Brandt Wins Mandate

BONN (AP) — Willy Brandt, bolstered by his greatest personal election triumph, had an overwhelming mandate today to pursue the tension-easing policies that won him the Nobel Peace Prize.

A record number of West German voters gave his Socialist-Liberal coalition 54.3 per cent of the 37.4 million ballots cast Sunday against 44.8 per cent for the conservative Christian Democrats. This meant 272 seats for Brandt in the 496-member Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, a solid majority of 48.

Brandt immediately served notice he plans an unprecedented journey to East Berlin before Christmas to sign his government's friendship treaty with the Communist East German regime.

"I recognize the results of the vote as a mandate to carry forth...the work we started with success in the last three years," Brandt said in a restrained victory statement. "The majority confirmed we are on the right course."

The magnitude of Brandt's personal victory, which rivaled that achieved by Konrad Adenauer in 1957, exceeded the coalition's expectations. Some stunned politicians spoke of a "landslide" that would change West Germany's political landscape for years to come.

Running with a slogan of "Willy Brandt Must Remain Chancellor," his Social Democratic party alone received 45.9 per cent of the vote and replaced the Christian Democrats party as the largest party in the Bundestag.

Nixon had similar meetings with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and five Cabinet members here last week, discussing efforts to streamline some federal operations and to plan changes in personnel for his second term.

Despite much speculation on Nixon's decisions and projects, Ziegler said he could not give any progress reports.

Rustic Camp David, with a series of lodges, was being jammed with visiting officials, most of them coming in by helicopter. Nixon's key domestic advisers, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, were due back after a weekend break, and Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz was returning to confer with them.

Summoned to Camp David for conferences today were United Nations Ambassador George Bush, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Cost of Living Council Director Donald Rumsfeld, CIA Director Richard Helms, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and special presidential consultant Leonard Garment.

University administrators, meanwhile, were moving quickly to fire faculty members they said had encouraged student protests, and Edwards was branding as "totally inaccurate" a newspaper story that he had blamed a deputy sheriff for the deaths of the students.

The students, Denver A. Smith of New Roads, La., and Leonard Douglas Brown of Gilbert, La., both 20, were struck in the head and shoulders by buckshot as state police and sheriff's deputies scattered a crowd gathered in front of the university's administration building.

The violence climaxed three weeks of student protests at the nation's largest predominantly black college, and led to the closing of the school at least through the Thanksgiving holidays.

Southern's branch at New Orleans, the scene of similar campus turmoil in recent weeks, was closed through the coming week, too. But administrators reported the faculty and students there had reached accord on some of the differences separating them.

Secret Peace Talks Resumed In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger resumed his secret peace negotiations with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in Paris today amid indications that their governments are determined to seek a quick settlement.

The chief obstacle appeared to be the South Vietnamese government's insistent demand for withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. But Kissinger gave no indication how strongly he would insist on this point.

Peron Seizes Initiative

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Juan D. Peron, in Argentina only four days after 17 years of exile, has seized the political initiative from the ruling military junta in determining the course of the elections scheduled for March 11.

Bolstered by thousands of cheering, chanting supporters, the 77-year-old ex-dictator met Sunday night with leaders of the other major political parties. They accepted insults and catcalls from the crowd to attend a meeting called by Peron at the three-story suburban home purchased for him by his supporters.

Peron was to continue his meetings with political leaders today to strengthen his position in any future negotiations with the military government.

There has been no major reaction so far from the government except for a warning that it would take any measures necessary to maintain order around Peron's house.

About a thousand militant Peronists camped overnight around bonfires in a vacant lot across from the villa and on neighborhood lawns. More than 10,000 had gathered there after Sunday afternoon soccer games, but this was far less than the 50,000 who packed the narrow, tree-lined street the night before.

Among the men meeting with Peron Sunday night was Ricardo Balbin, head of the Radical party and a key figure in Peron's plan to form a political alliance to offset the armed forces.

Balbin had to run a gauntlet of 200 young Peronists who shouted insults and guerrilla slogans at him. He told a news conference later: "We have spoken of the responsibility of political parties and the necessity of common action."

Nixon Making New Term Plans

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon, launching his second week at Camp David, scheduled a day-long series of conferences today with six top administration officials to map second-term plans.

As the President stepped up reorganization operations at his Maryland mountaintop retreat, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler joined his boss for the forthcoming week. Ziegler said he was canceling his daily White House briefings for the duration of his stay at Camp David.

It appears Nixon and his family will stay here through the Thanksgiving holiday, but Ziegler refrained from any official announcement of the holiday plans.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife and daughters Julie and Tricia and son-in-law Edward Cox, returned to Camp David Sunday after giving last-minute instructions to peace negotiator Henry A. Kissinger before the latter's departure for Paris.

Summoned to Camp David for conferences today were United Nations Ambassador George Bush, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Cost of Living Council Director Donald Rumsfeld, CIA Director Richard Helms, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and special presidential consultant Leonard Garment.

President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser said on his arrival Sunday that if Tho and his associate Xuan Thuy showed "the same spirit of understanding and flexibility which characterized our meetings in October, a rapid settlement of the war is probable."

Kissinger and Tho drafted an agreement last month calling for an on-the-spot cease-fire throughout South Vietnam, followed by withdrawal of all American forces, release of all prisoners of war and elections in South Vietnam under international supervision.

North Vietnam set an Oct. 31 deadline for signing the agreement, but the United States refused to be rushed. Kissinger told a news conference in Washington on Oct. 28 some details still needed clarification but added:

"We have given a commitment that a text that will be agreed to at the next session will be the final text and that no new changes will be proposed."

While publicly accusing the United States of stalling, North Vietnamese officials in Paris contended privately that this was a commitment to finalize the text at the current session. These officials expressed concern over reports from Washington that Kissinger will seek Saigon's approval of the "final" draft and may ask for still another negotiating session with Tho to make the agreement acceptable to Saigon.

"In this way, it may never end," one Hanoi official said. President Nguyen Van Thieu's South Vietnamese openly described the October draft as a sellout, and the Viet Cong said it represented the "absolute maximum" of concessions the Communists could make.

Xuan Thuy warned that North Vietnam would accept no "substantive modifications" in the draft. But American officials felt that Hanoi's failure to publish the full text of the agreement left Kissinger and Tho certain room for maneuver.

Thieu's major objection is that the draft does not explicitly require the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. Hanoi spokesmen have repeatedly said North Vietnam will not even discuss the withdrawal of its troops, asserting that this would "put the American aggressor on the same level as the victims of aggression."

Thieu has also demanded the re-establishment of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam. Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman of the Hanoi delegation here, said this demand was unacceptable because it would perpetuate the partition of Vietnam.

Thieu has objected to the on-the-spot cease-fire provision, since this would leave a patchwork of Communist-controlled areas despite Saigon's claim to sovereignty over the whole of South Vietnam. Hanoi has rejected any "regroupment" of forces before a cease-fire.

Thieu has denounced the proposed "council of national reconciliation" as an embryo coalition regime violating the South Vietnamese people's right of self-determination. The draft agreement says the council would be an "administrative structure" composed of Saigon, Viet Cong and neutralist representatives, with each of the three factions holding a veto. The council is to organize elections for South Vietnam to be held under the surveillance of an international control commission.

Thieu has insisted that negotiations between his government and the Viet Cong provided for in the draft should take place before — not after — signing of the agreement.

"The Communists want us to sign first and then negotiate," a Saigon spokesman said. "We want to negotiate first and then sign what we have agreed to."

On the Communist side, the Viet Cong is clearly unhappy with Hanoi's acceptance of Thieu as head of the South Vietnamese government and of the Saigon element in the reconciliation council. While demanding American approval of the agreement as it stands, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, asserted several times recently that the United States must remove Thieu from power before there can be peace.

"Thieu will never accept the agreement because he wants the way to continue," she explained. "The only way for the United States to end the war is to remove Thieu."

Mrs. Binh has also insisted that the proposed elections must be for a constituent assembly to draft a new constitution for South Vietnam. This point apparently is not specified in the draft and has not been raised publicly by North Vietnam.

South Vietnam says the elections must be for a president elected within the framework of the present constitution.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court today without comment or dissent denied a motion that would have left Connecticut without an anti-abortion law.

The court refused to vacate a stay granted Oct. 16 which restored the state's new anti-abortion statute.

The stay remains in effect and thus leaves the state's anti-abortion legislation on the books pending a final ruling by the Supreme Court on the statute's constitutionality.

Women vs. Connecticut had asked for the high bench to vacate the stay. The group has won a challenge against the law but that victory is being appealed by the state.

Payroll Tax Called Unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Brookings Institution study says the Social Security tax not only is rising faster than other federal taxes but also is increasingly unfair to lower income taxpayers.

The report said rises in the tax rate being virtually unchanged because many taxpayers believe "that their payments are vested in their own names, or at least that the prospective benefits are worth the cost."

"Then, too, the rates seem low in comparison with those of half a century ago. Most wage earners don't realize how much they are actually paying."

Britain proposed the payroll tax be restructured through exemptions and deductions, such as in income tax, or through the gradual replacement of the payroll tax by the income tax.

The Bolton Bulldogs remain undefeated after stunning the Post-Season Exhibition game yesterday at Herrick Memorial Park.

Bolton scorers were Jerome Cemerka, who recorded an end zone fumble; Paul Groves who scored on a 35-yard pass; Paul Kiser on a quarterback sneak; and Mark Kiser on a seven-yard run up the middle. Mark also contributed a two-point conversion to the total score.

Coach Gil Bolsonau complimented the entire Bulldog squad for consistent teamwork in spite of poor field conditions.

In another post-season exhibition game next week, the Bulldogs will take on the Stamford Road Runners Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at Herrick Park. The Road Runners, who are champs of the Pop Warner League of Stamford, Waterbury and Bridgeport area, should provide some tough competition for the Bolton eleven.

All Stars
 In Eastern Midget Football League action last week, the all-star southern division, featuring five Bolton players, swamped northern division all-stars 28-0. Bolton players accounted for 20 of the 28 points.

All-star coach Leon Rivers of Bolton attributed the win to a well-balanced team attack.

Touchdowns were made by Tom Gerbo of South Windsor Joyce; and by Mark Ouellet, Peter Ryba and Kevin Kowalshyn of the Bolton Tigers. Bolton's Bob Peterson scored a two-point conversion as did Eric Woodard of South Windsor Rotary.

Head coach Leon Rivers of Bolton praised the coaching staff which included Peter Mancini of the South Windsor Rotary team; Bob Martin of Coventry; Norm Morrisette of South Windsor Joyce; and John Quaglia of Bolton.

The northern division all-stars were coached by Jim Green of Tolland.

Hebron residents presently are listed under Columbia, Manchester, Colchester and East Hampton exchanges meaning that it is a tool call for some to call their neighbors.

Subsequently, Sibon circulated petitions and presented them personally to the Southern New England Telephone Company.

Population Growth Slowing Down

HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut's total population growth is slowing down, according to the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council.

The council says that the number of Connecticut births peaked at 87,000 in 1962 and is projected to decline to 41,000 by the end of 1972.

The council predicts that during the 1970s the school age population will decrease slightly. At the same time, the council forecasts, the working age population will increase 20 per cent, creating a need for more job opportunities.

