Nixon To Address Nation At 9 Tonight

Top White House Aides Quit Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today the resignations of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and three key White House aides.

Nixon named Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson to be acting attorney general and top coordinator of all federal investigations of the Watergate conspiracy.

Resigning from the White House staff were chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, domestic policy assistant John D. Ehrlichman and presidential counsel John Dean III.

After making these announcements, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has asked for nationwide radio and television time to talk to the nation on the Watergate case at 9 p.m. EDT.

Nixon said in a statement that Kleindienst "asked to be relieved as attorney general because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Saying he would nominate Richardson as attorney general, Nixon said that pending Senate action to confirm his choice, "I have asked him to involve himself immediately in the investigative process surrounding the Watergate matter."

He went on: "As attorney general, Mr. Richardson will assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this matter and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. He will have total support from me in getting this job done."

The Watergate case stemmed from the break-in and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex here last summer. It has widened into broader charges of political espionage.

The President drew a distinction in describing the resignations of Ehrlichman and Haldeman—"two of my closest friends and trusted assistants in the White House"—and that of White House counsel Dean.

Nixon said he had "today requested and accepted" Dean's resignation but made no reference to having forced the departure of Ehrlichman and Haldeman. In fact his statement suggested they had initiated the step. He said: "I know that their decision to resign was difficult; my decision to accept it was difficult; but I respect and appreciate the attitude that led them to it."

Effective immediately,

Nixon said, special consultant Leonard Garment will "take on additional duties as counsel to the President and will continue acting in this capacity until a permanent successor to Mr. Dean is named."

The chief executive said Garment "will represent the White House in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Ziegler said Haldeman and Ehrlichman had asked to confer with Nixon at Camp David, where the President has been since Friday evening, and met with him there Sunday afternoon.

The press secretary said Kleindienst and Garment also met with Nixon at Camp David on Sunday.

In discussing the departures of Ehrlichman and Haldeman, Nixon said: "I emphasize that neither the submission nor the acceptance of their resignations at this time should be seen by anyone as evidence of any wrongdoing by either one. Such an assumption would be both unfair and unfounded."

"Throughout our association each of these men has demonstrated a spirit of selflessness and dedication that I have seldom seen equalled. Their contributions to the work of this administration have been enormous. I greatly regret their departure."

Speaking of Kleindienst, Nixon said the former attorney general "acted in accordance with the highest standards of public service and legal ethics." He said, "I am accepting his resignation with regret and with deep appreciation for his dedicated service to this administration."

The 52-year-old Richardson, once a law clerk to the late Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, served as U.S. attorney for Massachusetts and as that state's elected attorney general.

He had moved to the Pentagon just a few weeks ago after serving as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In his letter of resignation, Kleindienst said he acted "with deep regret and after long and searching thought."

He told Nixon that Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen and two other Justice Department officials including Watergate prosecutor Earl J. Silbert made disclosures to him on April 15 that "dictate this decision at this time."

South Windsor Youth Wins Top Art Show Award

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

James Kenway, a senior at South Windsor High School, received the Manchester Evening Herald best-of-show award at the 30th annual Spring exhibit of the Manchester Art Association Sunday at Center Congregational Church.

Kenway, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kenway of 229 Oak St., South Windsor, won the top prize for his painting of "Two Trees." This is the first year the association has admitted junior members to the organization.

Kenway comes by his talent naturally as his mother is a member of the association and served it as vice president. She has won prizes in other shows but took a back seat to her son in this year's competition.

Young Kenway's talents do not end with paintings; he is also an accomplished musician. He plays clarinet in the All State Band and is concert master for the high school band as well as having served in the same capacity with the Central-Northwest Concert Band. He plans to attend the Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts next year.

Kenway also took first place in the landscape category for the same painting and was presented with the Hartford Framing Company Award and second place in the Still Life category for his painting titled "Spring Garden," and won the Paul Paint and Wallpaper Award.

Other winners in the Landscape group were Judith Agasi, "The Harbor," Robert Simons Award, and Barbara Croff won an honorable mention for "Winter Shadows."

Mildred Denley won the first place Sherwin Williams Award for her still life, "Flower Fantasy," and Kay Adam honorable mention for "Delight."

In the Seascape category, Viola Sobol was first place winner with "Moods." She received the Crafting Manufacturing Co. Award. Shirley Codraro took the second place Stuart Cheney award for "Surfer's Paradise." Ann Freiman won honorable mention for "Beavertail, R. I."

In the Modern, Abstract, Impressionistic group, Isabel Compasso took first prize for her work "Untitled." She won the E. A. Johnson Co. award.

Kay Adams took second prize, the Walter Van Arsdale award, for "Original Design." Honorable mention went to Judith Agasi for "Fall Day."

In the portrait category, no first or second prizes were awarded but Jeanne Pico took an honorable mention.

Awards in the sculpture, graphic, craft category went to John E. Foley who took first and second prizes, Manchester Wallpaper and Paint Co. and Manchester Art Association awards. In Class B, the awards went to Mary B. Daly who won the Permanent Pigments award, and to Theodore Prouse who won the Manchester Art Association award. Honorable mention went to Mary Daly.

Judges for the show, were Richard Doyle, a Springfield artist, teacher and owner Golden Gallery; and Chien Fei Chiang who is also an artist and teacher who has a studio in Meriden. Chiang is a native of China.

Flooding Passes Peak

By The Associated Press Major sandbagging efforts on levees along the Mississippi River north of the St. Louis area have halted to the first time in days as the mighty river began "flattening out" along southeastern Missouri and cresting southward.

More than 10 million acres of land, much of it prime farmland, remained under water along the Mississippi's 1,500 mile route and thousands of families were left homeless.

Repulse Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—The Cambodian government reported today that it retook a stretch of the Mekong River bank across from Phnom Penh and killed 52 insurgents in repulsing an attack 40 miles north of Angkor Wat, in the northwest part of the country.

The Cambodian command also reported its troops took the offensive against the insurgents at two other points south of the capital and beat back an attack at a third point.

Libya Closes Borders

ROME (AP)—The Libyan government has in effect closed its borders to all foreigners except those from Arab countries, an official at the Libyan Embassy said today.

Only foreigners carrying passports written exclusively in Arabic would be allowed to enter the country, he said.

Maine Floods

By The Associated Press The St. John and St. Croix rivers in northern Maine overflowed their banks late Sunday, causing evacuations at Fort Kent and in the village of Woodland on the St. Croix.

Candy Lizotte, director of civil defense at Fort Kent, said about 75 families were evacuated from their homes before Sunday midnight.

At Woodland, observers said about 1,000 persons in the town of 2,500 evacuated their homes in the low sections and were staying in the town office and other public buildings.

Controls May Die

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wage-price controls die at midnight unless Congress agrees today on a compromise bill to extend presidential authority to regulate the economy.

If that authority is to be renewed for one year, both houses must act on the controls bill. But the Senate-floor route has been blocked by maneuvering over a postcard-voter-registration bill.

Kissinger To Visit In Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger will go to Moscow May 4 for discussions with Soviet leaders on a variety of matters, including the scheduled U.S. visit of Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev, it was learned today.

There were no immediate details of the Kissinger trip but it was expected he will be involved in preparations for the summit meeting of Nixon and Brezhnev. The date of the Soviet leader's visit has not been announced but it is expected to take place around June.

