and sister, both apparently recovering from debilitating drug habits appeared yesterday, he to be sentenced on a bad check charge, and she to plead to similar counts.

John P. Page, 21, of 227 Woodbridge St., was sentenced to three consecutive, suspended sentences of 6 months in the county jail, on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses and possession of a controlled drug.

Despite the calendar photos of snowy mountains, white church spires and village greens, New Hampshire is a heavily industrial state. The constituency to which the presidential hopefuls are campaigning is predominantly that of working men and their wives.

While unemployment is lower than in most states, there is a serious tax crisis, New Hampshire is the only state in the nation with neither an income tax nor a sales tax. As a result, its property taxes, already among the highest in the nation, went up another 13 per cent last year.

To meet the crisis, Walter Peterson, the progressive Republican governor, has called a special session of the legislature for the four weeks leading up to the March 7 primary. Despite previous defeats, he will try again to pass a state income tax to alleviate and property tax relief for the homeowners.

The issues will be uppermost on the minds of the voters, as they prepare to cast their presidential ballots, a fact the visiting campaigners seem to recognize.

The inequities of the existing tax system — not only in New Hampshire but across the country — were prominently mentioned in the opening campaign salves of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and George S. McGovern.

"Men who work for a living in the factories of Manchester, or the mills of Berlin, or who own a small business here in Concord, and who earn 10 or 12,000 a year, are paying more taxes than men in Boston and New York who earn more than $200,000 a year from buying and selling commodities they never use.

"Americans don't mind paying taxes — they only want to know the system is fair, and today they know it is not." Munkie came onto the New Hampshire television screens, vowing to "redistribute wealth and power to help the many who are in need, instead of the few who are well off."

"Workers still toil for basic necessities and pay their taxes, while over 100 millionaires (M) pay no income tax," he said. "Farmers are forced off their farms while Standard Oil pays no income tax."

"This is just historic, of course, but in the coming weeks Muskie and McGovern can be pushed into detailing their plans for tax reform and income redistribution. They will be pushed to do so, because their rivals, Sen. Vance Harkle of Indiana and Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, are both running as champions of the "little guy."

The time seems to be right for a discussion of all these issues. Last year's Serrano defeat in California has triggered a nationwide chain of court rulings against the current property tax base of public school financing. A suit on the issue is pending in New Hampshire.

Kidnaped Man Freed in Mexico

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Police and troops surrounded the kidnaper of a local high school and arrested five men who were guarding him. The man was freed in Mexico.

Martin Luther King Day To Be Observed Tomorrow

HARTFORD (AP) — He quoted Dr. King as saying: "The racial problem will be solved in America to the day that every American citizen sides himself personally confronted with it. Whether one lives in the heart of the Deep South or on the periphery of the North, the problem of injustice is his problem; it is his day, urged that the flag be flown Saturday on public buildings.

The governor, who rejected last year the idea of making Thursday in Connecticut be observed as Martin Luther King Day, said that the flag be flown Saturday on public buildings.

After saying a year ago that observance in the schools on he would sign legislation making Jan. 15 the state civil rights day, and the first in which the victim was freed without ransom being paid.

Women's Lib Leader Talks To Junior Women's Club

She has been a resident of Farmington for nine years and is a member of the Farmington Conservation Commission.

Hebron-Andover-Marlborough Regionalization Group Stresses Education Gains

By ANNE H. EMT (Special Correspondent)
As was the case in Hebron and Andover last week, the majority of the approximately 150 residents who attended last night's public hearing in Marlborough appeared to be against regionalization.
However, last night's hearing tended to bring out more of the educational advantages and disadvantages of regionalization, whereas the other two hearings stressed the financial aspects.
Possibly sensing that regionalization would be the case, members of the regional study committee who discuss the financial, educational, financial and equalization areas of the regionalization plan, were previously submitted to the other towns, more of the educational advantages.

Missiles On Move

...one area. Two SAMs were fired there at an Air Force F4 Phantom Monday but missed. Air Force bombers attacked that area on Tuesday, and the U.S. Command said it believed to have been destroyed.

In the ground war, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their intensified attacks on the South Vietnamese outposts for the fourth day. The South Vietnamese command reported 24 more enemy attacks for a four-day total of 110, the highest in more than three months. Most of the action was in the central coastal plain and in the Mekong Delta.

The South Vietnamese suffered their worst setback in Kien Hoa Province in the delta, where nine government militiamen were killed and 100 wounded.

In northern Laos, North Vietnamese troops overran two more minor positions within five miles of Loang, the former U.S. Central Intelligence Agency base.

Military sources in Vietnam said that government forces still hold one position on the western end of the ridge overlooking Long Cheng while the North Vietnamese are dug in on the rest of the six-mile-long ridge.

Government irregulars reportedly recaptured the isolated outpost of Phu Cim, 25 miles north of the Plain of Jars, after meeting only token resistance. Phu Cim fell to the North Vietnamese last Monday.

PZC Okays Six Lots In Subdivision

The Planning and Zoning Commission approved six lots in Donald Robinson's subdivision of Millstream and Woodford Rds. at this week's meeting.

Approval was given to lots 2, 4, 6, 8, 12, and 14; however, approval on lots 3, 5, 7, 9, 10, 11, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Robinson also submitted a preliminary plan for a subdivision on his property on Rt. 85 across from the town office building. However, the commission did not accept the preliminary because it did not conform to the site required under regulations.

There seems to be some confusion regarding these preliminary plans, as Robinson is under the impression that he has already submitted a preliminary plan to the commission.

In a letter to the commission dated Jan. 3, Robinson stated, "This will confirm that on December 14, 1971, in company with my engineer, Hayden Getch, Jr., of the engineering firm of Graveland & Busc, Inc., I filed a preliminary plan in accordance with Article III Section B.1 of the subdivision requirements of the Town of Hebron."

Robinson referred to a commission suggestion that additional setbacks to holes and pits be dug on lots where preliminary holes and pits were not within the drainage field.

"We are proceeding to do the work requested by the commission," he added, "and will be in a position to submit our final plan in accordance with your regulations when this work has been completed."

The commission, in the minutes of its December meeting, acknowledged that Robinson presented a proposal for a subdivision on Rt. 85, saying "It was noted that the location of the septic systems and walls should be included when the preliminary plan is brought in."

On Dec. 22, a memorandum on the construction of duplexes (which Robinson plans to build on this property) was proposed by the commission. It was voted into effect on Jan. 7.

Tolland
School Board To Seek IGE Program Funding

Tolland will join several other Eastern Connecticut towns in applying for federal and state funding for an Individualized Guided Education (IGE) program. The center was originally conceived for location in Vernon, but the state, who would be funding the project, insisted on its location at a state college. Eastern Connecticut State College was chosen as the site.

Glen Lugtinski, 24, of Shennipit Lane Rd. has been named as an outstanding young farmer for 1971-72 by the Connecticut Jaycees.

He is one of 13 persons so named as part of the Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmers program.

Partner in his father's dairy farm operation, Lugtinski is president of the Young Cooperators of the Consolidated Milk Producers Association, is married, and has four children.

Scholarship Fund
Donations to the Charles Leonard Scholarship Fund are still being accepted, according to fund chairman Charles Thibault. The present balance of the fund stands at $836.

Leonard was a former state legislator from Tolland, and the fund was started in his memory when he died last year. Donations may be sent to Alexander Fabian in care of the Savings Bank of Tolland or to Thibault at Three Sons Service, Rt. 20 and 74, Rockville.

Curriculum
The board approved two curriculum change requests for next year but tabled action on the curriculum requests of the high school.

Meadowbrook School received an okay to increase its science material equipment for the coming year.

A modest proposal was approved for the middle school, which provides extra course credit during a teacher's free period. The proposal would not require the addition of any teachers.

Resignations
Meadowbrook School learning disabilities teacher Mary Macary has resigned effective immediately for maternity reasons. Dr. MacKenzie expects to hire a replacement to begin work Monday.

Enrollment
Enrollment in the local schools as of Dec. 23 stands at 2,678 students, with an additional 30 attending special schools for a total of 2,707.

Meadowbrook's enrollment is 723. Hickory Hill school, 873 and the high school 878. Ten students attend VO-AG; while 23 attend Windham. Others are enrolled in special education classes. One student, who attends A.L.I. Private school, and J. W. Wright.

Headed Center
Following a recommendation of Mr. MacKenzie the board turned down an opportunity to participate in a proposed reading center for Eastern Connecticut.

