What do you say?
Answer: Bid two spades. The hand is a bit light for any response, but it pays to raise when you have strong four-card support for partner's major suit. This makes it hard for the opponents to enter the bidding, and no one is likely to occur when your side has a strong trump suit.

Misplaces Ace
When East played the ten of diamonds at the first trick, South misplaced the ace. He was sure that West had led from a suit headed by A-J-7-6, and that the contract depended on developing the spades before the diamonds ruined him.
South won the first diamond with the queen, led a spade to dummy and returned a spade, losing a finesse to West. When a heart came back, South won in his hand and led another spade.

Fire Officials Seek Headquarters
By BARBARA VARRICK
The needs of the Town Fire Department in the next five years were discussed recently with the Capital Improvements Committee. Fire Chief Philip Crombie and Fire Marshal William Lanning asked that the committee consider a new headquarters facility to be located at the site of the present old building at Foster and Ellington Rds.
According to the two fire officials, the present building is in poor condition and outdated. The approximate cost of the new facility is $381,000 and Lanning has requested money for a feasibility study in order to arrive at some definite building plans.
Chief Crombie said the new quarters would supply space for 100 volunteers to meet and train.

Nixon's Council Finds Good Jobs Denied Women

WASHINGTON (AP) - Women are as segregated by occupation today as they were 30 years ago, President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors reports.
The council found that with few exceptions, women are still stuck in low-paying jobs and encounter discrimination when they seek more lucrative careers. It is first report on the economic status of women was released Tuesday.
More fact-finding and discussion of the government's role in helping women improve their situation is needed, the council said.
There is "a pervasive societal discrimination which starts in the cradle ..." it added.
From high school onward, the career orientation of women is vastly different from men, the CEA found.
In 1970, for example, women earned only 83 per cent of the bachelor's degrees in business and only 3.9 per cent of the master's degrees in business. The percentage of women in specialized biological sciences was higher, but they got only 8.5 per cent of the medical doctorates and 5.6 per cent of the law degrees.
The council said women remain as segregated from men by occupation as they were 30 years ago.

CONN. SALVAGE Co., Inc. offers The GLORIOUS EMPORIUM

CORNER OF HARTFORD ROAD & PINE ST., MANCHESTER - 649-7762
Hi Neighbor!
I was planning my golf strategy this week when the snow storm struck. You will remember that many cancellations were announced over the air, and if fully, you heard that my tee-off time was one of them. So, for want of something to do (my wife won't let me drink or run around with girls), I attended an auction and bought the largest load of carpet and floor covering we've ever had. I hope Bob and Freddy will have most of it ready for peddling this weekend, and I promise you pricing less than dealers themselves pay! In addition, several other things have arrived and I'll try to give you some hints:
GROCERIES
CARPET MATS
VINYL LINOLEUM
CERAMIC TILE
TABLE & COMMODES
Plus records and tapes, mark-downs, alarm clocks, and hundreds of things I can't even remember. So, come look while you enjoy the delicious complimentary coffee. No one will pressure you to buy anything, but we offer a real "no hard time" money back guarantee if you do. My wife wants to be remembered, and says DON'T FORGET YOUR WALLET!
SHAQ & KITCHEN CARPET

Tax-Pay Hospitals Holding Cost Down

The American Hospital Association reports that the average cost of a day's stay in one of the nation's general hospitals rose by 11.6 per cent last year to $105.30—almost double what it was six years ago—and was last seen still heading upward.

Not only are hospital costs going up, but 40 per cent of all U.S. hospitals are outmoded and in need of being replaced, says Barron's magazine. Also, the migration to the suburbs finds new populations now living too far away from older hospitals.

It will take at least $30 billion over the next 10 years, the U.S. Public Health Service estimates, to upgrade and build hospitals adequate for an expanding, migrating population.

The question is, who is going to do it? With contributions down and federal construction funds dwindling, the community groups and religious orders traditionally relied upon are finding the task economically impossible.

The answer may be investor-owned hospital companies, which are moving into the field in growing numbers.

Today, 40 such companies own more than 300 hospitals in the United States. "The most obvious reason for this is financial," points out David A. Jones, chairman and chief executive officer of Extencare, Inc., one of the "big four" of the 40. The Louisville, Ky., firm owns and operates 45 hospitals with 4,293 beds in 12 states.

Thanks to the application of modern management techniques to the construction and operation of hospitals, he says, investor-owned hospitals are proving they can arrest spiraling costs, expand service and keep pace with advancing medical technology—and make a profit.

In 1972, for example, Extencare delivered 913,574 patient days of care at rates competitive with nonprofit hospitals. It reported a per-share net income of 98 cents on revenues of over $88 billion, yet increased its patient rates by less than 2 per cent.

Communities also like the idea that investor-owned hospitals pay taxes. Last year, Extencare's hospitals paid $5,291,000, equivalent to $5.79 per patient day, in taxes that would not have been paid had the hospitals been operating as voluntary associations.

Why the Settlement?

