Hartford Rd. Sidewalk Projects Starts

Town officials are in the group at the right watching the start of the sidewalk construction program Monday on Hartford Rd. near House Dr. In front of the truck are two employees of S. Aleria & Sons, contractor for the job. In the group are, from left, Frank Aleria, Mayor John Thompson, Town Director Vivian Ferguson, Deputy Mayor Pascal Prignano, Town Manager Robert Weiss, Town Director Phyllis Jackson and Town Engineer Walter Senkow. The sidewalk project runs from McKee St. to the housing for the elderly. Approved by referendum last November, the program is being financed with federal revenue-sharing funds.

Contract Ratified

The Manchester Board of Education Monday night ratified a new contract for school custodians, providing for a six per cent salary increase for each year.

Wilson E. Deakin Jr., assistant superintendent of schools, said the contract involves just under 100 union-represented custodians in the school system.

There are no changes in fringe benefits in the new 1973-1975 contract, Deakin reported. The contract will take effect July 1.

Nixon Asks Election Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by Watergate revelations, President Nixon asked Congress today to create a special nonpartisan commission to conduct a complete re-examination of our system of elections and campaign practices.

In a special message, Nixon said "recent disclosures widespread during the presidential campaign of 1972" make reform an urgent and essential priority item to help "restore the faith of the American people in the integrity of their political processes."

While not once mentioning the word Watergate in his message or in a companion address to Congress, Nixon cast, Nixon said many more disclosures of 1972 campaign misdeeds "will doubtless soon be made."

The President submitted a proposed joint resolution that would create a 17-member Nonpartisan Commission on Election Reform that would be called on to submit a final report by Dec. 1.

The commission's mandate would be as broad as the federal election process itself, Nixon said. "Nothing would be excluded."

Nixon specifically urged that the commission consider the election of a constitutional amendment that would limit a president to a single six-year term and double the tenure of House members to four years.

While expressing no personal opinion on presidential term, Nixon said, "Personally, I have long favored the four-year term for members of the House, with staggered elections every two years."

Here's how the membership of the commission would be selected: Congress would elect two Democrats and four Republicans, two each from the Senate and House. The chairman of the Democratic and Republican National Commissions automatically would serve. The President would choose seven members, no more than four from the same political party, "for their experience, knowledge and perspective in this field."

Commission members would elect their own chairman and vice chairman "to further ensure the commission's complete independence."

Symington Says CIA Refused To Hide Bugging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond today said President Nixon's top aides "tried to obstruct justice" by hiding the Watergate affair under a CIA umbrella.

Testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which the Missouri Senator is acting chairman, indicates the play did not work because the CIA refused to go along. But convicted conspirator James W. McCord Jr. says he believes the White House tried to use the cover anyway.

Symington released a summary Tuesday of testimony given by Army Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

That summary and an official digest of the same incident as disclosed by former acting FBI Director Patrick Gray, who made possible a CIA element reconstruction of one element of the alleged White House coverup of the Watergate affair.

Gray, who told his story to Senate Watergate investigators, and Walters gave differing accounts, but the two versions show these developments:

On June 23, six days after five men were arrested inside Democratic headquarters at the Watergate, then-CIA Director Richard Helms and Walters were summoned to the White House to meet with chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and domestic-affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman in Ehrlichman's office.

Walters said Haldeman told him to tell Gray that if the FBI pursued an investigation of certain funds in Mexico, connected with the Watergate case, the inquiry would compromise certain CIA activities and resources in Mexico.

Walters met with Gray an hour later and conveyed the message, and Gray indicated he would try to make sure that no one else would discover each other's sources and activities.

Gray's account indicated the FBI would be informed of two witnesses because of the Walters meeting.

Miller Discusses Hospital Costs

JACOB F. MILLER, president of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, Tuesday night spoke about meeting the rising hospital administrative and patient care costs and how they may be met.

He also specified obsolescent areas of the hospital which have been closed or are being closed.

Miller's remarks came at the annual meeting of the hospital's board which also saw the election of officers, of two new trustees, and the naming of a trustee emeritus.

Miller, speaking to the board of incorporators, was optimistic in his remarks that our problems would be overcome as were those of the founders of the hospital 50 years ago.

The basic decision, regarding the hospital's financial situation in terms of the public remains the same, he said.

Leoney Heads AP in State

Robert J. Leoney of the New Haven Register was re-elected president of the Connecticut Association of the Associated Press on Tuesday at the Manchester Country Club.

In addition to Leoney, other officers re-elected to one-year terms were Charles Piro of the Greenwich Time, vice president, and Forrest Palmer of the Danbury News-Times, treasurer.

The featured speaker at the meeting was AP Executive Photo Editor Hal Baell of New York City who explained the new Laserphoto system for transmitting news photographs in keeping with AP's conversion to all-electronic news and photo dispatch.

Prior to the meeting, the group toured the all-electronic plant of The Manchester Evening Herald.

Every Connecticut AP newspaper was represented at the session.

Also included in the program was a panel discussion on photo reproduction.

Vernon Budget $11,606,548

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

In less than 15 minutes Tuesday night, the annual town meeting approved a budget of $11,606,548 and immediately after the town council set the mill rate at 49.5, which is the mill rate under the current rate.

The motion to approve the proposed budget was made by George Maharan and seconded by John Orliowski who then asked to speak on the motion.

Orliowski commented, "It looks like people are satisfied with this budget, but I'm very happy with it."

He predicted the 1.5 drop in mill rate and the complemented the Board of Education and Town Council on presenting reasonable budgets.

A motion was then made to move the question, with moderator Abbott Schwebel, town attorney, explaining that if the motion passed it would cut off debate on the original motion. A voice vote was taken and Atty. Schwebel ruled that the motion passed with the required two-thirds majority.

Councilman Robert Houley asked for a standing vote and

Questions Law

HARTFORD (AP)—The head of the Connecticut State Employees Association (CSEA) has questioned the constitutionality of a law that provides for lump sum payments to state employees who don't receive any salary increase during the coming year.

The law, which was passed last year, provides for a lump sum payment to state employees who do not receive a salary increase during the coming year.

Programs Scheduled For Special Teachers

The Manchester school system's special education personnel will participate in a series of four in-service meetings during the next four weeks, the Board of Education learned Monday night.

Alan B. Chesterton, director of pupil personnel services, said the meetings will be "teaching and learning programs" for the special service staff.

The in-service meetings, all to be conducted at Bentley School, are:

May 21 — Betty Gallist, professor of special education at Southern Connecticut State College, will speak about "General Organization of Theoretical Approach to Learning Strengths and Weaknesses."

May 24 — The staff of the Spaulding Youth Center at Tilton, N.H., will discuss "Behavioral Modifications for the Learning Disabled Child."

May 31 — Alicia Anctena, a nationally known lecturer in reading and learning disabilities, will speak at the Bentley School at Cambridge, Mass. She will talk on "The Learning Disabled Child in the Regular Class — Language and Reading Development."

June 8 — Ann Marie Frost Miller, a consultant and director of special education at Bentley School, will discuss "Classroom Applications, Adaptations of Learning Disabilities Techniques."

The Manchester special education personnel participating in the meetings include remedial reading, speech therapists, social workers, and psychologists.

Prosecution Roadblocks Basis Of Court Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has asked the Supreme Court to strengthen the hand of prosecutors pursuing "congressional corruption."

The department asked the court Monday to recognize the political and practical difficulties in prosecution of congressional misconduct and to reduce the shield that legislative activity affords against prosecution.

To do so would follow the words of Congress itself, the government maintained in asking for review of a lower court's reversal of convictions won against former Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex.

Dowdy, a 20-year veteran of the House who did not seek reelection last November, was convicted last year on eight counts stemming from a $25,000 bribe he allegedly accepted to protect members of his own district from prosecution of new defects in home-improvement firm from prosecution in the District of Columbia.

The U.S. Circuit Court at Richmond tossed out five of the eight counts, reducing Dowdy's penalty from 18 months in jail and a $25,000 fine.

The circuit court said the government had delegated to Dowdy's actions as a legislator, actions that are protected by the Constitution's protection of "speech and debate" by lawmakers.

"If allowed to stand, the ruling would make it exceedingly difficult as a practical matter to prosecute congressional corruption," the government petitioned.

"Moreover, the circuit court simply cast too wide a definition of protected legislative activity," the Justice Department argued.

"In effect, the court's holding shields members of Congress from their misconduct from criminal prosecution merely by asserting that acts relating to the misconduct had a legislative purpose or were done in anticipation of possible congressional hearing or investigation," the government maintained.

"Given the inherent practical and political difficulties of actually trying a member of Congress through experience and a mature responsibility to nurture the student's curiosity and his satisfaction from learning so that he has the momentum, as well as the skills, to continue his learning beyond the classroom."

"A knowledge of the order and wonder of the natural world with perception of man's and nature's relationship."

"A capability to think effectively and creatively with an understanding of the relationship between ideas and symbols, and the skill to comprehend and communicate thought expressed in symbols."

"The insight to enjoy, and the ability to pursue, the aesthetic dimensions of all his experiences."

"An awareness of both the discipline and the delight of his physical being together with the skill to care for and enjoy it."

"The capacity to initiate and sustain purposeful endeavor, with emphasis on cultivating the variety of skills which he will need."

As the school implements its role as a major, formative step in the lifelong process of each student's education, it must recognize its special responsibility to nurture the student's curiosity and his satisfaction from learning so that he has the momentum, as well as the skills, to continue his learning beyond the classroom.

sure the voters will recognize we're doing things correctly."

Noting that the Democrats have a big lead in registration in Manchester, Cummings said, "We're going to go ahead and make many more voters. The Republicans are playing catch-up and I don't think they'll ever catch up."

Cummings said he deplores the recent disclosures in Washington and in Hartford.

"I can only express my basic feeling," he said. "The whole mess makes me feel bad, Watergate, and now this seeming improper making of voters, just smears the whole situation."

"The whole picture makes it tough for an honest politician to continue. It's the honest people who make the system tick, and now they are suspect, however wrongly. Many top national jobs are going wanting, and it's too bad. Good, top-level Republicans just don't want to get involved."

Cummings said he fears the disclosures "surely will drive good people out of the Republican party."

