Drop Price
PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Reader's Digest says its newsstand price will be reduced from 60 to 50 cents in an anti-inflation effort starting with the July issue. "This price decrease follows the steady growth in newsstand sales," the Digest said Tuesday. The magazine, which originally sold for 25 cents an issue, reached the 60-cent peak in 1971. Two previous hikes led to other past cover prices of 35 cents and 50 cents.

Dollar Rallies
LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar rallied in early trading in Europe today for the second day in a row. Gold inched back up toward record highs. Dealers cautioned that trading volume was light and some price swings were erratic, with the markets reportedly nervous about how the Watergate scandal would affect confidence in the dollar. The U.S. currency sank to record lows in Europe on Monday.

British Scandal
LONDON (AP) — A junior minister in Prime Minister Edward Heath's government who resigned Tuesday admitted today to "a casual acquaintance with a call girl" but denied newspaper reports that national security is imperiled by the involvement of high-ranking officials in an international vice ring. "There has been no high-life vice ring, no security leak, no blackmail; and so far as I know, no politician from any party is remotely concerned with these events," said Lord Lambton, who was minister for the Royal Air Force. But Heath called his top advisers together to investigate the allegations of what sounded like another Profumo scandal.

Slowdown Urged
WASHINGTON (AP) — Worried over continuing inflation, the government has told bankers it is in the national interest for them to slow the growth of business lending and help bring the economy under control.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve System, said Tuesday key segments of the economy are growing at "an unsustainable pace." The action came as the government released its latest Consumer Price Index that showed a jump of .6 per cent in the cost of living during April, compared with about .9 per cent in March.

Lower Prices
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Housewives can look forward to lower vegetable prices this summer despite damagingly wet winter weather in the nation's "salad bowl," California growers say. Until July 1, however, prices are expected to remain at the high levels that have prevailed all spring in the wake of a disastrous siege of winter weather in California.

Scientist Dies
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Preston Robinson, an eminent scientist and inventor and the holder of 114 U.S. patents, died at his home Monday. He was 70. Robinson held the basic patent for solid-electrolyte capacitors and he was responsible for the design of the energy storage capacitor used to trigger the first atomic bomb at Alamogordo, N.M., as well as the capacitors used to explode the atomic bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Nixon Protected Security

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, acknowledging "apparently wide-ranging efforts" to cover up the Watergate scandal, says he intervened only to bar the FBI from looking into secret "national-security activities."

While conceding he is under heavy fire, Nixon said: "I will not abandon my responsibilities. I will continue to do the job I was elected to do." The longer of the two presidential statements sought to deal, point by point, with much of the testimony and other disclosures widely deemed to be potentially most damaging to the chief executive.

In a 4,000-word defense of his conduct, Nixon argued repeatedly that "grossly misleading impressions" concerning his role can be explained by his concern for protecting national-security interests.

"In citing these national-security matters, it is not my intention to place a national-security 'cover' on Watergate," he said, "but rather to separate them out from Watergate...." He said this is necessary because "sensitive documents are now threatened with disclosure."

In a catalog of denials, Nixon said he had no prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary; knew nothing about a cover-up; never authorized executive clemency offers to Watergate defendants; was unaware that his former personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, raised money for the defendants; never attempted to implicate CIA in the scandal, and did not know until recently about the burglary in the Daniel Ellsberg case.

Shortly after issuing the statements, Nixon met with the four top Republican congressional leaders and GOP National Chairman George Bush. The White House said Nixon's visitors sought the appointment several days ago to talk about "legislative matters."

A larger group of GOP Senate and House leaders was invited to meet with Nixon today amid these and other Watergate-related developments.

The Senate Watergate committee re-called John J. Caulfield for intensive questioning today about the source of White House offers of executive clemency he conveyed to James W. McCord Jr. — The Senate Judiciary Committee had been expected to act quickly on Nixon's nomination of Elliot L. Richardson to be attorney general. However, the committee abruptly reopened its hearings on the nomination Tuesday to investigate questions raised as a result of the Pentagon papers trial. Richardson told the committee that his efforts in the case were directed toward "maximum disclosure" rather than any cover-up. Senators questioned whether he had known more about CIA involvement in the burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist than was disclosed to the Pentagon papers judge by former White House aide Egil Krogh.

Nixon also reported on an "intelligence plan" he approved in 1970 and disapproved a few days later because of objections from the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. He said it is this discarded plan that Dean secreted in a safe-deposit box and eventually turned over to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Drafted at a time of widespread bombings and campus disturbances, the plan as once approved included, said Nixon, "authorization for surreptitious entry — breaking and entering, in effect — on specified categories of targets in specified situations related to national security." He said the FBI had halted such activities in 1966. Acting White House Counsel Leonard Garment, briefing newsmen on the statement, was asked if Nixon had not thus authorized, at least briefly, illegal acts. Garment replied that where national security is involved, presidents traditionally have okayed acts "in order to meet problems that go beyond the boundary of the ordinary civil law."

