Hanoi-Haiphong Area Hit Again

SAIGON (AP) — The United States kept up the war's heaviest bombardment of the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland of North Vietnam today and the U.S. Command reported the loss of another B52 heavy bomber, an A7 fighter-bomber and seven more fliers.

Hanoi asserted two more B52s and four more fighter-bombers were shot down Tuesday night and early today in the second night of the attack. Earlier it announced the names of six B52 crewmen it said were captured Monday night and Tuesday.

The U.S. Command reported that two U.S. sailors were killed when a North Vietnamese shore battery put a five-foot hole in an upper deck of the destroyer Goldsborough on Tuesday. Three crewmen were wounded and a crew berthing area was heavily damaged but the Navy said the destroyer kept on firing.

The North Vietnamese radio said the Polish ship Joseph Conrad was hit by U.S. bombers in Haiphong harbor Tuesday morning, damaging the loading cranes on the stern, blasting a big hole in a lifeboat and wounding four crew members.

Radio Hanoi said U.S. bombers "again bombed several densely populated areas of Hanoi and Haiphong." The North Vietnamese news agency said the bombing had turned Hanoi into a "huge battle site," with many civilians killed or wounded, while in Haiphong the bombers "laid waste to a great number of houses along busy streets and many suburbs, causing the death of many civilians, mostly women, children and aged people."

Hanoi reiterated that the bombing, despite its devastation, would not force it to accept President Nixon's peace terms.

"This path will only lead the United States to still heavier military, political and diplomatic defeats," said the North Vietnamese army newspaper, Quan Doi Nhan Dan. "The more the war is escalated, the longer will be the list of American casualties and captives, and the heavier the losses in aircraft the United States will take."

While the U.S. Command has refused to disclose any of the targets being attacked, other sources indicated they included radio transmitters.

Apollo Series Ends On Perfect Note

BOARD
USS
TICONDEROGA (AP) — Back from the moon, their adventure behind them and history made, the men of the last Apollo are sailing toward home and a reunion with their families four days before Christmas.

The flight of the last, most perfect Apollo mission is over, after a space journey of 13 days.

Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt rode the command ship America through a fiery entry into the earth's atmosphere Tuesday and a bobbing parachute fall to a perfect landing within sight of recovery ships.

Splashdown of 17 ended the $25 billion Apollo program of space science and engineering which first put man on the moon.

Plucked from a life raft and whisked to this carrier by helicopter for a bands-and-speeches welcome, the astronauts spent their first hours back on earth undergoing physical examinations, by a team of space agency doctors.

After a quick check, Dr. Charles K. LaPinta, the medical team leader, said, "I am very pleased with their condition — they look fine."

More extensive physical examinations are planned. Navy chefs aboard the Ticonderoga prepared a huge welcome-aboard cake and dinner in the officers' mess for the astronauts, the ship's officers and Navy brass and congressmen and senators on hand to watch the return of Apollo 17.

Brought aboard the Ticonderoga after Cernan, Evans and Schmitt was the America, its silvered surface charred black from the heat of re-entering the earth's atmosphere from space at a speed of more than 24,000 miles an hour.

After a day and a night aboard the Ticonderoga, the astronauts will fly from the carrier to Pago Pago, in American Samoa. There they will board another plane for a flight to Ellington Air Force Base, near the Manned Spacecraft Center outside of Houston, Tex., where their families await them.

Navy Official Critical Of Defense Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outspoken Navy procurement official says he's losing faith in the free enterprise system after nine years of watching the nation's largest defense contractors.

Gordon Rule says nationalization of key segments of the defense industry may eventually be an answer.

Testifying at a congressional hearing without the usual printed statement, (he said he feared the Navy wouldn't clear one if he had written it). Rule said President Nixon made a mistake in appointing Roy Ash, former head of Litton Industries, the nation's 11th ranking defense contractor, to direct the federal budget.

The director of the Navy Material Command said former President Dwight Eisenhower would be "twitching in his grave," if he could see the way weaponry is purchased now. The military-industrial complex, Eisenhower warned of nearly two decades ago, Rule said, has given way to a "military-industry-executive department complex."

In a series of rapid-fire accusations about procurement practices Rule testified before the joint Congressional Economic Committee: —If Litton's huge shipbuilding contracts for five new helicopter assault ships continues to show insufficient progress by a Feb. 28 deadline, it should be "terminated for default."

—The management of Grumman Aircraft deliberately underbid the competition by $500 million to get the F14 jet fighter contract, then sought a "ball out" for nearly that much when it began losing money.

Rule, 65, a former Navy captain and Washington attorney said he reviews up to $8 billion in procurement each year.

"Sitting where I sit at Navy procurement, I think we've got to get away from the syndrome of 'get the contract and Uncle Sugar will somehow bail us out,'" he said.

Prisoners Want Burgers

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Prisoners in the Nueces County Jail say turkey and dressing are no treat. They don't even want it on Christmas Day. County commissioners are to act today on the prisoners' request for a special meal Christmas Day — hamburgers, french fries and soft drinks. "That's something they only can get on the outside," said deputy George Miller.

Berrigan Released From Danbury Prison

DANBURY (AP) — After serving more than three years of a six year sentence, antiwar priest Philip Berrigan walked to freedom under overcast skies from the Federal Correctional Institution today, and was greeted by his brothers Daniel and Jerome.

Philip Berrigan was scheduled to leave the prison at about 8 a.m., but his departure was delayed more than an hour to await the arrival of relatives to escort him from the compound.

About 150 persons, most of them young people, stood in fog and a drizzling rain to meet Berrigan as he began his parole from a sentence for destroying draft records and smuggling letters in and out of a federal prison. The gray-haired, 49-year-old Josephite priest was convicted for destroying Selective Service records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968.

Berrigan smiled broadly as he waded into a group of waiting newsmen in the prison reception area.

"I have no regrets," he said. "It has been a very good period in my life." Berrigan added that he had "very mixed" feelings about leaving prison at this time, because, he said, "I'm running into a continuation of the war."

Berrigan spoke only briefly with newsmen, then walked arm-in-arm with Daniel to a waiting station wagon which was to convey them to a nearby restaurant where they planned to say Mass together. He said he had no immediate plans beyond spending the Christmas holidays with his family.

Berrigan, who spent part of his three years in prison with his Jesuit brother, Daniel Berrigan, 51, was granted parole Nov. 29. His term was to expire Feb. 25, 1974. He plans to live with members of the Josephite order in Baltimore.

Most prominent among the court actions in which Berrigan was involved during his imprisonment was the Harrisburg 7 trial. The trial began with jury selection Jan. 24 and ended in a hung jury on the government's major charges three months later.

The federal government charged that Berrigan and six others conspired to kidnap Henry Kissinger, blow up heating tunnels in federal buildings in Washington D.C. and raid East Coast draft boards.

The jury couldn't agree on a verdict, and the government ultimately dropped those charges. However the jury did convict Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister of smuggling letters in and out of the federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa. in 1970.

At the time of the Harrisburg trial, Berrigan was serving a sentence imposed in May 1968 on him and his brother for destroying draft records in Catonsville, Md., Berrigan was

Airport Search Triggers Shooting

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man, taken aside after an airport X-ray machine spotted a "questionable object" in his briefcase, shot a sky marshal and a customs agent today and then was captured in a chase onto the Kennedy Airport field, an airport spokesman said.

An examination later showed the attaché case contained a spiral notebook, according to police.

The sky marshal and the customs security man were reported in satisfactory condition at Peninsula General Hospital in Queens. They were shot when the man grabbed one of their guns, the spokesman said.

The hospital identified the sky marshal as Anthony Petrucci Jr., 34, of Bloomfield, N.J., and the customs man as Gerald T. McCarthy, 41, of Commack, N.Y.

The young man was identified tentatively as Robert J. Dobbelaer.

The airport spokesman said Dobbelaer was preparing at 7:55 a.m. to board a flight for San Juan at Gate 4 of the Pan American World Airways passenger terminal when an X-ray machine spotted what "appeared to have a questionable object inside."

The agents then took the man from Gate 4 to another gate without passengers, "where they prepared to search him," the spokesman continued.

At that, he grabbed one agent's gun and shot them both, then ran onto the rain-soaked tarmac, the spokesman said.

He also dropped the briefcase, the gun and other baggage he was carrying, according to a Pan American spokesman.

Two policemen from the New York Port Authority airport squad chased him and took him into custody.

The material Lawrence acknowledged possessing but refused to turn over to the court is a tape recording of two Times reporters' interviews with Alfred C. Baldwin III, a key figure in the alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters earlier this year.

The defense wants to compare Baldwin's interviews with what he says in the trial of seven men charged with the June 17 break-in and alleged bugging of the DNC offices at the Watergate apartment-hotel complex here. One of the defendants was at the time chief security officer for the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

On Oct. 5, the Times published a first-person account by Baldwin, as told to reporters Jack Nelson and Ronald J. Ostrow, detailing how he monitored telephone conversations at Democratic headquarters from a motel across the street and later delivered information to Nixon campaign headquarters.

Nelson and Ostrow agreed to keep secret certain material from the interviews as a condition for Baldwin granting the interview, the reporters said. The Times contends the confidential information is protected by the First Amendment's guarantee of press freedom.

Times attorney Timothy Dyk told Sirica that surrender of the tapes would have a "drastically inhibiting effect on the ability of the news media to perform its news-gathering function."

Defense attorneys in the case asked that the tapes be subpoenaed because, they said, they might contain information they could use to challenge Baldwin's credibility.

Sirica ruled that the Constitution's guarantee of a free press does not give newsmen the right to keep secret any information that could be used as evidence in a criminal trial.

"This is an issue that had to be fought," Lawrence told reporters after his release Tuesday. "I'm only shocked that I had to go to jail before this issue had a full hearing."

"We seem to be in competition with the fair-trial idea, and the free-press side is not being given enough weight."

Renewed Bombing Draws Criticism

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pope Paul VI expressed "doleful upset" today at the renewed U.S. heavy bombing of North Vietnam. In an official statement the Danish government said hopes for peace "suffered a tragic setback" and condemnations came from the Swedish, Soviet and Chinese governments.

The Pope told a crowd of 3,000 at his weekly public audience in St. Peter's Basilica he had hoped peace would return to Vietnam by Christmas.

"Does not our expectation conflict today with our doleful upset at the sudden resumption of harsh and massive war actions in that blessed Vietnam which has become the object of daily grief," he continued, "when everybody in the world thought a preliminary peaceful settlement of the long conflict to be imminent and we hoped it would coincide with the feast of Christmas?"