"I'm talking about fine and able people—people who might want to run for office locally and on the state and national level," he explained. "I'm talking about people who wouldn't want to get involved in a party directed by the kind of leadership revealed to us."

Bus Service Hearings Bring Out New Concept

STAMFORD (AP)—City buses could whiz along special traffic lanes, controlling traffic lights ahead of them by electronic signals, under proposals for better bus service advanced by the state Department of Transportation.

The proposal was one of 10 offered by Deputy Transportation Commissioner F. Colin Paine at hearings Monday into improving state-subsidized bus service expanded to recreational areas and that firms be given bulk rates for the daily transportation of employees and from work. He also recommended better coordination between bus and train schedules.

"Cut-rate tickets for regular bus commuters, similar to the monthly ticket books that train commuters can buy."

A suggestion by Frank Merline, the president of the Commuters Action Committee of Fairfield County, that ConnCo use minibuses on lightly-traveled routes as a money-saving measure.

State figures for April presented at the meeting put ConnCo losses at $74,754 in Hartford, $88,127 in New Haven and $23,889 in Stamford.

Consumer Agency Given More Power

HARTFORD (AP)—The Connecticut Senate has voted to boost the power of the Department of Consumer Protection and to require annual evaluations of all public school teachers.

Elsewhere Tuesday on a busy schedule, the Senate approved bills toughening Connecticut anti-gambling laws, and the Environmental Protection Department more flexibility in fighting polluters.

The House delayed until 1976 at the earliest a statewide referendum on eliminating the party level on voting machines.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill permitting consumer protection officials to subpoena business records and individuals and to order an end to business practices the officials consider illegal.

The bill, known as the "Little FTC" act, also lets the state follow the Federal Trade Commission's practice of arranging settlements between businesses and disgruntled consumers without an official finding of guilt against the businesses.

The State Board of Education will receive annual evaluations of every public school teacher under a bill given final approval by the Senate. The bill, effective in July 1974, requires that the evaluations be made by local school superintendents in accordance with guidelines drawn up by the state board and approved by lawmakers.

The Environmental Protection Department would be freed of mandatory enforcement regulations under legislation that received initial legislative approval in the Senate. The change would let the department deal with pollution outside of court if it believed court action was not appropriate to the case. The bill also would extend the permit period from one year to five years. Still another bill would declare the Rocky Hill ferry a state historic structure.

ALICE EVANS (Herald Reporter) (Other stories Page 1)

Progress that has been made on educational legislative and enforcement fronts in protecting the environment was discussed last night by Douglas Castle, deputy commissioner of Connecticut's Department of Environmental Protection, at the annual dinner meeting of the Life Junior Museum board of trustees at Willie's Steak House.

"Connecticut's strong water pollution control legislation is one of the best in the country and a clear forerunner of the recently passed federal bill," he said.

He said that the water in the Connecticut River is getting cleaner and hopes that it will soon be possible to fish for salmon in the river.

"Solid waste, an economic liability, may soon be turned into an asset, he said. To do this, he said, the burnable waste will be separated and turned into a fuel supplement. Northeast Utilities will use this fuel supplement in two of its boilers and, with air pollution devices, the fuel supplement should work more efficiently than with processed fuel, he said. "As energy becomes more expensive, this fuel will become more valuable," he said.

The combustible portion of waste is 60 per cent of what we throw away, and the other 40 per cent is scrap, which can be sold to dealers.

He predicted that a bill will be passed to authorize a $250 million dollar bond issue, which will be paid by sales of the residues of trash.

He also said that new pesticide legislation will be passed by the state soon to regulate the type of pesticide that can be introduced into our environment.

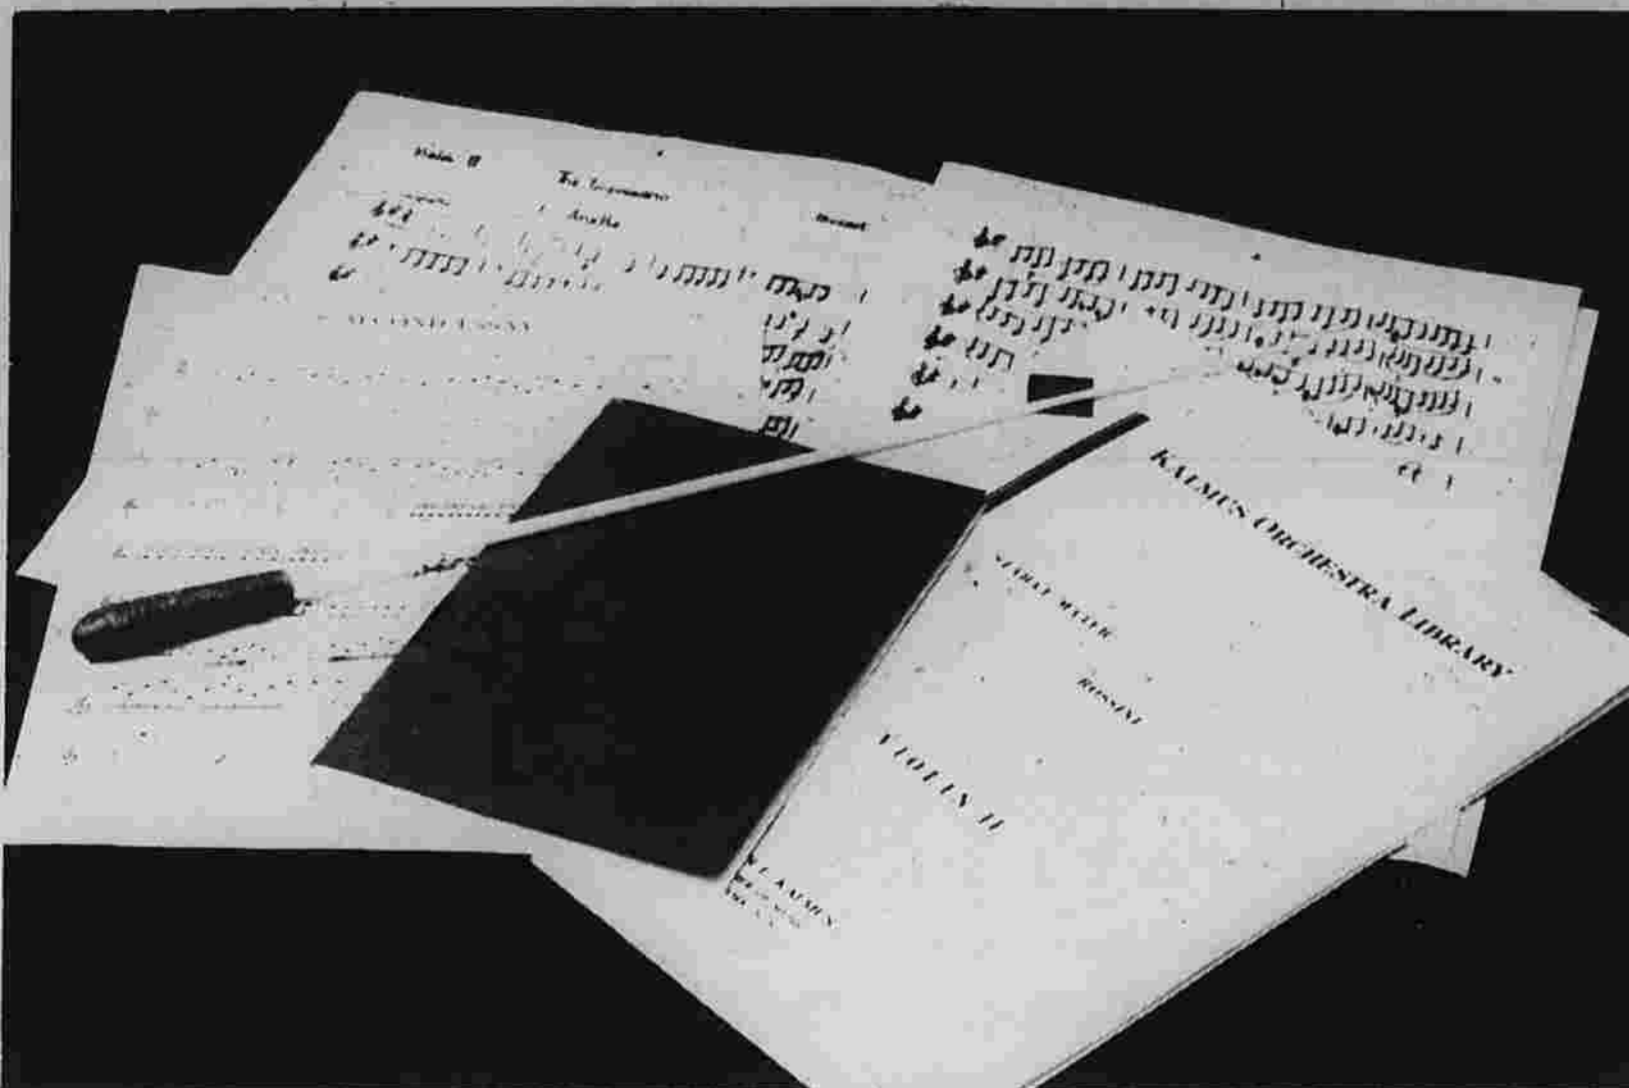

The potential petroleum crisis is not due to environmental standards, he said, any until called such charges "85 per cent balloon." As long as we depend on exports of petroleum products, we depend on price controls. The cost is going up for a number of reasons of which, environmental control accounts for only a fraction, he said.

Political 'Loans'

If and when the Congress should ever get around to doing something about political campaign financial practices, we think the area of loans should be thoroughly explored.

It seems to be an increasing practice on the part of both political parties, especially during campaigns, to temporarily replete party treasuries with loans.

Now our thought is that if it is wrong to rely on "fat cat" contributions, which are outright gifts because they might make a party or candidate beholden to a lender?

Our concern is that we think the "loan" device is a loophole to get around the law which, believe it or not, a lot of donors observe by limiting their contributions to legal limits.

With the "loan" device the candidates or parties are able to get their hands on huge sums of cash for special projects like telethons, chartered airplane trips, etc., right away instead of waiting until the treasury has the cash in hand.

The other danger is that if the anticipated funds should not materialize the candidate or party must find some other way to pay up, either through additional loans or favors.

