

Secret Peace Talks Imminent

North Vietnamese Oppose Changes In Draft Agreement

PARIS (AP) — A new round of secret Vietnam peace negotiations was imminent today, but North Vietnam in advance rejected any changes in the draft cease-fire agreement worked out by Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of the North Vietnamese Politburo.

Xuan Thuy, the chief of North Vietnam's delegation in Paris, told the weekly session of the semipublic peace talks: "We resolutely reject all the pretexts put forth by the United States and Saigon to demand modification of the substance of the agreement."

He repeated Hanoi's persistent demand that the United States "immediately sign the agreement."

The chief modification demanded by Saigon, a provision calling for the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam, was repeated today by South Vietnam's representative at the session, Nguyen Xuan Phong.

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said: "Each of us is aware that the restoration of peace in Vietnam is approaching. Each of us is equally well aware of the efforts being made to refine and perfect the accomplishments of the negotiation so that a settlement fair to all will result."

In a brief prepared statement to the meeting, Porter avoided any reference to substantive issues but urged the Communist side to avoid "exaggerated rhetoric and unfounded charges of bad faith."

He declared that "our discussions should be directed toward the goal of peaceful settlement, much nearer than we imagined only a few weeks ago."

"We have come this far because of negotiations conducted in good will and with constructive purpose. Still further progress will come to us through the same means."

Phong told newsmen as he arrived for the meeting that his government regards such a withdrawal and restoration of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam as "essential elements" of any agreement.

The draft, as outlined by Hanoi and discussed with newsmen by Kissinger, makes no mention of either point. American sources have said that Tho, in his secret meetings in Paris last month with Kissinger, gave him to understand that some North Vietnamese would be withdrawn from the northern part of South Vietnam. But the implication has been that most of Hanoi's forces in the South would stay where they were.

Tho was in Moscow today, en route to Paris from Hanoi, and he and Kissinger were expected to meet in Paris this weekend for what the U.S. presidential adviser has said would be their final round of talks to agree on details and the wording of the agreement.

They confirmed that Le Duc Tho would arrive in Paris on Friday.

East Hartford Fire Damages Six Stores

EAST HARTFORD (AP) — A three-alarm fire destroyed or severely damaged six stores Wednesday on the Brewer Street Shopping Plaza on Main Street, authorities said.

The first call came in at 6:30 p.m. from a fire house across the street from the shopping plaza and most of the towns firemen and apparatus responded, bringing the blaze under control about two hours later.

Flames from floor to ceiling engulfed four of the shops, while the other two were heavily damaged. The flames gave off large clouds of smoke for hours.

No serious injuries were reported.

Several hundred persons watched firemen battle the flames in the chilly evening, and motorists en route to see the blaze caused a traffic jam on Route 2.

Officials speculated that the fire started in the rear of Frank's Supermarket and spread to the stores on both sides. Frank's, the Brewer Barber Shop, Drug Town, Dan Dee Cleaners, were all severely burned, and Puritan Maid Bakery and the Brewer Hardgard were seriously damaged, firemen said. The shops were all in one building.

Portions of the roof collapsed, although a large sign over the supermarket remained standing.

The supermarket, drugstore and bakery were open when the blaze started, and all customers and workers apparently escaped unharmed.

About an hour after the fire started one of the fire hoses broke, sending spurts of water into the air, and scattering spectators as the hose jumped around the parking lot.

Seapark's Department Store, which shares the parking lot with the shops was not damaged. No estimate of the damage was available late Wednesday night.

The supermarket was the major food store in the neighborhood, and many of the elderly residents of Shea Gardens depended on it for food.

Commission Hears Plea For Mayor-Council Plan

State Sen. David Odegard, center, asks Charter Revision Commission to consider a change to strong-mayor government for Manchester. At left is Leonard Seader, whose motion that the council-manager government be preserved for Manchester was adopted 10 to 3. Behind Odegard is Dominic Squatrito. Next to him is Phyllis Jackson and Frank Stamler. (Herald photo by Bucevicius.)

Council-Manager Plan Favored

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

The Manchester Charter Revision Commission, by a 10 to 3 vote last night that crossed party lines, backed the council-manager form of government and recommended to the Board of Directors that it be preserved in the town charter.

A motion to recommend a referendum for a change to a strong-mayor government never got to a vote. The motion died for lack of a second.

When the Board of Directors appointed the 15-member CRC last March, it directed it to conduct an inquiry appropriate to the improvement of the operation of town government. "The scope of inquiry," read the charge, "shall include an examination and evaluation of the present form of government in Manchester." The CRC made as its top priority "an examination and evaluation of the existing council-manager government and the recommended strong-mayor government, and it devoted four successive meetings (between Oct. 11 and Nov. 1) for comparing the two.

The recommendations for a change to a strong-mayor government came from the executive committee of the Manchester Property Owners Association. Last night's 10 to 3 action for preserving the council-manager government was on a motion by Leonard Seader, a Democrat. The motion was seconded by John Rotner, a Republican.

The motion which failed to come to a vote for want of a second was made by State Sen. David Odegard, a Republican. His motion, in effect, was an amendment to Seader's motion and, had it passed, would have placed the CRC on record as recommending the strong-mayor government.

Voting to preserve the council-manager government were Democrats Seader, State Rep. Francis Mahoney, Dominic Squatrito, Phyllis Jackson, Frank Stamler and Robert Stone; and Republicans Rotner, John Shea, Eugene Montany and Harlan Taylor.

Voting "no" were Republicans Odegard and State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, and Democrat John Sullivan.

Not present last night was Republican Thomas Ferguson. Democrat John FitzGerald, as chairman of the CRC, did not cast a vote.

The CRC now will proceed to review and discuss all other recommendations received by it for charter changes. It will meet Nov. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room, to receive reports from its seven sub-committees. It has to Feb. 6 to submit its proposed charter changes to the Board of Directors. Whatever final proposals emerge would require voter approval at a townwide referendum.

Agostinelli, the first to speak after Seader's motion was made and seconded, explained why he was voting against it. "There seems to be a feeling in town for some change in our form of government — otherwise this commission would not even have been appointed," he said. "Those persons who appeared before us gave us no clear-cut direction. Former town managers spoke for the council-manager government. The one mayor who appeared, spoke in favor of his government."

Agostinelli insisted the commission had not discussed the two proposals enough. Recommending that the proposal for a strong-mayor government be placed on the machines, "with the CRC members taking no official position, for or against it," he said, "I feel the people are the ones who should decide."

Odegard said he agreed with Agostinelli and that he too was opposed to Seader's motion. He said the people who spoke before the CRC were very articulate and very fair, but that each favored the government he or she was best familiar with.

"The opportunity to decide whether or not a change is to be made in our government should be the people's," he said. "It shouldn't be made by the Charter Revision Commission or the Board of Directors."

"A good form of government depends on how it responds to the people," said Odegard. "At the time I first was elected to the Board of Directors, I backed the council-manager government. At this time, I feel differently. An elected head in the executive branch increases the degree of responsiveness. The responsibility of a town manager is to the town council. The responsibility of a mayor is to the electorate at large — and that is best."

Ponder Tax Cut Session

HARTFORD (AP) — Democratic leaders of the "lame duck" state Senate are considering a special tax cut session that would be held in about two weeks.

President Pro Tem Charles T. Alfano and Majority Leader J. Edward Caldwell said they would meet today to discuss the idea.

House Speaker William Ratchford, who has the power to reconvene the House, said he was still not sure whether any tax cut could be passed in the aftermath of the election.

But Alfano and Caldwell indicated they would try to do what could be done to cut state taxes before the current General Assembly goes out of business and is succeeded next year by a legislature controlled by the Republicans.

Ratchford and other House leaders wanted to cut the sales tax by a full percentage point—bringing it down from 7 per cent to 6 per cent—before the election.

But the 19 Democratic state senators, who compose a bare majority in the upper chamber, had differing ideas about the kind of cut to be made and nothing happened in either the Senate or the House.

Now, Alfano and Caldwell are considering a tax cut that might attract bipartisan support, such as lowering the sales tax by just half a percentage point to 6.5 per cent.

Aid Reaches Cutter

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A Japanese freighter tied up with the stricken Coast Guard cutter Jarvis in Alaska's Aleutian chain this morning, ending a lonely, nine-hour ordeal for the American vessel floundering without power in "mountainous seas."

Coast Guard spokesmen said the Koyo Maru No. 3, one of five merchant ships dispatched to help the crippled cutter, was the first rescue vessel to arrive at the scene 20 miles south of Akutan Island.

It was not known how the freighter would help the Jarvis, a 378-foot, jet-powered cutter described as the pride of the Coast Guard fleet.

"The Jarvis is not yet in the clear, but definitely on her way there," the spokesman said. "It's always a good thing when you have a line between a sick ship and a healthy ship."

One other Japanese merchantman, two Russian ships and a Greek vessel continued to respond to the Jarvis SOS.

Spokesmen said flooding that inundated the cutter's engine room had been controlled, and Capt. Frederick O. Wooley reported his ship was "in no imminent danger of sinking."

There were no injuries reported among the crew, which officials placed at 170 men.

