

Tri-Towners Lack Spark In Comedy

JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter)

The Tri-Town Players made another valiant effort last night for the second performance of their first season. The Players presented William F. Brown's "The Girl in the Freudian Slip." The two-act comedy directed by Bea Paul was sophisticated fare, but it lacked sophistication. This new group is obviously suffering growing pains in becoming established. One must praise the efforts of the rank amateur, for every experienced actor at one time started his career on the bottom rung of the ladder. But it's frustrating to watch the inexperienced actor, all the time wishing you could push him into his roles with a little more assurance.

It wouldn't be fair to say that Mariella Luginbuhl does not have any potential as an actress. This is her first appearance before the footlights. A lead role the first time around is not demanding. One usually breaks in gradually with lesser roles. But as an attractive and gives the part of Paula Maughan a distinct physical charm.

Teri MacGranor, another charmer, is much better remembered for her recent role with Little Theatre of Manchester in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie." As Barbara Leonard, she is too young and immature to be convincing as the seductress of her psychiatrist.

However, the really bright spot among the female cast is Linda Clapham. Perhaps it's because she rarely has a supporting role in this case, I can assume the role of the teen-age daughter of a psychiatrist, for she is a student at Manchester High School. She has appeared in school and youth group plays in the area and, I dare say, will be seen again.

The three men in the play are well cast and credit is due them for their fine performances. The Players were fortunate to find someone with the background of Daniel Lutz to play the major role of Dr. Dewey Maughan, the psychiatrist who is the frequent subject of his daughter's psychoanalysis.

The doctor's patient, Mr. Weinman, is beautifully amusingly created by William Rollins. He is as much at home on the stage as he is on TV where he occasionally appears. Rollins' role as the psycho, who pours out all his frustrations on the psychiatrist's couch, is complete as he assumes the fetal position whenever he finds he can't cope with his problems.

Another good performance was turned in by Jim Hutchinson as Dr. Alvin, the consulting psychiatrist. He, too, has chalked up acting credits with most of the area theater groups. He has a refreshing exuberance which creeps into his lines at times, and reminds you of a comedy actor on the radio who goes faster and faster until you can't see the individual words. Much to his credit, he kept his words run away with him.

Although this play is class second to St. Patrick's, it just doesn't seem all that funny. What punches lines here are the comedy over the first act takes forever to establish the somewhat impossible story of the new York City psychiatrist. Dr. Maughan discovers that a psycho-drama he has written about a former patient, has been discovered by his teenage daughter. The daughter has given the play to Dr. Maughan's friend, Dr. Rice, another psychiatrist. The friend, in turn, gives the play to a literary agent who just happens to be that same former patient of Dr. Maughan's, a ring-around-the-rosy kind of plot.

The play lives up and accelerates, thank goodness, during Act Two. The stage set is fabulously designed and occupies the entire large stage. An apparent cooperative effort and determination among the staff is obvious in all the backstage assignments which are necessary requirements for any theatrical production.

"The Girl in the Freudian Slip" will play again tonight and tomorrow at Vernon Center Middle School on Fri. 8:30. Curtain time is 8:30, and tickets are available at the door.

When You Win $75,000

Chester G. Lewis Sr. of Twin Hills Dr. in Coventry can't believe it happened to him, but it did. Lewis was the big winner in yesterday's Connecticut lottery Super 75 drawing, adding $70,000 to the $5,000 prize he won earlier this month. He says he will use the money to pay off the mortgage on his home in anticipation of his retirement three years from now, and for a long hoped for trip to Spokane, Wash., to visit his wife's father. Lewis's wife, Ann, burst into tears when the winning number was announced yesterday in Meriden. The Lewises have been married for 38 years, and have 12 children and 16 grandchildren.

Odegard Says Urban Bill Will Not Pass Assembly

HOLLY GANTNER (Herald Correspondent)

At a recent meeting of the Coventry Young Republicans, State Sen. David Odegard of Manchester commented on Committee Bill 802, "An Act Creating a State Development Corporation."

"The bill in question, which would allow the State of Connecticut to override local zoning procedures and allow the State to acquire land for development, is of great concern to us all," said Odegard, who represents the fourth senatorial district, including Coventry.

"The bill, petitioned out of committee, has been drafted by the State and Urban Development Committee of the General Assembly. Because of that petition," Odegard said, "the bill has received a public hearing and will again be considered by the committee which had originally rejected its fundamental concepts. What is not clear to most people is that this bill is not a serious legislative proposal, at least for this term."

"It is very difficult for me to project what the legislature will or will not do in most cases," Odegard said. "I can state that this bill will not pass this General Assembly. After speaking with the chairman of the State and Urban Development Committee, I am fully confident that the bill will not be approved by the committee for either House or Senate action. Furthermore, I am confident that the bill could not pass a vote in the House or Senate."

Odegard added that previous conversations with Gov. Meskill indicate that he would share the same response. "My own position on the bill," said Odegard, "is that it is not a desirable bill for the local government in all of Connecticut's communities. In an ideal world, I took a strong position against the passage of an identical proposal, and I continue that precise attitude. This legislative proposal is one that should be watched, one that we should care deeply about, and one that could have a severe impact on the ability of our towns and cities to provide the kind of responsive leadership that their inhabitants desire. At the same time, a public feeling seems to have developed that their legislative is likely to pass. To put it very simply," Odegard concluded, "it will not pass."

State Senate the following question: Would you support a bill to establish an Urban Development Corporation with the power to override local zoning?"