The state's population over 65 years old will increase by 21 per cent, the council says.

 The board of telephone exchange letters from John Sibon of East St. requesting it to pursue the matter of toll free exchange for residents.

Almost a year ago at the Dec. 3, 1971 meeting of the board, Sibon asked the selectmen to take some action stating at that time that he did not "think it is constructive to have the development of the town" to have so many different exchanges.

Hebron residents presently are listed under Columbia, Manchester, Colchester and East Hampton exchanges meaning that it is a tool call for some to call their neighbors.

Subsequently, Sibon circulated petitions and presented them personally to the Southern New England Telephone Company.

Population Growth Slowing Down

HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut's total population growth is slowing down, according to the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council.

The council says that the number of Connecticut births peaked at 87,000 in 1962 and is projected to decline to 41,000 by the end of 1972.

The council predicts that during the 1970s the school age population will decrease slightly. At the same time, the council forecasts, the working age population will increase 20 per cent, creating a need for more job opportunities.

The state's population over 65 years old will increase by 21 per cent, the council says.

Standard Time Makes Big Difference

CHICAGO (AP) — For 21 years, everybody believed Robert Lewinthal had been born at 11:36 p.m., July 20, 1951. Now, however, it has become very important for Lewinthal to convince everybody he was born on July 21st. So he filed suit in federal court Friday to try to do that. In the 1970 draft lottery, July 20 was No. 120, making him eligible for call-up. However, July 21 was No. 256. Men born on that date have little chance of being called. Lewinthal, who gave July 20 as his birthday when he registered for the draft, claims in his U.S. District Court suit that the time of his birth was mistakenly recorded in Central Standard Time. Lewinthal claims Chicago then was operating on Daylight Saving Time, thus making the time of birth 12:56 a.m., July 21.

Trailerite Keeps Vote

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland man who chooses to live in a trailer he moves from parking place to parking place as it pleases him hasn't surrendered his right to vote. The 6th District Ohio Court of Appeals ruled Friday that William Kyser can vote in his old precinct because he hasn't established permanent residence anywhere else. The ruling overturned decisions by the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections and a lower court. Kyser had filed suit in the case during 1971 after the Board of Elections refused to let him register, claiming that he no longer had "a permanent, immovable address."

S&L League Officials Fears Monopoly

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Gilbert, the new president of the U.S. Savings and Loan League, expects one of his biggest challenges will be to block the threat of a commercial bank monopoly in certain consumer finance services. If that sounds odd to you it should be remembered that savings and loan associations are not banks. Their services are limited to savings accounts and loans, mainly for housing. Their essential purpose is to channel the savings of ordinary Americans into housing, and they have been doing a good job of it. They are the biggest home mortgage lenders in a nation of 60 per cent home ownership. But they are beginning to balk at the restraints, which they feel could place them at a distinct disadvantage in this electronic world. They cannot, for example, offer third-party transfer of funds. In its simplest form, a third-party transfer would be the use of a check written by you to transfer funds out of your account into that of another. This is done 28 million times a day by holders of checking accounts. But every one of those checking accounts is at a commercial bank. Savings and loans cannot offer them. Now the fund transfer system is about to become more complex, and that third-party business has the associations both fearful and angry. They could live without such powers in the past, but they may not be able to in the future. The reason is that banks are developing plans to join into groups that would transfer funds electronically. Your paycheck, for example, would be deposited directly into your bank, and the bank then would pay certain bills. Moreover, it is now generally agreed that the shopper of the future will use a plastic card with a magnetic strip that will permit the store to deduct instantly the purchase price from your account and transfer it to theirs. If the savings and loans are excluded from such systems it could mean disaster. The added convenience of such commercial bank services would likely be more than the S&Ls could offset with their higher interest on savings. "A monopoly wasn't granted to the banks from Mt. Sinai," said Gilbert in an interview at the S&L convention in Miami Beach. "I don't think our legislative process likes monopolies." He indicated a long series of battles and insinuations Gilbert who is president of Citizens Savings Association, Canton, Ohio, also faces the legislative matter of converting savings and loan associations, which are mutually owned by depositors, into stock companies. Many association leaders have proposed conversion as the answer to continued growth — to attracting more money to the associations it would mean that S&Ls would attract investors in the same way as General Motors. This conceivably would mean a windfall for existing passbook holders who, in addition to their savings accounts, would most likely have to be given stock also, which they could sell or hold for appreciation. It is a sticky issue.

Mail Service Not Above Criticism

That fellow who beat out the U. S. Postal Service in a well-publicized "race" from Philadelphia to Washington with an improvised pony express the other day really didn't prove very much.

After all, the necessity of employing six horses and eight riders must have entailed costs somewhat higher than the price of the stamps used on the matching letters entrusted to the care of the Postal Service.

But the stunt did underscore something many people have long suspected: Mail service in the United States is not above criticism. That criticism, in fact, has been expressed on the highest levels of the government.

For instance, Maryland Sen. Mathias complained a few months ago that he missed a luncheon because the invitation took 15 days to reach Washington from Baltimore. Texas Sen. Benton grumbles that service in some rural areas is slower than in metropolitan areas.

Not that there haven't been improvements. The Wall Street Journal reports that parcel damage claims have been cut by 25 per cent and quotes a postal official as saying "We've stopped throwing packages."

And last March, inspectors found a railroad car full of parcel post packages on a siding in Perryville, Md., that had been missing for more than two years.

Nevertheless, the reorganization of the old Post Office into the quadpublic Postal Service in 1970 has yet to produce the kind of service the public demands. Not getting that service, the public is turning increasingly to private carriers. Some indications:

The well-known United Parcel Service has captured half of parcel post volume in some areas. It delivered 608 million packages in 1971 and its employees have risen to more than 53,000.

The Independent Postal System of America, started in Oklahoma City in 1968, now operates in 90 cities. It has been opening new offices at the rate of two a week.

Incidentally, in August the IPISA recently won a federal court case brought against it by the American Postal Workers Union challenging its right to use the terms "post," "postal" and "postmaster" and seeking to prohibit it from delivering mails.

The city of Kent, Ohio, was the scene of a different kind of protest in June when the local of the National Association of Letter Carriers cited the "health and safety" hazards of plastic bags being used by independent carriers to hang advertising matter on the doorknobs of homes.

The bags could suffocate kids, they said, and be a signal to burglars that nobody was home.

When first-class mail jumped from six to eight cents last summer, an electric company in Virginia began delivering its own utility bills, at a projected savings of $200,000 a year.

Facing stiff rate increases, magazine publishers and bulk mailers are looking for ways to deliver without using the mails.

All of which is to the good if it puts the Postal Service on its toes. Certainly, it ought to stimulate it to meet the legislative requirement of the reorganization act that created it — that it eventually become self-paying.

The service, says Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen, is "passing through a period of necessary, if sometimes uncomfortable, adjustment."

But if private firms can deliver the mail efficiently and at a profit, maybe the Postal Service someday will, too. It seems to be what the public wants and is willing to pay for.

A Simply Divine Theory of Evolution

1481 told Eve that apples were just about the greatest thing ever, though he didn't eat them himself. (See "The Care and Feeding of Pats.")

Striking the first known blow for Women's Lib, Eve took a bite of an apple and comed Adam into doing likewise. Somebody or other got mad and tossed them out of the Garden of Eden for committing a non-virtuous crime.

That's when Adam and Eve became cave men. They stopped wearing fig leaves, which didn't work too well on windy days, and dressed in animal skins. Adam hunted saber-toothed tigers and woolly mammoths and Eve invented fire so that she could burn his dinner. She also tried baking cakes. Which is why we call this the Stone Age.

Now some of you may wonder what happened to the dinosaurs, saber-toothed tigers and woolly mammoths. Unfortunately, there wasn't room for them on Noah's Ark. So they perished in the big flood which ended the last Ice Age of the Pleistocene Epoch.

So now you understand the world you live in. If you have any questions, please don't ask your teacher. Ask the California State Board of Education. They obviously have all the answers.

No Retraction

To the editor: The MPOA has no intention of retracting our ad of Nov. 6, 1972, in context. The ad was based on how bonding would affect the taxpayer. Mayor Thompson said our first statement, that bonding would start in 1975 was untrue, that he proceeded to quote what he said, which was that first year principle and interest would be made in fiscal year 1975-76. We don't understand what we said wrong was home.

Our ad stated that we must borrow the whole $3 million to start bonding. If the wording is wrong it is because we look past bonding figures from town controller sheets. These show the full amount of the bonds being appropriated. Our point was that the expense starts when the building starts, which is true, but Mayor Thompson failed to mention this. This has been done in the past by short term borrowing. Not mentioning this can certainly mislead the voters.

Our ad said Grand Lists increase additional expenses without tax raises. This was incomplete because Mayor Thompson also referred to revenue sharing and retiring bonds. In the past three years, $477,392 has been retired by 1975 as if that was something new. Also, no town official can spend revenue sharing without having a public hearing. From the wave of requests for a piece of the revenue sharing pie, it seems we will over spend it. For example, some say to use it for Case Mountain, road repairs, and Mr. Weiss would like to use some of it for equipment at the new transfer station at the town sanitary landfill area.

Therefore, as in the past, the taxpayer's wishes could be ignored. The MPOA worked long and hard on the school issue with investigation of the schools, talks with teachers and interested taxpayers, and we listened to the Board of Education. At no time was our opposition to the renovations and additions to the schools based on tax increase alone. Our main concern, as it has been in the past, was the luxurious cost in comparison to neighboring towns and the unnecessary frills we are asked to accept to receive the needed improvements. The MPOA has agreed and would very likely accept needed repairs and additions to our Junior High.

As an example of extra expense, the $400,000 cost to replace windows. Contrary to Mr. Greenberg's statement to the press that the cost was almost $900,000. This answer is on the tape and can be verified. This type of conflicting statements widens the credibility gap between the people and public officials.

Mayor Thompson quotes his statement about the peak year must being in 1974-75 and then will go down. He said this is true and he stands by his statement but what is wrong with our statement which he left out, only we didn't deny that we only said that all bond issues have decreased but once taxes were raised they stayed up. Does he deny this fact?

We felt the mayor's news

Best Work of Life

In Jaycee spirit Robert Werner Jr. is internal director, Manchester Jaycees.

We are not concerned with the mayor's trust in public officials, rather our main concern is how the people feel when they are constantly being bypassed with full information and when their money is being spent without referendum, they are denied their rights.

We have met with Mayor Thompson in the past and have not always totally agreed but have always shown a willingness to work together and would hope that we can continue in the future. We therefore feel that the mayor's attack on the MPOA might be an effort to weaken our strength in the eyes of the taxpayer but we have faith in the common sense of the people and are willing to stand behind our findings. It would be a sad day for the taxpayers of Manchester if an organization such as the MPOA was not in existence.

Thank You

Dear Sir: I would like to publicly thank all the people who supported me during my campaign for state representative. Credit for whatever success we had belongs to them.

For a political novice like myself the campaign was educational as well as enjoyable. I learned that the most important part of any political campaign is a lot of hard working, good natured people. I also learned that Manchester's voters are never too busy to take a little time to talk to a candidate. For this I am grateful.