City Workers Contribute Sick-Leave

Praise is coming from all sides for 12 employees of the Manchester water and sewer department who donated part of their sick-leave time to help a fellow employee who was in the hospital with a serious illness and now is at home recuperating.

With the approval of the town manager, each of the 12 donated 5 days of his sick-leave time — to a total of 60 days. The 12 are: Stanley Lambert, Charles Fuller, Lou Cherubini, Edward Parker, Oliver Lavallee, Richard Ottaviano, Kenneth Cates, John Bozio, Joseph Baldwin, Ronald Hampson, Milton Stavitsky and Alan Ladotaki.

Laird Foresees A Lasting Peace

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today he is hopeful and confident President Nixon's foreign policy initiatives "will indeed lead to a peace that will last" in Vietnam and in the world.

"With continued dedication to strength and partnership as the essential foundation for meaningful negotiation and with the continued support of Congress and the American people, we are reaching that goal," he said.

Laird's speech was prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of Associated Press Managing Editors.

Laird said Nixon's approach to national security represented a fundamental departure from past policies and attitudes.

"Those who fashioned our foreign policy in the past decade perceived the role of the United States as the ultimate guarantor of peace in the world—in effect the problem solver for all of the world's security ills," he said.

But under the Nixon doctrine of helping America's allies help themselves, he said, this country "will no longer try to play policeman to the world."

This philosophy, he told the editors, also is reflected in the President's approach to domestic affairs, such as in the newly enacted revenue-sharing program of turning back federal funds to the state.

"The unifying thrust in both domestic and foreign policy is an underlying trust in the ability and willingness of others to do a needed job—local officials and local citizens of America, governments and their citizens in their nations," he said.

Laird, who repeated that he intends to resign in January, said he is satisfied to have helped "in designing and carrying out the policies that have turned our nation away from war and toward peace, away from a wartime economy and toward a peacetime economy, away from a military force dominated by draftees to one made up of men and women volunteers, away from confrontation and toward negotiation."

country, which, under the law, is exactly and precisely zero," he said.

Meskill insisted that "the man doesn't live who has any more respect than I do for the profession of journalism." But he added that "some members of the press have continued to drive for this kind of law with a tribal fervor that approaches the supernatural."

Unlike the privileged communications between lawyers and their clients, clergymen and their parishioners and doctors and their patients, the information newsmen learn in private are "plastered over the front pages and broadcast to millions," Meskill said.

Doctors, lawyers and clergymen "have earned the right to privileged communication" and are "constantly responsible to outside authority," Meskill said. "The lawyer faces disbarment, the clergyman being defrocked, the doctor the loss of his right to practice medicine."

"Who determines what a newsmen is?" asked the government.

"His employer, and so much the better if it happens to be his uncle."

"What specific training does he need? None."

"What examinations must he pass to be qualified? None."

"Who licenses him to practice? His employer..."

"And who is his employer? Any man with a few thousand dollars' worth of credit who wants to buy a little newspaper in the country, or start a new underground sheet, or pick up a distressed little radio station with a license."

In 1970, when he was running for governor, Meskill backed so-called "shield" legislation with some qualifications.

In a statement furnished to the Bridgeport Post and published by that newspaper on Oct. 12, 1970, Meskill said he would back a law similar to New York's. He added, however, that "a reporter should not be excused from having to testify in court in a criminal or civil action if he himself is a witness to a crime or accident, or to an admission of guilt."

"Who determines what a newsmen is?" asked the government.

Opposes 'Shield Law'

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Newsmen have no right to frustrate the administration of justice by refusing to divulge their sources of information, says Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

"There is no such right, and there never has been, and I fervently hope that no law will ever be passed which would create such a right," Meskill told the Yale Political Union Wednesday night.

"If you know something that can affect the true administration of justice, you are duty bound as a citizen to divulge it to the proper authorities on demand," Meskill declared.

Meskill, who when campaigning for governor in 1970 endorsed limited "shield" legislation, told the Yale students they could have their own press cards printed up with very little difficulty.

"As far as your right to withhold the source of information is concerned, under the law your grubby little card carries all the weight of all the credentials of all the news services and all the networks in the country, which, under the law, is exactly and precisely zero," he said.

Meskill insisted that "the man doesn't live who has any more respect than I do for the profession of journalism." But he added that "some members of the press have continued to drive for this kind of law with a tribal fervor that approaches the supernatural."

Unlike the privileged communications between lawyers and their clients, clergymen and their parishioners and doctors and their patients, the information newsmen learn in private are "plastered over the front pages and broadcast to millions," Meskill said.

ernment.

Miss Fried Stunning In Debut
 By JOHN CRUBER
 Miriam Fried, young and personable violinist from Israel, made a stunning debut last evening at the Bushnell, playing Prokofiev's First Violin Concerto to a far from capacity house Arthur Winograd conducted. It was another in the regular series of subscription concerts.
 The Prokofiev First is not a showy concerto and overheard some comments in the lobby indicating that at least some of the audience were disappointed. These dissenters should know enough to be disappointed in the work presented rather than in the performer, but as all too often happens, they laid the blame in the wrong place.
 Miss Fried has beautiful tone, which she never forces, and she has positively uncanny intonation. And to this drawing excellent facility with both her left and right hands and you have a violinist of formidable abilities. She is still a little young to get everything out of the work emotionally, but that will certainly come with time.
 The whole concert went well. It included symphonies by Mozart and Sibelius as well as the concerto, one before the intermission and the other after. It is a pleasure to report that Mr. Winograd is making progress with Mozart. I recall his very first concert which included Mozart that was pretty poorly played.
 Last night there were signs that he is beginning to understand this most difficult composer in the matters of nuance and phrasing. He still insists on using a string section that is too large by Mozartian standards so that a Mozartian balance of tone is never obtained, but otherwise he's doing pretty well.
 Cutting down the size of the orchestra and letting half the string section sit Mozart out would lead to complications, of course. The board of directors would object to paying for the orchestra and frequently even less. With the full string section of a modern orchestra the flutes, oboes and bassoons suffer. These could be doubled, which is what Mozart actually did once when he got a larger string section somehow or other.
 Mr. Winograd has demonstrated that he does pretty well with the music to Sibelius in the past, and last night was no exception. The Symphony No. 2 received an understanding reading and was technically well done by the players. So taken all the way around, it was a very good concert last evening, even if it was not a very exciting one, judged from a standpoint of the choice of program.

Sheinwold on Bridge

CERTAIN FINESSES SHOULD BE AVOIDED
 By Alfred Sheinwold
 When you have a suit headed by the K, your normal play is to lead the suit from the other hand and then choose whether to play the king or the jack. Sometimes, however, your problem is not which finesse to take but whether to take a finesse at all.
 South dealer
 Both sides vulnerable
 Opening lead - King of Spades
 After declarer had won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, he saw that an immediate diamond finesse would be unwise. West would take his two diamond tricks and lead a third diamond for East to ruff. East would eventually get the setting trick in clubs.
 South presently drew three rounds of trumps. Now he was tempted to lead a club to dummy in order to try the diamond finesse. This would let the enemy take two clubs and two diamonds.
 South saw this danger. After drawing three rounds of trumps, he immediately led a low diamond from his hand.
 West played low, and dummy won with the eight. Another diamond lost to West's queen.
 Contract safe.
 Now the contract was safe. If West returned a spade, South could ruff and knock out the ace of diamonds. He could then ruff another spade and discard a club from dummy on his own fourth diamond. This would leave only one club loser in the dummy.
 Actually, West led a club through dummy, a better defense. South played low from the dummy, and East won the fourth diamond. This was a poor play.

Laurel Lake Ordinance

The proposed ordinance to purchase about 110 acres of the dry-bed Laurel Lake, for extension of the town's solid-waste landfill area, includes the following agreement between the Town of Manchester and Wells C. Dennison and Robert C. Dennison, owners of the property.

The proposal is being opposed by the Manchester Property Owners Association.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester that the General Manager is authorized to enter into an agreement with WELLS C. DENNISON and ROBERT C. DENNISON, both of the Town of Manchester, County of Hartford and State of Connecticut, for the purchase of certain pieces of real estate...

The Robinson property covering 120 acres on Beekmantown Hill, Rt. 66, will probably be used as an arts and crafts center.

Dr. and Mrs. Marsh of West Hartford appeared before the Planning and Zoning Commission asking for the PZC's consideration about developing the property for such use.

It is proposed the barn be used for pottery and the house to display and sell materials, according to Dr. Bruce Bradford, PZC chairman.

Dr. Bradford said Dr. and Mrs. Marsh are also interested in building three houses on the property, one for themselves and two which will be used as artist studios working for the town. They plan to keep the rest of the area as open space.

The commission felt it would be an asset to the community and will check with the town council to see if there are legal complications. The area was originally planned for commercial use, said Dr. Bradford.

The PZC action was with regret the resignation of Carl Swartz who cited professional Recreational, said young people to decide what will be the fund raiser for the year.

In other business the council voted to recommend that the money in the "Myrtle England Memorial Fund" be used to build an "all-purpose area" at the town-owned recreation area on Hennequin Rd.