No, if large contributions present a possible avenue for corruption, the "loan" practice does also. It would be our hope that whatever guidelines the Congress may develop to more effectively control contributions to parties and candidates; similar restrictions and guidelines should be established governing loans to candidates and parties.

For in politics, neither borrower nor lender should be the rule for parties and candidates alike.

Whither Mail Rates?

The Postal Service seems to believe that higher rates will take care of most of its ills, including poor service.

Recent rate increases have contributed to the demise of some national magazines and have put some smaller newspapers in a bind.

Senator Barry Goldwater told the Senate Committee considering whether to let the Postal Service go ahead with another scheduled rate hike on publications that many of them face extinction if postage keeps costing more.

Goldwater noted that two thirds of the three hundred million copies of magazines published are delivered by mail, more than 2.6 billion copies of daily newspapers, and 23 million copies of weekly newspapers.

Anything that prevents or interferes with the widespread dissemination and the public's access to ideas and information, Goldwater said "is playing with fire."

An alternative plan proposed by Goldwater and 23 other senators is to spread the increase over 10 years and to provide a subsidy to help some smaller publications to continue to use the mails. Spreading the increase out is a good idea. Another subsidy to a special group is irresponsible. If there is to be subsidy, it should up-grade the whole service.

Most citizens wouldn't mind the high postal rates and the increases yet to come quite so much if the service was swift and reliable. But when a customer's daily newspaper reaches him in a bundle of three or four and all a week late, he wonders what has happened to the pony express.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

Nat Schwedel told us the other day that he received one contribution for the Saul Silverstein Youth Center in Manchester from far-off Japan.

Saturday is Armed Forces Day even though Hartford noted the occasion with a parade last Saturday. We'd be more than happy to make The Herald's parking lot available to any groups that might wish to display military equipment that day.

At any rate, it is a day to pay tribute to our servicemen and those in the Guard and Reserves. It might sound corny but we sleep a little better at night knowing that we have both the Guard and Reserves.

Are the prices of some cuts of horse meat rising? With the demand apparently increasing, a housewife echoed the thought the other day that there has been a price increase in some cuts.

Some time ago, in regard to death notices, we put in a policy that we wouldn't say please omit flowers or in lieu of flowers.

We would much rather say something like this: The family suggests that tributes be in the form of contributions to a particular charity or to your favorite charity.

We appeal for the cooperation of all funeral directors. The Herald also is very much interested in pleasing the bereaved family. By the same token we don't think there should be any form of discrimination against any business.

The one-half per cent reduction in the state sales tax takes effect July 1, presumably because that's the beginning of the state's fiscal year.

Yet we wonder if the July 1 date won't hurt retail business, particularly in regard to big ticket items, between now and July 1.

It is probably too late to do anything about it now and yet the legislature would have helped the retailer if the reduction started June 1.

We believe Manchester is indeed fortunate in having a fine, talented Board of Directors.

We aren't saying that simply because they cut the tax load by two mills; or by the fact that they named the property owned by this newspaper, Herald Square.

We have noticed a spirit of cooperation among the directors and a bi-partisan approach when it comes to solving problems. Praise is due all directors. They have indicated to us that their number one concern is that they are a director, not that they are a Democrat or Republican, and that's what makes for good government and a good town.

Some civic clubs, groups, that desire a change on pace luncheon might take a look at a new lunch program starting at Manchester Community College July 2.

With a federal grant, a new program called Help (Handicapped Earning and Living Project), is being initiated at the college in which handicapped students are trained in various phases of the food service industry.

Lunch will be served daily from noon to 1 p.m. at $1 per person. Groups of 30 to 35 are preferred.

Food for thought from a leaflet published by the AFL-CIO.

Remember, if you and your friends and people all over the country wrote to your congressmen three or four or five times a year, the laws passed by Congress would be much more to your liking.

A Fortune magazine poll says big corporations have increased their legal outlays by as much as 75 per cent in the past six years.

The upsurge in class action suits, action brought by individuals or several persons in their own behalf and in behalf of all others so situated, has resulted in the legal explosion.

Fortune says that today class action suits are a kind of popular sport.

It's our thought, though, that in some fashion the consumer always pays the cost of a business operation each time he makes a purchase. Now it appears that for a great many companies, legal outlays might be part of that cost.

Attention Mr. Businessman: A booklet entitled, "What Every Employer Needs to Know About Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) Record Keeping, is now available. It can be yours by writing for Report 412 (Revised) 1973, U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Washington, D.C. It might be a good manual to have in your office.

Newsweek reports that The Kremlin has vetoed a bid by Holiday Inns to build a hotel in Moscow.

The turn down, according to Soviet officials in Washington, was largely due to the huge lighted sign that is the motel chain's trademark. The Russians didn't want it on their skyline.

Maybe the Russians have a point, there.

Managuans Attempting To Rebuild

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The earthquake devastated Managua more than four months ago, but the Nicaraguan capital's 600,000 people have no hospitals yet — just medical tents.

A church clock stands among the rubble, its hands stuck at 12:23, the moment the quake struck during the night of Dec. 22-23, 1972.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers spent five hours in Managua Monday between Mexico and Venezuela on his 17-day tour of eight Latin American countries. He was visibly moved as he walked through the ruins, shaking his head and declaring: "The complete destruction is beyond comprehension."

His wife agreed. "It's hideous, just hideous," she said. About one fourth of the city was destroyed, 10,000 people were killed, 20,000 were injured and 300,000 lost their homes.

The United States has contributed more than $27 million in assistance, more than all other countries combined. But there is little sign of reconstruction.

Platoons of workers recruited by the government are picking up the debris. They were very evident along Rogers' route from the airport, but there was no sign of labor on other streets.

Very visible were thousands of children, 2nd adults as well, waving little paper American and Nicaraguan flags supplied by the government of Anastasio Somoza, the stocky 48-year-old general whose family has ruled the Central American country for 38 years.

"Viva, Somosa! Viva, Somosa!" was the cry from the crowd as he and Rogers laid the cornerstone for a 250-bed hospital to be built with $1.5 million in American money.

Do You Have TOO Many Friends?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you have too many friends? Most of us feel we could use a few more. But now and then we meet someone who, perhaps because of a gathering feeling of misanthropy or because he has too many credit cards, decides his garden of friendship has become overcrowded and is threatening to choke him with palpitations.

His solution is simple. All he has to do is weed out that garden.

How? Well, one way is to put a bar in the glad hand of his fellowship.

Here are a few time-tested remarks that have broken up many lifelong friendships:

"I don't see why you should be having any trouble with your teenage children. Our two are perfectly well-behaved. Often, in cases like yours, they come about because the parents simply don't make the necessary effort to understand their children."

"I could lend you the money, but I'm not going to because I am convinced I'd be doing you more harm than good."

"If I were you, buddy, I'd start right now looking for another place to hang my hat. The boss has tipped me confidentially that he wants me to take over your job next month."

"Your wife wants me to run off with her, but I've decided against it. When have you ever done that big a favor for me?"

"My mother-in-law is staying with us for a month. What weekend can we park the old bug with you. She'd love to see you her album of childhood pictures of all the presidents. The only one missing is Millard Fillmore."

"I'd love to lend you my new car in a year or so, Joe. But right now I don't want to get any dents in it."

"I didn't insinuate that you cheated during any of the poker games we've been playing at your house. I just said I'd never heard of anyone winning so consistently who didn't use marked cards. What's wrong about saying that?"

"I guess our families won't be seeing so much of each other from now on, Jim. My wife just inherited some money. It isn't a lot—but just enough so that my wife feels we should move up a little socially."

"Now and then I get the feeling I'd rather have you as an enemy than a friend, Fred. That way I'd know for sure just where you stood."

"Glad to hear your pretty daughter married so well. Whatever happened to the honey one—the one who looks like your side of the family?"

Stamford Landfill Opponents Win

STAMFORD (AP) — Because of strong citizen opposition to a proposed sanitary landfill operation in the city, plans are being made for debris to be trucked to New Milford, Stamford Mayor Julius M. Wilensky said Tuesday.

Operation of the most recent proposed site on Hope Street was estimated at $300,000 annually, he said. Trucking such debris as incinerator ash and non-combustible construction and household debris will probably double the cost, he said.

The Hope Street property was to be given to Stamford by the Peabody Engineering Co. but the firm withdrew its offer because it was being "harrassed," the mayor added.

He said bids are being sought from trucking firms with permits to dump in New Milford. After the Hope Street site became the third rejected by Stamford's citizens during the search for a new landfill area, Wilensky said he felt there was no point in pursuing a site in Stamford.

Wilensky said he's not concerned because the state will arrive at a solution in "two or three years," referring to state plans for regional recycling and solid waste disposal programs.

Meanwhile, Stamford would have to double its recycling efforts, he said.

The city has a paper recycling program but a special plan for glass was defeated because of resident complaints from the area where the recycling location existed, substantial financial losses incurred by the city due to lack of volume and broken glass near the recycling site.

The city's old landfill was closed down after it reached its capacity. The city had to cancel its annual spring cleanup because of the lack of disposal of the debris.

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — A University of Arizona speech professor says poetry may be good emotional therapy for prison inmates.

School To Loan Sprayer For Moths

ANNE EMIT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Conservation Commission, after consulting with the state's Department of Environmental Protection, is recommending that residents spray for gypsy moths, using B.T. spray.

To assist with the spraying, the commission has made arrangements with the elementary school for residents to use the school's sprayer. The sprayer will be loaned out on a first-come, first-served basis and residents should contact the school office.

At last week's town meeting, it was suggested to the selectmen that they look into the possibility of an aerial spray effort to control the moths.

However, Mrs. Carolyn Graham, secretary of the commission, reports that DEP informed that aerial spraying for the entire town would need town meeting action for approval.

In addition, a helicopter would have to be used, for which insurance would be expensive, and the town would have to pay the full cost, as no state funds are available.

Mrs. Graham did state that if a few neighbors still wished to spray, they would first have to obtain a release from adjoining neighbors not participating and apply for a permit to the DEP submitting a topographic map of the land to be sprayed.

Also, once this procedure has been followed, the DEP will then send a representative to check the area for infestation prior to issuing any permit.

In recommending the use of B.T., Mrs. Graham stated that the caterpillars need not be sprayed directly on you to die; the entire tree has to be sprayed.