My congratulations to Fran Mahoney on winning his third term as a representative. I am sure he will serve the 12th Assembly District very well.

Yours very truly, Hill Gallagher, Manchester

We believe that Congressman Steele is perhaps the best material for national political office Connecticut has produced in this generation. We would welcome him as his constituents, labor and business, would welcome him.

Today's Thought

Evangelism: A new way of evangelism was first pointed out to me by a black girl from Angola in West Africa. Her name was Maria and she was always laughing. One day we were discussing evangelism and talking about pamphlets, missions, campaigns. After a while, somebody turned to Maria and said, "What do you do in your church, Maria?"

"In my church," said Maria, "there's a moment's thought, 'we don't give pamphlets to people or have missions. We just send one or two Christian families to live in a village, and when people see what Christians are like, then they want to be Christians themselves.'"

American Justice

WASHINGTON — Before we declare flying machines illegal and sell Pan-Am to Zambia for three bullocks and a comely maiden, I suggest the Republic launch a nationwide search for judges who see themselves as chief officers of the court and not members of defense counsel.

Reference, if Your Honor please, is to the recent hijacking of a Southern Airways jetliner complete with 27 passengers and four crew members by three vicious nuts who obviously should have been stashed in straightjackets and chained to a prison wall months ago.

However, let us contemplate how American justice, so-called, dealt with the trio, identified by the FBI as Henry Jackson and Lewis Moore of Detroit and Melvin Cole of Oak Ridge, Tenn. Jackson and Moore were arraigned last Oct. 19 in Detroit of "forcible rape." (There's another kind?) They were freed on $500 bond, a sum any mendicant could raise in five minutes. Three days later, they were arrested again in similar charges. Their bond was continued, pending an Oct. 30 hearing, and they were turned loose again on the city's female population. Not surprisingly, they failed to appear at the hearing.

Cole was convicted of grand larceny, a crime which is not to be confused with selling a used car, and sentenced to five years in the can. Subsequently, he was permitted to serve his time on a "work-release" program. Naturally, he escaped.

So, Jackson, Moore and Cole took over that Southern Airways jet and terrorized its passengers and crew for 28 long and nightmarish hours before ultimately surrendering to Cuban authorities in Havana. What else? Surely, none of us nonjudges would have expected them to turn shoe salesmen, although admittedly there was a chance they'd wind up at Harvard to study sharpshooting under a Ford Foundation grant.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, 34 Nazi leaders went on trial before an international war crimes tribunal at Nuremberg, Germany.

On this date— In 1830, Peregrine White, the first native American child of the Pilgrims, was born aboard the "Arcturion" in Massachusetts Bay.

In 1870, German troops surrounded Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1893, the Supreme Court ruled that the Great Lakes and their connecting waters were high seas.

In 1917, the World War I battle of Cambria began in France.

In 1942, the Alaska Highway across Canada was formally proclaimed on TV and who thus wielded more power than their numbers would suggest. Likewise, those who seek appointment to the bench must consider that the political and executive orders forbidding racial and religious discrimination in housing built with federal aid.

Orphans Have Friend

KELOGG, Idaho (AP) — An 83-year-old double amputee is trying to bring a bit of happiness to the young girls whose fathers died in the Sunshine Mine disaster six months ago. Otto Starke is making doll houses and distributing them free to the orphaned girls.

He already has completed 28 and works at his project five hours a day, seven days a week. "I started right after the accident — right after those boys got killed," he said in an interview.

"A lot of people want to buy the doll houses," Starke said, "but the girls to the Sunshine children take priority, no matter what."

Ninety-one men died in the Sunshine Mine here last May 2 when a fire broke out in the nation's largest silver producing mine. Cause of the disaster still is not known.

"I just got another one today and she'll get the next doll house," he said.

Starke knows only that the next recipient is named Ther, her father died in the mine and she lives at nearby Pinehurst.

He can't go after his "clients" but depends on residents of this rich mining area to let him know who should be next.

"I have to depend on outside help — the widows are a little shy, you know," Starke said. Starke's workshop is in the basement of the Shoshone County Nursing Home in Silverton, another mining community.

Charles Eastman, administrator of the home, and janitor Larry Loftis help provide material for the houses.

Starke lost both his legs three years ago, one right after his wife died of cancer. He has exercised to build his arm and shoulder muscles until he can swing himself in and out of his chair without help.

"I worked a good deal of my life underground and I know what those guys went through," the former miner said. "Now I'm working for the children."

Special Devices Help Tina And Vicki Attend Regular School

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Although Tina, Vicki and Jack have hearing impairments, they attend a regular school.

The three along with other hearing-impaired children attend the Lincoln School, where special facilities have been set up to help them overcome their handicaps while they learn and play with normal youngsters.

The children are taught to read lips by two specially-trained teachers and they attend special music classes. But they also attend regular classes at the school. The teachers speak into sound systems that are directly linked to hearing aids.

Ready For Lofty Job

The Apollo 17 space vehicle sits atop Saturn 5 on launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla., ready for its ride toward the moon on the night of Dec. 6. It will be the final Apollo adventure and the first after-dark launching of a U. S. man-in-space flight. (AP photo)

Apollo 17 To Seek Out Space Secrets

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Can gravity waves, rippling across oceans of space from an early epoch of the universe, tell us when time began? Can these waves be harnessed to create an unlimited source of pollution-free energy?

In the moon slowly fashioning an atmosphere and interacting with the solar winds to create the building blocks of future life?

Beneath the bleak lunar surface are three layers of ice or permafrost that man can tap to make air and water for permanent bases on the moon? Armed with a new generation of instruments designed specifically for the moon, Apollo 17, scheduled for launching Dec. 6, will try to answer these and other questions which man has long asked.

The scientific payload on Apollo 17 is greater and more ambitious than on any other flight," said astronaut Eugene S. Cernan, who will command this final Apollo mission. He will fly with Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt, a geologist, and Ronald E. Evans, an astronomer. Cernan and Schmitt will deploy on the surface six experiments never before attempted in space.

Both Evans and the moon walkers will operate water detection devices. Evans is called a lunar sounder and will transmit three electronic beams to examine the moon to a depth of nearly three-quarters of a mile. Besides searching for water in the form of ice, the beams will map metallic deposits, determine geological composition and locate subterranean caverns or hollows.

Cernan and Schmitt will work with an instrument designed to measure electrical and mechanical properties of the subsurface to a depth of more than half a mile. It will the background noises of the earth, resulting from seismic and meteorological disturbances, complicated the experiment and Weber developed an instrument to operate on the moon where the slightest wave through an atmosphere 1,000 times more quiet than earth's will trigger a signal. "The origin of the observed gravitational radiation has not been determined, only the direction of its arrival," Weber said. "It is conceivable that the mass at the galactic center is acting as a giant lens, focusing gravitational radiation from an earlier epoch of the universe."

"It should have been accumulating since the beginning of time," he added. "The relatively large intensity apparently being observed may be telling us when time began." Physicists know that matter exists as both particles and waves. Gravity is a force field just like electricity and Einstein advanced a theory that there are gravity waves, just as there are radio waves and light waves.

LEONARD STOLE SHOW COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — When Yogi Berra, Sandy Kousser, Lefty Gomez, Early Wynn and former Negro first baseman Walter (Buck) Leonard were inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame, Leonard stole the show.

The ex-slagger of the Homestead Grays of the old Negro National League told how he learned last February of his selection for the shrine. He was called to New York by Monte Irvin of the baseball commissioner's office on the guise of picking an all-Negro team and telling baseball men all about the late Josh Gibson, Homestead catcher regarded as "the Black Babe Ruth."

Leonard said he was so excited the sweat dripped off his face "onto my new suit." Leonard sells real estate in Rocky Mount, N.C.

DOUBLE JEOPARDY SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police received a call at 4:30 a.m. the other day that a young fellow had fallen asleep while driving home from a late date and had rammed into two parked cars. Two police officers put him in a taxi and sent him home. Not long afterward, the same two officers were called to another mishap. The lad, after reaching home, had phoned another girl friend and asked to borrow her brother's car. She agreed and as he was driving the borrowed car, he again fell asleep, rammed a tree and knocked down a light pole.

Health, Beauty Cruise May Cure What Ails You

For some people the transition from ugly duckling to beautiful swan may be merely a matter of going beyond the three-mile limit. Imagine, if you will, hair-dressers, makeup artists, a masseuse, skin specialist, an etiquette counselor and an obesity expert as captive performers on a ship at sea. For 12 days? It is enough to jiggle one's false teeth.

For more than a thousand people who are expected to embark on a beauty and health cruise to the Caribbean this fall, the idea will become a reality. Presenting at docking time, all will be a bit handsome, healthier, happier and wiser. With all those hours to write away in togetherness with beauty and health experts, can the bloom fall to rub off.

Beauty treatments — facials, makeup, hair dye — will be dashed out in the French manner with Madeleine Breyllard, head of the Paris L'ancome Beauty Institute and three of her assistants, heading up the beauty seminar on the SS France when it leaves port. Massage will be the authentic Parisian one with ozone machines "that penetrate the first layer of the skin" opening pores for a mask treatment as they do in French salons. And there will be the latest in European hair fashions and hair dyeing techniques by the Technical Director of L'Oreal, James Viera.

In their quest for charm and elegance, passengers are slated to get the latest from world-famous experts, Amy Vanderbilt, and there should be some new routines in exercise, by Elaine LaLanne, who works with her physical fitness husband, Jack LaLanne, of television fame.

But two doctors are expected to get a real workout. One, well-known dermatologist, Michael Kalman of New York, will give advice about skin, and Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene for the State of Maryland, will advise on losing weight.

In a conversation the other day, Dr. Solomon revealed that he was anticipating the crush of enthusiastic passengers. The youthful Solomon's popularity has been furthered by publication of a best seller, "The Truth About Weight Control." His medical research has centered about endocrinology, metabolism and weight control.

"I expect to tell passengers how they can take off from 5 to 15 pounds using the most recent medical discoveries. There will be no gimmicks. They'll get real facts about weight control that they can incorporate into everyday eating and exercise." And dieting shouldn't spoil the trip for anyone, he explains.

Even the ship's gourmet cuisine — crepes, suzettes or whatever — may be relied upon when he "tells them how to do it."

"As people grow older they use one per cent of active metabolizing cells each year. Physical activity must be increased or food must be decreased or exercise increased to keep weight the same."

Metabolism changes also occur when one gives up cigarettes. "Weight is gained because fewer calories are burned up when they stop smoking. After smoking is stopped, food must be decreased or exercise increased by 10 per cent to keep weight normal. And it must be done for about three months."

That research study was conducted by Temple University, he explains.

He is particularly anxious to catch up with dieters with the "Yo-Yo" syndrome. Even though they are likely to diet avidly, their weight goes up and down, "like a yo-yo" he comments, and they are likely to become very discouraged. This condition may be caused by "abnormal fat in the system" that does not allow them to burn up the calories that should be burned up, even though they diet.

Dr. Solomon has a test diet and if they don't lose weight after being on it for a week, they fall into the yo-yo pattern.

Holiday Program

A Thanksgiving program was presented at the Highland Park School, Friday, with the Glee Club and each grade singing holiday songs. The director, Mrs. Mary Kalfelisch, music teacher.