The Nixon statement also placed him on record as repeating an earlier White House promise that "executive privilege will not be invoked as to any testimony concerning possible criminal conduct or discussions of possible criminal acts." The Nixon statement also placed him on record as repeating an earlier White House promise that "executive privilege will not be invoked as to any testimony concerning possible criminal conduct or discussions of possible criminal

Skylab Salvage Gets Under Way

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown started today for man's first space salvage operation, with astronauts and space officials confident they can repair the crippled orbiting Skylab and complete a 28-day flight.

Conrad and Kerwin practiced deploying various types of sun shades designed to cool the Skylab vehicle. The 85-ton lab has been overheated since it lost its heat shield during launch nine days ago.

Launch crews began the count on schedule at 5:30 a.m. EDT as they fed electrical power to the Saturn 1B rocket and astronauts' Apollo ferry ship. Planned liftoff time is 9 a.m. EDT Friday. "There is still a lot of work to be done between now and Friday," Skylab program director William C. Schneider said Tuesday night. "However, everything we are doing is on schedule. "We are very pleased with the results of the crew training," he added. "It has given us confidence that we are going for a Friday launch."

Late Tuesday, the astronauts flew to Cape Kennedy for final launch preparations. There, mission commander Conrad told newsmen: "The training is going supergood. We're ready to go." The astronauts were scheduled today to have physical examinations and participate in a briefing on how the Apollo ship will be packed with new equipment required for the repair mission. Experts calculate that, once a sun shade is in place, temperatures inside the lab will drop to about 70 degrees. With the unprotected lab soaking up the sun's rays, inside temperatures have ranged up to 130 degrees, threatening to spoil food, medicine and film packed aboard and making the station uninhabitable. About half the medicine, five per cent of the food, mostly meat products, and some film is believed to have been damaged already.

Kissinger Set To Return Home

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger met for the sixth time today with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho and said he probably would return to Washington this evening. "As they met in suburban St. Nom-la-Breteche, Kissinger's top aide, Deputy Asst. Secretary of State William Sullivan, was on his way to Saigon for consultations with President Nguyen Van Thieu. It was believed that Sullivan took with him for Thieu's clarification of the Jan. 27 cease-fire agreement. The clarification, intended to end the near-paralysis of the peacekeeping machinery established under the agreement, was worked out by Kissinger and Tho in more than 25 hours of secret talks since May 17. Kissinger told newsmen that today's meeting would "probably" be the last of the series and he expected to return to Washington after it ended. Details of the proposals being submitted to Thieu were not disclosed. But Kissinger's meeting with Tho this morning indicated that, whatever Sullivan was carrying with him to Saigon, the negotiations were not yet completed.

One Killed, Four Hurt In Ansonia Melee

ANSONIA (AP) — A shooting, clubbing melee between two rival motorcycle clubs early today left one man dead, at least two others wounded by bullets and two more injured after being hit with a bottle and a bat, police Chief Edward Turgeon said. The incident erupted outside a restaurant on West Main Street about 1 a.m., he said. He gave no estimate of how many people were involved. When police arrived at the scene, they found Ronald D. Krasowski, 31, of Orange, with a bullet wound in his chest, Turgeon said. Krasowski was pronounced dead on arrival at Griffin Hospital, police said. Reported in serious condition at Griffin with bullet wounds in his lower and upper abdomen was Robert F. Krasowski, 24, brother of the dead man, according to police. Also at Griffin in fair condition with bullet wounds in the upper parts of both legs was James Hedrick, 22, address not immediately known, police reported. Turgeon said Michael Blessing of Ansonia was admitted to the hospital with head injuries after being hit with a bottle and that Peter Logodice, also from Ansonia, was admitted to the hospital for head wounds after he was hit with a bat. Police seized two cars and seven motorcycles, the police chief reported. He said the northern section of West Main Street, parts of it spattered with blood in the area of the incident, was cordoned off early today to allow police to continue their investigation. Turgeon identified the groups involved as "The Huns" and "The Dirty Old Men" motorcycle clubs.

Business Honors Two Area Students

Two Manchester area youths who are students at regional technical schools have received awards from the Connecticut Business and Industry Association (CBIA). Bernard E. Gouchoe, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren H. Gouchoe of Rt. 6, Bolton, was cited as the outstanding Class of 1973 student at Manchester's Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical School. David E. Cwirka, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cwirka of Millstream Rd., Hebron, was cited as the top Class of 1973 student at Windham Regional Vocational-Technical School at Willimantic.