Odegard noted that the response from Senate President Pro Tem Peter Cashman was "Absolutely not, nobody will." From Senate Majority Leader Lewis Rosen, he heard the response from Deputy Majority Leader George Gunther was to simply shrug and say, "Forget it," and from Senator Florence Finney, Deputy Majority Leader, "I would be against it."

Sniper Squad Training Soon

HARTFORD (AP) — An FBI trained six-man squad of state police will begin soon to train municipal police to handle such incidents as airplane hijackings, sniper attacks, bombings and outbreaks at the State Police Academy. St. Patrick's, director of the Connecticut Planning Commission on Criminal Administration, said Thursday.

He said the special squad of troopers, trained last year by the FBI at Quantico, Va., is designed to combat all types of various urban terrorism and that federal money was being used to finance the training.

"We intend to strengthen this squad with on-going training and special equipment so it can effectively respond to a sniper situation anywhere in the state," St. Patrick said.

Death Penalty Proposal Termed Regressive

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic spokesman said today President Nixon's call for restoration of the death penalty for certain major crimes and mandatory minimum sentences for heroin traffickers represented a long voyage into the night of the past.

Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa, who has long opposed the recommendations, called the proposal "a regression to the past."

Hughes said he for one would not support the proposal. He said the proposal was "a regression to the past."

Also required, he said, is correction of social conditions conducive to criminality, such as overcrowding, chronic unemployment, poverty, inadequate health care, and discrimination.

Yet it is these very programs that the present administration is most intent on eliminating or cutting back to the point of ineffectiveness," Hughes said.

As for Nixon's appeal to restore the death penalty for treason, sabotage and espionage, and for kidnaping and hijacking resulting in death, power to issue bonds, purchase property, contract for design and construction, and contract for management and operation of the system.

The bill would require the approval by the municipality before the authority could purchase any property for its solid waste program.

However, the authority would have the right to include in its condemnation proceedings at a fair market value, if approval is not given.

Schulz said he anticipates no problems leading to condemnation proceedings. He said all proposed plants in the tentative existing waste disposal areas, or areas already zoned for waste disposal.

"In practice," he said, "the authority would not unilaterally move its own waste to a town's approval."

He said the present plan of 23 "waste sheds" can be increased or decreased, depending on GE's final report.

"We'll know more in July," he said, in answer to a question about state purchase of Manchester's sanitary landfill area. He said the state still must give Manchester approval for planned improvements to the area, including a plan to reduce or eliminate the troublesome leachate problem, and that it still is considering issuing permits for utilizing the 110 additional acres approved for purchase Tuesday night.

He said he didn't know how soon Manchester would be considered for inclusion in the state plan, noting that priority will be given to Hartford, Bridgeport, New Haven, Norwalk, New Britain and Danbury, "which are critical and have been holding off while waiting for the state to come up with a plan."

Schulz said it could well be that if and when the state purchased Manchester's landfill area, the purchase price would take into consideration the cost of the improvements to the area, as voted in last Tuesday's referendum. The town, in other words, might be able to recover all its costs.

He said that when the state-wide system is functioning, towns would be charged a fee to drop off their waste at state-owned facilities. He said the state still must figure a burden to the towns. In fact, most towns will power to issue bonds, purchase property, contract for design and construction, and contract for management and operation of the system.

Cambodia's Lon Nol Target Of Bombs

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian air force plane piloted by what U.S. Embassy officials described as a flight school washout bombed the Presidential Palace today in an apparent attempt to assassinate President Lon Nol. One bomb crashed into the barracks on the compound and first reports said hundreds of soldiers and their dependents were killed or injured. But Lon Nol was unharmed and broadcast an appeal for calm.

The 728 trainer plane dropped three bombs and one fell into the palace compound, blasting apart the wooden barracks where palace guards and many of their families lived.

The bomb landed only 20 yards from Lon Nol's residence, which is the seat of government, but palace sources said no one in the government was injured.

Lon Nol went on national radio after the attack and appealed to the people to remain calm. No troubles were reported elsewhere in Phnom Penh or in the countryside, where government soldiers are fighting sporadically against Communist-backed rebels.

The second bomb fell a block from the compound. The third fell on the northern outskirts of the city in a sparsely populated area, U.S. Embassy officials said.

They reported that according to their reports the pilot was Capt. So Photra, who was booted out of 728 pilot training for lack of progress and when government soldiers are fighting sporadically against Communist-backed rebels.

Guarding Right to Know

Reporters serve as the eyes and ears of newspapers and of the public, whose right to know the truth is basic to our democracy.

Public officials almost always want to color and control the news. That is why there are so many public relations employees helping government to tell its side of the story or to divert attention from things it doesn't wish to become known.

Conflict is inevitable between the press which seeks to tell all the news and officialdom which often doesn't. The friction need not be unhealthy if the press is left free to probe. When newsmen are harassed in the performance of their duties, the public is the loser.

The freedom of the press and the public's right to know the facts are infringed when judges, grand juries or prosecutors harass newsmen, even to the jailing of those who refuse to reveal sources of information or to surrender unpublished data and notes.

The right of judges to assess penalties for so-called contempt of court apparently has been misused in some instances and as a result of a series of provocations, there is an effort in Congress and in some state legislatures, among them Connecticut, to provide a protective shield for newsmen.

Newsmen do not need an absolute privilege against being called upon to testify in court when they have been believed to have knowledge of facts important to the case. The constitutional bar against infringing the freedom of the press should be sufficient, if it is properly upheld. If it isn't, there should be such a public uproar that the matter would be righted.