Among the youngsters participating were: Beth Apter, Lori Toranquidini, Steven Charendoff, Michael Falkowski, Scott Veomas, Cathy Cochran, Jill Dowrick, Martin Hancock, Debra Nadeau, Sandra VonDeck, Robert Perry, Robert Berdat, George Mandeville, Michael Falkowski, David Dechiera, Andrew Donachie and Courtney Sears. Announcers were Jennifer Hedlund and Susan Coquette.

The program was closed with choral poetry by the two fourth grades, which included "Thanksgiving Menu" by Edna Mehan; "The Turkey's Opinion" by Anna Pratt; and "Things We Are Most Thankful For" composed by the fourth grade children.

Two area students have been named to the dean's list at Amherst College. They are David Keith Ware, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Phillips of 178 Irene Dr., Vermont, and a senior political science major.

Thomas H. LaBelle, son of Atty. and Mrs. John D. LaBelle of 146 Porter St., was recently inducted into Phi Alpha Theta, the history honorary society at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N.Y.

Grand Royal Matron Visits Home Court

Chapman Court, Order of the Amaranth, opened its door Saturday evening at the Masonic Temple to welcome Cordelia E. Miller, the Grand Royal Matron of the Grand Court, Order of the Amaranth of Connecticut, who conducted her official visit accompanied by Dorwin W. Wolfe, grand royal patron and her grand family.

The official visit was held at 8 p.m. with new members being initiated; preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p.m., put on by Temple Chapter.

Mrs. Miller became a member of the Amaranth in 1961 and in 1962 she accepted the position of grand representative by her election as conductress, associate matron and then royal matron of Chapman Court.

During the years that Mrs. Miller has been in the Amaranth, she estimates that she has traveled more than 100,000 miles. She has visited every court in this State.

Chapman Court has been honored by the Grand Court of Connecticut and the Supreme Council on several occasions. During her term of office on the Grand Throne, Mrs. Miller has selected as her special project the Scholarship Fund. Other projects are the Henry P. Wirth Fund and the Masonic Home Capital Fund.

Among her other fraternal affiliations, Mrs. Miller has been a member of the Order of the Eastern Star since 1948 and she is a Past Worthy Matron of Marion Chapter, Gardiner, Maine, a Past Worthy High Priestess of Mizpah Shrine, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, Worcester, Massachusetts and a member of Arisha Temple, Daughters of the Nile, East Hartford.

The Order of the Amaranth was founded in 1853, by Queen Christina of Sweden and in 1891 Robert Macy instituted Eliza A. Macy Court in Ansonia. This Court is the oldest in the world to be still active and in possession of its Charter.

Chapman Court was honored to have each Court in the State of Connecticut represented on their big night. Also they had guests from other jurisdictions. Among the distinguished guests were Mrs. Marie Loeffler, supreme royal matron of the Supreme Council Order of the Amaranth, Inc.; Miss Jean Currie, grand royal matron and Lynn Winkler, grand royal matron of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; and Mrs. Helen Vanner, grand royal matron of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; and Mrs. Dorothy Gould, grand representative to Connecticut from New York. Original Overall's Kidgeranger overall's, popular with the young set, require less money than imagination. They're just a plain old overall applied with rocking horses, rabbits and farm scenes. Short Cut Short hair is back in fashion. Chin-length cuts are especially appealing with classic clothes, snug fits and high fur collars.

Natural Styling Hair styles should look natural. Hair should be cut the way it grows. Don't fight it. If you have straight hair have it bluntly cut into a sleek, easy-to-care-for style. And if your hair is curly, show it off, by having it cut in a flattering layer look. Facing Winter Winter weather is hard on most complexions, so be extra careful to keep your face moist and smooth.

South Windsor Leave Board Alone, Arnold Tell CRRG

BARBARA VARRICK Correspondent
Tel. 644-8272

James Arnold, Board of Education chairman, said this weekend that "unfair" actions by members of the Concerned Citizens for Responsive and Responsible Government (CRRG) have caused him to react and make strong public statements.

Arnold publicly advised the group to "get off the school board's back" and "allow the board to outline a course of action among themselves to solve the existing and growing student overcrowding problem in the high school." This month the board's proposal for a $1.9 million addition to the present high school failed to receive the necessary majority approval and was defeated in a voter referendum.

Arnold called the CRRG a "vigilante" group, and said what prompted his remarks was recent publicity concerning a meeting to be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the high school by the CRRG. In a new release, the group said it had contacted Arnold, members of the Non-Partisan Addition Referendum Supporters (NARS) and the Citizens Against High School Addition (CAHS), asking them to attend a discussion meeting regardless of their previous views and explore facts on the overcrowding problem and available space.

According to Arnold, the CRRG "are undermining everything by calling this meeting." He stressed the importance of the board solving the problem, not any persons who have not been "elected to the board." He added, "If these people want to be board members, they should seek the position and run in an election."

Continuing, Arnold said if the school board needs assistance in arriving at a solution, it can appoint a committee of responsible citizens as it has done in the past "on so many other issues."

He said, as board members, the panel would like to discuss the situation and make an effort to solve the overcrowding problem and he is not about to tolerate a group "who is second-guessing the board and prejudicing all plans and comment."

Commenting on a possible other meeting of "board members only" to discuss plans, Arnold said the members are planning to gather at a home of one of the members to find out where differences lie. Workshop sessions by the board are prohibited according to the board's policy, but Arnold said it will be a gathering of "minds."

Mrs. Cle Decker, a board member, said the meeting, in her opinion, is essential to "mend broken fences and to establish unity on the board which was disrupted during the recent controversial election.

Vernon Loses Chance To Buy Refuse Land

The Ellington Refuse Gardens which the town of Vernon had planned to purchase for $175,000 is now reportedly being sold to an out-of-town individual or firm. Vernon has been under contract with the present owners to use the area for its trash. The contract has about two years to go.

Mayor Frank McCoy said the Town Council voted to allow him to sign the bond for deed for the land, early in the summer, and the owners, Earl Parker and Irving Sweet, gave the town until Nov. 19 to go ahead with the purchase.

Action on the purchase was delayed after Mayor McCoy learned at a meeting of heads of governments that the state was studying a plan of solid waste disposal which involved General Electric. At that time it was indicated the plan might go into operation by the middle of next year. Town officials were advised by a representative of the Department of Environmental Protection to hold up any plans they had, if possible.

Mayor McCoy said at a more recent meeting DEP Commissioner Dan LaPrin told officials that eastern Connecticut would not be the area first in line for the proposed General Electric operation. It was then the mayor decided it would be wise for the town to purchase the Ellington landfill site and was then learned from the owners that they had negotiated an agreement with another par-

Global Sailing Trip Abandoned

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — Kenichi Horie, the first man to sail alone across the Pacific, today abandoned an attempt to sail solo around the world after eight days, 70 miles and four broken masts.

The Maritime Safety Agency said the 34-year-old yachtsman was picked up in good condition by a rescue ship southwest of Osaka, which he left Nov. 12 in hopes of circumnavigating the globe in his 34-foot Mermaid II in 200 to 300 days.

Horie became the first man to sail alone across the Pacific 10 years ago, making the voyage from Osaka to San Francisco.

Miss Ross Wins Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Lady Sings the Blues," the motion picture story of Billie Holiday, was the big winner at the sixth annual presentation of "Image" entertainment awards by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

South Windsor Club To Aid Counselors

The South Windsor Women's Club will lend financial support to the "Listening Post," an organization being formed to offer professional counseling to those in town who have a major need for a "listening ear."

Alcoholism, drug abuse, new-prenatal orientation, family difficulties, child abuse, and marital problems will be some of the situations dealt with, confidentially and free of charge, with residents, by trained counselors and by appointment.

The club hopes to be able to give the post $1,200 to help supply office equipment, a permanent secretary-receptionist, telephone and other operating expenses. The money will be raised primarily through the Community Thrift Shop on Sullivan Ave.

The club also voted to give a $500 South Windsor Women's Club Scholarship, a contribution to the South Windsor Scholarship Association, an English Award, a campship to the Greenwood Nature and conservation camp and a donation to the federation's project.

Other funds raised in addition to those already committed will be donated to other worthwhile organizations.

Andover PZC To Complete New Regulations

ANNA FRISINA Herald Correspondent
742-9347

The Andover Planning and Zoning Commission will meet tomorrow night in a final work session for the purpose of completing the town's subdivision regulations.

The PZC has set a proposed date of Dec. 11 for a public hearing, at which time the new regulations will be presented to the townspeople. The present regulation have been in effect for over 13 years, and town officials and previous PZC boards have agreed that they were in need of revision.

Earlier this year, the PZC called a moratorium on subdivisions, and would not accept any such applications until the regulations were revised. After many months of working on the lengthy and complex subject, the commission has come up with what they believe to be a practical set of regulations that will best serve the interests of Andover.

Anyone wishing to make any comments concerning subdivisions or who has suggestions to offer for improving subdivision regulations is asked either call a Commission member, leave a message at the Town office building, or write a note addressed to the Commission.

Laurel Lake Top Priority Before Directors Tuesday

By SOL COHEN (Herald Reporter)

The high priority item to be considered by the Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night is a proposal for purchasing about 110 acres of the dry-bed Laurel Lake.

The board held a public hearing on the proposal last week and encountered considerable opposition to it. The opposition was led by the executive board of the Manchester Property Owners Association.

The prepared agreement, in the form of an ordinance, provides for purchase of 900 acres over a period of five years, with the town taking possession after the fifth payment — April 1, 1977. The landlocked acreage — adjacent to the town's Olcott St. disposal area, would be used for refuse disposal under the present landfill process. It is owned by Robert C. Demmon and Wella C. Demmon.

The MPOA has recommended that the directors take no action on the ordinance at present. It recommended the purchase be placed on the voting machines for a townwide referendum.

Remarks dropped by the individual town directors in the last several days indicate they are prepared to follow both MPOA recommendations — to take no action Tuesday night and to decide at some future date to place the proposed purchase on the voting machines — as a referendum item.

In other business Tuesday, the board will consider actions on additional appropriations to the 1972-73 appropriations totaling $273,862, with all but $1,250 of it to be financed by equal state and federal grants. There were no public comments — pro or con — concerning the appropriations at last Tuesday's public hearing.

Also, the board will consider: Designating the United Bank and Trust Co. of Hartford an official depository for town funds.

Vernon Notes Berger Sets Office Hours

Donald Berger, recently appointed municipal agent to assist the town's elderly persons, will be available to assist these persons by calling the recreation office, Little Oak Building at Henry Park, daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

As municipal agent, Berger will be part of a statewide network of agents who will be supported at the state level by the Connecticut Department of Aging. The department was instrumental in legislative efforts resulting in passage of legislation in the 1972 session which required the appointment of local agents for Connecticut towns.

As the town's programs for the senior citizens were initiated and expanded through the initiative of the Recreation Commission and Berger is recreation director, Mayor Frank McCoy, who appointed Berger, said he felt his knowledge of these programs made Berger the proper person for agent. The position has no monetary compensation.

Chess Still Tops Despite Loss

By JOHN LUMPKIN Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — His dark eyes did not show sadness after losing four consecutive games to opponents sometimes 50 years his elder, and chess remains the most important pursuit in the budding life of little Oscar.