Denmark is allied with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but Premier Anker Joergensen announced his determination to protest to Washington amid an unprecedented wave of public indignation.

"I want the United States out of Vietnam," said the premier, who after taking office last October allowed an unofficial international war crimes commission to meet in Denmark.

"The Nixon administration is bombing a small country back to the Stone Age," said the conservative Danish newspaper B.T. "For each bomb dropped, the administration exposes its own Stone Age mentality." The country's largest daily, Ekstrabladet, headlined an editorial "Bloody Nixon."

Swedish Foreign Minister Krister Wickman accused the United States of "blind and brutal" bombing and said: "The renewed escalation creates serious fears that the war will be prolonged, something nothing could justify."

Hainhua, the official news agency, accused the United States of "trying to force the Vietnamese people to knuckle under," but said "it is clear that no threat of blackmail whatever can bring them to their knees."

The Soviet Union's three top leaders — Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin — sent a telegram to the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government "strongly condemning" the U.S. bombing.

DON'T WASTE TIME FEELING GUILTY

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Do you feel guilty when you bid a silly slam and then manage to bring it in? If it's any comfort, the same thing happens to all of the best players. The only difference is that they don't waste time feeling guilty — unless they mull a chance to make the silly slam. The principle is illustrated today with a hand played a few weeks ago in the Charity Fund session held continent-wide by the American Contract Bridge League.

East dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

Opening lead — Four of Diamonds.

The slam was a silly one to bid because South had no way of knowing that the dummy would have help in hearts. If North had two very low hearts instead of the 10-9, there would be virtually no play for the slam.

Even the actual dummy would be useless for slam purposes if the six missing clubs failed to break 3-3, and the odds are almost 2-1 against the favorable club break.

South won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club with a high trump. When both opponents followed suit, South was tempted to draw two rounds of trumps ending in the dummy. If this exhausted all of the missing trumps, declarer could cash dummy's two good clubs to discard low spades.

The plan would not have worked since East actually had three trumps instead of precisely two. But one player at the national tournament knew better than to rely on a 2-2 trump break. East needed about 12 or 13 points in high cards for his opening bid, which left only about 3 or 3 points for West. But West needed more than those 2 or 3 high-card points for his raise to three diamonds, and a singleton in hearts was the most likely reason.

South therefore led a heart to the nine and returned a good club from dummy. East had to ruff, and South overruffed. South then led another low heart to dummy's ten, discarded a spade on dummy's last club and finally led a spade through the ace to make sure of a trick with the king of spades.

Productivity Termed Perplexing Subject

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the years 1960 to 1970, the average hours worked per employee declined by about one-half per cent a year, yet the output of workers rose 2.5 per cent a year. Less work, more output.

As a result of this greater production, the standard of living rose in the same period by about 2 per cent a year. And the rise would have been greater except that employers and employees opted for more leisure time.

Despite this evidence showing productivity as the key to the materially fuller life, a great deal of misunderstanding exists. Some people have even inverted the meaning: They think it means more work for no greater reward.

This might seem surprising until you learn that even some of the experts aren't as thoroughly informed as they would like to be. Even the Commerce Department calls it "one of the economy's most perplexing subjects."

It is also one of the most important, because not only does it contain the formula for modern creature comforts but it is the key to maintenance of the country's international competitive position.

In the years 1960-1970, the increase in manufacturing productivity, or output per man-hour, began slipping and averaged out to only 1.5 per cent, compared with up to 14 per cent in Japan and triple the U.S. rate in some other countries.

Stated another way: While the United States still produced more per worker and received greater output for its investment dollar, foreign competitors made enormous strides in closing the gap.

It is for reasons such as these that Americans are going to bear a lot about productivity in 1973, especially if the Advertising Council goes through with a contemplated $10-million ad campaign. Among the projects to be tackled by the National Commission on Productivity is the compiling of a summary of the entire subject.

Even those involved likely will agree that the country should have been concerned much earlier, but until relatively recently it was simply assumed that the United States would remain the most productive.

Starting from ground level, so to speak, Japan and Europe built new industrial economies out of the devastation of World War II. They didn't merely rebuild the old, they created something new with the latest technology.

And so, the productivity commission is now probing into some of the mysteries of that characteristic we call technological know-how, with the added notion that, if it is understood, it can be better applied.

It was this adversity turned to advantage that propelled them even further into the technological world and helped narrow the tremendous lead the United States had built up. And that lead continues to grow smaller.

Joseph Zinker, 65, of 66 High St., Rockville, intoxication and resisting arrest. Carmen DeMaio, 42, of Stafford Springs, third-degree assault.

CIRCUIT COURT 12 East Hartford Session
The case of Mary M. Mounds, 24, of East Hartford, was nolle prosequi by Chief Prosecutor Eugene Kelly Monday. She was charged with disorderly conduct.

Joseph A. Trahan, 21, of Warehouse Point, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of breach of peace. Judge Nicholas Armentano fined him $50.

Snowmobile Site
The use of the Rye St. mobile will be considered again this year by the South Windsor Association of Snowmobilers and the town's recreation director.

Last year the Town Council designated the townpark, as an "experimental project," to see if, through restricted use and supervision, the place could serve the needs of the townspeople who owned the snowmobile.

Dr. Simon Behrman, consultant to several London hospitals, reported his findings in the British Journal of Psychiatry.

He said the number may be far greater because the dumbness may previously have been mistaken for worsening mental trouble instead of a drug effect.

Phenothiazine is widely used. Behrman said that those patients who had lost their speech had not been given excessive doses. His findings are about to spark off a large-scale investigation in mental hospitals throughout Britain.

Behrman said that of the nine cases he pinpointed most recovered their speech slowly over several months once the drug treatment was stopped. But he added that in one case the recovery is still incomplete and one patient has died.

Tollard Gozdz Allowed To Make Tax Committee Suggestions

BETTE QUATRALE
Correspondent
Tel. 875-2845

Recommendations for members of a composite committee to review local tax assessments will be submitted to the Tolland Board of Selectmen by Stanley Gozdz.

Gozdz received authorization to make recommendations during Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen. Names of homeowners, farmers, and businessmen will be included on the list. The committee will be appointed by the Board of Selectmen, and is an outgrowth of last week's public hearing on land assessment values.

During the public hearing the Board of Tax Review announced it would reduce the property values on land declared under Public Act 490 to the level recommended by the Connecticut Farm Bureau. The town is presently renting a payloador from Mill's Welding Co. at a rate of $20 per hour, according to First Selectman Erwin Stoetzer.

The anticipated cost of renting the payloador may cause the town to overstep its road maintenance budget, according to Stoetzer. In that event, approval for an extra appropriation would have to come from the Board of Finance.

Although Stoetzer would prefer to purchase a new payloador using federal revenue sharing funds, he admitted the Board of Finance has told him it would prefer to wait and put the item in next year's budget.

The cost of renting a payloador for the winter could run as high as $16,000 according to Stoetzer's estimates, based on last year's use of the town payloador.

A lease-to-buy arrangement for the payloador would cost the town $225 per month for three years and has been ruled out.

In other business the selectmen accepted the resignation of Rudolph Kowalski from the Conservation Commission, announced the opening of a special account for the federal revenue sharing funds in the Savings Bank of Tolland, and that the state Environmental Protection Agency will inspect the new prospective dump site this week.

A request from Vernon for Tolland's prospective sewer plans was referred to the town advisory committee, which will give Vernon a copy of the newly created town comprehensive plan.

Constable's Report
During the two-week period from Dec. 1 through 17, constables responded to 38 complaints and logged 17 1/2 duty hours.

Complaints handled by the constables ranged from detaining the driver of a stolen auto and another person following a fight, both until state police arrived.

They administered oxygen to an ill person, who was subsequently taken to Rockville Hospital by the Volunteer Ambulance Association; and answered three entry alarms at local businesses.

Numerous complaints were answered involving the theft of Christmas lights, and general harassments in several neighborhoods.

The constables assisted state police in 11 arrests and investigated four auto accidents.

Building Code Fees Effective Today

HOLLY GANTNER
Correspondent
Tel. 742-6795

Coventry Building Inspector John Wilnauer reminded town residents that new building code fees, approved by town ordinance last month, went into effect today.

For permits under $500 in cost the fee is $2; $501 to $1000, $4; and $1,001 and over or part thereof, $5. Certificates of occupancy remain at $2. Zoning fees are $10 for new buildings and additions, or $5 for all buildings under $150.

In effect also are the building code fines and penalties which state:

Any person who shall violate a provision of the State Building Code or shall fail to comply with any of the requirements thereof or shall erect, construct, alter or repair a building or structure in violation of any approved plan or directive of the building official, or of a permit or certificate issued under the provisions of the Code shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not more than $500 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year. Each day that a violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense.

Any person who shall continue any work in or about the building after having been served with a stop-work order, except such work as he is directed to perform to remove a violation or unsafe condition, and to protect property, shall be liable to a fine of not less than $25 or more than $500. Each day that a violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense.

The office hours for the building department in the Town Hall are from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m., each weekday. Inspections are made as requested from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Wilnauer has completed and received a certificate for his participation in the Continuing Education Program at the University of Massachusetts for Municipal Building Officials. He has also completed a course for building officials at the University of Bridgeport and a Fire Marshals course at Meriden.

Church Notes

The First Congregational Church will hold this Sunday's worship services one half hour earlier, at 10:30 a.m., in order that the church school members may participate in the service. Following the service, there will be refreshments served in the vestry.

The church will hold a Christmas Eve Candlelight service at 7 p.m.

The meeting of church members on Dec. 17 was adjourned to reconvene on Dec. 31, immediately following the worship service. The board of trustees will present a report at that time regarding the possibilities for parsonage renovation.

New Zone Rulings To Start Jan. 1

REGULATION is expected to prevent a "string" of stations along a road or highway. Motor vehicles stored outdoors must be arranged in an orderly manner with all vehicles located not less than 25 feet from the edge of any pavement or if the street is unpaved, the edge of the existing traveled way. There will be no outdoor storage of dismantled or discarded vehicles. Equipment may be stored outside if the equipment is stored in the rear or side yard that has been screened from the street or adjacent occupied properties. All exterior lighting must be of such design and location that the light source cannot be seen beyond the boundaries of the site on which the building is located. Cluster Design Rules. Revised regulations permitting cluster design will also go into effect Jan. 1. Cluster design will provide a method for land development which permits a variety of lot sizes for one-family residences in RA-1 and RA-2 districts without increasing the population density in the development. The regulations are designed to protect surrounding properties, persons and neighborhood values while providing for future park and recreation areas. Proper surface drainage, flood control and soil conservation will be ensured. Trees, ground cover, topsoil and rock outcroppings will be preserved. A tract must be at least 20 acres and in single ownership or consolidated into a single contract by several different owners through an agreement. This must ensure uniform treatment and implementation of an over-all cluster zone plan for the entire tract from the time of application. Among other new regulations, the cluster area must be served by community and sewage systems, however, individual septic tanks and water supply systems may be used in RA-1 areas if it is demonstrated to the town health officer and the commission that these systems can function satisfactorily. All utilities must be placed underground unless waived by the commission. A developer of a proposed cluster development must begin operations within 12 months of the date of approval and must post a bond to cover the cost of the development.

