Since all the big stores grabbed off George Washington's Birthday as an occasion for big sales, it only seems logical that a small outfit like ours should be less grand in our thinking. Although we're not as patriotic as the next guy (and my wife is just as greedy), we're going to stick with one of the lesser holidays like National Mother-in-law Day.

Farm Workers

I would like to point out some little known facts about the migrant farm worker in our state.

These people live in a vitally important feudalistic situation, whereby they are in servitude, working and living on land they do not own.

Few migrants are residents of any town in Connecticut, since by the very nature of their jobs, they must move from area to area. They are not therefore covered by state welfare laws, minimum wage laws, and because of their wanderings, are not eligible voters.

A publication issued by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, notes that, "In the farm and tobacco lands of Connecticut, some of the migrant camps are almost military, with high fences and forbidding signs."

Efforts to improve the living conditions behind these barriers have been repudiated. In 1967 a worker for the State Department of Education was forced off the land at gunpoint by the owner and charged with trying to interfere with private business.

The Connecticut Labor Department is not actively involved with the migrants in this state and does not accept any responsibility for their situation. This department claims that farm owners are not required to keep or present records of farm operations. Therefore, the presence of these workers is not even acknowledged officially by anyone. The State Labor Department did not mention a little known fact—that tax incentives exist for the farm owner to make low estimates of his personnel and wages paid.

It seems, then, that the State Department of Labor is, in a real sense, protecting the interests of the economically powerful farm owners in Connecticut at the expense of the migratory workers.

The only active state agency concerned with this group in Connecticut is the Migratory Children's Program, funded by the State Department of Education. While the services of this program are worthwhile, they are available only to migratory children and not older teenagers or adults. In fact, in Connecticut, there are no programs, on any level, of any type, specifically designed to educate, aid, or upgrade the average adult migratory worker. When in trouble, legally, financially, medically, or otherwise, the migrant has no institution, no advocate, to turn to in Connecticut.

In this state, which is the most prosperous in the country, the well-defined class code and power system is carefully preserved with the help of governmental bureaucracy. Farm owners and state institutions, anxious to avoid adverse publicity and willing to continue a profitable system, have ignored, indeed do not even acknowledge, the migrant situation in Connecticut.

Not An Oversight

If there is one piece of mail, almost all of us receive and which we do not ignore, it is that annual epistle from the Internal Revenue Service with our Form 1040.

We would venture too that the contents get as much, if not more, attention than any other letter we get during the year including the quarterly health report from 92-year-old rich Uncle Fred.

This being the case, we are at a loss to understand why Robert S. Strauss, Democratic party national chairman, calls the checkoff plan to aid the national presidential campaigns "America's best-kept secret."

The IRS mentions it quite frequently in its detailed instructions and the full page with two forms is quite obvious in the booklet. With the form you can earmark a buck to the Republicans, a buck to the Democrats, a buck to be split up among the major parties, or pass.

What is really sticking in the craw of the Democratic leader is that in the early tax returns, most taxpayers feel deficit ridden Uncle Sam is more needy than either party. Of 12 million returns filed through last week, only 4 per cent filled out the form, which means less than half a million bucks for presidential politicking so far. Of course, this is probably split between the two parties, so unless there is a big change of heart, the millions anticipated just won't be there.

Now we can understand Mr. Strauss' concern since his party still has some outstanding bills from the last election and his opposition is sitting pretty well off with a surplus reportedly as large as the Democratic deficit.

Both Strauss and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., want to get the checkoff form incorporated on page 1 of Form 1040

The Innocent Bystander

For the past week the front pages have carried little else but the story of our returning prisoners of war.

Each day, I've glanced at the pictures of grinning young men and tearfully happy wives. And I've turned the page.

I don't want to read about it. "FREED POWS," the headline says. I don't want to watch as the tiny figure on the television screen waves joyously from the steps of the airplane and then, through the electronic magic of Instant Re-Play, waves joyously once again.

I know this is the one happy moment of this long and ugly war. I know this is as close to a victory as we'll ever have.

Yet I can't bring myself to share in the mood of national jubilation. I only feel sad.

Partly, it is the 500 or so young men themselves. I'm glad they're finally coming home. I try to imagine what it would be like to spend eight years in a foreign prison camp.

Yet it was we who sent them over there to be captured and confined. It was we who sent them to fight this long and ugly war because we could find no way out of the mess without admitting we were wrong.

They are living evidence of our guilt. They are, in a way, peace pamphlets used to say, prisoners of the war.