Indeed, 7-year-old Oscar Alejandro Mass of Juarez, Mexico, will be back for more chess tournament competition, possibly next month, his sponsor says.

"He's a little innocent in the traps," says Filiberto Terrazas, a lawyer and teacher who took an interest in Oscar's career in "el ajedrez" — Spanish for chess.

Oscar "can calculate very well. He needs experience," said Terrazas during the open tournament in which Oscar participated here in conjunction with an invitational match held for 16 international chess masters.

Grandmaster Bent Larsen of Denmark, a player in the invitational, called Oscar "brilliant" and predicted a great future for him. Terrazas said Little Oscar and Larsen sparred for several moves after a lunch the two had together Sunday.

In one game during what was Oscar's first formal tournament he played a man in his 60s, fighting off the opponent for almost 40 moves before being checkmated "I lost the attack," explained Oscar.

Oscar said he learned chess at 5 after watching one of his older brothers play. Now he

The new building will be glass and the stone work will closely match that of the church building. It will contain approximately 5,000 square feet of classrooms and storage space.

The building program will also include some renovations to the main church itself.

The Board of Missions and Stewardship of Community Baptist Church will meet at the church on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Friendship Circle of the Salvation Army will meet Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. at the Citadel for a work night. Hostesses will be Mrs. Brig. John Pickup and Mrs. Mary Thrall.

Seven Bids On Agenda For ZBA

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) will conduct public hearings tonight on seven requests for zoning variances and two appeals from orders of the town building inspector. The hearings, to be held in the Municipal Building Hearing Room, start at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Nellie Eicholtzer of 15 Oak Grove St. is appealing an order to remove beehives from her property. In July the ZBA denied Mrs. Eicholtzer a variance which would have allowed four beehives.

Jeraldine McCleod is appealing a building inspector's order to cease operation of a ceramic making and instruction business on residential premises at 115 Woodland St. The lot is in a Residence B Zone.

Elmer Thrall, owner of the Manchester Bus Service, is seeking a variance to allow parking of school buses on the south side of 144, west of Glen Rd., in a Rural Residence Zone. In May, the ZBA denied a variance sought by Thrall, but Thrall's attorney, John Shea, said the new application is substantially different.

Nycrest Corp. is requesting a variance to permit retail sale of groceries, including beer sales, in addition to self-service gasoline sales at 408 Center St. Nycrest reportedly intends to convert an existing service station to a convenience food store.

The Savings Bank of Manchester is seeking a variance to erect two projecting signs, each six by eight feet in size, at 923 Main St.

Catherine A. Johnstone is requesting a variance to erect a garage one foot from the north side property line at 78 Bradford St. (Residence A Zone).

Peter J. Gunas is requesting a variance to build a two-family house on the south side of Wadsworth St. Ext. between 176 and 186 Wadsworth St. Ext. (Residence A Zone).

E.S. Associates is seeking a variance to convert third-floor space to a three-room apartment at 138-137 W. Middle Type. (Residence C Zone).

James A. McCarthy is requesting a variance to erect an office building addition at 122 E. Center St. (Residence B and Business 3 Zones). McCarthy is also requesting parking, side yard, and rear yard variances.

Revaluation, Weiss Review

The Manchester Board of Directors has added "Before and After" items to its agenda for Tuesday Night.

At 7:15 it will meet with Town Manager Robert Weiss and Town Assessor Edgar Belleville to discuss a proposal for revaluating town real estate in 1976. It was conducted by an outside firm at a cost of $96,550. Belleville is recommending that the 1973 revaluation (to effect the 1974-75 taxing year) be conducted by town personnel — at a considerable saving to the town.

Coventry Hearings Tonight On Ordinances

The Town Council has scheduled public hearings on two ordinances for tonight at 7 p.m. Up for discussion are possible adoption will be an ordinance concerning fees within the building department, and also one setting up fines for building code violations.

The council will move on to its regular agenda at 7:30 p.m. taking up several proposed ordinances being brought up by Town Manager Dennis Moore. Those desiring additional information should contact Moore at the town hall or the town CD Director, George Ross Jr. at his home. According to Moore, "all talents, skills and abilities are needed."

West Side Rec Under Scrutiny

The Park and Recreation Commission is going to take a long, hard look at the future of the West Side Rec and the role that it will play in the town's indoor recreational programs. The opening discussion at the commission's recent meeting was motivated by a communication from Mayor John W. Thompson. His letter, in turn, was prompted by complaints from West Side residents that the building is deteriorating.

The 50-year-old building is one of only two indoor recreational facilities owned by the town. The other is the Teen Center at the Nike site. The Recreation Department also uses the East Side Rec and the Community Y, the latter after 6 p.m. and Saturdays. To use the East Side Rec and the Y during the day, permission must be obtained from the Board of Education and trustees, respectively.

Commission members feel that the West Side Rec is too heavily used by residents of the densely populated section of town to be phased out. At the same time, they expressed the opinion that "patchwork" repairs are not the answer. A final decision would seem to be between complete renovation and expansion or a new facility.

Judge Limits Contempt Sentences For Chicago 7

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge has set a limit on the contempt-of-court sentences that may be ordered for the Chicago 7 defendants and their lawyers and has dropped entirely contempt charges against Bobby Seale.

The rulings were made by Judge Edward T. Gignoux, who was sent from Portland, Maine, to hear appeals of contempt citations handed down at the end of the conspiracy trial.

The contempt charges stemmed from the actions of the defendants and the lawyers in the courtroom of Judge Julius J. Hoffman, who heard the case relating to disturbances at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

By limiting contempt sentences to no more than 177 days, Gignoux agreed with a government motion which sought to avoid jury trials on the contempt-charge appeals.

The charges against Seale also were dropped at the government's request. Seale heads the Black Panther party. An appeals court had ruled that, if Seale were prosecuted for contempt, the government would have to reveal the contents of eavesdropping logs. The government refused, saying such disclosures would "endanger the national security."

National Institute Of Justice Defended By Nixon Friend

DENVER (AP) — A top Nixon administration official says the proposed National Institute of Justice would be a "senseless waste."

But one of the chief backers, with good lines to the White House, isn't losing hope.

"We're just at the beginning of the beginning," said Washington lawyer Charles S. Rhyne, even as Jerris Leonard, head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, was criticizing the proposal at a meeting here of leading judges from across the nation.

Rhyne, a close friend of President Nixon ever since they were roomed together at the Duke University Law School in a recent interview spoke fervently of the need for an institute.

"People have lost confidence in our judicial system, and we have got to do something about it," said Rhyne, a former president of the American Bar Association. "The system of delivery of justice has broken down."

Radio Hanoi Assails Thieu, Nixon

SAIGON (AP)—Radio Hanoi beamed a propaganda broadcast in English to U.S. war today asking whether President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam is worth dying for.

As a secret peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam resumed in Paris, broadcasts by both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong assailed Thieu and President Nixon, accusing them of sabotaging a draft peace agreement.

"One more week has elapsed without peace being restored in Vietnam," the broadcast to U.S. servicemen said. "The war goes on, and Americans keep becoming victims. Last week the U.S. command in Saigon acknowledged some 40 more American casualties. Four more American flyers were also reported missing."

The broadcast declared that despite their claim peace is at hand, the Nixon administration still refuses to sign the peace agreement on Vietnam.

"One of its excuses for the continuation of the war is that Nguyen Van Thieu, the U.S. puppet in Saigon, won't accept what has been agreed upon between the United States and (North) Vietnam."

"But to you, the very men who still have to risk your lives in their game, you should know that man in Saigon is that Nixon tells you to die for. . . it is worth it!"

"The Viet Cong broadcast condemned the Nixon administration for its stepped up military aid to Saigon aimed at beating a cease-fire.

"This proves that the Nixon administration has not only refused to sign the agreement already reached but also violated and is preparing to sabotage still more seriously its commitments," the Viet Cong said.

"The President alluded only once, and then obliquely, to the seriousness of his condition. He asked Dad how he planned to campaign, and Dad said that he had been thinking of using an airplane. The President vetoed the idea. 'One of us has to stay alive,' he said."

Mrs. Daniel says in the book, "Harry S. Truman" that her father wrote of his reluctance to accept the nomination in a letter to her 10 days before the July Democratic convention.

"Yes," Truman wrote. "They are plotting against you and I. Every columnist prognosticator is trying to make him VP against his will. 'It is funny how some people would give a fortune to be as close as I am to it and I don't want it.'"

"Hope I can dodge it. 1600 Pennsylvania is a nice address but I'd rather not move in through the back door—or any other door at 60."

Meanwhile, Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan "summoned Dad to his hotel room and sat him down on the bed while he put through a call to President Roosevelt, who was not attending the convention," she writes.

Told that Truman had not yet agreed to accept the nomination, Roosevelt said, "Well, you tell him if he wants to join the Democratic party in the middle of a war, that's his responsibility."

Truman Tried To Avoid Nomination

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry S. Truman tried to avoid his own nomination as vice president in 1948 because he knew that Franklin D. Roosevelt was in poor health and he did not want to enter the White House "through the back door," his daughter says.

In a forthcoming biography of her father, Margaret Truman Daniel writes that Truman dropped his resistance after Roosevelt told him by telephone that he could not get the cream from the pitcher into his coffee. He spilled most of it into the saucer.

People Spoke Out Plainly On Town Issues: Cummings

Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings, taking note of proposals by Manchester Republicans how best to use revenue-sharing funds, assured them today, "The Democratic members of the Board of Directors are a sensible and concerned majority," and that "they will exercise their responsibility carefully."

Cummings, as spokesman for Manchester Democrats, today released the following position paper:

"The people of Manchester spoke out plainly on Nov. 7 when they approved the Democratic proposal to reconstruct a portion of Middle Twp., Adams St., Hilliard St., and the entrance to Fitzgerald Field.

"They just as emphatically approved the construction of sidewalks on certain streets to secure a safe way to walk to school or to see a friend. And, they resoundingly OK'd improvements to the West Side Filter Plant, to assure better quality water for that area of town.

"Now the job is to do these projects that the people approved, and we must deliver them to the voters as efficiently and inexpensively as possible. That's what they expect and that's what we must accomplish."

"In 1967 the town tax rate under a Republican administration was 41.42 mills. Five years later, in 1972, the tax rate had been increased to 53.73 mills, for a Republican tax increase of 12.30 mills during their last term in office.

"In contrast, the Democrats held the tax rate for no increase since taking office in November 1971, and pledge to continue strictly business administration as they enter their second year.

"Furthermore, the Democrats inherited a budget that was almost out of control. Large sums of money from entirely different sources were mixed together and made accurate bookkeeping almost impossible.

"The Democrats tightened up on spending, insisted upon and got budgetary controls and today they have the money you should pay as you go."

Tax Reform Plan Would Narrow Gap Among State Towns

HARTFORD (AP)—Wealthy Connecticut towns would subsidize the cost of public education in poorer towns under the proposed revision of the school financing system drawn up by the Governor's Commission on Tax Reform.

The plan was outlined by commission Vice Chairman Ernest Courchene to the Connecticut Association for the Advancement of School Administration.