Spraying the grass around the trunk of the tree as far up the tree as can be reached would be sufficient, she said, as the caterpillars come down during the heat of the day and the spray is ingested through contact.

In addition to recommending B.T. spray, the commission has set up a display in the Town Of-

Girl Scout News

Cadet Girl Scout Troop No. 10 spent last weekend tent camping under the pines at the James L. Goodwin State Forest in Hampton.

Each patrol prepared and cooked their own diversified meals under the supervision of patrol leaders, Debby Bayless, Arline Berube, Nancy Schaffer and Suzanne Thomas.

Saturday morning, under the direction of a state forester, the scouts planted 250 white pine seedlings on the hillside by a lake. Assisting were Beldon Schaffer, Reginald Christensen, Edward Bayless and Ralph Sigmond, fathers of the girls, who were weekend guests of the troop.

In the afternoon, a 9 1/2 mile hike on the Blue Trail was led by Alice Mead. Jean Kelsey, assistant leader worked with the scouts on outdoor safety activities. Mrs. Everett Kelsey and Mrs. E. E. Kelsey attended a "Tree Talk" workshop offered by Eastern Connecticut State College's interdisciplinary team at the Conservation Center on the grounds.

The scouts broke camp Sunday noon after inspection by Mrs. Lois Kelley, director of Goodwin State Forest Conservation Center.

The newly elected and appointed officers will be installed in semi-public ceremonies next month at the Masonic Temple.

Miss Robin Sue Murdoch of Bolton was elected worthy advisor of Manchester Assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls, at its meeting Monday at the Masonic Temple. She succeeds Miss Kathleen Finnegan.

Mushrooms Are Delicious Dish On their Own. As A Garnish

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
For centuries man has sought out the mysterious fungus called the mushroom to garnish the meal, fish or fowl gracing his table.
But today the mushroom has become more than a mere delicacy to dress up a steak or help stuff a chicken. Chefs recognize it as a delectable food in its own right, and nutritionists say the fungus contains plenty of minerals, a fair amount of vegetable proteins and essential vitamins.

Scientists estimate that there are about 38,000 varieties of mushrooms lurking in shaded nooks in various parts of the world and that more than 700 of them have proven edible.
Only one type of mushroom is cultivated commercially in the United States, an adaptation of the common field variety. But are well acquainted with the lethal varieties like the bell-shaped Death Cap which grows over much of America and packs a poison that has about the same effect as the venom of a rattlesnake.

Unless you are an expert, it is best to buy your mushrooms from the marketplace. If you prefer the imports, most cooks find the dried creps and morels preferable to the canned variety. They are cheaper to buy and have more flavor. Unlike fresh mushrooms, the dried fungi can be cooked for long periods of time without coming to any harm.

When I stayed with friends in southern England some years ago, my host and his wife used to grow mushrooms in the garden and bring back a basket of mushrooms which they cultivated commercially in the United States, an adaptation of the common field variety. But peas. One for creamed mushrooms in vol-au-vent, or feather-light pastry shells, particularly appealed to me. Here is the recipe.

1 ounce dried morels
3 ounces butter
2 ounces flour
6 ounces cream
1/2 ounce sherry wine
1/2 ounce white wine
1/2 ounce brandy
4 ounces chicken stock
1/2 ounce shallots
Paprika, salt, pepper to taste
Soak morels in cold water for 2 1/2 hours. Prepare a roux with butter and flour, adding white wine, sherry and chicken stock and simmering 10 minutes. Separately saute shallots and morels. Flame them with brandy and mix with the above sauce, adding salt, pepper and paprika. Pour mushrooms and sauce into pastry shells and serve. Makes four servings. Good with a dry white wine.

Hebron

Two Gas Stations Limited in Supply

ANNÉ EMT Correspondent Tel. 228-3971

The gasoline "squeeze" has hit Hebron with two of the three gasoline stations in town having received notification yesterday that deliveries will be rationed based on last year's sales.

Both the gasoline stations affected are Texaco stations, one owned by Robert Cafazzo on Rt. 66 and the other by David Perham on Rt. 85.

Thomas Toomey, owner of the Mobile Plaza Station on Rt. 66, has not been affected and stated yesterday that his representative has assured him that he will have "all the gasoline all summer long" that he needs.

Both Cafazzo and Perham received letters from Republic Oil Co. Distributors of Texaco Petroleum Products, stating that effective immediately "deliveries to you of gasoline and diesel fuels in any one calendar month shall not exceed the amount delivered to you in the corresponding month of the year 1972."

Republic Oil Co. did state in the letter that this action is pending receipt of details of the program of allocation of petroleum products announced by the Treasury Department and is subject to further revision at any time.

Tag Sale The Knights of Columbus of St. Columba's Church of Columbia will hold a tag sale on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Lunch and refreshments will be available.

LONG LETTER SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Steve Hoy is hoping he has written the longest letter ever penned — or penciled.

From salutation, "Hi, Tim" (a cousin in Kansas City) to signature, the letter rambles for an estimated 137,000 words over 5,379 feet of adding machine tape. It weighs 12 pounds. "I just wrote about the weather and everything I've done since I was 7," said Steve. He said it took three and a half months to write and cost $11.07 to mail.

GOP Interns Picked

ANNÉ EMT Correspondent Tel. 228-3971

Cheryl Lyman and Fred Schoen, both juniors at Rham High School, have been selected as principal and alternate interns, respectively, to participate in the Summer Intern Program in Washington, D.C.

Under the program, organized by Sen. Lowell Weicker and Congressman Stewart McKinney, Robert Steele and Ronald Sarasin, the interns will spend a week observing both houses of Congress in session, attending committee hearings and participating in seminars conducted by top level officials from all branches of the federal government. The interns will also visit the Supreme Court, the White House, and other points of interest in the nation's capital as well as attend concerts, plays and a series of capital cultural events.

Participation in this year's intern program was made possible through the funding and sponsorship of the Hebron Republican Town Committee.

Aetna Plans New Facility In Windsor

HARTFORD (AP) — Aetna Life & Casualty announced plans Tuesday to construct a $10 million warehouse and office facility in Windsor, about eight miles north of Hartford.

Aetna said the 300,000-square-foot structure would be built on a 39 acre tract between Bloomfield Avenue and Pigeon Hill Road, about one mile from I-91. It will house the insurance company's furniture, records and equipment storage, engineering and printing facilities and supply services.

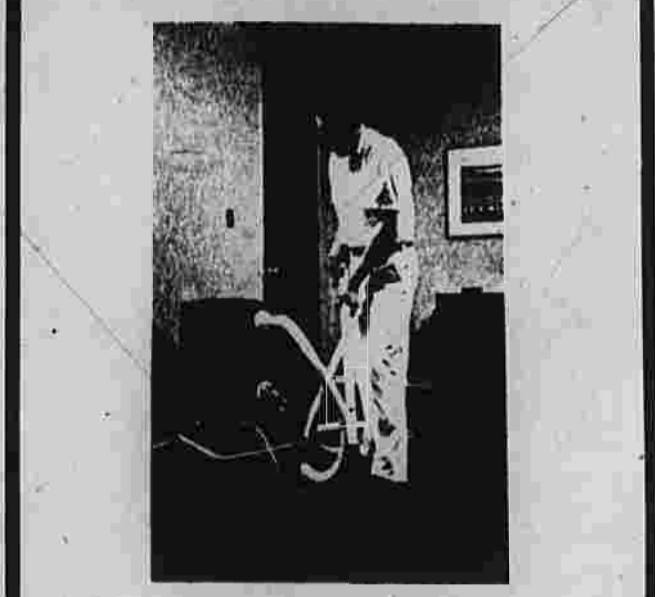

Aetna Chairman John H. Filer said the new facility will consolidate services now scattered in seven different locations around Hartford. The move will free 45,000 square feet of space in the home office complex, making room for 450 additional workers, Filer said. The new Windsor facility will employ approximately 400 people.

Construction will begin later this month with completion scheduled for late 1974. Newport Associates, a Hartford-based real estate and management firm, will supervise construction of the building.

One of the leading tourist attractions in Jamaica is the daily wrestling match between Hoss Kemp, owner of the Swamp Safaris Ranch, and a crocodile.