WASHINGTON — The Vietnam ceasefire was far more due to President Nixon's overall foreign policy including his skillful exploitation of the Moscow-Peking schism, than to any sudden change either on the battlefield or in the Communist politburo of North Vietnam.

Whether the ceasefire now becomes a durable peace, as Mr. Nixon hopes, is open to very large questions indeed. Not open to question, however, is that the President's four-year effort to contrive and "honorable" exit for the U.S. was specifically made a part—and only one part—of his global grand strategy.

In Asia to stay began to disappear in Moscow and Peking. Coupled with this was the President's insistence of what he called a policy of "linkage"—his threat that any sudden change either on the battlefield or in the Communist politburo of North Vietnam.

Whether the ceasefire now becomes a durable peace, as Mr. Nixon hopes, is open to very large questions indeed. Not open to question, however, is that the President's four-year effort to contrive and "honorable" exit for the U.S. was specifically made a part—and only one part—of his global grand strategy.

Thus, the Nixon handling of Vietnam was in dramatic conflict with the late President Johnson's courageous but clumsy conduct of the war. In a burst of exuberance while visiting South Vietnam, Mr. Johnson talked of "nailing the coonskin on the wall." In contrast, Mr. Nixon from the start carefully limited the U.S. objective to a goal easily understood in Moscow and Peking: not the victory that the Johnson rhetoric seemed to glorify, but self-determination for South Vietnam.

Open Forum Needed Law

To the editor: State Rep. Rosario T. Vella of Enfield deserves public praise and support for his proposals to greatly strengthen the new state lobbyist law. He would hike the fee from $35 to $100 and provide a $5000 fine for violation of this law. Every law-abiding citizen should solidly back Rep. Vella's efforts in this matter.

Another law badly in need of reinforcement deals with abuses by legislators in the conflicts of interest areas. In fact, there are legislators who are de facto lobbyists. They do not even pay a lobbyist registration fee, yet they are in strategic positions on various commissions wielding great power to insure financial gains for themselves, close relatives, and friends.

There are instances where they promote legislation to benefit the Connecticut Employers' Association while they are on that association's payroll. Other legislators are doing likewise to benefit the Connecticut Education Association and are on that association's payroll. Still other law makers are teachers, school personnel, or school board members actively working for bills to provide big education handouts. Passage of such bills will boost their salaries or those of relatives.

The people of Connecticut will place on law makers who may engage in such practices. This Legislature has a great opportunity to once again restore the confidence of the public.

Yours truly,

Dear President: I, Joe Sikspak, American, take pen in hand to lift my cap to you. I don't know how you do it, I dropped by Paddy's there the other night. He's got the tee-vee going and there you are, finishing up telling us how the war is over.

"Give me a Seven-high, Paddy," says I, "and toss in a beer chaser to celebrate us being out of that mess."

"Mess!" says Paddy, "You are referring to one of the most successful enterprises in the history of nations."

"Who says so?" says I. "The President says so," says Paddy. "And further, he said three times we all ought to be proud of the glorious role our great nation played in this noble war."

"I'll try, Paddy," says I. "You should, Joe," says Paddy, "because at last we got peace with honor. The President said so four times."

"For the past couple of years," says I, "I've been settled for any kind we could get."

"Shame on you, Joe," says Paddy. "If it were left up to the likes of you we never would have won this famous victory."

"I'm not saying it, Joe," says Paddy. "The President says it. Thanks to our selfless enterprise, the justice of our cause and our dropping seven million tons of bombs on their heads, we have at last forced the heathen enemy to their knees."

"The President said that?" says I. "Yes, sir," says Paddy. "How can you win peace with honor without a victory? We forced them to kneel under an avowed abjectly, the President said to all the demands he'd laid down."

"And they caved in?" says I. "What else could they do?" says Paddy. "We'd killed a million of them. So in the surrender agreement they signed, they promised to let our troops retreat to Thailand or Hawaii or wherever, leaving only 145,000 or theirs hanging around."

WASHINGTON—When the silliest sports story of 1973, I trust they will give proper consideration to a piece committed by David DuPre, a black sports writer for the Washington Post.

DuPre, who covered the recent Super Bowl nonsense, was allotted a fat chunk of space on the first page of the Post's sports section to complain that of the "about 500" sports writers who covered the game only 14 were black.

"I can't help being sorry for the enemy," says I, "getting licked like this."

"Don't be, Joe," says Paddy. "They're claiming they won a famous victory in a glorious war, too."

"How can they say a thing like that, Paddy?" says I. "You know these Asiatics, Joe," says Paddy, "all they care about is saving face."

"So my cap's off to you, President, for pulling a famous victory out of the fire. Seeing how much this victory cost us and what it got us, I sure would of hated seeing us get whipped."

True yours, Joe Sikspak

understand and appreciate what a black athlete has been through and goes through, simply because black athletes are who make professional sports what they are today.

There are many white reporters who do this, but most don't. To them an athlete is an athlete, whether he be black or white. But it just isn't that simple.