Would You Tickle A Tiger For $25,000?

LONDON (AP)—The model who tickled a tiger has won $25,000 damages from the man who took her to the zoo. Marilyn Trehearne, 22, testified she was tickled by the tiger's arm and ruined her career as a model. Judge Sir Joseph Cantley said Mrs. Trehearne's arm now was grotesque and her career gone. He ordered the damages paid by James Osborne, half-brother of the zoo's owner, John Aspinall. Aspinall, a joint defendant, was absolved from all blame, the judge said.

Radar Tube Inventor Dies

STAMFORD (AP)—Electronics pioneer Walter J. Brown, inventor of the radar tube, died at 72. He died Monday in a private hospital after a long illness. Brown, an early pioneer in the field of radar, high-fidelity and miniature radios, was the inventor of the radar tube in the 1920s. In 1945 he developed a pocket-size radio receiver and in 1955 a thermal control unit for detecting minute temperature changes in air-plane cooling and heating systems. Brown was also the chief developer of the "smooth speed regulator," the device that made sewing machines automatic rather than pedal-run. It was also used in many industrial motors. He was a graduate of Manchester University in England. A funeral was held earlier this week. Survivors include his widow, Katherine Willey Brown, a son, two daughters and a grandchild. Brown's submarine and mine detecting systems were reportedly responsible for the U.S. Navy's ability to penetrate mine fields on entering Tokyo harbor in 1945. He was president of his own company, Vac-Trol Engineering, until 1964 when it merged with Sprague Electric Co. in North Adams, Mass. 'Strip Cell' Use Changes Ordered By Federal Court

HARTFORD (AP)—The New York Federal Appeals Court has ordered that changes be made in the use of "strip cells" at the Somers state prison. The court told a U.S. District Court judge in Hartford to decide the changes and to determine whether an inmate kept in the cell is to be paid damages by the state. Officials said they found a rope he had made. U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clarke visited the cell for 45 minutes in May, 1971 and decided that the limited use of discipline did not constitute cruel and abusive punishment. The appeals court overruled Clarke and sent it back to him for final details. The strip cell gets its name because it is stripped of all but the barest of furnishings. It has no sink or commode. Human wastes are disposed of in a hole in the floor called a "Chinese toilet" which is flushed from outside the cell. The appeals court said LaRosa apparently was kept for substantial periods of time in almost total darkness. "We cannot approve of threatening an inmate's sanity and severing his contacts with reality by placing him in a dark cell almost continuously day and night," the court said. It said it could find no justification to deny a man his cleanliness. And it called the Chinese toilet "most offensive," "too degrading and degrading to be permitted."

Plant Plans Layoffs

OLD SAYBROOK (AP)—A printing plant that produced 1.7 million of the 4.5 million weekly copies of Life Magazine has announced the impending layoff of nearly two-thirds of its work force following the demise of the magazine. Arthur Friso, vice president of relation services for R.R. Donnelley & Sons of Old Saybrook, said Monday that layoffs of 180 employees would begin following the production of the Dec. 29 issue of Life. Officials of Life announced earlier this month that publication of the weekly mass circulation magazine would cease after the Dec. 29 issue. Friso said production of Life constituted nearly 75 per cent of the printing done at the Donnelley plant here which has a normal work force of about 300 persons. The remaining work involves production of eastern editions of other Time, Inc. publications such as Time, Fortune and Sports Illustrated magazines. No decision has been made on the future of the plant. Friso said, noting that three large presses at the facility were installed expressly for the production of Life. The Donnelley plant is the town's largest employer and taxpayer. New Zealanders own about 800,000 passenger cars.

Our heritage of traditions from various parts of the world has enriched our Christmas customs, points out Miss Janina M. Czajkowski, University of Connecticut Extension nutritionist. Some traditional dishes are prepared only at Christmas time because they take many ingredients and a great deal of time to prepare.

For example, holiday breads are made from sweet yeast dough enriched with eggs, spices, fruits and nuts. American families with European backgrounds can choose from Polish bakka, Swedish saffron bread, and German Christmas stollen. Christmas tarts made from rich pastry with dried fruit fillings are popular holiday treats for Finnish families in Connecticut. An increasing number of Puerto Rican families living in Connecticut celebrate by preparing roast pork island

At 12, They Already Sew A Fine Seam

By AP Newsfeatures At the ripe age of 12, four prize-winning sewers had collectively created hundreds of items on their sewing machines - bikini bathing suits, Eisenhower jackets, "pansy" suits and giles for relatives - before they became regional sewing contest winners sipping their prowess in the grand finale in New York where they were accompanied by their mothers. Diminutive Betsy Goldsmith, 4 feet 8, of Marion, Ind., was crowned Queen of Sewing in the Junior Miss (10 to 12-year) division of the Singer World Stylemaker contest, an annual event that had 65,000 entrants in three sewing categories. Her $3000 prize money was earmarked for college to be added to the $1000 already won by her and the other girls - semi-finalists Nancy Cavallaro of Elmhurst, Ill., Linda Gorski of Chicopee, Mass., and Virginia Stehlin of Pompano Beach, Fla. "You can take it from all four - busting is the key to a successful garment. But why do boys couldn't care less what you wear," she says. But she needs clothes and they can be made cheaper at home. Her multicolor acrylic jumper with matching pants and pink-trimmed blouse cost $23, although she has made lots of garments for less than $7.

Economy was a factor too in Virginia's determination to sew. At 4 she was at a toy sewing machine making doll clothes. And because she spends so much time at the beach and sailing, she has been making herself bikini outfits with matching jackets, and that kind of thing, all while she earned 49 Girl Scout badges, the entire number in the handbook. Her outfit, a blazer of wool plaid with coordinated orange A-line skirt, was topped with a peaked blouse of white vinyl and a matching bag, which she had also made.

Imagination Trims Holiday Home Decor

DOING IT YOURSELF - Holiday decorating time has arrived with this make-it-from-scratch tree, cut from cardboard, covered with bright wrapping paper, trimmed in ribbon and egg-shaped containers for hosiery. An easy-to-make candy tree, above right, uses a nail hammered into a block of wood to hold the plastic egg in place. Holes are made in the egg with a heated nail held in pliers. Yarn may be wrapped around the base, and toothpicks holding colorful holiday candies inserted in the holes. Hangups for the tree may be made from the plastic eggs by punching a hole in the top and inserting a string to hold one or several on the bough. Fluffy red yarn makes a cap, white cotton makes the beard, thumbtacks are eyes and a carpet tack is the nose for an egg-head Santa.

Drummer Boy Spread

By ALLEN CLAIRE NEA Food Editor The holidays are really the "big cheese" for those who enjoy giving and receiving presents. Why not, then, make it a time of enjoying a very special cheese and liverwurst spread concoction that all ages will enjoy.

- 2 1/2 cups cans liverwurst spread
- 2 8 ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 4 ounces cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
- 1 teaspoon lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Reserving four ounces of cream cheese for decoration, combine remaining ingredients except pecans. On waxed paper, shape cheese mixture into a cylinder resembling a drum. Omit the top of drum with a knife. Roll curved edges of drum in nuts. Place on serving dish and then decorate with remaining cream cheese. Serve with your favorite crackers. Makes about 3 1/2 cups spread.

If one child is at home alone on a bad weather day, let him string buttons for amusement. Get out the button box and tell him to string all of one kind on a string and promise him a reward for his work. Not only will he be amused, but you will have the buttons sorted.

Telephone Climber Likes Outside Work

By DICK HENDRICKSON Elyria Chronicle-Telegram Writer NORWALK, Ohio (AP) - Women's liberationists seem to be "out to cut their own throats," says Jane Kay Orin, who recently entered the once all-male ranks of telephone pole climbers. "There's nothing better than having the guy pay for everything," says the 20-year-old former operator for Northern Ohio Telephone Co. Since it wasn't women's lib, what prompted her to take up the new job? "I just like to be outside," she says. "It's a change of pace. The company recently opened its repairmen's ranks to

Ethnic Buffet At Bowers

There was an around-the-world flavor to the food, costumes, and music at yesterday's buffet lunch in the Bowers School fourth grade classroom of Mrs. Mabel Silver, foreground. Parents prepared the food and joined their children for the International Festival. The purpose of the party, a complement to the pupils' current study of other countries, was to help them gain an awareness of diverse ethnic cultures, understand the differences, and appreciate the similarities that exist among peoples of many nations. In the background, Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, left; and Ray Gardiner, Bowers principal, were guests. (Herald photo by Bucvieti)

Gifts Sent To Vietnam

The children at the Crescent Beach Orphanage in South Vietnam, thanks to the Vernon Junior Women's Club and John Carter of Roosevelt Mills, will have a merry Christmas despite their other problems. The International Committee of the club made 80 felt pockets and stuffed them with school items such as pencils, crayons, rulers and pads and sent them along with two huge boxes of items such as towels, washcloths, soap and tooth paste, donated by local merchants. Carter volunteered to mail the large packages, free of charge, so they would get to the children for Christmas. This is the second year that the club, and Carter, have taken on this Christmas project. The packages are mailed directly to a Lt. Col. Egginton who sends pictures to the club to show the reception the gifts received at the orphanage. Club members ended the 1972 club year with a Christmas party for members on Dec. 13 and one on Dec. 17 for the children of members. At the Dec. 13 party the club hosted five South Vietnamese exchange students who spoke about the celebration of Christmas in their homeland and members found it very similar to the way it is celebrated in this country.

