New Home Building Said Near Peak

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — After two years of boom conditions during which construction was begun on well over four million units, housing analysts believe the rate of new home construction is near its peak.

So great is the momentum, however, that the third straight year of at least two million housing starts is forecast for 1973 by many in the industry, and some fear that inventories might exceed demand by late in the year.

The new state of affairs is in sharp contrast to conditions that immediately preceded the boom, when housing starts fell well under one million units a year because customers were unable to obtain moderate interest mortgages.

Since then the nation's home leaders have been inundated by billions of dollars in savings, partly the result of a self-imposed spending boycott by millions of consumers, and mortgage money now is plentiful.

The two-million unit forecast includes conventional single and multiple-family dwellings, but excludes annual production of about a half million mobile homes while the debate continues about whether they are vehicles or housing.

The surge of mobile home construction has caused even more surprise than that for conventional housing. For several years it was thought of as a substitute to be used in the absence of other housing.

As sales rose each year in the face of pessimistic forecasts, however, the mobile unit became recognized as a permanent although sometimes unwelcome addition to the landscape.

It is widely felt now that the modular home of the future — assembled from factory built units — will draw its inspiration from the mobile home. Nevertheless, it remains elusive, far from most housing statistics.

Whether they have succeeded remain to be proved, although some lenders and builders expect an adequate supply of mortgage money to be available, although at slightly higher rates, through 1973.

The possible downturn they foresee is based on those growing inventories. This, says the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, could result in "market liquidation."

One of the main reasons for year-to-year inconsistencies are fluctuations in the availability of mortgage money. Funds for lending tend to pour toward the highest return and so, when money is tight, there is little for the housing market, where a ceiling on rates exists.

In the past few years the Federal Reserve Board and other regulatory institutions have attempted to assure a steady supply of funds to the home lenders, primarily the savings and loan associations.

Prison Reform Architect's Style

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The head of a national architectural committee has outlined a plan for prison reform which would replace the prison blockhouse with apartment complexes and give jails a more urban atmosphere.

Sidney J. Folse of New Orleans told the National Symposium on the Planning and Design of Correctional Environments that the changes he advocates may mean prisoners would be "better off in jail than they would be on the outside."

LOSE YOUR TRICK TO HARMLESS OPPONENT.
 BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
 "I had seven chances to make that contract," South declared. North agreed that the contract was a good one, but his tone made it clear that he wouldn't say as much for the way his partner had played the hand. South had gone straight for his contract, but there are times when it doesn't pay to be straightforward.

 Opening lead - Ten of Spades
 West opened the ten of spades. East put up the queen and declarer won with the king. South decided to go after the diamonds, so he led the king of diamonds from his hand.

West shrewdly dropped the queen of diamonds on declarer's king. The queen was useless unless East had the jack anyway, and if West had kept the queen, he would have been allowed to hold the second round of diamonds. This would permit declarer to set up the rest of the diamonds, and West could not continue the attack on spades without giving South a trick with the jack of spades.

Diamonds Conitured

dummy's ace. Three rounds of clubs followed, but the suit didn't break. West discarded a heart. South next led a heart to the ace, and another heart to the king. West went the whole hog by dropping his remaining red queen.

Now there was no way to keep East out of the lead. East had the controlling card in clubs, diamonds and hearts. He was sure to go in and lead a spade through South's jack. The contract was thus defeated.

The winning play for South would have been very simple. At the second trick he must lead a club to dummy in order to begin the diamonds with a low lead from dummy. East must play low, and South must play the nine. This forces West to win the diamond trick, and the rest of the diamonds would be good.

Daily Questions
 An dealer you hold: Spades, K-1; Hearts, K-8-3; Diamonds, K-8-3; Clubs, A-6-5-2.

What do you say?
 Answer: Bid one club. The distribution is flat, and you have neither a ten nor a nine to bolster up the high cards - but you have 14 points in high cards, and this is too much to pass.

Steele Spends Over $134,000 In Campaign
 HARTFORD (AP) - Republican Congressman Robert H. Steele, the biggest winner in this year's congressional elections in Connecticut, spent over $134,000 on the campaign, according to a report.
 Steele's campaign committee wound up with a modest deficit of $2,600 after paying back loans totaling $7,250 - including $4,000 from Deputy State Welfare Commissioner Nicholas Norton. Contributions to Steele's campaign totaled $127,000.
 The committee paid nearly $21,000 to Kupper Grant of Hartford for advertising, and $15,000 to the campaign's "advertising director," Richard Kerr of Hartford. Steele's committee was the second Congressional campaign committee to file a report with the secretary of the state. The first was Democratic Congressman William Cotto's campaign committee, which reported a small balance of $757 after spending $94,638.
 Most of the Cotto campaign money - about $85,000 - went to Selwyn-Conway, Inc., a Hartford advertising agency. Cotto also won re-election. The campaign spending reports of all candidates for Congress and the General Assembly are due Thursday, Dec. 7. These are the post-election reports required by state law. The federal reports required of Congressional candidates are not due until next January. Interim federal reports were filed by the candidates during the campaign.

State Soon to Release Water Resources Guide

A proposed plan to guide the management of Connecticut's land and water resources is being completed by the State Department of Finance and Control, Gov. Thomas Meskill said today. The plan will be released early next year. Meskill said in a statement released today. The plan "is aimed at insuring the best use of land and water resources," Meskill explained. "Uncertainty about the overall thrust of state long-range direction has often made it difficult for the state, regional and town officials to reach decisions in keeping with the best interests of the state's total physical, social and economic environment," Meskill said. He noted that the plan will provide the basis for "rational determinations by these decision makers."

According to Donald Berger, director of recreation, each year that the contest has been held there has been an increase in the number of participants and this year a record number of entries is expected. Those interested in entering the contest should register by calling the recreation office and indicating which category they want to enter. The actual judging will take place on either the 20th or 21st of December between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. and winners will be notified the day after the judging.
Other holiday activities being planned by the Recreation Department include the daily appearance of Santa Claus at his house in Central Park, a Christmas party for children to be held at the Rockville Cinema, and the Christmas decorations put up around Central Park.

Wholesale Prices Up During November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in wholesale prices accelerated sharply in November, dampening the Nixon administration's hopes that inflation has been brought under control, government officials said Thursday.
The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the wholesale price index rose six-tenths of one per cent, both on an adjusted and unadjusted basis, last month. It was the biggest increase in wholesale prices since July and it reversed a recent trend in which price increases at the wholesale level.
The index was pushed up by price increases of fruits, vegetables, eggs and dairy products, cars and furniture, lumber, leather and some textile products. Also contributing to the rise were increases in the prices of coal, hides and skins, and natural gas.
The report means that it will be difficult for President Nixon to reach his target of slowing the rate of inflation to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year. Rises in wholesale prices are usually reflected quickly in retail prices.
At Camp David, Md., where President Nixon met yesterday with his top budget advisers, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "we do not regard the November increase" in the wholesale price index "as a sign of worsening of the inflationary process."
While saying the fight against inflation must continue, Ziegler said "we have made significant strides in bringing the rate of inflation down."
He repeated that Nixon wants to hold federal spending this fiscal year to $250 billion. Efforts to do that were on the agenda for Thursday's budget meeting at the mountaintop retreat.
In the six months that ended in November, wholesale prices went up a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.7 per cent. That rate has slowed somewhat in the last 3 months, mainly because the index declined slightly in October on an unadjusted basis.
The report showed that Nixon's wage-price controls have failed to bring wholesale prices down as much. If at all. During the first year of the controls, the index increased at an annual rate of 5.4 per cent. The bureau said this figure compares with a 5.2 per cent rate of increase in wholesale prices in the 3 months before Nixon froze wages and prices August 15, 1971.
The bureau said price rises in industrial commodities were three-tenths of one per cent on an unadjusted basis and four-tenths of one per cent adjusted. The index of industrial commodities is considered one of the most sensitive measures of inflation in the economy.
Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds went up 1.6 per cent. This figure to be 1.4 per cent when the bureau state price index is adjusted for seasonal influences.
The report is expected to strengthen the demand for continuation of wage and price controls, scheduled to expire next April unless Congress votes an extension.