And their happiness now is in direct ratio to the agony we put them through. Maybe this is true for the nation as a whole. After all, this is the cause of our jubilation now. So when I see the joy in their faces that their agony is over, I turn the page. I flick off the set. I only feel sad.

The President has asked us to offer "a prayer of thanks for all who have borne this battle."

When he says that I don't think of our 500 prisoners. I think of those who bore far worse in this battle. But they are dead. More than a million of them. I can't think of them for dying. I only feel sad.

The President says we must resolve anew to be worthy of the sacrifices they have made. The sacrifices for what? The map of Vietnam is unchanged. The Viet Cong still hold their enclaves. A dictator still rules in Saigon. More than 16,000 North Vietnamese troops still remain in the south.

A decade of sacrifice. A million lives, a billion dollars, our own country torn apart. Yet nothing has changed. And I am

Inside Report

Strauss on Blacks

WASHINGTON — Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss flatly rejected demands by the increasingly militant Black Congressional Caucus in a heated meeting last week—and may get away with it, thanks to support from former members of the Caucus.

The Caucus, headed by its speaker in influencing House Speaker Carl Albert, wanted control over the National Committee's black members and staff. Strauss refused, implicitly telling Rep. Louis Stokes of Ohio and the other Caucus leaders they do not have the clout in the black community they claim.

Instead, Strauss is relying on two allies in the Caucus: Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and Barbara Jordan of Texas. Black Congressmen were outraged last November when Strauss, newly elected as national chairman, paid his first visit not to Stokes or to Mrs. Chisholm.

After the Black Caucus members drifted into last week's closed-door meeting (20 to 45 minutes late), Stokes issued his demands: first, the determining voice in selecting black staffers at the National Committee for Strauss—as Stokes claimed it had for his predecessors, Fred Harris and Lawrence F. O'Brien; second, veto power over eight additional black committee members Strauss has promised to appoint.

Strauss refused. Before speaking he told Strauss, a freshman Rep. Jordan spoke up. "If you had agreed to those demands," she told Strauss, "I would have had to disassociate myself from you and this meeting." Her argument: the Black Congressional Caucus cannot speak for all black Democrats.

Rep. John Conyers of Michigan, who does not shield his distaste for Strauss, then launched a five-minute attack against the chairman for insufficient concern about white racism. Conyers was promptly pushed away by both Strauss and Mrs. Chisholm. A third-term Rep. Yvonne Burdette of California, associated herself with her sisters.

The black Congressmen seemed chiefly concerned with the possibility that Strauss would name blacks to the National Committee who might later run against them for Congress. In particular, Stokes seemed worried about Arnold Pinksy, a 1971 mayoral candidate in Cleveland. In response, Strauss promised to appoint nobody who lives in the Congressional District of a Black Caucus member without first conferring with the Congressman.

Blackball for Labor

John K. Tabor, a liberal Republican from Pittsburgh who was a prominent Pennsylvania state official in the 1960s and a political advisor of then-Gov. William Scranton, has been summarily rejected for Under Secretary of Labor despite powerful backing from top AFL-CIO leaders.

Accounts inside the administration differ as to why, as of this writing, Tabor has been ruled unacceptable—apparently both by the Secretary of Labor, Peter Brennan, and by high Nixon aides.

Now, as majority leader, O'Neill is responsible for planning Democratic strategy, gauging moods and holding hands—seven days a week. Colleagues warn him he cannot be a good leader on a part-time basis.

A footnote: New full-time pressures on O'Neill's part-time schedule have ravaged his appointments calendar. The new majority leader is repeatedly running late and forced to cancel long-standing meetings.

Tolland Brainard Sets Office Hours

Starting tomorrow State Rep. Joseph Brainard will have office hours in Tolland the last Saturday of each month.

Anyone having questions on current legislation is invited to call on Brainard at the Administration Building from 1 to 3 p.m. At other times he may be reached at his home at South St., Coventry.

Camping Trip

Boy Scout Troop 15 will meet at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the Congregational Church for an overnight camping trip.

Scoutmaster Kenneth Johnson and Assistant Scoutmaster Henry Szemrely will accompany the boys to Sespit Lake Forest.

Bolton Committee Sought To Study Charter

JUDITH DONOHUE
Correspondent

Bolton town government study committee has recommended that a 12 or 15 member charter commission be established and that several minor changes be made in the present form of town government.

The recommendations were made at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Selectmen by Atty. Harold Laws, chairman of the group which was appointed in October to study the existing form of government with a view toward making changes.