Why the hell isn't it? For decades, the cry has been raised, quite properly, that blacks be judged on merit and not on the color of their skin. Viewing an athlete as an athlete, "whether he be black or white," is what equality is all about. Unless it happened when I was out to lunch, no sports writer of my ken has ever rated an Irish athlete or a Wasp athlete or a Jewish athlete on the basis of an appreciation of what has been through."

"Since it is usually a white reporter writing about a black athlete, the public sees the black athlete as the white reporter sees him, writes DuPre. "As a result, black athletes are labeled controversial, or given some other oversimplifying tag."

Bolton Teacher Negotiations Continue

JUDITH DONOHUE
Correspondent
Tel. 649-8409
Negotiations between the Bolton Board of Education and the Bolton Education Association are still in progress, and although agreement has been reached in many areas, items dealing with salary and fringe benefits are still unsettled.

Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent of schools, said today that the two negotiating teams are moving into their sixth session in hopes of settling the remaining eleven articles before the presentation of the school budget to the town Board of Finance in March.

The BEA, the teachers' organization, has appointed Michael Londolphi and Roger Titus as its agents. Other teachers on the negotiating team are Maureen Albrecht, Ralph Banks, and Lance Koszkowski.

Representing the Board of Education as agents are Dr. Elizabeth Alton and Ronald Farris. Other board members on the team are Marilyn Breslow, William Grunski and William Vogel.

Dr. Castagna reported that the BEA proposal included seven items of salary and fringe benefits and nine other items termed "other conditions of employment."

He said the school board's proposal offers to maintain the terms of the present agreement, which expires June 30, with only minor changes and the inclusion of a proposal for a multiple-year agreement.

The board had hoped to negotiate a two-year contract last year but failed to settle for one year after negotiations got to the mediation stage.

Agreement has been reached on the following specific items: adjustment of grievance, initial contracts, contractual obligations, payroll deductions, salary checks, sabbatical leave, after school meetings, class load, curriculum planning and development, teacher advisory council, Board of Education policy and saving clause.

From Your

Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

When I was a little girl, I went to my grandmother's house often for Sunday dinner. My two sisters and I would go to church, after which we kept on our Sunday best. No jeans or playclothes in those days.

The gentlemen gathered in the living room or, if the weather was nice, outdoors on the lawn. The ladies assembled in the kitchen where the work chores were shared. When Grandma was alive and until she was elderly, she held forth as the major-domo of the kitchen. Her daughter, who is my mother's sister-in-law, was next in line of command.

My youngest sister always sat next to Grandpa at the head of the table. It is an Italian custom to drink wine at meals. When we were small, we were given only a drop or two to faintly lunge the water in our goblets. As we grew older, the water got darker. The sister who sat next to Grandpa always had slightly darker water than the other two.

The middle sister sat next to her aunt or uncle as she is their godchild. I always sat at the foot of the table near Grandma. That way, I could go into the kitchen as Grandma spent more time there than she did at the table.

Grandma didn't put anything on the table without first tasting it. She fascinated me because she always knew just what to add and when. I always thought the samples were perfect but her taste was far more discriminating. It was a lot of fun for who could taste a home-made ravioli unless you added a bit of sauce and some grated cheese. Let my sister have the pinker water in the dining room.

She had a rounded chopper with two handles, sort of a semi-circle of metal. With this and a round wooden board, she could mince onions or even parley as fine as any top chef. For 21 years I have been thinking about that chopper. Recently, Carla Squatrito presented me with an almost identical one she had brought from Italy.

One of Grandma's dishes I favored was risotto Milanese. She was an expert at it since she was born and raised in the northern Italian province of Piedmont. I watched her many times as a child but actually learned how to make the dish from my mother to whom she had passed on the recipe. Risotto Milanese traditionally requires saffron, a spice that is used primarily in Italy, Spain and Northern France. It is probably the most expensive spice in the world. It is made from the dried stigmas of the autumn crocus. Each blossom, which must be hand-picked, has three stigmas. It takes 75,000 blossoms to provide one pound of saffron.

Saffron is used in risotto primarily for color but does have a distinctive taste. Grandma always used it though there was always discussion at table as to whether she should or not since everyone did not like it. Loosely translated, risotto means rice dish. Rice is cooked in stock but not boiled. The liquid is added slowly so that each grain of rice is flavored. No mushy dish, each grain is al dente, the way spagetti should be cooked. Risotto is a northern Italian dish. It will vary, like the Spanish paella from one district or region to another. Let me give you first the traditional Milanese recipe and then one I have adapted which my family likes.

Risotto alla Milanese (Rice, Milan Style)

3 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons beef marrow (optional)
2 cups raw long grain rice (not instant)
1/4 cup dry white wine (optional)
4/5 cups boiling chicken broth salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons minced parsley (optional)
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in saucepan or chicken fryer; add onions and cook until soft. (If using marrow, add at same time as onions.) Stir in rice until all grains are moist. Add wine, if using; cook until absorbed. Using a soup ladle, add the boiling broth a little at a time cooking each time until liquid is absorbed. Continue adding stock until rice is tender but firm. Additional butter may be added though not necessary. The cheese may be folded in or served atop the rice. It may also be passed at table. Serves 4-6. (If using saffron, add slowly to taste.)