Senator Sam Ervin, North Carolina Democrat, has been holding hearings on a bill that would grant some protection to newsmen from "fishing expeditions" and he is leaning toward a qualified privilege, not an absolute one.

"We are all dependent upon the press or information," Ervin observes. "Where it is hobbled, we all walk a more uncertain path." The best course of action in Ervin's view is for newsmen "to be as objective as humanity permits them to be, and to work against bias or irresponsibility."

A tax on freedom of the press will continue," Ervin said. "The conflict between freedom on the one hand and tyranny on the other will always go on. Ervin challenged the press to defend itself vigorously and to "convince the public of the righteousness of your cause."

The public should realize it is their right the press is defending. Our democracy depends upon an informed public.

Amendment in Trouble

WASHINGTON — Those professional females in the forefront of the fight for what they call "women's rights" are more paranoid than usual this year. It seems the so-called Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution is in trouble. As of now, 11 states have voted down ERA and it takes only 13 to kill the amendment. With passage highly unlikely in four other states, the matter remains in what I would call a lousy if it were not for the word's feminine connotations. They are ranging far and wide, beating on terrified politicians, exhorting nice girls to join the crusade and threatening to punch President Nixon in the face if ERA fails to pass.

In this frantic situation, I am reassured by the reaction of Nevada's only woman state Senator, Democrat Helen Herr, who joined the successful vetoers of ERA with the changes that women are not men. "God made us different," said Senator Herr.

I do not wish to take theological sides, but Senator Herr is on solid ground. If not allied, then somebody or something made us different, as even a femibler would be forced to admit if he took time off from talking loud and sneaked a glance at the opposite sex. Granted, some females look more like men than some men and most of these huskies could put me away in the first round, but it is not necessary to go into detail to argue that even those types possess the difference the French have always greeted with a delighted "bonjour."

I join my Gallic friends in their salute to the way things are, see-wise. Put simply, I like

Dubious Shield

By VERMONT ROYSTER

From a heretic—or maybe agnostic—is a better word—arises in the congregation the most he can hope for is charity. So we hope the good nature of my peers will include them to some degree of indulgence toward human frailty. In this case my peers are those journalistic colleagues who clamor for special laws to shield reporters from having to testify in court about the sources of their information, and their name is legion. They include the officers of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the editors of great newspapers and a long list of distinguished commentators in the newspapers and on radio and television.

The frailty is that having spent a lifetime in the press, and being devoted to its cause, we are beset by doubts as to the wisdom of these claims to special privilege and the obligations that rest on other citizens.

This is not to deny the provisions. Having maintained the Republic for some 200 years, and the freedom of the press without incident ever arising, we have recently seen much harassment of reporters by prosecutors, grand juries and judges to no visible purpose other than to discourage them from looking into dark corners. Some of the issues have been clapped into jail by irritated judges. Most of it has been no more than badgering, and as such has contributed nothing to the public polity.

Against his sort of thing there should be a protest, not a mere remedy proposed. And these suggest at least some cautions if Congress is going to try to erect a legislative shield around newsmen.

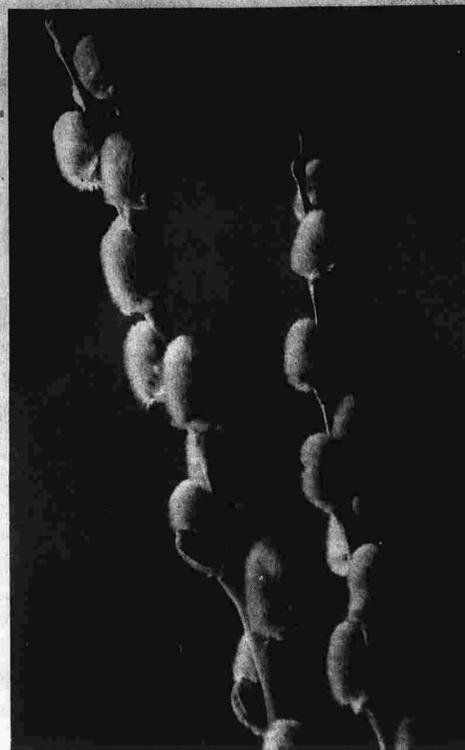

Caution number one: Whom will the law apply to? Freedom of the press, as embodied in our First Amendment, belongs to everybody, not just to reporters for The Wall Street Journal or The New York Times. It is simply a special case of the generalized freedom of speech, protected by the First Amendment, which belongs to every citizen. Thus the freedom of the press belongs to a mimeograph machine or access to a press, or even a writer in letters, for the matter. There is no licensing of newsmen; anybody who says he is one, is one.

So if this proposed law creates a blanket shield to permit any newsmen to decline to testify before grand juries or in court, then anyone—even a member of the Mafia—could hide behind it. The possibility of abuse from such a blanket privilege should be obvious.

But if the law tries to escape this dilemma by defining who is a bona-fide newsmen and so entitled to the protection of the shield, then the government is deciding who is a newsmen and who isn't. The result of this, if we have heard, is that the government would be narrowing, not enlarging, the freedom of the press. It would be tantamount to government licensing of newsmen, which is precisely what the American Society of Newspaper Editors would find abhorrent.

Caution number two: If the law gives newsmen (bona-fide or otherwise) an unlimited privilege of refusing to testify about information they may have, will that information be better administered of justice?