Herbert Engert said his late wife would have wanted a lot to benefit from the fund and suggested a volleyball court which could also handle basketball and badminton.

Holowaty recommended that the chain sets on the basketball hoops at the recreation area be removed since "they are very dangerous." He recommended "good nylon nets."

Council members will decorate the community Christmas tree on the green in about three weeks. This is the last year that tree will be decorated as it is too tall. A new one will be planted in the spring.

The Special Kids Klub has received a donation of tickets to the Louis Riel Museum, according to Mrs. Judy Carini.

The group, which includes young people, will conduct fund-raising programs including selling candles.

They will have their own Christmas party and hopefully a few winter parties, said Mrs. Carini.

Youth Vote Impact Assessed In Various Parts Of Nation

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
What happened to the youth vote? It was there and it did have an impact.

—Younger and more liberal candidates won state legislative races and local contests in many parts of the country with a strong boost from first-time voters.

A University of Nebraska student unseated the chairman of the state legislature's executive board. A 25-year-old Vietnam veteran will replace the oldest member of Hawaii's house of representatives. And an amateur farmer won recognition of the President's accomplishments was responsible for what he called Nixon's good Mervyn's sweep of the county that includes the campus by nearly 7,000 votes and went on to win.

In Indiana, however, sweeping the county that is the home of Purdue University was not sufficient for Floyd Filthian, a history professor at the university.

Filthian was running against Rep. Earl Landgrebe, a conservative Republican who was one of 19 representatives voted against lowering the voting age.

In the state house, Filthian ran strong in the campus precincts and came out of Tippecanoe County leading 26,856 to 19,384. But Landgrebe carried the remainder of the district with enough strength to win, 110,678-52,000.

Some political analysts, including ranking McGovern staffers, had contended that young people would be decisive in one thing: the youth vote. McGovern's campaign officials said that the youth vote was 70 percent of the youth vote.

Republican strategists argued that young voters would be no more liberal than their parents and insisted that the President would hold his own with them.

An extensive poll taken election day for CBS News by George Fine Research, Inc. of New York indicated that 18-to-24 year olds supported McGovern by a 52-38 margin.

The poll indicated that Nixon did hold his own among young voters. Those youth voters, however, gave McGovern about 14 percent more support than the total electorate, which went to Nixon by a 51-48 margin.

While the youth vote had little effect on the outcome, it would have been extremely important in a close race.

"The most you can say is that young people are maybe 10 per cent more liberal than the rest of the voters," said Edward O'Donnell, McGovern's youth vote coordinator. "You can't lose the rest of the population and win with you pick up in the youth vote."

McGovern did well in districts with a high percentage of college students, a group representing only about 25 percent of the first-time voters.

McGovern staffers in Massachusetts used this campaign to contribute to his victory there, the only state McGovern carried.

Ken Reitz, who headed the Nixon youth effort in the Nixon campaign, said recognition of the President's accomplishments was responsible for what he called Nixon's good Mervyn's sweep of the county that includes the campus by nearly 7,000 votes and went on to win.

Ghost Takes Over Cadet's Room at West Point

The sightings were reported last month, and two cadet officers verified that they, too, saw "some sort of phenomena" in the room.

"We moved the plies out of the room and left it empty," an academy spokesman said today, "because there was too much traffic. Their fellow cadets were bringing in cameras and tape recorders, and the occupants weren't getting any studying done."

As reported by those who saw the apparition, the spokesman said, "it appeared to be a cavalryman of the 1830s era, wearing a gray uniform."

Cadet Capt. Keith Bakken appeared on a New York television show to relate the incident.

Election a Poser For Both Parties

Richard Nixon has been accorded a Roman triumph. Just as the Romans commissioned a wreath-bearer to follow behind the hero of the moment and whisper, "Remember you are only mortal," so the American electorate has tempered Mr. Nixon's overwhelming presidential victory by maintaining the opposition party in control of both houses of Congress — as if to say, "Remember, this is our government, you are only one branch of it and your power is not without limit."

So lopsided a mandate for one candidate can also be seen as just the opposite, a lopsided reputation of the other candidate. Political analysts will be kept busy for a long time trying to decide to what extent this election was the one and to what extent it was the other. There is much for them to chew on.

For instance, although Mr. Nixon carried normally heavy Democratic Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), Ohio, out of some 679,000 voters who went to the polls, 59,000 could not bring themselves to vote for either presidential candidate but cast blank ballots.

There is also much for the Democrats to ponder as they attempt to recover from the greatest presidential debacle in the history of the party. Was George McGovern, as he suggested even in the hour of his defeat, merely a little ahead of the nation? Does he stand on ideological ground the majority of Americans are heading toward, perhaps by 1976?

Or was McGovern really four time years behind the times, campaigning actually against Lyndon Johnson as he tried vainly to ignite the issues of the Vietnam war, some vague, popular distrust of the government, and so on?

In short, was McGovern to the Democrats in 1972 as Barry Goldwater was to the Republicans in 1964, or have fundamental changes been made in the grass-roots makeup of the party which will never permit it to return to what it was before McGovern?

As for the Republicans, the lesson of the congressional elections is plain enough. The party has a long way to go before it even begins to emerge as the "new majority."

But it is the result of the presidential contest that continues to amaze the very electorate responsible for it. And when all is said and done, it is hard to believe that all those votes could have been simply against George McGovern rather than for Richard Nixon and what he accomplished in his first term.

No caviling can detract from Mr. Nixon's tremendous personal victory, a victory made all the more remarkable for coming 10 years to the day after his famous farewell address to the press, and to politics, after being defeated in his bid for the governorship of California.

It comes as a jolt to realize that this man has been prominent on the national political scene for more than two decades — longer than the voting lifetime of truly emerging majority of Americans.

Now, with a mandate behind him greater than that of any other president, Richard Milhous Nixon faces the potential of greatness. Who would have believed 10 years ago that such a statement could ever seriously be made?

As he himself noted on election night, a majority doesn't mean anything; it's what you do with it. And, "the greater the majority, the greater the responsibility."

Richard Nixon must now chart the course of the nation through 1976. Most Americans will be content with something less than greatness, and will be happy if the last four years of America's second century are remembered as a time of peace and of wise and good leadership.

The First Snowfall

The first snowfall no matter how temporary can be viewed with mixed emotions. For the winter sports fan it is welcomed. For the indoor athlete there is only the prospect of sidewalk shoveling interrupting the big game on the tube. And for motorists it is a dangerous transitional period when we must re-learn some basic driving techniques like handling skids, braking on ice or snow, and above all driving with a lighter foot on the accelerator.

We, as motorists, must revise our judgments of driving conditions, road conditions, and speed. The days of long sunlight and dry roads are drawing to a close. The dangers of wet and/or icy pavement will become more frequent in the days and nights ahead.

It is time to check tires, brakes, exhaust system, heater and windshield wipers of our cars for a season of winter driving. But no matter how safe we make our cars mechanically, safe fall and winter driving is still up to the driver and that means each of us who sits behind a wheel.

How safe Connecticut streets and highways are in the months ahead depends on only one person, you as a driver.

Foggy Bottom John

WASHINGTON — Despite John B. Connally's whimsical "hope" that President Nixon will not ask him back for the second Nixon administration, the fact is that Connally has already been asked to become Secretary of State and revive that once mighty office.

The offer was made by Mr. Connally, when he resigned as Secretary of the Treasury last June 12, and it was couched in terms leaving nothing to the imagination: The President wanted a strong hand at State's helm to "clear out the bureaucracy," and Connally was the man.

Thus, Connally's repeated public lamentations that he wants nothing except to luxuriate in his newly renovated Houston mansion and practice lucrative law as senior partner in his huge Houston firm only delay his decision. Most Connally-watchers think that in the end Connally's decision will be yes and that, as a result, the State Department may be in for its biggest shakeup in history.

Mr. Nixon is not the first President eying the cavernous State Department bureaucracy with scornful eyes. But with his landslide victory and Connally as his agent, he is in a better position to act than any recent President.

Moreover, putting the decisive Connally in charge at State would almost surely reverse the unfortunate decline of prestige which has been the mark of the State Department in government.

Under the amiable William P. Rogers, the State Department has suffered repeated humiliations. For example, when Connally headed Treasury, he persuaded the White House to put his own men in charge of certain international negotiations historically handled by State.

Far more important, Mr. Nixon deliberately centered foreign policy power in Henry Kissinger, his brilliant national security adviser, undercutting the State Department's foreign service policy contributions and an alarming deterioration in morale among the best foreign service officers. Barring a change at the top, many of these will soon resign.

Thus, the President's housecleaning orders to his new Secretary of State will seek to arrest this deterioration by giving new authority under Connally to the best foreign service officers, while undertaking a massive purge of second-raters. The hoped-for result: a much leaner force of experts supplying the cutting edge both to economic and political foreign policy in the next four years.

Unconscious Tribute

WASHINGTON — There is an unconscious tribute to Margaret Chase Smith in the failure of the nation's professional fimbriators to mourn the Main Senator's defeat in our quadrennial blood-letting. By their indifference, the girls are saying that Mrs. Smith was not a member of their club, and I trust she is properly grateful.