Vivian's Risotto (Italian Rice)

2 tablespoons butter or olive oil
1 large onion or 2 medium, chopped fine
2 cups raw long grain rice (not instant)
1 quart or more chicken broth (boiling)
1/4 cup dry white wine
1 lb. sweet Italian sausage; cooked and cut into thin slices
Bottled Italian seasoning to taste (optional)
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute the onions in the melted butter in a large chicken fryer. Cook until transparent but not brown. Add the wine until hot, then all the rice; cook until liquid is absorbed, stirring all the while. Using a soup ladle, add chicken broth a little at a time enough to keep rice moist and stirring constantly. Rice must not boil. Continue until rice is tender but still firm. Add seasonings to taste. A small amount of consommé, left-over gravy, tomato or spaghetti sauce, may be added for color and additional flavor (try 2 tablespoons), being careful not to lose the flavor of the chicken broth. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and serve.

This recipe has limitless possibilities for the use of leftovers. You can add chopped meat, chicken, fish or seafood or any number of vegetables. Mushrooms are excellent. Beginning with the basic recipe, you can eliminate the sausage and let your imagination run wild. Look in the refrigerator and see what you have that you can add. Add a chopped tomato, some green pepper, the remains of last night's pork roast. I prefer that you not use the minute type of rice. Risotto is served as a mid-course or side dish. You can make a meal out of it if you like with a green salad and crusty bread. Buon appetito!

Capitol Corridor

State Sen. David O. Odegar
(Fourth Senatorial District)

Legislative activity is almost entirely "in committee" at this time, and just about to go into the public phase. Not that there have been any secret "going-on" since all committee meetings have been open to the press and public, which is quite a change from previous years. However, precise bills are being drafted now and public hearings will be held through February and March.

Most public hearings will be held at the State Capitol in Hartford with a number being scheduled in Bridgeport, New Haven, New London, Stamford, Waterbury, Milford, Norwich and Enfield, in an effort to widen the view of the legislature. If there is a weakness in the legislative rules of procedure it will be felt in these public hearings, since many bills that have been proposed will not be heard. This is due to the fact that very limited time has been available to convince a committee that a particular bill is directly supported by federal funds. The bill passed unanimously.

Also, there has been just one public hearing, on a bill to restore Veteran's Day, which had become a "Monday Holiday," to its historically significant date of Nov. 11. This bill will come up in the House shortly and I will vote for it in the Senate. The "4th Monday in October" has been largely ignored by those whose thoughts turn to the real Veteran's Day. Rightfully so, I think. Originally, it was a special day to honor all American veterans of all American wars, the 11th day of the 11th month is a fitting part of the honor that is due the veterans.

The 4th Monday of October, on the other hand, is not Veteran's Day, but just another Monday.

The annual Blue and Gold Banquet will be held on March 2 at the Robertson School. Signs vandalized.

Supervisor of Streets Michael J. Pesce reports that members of the town highway department have been vandalizing street signs that have been torn down and vandalized.

More than 100 such signs, including stop signs, speed signs and warning signs, have been replaced in the past two weeks.

The loss of these signs is a danger to every person who uses our streets," said Pesce. "To say nothing of the expense to discover perpetrators of such acts. Citizens are asked to report any acts of vandalism to the police."

Recent donors to the planting project, which is scheduled for this spring, include Mr. and Mrs. William Gess in memory of Robert W. Gess; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Funk III in memory of Al Rossi; and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reed. The BC is encouraging other residents and town organizations to consider memorializing friends and loved ones by contributing money for trees and shrubs for the planting project.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert plan Tuesday to work within President Nixon's $26.7-billion budget limit while seeking more money than Nixon wants for domestic programs.

They also agreed, Mansfield related, to start soon to re-pass 11 bills vetoed by Nixon after last year's Congress had adjourned, starting with a flood control measure that enjoys wide bipartisan support.

Mansfield and Albert had breakfast together in a House dining room. Next month, Albert plans to meet with Mansfield on the Senate side.

In addition, the Senate leader plans to host a luncheon next month for Albert, Democratic governors and Democratic party chairman Robert Strauss, similar to one held earlier by the House speaker.

The breakfasts imply a degree of cooperation uncharacteristic in Congress since Rayburn was speaker of the House and Johnson majority leader of the Senate in the late 1950s. Close friends and political allies, they met almost daily to map plans. Cooperation faded during the 1960s as Congress followed the lead of Democratic presidents. It failed to revive during Nixon's first term.

"We've been sort of slack in establishing a relationship with the House, with the governors and with the national committee," Mansfield conceded. Asked if he and Albert had decided now to exercise their leadership within the Democratic party, Mansfield said he preferred to say they were seeking "to try and create

Panelists Agree On Transit Need, But What Form?

