C. Elmore Watkins Sesquicentennial's Honorary Chairman

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON
In tribute to a man who has helped to create much of Manchester's history and has seen a great deal more in his more than 90 years of residence, Manchester Sesquicentennial Committee has named C. Elmore Watkins honorary chairman for the town's observance of its 150th anniversary, June 23-30.

He was born in the family homestead on S. Main St., July 3, 1882, and for more than 60 years has lived at 56 N. Lakewood Circle. It is hardly an exaggeration to refer to Watkins as Mr. Manchester Memorial Hospital. After serving as president of the Manchester Council at one time, served as an honorary doctorate in 1953. In college, he was a choir and glee club soloist, and was a soloist and choir director in town and area churches for many years after graduating. At one time, he had ambitions to make singing his career.

After working in several capacities in Watkins Bros. Furniture Store, founded in 1874 by his father and uncle, Watkins took charge in 1915 upon the death of his father. During his tenure, the firm's present quarters were erected at Main and Oak Sts. The previous location was at Main and School Sts. He is presently board chairman of the Manchester Hospital, which is headed by his son, R. Bruce.

On two occasions, Watkins received the All-American Merchant Award, given by the National Retail Furniture Association; was a member of the association's executive committee; and organized and was the first president of the Connecticut Chapter of the American Institute of Interior Designers.

In 1927, he founded the Verplanck Scholarship Foundation, named for Fred A. Verplanck, Manchester superintendent of schools; was a charter member, director, and in 1967 was elected a life director of the Manchester Scholarship Foundation.

Watkins was a director of the Savings Bank of Manchester, 1919-67; is a charter member of the local Kiwanis Club and has been a trustee of Hillier College of the University of Hartford and of the Hartford School of Music. In acknowledgment of and appreciation for these and many other instances of Watkins' dedication, devotion, and service to his fellow men, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, in 1966, presented him its "M" Award, an honor bestowed annually upon town citizens for outstanding and substantial contributions to the community.

A graduate of the then South Manchester High School in 1900, Watkins graduated from Tufts College, now Tufts University, in 1904; headed its Alumni

Transit Tax Passed

Revised Bill Limits Base For Gas Levy

Transit Official Endorses Tax

Robert Swirner, at mike, chairman of the Greater Hartford Transit District, and a majority of the district members have agreed to add a penny a gallon to the gasoline tax to subsidize bus service. Senate Majority Leader Louis Rome, right, said Thursday, after the General Assembly approved a bill to allow the tax, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill would sign it. (AP photo)

HARTFORD (AP)—The General Assembly has put its stamp of approval on a bill that would raise a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax to increase to residents of Connecticut's transit districts. The measure, opposed by the Senate Majority Leader Lewis B. Home of Bloomfield, however, said the tax would raise enough cash, at least in Hartford, Rome said the average driver would pay $7.60 a year in the new tax. Sen. Joseph Paulino, D-Hartford, called the bill an "abdication of responsibility on the part of the state government. He said the taxpayer was being asked to 'pay and pay' while the governor already had the money and the power to end the bus crisis.

Approval of the bill by Meskill was not expected to be a surprise. The state's largest cities and by most Democrats on Capitol Hill, was passed Thursday night by the Republican-controlled General Assembly. Republican leaders said Gov. Meskill would sign the bill into law.

The bill permits local transit districts to levy the tax in their component municipalities, beginning July 1, to support bus subsidies and other mass transit expenses. The state government has offered to pay the full cost of bus subsidies out of its own pocket until July 1 if the other problems that have shut down much of Connecticut's bus service are resolved before then.

Only two of the six metropolitan areas involved in the state bus crisis, Bridgeport and Hartford, have transit districts and without mass transit service, was opposed by both the Republican and Democratic legislative caucuses.

The General Assembly sent the compromise bill to Meskill after a 22-12 Senate vote and an 83-41 vote in the House of Representatives. Sen. David Odagard of Manchester was the only Republican to join Senate Democrats in opposing the measure. In the House, Democratic Rep. George Hitter of Hartford joined the Republicans in backing the bill while eight Republicans crossed over to vote "no" with the Democrats.

Several members of the Hartford Transit District Thursday informally voted to support the compromise bill, but the members voting represented only three of the nine towns in the district. Hartford City Council Mayor Joseph Nicholas Carbone predicted several of the member communities would withdraw from the district as a result of the bill.

New Haven Mayor Bartholomew Guida called the bill "totally unacceptable" because, he claimed, a tax levied only within a New Haven area transit district wouldn't raise enough money to get strike buses rolling again. Guida said he spoke for the mayors of Hamden, West Haven, East Haven and Waterbury. Hartford Mayor George Athanson also said the bill would raise too little money. Senate Majority Leader Lewis B. Home of Bloomfield, however, said the tax would raise enough cash, at least in Hartford, Rome said the average driver would pay $7.60 a year in the new tax. Sen. Joseph Paulino, D-Hartford, called the bill an "abdication of responsibility on the part of the state government. ## Process, DevCo Plans Placed On The Record

HOLLY GANTNER Correspondent
The Town Council last night held its first "official" on the record meeting with Greater Hartford Process and DevCo, with the three and one-half hour question and answer session recorded on tape for a permanent record.

Up to this point and for the past month, all sessions concerning the proposed "new community" have been on a strictly informal basis, and last night's meeting was devoted to a re-iteration, mostly, of earlier questions, with the Planning and Zoning Commission also participating. Meetings with Process and DevCo will continue, with the next one scheduled for Monday night at 8 at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. The informal discussion type of meeting is open to the public.

Patrick Cusick of DevCo said, in response to a question, that the size of the proposed community (a projected population of 20,000 in 12 to 15 years, and 6,000 dwelling units) is not "hard and fast" but is being talked about merely for preliminary planning purposes.

The amount and type of land acquired for the new community will influence the final figures, as will final planning discussions with the town. It was further brought out that no actual physical planning for the site has been done, although, Cusick said, "We have done a lot of generalized thinking about the land." In response to a request that the town be supplied with anything of a planning nature that is on paper, Cusick said that this will be done, and that the town will be supplied with all information as it becomes available. Such areas as soil, water and sewerage are being studied now.

Regarding the establishment of a citizen's group to work with town officials on the actual plan for the new community, Cusick said his personal wish would be to respond to the Town Council and PZC directly, plus having the PZC set up a lay committee composed of 10 to 12 residents. He said the actual mechanics of the planning process have not been decided as yet, and this will be up to the council.

Asked if Process would be willing to underwrite added expenses to the town, for such personnel as consultants, as a result of Process's current presence in the town, Cusick said, "No, Process would not be willing to do this, and added that the town may be premature in hiring such extra personnel at this time."