Although the center would provide access to a wide variety of reading and audio-visual materials, the district reading center would have seriously affected Tolland's educational program, according to the superintendent.

Extreme Groups Checked by IRS For Tax Status

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said Thursday it has a seven-member staff that checks the tax liabilities of extremist groups. An IRS spokesman said the unit has been operating for about two years and started as a result of congressional hearings which had questioned the tax status of extremist groups.

The spokesman said the unit, which includes a secretary, is only interested in "compliance with the federal tax laws."

He said it is responsible for IRS to pressure that persons who have shown disregard for federal, state and local laws may be receiving federal income tax law.

Nongraded School Concept Backed by Coventry Board

By HOLLY GANTNER
Herald Correspondent

Following a lengthy and thorough presentation on plans for the preprimary non-graded program last night by the early childhood committee, the Board of Education agreed unanimously to support the concept and the development of the program.

Board members decided informally not to support implementation of the program at this time, because the approach is such an innovation for the local schools, and as said by Dr. Donald Hardy, superintendent of schools, could lead to adoption of a five phase program in which the entire school would become non-graded.

As noted by board chairman Richard Meador, the board must make a commitment to the program within a reasonable period of time, but since it is not the traditional approach, the board should allow itself a month for feedback from townspeople.

In leading off the committee presentation, Dr. Hardy said that the pre-primary program would involve the children entering kindergarten in the fall, plus about 20 young-children of pre-primary age, 25 children would be from culturally and economically deprived environments.

Described by Hardy as "a sequential learning program for individualized development," the program would be carried out through distinct phases of development, determined by both biological and environmental factors, even though this development is irregular and markedly different from individual to individual.

Factors Shaping Child
"The child is seen as a naturally active, seeking, and adapting person who learns and is significantly shaped through interaction with environmental factors."

"Phases of schooling should exist and be successive, sequential, and geared to the phases of human development. A thorough appraisal of functions thought to be appropriate for each successive phase of schooling should be undertaken along with the translation of these functions into specific educational objectives, and human and material resources should be allocated to meet the attainment of these objectives."

Phase I of the sequential learning program would be said Hardy, the pre-primary, non-graded program, which it receives ultimate approval, would go into operation in September of this year. It is a program that the early childhood committee has been working on since fall.

Phase II would upgrade grades one through four at both elementary schools and be operational by September 1973. Phase III would upgrade grades 5 and 6 and go into operation in September 1974. A preparatory modular scheduling program for the high school would be Phase V, targeted for September 1975.

Individualized Learning
Hardy stressed that Phase II, through V have not yet been studied at the committee level and that the board, if it approves Phase I, is not tied to adopting all other phases, although he feels that would be the best approach. Phase II is perhaps the most important step of all.

The key to Phase I, as described by the committee members, each of whom made a brief presentation, is individualized learning, wherein each child is allowed to grow and develop at his own rate in all areas, without the present and more traditional lock-step approach. The program would provide much more flexibility, with the child's movement from level to level within a given subject area being determined by his need, and not by administrative convenience, as it is now in many cases.

This was elaborated upon by explaining that under the present graded system some children might take seven months to learn what has been prescribed for a regular nine-month school year, while others might take eleven months. In the latter case, the child would be retained in a grade, thus losing seven months.

In the non-graded program, the child is allowed to move along at his own level.

The program would make wide use of team teaching and of better use of space—opening up the present classrooms by knocking out eight-foot wide openings. This would allow free movement from room to room, such of which would house various interest areas.

Skills Goals
Under the present system, most of the kindergarten classrooms, which are self-contained, house such areas as science interest centers, a reading or book corner, a kitchen, or a music area. Through the open classroom approach, materials now being used could be pooled teaching staff, plus six aides, student teachers and student assistants from the high school level.

The committee members and Hardy noted that "extra hands" are needed in a non-graded situation, to free the teacher for her basic work in subject areas and the individual charting of each child's progress. Committee members also noted that the proposed non-graded program is highly sub-structured in its emphasis on individual growth, contrary to the theory that non-grading is equal to over-permissiveness.

Parents' Concerns
During the citizens participation portion of last night's meeting, Mrs. Hugo Thomas spoke to the board about what she viewed as two problems at Coventry Grammar School. Her main concern, she said, is an apparent problem in the second grade, with her other concern the unavailability of principal Robert Bratton.

Mrs. Thomas said she is concerned about her own second grade youngster and other second graders that she knows, who are being "turned off" by the school. She noted that overcrowding in the second grade classes has been eliminated somewhat by putting in another section, but that disciplinary problems appear to abound.

She said she would fault the teaching ability at this level, but questioned if the teachers were just doing their job, without attention to extra details that might be necessary.

Another parent of a second grader, Paul Dixon, said he agreed with Mrs. Thomas's assessment of the situation and that he too is concerned about it.

He had, in reply to both parents, said that the overcrowding and subsequent installation of an extra second grade had "shaken up" all the youngsters and that he is studying the situation from her post at Capt. Nathan Hale School was accepted, effective March 1. Her husband had been transferred.

Also accepted was the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Becker from her first grade teaching position at Coventry Grammar School, effective Feb. 4 for personal reasons.

In another action last night, Mrs. Lois Neuger, a teacher at the high school, was granted a maternity leave beginning Feb. 19, with the understanding that she would be rehired in the fall if there was an opening for her.

ed, and more space devoted to these areas, since under the non-graded concept, each block of classrooms would contain one such interest area.

As for pupil evaluation under a non-graded program, this would be handled by way of a skill goal chart, one for each child, which would also serve as the "curriculum" itself. The chart, as prepared by the committee and adapted from a five-year study at Columbia University, contains seven basic skill areas: intellectual development, imaginative and creative development, social, emotional, manipulative motor development, self-concept, and language development.

Each of these basic areas is further broken down into 17 areas, including the basic skills of reading, writing, and language development. In turn, each of these 17 areas is further broken down, such as vocabulary, sentence structure, and punctuation, all under language development.

Cost of Program
This skill chart would be used as a continuous evaluative and reporting tool, and would also serve as the parents' guide to the child's progress. Conference would replace report cards and would be on a "when necessary and desirable" basis.

The teachers on the committee, Sue Borno, Kathy Hoff, Jean-Anne Moore, Billie Kapp and Liga Harrison, were commended by the board members for their presentation and further broken down.

One summer day when the door was open a strong east wind blew over the stairs and entered the hallway. When Henry yelled and sprang for it that east just flew over the railing. We looked over and down to see how big a spot that east made at the end of a fall of at least twenty feet. It was running from the safety of House's barn next to the creek in line with Purnell Place.

Perhaps that tame indoor game of pillowwax would not have been so attractive if Henry had not had a pretty sister, Ruby. She could play the piano, too. Ruby played and sang a song that was very popular at that time like this:
Oh, the moonlight's fair tonight upon the water,
From the fields there comes a breath of new-mown hay,
Through the aspen comes the candle light is gleaming,
On the banks of the Wabash, far away.

Remember that, Gus? Well, the moonlight's fair tonight upon the water, from the fields there comes a breath of new-mown hay, through the aspen comes the candle light is gleaming, on the banks of the Wabash, far away.

Last Friday's Herald had an interesting letter from Gus Gull about the Perkins' Kandy Kitchen. Perhaps we can go a little further back. The Perkins' Kandy Kitchen was a candy store in the basement of the building, but Oak St. and the adjacent land sold so rapidly that one could ride a bike right into the building.

Couch's had a son, Henry, about O.G.'s age. At that time the game Pillowwax was quite popular and we spent many hours playing it on their large dining-room table. For those who were not familiar with it, it was completely destroyed by fire. It was a three story and the basement brick building with three stories on first floor, living apartments and a couple of offices on the second, and the

Registrars Told to Follow State Redistricting Plan

HARTFORD (AP) — The president of the association of registrars of voters in the state has told registrars they should begin to set up machinery for the 1972 election on the basis of the new legislative districts. He said the state officials are not able to give instructions because of the new legislative districts.

President Martin Gaffey of Meriden said Thursday, "Time is running out."

Democratic Registrar Herbert Stevenson said today that he and Republican Registrar Fred Peck will be drawing up preliminary plans soon for redistricting.

"You have to be prepared for any consequence," Stevenson said. "Mr. Peck and I are conferring this evening as to our next step in the redistricting of the state."