Nixon and Brezhnev last met during the Moscow summit in May a year ago. Kissinger was last in the Soviet capital in September 10-14, 1972 on a follow-up of that Soviet summit meeting.

The national security adviser will be departing sometime later this week and is due to arrive in the Soviet capital on May 4. White House sources said.

MANPEX Draws Many Spectators

MANPEX '73, the Manchester Philatelic Society's 13th annual stamp exhibition, drew about 2,500 persons to Manchester High School Sunday. More than 100 frames were on display.

The exhibition, which ran from noon to 6 p.m., featured a dealer bourse as well as philatelic sales counters of the United Nations and the U.S. Postal Service.

An exhibit of the 1853 issue of France, which included essays, proofs, stamps, cancellations, and covers, won the "Best of Show" and the Orin Maxim Memorial awards.

The Marcus White Award for the best exhibit of postal stationery went to an exhibit of free mail of presidents and presidents' wives. The exhibit featured franked covers.

The best junior exhibit, by 12-year-old Julie Munson of Enfield, won the Fred Deming Memorial Award. Her exhibit was a selection of First Day Covers.

The MANPEX awards, for the first time, were medals of gold, silver, and bronze which were struck from dies prepared for the local philatelic society. The hexagonal medal depicts the 1923 five-dollar U.S. stamp and the head of the Statue of Freedom atop the U.S. Capitol.

In the MANPEX '73 program, Philatelic Society President Richard Steele noted that 1973 is the centennial of the first U.S. postal card, which was printed on card stock manufactured in Manchester by the Hudson and Cheney Paper Co.

Tax-Reform Plan Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration today unveiled a tax-reform program that would tighten loopholes to "remove the spectacle of high income taxpayers who pay no tax by parlaying tax deductions and exclusions."

One proposal would establish a minimum taxable income. Another would limit what the administration called "artificial accounting losses."

The package also would provide property-tax relief for the elderly, an investment tax credit for oil and gas exploration to meet the energy crisis, and a tuition credit for students in nonpublic schools.

It includes a simplified tax form called 1040 which is designed to make tax time easier for about 20 million Americans. The new form includes an over 65 credit and liberalized deductions for child care.

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz presented the administration's long-awaited tax-reform plan to the House Ways and Means Committee, which isn't expected to act on it for several months.

The administration is not asking for a general tax increase, which Shultz said is both "unnecessary and undesirable."

The government expects to gain $500 million in tax revenue by closing the two loopholes, but would lose $1.1 billion through the other changes, including $500 million on a property-tax credit for the elderly and $400 million on tax simplification.

Shultz told the committee the tax-reform measures are designed to "collect a reasonable amount of income taxes from those citizens who are not now paying a fair share of the tax burden."

The "widespread tax-shelter market introduces significant distortions into our economy," Shultz said. It also has "a dangerously demoralizing effect on the operation of our revenue system."

The minimum-taxable-income proposal would prevent a taxpayer's exclusions and deductions from offsetting more than one-half of his income. Thus, he would have to pay taxes on at least half his revenues.

Shultz said the great majority of high-income persons are responsible taxpayers, but "taxpayers who have large income and pay little or no tax do exist in limited, but significant, numbers."

The limitation on artificial accounting losses is designed to eliminate the practice of using losses from one business activity to offset earnings of another.

Shultz said that, if Congress approves the package, losses on income-producing property henceforth could only be deducted from future earnings on the property that lost money.

Taxes And Truism

There are several political truism which are now becoming more frequent in the emanations from Hartford and Washington.

First, its tax relief. Like motherhood, there is bipartisan agreement the taxpayer is overburdened and should be given relief. It is the how and when this should be done that makes most protestations for tax relief meaningless.

The promised tax relief for the elderly and renters has been delayed for administrative reasons. What hasn't been explained to our satisfaction is that the administration at times surely acts quickly in cutting red tape or overcoming other obstacles when the administration is after something it really wants.

Second, is the truism of delaying or forestalling, if the opposition will let you, tax cuts until election years. When this can be done it obviously helps the incumbent up for reelection. But can it be really defended as good administration to build surpluses for the sake of a tax cut next year on the basis of keeping this year's tax levels higher than they really need to be?

The token sales tax cut may get the assembly and the governor off the hook for a while but it still is an obvious political ploy for next year's political battles.

We realize the state cannot cut taxes too sharply or too quickly until the federal government resolves just how it is going to handle its federal monies doled out to the states under revenue sharing or other forms of grants.

It is evident that until process is stabilized one way or the other, the state and our towns for that matter, are in a bit of a quandary for as true as it is that a tax cut is popular with the voters; a tax increase is unpopular.

Thus the town fathers and assemblymen are torn between political and practical realities which often conflict.

A cut in taxes seems in order in view of present surpluses. But once cut, it is agonizing to contemplate the prospect of restoring or raising them again, should Uncle Sugar's sweeties fail to materialize or turn out more bitter than sweet.

In this day when we see more and more inclination to use another truism called cost of living which

Outstanding Candidate

To the editor:
May 7 the election of town officers will be held in Bolton. The office of first selectman is the most important one to be decided.
This year the voters are indeed fortunate to have a real outstanding candidate, Mrs. Virginia Butterfield, running for first selectman. She is completely dedicated to the preservation of independent home rule and has consistently fought off all attempts made that would undermine Bolton's autonomy.
Virginia Butterfield is totally needed to contribute her deep understanding and knowledge in the drafting of Bolton's new charter.

As First Selectman, Virginia Butterfield will work to insure excellent educational opportunities and adequate services for Bolton people while keeping the taxpayers' problems very much in mind. Her ability to prepare and analyze budgets as well as to present clear factual information freely to the electorate will be welcome change to all.
I appeal to all my friends in Bolton, regardless of political party, to vote for Virginia Butterfield. Elect her and help yourself and the town to good government in the years ahead.
Yours truly,
Frank U. Lapin

Cut Food Cost By Squeezing Tomatoes

By LEE RODERICK (Special to The Herald)

WASHINGTON — Since tomatoes are bought by processors on the basis of weight, enterprising California growers succeeded in developing tomato strains which averaged a weight gain of 10 per cent, all of it in water content, between 1960 and 1970.
There was just one catch to the apparent improvement in productivity: 86 per cent of California's tomato crop is processed into ketchup, sauce and similar products. The first step in such processing is to remove the water.
A total of 450,000 extra tons of water were added to the 1971 California crop—and to the processor's cost—before being squeezed out and discarded. The water bill, of course, was ultimately passed on to you who.

The California water experience is one cited by staff members of a Presidential commission established in June 1970 and charged with the herculean task of guiding the way to a better life for Americans by helping bring about improved productivity in the U.S. economy.
The term "productivity" is a slippery one that has attracted increasing interest since formation of the National Commission on Productivity. Although virtually any type of production entails a combination of resources, economists usually focus on the labor ingredient in defining productivity as "real output per hour of work."

Although the U.S. economy was once the marvel of the world, it has more recently been lagging far behind other industrialized nations in productivity achievements. From 1963 to 1970, Europe's overall productivity rose 40 to 50 per cent and Japan's whopping 80 per cent. During the same time, U.S. productivity increased only 10 per cent or about 2 per cent a year.