Vernon Houley Explains 'Walkout'

In a letter to Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy Tuesday, Councilman Robert Houley explained his reasons for leaving Monday night's Town Council meeting before it was over and called for a decision as to whether the council is going to follow Roberts Rules of Order at future meetings. Councilman Houley left Monday's meeting after Mayor McCoy refused to allow him (Houley) to appeal a ruling of the chair that Houley was out of order. Houley had questioned why material was not contained in the packets, given council members, concerning agenda items. Houley said he did not consider he was out of order, and asked that the mayor's ruling be appealed to the council. A motion was made to go into executive session to discuss another matter and Houley's appeal was ignored. Houley then left the meeting. In his letter Councilman Houley said, since his return to the Council on Dec. 4, "I've been shocked to learn firsthand that we have reached a stage in our deliberation in which even our adopted rules are shelved in the interest of political expediency." Houley recalled, "As you well-know, on Nov. 15, 1971, following your (Mayor McCoy's) re-election, Roberts Rules of Order were again adopted to govern council procedure. Such rules were adopted in the interest of fair play, decorum and to add stature and dignity to council sessions. He added, "As long as I serve on the council I assure you of my willingness to both abide by and be governed by these procedures and to use them to no ends other than enumerated above." Houley said it was with a sense of both resentment and disappointment that he strongly objected to "the treatment accorded me last Monday night in my attempt to evoke a motion, clearly permitted, by the rules that have been adopted." Houley reminded the mayor that a member of the council, upon a ruling by the chair, always has a right to appeal that ruling. He added that such an appeal must be given the effect of any other motion and the opportunity for it to be seconded... "and certainly demands a vote." "My appeal was given no such consideration and was deliberately cast aside by you," Houley added. Houley advised the mayor, "While you may be confused by this process, I feel that in the future, as in this particular case, if you are in doubt, you should consider consulting with

Alabama Teachers Challenging State Law On Boycotts

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Alabama Education Association has challenged the constitutionality of a state law enacted in an effort to stop teachers from taking part in or sympathizing with federal inspired school boycotts. The suit, filed in federal court, says the law if strictly enforced could deprive teachers of the right to participate in other out-of-school activities, even church attendance. The law was passed by the legislature originally to prohibit teachers from taking part in or encouraging black pupils to boycott classes to support racial demands. It was used last year by the Tuscaloosa city school board to deny pay raises to six teachers who refused to sign a statement that they had not encouraged or condoned a school boycott or any other extracurricular demonstration without approval of the board. Besides contesting the validity of the law, the suit seeks reimbursement for the teachers who were denied the pay raise while others who signed the statement got an increase. The questioned legislation was enacted several years ago and approved again last year as part of the appropriation bill allocating state funds for the schools for the 1971-72 and 1972-73 fiscal years. The appropriation measure provided funds for a salary increase but prohibited the additional money from being used to pay any teacher "who participates in, encourages, or condones any mass truancy for even a single day, or any extracurricular demonstration which is not approved by the board." Joe Reed, the AEA's associate executive secretary and a black civil rights spokesman, emphasized that the organization is opposed to mass truancy for whatever reason. "But," he said, the law "threatens all 28,000 members of the AEA. If allowed to stand, this law could be used to prevent teachers from participating in AEA political action programs, the local associations, serving in the state legislature, and holding elective office in the political parties simply because the school board disagrees." Reed himself is president of the Alabama Democratic Conference, a predominantly black faction of the Democratic party.

Tree Triggers Tiff

NEW YORK (AP) — Tiffany & Co. named Fifth Avenue jewelers, has taken an aesthetic poke at prestigious First National City Bank because of what it calls the bank's "loud and vulgar Christmas tree" on Park Avenue at 33rd Street. A Tiffany advertisement in the Wall Street Journal said of the "tree" — actually three trees made of lights — "It simply ruins the effect of the beautiful and dignified War Memorial Christmas decorations" set up in the center mall of the avenue. The ad, addressed "Dear First National City Bank," exhorts, "So we earnestly urge you to put out those glaring lights." The three trees, attached to flag poles in a bank inset at the northeast corner of the avenue, are six stories high, all with white bulbs. A bank spokesman said "we're not commenting," except to note that the trees have been put in place for the holiday season for the past five years. A spokesman for the trees' designer — William South-Lewey — said, "We have had many compliments on them, some saying they add to the abstract ambience of Park Avenue." He added:

Hull Says Ribicoff Can Be Beaten

HARTFORD (AP) — U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff is not too old to run again, but is in "the prime of life," a leading Republican said Tuesday. "I think he is in the prime of life and ripe to be beaten — by the right candidate," said Lt. Gov. T. Clark Hull. The question of Ribicoff's age was raised Monday by Republican State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, who said the senator's own "reverence for youth" should lead him to consider retiring at the end of his present term in 1974. Gaffney said that Ribicoff will be 64 when election time rolls around, and that if re-elected, he would be 70 years old in the last year of his third, six-year term. But Hull, who has been mentioned as a possible senate candidate for the GOP in 1974, said he doesn't think Ribicoff is too old to seek re-election. "At the age of 61," said Hull, "it would be presumptuous of me to say that a man of 63 is too old for public office."

TAX HIKE WELCOME
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Granting the owners' casual request, the Tax Assessment Appeals Board has increased the appraised value of a local restaurant by $80,000. Though the boost will cost the owners a hefty chunk in additional property taxes, they were delighted. A higher evaluation of their property by the assessor enabled them to obtain a bigger loan needed to finish the restaurant.

South Windsor Wrong Junk At Charley's

South Windsor's recycling center in the Sullivan Avenue Shopping Plaza, more commonly known as "Charley's Place," is receiving too much of the wrong kind of materials, according to Boy Scout Troop 388 and its Explorer scouts. "Charley's Place" was previously managed by a representative of the town and was a successful summer pilot program. It has since been taken over by the scouts who are not allowed to handle materials made of glass and other possible dangerous items, according to the scouting bylaws.

Only newspapers, magazines, scrap paper and aluminum cans and plates can be accepted. The center has been receiving glass, and steel cans, tires, old clothing and other rubbish and a request is being made by the scout troop that these materials be taken to the regular dump off Street Rd.

The hours of the recycling center are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturdays only. Scouts are on hand to help unload vehicles with the items that can be handled by them for recycling purposes.

Volunteers are sought. Because there is a growing acceptance and reliance on the FISH organization in South Windsor, volunteers are needed to assist in the program of helping others when no other help is available.

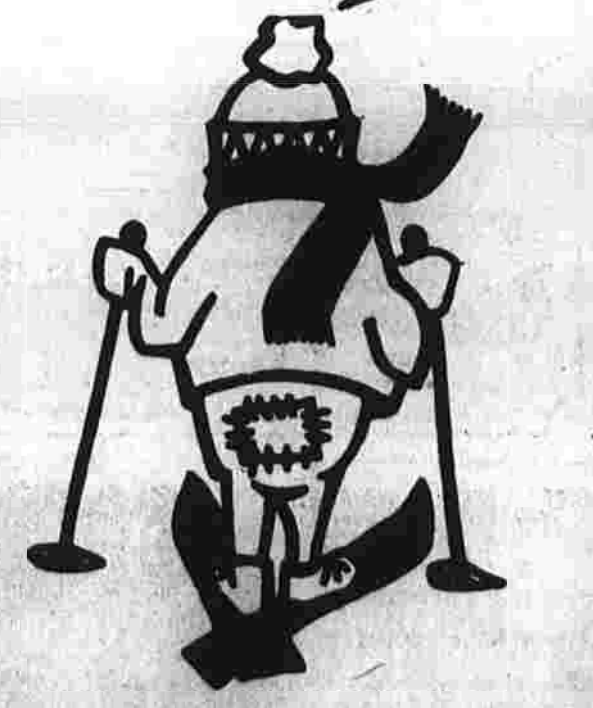

Mrs. June Cottle, chairman of FISH, said the main need of the organization is for persons who can serve one day a month as Transportation Officers.

This past year, Mrs. Cottle said 560 calls were received for assistance from 75 people. Approximately 12 of these are continual callers who need help throughout the year, but the majority of persons calling have one specific need or question, she said.

The organization is receiving widespread attention and because of it becoming a familiar word, more volunteers are needed. Some of the calls volunteers responded to during the year were listed by Mrs. Cottle. She said assistance was given to a resident who was stranded at Manchester Hospital; another needed transportation to a doctor's office; and FISH was called on to check an elderly student who was shivering after he had not been seen for several days by another elderly student.

"There is no end to the variety of calls we receive, and that is what makes the work so challenging and enjoyable," she said.

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Hebron Elementary School will present its annual holiday show tomorrow evening at 7 in the auditorium.

The theme of this year's show will be "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," with Kris Kringle pantomiming the part of the Grinch.

Others in the cast include Skip Butt as Max the Dog, Kelley Henaghan as Cindy Lou Who, and Mary Ann Cwirka as the narrator.

Other highlights of the show will be an introductory carol sing led by Grades 2, 3 and 6. Grade 5 will play two Christmas carols on the school's new metallophone and Grade 4 will sing the songs appropriate for the Grinch story.

Even the lower classes, kindergarten and first grade, have had an active part in the show assisting with decorations and scenery for the festival.

Parking Ban
First Selectman Aaron Reid reminds residents that there is a town ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles on highways during and following winter storms.

The ordinance provides that any person who parks a motor vehicle within the limits of any street or highway maintained by the town during and for five hours after any winter storm, so as to obstruct snow removal operations, shall be fined $5 and shall be liable for any necessary towing costs.

Reid stated that vehicles on the road not only hinder snow removal but they also present a definite traffic hazard.

Killian Fights First Round Against Mobil

HARTFORD (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian fought his first round with Mobil Oil in Superior Court Tuesday, as the company challenged the state's attempt to subpoena its records for an anti-trust investigation of gasoline prices.

Killian testified that he has "no present intention" to use the subpoenaed information in a multi-state federal court suit which is being discussed by the National Association of Attorneys General at his request.

Four of the 14 companies served with Killian's subpoenas have submitted the information, but Mobil is trying to get Superior Court Judge George Sadem to "quash" his subpoena.

Among other things, Mobil claims that the subpoena is an unconstitutional "search and seizure" of private property.

The company also complained that the subpoena is misspelled "Mobil" and "Mobil" and used the former name of the company—Soco Mobil Co. Inc.

The attorney general retorted that any confusion over the company's name was Mobil's fault.

Killian noted that there is a Soco Mobil Oil Corp. of New York, a Mobil Oil Corp. of New York, a Soco Mobil Oil Corp. of Delaware, a Mobil Oil Corp. of New York, all of which are authorized to do business in Connecticut. The names and addresses of the corporate officers "are common to all," he said.

Killian said the variety of names used by Mobil is "intended to confuse and delude the public."

The attorney general testified that the information he is trying to get from Mobil would be used only in the state courts—if at

Marijuana Statute Being Challenged

NEW HAVEN (AP)—Attorneys for three young men facing drug charges have challenged the constitutionality of federal statutes prohibiting the use of marijuana.

