Nuclear Plant Given License

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission Thursday announced issuance of a full-term license to Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. for full-power operation of its nuclear power station at Vernon, Vt.

The commission said the license is the first of its kind for a new nuclear power plant in the United States.

The license allows the plant to operate at full power for a period of 20 years, with the option of extending it for another 20 years.

The plant, which is owned by the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp., is located on the banks of the Connecticut River, about 10 miles north of Manchester.

The commission said the license is subject to certain conditions, including the requirement that the plant be operated in accordance with the Atomic Energy Act and related regulations.

The license also requires the plant to be operated in a safe and sound manner, and to comply with all applicable laws and regulations.

The commission said the license is a significant step in the development of the nuclear power industry in the United States.

The plant is expected to begin generating electricity in the summer of 1974.

The license is the result of a long and complex process, involving numerous hearings and reviews.

The commission said the license is a testament to the safety and reliability of the Vermont Yankee nuclear power plant.

The license is a major milestone in the history of the nuclear power industry in the United States.

Vernon $7,627,832 Asked for Schools, Budget Takes New Form

Dr. Raymond E. Ramsdell, superintendent of the town's schools, presented a tentative budget of $7,627,832 for 1973-74 last night to the Budget Committee, said that the committee, which is a subcommittee of the Board of Education, is studying it.

Mrs. Marie Herbst, chairman of the Budget Committee, said that the superintendent's budget would probably be cut by the committee, later, by the Board of Education, and still later, by the Town Council.

No firm salary figure is included because the negotiations between the board and the Vernon Education Association have just started. There also is a question whether the bargaining agent will be the VEA or the Vernon Federation of Teachers.

Terrorists Murder Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The execution of two American diplomats in Khartoum, Sudan, by the Black September organization held in Jordan, Israel and Germany.

Nixon said at a news conference Friday that the United States would not give in to the blackmail demands. He dispatched a special emissary, ambassador to the United Nations William M. French Jr., to Khartoum.

After the killings, Rogers issued a statement, saying "no words can express our shock and grief at the senseless and barbarous murder."

Rogers is in Paris attending the international conference on Vietnam. His remarks were released through the department.

Ambassador William O. Hall, director general of the U.S. foreign service, praised the death toll.

"Both were Arabists, somewhat with the same background. In addition to being the same language they liked the Arabs, understood their problems, and had a deep interest in the Arab culture, history and the people. Both enjoyed their assignments and Moore has told me how disappointed he was that he had to leave Khartoum."

The executions came only five months after the President established a "Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism."

The committee was set up to deal quickly and effectively with the worldwide problem of terrorism.

Learn About Our Country by Collecting Stamps

By BETTY DEENAN
The Mini Page is a member of the Educational Press Association of America.

By offering educational materials, more colorful stamps and better informed window clerks, the Postal Service is making a real effort to make U.S. stamp collecting more fun and more interesting than ever before.

The Postal Service wants to call attention to how much you can learn about our country and our history, not just by collecting but also by studying stamps.

The 1972 Mini Album

The 1972 Mini Album contains a pack of the 31 commemorative stamps issued last year. A commemorative stamp is one that is offered for sale for a limited time. It honors famous people and events, or calls attention to present day problems. The album also has a brief description of each stamp and a panel with see-through strips for mounting. It is on sale at most post offices for $3. This is the second album to be issued.

A Book: Stamps and Stories

"Stamps and Stories—The Exciting Saga of U.S. History Told in Stamps" has color reproductions of all the U.S. stamps since the first ones were issued in 1847. The book also gives highlights from history. You can buy it at major post offices for $2 or you can order it from the Sales Unit address. Add 50 cents for handling and mailing.

A Souvenir Page

A Souvenir Page is a copy of a stamp announcement that is hung in post office lobbies. It is 8 1/2 by 10 1/2 inches and a size that has been created with the first first-day postmark. If you want to collect these and send them, one each time a new stamp is issued. Each page costs 50¢ plus the cost of the stamp. When you have used up your $10 deposit, you will be notified.

First-Day Covers

Each new stamp is issued on a special day at a special place. A first-day cover is an envelope with a stamp that has been cancelled on that date at that special place. The collector mails a self-addressed envelope to the postmaster of the city where the stamp is to be issued and encloses the correct amount of money for the stamp. The stamp is stuck on and canceled and mailed back to the collector. The Postal Service notifies collectors through publicity and posters in the post offices long before the stamps go on sale.

Health Agency Reports Surplus To Committee

Region Police School Enters Fourth Phase

The fourth phase of the Region Police School will begin next week. The first day of the course will be held at the Hartford Police Academy on Monday, March 12. The five-day course will follow this schedule:

On the first day Hartford County State's Atty. John LaBelle will speak on Supreme Court limitations and changes and review in the law.