Democrats Sued For 1968 Bill

CHICAGO (AP) — Seeking to collect $251,992.39 it says is still owed from the 1968 Democratic National Convention, operators of the International Amphitheatre have filed suit in U.S. District Court against the Democratic National Committee.
Defendants named in the suit filed this week by the Union Stock Yard and Transit Co. are Jean Westwood, committee chairman, and 112 other persons.
The suit claimed many bills for electrical work, maintenance and carpentry were mailed in 1969 but never paid. Included was $29,000 bill for electrical work, $64,000 for air conditioning and $14,000 for janitor service.
The case was assigned to Judge Bernard M. Decker. No hearing date was set.

Connecticut Hitchhikers Killed in Texas
HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston man was charged Thursday in the hit-and-run deaths of two young Connecticut hitchhikers.
Herman Otto Buhler, 31, was charged with two counts of negligent homicide and two counts of failure to stop and render aid in the Wednesday night incident.
Killed were Randall D. Gilbert, 20, and Louis H. Gagnon, 20, both of Newington, Conn. They were killed when they were struck on a Houston freeway.
Police said Buhler was traced through a license number reported by a witness at the scene. He was arrested at his apartment.
Buhler was under bond on a charge of failing to stop and render aid in a Dec. 7, 1971 incident in which a woman was injured.
The trial on the old charge had been scheduled for last Wednesday but it was postponed until Jan. 17.

Peace Is Subject Around the World

It's almost more than a citizen, if he has any interest at all, should be expected to follow without a scorecard.

We're talking about the rash of international conferring now breaking out. And there is good reason for interest since the outcome should considerably influence the structure of our world for some time to come.

In Helsinki, representatives of 32 European governments plus the United States and Canada have gathered with moderate fanfare for what actually are talks about talks, preparing the ground for a foreign ministers conference on European Security to come in mid-1973.

In Geneva, meanwhile, the United States and Soviet Union have quietly begun SALT II, the second phase of their marathon talks on strategic nuclear arms limitations.

And in January, the two superpowers plus major NATO and Warsaw Pact allies turn to another East-West front, opening exploratory talks on reduction of military forces in Central Europe.

There are obvious similarities in the three events—they share the general goal of securing peace and they bring the powers that count most to that end, the United States and Soviet Union, to the conference tables.

But there also are significant differences, particularly in approaches to that goal.

In Geneva, the two superpowers are alone together, confronting each other and the danger to the entire world sold by their nuclear arsenals. SALT's first phase took 30 months to produce agreement on limiting antiballistic missile systems, the prohibitively expensive defenses against nuclear attack which both nations have begun to deploy. Phase two with a tougher problem—limiting offensive weapons—is expected to run much longer, possibly four years. Geneva is the ultimate in great power diplomacy, the dialogue between Washington and Moscow that has replaced their Cold War confrontation. And as such it is viewed uneasily by other nations, feeling shut out of deliberations vitally affecting their security.

The coming Central Europe talks on the other hand, might be called the son of Cold War. They involve the two alliances that were major products of postwar tensions. The issues are superficially military, limiting the forces of conventional warfare, but basically political. Success to any degree should reinforce the east-west bridge-building already well advanced by West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

In Helsinki, multilateral diplomacy is at work. Theoretically, alliances have been left at the door. Instead of choosing up sides, the nations are to speak for themselves on a common interest—the peace and security of the European continent.

Three approaches to securing peace: In Geneva, an exclusive dialogue of the two superpowers. In Central Europe, an accommodation between two military alliances. In Helsinki, a congress of nations.

What is to be expected, and from which approach? Expectations at this early point probably depend primarily on attitude.

Idealists, and there are still some around, may look to Helsinki, hoping that in this debate of theoretically equal nations a new order may emerge through consensus. Realists, however, are more likely to focus on Geneva. The world may be much changed in the generation since the United States and the Soviet Union confronted each other across the wreckage of the community of nations. But it is still a world in which power talks most effectively.

Joe Sikspak's Fast Shuffle

Dear President: I, Joe Sikspak, American, take pen in hand to toss a chestnut in your fire. I see where you've been shuffling your official family. Me too. Lots of luck. I'm sitting in the breakfast nook a couple of weeks back, reading the paper. And I see how you asked everybody for their resignations, figuring on keeping some and handing the others back.

So I show it to Mrs. Sikspak (that's the wife). "What's good enough for the President is good enough for me," says I. "So I'll thank you to hand in your resignation, And that goes for the rest of the family, too."

Welfare Workers Blast Commissioner's Report

HARTFORD (AP)—Spokesmen for Connecticut's professional social workers have blasted a report from Welfare Commissioner Henry C. White equating the professionals' work with that of non-professionals recruited from among former welfare clients.

In the report, issued Tuesday, White said that an experimental program had convinced him that the non-professional "social services aides" are as effective as college-trained social workers in increasing the self-sufficiency of welfare recipients.

White had evenly divided 1,000 welfare cases among 10 professional and 10 non-professional case workers for a six-month period. At the end of the six months, both groups were able to get about 6 percent of their cases completely off the welfare rolls.

Each group was able to reduce the amount of welfare money paid out in 31 percent of its cases. The payments to 27 percent of the professionals' cases increased while only 31 percent of the aides' cases received increases.

"I believe these results from the Social Work Evaluation Project have some very significant implications for the future of welfare and social service agencies, not only in Connecticut but also nationwide," White said.

"The results indicate that the training our social workers receive in four years of college is no more effective than the experience someone can gain in the real world."

Several representatives of professional social workers responded Thursday night with criticism of White's conclusions.

"Is getting people removed from the rolls the only criterion by which you judge someone's performance in the Welfare Department?" asked Philip Starr, president of the Northern Connecticut chapter of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW).

"I could go in there and kick 70 people off," he said. "What's so great about that? The question is in what conditions do you leave them in terms of what is going to happen to them."

Sylvia Malby, a Connecticut State Employees' Association (CSEA) official who represents professional social workers, said that White's experiment was conducted before the institution of the state's "flat grant" welfare system.

The flat grant system pays welfare benefits on the basis of family size, with few variations permitted from the average payment to a family of a given number of members.