The reapportionment plan reduces the number of House districts from 171 to 161 and keeps the number of state Senate seats at 36, but with vastly changed districts.

Stevenson said that the reapportionment plan has been filed in U.S. District Court and in Superior Court, with Republicans favoring the plan and Democrats challenging it.

THE HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

Compiled by Students of Manchester High School

Zane Vaughan, Faculty Adviser

Tribes Whips Conard, 69-59, Ties for Conference Lead

Remaining in a tie for first place in the OCHL, the MHS basketball team defeated Conard of West Hartford, 69-59, on the losers' court.

Girls' Team Differs

Girls' basketball differs from boys' basketball in three ways: girls play 20 minutes, are generally lower, 5' 11" free. But the excitement and fan enthusiasm is just as high as that of the boys.

Students Asked to Enter Creative Writing Contest

Each year students of Manchester High School are called upon by their English teachers to produce an entry for the Connecticut Regional Scholastic Creative Writing Awards.

Slopes Boast Improvements

More, modern lifts are always a welcome sight on the crowded ski slopes of New England. Every year, new places put money into more lifts to keep the lift lines short.

Math Team In Good Form

The MHS Math Team began its year in good form, placing fourth and third in its first two meets. Four more meets remain in the Math League competition.

College Reps Coming

Representatives visiting MHS occupations in the trades, such as carpenters, electricians, plumbers, machinists, metal workers and bookbinders.

IOH Officers Try to Start More Chapters

Recently the officers of the Handicapped Officers of the Handicapped (IOH) chapter traveled to Worcester, Mass., to help in starting another IOH chapter.

NHS Tutors

The MHS National Honor Society is sponsoring a pilot tutoring program for any Manchester student. Tutors are limited, but no one should be discouraged from applying for help.

No Change Made In Exam Policy

After a day of consultation, discussion and an overall confusion, MHS Principal George Emmerling decided to retain the mid-year examination policy of excusing seniors with a "B" average.

Senior Group Plans Graduation Events

The Senior Commencement Committee held its second meeting Thursday, Jan. 6. The first order of business was the approval of the committee of four representatives at large, nominated by class president.

Portrait 12

I wish my teachers would leave me alone. They think I'm dumb; a wood-carved portrait hanging in my classroom.

Aridian

Aridian staff members are now in the process of reading and evaluating submissions for the literary magazine. Entries are invited from all students.

MHS Club Visits Mt. Snow

Sunday morning the Manchester High School Ski Club left for their first trip of the season. Their destination was Mt. Snow, a three-hour drive into the mountains of Vermont.

Think Books

Reading is something every active student who can't possibly do it all for that long every day, there is another way to improve your reading.

Drama Society Plans Next Play

"The Adding Machine," a tense drama, is the next production of the Rock and Basin Drama Society. Unlike "Alice in Wonderland," this content-provoking play revolves around the serious theme of man versus machine.

Coventry Police Union Rejects Town's Final Offer

Town Manager Dennis Moore said today that the Coventry Police Department and its union rejected the town's final offer.

In a prepared statement, Moore noted that the final offer of the union was based on the government's suggested 5.5 per cent guideline. "I am disappointed that the union has taken this position," Moore said, referring to rejection of the proposal.

The union's original proposal included a 5 per cent differential above base pay for second shift, and a 10 per cent differential above base pay for third shift, $6.00 per hour for overtime pay, and $1.00 per hour for holiday pay.

Eighty district firemen spent Saturday morning and a good part of the afternoon at the North End's recreation area at Union Pond, filling the skating rink there.

At the request of Manchester Park Superintendent Ernest Turck, the Eighth District volunteers dispatched a pump truck and two firemen to fill the rink.

The pump unit was in continuous operation from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and pumped roughly 80,000 gallons of water into the rink, according to Eighth District firemen.

As soon as the water was frozen enough the rink will be open to all Manchester residents. There will also be skating allowed at night, according to the park department.

Envoys On Move

The Radio Hanoi broadcast today said North Vietnam, "to show its good will and seriousness," had agreed to "another private meeting between the United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam to restore the signing of the agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam."

It said the meeting was proposed by the U.S. side. Kissinger and Haig conferred with Nixon for one and one-half hours at the President's Camp David retreat Monday following Haig's return from four days of talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon.

Both men next went by helicopter to Andrews AFB, which is a frequent departure point for official missions abroad.

There was no announcement on the details of the Camp David discussions, but U.S. officials in Saigon said Haig, who is Kissinger's top aide, had narrowed the differences in his talks with Thieu on the subject.

U.S. spokesmen said they could neither confirm nor deny that the private talks to end the war were about to resume as was widely anticipated.

South Vietnam, meanwhile, announced today it agreed to withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South by stages instead of the total withdrawal at once it had demanded earlier.

American and South Vietnamese positions on a cease-fire.

Haig carried a personal note to Nixon from Thieu, but its contents were not disclosed.

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam announced today that, while his government is agreed to the "wholesale" withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South, it will restore peace to the public or private meetings between North and South Vietnam to discuss the status of the demilitarized zones and the reunification of Vietnam; and (3) a third public or private conference between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong "to discuss matters pertaining to the future of the political system" in South Vietnam.

Nha made clear that this proposal was not intended to clear the way for Washington to reach a final agreement last month on a cease-fire that would allow American forces to quit the war. He said the "bombing, the exchange of prisoners of war is part of the comprehensive settlement. The four parties would have to sign."

President Thieu's chief adviser, Hoang Duc Nha, came up with still another idea today — expanding the peace talks into three forums — and may eventually after those discussions we can come up with some kind of agreement."

Nha suggested (1) a public conference of South and North Vietnam, the Viet Cong and the United States to discuss the "wholesale" withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South; (2) a public or private meeting between North and South Vietnam to discuss the status of the demilitarized zones and the reunification of Vietnam; and (3) a third public or private conference between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong "to discuss matters pertaining to the future of the political system" in South Vietnam.

Nha made clear that this proposal was not intended to clear the way for Washington to reach a final agreement last month on a cease-fire that would allow American forces to quit the war. # Drives To Oust Party Chairman Accelerate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring the Democratic party needs a "new sense of direction" if it is to win back the White House, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today. He said the party's leadership is "out of touch" and "out of phase" with the voters. He called for a "new sense of direction" and "a new leadership" to lead the party to victory in 1976.

Among those often mentioned by the dump-Westwood faction, however, are former party Treasurer Robert Strasser of Texas, New York state Democratic Chairman Joseph Grangle, and Mrs. Westwood's predecessor, Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Mrs. Westwood, a Utah link rancher turned political organizer, was by her office to be vacationing with her husband in Florida Monday. She could not be reached for comment.

Last Thursday, when the anti-Westwood move was quietly under way, she was in a conference she intended to remain on the job.

She was picked for the post by McGovern last July after he won his party's presidential nomination.

McGovern has not indicated his stand on the challenge to Mrs. Westwood, but he said in a letter to Westwood in Baltimore Sun he would fight any candidate supported by the anti-Westwood faction.

Campaigns Costly To Losers

OTTAWA (AP) — More than half the record 1,117 candidates in Canada's Oct. 30 elections forfeited their $200 nomination deposits because they didn't get enough votes.

The deposit is returned only to winners and to losers who poll at least half as many votes as the winners in their districts.

Among the 591 candidates who lost their deposits was one who polled almost 17,000 votes, David Warner of the New Democratic Party. He ran third in the huge York-Scarborough district of Toronto, which Communist Party Minister Robert Stanbury won with more than 30,000 votes.

Highway Fund Diversion Opposed

HARTFORD (AP) — The head of the National Grange has urged the agricultural group to strongly oppose attempts to use the national highway funds for mass transit.

In his speech delivered at the opening of the group's 106th national convention Monday, Master John W. Scott praised wage and price controls and the controversial sale of U.S. grain to Communist China and the Soviet Union. He also called for reducing felony charges for first-time marijuana users to misdemeanor status.

If Congress diverts Highway Tax Fund money to rail transit, Scott recommended that the Grange join with other groups to the "repeal of federal taxes on highway users which now go into the Highway Trust Fund."

He said it is "grossly unfair" to tax rural people who do not use rail transit systems.

Scott said this opinion "can become a catalyst for the fight against the diversion of highway funds to mass transit."

Scott termed the grain sales a "blessing."

"I would hate to think where grain prices would be if it were not for the huge sale of what we feed grain to the Soviets and China," he said.