Historians may note the irony inherent in Mrs. Smith's death by Congressman William Hathaway. For the Maine gentleman after all was a pioneer in the woman's liberation movement; she was first elected to the Senate 32 years ago when most females were still slaving over hot stoves and wearing dresses. Yet her defeat produced no weeping or teething-gnashing among today's crop of bra-burners.

The explanation is simple. The 74-year-old Mrs. Smith was always "the gentleman from Maine," in style and demeanor. She was a fimbriator without the noise and the vulgarity, cast in the mold of such as Eleanor Roosevelt. Her words on the Senate floor were spoken, not shrieked or bawled. Her male colleagues were quiet when she rose to speak, not only out of old-fashioned courtesy — although it was always a pleasure to pay her courtesy — but because they knew she would have something to say, in a quiet, conversational tone.

It was no accident that John Kennedy and Richard Nixon, with whom Margaret Smith frequently disagreed, used the same term to acknowledge her quality. Thwarted by her votes, both remarked on her "class." Mrs. Smith was also — if she will forgive the expression — a tough baby. It was she who first took after her fellow Republican, Joe McCarthy, when even most Democrats avoided confrontation with the Wisconsin demagogue. On the Senate floor, she sternly but quietly warned her party not to ride to victory "on the four-

THANKSGIVING DAY

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Violet F. Ferguson

At this Thanksgiving season, I like to reflect upon the many things for which I am grateful. There are the things which can't be purchased... the goodness of a husband, the kindness of children, the warmth of friendships. There are the wonderful things of nature, good books, fine music. There are the material things which add greatly to our lives. This column has brought me many pleasant moments and has added much to my life. First, it imposes discipline on a busy life. Those once-weekly pages come up mightily rapidly like the school paper you thought you had all term to write.

It has brought me many new friends whom I otherwise might never have met. There is always something to talk about as almost everyone likes to discuss food.

Since writing, I have broadened my interest in food through the enlargement of my cookbook collection—now with some 40 or so antique books included. The research necessary for some of the columns has increased my knowledge of history. Throughout time, man has carried with him his knowledge of food. Indeed, the search for spices resulted in the discovery of other lands.

I have become personally acquainted with many top-flight chefs. Through these contacts, I have become at once more critical and yet more tolerant of the problems of restaurant operations.

As a self-taught cook, I have begun taking classes in haute cuisine. I have learned to chop vegetables and meats without cutting off fingers. In the last few months, I have been studying Chinese cuisine. My family has sampled egg rolls, wonton, Shanghai duck and egg flower soup. During the next year, you'll be hearing more about this as I become more proficient.

I am called upon to speak of my experiences with the column and have learned a great deal about many local organizations.

I am invited "backstage," so to speak, and have visited the kitchens of many restaurants and hotels. Everywhere I go, I have added to my fund of knowledge not just about food but about places and people.

At present, I have been busy compiling recipes for the sesquicentennial program of the Manchester, the celebration of which will take place next year. The recipes will all be authentic, from the 1800's and ones that can be made today.

Ed Tomkowiak, our town clerk, who is co-chairman of the town-wide celebration with my husband, Tom, asked me to provide the recipes. I accepted only if the recipes are representative of the period.

While searching for recipes, I found three using cranberries. I do not know just how old they are so they will not appear in the anniversary program. Thought you might like them for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Capo Cranberry
2 Drop Cakes
2 cups cranberries
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash of cinnamon
1 cup cracker crumbs

Wash and pick over cranberries. Add water and cook until berries are soft. Force through sieve. Add sugar to pulp and then add butter and seasonings. Stir in cracker crumbs. Drop by spoonful into deep hot fat (370 degrees) and cook until browned. Drain and serve hot or cold. Serve with chicken or turkey in place of potatoes or in place of dumplings. Serves six.

Here's another that is somewhat similar:
Cranberry Fritters
1 cup fresh cranberries
2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
2 cups oil
1/2 cup powdered sugar

Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add the milk, a little at a time, until a stiff dough is formed. Into each tablespoon of dough, stick three or four cranberries; roll the dough into balls. In a deep skillet, heat the oil until very hot—as if for french fries. Drop the fritters into the hot oil and fry until golden brown. Remove and drain on paper towels or napkins. Sprinkle with the powdered sugar.

CRANBERRY UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 can cranberry sauce
1 small (No. 2) can apricots
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, well beaten
1 1/4 cups flour, sifted
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

Melt butter in a skillet or upside-down cake pan. Add brown sugar, cranberry sauce and apricots. Tossed salad, bread, butter, milk, jelly with topping.

Tuesday: Italian spaghetti, meat sauce, tossed salad, bread, butter, milk, jelly with topping.

Wednesday: Half day. No lunch.
Thursday: Thanksgiving holiday.
Friday: Thanksgiving holiday.

Card Party

The Manchester Emblem Club will sponsor its annual card party tonight at 8 at the Elks Home, Bissell St. with the proceeds going to charity. Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKeever will be in charge of the evening. Serving on the committee are: Mrs. Frank Torres, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, Mrs. Alfred Ritter, Mrs. Gertrude Hawthorne, Mrs. Samuel Vancanti, Mrs. Alfred Pontelli.

Tips

Earthy Colors

If you prefer earthy colors in your wardrobe, try bringing a little color into your clothes by brightening up your accessories. Choose scarves, hats, gloves, bags and boots in rich, bright colors or even bold patterns.

Sweater Switch

Off-the-shoulder sweaters that were popular during the summer can be teamed with long skirts or flowing pants for evening wear.

Vernon Moratorium Proposed On Commercial Building

The Planning Commission Tuesday night voted against a proposed amendment which would have limited any commercial development in town to buildings having a minimum of 5,000 square feet and voted in favor of recommending a moratorium on commercial building.

The existing zoning laws call for a minimum of 1,000 square feet for such buildings. The amendment to change this was proposed on request of Mayor Frank McCoy who said he had been urged to do so by several residents of the Rt. 83 and Rt. 30 areas.

Under the proposed moratorium all commercial building along the highways in town would be stopped for at least four months. The Planning Commission said the proposal would be presented to the Town Council for approval. However, Mayor McCoy said he was not sure he or any town board would have the power to implement such a plan. The matter will be turned over to Abbott Schwebel, town attorney, for his opinion.

Adhering to its objectives as stated in its bylaws, the Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, approved a resolution at a meeting Monday. The resolution stated the group's opposition to the proposed amendment to limit size to 5,000 square feet but in turn offered assistance in solving the problem in a more equitable manner.

Bernard Crowl, executive director of the chamber, had said board members that 94 percent of the buildings along Rt. 83 would be non-conforming according to the proposed amendment.

He explained that not only would the occupants of the existing buildings have to obtain special insurance coverage, but should the building burn down it could not be rebuilt in the same size.

The chamber's Economic Development Committee which drew up the resolution said it felt changing the square footage required to 5,000 feet was not the way to solve the town's growth problem.

"The proposal to limit any and all future commercial development to buildings with a minimum of 5,000 square feet is discriminatory, impractical and would prove extremely harmful to an important group of taxpayers in town; i.e., businessmen," the resolution stated.

It further stated that research has shown that existing commercial buildings

Tatro To Head Extension At MCC

James O. Tatro has been reassigned as director of new division of summer session and extension programs at Manchester Community College. He has been director of the division of social science and public service.

Division offices are in the 146 Hartford Rd. building.

All other staff positions in the new division have also been filled through reassignment of existing college personnel. For the rest of the current academic year, Thomas P. Connors, who has been assistant director of the division of social science and public service, becomes its acting director; John R. Crowley, chairman of the social science department, moves into the post formerly held by Connors; and William J. Dowd, assistant professor of social sciences, replaces Crowley as department head.

The new division will have the responsibility of encouraging, assisting in the development of, and coordinating the increasing ac-

James Arnold was re-elected chairman of the Board of Education this week in a secret ballot election. Arnold has been a member of the board for eight years and will serve a second term as chairman.

Also re-elected to replace Cile Decker as vice-chairman and David Cohen, secretary. Office terms are for one year. All officials are members of the Democratic Party.

In accepting the position, Arnold commented that he "hoped the coming year is not quite as rough as the last one."

Vernon Surdell Tops Awards In Fish Contest

Top honors in the 1972 fishing contest of the Polish American Citizens Fish Club, went to Robert Surdell of Toland who took the most prizes of the total of 21 awarded at the annual banquet held Sunday.

Three prizes are awarded in each of seven categories of fresh water fish and the one who receives the most of these prizes is considered the champion and has his name inscribed on the permanent gold trophy along with those of champs of other years.

Veterans Day Change Proposed

HARTFORD (AP)—A bill to restore the observance of Veterans' Day to the traditional date of Nov. 11 will be introduced in the state House of Representatives by Minority Leader Francis J. Collins and Assistant Minority Leader Gerald Stevens.

It also solidifies the role of the college in meeting exact educational needs that exist in the area. This can be achieved by offering courses, tailored to the requirements of established or temporary groups, on the MCC campus or at any other location where these needs can be better served.

"Enlarging the role of the community college in extension and community service activities offers the best chance for expansion in this period of budgetary restriction," Dr. Frederick W. Lowe Jr., MCC president, said. Because the new division will be self-supporting, no additional expenses to the college are anticipated as a result of the move.