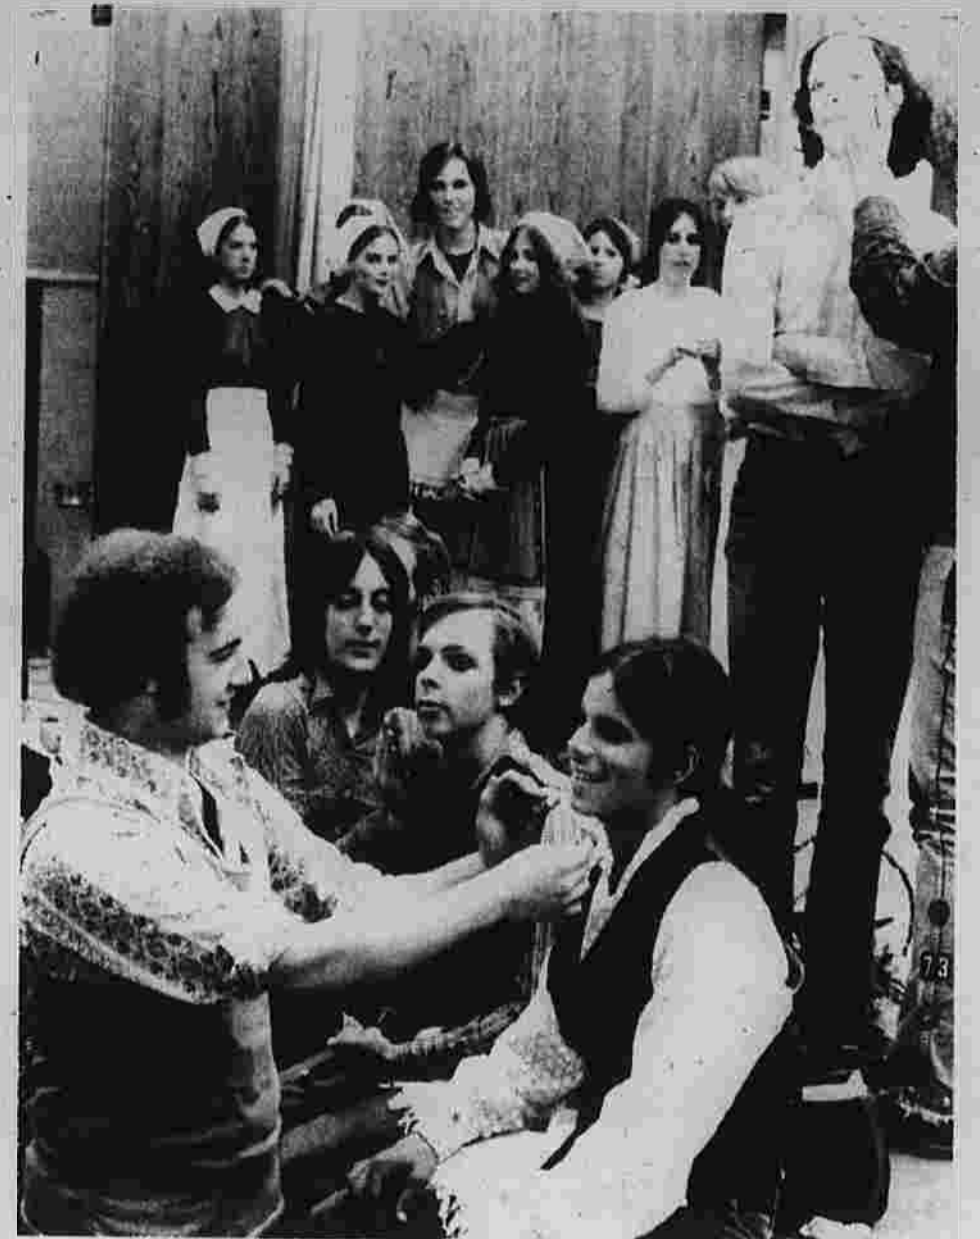

cuts Planned WASHINGTON (AP) — A little less than 10 per cent of the Army's reserve officers will be notified next month they are being released from active duty. The Army said that the 4,900 officers are no longer needed in the post-Vietnam era. Only officers below the rank of lieutenant colonel are being asked to leave the service by Oct. 1. Army officers in ranks higher than major are thinned out by encouraging their retirement, rather than outright discharge, said the Army.

'Dial-A-Bus' Service Use Increasing ANSONIA (AP) — About 900 persons now hold fare cards for Connecticut's first "Dial A Bus" service, according to officials of the Valley Transit District, which runs it. Users of the special, federally funded bus service arrange for transportation by telephone a day in advance and then use their cards as admission to the bus and to record the distance of their ride. Jeffrey H. Norensky, district manager, said today that the service has been made available to the general public since it was inaugurated nearly two months ago. It originally was restricted to the ill, elderly and handicapped. Rides are restricted to the four-town area of Ansonia, Derby, Shelton and Seymour. The cost of a ride depends on the number of riders sharing expenses and the distance traveled. The district's minibuses make door-to-door runs instead of traveling fixed routes. Norensky said fares average about 60 cents for a long ride and about 25 cents for a short one. The district was created as a special pilot project and will operate for two years, at which point the publicly operated district will assume full control and expenses of the service.

Art Group Picks Slate, Top Works

The Tolland County Art Association elected Mrs. Yvette Numrych of Tolland as its president for the coming year, and selected Mrs. Marie DeCarli as artist of the month and a painting, "Blue Pansy," by Laurie King of Vernon, the painting of the month.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Mildred Pereira of Vernon, vice president; Mrs. Sue Niederwerfer, Vernon, treasurer and Mrs. Terry Edmonds, Tolland, secretary.

Mrs. DeCarli's works and the picture of the month will be on display at the Rockville Public Library.

Other paintings chosen to be on display in other area libraries, banks and offices include: "Surt Casting," an oil by Ron King of Tolland, Savings Bank of Rockville; "Seascape," an acrylic by Ruth Regan of Manchester, Hall Memorial Library, Ellington; "Maple Sagaring Shed," watercolor by Pat Kelly of Vernon, People's Bank, Rockville; "Bottoms Up," an ink by Rita Kenway, South Windsor, First Federal Savings, Rockville.

Also: "Daisies by the Sea," an oil by Helen Rice of Vernon, Savings Bank of Tolland; untitled oil by Joan Burbank of Tolland, office of Dr. Joseph Shim; "Apple Blossom Time," oil by Esther Luginbuhl of Ellington, Dunphy Dance Studio, Vernon.

Also: "Decorative Flowers," acrylic by Pat Cook of Tolland, People's Savings Bank, Vernon Circle; "Still Life," oil by Dorothy Voyer of Tolland, office of Dr. Daniel Worwich; "Fluff," scratchboard by Peg Winder of Ellington, Society for Savings, Ellington.

Reward Still Offered In Miner Murder Case

State Police are still looking for information concerning the April 7 murder of Harry T. "Pete" Miner of Bolton, Sgt. William Buchert reported today.

Sgt. Buchert, who is in charge of criminal investigations at the State Police Colchester Barracks, said today there are no new leads in the murder investigation.

The Miner family is offering a $1,000 reward "for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons reasonably" for the slaying, Sgt. Buchert said.

Any persons with information should contact police at the Colchester Barracks, tel. 643-6004, Sgt. Buchert said. He said the reward will be held in the "strictest of confidence."

Miner was shot at about 8:15 p.m. on April 7, a Saturday, as he drove home from his job at the Center Rd. home from his near-by Six and Forty-Four Package Store. Police are considering the case to be an armed robbery.

Vernon North Tells Rotary Process 'Community' Not 'Company' Town

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

The "New Community" proposed for Coventry will not be a so-called "company" town, according to Richard North, project director for Greater Hartford Process, Inc., who was guest speaker at the Rotary meeting in Vernon Monday.

The term "company town" was used by Rotarian Seymour Lavitt, who said North's description of the proposed new community was that of a company town.

As the names Hartford Process and DevCo are usually mentioned in the same breath, North defined the difference between the two organizations.

He said Process acts as a catalyst to bring all groups, such as public agencies, private developers, the public and planning agencies together, and DevCo's job is to carry out development proposals made by Process.

North said the Coventry community will probably involve about 1,500 acres of land and of this some 20 per cent of the land to be in permanent open space.

Plans are to have about 60 per cent of the dwelling units sold and about 40 per cent of them for rental. DevCo is now in the process of surveying in Coventry to produce accurate maps for later planning for the proposed New Community.

North said he expects to name a Citizen's Advisory Group made up of Coventry residents so the needs of the community can be represented.

He added that two Coventry residents will also be named to the board of directors of Hartford Process.

While not actually coming out directly and asking the question, one Rotarian alluded to a question concerning the new community being a profit-making program, North said.

"DevCo expects to make a profit like any other private developer," he said.

DevCo plans to provide housing, commercial and office facilities and industry simultaneously to keep the community roughly in balance as it is developed. The entire operation is expected to involve about 15 years, North said.

Grant Awarded For HRC Study

ALICE EVANS (Herald Reporter)

Dr. Archibald Stuart of 200 Redwood Rd., a member of the faculty of the University of Connecticut School of Social Work, has received a grant from the university to study Human Relations Commissions on a statewide basis.

The announcement was made by Dr. Stuart Tuesday night at a meeting of the Manchester Human Relations Commission, of which he is a member.

The study will include discovering what HRCs throughout the state are doing and what kind of problems such is tackling, he said. He told the other commissioners that he would obtain the names and backgrounds and would be interviewing some of them. He hopes to find out why some towns have such commissions while others have none.

Stuart also presented a revision of the wording of the commission's charter, which was made to avoid conflict with the recently formed Commission on the Aged. Though minor changes were made in several sections of the charter, the major revision was in Section 3, which outlines the functions of the commission. The commission will now present the revised charter to the Town Board of Directors for approval.

Dr. Ivor Echols of the University of Connecticut School of Social Studies was unable to speak to the commission on "A Look at Racism, Individual and Institutional" as planned but will appear before the commission at a later date.

Commissioner Joseph Howard spoke of the need for integrated history courses in Manchester schools and said that she believed these studies should start in the lower grades. This subject will be considered at more length at a future commission meeting.

The commission is planning to sponsor a Town Meeting of the Air in conjunction with radio station WINF on a one-on-a-one basis. Commissioner Carl Zinsner suggested the cost of $21,000 to $24,000. He said the added sum will not increase the 1973-74 town budget adopted May 7. He explained it would come out of the $65,000 contingency account—already distributed.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Rockville Session

William Johnson, 34, of 37D Vernon Garden Apartments, Vernon, Tuesday pleaded guilty to charges of third-degree larceny (nine counts), fourth-degree larceny (three counts), operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension and violation of probation.

Judge Roman Lexton sentenced him to 90 days for each count of larceny (a total of 720 days), the sentence to be suspended after Johnson serves six months of the sentence and eight months on the probation violation charge, to be served consecutively.

Johnson was also fined $100 on the motor vehicle charge. The court remitted the fine.

William Chamberlain, 19, of Bancroft Rd., Rockville, pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree criminal trespass and receive a 45-day suspended sentence.

Harry K. Scott, 26 N. Park St., Rockville, pleaded guilty to a charge of third-degree criminal mischief and was given a 15-day suspended sentence.

Babbidge Sounds Like Candidate

HOLLY GANTNER Correspondent

Dr. Homer Babbidge, looking and sounding very much like a gubernatorial candidate, told a group of Coventry Young Democrats Tuesday night that he considers himself a man of "considerable executive and administrative experience."

Asked if he thought someone with a "liberal" label could be elected, Babbidge replied that however a candidate is labeled, he can be elected as long as he "doesn't promise more than he can deliver."

The former UConn president, now at Yale and a Coventry taxpayer by virtue of some 50 acres he owns in the South St. area, said he was confident that liberal aspirations, "realistically stated," could prevail.

Babbidge had no prepared statement for his appearance, but sat and chatted informally with about 30 Young Dems and their guests, answering questions which centered mainly on political concerns.

Asked about his main concern regarding the administration of Gov. Thomas Meskill, Babbidge said he viewed it as a government that "appears to be without purpose or compassion. The leadership function is absent," he added, and Meskill "is not telling us where we're headed."