Both students received checks for $75 and citations of merit at ceremonies today at New Britain. Eighteen other young men and women also received the CBIA's industrial education award for being the top members of graduating classes at the state's technical schools and colleges. Gouchoe, who specialized in tool and die making at Cheney Tech, plans to go into business with his father in the tool and die trade. He was vice president of his class last year and was a member of the school's student council. He participated in varsity soccer, intramural basketball, the school newspaper, bowling club, and photography club.

Cwirka, who specialized in the machine shop course at Windham Tech, plans to enter Thames Valley State Technical College, Norwich, this fall in the mechanical engineering department. He is president of his senior class, a member of the student council, the yearbook committee, and the varsity club. He was also co-captain of the school's varsity football team and a member of the cross country team.

Petroleum Law Considered

HARTFORD (AP) — The Connecticut General Assembly was scheduled to act today on a bill creating a petroleum products control commission. The commission would have the power to regulate wholesale fuel prices and would, for the time being, freeze prices where they were May 15.

In the same vein the House and Senate were expected to act on bills amending Connecticut's anti-trust law and requiring gasoline distributors to continue supplying independent retail dealers. All three bills were approved under emergency certification Tuesday by the General Law Committee following a public hearing on Connecticut's gas and fuel crisis.

Irving Slikfin, an attorney for Shell Oil Co. testifies in opposition to bills which would regulate petroleum dealers in Connecticut.

Spokesmen for the major oil companies opposed the creation of a commission. The committee decided against giving the commission control over retail gasoline dealers. They concluded that normal competition would keep retail prices under control.

The governor and legislative leaders would appoint the seven member commission, which would remain in existence until July 1, 1975 unless a subsequent general assembly extended its life. Connecticut Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian spoke in favor of the anti-trust amendment, saying it would allow Connecticut to share information with the federal government, which is beginning to investigate reports of price discrimination by major oil companies.

Killian has been an outspoken critic of gas companies. Last month he subpoenaed 31 distributors for information about possible supply rationing by five major firms. A recent Superior Court decision forbids him currently from sharing information about such matters. "We have literally been deluged in the last month or so with requests for information and assistance from other attorneys general who are taking or planning to take action along the lines we have already initiated," he said.

The third bill would require refineries and distributors to continue to sell to independent dealers as long as they were able to supply their own wholly-owned or franchised dealers. An identical bill has been introduced in congress by Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio. Irving Slikfin, an attorney for Shell Oil

Co., said the bills, in the absence of federal regulations, might force major oil companies to cut back on their sales in Connecticut. He said regulations are being drafted in Washington to require companies to continue to honor all existing contracts, and in the event of a fuel shortage, reduce supplies uniformly to all customers.

Connecticut State Atty. Gen. Robert Killian speaks in favor of measures which would give the state greater power to regulate dealers

State Ranks High In 'Quality Of Life' Rating Study

KANSAS CITY (AP) — At the other end of the scale, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Washington, Oregon and Wyoming have excellent ratings in a "quality of life" study released Tuesday by a Kansas City-based research center.

The study, based on data compiled from a broad range of sources dated 1970, was completed by Dr. Ben Chieh-Liu, senior economist at Midwest Research Institute (MRI).

The states and the District of Columbia were rated in nine areas affecting their citizens. One finding was that parks and recreational acreage per 100,000 population ranged between 5.7 acres in Louisiana and 33.5 acres in Maine.

Categories in which the states were rated were individual status, individual equality, living conditions, agriculture, technology, economic status, education, health and welfare and state and local governments.

The study of living conditions did not include such factors as air and water pollution and traffic congestion because of insufficient data.

More than 100 factors were studied in assigning scores to the states relating to an index mean, 1.00. The states also were rated A (excellent), B (average) or C (substandard).

Eleven states listed as substandard, in order of their appearance on the index, are Georgia, Tennessee, Arkansas, West Virginia, Virginia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Kentucky, Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

Income and material wealth were not found to be significant factors except in states "with very low levels of per capita income which also tend to rank low in all measures of quality of life."

By pointing out states with excellent and substandard ratings, MRI hopes the data will be useful for interstate comparisons and to decision-makers in examining weaknesses. Otherwise, Liu said, the ratings generally are unimportant — "except to chamber-of-commerce types" — because of the slight deviation among states rated "average."

A self-avowed disciple of J. Kenneth Galbraith, economist, Liu views his own efforts "as a good start for social indicators."

Sheinwold on Bridge

WHICH CHANCES IN PLANNING PLAY By Alfred Sheinwold

Here is a hand, "I write as a Chicago reader, "that went sour: "Was declarer unlucky, or did he back the wrong horse?"