"With the flat grant, the methodology of the 'contest' isn't significant," Mrs. Malby said. "The whole program has changed now and the statistics really don't mean that much."

Starr said that White's experiment was "indicative of the commissioner and his entire anti-intellectual stand."

He said the experiment would serve White as "his documentation of what I would consider his bias and prejudice."

The hidden agenda of the present administration is to eliminate professional welfare workers," Starr said. "The danger is not only for us but for any other professionals that are employed by the state."

Dr. Martin Schwartz, a former member of the executive committee of the Southern Connecticut NASW chapter, attacked White for ordering a competition between different types of workers in his department.

"It's really a crime to keep pitching people against each other," said Schwartz, an associate professor of sociology at Columbia University.

"There's more than enough room for paraprofessionals. The concept of working together should be emphasized."

A CSEA spokesman said "Commissioner White long ago expressed the opinion that welfare workers could do a better job. His contest quite likely was rigged to bear out his conclusion."

Claims of rigging first came from professional social workers when the welfare cases to be handled by each test group were initially selected. In that first selection, welfare department computers selected families of much lower income and greater dependency for the professional workers.

The department said the computer error was an honest mistake in computer programming and a new, more balanced selection was made.

White had angered social workers in a statement he made to reporters last year. White commented that some social workers had actually encouraged their welfare clients to stay on welfare and ask for higher benefits.

New Haven Mini-Buses Planned

HARTFORD (AP)—The city of Stamford was given state permission Thursday to run limited free bus service during the bus drivers' and mechanics' strike against the Connecticut Co.

The permission was given by the Public Utilities Commission after the city argued that there is a need to get people to and from Stamford hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

The city does not plan to charge any fares for the bus rides. The buses will pick up passengers at Atlantic Square, the railroad station, four community centers, the city Health Department and the two hospitals.

The daily service is planned to start at 8:30 a.m. and run through the day.

The small buses will operate in the form of a bus pool. Riders will be asked for a 25-cent donation rather than being charged a fare to avoid the possibility of legal problems over unauthorized business operations, coalition executive director Joseph Harris said.

The coalition will expand the bus service into other parts of the city if it is successful in the Driveway Avenue area, he added.

A bus strike by drivers of the Connecticut Co. over a contract dispute stopped most bus service in New Haven, Hartford and Stamford on Nov. 25.

Police Seek Out Roman Candles

ROME (AP)—Police are searching weapons shops, toy stores and even private homes for illegal caches of fireworks in a nationwide drive to prevent deadly explosions during the year-end holidays.

Last week 15 persons, including six children, were killed and 60 were injured when a ton of fireworks in a secret storeroom exploded in an eight-story apartment building. Two persons were charged with multiple murder.

Another fireworks explosion a few days earlier in Taranto wrecked a building and killed four. And a Roman candle exploded in a crowd at Paterno in Sicily, injuring 20 persons.

The Interior Ministry has more than 1,000 policemen combing cities for clandestine fireworks. Only licensed shops can sell fireworks, but the stocks are limited.

The law prohibits selling firecrackers on the streets, but vendors for years have squatted at street corners and spread their fireworks on the pavement during the Christmas season.

Authorities report that hundreds of private citizens helped in the recent crackdown by searching buildings and telling police of secret powder factories and fireworks storerooms.

At least 15 tons of illegal fireworks were found in one week, most of them in Rome.

Police say they have found dozens of sacks of fireworks abandoned at roadsides, perhaps left there by illegal dealers who were afraid they might get caught.

In the holiday period young and old, housewives and even priests and Vatican residents get the craze to celebrate the New Year with a bang. Police estimate some 10,000 people work making firecracker and similar devices in Naples. Often, it is a family business, with children skipping school to work in improvised powder factories. Sometimes the gunpowder is stored under beds.

Natural Gas Too Valuable To Waste On Big Plants

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Natural gas is too valuable to "waste" on such uses as steel mills and electricity generating plants, a Texas researcher says.

Ralph E. Gilchrist, exploration and production research manager for Southwest Research Institute of San Antonio, also says there is no energy shortage in the United States. It's "cheap energy" the nation is running out of.

Gilchrist, one of the last speakers at the closing session of the International Pollution Engineering Congress said coal and oil "are still very much a part of our future."

The nation has "more than 300 billion barrels of oil right under our noses, with zero finding costs," he said—reservoirs of oil already discovered but which won't produce "because of today's economics or technology."

Supplies of natural gas are dwindling, he said, in part because gas is being used as a waste product when the oil industry was young.

"It's good for use in the home—it's clean and inexpensive, he said, but "it's wasteful to use gas in generating plants and steel plants. Coal's just as good."

"But corporations don't want to recover old plants; they want to build new plants," Gilchrist said, indicating conversion from gas to coal involves economic considerations.

Burning coal and oil presents another problem because of their sulfur content, he said, and fossil fuels with low sulfur content aren't available in adequate quantities.

Removing the sulfur as required by environmental controls and recovering it for sale "would significantly change the supply-demand picture for sulfur and cause radical changes in the sulfur industry," Gilchrist said.

Leaving it unrecovered would create serious solid waste disposal problems, he added.

MPNA Seeking Funds To Assist The Needy

Mrs. Meade Alcorn of Suffield, a past member of the "What In The World" television program, Wednesday evening, donated her winnings to the Manchester Public Nursing Association Memorial Fund. The Hartford Electric Light Co., sponsor of the program, forward a check to the Memorial Fund. Mrs. Leonard Dobkin of Manchester, a former association board member for many years, established the fund about 25 years ago for the purpose of assisting needy patients and their families. Throughout the years many families have received Thanksgiving dinners, Christmas gifts, food and clothing. Assistance is given whenever the need arises. These families are not known to any other agency that might be of assistance. Nurses on the cases make recommendations to the supervisor for the family or patient. Thanksgiving dinners were sent to 30 families and plans are being made for Christmas for the needy. Contributions, which will enable the association to continue this worthy cause all through the year, may be made payable to the Manchester Public Nursing Association Memorial Fund and sent to their office at 71 E. Center St., Manchester. Memorial contributions will also be accepted.

News For The Consumer

STORRS - If you want to put your money where your debts are and then have a penny or two left over, start a spending plan. Where do you start? With a partial spending plan, suggests Dr. Elsie Fetterman, University of Connecticut Extension family economist. Although most spending plans cover a year, beginners should only try to deal with a few months at a time. Then when record keeping becomes easier, move to a more comprehensive plan. Answer these questions to develop a personalized spending plan: 1. How much of your income is already promised to others? List the names of each person or company you owe, and the amount of payment for the next month. This list may include rent or house payments, fuel, electricity, telephone, installment payments, etc. These are fixed expenses and are basic to most households. Compare these total fixed expenses to the total income you expect next month. Your total income can be calculated by pay periods—monthly, bi-monthly or weekly. The difference between these two figures is the amount of money you will have left for day-to-day spending. 2. How many promised payments will you take from each paycheck? If you are paid once a week, try to decide which fixed payments you will make each week. Some payments may be a bit that you will have to save a little money from two, three or four week's funds. Also plan for payments that come only once a year—insurance, taxes, car license, etc. Then compare each weekly total to your expected income for that week. Subtract fixed expenses from income to find out how much spending money you will have each week. Then allocate the remaining for extras—entertainment, gifts, contributions, vacations, etc. A word of warning: things seldom work out exactly as you first plan. But as you keep at it, planning becomes easier. How will you know if your spending plan is working? Keep records. Jot down what you spend, and check it against what you had to spend. Don't try to keep track of every cent. Just enough to give a fairly accurate picture of where your income is going. Your spending plan can't stay the same year after year. A guide and record book developed by Dr. Fetterman might assist you greatly. You can get one by sending one dollar to Bulletin Room, U.S. College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Storrs, Ct. room.