Other matters discussed included growth of the state and regionalization. Babbidge noted, in response to the question, "Is all this growth 'Pain in Hell'?"

Ground Beef

May Be Costly

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland woman who says she spent $17.50 to have two packages of ground beef analyzed has sued a supermarket chain for $100,719. She contends the ground beef contained too much fat.

Suzan Winder is asking $100,000 for exemplary and punitive damages, $700 for legal fees, $17.50 for the analysis and $2 for the cost of the meat.

She says Fred Meyer inc. acted maliciously and in wanton disregard for her rights and feelings by selling her ground beef with a fat content higher than the 15 per cent specified by store policy.

Assembly Passes Stiff Gaming Law

HARTFORD (AP)—Professional gamblers who take pains to conceal their operations from the police face especially severe penalties under anti-gambling legislation approved by the General Assembly.

The measure passed Tuesday in a 3-2 Senate vote after earlier approval by the House. In addition to providing special penalties for hidden gambling operations, it lets police seize gambling devices and furniture they find in gambling houses and gives law officers the right to cut off telephone, electric and gas service to suspected gambling dens.

The legislation was written by a national committee as a model statute and has been adopted by at least two other states.

Professional gambling, transmission of gambling information or devices and maintenance of gambling premises would result in a stiffened penalty under the law of a year's imprisonment and a fine of $1,000. The same fine, plus a six-month prison term, would apply to people found guilty of soliciting for gambling operations or of making and transporting gambling records.

In a move to fight well-hidden gambling centers the bill provides for a $5,000 fine for persons who run gambling houses that are equipped with alarm systems or are "locked, barricaded or camouflaged."

The state lottery and parimutuel betting are exempted from the provisions of the act.

The act broadens the definition of a gambling device. Our PARTS DEPARTMENT Will Be CLOSED SATURDAYS Will Be Open To 6 P.M. Mon. - Fri.

Astronauts May Shield Space Lab

Mrs. James E. Ratcliffe
and brief on-board inspection. A decision on what to do and when to do it will be made until Saturday, reported William C. Schneider, Skylab program director. The countdown on the astronauts' Skylab 18 rocket continued on schedule in case the green light is given Sunday.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz are involved in the decision-making process. Schneider said that, if it is decided to take up a balloon or some other shade device, the balloon might have to be delivered several days to acquire and test the object and give the astronauts time to rehearse installation.

The training is important because the installation might involve a space walk by one or two of the astronauts, and they would have to be thoroughly briefed on exactly what to do on the potentially hazardous assignment.

If a balloon were selected, it probably would resemble an air mattress that would be attached to a spacecraft boom, swept over the workshop and inflated. Also being considered is a thermal insulation blanket 42 feet long and 10 to 12 feet wide.

"If we could cover 30 to 40 percent of the affected spacecraft side facing the sun, flight controller Don Puddy told newsman Tuesday night. The space agency seemed to be leaning more to having the Skylab 1 crew install a shade rather than merely a fly-around mission to assess the problem for the Skylab 2 and 3 crews who would inhabit the station later in the year if troubles were corrected.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz were to have reroiled into orbit Tuesday in pursuit of Skylab, but the flight was postponed after two of six solar panels failed to deploy after the workshop reached orbit Monday.

The panels collect and convert the sun's rays to electrical power to operate spacecraft batteries. With the two largest solar panels, Skylab will have half its power.

The Skylab 1 astronauts flew from Cape Kennedy to Johnson Space Center near Houston, Tex., Tuesday.

New Haven Airport Knocked

NEW HAVEN (AP)—The current edition of a national magazine includes "Need-New Haven Airport among the 'best of the worst' in the country."

Playboy, does not describe the local airport but merely includes it in a listing of those with deficiencies.

The list states that the airport has a runway length less than recommended for full-scale operations by the Airline Pilots Association. It is 5,000 feet long. Despite the article's claims, Hester's DC-9 made a landing Monday at Tweed-New Haven. The plane is being rented by singers Sonny and Cher, who arrived Monday in New Haven.

Airport Manager James Malarky noted that the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency have approved the field for "middle sized" jets like the DC-9. It isn't used, however, for planes the size of the Boeing 707.

Card of Thanks
The family of William Mazer wishes to express heartfelt thanks to all their dear relatives, neighbors and friends for their kind thoughts and sympathy during the recent bereavement in the loss of their beloved husband and father.

Kelley Field, Wigren Track?

The Manchester Board of Education is considering naming the baseball diamond and track at Manchester High School's Memorial Field to honor two local veteran sports figures.

Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, says there is a possibility the baseball diamond will be named for Thomas F. Kelley and the track will be named for "Pete" Wigren. The entire athletic field complex would maintain the name of Memorial Field, he said.

Kelley and Wigren, both now retired, coached athletic teams at MHS for many years. Kelley served as football and baseball coach and athletic director for a total of 42 years before retiring in 1962. Wigren, who was track and cross country coach for 33 years, retired in 1954. Both men led their teams to several state and regional titles.

Both Kelley and Wigren have been honored by the Connecticut Sports Writers Alliance with "Gold Keys" in recognition of their long years of service to sports, both in Manchester and the state.

The school board's consideration of the tributes was prompted by a letter from Hartford Sports Editor Earl Yost, who for many years has been suggesting rededication of Memorial Field to honor local sports figures.

Dr. Kennedy said the school administration will be contacting veterans groups to determine their feelings about naming the baseball diamond and track at Memorial Field. He said that he would like to see the baseball diamond and track named after Manchester's veterans, he said.

Naming of the baseball diamond and track may come this fall, Dr. Kennedy said, when the town's Board of Directors has included a $20,000 item for the 1973-1974 capital improvements budget to pay for improvements at Memorial Field.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said the restoration project will probably involve regrading, turtling, and irrigation of the football field. The details haven't been worked out, and there isn't yet a timetable for the work, he said.

Weiss mentioned that restricted use of the football field may be the result of the restoration project.

Central Supply Area Said Saving Money

The cost of paper for the Manchester public schools was reduced by more than $4,000 this year, Wilson E. Deakin Jr., assistant school superintendent, told the Board of Education Monday night.

Deakin, giving a report on school system's central supply area, added, however, that savings might be the result of the primary purpose of the facility.

The major objective in creation of the central supply area was to facilitate ordering, storage, and inventory of school supplies, Deakin said. The facility is now handling all teaching, health, and custodial supplies, and during the summer months it will receive all textbook and library book shipments as well.

The supply area, started about three years ago after suggestion by Ted Fairbanks, school buildings and grounds superintendent, was moved to the former Nike site. Since the school administration was able to transfer existing staff members to the new central supply facility there has been no budget increase for the facility, Deakin pointed out. Carl Walthers, formerly a head custodian, is central supply supervisor, and Joshua Leggett, a former custodian, is supply deliveryman.

revenue sharing funds should be used simply to reduce the tax rate, noting the federal guidelines did not advocate this.

There was an increase of some $4.3 million in the Grand List for Oct. 1, 1972 or about a three percent increase over the previous year. At the current tax rate this generates about $223,000 or about 1.5 mills.

Federal revenue sharing funds have been allowed to the budget, within authorized categories, to avoid increasing the tax rate.

When the final vote was taken on the original motion to set the rate at 48.5 all but Benoit and Wolff approved.

The education budget totals $7,341,266 and the general government budget, $4,065,262.

Thieves took approximately $300 in a burglary at Lynch Toyota Center, Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

The Detective Police Department is investigating the theft.

Donald P. Vincent, 26, of New London, was charged on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with non-support.

He was released on a $300 non-surety bond for court here.

A burglary at 1114 Hilliard St. netted thieves cash and goods valued at approximately $240. Police say the break occurred Tuesday afternoon. The investigation is continuing.

Each of these projects, which are not mutually exclusive, will be of much interest to us all. During 1971 and 72 there was loud public outcry at the meteoric rise in hospital costs over the past ten years. There is no question that these costs have increased at a faster pace than inflation has affected other goods and services, nor is there any question that most serious attention must continue to be directed toward the minimizing of further cost increases. I say "continue to be directed" because such efforts are not being made here at Manchester. I say "minimizing further increases" because reducing our costs more than temporarily, or even eliminating status quo over a period of years is a politician's dream.

The plan is to retain the land in its natural state as a park and recreation area. The Bristol Savings Bank paid $1.8 million for the land and a complex of industrial buildings formerly owned by New Departure-Bristol Division of General Motors. The city will buy the land from the bank for $1 million and the bank plans to sell the buildings to recover the remaining $800,000 of its investment.

The property, located off U.S. 6 on the north side of Bristol, was sought by city to prevent it from being acquired by commercial interests and developed.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With one letter missing from a word, a sign on a hotel here must contain words to supply the skills, the services, and the care which our community needs.

The plan is to retain the land in its natural state as a park and recreation area. The Bristol Savings Bank paid $1.8 million for the land and a complex of industrial buildings formerly owned by New Departure-Bristol Division of General Motors. The city will buy the land from the bank for $1 million and the bank plans to sell the buildings to recover the remaining $800,000 of its investment.

We have problems to solve. Fifty years ago the group who started this hospital had problems, as did their successors who followed. Their problems were overcome, and ours will be also.

That health care delivery is due for changes is no news. We all want it. There is a universal demand which must be satisfied. What would be news, however, are the forms in which these changes will be made, for there is no one answer.

You have probably read in the papers of last weekend the first public announcement of a proposed acquisition of seven or eight Hartford Area hospitals, including ours, which is under discussion. Ed Kenney, who has been the architects for this hospital for many years, has just completed a broad study to improve patient care, to avoid unnecessary duplication of services, sharing facilities already available, to share educational capabilities, and, perhaps, to reduce costs.

Another local effort has been the Hartford County Medical Association's recent beginning of a form of prepaid health insurance.

A third study for possible solutions is being conducted by the Health Planning Council in Hartford.

Each of these projects, which are not mutually exclusive, will be of much interest to us all. During 1971 and 72 there was loud public outcry at the meteoric rise in hospital costs over the past ten years. There is no question that these costs have increased at a faster pace than inflation has affected other goods and services, nor is there any question that most serious attention must continue to be directed toward the minimizing of further cost increases. I say "continue to be directed" because such efforts are not being made here at Manchester. I say "minimizing further increases" because reducing our costs more than temporarily, or even eliminating status quo over a period of years is a politician's dream.