"It's a shame that a few spokesmen can't accept it for what it is — higher prices for U.S. grain that has led to a reduction in the price of grain, shown in the photo. # Boston Prisoners Stage Jail Riot

BOSTON (AP) — Suffolk County Sheriff Thomas S. Eisenstadt said Monday he will press for "immediate indictments" against inmates found responsible for starting the lunch-hour riot that caused damage estimated at $250,000 to the Charles Street Jail.

The riot, during which prisoners destroyed much of the furniture in the 121-year-old jail, began when a few inmates threw bowls of pea soup in which they said they found small black bugs, authorities said.

"There were several altercations between inmates" during the riot, authorities said, including the rape of one youth by four fellow inmates.

Several inmates and policemen received minor injuries when they slipped on the floor, covered by paint strewn by inmates and water sprayed from broken pipes.

There were no reports of serious injuries as riot-equipped police put down the riot. Several inmates and policemen received minor injuries when they slipped on the floor, covered by paint strewn by inmates and water sprayed from broken pipes.

Eisenstadt said afterwards that he had checked the soup and found a few "those little black four legged things" among them the presence of about 25 "hardened criminals" who he said should have been transferred to Walpole.

Had state officials allowed the transfers, Eisenstadt added, "There's no question in my mind this disturbance would not have occurred."

Air Piracy Probe Launched By FAA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has started an intensive investigation of procedures to combat air piracy in the wake of the weekend hijack of a Southern Airways jet.

Most officials aren't talking about why current safeguards failed to avert the three men who commandeered the DC9 over Alabama Friday night and held 31 passengers and crew members captive for a 3,500-mile, 26-hour nightmare.

But one FAA security specialist said privately, "We are not yet sure as to the why the hijacking occurred. We were not detected in the pre-boarding check."

Asst. Transportation Secretary Benjamin O. Davis said Monday night the FAA had told him the three men were selected for special screening as they prepared to board the plane at the Birmingham, Ala., airport.

Southern Airways employees pulled the three from among other passengers because they fit the FAA hijacker profile, Davis said the FAA told him.

The three men were allowed to board after undergoing a special electronic check, he said. There was no immediate explanation why the men's weapons failed to show up in the screening.

Group To Vote On Strong Mayor

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

Twenty-five years ago this month Manchester changed to the council-manager form of government, from the board of selectmen government. On Nov. 4, 1947, its first Board of Directors was seated and its first town manager — George Waddell — took office. The first mayor and board chairman was Cecil England. Present at the ceremonies was Richard S. Childs, a Manchester native and recognized coast to coast as the inventor of the council-manager form of government.

Wednesday night, at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room, the Manchester Charter Revision Commission (CRC) will review, discuss and then vote on the question, "Should Manchester's form of government be changed to the strong-mayor form of government?"

The proposed change is being recommended by the Manchester Property Owners Association and the CRC has made it its priority item of business — on the basis that, before it can consider and recommend any other changes in Manchester's government, it first must determine what that government is going to be.

Between Oct. 11 and Nov. 1 the CRC listened to five speakers, all experts in the field of government. Four of them backed the council-manager form. The fifth — Danbury Mayor Gino Arcanti — favored the strong-mayor government.

Belfast Setting For TV Movie

By JAY SHARBUITT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The news from Belfast last Aug. 21 was that two Irish Republican Army guerrillas had accidentally blown themselves up and killed six others while trying to bomb a border customs post.

It raised to 227 the number of people killed in three years of fighting in Northern Ireland. And it occurred the day filming started on a gentle story with a chilling title: "A War of Witches."

The movie, to be shown Dec. 5 on CBS television, is about two families — Protestant and Catholic — in Belfast. It concerns the efforts of a young boy from each family to keep up their friendship despite the religious hatreds and bitterness of their city.

While set in Belfast, most of the story had to be filmed in the remote, quiet town of Dublin because, among other things, it used actors dressed in British military uniforms.

"Belfast was absolutely unobtainable," says the show's producer-director, George Schaefer. "It's an armed camp. There would have been no way of getting any protection there."

Although he says the television, written by James Costigan, does not seek to exploit the misery of Northern Ireland, the show's title is in keeping with television's trend towards the dramatic and topical events.

It may just have been play-acting, but Dublin authorities insisted on certain precautions to keep the peace.

FIND SAFE EXIT TO DEFENSE, WEST. By Alfred Sheinwold

How would you conduct the defense if you held the West hand? That's the question, since you would have no chance to defeat North at four or five hearts. But you'd need a more than gratuitous to defeat the inferior contract of four spades.

South dealer North-South vulnerable

Opening lead — Three of Diamonds

East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and passed for thought when South's king fell. East then returned a low trump.

South thought that the trump finesse might work, so he played the jack of spades. East won with the queen of spades and did some thinking of his own. What would you do in this position if you held the West cards?

Yale Delays Coed Decision

NEW HAVEN (AP) — At the request of an alumni organization, Yale University trustees decided Sunday to delay a decision on the future of coeducation at the school.

The Yale Alumni Association, scheduled to be announced Sunday, is postponed so that the association could gather the opinions of its members on the issue and report them to the trustees.

Yale now has about four men to every woman student. The trustees are to rule on what the male-female ratio will be in the future.

Through technology, one man working for an hour or two can produce about nine times the 1850 level.

Jazz Pianist Sets Concert at MHS

Peter Nero will appear in concert Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School in the first of a proposed series with the theme, "Piano and All That Jazz," presented by Kingsley-Kaye Productions.

Tickets are on sale locally at Heller's Music, 1013 Main St. Kingsley-Kaye produced the successful big band subscription series last summer at Lake Compounce, featuring Stan Konopka, Harry James, Woody Herman, and Count Basie. Nero, whose recent hit records include the themes from "Love Story," "Summer of '68," and "The Godfather," is the first artist considered contemporary to be featured by the producers.

Nero has been called a great jazz pianist, great classical pianist, great popular pianist. He is all these and more, an artist who was "doing his own thing" before the phrase became popular — a musical category unto himself. One of the surprises for a new fan of Nero is the quick wit and whimsy that permeate his chatter and music.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Nero began piano lessons when he was seven years old. His grandmother, seeing his talent, convinced relatives to give him a piano. By the time he was 14, he had won many piano awards, appeared with symphony orchestras, and received a Juilliard Scholarship. He studied with two of the world's outstanding teachers of piano, Abrams and Constance Chasin.

After receiving a BA from Brooklyn College, Nero set out on his career, but success didn't occur overnight. In 1960, RCA signed him to a recording contract, which produced 21 best-selling albums in a nine-year period.

Transplants Arrested

ROCKY HILL (AP) — Town Councilman Louis G. LaPorta, 35, was charged Monday with disorderly conduct following a fight that he sparked Oct. 29 incident which resulted in the arrest of six youths.

Police said LaPorta was hospitalized after the incident last month with broken ribs, a broken nose and a battered left eye.

The late-night scrape unfolded in front of a Main Street restaurant but began earlier inside the restaurant when LaPorta allegedly pushed a youth out the door, police said.

Six Rocky Hill and Wetherfield youths out of a group of 25 who gathered outside the restaurant to continue the dispute were arrested, police said.

LaPorta's arrest came Monday at his home.

Teacher Report Card Proposal Under Study

HARTFORD (AP) — State teachers and school officials may be getting report cards as well as giving them out if a proposed plan is adopted by the State Board of Education.

And the plan, designed to revamp the state's programs for evaluation and certification of school personnel, is earning falling marks from many of the people it will affect.

The goal of the plan is to give school employees a voice in grading their colleagues' performance and in deciding when they deserve official certification. The plan also would permit such specially qualified persons as filmmakers and authors to teach without rigid course and degree prerequisites.

Many critics of the proposals, which were written by a State Board of Education task force, say they don't object to the motives behind them. But they say they are concerned about problems involved in putting them into effect.

The proposals revolve around groups of citizens and teachers that would evaluate teachers and principals. Groups would permit such specially qualified persons as filmmakers and authors to teach without rigid course and degree prerequisites.

Morris Nirenstein, president of the Connecticut Education Association (CEA), says there is no guarantee of the reliability or validity of evaluations.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The spacecraft in the United States' last planned mission to the moon will bear the names "America" and "Challenger."

Apollo 17 commander Eugene Cernan said that "the names of those names to mean something. We wanted to pay tribute to the people who dedicated their lives toward making the space program what it is."