Councilman David Roach, in asking this question, estimated that the cost of hiring extra personnel because of the Process proposal would be in the neighborhood of from $60,000 to $70,000. Cusick said that in any event he did not feel added personnel, even if necessary during a later stage of planning, would be that high in cost. Peter Libassi of Process added that Process would be happy, if requested by the town, to help out in seeking Federal or state funds available for the hiring of personnel.

Councilman Robert Keller asked if, when a decision is made by the town of Coventry regarding the actual mechanics of the planning process have not been decided as yet, and this will be up to the council.

Solons Hear Death Penalty Pros And Cons

HARTFORD (AP)—Connecticut General Assembly committees talked of capital punishment and haircuts Thursday as the state's attorney general blasted a suggestion from Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for a legislative study of gasoline prices.

Meanwhile, the two houses of the legislature passed and sent to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill a controversial bill that would let local transit districts levy a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax within their member towns to raise money for mass transit needs.

The legislature's Judiciary Committee, whose chairmen have declared their determination to draft a death penalty bill that will meet the requirements of the U.S. Supreme Court, heard testimony on both sides of the capital punishment issue.

The Rev. John I. Sarnswick, a Congregational clergyman from Windsor Locks, quoted Biblical authority for capital punishment and deplored the viewing of crime as a sickness rather than a sin. But Emmanuel Margolis, a lawyer for former "death row" inmate Roberto Delgado of Hartford, said the Constitutional prohibition against "unusual punishment" could make any capital punishment law illegitimate unless the General Assembly saw that the supreme penalty was administered with "sufficient rigidity" to make it "usual."

William Olds, executive director of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union, said the adoption of mandatory death penalties for certain crimes could lead to fewer convictions for those offenses by juries unwilling to call for executions. Barbers and women's hairdressers crowded into the Hall of the House to cheer and boo speakers on proposed legislation that would allow hairdressers to give haircuts to men.

"Maybe it is about time we integrated the hairdryers," declared Mrs. Helen Loy of West Hartford, who identified herself as the "mother of two long-haired sons." But John Fiorelli, who said he coordinates barber training programs for the state Department of Education, said "barbers do a better job" than hairdressers and many women choose to get their haircuts from barbers. Attorney General Robert K. Killian said nothing but a delay in action is likely to result from a legislative inquiry, proposed by Meskill, into a reported cause of gasoline price increases. Killian said a legislative inquiry was conducted last year and that the time had come for action on bills already filed in the General Assembly on the gasoline price issue.

Congress Trying To Control Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress is trying again this year to set up effective machinery to control the budget, but past efforts show it to be a thankless task with little chance of success.

But some veteran members are saying things are different this time. They point to substantial deficit spending the last three years, the weakening of the dollar abroad, the $6-billion balance-of-payments deficit last year and the steady march of inflation through recession and boom periods.

All these, some say, may have convinced a majority that they no longer can deal with the budget on a business-as-usual basis. That basis often has resulted in a spending increase even though the legislators pretend otherwise.

In 1972, for example, Congress cut President Nixon's appropriations requests by $5 billion. But it took other actions that actually would have boosted spending by more than $9 billion if the President had not refused to spend all the money voted.

Congress has made three other major attempts since World War II to set effective controls on spending, and all have failed. The new effort is being directed by a 28-member Joint Study Committee on Budget Control set up last October.

Much of the spending in any year is from appropriations made by past Congresses. Conversely, much of what Congress approves in a particular year will not be spent until later years.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a co-chairman, hailed this as a giant first step and said he is confident the group will be successful in working out details in the next two months. Under the principles, Congress would fix a spending ceiling each year early in the session and would establish procedures to guarantee the ceiling is kept. But veteran members of Congress said star experts in the field all do not share Ullman's optimism. They say problems will come in trying to fill in the details of how the general principles will be carried out.

It Has Been A Dog's Life

TORONTO (AP) — For the last 40 years, John Darch's job has revolved around dogs. He has coached movie stars, trained racers, tamed bitches and instructed bodyguards for call girls. He has taught dogs for movies, commercials, dog tracks and private homes. He was a teacher for RKO studio animal actors in California for several years, was the smartest dog he's ever trained, said Darch, was the mascot found in a commercial for a shoe manufacturer.

"I taught him that commercial 15 minutes before we went on camera," he said. In 1938, Darch raced 22 greyhounds in the United States, setting four track records and winning $46,000. Today obedience classes and traffic training are his main chores, although he says dogs are also in demand for protection.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Manchester Session
 Robert Stevenson, 29, of no certain address, pleaded innocent Thursday to charges of first-degree burglary (two counts), waived a hearing in probable cause, and was bound over to the next criminal session of Hartford County Superior Court.

Several other charges against Stevenson - two counts of second-degree larceny, two counts of third-degree larceny, and one count of third-degree criminal mischief - were nolle prosequi (not prosecuted) by Prosecutor John Lombardo.

Stevenson is free on bonds totaling $2,000, which were posted by a professional bondsman.

He was arrested by Manchester Police Jan. 28 in connection with alleged breaks into Pontiac Park, 373 Main St., and S & S Buick, 81 Adams St.

Gary Drouin, 21, of William-antic, received suspended jail sentences Thursday from Judge Nicholas Armentano.

The consecutive sentences were six months for first-degree criminal trespass and two years for possession of heroin.

Drouin was placed on probation for two years.

Other cases disposed of or nolle prosequi Thursday included:

Charles McLeod, 28, of Marlborough, charge of possession of marijuana nolle.

The case of Diane M. Cooley, 21, of East Hartford, charged with fourth-degree larceny, was dismissed by Judge Armentano Thursday.

John J. McGinn, 18, of 73 Oak St., illegal possession of controlled substance and illegal possession of restricted substance, both charges nolle.

Police Charge Woman Hid Fugitive Husband

A 21-year-old Rockville woman has been arrested on charges that she hid her fugitive husband from police.

Laurie A. Ruess, 21, of 25 E. Main St., was taken into custody by Vernon Police Thursday on a charge of hindering prosecution in the second degree. The charge was lodged on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant.

Vernon Police said she harbored her 22-year-old husband, Archie, at their home when he was wanted by authorities for being a fugitive from justice in Maine.

Ruess was apprehended by Vernon Police Jan. 16, and was returned to Maine. He had allegedly escaped from that state's Windham Men's Correctional Center, where he was confined on charges of grand larceny.

Mrs. Ruess was released on a $250 non-surety bond. She is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12 at Rockville March 6.