Connally's Arab Earful

WASHINGTON—During a 90-minute private conference with a group of Israeli officials, the center by adding moderates to the Democratic Planning Group (DPG) is trying to serve as anti-Strauss opposition within the National Committee and its commission.

Consequently, however, Burton met with Strauss, Alan Baron, a liberal-activist operative who formed and runs the DPG, and asked Burton for an appointment.

The meeting got off on the wrong foot when Baron learned that sitting in would be Joe Cerrell, a veteran party pro from Los Angeles who managed Sen. Hubert Humphrey's California primary campaign last year and arranged Burton's meeting with Strauss. Cerrell is not philosophically reliable, Baron argued. Burton insisted that Cerrell sit.

Over coffee at the Madison Hotel, Baron prompted Strauss on how to handle Strauss' California appointments; block labor leaders and other anti-McGovern Democrats from party organs; fight enlargement of the reform commissions.

But when Burton saw Strauss a half hour later, he ignored Strauss' proposals. For his part, Strauss told Burton he respects him as the party chairman in the largest state. Would Burton like more California aides to the charter commission? That, then, Strauss and Burton agreed on names.

News for Senior Citizens

by Wally Fortin

Hi there! Hain't this weather been something? Funny thing, but I'm the weather most always the start of every conversation? You meet someone on the street, you say hello, and it's a beautiful day? Or something like that there.

The big news of this past week was our highly successful Irish Nite Dinner and superb entertainment. Man, our dinners are really becoming the talk of the Center, and it's just too bad we have to limit the number because of our seating capacity. You who wait too long to decide to buy tickets sure do miss out.

Our head cook, Mr. Frank Letucca, who is also the coordinator of food services at Manchester Community College, had students prepare and serve the food. They did a terrific job in feeding over 100 persons, and we all thank them very much and congratulate them for their taking the time to do such an excellent job. The students were Craig Bessige, John Caffee, Dennis Dervin, Nancy Fleishman, Bradley French, Patrick Gaffney, Gregory Germal, Dennis Hilton, Daniel Iwanicki, Paul Kasak, Glenn Lee, Robert Pakar, Paul Richoff, Thomas Sartori, Dennis Silve, Donal St. Germain, Priscilla, Stinson and Douglas Woodhouse.

For dessert, we were pleasantly entertained by a real talented group of young girls from the Griffith School. They went all out to put on a terrific show for us, and along with their dancing we had our own Tommy, a high triple, fiddling, and Mr. Patrick Clady played the flute.

The program was really great and everyone took the lead with singing none other than Irish tunes. What else? We certainly thank everyone for making an evening an exceptionally enjoyable one, and especially these girls: Sheila Foley, Margorie Shepley, Kathryn Theodore, Mary and Margaret Farley, Patricia, Elizabeth, Ann and McGinnis, Kathleen Tierney, Nancy and Debbie O'Brien, Sarah Donnell, Melanie Columbo, Kathy Corey, Marlene and Maureen McCluskey, Sharon O'Brien, and Regina Cavagnaro.

St. Patrick's Dance

Now, here's a tip for you. Come this Thursday, March 22, we're going to have a St. Patrick's night of dancing, the live and lively tunes of Marion Stephens and her orchestra, lots of good food, and now that our lessons are over for the season, we wanted them to practice. Next Wednesday night, featuring the Rota Choir. We will be announcing the menu at a later date. Tickets will be available starting this Monday.

Last Friday night we had a fine turnout for our setback games, and although we had a slight disturbance, everything has been cleared to allow the players that it won't happen again, and a reminder that this is a social center, and we try to make it an enjoyable time for everyone, and we plan to keep it that way.

The lucky winners were: Edith Wirtz, 138; Bob Corder, 129; Lou Weber, 126; Fred Knotta, 125; Elizabeth Cone, 124; Geraldine Pilatczuk, 119; Bess Moonan, 119; Albert Gates, 119, and Jennie Foranry, 118.

games, and the lucky winners were: Robert Schubert, 679; Bess Moonan, 677; Tony Pust, 668; Harriet Keeney, 654; Belle Schors, 646; Mary Nackowski, 646; Beatrice Mader, 644; Lynn Steele, 635; Leon Falot, 630; Lee Steinmeyer, 621; Florence North, 617, and Wilbrod Messer, over the lead with 179 for the high single.

Women, Class A group, Bertha Dehring took high triple with 407, and Beatrice Corrier took the honors for the high single with 183.

Class B group, Mary Picant won the high triple with a 383, and Jennie Trivigno won the high single with 124.

I already told you about our successful Irish Nite Dinner which resulted in a busy day. Come Wednesday, we started out by stuffing a few envelopes as part of a volunteer project, and we had a nice turnout to help get the job done in a hurry. It was a job well done, while proclaiming the volunteers very much.

Practice Steps

We played a few dance rounds for our gang, because now that our lessons are over for the season, we wanted them to practice. Next Wednesday night, featuring the Rota Choir. We will be announcing the menu at a later date. Tickets will be available starting this Monday.

Wills New Face Behind Mike

BRADENTON, Fla. — One of the new faces on national television baseball coverage this year will be the familiar one to Los Angeles Dodger fans in particular. Maury Wills, the all-time major league base stealing champ.

Wills will replace Sandy Koufax on NBC's Game-of-the-Week major league telecasts. Meanwhile, the former Dodger infielder, is getting in some live practice by helping Bob Prince, voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Wills," Prince told me, "is going to be all right. He knows how to handle himself in front of a mike and of course, he knows baseball. He makes a good presentation and he doesn't freeze up. He's relaxed. Maury's had a lot of experience doing night club acts and he knows his way around. He won't have any trouble."