South dealer North-South vulnerable

Opening lead - Jack of Spades

South won the spade lead, drew trumps and then led clubs. East got two club tricks, and South went down. Would an expert play the hand this way, seeing only his own hand the dummy?"

An expert declarer would not draw trumps. He would take three top spades, discarding two clubs from the dummy. Then would cash the ace of clubs and the ace of diamonds and give up a club trick.

Crosscut Works

From here on, South can ruff three clubs with dummy's high trumps. He gets to his own hand each time by ruffing diamonds.

The only real danger comes when South leads out the high cards. If East ruffs the second or third spade, South is in trouble.

Mathematically, this danger is far smaller than the danger of a bad club break. To put it very simply, a singleton club with only four clubs out is more likely than a singleton spade with nine spades out. The same applies to any other bad break in spades.

Second Southcentral Campus Under Study

HARTFORD (AP) — The board of trustees of regional community colleges is considering the possibility of creating a new secondary campus of Southcentral Community College in New Haven, according to officials.

Controversy has arisen over the question of whether to move the college to East Haven or relocate it in New Haven.

The board, however, did not discuss that problem directly during an executive session but decided to work with the governor's office in creating a satellite site in New Haven, according to Dr. Kenneth Summerer, deputy director of community colleges.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill urged location of the main campus on state land in East Haven, in opposition to the Southcentral administration, which wants to keep it in New Haven.

The proposed satellite appears to be a compromise accompanying an East Haven relocation.

During an open meeting preceding the executive session, Donald Ogilvie, director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told the board that moving the college to East Haven would prevent some people from attending.

Jackston Gets Summer Grant

Nicholas R. Jackson of 405 Hackmatack St. has been awarded a grant for a summer seminar at Yale University June 25-29 and July 6-13. The seminar will be conducted by the Taft Institute of Government.

Jackston, chairman of the Social Studies Department at East Hartford High School, is one of 45 teachers and administrators from throughout Connecticut chosen for the seminar.

Topics to be discussed are: The Constitution and the Courts, Elections and the Party System, the state of State Government, Congress and the President, and Urban Politics.

Among officials, political party activists and party leaders who will participate are: U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker, U.S. Rep. Robert Giamio, Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer, former New Haven Mayor Richard Lee, and State Environmental Commissioner Dan Laflin. Others are faculty members of the Yale Law School and of the political science department.

Jackston is a member of the Manchester Democratic Town Committee and is a district chairman. He is a former chairman and member of the Zoning Board of Appeals and was a member of the 1962 Charter Revision Commission. His wife, Phyllis, is a town director.

The building, which was erected in 1899 by craftsmen of the Cheney Mills, served to provide education for the children of the Cheney family and persons living in the area.

During the Sesquicentennial the main exhibit hall will feature a "keeping room," a typical feature of Manchester homes in the early 1800s. The room will have a huge fireplace, with wrought iron accessories, pots, trivets and kettles, a wool wheel, a flax wheel, candle molds, a trundle bed, a churn and other objects of the period.

The exhibits will be assembled by Mrs. Pamela Saloom, Winthrop Ford, Gordon Lassow and James Reuter.

Exhibits Are Planned Sesquicentennial Week

An exhibit of artifacts connected with Manchester's past will be on display in the auditorium of the Whiton Library, N. Main St., during Sesquicentennial Week.

The exhibit, prepared by members of the Manchester Historical Society, will feature tools and objects used by the Podunk Indians, artifacts of the Colonial, Civil War, Victorian and World War eras of Manchester history. Also on display will be products produced by Cheney Bros. at its height of world importance and a display of fine arts and crafts produced in town. Wells Denison is chairman of this committee.

The Cheney Homestead Museum, Hartford Rd., will open two new rooms in honor of the sesquicentennial celebrations.

A studio, on the top floor of the building has been painted and refurnished as it might have been during the bloom of the Cheney dynasty. Classic plaster casts from the original studio, paintings and engravings of John and Seth Cheney, and artist tools of the period add to the authenticity of the room.

The second room, on the same floor, is furnished in the style as the other rooms of the homestead.

On Sunday afternoon, June 24 a group of craftsmen, demonstrating early crafts, will work under a canopy on the museum's lawn.

The Cheney Homestead Committee co-chairmen are Mrs. Fred Blish and Herbert Swanson. The committee consists of Mrs. John Bissell, Frank Knight, Miss Hazel Lutz, Mrs. Pierre Martiny, Mrs. John Pickles, Thomas Rollason, Mrs. Ernest Shepherd and Mrs. Arthur Shortz.