Fashion Tips

Holiday Quizzes Interesting holiday dresses can be home sewn in no time at all. Check pattern stores for bathrobe styles. They're easy and quick to sew. Then choose a very exciting fabric, such as the new metallic knits or a crushed velvet that will make the outfit a real standout.

Piles of Sweaters With all the sweater interest this year, some women are wearing piles and piles of sweaters instead of coats. Starting down under with the thin turtleneck under a thicker cardigan, the look is completed with a tweedy sweater coat.

Sporty Fox Red fox battle jackets are popular for sports wear. They also come in an imitation fox for those opposed to the real thing.

Trim Ends Nothing sure puts ends but trimming them away. Hair should be trimmed regularly in order to avoid a straggly look.

Official Declines To Generalize On Hospital Deaths

HARTFORD (AP)—State Mental Health Commissioner Ernest A. Shepherd said Thursday night that he was not prepared to make generalizations on state hospital safety from the recent deaths of three hospital patients.

"It seems that the deaths were all unrelated," Shepherd said in an interview. He said the deaths caused him no immediate concern about overall safety coverage at the three institutions he supervises.

"It would appear the coverage was reasonable," Shepherd said. But, he added, "I wouldn't say it was optimal."

Shepherd declined to elaborate on the issue until he studied complete reports on the three deaths.

Mental Health Department officials said the victims included a 45-year-old woman patient at Connecticut Valley Hospital in Middletown who died Sunday from choking and suffered in a bathtub Nov. 30, a patient identified only as Howard Fitzgerald who hanged himself Sunday at Norwich State Hospital, and a woman identified as Miss Loretta McGovern, 54, who died Oct. 30 of asphyxia in a bathtub at the

Volpe Going Home To His Dream

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Anthony Volpe—Setate wiling, of course—is going home to his dream, "with pride in my Italian ancestry, but with greater pride in my Americanism."

From his carrier, to plaster's apprentice, to construction-firm operator, to secretary of Massachusetts, to U.S. secretary of transportation, Volpe has risen with a goal: To become U.S. ambassador to Italy.

Now, after nearly four years as the nation's transit chief, Volpe, turning 64 today, is President Nixon's choice to head the U.S. mission in Rome. Born to Italian immigrants in Wakefield, Mass., Volpe will become the first American of Italian background named ambassador to Italy.

It's a post of which I have dreamed about for at least 20 years, Volpe told newsmen after the nomination announcement Thursday. The selection is subject to Senate confirmation.

Italy is one of the most important countries in the world today," Volpe said. "Its political position as the guardian of the Mediterranean, its particular importance with regard to the overall European security... I think it presents tremendous challenges to whoever serves in that post... I wouldn't think it had a challenge."

Volpe said he would urge Bringer to keep trying to convince Congress "that at least a portion of the highway trust fund should be used for mass transit on an optional basis with cities and states."

Commuter Coalition Urges Resistance To Union Demands

NEW YORK (AP)—A 5,000-member coalition of commuter groups has urged the Long Island Rail Road to resist what the commuters called "outrageous and extravagant" wage demands by striking LIRR employees.

The Council of Commuter Organizations, in a telegram Thursday to William Roman, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which owns the railroad, said: "The commuter cannot tolerate any further fare increases... that might result from a settlement on the terms demanded by the 12-union coalition of striking non-operating employees."

Roman, chief negotiator for the railroad, has asserted that the line has no money to meet the employees' demands and he has estimated that granting such demands would result in fares being doubled.

The walkout entered its second Thursday with no joint talks held, both sides reported still far apart on money issues and commuters showing signs of growing disenchantment with the effects on traveling.

Business Mirror Broker Critical Of Snobbery Against 'Small Investors'

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The term "small investor" is "damaging and totally inappropriate," the speaker told the assembly of graduate business students. "It is ignominious." It is belittling; it should be dropped from the vernacular.

As used by the brokerage community, he continued, it is a term of condescension, implying that the more important customer is the institution and that the small investor therefore is a second class citizen.

There is little new in such an observation when made by a small investor. It is the attitude of brokers that is better, in fact, that has alienated so many ordinary Americans and driven them into other investments.

But the comments, a major cause of small investors, were made by Arthur Levitt, Jr., head of Hayden Stone Inc., a major brokerage house. And they were among other provocations that made him take a significant document in the evolution of the conflicting role of investor.

Speaking at the Columbia University Business School this week about what he said were "personal feelings not shared by a number of my associates," Levitt suggested that "unaffiliated" or "individual" or "consumer" be used in place of "small."

He explained that if brokers remembered that "while institutions today do over 60 per cent of the trading, individual investors own over 80 per cent of the stock," they would realize the unproductiveness of their snobishness.

Because of the broker-institution alliance, the small investor usually obtains poorer research, receives less attention, and is accorded less overall solicitude, said Levitt.

This, he suggested, is opposite to the proper attitude, "in my judgment," he said, "the consumer investor needs more time and consideration, more guidance and more education than the institutional service, he stated, is the existence of a compensation system that rewards the broker for making sales while he poses in the conflicting role of adviser.

Fuel Waste Scored At Conclave

BOSTON (AP)—The waste of fuel resources in this country was criticized Thursday at a conference on energy in the New England environment by Monte Canfield Jr., coordinator of the Ford Foundation Energy Policy Project in Washington.

"In this country only 50 per cent of the fuel content of our resources finds its way to a consumer. The other half is used up in distribution, conversion and waste," Canfield said.

"We power a two-ton vehicle at less than 10 per cent fuel-use efficiency in order to transport a single 150-pound man to work."

"If automobiles were banned from use in urban areas in 1980 and entirely replaced by buses, the demand for petroleum would be reduced by one billion barrels per year," he said.

Canfield pointed out that the total energy demand today is more than 15 times as great as in 1870, even though the population has only tripled. He said the United States, with only 6 per cent of the world's population, consumes 35 per cent of the world's energy.

Donald G. Allen, vice president of New England Electric, recommended development of regional energy sources in New England as a way of cutting down the fuel shortage in coming years.

Three areas of possible New England development, Allen said, are off-shore drilling for

Boston Fuel Waste Scored At Conclave

And if New England plans to depend on foreign oil, Allen said, "then we should have a better delivery service in New England—deep water ports and a super tanker fleet."

Speaking about the fuel problem on a national level, Canfield said, "If we are to find our way out of the energy environment bind which we face in the next two decades, then we must program large-scale, urgent programs that will require funding levels much higher than the current level."