"Wills says he's going to be objective and an honest broadcaster. He's off to a good start. Today I asked him if he thought Junior Gilliam would be a good big league manager and he said, 'No. He isn't qualified. He was a great player but he doesn't know how to handle men.'"

Prince added, "Who has the qualifications to be the first black manager in the majors?"

Wills shot back, "Me!"

Meanwhile, Wills is happy with his new post until a managerial vacancy exists and then he'll throw his hat in the ring.

Dodgers Lead Mike Parade
Bob Prince has been in the announcing field for 32 years and is announcing the Mike parade.

UCLA made it to the regional finals with a 9-81 victory over Arizona State in the semifinals Thursday night. San Francisco moved up with a 76-67 victory over third-ranked Long Beach State.

Maryland crushed Syracuse 9-7 in the East semi and the Bruins take on the revenge-bent Dons in the finals of the West Regionals.

We are confident we can beat UCLA if we play together," says San Francisco guard Mike Kutz.

The last time they met, the Dons were buried under a Bruin blitz, 92-84.

Knicks Gain Homecourt Edge For Upcoming NBA Playoffs

Earl Yost

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Monroe, the New York Knick probably most responsible for his team's victory over Los Angeles, said simply that "the game may have meant more to us than the Lakers."

Los Angeles long ago sewed up the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division title and a spot to defend its league championship in the playoffs. But New York's 109-98 victory Friday night over the Lakers clinched the home court advantage for the Knicks over Baltimore when they met in the playoffs.

Monroe guarded Los Angeles' leading scorer, Gail Goodrich, holding him to a miserable 2-15 from the field and four points while leading New York scoring with 25.

Despite 32 points from Jerry West, the lachrymose Lakers were unable to make up for a loss of Goodrich's most nights in a Los Angeles uniform.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee overcame Chicago 99-91, Baltimore beat Boston 103-97, Seattle downed Golden State 116-106, Atlanta outlasted Phoenix 133-127, Cleveland trimmed Kansas City-Omaha 114-89, Detroit swamped Buffalo 121-100 and Portland beat Houston 141-128.

Curtis Perry, whose 20-foot shot with 31 seconds to go tied the game in regulation time, teamed with Bob Dandridge for a four-basket flurry in overtime to lead Milwaukee over Chicago, giving the Bucks a five-game margin over the Bulls with only seven games remaining in the Midwest Division battle in the Midwest Division.

Lu Hudson and Pete Maravich combined for 63 points as Atlanta best Phoenix, 114-89. Don Adams scored a career-high 38 points to lead Detroit over Buffalo.

Bingo Smith scored 21 points to spark Cleveland to its victory over Kansas City-Omaha.

Geoff Petrie equaled his career high with 31 points in Portland's rout of Houston, hitting 19 of 28 shots. Petrie's previous high also came against Houston on Jan. 20.

Spencer Haywood scored 44 points, including three consecutive baskets late in the fourth period, to give Seattle its victory over Golden State. Haywood had 35 for the game.

MORAGA, Calif. — Bruce Hale resigned as head coach at St. Mary's College and was replaced by assistant coach Frank LaPorte.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Bob Harrison was fired as head coach at Harvard.

Bullets Stop Celtics Cold

Earl Monroe Eyes Two Points

BALTIMORE (AP) — While the Celtics rationalized a 103-97 National Basketball Association defeat Friday night, the Bullets applauded themselves for their first win against Boston in five starts this season.

Celtic John Havlicek attributed Boston's loss to getting behind in the second quarter, a loss of poise, and perhaps most important, "They wanted it more than we did."

Havlicek, who chipped in with 22 points for the Celtics, indicated the Bullets' 111-107 defeat in Boston last week geared the team up psychologically to make a successful comeback.

"I might get burned one night, but look out for me the second night around," crooned Elvin Hayes, who scored 12 of his game high 29 points in the third quarter.

"We kept them off the boards, but we have to play Boston like that, and we did. Anyone you can hold the Celtics under 100 points, you're doing great."

Bullets Coach Gene Shue, in analyzing the win, said Baltimore's "defense was better and much sharper. I would like to play the Celtics every day. They make you adjust your game to them, and if you don't get back on defense, they'll run right by you."

Am. Kevin Porter chimed in with, "This gives us a psychological advantage with Boston. Now they know we're not so easy."

The Bullets outscored Boston 12-4 early in the fourth quarter to gain an 87-73 edge that the Celtics could only cut down to 99-93 by 1:48 left.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Jim Colbert birdied the last two holes. One of them with a 40 foot putt from off the green — and grabbed a share of the second-round lead with Lou Graham in the $15,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Shirley Hamlin shot a four-under-par 68 to take the first-round lead by two strokes in the $25,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Orange Blossom Classic.

TOLEDO, Ohio — Norm Meyers, a St. Louis pro whose only Professional Bowlers Association crown came 10 years ago, came up with seven triumphs in his eight match games to reclaim first place in the $80,000 Ebonite Open tournament.

WEST VIRGINIA — Pat Melton 177-55, Marge Picano 180, Debbie Price 211, Argo Betty Richardson 198-40, Terry Cardille 225-180-54, Dottie Whitehead 486, Bev Lappes 450.