Other arrests made or summonses issued by Vernon Police included:

Kenneth R. Collier, 20, of Ellington, charged Thursday with reckless driving in the parking lot at Rockville High School. Court date is March 6.

Boy Hospitalized Hit By School Bus

MANCHESTER
 Fourteen-year-old Bruce Ballard of 22 Foley St. was reported in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital, where he was taken Thursday morning after being struck by a school bus.

The boy fell under a stopped school bus which had just discharged passengers at Bennett Junior High School shortly after 8 a.m., according to Manchester Police.

The empty school bus, operated by Jane P. Brainerd, 31, of 130 Summer St., started to move slowly just as the Ballard boy fell down.

The driver stopped the bus immediately, however.

The youngster received first aid treatment at the scene from Mrs. Marguerite Dwyer, school nurse, and was then taken to the hospital.

No arrest was made by police.

Two long-haired, bearded, youths assaulted a man at David's Restaurant at the Parkade Thursday night, spraying him with tear gas, police reported.

According to a restaurant employee, the two assailants punched the unidentified victim, punched him a few times, and then left in a car.

The victim refused to give his name to police. He told police he didn't want to get involved, according to the case report.

Manchester and Vernon Police are investigating the theft of a car from Manchester which was apparently involved in an accident in Vernon early today.

The car was stolen from the Parking lot at Bess Eaton Donut Shop, 150 Center St., where owner Harry Coombs of It's Honor Roll time again. The following students have qualified for honors.

Seniors
 First Honors (with distinction): Lisa Perrault, Diane Fitzgerald.
 Second Honors: Marion Tomasiak, Barbara Pastula, Debra Wintner, Marilyn Beaulieu, Cynthia Dickinson, Donna Viestart, Kathleen Reckendorf, Cheryl, Diane Bolduc, Douglas Hauschild, Also, Kathleen Perleoni, Mary Orwey, Jane Bouchard, Kathy Kahlil, Paul Carmody, James Dwyer, Lesley Lynch, Cheryl Mallan, Ann Sutton, Diane Bolduc, James McVeigh.

Electives
 As mentioned earlier, freshmen will be offered new Social Studies electives. Here are the two new courses and a brief description. Each is a one-semester course.
 Semester I - "The Shaping of Western Society-An Inquiry Approach."
 A study of change from ancient to modern times in four areas of Western Society - politics, economics, social organization, and patterns of thought. The materials involved are not designed for the memorization of facts but for the identification of problems, the development of tentative answers, and the drawing of conclusions from factual evidence.
 Semester II - "The Humanities in Three Cities."
 A study of literature, philosophy, and the fine arts in three settings - 5th century B.C. Athens, Renaissance Florence, and contemporary New York City. A variety of literary and artistic material will be examined to decide what constitutes a good man, a good life, a good society, in each case study.

Classes For Adults
 In an attempt to share our educational experience here at East with parents of our students and other interested adults, we are providing an opportunity for students at specified classes. Course offerings are limited due to space considerations, backgrounds needed for some courses, etc.
 The following courses will be open to adults during the second semester of this school year.
 Modern European History, Mr. Robert Richard, teacher.
 Description: Various political, economic, military and intellectual affairs and trends that have developed in Western Europe in the last 19th centuries with which the United States has now become integrated. Much NOW and THEN correlations will be examined by using contemporary materials.
 Background: Regular reading of newspapers and magazines - and an open mind.

St. Bridget Honor Roll
 The following students are on the second quarter St. Bridget School honor roll:
 Grade Seven

Club Plans Dinner-Dance
 Timothy P. Moynihan of 53 Benton St. heads the committee for the Democratic Club of Manchester's second annual dinner-dance. The event will be held March 17 at the KofC Home on Main St., with a social hour at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30, and dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.
 Moynihan, one of the organizers of the Democratic Club two years ago, has been nominated to be club treasurer, for the term to begin next month. Chairman of the Brotherhood in Action (BIA) committee, he serves also on the Town Building Committee and was cited by the town last year for his efforts in the preparation of the Nike Site Town Center.

Brandeis U To Honor Mrs. Meir
 Biology, Sr. Frances Anne, teacher. Course is open only for certain topics such as Genetics.
 WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) - Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir will accept a honorary degree at Brandeis University during a campus convocation early in March.
 The convocation will mark the 25th anniversaries of the State of Israel and the university.
 University President Marver H. Bernstein said on Thursday: "In honoring Prime Minister Meir, Brandeis is not only paying tribute to an extraordinary woman but also to the State of Israel and to Brandeis University itself, both of which were but dreams a mere quarter-century ago."

Animal of the Week: The Zebra

At one time there were hundreds of zebras in Africa. Today, they are nearly extinct. They were killed for their hides and also for their meat. The zebra's stripes, which run in an exact pattern all over its body, are either dark brown or black. Zebras usually live in small herds led by a male or "stallion." They are stubborn and harder to train than horses. They are grazing animals. Some live in the mountains. Others live on the plains. The lion is their biggest enemy among the animals.

Draw dot to dot and color:

They were used by tribes in many generations. Some tracks were made of wood. Some were made of stone. They were worn while dancing. Some were used while worshipping ancestors. Others were worn in times of great danger.

What is a monster's favorite hot weather drink?

Answer: 24. 25-10. 3X1. 24-2.

Peanut Butter and Bananas
 Mix: 1/4 cup peanut butter, 1 ripe banana (mashed), 1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Peanut Butter and Honey
 Mix: 1/2 cup peanut butter, 2 tablespoons honey

Health Aid

The Rev. Robert E. Saunders, principal of East, announced the following to all parents and students concerning health aid to East Catholic:

"Public Act 206 (formerly 481) passed by the last legislature is now providing health services for East through the Town of Manchester. The act requires that a majority of the pupils attending the private school be from the municipality. The new act changed the requirement to a majority from the state.

"Although the services are 100 per cent reimbursed by the state, the municipality must first appropriate and expend its own funds. As the act was legally established by the municipality, a year of 'grace' could have been utilized by any municipality. However, in the case of Manchester, the great cooperation of the school and municipal authorities secured a supplementary budget to put the bill in effect this school year. Accordingly, Mrs. Beverly Parrette joined the East Catholic staff in January as a social worker. The services of the school psychologist are available on a 'per case' basis at present and on a part-time basis next school year. In addition, the expenses of nursing and health services are also assumed by the town.

"The great concern of the Manchester school and municipal authorities for the welfare of East is implementing PA 206 was very heartwarming and is deeply appreciated."

Also in the letter that was sent home was this quarter's report card.

Father Saunders went on to enlist the aid of parents for the school's musical, "The King and I."