The Lutz Junior Museum, housed in the Cheney School, Cedar St., will also participate in the Sesquicentennial Week activities.

Asian Expert Sees Little Danger Of Sino-Soviet Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Sino-Soviet conflict has grown deeper in the last four years but is less likely to explode into war, says Ambassador Marshall Green, the State Department's senior expert on Asia.

In an interview on the eve of his departure for his new ambassadorial post in Australia, Green said the situation is less tense because the Chinese have withdrawn their forces from the Soviet frontier and the two sides are talking.

But the former assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs said, the conflict has grown deeper because almost every problem that arises between Moscow and Peking is seen as another grivance. He cited deepened Chinese suspicions of Soviet power buildups in Siberia and the increase of Soviet naval strength into the Indian Ocean.

Chinese opposition to United Nations membership for Bangladesh and the Chinese arms alliance with Pakistan in that country's conflict with India have deepened Russian suspicions, Green said.

But both big powers are less than enthusiastic about the way Hanoi is pressing the war in Indochina, Green says.

He said that last year's North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam had not been welcomed by Peking and Moscow.

Green acknowledges that Cambodia is the weak point for peace in Indochina.

"I do think that if the Cambodian issue cannot be resolved it poses a real hazard to achieving peace or at least an ending of bloodshed," he said.

Green is flying to Tokyo, Korea and Hong Kong on his way to the Australian capital of Canberra.

Area Governors Plan New Regional Agency

BOSTON (AP) — New England governors approved creation of a "successor agency" to the controversial New England Regional Commission and also asked the federal government for more time and money to deal with military base closings in the region.

The governors approved "contingency plans" creating a private "New England Regional Commission Inc." should federal funds for the six-state agency be cut off in the future. The new agency would focus principally on energy, transportation and economic problems of New England.

The successor agency would have an 18-month budget of about $70,000. This is far less than the present $12 million budget, and a staff of 10. The agency originally had 30 staff members.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent, state co-chairman of the commission, said he was "optimistic" Congress would vote to continue funds for the commission but acknowledged the President could veto the funding.

The governors also adopted a "policy statement" on the region's railroad problems. They called on Congress to adopt a national transportation policy that emphasized rail transit and asked for a halt to piecemeal abandonment of rail lines.

Richard Bowen, executive director of the New England Rail Office, estimated that shutdown of the Boston & Maine railroad could cost New Hampshire and Massachusetts nearly 100,000 jobs.

state's unemployment rate as high as 15 per cent.

Only New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. voted against the resolutions on base closings. He expressed concern that the action would amount to "calling into question the policy of the President" on national security matters.

1938 Classes Will Reunite

The Manchester High School class of 1938, joined this year by the mid-year class of 1938A, has completed plans for a 30th dinner-dance reunion Friday, June 22, at the Manchester Country Club. The event will be on the eve of Manchester's week-long sesquicentennial celebration.

Present indications are that about 175 classmates and their spouses will attend, making it the best attended 1938 reunion thus far, say reunion officers.

Invited guests include Edson M. Bailey, school principal in 1938, and Mrs. Bailey, and Miss Ione Fellows, Mrs. Mary McGuire Davidson, Miss Anna McGuire, Nathan Gatchell and Miss Jeanne Low, all former teachers.

All but three 1938B classmates have been located. They are: William Scholage, Raymond Custer and Earl DeLong. Anyone knowing their whereabouts is asked to contact Mrs. Frances Hyde Ford, 204 Main St., or Miss Irma Desimone, 200 Oak St.

Classmates of 1938A not yet located are: Margaret Oswald, Wallace Lepper, Omilean Willis, Mary Ambrosewicz Joseph, Samuel A. Pratt and Edward Benschke. Those having any information may contact Mrs. Marjorie McCormick Broderick, 353B Hilliard St., or Mrs. Hilda Richter Miller, 47 Buckingham St.

Classmates are reminded that June 1 is the deadline for reservations. Checks may be made out to "1938 Reunion Committee," and mailed to any above mentioned committee member.