During the past year, the Commission, working out of a suite of offices in the new Executive Office Building near the White House, has concentrated its efforts on two segments of the economy: One—the public sector, where one out of every six Americans work (50 per cent for state and local governments); and two—the food industry, which recently replaced as Commerce Secretary, continues to function as chairman of the Productivity Commission. In a recent memo,

Peterson outlined the rationale for concentrating his group's effort on food:

Food prices, rather than the Dow-Jones industrial average, constitute the barometer most Americans use to gauge the inflationary state of the U.S. economy. To succeed therefore in dampening inflationary expectations... we must succeed in alleviating persistent upward pressures on food costs.
Peterson is quick to note that agriculture has already achieved the "most remarkable" productivity growth of all American industries. But he readily concedes the economy of the challenge yet facing the nation in its quest for greater productivity in the food industry.
A recent survey conducted by the Commission's staff and a 49 member task force composed of management, labor, farm and government representatives, highlighted some opportunities for improved productivity in the industry. Some practical suggestions for improving productivity and in the process driving down food prices include:
One—Improved food packaging in transport. An orange is now handled 17 separate times from tree to table. The 8,000 most common items in grocery warehouses are packaged in 2,850 different sizes, adding to handling and shipping difficulties. In 1969, it took six and one-half days to ship Bartlett pears from Sacramento to New York by rail. It now takes between eight and one-half and eleven days.
Two—Change consumer tastes. Americans for example have shown a preference for beef from steers, which come to market weight in 24 months. Bulls, however, reach market weight in only 18 months on less feed. Beef is slightly darker and is believed to be tougher and stronger in flavor than steer ("a hollower from the survey). The Commission believes, however, that bull meat could compete favorably with other grades, and says it would like to see the production of beef production by 12 per cent a year.
Three—streamline and standardize state and federal food regulations. There are now more than 2,000 separate federal regulations applicable to food, many of which are duplicated in some way by state and local governments. Unique state laws tend to discourage out-of-state supplies seeking new markets. Consumers, again, bear the cost of lack of competition caused by such restrictive legislation.
The Productivity Commission to date has succeeded in defining—but not solving—such barriers to increased productivity in the food industry. However, as one leading staffer commented: "We are not content to just raise issues. We are committed to being catalysts for change. Our goal is to bring about increased productivity in unconventional ways if necessary."
The zeal with which the Commission is meeting the challenge of productivity is reminiscent of the poster currently in vogue in Washington. It says: "Only he who attempts the absurd can achieve the impossible."

The Lesson of Vietnam

WASHINGTON — It is a curious state of affairs that the administration should persist in ignoring the lesson of Vietnam which destroyed one President and kept Richard Nixon in hot water during most of his first term.

With the Republic reduced nearly to penury by inflation and a whopping balance of payments deficit, Nixon is determined to oppose to the end efforts by such leading Democrats as Sen. Mike Mansfield to bring home many of the 600,000 U.S. servicemen stationed around the world. In so doing, Nixon is clinging to the outdated concept that America is under divine direction to baby-sit for the world. (MBFR). Our troops, say Nixon, are our bargaining chips. Take them out unilaterally and the U.S. will have no means of persuading the Russians to make comparable troop withdrawals.
This is nonsense. Tensions have been reduced in Europe and, in any event, the Soviet Union would have to be out of its collective mind to launch a conventional attack against Western Europe. Besides, we have been using our troops as bargaining chips for the past 20 years without persuading the Russians to withdraw so much as a regiment from the territories of its Eastern European satellites.

Anyway, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., has put the matter into perspective. Hardly a glaucular dove, Symington said it for a Main Street angry preoccupied with the cost of pork chops and kids' shoes, to wit, that "No economy, not even the economy of the United States, can continue to police the world indefinitely."
That is the guts of the argument. No matter how many troops we keep abroad, they will have no influence on potential enemies if our economy is collapsing around our ears. A country can't defend itself if it's broke.
There is also, and not so incidentally, the question of national priorities. Mansfield has estimated that needed domestic programs will cost about $12 billion. He and his supporters on Capitol Hill would get $3.5-billion of this money by withdrawing and demobilizing 150,000 of the 315,000 men now stationed in Europe. They would get another $2-to-$10-billion by slashing or eliminating U.S. troop strength in Japan, Korea, Thailand and other countries.
And why not? Indeed, such a general disengagement is compatible with the Nixon Doctrine of the 1972 campaign which proclaimed that the time had come for our allies to assume more of their own defense, and reminded them that America stood willing to help those who helped themselves.
At any rate, the battle has been joined. Mansfield & Co. have their job cut out for them in a Senate which in 1971 twice voted down troop reduction proposals for Europe. They already have been challenged by such Democratic hawks as Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. Meanwhile, New York's conservative Sen. James Buckley is calling for no reductions at all in U.S. troops so long as the MBFR talks continue.
But the Mansfield group might have a powerful ally waiting in the wings. It is called the people, and they need no refreshment course. Civics to begin wondering whether spending $30-billion a year to defend other folks' countries makes all that expensive sense.

Doctor Killed In Crash

LEEDYARD (AP) — A 38-year-old Oregon doctor who was flying a single engine plane to Fishers Island, N.Y., where he was setting up an office, died instantaneously when the plane crashed, police said.
State police said Sunday they had positively identified the body as Dr. William H. Gallaher, who was the sole occupant of the plane.
The wreckage of the plane was found on Saturday in woods eight miles from the Trumbull Airport in Groton. Troopers said. Positive identification was delayed until Sunday, they said, because the body had been disfigured in the crash.
Dr. Gallaher had filed a poor weather instrument flight plan from Tweed-New Haven Airport to Fishers Island about 6:30 p.m. Friday night.
Officials said he was unable to land on the island and received clearance to land in Groton.

Confident Knicks Bound for Coast

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks trained their sights on the Los Angeles Lakers today with Old Pro Walt Frazier sounding the general warning to the West Coast. "They wanted us, now they've got us," Frazier and his New York teammates were over-flowing with confidence Sunday after whipping the Boston Celtics 97-78 and advancing to the National Basketball Association's championship round.

After a slow start, with Frazier scoring only two points in the first period, the Knicks came on strong to defeat the Celtics in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern playoff final. Defense was the key, with the Knicks holding the big advantage.

"Our defense picked them out right away, that was the key," Frazier said after finishing with 25 points. "The Celtics were playing with a two-man offense, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White, and you can play so long with that."

Then the All-Star backcourt sharp-shooter recalled reading that the Lakers had routed for New York victory, giving Los Angeles the home court advantage in the best-of-seven championship series opening in California Tuesday night.

New York Coach Red Holzman declined to make any predictions, but he didn't look bit worried at the prospect of playing the Lakers.

"We were 2-3 with them this year," Holzman said. "However, the last game we played at Los Angeles was a game that really meant something — and we won. We did some things in that game that we can take into the series coming up."

The Knicks, who trailed 29-19 after the first period, came alive in the second quarter after young Dave McPherson came off the bench to replace ailing Earl Monroe. New York hustled to a 45-30 halftime lead and then blew out the Celtics in the final two periods.

"We knew we had to play physical and aggressive from the start, and we did," McPherson said. "In the last quarter we were shooting. New York hit on 30 of 38 free shots, while Boston managed just 11 in the same number of field goal attempts.

White contributed 22, but the Celtics shut off other Boston shooters. The Celtics' 78 points represented the fewest by any team in the Eastern playoffs.

With John Havlicek barely able to raise his right arm after the Lakers had routed for separation suffered in the third game of the series, the Knicks doubled in on the Celtics' 78 points. White, other Boston players were unable to capitalize, often missing wide open shots.