"The East Catholic spring musical this year will be 'The King and I' and will be presented April 6, 7, 8 Friday, Saturday, Sunday. The Parents Club has given very great support to these outstanding productions since their inception at East in 1970 and is seeking volunteers to help make this production the best ever. Mr. Jack Wardwell, Parents Club president, wishes to ask parents who wish to help in the program ad or patron solicitation to contact their parish representatives who make up the program committee. Other volunteers who wish to help with any phase of

Robert H. Brown, 78, of East Berlin, a Rockville native, died Wednesday at New Britain General Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Bertha J. Baxter Brown.

Mr. Brown was born in Rockville and had lived in the Hartford area for 34 years before moving to East Berlin in 1940. An Army veteran of World War I, he was employed as an automobile mechanic for the former Packard Motor Car Co. and Lipman Motors before his retirement 10 years ago.

Survivors, besides his wife, are a son, Allen R. Brown, and a daughter, Miss Rosa Brown, both of East Berlin.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 9:45 a.m. from the Rose Hill Funeral Home, 580 Elm St., Rocky Hill, with a Mass at Sacred Heart Church, East Berlin, at 10:30. Burial will be in Rose Hill Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Comment Session

A Bush Hill Rd. resident was the only person to appear last night at a two-hour Board of Directors comment session, conducted by the Manchester Municipal Building by Director John Tani. The directors take turns manning the twice-monthly sessions.

The man complained of hazardous conditions on Keeney St., from the bridge over the river to the bridge over the line. He said there is poor drainage on the street, with water flowing onto it and icing up. He said the condition is particularly bad near Bush Hill Rd.

He commented also on the loss of one day of refuse and garbage pickup for those areas on a Monday-Thursday schedule, when official holidays are observed on Mondays. He said the Monday holiday practice affects the same neighborhoods each time.

It was also brought out that profits realized from the project by DevCo are not to be shared with the town, as plan an orderly growth and an opportunity to take a hard look at other aspects of the entire town of concern.

Asked on what basis Process feels there will be a growth of the greater Hartford area in the next two decades, Cusick said, "Because it is an eminently livable area, with a good source of basic economic strength." He added that despite a drop off in the birth rate, population will, nevertheless, continue to grow.

Other points brought out in the session included the fact that Process will not eliminate its preliminary plan to include low cost housing in the total plan for the new community, and also that it plans to take into account the elderly as well as providing possible relocation sites for some lake area residents, should a rehabilitation program in the lake area be approved.

Missionary to Samoa Conference Speaker

Dr. Jarrell W. Garsee, a missionary to Samoa, will be guest speaker at the fourth annual weekend Missionary Conference, which will be held at the Church of the Nazarene in New York City, Sunday and Monday, Feb. 18-19.

Dr. Garsee, a graduate of Bethany (Okla.) Nazarene College, received his B.D. degree in 1954 from the Nazarene Theological Seminary and his M.S. degree in psychology in 1964 from Oklahoma University. He earned his Ph.D. in developmental psychology from Ohio State University.

In addition to his duties as a missionary in Samoa, he was a test specialist for the Samoan Department of Education from 1962 to 1968.

Forum Features Trombly Works

Three musical works by a former Manchester man will be performed at the 38th anniversary of Composers' Forum in New York City tomorrow night in the Connell Library auditorium at 8:30.

The composer is Preston A. Trombly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perley A. Trombly of 141 Waranoke Rd.

The compositions are "Music for Piano," composed in 1970; "In Memoriam: Igor Stravinsky," composed in 1971; and "Kinetics III," composed in 1971. It will be the first New York performance of the first two, and the composer will conduct the second.

As an added local touch, Joseph Politi of 078 Hillside St., Manchester, will be the bassoonist in the rendition of "In Memoriam." This work is also for flute, piccolo, oboe, English horn, clarinet, bass clarinet, viola, and double bass. "Kinetics III" is for flute and stereo tape.

Trombly is a 1964 graduate of Manchester High School and received his bachelor's degree in music with honors from the University of Connecticut in 1968. At MHS, he won the Chamblaine Club's Laurel Music Award and the Daniel Manuchuk Music Scholarship.

Last year, he received his master's musical arts from the Yale School of Music and has completed course requirements for his doctorate. He is currently completing the Woods Chandler Memorial Prize for the best composition in a large form written during the year.

In 1970, Trombly conducted his composition, "Opera Septima," (seven people at work), at Lincoln Center in New York City; received a $1,000 award in May from Broadcast Music, Inc. for his electronic tape, "Kinetics I," which was performed at Lincoln Center in the month of composition and during the summer was a member of the Bourgeois Gentlemen at the Yale Repertory Theatre.

Last fall, he made the sound collage for and conducted performances of the musical "Bourgeois Gentlemen" at the Yale Repertory Theatre.

Zito Tells Role Of Area Council

BY JUNE TOMPKINS

(Herald Staff Writer)

The aims and functions of the Greater Hartford Community Council and how the organization relates to local community services were explained Thursday at a meeting of the Manchester Community Services Council.

Joe Zito, executive director of Greater Hartford Community Council, spoke to about 30 persons about the large role the council plays in the coordination of community services.

He highlighted the Sand neighborhood in Hartford as an example. The first phase of the program involved a social service worker who identified the blights in the area. He further explained the organization of volunteer workers in neighborhood groups, and a Sand staff, all of whom were interviewed and acquainted with the program. Then, he continued, the needs and ranking of needs was considered.

The second phase in the administration of the Sand neighborhood involved the assessment of agencies to provide the services needed, Zito said.

The third phase, he said, will be a monitoring and tracking service, has yet to be developed.

The Sand neighborhood project includes about 500 families in the North End Albany Ave. area, he said. The entire plan is one that is being observed, he said, by other communities.

In referring to Sand as a testing ground for the next couple of years, he mentioned that the results would determine what kind of services would be needed in such a community as the future Greater Hartford Process's "New Town" in Coventry.

The community services like other businesses, he explained,

Money Big Problem, Tri-Town Heads Agree

By BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

Money, the lack of it, is one of the major issues facing town officials, Tri-Town government heads agreed at a forum sponsored Thursday by the Rockville Area Council of Churches.

Mayor Frank McCoy of Vernon and First Selectmen Francis Prichard of Ellington and Erwin Stoetzer of Tolland answered questions directed to them by the Rev. Betsy Reed and the Rev. Donald Miller of Tolland with the Rev. Robert Wellner of St. John's Episcopal Church, Vernon as moderator.

All three officials agreed the towns need money, but also agreed that the property owners are already overburdened with taxes and that some other solution to the problem has to be found.