The same afternoon, a lecture on narcotics investigation and procedures will be given by Milton Camilleri, a Manchester resident, and an agent of the narcotics section of the Connecticut Department of Health.

On the morning of the second day of the course the subject will be crime scene techniques. This section will deal with identification and preservation of clues and search techniques. Special Agent James Deary of the FBI and a member of his staff, Special Agent Dewey Santacrose, will instruct this area of study.

Later that day the topic will be "Youth Services and Juvenile Court," in which Policewoman Patricia Graves will discuss the taking of a juvenile into custody and the referral of such offenders to the field of Youth Services.

The third day of the program will be devoted to the state's vehicle laws and the safety-related laws of driving. This session will also encompass the problem of searching motor vehicles. Motor vehicle searches, according to Lt. Lanan, fall into three major categories: searching for contraband, searching a motor vehicle for weapons and searching a motor vehicle for identification.

HARTFORD (AP) — The Connecticut Department of Health will end the current fiscal year with a $1.6 million surplus, despite needs that would require the spending of more money, says Health Commissioner Franklin M. Foote.

"Not all appropriated money was actually allocated," Foote told the legislature's Appropriations Committee Friday. He added that 54 jobs which had been authorized by the legislature last year in his department "simply have not been filled."

Under questioning from Democratic members of the committee, Foote also said he was requesting $2 million less for the Office of Public Health this year than he sought last year because of a directive from Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

"We were instructed to be modest in our projected income," Foote explained. Meskill told the state agency heads last year to submit requests for more money than they needed but not more than 3.3 per cent.

Foote's testimony Friday came in a busy day for legislative committees. In other hearings, legislators considered mental retardation, and raises for state employees.

In addition, Meskill signed into law Friday a bill enabling the state to refinance some of its high-interest bonds. The bill, which had been proposed by state Treasurer Robert I. Berdon as a way to save up to $11 million in interest costs on the state's indebtedness, was unanimously approved by the Senate on Wednesday and the House on Thursday.

Foote said his proposed $57.8 million budget for 1973-74 includes "no added services at the state's expense," he said, but does include a number of programs, particularly involving smaller towns.

Another need, he said, is for regional health programs, particularly involving smaller towns.

The Appropriations Committee also held that only 7,000 of the 45,000 mentally retarded people in Connecticut are being served by the state's Office of Mental Retardation. Mental Retardation Commissioner Gareth Thorne said the figure of 45,000 retarded children and adults was a "conservative figure."

He said some 13,000 retarded persons were "known to us" through records, and 7,000 of them "are receiving some form of care or direct service."

The committee's Senate chairman, Nicholas A. Lange, R-West Hartford, asked Thorne to meet again with the committee and explain "what your targets are for reaching that figure which is not being served."

Several witnesses praised the state's policy of reducing the population of inmates at the training schools in Mansfield and Southbury and making a maximum use of community oriented programs for the less seriously mentally retarded.

The Appropriations Committee postponed until later this month its hearing on the budget of the State Department of Health. Mental Health Commissioner Ernest A. Shephard is expected to ask for more money to keep the accreditation of the three state mental hospitals.

Several state employees' organizations turned up at the legislature's Public Personnel Committee hearing Friday to ask for more money.

The employees groups testified in favor of a bill that would give all state workers except the commissioners and their deputies a $20 a week raise.

"The spiraling cost of living and tax increases affect the lower end of the scale," said Michael Ferrucci of Council 16, AFL-CIO. "This is why it's better than a percentage increase."

A number of labor leaders repeated criticism of raises granted recently to several commissioners.

Mini Page Quiz-a-roo: Who Runs Our Postal Service?

In 1971, the U.S. Post Office changed its name to the U.S. Postal Service. It became an independent agency of the government. Before that time, Congress had named postmasters, set postal rates and fixed salaries. Today, the Postal Service is run by a Board of Governors made up of 11 members. Nine of these members are named by the President. These nine members pick the Postmaster General and his deputy.

The Postmaster General is E. T. (Ted) Klaassen. He runs the daily operation of the mails. Klaassen was president of a very big company before he joined the Service. His job has been to help reorganize the Postal Service.