BY DOUG BEVINS
(Herald Reporter)

Participants in a panel discussion on mass transit, held in Hartford Wednesday night, all agreed that some form of mass, or public, transportation is needed. But they disagreed on what form of mass transit is needed, and how that form would be determined.

Apparently no definite answers came out of the discussion, which was part of the Hartford Region YWCA's program of transportation studies. Many questions - particularly those of financial nature - were raised and left, for the most part, unanswered.

The participants in the program included: Deputy State Transportation Commission George S. Koch, a veteran highway planner, who said government has provided transportation for most people by building highways.

However, Koch noted that the highway construction program has resulted in a "disenfranchisement" of a substantial part of the population - the young, the old, the handicapped, and the poor.

Government should provide transportation for those disenfranchised people, Koch said, but there is a problem on how a second transportation system could be financed. "It needs that needs it can't afford it," he added.

"There's a glimmer of a solution," Koch continued. Funds provided for highways should be used for mass transit, Koch stated.

Planner Edward Theede of Canton, who is proposing a monorail system for the Hartford area. In his presentation, Theede detailed general plans for the monorail, which would probably have five terminals outside Hartford with a central station in the city.

Among the benefits of a monorail system, Theede said, would be no pollution, 24-hour availability, and opportunities to make money by shipping cargo during off-peak commuter hours.

They urged that action be taken immediately to develop a mass transportation system. "This isn't 1940 anymore," he said. "This technology is available to us - Let's use it," he emphasized.

Classes Hear Speakers on Africa, Asia

Bennet Junior High School studies classes of Mrs. Hogan, Mrs. Gwen Brooks, and William Heller recently heard two guest speakers and saw a film in connection with their curriculum, which covers a cultural and geographical survey of Africa and Asia.

Yesterday's speaker was Theo R. Badenhuysen, Lutz Junior Museum director and a resident of South Africa for 17 years. He showed slides of native dances, houses, and people, and accompanied them with appropriate observations.

He commented that, for too long, the natives have assumed a laissez-faire attitude toward their own culture and life, but that this is now changing. Badenhuysen exhibited a number of artifacts, including an elephant's foot used as a wastebasket, elephant hair bracelet, animal beaded work, poison arrow, bow, animal skins, and an ostrich egg.

An earlier speaker was Shlomo Erdman, a sabra (native-born Israeli) and nephew of Mr. Emmanuel Hirth of 24 Garth Rd. He was visiting Manchester after his release from the Israeli Army and before starting his studies at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Lenge compared the highway system in Connecticut to the arteries in the human body. If a person's arteries become congested, he said, the person dies.

Hallberg, mentioning Lenge's proposed moratorium on road construction in the state, said that he is in favor of the moratorium, but that he has to go outside the state to find construction projects.

The statewide bus strike, which brought buses to a halt 6 days ago, was rarely mentioned in the panel discussion. A question from the audience, asking Koch what was being done about the strike, prompted only the short reply that negotiations were under way.

In response to a question about the "Good News for Modern Man" translation for the studies, the Sunday evening series will begin Sunday from 7:30 to 8 p.m. at the Jubilee home, 205 Bell St., Glastonbury, and conclude March 25. The Friday afternoon series will start Feb. 9 from 6:30 to 7:30 at the E. John Kjellson home, 36 Flag Dr., and conclude March 30.

Approximately 28 persons attended last night's town meeting and unanimously approved of a $29,000 appropriation for a new payloader.

The second item, transfer of $4,000 from the general fund surplus to the maintenance fund to cover rental fees since the town's old payloader broke down, was also unanimously approved.

The action culminated a ten-day flurry of meetings between the Board of Finance, Board of Selectmen and the road superintendent, since the payloader bids were opened Jan. 22. At one point Selectmen Erwin Stoetzer and Charles Luce rejected all five bids received, either because they did not meet specifications or the price was too high.

The Board of Education voted at its meeting last night to renew the school bus contract with Monroe Bus Co. in consideration of a negotiated settlement of the $9,000 overrun this year.

The board's transportation committee, headed by school superintendent Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie met with Monroe last Friday. According to Mayor Monroe, who was very helpful, offered suggestions to save on mileage, and offered to train poorly driven school buses for school athletic, or other, use.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert plan Tuesday to work within President Nixon's $26.7-billion budget limit while seeking more money than Nixon wants for domestic programs.

They also agreed, Mansfield related, to start soon to re-pass 11 bills vetoed by Nixon after last year's Congress had adjourned, starting with a flood control measure that enjoys wide bipartisan support.

Mansfield and Albert had breakfast together in a House dining room. Next month, Albert plans to meet with Mansfield on the Senate side.

In addition, the Senate leader plans to host a luncheon next month for Albert, Democratic governors and Democratic party chairman Robert Strauss, similar to one held earlier by the House speaker.