The challenge came Tuesday in U.S. District Court proceedings against Harry T. Mullen, 19, of West Haven, Edward Ebes, 22, of Milford and Clifford Waraw, 18, also of Milford. The three were arrested July 8 and charged with possession and sale of marijuana in connection with the seizure of what authorities said was 600 lbs. of marijuana.

The challenge was in the form of a pre-trial motion to dismiss indictments against the three.

Dr. Lester Grinspoon, a Harvard Medical School professor who the prosecution acknowledged to be an authority on marijuana, testified that marijuana was a harmless substance and probably safer than common aspirin.

Grinspoon said the drug is not addictive and causes no immediate psychological effects, although he said the long-term claim had not been "authoritatively" demonstrated.

OPEN SUNDAY MORNINGS

Commission Proposed To Conduct State Reapportionments

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut's legislative districts should be remapped every 10 years by a commission elected for that purpose, senator-elect Nicholas A. Lenge, R-West Hartford, said Tuesday.

Lenge proposed a state constitutional amendment that would minimize the General Assembly's role in reapportionment and put the politically sensitive job in the hands of a brand-new agency, most of whose members would be elected by the people.

Lenge said his proposal would reapportionment out of the courts, where Connecticut's redistricting plan of 1971 has been for the past year, by automatically putting into effect a town-unit, weighted-vote system of representation in the legislature if the proposed new commission failed to come up with a plan.

"It eliminates the stalemate situation," Lenge told newsmen.

Lenge proposed the creation of a 49-member commission with seven members elected at large and 36 others elected from the 54 state senatorial districts.

The remaining six members would be legislators—three representatives elected by the House and three senators elected by the Senate, with minority party representation guaranteed.

If the commission failed to agree on a reapportionment plan based on the 1960 census by Oct. 15, 1981, the task would pass into the hands of the seven at-large members. If they failed to agree by Nov. 1, then the 1982 election would have to be held on a new basis; each town electing one representative to the House with his vote weighted by the population of his district.

Under the present system, since the census of 1970, the legislature's bipartisan reapportionment committee failed to agree on a plan, and a bipartisan reapportionment committee of eight legislators should be re-elected.

The commission of eight legislators should be re-elected.

Passing Strongboy, Defensive Monster Tabbed High on List for Football Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football's best scouts, preparing marketing lists for next month's college draft, put a passing strongboy from LSU and a 280-pound defensive monster from Purdue on top.

"A tough, agile 270-pounder won't be available for long." Among undergraduate giants, scouts look heaviest upon Boilermaker bouncer Dave Butts. He stacks that 280 pounds on a 6-foot-7 frame with an extra blessing of quickness.

The general opinion was that the 1973 crop of seniors is excellent overall, especially in big blue-chip lineups. There are good bets at quarterback, but a shalowness in runners and wide receivers.

Wally Chambers, a defensive end from Eastern Kentucky, also kept an eye on 6-foot-7, 276-pound John Matsumak of Tampa.

When it comes to tight ends, the scouts turn almost unanimously to 6-foot-4, 236-pound Charlie Young of No. 2 There's Paul Seymour, a tight end from Michigan State, and brother of Chicago Bears receiver Jim Seymour.

Four More Colleges Name New Coaches

NEW YORK (AP) — Four more colleges — Brown, Kentucky, Miami, Fla. and North Texas State — named head football coaches Tuesday while a fifth — the University of Cincinnati — lost a coach it thought it had.

This was the way it went: —Miami promptly named Pete Elliott, its assistant athletic director and former head coach at Nebraska, California and Illinois, to succeed Curci.

—North Texas State tapped revenge-minded Hayden Fry, fired by Southern Methodist earlier this month, as successor to Earl Rust, dismissed following a 1-10 campaign.

—Brown, which has won only 12 games in the last eight years and hasn't had a winning season since 1964, hired John Anderson, a former assistant at Dartmouth and Boston College, who led Middlebury to an 8-0 record in 1972. He succeeds Len Jardine, who resigned last month.

Pro Bowl Game Jan. 21 Nine Dolphins On AFC Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Miami has placed nine players including fullback Larry Csonka and wide receiver Walt Frazier on the Pro Bowl squad for the American Football Conference.

Oakland grabbed eight spots on the 40-man roster announced today for the National Football League's all-star game scheduled Jan. 21 at Texas Stadium near Dallas.

Pro Bowl participants are selected by NFL head coaches. Still to be announced are the National Conference selections.

Dolphins named along with Csonka and Warfield were offensive tackle Norm Evans, offensive guard Larry Little, safetymen Dick Anderson and Jack Scott, defensive end Bill Stanfill, middle linebacker Nick Buoncontino and kick returner Mercury Morris.

Ski Notes By Bill Sacherek

Brownsville, Vt. — Over snow-covered highways I made one way to Mt. Ascutney. There was a new 10-inch fall of light fluffy powder.

Met Bob Straw who tells about the free skiing one can have their birthday, plus more surprises, but one must show proof.

Mt. Ascutney's summer crew put down more than 11,000 feet of pipe to increase the area of snow making by more than half again. There is a new section from the mid-station that includes Midway and the Main chair to the base lodge.

The East Lift gives access to five slopes and trails for the novice and intermediate with no waiting in line. I rode up with the snow toasting remarking how great it was, hoping that Ascutney wouldn't be discovered by many, with snow like this, I am sure that news will travel fast.

Offensive Award To 49ers' Brodie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' fans, yelling the unfamiliar words, "We Want Brodie!" made their old pro quarterback feel like a rookie again.

"Hey, I've been some time since I've come off the bench to beat somebody," 37-year-old John Brodie said after passing the 49ers to a 20-17 victory over Minnesota last Saturday.

Brodie threw two touchdown passes in the last 6½ minutes against the Vikings, sending the 49ers into the National Football League playoffs and earning the quarterback The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week award.

Brodie has been a starter most of his 16 seasons in the NFL. On his bad days, he's heard the fans chanting, "We Want Kilmer, We Want Waters, We Want Brodie" etc. — for whenever was the second string quarterback.

Last Saturday, Brodie was the second string quarterback behind Steve Spurrier, but became the starter after Brodie injured an ankle Oct. 15 and kept the job when Brodie returned to uniform Dec. 4.

But with Minnesota ahead 17-4 in the third quarter, the fans and Coach Dick Nolan remembered Brodie. Brodie said the last time he'd come off the bench to take the 49ers to victory was as a rookie in 1957.

"We were behind Baltimore, and Y.A. Tittle got hurt. I completed my first pass, and then Hugh McElhenny came back to the huddle and said he could beat his man. I hit him for a touchdown on the next play," Brodie recalled.

Mother Of Five Named To White House Staff

By PEGGY SIMPSON Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Anne Armstrong was on the verge of returning to her South Texas ranch to consider running for governor when President Nixon chose her as White House counselor.

With Cabinet rank, Mrs. Armstrong will be the highest ranking woman in the Nixon administration and in any since President Eisenhower chose another Texas, Ovesta Culp Hobby, as the first secretary of health, education and welfare.

The White House announced the appointment of Mrs. Armstrong Monday and said she will assume the $42,500-a-year job Jan. 15.

As co-chairman of the Republican National Committee since January 1971, she has been the closest woman political adviser to the President and has led a frenetic traveling pace to recruit both women and men candidates for the party and to push Nixon's policies.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Armstrong said she was contemplating various options and running for office was a key possibility.

Former state Rep. Frances "Sissy" Farenthold recently ran a strong race as a Democratic candidate for Texas governor and Republicans are considering Mrs. Armstrong as their candidate for governor in 1974.

Asked about these plans, Mrs. Armstrong said she was considering many elective positions "from the state legislature on ..." but has hesitated because of the publicity impact on her family.

She is the wife of a millionaire rancher, Tobin Armstrong and they have five children, ages 16 to 21.

"When you are a woman," she said, "you learn to be flexible. I don't have any fixed goals... I might end up staying here (in Washington) and even if I don't I'm not ruling out the opportunity of coming back."

She said she was disappointed that Nixon had filled his Cabinet with men but said his overall record of bringing women into top federal posts was commendable.

As a presidential counselor, the White House said, Mrs. Armstrong will be given responsibilities for a "wide range of domestic issues," including the advocacy of bringing more women into the administration.

Spaniards Go All Out For El Gordo

MADRID (AP) — Money from bettors comes from as far away as Japan and India. The suspense on D-Day is measurable on every face. Even Gen. Francisco Franco, who has more palaces than he can count, is reported to have taken a chance.

The payoff last year was 7,500-1. Millions of Spaniards will be before their television sets Friday for the drawing of the annual Christmas lottery and cash prizes totaling $106 million.

"I wouldn't think of missing a chance on El Gordo," says a Madrid banker. That means "Ninety-five per cent of Spain's 34 million people would be a conservative estimate of the number of those who join him."

New Yorkers Face Telephone Rate Increases

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Telephone Co. has asked for a rate hike that would increase revenues 14.3 per cent and double the price of a call from a pay phone to 20 cents.

The proposal was submitted to the Public Service Commission. The company said the rate boost would bring in $66 million a year.

Last January, the PSC approved a rate increase designed to bring in $50 million. The company had asked for increases totaling $20 million.

The View From Abroad

LONDON (AP) — Concern about a crime rate "savagely beyond even the lurid standards of ordinary American mayhem" may lead the United States to start using its electric chairs again, a British newspaper says.

Other topics of foreign editorial comment last week were the U.S. Apollo 17 moon trip, congressional and international economic comment behind the price of a cup of coffee.

"Only six months ago, the U.S. Supreme Court seemed to outlaw capital punishment," wrote Jeremy Campbell, Washington correspondent of the London Evening Standard.

"Now, a national outcry has started which may well end in the return of the electric chair during President Nixon's second term."

"Well over a million people have been physically attacked this year. There is a rape every 15 minutes. It is hardly surprising that a full head of steam is building up across the United States for a much harsher code of punishment for the new American criminal."

The London-Sun expressed satisfaction that U.S. Apollo flights to the moon are ending before "some dramatic tragedy" in space.

"Going to the moon has become such a routine affair that the astronauts, themselves, are not over the moon about it in anything but a physical sense," the newspaper said.

"As for the rest of us, it takes an odd little human story, like the one of the man who slept too soundly, to revive our flagging interest in the whole story of space. Better that, of course, than some dramatic tragedy... We can't go on keeping our fingers crossed forever."

Britain's Guardian said a "commitment to institutional reform among some Democrats in Congress" could lead to a "weakening of the senior system."