"We did the same things a lot," he said. "We did them a lot better."

Cagers Defeat Russia

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Uncle Sam appears to have built a truly formidable national basketball team this year after the disappointing performance of 1972, yet Coach Bob Cousy says his squad must be tougher to continue whipping the Russians.

The international series continues here tonight following Sunday's 85-65 victory for the United States, a triumph at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., which was the first meeting between the nations since the Olympic finale at Munich.

The Russians won that time 51-50 in the super-overcrowded ending where the U.S. claimed the USSR was given three seconds of additional time after the game ended.

Tonight there was doubt that Bill Walton, UCLA's national player of the year for both 1971 and 1972, could play because of an injury. But he wants to try because San Diego is his hometown.

Walton suffered strained ligaments in his left knee when he was knocked down near the end of the first half.

Although the reverse factor has been so peddled, this game was rough throughout, and the Russians had absolutely nothing to say after it was over.

Vladimir Kholodov, leader of the visiting delegation, came to the dressing room door to tell newsmen:

"We lost the game and there is no need to comment further."

Cousy, coach of the Kansas City-Omaha pro team now handling the national squad, said:

"I think the kids underestimated them a little bit, but I certainly didn't. We've got to execute better. We've got to be more physical."

"It's my opinion out there, especially under the basket. The international game is very, very physical, especially inside."

Two Score Triples In AAU Swim Meet

Briggest lights in the second annual Manchester State Bank sponsored two-day Connecticut Amateur Athletic Union swimming meet from a local standpoint were the performances of Leslie Scott and Dan Colella.

During the two-day session, Friday night and all-day Saturday at the Manchester High pool, the two youngsters each grabbed off three first place medals.

The 45-day promotion attracted fine crowds both days. Meet director was Mel Siebold, Manchester Recreation Department head. Prizes were awarded by the Manchester State Bank.

Leslie Scott, 12, posted victories in the 200-yard backstroke, 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard breaststroke. Colella was No. 1 in the 90-year-old bracket in the 50 yard backstroke, 50-yard fly and 100-yard individual medley.

Local swimmers who scored doubles were Deb Coe, Sherrie Hopperstedt and Karen McArdle. Clare McDermott and Russ Smith were other Manchester first place competitors.

Ruckelshaus Quits EPA For FBI Post
WASHINGTON (AP) — Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus left the Environmental Protection Agency permanently today to become acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Ruckelshaus said he was resigning from EPA although he did not consider it legally necessary, and was ruling out his later return to head the nation's first environmental agency, his personal press aide, Jack Conroy, told a newsmen.

Conroy said Ruckelshaus would submit his resignation from EPA to President Nixon later today.

EPA Deputy Administrator Robert Fri is to be named acting administrator, but Conroy said Fri requested that he not be considered for appointment as permanent administrator of EPA, so the search must begin for a new head of the antipollution organization.

Asked why Ruckelshaus was resigning when he felt this was not a strict legal requirement, Conroy said Ruckelshaus wanted it completely clear "that he's running the FBI, even as short a time as it's going to be."

Ruckelshaus Quits EPA For FBI Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus left the Environmental Protection Agency permanently today to become acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Ruckelshaus said he was resigning from EPA although he did not consider it legally necessary, and was ruling out his later return to head the nation's first environmental agency, his personal press aide, Jack Conroy, told a newsmen.

Conroy said Ruckelshaus would submit his resignation from EPA to President Nixon later today.

EPA Deputy Administrator Robert Fri is to be named acting administrator, but Conroy said Fri requested that he not be considered for appointment as permanent administrator of EPA, so the search must begin for a new head of the antipollution organization.

Asked why Ruckelshaus was resigning when he felt this was not a strict legal requirement, Conroy said Ruckelshaus wanted it completely clear "that he's running the FBI, even as short a time as it's going to be."

Economic Woes May Appear At Year's End

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut's economy will continue to swing upward, though at a slower pace than national growth, through the summer, but trouble is on the horizon for the end of the year, predicts the Connecticut Council of Economic Advisors.

The council said Sunday in a report to the governor that the state's economy stepped forward during the first three months of this year, but still lagged behind economic improvements on the national scene.

In February, Connecticut's unemployment rate stood at 5.9 per cent, higher than the national average but lower than the average for New England, the council said. The state figure for the same period last year was 9.4 per cent, the council said.

The council attributed Connecticut's first-quarter recovery to "an improved national economy in which Connecticut participated belatedly," increased defense contracts at the start of 1973, a pickup in the aerospace business and refilling of depleted inventories.

"The momentum of the state and national economy will carry Connecticut upwards at least through the summer of 1973," the report says.

But the five-member panel predicted that "restrictive federal fiscal and monetary policies designed to combat inflation" and trends in defense contracts would put a pinch on the state economy toward the end of the year.

Contract awards were up at the beginning of 1973, but they declined sharply as the year went on, the council said. The delayed effect of those declines, it said, could start to show in state employment levels as the close of 1973.

Further contract cutbacks this year could have an additional depressing effect on employment, the council said.

Union Leader Critical Of Assembly
BRIDGEPORT (AP) — Connecticut workers haven't gained and may even lose from the current session of the General Assembly, says John Driscoll, president of the State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

"This session of the legislature will do nothing to improve the rights of Connecticut workers and we'll be lucky if it doesn't substantially take away benefits that have been achieved over the years," Driscoll said Saturday.

For example, Driscoll says, the lawmakers have passed several bills that change the eligibility requirements for unemployment compensation.

Regional Health Plan Calls For Larger Subsidy

HARTFORD (AP) — A state government task force has called on the state to double its subsidy to regional health districts from $1 to $2 for each person the districts serve.

The Commission on Regional and Local Health Planning also calls in its report for full-time professionals in state-subsidized regional health programs to replace or supplement the part-time public health officers who serve 121 Connecticut municipalities.

According to the report, three regional districts are in operation in the state serving 11 towns. Full-time health departments are operating in 16 towns, and the remainder are served by four state health offices, the report says.

The changes are needed because recent developments in preventive medicine offer far more opportunities for service by public health officers than part-timers have time to perform, said Sarah Hirasaki of the state Office of Comprehensive Health Planning.

"We operate with a law that requires every community to have a health officer," said Mrs. Hirasaki, who worked with the commission in preparing its recommendations.

"They didn't know then how hepatitis, for example, can be conveyed. Now we know exactly how to control many diseases if you have thorough investigation and follow-up work," she said.

State Official Dies

MERIDEN (AP) — State Deputy Director of Corrections Robert F. Kowalczyk has died at age 48.

Kowalczyk, who lived in Yalesville, was director of Correctional Industries from 1968 to 1971, and was promoted to his commissioner's post in March, 1972. He died Saturday.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the B.C. Bailey Funeral Home in Wallingford.

Fluorescents, wallcoverings spark ideas

Many a bride's dreams of a "cute little kitchen" begin to crumble the moment she comes face-to-face with a tiny, dark, bland-looking kitchen and a long list of apartment lease restrictions.

White light First, she replaced the small overhead fixture with a larger, more efficient deluxe warm white fluorescent unit.

Punches of color To brighten the dark wood cabinet doors, rectangles of washable wallpaper and pressure-treated added punches of color throughout the kitchen.

Sink shield The same shielding technique — using a strip of material decorated with wall covering — was employed over the sink where deluxe warm white fluorescent lamps were installed.