Bolton School Principals Assess 1973-74 Needs

JUDITH DONOHUE Correspondent Tel. 649-2845

Bolton school principals will not be requesting any additional classroom teachers in the budget for the 1973-74 school year, but will be seeking funds for program expansion and physical plant improvements.

Presenting the staff and space needs for next year at a recent meeting of the Board of Education, administrators noted a slight decrease in enrollment is anticipated for the coming year, from the present 985 to 981.

The greatest staff needs appear to be in the guidance department, where, according to pupil personnel services director John Flek, one person is needed for slow learners, one for those with learning disabilities, and one for vocational orientation work.

In proposing a program for the slow learner, Flek noted that there are at least 20 students in grades one through eight who would benefit from a program geared to the slow learner.

An application last year for Title II funds to initiate such a program in Bolton was denied.

Announces Yule Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI will say his Christmas Mass before workers at a big railway construction site 25 miles north of Rome, the Vatican has announced.

The construction site is near the town of San Onese on a new rail line being built between Rome and Florence.

During his nine years as pontiff, Pope Paul has twice left the Vatican to say Christmas Eve Mass away from Rome.

He said Mass in the Florence Cathedral in 1966 as a sign of solidarity for the Renaissance city which had suffered a disastrous flood 7½ months earlier.

Sentenced For Forgery

LONDON (AP)—A 51-year-old Mexican banker, Eric Alba-Teran, was sentenced Wednesday to two years in prison and ordered deported from Britain for his part in forging a will that cut model Penny Brahm's off with a shilling, about 12 cents, and four nude photos of herself.

Shelagh MacIntosh, 22-year-old schoolteacher, was given a 12-month suspended sentence for her part in the forgery conspiracy.

The two were convicted Tuesday. Judge Mervyn Griffith-Jones told the court, however, the prime instigator in the fraud conspiracy was Ronald Shulman, 36-year-old lawyer who has fled to South America. The judge said Miss MacIntosh had been dominated by Shulman, her lover.

Miss Brahm, 21, was now preparing to appeal to the High Court for the right to

Physical Education

The need for a better facility for indoor physical education was also cited. Although the all-purpose room is used whenever it is available, classes must often be held in the small Civil Defense room, according to the principal.

Creation of a conference room within the present elementary school office is also being recommended by Patros, who feels this could be simply accomplished by the installation of portable interlocking panels.

Associate Principal John Petrus said that title associate principal, and that he gradually assume full responsibility for the Center School.

High School principal Norman Shaw said that although there is no need for additional classroom teachers for next year, there is an urgent need for increased counseling services at the school for those with "everyday student problems." He added that much of the guidance director's time is taken up with administrative problems and with special education.

The school board is expected to review the administrative recommendations during the next few weeks, and to act on one of its scheduled budget sessions.

Obituary

Faulkner Dies, Was Burr Officer

Thomas D. Faulkner, 65, of 189 Hollister St., retired vice president of C.H. Burr Co. Inc. in Manchester, died Wednesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Born in Manchester, Sept. 20, 1907, he was the son of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Coulter Faulkner.

He had been employed by the company for 39 years before his retirement in September. He worked his way up through the ranks from a door-to-door salesman of nursery stock to an executive's post with the corporation.

Born in Manchester, he was educated in the local schools and had lived here all his life. He was active in sports and was a well-known basketball player in the Recreation Department in his youth.

An ardent golfer, he was director of the tournament committee and a member of the Board of Governors of Manchester Club for many years. He was an honorary life member of the club.

Private funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. at the Manchester Funeral Home, 400 Main St., and burial will be in East Cemetery. There are no calling hours. Memorial contributions may be made to the Manchester chapter of the American Cancer Society, 237 E. Center St., or the book of remembrance at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Julie Dytzo Faulkner and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Dickson and Mrs. Samuel McAdams, both of Manchester.

Auction Earns Record $4,000

Wednesday night's bids in the Manchester Kiwanis Club Radio Auction totaled more than $2,700, bringing the total amount of bids in the two-night event to about $4,000.

Auction Chairman Leo Juran said this year's auction breaks all records of the Kiwanis Club's previous 21 auctions. The bids received this year represented about 60 per cent of the retail value of the merchandise sold.

The merchandise was donated by Manchester area merchants. All proceeds go to the Kiwanis Scholarship Fund.

The auction was broadcast "live" from Watkins Bros., 915 Main St., on Radio Station WMPF of Manchester.

The top bid in the two-night auction was $508 for a spinet piano (retail value $745), donated by Watkins Bros. The winning bidder was Don Richardson of Laurwood Dr., Bolton.

The second highest bid, submitted by M. E. Anderson of 19 Lexington Dr., was $109 for a weekend for two in New York City, donated by LaBonne Travel World, 97 E. Center St.

William E. Williams, William Edward Williams, 86, of West Hartford, father of Raymond W. Williams of Manchester, died Wednesday at St. Francis Hospital. Born in Boston, he lived most of his life in the Hartford area.

Before his retirement in 1965, he was employed by the Western Union Telegraph Co. Other survivors include two daughters, both of West Hartford, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the Taylor and Moden Funeral Home, 136 So. Main St., West Hartford, with a Mass of the Resurrection at St. Mark the Evangelist Church, West Hartford at 10. Burial will be in Mt. St. Benedict Cemetery, Bloomfield. Council-Manager Plan for mayor tends to build accountability, ability and competence.

Rotiner, replying to Odegaard's remarks, said, "I don't very often disagree with our very competent state senator - this is probably the first time. However, I must disagree with him strongly on this issue. I was impressed by the strong backing for the council-manager government by the people who spoke to us."

"Professionalism and efficiency are the key words. Divorcing a manager from politics is as necessary in government as it is in business."

Rotiner warned against "change for change's sake alone." He said, "There's no need for tampering with it here. There's been no groundswell for a change in our government and I submit - we've had efficient town government. In Manchester, we've been particularly fortunate about the responsiveness of the Board of Directors - whatever the party affiliation - to the people."

Sheehan said he agreed with Odegaard's last observation and insisted the record show it is not his reason for recommending a referendum for the change.

Stone, in a short statement, said he is convinced that efficient government comes from efficient people. "We have a good viable system and should maintain it," he said.

Sullivan, also in a short statement, said he agrees with Odegaard and Agostinelli - that the people should decide.

Both are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Rockville on Dec. 5.

Walter C. Stephen, 30, of 107 High St., Rockville, was charged with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs and operating without a license, in connection with the investigation of a one-car accident which occurred Sunday on Windsor Ave.

The driver of the second car was James O'Neill Jr. of 2 Welling Circle. Both cars were heavily damaged and had to be towed from the scene, police said. Stephen was released on a $200 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court on Dec. 5.

Irving Aronowitz, 42, of Warehouse Point, was charged with failure to drive right of way or grade in connection with an accident early this morning on East Main St., Rockville. Police said Aronowitz failed to negotiate a curve and struck a utility pole. He is also scheduled to appear in Circuit Court, Rockville on Dec. 5.

Selectmen Ask Funds For Sander

ANNA FRISINA, Correspondent, Tel. 742-9347

The Board of Selectmen has voted to ask the Board of Finance for an appropriation to purchase a new grader for the town's new truck.

After considerable discussion as to whether it would be advisable to purchase the additional sander at this time, the selectmen felt that it would not only provide better coverage of the streets during the coming winter, but would ease the load of the present equipment.

The grader attachment cost approximately $3,500 and is used solely in distributing sand over the roads.

If the Board of Finance approves the appropriation, the town will have three fully equipped trucks to handle the winter's road problems.

Class Bins

The selectmen have put into abeyance any action on the construction of bins at the town's landfill area to be used for the recycling of glass.

Building Official Percy Cook drew up plans for concrete bins which could later be converted into a garage should the need for glass recycling diminish. The selectmen estimated that the bins would cost over $3,000 to construct instead of the $1,800 originally figured.

The selectmen decided to wait for plans to go ahead with the bins while they investigated other means of construction, got exact costs for concrete, etc.

Date Set for Hearing

The Andover Planning and Zoning Commission has set Monday, Dec. 5, as the date for a public hearing to present a proposed set of revised subdivision regulations to the town.

The commission, which has been working on the regulations since last spring in an effort to update them, will hold a final work meeting next week to review the entire set of regulations regarding subdivisions.

After that work meeting, a set of the proposed regulations will be left with the town clerk and anyone interested in seeing them may do so.

The public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. at the town office building, and is open to the public.

Coverity Agencies Have Vacancies

Tel. 742-8795

Vacancies have occurred on several local agencies, according to Town Clerk Elizabeth Rydholm. There is one seat vacant on the Conservation Committee, due to the death of Albert Rossi. Thomas Doland has resigned his alternate post on the Planning and Zoning Commission, and several terms have expired on other agencies. These include three seats on the Board of Health, two on the Board of Welfare, and one each on the Recreation Commission and the Pension Board.

In the case of the expirations, members continue to serve until their successors are chosen, or, if they choose to serve again, they are reappointed, until they are appointed again.