The Aid to Parochial Schools Debate

At one time, daily prayers, Bible readings and released time for religious instruction were normal practices in public schools. Even then, however, many Catholic parents chose to send their children to the schools maintained by their church.

Many non-Catholic parents were likewise unhappy with a religious curriculum which of necessity had to be non-denominational and noncontroversial or, if you will, watering down almost to meaningless.

Experience has dictated that the public schools, which are supported by all the people for the benefit of all children, must strive for neutrality in this sphere. When parents have trouble agreeing on a simple thing like a non-denominational prayer, certainly there is no way to "permeate the educational process" with religious teaching that would not arouse intense disputation in the community and probably offend believers more than nonbelievers.

If this has resulted, as some allege, in a bias toward "secular humanism" in the schools, it is also true that large numbers of parents seem to have abdicated their own responsibility for overseeing the religious or moral training of their children in the best place for it—the home.

In this country parents are and always have been free to send their children to private schools, for religious reasons or for reasons quite unconnected with religion. Neither that freedom nor belief in God as opposed to nonbelief in God is at issue.

First Amendment considerations aside, the only legitimate issue for public debate is whether or not it would be in the best interest of the majority of Americans to permit diversion of tax monies away from the public schools to assist a minority which, for whatever reasons, does not wish to avail itself of the education provided by those schools.

One of the few things both presidential candidates agreed upon in 1972 was the need for some form of tax aid or tax relief for parents of parochial schoolchildren.

It remains to be seen whether a president so inclined and a Congress favorably disposed can meet up with a formula which will meet the First Amendment test of separation of church and state in the eyes of the Supreme Court.

In the meantime, a case for public aid to religious education was made recently by the author of a letter to The American School Board Journal. "Some people do indeed believe in God," wrote James J. Mason, "and consider the relationship between man and God to be of such primary concern that it should permeate the educational process."

"Other people believe differently, and either consider God to be a myth or unimportant. They believe that education should be silent on the subject."

"Why should the latter group, any more than the former, expect to have their position taught at the expense of those who don't share it? The money taken from parochial school parents for public schools is spent on a religion—secular humanism—just as truly as would be the converse. There is simply no such thing as a 'neutral' position on religion."

The only fair system, he concluded, would be for each taxpayer to earmark his taxes for the school he wants to support. That way no one's conscience would be trodden upon.

The basic fallacy in this argument is the assumption that the question is one of believers in God versus nonbelievers. It is not. It is a question of what is the best educational compromise in the pluralistic society that is America, a pluralism which includes many different kinds of believers as well as nonbelievers.

Our Revolting Youth

Hiram Skrogg University held its traditional 75th annual Homecoming Day last week. Among the nostalgic old grads revisiting the scenes of their youth was Abbie (Che) Hayden, Class of '70.

"Haven't you ever gone 'home'?" "Oh, yes," said Irwin proudly. "I was Freshman Chairman of the Autumn Letter Drive. It was a big success."

"Hells bells! Isn't there a radical left on this campus?" "Oh, there's lots," said Irwin helpfully. "Why, three guys in my frat alone voted for McGovern."

"The war, of course. What else?" "Che leaped to his feet. 'Stop the bombing! Bring our boys home! Vietnam for the Vietnamese!'"

"But Mr. Nixon's negotiating with Hanoi and Vietnam's Under the terms of the tentative agreement..." "Don't say another word," said Che. "We'll protest the draft instead. What right have these senile old men who run the Establishment to pick a war and then send us young men out to fight it?"

"It's involuntary service," cried Che. "Let's go smash the draft board's windows again!" "I'm afraid they shut it down for lack of business," said Irwin apologetically. "We're supposed to have an all-volunteer Army by next summer."

Bureaucratic Winter Palace

WASHINGTON—With the Christmas rush a menacing cloud on the horizon, it is a singular commentary on the flabbiness of our professional agitators that there has been no call for the storming of the bureaucratic Winter Palace known as the U.S. Postal Service.

Indeed, although the service touches the lives of every last citizen in the country, none of the candidates in the recent electoral nonsense made even a passing remark about the continuing deterioration of the mails. Yet this appalling situation costs all of us money, but in the price increases resulting from the added expense of doing business.

One executive of a billion-dollar industry, who demands anonymity lest the White House dispatch jack-booted Internal Revenue troopers to his offices, says it this way: "In the past five years, increased postal rates, poor service, mail theft and inordinate delays have upped our prices 10 per cent."

By now, everybody who has ever mailed a letter or—after the usual delay—received one, knows that the mail "service" just isn't working. When it takes at least three days, and usually four, for a letter to travel between New York and Washington, the Postal Service is much worse than merely inefficient—it is non-operative.

Over the years, the taxpayers have been told that the fault lay with lazy, incompetent, boozing and thieving postal workers, and Democratic and Republican administrations alike have promised that service would be improved once their policies forced these workers to shape up or ship out.

Undoubtedly there are bums handling mail, just as there are bums making a dishonest buck in private businesses, but my investigations have shown they are a minority—probably not more than 5 per cent of total personnel. Privately, postal officials admit this.

White House Shake-Up

It is encouraging to note that President Nixon does not intend to merely maintain the status quo as he enters his second term in the White House, but is planning a major shake-up of his administration.

The President, shortly after his landslide victory, asked for stand-by resignations from all his appointees, including Cabinet members. White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said some of them will be accepted.

It would be naive to assume that all of Nixon's appointments have performed well in their duties and a shake-up may be due to increase the efficiency in the executive branch. A series of major changes is also warranted in light of the charges linking White House staff members with political espionage during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Some of the changes will certainly include Cabinet members, such as Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and Housing Secretary George Romney have already indicated they will resign after the President has begun his second term.

There has been speculation that Henry Kissinger, the President's foreign affairs adviser, may replace William Rogers as Secretary of State. Even if Rogers is to resign, it is an appointment which should be rejected. Kissinger has more important duties than to be bogged down by the administrative work which falls on the shoulders of any Cabinet official. The President would be wise to keep Kissinger in his present assignment.

The President should not limit his review of the performance of his staff to the time between now and his inauguration but should continually evaluate, and change, his staff throughout the remainder of his administration. If he had done this in the past, the shadow of Watergate would not hang over the White House. (Waterbury Republican.)

LWV To Hold Two Sessions On Elections

The Manchester League of Women Voters elected two committees has scheduled two sessions for Wednesday—

one at 8:30 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Robert Heits, Rosewood Lane, Bolton; the other at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Joel Chason, 375 Summit St.

The chief concern of the League in its two-year state study, explained Mrs. Thomas Donovan, chairman of the election laws committee, "is the extent to which non-voting is caused by laws relating to qualifications for voting and to the actual process of registering and of casting votes."

Also to be discussed at the unit meetings are political party rules, which must operate under state and national party regulations and under state law.

On the election laws committee with Mrs. Donovan are Mrs. Ira Epstein, Mrs. George Lawrence and Mrs. Walter Schardt.

His article "Teaching in the British Primary School" appeared in "Educational Leadership" magazine in February.

He has organized several summer trips to England recently for the purpose of giving educators from the U. S. a first-hand opportunity to study the British primary system.

Prior to the program, both sponsoring organizations will conduct short business sessions. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Halobardo, PTO co-presidents, will conduct their meeting in the all-purpose room, while the Junior's president Judith Sena will preside in the art room.

The school libraries will be open during the evening for the PTO-sponsored book fair, according to co-chairmen Mrs. Samuel Teller and Mrs. John Roberts.

Book Fair
The Bolton Parent-Teacher Organization is sponsoring its annual book fair tonight and Wednesday at the Elementary and Center schools.

Students will have an opportunity to browse, view and purchase books on display in the libraries of both schools. Both libraries will also be open Wednesday evening so that parents and friends may attend.

Mrs. John Roberts and Mrs. Samuel Teller, fair co-chairmen, note that classics, adventure stories, mysteries, science, crafts and reference books will be available at popular prices.

Miners Trip
Two busloads of Bolton school children attended a presentation by the Strikers Players of University of Connecticut this weekend, through the efforts of the PTO.

The organization provided free bus transportation to those attending the performances Saturday and Sunday.

Children in kindergarten through grade 6 attended the musical production of "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "The Country Mouse and the City Mouse".

Mrs. Ernest Manning was in charge of arrangements. Bulletin Board
The Woman's Auxiliary of Bolton Football Association will meet today at 8 p.m. at Community Hall.

The town government study committee will hold its second meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Community Hall.