In general, the committee supports the present town meeting form, but suggests that these meetings be restricted to consideration of major issues such as budgets, bond issues and purchase and sale of real estate.

It further suggests that the board of selectmen be increased from 3 to 5 members and that the duties and responsibilities of the chief executive officer and all town officials be defined.

The committee's final recommendation is that the proposed charter commission determine what boards and commissions should exist.

In his report, Laws said there appears to be some duplication of effort in various town boards and commissions, and noted that there are 10 elected officials and 24 appointed officials in this town of approximately 4,000 persons.

In its consideration of the town meeting form, the committee reports say, "We do not disagree with the long meeting form of government, but unfortunately all items of business must be individually approved by the town meeting and such a procedure appears to be tedious and inefficient in that attendance is poor, it is difficult to obtain a representative cross-section of the population, and in some instances, the meeting is long and draw-out, resulting in a few persistent and hardy individuals approving business matters for the majority of the electorate."

Prior to making its recommendations, the committee studied the statutory basis for the present

Hebron ZBA Asked To Approve Kennel, Amston Lot

A special exception to operate a dog kennel and a variance to construct a one-family dwelling on two lots at Amston Lake are the two items to be considered by the Zoning Board of Appeals at a public hearing scheduled for Wednesday evening at 8 in the Town Office Building.

Michael Sherman of Simsbury has requested a special exception to operate a dog kennel on property presently owned by Wayne Miller on Rt. 665.

Early in January the ZBA denied a request of Sherman's to build a kennel on another piece of property in the area.

The second application is from Carmela Verralli of Manchester for a variance to construct a one-family dwelling on lots 544 and 545 at Amston Lake.

Previously regulations permitted one-family year round or summer dwellings on 50'x100' lots which may be in the land records as of May 1, 1947. Verralli's was filed in 1954.

However, in March of 1972, in an effort to control increasing pollution at the lake, the commission voted to prohibit all building on 50'x100' lots, thus requiring applicants to seek a variance.

Tackle Local Problems Carruthers Tells Clergy

BARBARA RICHMOND
(Herald Reporter)

Sparking at the final of a series of forums sponsored by the Rocky Hill Area Clergy Council Thursday night, State Sen. Thomas Carruthers challenged that group to hold one more meeting and have the clergy come under fire.

Sen. Carruthers was responding to what he termed a very sensitive question asked by panel member, The Rev. Richard Bertram, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, referring to the recent announcement of the withdrawal of Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) funds, questioned by the Rev. Carruthers.

"The church as we know it today enjoys many privileges which are in a better position to know just how successful these programs have been in their own towns than either elect to fund them temporarily out of their revenue sharing programs, or if they feel the programs have failed, mark time until the federal government makes its decision."

"Turning to mass transportation-highway problems, which he said are inseparable, Carruthers directed his explanation to the immediate problem, that of solving the bus strike and the legislation which gives the Hartford Transit District the authority to levy a one-cent a gallon tax on gasoline within the district."

He said nobody is really happy with the solution, but it is possibly the only solution on which the legislators from towns with varied transportation problems and interests, could agree. "At best it is a temporary expediency to get the buses rolling again until we can elect a new transportation plan that could provide bus, rail and rail service between Hartford and Bradley Airport and several suburban towns, including Vernon," Carruthers said.

Noting that what is planned for Vernon would be of immediate interest to those who are elderly people in town who eat alone and children who are going to school hungry. He said, "I look around and see new churches with big kitchens aren't to feed these people."

The senator said he feels the clergy receive themselves from local issues and seem to get involved in problems not related to their communities. He defined local issues as being those ones as the high rate of their at the schools and the many, many problems the welfare worker has, and the recent break into one of the Vernon schools where the vandals killed some small animals. He questioned what kind of hate these young people harbor that would make them do such a thing.

Let the church, the local government and the mothers and fathers assume their responsibility and maybe the kids will solve their problems," Carruthers explained.

Panel member, the Rev. Edwin Bartholomew, took issue with Carruthers' statement about the clergy being concerned with problems in other parts of the world, explaining, "I think what is happening in other parts of the world does concern us here, because we are here; it's a matter of priorities."

In further explanation of the withdrawal of OEO funds, Carruthers said, "What the governor or the legislature might have in mind in view of the federal cutoff is uncertain at this moment. In the legislature there are differences of opinion, as elsewhere in the country, over the effectiveness of the OEO program and some of the community action programs."

Carruthers defined the decision of President Nixon to cease funding these programs as not intended to be a permanent policy but rather as a

117 Give Blood

A total of 117 people gave blood when the Bloodmobile visited St. Mary's Church yesterday.