The breakfasts imply a degree of cooperation uncharacteristic in Congress since Rayburn was speaker of the House and Johnson majority leader of the Senate in the late 1950s. Close friends and political allies, they met almost daily to map plans. Cooperation faded during the 1960s as Congress followed the lead of Democratic presidents. It failed to revive during Nixon's first term.

"We've been sort of slack in establishing a relationship with the House, with the governors and with the national committee," Mansfield conceded. Asked if he and Albert had decided now to exercise their leadership within the Democratic party, Mansfield said he preferred to say they were seeking "to try and create transportation for those disappointed by the road system. The road department hasn't stopped the planning of more express bus routes.

"We support all types of transportation," Koch commented. "Things done by government don't come easily," he added. "It takes a lot of work. We are working."

Tolland Court Backs Town In Budget Votes

The town of Tolland sued legally in adopting its 1972-73 budget and then later recinding it, according to a memorandum of decision filed by Judge Anthony J. Armentano in Tolland County Superior Court.

The recinding action was challenged in court by the Tolland Education Association after at the annual budget meeting a budget of $908,225 was approved for general town expenses and $2.3 million for education costs.

A petition for a special town meeting to take action on recinding the vote of the budget was filed. This petition carried with it a request for an annual meeting and a new annual budget which would not cut general government funds but did cut the education budget by $150,000. The vote at a referendum held on May 25, about three weeks after the budget meeting, was 861-802 in favor of recinding, but the vote to lower the budget by the $150,000 was 789-802.

By Coventry, Stoetzer stated he had not, but that he had been in touch with Coventry's town manager on the developments. Stoetzer added that there is nothing in Tolland's land records to indicate any movement to purchase large parcels of land.

Further explaining the reason for his explanation at the annual meeting may be recinded after a special meeting called after the annual meeting and a new annual budget may be adopted after.

Grid Star Works For Vietnam Vets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Brockington, a highly paid rushing demon in the National Football League in the fall, runs interference for Vietnam veterans in the winter-for nothing.

The Green Bay Packers running star begins calling on Ohio employers next week, trying to convince them to hire returning servicemen from the Vietnam era.

"I will just tell them like it is. No big deals, no flagwaving, no snow jobs," assured Brockington on Wednesday. "I think they will listen to me."

That's what officials of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services hope, too. They have a 1,700-veteran-a-week program in the greater Columbus area, alone, seeking jobs.

Brockington, the kid from the Brooklyn slums, has volunteered 10 to 15 hours weekly of his time not already occupied with real estate development training.

"He thought running over Bob Lilly was tough," said a state employment official. "Wait until we run him on a merry chase around the state."

Brockington, a former Ohio State University star who now makes Columbus his off-season home, knows firsthand the job problem staring at veterans and considers it a serious matter.

"We have to get them doing something with their hands, keeping them busy," he said.

These guys are trained in hand-to-hand combat. They are killing machines. We must place them in jobs before they rely on that military instinct and start robbing and killing to survive."

Why would Brockington, a pro superstar who can command big money for anything he does, volunteer for such a thing?

"A lot of people helped me get where I am," he answered. "I just want to try and help somebody else."

Brockington, who has two quarters remaining for a degree at Ohio State, goes back to school next quarter, but will stay involved with the volunteer work.

"Maybe I'll get some college credit out of it," chuckled the rapid-talking Brockington, mostly attired in a gray sport coat, silver medallion, gray plaid knickers and two-toned shoes.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Who's Mr. Lucky? one weary spectator sighed. "Miami selects Charlie Wade, wide receiver, Tennessee State," the National Football League official replied—amid cheers of relief, the annual flesh-peddling of collegiate talent finally ground to an end.

It had taken 20 hours and 12 minutes—441 other players—to get to that point Wednesday. By that time, whatever suspense and excitement had once been generated in the cavernous ballroom of the Americana Hotel had long evaporated.

Virtually all the stars had been gobbled up by the 26 clubs in Tuesday's portion of the NFL draft. A few, like quarterback John Huftagel of Penn State and Eddie McAshen of George Tech, running backs Rufus Ferguson of Wisconsin and Howard Stevens of Louisville and Olympic gold medal-winning hurdler Rod Milburn of Southern University—were still unclaimed.

For one reason or another, there was no rush to grab them—although they weren't left out in the cold.

The John Matuszaks, the Bert Joneses and the other names which had attracted nearly 200 spectators to the first round of the draft were long gone. And so were the spectators. There were just 5 of them left in the gallery when the 17th and final round began—and three of them were snoozing.

Matuszak was there. The mammoth musclem from Tampa, who'd once punched a guy at a party because he'd

"put his hands on my girlfriend," and is still serving two years' probation because of it, was the first pick by the Houston Oilers.

"Only in America," he grinned "can a guy who's half Irish, one-fourth Polish and a bit Italian play football in Oak Creek, Wis., Fort Dodge, Iowa, Columbia, Mo., and Tampa, Fla., before being drafted No. 1 by a team in Texas.