In all cases, anyone interested in serving on any of the agencies should contact Democratic Town Chairman Alvin Phillips, Republican Town Chairman Robert Pruitt, Town Manager Dennis Moore, or Mrs. Rydholm.

Junior Women
The Junior Women's Club will hold a Thanksgiving Pie sale on Nov. 21 from 10 a.m. to noon at Guido's Supermarket and Zollo's Supermarket.

Proceeds from the sale support the pack's activities. Officers serving on the pack committee this year are Robert Simmons, chairman; Ron Jensen, institutional representative; Robert Lazzari, treasurer; and June Usab, awards. George Ross is clubmaster, with Louis Goodwin, Webelos leader.

Tolland Garage Site Topic Of Town Meeting

BETTE QUATRALE
Correspondent
Tel. 875-2845

A town meeting will be held Monday night at 8 p.m. in the Hicks School gym to approve the proposed Old Post Rd. location of the town garage and to accept the Community House property on Cider Mill Rd.

Bids for the construction of the garage are presently being received, and have been set for

A Feb. 28 bid opening date, according to First Selectman Erwin Stotzner.

The location of the proposed garage to the rear of the sand bank on Old Post Rd. next to the Meadowbrook School, may prove to be controversial, as it has built-in advantages in its proximity to the schools in the education park complex.

In addition to serving as the town garage, the site will include a large gas tank to be used by the town to supply the school buses, saving state taxes amounting to about $7,000.

A large parking area would be provided, suitable for parking the school buses, thus eliminating the "dead head" mileage which must be paid for the buses to run from their present parking lot near the Vernon town line to the schools.

The garage will measure about 60 by 75 feet and will be prefabricated. Doors for town vehicles on both sides of the garage. Room will also be available for meetings and office space.

The garage has been an admitted long-time need for the town as vehicles and equipment must be kept inside. The present town garage has been condemned with portions still heated by a potbellied stove.

The proposed garage has been turned down twice in the past, because of objections to the location. For this reason the Board of Finance placed the $27,000 allocation for the garage in the contingency account rather than treating it as a regular capital improvement item.

The currently selected site had previously been restricted to educational purposes, but a clause in the deed does permit a town meeting to vote for a different use, according to Stotzner.

The Community House property consists of 7.86 acres, directly across the street from the town-owned recreational area, Cranall's Park.

The property and a small building are being offered to the town at no cost and will be developed as a recreational area.

Republican Delegates
The Republican Town Committee Tuesday night endorsed four delegates to next week's state convention to select state central committee representatives from the newly redistricted 26th district.

Frank Merrill, Republican Town Chairman Russell Stevenson, Town Clerk Elaine Bugbee and Robert Damont were selected as delegates.

Long-time Committeeman John Mullen of Stafford is being challenged by Thomas Laney, formerly state central committeeman from the 26th district, now redistricted into Mullen's area.

Mrs. Judith Sturtevant of Brooklyn formerly 26th district central committeewoman, will be opposed by Evelyn Parizek of Willington. The convention will be held Tuesday in Willington.

South Windsor Smoking Interest Draws Interest of Outsiders

The request by South Windsor High School students for a smoking area at the school has attracted outside interest. Mrs. Susan Manfred, a representative of the Hartford County Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, attended Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting, on behalf of the organization, to make a plea against implementing a facility and revision of the current board's policy on smoking in the building.

Using data from an "about to be published" survey on smoking in high schools in the state, Mrs. Manfred said 48 percent of the schools allow a smoking area but the problem of smoke-filled lavatories persist despite rule changes. She noted that in all schools where smoking is permitted the smokers were being rewarded for their persistence by being placed in privileged rooms, a lounge effect with soda machines. She added that the non-smokers received nothing in comparison to the students who do smoke and the litter problem still exists.

She maintained that the habit which creates a health hazard. She suggested the board look at the problem as such, as opposed to the prevention of student's right and claims for human rights.

Cites Report

In citing a recent report by the surgeon general, Mrs. Manfred stated the conclusion as being a request to preserve the right for cleaner air for non-smokers who are being subjected to the hard core smokers who are "inflicting on the rights of those who don't."

She noted, in the board policy regulations that the policy numbers 1000.170 directly hits on the "Prohibition of Pupils Smoking in Schools." Mrs. Manfred questioned why students alone were prohibited and asked the board to prohibit all smoking in the schools by teachers, students and visitors.

In the association survey, Mrs. Manfred said it was learned that students were "very disturbed" knowing teachers who do not allow them smoking privileges, do in fact,

Resident Disagrees
Resident Allen Coffey did not agree with Mrs. Decker and paralleled his argument with the laws governing litter in which fines were imposed but litter is still a problem. He said he believed students should be taught ecology of body as well as ecology of nature to perpetuate a possible negative attitude to smoking. He spoke for "careful smoking rather than no smoking" at the high school.

Revenue-Sharing Funds May Be Invested

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and local governments are expected to increase investments in U.S. savings bonds and Treasury bills with the first portions of their federal revenue-sharing money.

Treasury Department officials say there is nothing in the law to prevent state and local governments from, in effect, lending the money back to the federal government at interest through the purchase of federal securities.

Nor does the Treasury have an idea of how much the long-term interest rates on such securities will cost taxpayers.

But at least one economic expert says the situation may lead to reduced interest rates for all borrowers.

The Treasury will mail $3.3 billion to state and local governments during December and January as the first allocation under the revenue-sharing plan approved by the 92nd Congress.

A Treasury spokesman said that because the first shares are so large representing money due through the

Proposed Funding Draws No Comment

Although the Manchester Board of Directors held public hearings Tuesday night on a variety of proposed appropriations totaling $77,882, there was no public comment. All of the items were read and explained. The public hearing was just that a hearing by the public.

Except for $6,250, which is the town's cost share for one of the programs to be funded, the entire sum would be financed by equal state and federal grants. The proposed appropriations will be acted upon next Tuesday.

Under items of old business Tuesday night, the board: ...Adopted a resolution which congratulates St. James' School on its 50th Anniversary, celebrated last Sunday.

By Dave Wiggin-Manchester High

Last Saturday's game with Bristol Center was just an unbelievable display of courage and determination by our players. (Manchester won 32-20.) We went into this game missing three key ball players, and with another playing with painful injuries. If even a team should have been down, then this was the week for it.

It was obvious right from the start that our players were out to prove something. We blocked better than we had in last month and our backs ran harder than they have in past games. Our defense jelled and we really took the game right to Bristol. Mistakes again proved our downfall. We had an offense that totaled 250 yards for the first half alone, but a couple of intercepted passes and a breakdown in our secondary let Bristol score three touchdowns in the last period. 28-6. We should have been out of it, especially when a Bristol punt went out of bounds at our one-yard line. This in reality was the turning point of the game. A quick dive gave us four yards and then on a fake dive and a punt off the corner, Kyle Eastman ran 85 yards for a score and we were back in the game. On the next series of downs, our defense held and Mike Coughlin broke thru to block an attempted punt and Ron Roy recovered on the 13-yard line. We brought the ball down to the four and on the fourth and one situation, Rick Milka ran a beautiful bootleg to score. He then hit Ron Roy for the extra points and the game was tied 20-20.

There was no way Bristol could move and had to punt. Steve Samois took the punt, and behind some good blocks, ran like a man possessed. Twisting, turning and hurdling players, he wouldn't go down until he reached the one-yard line. Milka scored on the next play and the game was ours. With about a minute to go, we had a timeout. We were evidently forgot that and promptly broke loose for 35 yards for another TD and that climaxed one of the greatest comebacks I've had the pleasure to witness.

It was strictly a team effort all the way and to single out any individual players would only distract from the overall performance of everyone who played.

I really feel that this game turned us around and now we can look for the Windsor game with confidence. We will possibly give us second place and also permanent possession of the Army-Navy Trophy. This is one game I know we will be ready.

By Cliff Demers-East Catholic

I was extremely proud of the way our players battled Xavier High School. Although we came up on the short end of the score, 21-7, with a couple of breaks, we could have turned the game around.

We attempted to pull out all stops for the win. For the last three weeks we have been practicing the single wing and we used it for the first time against Xavier. The reason were two-fold. First we wanted to show Xavier something they had not seen before. Secondly, we have had problems generating a running attack and I felt that the single wing might give us the lift that we needed.

We actually outgained Xavier in total yards but the final score is the only important statistic. What really hurt us offensively were our interceptions. One was returned for 23 yards and a touchdown and another occurred at the Xavier one-yard line.

There is now question that Xavier is a fine football team and deserving of its high ranking in the state poll. Their All-State half back Greg Woods makes them an exceptional team. He's the best running back we have ever faced. For us, it's extremely difficult to single out any individuals because all our players gave their best. However, Jay Murphy, at offensive end, played the best game of his career. Jay had eight receptions for 96 yards and in addition blocked extremely well.

We are off this Saturday in preparation for our game with arch-rival South Catholic High School. On Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 at Mt. Nebo. South's record is deceiving. To date they have suffered through a winless season but they have played, in my opinion, the toughest schedule in the state. They have won three National Hockey League game against the Boston Bruins.