Bridal registry and her mother best ways to zero in on gifts

There have probably been jokes about the gifts a bride receives for as long as there have been brides — duplicate presents, ostentatious family heirlooms, and other gifts that are displayed only while the persons who sent them are being entertained.

Compact Appliances Offer Big Performance In Smaller Areas

Time was when only the homeowner could take advantage of the "luxury" of dishwashers, washers and dryers, and air conditioning.

Portable appliances were a natural outgrowth of our highly mobile society, while the current trend to compactness seems to stem from the 1970 and 1971 slowdowns in housing starts which forced many young Americans into apartments where space is at a premium.

Still another factor causing appliance makers to think small is the growing number of retirees and "empty nesters" who do not feel the continued need for the full-size appliances that were so necessary when their children were growing up.

Most appliance makers have jumped into the "mini" market in the past two years to some degree — particularly laundry equipment — but only a few, such as Hotpoint, offer a complete line of space-saving compact.

A Penny For Your Thoughts

Party Hints for New Homemakers

Anyone can give a party. But the secret of a party where the host and hostess have as much fun as every one else is — preparation and organization. Even a party put together on the spot will benefit from prior just-in-case arrangements and having everything needed right at hand.

If you haven't a bar or a bar-cart in your living room, set aside one cabinet and a nearby drawer in the kitchen. The cabinet is for storing a selection of liquors and mixers so that you're ready for any chance visit.

like Metaxa takes care of before and after-dinner brandy lovers very neatly. Keep a fruit liquor to be either sipped plain, poured on desserts or cooked with.

Don't forget an appetizer for guests who are convivial but don't drink hard liquor. They'll appreciate your foresight in having ready a bottle of garnet-red Campari, for instance, which is only 48-proof and has a tart, lively taste. This European favorite is usually enjoyed mixed with club soda and ice, with tonic, or served in your drawer.

Keep in your cabinet some sweet and dry vermouth, a bottle of bitters, a jar of cocktail onions or olives and a jar of maraschino cherries. Also a large bottle each of ginger ale, tonic and club soda (you can store extras elsewhere).

These supplies will see you through almost any refreshment request. Add a can of peanuts and some bags of potato chips and no spur-of-the-moment gathering can shake you.

In the drawer you can store cocktail napkins, coasters, swizzle sticks, olive picks and a small paring knife for peel. You'll also find a cocktail strainer, long mixing spoon and a small party apron useful to have in your drawer.

Here is the recipe for the popular Americano Cocktail, a fun but low-proof drink. Fill a mixer glass with ice cubes, add an ounce of Campari, an ounce of Italian vermouth, and stir. Pour into an Old-Fashioned glass, add a twist of lemon peel and a splash of soda. Use a strain-glass and have a few cubes already in the glass.

jewelry gift remembrances

Particularly cherished relatives and friends make up the bridal party, asked by the bride and groom to play an important role in all the traditions that are so much a part of getting married. And because the bridal party contributes so much toward the happy memories of the day, a thank-you from the wedding couple is both appropriate and traditional. Jewelry gifts are at once appreciative, prestigious and affectionately correct: the perfect remembrance for a perfect day.

The bride, advises the Jewelry Industry Council, is responsible for the gifts to her maid of honor, bridesmaids and flower girl. The groom takes care of the gifts for his best man, ushers and page.

What's more, the maid of honor, as the bride's chief attendant, is gifted according to her specially honored position. Pearls, a pendant watch, karat gold jewelry, a ring are jewelry gift ideas that honor the maid of honor. Appropriate, too, would be a gold filled locket or bracelet engraved with the wedding date or a personal message from the bride. Distinctive gifting includes a golden elephant bank elaborately bejeweled, a jam jar with sterling lid and spoon, sterling owl shaped salt and peppers.

For Noreen And Darius It's A Wonderful World

Satisfaction, modest price

The girl who's learned to sew in high school, and takes pride in being one-up on fashion trends, is likely to be the bride who opts to sew her own wedding gown. It's one sure way of expressing her own highly developed taste. And it's in line with the stunner, more natural trend of today.

Where is it written that a bride must be done up in satins and lace? Great if she's the type — and lots of girls are. But even greater is the freedom of choice, in design and fabric, available to the bride who elects to sew her own gown for that great day.

This year's bride may choose from all the light, airy fabrics, like dotted voile, pique, and organza and leno, that are easy to sew and lovely to look at. Their prices, as the practical-minded miss is sure to note, are a fraction of the cost of luxury fabrics. The bride's attendant, too, can find equally attractive fabrics and patterns. Sears recommends an airy printed leno (polyester and rayon) in a soft pastel straw with blossoms, which sells at just $1.59 a yard.

Since the average pattern calls for under five yards, it's easy to figure the total cost of the dress well within the most modest budget.

And just think of the compliments the bride will garner for the originality and freshness of her wedding party theme.

BRIDE WORE...
For a semiformal-daytime wedding the bride wears a white or pale pastel floor-length or shorter gown with an elbow-length or shorter veil.

MARRIAGE POPULAR
There were more than 2,300,000 marriages in 1972 and figures are expected to climb this year.

Ready to enjoy

Ideal for the new "entertaining" bride is this "Look-See" Slice and Serve Set from David Douglas company of Sheboygan, Wis. Useful for serving party snacks from cheese to meat to pastries to canapes, the set, contemporary in design, is packaged in a malleable gift box with removable label.

Mother nature suggests fresh-as-flowers look

With today's youthful rebellion against Establishment customs, Mother Nature is taking over consultation duties. Brides and grooms are holding their nuptials at the rim of Grand Canyon, at a fountain in the park, or in the local forest preserve.

According to Hene Curtis, this back-to-nature trend is reflected not only in the ceremonial setting, but in the dress, accessories, and hairstyles of the wedding party and guests.

Sandal-shod bridesmaids

Up top, faces are freshly scrubbed with cucumber soaps and scented with avocado creams, and hair is washed shiny clean with a rich natural shampoo called Everlysis. Formulated with garden-fresh ingredients — lemon, herbs, and balsam — Everlysis makes hair instantly manageable and easy to fashion into

Short-haired brides will interweave a daisy here and there while those with longer tresses will pull it up, knot it, and circle it with a wreath of baby roses.

From fresh flower headpieces crowning shiny beautiful hair, to the pumpkin seed hair d'orees, today's out-door bride counts on Mother Nature to do her natural best.

how to buy...

Glass
No table is complete without the finishing touches of fine glassware. Place settings are best purchased in sets of eight and should include tumblers, water goblets, fruit juice glasses, sherbets and cocktail glasses. Important extras include old-fashioned, wine, liqueur and champagne glasses.

China
China should also be bought in place settings. Again, eight each of dinner plates, bread and butter plates, cups and saucers, and soup bowls are recommended. Extras include soup plates, salad plates, dessert plates, one meat platter, three vegetable dishes and one cream and sugar set.

Silver
Silver holloware is the beautifully natural complement.

Check the linen closet, too. Your new home will be a popular one for the first few months or more. Make sure there is an ample supply of entertainment accessories and linen for overnight guests.

new 'dual-fuel' range combines best of gas and electric cooking

Many newlyweds settling in their first home face the confusing problem of what kind of range to purchase — gas or electric.

The decision is often a hard one, since both types of cooking fuels offer certain advantages. For example, many people prefer gas ranges because they heat quickly and economically. Others like electric ranges because they're cool and easy to keep clean.