He said the "local option" or "power equalization" tax plan would basically require towns to tax on the basis of the statewide average grand list per student, about $500. The state would standardize assessments around the state, draw up the taxing formula and provide for distribution of funds.

In effect, he said, all property owners in the state would be taxed at the same rate, but the wealthier towns would pay more and thereby help the poorer towns. Towns where their actual grand list per student is higher than the state average would have to tax at a higher rate to provide the same expenditure level in the schools. Towns with a lower average could maintain or cut their tax rate.

Courchene said the revision is

French Wine Outlook Said Good, But Not Great For 1972

BORDEAUX, France (AP)—Whatever nature does to grapes in France, the men who make wine out of them always describe their product as "honest."

Come real disaster, like hail or the Romans invading to burn the Gauls' vines, a winter can always say: "It was a better year than expected."

To describe 1972, winegrowers can use both phrases. Some had weather in the spring gave many a very late start and a real scare. But the grapes made out all right, harvests seemed adequate and 1972 on the whole looks like a good but not great year in satisfactory quantities.

Here is a survey of some of the main wine producing areas: Bordeaux—Winegrower and merchant Bernard Ginet said that 1972 "was an improvement over '71 for the region in terms of quantity but not enough to make any dent in Bordeaux prices. Quality is described locally as promising. Alsace—The harvest was expected to be reasonably abundant, which might tend to stabilize the price of Alsatian white wines. They have gone up 85 per cent over the last decade. "Without pretending to be particularly flattering, the vintage will be fresh and balanced. Typical Alsace, in other words," said Marcel Blanck, president of the Alsace Winegrowers Association.

Beaujolais—"The 1972 Beaujolais will be light, fruity, wide-awake and easy-flowing without have any pretensions about being an unusual vintage," said Gerard Conrad of the Beaujolais Growers Association. Quantity is described as adequate. Some non-Beaujolais growers are saying the quality is not too hot.

Burgundy—After a good summer, September rains made problems for the Nuits Saint Georges, Beaune and Gevrey Chambertins. The harvest was described as high in alcohol content and reasonably abundant. Prices generally were not rising as fast as in Bordeaux.

Champagne—Although the 1972 harvest was pegged as twice the size of the previous year, quality was just middling as a result of hail and late frosts that hit the vineyards. The price of the Champagne grapes was up by 22 per cent.

Chateaux du Pape—Described by Paul Avril, president of the local winegrowers association, as being "an exceptional year for quality although the quantity is very irregular"—which usually translates as expensive.

FLAGSTAD FUND AWARDS GRANT

NEW YORK (AP)—Eustace Hegler, an American mezzo-soprano now appearing with the Grand Theater in Geneva, has been awarded a grant of $1,500 from the Kirsten Flagstad Memorial Fund.

At 15, Miss Hegler won a scholarship to the Community Music School in Buffalo. She also won a music scholarship to Rosary Hill College there and received her bachelor's degree in 1969. That autumn she entered the Manhattan School of Music on a scholarship. She received her masters degree in 1971.

Industrial Unrest Followed By Whopping Pay Raises

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Industrial unrest among blacks in this segregated country has been followed by some whopping pay raises.

Thirteen doctors serving the black townships of Johannesburg walked out of their hospital one Saturday complaining of "insulting wages." Come Tuesday they were back on the job 300 per cent a month better off.

More significantly, that raise put them on an equal pay footing with white doctors at the same hospital.

Within a few days one of South Africa's largest mining companies, Johannesburg Consolidated Investments, announced 50 per cent salary raises for its African staff at head office and a promise of increases — "the maximum that is economically feasible" — for its 50,000 African mine workers.

That same day employers in the retail and distributive industries offered increases of up to 46 per cent for black workers adding the equivalent of $26.34 a month to the minimum wage of $58.87.

The JCI head office staff will now earn an average $171 a month instead of $115.00.

The employers' willingness to give way on such a large scale was in part prompted by one of the worst bouts of inflation this country has seen.

Prices generally have soared 10 per cent this year, but through economic peculiarities and profit-taking by middlemen some basic foodstuffs such as corn, sugar and cooking oil have rocketed.

Employers also know that nonwhites can take out grievances spontaneously and violently, as at Port Elizabeth in May 1971 when hundreds stoned buses after the operators announced fare increases.

The doctors' walkout came at the end of a week during which nonwhite longshoremen at Durban, Africa's largest port, and Cape Town failed to report for work for three days claiming unsubstantial raises. There was no violence and the longshoremen accepted a promise the government-run wages board would hurry up consideration of their case.

In other places militant demands weren't so well received. Diamond miners at Kimberley struck for higher wages and were promptly arrested. They were contract workers and forbidden to strike.

In Johannesburg the City Council that made concessions to doctors bluntly told black nurses it would be no use them striking. Nursing, said a spokesman, was a prestige job among blacks and the council always had more job applicants than it could handle.

Elsewhere, the government has been encouraging higher wages for Africans, who are not allowed to organize themselves in recognized labor unions. A wages board negotiates for them, with a government appointee bidding against the employers.

The government appears to have become concerned recently at what has become known here as the traditional wage differential based on race.

Instant Fame

The editorial, "Whistle Blower with Release," brought overnight fame to the American journalist, William Allen White. Published in the Emporia Gazette, it was used in the campaign to elect William McKinley as president of the United States.

Designer Turns Skulls Into Art Objects

By ALISON LERRICK
LONDON (AP) — A year or two ago, no one would have thought he could live with a skull, "marvels" J. Antony Redmile, who cut his teeth on them.

Last of a long line of antique dealers, he has evolved his own antique art form: giving new life to unloved old animals. In his studio-shop hidden in a Kensington mews, you may stumble on anything from narwhal tusks, mammoth's teeth and an elephant's jawbone to an eagle with tortoise shell feathers and a totem pole of polished monkey skulls.

"People sort of wonder just where one's getting one's skulls," chuckles 34-year-old Redmile, who wears a beard, blue jeans and an ivory tooth necklace.

But never fear, the source for skulls is the English country house. "They are all trophies that have been around but neglected," says Redmile, who looks pily on all the dusty roose, bison and antelope heads in the attic.

However, a skull is but a point of departure. In the cellar — which looks like the elephant's graveyard in the flesh — his 25 workers strip and polish the trophies. When mounted on ultra-modern German silver stands, inlaid with ivory and studded with semi-precious stones, the animals appear as civilized as a dinner table.

The result: a marriage of African art and high tech. Why the grotesque style in decor? "People are always looking for the bizarre. Mine is a grotesque environment, not a macabre. There's a great difference," Redmile says. "Besides, people like to have something real around them."

After art school, this designer began his career by restoring old and priceless porcelain, "including the plate from the Kremlin when it came over."

Now, his mini-ceramic factory turns out baroque objects from lions' head chachipots and life-size jeweled ringers to erotica salt and pepper pots. "They're on all the best tables," jokes their creator.

Los Angeles is the home of his staunchest supporters, "since the houses are bigger." It would take a big one to do justice to the giant water buffalo skull, with silver balls dangling from its horns and a chunk of malachite between the eyes.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS
The Hatch Act of 1939-40 forbade most nonlegislative government employees to take active part in political campaigns or use their position to influence elections. The act also attempted to limit the amount of money spent by political parties in national elections by stipulating that no political committee receive contributions of more than $5,000 annually. The World Almanac says it was a steal, considering all the glue.

Heralding Politics

By Sol R. Cohen

Manchester appears certain to get two of Connecticut's 72 Republican state central committee members Tuesday night, when GOP conventions are held in all 26 State Senate Districts.

Elinor Hashim has no competition for state central committeewoman in the 3rd District, and Atty. John F. Shea has no competition for state central committeeman in the 4th District — a position he now holds.

The new 3rd District consists of about 60 per cent of Manchester plus the entire town of East Hartford. The new 4th District consists of the other 40 per cent of Manchester plus the entire town of Glastonbury, South Windsor, East Windsor, Bolton, Coventry, Andover and Lebanon.

Miss Hashim is expected to succeed Mrs. Jacqueline Levy of East Windsor (Broad Brook) as committeewoman in the 3rd District. Mrs. Levy now resides in the new 4th District. She and Antonina Parker of Glastonbury are vying for the committeewoman's post there, being vacated by Mrs. Jane Christopher of East Hampton, no longer in the district.

Assured of election as state central committeeman in the 3rd District is Charles Seaborn of East Hartford. If all of the above is not contesting enough, the 3rd District convention will be held at 8 p.m. in the South Windsor Town Hall — even though South Windsor is now in the 4th District.

The reason is that Fulton P. Furling, state central committeeman from the old 3rd District, resides in South Windsor and since he will be chairman of the convention, has scheduled the session as near to his home as possible. Furling now residing in the new 4th District, is not challenging Shea as state central committeeman there.

Under redistricting, the new 4th District has two state central committeemen and one committeewoman residing within its boundaries, and the new 3rd District has none. Thomas J. Moriarty of Glastonbury represented the old 4th District and still resides in the new James Testa of East Windsor and Mrs. Myrtle R. Odiam of South Windsor represented the old 3rd District and now reside in the new 4th District.

If redistricting is declared legal and if the Democrats elect new members of the State Central Committee, Manchester's chances for a member to it appear the brightest since the new 3rd District, which has no incumbents residing within its boundaries.

recommendations will be made. The selection will send a letter to the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) to request the selection of this week that there have been several violations of the open burning regulations but that nothing has been done about it because the constables cannot make arrests.

Chenoweth said he understood the state police do not want to get involved in municipal problems such as enforcing burning laws as they are enforced. He said, "In that case, if the constables cannot make arrests then what good are they?"

First Selectman Howard Bates said he would contact the office of the Commissioner of State Police for clarification. Bates named Mrs. Eleanor Pederson of Woodland Terrace as a secretary to the selectmen. She replaces Mrs. Constance Seymour who resigned in October after serving about ten months.

Andrews said the PUC told him they will proceed with cable TV franchises as they so desire and this is why the Lambert from the Zoning Board of Appeals was accepting. His letter was dated Nov. 4 and was to be effective immediately.

This leaves the ZBA without a minority representative since Lambert was the only Democrat left on the five-member board. The Planning and Zoning Commission is also without Democratic representation since the resignation of Carl Swartz. The Democratic town committee does not meet until December at which time

The Perils Of Victoria

Those in charge of tightening the arrangements for Queen Elizabeth's security might consider the plight of her great, great grandmother, Queen Victoria, who was the victim of no fewer than seven outrages during her lifetime, most of them involving firearms.

Most of the gumpay arose from Queen Victoria's insistence on driving about in an open carriage with no armed bodyguards, but only a few outriders in fancy dress for effect.

All of Queen Victoria's assailants were either madmen or cranks of one kind or another. What is surprising is their youthfulness. Here is the catalogue of Queen Victoria's misfortunes:

• June 10, 1840: The Queen accompanied by Prince Albert had just set out for a drive in her low carriage when suddenly she heard an explosion. Looking up she saw a youth standing on the sidewalk with a pistol in each hand. As he aimed at her and fired a second time, the Queen ducked. The ball must have passed just over her head. Prince Albert declared, "The miscreant was Edward Oxford, an 18-year-old potboy, who was found insane, committed to an asylum."