It will be the first meeting of the two clubs this season, and the first chance for the Bruins and the fans at Boston Garden to take a look at their Coach Jean-Guy Talbot. The former Montreal defenseman replaced Wayne Stephenson, who was who are 3-6 for the year, won a game for Talbot's debut.

Wayne Stephenson, a 23-year-old former member of the Bruins' system, is expected to guard the net for St. Louis. Stephenson has a 3-3-3 record on the season.

Stephenson, who went through the Boston junior system, disagreed with the Bruins on salary terms and joined the Canadian National Team. He turned professional last season and played with Kansas City, two in the Central League and two with the Blues.

The Bruins are expected to counter with Eddie Johnston at center. Although Bobby Orr continues to work out twice a day there were no immediate plans for him to suit up.

The Bruins lost to Montreal in their last outing Sunday 5-3, and are now 1-7 for the season and in fourth place in the NHL Eastern Division.

In February, Connecticut will play four crucial Yankee Conference games in eight days. Connecticut finished 5-5 in the conference last year, and its performance in consecutive contests against Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine could determine UConn's conference status.

Immediately following the February series are three away games, Manhattan, Rhode Island and Boston College—and then the season's last game, Boston University at Storrs.

Leading the Huskies' probable starting lineup is the six-foot-six Cal Chapman from West Haven. Rowe hopes for greater consistency from Chapman, last season's high scorer with an 18.3 points-per-game average. "Frankly," says Rowe, "the way Chapman goes, so does the future of UConn."

Flashy Rangers' Rookies Hits Second Hat Trick

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Vickers doesn't come from Missouri, but he's sceptical anyway. The flashy New York Ranger rookie scored three goals Wednesday night in a 7-3 National Hockey League victory over Philadelphia. That's good. It was his second straight three-goal game. That's very good. In fact, it's better than any NHL rookie has ever done before.

"Cause to celebrate? Not for Vickers. "I still have to prove to myself that I can play well consistently," the young left wing said. "I just hope I'm not a flash in the pan."

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday night, Toronto nipped Atlanta 2-1, Pittsburgh trounced Minnesota 7-1, Detroit blanked California 4-0 and Los Angeles tied Buffalo 3-3. "I hope," said Vickers, "they don't expect me to score three every night."

The rookie laughed off the suggestion that he even thought of a second straight hat trick before Wednesday's game. But he scored two goals in the second period and admitted visions of hats floated through his mind between periods. "After getting two," he said, "I had some selfish thoughts."

When he got No. 3, a host of straw knickers covered the ice. Vickers just smiled shyly.

Vickers didn't have the only NHL hat trick Wednesday night. Veteran Lowell McDonald connected for three goals in Pittsburgh's romp over Minnesota. Center Syl Apps picked up four assists for the Penguins.

Goalie Jim Rutherford kicked out 34 shots and held the North Stars off until Pittsburgh's offense started rolling in the second period. Dennis O'Brien spoiled the shutout bid with less than four minutes to play.

Toronto ended Atlanta's unbeaten streak at four games, nipping the Flames on second period goals 19 seconds apart by Ron Ellis and Rick Kehoe. Ellis tied the game at 10:46 of the middle period and Kehoe's winner came at 11:05. John Stewart has Atlanta's only goal.

Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard blocked 40 Toronto shots. Detroit's Roy Edwards recorded his second straight shutout of the season as the Red Wings blanked California.

Edwards blocked just 20 shots while the Wings got goals from Mickey Redmond, Marcel Dionne, Guy Charron and Len Fontaine.

The loss stretched California's winless streak to eight games. Los Angeles moved into a first place tie with Philadelphia in the West by tying Buffalo. It was the sixth tie this season for the Sabres, third in the East.

Steve Atkinson's goal with seven minutes left tied the game for Buffalo after Mike Corrigan had given the Kings a brief lead earlier in the period.

Bengton Goes to Work

PHIL FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Phil Bengton, the new head coach of the New England Patriots, went right to work Wednesday as the hapless Pats prepared for Sunday's game at Buffalo against the Bills.

Bengton, 61, who arrived in Boston Tuesday night from California, met his team for the first time Wednesday at the Hartford Natatorium through a workout at Schaefer Stadium.

Both New England and Buffalo have 2-7 records for the year. The Pats were bombed by Miami 52-0 last Sunday. The following day John Mazur stepped down as the Pats' coach and Bengton was promptly recruited from the San Diego Chargers also of the National Football League, where he was working in the front office. Bengton is also a former head coach for the Green Bay Packers.

Bengton told a news conference on his arrival at Logan Airport in Boston that he plans no drastic changes for Sunday's game, but said he would give the defense top priority and wanted to streamline the number of offensive and defensive players.

Cooling-Off Period Escape Hatch For Hasty Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP)—For a growing number of buyers with low resistance to tenacious door-to-door salesmen, there's a new way to get out of those bargains that turn out to be blunders.

The escape hatch is a cooling-off period—usually from two to five days—during which buyers with second thoughts can cancel sales contracts or purchases made in haste or exasperation.

It could have helped, for example, the 17-year-old girl in New York State who signed an installment contract for a set of glasses. Total price: $1,800.

Another who could have used a cooling-off period was the woman who signed a $200 contract for a new roof. She checked with local contractors later and found they would have done the job for $250.

Both instances turned up during Federal Trade Commission hearings.

Pennsylvania's Bureau of Consumer Protection discovered cases of illiterate persons who had been pressured into buying encyclopedias and others who bought carpet sweeper though they had no sweeper.

Now millions of consumers may revoke contracts they've signed for no other reason than, "I've changed my mind."

Cooling-off periods for door-to-door sales were in effect at last count in 33 states, seven cities and the District of Columbia. By comparison, 18 states had such grace periods two years ago.

Now the FTC has offered a cooling-off period proposal as a model for state standards. The FTC plans to invoke its proposal nationwide with the force of law if it can dispose of pending court challenges to its power to issue trade regulation rules.

The FTC proposal gives buyers three business days to change their minds on purchases with a total price of $25 or more.

The same three-day cooling-off period, applied to door-to-door installment sales involving more than four payments, is in another model law, the Uniform Commercial Credit Code proposed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in 1960.

The proposed law has been enacted so far by Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Oklahoma, Utah and Wyoming.

Various cooling-off statutes exist in Alaska, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland and Massachusetts.

Also Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

Cities with cooling-off laws are Joplin, Mo., and the Ohio cities of Akron, Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

Cooling-off laws vary from state to state, but the FTC model applies to every sale made outside the seller's place of business. The proposal excludes sales where the buyer has initiated a contact in order to get repairs on items such as television sets. But the exclusion cannot be used in some cases, such as repairs to a home or driveway.

The FTC rule also does not cover securities or insurance sales because the agency's investigation does not reflect that the sales of these intangibles have been accompanied by the objectionable practices which have characterized the sales in the home of consumer goods and services.

The FTC proposal requires that at the time of sale the seller must provide the buyer with a cancellation form which is lacking only the buyer's signature and date.

In cases where a seller has already provided goods to a buyer, who later rejects them, the seller has 10 days to say whether he plans to reclaim them. If the seller doesn't reclaim the goods within 20 days of the date of cancellation, the buyer may keep them.

National Weather Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wide swath across the nation's southern half is expected to have temperatures below seasonal normals for the next 30 days while a big section of the North is expected to have temperatures above normal.

The National Weather Service said its 30-day outlook for mid-November to mid-December calls for temperatures to average below normal in the Central and Southern Plains, the Middle Mississippi Valley and California.

The service said above normal temperatures are expected for the Great Lakes Region, the Northeast, Florida and the northern Inter-Mountain Range.

Elsewhere near normal temperatures are expected, the service said.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the eastern half of the nation and west of the Continental Divide except for near-normal amounts over the Southern Plateau Region, the service said.

Actually, you don't need a "hand" for Hammond's Piper Autochord. A finger will do. That's right, even if you consider yourself a one finger musician, you can make beautiful music on the amazing Piper.

here's why:

- The Piper has just one keyboard.
- The left hand accompaniment plays automatically with a phantom bass feature.
- The Piper's seven automatic rhythms play individually or in combination.
- The Piper has a dazzling variety of solo and percussive sounds.
- The Piper has no pedals to fuss with.
- The Piper sounds great. It's the easiest keyboard instrument ever.

Columbia Leaf Burning To Be Allowed

VIRGINIA CARLSON

Town Fire Warden Richard K. Davis says the burning of leaves will be permissible when there is no other means of disposal.

The state barred all open burning in the towns in June and lifted the ban in September.

Davis received a permit under the local ordinance until he received clarification from the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP).

Davis said residents must obtain a permit before any burning of leaves takes place. Also, persons burning leaves must have the permit with them.

Fires will be permitted only during the hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Davis added that permits will be revoked if, during the day the permit was issued, the pollution index changes to hazardous conditions.

The warden also reminded residents the local burning ordinance requires an approved incinerator which must have a screen on top with holes no larger than one square inch.

Kissinger Confering With President Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)— Presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger will leave for Paris to resume secret negotiations with North Vietnam Nov. 20, the White House announced today.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen: "We expect the talks to last for several days—perhaps longer."