He said, "There are no easy answers, no new ways guaranteed to get the job done."

On Dec. 14, the music department of Coventry High School and the Capt. Nathan Hale School will present their annual Christmas Festival of Music, to be held in the high school gym at 7:30 p.m.

This year's concert will feature varied music from many different periods. Instrumental music will be offered by the sixth grade and junior high bands, the high school symphonic concert band and dance stage band. The vocal portion of the concert will be performed by the 107-member high school concert chorus.

The sixth grade band will feature a saxophone quintet, to be performed by Nancy Beaton, Debra DeCavill, Susan Bollinger, Caroline Olsen and Paul Souza. The junior high band will have Douglas Pich as student conductor.

The finale of this year's event will be a "Concerto for Band and Faculty," featuring the high school symphonic band and faculty members. Making their musical debut on behalf of the faculty will be Milton Wilde, George Coon, Richard Page, Richard Paolinig, Richard Bednars, Kristina Elias, Susan Lutschinger and Patricia Trank.

Carl Salina and Angelo Germandio are the music teachers in charge, and tickets may be purchased from any band or chorus member, or at the door.

PHINA Fund Drive
The Public Health Nurses Association would like to thank Coventry residents for their contributions to this year's fund drive.

"The drive is just about over, but the door is still open to more contributions," said PHINA spokesman Jacob Wisnial. "Those who would still like to give and help make this year's drive a big success can mail their contributions to Jack Green, Townbridge Rd., or the PHINA office in the Town Hall."

The PHINA is a volunteer organization that depends solely on public donations and proceeds from its Thrift and Gift Shop. Nurses at the organization put in some 350 hours each month, calling at homes where nursing assistance is needed. The group also runs regular immunization and eye clinics for local residents.

Whirlways Square
Dance club will hold a dance on Dec. 10 at the Capt. Nathan Hale School from 7 to 10 p.m. Guest caller will be Sam Mitchell from Michigan. Rounds will be used by Lillian and Paul Zepko, and soft-soled shoes are required.

Sydney — Australia's newest radio telescope for deep-space probes has been put into service at suburban Flinders.

Tolland Voters To Get Choice On New Type Charter

The continuing dispute between the Board of Selectmen and the Charter Revision Committee resulted in only one agreement Tuesday night — the charter will be placed on the voting machines for the people to decide if they wish to adopt it.

The CRC is strongly behind a town manager-expanded Board of Selectmen form of government which it feels would bring "professionalism" and continuity to the running of the town.

The Board of Selectmen is opposed to this concept, claiming the CRC is taking away the rights of the people to vote for their town officials.

Generally, the two groups agree on the side issues, including enlarging the Board of Education to nine members, and reducing the length of terms to four years and two years, rather than the current six-year terms.

The selectmen favor a full-time first selectman, "if the people show they want it," or in the case of Charles Thifault a full-time mayor with chief executive powers.

The selectmen view the full-time first selectman or mayor as having a higher salary, but probably working the same number of hours he has during the current and previous administration, an average 46-hour week.

The CRC would add the requirement that the first selectman, if full time had no other means of employment.

Estimated salary costs for the full-time selectman would be about $9,000 to $10,000.

The CRC would favor a town manager with an estimated salary of $15,000, but possibly as low as $12,000.

Firemen Stress Safety

Town firemen visited elementary schools in Manchester today and Thursday distributing Junior Fire Marshal Calendars to the students. The 1973 calendars have illustrations which bear fire prevention captions for each month.

The firefighters involved in the calendar distribution are Allen Ogden and James LaPine. They gave short lectures to the classes on holiday fire prevention.

The firemen warned about leaving burning candles near live trees, overloading electrical outlets and checking for frayed wires.

Firemen are distributing cards to local Christmas tree vendors to be attached to the trees. The cards bear the warning, "An eight foot pine can burn itself out with consuming tury in just 27 seconds — and burn your home into a charred ruin." The card goes on to list seven safety rules for a safe Christmas.

One person is in the hospital and two firemen were injured in recent fires, fireman Jim LaPine said, adding that firemen want a safe and happy holiday season.

James LaPine, Manchester fireman, presents Mrs. John Bailey, second grade teacher at Martin School, with a fire prevention calendar. LaPine and other town firemen are involved in a program geared to make school children aware of methods of holiday fire prevention. (Herald photo by Buevicius)

Tolland Democrats Change Plan

Atty. Harold W. Garry, parliamentarian and member of Tolland's Democratic Town Committee, has informed Town Chairman Charles Thifault in writing that a town committee meeting called for tonight is illegal, but that, since "enough members of the town committee want a meeting," he would "strongly recommend that one be held."

Garry's opinion prompted the Democrats to cancel tonight's scheduled meeting, and hold instead an informal meeting, slated for 8 p.m. at the town hall, to discuss the situation surrounding the attempted ouster of Thifault as chairman.

In the letter to Thifault, Garry says, "Mr. Charles Regan has requested my opinion as to whether the call for the town committee meeting for Dec. 4, 1972 is legal. He has delivered to me a letter from you to the town clerk dated Feb. 5, 1972, reserving the town hall on 11 Fridays for meetings, one of which is Dec. 8, 1972, and also a petition signed by 14 town committee members requesting that five items be placed on the agenda.

"I have also received a call

Garry Says Meeting Illegal, Suggests Thifault Call Another

Democratic Town Committee meetings. It did not constitute a call, nor was any agenda set forth in the letter for any of the 11 Friday nights.

"The secretary, without your instruction, had no right to issue the call.

"If the request by the 14 town committee members is to be considered a request for a special meeting, then it should have been presented to the chairman, not the secretary. See section 11 of the Rules of the Democratic Party, State of Connecticut.

"Section 10 of the party rules calls for the town committee to meet a minimum of four times a year. There has been a full compliance with that section."

Garry continues, "The only conclusion I can reach, therefore, is that any meeting held on Friday, Dec. 8, 1972 by the Democratic Town Committee, would be illegal. However, it is very apparent that enough members of the town committee want a meeting, and I would strongly recommend that one be held. If you do not wish to call one, they could proceed under section 11 to do so."

"There is still time for a special meeting in December. I would be willing to help either side prepare a proper call and agenda. I told Mr. Regan that I would forward my opinion to you and a copy to him," the letter concludes.

Andover Lunch Program in Black

Anna Frisina Correspondent Tel. 742-9347

The Andover Elementary School lunch program for years a "borderline" operation that invariably wound up in the red, is still managing to hold its own for the second year in a row.

The lunch program is beset by all of those uncontrollable factors such as rising food prices, increased utility rates, etc. that have plagued school lunch programs throughout the country. At this time last year, talk was about the idea of discontinuing it completely.

Each year for many years the program ran a deficit. Last year, school Principal Donald Libby implemented some changes in the program, and revamped the entire menu and methods of cooking, with head cook Mrs. June Birdsall.

Although it was evident that the students who took the school lunch enjoyed it, participation was not enough to keep the lunch program self-sustaining.

Questionnaires were sent home, the subject was discussed at a meeting of the PTA, and the Board of Education tried to come up with solutions each month.