Rockville Pays Tribute To Col. North

ALICE EVANS (Herald Reporter)
Rockville honored one of its native sons, Col. Kenneth North, a prisoner of war for over six years, Sunday afternoon with the dedication and planting of a Freedom Tree. Appropriately enough, Col. North was released by the North Vietnamese on Sunday and arrived at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines at about the same time as the ceremony took place.
The North Vietnam Support Group at the Stakes School auditorium. Col. North's wife, Carol, who lives in Walling, Mass., planned to attend yesterday's ceremonies, but stayed at home awaiting a telephone call from her husband.
However, the colonel's mother, Mrs. Florence North of Westford, and his sister, Mrs. Patricia Lamonic, and brother, Bob North, both of Westford, were on hand to help with the planting of the Freedom Tree in Center Park.
Among the vast crowd of spectators, were North Vietnam veterans, including a kindergarten teacher, Miss Marjorie Stephens, who said she came to the ceremony because "his is one of the nicest boys I ever had in school."
Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of the Vernon school system, spoke briefly about North's Rockville school days.
Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, who is POW bracketed with Col. North's name, was represented at the ceremony by Adj. Gen. John F. Freund.
Other dignitaries included Congressman Robert Steele, State Sen. Thomas Carruthers, State Representatives, Rosario T. Vella and Peter Locke, and Col. Vincent E. McGovern, commander of the 9th Combat Support Group at Westover AFB, Mass.
Also Army Lt. Col. Robert Webb, Navy Cmdr. Donald Brookhouser, Marine S. Sgt. Arthur Avedisian and John F. Freund, executive director of YVVA, were present.

Killian Offers Bus Solution

Mayor Frank J. McCoy, left, and other officials at a meeting of the Greater Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, to discuss a seven-point program for immediate action to restore bus service.

Dual-Level Subsidy Planned To Protect State, Districts

BRIDGEPORT — Attorney Gen. Robert K. Killian called today for a "cease-fire" in the case of hostilities in the political warfare" which has paralyzed bus transportation in the state.
Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Greater Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce, Killian outlined a seven-point program for immediate action to restore bus service.
"Any effective solution to the bus crisis," Killian said, "must assure our towns and cities of a level of bus service which truly meets the needs of the state and the state's taxpayers from paying the cost of non-essential bus service. It would make local authority responsible for the cost of service above and beyond the level of essential service. He said he has submitted the program to the governor, the legislative leaders and the report to the Connecticut Conference of Mayors.
"Not one more day should be permitted to dawn," Killian said, "without hope of a solution to this long and bitter and, above all, senseless denial of an essential public service."
Killian, a Democrat considered one of the leading contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.
Gov. Thomas Meskill, a Republican, has been opposed to a state-level subsidy for restoring and maintaining bus service and making the cities belonging to transit districts have voted objections to a subsidy on a district level.
The legislature has authorized a one cent per gallon gasoline tax to districts wishing to subsidize bus service and the state would fund service until the tax could be implemented, however, cities and towns have pushed for a one-cent portion of the existing gasoline tax and the legislature reportedly is lukewarm to the idea.

Mayors Decide To Walk Softly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sensing possible change of heart by the Nixon administration, the nation's municipal leaders have taken a conciliatory approach to the fiscal showdown between the federal and local governments.
The National League of Cities bowed Sunday to try to talk President Nixon out of money needed for local programs but to avoid a head-on confrontation.
"We must recognize the President is in a very strong position on the question of federal domestic spending and that sustained unanimity by the congress against him is not very likely," the board said in its policy statement.
"We may very well fight our particular issues in the Congress and with the executive but a declaration of the question of the federal domestic spending and that sustained unanimity by the congress against him is not very likely," the board said in its policy statement.

Reds Boycotting Joint Session

SAIGON (AP) — The Communists announced today they would boycott sessions of the four-party Joint Military Commission until the Saigon government increases the number of prisoners of war to be released in the second phase of exchanges.
American officials said the announcement by North Vietnam and Viet Cong today surprised them by surprise. They warned that the prisoner release schedule is already one week behind.
The Communists claimed Saigon reduced by about half the number of military prisoners it was to release as part of the second phase of the POW exchange schedule drawn up by the Vietnam peace accord.
The South Vietnamese said they would release 3,000 prisoners over to the Communists, but Hanoi and the Viet Cong said that figure, which includes 7,000.
The Justice Department proposed late Sunday that the 200 Indians who invaded Cambodia be released, but with no threat of arrest beginning at 10 a.m. EST today.

Federal officials said a grand jury investigation at a later date would determine if charges were warranted.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Viet Cong released 34 more prisoners in Hanoi today, including the only foreign woman held by the Communists, and a U.S. Air Force hospital plane brought them to Clark Air Base for a presidential welcome.

Contract Awarded For Cooper Hill Renovation Work

C.H. Nickerson and Co., Inc. of Torrington won a bid for $14,200 to be awarded the contract for reconstruction and renovations at the Cooper Hill water treatment plant, according to an announcement by Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, yesterday.
Groundbreaking ceremonies are set for March 12, and if work proceeds on schedule, it should be completed by late this year.
The Nickerson Co. bid is about $64,000 higher than the $50,000 voted for the project in a Nov. 7 referendum. The 14 other bids received ranged from $25,000 to $77,307.
Bids were opened Jan. 12 and since that time they have been studied by town officials until the decision was made.
According to Weiss, who met with the contractors, several terms are being further reviewed to reduce the costs.
Among these are a change from turbine to diesel engine; the elimination of automatic starting in the event of a power outage; and further definite responses over the weekend would stimulate interest on the part of the bus operator.