They'll Be Appearing in Talcottville

The Vernon Suburban Women's Club is preparing for its annual Crown Town and Beer Garden festivities to be held May 18 and 19 at Golf Land in Talcottville. Three of the "clowns" try out their costumes while preparing props for the affair. They are, left to right, Mrs. Robert O'Brien, Mrs. Stanley Smyrski and Mrs. David Conant. Proceeds from the two-day event are donated to charities supported by the club. (Herald photo by Ofara)

Social Security

Q. I'm 55 and I've been getting monthly Social Security checks as a disabled widow for the last three years. Will I be able to get Medicare coverage when Medicare for the disabled begins in July?

A. Yes. Also other people receiving Social Security benefits because of disability are eligible for Medicare coverage in July if they have been getting Social Security payments for 2 years or more.

Q. I'll be 62 this June when I retire. Since I was born in Germany, the only proof of my age I have is a baptismal certificate issued when I was a year old. It is written in German. A friend told me you could not use it because it is written in German. Is this true?

A. No. Bring the certificate with you when you file for benefits. We will translate it into English and return the original to you.

Q. I'm 18 and will graduate from high school in June. Will my checks continue if I go to college? If so, does Social Security consider as full-time attendance?

A. Your checks will continue until you are 22 if you attend school full time. A course load of 12 semester hours or more is considered full-time attendance. However this may vary from school to school, so we will accept the school's statement of a full-time student.

Q. I am now getting reduced retirement benefits because I retired at age 62. I'll be 65 in August. Must I sign up for Medicare?

A. You won't have to sign up. Since you are already getting checks, you will be enrolled automatically for both hospital and medical insurance beginning with the month your 65. You may decline coverage if you want to.

Q. My husband and I are both receiving Social Security benefits. I heard that a person is allowed to earn $2,100 and receive all his Social Security checks. Does that mean both us can earn $2,100 or is that the amount we can earn together?

A. Each of you can earn $2,100 and receive all your checks.

Trooper Training

MERIDEN (AP) — The first class of state trooper recruits enlisted under new department guidelines began training Monday at the state police academy here, a police spokesman reports.

The new guidelines eliminated the old height requirement of a minimum of 5-feet-8, and also eliminated the need for a high school diploma and the age limit of between 21 and 25.

The present recruits range in age from 19 to 30, with only two under 21, the spokesman said. Included in the first state police training class are: Shaun W. Byrne, Waterbury; Stephen E. Carabotta, Springfield, Mass.; David A. Cournoyer, Danielson; Edward Ferrigno, Willimantic; James E. Gayford, Windsor Locks; and John F. Kamens, Terryville.

Also, John T. Kirchberger, Morris; Walter R. Lewis, Mansfield Center; David M. McCarthy, Clinton; James L. McCarthy Jr., Bridgeport; Bruce B. McIntyre, Manchester; Robert A. Peyman, East Granby; and John G. Rofsky, Waterbury.

Students Winners In Craft Contest

ANNE EMT Correspondent Tel. 228-2971

Rham High School students once again scored high in the Connecticut Industrial Arts Student Craftsman's Fair, walking away with fourteen blue ribbons out of 28 entries.

The fair, which was held in conjunction with last weekend's 40th Annual Conference of the Connecticut Industrial Arts Association (CIAA), received 524 entries from 40 schools. It was judged by trade and professional people outside of educational circles.

The theme of this year's conference was "The Role of Industrial Arts in Career Education" with Dr. William Wolansky as guest speaker.

Staff members who attended from Rham were Peter Heathery, David Caldwell, David Morton and David Moravsky, who, as Connecticut Industrial Arts Teacher of the Year, was seated at the head table. Morton also received recognition being elected second vice president from the Eastern Connecticut Division of the CIAA.

Winners

Rham High School blue ribbon winners were Bruce Smith, hatch cover table; David Ballard, bar stool; Richard Frost, walnut cassette storage box; Brian Ursin, Scushion sofa.

Also, Bruce Ursin, wheel puller; Wesley Knight, mock-up of timing chain and gears; George Scribner, cutaway of a four-barrel carburetor; and Paul Cardini, graphics notebook.

HE GREW UP

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — William Earl Kader weighed only 16 ounces when he was born three months prematurely at his grandmother's home Sept. 14, 1927. He wasn't expected to survive.

Kader did more than survive. He's grown up to be a 210-pounder who stands 6 feet 11 inches tall.

A tax research analyst as well as a musician, he is the father of four children ranging in age from 18 to 9.

Consumer Role In Inflationary Economy Assessed

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How does a nation get itself into an inflationary predicament such as now afflicts the United States and, in fact, almost all the industrial nations of the world?

Fifty years ago, the answer might have been: "Through ignorance." Some economists maintain that the answer still applies. To a great extent, economics remains a science of testing theories against practicality.

Some critics blame politics for violating economic common sense. Faced with an election, an administration might choose inflation rather than unemployment — the two react to each other — as the more acceptable.

But more pertinent today is that most industrial nations are committed by national policy to flirting with inflation, to playing a high-risk game in which they sometimes miscalculate the odds.

The commitment, which in the United States is embodied in the Employment Act of 1946, is to utilize all the resources of the nation to their maximum effectiveness to bring the greatest good to the greatest number.

In doing this, a nation generally is pushing against the limit of its capabilities, a nebulous area beyond which the economic machine produces a lot of steam — inflation — as demand exceeds production. It is that the consumer, who now is the biggest single factor in the economy, bigger than either government or business, doesn't act like an automaton.

They say the consumer has considerably more choice than ever before. He has savings and sometimes lines of credit to fall back on when he is pinched by restrictive policies. He actually can delay policy for awhile.

Moreover, much of his spending today is for luxuries rather than necessities, items on which he can exercise choice: To buy or not, to postpone, to buy in advance of need.

Many consumers today are said to be buying well in advance of need, or at least to have decided to buy now rather than wait. Why? Because of a powerful consumer can upset it or mute its effects or, for a short time, actually delay it.

They simply misread the future and thought they could encourage further expansion, Cox said. On top of this came the dollar devaluation, which makes imports costlier. And the bad planting weather hurt, too.

When you're seeking the maximum from the economy, there is always the danger of overdoing it, especially when the fiscal and monetary regulators must anticipate events many months in advance.

But even if the policy is correct, there is that growing feeling that an increasingly

Petitioners Oppose Double Sessions

Mrs. Devra Baum presented a petition to the Vernon Board of Education Monday night...

Floyd O'Brien, who said he is an unaffiliated voter, "so this is not a political move," said he has studied the advantages and disadvantages of double sessions...

He cited as some of the disadvantages, the fact the athletic programs will suffer; family life will be upset; some students will be going home in the dark, causing a safety hazard...

Board member Robert Dubeau questioned if the petition was a request for the board to change its mind "because you think we haven't considered items you have talked about."

World's Militarization Continuing Unabated

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - "The militarization of the world continues unabated," the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute reported in its fourth yearbook Tuesday.

The institute, financed by the Swedish Parliament, was set up in 1966 as an independent center for research into problems of peace and war.

The report said: "Since the signing of the first Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement last May the number of nuclear warheads deployed on strategic weapons increased from about 8,000 to more than 7,040 in the United States and from 2,170 to 2,380 in the Soviet Union."

At least 26 underground nuclear explosions were conducted by the United States and the Soviet Union in 1972. Five atmospheric tests were carried out by China and France.

Israel's Declaration of Independence

Israel's Declaration of Independence is featured on the special stamp issued by that country to herald its 25th anniversary. Highlighted on the new adhesive are the signatures of those who penned their names to this historic document.

Another major error of a recent U.S. stamp

Another major error of a recent U.S. stamp has been uncovered by New York auctioneer Jacques C. Schiff Jr. The stamp is the 1969 U.S. Christmas issue which has been found to exist vertically and horizontally imperforate. A full pane of 50 stamps, including 30 without the horizontal or vertical perforations, is in Schiff's hands.

The error pane was purchased in 1969

The error pane was purchased in 1969 by a resident of small town in Tennessee for mailing his holiday cards. Though not a philatelist he recognized their possible value and carefully placed them in his bank vault. He did this because he feared that if he reported his find immediately, the Post Office Department might order a reprinting of the error stamps as was done for the Hammarshold errors of 1962, thus negating their rarity and value.

Cyprus honors the 25th Congress of the International Skiing Federation

Cyprus honors the 25th Congress of the International Skiing Federation to be held in Nicosia in June with a new two-value set of stamps. The lower value shows a snow-covered landscape in the Troodos Mountains. The higher value depicts the official Congress emblem and a map of Cyprus.

Right to Spank

The right of parents to chastise their children is so necessary to the government of families and to the good order of society that no moralist or lawyer has ever thought of interfering with its existence.

So said the Supreme Court of Tennessee a century ago. And it is still true today that parents have the basic legal right to spank their children.

But if the right itself is still recognized, the extent of the right has been steadily narrowed. For example, it used to be said that parents could be as brutal as they pleased, so long as their motive was "for the child's own good." But no longer.

Thus, a father was found guilty of assault and battery for beating his 10-year-old daughter with a cane, hard enough to leave permanent scars. The court said it was no excuse that he was trying to teach the child good manners. One parent's harsh views about discipline, said the court, could not outweigh the humanitarian standards of the community.

Not only may an offending parent be punished by the criminal law, but in a growing number of states he may even have to pay damages to the child.

"While it may seem regrettable," said the court, "to allow a child to sue his parent, we think it more regrettable to leave a child without redress for the damage he has suffered by reason of his parent's malicious misconduct."

"A child, like every other individual, has a right to freedom from such injury."

But the court held her liable anyhow.

Identity Sought for Fields
Identity should be given to the athletic facilities at Memorial Field, with suggestions from this department, for the length time, that the baseball field be named after Tom Kelley, and the track after Pete Wiggen. Both men served many years as varsity baseball and track coaches and both are now happy in their retirement years. Naming these two areas would not take anything away from Memorial Field, the name of the entire Manchester High outdoor sports complex.