One measure tried was Libby's suggestion of selling ice cream in school after lunch and during afternoon recess. This proved successful enough so that the profit from the ice cream sales kept the lunch program above water each month.

Since that time, participation in the lunch program has steadily increased, and the profits of the lunches had kept improving, with the cooks able to plan not only nutritious meals but appetizing ones, since money could be used to augment the bland food surplus available from the government.

The lunch program made a gain of only $58 between September and December; however, the program is intended to make large gains. The gains keep assuring the continuation of the program and enable the kitchen staff to occasionally splurge on the lunches.

Libby said he would like to see additional participation in the lunch program. Children are permitted to buy lunch either on a daily basis for 40 cents, or to buy weekly tickets at the same rate. Tickets can be used at any time and do not have to be used up the week of purchase.

"I have also received a call

Tech Scores Second Straight Hoop Win

Opponents, watch out, Cheney Tech's hoopsters are for real. Again last night at the Beavers' gym, Cheney turned back Granby High, 53-36, to gain their second victory in three outings. Granby, making its court debut, is 0-1.

Not since the tournament season of 1968-69 has Cheney won back-to-back games. Tech dropped its opener to St. Thomas Aquinas, 70-71 as a result of some cold shooting. Tuesday night, Cheney turned back Bolton High, 87-59. With a little bit of luck, Cheney could easily be 3-0.

Following the tourney team that sported an 11-7 mark Cheney was 0-18 in 1969-70; 0-18 in 1970-71 and 3-15 in 1971-72.

MCC on Road, Ellington Opens

By Dean Yost

Manchester Community College, off to an impressive start, will be out to prove tonight that their overtime victory against Eastern Connecticut State College JV's was no fluke. The Cougars will be on the road to battle the University of Hartford cagers at 6. In the main attraction, Norwich University faces the varsity Hawk.

Ellington High, last year's CIAC Class S Division state champions, will make another attempt at their court debut tonight. The Knights host E. O. Smith of Storrs in an 8 o'clock tipoff.

Due to the power shortages Tuesday night, Ellington's scheduled game with Granby was postponed. The Knights have yet to see hardcourt action.

Minus from Ellington's attack will be Court Harrod, an All-State selection and top scorer. Also departed are Rich Braun, Ed Mathews and Ray Bedard.

But things aren't all that bad in Knights' court. Returning to the Purple Gang will be Chris Harrod, Captain Don Flint, John Dinwiddie and Guy Champ.

Ellington will probably lack scoring power, but last year's 18-9 junior varsity squad was most likely produce some new scoring prospects.

The Knights remain in the NCC and appear to be the club to watch again. But in tournament play, Ellington moved from the Small School Division to the Medium Division.

Overcoming a 14-point deficit, Wednesday MCC proved that they have the scoring power and confidence to bounce back and win.

Led by former Hartford public high standout, Lamont Freeman, Scott Alexander, Bill Peoples, Ellie Grant and former Windham High standout, Eric Moore, the Cougars' starting five appears strong. Coming off the bench was and showing good form from Paul Kelly, a former Rockville High cager.

Although sidelined and forced to coach his team from a wheelchair, Pat Mistrretta, has the Cougars believing in a better than they are.

Tonight's contest will be a big test for the Silk Towners.

Tom Tomko tossed in 11 markers. Tuesday night, Cheney netted 20 field goals and cashed in on 13 charity markers.

For the losers, Bob Weller, Cheney Tech's basketball coach, may be down but is far from being counted out. Seriously injured in a basketball game a week ago, which required surgery at Manchester Memorial Hospital, the former West Virginia Wesleyan athlete vowed he'd get out on his hand for the opening game Wednesday night at East Catholic.

Given the green light by his physician, Mistrretta couldn't wait to get to East for the game. With his leg in a cast, which will remain three months that way, he was wheeled in sitting in a wheel chair.

The night wound up on a happy note when his colleagues nipped the Eastern Connecticut Jayvees in overtime to get started off on the right foot.

Walewski Joins Staff

Tall and handsome, Gary Walewski has joined the WINF advertising sales staff and will conduct a daily five-minute baseball stint. The former Boston Red Sox and New York Yankee infielder, who wound up with Oakland in the American League, was earlier this week assigned to the Tucson farm club. Walewski needs but 40 days to qualify for the five-year pension plan. He resides in Southfield, Mich.

Bob Leyer, Yale's 6-5, 250-pound tackle, has accepted a bid to play in the American Bowl football game in Tampa, Fla., Jan. 7. He'll play with the North team. Leyer is the second Yale player to be named to a post-season game. Dick Jauron will be with the East in the annual Shrine game Dec. 30. Radio station WVIC in New Haven is carrying all Yale basketball games this season. Carl Grande will call the action. One of the biggest surprises in the National Hockey League this season has been the play of the Los Angeles Kings. Last in the standings last year, the Kings are now battling for the division lead with two of the brightest stars, Butch Goring and Mike Corrigan, who starred two years ago with Springfield in the American League. Phil Sullivan, president of the East Catholic Hockey Boosters Club, reports more than 50 showed for the first organizational meeting of the year. Ted Lindsay, former National Hockey League star, will handle the color for NHL telecasts starting Friday night, Dec. 29 on NBC.

Record Pace for Dolphins With two games left to play, Coach Don Shula's Miami Dolphins have already set a new NFL record for first downs by rushing. The Dolphins have achieved 151 to date to erase the old standard of 145 set by Green Bay in 1962 when Paul Hornum and Jimmy Taylor were running over foes. For the record, the retired Jimmy Brown, of the Cleveland Browns, rolled up 58 gains in which he bettered 60 yards via rushing during his great career. Washington's Larry Brown needs 40 more 100 rushing to tie Jimmy Brown. Barring injuries, Larry Brown and Pittsburgh's Franco Harris should come out with some great running statistics before the current campaign ends. Should the New York Jets win their two remaining games it would assure them of a wild card playoff spot. A loss to Oakland and a couple over Cleveland would also enable the Jets to qualify for post-season play. Don Raymond needs to catch seven more passes to break Raymond Berry's career record of 831 set with Baltimore. Head football Coach Bill Fulcher announced Thursday that McAshan's suspension from the squad Dec. 1 will continue in effect through the bowl game with Iowa State. He was suspended after he failed to attend a Nov. 30 practice session and failed to show up for the ride to the Georgia game last weekend.

It will be College Night tonight at the Springfield Civic Center with all college students showing their ID cards being admitted for half price to see the Kings square off against the Hersey Bears. Saturday night the Kings return to home ice to face the Boston Braves in American Hockey League warfare.

When Yale hosted UConn on the basketball floor last week, it marked the first sellout crowd in five years at the Payne Whitney gym for an Eli game. Brian Herosian, fine UConn athlete, has been named a co-winner as the outstanding Armenian-American intercollegiate football player for 1972.