Carolina In Slump

"Carolina has a great ball club. They've had a great year, but now they're in a slump," said George Irvine after his Virginia Squires handed the Cougars their fourth American Basketball Association defeat in a row 123-118, Friday night.

The Squires forward scored 26 points to add to Julius Irving's game high 28 points.

In other ABA action, Indiana beat the New York Nets 96-80 and San Diego defeated Dallas 113-107.

Carolina, the East Division leader, trailed 69-54 at halftime, then took the lead 82-85 late in the third period only to fall behind 91-87 for the start of the first quarter.

When either parent purchases a ticket at full price they may then buy tickets for the remaining members of their family at half-price.

This is the final 'Family Night' of the year.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Football League have sought assurances from Yale University that if the team negotiates a lease for Yale Bowl over the next two seasons it could obtain an option for a third season.

The Giants, in search of a place to play 12 home games for the next two years while their own new stadium is built in New Jersey, have been negotiating to use Yale Bowl for five games this year and the seven games during the 1974 season.

However, the possibility that the Giants' New Jersey facility might not be ready in time for the 1975 season has come up in talks with Yale officials. This was confirmed Friday by Yale football coach and acting athletic director Carmen Cozza in an interview with Joel Alderman of NBC's New Haven.

"The stadium should be ready in two years, but you never know," Cozza said. "The pressure from New Jersey officials to seriously consider relocating in Princeton Stadium, a facility somewhat north of the stadium, is about equally distant from New York."

The NFL team will play its first two home games at Yale Stadium before the facility is closed for renovations.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES — Vancouver 4, Los Angeles 2, Pittsburgh 5, California 5, Boston 5, Detroit 4.

Only games scheduled today: Chicago at Montreal, New York Rangers at Toronto, St. Louis at New York.

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh's Steve Yast, who has been in the lineup for the past three games, scored two goals and assisted on another in a 3-1 victory over the Bruins.

Yast's goals came in the first and third periods. The Bruins' only goal was scored by Doug Reed in the second period.

The Detroit-born former Red Wings forward played a role in a nationally televised National Hockey League game as he helped the Bruins to a 5-4 victory in a nationally televised National Hockey League game.

Yanks Offer DiMaggio Post, Lyle Inks Pact for $75,000

Giants Negotiate Option Third Campaign Asked By Giants

Another Yankee, relief ace Sparky Lyle, ended his holdout for an estimated $75,000 and promptly went out and threw hard for 15 minutes in the bullpen.

"I'm happy," said the lefthanded bullpen star who posted a 9-5 record, 1.92 earned run average and American League record 35 saves last season.

The rest of Friday's news wasn't so pleasant for the Yanks. The Texas Rangers tagged Steve Nunez and Casey Carter for five runs apiece, lashed out 16 hits, including a threerun homer by Tom Grubbs, and romped to a 10-3 exhibition victory.

Elsewhere, Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds, hit a sacrifice fly in the 11th to give the Reds a 5-4 exhibition baseball win over the Boston Red Sox.

Thursday, his ninth-inning homer proved a one-run victory over Pittsburgh.

The Montreal Expos erupted for seven runs in the seventh inning to roar from behind and defeat the Houston Astros 8-5.

The San Francisco Giants turned two San Diego throwing errors into a pair of 10th-inning runs and beat the Padres 5-3.

The St. Louis Cardinals suffered a double setback. Mike Ryan slammed a three-run homer and a run-producing single as the Philadelphia Phillies beat one team of Cardinals 11-5 while Tony Mauer drove in three runs and Eddie Fisher pitched five shutout innings to pace the Chicago White Sox past another St. Louis group 5-2.

The Montreal Expos erupted for seven runs in the seventh inning to roar from behind and defeat the Houston Astros 8-5.

The Detroit Tigers scored three runs in the seventh inning, two unearned, to defeat the Kansas City Royals 6-6.

Richie Zisk slammed a threerun homer off Dave McNally as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored five times in the first inning and trounced the Baltimore Orioles 7-1.

California's Nolan Ryan widened his lead over Milwaukee runner across and German Thomas drilled a home run as the Braves blanked the Angels 2-0 on the six-hit pitching of Jim Stinton, Billy Champion and Carlos Velazquez.

Bill Buckner, tripled, singled and drove in two runs to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Ted Martinez singled home one run and scored another in pacing the New York Mets over the Atlanta Braves 2-1.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Duane Josephson, whose baseball career was feared ended because of a heart condition last year, is healthy again and proving it in decisive fashion with the Boston Red Sox.

Jose caught nine innings under a broiling sun Friday in 11 innings before a 2-301 fans at Chain 'O' Lakes Park.

"I feel great," the 30-year-old catcher said. "Sure, I'm a little tired now, but I'm in terrific shape. It was hot, but you get used to that. You don't let a little weather bother you in this game."

Josephson began last season as Boston's No. 1 catcher. However, he suffered a pulled groin muscle during the first week and lost the job to Carlton Fisk, who went on to become the American League's rookie of the year. Later, Josephson was stricken with the heart condition which sapped his energy.

"Things didn't look good for a while last year," Josephson said. "However, I was given a clean bill of health by the doctors during the winter. Now I'm looking forward to a big year."

Jose has been a pleasant surprise. He is swinging a first base bat for the next three before veteran Bob Veale came in and was tagged with the loss.

Veale got through the 10th, but then was the victim of a single, a broken bat double and a sacrifice fly.

The Red Sox collected 11 hits off four Cincinnati pitchers, but left 11 runners on base. They capitalized on four errors, scored an unearned run in the seventh and then tying the game with three tallies, only one earned, in the eighth.