Of the 135 appointments made in advance, only 85 were kept. There were 10 walk-ins, but five were turned down for various reasons. Persons reaching gallon marks were: Roland A. Beaucage, four gallons; William H. Martens and Sister Marcia Tetrault, two gallons; Mrs. Carol Lalonde, Mrs. Mary Jarvis and Mrs. Joellen Polowitzer, one gallon.

The next Bloodmobile visit will be March 28 from 12:45 to 5:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, 138 Main St.

A complete list of donors will appear in tomorrow's Herald.

Youth Killed

ROCKY HILL (AP) —

Michael P. Gramigna, 17, stepson of a Rocky Hill policeman, died Thursday when his car and a dump truck collided at the corner of Main Street and Weber Road, police said.

The transaction was recorded in the town clerk's office Feb. 15, but due to a backlog of work in the assessor's office, has not yet been filed there.

About 750 acres of land total have now been recorded in the town clerk's office. In connection with the new community, and Process has said it estimates more than 1,000 acres will have been acquired when all transactions are complete.

Process Acquires Rizy Farm Land

Another land purchase in connection with Greater Hartford Process's proposed new community has been registered with the town clerk, the first purchase recorded since late in January when Process announced its proposal for the town's northwest corner.

The latest parcel, a portion of the Rizy farm on Bread and Milk St., was sold to a Rochester, N.Y. firm, as were all the other parcels. The parcel contains approximately 80 acres, and the sale price, according to the town clerk's office, was $91,000. Although the specific amount of acreage involved in the latest sale is not recorded in the deed, a spokesman in the assessor's office estimated that the Rizy family retained about 24 acres of their total parcel, on the east side of Bread and Milk St., including some 900 feet of frontage, their house and various out buildings.

Sold were 100 feet of frontage on Dunn Rd. and an indeterminate amount on Bread and Milk St.

Dried Beans Economical, Good Source Of Protein

STORRS — Trying to find ways to stretch your dollar when buying protein foods? Just use the "old bean." Dried beans are an economical source of vegetable protein, according to Janina Czajkowski, extension nutritionist at the University of Connecticut. They also supply important amounts of iron and the B vitamins, she adds. And you can count on beans as a good buy because they're now in exceptionally plentiful supply.

Most Americans are not aware of the bean's protein potential, even though beans are among the oldest foods dating back to the days of the Egyptians and Greeks. And imagine all the beans that helped American pioneers survive those difficult winters. As a matter of fact, beans are a staple food in most Latin American countries. Dry beans usually require soaking before cooking. For a shortcut, start with precooked beans with water and boiling for two minutes. Then remove from heat, soak one hour, and they're ready to cook. To get the most value from your bean dishes, include in your meal some animal protein. For example, serve a cottage cheese salad as a side dish or an egg omelet for dessert when you serve baked beans or bean chowder. Milk as a beverage will provide animal protein, as well.

Former Resident Joins Relief Team In Managua
By BETTY RYDER
A former Manchester woman, who patterned her life to serve others, is close to seeing her dream become a reality. Christine G. Benschke, formerly of 202 Woodbridge St. and until recently on staff at Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover, N.H., is soon to depart for earthquake stricken Managua, Nicaragua. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Benschke, formerly of Manchester, now of Greenfield, Mass., Christine will be part of a relief team being sent to aid the homeless and ill in Managua.

While on duty one night at Mary Hitchcock Hospital, where she is a night pediatric charge nurse, Christine, after hearing about the tragic earthquake in Nicaragua, wrote to the Red Cross and offered to volunteer her services there. Later, realizing that the Red Cross would not consider her adequately trained because she does not have a BS degree in nursing and would not speak in Nicaragua, she looked elsewhere for sponsorship. She had attended classes and become committed to the Ananda Marga Yoga Society, with national headquarters in Wichita, Kan., and a Jan. 18 newsletter the society announced it would be sponsoring a relief team to go to Nicaragua.

Christine immediately volunteered and was accepted. She will be leaving later this month for a minimum of six months in that country. She left Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, Feb. 13, for Wichita, Kan. After two weeks of orientation, the group will travel by bus from Wichita to Managua, where they will stay in a hotel. Christine will be joined by other team members, including one married couple. Christine is carrying with her a box of surplus medical supplies presented by the Mary Hitchcock Hospital.