Open Schools Have Discipline Too, Says Teacher-Founder

By EYE SHARBUIT AP Newsletters Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When parents complain that their children are enjoying school too much to be learning anything, wise teachers have a good answer ready. All parents are asking, according to Marianne Everett, founder of the Everett School, is are their children learning skills to get along in the world. "We must ease their anxiety in a positive way," Miss Everett said. "Their concerns are valid. But you can show them through the children that skills are being taught and that learning can be fun."
Miss Everett said most parents remember their own school days as regimented learning by rote. It wasn't fun for them, she added.
But times have changed. New methods of teaching utilize social studies or cooking to teach math, movies and tapes for reading.
"The open education program is significant in terms of the kind of people we want to bring up, whether they are independent, inquisitive, curious and responsible for themselves or obedient and passive," she added. Naturally she prefers the former to the latter.
There are five kinds of structure in open education. It is structure in child development, in environmental space with its corners for math, reading and art, in curriculum, in time and in the relationship of child to child, Miss Everett said.
"Instead of a rigid schedule, deal in large blocks of time. First we plan what the children will do, then work is done and at the end of the time period, we plan the next session and evaluate what we have done," she said.
An example cited for the teachers was a recent French class project in which students set up a French cafe. They used math and science as well as their language study, buying food at the supermarket, planning the menu, cooking food and setting up a bank to convert dollars to francs for the evening. With profits from the cafe, the students plan a trip to Quebec.
"The basic respect a teacher has for an individual child is passed along to other children. They respect each other and the rights of others. That's why we have ground rules about pulling hair, calling names and all that. We give the child an opportunity to make responsible choices," she added.
Miss Everett tells workshops that each teacher can evaluate his method to see what works best. The teacher is the responsible adult, the authority figure children need in an open classroom.

Researchers Claim Method Can Predict Probable Marijuana Users

By WARREN E. LEARY, AP Science Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Researchers say they have developed a method to tell in advance which teenagers will use marijuana, which ones will go on to hard drugs and which ones will remain nonusers. The method, which analyzes such nondrug variables as academic performance and cigarette smoking, has proven relatively successful in predicting the behavior of teenage groups which conformed in earlier attitude and behavior tests, the researchers said.
In a report from the Department of Psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital, the researchers say they analyzed data from 2,222 junior high and high school students in the Boston area. In that computer analysis, drug use in 1971 was predicted from five nondrug variables measured in 1969.
The researchers said data analysis was 68 per cent accurate in predicting the non-drug users who went on to marijuana alone and 77 per cent accurate in showing what non-users went to both marijuana and hard drugs.
The data were also 72 per cent accurate in predicting what nonusers eventually used any type of drug.
The report added that analysis was 67 per cent accurate in predicting which new marijuana users went to hard drugs — such as heroin, stimulants, depressants and hallucinogen-like LSD. The researchers said that in comparing data from nonusers and those already using drugs at the beginning of the study in 1969, the computer was able to sort out the two groups with 81 per cent accuracy using only the predictor information.
The report on developing predictive models for drug use was presented at the National Research Council-National Academy of Sciences meeting of the Committee on Problems of Drug Dependence held at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.
The study was compiled by Drs. Gene M. Smith of Massachusetts General Hospital, Charles P. Fogg of Boston University, Herbert Greenwald of Bridgewater State College and Richard LaBrie, an independent consultant.
The five nondrug predictor variables assessed in 1969 were rebelliousness against rules and authorities as measured by a self-report questionnaire, peer ratings of obedience, grade average, cigarette smoking and unfavorable attitudes toward cigarette smoking.
"Each of the predictors significantly discriminates between nonusers who will remain nonusers and those who will become users," the report said.
"In addition, each predictor variable significantly discriminates between those who will become hard drug users and those who will limit their drug use to marijuana taken only infrequently."
Tendency toward rebellion and cigarette smoking increased progressively from the

Barber-Minister Trims Locks And Joins Couples in Wedlock

By ROBERT MORGAN, State Gazette Writer
Dyersburg, Tenn. (AP) — It is interesting to note that there is someone who provides a quiet wedding ceremony. With a sign beside the door to his barber shop that reads, "Haircuts & Weddings Performed Here (Separately)," Guy Merryman professes to provide a service that is often frowned upon in social circles: the unceremonious wedding ritual.
Merryman, an ordained Southern Baptist minister, says, "There are some people who want to be married by a preacher, but they don't want a big church wedding or they don't want to bother with all the fuss of inviting a whole lot of people or some other reasons."
"These are the people who come here," Merryman says there is little conflict between his hair cutting and the ministry and very little discomfort to the barber's customers or the minister's clients.
"Very few people ever get in a hurry. If I am cutting someone's hair, the couple usually waits until I am through. If I have a customer waiting in the shop, he usually won't mind waiting until after the ceremony."
When the couple is not too shy, a customer in the barber shop will act as a witness to the wedding ceremony. If the betrothed wish a little more privacy than the barber shop, Merryman takes them to the waiting room of the beauty shop that he operates on the opposite side of the house that he purchased and converted to the business uses it now has.
"People will be driving by and see the sign and stop to see what it means. I think it has helped my barbering business a lot."
As to the cost of the ceremony, the minister says that he usually asks the bridegroom for what he feels like giving. "I used to say, 'Whatever you think she's worth to you,' but I didn't get much that way — sometimes I didn't get anything."
Haircuts are two dollars.