Mayor McCoy said every individual has a differing set of priorities and a different point of view as to solutions to the money problem, and they all maintain a common and mutual distaste for paying the freight via increased taxes.

The mayor said he believes, despite the current criticism, that the Federal Revenue Sharing Act which returns revenue directly to the local community with local responsibility as to its use, is extremely desirable and would be a welcome thing. Prichard said the towns had been approached on such a plan, last summer, but nothing had been heard from the state since then.

Mayor McCoy said he thinks the problem of funding is the cause of the delay.

Stoetzer, with tongue in cheek, said one of his town's biggest problems is the letter he had received "today" which had been mailed from Vernon a week ago. He explained that Tolland is a sub-station of Vernon and it is hoped this will soon change. Right now, he said, Tolland residents have a variety of mailing addresses including Tolland, Rockville and Ellington and Willington.

He also listed as one of Tolland's major problems, that the price of homes is increasing and there are many new families or minority groups cannot afford to buy them and therefore it is people with older children, in the Middle School and High School, who are moving in.

Stoetzer said another major problem in Tolland is its 110 miles of roads and the maintenance of them. Landfill areas, sewers and volunteer fire departments are also growing problems in all three towns. Vernon is the only one of the three having a sewer system, public water system and its own trash collection.

With all three towns growing at a rather rapid rate, all are facing increasing needs in many areas. Other than the mentioned ones these areas also include recreation programs, health and environmental control, traffic and roads. "All of these problems are capable of being resolved, however, there is the ever present problem of funds," Mayor McCoy commented and the two selectmen concurred.

Lottery Director Would Like More Latitude

WETHERSFIELD (AP) — If Joe Burns had his way, the Connecticut lottery would be run like a business rather than a government program.

But Joseph B. Burns's job at the moment is to run a state operation as executive secretary of the State Commission on Special Revenue.

Burns says in an interview that he would like to have a little more latitude in administering the program, beyond the limits placed on it by the state legislature and federal anti-lottery laws.

Basically, he says, he would like to "market" the lottery to the same fashion that commercial enterprises offer their products and services to the general public. He had some experience in commercial marketing as president of the Fuller Brush Co., one of the nation's pioneer door-to-door sales companies, before he accepted the offer of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to assume his present job.

Connecticut entered the lottery field a year ago after a few months of preparation. Using the experience gained by the New Jersey Lottery, the first state to initiate a weekly drawing, Burns set out to do the same in Connecticut.

"Frankly we copied the New Jersey setup, adapting as we went along for the particular needs of the state," Burns said.

"There just wasn't time to experiment because the legislature, in its wisdom, had programmed lottery revenues into the budget even before we got off the ground."

The cooperation at the beginning was excellent, Burns said, but the 2,600 agents recruited to sell lottery tickets didn't get the proper indoctrination.

"We had to scramble at the start," he said. "We managed to peddle 2.1 million tickets the first week but we made the mistake of setting a goal we weren't able to maintain."

When the news of the lottery were off, he recalled, "we realized that if the program was going to work it had to be heavily merchandised at the point of sale."

Since the initial faltering, the lottery has taken hold and now maintains a fairly consistent performance level, Burns said.

Burns's statistics show that the lottery sold 75 million 50 cent tickets in its first year, bringing the state income of $17 million and net revenues of $15 million.

Much of the credit for the lottery's achievements should be claimed by Burns, his associates say. They point out that he constantly probes for new ideas to stimulate lottery sales.

One of the program's most successful promotions was the "Stocking Stuffer" last Christmas which suggested lottery tickets as Christmas presents. At a time when lottery sales usually drop off because people spend most of their discretionary income for presents, the lottery had one of its best sales periods.

Saturation advertising utilizing newspapers, roadside billboards, posters and counter displays have helped keep the program before the public, Burns said.

"I want people to be talking about us, thinking about us and everytime they go out of the house, the lottery had one of its best sales periods."

"I've been accused of creating a carnival effect with the lottery promotions," he said. "If that's the case then I've accomplished my goal and Burns predicts a continued growth in the lottery program because he maintains the public's attitude toward gambling is changing."

"If we can uphold the integrity of the program and avoid any stage of dishonesty in the way it is run, people will continue to support it," he agrees.

Burns maintains the lottery could become more profitable for the state with some changes.

"Lottery revenue never will be a substitute for taxation," he said. But he added that barring an economic recession, it should provide "a reasonable source of revenue for the foreseeable future."

He takes issue with those who view the lottery with "misinformed attitude toward stopping crime," and says he believes the lottery will never replace the numbers racket in its present form, Burns says.

If he were free of the government restrictions on lotteries, he would initiate a subscription lottery to supplement the regular weekly game. This would permit people to buy lottery tickets by mail within and outside the state, something not allowed by federal law.

A daily lottery is not feasible at this point, Burns said, because the state does not have the computer capacity to handle it the way it should be done. He proposes using automatic vending machines tied to centrally located computers that would validate tickets immediately.

He also would allow vendors to make profits on the smaller lottery prizes so that a winner could claim his prize immediately.

Another promotion that has enjoyed considerable success is the "losers' lottery" which began earlier this year, Burns says. Persons holding a losing ticket in a weekly drawing sign their name and address on the ticket and drop it in a special receptacle. A drawing is held several "losers" win new cars. The cars are being purchased with unclaimed lottery prize money.

In the future, Burns plans to offer other merchandise prizes such as boats, appliances, silverware and other products all made in Connecticut.

He also is pressuring the state's Congressional delegation to seek changes in the federal income tax law that would exempt lottery winnings from taxation.

Closer to home, Burns has asked the state legislature to allow the use of lottery tickets as prizes in giveaways, to shorten the claim period from one year to 90 days.

Vernon Few Attend Zone Rules Hearing

The townspeople apparently have great faith in Mayor Frank McCoy and the members of a Zoning Study Task Force he appointed as only five interested persons appeared at a public hearing of that group Wednesday night. Task force chairman Atty. Harold Cummings called the informal hearing to allow townspeople to express their opinions as to changes and improvements they would like to see in the zoning laws. The mayor originally appointed the committee because of what he felt was a general feeling among the residents of the town that there is room for change and improvement in the way the town is developing. The task force was directed, by resolution of the Town Council, to study all current zoning regulations of the town and to give particular attention to those pertaining to industrial and commercial development along Rt. 83 and Rt. 30. At Wednesday's meeting, Atty. Cummings said the committee has been busy photographing and cataloging all of the development along the two controversial routes. He also said the committee has discussed in detail the possible creation of a special zone or a recommendation that existing zones be changed in certain ways. Any of the proposed changes will be made in a preliminary report to the Town Council the early part of March. The chairman said he has had several people write to the committee, and most of these have recognized the fact that the town has a problem and a good part of those problems seem to be in the nature of existing zoning regulations.