"Even if this does not occur this time round, the liberal paper said, the November election "removed several Southern committee chairmen who were out of touch with mainstream party politics."

O Estado de Sao Paulo, Brazil, several times criticized the United States over developments in the price of coffee.

"It said the United States 'was obviously a determining factor' in the suspension of the liberal international agreement regulating coffee prices and export quotas."

"The suspension of the international coffee agreement is one of the most political errors committed in the last decade by the Western industrial powers," said O Estado. It called the move "a true crime against the world's economy" that "once again brings the carelessness with which Nixon views the economic problems of the underdeveloped countries."

Pioneer Pollution Fighter Back In Maine Legislature

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Seventeen years ago, Ezra Briggs stood up in the Maine Legislature and spoke out against polluting the environment.

Now the eloquent speaker from Caribou is back. The times finally caught up with him.

"Almost everyone seems to have the religion now," quipped the 64-year-old Republican who is expected to be the leader of the environmental coalition in the House when the legislative session convenes Jan. 15.

From 1955 through 1959, Briggs waged a lonely, unpopular battle in the GOP-dominated House and Senate against water pollution from the powerful paper and potato industries. Many voters in his constituency depended for their livelihood on the potato starch factories, so they withdrew their support from him in the 1961 election.

Times have changed. Last year he was called to August and honored by the House and Senate for his environmental stands. This year he was again elected to the legislature.

"Certain forces — the large landowners and paper companies — are probably poised to try to undo the good and progressive environmental legislation enacted in the past two years," he said. "I have the feeling they won't be successful."

Briggs, who was elected to the House in 1965 at age 26 on an anti-water pollution platform, urged in his first House speech recall of the bounty on bears.

He later spoke in favor of a stiffer penalty for throwing rubbish out of vehicles, and on May 5, 1965, launched his diatribe against Maine's big water polluters.

He blamed the paper and potato industries' lobby for defeat of his bill to give the then Air and Water Improvement Commission (now the Department of Environmental Protection) broad powers to classify waters and prevent their degradation.

He said the major argument used against his pollution abatement bill was "Do you want fish or jobs?"

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

People all over the world strive for better educational opportunities, and such yearnings are readily evidenced on the postage stamps of many countries.

Surinam's newest stamps dedicated to its child welfare program feature various levels and types of educational institutions. There are five multi-colored semipostals in the set with the additional values going to support children's welfare organizations in Surinam.

The 10c plus 5 shows a doll, bell and blocks, symbolizing nursery school education. The colors are purple, brown, yellow, orange and black.

The 15c plus 8 depicts a clock and abacus, representing primary education. The colors are green, lilac, orange and blue.

The 20c plus 10 illustrates a pictorial representation of the Pythagorean theorem, symbolizing continued education. The colors are orange-red, lilac, orange, blue and green.

The 25c plus 12 has a part of a model of a molecule, symbolizing secondary education. Colors are ochre, blue, purple and red.

The 30c plus 15 shows a monkey wrench and drill head against a background of a blueprint, symbolic of technical education. The colors are blue, red, yellow, green and black.

Surinam, located in South America, is an autonomous part of the Dutch realm.

The smallest envelope ever sent through the British postal system - and probably the smallest ever sent in the world - was sold recently in London.

The fascinating item, measuring only 1 1/8" x 3/4", was sent from Bisham on Oct. 13, 1840. It also contained a little letter, which read: "This postcard will have to travel 150 miles before it reaches you and to pass through Her Majesty's General Post Office, where I doubt not it will excite the admiration of the officials by its extreme fragility."

The envelope had no stamp, just a postmark, because it did have one, the adhesive would have covered the envelope almost entirely.

West Germany has issued three new stamps. One stamp, a 40 pfennig, honors the 175th birthday of philosopher Heinrich Heine. The second honors the Protestant Advent Collection and is 30 pfennig. The third is for the Evangelical Church Synod Meeting and depicts a church dome of Wurzburg from an old seal, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

In the wake of the many Christmas stamps issued through the globe, the 1972 stamps of Gibraltar bear mentioning.

There is a lighthouse on Europa Point at the tip of the Gibraltar promontory, the southernmost end of Europe. The light that shines from it is a guide to all seamen. Many years before, there stood at this exact point the shrine of Our Lady of Europe.

The two Christmas stamps of Gibraltar thus feature Our Lady of Europe, the patroness of Gibraltar.

Despite the internal strife and tension, Ireland has held its first national stamp exhibition since 1944. The exhibit is called "Stampa '72" and took place in Dublin. The event marked the 50th anniversary of the first Irish stamp and the plate from which the first stamp was printed was among the many items of display.

A special stamp was issued by the Irish Post Office to commemorate the occasion. The new stamp features a reproduction of the 2 pence "May Day" stamp issued in 1922. In addition, for the first time ever in Irish philately, a miniature sheet of four of these stamps was printed. The inscription reads: "Post-as 1922-1972."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Forced Handwriting

During a holdup at a gas station, the robber handed the manager a threatening note. Some months later, when a suspect was brought to trial for the crime, he was asked to produce a sample of his penmanship for purposes of comparison.

But he flatly refused to do so. He invoked his constitutional protection under the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.

Nevertheless, the court ruled that he would have to make the sample or face punishment for contempt. The court's ruling was not a form of testimony but a neutral, objective fact.

"The constitutional privilege," said the court, "does not protect a man from being compelled to stand up, sit down, walk, speak, or submit to photographing or fingerprinting."

Almost always, courts have ruled this way when an accused person is reluctant to demonstrate his handwriting. In fact, he may even be called upon to write in an unusual style that will help clear up the case. Thus:

The defendant in a forgery trial was requested to write something with a backward slant, since the document in question had been written that way.

Again, the court said he would have to comply. The court reminded him that the odd style of writing would be especially helpful to exonerating him if he was truly innocent.

Still, a defendant might properly object to the content, rather than the form, of the writing. In another case, involving false claims against the government, the defendant was asked to write down the specific names that had been used in the falsified papers.

This time, when he refused, the court decided he was justified. The court said that by complying with the request, he might be tying himself directly into the crime.

Compelling him to do so, added the judge, would be "an infringement upon the spirit" of the constitutional privilege.

Social Security

Q. My husband died in August and had to stop work over a year due to a heart condition. He never filed for disability benefits because he intended to return to work. Can I file for any benefits due him?

A. Yes. Under the new Social Security law survivors of a disabled worker may file for any disability benefits he earned before he died. However, they must do so by Feb. 1, 1973.

Q. My husband was disabled for four months before he died in December 1971, when he became disabled.

A. A person must have been disabled for six months before their death to be entitled to disability benefits.

Q. My husband died in 1970 and was disabled well over six months before he died. Can I now file for disability benefits due him or is it too late?

A. The new law provides that applications for people who died before Oct. 1, 1972 must be filed by Feb. 1, 1973, if any application was never filed.

Q. If I worked in that was disabled and never filed for disability benefits before he died in December 1971, when must the survivor file for benefits that may be due?

A. An application for deceased disabled worker must be filed within three months after the month of death.

Q. Where can I get more information about the new Social Security law?

A. If there is any possibility of benefits being payable, an application should be filed immediately. Any question about filing should be resolved by contacting the Social Security office.

Brooklyn Bridge Curious Magnetism

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For most people, the Brooklyn Bridge is what hayrides and carousel jumps are to children.

But for writer David McCullough the great span spanning New York City's East River has "a curious magnetism" — people have gone to it on their honeymoon, have carried newborn babies across it, and have scattered the ashes of their dead over its sides.

McCullough, whose recently published, 636-page "The Great Bridge" tells the story of the building of the bridge, first felt its magnetism when he and his wife moved into an apartment in Brooklyn Heights some years ago.

"We used to go out on it on Sundays and walk," he says with a smile. "It was a marvelous place to get out of the city while still being in the city. It's the only bridge with a promenade above the traffic. Its builder intended that it be used for people to enjoy."

McCullough, a former magazine writer and editor and the author of "The Johnstown Flood," says it was while he was enjoying the bridge that he realized here is this very famous bridge — but how did it get here, why was it built, how long did it take to build? And, most of all, who were the people that built it? My book, you see, is really a story of people and not just a bridge.

McCullough began to work on his bridge book some five years ago — working as a magazine writer by day and on the book at night and on weekends.

"I did that for about two years," he says. "And then I realized that I'd chosen a subject that was so big and that the material for it was so far ranging and plentiful that the only way I could do the job properly was to concentrate all my efforts on it. So I quit my job — which isn't easy when you have five kids ranging from 16 down to 3 — and a lot of people thought I was mad. But I believed this was an important story, and I had a compulsion to do it."

Researching the book meant digging through a lot of old newspapers as well as through a vast amount of material in the libraries of two colleges.

McCullough says he had such abundant raw material to work with gave me the chance to bring my characters alive."

McCullough, 58, who now lives with his family in West Taubury, Mass., says the five years he spent on the book was about evenly divided between research and writing.

"On a book like this you gather much more than you use," he says with a laugh. "As long as

BOOK REVIEWS

THE AMERICAN WOMAN. Her Changing Social, Economic, and Political Roles, 1920-1970. By William Henry Chafe. Oxford University Press. 351 Pages. $7.95.

Whoever tries to deal with the exploding issue of feminine rights grasps at a hot skillet — however you reach for it, the handle may blister you.

William H. Chafe is assistant professor of history at Duke University. He breaks a good many lances in support of the American woman's — at least some American women's — battle for human equality between 1920, when the 19th Amendment to the Constitution gave women suffrage, to 1970, when women's lib at high tide. It is noteworthy that in his subtitle he does not add "sexual" to the social, economic and political changes.

Chafe views granting the ballot to women as only a beginning and not the panacea it was considered contemporaneously. He treats in detail the threats and rivalries, by individuals and organizations, to achieve more. Naturally, he argues for intellectual, professional, economic and other basic equalities between the two sexes. The problem of rearing the family keeps cropping up, like King Charles' head in "David Copperfield." Do the parents turn the children over to some arm of the state, as in a collectivist society, while both parents pursue their primeval drive for self-expression? Or, if the husband assumes a substantial share of the chores of home and children, as would seem theoretically fair, what becomes of the said husband's own career if he has to pinch the old time clock?

His book is rather academic in style, natural for the expansion of a doctoral dissertation. This should not detract from the earnestness of its purpose or the care spent in its documentation.

There are some pretty hair-breadth adventures recounted here by Salvatore (Sal) Vizzini, for some 13 years an undercover narcotics agent battling smugglers in some very tough corners of the world. His exploits sometimes make fictional derring-do seem pale, but Vizzini's valuable talents are endorsed by Harry J. Anscombe, former commissioner of the Bureau of Narcotics.