The 6-foot-7½, 275-pounder with the big mop of curly hair "will become the highest salaried lineman in pro football history," said Boston attorney Bob Wolff, who'll do Matuszak's negotiating with Houston. It could mean a windfall of perhaps $250,000 for a three-year contract.

Such dreams of greenbacks are beyond reality for the likes of, say Jeff Davis—but he can dream anyway—and with some justification.

Davis, a running back from what the NFL listed as "Mars Hill, N.C.," was drafted just ahead of Wade, in other words, next-to-last, by the Washington Redskins.

But he probably knows full well that just two years ago the Baltimore Colts' last-round pick, the NFL's 41st, was a guy named Don Nottingham. And if Davis is worried about making a team with runners like Larry Brown and Charley Harraway, he can also remind himself that a man who never even played college football and just showed up one day at the Redskins' open tryout, got a Super Bowl check with the name "Herb Mulkey" written on it.

N.E. Grid Stars Virtually Ignored

BOSTON (AP) — New England college stars were virtually ignored in this year's National Football League draft.

Only a handful of New England players were among the 442 picked by the 26 NFL clubs in the two-day draft completed Wednesday.

Running back Dick Jauren of Yale and defensive tackle Jeff Yeates of Boston College were picked in the fourth round. Jauren was selected by the Detroit Lions and Yeates by the Buffalo Bills.

Yale blocking guard Bob Leyen was a sixth round pick and the Dallas Cowboys, while Holy Cross fullback Joe Wilson went in the eighth round to the Cincinnati Bengals.

Center Chris Kete of Boston College was drafted by the Miami Dolphins in the 11th round, and halfback Paul Metcalo of Massachusetts by Kansas City in the 13th round. Harvard quarterback Eric Crone was chosen by the St. Louis Cardinals in the 17th round.

Coach Loser In Ice Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Islanders scored two goals in their first period and it looked as though Coach Earl Ingarfield's National Hockey League debut as coach might be a successful one. Then the roof fell in.

The Toronto Maple Leafs scored five goals in the second and third periods before the Islanders' third tally and Ingarfield's debut was spoiled, 5-3.

It was the first time since the Islanders' first game in a row and remained unbeaten in their last 11 games in disposing of the Golden Seals.

The Rangers fired a season high 58 shots at California goalie Gilles Meloche including 20 in the first period when they were led scoreless.

Defenseman Darryl Edmond scored two goals, one of them while his team was short-handed, and added an assist, to lead the Penguins over the Kings. Neil Komadoski scored the first goal of his NHL career to prevent a shutout for Los Angeles.

There was no action in the second period. The Hockey Association Wednesday night.

The Dry Side of Sports

Kossela-Stevens Teamed

"I'm going to show up this season at Martinsville, Va., driving a 1972 Vega," commented Carl 'Bugs' Stevens Monday night as he and Denny Zimmerman represented the world of automobile racing at the 32nd annual Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance Gold Key Dinner.

Stevens, voted two years in a row as the most popular NASCAR modified chauffeur, also has won three consecutive driving titles.

Presently Stevens is still connected with Somy Kossela, in the Woodchopper No. 15.

"I plan to run the full modified circuit again, meaning I'll drive at Malta, N.Y. Friday night, Stafford Speedway on Saturday night and back to Utica-Rome Speedway on Sunday."

"Last year fate had me in," stated Bugs. "I got started at Pocono, followed me to Trenton in 1971 and stayed the whole 1972 season. There wasn't any problems with the car. When it ran, it really moved. Fate was the answer," he continued.

"I like speed," the popular Rehoboth, Mass., resident noted. "I like when racing puts men on the line, kinda like the bigger the track, the faster I go, the more I enjoy racing. I like taking that chance."

Stevens, married for 14 years, will be leaving for Daytona Beach soon. "If I get offered a decent race, I'll take it, but otherwise I'm going down there as a spectator. Len Boehler, Bugs' former boss, who now has Fred DeSarro handling the controls on the No. 3, is supposedly taking his Permatar car to Daytona with DeSarro again driving it."

Boehler is also noted as having bought the project started by Stock Car Magazine in building a modified.

Skiers' Prayers Answered

Skiers, your prayers have finally been answered. With the addition of the latest snowfall, ranging from six to eight inches in Connecticut to as much as 15 inches up north, skiing anywhere is ideal.

Berkshire East, stunned by the snow, closed its slope for two days to groom and condition the snow but has noted it will be in full operation for the weekend.

In the Berkshire Mountains, everything is go and Brodie is reporting the best skiing to date.

The Ski Tourney Assn. will conduct the "Great Race" in the West Simsbury, Saturday Feb. 17. The site will be the Westside School's soccer field and the cross country trail will be six kilometers. For the advanced skier, this will be run off in less than an hour.

Serious contenders will be offered a front-line position.

Cross Country Race Slated

Waterville Valley Ski Area in New Hampshire will hold a new twist in race. Open to anyone 18 and over, Friday night's race will be a Tricycle Slalom Championship.