Women Prospectors Study Mining For Fun, Profit

VANCOUVER (AP)—Prospectors are no exactly threatening to elbow out the traditional grizzled prospector but their interest in mineral hunting is growing. A third of the more than 150 students who registered for the current prospecting and mining school sponsored by the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines are women, says Thomas Elliot, the chamber's manager. We get a lot of women, but this year there seem to be more than usual," Mr. Elliot said. "We're happy to have them all."

Some of the women enrol because they think prospecting is romantic. Others enter because their husbands are enticed. Another group is taking the course for business reasons and some plan to take up prospecting on a full-time basis.

Mrs. Penny Baughn, a research analyst for a stockbroker, said she is taking the course because it will help her understand mining reports. Another Vancouver woman who said she didn't want to be identified said she is taking the course because she would like to "go out and mine for a while." The lure of the one big find hasn't entered her mind, but she said with enthusiasm: "I'd really like to go gold panning."

When O.C. ever found cellar holes in the woods where earlier pioneers had had their homes, he looked for their wells, unless they were beside a brook or spring. If they had a well, it was open and unmarked.

To prevent some thoughtless hiker or night hunter falling into it, O.C. tried to gather stones, etc. to fill it as near the top as possible. He spent quite a lot of time on such jobs.

While passing by one that he had filled some time before, he found about a dozen large black snakes freshly killed. Evidently they had congregated to spend the winter together down below frost line in the spaces between the rocks and big stones. The ground was bare and there had recently been a very warm spell.

O.C. thinks the snakes had come out into the sun but were still too stiff to escape from someone who had happened along. That was sad, because they were harmless. When warm a black snake is very fast when he wants to be.

His sons (boys) were traveling in the woods with one day when a partridge (ruffed grouse) started away through the bushes with one wing dragging on the ground as if broken. It was explained that was a common trick with hen birds. If a person followed that was the thought was a safe distance the mother then would fly away and circle back to look for chicks hidden in the leaves.

So we didn't follow this time. O.C. also warned the boys to be careful not to step on the chicks because they were so well camouflaged they were difficult to see even when you looked at them.

While talking, we spotted a black snake which was certainly stalking the partridge family and undoubtedly would have taken several if not all if it hadn't happened along at that time. This one didn't have the tell-tale bulge that shows when a snake has swallowed something.

We took after him but he was fast. He was a big one that traveled with his head up about a foot high. He went into a hole on the side of a hollow tree trunk lying on the ground.

A decision had to be made. We had no desire to kill either party to the dilemma. The boys decided that doing away with one only one snake would surely save one and probably more families of partridges. So we chopped wooden plugs and drove them tight in all the holes we could find in the log.

O.C. says a few very large black snakes when he was a boy, but it has now been a long time since he has seen a large one.

There was a hay field near the old filter beds in the west part of town. The grass was tall, ready for mowing. A black snake was seen going across fast with its head about six inches above the grass. He must have been very large.

When the Jones Hollow Road from John Tom Hill in Glastonbury to Marlborough was only a one-lane dirt road through the woods, there appeared to be the shadow of a small tree crossing the road from brush on one side to that on the other side. But there was no tree right there to cast the shadow.

As we drove nearer with the horse and buggy the shadow came away from the bushes on one side and entirely disappeared into those on the other. That must have been a very large black snake. A few years later we witnessed the same thing in Ohio.

We used to see more "flat head" or "puff-adders." They were a harmless gray snake that put up a very threatening act by flattening out their heads and necks and puffing or hissing a warning.

If only switched lightly with a small stick, they would roll over, belly up, and pretend to be dead. Pushing them around got no response until it turned them over right side up. A bookkeeper's new child-care agency has been charged with misuse of $10,000 in funds, according to the state's attorney's office.

June Tate Cross, 33, of New Haven was arrested on a court warrant and arraigned in Superior Court on two counts of larceny, one count of conspiracy and one count of fraud.

The state claims that Mrs. Cross conspired with another employee to write and cash unauthorized checks of Operation Child Care, Inc., an agency under the local Community Progress, Inc.

She is free under a $5,000 bond, authorities said.

Downtown Leaders Willing To Share Consultant Cost

Downtown interests have indicated a willingness to finance half the cost of a planning consultant, proposed by the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee, but it's not likely that there will be a firm financial commitment before the next town Board of Directors meeting.

The Directors have been asked to consider a $10,000 town contribution toward the $20,000 one-year cost of a consultant, and the town contribution, if approved, would be contingent on pledges of $10,000 from downtown businessmen.