The announcement came as Kissinger and President Nixon were holding conferences at Camp David, the presidential retreat near Thurmont, Md.

Ziegler said Kissinger, who is Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, will be accompanied by his deputy, Army Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who returned recently from meetings in Saigon with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

William H. Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state, also will be in the American party.

This will be Kissinger's 21st trip to the French capital for talks with Le Duc Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, and Xuan Thuy, who is Hanoi's principal negotiator at formal peace sessions there.

Kissinger's most recent journey to Paris was on Oct. 17 for a meeting with Thuy. He held ground-breaking sessions with Le Duc Tho on Oct. 8-11.

In keeping with a promise to give ample advance notice of Kissinger's travel plans, Ziegler said the American negotiators will leave nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., at 10 a.m. EST Sunday aboard a Boeing 707 jet from the presidential fleet.

They are due at Ory Airport in Paris at 10:30 a.m. Paris time.

Ziegler said the party will stay at the U.S. ambassador's residence but a world-wide disclosure of Kissinger's private talks with Le Duc Tho, who arrived in Paris today.

Three members of Kissinger's National Security Council staff also will make the Southern U Clash Ends With Two Dead

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards says he will not negotiate with students at Southern University, where two young blacks died in a confrontation with police, until they renounce violence and return peacefully to classes.

Several hundred students occupied the administration building at the nation's largest predominantly black university and refused to leave at the request of officials' deputies and state police. Sheriff's said

The clash was not racially motivated.

A smoke bomb was thrown from a crowd of students at the front of the building at an advancing line of officers. The officers answered with tear gas grenades and live shotguns.

Officers said they never fired a gun shot, only tear gas, but witnesses said they heard shots popping through the smoke and confusion.

Chief Deputy Gene Rives of East Baton Rouge Parish said early today his men were using hand-thrown tear gas grenades and tear gas projectiles fired from special grenade launchers.

Rives said his men were armed with shotguns and carried live shotgun ammunition, but "no sheriff's deputy fired a weapon."

Rives said he had looked at television films of the campus and placed all of it at no time could be discern a weapon being held.

State Police spokesman were not available for comment.

Sheriff Al Amis said his men heard pistol fire coming from the students lined in front of the administration building.

Fires broke out in two campus buildings, causing extensive damage, and a bomb exploded in another building.

Edwards ordered 500 National Guardsmen onto the campus and placed all of East Baton Rouge Parish (County) in a state of emergency. The campus was closed until after Thanksgiving.

Edwards, who had considerable black support in his election campaign last year, emphasized that the trouble was not racial.

"There aren't white people involved against black people," he told a news conference. "It's a situation which involves a black administration and a black university, and involves black students."

The violence followed three weeks of unrest at Southern's 9,100-student main campus in Baton Rouge and a smaller branch campus in New Orleans.

One of the dead youths was identified as Derek, a member of the Black Liberation Movement, of New Roads, La. Landry said the other victim was not identified.

floats at a minimum of 100.

Benson said that a council is being formed to assist in the design and construction of floats. Marti Conditino, who is chairman of the float sub-committee, briefly outlined the types of floats that can be made without going to great expense.

At the next meeting, he will show slides of last year's Rose Bowl parade. He worked with the Rose Bowl parade committee 18 years ago.

James Bayliss, also co-chairman of the parade committee, said that the invitations include military units, fraternal organizations, and marching bands. "We have made arrangements with the England Federation of Bands to have 18 bands here," he said. These will be in addition to local groups employing their own musical groups.

The parade, he added, will also include all state flags and flags that have been part of the nation's history.

Tonkiele reported that two issues of a commemorative coin are being struck. The bronze, he said, will sell for $2.44; the other will contain 90 per cent grain silver and be priced at about $10, will be numbered, and should be available by January for handling by local banks. A souvenir book of 100 featuring old recipes, Tonkiele added, is being prepared by Mrs. Vivian Ferguson.

On June 23 and 24, a fair will be held in two large tents in Center Park, with about 25 exhibiting craftsmen in each tent, Richard T. Carter reported. His co-chairman is Edward Colman. Tentative hours are 11:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., he said, and although there will be no admission charge, he expects the town's share of craft sales to cover the $200,000 budget for this phase of the 150th anniversary observance.

A trade show also will be held at Manchester High School on either June 28 or 29. Robert Charms, president of WINP, is chairman.

An historical exhibit will be open throughout the sesquicentennial week at Whiton Memorial Library, Christie McCormick, Manchester Historical Society president, said, and urged the loan of any articles that might be included. Wells Demiston is chairman of the display. Edson M. Bailey added that his committee has identified 18 historical sites, all of which will be designated by aluminum markers. 2 by 1 1/2 feet, and mounted on metal posts.

An co-chairman of historical publications, along with John Sutherland, John Harrison said that Pequot Press of Chester is printing William Buckley's updated history of Manchester, with a first printing of 5,000 copies planned for sometime in the spring. He added that 300 copies of the work, which will be after two inmates overpowered the window. Amy and the dog were gone. The dog returned.

Manchester Sesquicentennial Planning Taking Final Form

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON

Manchester's June 23-30 sesquicentennial week will open with a parade, which is expected to take 2 1/2 hours to pass; include a crafts fair, trade or industrial show, and an historical exhibit; a youth day; and conclude with the grand ball in the State Armory. This was the introductory report given by Town Clerk Edward Tonkiele, co-chairman of the Town Sesquicentennial Committee, to about 50 representatives of local organizations during an orientation meeting last night at the Army and Navy Club. Thomas F. Ferguson, co-chairman, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Jack Hunter and Mrs. John Malone, co-chairmen of the grand ball sub-committee, said that the Glenn Miller Orchestra, headed by Buddy DeFranco, has been booked for the gala festival June 29 from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Plans are to have 60 tables and restrict attendance to 300 couples. Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Malone added that William Luettgens, a vice president of G. Fox and Co., has volunteered to enlist the services of the department store's head decorator for a preliminary study of the armory.

Prison Disorder Quelled

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An order taking radio and television sets from inmates at the huge Eastern State Correctional Institution near here is believed to have sparked its latest disturbance.

Prison officials said inmates assaulted three guards early Thursday morning, seized two maximum-security cell blocks and set fire to several mattresses. Guards used tear gas to quell the two-hour riot.

Warden Robert L. Johnson said the directive was issued two weeks ago because "we discovered that some inmates were making weapons with the personal items."

Johnson, meeting with newsmen after order at the prison was restored, said no hostages were taken and 35 inmates involved were weapons. Charges against the rebellious inmates were being considered.

Col. Rocco P. Urella, the state police commissioner, dispatched 60 troopers to the 1,200 inmate facility at Graterford in western Montgomery County on Oct. 23.

Urella said three guards required hospital treatment for their injuries, but returned to work Thursday. He added 14 or 15 prisoners were treated at the prison infirmary for smoke inhalation or the effects of tear gas.

Urella said a contingent of state policemen would be kept on hand to prevent a recurrence of trouble.

Missing Girl Found Alive

NAUGATUCK, (AP)— Little four-year-old Amy Foster was found alive early today after being missing overnight in sub-freezing weather.

The child, not seen for nearly 24 hours, was located on Route 8. She was taken to a hospital.

Amy was found shortly after some 500 persons spread out again over a heavily wooded area near the Naugatuck-Watertury line.

Searchers looked through the night for Amy, who was last seen at 9:15 a.m. Thursday playing with her dog at her home on Neagle Street near Route 8.

The brown-haired child was wearing a red and blue flowered jacket with a hood, purple pants and black boots, police said.

Searchers used bloodhounds, flashlights and a helicopter in the hunt that began three hours after Amy was last seen and extended through the night.

"We've covered everything at least twice," police Capt. Edward Duval said Thursday night.

Early today, the search party began combing against the wooded area where the child was believed to be, said Fire Marshal Jack Sullivan, search coordinator.

Police said Amy's mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Foster, told them the child went outside to play with her dog about 9 a.m. About 15 minutes later, when the mother looked out the window, Amy and the dog were gone. The dog returned.

Report Sales Tax Income

HARTFORD (AP)— The state sales tax brought in a record amount of money during the first quarter of the current fiscal year—the first quarter in which the tax was collected at a rate of 7 per cent.

Tax Commissioner F. George Brown noted that the state budget anticipates $444 million in revenues from the sales tax during the 1972-73 fiscal year.

During July, August and September, the 7 per cent sales tax brought in $106 million. Brown said that topped the sales tax take for the "Christmas quarter"— October, November, and December—of last year by nearly $3 million. The sales tax was 6.5 per cent during that quarter.

Other state taxes collected during the past four months showed a net total increase of $24.4 million over the corresponding period last year.

The biggest gainer was the inheritance tax, which fluctuates widely and unpredictably, and which produced $9.4 million more than last year.

Gasoline taxes were up $7.8 million, largely due to the 2-cents-a-gallon increase which went into effect in August 1971, and cigarette taxes, which were increased by a net total of $2.4 million over the corresponding period last year.

Police Use Tear Gas To Disperse Students

Louisiana police yesterday used tear gas to disperse students on the campus of Southern University at Baton Rouge. Two persons died in the incident which resulted when students took over a campus administration building.