Smiling at the international sources of opium, the morphine issue derived from it, and the end product of heroin, Vizzini had some shootouts in Turkey, risked his life in the dives of Marseille, once blew up what was probably the largest dope factory in the world, in a Far Eastern province he calls "Mongia," and sometimes came out of an adventure needing surgery.

Disables and imperfections were his long suit. He passed a bank robbery and shared jail prison cell of a man who had stabbed away a fortune in bonds. He also played the role of a crozier in Cuba.

There have been several others in the last decade or so. THE GREAT DUKE

Biographies of the Duke of Wellington, unquestionably the conqueror of Napoleon, continue to appear with regularity and to find favor among history buffs in both Britain and America. He probably exemplifies as much as any man the military ideal of English-speaking peoples: the supremely gifted soldier who nevertheless subordinated himself completely to civilian authority.

Smokey Stays On The Job

DALLAS (AP) — Smokey Cannon, 87 next month, says he won't even let a broken arm keep him from playing Santa Claus at a local department store.

When Dallas had its recent ice storm, Smokey slipped and fell while on his way to the bus. But next day, with his arm strapped in plaster beneath his red Santa robe, he was back at the old stand, a wide-eyed youngster on each knee.

Smokey still has the Wells Fargo special agent badge he wore in 1908 when he carried the payroll from Tucson to Tombstone, Ariz. His wife and their children were killed in a cattle stampede, so he has no living family.

During World War I, he joined the British Army, later transferring to the famed Lafayette Escadrille. He emerged as a major.

Among Smokey's more recent exploits — a parachute jump at the age of 74.

Thievery Now No. 1 Problem On Campuses

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

Campus police say thievery has supplanted student militancy as the No. 1 security problem at colleges and universities across the country.

"They steal everything, even if it is nailed down," said Roberta Doran, detective sergeant at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"They take bulletin boards off the walls. They take office equipment that is chained or bolted down."

In a recent survey by the Burns Security Institute, 58 campus police chiefs said they were more concerned with combating thievery than demonstrations and bomb threats.

"There is the major problem nationwide and it is rising," said Herbert T. Voss, editor of the Campus Law Enforcement Journal. "There is no question that it is more of a problem than building take overs and the like."

A sampling of campus police chiefs by The Associated Press indicated disagreement on whether students or outsiders were responsible for the surge in stealing and on how much campus drug use contributes to the problem. Open campuses, coed dormitories and the tendency of students not to lock their dormitory doors were cited as major causes of the thievery.

There are no national statistics on the increase in campus thefts, but reports from around the country indicated the extent of the problem:

- Incidences of larceny have increased from 124 in 1969 to 229 so far this year at Tufts University in Medford, Mass.
- Bicycle thefts at Florida State University in Tallahassee went from 361 in 1968 to 907 last year.
- Personal property worth $103,600 was reported stolen in the first 11 months of last year at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. During the same period this year, thefts totaling $150,151 were reported.
- College officials have responded to the plundering in a variety of ways. Locks were put on the doors of the residence houses in the Harvard Yard this year. Campus police now patrol inside the dormitories at Indiana University. Ultrasonic alarms have been installed in the academic buildings at Stanford University.
- Wallets and watches are the ever popular stashes of the responsible for the surge in stealing and on how much campus drug use contributes to the problem. Open campuses, coed dormitories and the tendency of students not to lock their expensive 10-speed bicycles has reached epidemic proportion at some schools.

One item seems immune from theft. Textbooks.

"I don't know when I last heard of someone losing a book," said Earnest Quinton, chief of security at San Jose State College.

Most campus police officials blamed outsiders for the robbing theft rates first noted in 1970. A few, however, said students have always stolen from each other and are just doing more of it now.

Some security officers said drug users who steal to support their habits are responsible for the increase in stealing. Others, arguing on the basis of arrests they have made, said drugs played little part in pilfering on their campuses.

Thefts from academic buildings have been a major problem at a few schools, but dormitory students have borne the brunt of the increase in stealing.

The free access granted everyone on the open campuses and in the coed dormitories of today was cited by many campus security chiefs as a significant factor in the upsurge of thefts.

Most Midshipmen Will Continue To Attend Chapel

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — "Very many" Midshipmen will continue to attend church on their own despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning mandatory chapel attendance at the nation's service academies, the senior chaplain at the Naval Academy believes.

"From what I have seen since I have been here, I have been impressed by the general spirit of the Brigade of Midshipmen with respect to chapel attendance," said Capt. John J. O'Connor, the school's top chaplain for the past five months. "And I am personally convinced that a very large number of Midshipmen will voluntarily worship at the academy chapel or at a church in town."

The Supreme Court has ruled that students at the Naval Academy, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., could not be required to attend chapel, thus overturning a long-standing service academy regulation.

Heretofore, Midshipmen have been required either to attend Sunday church service at the academy chapel or at a church in Annapolis, or attend a "moral and ethics discussion group" conducted by two naval officers who teach at the academy. The groups cover such topics as the history of religion and comparative religion.

NURSES BEAR
COLD BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Green, area game warden, his wife and friends, released Hilda, a 9-month-old bear cub, into the Adirondack mountains recently.

The bear had been brought to Green a couple of months earlier by motorists who had spotted it lying alongside a highway badly injured by a car. They had nursed her back to health.

An AP News Analysis

Clock Turned Back To May

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By assuming the intensified bombing of North Vietnam, President Nixon has turned back the diplomatic clock by eight months.

The White House said Monday the Vietnam peace talks are "still wide open." But it was also made clear that bombing will continue north of the 20th parallel of North Vietnam "until such time as a settlement is arrived at."

Last May 8, Nixon announced that North Vietnamese ports would be mined and rail and communication lines leading from China would be heavily bombed.

As the secret peace talks between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho seemed to make some progress, Nixon ordered the bombing cut back below the 20th parallel of North Vietnam, but close to the border with South Vietnam.

The effect of Monday's announcement then is to move the U.S. position back to May when Nixon said the talks in Paris had drawn from the North Vietnamese only "bombastic rhetoric and a replaying of their demand for surrender."

Then, as now, the public defense of the bombing was presented as a means of saving the lives of U.S. pilots and other Americans still in Vietnam.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Monday, "We will not let peace talks be used as a cover for another Communist offensive."

Nevertheless, diplomatic sources do not believe that the U.S. talks with Hanoi are completely washed out or broken down beyond repair. They use the term suspension rather than breakdown.

But it appears clear that the peace talks which have always dogged the peace talks has again come between peace and an end to the fighting; the political future of South Vietnam.

In the agreement that Kissinger and Tho were preparing, for example, the future role of the demilitarized zone at the 17th parallel, the future of North Vietnamese troops in the South, the infiltration of the South, the withdrawal of North Vietnamese government below the 17th parallel and the diplomatic standing of South Vietnam in the world were all issues.

According to the South Vietnamese these issues might have been papered over, but it would not have resulted in a real or lasting solution to the Indochina conflict.

Sen. George McGovern hit upon the political issue in criticizing the bombing renewal as evidence the administration "is chained to a government in South Vietnam that is determined to sabotage any chance for peace."

McGovern, the defeated Democratic presidential candidate, said the bombing could only make the North Vietnamese more determined to keep fighting.

Some diplomatic sources look at the view, saying it was the increased military pressure which first drove the North Vietnamese to relax their demands for a settlement in the talks with Kissinger.

Both McGovern and the National League of Families of Prisoners of War said Kissinger and Nixon had raised false hopes for saying "peace is at hand," a remark Kissinger made Oct. 26 when a cease-fire agreement seemed near.

Noting hopes had been raised that some prisoners would be home by Christmas, the League said, "It is a bitter prospect and the disappointments and frustrations are severe."

Word of the impasse was being carried to Indochina by Kissinger's top assistant Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. who arrived in Saigon Tuesday.

After briefing South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, Haig went to Cambodia, Laos and Thailand for meetings with leaders in those countries.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — With a splash of yellow, a swipe of orange and a bold blue stroke, the Wilmington train station is becoming a revitalized personality of the 1970s without costing the city a cent.

Relying on volunteer efforts, contributions from city residents and a $10,000 grant from the Delaware Arts Council, this northern Delaware city on the Amtrak line between New York and Washington is making its best effort at urban renewal with what it has.

"We're doing this on a nickel and dime basis," said Mayor Harry G. Haskell Jr., who decided a fresh look at the turn-of-the-century masonry brick building was long overdue. "While this is merely a facade and not a panacea for urban ills, it's a step toward making the city a fun place again."

The project, whose creator calls it a new image in urban housing, was not No. 1 priority for the city of 79,000, so Haskell did not take the standard routes of asking the city's larger firms to underwrite the cost or of allocating city funds.

"Wilmington has more pressing urban needs requiring city money," explained Haskell. "But you can't discount the psychological effect this has on Wilmingtonians and passengers who ride through our city."

Three months after Haskell, Penn Central officials and the arts council announced the project, some $14,000 in contributions had been collected along with a verbal pledge of $20,000 from Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp.

However, the city so far has spent less than $10,000 of the money, preferring to operate on a "pay as you go" basis.

The Du Pont Co., headquartered in Wilmington, donated about $10,000 in durable paint. Haskell said, and three area contractors are working "at cost" to paint the more difficult or dangerous areas, such as ceilings.

Before the project, the 70-year-old building owned by the Penn Central was an exterior of reds, tans and oranges.

The influx of new Metroliner, passenger marauder at the station had almost hit ground," according to one station worker.

Dirty had taken control of the edifice, windows speckled with grime, passengers could almost smell the heaviness of age. Furthermore, the station, which remains open all night, had become a haven for derelicts seeking a comfortable place to sleep.

Now, with the help of weekend artists such as Rep. Pierre S. du Pont IV, R-Del., blue trains with a storybook look greet travelers as they push through the freshly painted entrance doors.

The station interior, once admired in transportation green and adorned with dusty plastic geraniums, now features an electric blue staircase with bright yellow arrows chalking up to the Metroliner platform, now a brilliant yellow, green and orange.

Wilmingtonians driving by the station now see an exterior alive with a monumental swirl of reds, tans and oranges.

Bits And Pieces, A La Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The hummingbird lays the smallest egg of any bird. It is the size of a bean. The ostrich lays the largest egg. It weighs about three pounds.

Success is often merely a matter of salesmanship. One of two candy stores in a shopping center consistently had more customers than the other. The owner gave this reason: "In my competitor's store they usually put too much candy on the scale and then have to take away. In my store we put on too little — and then add some."