Cliff Demers, East Catholic High A.D., reports that contrary to published reports, East and South Catholic High will continue their football series on Thanksgiving. Little Ron Rigdon is still a big shooter. The former South Windsor High and New Haven standout ruffed the nets for 61 points for the Aircraft in the Rec Senior League this week. While in college, Rigdon ranked with the top small college scorers in the nation. Monday night's NFL game should get football buffs awake when Oakland enters the New York Jets. 1940 Quarterback Sid Luckman Speaks Out

Dolphins Better Than Chicago Bears Who Were Called Greatest Pro Club

CHICAGO (AP) - "Those old Monsters of the Midway probably would crown me, but I think the Miami Dolphins conceivably could beat our Chicago Bears of 1940, called the greatest professional team of all time."

The man who said that today was Sid Luckman, who quarterbacked the fabulous Bears of the World War II era to four National Football League titles, the first in an historic 73-0 clobbering of the Washington Redskins in 1940.

The Dolphins Sunday take a 12-0 record against the New York Giants with a chance to match the NFL's season record of 13 victories set by the 1954 Bears and matched by three later clubs. The Dolphins also could tie the "streak" record of 13 set by the 1954 Bears.

Bear owner George Halas always has regarded the 1934 Bears, powered by Beattie Feathers and Bronco Nagurski, and the Luckman-led powerhouses of 1940-41-42 as in a class by themselves.

Luckman, eased out of the Bear coaching picture several years ago and now a plastics firm executive, thinks the Dolphins are great, but their coach, Don Shula, even greater.

In Luckman's book, they broke the mold for a perfect coach after now-retired Halas, but the five-time, all-NFL quarterback asserted: "When I look at Shula, he reminds me of Halas when I was playing."

"Shula has the talent of knowing what he wants, getting it and maintaining a great team spirit de corps."

"Miami is a magnificently balanced team, with the game's three finest running backs, tremendous receivers and some workers playing far above their potential, thanks to Shula, who did the same thing at Baltimore."

Did Luckman actually believe the current Dolphins could whip the Bears who made the T Formation the source of pro football in the early 1940s?

"Well, it's like saying who would win between Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis," said Luckman. "It would be a meeting of two super teams, but because of size and speed, I'd have to go for the Dolphins. And that's a harsh thing for me to say with Bulldog Turner, Joe Stydahar, George Musso, George McAfee, Ken Kavanaugh, Bill Osannski among others of those great 1940 Bears still alive and kicking."

Luckman stressed, however, that "we had a 28-man squad and the regulars played both ways 60 minutes."

"It might be a horse of a different color if the Dolphins had to match us with their best 28 guys and they had to play both offense and defense."

"But the modern football players have so much more going for them, skilled coaching from the kid level, bigger bodies and greater speed. I look and shudder when I see those 270-290-pound men moving with the speed and agility they do today."

Cowboys Pick Against 'Skins

NEW YORK (AP) - Dallas will get revenge. Pushing our National Football League luck, the pick is for the Cowboys to spill hot-blooded Washington 24-20 Saturday and regain a slice of pride.

The NFL has a listful of showdowns in the next-to-last weekend of the regular season. Atop the list are the Minnesota-Green Bay and Atlanta-San Francisco matchups in the National Conference.

FORTY-NINERS 28, FALCONS 17 - Something about that Atlanta bunch in the big ones. They're so close, but haven't yet proven they can get over the clutch-hump.

VIKINGS 17, PACKERS 13 - Keeping Green Bay for clinching the NFC Central and pulling Minnesota away to a possible three-way deadlock that includes Detroit.

STEELERS 38, OILERS 21 - Pittsburgh isn't looking back. Anyway, it doesn't matter which way they're looking against Houston.

DOLPHINS 34, GIANTS 21 - Thirteenth straight they're unbeaten Miami with a chance Bob Griese may get a late chance to test that mended ankle.

RAMS 17, CARDS 7 - Los Angeles has new life in the NFC West and they have to keep pace with the 49er-Falcons winner.

LIONS 20, BILLS 14 - Detroit has to hang tight in case Minnesota handles the Packers and Buffalo doesn't mind.

BEARS 8, EAGLES 0 - This one's about as exciting as those midweek photos of Jackie Kennedy.

CHARGERS 24, BRONCOS 14 - John Hadji hit Denver with 125 touchdown passes earlier, when the Broncos were stronger. San Diego seems to be better than that 4-7-1 record.

SAINTS 27, PATRIOTS 14 - New England now rates 25th, just above Houston, in the NFL "power index" and New Orleans can at least put it together on occasion.

RAIDERS 37, JETS 24 - Finally knocking the 7-5 Jets out of the playoff picture.

Yale After First Win, 17 Games on Schedule

Yale will go after its first basketball victory of the season, the University of Connecticut tries to move into the winning column again and streaking Fairfield University goes for its fourth straight win as 17 games fill the Connecticut college basketball schedule tonight and Saturday night.

The Elis, playing without a senior on the team, do have hopes of improving on last year's 7-17 record despite having lost the first two games of the current season.

"We have more experienced players back than we've had in the past few years," says veteran Yale Coach Joe Vaccino.

Yale visits Holy Cross Saturday night, the team that handed the University of Hartford hosts of Connecticut its first loss of the year. UConn beat Yale in the season opener for both teams last weekend.

Rutgers travels to the Huskies' Storrs campus Saturday night.

In games tonight, the University of Hartford hosts Norwich and Portland-Gorham is at Eastern Connecticut.

Three other Connecticut teams will play away games: Sacred Heart at Merrimack, Wesleyan at Bates and Coast Guard at New York Maritime.

Fairfield, behind the hotshooting senior guard George Groom, hosts St. Francis of Pennsylvania.

College Basketball Roundup

Historic Milestone For Press Maravich

NEW YORK (AP) - Remember Press Maravich? The former coach at Louisiana State who guided his son, Pistol Pete Maravich, to national fame and fame is on the way back to prominence in college basketball.

New coach at Appalachian State, Press Maravich directed the Mountaineers to a 67-65 victory over Richmond Thursday night in their first official game in the Southern Conference.