Optional
When I started to play tennis, beginners wore madras shorts and polo shirts and if you appeared on the court in plaid sneakers no one said "Boo!" You didn't consider buying tennis whites, until you were able to return at least five consecutive forehands (and maybe two backhands).

In those days, putting on a white tennis outfit was like announcing to the world, "I am a tennis player!" It was not done lightly.

When my mother first heard I had taken up the game, she ran right out and bought me a tennis dress. Do you know it took me six months to get up the courage to wear it? But when I did wear it, my tennis game improved. It was as though I had to live up to the white look!

Today, beginning players are sold their first tennis whites at the same time they are sold their first tennis racket. Clothes have become part of the basic equipment. And they are more than just comfortable clothes, they are fashions, created by designers who spend inspired hours at the drawing board.

The designers have come up with styles to fit every personality. There are tennis shirtwaist dresses for the all American girl type, frilly dresses for the feminine type, little boy shorts for the athletic type and for the free spirit, dresses with bare-backs or bare-midriffs or both!

The men's department is not without drama either. Pancho Gonzales and Arthur Ashe are pushing bright colored shirts with matching sneakers. And more than one man has appeared at Forest Hills in a see-through fish net shirt!

Many men (certainly the one I'm an expert on) are buying the new look. They find a style and stick to it. Why my husband will go out and buy four pairs of tennis shoes, but he'll stick to the pair that fits him, he doesn't care one bit if they express his true personality.

The designers are pushing the "Complete Tennis Look." This involves tennis bags, towels, sweaters, warm-up suits, hats, sweat bands, racket covers, and for the girl who wants to look nice from all angles) gorgeous ruffled tennis panties! Even tennis balls fit into the fashion picture now, for they are made in colors. Any day I expect to read that fashion-wise women coordinate pink trimmed dresses with pink tennis balls!

The other night my husband and I were going out to play some mixed doubles. As I stood in front of my closet door thoughtfully, I questioned my husband. "What do you think I look best in, my pleated skirt or the dress with the green trim?"

"I think you look best," answered my husband without a moment's hesitation. "When your backhand is working and you keep the ball away from the net men!"

Kiwanis Auction Starts Tonight

The 13th annual Manchester Kiwanis Club Radio Auction opens tonight at 7:45 on Radio Station WINF (1230 kh). The auction, featuring nearly 300 items, runs both tonight and tomorrow night. All proceeds go to the Kiwanis Scholarship Fund.

The merchandise, ranging from a hatbox to a spinet piano, was all donated by Manchester area merchants. Retail value of the goods, which are on display in the front window of Watkins Bros., 915 Main St., is more than $6,000.

Auction Chairman Leo Juran, noting that this year's auction is the biggest ever, said it has something for everyone.

One of the most unusual items, Juran said, is a Kiwanis gum ball vending machine, complete with 750 gum balls. There are several antiques, including a genuine Tiffany lamp, on the auction block as well.

The auction items are arranged in 24 groups — 12 groups will be sold each night. In addition, there are eight special items on which bids will be accepted both nights.

A new feature of this year's auction, Juran said, are

Schardt, Retiring, Reviews Work

To open last night's Board of Education meeting, Mayor Thomas presented certificates of appreciation for "honorable and faithful service" to three retiring board members at their last meeting. They are Dr. Walter M. Schardt, nine years of service; Mrs. Anita Murphy, six years; and Roy Conyers, in absentia, three years.

In his final report as chairman of the education policies committee, Dr. Schardt reviewed the major accomplishments that he has achieved in the school system during the past decade and called attention to areas that he feels will require dedicated effort to improve or correct. Excerpts from his comments follow.

The greatest philosophical change that our school system has undergone in the past 10 years is the increased awareness of the uniqueness of individual child. This has led to the board's present program of individual education for the Manchester students. Over the past 10 years it has become evident to teachers and administrators alike that new problems were occurring in the school system. Many teachers have told me it was becoming harder to control their classrooms because of severe disruptive actions on the part of certain students.

To deal on an item, telephone 967-0101 and about 40 Kiwanians will take the calls and place bids.

Winning bidders can pay for and pick up their items at Watkins Bros. Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Assisting Chairman Juran said that about 40 Kiwanians and about 40 Kiwanians will take the calls and place bids.

Moynihan Surprise Choice Phil Bengston Entered In Race Hopes to Pick Up Pats' Pieces

By Earl Yost
New England's finest country runner, Dan Moynihan of Tufts University, is the latest "name" to enter the field for the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester Thanksgiving morning.

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Phil Bengston, who helped Vince Lombardi take the Green Bay Packers from a dormant to five National Football League championships and victories in the first two Super Bowls, was set to tackle another tough job today as interim coach of the New England Patriots.

With the arrival of quarterback Jim Plunkett, the Patriots surprised everyone last season, compiling a 6-8 record. Bell thought he had authority to hire a new coach, but found out differently as the club's board of directors handed Mazar a new one-year contract.

Patriots President Bill Sullivan said that after Mazar's resignation the board of directors met with Bell and asked him "if he had any suggestions in his brief case and he said he had a few."

The race starts at 10:30 on the lower end of Main Street, opposite School Street. This will also be the finishing point. Headquarters will again be set up at the East Side Inn. Moynihan, who capped the New England Intercollegiate Cross Country Championship the past two seasons, has taken part in two previous Five Miles, placing fifth both times, in 1968 — as a Malden, Mass., schoolboy — and in 1969 as a freshman at Wesleyan. He later transferred to Tufts.

Mazar, a former Notre Dame quarterback who also helped to build a couple of champions as an assistant coach with the Buffalo Bills, took over the Patriots midway through the 1970 season when Clive Rush was asked to step out.

Bengston, an assistant coach at Missouri and Stanford before joining the 49ers in 1961, comes to the Patriots from the San Diego Chargers, where he was defensive coordinator last year and director of pro scouting this season.

"I was really surprised they approached me," he said in San Diego. "I think they chose me because of my availability more than anything else. I hope to come back to San Diego next year."

Despite Brushes With Law

Rodgers Rates High In Heisman Balloting

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney says he doesn't think Johnny Rodgers' brushes with the law should have anything to do with the Cornhusker football star's consideration for the Heisman Trophy.

Rodgers, a receiver and kick return specialist, pleaded guilty in 1971 to a felony charge growing out of a gas station holdup. He was placed on probation for two years.

Early this year, Rodgers was arrested on suspicion of possession of marijuana. The charge was dropped. Rodgers was convicted last month of operating a motor vehicle while his driver's license was revoked.

Devaney, talking by telephone from Lincoln, Neb., during a Big Eight Conference briefing session, said if the Heisman Trophy "is to be a character award, they ought to list it as such."

"I certainly don't think anything that has happened to Johnny since then (the larceny conviction) like driving with a suspended driver's license should keep him from winning the trophy."

"Johnny has played excellent football. He continues to amaze me with the things he does on the football field."

Coaches Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma and Don Fambrough of Kansas also indicated the award should be based solely on a player's football ability.

Amherst Ivy League Caliber

Trinity Coach Don Miller was tremendously impressed with Amherst, a 347 winner over the Bantams last Saturday.

"Amherst is at the top of their cycle, I hope. They have the depth to play an Ivy League schedule this season. I don't think they could every year, but they have the personnel to do it today and make a good showing."

"I see two even clubs going at it Saturday," he warned. On the other side of the ledger, Bill Macdermott of Wesleyan said his club was coming off its best performance of the season, although it was a loss to Williams.

"We haven't completely jelled. We haven't been able to put together four good quarters. I hope that we can Saturday."

Bill Loike at Central is well aware of the hex Southern has held in recent years.

"It's our biggest game in New Haven. We respect Southern and we know we have had little success against them in recent years."

"A winning season will be at stake as we both have 4-5 records. Bridgeport, 9-0, will be facing a club with just the opposite record, Springfield, 0-9. That's the kind of a club a coach has to worry about."

"We know we are a better football team, with better personnel," Ed Farrell reported. "Our big job is to keep the club up."

Traditional Games

Traditional games will mark the Saturday college slate. In addition to Yale-Princeton, Trinity and Wesleyan will lock horns at Middletown. Connecticut hosts Rhode Island at Storrs and Central Connecticut and Southern Connecticut tangle in New Haven.

All state teams will meet Saturday except Bridgeport, a team which boasts the nation's longest winning streak and UConn, which was idle.