Elderly Questioned Before Conference

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

"Do you currently need transportation for medical care, shopping and such?" "Do you prepare your own meals?" These are some of the questions being asked residents of Vernon, Tolland and Ellington who are in the "over 60" age group.

The June 2 conference will start at 9:30 a.m. with a half-hour registration session.

Following this there will be two speakers, Shulamit Bloom, executive secretary of the State Department on Aging and Howard Dickstein of the staff of the Rockville High School.

These filling out the questionnaires do not have to give their names if they do not wish to.

Some of the other questions asked concern housing costs, means of transportation, social activities, food and nutrition, medical care and the area of greatest need.

Ambulance, Arts Group Get Use of Town Barn

VIVIAN V. KENNESON Correspondent Tel. 875-9704 The Tolland Volunteer Ambulance Association (TVAA) and Arts of Tolland were given permission to use the town's barn for an indefinite time...

TVAA plans to use the downstairs level of the barn while the Arts group will use the second floor. TVAA plans to use the garage, a meeting room, and partition a section of the room for training sessions.

The Arts group has had architect Sudhaker V. Nigamshakar of Grahame Rd. look at the building. His opinion is that the building is structurally sound but that the roof leaks.

Representing builder Frederick Blower, Gardner submitted an application for two lots on Terry and two lots on Old Stafford Rd.

The PZC tabled action on all three items, pending investigations. Burgundy Park Town Counsel Robert King will be asked for clarification of a legal subdivision, the deed having been tied with the town in 1957.

Mrs. Mary Kramer, owner of the tract, appeared before the PZC for approval of lot 54, stating a zoning permit had been issued and seeking information regarding the responsibility of the road that would have to be built.

Mrs. Kramer's spokesman, Terry Kreido, was told that the proposed 2,000-unit development of Buff Cap Rd. Richard Burns, who lives in the vicinity of the proposed PUD, posed the direct question at Monday's PZC meeting.

Prior's answer was that the commission is in favor of Planned Unit Development (PUD), but refused comment on whether it is specifically in favor of the proposed 2,000-unit development of Buff Cap Rd.

Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Douglas Prior reported that the commission is in favor of Planned Unit Development (PUD), but refused comment on whether it is specifically in favor of the proposed 2,000-unit development of Buff Cap Rd.

Richard Burns, who lives in the vicinity of the proposed PUD, posed the direct question at Monday's PZC meeting. Prior's answer was that the commission is in favor of Planned Unit Development (PUD), but refused comment on whether it is specifically in favor of the proposed 2,000-unit development of Buff Cap Rd.

Open spaces planned include a golf course, five recreation areas, and a village green. The planners provided charts and figures which stated the town would eventually realize an annual $254,850 revenue from the development, compared to a subdivision on the same land of 500 homes at an annual deficit of $861,000.

Burns was one of approximately 100 residents attending the hearing, who questioned the proposal very carefully. He stated Monday, however, that he has reconsidered his original feelings and can see some town benefits, such as widening Buff Cap Rd. at the time of the developers would be installing sewer pipes, and the larger amount of open space compared to 70 acres if a 500-home subdivision was planned.

Burns also took the opportunity to state that the Tolland PZC is one of the best in the state. Subdivision Surveyor Everett Gardner, representing three different developers, made subdivision applications to the PZC Monday.

IOH Shows Public 'The Way It Is'

SUSAN KLEMENS (Herald Reporter)

"If we're going to show anything, we'll show you the way it is," commented Dave Moyer, advisor to instructors of the Handicapped (IOH). And "the way it is" happened at Sunday's IOH open house, a program designed to create community awareness of the needs of the handicapped.

Through total participation by both instructors and emotional and physically handicapped individuals, the open house lost its "show" atmosphere prevalent in previous years and retained its essential learning format, Moyer explained.

Typical of the weekly Sunday afternoon swimming lessons held from October through May, the open house consisted of three 35-minute classes with children and adults from Manchester and the surrounding area, and one class with students from the Mansfield Training School.

Following the classes, American National Red Cross swimming certificates were awarded to these students completing a level of instruction. Diana Lindsey, 321 E. Center St., and Ed DeGroot, Coventry, were awarded beginner certificates. Barbara Ambrose, 28 Scott Dr., Elsie Damman, White Birch Dr., Tolland, Guy Frechette, Ivorytown, Deborah Hearn, 25 Deming St., South Windsor, and Chris Duff, 34 Hunter St., attained advanced beginner status.

Also, Malcolm Ross, Coventry, and Guy Frechette, Ivorytown, received certificates for the intermediate level, and Mary Ellen Chaloin, 71 Spring St., Rockville, was awarded a swimmer certificate.