• May 23, 1842: The Queen and Prince Consort were returning to Buckingham Palace from a Sunday drive, again in an open carriage, when John Francis, a 22-year-old cabinet maker, pointed a pistol at them and fired. The Queen was unharmed, but the Prince was wounded in the arm. "Thank God my Angel is safe!" the Queen, whose husband wrote to her uncle, Francis was condemned to death, the sentence later being commuted to life imprisonment.

• July 3, 1842: William Bean, a hunchbacked youth, leveled a pistol at the Queen while she was taking the air in her carriage, but the Queen ducked. The ball must have passed just over her head. Prince Albert declared, "The miscreant was Edward Oxford, an 18-year-old potboy, who was found insane, committed to an asylum."

• May 19, 1849: William Hamilton, a mad Irishman, fired at the Queen as she was returning home from her official holiday celebration. He was sentenced to seven years.

• May 27, 1850: The Queen was struck on the head by a cane and knocked unconscious as she was coming out of Cambridge House. Pleadably (only the deep brim of her bonnet saved her from worse damage than a black eye). Her attacker was

L. Robert Pate, late of the 10th Hussars, who was mentally unbalanced, and who was hanged for seven years for the outrage. Ten years later the Queen still bore the scar.

• February 29, 1872: Arthur O'Connor, a consumptive Irish lad of 17, jumped onto the Queen's carriage as it was entering the Palace gates, and presented a petition for her to sign freeing Irish republican prisoners. O'Connor got off with a one-year sentence, plus 20 strokes of the lash, which caused the Queen to protest at the court's leniency.

• March 2, 1882: The Queen was struck on the head by a cane and knocked unconscious as she was coming out of Cambridge House. Pleadably (only the deep brim of her bonnet saved her from worse damage than a black eye). Her attacker was Admadabad Lister. Many of the world's biggest cities are virtually unknown to most Americans. Included in a list of cities with more than a million population are: Ahmadabad in India, Lashu-Luta in China and Nagoya in Japan.

NO MORE STRIKES ST. IGNACE, Mich. (AP) — A guard sped a motorist stopping his car one plucky, overcast morning on the plaza which connects Lower and Upper Michigan. The driver got out of his car and walked to the guard rail of the bridge. The guard, thinking a suicide was about to take place, roared out in his patrol car with lights flashing and siren screaming. As the guard reached the man, the motorist was seen dropping something over the rail into the seething water 150 feet below. He explained it was his bowling ball, his bowling shoes and his bowling bag. He said his scores had made him so disgusted that he wanted to get rid of his equipment in order that he would never be tempted to try to bowl again.

Travelers Face Red Tape Battle

By WERNER VOLLMANN Associated Press Writer VIENNA (AP) — Travel for a Westerner may be occasionally troublesome, but this is nothing compared to the battle with red tape an East European traveler encounters, if he just goes from one Communist country to another.

The Slovak Association of Journalists has issued a booklet which lists so many things to do that it might in fact discourage anybody from making the trip in the first place.

The Association's biweekly publication Vyber Z Domacia Zahranici (Choose from Home or Foreign) lists the regulations applying in the various East European countries, which in the case of the Soviet Union alone covered 21 lines.

The hard-core measures are nearly the same in every East European country. Each wants to know who crosses the border, watches that not too much of its national currency is taken out, nor rare consumer goods which the East European countries prefer to sell in the West for hard currency.

Red tape starts at home. Czechoslovaks have to file customs and foreign currency declarations, in some cases they must also have exit permits. Anyone intending to take a gift exceeding $20 along must obtain permission.

Anyone wanting to visit the Soviet Union or Poland must have a visa. Getting a tour of a state travel agency makes this relatively simple. But anyone who wants to visit privately must have an invitation authenticated by the Soviet militia.

The situation becomes even more complicated as far as money is concerned. Limits are set by each country how many zlotys, lei, leva, rubles, forints or East marks can be exchanged daily.

Pennsylvania Police Seeking a New Image

By CHRIS ROBERTS Associated Press Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "What's an old penny made of?" someone would shout, passing a policeman. "Dirty copper!" was the loud reply — and then the kids would run.

That old taunt was born in a time when policemen were characterized either as overweight Irishmen, wearing sagging gumbells and twirling nightsticks, or leather-jacketed, high-booted young men wearing tinted sunglasses and roaring by on a motorcycle.

The new attire, he phased in over the next year, consists of green blazers worn over a light green broadcloth shirt. The trousers are oxford grey, shoes black, and the tie — still undecided.

A vest pocket crest, bearing a rose — the city's symbol — will replace the badge. The identification will be carried in the officer's pocket. Lancaster policemen also will wear these six-inch barrel rears that were shorter models which will be worn out of sight.

Strike Costly To Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's food prices, already among the highest in the United States, are rising again — because of a strike more than 2,000 miles away.

Shoppers are paying 35 cents a pound for potatoes for which they paid 23 cents a few weeks ago, 50 cents for tomatoes that used to cost 40 and 41.33 for round steak that was $1.20.

The price hikes are due to a new disruption of the island state's vital shipping links to the U.S. mainland, the fourth in the past 1 1/2 years.

The strike by the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union against the Pacific Maritime Association, now in its fourth week, has kept only a few shipping companies, Seastrand and U.S. Lines, operating normally to Hawaii.

The association is headquartered at the West Coast.

Food merchants, finding themselves unable to get space aboard ships for their supplies, are turning to air cargo, a considerably more expensive delivery system.

Jack Cavaliero, district manager of Safeway, one of the state's largest supermarket chains, said his company is being hit in meat, produce, frozen items and dairy products and is paying the higher cost to the customer.

Neil Sutherland, district manager of Foodland, another large supermarket chain, said his company is being hit in the same way.

Store managers report a slight increase in customer complaints, but no noticeable decrease in purchases of the higher-priced goods.

F. Chang, operator of the Times supermarket chain, said he is spending $6.78 per carton to fly in a load of 50-pound cartons of select potatoes that cost only $5.90 per carton.

When he was bringing the potatoes in by ship at a cost of 41 cents per carton, he sold them in his stores for between 50 and 52 cents a pound.

Now, he said, the store price is between 59 and 63 cents a pound "and I'm losing money."

Bombay Bloomers Doomed

HONG KONG (AP) — A Chinese sergeant thinks they're cute. A British army sergeant thinks they're practical. An American serviceman on leave here wishes GIs had them.

But it's too late for praise — even feminine approval — to make any difference. "Bombay bloomers," starched khaki shorts that long have been part of the British army uniform in hot climates, are doomed.

The Hong Kong-based Gurkha transport regiment, Nepalese soldiers serving in the British army, are one of the last British army units still in shorts. They will turn them in for long trousers next month, an army spokesman here says.

Shortly thereafter, he added, the 8th Gurkha Rifles serving in Brunei will do the same. That will mark the end of a century-long tradition.

The spokesman has no official reason for the phasing-out of shorts. "I guess it was just decided knees are not the most attractive part of the male anatomy," he said.

But it's not a total loss for knee-fanciers. Shorts will remain a part of the uniform in both the British navy and air force, and knobby knees will still be seen among troops in the 1st Battalion Black Watch, The Royal Highland Regiment. They wear kilts.

Headstone Patio Causes Problem

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bobbie Pruitt, who now lives in Myrtle Beach, S.C., is trying to sell his ranch-style house in Greensboro, but without much luck.

The price recently dropped from $26,500 to $23,500, and he thinks the 3-year-old patio is the problem.

Pruitt used 82 gravestones to make the patio.

"He got the headstones from a monument company's 'junk pile,' a collection of old stones replaced at the request of the deceased's family," Pruitt said. "I was making fun of the dead. But I'm not really. I'm just an antique buff."

Suburbia Now State's Biggest Voting Bloc

By DON MEIKLE
Associated Press Writer

Now more than ever, suburbia is where the votes are in Connecticut.

Apparently because of the higher economic and educational levels of their citizens, the suburbs and the rural towns cast more votes per capita than the cities. Their political importance in any statewide or congressional election, therefore, is even greater than mere population figures would indicate.

The cities have divided steadily in terms of the percentage of the total population of Connecticut for at least half a century. Thus was when Hartford, Bridgeport, New Haven and Waterbury contributed 30 per cent of the state's population. That was back in 1920. In 1970, however, they contained only 18 per cent of the people of Connecticut.

Since city people don't vote in as great numbers as suburban and rural folk, the percentage of Connecticut's votes cast by city-dwellers is even smaller than their population percentage. In the '72 presidential election, only 14.5 per cent of the votes in Connecticut were cast by the residents of Hartford, Bridgeport, New Haven and Waterbury.

Much attention has been paid to voter turnout—that is, the percentage of registered voters who actually go to the polls on election day—as an indicator of political activity or apathy.

Special Youth Court Set Up

EAST PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A special kind of court is in session in this predominantly black community where the judge is a black man and the jury is made up of black and white young criminals, but never to condemn them.

The court deals with offenders such as a black youth who recently shuffled in, filled with hostility and resentment. He had just been arrested for waving a loaded gun around in public.

But instead of being inserted into the grim routine usually accorded the juvenile offender, before the baleful glare of adult disapproval, this court put him to work in a recreation center. He was helped with six months of counseling. He finished high school and hasn't been in trouble since.

The agency that brought about the rehabilitation of the boy did not involve a judge, or a regular court, but was a project of the federally funded Community Youth Responsibility System. It's been operating in San Mateo County for two years.

Instead of bailiffs, cops, moonies and prison guards, the young offender goes before a panel of seven members of the town of 30,000 persons about 10 miles south of San Francisco. Most of the panel members are only a year or two older than the teenagers they judge.

"We've had 300 cases referred to us by police agencies in the two years we've been in operation and only 15 — eight per cent — have gotten into trouble again," said Robert Evans, the project's director.

"The national average percentage of juvenile offenders who repeat their behavior is 70 per cent," he added.

Evans summed up his argument for the success of the program in three words: "We don't condemn."

The panel hears only crimes against persons or property, not truancy or incorrigibility.

Patricia Shepard, a panel member, said it is the peer atmosphere that convinces the offender and makes him want to change his ways.

"The discipline meted out by the panel is as unconventional as the body itself. Recently, the panel found a robber and burglar guilty and assigned them to work as household helpers for their victims. Evans said the project has been so successful that inquiries have

If Strike Can Be Averted Court Order Keeps Buses Operating

HARTFORD (AP) — Superior Court Judge George Saden today extended for one week an injunction barring the Connecticut Co. from shutting down bus service in Hartford, New Haven and Stamford.

But Saden said he would proceed with the injunction if company drivers and mechanics go through with their threat to strike the company Saturday morning.

Saden continued the injunction in order to give the Connecticut Co. time to file with the court a request by the state's largest, to force state Transportation Commissioner A. Earl Wood to subsidize the financially weakening firm from the Public Service Tax Fund.

The chief of Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU) locals at the Connecticut Co., John Thompson, said after hearing Saden's ruling that the union still plans to go ahead with its strike.

The ATU contract expired Sept. 30, but ATU members have worked on a day-to-day basis under their old contract since then.

A third legal issue in the bus crisis, which Saden intends to deal with after settling the ConnCo suit and injunction issue, is a request by the City of Stamford to have ConnCo placed into receivership because of its inability to extend its deficit dilemma.