Fix on Moon

Night-flying moths use the moon as a beacon. By keeping the lunar image at a fixed angle on the eye's retina, they can maintain fairly straight courses. When they make use of an electric lamp or a candle flame, however, moths fly in ever smaller circles until they crash into the light source. Fix on Moon Night-flying moths use the moon as a beacon. ## Proposed South Windsor Public Library Library Backers Campaigning

Correspondent
Tel. 644-8274

Lobbying for a new public library building is currently underway in South Windsor before a voter referendum tentatively scheduled for March 31 takes place. Last Sunday, the "Library 73 Committee" conducted over 100 government, civic and religious leaders in the town on the proposed new 25,000 square foot building which will meet a population need of 39,000 residents in the future. Frank Ridout, a representative of the Moore and Salisbury Architectural firm of Farmington, designers of the proposed facility, said the building would provide a service to the community far more than 20 years. He said that all of the building will not be completed internally as the need is not required at the present time. A large selection of the lower portion of the building will be a reserve section for growth. The windows in the building face the north and natural lighting will enhance the interior of the building. It will be located adjacent to the Town Hall and a plaza will divide the two buildings. The exterior of the building will be comparable to the material and natural lighting will enhance the exterior of the building. On Wednesday about 25 persons attended the informational meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Barbara Zbell, president of the LWV, said she was not especially pleased with the turnout, but she felt the persons who attended were given a better insight through the slide presentation and floor plan discussion as to what was actually being proposed. She said the presentation is something everyone should see in order to visualize the library as it will be, if approved by voters. Mrs. Beverly Glassman, chairman of the Library 73 Fund Raising Committee, said library bumper stickers are now available from committee members Mrs. Rosemarie Belcher of Griffin Rd., Mrs. Mary Young of Berle Rd. and Gary Spell of Tumblebrook Dr. Funds raised from the sale will be used to cover the cost of information mailings, a brochure, a planned "Open House" next month and other related expenses. The library will also be discussed at a "Lincoln Dinner" sponsored by the Republican Women's Club Feb. 27 at the Lounge Restaurant on Sullivan Ave. and the Town Council will discuss referendum arrangements when they meet Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Bolton Approves Raffles Bolton

Bolton voters yesterday approved legislation of the bazaars and raffles by a margin of 137 to 21. Only seven percent of those eligible cast votes in the townwide referendum which came about as a result of a recent request by 100 petitioners to legalize the two operations. Although bazaars and raffles are legal immediately, the playing of bingo which was approved by the selectmen last week will not be allowed until Sept. 15 as provided by state law. Sponsorship of all three events will be limited to non-profit, voluntary or educational organizations.

William Grunke Resigns Post On School Board

JUDITH DONOHUE
Correspondent
Tel. 649-8499

William Grunke, who has served on the Board of Education for six years, two as chairman, has resigned from the board, effective immediately. Grunke said increased responsibility for his job and the desire to spend more time with his family prompted his decision. To fulfill a technicality, Grunke was re-appointed to fill his own vacancy until a successor is chosen in the May town election. Party caucuses, scheduled during the next week, will include Grunke as an anticipated resignation, and accordingly there must be an actual vacancy. In addition to his two years as chairman, Grunke has served on several board committees, including personnel, finance and transportation. He and his wife Hope live on Converse Rd. with their five children. Adult Courses The Bolton Junior Woman's Club is sponsoring three five-week courses which are open to all adults in the community. All classes will begin Feb. 27 and all will be held Tuesdays at the Herick Memorial Park recreation building. A statistics program will be given by Georgia Scollata of School Rd. from 10 to 11 a.m. The program will include exercises designed to lose inches and tone muscles. Two courses will be given from 1 to 3 p.m. Ann Manolucci of School Rd. will teach a beginner's course in quilting. The course will include instruction in traditional and contemporary quilting patterns. A course in needlepoint will be given at the same time by Beth Watson of Bolton's Needlepoint Shop. Instruction in the basic "ent" stitch and creative work on canvas will be offered. A small fee will be charged for each of the courses. Persons wishing to register should contact the individual instructors by Feb. 23. Homemakers Bolton Homemakers, who are affiliated with the Tolland County Home Economics Association, will meet Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Community Hall for a program on quilting to be conducted by Pearl Manager. A short session on notepaper-making will also be offered. Persons attending are asked to bring paper and small brushes. Dennis Caurus Bolton Democrats will meet in caucus tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Community Hall to select a slate of candidates for the biennial May town elections. All registered Democrats are eligible to participate in the caucus and nominations are welcome from the floor.

Gardening

with FRANK ATWOOD

"Pat" Dooley likes plants and used to have them scattered all over the house. When the Dooleys built an addition to their home in Bolton 11 years ago they included an indoor garden across nearly the full width of their new living room where most of the house plants are now concentrated in one area. The garden is a concrete trench three feet deep. In the bottom there is drainage tile connecting to a dry well outside the house. Above the tile there is a foot-and-a-half of gravel, then a perforated hose to provide water for the roots, then a foot-and-a-half of potting soil. Water can be sent through the underground hose by opening a faucet. The surface of the soil and the foliage can be watered with a second hose fitted with a spray nozzle. Any excess water automatically drains away. The garden is easy to care for. Next to a large window with southern exposure, it has good morning sun in the winter months. In the summer it has sun all day, but filtered through the leaves of trees in front of the house. Mrs. Dooley mixes soluble fertilizer in a pall of water about once in two months and gives the plants a feeding. Some plants are set directly in the soil and stay in place the year round. Plants that will be moved outdoors for the summer are kept in pots, sunk in the soil. There is a Norfolk Island pine, with flat, feathery, evergreen branches. There is an Othello orange, which bears small, inedible fruits, a palm tree, an Angelwing begonia, the sword-shaped leaves of dracaena, ferns, and a poinsettia that has become a green plant with long curving branches and green leaves, but no red bracts. Was Alligator Lair For something like five years the living room planter was the home of two apparently contented alligators. They were eight-inch babies when Jonathan Dooley, then a third-grader, got them in a pet store for a school project and they made themselves at home among the plants, subsisting on hamburger and restrained by a low fence of plastic. When the alligators were three feet long and the plastic was no longer a dependable barrier, they were given to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stempson at their Willington Game Farm and joined a menagerie that now includes an African lion, a cheetah, two ostriches and other exotic birds and beasts. The alligators lived outdoors for one summer but when they came into winter quarters again they failed to survive the change of climate.