Now the choice is easier. Sears has introduced a range that combines the best of both worlds — the exclusive Kenmore Dual-Fuel Range, which has a gas cooktop and an electric self-cleaning oven.

The cooktop features gas burners that adjust instantly from a searing flame down to a gentle non-scorch simmer and can be set at any point in between. A burner-with-brain controls cooking temperature and prevents such accidents as boil-over and burned-on food.

The oven also features a Roast-a-Matic probe to control the internal temperature of meats and prevent over-cooking — a perfect addition for the bride.

Something White and Out-of-Sight

If there's going to be a wedding in your family this year, don't expect it to be formal in the traditional sense. For one thing, gone are the days when an elaborate gown was purchased for the big day, worn once, then packed away in the cedar chest. What a waste! How much more with it to choose a very special dress that can be worn on the wedding day — and then worn again and again, on special occasions throughout the years.

Will the wedding dress stay in style? Of course it will, if it's chosen for simplicity and classic design in the first place.

The bride-to-be needs to ask herself first, which is the most flattering silhouette? Empire waist, skimmer or naturally held-in, shortwaisted, are a few of the fashion possibilities. As for the fabric, it's possible to be both romantic and practical at the same time. From the shimmer of moiré to the charm of ribbons embroidered white-on-white, there's a whole snowfall of fabrics available in modern easy-care blends.

The other thing to consider, which might affect any long-range plans for your beautiful white dress, is this. If it fits you once, will it fit you again?

It will, if you decide right now to maintain your weight. It's a day figure as well as you take care of the dress. Don't become so infatuated

Flowers, creatively arranged, add splashes of beauty to wedding day

Can anyone imagine a wedding without flowers? The bride's bouquet, the bridesmaids' flowers, the floral decorations are all an integral part of the traditional wedding. New Mr. and Mrs. can enjoy centuries of Bermuda's beauty

St. George, Bermuda — Weddings celebrated in St. Peter's Church in this British colony's first capital have an aura of permanence about them. St. Peter's is the oldest Anglican church in the western hemisphere in continual use. Completed by Christmas of 1612, shortly after the island chain's first permanent settlers arrived, the simple church has been enlarged several times.

How Much of a Diamond's Weight Is Lost in Cutting? Believe it or not, 50% of the precious rough diamond is ground away. But there's no waste in diamond cutting. Even the diamond dust is used again to cut another diamond. Remember, since diamond is so hard, only diamond can cut diamond.

Footwear takes newlyweds on comfort vacation

After the bouquet is caught and the last grain of rice thrown, young newlyweds will pack their bags and head for sun and fun. Whether their budget allows a place close to home or an exotic isle, most young couples want to travel lightly with nothing more than the bare necessities.

On the comfort side of the versatility coin, the slipper's exclusive contour sole design gives feet a relaxing lift after a wile of shopping spree or a long hike across an island beach.

Where Were Diamonds First Discovered? Back in the 6th or 6th century B.C. diamonds were discovered in India and diamond mining became the booming industry of the time. For 2,000 years, India yielded all the diamonds known including the famous blue Hope which is in the Smithsonian Institution.

Double Ring Salad Mold Is Twice As Good

Generations back, a bride relied on mother and friends for recipes. She often copied them into a little personal book, adding her own creations as time went on. If you're giving a bridal shower or luncheon, one of the recipes you'll surely want to include in a bride's recipe book — and will want to serve at the bridal luncheon — is a Wedding Ring Salad.

It's an easy, festive and delicious lime gelatin mold with sliced ham, celery, green pepper, and pimiento. California onion dressing is added to give a delicate, creamy only accent to the dish. This distinctive dressing, with its pieces of minced onion, is conveniently added right from the bottle in with the dissolved gelatin.

A decorative — and appropriate way to serve this delightful salad (recipe from The Lipton Kitchens) is to make two ring molds in an entwined circle effect.

New responsibilities begin with first gift

From the moment the first wedding gift arrives, a bride-to-be has to start thinking about her new responsibilities. Financial responsibilities. Those expensive gifts need care and protection; one of the best ways to provide that protection is with a special wedding gift insurance policy.

For a minimal amount (about $17 for $5,000 worth of coverage) a couple can protect their wedding gifts for a six-month period — three months before and three months after the wedding.

After that, insurance people figure that the gifts have become possessions. Most newlyweds start their life in an apartment, either his, hers, or theirs. If you're moving possessions to cover the contents of your house.

Do you drive a car? You probably already have auto insurance. But did you know that the rate for married men is lower than it is for single men? At the age of 24, the rate is about 60 per cent lower. At 29, it's still about 25 per cent lower. After 30, your marital status doesn't make any difference.

Combine coverage. Add extra benefits to your health insurance policy by combining your coverage. Very few policies for single people provide maternity benefits.

Don't assume that just because you're married, you're eligible for this kind of coverage. You have to declare yourself a family first. Most newlyweds don't more brides than ever hope to have sterling

Can a bride find happiness in marriage without sterling? Yes — but think how much more fun it will be with it! Sterling's just made for special occasions — like moving day after the honeymoon, and eating that first dinner-for-two sitting on the floor in front of the cocktail table. Even with cold cuts on the table and packing boxes in the background, sterling helps make the occasion memorable.

And later, when there are friends to entertain, new neighbors to meet, and in-laws coming to town for the big holiday weekend, sterling's elegance and company manners are there to depend on. Its authority is so unchallenged, in fact, that a girl can get along with even quite ordinary china and glass on her table. Solid silver carries the day!

It's why more brides than ever before are picking out their sterling pattern long in advance of the wedding day, and registering it. They recognize a good thing when they see it — and they know there's no better way to create a "special-occasion" atmosphere for those important meals they'll be planning in their new life.

Happily, sterling rates high with the very gift-givers who'll be responsible for providing the bride with her set. And their choice is a good one, for there's hardly any other thing they could choose that combines beauty and practicality in such a felicitous manner. What other possession can a woman own in her lifetime, for instance, that has high value (which continues to grow), great durability, and whose looks improve with age and use? If ever there was a "perfect gift," sterling silver is it!

Gift-givers will appreciate the utter convenience, too, of shopping for sterling silver at the bridal gift registry. It's merely a matter of suiting the gift to the budget, for when a bride registers her pattern, she lets the bridal gift consultant know which pieces she particularly wants and the store keeps track of all subsequent gifts she receives.

A Quiet Spot, For Quiet Talk

A Good Husband

A Master of a house (as I have read) Must be the first man up, and last man in bed; With the Sun rising he must walk his grounds; See this, You that, and all the other bouds; Shut every gate; mend every hedge that's torn; Either with old, or plant therein new thorn; Tread o'er his glebe, but with such care, if at he leaves He sets his foot, he leaves rich compost there. Robert Herrick (1591-1634)

Old Rhyme

A wedding is the greatest place For folks to go and learn. He thought that she was his'n, But found that he was her'n.

a nice hand for the bride

Even in today's innovative wedding ceremonies which are often written by the bride and groom, the touching of hands and the exchanging of symbols invariably remain an important part of the nuptials. Soft, well-carved for hands are vital for the ceremony.

To have them, begin as soon as the wedding date is set so you can guarantee yourself a beautiful hand for that most beautiful day. Avoid chapping, wear warm gloves when it's cold and take a few minutes several times a day to apply a good moisturizing lotion such as Vaseline Intensive Care. Heated houses and cold weather both snuff moisture from the skin.