The Directors will meet March 6. Robert Weinberg of Economy Electric Supply Co., 824 Main St., said Thursday that a firm commitment probably won't come until March. Weinberg, who heads the Downtown Action Committee's ways and means subcommittee, said that he hopes to have "at least a feeling for what's going to happen" in time for the March 6 meeting.

Weinberg said he has met with some of the institutional people downtown — from the banks and utility companies — who will probably be asked for half of the $10,000 downtown commitment. Weinberg was optimistic about institutional participation in the proposal, but he added that financial commitments would have to be approved by the institutions' boards of directors.

Some of the institutions' boards will not meet until after the March 6 meeting, Weinberg said, explaining possible reasons for a delay in obtaining a commitment.

Weinberg said his subcommittee will also be meeting with downtown merchants and property owners to determine if their participation in the proposal. Several approaches for solicitation of funds are being considered, Weinberg said, but nothing has been finalized.

A Central Town Development Council, being created by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, may assist in fund-raising for the downtown planning consultant, Weinberg said. The new council will be headed by Weinberg.

GOP To Meet Tuesday Night
The Manchester Republican Town Committee will meet Tuesday for its second session this month. It will meet at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

On Feb. 1, A. Paul Berte was elected GOP chairman, succeeded M. Adler Dobkin; and Marion Mercer was elected vice chairman, to succeed Sandra Taylor, Dobkin and Mrs. Taylor both had resigned.

Tuesday's meeting will be in the nature of a "get acquainted" session, with Berte projecting his thoughts on activities of the committee between now and the November elections.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the March 13 referendum on a proposed $1,391,000 appropriation for purchasing Laurel Lake and effecting improvements to the sanitary landfill area. The committee, following the discussion, may vote its position on the question.

About Town
Manchester Barracks, World War I Veterans, and Auxiliary will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at the VFW Home. Members planning to attend the Department dinner, March 25, may make reservations at this meeting.

Women of Assumption Parish are reminded that reservations close Sunday for the community dinner on March 5.

The executive committee of the Ladies' Guild of the Assumption will meet Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Francis Idzkowski, 13 Seaman Circle.

Any members of the Women's Club of Manchester or their friends who are interested in going to New York to see Debbie Reynolds in "Irene" on March 29 should contact Mrs. John Fletcher, 76 Irving St., as there are a few tickets left.

CofC To Form New Committee On Downtown

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is forming a new committee, composed of top business leaders in the downtown area, to coordinate activities of private interests with those of the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee.

The new committee, known as the Central Town Development Council, will be headed by Robert Weinberg of Economy Electric Supply Co., 824 Main St.

Weinberg was the chairman of the Chamber's downtown task force, which is being replaced by the new Council.

Members of the Council, not yet named, are expected to number about ten. The Council is not meant to represent any particular group of businessmen, according to Richard Clark, executive vice president of the Chamber. Instead, Clark said, it will represent broader interests of the whole central business area.

The Council was formed for the "acceleration and orderly advancement of programs for the development of the central district," Clark said.

The Council, after prospective members have been notified, will meet next week, Clark said, to discuss an action program for submission to the Chamber's board of directors.

Admitted Thursday: Maureen Eaton, Union; Lance Shackway, Torry Rd., Tolland; James Lano, Richard Rd., Vernon; Jack Greenberg, Rt. 83, Vernon; Rodney Pugsley, Glen Dr., Tolland; Joseph Deschamps, Stafford Springs; Edward LeGault, Carrige Dr., Tolland; Edwin Bartlett, Farmsdale Lane, Rockville; Harriet Colombaro, Cedar St., Rockville; Ida Plant, Sulpic Village, Ellington; Todd Dwyan, Mountain Spring Rd., Tolland.

Discharged Thursday: Beverly Shaffer, Valleyview Dr., South Windsor; Wilson Beaulieu, W. Main St., Rockville; Paula Bruce, Stafford Springs; Catherine Hudson, South St., Rockville; Ronald Garo, Clark Rd., Bolton; Michael Taffel, Baxter St., Tolland; Carol Jolicoeur, Anthony Rd., Tolland; Kim Lynch, RFD 2, Coventry; Wayne Martin, Enfield; Robert Paakkonen, RFD 2, Rockville.

Big Men Prevail, Providence Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxers say a good big man will always beat a good little man and college basketball buffs might say it too.

Providence, ranked seventh in The Associated Press poll of major college teams, wiped out Assumption, the No. 5 team in the small college poll, 107-87 Thursday night.