Bob Casciola, of UConn, who admitted he enjoyed the day off by watching and coaching via television two victories, as advocated by Dr. Silber of Boston University. The latter feels that coaches should sit in the stands and give the game back to the players.

"I like Rhode Island to our club," Casciola said as he seeks to raise his season mark to .500 at 4.4 against the Rams.

"We haven't lost to them in nine years. They have lost their last five games after winning their first three. They have a lot of young players, just like our club."

Facilities since the first week of the season, Southern Cal received 42 first-place votes and 984 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Alabama held onto second with five ballots for first place and 890 points.

Michigan, the only other team to get top-place votes with three, was third on a total of 812 points.

Nebraska, most everyone's pre-season choice to maintain its No. 1 spot from last year, fell to fifth place as a result of Saturday's 23-23 tie with Iowa State. The Cornhuskers dropped out of the top spot after losing to UCLA on opening day.

Yale Ran Into Buzz-Saw

Yale's football team ran into a buzz-saw in Philadelphia last Saturday and the result was a lopsided 48-30 defeat administered by Penn. Penn was so superior that they left 43 before putting in the reserves.

Big Harry Jacuski, who handles the Ivy frosh and then scouts upcoming foes on Saturday, filled in for Cozza, per usual, and he didn't offer any alibis.

Amherst Ivy League Caliber

Trinity Coach Don Miller was tremendously impressed with Amherst, a 347 winner over the Bantams last Saturday.

"Amherst is at the top of their cycle, I hope. They have the depth to play an Ivy League schedule this season. I don't think they could every year, but they have the personnel to do it today and make a good showing."

"I see two even clubs going at it Saturday," he warned. On the other side of the ledger, Bill Macdermott of Wesleyan said his club was coming off its best performance of the season, although it was a loss to Williams.

"We haven't completely jelled. We haven't been able to put together four good quarters. I hope that we can Saturday."

Bill Loike at Central is well aware of the hex Southern has held in recent years.

Best College Grid Team No. 2 In Poll

Alabama Bryant's Opinion

NEW YORK (AP) — The best football team in the country is only No. 2 in the Associated Press college football poll, according to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant.

"The way I see it, the team that improves the most over a season should be No. 1," says Bryant. "And I think that we have improved tremendously."

Alabama, still second to Southern California in this week's poll, won the Southeastern Conference title Saturday with a 35-21 rout of sixth ranked Louisiana State. Bryant thinks it proved something.

"It was a great win for a great football team against a great team," said Bryant, overlooking his own superlatives.

Before Saturday's convincing victory over the Tigers, Bryant said he thought that perhaps Southern Cal and Michigan might be better than his team.

"The polls have not been important until now," said Bryant. "But this season coming to an end, they become very important — especially at the top of the list. As I see it, there's plenty of room at the top for us."

Southern Cal, Alabama and Michigan, the only major teams with perfect records, remained 1-2 in the AP ratings, released Monday.

Facilities since the first week of the season, Southern Cal received 42 first-place votes and 984 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Michigan, the only other team to get top-place votes with three, was third on a total of 812 points.

Russian Hockey Tour Doubtful

NEW YORK (AP) — Proposed Clarence Campbell's announcement that the proposed series between a touring Russian team and four National Hockey League clubs has, for the moment at least, fallen through is the latest twist in hockey's cold war with the Communist world.

Fairbanks said, "I think the award is supposed to go to the best football player."

Fairbanks did not elaborate probably because one of his own players, quarterback Greg Pruitt, is regarded as a prime candidate since he finished third in last year's voting.

Clemens Named

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Roberto Clement and former major league Vic Power head the Puerto Rican team in the World Amateur Baseball Championship to be held in Nicaragua Nov. 15-Dec. 5.

Twenty-teams from the Americas, Europe, Asia and the Caribbean will compete in the amateur tourney. Among the teams are Japan, Taiwan and West Germany.

The NHL's relations with the Russians have been extremely sensitive ever since September's series between Team Canada and the Soviet national squad. That eight-game set was riddled with problems but in the midst of it, the Russians expressed interest in a possible return series against several NHL clubs.

Campbell pursued the idea and it seemed set for January. Then, suddenly came a stumbling block—undoubtedly by Campbell—that appears to have scuttled the plans.

Campbell did not name the problem but hinted that it involved the International Ice Hockey Federation. Russia is a member of the Federation which requires consent of the countries involved before sanctioning an international competition.

"The NHL won't ask for consent on behalf of another party," Campbell said. From that, it would seem that the Russians had asked the NHL to intercede in their behalf with the IHF.

23 Straight Strikes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Earl Anthony came up with 23 consecutive strikes—including a perfect game—Monday night and finally nailed down first place and the $6,000 prize in the $50,000 American Airlines Open Bowling Tournament at Western Wood.

The Tacoma, Wash., southpaw, who has taken his third Professional Bowlers Association title this year, and fifth lifetime, was bounded throughout the three-day event by veteran Don McCune, a Munster, Ind., pro, who was trying for his third PBA crown.

The two, who almost lapped the 24-man final field, came down to the 42nd and last game of the competition 40 pins apart, with Anthony, who only one game earlier had topped the tournament's third perfect game, on the long end.

Third-place Jimmy McHugh of New York City was 15-10 and received $2,500.

Rounding out the top five finishers were Mike Lemongello, Islip, N.Y., and Ernie Schliegel, Newburg, N.Y. Their payoffs were $2,000 and $1,600, respectively.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Despite a recent red light from the citizens of Colorado, the International Olympic Committee has not ruled out Denver as a site for the 1976 Olympic Games.

"At this time we have not received any resignation from the U.S. Olympic Committee for Denver," says Lord Killam, president of the IOC.

Killam, in a statement Monday, added that his organization would release no further information "until we have firm news."

The IOC chief later huddled with his committeemen, but it was expected that a decision on the 1976 Olympic site might have to wait several months.

"The issue was brought to light Monday when a spokesman for the Colorado Citizens Committee To Retain The Winter Games went before the IOC to plead for a second chance.

Browns' Hopes Alive Thanks to Mike Phipps

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The trade that sent Cleveland Brown receiver Paul Warfield to Miami for a draft choice three years ago was greeted by cheers in Miami—and groans in Cleveland.

Both reactions grew louder last year when Warfield helped the Dolphins in the Super Bowl and Cleveland's draft choice, quarterback Mike Phipps, didn't play often or well.

But Brown Coach Nick Skorich isn't groaning today. "I think it was one of the greatest trades the Browns have ever made," he said Monday night after Phipps' 38-yard touchdown pass to Frank Pitts with 41 seconds to play gave the Browns a 21-17 victory over the San Diego Chargers. It kept the Browns' National Football League playoff hopes alive.

"We had to give up a super receiver but we got a great young quarterback in Phipps," Skorich said. "He'll play 15-18 years."

The victory, before 54,202 and a national television audience, was the Browns' fourth straight and gave them a 6-3 record, one game behind Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central Division. They met the Steelers twice in the next four weeks.

The Chargers, 3-4, dropped their fifth straight game after taking the lead with 1:21 to play on Mike Garrett's three-yard run.

Phipps, who spent his first two NFL seasons on the bench behind veteran Bill Nelsen, said he had planned to set up a game-tying field goal when the call for a long pass came in from the bench.

"It's hard to score in less than a minute," he said. "You have to think 'field goal' in a situation like that."

On the winning play, Phipps said, "I thought the pass was a little bit out of his (Pitts) reach."

The veteran Pitts had a wrenched back and said he hadn't expected to play. But besides the final pass, he caught four others and also got the Browns moving late in the first half with a 13-yard run on a flanker receive. San Diego Coach Harland Svare said his team "blew pass defenses all day long."

"Everybody wasn't playing the same defense, particularly on that last series," he said. "It's downright silly to let them go that long, that fast for a score."

San Diego's mistakes weren't limited to pass defense. The Chargers fumbled the ball away twice, once on the Cleveland four-yard line after a 73-yard march. Mike Garrett gained 89 yards and running mate Cid Edwards pounded out 91, also catching a four-yard run-off pass from John Hadl. On the Cleveland side, Leroy Kelly rushed for 67 yards, Phipps one yard for a touchdown and Ken Brown two yards for a score. Brown also ran 19 yards with a swing pass, on the play before the winning touchdown.

Celtics Defeat Pistons

The Boston Celtics have reached the stage where even a no-count game seems important, but stiffer tests lie just around the corner.

All teams in the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association enjoyed a break in the schedules Monday night, but the Celtics and the Detroit Pistons kept busy.