Agast, Cincinnati's 1972 National League champion, Josie had a pair of line singles. He also reached first base on errors in his other two times at bat.

In six exhibition games, the rugged receiver who would stand in the way of a freight train, meant a

Robinson Breaks Tape Enabling the U.S. Team To Defeat the Powerful Russian Females by Three Points

U.S. Girls Triumph, Russian True Champ

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A cool little 14-year-old girl and her women teammates tried valiantly, but it was too little too late as the Russians defeated the feisty U.S. girls 3-1 in the final of the 1973 World Women's Figure Skating Championships.

The women had 11 all-around dual track meet.

Robin Campbell, an eight-year-old from Washington, D.C., sped to victory in the 880 and anchored the winning women's medley relay team to give the American women a 6-2 victory Friday night, but it wasn't enough to offset the 84-76 margin by the Russian men.

The high point for the men came when Herb Washington and Vory Crockett blasted past the Olympic gold medalist Valery Borzov in the last 15 yards and won the top two spots in the 60-yard dash.

Fred Newhouse of Seattle, Wash., and Wes Williams of San Diego, Calif., swept the 400-yard relay and John Craft of Chicago, Ill., outleaped twotime Olympic gold medalist Viktor Sanyev by 1/4 inch in the trike jump in other highlights for the American men.

The men's squad had been riddled by defections because of the dispute between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association over certification of the meet. The meet was sponsored by AAU, but the NCAA refused to sanction it.

More POWs En Route To Homes

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Sixty happy American prisoners of war left Clark Air Base for home today, and plans were being made for the departure of more on Sunday and Monday.

Three evacuation flights, carrying a total of 57 men, were scheduled to leave Sunday for Andrews Air Force Base, Md.; Scott Air Force Base, Ill.; and Travis Air Force Base, Calif. All will make refueling stops at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The POWs who left today were from a group of 108 released by North Vietnam Wednesday. They included Navy Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, 36, son of Adm. John S. McCain Jr., former commander-in-chief of U.S. Pacific Forces who directed the war in Vietnam. McCain, whose wife Carol lives in Orange Park, Fla., flew to Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Bobby Joe Keesee, a civilian accused of having hijacked a small chartered plane from Thailand to North Vietnam in 1970, was aboard another flight bound for March Air Force Base, Calif.

In Bangkok, the owners of the company that chartered the plane to Keesee said they will petition the U.S. Embassy to extradite Keesee to Thailand to stand trial on hijacking charges. U.S. officials at Clark said there have been no instructions to arrest Keesee, and he will be treated like all other returnees.

Keesee of Phoenix, Ariz., ducked welcoming on his arrival Wednesday by exiting from a rear door of an evacuation plane into a bus. He was cheered on his departure when he kissed the American flag held by a color guard before boarding a C141 StarLifter for March Air Base.

She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Mahoney Charges GOP Slows Bill-Drafting

"Republican bragging about the new legislative procedures in the General Assembly is pure public relations eyewash," Rep. Francis J. Mahoney said today.

Mahoney, a Democrat, represents District 13 in Manchester.

"The way the GOP has been running things, the legislature has achieved inefficiency and clamped the lid on public hearings at one and the same time," Mahoney said.

"This year, hearings have been held on 'bills' which were nothing more than vague ideas expressed in one or two sentences," he said. "The bill-drafting procedure has been slowed down. Committees, all of them controlled by the Republicans, try to keep hearings from being held on the Democratic bills, and then the GOP objects when the Democrats petition to force hearings to be held.

"If the Republicans had been able to make the legislative process more efficient, we could all feel we were getting some benefit, at least, from the tighter committee control," Mahoney said. "But the process is more inefficient than ever. This is common knowledge among experienced legislators at the State Capitol.

"We are all concerned about the legislative process. There is sincere desire on both sides of the political aisle to make it work better for the benefit of all the people of Connecticut. But the recent claims of Senate President Pro Tempore Peter L. Cashman before the Rockville Rotarians about the alleged improvements in the process are public relations eyewash with a strong dash of wishful thinking. A former public relations man himself, Sen. Cashman has tried to give a glossy image to a process which has plenty of rough edges.

"The Legislative Bulletin lists under the heading of Public Hearings 'Statement of Purpose Bills,' some with a bill number and many with no bill numbers, and this is what the public are asked to speak to. There is absolutely no guarantee that the so-called 'bills,' after being cleared by the committee for drafting, will reflect the same substance that was presented to the public. It is important to understand that such a bill will also carry an altogether different number," Mahoney said.

"It should be noted," he said, "that as of March 16th, 2,142 Senate 'Statement of Purpose Bills' have been filed, together with 3,995 House bills; that totals 6,137 bills.

"The same Legislative Commissioners had to prepare the 'Statement of Purpose Bills' and are still doing so," he said. "The same Legislative Commissioners will be the same ones to produce the bills in their final form.

"This is a great task and I firmly believe that in the Republican's anxiety to meet an almost impossible date for adjournment in mid-May, the only legislation that will emerge will be Administration bills. Many Republican bills will be lost, as well as Democratic bills.

"Out of the great number of bills submitted to the legislature, there has been very little action taken. Since the session started on Jan. 3rd, the bills passed were mostly bills contained on the consent calendar. These are noncontroversial bills that pass with no debate or Roll Call.

"It is about time the people were told the truth about the legislative process, and it is my intention to let the people in my district know," Mahoney said.