Marvin Barnes, 6-foot-8, took Assumption apart, scoring 29 points and grabbing 30 rebounds. Ernie DiGregorio added 21 and Kevin Starnon had 19 for the Friars, 19-2 on the season.

points paced the Jaspers. Seton Hall downed St. Bonaventure 61-56 in the second game. Louisville used a balanced attack to down West Texas State 87-70 in a Missouri Conference game. Four Louisiana players hit double figures led by Tyrus Bridgeman's 17 points. Reggie Hurley paced the losers with 27 points.

would be astronomical and not feasible to do this.
Added to the regulations since the previous hearing held last December is the stipulation that the town be compensated for its cost of supervision of the installation of streets and utilities in any subdivision where the estimated cost exceeds $5,000, the subdivision applicant will be required to pay the cost of public improvements covered by the surety bonds. A minimum charge of $150 will be made in any case.
This regulation was in the proposed subdivision regulations but had been inadvertently omitted from the proposed regulations.
The commission hopes to have the new regulations available to the public in the next several weeks.

Except for minor corrections and additions, most of which were recommended by Selectman Percy Cook, the handful of people attending last night's Planning and Zoning Commission's public hearing on subdivision regulations appeared to be in favor of the regulations.
Because of sentiments expressed to Cook by several surveyors against requiring the notation on plans of all major trees (10" caliper, 3' off the ground) and whether they would be retained, the commission added, "except that the commission may, upon sufficient cause shown modify this requirement."
Surveyors had complained that on three or four acres, it

'Bandit' Found!
"Bandit" didn't get away with the missing pet, but with all the excitement, the raccoon made a hasty ascent to his tree retreat. With patience, and an offered treat of bread, the raccoon again descended the ladder.
Mrs. Hadden, of 188 Hillard St., the animal's owner, had been summoned and she identified the raccoon as her "Bandit." According to Mrs. Hadden, it was a happy reunion with hugs and kisses. She said she knew the raccoon was happy to be home by the raccoon's little chirping noise he made.

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said Thursday he would sign a bill to change Veterans' Day to Nov. 11.
For two years, the holiday has been celebrated on the fourth Monday in October, to make a three-day weekend. But veterans objected strongly. The observance passed the State House unanimously and is awaiting approval in the Senate.

Several POWs Critical Of Amnesty Proposals

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer
Returned American prisoners of war, some voicing sharp criticism of amnesty for draft evaders, have refrained from discussing Indochina prison camp conditions in detail.
One ex-POW said, however, "it will be a shock" for the American public when the full story of their captivity unfolds.
"Conditions in the United States are so good, I just think the American people are going to be very surprised or shocked by some of the things that took place," Army Capt. Mark A. Smith told newsmen Friday in San Francisco.
Smith, 28, of Hawthorne, Calif., said "if and when we get all of our people back, we can tell the whole story," adding it would have been accepted amnesty, and I certainly don't know why anyone who refused to fight should be given amnesty."
Speaking at Letterman General Hospital, Smith was among freed POWs participating in a series of news conferences across the nation. They had been warned by the Pentagon not to discuss prison camp conditions or "anything that might be harmful to the men still imprisoned."
The more than 20 former prisoners who look part in the interviews are among 163 POWs so far released. There are 407 military men and 15 citizens still prisoners in North and South Vietnam, according to lists provided by the North Vietnamese.

On the amnesty issue, Army Sgt. Ken Wallingford, 24, of Austin, Tex., reflected the stance of several returnees in saying of draft evaders: "I don't think they should let them back. They are not true Americans."
"If they can't go and fight, they have no business coming back to their country," said Wallingford, who said he had been chained inside a cage while being held captive by the Viet Cong. He spoke at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Tex.
Navy Capt. Harry T. Jenkins told newsmen at San Diego Naval Hospital: "I don't know a single man who fought the war who would have accepted amnesty, and I certainly don't know why anyone who refused to fight should be given amnesty."
Jenkins, 45, of Coronado, Calif., also joined other ex-POWs in criticizing the American antiwar movement.
"I think they shamed our nation in the eyes of the enemy by dealing with them on their grounds," Jenkins said. "I am a little bit disgruntled with the small minority who see fit to