Check your fingernails, too. Gently push back cuticles each day and keep your nails trimmed evenly. With busy days and little spare time for grooming rituals, use a clear polish. It will give your fingernails a little sparkle without showing chips that spell "careless" when they should spell "too busy."

Brides

Brides carry lilies of valley to illustrate the return of happiness; try to signify wedded bliss; and orchids to express beauty and refinement. A bit of heather may be added for luck or asters as the tallsman of love.

Use imagination when picking your bridal flowers suggest the Society of American Florists, and key them to the mood and style of your dress. They are usually white, but you may, with perfect propriety, hold a pastel bouquet.

Planning A Future Together

surprise the bride-to-be with a tea-tasting shower

and there's nothing like seeing the look of startled delight on the bride-to-be's face when she steps in for what she thinks will be a gab session with her best friend.

In the past, showers were usually held at luncheon, or in the early afternoon, but with most young women working today, a late afternoon or early evening affair is a wiser choice. Whichever time of day you choose, a tea party is still one of the nicest settings for a shower.

But don't just stop at serving tea and cake. With the wide variety of premium teas available on the market, you can have lots of fun with tea tasting, suggests tea connoisseur Eunice Bigelow. Mrs. Bigelow, wife of the president of a coffee and tea firm, blenders of the popular Constant Comment and other fine teas, is an accomplished tea taster.

"Have each guest bring two or three teacups, along with her shower gift," she advises. "Collect a number of pretty teapots and provide delicate pastry or tea sandwiches. Lemon Angel Pie is particularly nice for a bridal shower, and it's a great accompaniment for almost any variety of tea you choose to serve."

The hostess might brew three or four varieties of tea, each with its own distinctive and characteristic flavor, and have guests sample them. Tea lovers will find Darjeeling tea appealing. One of India's favorites, it has a rich full-bodied flavor, and a deep amber color.

Jasmine tea, one of the Orient's most delicate teas, has the subtle fragrance of the Jasmine blossom, and is a favorite with women. Another nice choice for a tea tasting is the classic Earl Grey tea, made famous by Eighteenth Century English aristocrats. Constant Comment, the unique orange and spice flavored tea blended by the R. C. Bigelow Company, will be a sure winner with shower guests of all ages.

In order to appreciate the rich flavor of fine tea, there's only one correct way to brew it, say the company's tea connoisseurs. They recommend the following three-step procedure.

- Preheat an earthenware or China teapot by rinsing with hot water.
- Add teabags or loose tea to the pot.
- Bring freshly drawn water to a rolling boil, then pour over the tea.

Coordinated patterns ease her selection

Prospective brides enjoy choosing their silver flatware, china and crystal, but very often they want and appreciate all the help they can get when they set about choosing these important symbols of their future lifestyles, according to W. Dan Leshiba, an executive of The Gorham Company.

Recent research has indicated that brides-to-be sometimes lack assurance in choosing. Some have trouble in making up their minds. They frequently turn to close relatives, friends, sales people, and most often the bridal consultant is an important and helpful guide through the maze of beautiful silver, china and crystal, linen and other household "musts."

For more than a hundred years, Gorham has enjoyed an enviable reputation as the world's leading silver-smiths. Several years ago, the distinguished company acquired a crystal company, then a china factory.

An arbiter of great design, Gorham has been able to translate its fine reputation into crystal and china as well as silver flatware acceptance by brides-to-be.

OVER 25 YEARS EXPERIENCE

COLOR FIRST HOME WITH CARPET, FABRIC

If you're like most young marrieds, chances are you'll start off your new home with a few pieces of good furniture and then fill in the empty spaces as the budget permits. But that in no way means you can't have a beautiful first apartment or home.

By letting your imagination take over where the pocketbook can't, you can create a personalized environment.

Decorators have discovered smart new-so ideas using carpets and fabrics — and the practical aspects of these two decorating basics are built-in boons. Both cushion noise from next door or above. They are hardwearing too.... And if you choose materials of man-made fibers, they're a whiz to soap-and-water clean and maintain.

One eye-catching modern living room seen recently owes its success to a combination of Hercules carpet and upholstery carpet.

Although the room looks professionally done, you can manage practically the entire decor yourself. Both the carpet and fabric on the wall were applied with a heavy duty, double-faced carpet tape. To cover the plywood boxes, first measure the sides of the box or cube. Use carpet sheers to cut individual pieces of carpet and affix the pieces with vinyl adhesive. Use headless nails to secure the corners. Carpet remnants found at department stores are good to use for the boxes and wall treatment. To construct the fabric window panels, measure the room from floor to ceiling and figure out the width you'd like the panels. Use 3/4" x 1 1/2" pieces of plywood to make the frame. Nail a piece of homoste the entire length and width of the frame. Pull fabric over frame tightly and nail to back. Attach to a valance or ceiling with angle irons. White floor to ceiling sheers complete this unusual window treatment.

make-ahead meals help the bride entertain

If you're a bride who worries about giving a dinner party, do what experienced hostesses do. Plan a make-ahead meal that can be prepared completely in advance and refrigerated until guests arrive.

The make-ahead meal is easy to prepare and serve if you have a well-organized refrigerator with shelves and storage units that can be adjusted to accommodate extra party refreshments and foods.

Coldpot refrigerators with Spacemaster interiors are designed for just that. Four half shelves, which hold up to 40 pounds each, can be arranged in a variety of ways to accommodate whatever is on the menu — a whole turkey, a cold meat platter, hors d'oeuvres, an eight-layer torte, even a high-rise gelatin mold.

If you're planning to serve a tossed salad, fix it early in the day and store it in the Humidrawer — a new type of crisper with a special, tight-fitting seal. It will keep the prepared greens fresh and crisp, just waiting for the dressing. This high-humidity storage compartment also can be used to keep pastries and party desserts moist and table-ready.

With deep door shelves you can put more items up front where they're easy to see and reach when preparing that company feast. They're spacious enough to hold all the odd-sized condiment containers, half gallons of milk and extra beverage six packs, and can be moved up or down to accommodate the tallest bottles.

Serving party drinks? They're easy to make using cold water and ice crescents from your Coldpot's cold water tap and automatic ice maker.

Count on make-ahead menus and a well-organized refrigerator to make all your dinner parties successful. No one will dream it's all new to you.

Carry Hair-Care with You

Whether the honeymoon planned is one of swimming and sunning on a tropical island or staking a snowy Vermont slope, every bride wants to look her best all day and every day. It's easy to look devastating by moonlight or sitting in front of a blazing log fire. The real test comes with the dawn.

Fortunately, new products and information on skin and hair care make being beautiful easier than it's ever been before. While most brides spend weeks putting together a trousseau, deciding on the cosmetics and hair products you'll need for your particular trip are just as important.

But Honey, If We Forget About The Washer And Dryer...

Tip for New Bride: Paper Towels Make Glass Areas Gleam

A new marriage and a new home usually go together. And whether the bride starts out in a tiny apartment or spacious house she'll want to keep it as shining as her new hopes. To help make her environment sparkle, especially the windows and other glass surfaces, she'll appreciate the convenience of paper towels. Many a new Mrs. (and her mother and friends, too) can't devote full time to housework because they're busy at outside jobs or going to school. So they welcome streamlined cleaning techniques.