The lay water show has an odd claim to fame. It is the only mammal which can run across the surface of a smooth pond. It can do this because of air bubbles under its feet.

You can tell gorillas apart by their nose prints just as you can identify people by their fingerprints. No two gorilla nose prints are alike.

Believe it or not: There's a boutique for transvestites in mid-Manhattan now.

Human anatomy facts: Maybe we do need all those deodorants we hear about in commercials. The human body has approximately 2 1/2 million sweat glands. They number up to 2,500 per square inch where they are most numerous — on hands, forehead and the soles of the feet.

Historical: Archaeologists dug up a clay tablet in Iraq on which was inscribed some 3,000 years ago: "You can have a lord, you can have a king, but the man to fear is the tax collector." The more things change...

"It was Goethe who observed, 'Let everyone sweep in front of his own door, and the whole world will be clean.'"

Coventry Council Ordinances

The Town Council Monday night adopted two new ordinances, following the required public hearings which were held just prior to the council's regular meeting. They will take effect in 30 days. The two new ordinances regulate street openings and the town sale of real estate with assessed value of less than $1,000. Regarding street openings, no one shall make any excavation in or dig below the surface of any street, street right-of-way or sidewalk unless he has obtained a permit to do so issued by the chief administrative officer of the Town of Coventry.

Homicide Suspected

NEW HAVEN (AP)—One of two men found dead Monday in a ransacked Arch Street apartment died of severe head wounds while the second died of suffocation, Chief State Medical Examiner Elliot Gross said Tuesday. Detectives said they were treating the deaths as homicides. An autopsy revealed that Manuel Gonzalez, 46, who lived in the apartment, died of head injuries that could have resulted from a beating, Gross said. He said the second victim, whose identity was not revealed, died of suffocation that could have resulted from being gagged.

Some Lame Ducks Finding Transition Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some congressional veterans deposed by their constituents in the 1972 elections are finding it difficult to make the transition from public to private life. The election defeats caught many with their plans down. Some will go back home to practice law or just take it easy. Others will stay around Washington as consultants, lobbyists or public employees of some other branch of government. That's especially true of those who served several terms

Meriden Bank Robbed

MERIDEN (AP)—Two men took "more than $20,000" in cash at gunpoint from the Central Bank for Savings office at Centennial Plaza on West Main St., here Tuesday, according to police. Les picked up the goose at about 8 this morning and again took her to the dog pound for safe-keeping. This time, he looked her in a pen, until the owner arrived to claim her.

New Group Agrees Statewide Solution Needed On Busing

MERIDEN (AP)—The statewide municipal negotiating committee on the bus crisis has found only one point of agreement so far among its diverse members, according to the chairman of the 29-member body. They all agree that the bus crisis solution should be on a statewide basis rather than in an "ad hoc, town-by-town" fashion, Chairman Robert Zwirner said Wednesday.

Ultimatums Given Hanoi And Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The secret Paris parley can get back on the track quickly once the North Vietnamese decide to resume serious talks, officials said. But they do not foresee this happening quickly, and they said no further meeting date has yet been set between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. Newsmen were given this ultimatum to sign a peace agreement, threatening Hanoi with continued bombing and Saigon with a cutoff in economic and military aid. Nixon was said to have sent word to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu through a personal letter carried by Haig.

Concerning Political Activity

Police Union Request Voted Down By CRC

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter) Should the charter restrictions against Manchester policemen holding elective and appointive office be lifted? The Charter Revision Commission doesn't think so and it voted 9 to 4 last night to reject the recommendation, proposed several months ago by the Manchester Police Union. Section 10-5 of the town charter prohibits any member of the police department from holding political office or from serving on appointive commissions. The police union asked for a change which would provide a leave of absence without pay and the suspension of earned benefits for policemen who wish to seek political office, with the pay and the earned benefits to pick up when the guaranteed job is resumed. The four who backed the union proposal were John Sullivan, Nathan Agostinelli, David Odegar and Harlan Taylor. Sullivan, who led the fight for the proposal, is a Democrat and a deputy sheriff. The other three are Republicans.

Two Robberies Net $5,000

By DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) Two armed robberies in Manchester Wednesday night netted two separate gunmen nearly $5,000, Manchester police reported today. The holdups were apparently unrelated, police said. An estimated $3,000 in cash was taken in a Tip-on pickup at Top Notch Foods Inc., 260 N. Main St., and nearly $2,000 was taken in a night deposit at the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co. branch at 220 W. Middle Tpk. shortly after 10 p.m.

Plane Collision Kills Nine

CHICAGO (AP)—Two airliners carrying 138 persons collided on a fog-shrouded runway at O'Hare International Airport, killing nine persons in Chicago's second air tragedy in two weeks. The collision late Wednesday involved a North Central Airlines jet with 65 persons aboard and a Delta Airlines Convair 440 with 68 passengers and a crew of seven. The Cook County morgue said the nine who died were North Central passengers. One Delta passenger said after the accident that "two seconds could have made the difference in all our lives." The crash occurred as the North Central DC9—flight 875—to Madison, Wis., and Delta and International Falls, Minn.—was taking off. The plane clipped the tail of the Delta craft, which was taxiing to a holding area after a flight from West Palm Beach and Tampa, Fla. Thirteen persons aboard the North Central jet were admitted to a hospital and 19 other passengers and a crew of four were uninjured.

If You Don't First Succeed, Try Again

BOSTON (AP)—An unidentified soldier stepped up to the anti-tank metal detector device Wednesday at Logan Airport. First try. First alarm, with lights flashing and bells clanging. He took off his jacket with his marksmanship and name changing. Second try. Second alarm. He took off his pocket knife. Third alarm. He took out his pocket metal detector found the problem—the soldier was wearing a watch supports. Fifth try. Success.

Christmas Shopping Is A Women's Whirl

By JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter) Women are buying everything under the sun this year for Christmas giving. And Christmas getting. Storekeepers readily admit that members of the fair sex do most of the looking and most of the buying. And, in some instances, if they don't do the actual buying, they hint very strongly how and where the gentlemen's money may be spent. The ever-vain lady is not going in very heavy for wig buying because, in the past few years of wig popularity, she has already acquired at least one wig. But she is bringing her wig in for setting and reconditioning. And she is also getting her once-a-year permanent. To keep bright and gay with the holiday spirit, the business of hair coloring and frosting is at its peak. Mothers are brave when they buy records for today's young people. Buy them they do. However, but not without the wise advice from the music department managers who keep their fingers on the pulse of the rock record set. They're more secure in the selection of records for their husbands which fall in the category of the big band favorites. Some select guitars for their better halves, sons, brothers, or boyfriends. Although men's clothing stores are labeled as such, it is the women who are the popular shoppers. With men's shirts, ties, jackets and pants being designed in all colors of the rainbow and wonderful fabrics, women are having a spree selecting the best looking shirts and ties to be worn by the best looking men in their lives. They seem to prefer the knit wear items. Wallets, handkerchiefs, belts are still popular items, but are bought more as extras or stocking stuffers. Would a woman think of a travel agency as a source for Christmas shopping? Yes, she would. This year, the woman's ingenuity has inspired her to buy a gift certificate at a travel agency for that person who has everything, for parents, or for the boss in the office. The craft shops are a source of countless ideas for the lady shopper. This year, she is especially attracted to hanging pottery planters. Fused glass items are a big attraction as well as the dyed fabric wall hangings. Tennis anyone? Now that indoor tennis courts are growing in popularity, the ladies are very conscious of their tennis style. In backyard tennis, the ladies are enjoying a variety of tennis skirts and dress outfits. They buy an extra outfit for their favorite kaffeeklatch partner while they're buying one for themselves. A new racket, racket press, or the new colored tennis balls are a good choice for the male tennis player. Speaking of sports, one store owner said that the bicycle business this year is "phenomenal." And he didn't mean for boys, either. Women, he said, are buying bicycles "like crazy." He also said that he was surprised when they're buying one for themselves. A new racket, racket press, or the new colored tennis balls are a good choice for the male tennis player.

New Group Agrees Statewide Solution Needed On Busing

MERIDEN (AP)—The statewide municipal negotiating committee on the bus crisis has found only one point of agreement so far among its diverse members, according to the chairman of the 29-member body. They all agree that the bus crisis solution should be on a statewide basis rather than in an "ad hoc, town-by-town" fashion, Chairman Robert Zwirner said Wednesday. Zwirner and the negotiating unit met Wednesday to map a unified approach to the bus crisis. They expect to hold state-wide meetings. The goal of the talks will be to come up with a bus subsidy plan acceptable to both the state and to the unit's varied membership. The committee includes representatives of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors, the Connecticut Association of Local Legislators, and the Greater Hartford Transit District (GHTD). Zwirner is also chairman of the GHTD. Zwirner would not say after the meeting whether there had been a fundamental agreement on whether municipalities across the state should work for the establishment of transit districts. New Haven Mayor Bartholomew Guida has opposed the creation of a transit district in his area. It would mean a city contribution to bus subsidy funds, and the Stamford Board of Representatives has been idle since Nov. 25 in Hartford, New Haven and Stamford since the company was struck in a contract dispute by drivers and mechanics of the Amalgamated Transit Union. Buses operated in Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Britain by the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. have been in their garages since the company shut down service Oct. 10. Both companies say they need subsidies to keep operating.

Dere Santa, What I Want Is A Nice...

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON (Herald Reporter) In their innocent and uninhibited expressions, children can reveal every emotion in the human make-up when writing to Santa Claus at his address. Some of the following letters, which were among the first to arrive in the mail boxes in Center Park and at the skating lodge in Center Springs Park, reveal love, thoughtfulness, concern, and splashes of unconscious humor. Letters will be picked up at the two collection points through Friday and delivered to Santa Claus at his address. One young miss is certainly far ahead of her age—and leaves much to be read into her three requests—for "1 million dollars and a nice cute boy friend and a trip to Oklahoma." Another wrote, "Please send me a doll that wets her pants." Probably an afterthought for the doll's comfort and not wishing to add another chore to her mother's day, she added, "Don't send me a frequent wetter because I go to school in the day." A number showed their interest in the state of domestic

Big Letters Are Easier For Santa To See

Lisa Godin, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Godin of 262 Oak St., left, and Kenneth Brogan, also 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brogan of 85 Foster St., labor over letters to Santa Claus in Unit A, first grade, at Nathan Hale School. Felt-tip marker pens make the letters easier for Santa to read—with or without bifocals. (Herald photo by Buccivincis)