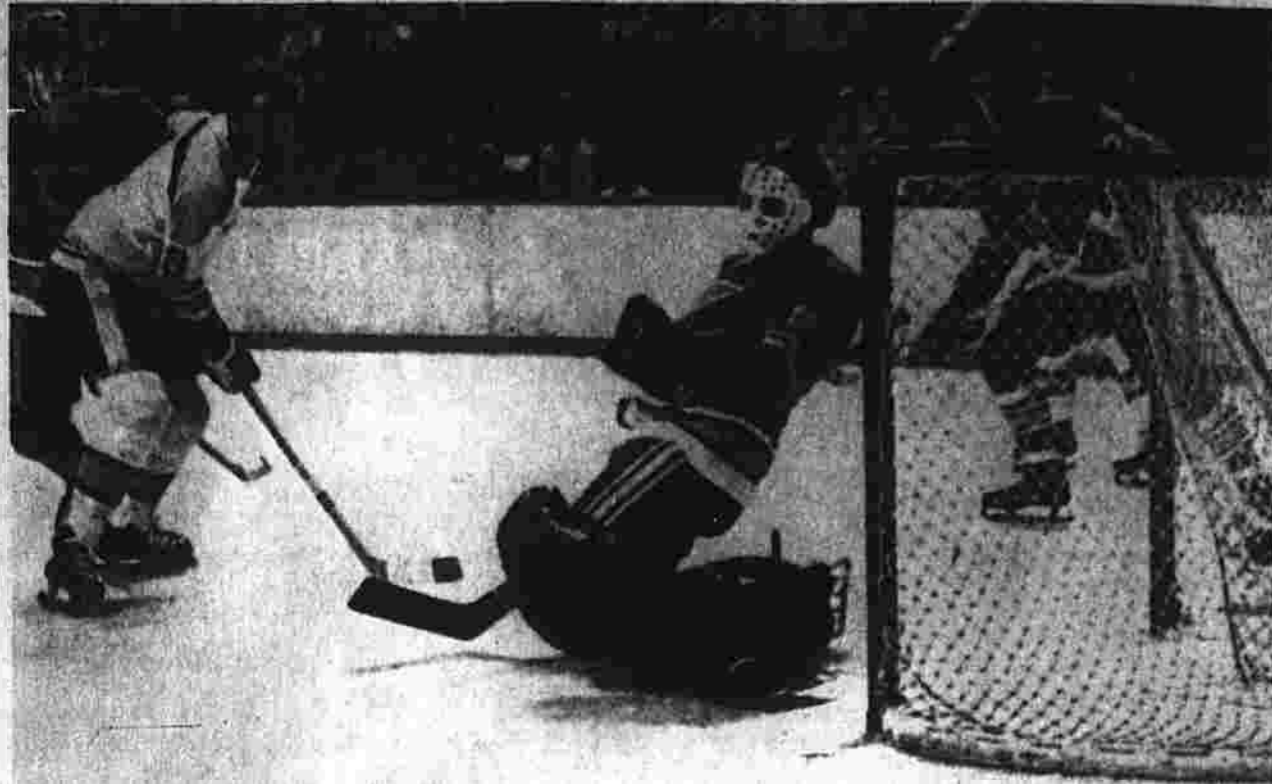

It was a historic career milestone for Press, who resigned as LSU coach after his son became a pro star with the Atlanta Hawks in the NBA.

Appalachian joined the Southern Conference last year, but did not compete for the championship.

Brigham Young and Memphis State also started on the road back and Arizona upset Southern California in other Thursday developments.

BYU rebounded from a 66-64 upset at the hands of Santa Clara to whip 18th-ranked Michigan 83-77. Memphis State, No. 11 in the Associated Press rankings, bounced back after a surprise defeat by LSU to humble South Florida 87-73. Arizona surprised the 17th-ranked Trojans 71-69 on two free throws by Jim Ruppis with 11 seconds left.

Princeton edged Rutgers 51-47 and Manhattan took St. Peter's 96-78 in the first doubleheader of the season at New York's Madison Square Garden. Elsewhere, Kansas beat Murray State 69-63, Weber State beat Utah 81-70, St. Mary

Kuhn 'Rank Amateur' Tag by Marvin Miller

NEW YORK (AP) — Terminating Bowle Kuhn "a rank amateur," Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, has reacted with anger to the public disclosure of the status of negotiations between the athletes and the owners.

Commissioner Kuhn revealed the owners' proposal in an unprecedented step at baseball's winter meetings in Hawaii last week and Thursday, Miller summoned a press conference to express his unhappiness with the action.

"It is an act only the most rank amateur would perform," said Miller, who handled labor negotiations with the steel industry before moving into baseball. "Not only has Mr. Kuhn shown questionable integrity," Miller said, "he has performed an extremely destructive act in terms of the negotiations."

In Hawaii, the commissioner revealed in detail baseball's most recent offer in negotiations for renewal of the expiring general agreement and pension clauses. They included the first concession ever made in the area of the controversial reserve clause that binds a player to his team unless sold, traded or released.

But the concession, which offers free agent status to any veteran player not offered at least $30,000 for his sixth major league season or $40,000 for his ninth year, was rejected as unacceptable by Miller and the Players Association.

"Were it presently in effect," said Miller, "this magnanimous offer would affect five of the 900 players on major league rosters."

Instead, the players have asked for free agent status after seven years, 12 years

NHL Roundup Bruins Rolling, Johnston Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Eddie Johnston, Boston's 36-year-old goalie, has stopped fighting himself and the Bruins are on the roll in the National Hockey League.

Johnston posted his second consecutive shutout against the St. Louis Blues as the Bruins extended their winning streak to 10 games with a 5-0 victory Thursday night before the usual 15,000 fans at the Garden.

"I can actually feel myself getting the old confidence back," Johnston said. "I'm not fighting myself any more. I feel more relaxed, not jumping at shots. Timing is everything for a goaltender and you have to be relaxed to have good timing."

Johnston, who started the Bruins' unbeaten streak with a 4-0 victory over the Blues Nov. 16, had 25 saves, including a beauty on a hard shot from closeup by Garry Unger in the second minute of play.

"That save on Unger was the big one," Johnston said. "He got good wood on it, but I managed to block it with my pad. It was an important save because it was so early in the game."

"Later I got a couple of breaks, but you have to get them. The breaks balance out over the season."

Johnston, who helped the Bruins to the Stanley Cup championship last year, was the target of many hometown boos as the club got off to a rocky start this season. However, he now has an 11-7 record in the nets.

With the veteran goalie minding the store, the Bruins jumped to a 3-0 first period lead and went on to move into a second place tie with the idle New York Rangers, four points behind Montreal, in the NHL East. Boston has played one less game than both its old rivals.

Wayne Cashman broke a scoreless tie by converting a rebound of a shot by Phil Esposito at 13:04. Mike Walton, on a torrid scoring streak, knocked over defenseman Barclay Plager to steal the puck and tally an unassisted goal at 17:01 and Don Marcotte cashed a pass from Gregg Sheppard at 19:46.

Esposito scored his 16th goal, and only his second in seven games, on a power play helped by Walton in the second period. Then Walton scored his 14th goal of the season and 12th in the last 12 games in the finale.

"Walton has been just fantastic out there," Boston Coach Tom Johnson said. "He really fits in with Freddie Stanfield and Johnny Bucyk. All three make real good plays. They're flying."

Elsewhere in the NHL Thursday night, Buffalo whacked Detroit 6-1, Philadelphia dumped Minnesota 6-2 and Atlanta ripped Vancouver 5-2.

Buffalo remained the only NHL team still unbeaten at home. The Sabres blitzed Detroit with Rene Robert and Gerry McLean contributing two goals apiece.

The surprising Sabres have won 11 and tied three at home this season.

Philadelphia's Gary Dorrohfer scored a goal in his seventh straight game as the Flyers routed Minnesota. Bill Flett had two goals and Bobby Clarke contributed a goal and three assists for the winners.

Ray Coenen clicked for a pair of fast first-period goals that ignited Atlanta's victory over Vancouver.

In just 20 minutes we'll find out if you're wasting heating oil dollars.

And how many. Sometimes we've been able to show homeowners how to cut their fuel bills by as much as 38%.

What we do is called a Mobil Fuel Saver Analysis Test. We make four tests on your oil heating system—all without taking anything apart—and give you a report card. It may get straight "A's", of course. But if your equipment is old, inefficient, or requires too many repairs, we'll show you the most economical way to do something about it.