One of the worst chores, most agree, is keeping windows clean. "Don't do it the hard way," says Bette Collard, Scott Paper Company's consumer information specialist. "Today's homemaker can't be bothered with the old method - buckets of water, sponges, squeegees, rags and old newspapers." Miss Collard suggests that you spray on one of the special window-cleaning solutions, then polish the glass with a clean, absorbent Viva paper towel. "And there's no lint hangover, either," she adds.

Everything you always wanted to do with color—but were afraid to try Furnishing your first bedroom? Don't know much about color planning? Don't worry, all you really need is the new Bride's Bedroom Coloring Book from Serta, makers of Serta Perfect Sleeper mattresses and foundations—and a little paint.

The bedding expert's advice that when it comes to color selection and planning, your own natural color sense is your most reliable guide to decorating a bedroom for the two of you. The variety of room illustrations in the Bride's Bedroom Coloring Book makes it possible to experiment with color combinations. Just add crayons or colored pencils, your imagination, and perhaps the spool of unspooled color ideas designed to help the bride make the maximum use of color in the bedroom. For example: • Decorate the complete room in shades of just one color—your favorite naturally. • Paint a view on your bedroom window if there's not one there. Feature a skyline, a garden, a mountain. • Define a sitting or study area by painting the wall a contrasting color at that end of the room. • Use colored light bulbs.

Whole world of 'firsts' await bride in kitchen

To the young bride, marriage is a new experience filled with exciting events and "firsts" every day. These exhilarating occurrences give her the verve and enthusiasm for life that makes the "honeymoon last a long time."

There is the first trip to the laundromat with the attendant confusion as to which clothes go into which laundry loads — and did she remember to take her husband's wallet out of his pocket?

There is the first time her husband asks her if she will sew a button on his jacket, and she sews his pocket closed at the same time.

Then there is the first time her husband's boss comes to dinner, and the elaborate dishes she prepares in his honor. Another part of the excitement is all the wonderful wedding gifts she receives and the fun of showing them to friends and relatives when they drop in to visit.

Setting up a household is probably one of the most enjoyable activities she'll undertake, picking out the furniture, draperies, accessories and products she'll need to run her home. If she's like most new brides she'll want the newest features available in those products.

For example, in selecting her most frequently used appliance, the electric range, she should consider the recently introduced new series of cabinet ranges from General Electric that are stronger, cooler, and easier to clean.

Many models offer a self-cleaning oven that handles the messy, time-consuming chore of oven cleaning automatically just by setting the simple controls and latching the oven door.

Other features of these new models that make it easy to keep the cooking center neat and clean include surface units that snap out for easy cleaning and a recessed range top which prevents spill-overs from collecting in cracks and crevices.

The units' new design permits removal of the oven drawer to simplify cleaning under the range, and there are no cross-braces to get in the way of a broom or mop.

For the first time the bride wants to prepare a big roast, some models offer a built-in meat thermometer to assist her, or maybe she'll want to try cooking meats on the rotisserie to break the broil-bake-fry routine.

A helpful idea on one model which the new bride will certainly appreciate is a lamp shield across the top of the control panel which flips up to reveal hidden instructions on how to use the self-cleaning oven and other special features.

This handy guide should go a long way in helping eliminate a number of other firsts that often plague new homemakers — like the first undercooked baked potatoes or the first burnt roast.

HONEYMOON PACKING

When packing for the honeymoon, be careful not to crush delicate items with shoes. Putting each shoe in a plastic bag, and placing them at the bottom fold of the suitcase will help.

BRIDE'S THANK YOU

As soon as possible the bride should send a thank you note for each gift received. It is the only way the person who sent it can know that the gift was received.

Here's a snazzy knit-due to wrap up travel sportswear needs. The raised diamond patterned top and matching solid pants are of a machine washable Sears polyester knit. Both make a quick change with side wrap ties. Perfect for trousers packing, a snap to sew from McCall's pattern 3259 with Sears Dial-Easy machine.

His-bers washer-dryers typical of new families

Young marrieds shopping for laundry appliances may think their needs are limited, but it pays to plan for the future when you have a growing family.

Because the life of laundry appliances can be as long as 10 to 15 years, the best investment is high-quality merchandise featuring the latest innovations. These appliances will give newlyweds up-to-date service in the years ahead.

For example, Sears Lady Kenmore washer features a triple dispenser for the busy woman who has better things to do than stand by to add detergent, bleach and fabric softener at the appropriate times.

The triple dispenser does this job automatically. And if she's too busy to remove the laundry from the dryer at the end of the cycle, a Wrinkle Guard control on Kenmore dryers tumbles the clothes at intervals for up to two hours to prevent wrinkling.

The kind of clothing new families will be wearing five years from now should also influence the buying decision. The garment industry predicts more and more clothes will be made of comfortable, no-iron, no-wrinkle knits.

Knit fabrics require special care — short, warm water washes with gentle agitation and brief warm air drying cycles. Anyone investing in new laundry appliances should make sure the washer and dryer have special knit cycles, such as those on Kenmore appliances that treat knits gently automatically.

A special Vari-Flex agitator can be adjusted for action so gentle it puts an end to tedious hand laundry.

If children are in the future, newlyweds should purchase laundry appliances not only large enough to accommodate a family-size laundry, but with features designed to make family laundry easier. The pre-soak capability on the Lady Kenmore washer is perfect for baby's diapers and children's heavily soiled play clothes.

PREDICTION

A custom from earlier days reported from our southern states tells of young ladies who fashioned daisy chains, then fastened them across the entrances of covered bridges. The first person to ride through the bridge and break the chain would become the young lady's husband.

Jewish Folk Sayings

The best horse needs a whip; the wisest man, advice; the best woman, a man.

It's not that money makes everything good; it's that no money makes everything bad.

Practical advice for the bride to be on . . .

Publicizing the wedding

The mother of the bride, caught in the whirl of activity and the endless details attending her daughter's marriage, will find one set of her problems practically solved in "Happy The Bride The Press Shines On!"

A "first" in its field, it will prove equally helpful to the bride who wants to make sure that her "great day" is duly noted by the newspapers.

Emily Post contributed the foreword. Lucy Rosser, the author, practically takes the "wedding publicity notice" by the hand and guides her through the often mysterious realms of newspaperdom.

She describes, step by step, the procedures for informing the press of forthcoming events: engagements, parties, showers, announcements of wedding plans, weddings, births and christenings.

The author is ever down to earth and practical. She tells what to say, how to say it, where to send it, and when to send it. She has included several sample "news releases" for each event. These require only the insertion of the names of those concerned and changes in details of the affairs described.

She also deals at some length with photographs. In the section headed "All About Pictures" she discusses proper size, finish, pose, background, methods of handling and the like.

Her checklists can be life savers in case any detail has been overlooked. She has even included a glossary of newspaper terms and practical hints on how to cooperate with newspaper people in general, and society editors in particular.

Miss Rosser evidently took unusual precautions to make sure that her job was complete and properly done. In her acknowledgments, she gives both credit and thanks to the newspaper people, especially the society and women's page editors, who reviewed the manuscript for her before publication.

PLAN CAREFULLY

Whatever size or style the wedding will be, it is the careful, thoughtful planning — not the cost — that makes it beautiful.

SOCIAL CALL

Soon after an engagement is announced, it is proper for the groom's parents to call upon the parents of the bride.

MAIL EARLY

Formal invitations to a large wedding and reception are usually mailed three to four weeks in advance.