A crowd of 8,804 turned out at the new Civic Center in Springfield, Mass., for the first Basketball Hall of Fame benefit game. The fans were rewarded with plenty as the Celtics called for a 118-117 exhibition victory.

The Celtics, who have won 13 of 14 NBA starts for the lead in the league's Atlantic Division, repeated their official 121-118 victory over the Pistons Saturday night at Boston Garden. They came from behind with a 30-point fourth period.

The game was strictly an exhibition, but there was some hot action. Detroit's Dave Bing suffered a three-stitch gash over his left eye in the first period, and Boston's Paul Silas and the Pistons' Willie Norwood exchanged punches without damage in the third quarter.

Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 27 points and 11 rebounds, while Jo Jo White contributed 20 points. John Menglet of the Pistons topped all scorers with 28 points.

The Celtics returned home for a practice session today before meeting the Phoenix Suns at the Garden Wednesday night. Then the mighty Milwaukee Bucks invade Boston Friday night.

Unusual Situation When USC Meets UCLA Grid Game with High Stakes Matches McNeill Brothers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The McNeill brothers try to beat each other Saturday in Memorial Coliseum but they call it just a football game with high stakes, not a civil war.

Rod McNeill, 6-foot-2, 218 pounds, is a tailback for the University of Southern California and brother Fred, an inch taller, is a 198-pound defensive end for archrival UCLA.

They surprised themselves by choosing different schools and they live together about half way between the two campuses.

"We kid each other a lot," says Fred. "He makes statements like he's going to run me over when he comes around my end and I say I'm going to stop him."

Rod, a year older than 21, says, "I'm not going to try to think about running at my brother. If I do too much thinking, I'm not going to get too far. I'll do the best I can but I'll try not to think that he's my brother."

"When I'm running, I try not to hurt anybody but I've taught to punish tacklers. I've more than we receive. I've just got to try to keep emotions out of it."

"I haven't told him, 'No, you can't stop me,' but I have assured him it won't be an easy thing for him to do. 'I've seen him in films,' says Rod. "He's pretty vicious out there. A defensive man has to be a virtual animal and it will be hard for him to think of me as his brother."

Fred says he won't let up when he sees Rod coming.

"I heard of a story of two brothers playing pro ball," says Fred. "One guy hit his brother and knocked him out. After recovering, he said it was just football and that he was proud of his brother. That's the way I'd feel."

UCLA's Bruins, 8-2, will try to destroy top-ranked USC's perfect 9-0 season and bid for a national championship, as well as take away from the Trojans the Pacific-8 title and rights to the Rose Bowl. The game, starting at 8 p.m., EST, will be televised nationally.

"There are very high stakes, of course, but we're going into it with the attitude that it's another day-to-day competition," says Rod. "When it's all over, one of us will pick up the other and give him free tickets to the Rose Bowl."

Board Considering Higher MHS Graduation Standards

A proposal to increase graduation requirements for graduation from Manchester High School from the present 13 to 14 credits for this year's junior class and 15 for this year's sophomores and subsequent senior classes was submitted to the Board of Education last night.

Requirements will remain 13 for the senior class.

Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said that he would be prepared to make a recommendation at the next board meeting.

If the proposal is adopted, the following requirements would be effective in Grades 10-12, effective with the Class of 1978, for a student to qualify for a diploma: English, 3 credits; mathematics, 1 credit (two years of bookkeeping may be substituted); science, 1 credit; social studies, 1 credit; physical education, 12 credits (1 credit for mid-year graduation); and electives, 7 1/2 credits.

George Emmerling, MHS principal, said that the proposed 15-credit requirement marks a partial return to the 17-credit policy of some 10 years ago, when the high school comprised Grades 9-12. With the change to a three-year school, the number was reduced to 13.

He added that the upping of graduation requirements was motivated by the major concern for student time devoted to extracurricular activities as against the amount of unassigned time (study halls, lunch). A step toward expanding learning time began last year, he said, with lengthening the school day to eight periods and increasing minimum class periods per week to 27.

H. Elaine Miller, MHS vice principal, said that the proposed addition of two graduation requirements would give no space problem until the

'Boycott' Statement

Arthur Glaeser, President of Manchester Educational Association said this morning that he could not fully respond to a statement issued last night by the Board of Education regarding an apparent boycott of teachers at last night's PTSD Open House at Hill Junior High School.

Glaeser said, however, that he did consider the statement "inaccurate."

Board Chairman Allan Thomas and Dr. James Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said in the statement that "The MEA was ill advised to sponsor such action" and apologized to the parent of filing students who attended the Open House and "found their child's teacher absent."

A number of teachers chose not to attend the Open House, because the MEA position is that teachers need not volunteer for non-teaching duties. Glaeser cited a Wetherfield court case which upheld this position, but stated that the MEA has gone no further in its position other than to note that the court ruled PTO functions are non-teaching duties and that teachers need not volunteer for these duties.

Glaeser added that, since the school board has not assigned teachers to these duties, it "must recognize this itself."

For its part, the school board and the superintendent through their joint statement feel that they "cannot and will not recognize such actions on the part of the MEA as a legitimate means of resolving a matter of negotiations." They will, they add, "how to such unprofessionalism and disrespect."

The board statement adds that "The issue of extra pay for evening and weekend assignments has been an unresolved issue for almost a year. The issue came as a result of an arbitrator's award over a year ago which said such duties must be compensated, but did not fix the amount. What is ironic about last night's events is that attendance at such events as a PTSD Open House has never been raised as an activity for which teachers would seek compensation."

A 4-mill cut in Manchester's property tax rate is being recommended by the Republican Town Committee. In a resolution adopted unanimously last night, the committee proposes that it take effect Jan. 1, 1978, on 1977-78 half taxes.

The resolution, drafted and introduced by State Sen. David O'Leary, reads: "Be it resolved that the Manchester Republican Town Committee go on record and urge the Manchester Board of Directors to reduce the property tax rate at least 4 mills, effective Jan. 1, 1978, at an estimated saving to the taxpayers of about $500,000."

"We urge this action because of a surplus of approximately $500,000, generated by a Republican-prepared budget, and because of the approximate $177,000 Manchester will receive as a result of President Nixon's revenue-sharing act."

"It is our feeling that a portion of these monies should be used to help relieve the heavy burden on Manchester's taxpayers."

Three weeks ago, State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, a former Manchester mayor, reminded the Board of Directors by letter that "the primary reason for a revenue-sharing bill is to reduce the heavy burden on property owners, especially the home property tax."

He urged the board to utilize the funds under a two-point program by reducing property taxes about 2 mills, effective Jan. 1, 1973; and by granting an additional $1,000 exemption to property owners 65 and over, with the exemption to be retroactive to July 1, 1972, the beginning of the current fiscal year.

The Board of Directors has not replied to Agostinelli's letter. It has, however, taken two policy positions. It has decided not to allocate any funds from 1971-72 unappropriated surplus except for the 1971-72 General Fund sometime in December.

"It is our feeling that a portion of these monies should be used to help relieve the heavy burden on Manchester's taxpayers."

Three weeks ago, State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, a former Manchester mayor, reminded the Board of Directors by letter that "the primary reason for a revenue-sharing bill is to reduce the heavy burden on property owners, especially the home property tax."

He urged the board to utilize the funds under a two-point program by reducing property taxes about 2 mills, effective Jan. 1, 1973; and by granting an additional $1,000 exemption to property owners 65 and over, with the exemption to be retroactive to July 1, 1972, the beginning of the current fiscal year.

The Board of Directors has not replied to Agostinelli's letter. It has, however, taken two policy positions. It has decided not to allocate any funds from 1971-72 unappropriated surplus except for the 1971-72 General Fund sometime in December.

A 4-mill cut in Manchester's property tax rate is being recommended by the Republican Town Committee. In a resolution adopted unanimously last night, the committee proposes that it take effect Jan. 1, 1978, on 1977-78 half taxes.

The resolution, drafted and introduced by State Sen. David O'Leary, reads: "Be it resolved that the Manchester Republican Town Committee go on record and urge the Manchester Board of Directors to reduce the property tax rate at least 4 mills, effective Jan. 1, 1978, at an estimated saving to the taxpayers of about $500,000."

"We urge this action because of a surplus of approximately $500,000, generated by a Republican-prepared budget, and because of the approximate $177,000 Manchester will receive as a result of President Nixon's revenue-sharing act."