Manet Painting Among Children's Favorite Art

At the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

"Gare Saint-Lazare" by Edouard Manet (Ay-doo-WAHR Mah-NAY)

"Gare" is the French word for railway station. Saint-Lazare is the name of a station in Paris. If you will look beyond the fence you will see the railroad tracks and the smoke left by a passing train. This is a scene that you might see in everyday life. See the puppy asleep in the woman's lap. See the grapes on the bench. Manet, who painted in the second half of the 19th century, influenced modern painting because he painted in a new way that left out the details in real-life scenes. He lived from 1832 to 1883.

GARE SAINT-LAZARE, by Edouard Manet, from the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C. Gift of Horace Havemeyer in memory of his mother, Louisine W. Havemeyer.

"The Lackawanna Valley" by George Inness

George Inness was a famous American landscape painter who lived from 1825 to 1894. "Lackawanna Valley" was painted as an advertisement for a railroad company. This painting shows Scranton, Pennsylvania when it was a small town in the middle 1800's. It sets the mood of a lazy afternoon.

Where would you like to be if you could be a part of the scene?

THE LACKAWANNA VALLEY, by George Inness, from the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C. Gift of Mrs. Huttleston Rogers.

"Watson and the Shark" by John Singleton Copley

Copley was an American painter who fled to England during the time of The Revolutionary War. He painted this picture in London. It is a painting of something that really happened. Brook Watson was attacked by a shark when he was swimming in the harbor in Havana, Cuba. Watson later became the Mayor of London. Copley lived from 1738 to 1815.

A museum guide shows a student one of the paintings from the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh. "The Fisherboy" is by the famous Dutch painter, Frans Hals.

Super Artist: Rembrandt

Rembrandt was a famous Dutch artist who lived from 1606 to 1669. He painted many things, including everyday scenes, Bible scenes and landscapes. He painted many portraits of himself. The one at the right was painted in 1660, just nine years before his death. Many of Rembrandt's paintings are being questioned by people who know art. They are saying that some are not by this master, but by lesser known artists. At one time Rembrandt was wealthy, but he spent too much money and had to sell everything he owned a few years before his death.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Bequest of Benjamin Altman, 1913.

Questions You Might Ask When Looking At a Picture

Theme: Do you think the artist painted something he had actually seen or read about?

Colors: What kind of mood do the colors suggest? Did the artist use color to call attention to the most important things in the picture?

Shapes: Can you find certain shapes over and over again in the picture?

Balance and Composition: Are the objects evenly placed or are there more things in the center? How did the artist arrange things to call attention to the most important part (or focal part) of the picture?

Light: Can you tell what kind of day it is in the outdoor scenes? Even though you cannot see the sun or moon, can you tell the direction of the light? Did the artist use stronger light on the most important figures and objects?

"The Weaning of The Calf" by Winslow Homer. This painting is a favorite of children. Homer was an American painter who lived from 1836 to 1910. He was interested in nature. He also liked to paint children. This painting is from the North Carolina Museum of Art collection.

The Museum for the Blind at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh was opened in 1966. It is the first gallery to offer a permanent collection of objects that the handicapped can handle and "see" through feeling.

A Touch Gallery Offers a Chance to See Through Feeling

"Please Touch" is the rule in the Mary Duke Biddle Gallery for the Blind at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh. The gallery was opened in 1966 and is the first of its kind in that it offers a permanent collection of objects that can be examined and "seen" through the fingertips.

The gallery has been popular with people who can see as well as with people who cannot. For children, it serves as an exciting introduction to the world of art. Since most museums have "Do Not Touch" rules, this museum is fun because we are able to feel objects of art. Adults, too, enjoy a chance to handle art, since this opportunity is usually denied them.

Cord Is Ready for TV

Susan Strasberg stars in "TOMA," ABC's Wednesday (March 21) movie at 8:30 p.m.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA)—Human nature being what it is, Alex Cord is currently trying to find a TV series after turning them down for many years.

Maybe "Genesis II" will do it for him. A pilot-movie by that title will be aired by CBS in March—the tentative date is March 23—and the network is pretty high on it. It's the new one from Gene Rodenberry, the man who created Star Trek.

Cord says that for 10 years or so they were pounding on his door to get him to do a series. He turned them down flat. But, like most movie actors, he has become disenchanted with the motion picture situation—"the business is falling apart"—and so, for the last two years, he has been looking for a series to do.

"I remember being with Mike Connors when we were both in 'Stagecoach,'" Cord says. "He got the offer to do Mannix then. I wondered why he took it. He said it was because of the money.

"At the time, if I had gotten that same offer I would have turned it down. But, in retrospect, I was wrong. I think now it would have been smarter to take it and Mike made the right move. He doesn't have to work for the rest of his life—and where am I?"

If "Genesis II" has anything of Star Trek's class he may be on the threshold of something good. It's a story of a scientist of today who is caught underground while working on suspended animation. When he's rescued he finds it is 155 years later and he's in a world wrecked by nuclear wars.

Although Cord has never been a science fiction fan he thinks the series has possibilities.

"There's so much interest in science fiction today," he says. "Look how our world has advanced in my own lifetime. I can remember when milk was delivered by a horse-drawn wagon and I've seen men go to the Moon. All in one generation."

Connecticut Gov. Thomas Meskill, honorary chairman of Connecticut Public Television's "Auction '73," has given six pewter mugs as a lead-off donation in the auction effort. The auction is a major fund-raising event for the statewide non-commercial network, and will air May 4 through 12.