Second Grad in Post Name Barry Smith Eagles' Grid Coach

The Board of Directors of the Manchester Midget Football Assn. has announced the appointment of Barry Smith as head coach of the Eagles succeeding Don Flavell.

Smith is the second graduate of the program to hold the post. He was preceded by a head coach joining John Schneider of the Jets in that category.

Barry played for the Smokeeaters in 1967-68 and with the Pony Red Raiders in 1961.

A Manchester native, Barry graduated from Manchester High School in 1966, after playing varsity football for three years under Coaches Tony Albribo and Dave Wiggins, and was the center of the 1965 CCLL co-teams.

Joining the Army in January of 1967, Smith was sent to Vietnam in May of that year and served with the Riverine Patrol of the 9th Infantry Division in the Mekong Delta. Wounded in action on two occasions, he holds the Purple Heart and has been cited for gallantry as well as the combat infantry badge. He was also awarded the Air Medal for a tour as a helicopter crewman shortly before his return home.

Upon his discharge, Barry joined his father in Newton Smith & Sons General Contractors, and has been an assistant coach in the midget program since 1970.

The new coach and his wife, the former Yolanda Sanabria of Easton, reside at 90 Porter St. with their son, Barry Jr.

Floyd Patterson, who won the title in November, 1956, at the age of 21, was the youngest man ever to win the World Heavyweight Boxing Crown.

MCC Triumphs Ends Loss Skein

Six straight defeats were hard to take but last night the Manchester Community College basketball team put it all together and the result was a 95-65 decision over Tuxis at East Catholic High.

The setback upped the Cougars' record to 9-8 and the losers dropped to 5-8. Hitting with regularity from the field for the home crew were Stan Alexander (31), Eric Moore (24) and Ellie Grant (16). The trio accounted for 34 of the 45 two-pointers. Jeff Kimble led Tuxis with 24 tallies.

Coach Pat Mistretta's crew opened a 26-20 lead at the 10-minute mark and was out front, 48-35 at intermission.

The locals won't have any time to relax. Undeated Mattatuck (16-0) comes to town Saturday night.

In addition to scoring well, Moore pulled down 19 rebounds and Grant hauled in 11.

Mistretta was happy to see the loss skein snapped. "It's good to win after a long drought. No doubt, losing Lamar Freeman and Don Kelly (both for the season) hurt. However, we've played well the past two games. With a maximum effort from everyone, I know we can win going down the stretch and qualify for the tournament," Mistretta said.

Hershey Bears Defeat Reds

The Hershey Bears spotted the Providence Reds a two-goal lead after 10 minutes of play in their American Hockey League game Wednesday in Hershey, but pulled out the victory 5-2 thanks to a wild and woolly third period.

In other AHL games Wednesday, Baltimore downed Jacksonville 4-1 and Nova Scotia defeated Springfield 5-3.

In Hershey, Providence jumped to a 2-0 lead after 10 minutes on goals by Gary Colter and Claude Huse. The Bears stormed back to tie the count midway through the second period on goals by Gil Gilbert and Robin Burns.

Maryland Bows To State Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina State fans borrowed a song from the Maryland fans Wednesday night and added a little something. They cut down the nets.

The Maryland fans chant the song "Ames, Ames" when the Terrapins win at home but they don't usually cut down the nets.

The Wolfpack, rated No. 2 in the country, beat Maryland for the second time this season Wednesday night 89-78 behind David Thompson and Tommy Burleson.

Burleson's performance prompted N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan to say, "Tommy played the best game of his career, in the second half he was simply awesome."

Thompson, who scored 37 points in the first meeting of these two Atlantic Coast Conference powerhouse, scored "only" 24 points and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Tom McMillen of Maryland led all scorers with 25 points. Thurston led 30-26 at the half and then pulled away behind DiGregorio and Fran Costello to hike their record to 11-1.

Virginia, sparked by a Barry Parkhill, used a second half rally to defeat West Virginia, 74-67.

Austin Peay, led by James "The Fly" Williams, the nation's leading scorer, swamped Samford University 84-57. Birmingham's Williams pumped in 29 points and picked off 11 rebounds.

Bristol Eastern In 'Pin'

Manchester High, once again, went down to defeat on the wrestling mat by the slim margin of one weight class yesterday against Bristol Eastern, 28-17.

Coach Bob O'Neil reported the Tribe put out 100 per cent and came up with some of its best efforts of the year against the Bell Towers.

Co-Captain Scott Wiggins pinned previously undefeated Skip Jandrea and sophomore Flash Ed Machuga also tacked a first loss on Bud Shik Fawola. Machuga now boasts a 7-0 personal win-loss record.

Co-Captain Mark Odel topped Wiggins' mat to 10-10 in a decision. Besides Odel, Wiggins and Machuga, Mickey Miller, Mike Voland, Mark Odel and Richard Burnett all notched wins.

The next meet will be Friday at Platt High in Meriden. The locals return home Wednesday against defending CCLL champ Concord High of West Hartford.