Honors for Pinners
Nice honor for the Irish sisters, Mrs. Rolane Ough and Mikl Irish, who captured the National Bowling Congress Women's Doubles Tournament with a combined 798 triple. The pair will split a purse of several hundred dollars. Another familiar name to local duckpin followers who came home with a national title in the Women's Singles Division was Agnes Cloughsey whose early 45 three string total stood up for six weeks. Both Mrs. Ough (1969) and Mrs. Cloughsey (1972) are former winners of the Town Women's Singles Duckpin Tournament... Gene Johnson is crossing his fingers in hopes Jim Balesano's back will be O.K. before the Twilight League baseball season starts next month. Balesano was injured this spring while pitching for Trinity. He's an infielder with the MB's and was named the league's No. 1 rookie last summer... Within a 48-hour period the Boston Red Sox vaulted from sixth- and last- to first place in the American League Eastern Division standings.

Assistant Golf Pro
Tom Carlson, 1972 Men's Division club champion at Ellington Ridge, has been named assistant golf professional at the East Hartford Golf Club. Carlson defeated Dave Linga for the ERCC honors last summer... Annual Little League caavass for funds to meet operating expenses will be held Sunday. Youngsters in uniform will be ringing doorbells and hoping for the best. In the past, more than $2,000 has been realized in the annual drive... Take in a baseball game at Ellington High and you may be treated to an extra added attraction, parachute jumping - or sky diving - at nearby Ellington Airport. The Ellington diamond, which was farmland a few years ago, is rapidly becoming one of the better playing fields in the area... Cookie Kolesch is responsible for the excellent grooming of the Rockville High baseball field each spring... On the subject of ball fields, one of the finest high school athletic plants in these parts can be boasted by Tolland High... Terrible Warm Warming Up But Ryan Used Red Hot Arm

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was terrible warming up," said Nolan Ryan—but a warm Nolan Ryan is nothing like a hot one.
And the California Angels' flamethrower was once again his usual scaring self Tuesday night, hurling the American League's second no-hitter of the baseball season, a dazzling, remarkably easy 12-strikeout performance 3-0 win. It was the over Kansas City.
It was the first no-hitter for the 36-year-old right-hander, who has spent the past few seasons coming on, so close to achieving that feat.
Having finally made it, did he think it was his most thrilling moment in baseball?
Obviously, you say.
Wrong, he replies.
"Coming into a World Series game was a greater thrill," Ryan insisted. "That was it!"
That was when he was a member of New York's Miracle Mets in 1969, when he pitched 2 1-3 innings of scoreless, threestrikeout relief to preserve a victory over Baltimore.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, Milwaukee outlasted Cleveland 2-1 in 17 innings. Minnesota mauled Texas 9-5 and the Oakland 6-5 in 12 innings. The Baltimore-Atlanta and Detroit-New York Yankees games were rained out.
Angels-Royals
Ryan likely was not even thinking of a no-hitter—not after what happened to him last Friday in his last start. He lasted a scant one-third of an inning against the White Sox, who appeared on the verge of breaking the spell did they were making.
So Ryan failed in silence—until the eighth inning, when pinch-hitter Gail Hopkins stepped up with two out.
It was Hopkins who, last year in Anaheim, stepped up in the eighth inning and wrecked Ryan's no-hit bid with a single. He nearly did it again, punching a looping liner over second and into short center field. But shortstop Rudy Meoli dashed out and backhanded the ball. It was, until the last pitch of the game, as close as the Royals would come to getting a hit.

"Being a fastball pitcher," Ryan said, "you have a tendency to overthrow more than control pitchers do. Somebody with a fastball gets away with bad pitches and that's where I've been hurt. It's taken time to realize this."

Leo Durocher Tired Of losing to Umps

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Niekro's five-hit pitching wasn't what bothered Houston General Manager Spec Richardson and Manager L.Durocher.
Nor was it Dusty Baker's three-run homer, which provided the batting support for the Atlanta Braves 4-1 victory over the Astros Tuesday night.
It was the umpiring.
"I'm fed up with them," Richardson's comment about the umpiring. "I'm tired of my ball club being beaten...by umpires."
Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Mets 4-3, Pittsburgh nipped Montreal 9-1 in 11 innings. St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 8-4. Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 4-1 and San Francisco topped San Diego 4-2.

that second baseman Tommy Helms did not touch the bag.
"First baseman Lee May, thinking the double play had ended the game, flipped the ball to first base umpire Paul Pryor—and Baker scampered home with the Braves' fourth run.
Durocher then announced he was playing the game under protest, claiming Pryor did not let the Astros make a play on Baker at the plate.
"Pryor had the ball in his hands," Durocher said. "As soon as he saw the man (Baker) running home and the signal (by Froemming), he threw the ball to the ground."
"If May has the ball he throws the man out. But there's no way you can throw a man out if you do not have the ball. And that's why we protested."

Mets Acquire Catching Help

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Royals catcher Jerry May was sold Monday to the New York Mets.
The Royals made no announcement as to immediate plans to fill the vacancy.
May appeared in 11 games for the Royals this season, batting .137 with four hits in 30 at-bats.
Mets catcher Jerry Grote suffered a broken arm in weekend action against the Pirates.

Gem by Beckert Keys Cubs' Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Glenn Beckert resorted to a cliché, saying, "When one guy makes a mistake, the other guy picks him up" in explaining the Chicago Cubs' seventh straight victory, a 4-3 triumph Tuesday over the New York Mets.
It was exemplified when Billy Williams dropped a routine fly ball, prolonging a ninth-inning Mel uprising before Beckert came up with a play, saving the game.
The Mets had crept within one run of the Cubs and had runners on first and second with no out. Jack Aker, working in relief of starter Bert Hooton, got Duffy Dyer to fly to left. The ball kept drifting and dropped after hitting Williams, and the Mets had the bases loaded.
Bud Harrelson then slapped a pitch towards second base against a pulled-in infield. Beckert darted to his left, then made a leaping throw home.
"I wasn't really worried in the ninth inning," said Beckert. "I knew I had to go home. On ordinary plays Harrelson can slip a ground ball to you and almost beat it out."
Beckert singled in the fifth inning, running his hitting streak to 23 games, despite being credited as many as six times during his hitting streak.
"You know, it's great to be playing this way. Healthy, rested and relaxed. The club's going good and the attitude is good," Beckert said.
One of the reasons for the Cubs' surge to the top of the National League East has been Manager Whitey Lockman. He has managed to keep the club loose and rested and the players not only don't mind being repeated but are beginning to appreciate it.

Kasko Shifts Pitchers

Unknown Guerrero Fixture in Trade

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox drew plenty of criticism last year for trading Sparky Lyle to the New York Yankees, but things have a funny way of turning around in baseball.
The average fan probably knows only that the Red Sox acquired veteran first baseman Danny Carter in the deal. Carter was a flop last season and now spends most of the time on the bench.
However, the Red Sox acquired another player from the Yankees, shortstop Mike Guerrero, who moved from Syracuse to Louisville of the International League to complete the trade on June 30.
Guerrero hit .292 and struck out only 18 times in 462 times at bat with the two clubs. Now he's getting a shot with the Red Sox.
With veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio nursing a sore ankle, the 25-year-old Guerrero moved into the starting lineup Monday night, getting two hits. He led off the 11th inning with a single and eventually scored the lone run in a 1-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.
"He's a darn good ball player and can become great," Aparicio said.
"He's looked good just about every time he's been in there, so now we'll give him a shot while Luis is out," Manager Eddie Kasko said.
Guerrero, only 23, is expected to play shortstop tonight when the Red Sox open a six-game trip, meeting the Tigers in Detroit.
With Tuesday night's game against Baltimore postponed because of rain, Kasko shifted his pitching plans. Veteran right-hander Luis Tiant, scheduled to start against the Orioles, will take the mound instead at Detroit in the opener of a three-game series.
Tiant, who has a 4-3 record, is due to be opposed by old Boston nemesis Jim Perry, who has a 4-2 mark. The Tigers acquired Perry from the Minnesota Twins in a deal late in spring training.

Hank Likes Road Trips

HOUSTON (AP) — There's one good thing about going on the road for Atlanta Braves' home run slugger Hank Aaron — he doesn't have to open his mail.
Aaron, who is closing in on Babe Ruth's career home run record of 714, is getting a steady stream of hate mail.
"If I was white, all America would be proud of me," Aaron said. "But I am black. There are some sick people in this world. Or else I wouldn't get the mail I do. These are sick people who thrive on trying to make other people miserable."
"I can't do anything about the mail," said Aaron, here with the Braves for a series with the Houston Astros. "I'd say that the ratio is 60-40, that 60 per cent of it is of a racist nature."
"It's very offensive. They call me 'nigger' and every other bad word you can come up with."
"You can't ignore them," Aaron said. "They are here. But this is just the way things are for black people in America. It's something you battle all of your life."

Auspicious Start For Girl Player

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — In her first time at bat, 13-year-old Yvonne Burch hit the first pitch for a triple for her Babe Ruth baseball team.
The rule book says that Babe Ruth baseball is for boys only. But R.W. Case of Trenton, N.J., international president of the organization, said in a telephone interview that his office will take no action to keep Yvonne from playing unless a formal complaint is filed.
And the coaches of the eight teams in Cabarrus County have not objected, so it looks as if Yvonne, an attractive tomboy, will continue in right field for her Babe Ruth baseball team.
Case said that times have changed since Babe Ruth baseball for teen-aged boys started in 1953. He said that when his 33-member board meets again in the fall he may suggest a study of whether girls should be allowed to play. Almost 300,000 boys in the United States and 16 foreign countries play in the league.
Yvonne got two hits in three at-bats and caught some fly balls easily as her team won its opening game 10-6 Monday night.

Agnes Cloughsey National Champ

One year ago, Agnes Cloughsey reigned supreme, as Manchester's No. 1 women's duckpin bowler after she captured the open scratch tournament at the Holiday Lanes.
Seeking new fields to conquer, Mrs. Cloughsey entered the National Duckpin Bowling Congress Tournament in Newton and walked off with high single honors on the strength of a 435 set. The local housewife ruled in one of the early shifts and her score stood during the month-long firing up during the month-long firing up that was her first national title.
Four former New York Mets drew votes in this year's Baseball Hall of Fame balloting. Only Warren Spahn — who ends his major league career with the Mets — was elected. Needing 288 votes, he got 316.