The injunction would have provided direct subsidies to financially-sailing bus companies from the Public Service Tax Fund. The legality of government's veto, a "line-item" measure that affected only part of a more comprehensive bill, is under challenge by Democrats in a separate court case.

In October, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill vetoed part of a bill from the Democratic-controlled state legislature that would have provided direct subsidies to financially-sailing bus companies from the Public Service Tax Fund. Peace Talk Sessions Continue PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho opened their second secret peace meeting today in a suburban villa near Paris.

The meeting took place in the same closely guarded two-story villa at Gif-Sur-Yvette, 15 miles southwest of Paris, where the two met for 5 1/2 hours Monday.

French sources said the villa is the property of the French Communist party.

Kissinger opened what could be the final phase of his secret negotiations with Tho on Monday. The two sides did not meet this morning, reportedly at Tho's request to give him time to consult with Hanoi.

A television camera team tracked Kissinger to the villa besieged by newsmen, photographers and television crews — some perched on top of nearby buildings.

Kissinger conferred with Pham Dang Lam, the head of the Saigon delegation to the Paris peace talks, Monday night. A spokesman for Hanoi said similar close contact was being maintained between the two sides.

The Viet Cong's representatives in Paris, Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, and Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, reached a general agreement in secret negotiations last month on the draft of a cease-fire agreement, but President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam has refused so far to go along.

Cost Of Living Nudges Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, nudged by higher prices for clothing, rose by three-tenths of one per cent in October, giving the nation a 3.7 per cent inflation rate in the last six months, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the rise in consumer prices was the result of a 1.2 per cent increase in the price of clothing, which has risen 3.9 per cent since August. The price of food, which has risen 3.9 per cent since August, also nudged the index upward.

Despite the decline, the bureau said average real weekly earnings were 3.9 per cent higher than at this time a year ago. The bureau said this was the largest one-year increase for any October since it began keeping records on the statistics on a monthly basis.

Meanwhile, interim bus arrangements are trying to handle bus riders in Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Britain affected by the Oct. 9 shutdown of the state's second largest bus company from the Public Service Tax Fund. The legality of government's veto, a "line-item" measure that affected only part of a more comprehensive bill, is under challenge by Democrats in a separate court case.

Planes Battle In Mideast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air raid artillery duels snaked between Israel and Syria along the fire line today. Both sides claimed the other had lost two planes.

An Israeli spokesman said one Syrian tank burst into flames and was destroyed in an armored engagement near Rafid Junction. No Israeli tanks were lost, he said.

The Israelis also denied losing any planes in the strikes against Syrian army and Palestinian guerrilla bases. Syria claimed two Israeli planes were being burned into flames and crashing on Israeli-held territory.

Damascus radio said 16 planes were involved on each side in the brief dogfight and denied Israeli reports of two Syrian planes downed. All Syrian planes, it said, returned safely to base.

Syrian heavy artillery pounded Israeli positions along the cease-fire line, and gun and tank shells were still being traded in early afternoon, the radio said.

The small-scale war on the Golan Heights, captured by Israel in the 1967 Mideast conflict, appears to be the most violent clash since the American-sponsored cease-fire of August 1970. It was the second major outbreak in 12 days.

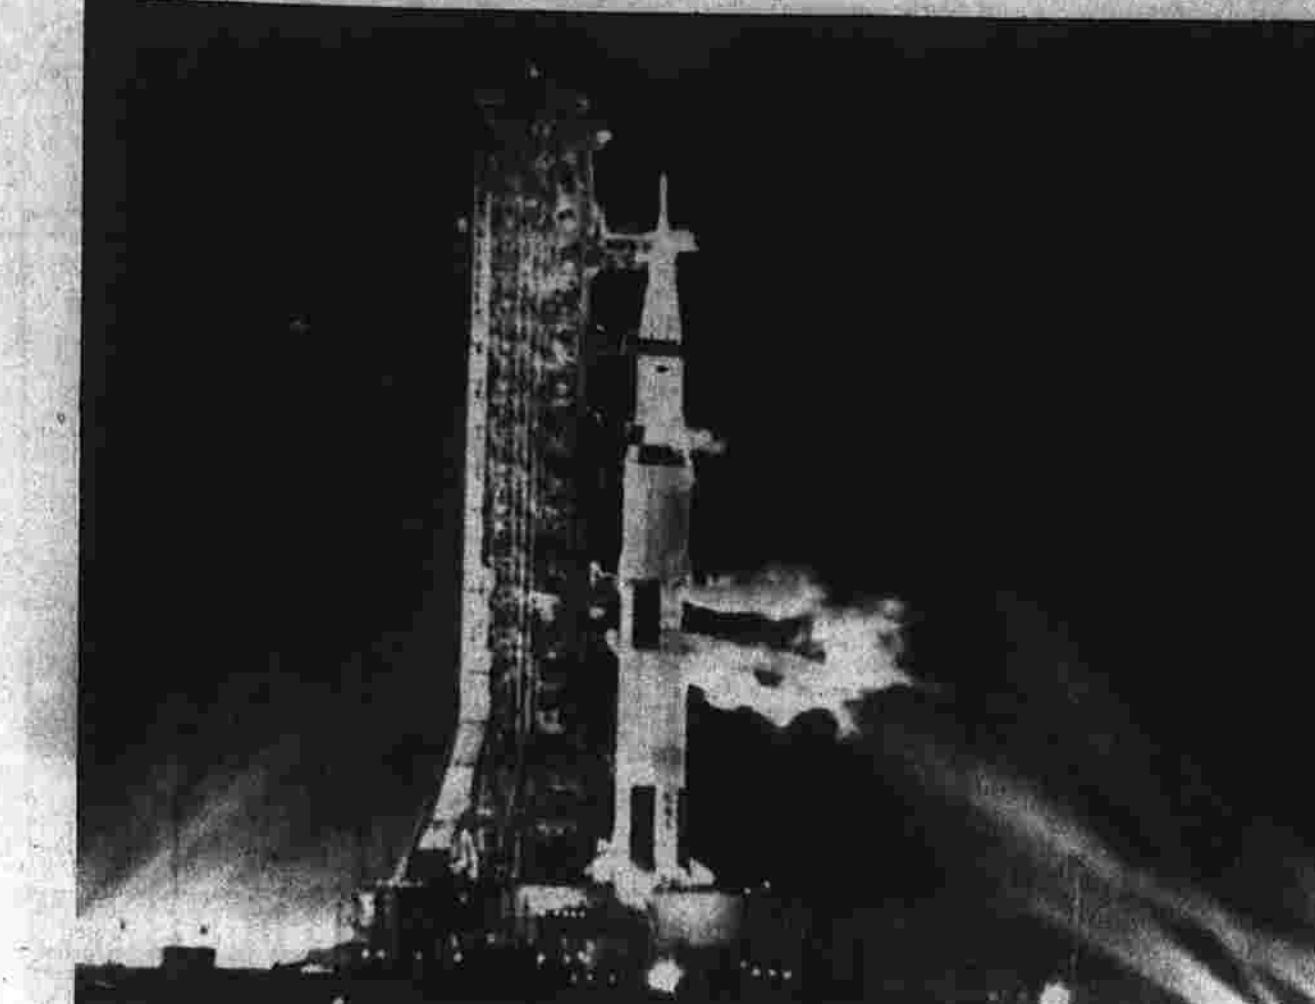

In four separate waves, Israeli planes bombed and rocketed Syrian army and guerrilla bases, pounding artillery positions and an army radar station, the military command said.

The jet dogfight brought Syrian planes downed. All Syrian planes, it said, returned safely to base.

Astronauts To Begin Big Test Tonight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 17 astronauts tonight for a practice countdown.

The test is to end with a simulated liftoff at 9:35 p.m., the same time the Saturn 5 is to be fired on launch night.

The launch team Monday night successfully completed a six-day countdown trial in which all phases of the actual count were duplicated, including pumping more than 2,245 tons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen fuel into the rocket's cavernous tanks.

Lanach Director Walter Kopyev said the test was very well.

After the test, the fuel was drained as a safety measure for today's exercise.

The final countdown for this last flight in the Apollo series is scheduled to start Nov. 30.

On Dec. 11, Cernan and Sclernitz are to slier the lunar price increases for used cars, health insurance and property taxes also were contributing factors.

The bureau said that in the 11 months since President Nixon started his Phase 2 wage-price control program, the cost of living has risen 3.5 per cent. It has gone up 3.2 per cent since August 1971 when the President imposed his freeze on wages and prices.

The report said the rate of inflation has worsened in the last three months, with prices rising at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.1 per cent compared with 3.3 per cent in the previous three-month period. For the six-month span as a whole consumer prices have gone up 3.7 per cent.

The bureau said the higher prices were moderated by lower prices for beef, some fresh fruits and vegetables and gasoline.

Prices for fresh fruits, poultry and beef dropped, but threat by the hijackers to blow up the airplane. Always jet may have contributed to Cuba's favorable attitude toward negotiating an agreement. Beekeeping Appeal Denied

BY DOUG BEVINS
(Herald Reporter)

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday night upheld the order of the town zoning enforcement officer in denying an appeal to keep honeybees in a Residence AA Zone.

The board, making a decision in closed session after a public hearing, rejected a suggestion to seek advice of the town council. The vote to deny the appeal, brought by Mrs. Nellie Eicholtz of 16 Oak Grove St., was 3-2.

ZBA members John Cagniano and Alexander Eigner cast the dissenting votes. They had favored seeking Town Counsel David Barry's interpretation of the zoning regulations questioned in the appeal.

Mrs. Eicholtz was appealing a July 31 order to remove beehives from her property. The order, by zoning enforcement officer William Zinsner, was issued shortly after the ZBA had denied Mrs. Eicholtz a variance to maintain beehives.

Atty. Arthur G. Aaron of Hartford, representing Mrs. Eicholtz Monday night, said his appeal was based on a narrow legal issue — the definition of "accessory use" found

Peron Says Accord Reached

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Juan Peron told a cheering crowd early today he had reached a "historic" accord with other Argentine political leaders for a united approach "in defense of the deserving Argentine people."

The 77-year-old ex-dictator, who returned Friday from 17 years in exile, spoke from the balcony of a suburban restaurant where he had met for nearly six hours with 50 political, union and business leaders.

Fifteen of the country's parties were represented, including the Radicals, the second largest party. The Peronists re No. 1.

Peron gave no details of the agreement he said had been reached, but other political leaders who met with him said the conference was "very positive."

It was Peron's second major political conference within 24 hours. Both were designed to arrange a common front with other parties to balance the power of the armed forces, who have ruled except for two brief interludes since Peron was ousted in 1955.

The junta headed by President Alejandro Lanusse has called elections March 11.

Rat Tattered Ten Tendered

HUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Donny Firsching, 11, couldn't figure out what happened to the 210 bill he carried during the summer by helping a relative operate a movie house.

Then he remembered he put the bill next to a cage holding his two pet rats. Inside the cage he found the tattered remnants of the bill.

His mother, Ruth Firsching, took the leftovers to Houston banks and negotiations failed. She then mailed the bits of paper to the U.S. Treasury Department in Washington. A $10 check came as a replacement Monday.