Democrats May Take Bus Issue Back To Court

HARTFORD (AP) — The Democrats are considering another lawsuit to force the administration of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to use state funds to solve the bus crisis, House Minority Leader Carl Ajello said Friday.
"Without some such drastic action," said Ajello, "the administration will simply continue to protest its good intentions while, in fact, mass transit is dead in Connecticut."
Ajello said the new law allowing transit districts to levy a penny-a-gallon tax on gasoline "will not help to solve the mass transit problems of Connecticut."
Meskill "has signed a bill into law that allows him to abdicate the responsibilities of his office," said the Democrats.
The Democrats filed suit last year against the administration in an effort to get a court order requiring the transportation commissioner to use the Public Service Tax Fund to get commuter buses running again.
Superior Court Judge George Saden rejected the suit, but since that time the state Supreme Court ruled that a mass transit act enacted last September is in full effect despite the governor's attempt to veto it. The high court's ruling apparently opened the door for another suit by the Democrats.
Republicans claim the law is self-contradictory and unworkable because it forbids the use of any state subsidies in any way that would benefit the officials or stockholders of any bus company, either directly or indirectly.
Ajello said Democratic attorneys are looking into the possibility of filing a new lawsuit, and "if the details of such an action appear practicable we shall ask a caucus this coming week to authorize the immediate institution of such action."

Libyan Planes Said Ready For Revenge

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Libyan jet fighters have been flying patrol missions over the Mediterranean with orders to shoot down Israeli El Al airliners wherever they encounter them, a Lebanese newspaper claimed today.
At Yom, which has close contacts with Egypt, quoted reliable Arab sources in Beirut as saying the move was decided by Col. Muammar Kadafi's ruling Revolutionary Command Council to avenge the downing of the Egyptian jetliner by Israeli fighters Wednesday.
A Libyan Embassy spokesman in Beirut declined to comment on the report.
At Yom said Libyan Mirages equipped with air-to-air missiles were sent to the Mediterranean Friday and questioned the captain about the aircraft's identity and course.
The paper gave no other details, and a TWA spokesman in Beirut said his office had received no word about such an incident yet.
Six regular flights from Europe to Cairo and Tel Aviv. Kadafi's government has been silent about what measures it would take following the downing of the Libyan airliner in the occupied Golan Heights. The Israeli command council had ended a two-day conference on the incident and had authorized Kadafi to send cables of condolences to the families of the victims.
No other decisions were made in Cairo, sobbing relatives said.
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has boosted its interest rate charged member banks a half percentage point in a credit-tightening move designed to stem inflation.
The board announced Friday night that its discount rate will go up from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent effective Monday. It said it took the action because of the recent increase of short-term interest rates which it described as "an outgrowth of strong credit demand generated by continued rapid economic expansion."
Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the board and head of the Federal Reserve Board's Committee on Interest and Dividends said however the nation's hand should exercise restraint in raising interest rates.

Dayan Gives Israeli Views On Crash

TEL AVIV (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today the flight recorder in the wreckage of the crashed Libyan airliner indicated all parties involved in the tragedy were at fault.
He said Israel welcomed an international investigation and suggested a "hot line" between Egypt and Israel be set up to avoid similar incidents in the future.
Dayan was speaking to a packed news conference also attended by Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. David Elazar, and the air force boss, Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod.
Elazar admitted he gave the order to force the plane down. "The plane was shot down near the Suez Canal Wednesday with a loss of 106 lives. The incident has stirred an international furor."
Dayan said now that the three recorders, the so-called "black box" had been examined. This has not happened since the 1967 Middle East war, he said.
Elazar said the aircraft "was not acting like it carried civilian passengers," but was acting "very strange."
"After ignoring the warning shots from the Israeli planes,

Refuse Recycling Goal Of Greenwich Officials

GREENWICH (AP) — This well-to-do town has stepped to the forefront of the recycling movement in the state with its plans to create a local reclamation center, environmental authorities say.
Greenwich this week received a grant of $400,000 and would require three to four months construction time. Allocation of the funds will be discussed at a budget hearing scheduled for March 28.
Items for recycling would be separated from other refuse at homes, schools, offices and other businesses and then collected by existing pickup services. In Greenwich, as in most other communities, delivery to reclamation centers is done by volunteers.
Officials will attempt to amend the local sanitary code to provide a penalty for failure to separate these items.
"If every person who lives here or works here will give just a little bit and be willing to separate recyclable items in his home or place of business, then our projected recycling program will work," said First Selectman William B. Lewis.
When separated refuse reaches the plant, papers will be baled and taken to paper mills for recycling. Glass will be crushed and taken to centers in New Jersey, and steel and aluminum cans will be separated magnetically and taken to locations in New York and New Jersey.
Briggs Bague, a member of the recycling board, said the plant would cost close to $400,000 and would require three to four months construction time. Efforts in Greenwich to recycle more than 100 news items. They displayed the "black box" comprised of two large orange colored recorders and a smaller black and silver one.