Six Face Charges In Office Breaks

Manchester Police this morning made a sixth arrest on charges stemming from a Feb. 5 break into doctors' offices at 28 Hayes St. Arrested on a Circuit Court 12 warrant this morning was Gary R. Moore, 17, of 9 Linwood Dr. He was charged with three counts each of third-degree burglary and fourth-degree larceny. Police were questioning him at midday and it was likely that he would be presented in court today. John J. McGinn Jr., 18, of 709 Main St., Apt. 11, was charged Thursday afternoon with three counts of third-degree burglary and one count of fourth-degree larceny in connection with the doctors' offices break. McGinn was also charged with illegal possession or control of non-narcotic substance, and possession of prescription legend drugs, after police searched his apartment Thursday. Police were led to the apartment after the arrests of four others on drug charges. Extensive police surveillance led to a car, which was carrying the four boys, and was stopped at Main and Bissell Sts. Thursday afternoon. All four occupants of the car were charged with illegal possession or control of non-narcotic substance. They were: John D. Danosce, 25, of Windville Rd., Rockville; George F. Kania Jr., 19, of 205 N. Elm St.; Steven F. DeVito, 17, of Main St.; and Louis Jenkins, 24, of Torrington. McGinn and those four were released on $1,000 non-surety bonds each, and are to appear in court March 5. Police said several barbiturate tablets were found in the car stopped on Bissell St. More pills, a scale, and several syringes and needles were found in the apartment at 709 Main St., police said. Not all of the pills reported in that break have been recovered, however, police said. Investigation is continuing.

U.S. Copter Shot Down Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) - A big U.S. Chinook helicopter supporting the four-party Joint Military Commission was shot down this morning near An Loc, 50 miles north of Saigon, and five American crewmen were wounded, the U.S. Command announced. The injured men were flown to the U.S. Army hospital in Saigon. The conditions were not immediately reported. A Command spokesman said the helicopter had landed at An Loc in connection with the peacekeeping commission's headquarters there. It was shot down a few minutes after it took off when it was about eight miles south of An Loc, the spokesman said. The crewmen were injured when it crashed, and the aircraft caught fire and was destroyed.

POW Meets Son For First Time

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) - Back from captivity in North Vietnam, Air Force Maj. Hayden J. Lockhart reached down gently for the hand of a 7-year-old son he had never seen before. He looked deeply into the eyes of his only child. Jamie, standing smartly erect, his sandy hair blowing in a mild breeze, shook hands Thursday with his father. Jamie was born May 11, 1965, two months after his father became the third American pilot shot down over North Vietnam.

News Capsules

Dollar Stabilizing
TOKYO (AP) - The U.S. dollar closed up again today on the Japanese exchange as stability appeared to have returned to the world's money markets following a week of devaluations and uncertainty. The dollar finished today's half-day session on the Tokyo market at 264.10 yen, up slightly from Friday's close of 264 yen.

Gray Tapped?
WASHINGTON (AP) - L. Patrick Gray III, acting director of the FBI for more than nine months, will be nominated by President Nixon to become permanent director of the agency. The Washington Star-News said Friday. Gray, who was named acting director after the death of J. Edgar Hoover, met privately with the President Friday, the Star-News said. It quoted reliable sources as saying Gray's name would be forwarded to the Senate for confirmation in the next few days. If nominated, Gray is expected to win approval from the Judiciary Committee and the full Senate.

Launch Crusade
TOPSHAM, Maine (AP) - A letter writing crusade has been launched by Maine's Let Us Forget Committee to protest plans by the three major networks to discontinue full television coverage of other returning prisoners of war. Mrs. Carol Savage of Topsham, a spokeswoman for the committee, said Friday night that network executives informed the group they feel there is no longer public interest in covering the return of each man. "There are prisoner of war families and five million Americans wearing POW bracelets who want to be assured that their particular man has indeed returned safely," she said.

U. S. Warned
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Any American attempt to limit imports in the current monetary crisis would be self-defeating, Japan's ambassador to Washington warns. Nobuhiko Ushiba said Japan and the United States have the mutual goal of freer and more open world economy and for that reason "we should not for emergency purposes erect a jungle of safeguards, sanctions, and loopholes." These, "will surely postpone and may make impossible the kind of world we are striving for," Ushiba told a civic luncheon Friday.

Hockey Rink Open
Manchester's new hockey rink at the Nike Site is now in operation with lights available for night play. Weather permitting the facility should get double play with area schools enjoying winter vacation next week. Observing some budding Bobby Orrs pursuing the puck are, from left, Chris Saunders, vice president of the Teen Center, who lives at 80 Fraces Dr. Mrs. Lawrence Moon, 235 Redwood Rd, Teen Center committee chairman of the Junior Women's Club; and John Harkins, assistant town manager. ## Cooperative Effort Creates New Facility

Manchester's new outdoor hockey rink, opened this week at the Nike Site, is the result of the mass efforts of many people, said Assistant Town Manager John Harkins yesterday. Harkins said the rink was designed by his office and was installed by the town highway and park departments, under the supervision of public works coordinator Herman Pascantelli. He praised the cooperation of the Town Fire Department in providing the water for filling the rink, and the Police Department for furnishing a driver and an aerial bucket device for installation of the lights. The lights were installed by the Town Building Department. Harkins said the tearing hit, which is adjacent to the rink and at the top of the ski slope, is in a building formerly used as a generating station. He said it is designed for multiple uses and that, in addition to being used by skiers and hockey players, it has the potential for being used as an observatory and as a classroom for the study of astronomy. He said announcements will be carried over the rec department's telephone bulletin when, weather permitting, the rink is open.

Commission Pleads For Cease-Fire

SAIGON (AP) - With nearly 15,000 Vietnamese casualties reported in the first three weeks of the year, the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong issued an urgent appeal today to stop the shooting. The four parties of the Joint Military Commission, which is charged with helping keep the peace, acknowledged that the cease-fire is not working and called on the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong high commands to order regular and irregular armed forces and armed police to completely end hostilities, strictly respect the provisions of the cease-fire agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27. Col. Bin Tin, chief spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegate claimed the South Vietnamese refused to agree to include Article 4 in the commission's joint communique. There was no immediate comment from the South Vietnamese.

Governor Sees Tax As Step Toward Solving Problem

HARTFORD (AP) - Local transit districts now have a law that permits them to begin levying a one penny a gallon tax on gasoline in towns in the district on July 1, but so far they haven't been enthusiastic. "Any tax which is not statewide would bring ruinous competition between various cities and towns," said John J. Sullivan, president of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors. Sullivan, who is also first selectman of Fairfield, said the tax "would penalize those towns and cities which have the foresight to join a transit district and would prevent other towns from joining." The Greater Hartford Transit District met Friday with officials from the Connecticut Co., the Amalgamated Transit Union and the state, but no agreement was reached. Gov. Thomas J. Meskill signed the bill Friday, calling it "a step in the direction of mass transit solutions in the future." The bill, which gives transit districts the option of levying the tax in towns in the district, was rushed through the General Assembly on Thursday. The governor didn't indicate when the buses might roll again in Hartford, New Haven and other cities where ConCo buses stopped on Nov. 25. But he said that with the bill the state government has done all it can reasonably be expected to do. "The problem was now, he said, in the hands of the transit district." "The ball is now in the other court," he said. Meskill said the state would still join with the federal government in buying new buses for local transit districts. In addition, he said the state would pay for 100 percent of the bus costs from the signing of an agreement for transit district takeover of bus service until July first, when the penny tax will be levied. Under previous offers to the districts, Meskill had offered to pay the deficits until Sept. 1.

Vernon May Drop Out

Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy today reaffirmed the stand he took two days ago that he will recommend that Vernon drop out of the town's Transit District and consider forming its own district. The mayor's reaffirmation came in the light of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's signing of legislation which would permit the district to levy an additional 1 cent a gallon on gas in the nine towns. Mayor McCoy said while he doesn't feel a need to push the panic button, he does plan to call a meeting of the Town Council early next week. He said at this meeting he will recommend having the district levying the tax until July 1. Mayor McCoy said, however, there is some question as to whether any action could be taken now that might be binding on members who are now in the district. (See Another Story On Page 16)

Flag Raising Ends One Man's Protest

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON (Herald Reporter)
"I hope I never have to fly it again at half mast," Wilber Little said when he raised the flag to the top of the pole yesterday in front of the Shamrock Farm homestead, 195 Spencer St. Throughout most of the Vietnam conflict, he has flown Old Glory at half staff, day and night, in all kinds of weather. It was his way to protest what he regarded as a senseless war, he explained. "This war was different from any other war we have had. For instance, when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, that was a real reason why we should go to war. I didn't think we should be spending boys' lives by the thousands out there (in Vietnam) when the head of the Marine Corps said, 'I wouldn't sacrifice the life of one American boy for all of Vietnam.'" Little guesses that he has used up about 10 or 12 flags over the years. Some of them, always 3x5, he said, wore out, and two or three were stolen. His practice caused a number of the curious to stop at the house. "Did somebody die?" they invariably asked, Little said. "About flying the flag 24 hours a day, he said, 'The law allows it to be flown at all times as long as it's illuminated.' Our street light provided that."

Normalized Sino-American Relations Anticipated

TOKYO (AP) - There will be "concrete steps" toward normalizing relations between China and the United States following Henry A. Kissinger's trip to Peking, a Japanese news reporter today said. Japan's largest daily newspaper, the Asahi Shimbun, quoted influential diplomatic sources in the Chinese capital as saying the steps include trade missions in each country, the exchange of newsmen and other measures to promote trade and economic relations. The paper also quoted observers in Peking as saying that the two countries will arrive at "an understanding on the massive withdrawal of U.S. troops from Taiwan." The observers cited a statement made at a banquet in Peking Friday evening, Asahi said. The official Chinese news agency, Hsinhua, reported Premier Chou En-lai and Kissinger made toasts at the banquet and "they said that they would make efforts to bring about the normalization of relations between the two countries in the spirit of the Sino-U.S. Shanghai Communiqué," a reference to the communique issued after President Nixon's trip to China last year. Hsinhua said Kissinger continued talks Friday with Chou, Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei and Vice Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hung. Japanese reports said Peking newspapers have been playing up the visit of Kissinger, giving more space on his activities than it did when he visited the Chinese capital last June. The People's Daily, newspaper of the Communist party, carried the statements by Chou and Kissinger as a front-page headline with a photograph of Chou and Chi Peng-fei. Kissinger arrived in Peking on Thursday in the wake of four days of talks in Hanoi concerning postwar relations. The presidential envoy departs for the United States on Monday.

OLD CODGER'S CODGITIONS

When properly killed and dressed, snapping turtles furnish very palatable meat which resembles three different kinds - beef, chicken and fish - all from the same creature. And the eggs are good, too. They are richer than hen's eggs, more like duck eggs. They look just like table tennis balls, in size, shape and color. Before they are laid they lie like a string of pearls around in the periphery of the shell. One turtle a foot in diameter will produce enough eggs to fill a soup dish heaping full. As they begin to dry and shrink, they set up a loud snapping and crackling noise. To lay her clutch of eggs, she backs down under the soil or sand where it is exposed to the sun. The sun hatches the little fellows who can immediately take off on the run like so many spiders. Many nests of eggs are found and devoured by skunks and raccoons. A live snapping turtle is a terrible monster. They are very strong. O.C. caught one not over 12 or 14 inches wide that could walk with a 180-pound man on his back and the belly shell well off the ground. They are able to strike like a fish with quite a long reach. And one snap can amputate a finger. They are the ugliest, meanest, most bloodthirsty creature we have. They can clean out a stocked fish pond. Ducks have no warning before they are grabbed from below and pulled down beneath the water to be devoured there. Tankerhook Lake was the mill pond for Minor White's. After working on the roof, O.C. came down for lunch and caught a snapper at the pond and got him to snap onto a heavy rope, then hung it to a ladder rung and put a barrel beneath it to catch the water. It was still hanging out to the day when we quit work for the day. We carried him by the rope and threw him into the back of the wagon. He made a lot of pot roast and soup. The largest snappers O.C. ever saw were two dead ones on the south shore of Laurel Lake or Pond. Some one had shot them through the heads with a high power rifle. Their shells were about two feet wide. Their heads and necks were nearly four inches in diameter. Probably one like that could snap off a man's hand. Snappers die hard. Even though mortally wounded, they leave as if not hurt at all. O.C. saw one shot through the neck at the base of the skull. He was at the surface near the gate at the northwest corner of Globe Hollow Pond. He turned downward and swam to the bottom then headed out as far as he could be seen. Only sign of injury was the stream of blood. When we first began to read about heart transplants, some doctor said he believed that the time would come when science and technology would find a way to induce a human body to accept the heart of some lower form of animal. He thought the most likely successful donor would be a pig. O.C. wonders. It seems that all of us animals have only the brain which can receive messages and send back others in response. When the connection to the brain is broken every thing stops. Not so with reptiles. They have their ganglia distributed around their anatomy so that an organ can continue to function with its own ganglion without any nerve connection with the brain. So after a snapper's head is chopped off with an axe and it lies hung by the tail for an hour.