New officers for the year 1973-74 were installed in the torchlight ceremony following. The Manchester High School Round Table Singers sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" as student Deborah Hearn of South Windsor passed the IOH whistle from outgoing president Mark Silhavy to Marybeth Tucker, incoming president. Other officers installed were Tom Latham, vice president; Irene Messier, business secretary; Jean Pastel, corresponding secretary; Mike Schenck and Ann McKenzie, sergeants-at-arms; Debbie Santacrose, public relations; and Lisa Silhavy, treasurer.

Ex-Prisoner Of War Reflects On Lessons Learned In Captivity

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — Over five years of torture and deprivation in prisoner of war camps have in some ways turned out to be worth a lifetime to Wayne K. Goodermote.

The handsome, 29-year-old Navy lieutenant compares some aspects of his captivity in five different North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps to the life of a retiree.

"They sit around. They look back at their life. They think about the things they liked, the things they don't like, the mistakes they made," he said. "I spend years doing that. And now I have years ahead of me where I can say, okay, now is your second chance at living."

Lack of time has been Goodermote's biggest problem since he was freed in March. "Time is extremely valuable," he said at his parents' home here in the Taconic Mountains in eastern New York's Rensselaer County.

"Before capture, I came home from work in the evening, and I sat down and I watched Monday night at the Movies, Tuesday Night at the Movies, Wednesday Night at the Movies. If I read three or four books a year I was lucky. On Friday night I might go out and play bridge ... I look at television now and it nauseates me."

"When I was shot down, I probably fell somewhere in the middle of the political spectrum," he said. "All the while I was up there (in prison) I went further and further to the right. I think you can understand why this would happen. You have to keep yourself boked up psychologically all the time. Therefore, as you get their propaganda, which is all against everything that you believe in, you're gonna move further and further right ... I don't even fit on the scale anymore."

Goodermote said he thinks his views will moderate with time, but he believes he would remain "pretty conservative."

He said he would know in five years whether his time as a POW was worth it.

"It will depend on what happens in South Vietnam," Goodermote said. "If they are able to hold out and exist as an independent country, or if they decide under their own free will to unite with the North, then I figure that our objective is accomplished."

Success Ethic Losing Ground In Business

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The American idea of success is being infiltrated by doubt, with resulting restlessness and disillusionment, a survey soon to be published by the American Management Association indicates.

The survey, which drew the greatest response ratio in the business and educational organization's 50-year existence, shows that many businessmen, rather than an isolated few, are reacting against conformity and impositions on health and conscience. The survey received 2,821 usable replies.

More than half the businessmen queried reported that pressures to conform are growing, or at least not decreasing.

Nearly 30 per cent said job requirements have hurt their health in the past five years, mainly "from increased strain and tension brought on by heightened day-to-day business pressures."

While much of top management is "career-content," an

LONDON (AP) — A stockbroker in Surrey fighting a sleepless night likes to fancy himself a sensuous bumble bee buzzing from blossom to blossom in dewy meadows of dawn.

The buzzing, in particular, he finds most soothing.

A vicar in the West Country in search of sleep delivers last Sunday's sermon from his pillow and usually corks off in less time than anyone in the congregation did.

Then there's the suburban housewife who tries to count all the a's in the Lord's Prayer, and the chap who replays his toughest golf match and seldom gets beyond the fourth tee.

There's the retired colonel who tries to recall all the Kashmir posts he visited beginning with a certain letter, the mathematician who anesthetizes himself with double acrostics, and the libidinous lad who catalogs old boudoir conquests.

These and hundreds of others wrote to London literary agent Hilary Rubinstein when he let it be known in a BBC interview that he was compiling a bedside anthology for insomniacs.

One listener suggested transferring the radio tapes of old political broadcasts to old cassettes for do-it-yourself

Richmond Desegregation Case Ruling Not Viewed As Final

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr., Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court deadlock has delayed a decision on whether the court's 18-year search for school desegregation will stop at the county line.

Whether a federal judge may merge predominantly black inner-city schools with those in surrounding white suburbs resulted in a 4-4 tie Monday in a case from Richmond, Va.

Because a tie vote affirms the lower-court decision under appeal, the split blocked merger of Richmond's schools with those in two neighboring counties.

But proponents of metropolitan desegregation were quick to point out that a tie vote establishes no precedent. The issue is still alive. Fees of cross-district desegregation, at least on Capitol Hill, found cause for rejoicing, however.

"We now have reason to hope that we will not have cross-district busing in Grand Rapids, Detroit, or anywhere else," said Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader.

Monday's tie vote, Ford said, was "the first real breakthrough for those of us who are opposed to forced busing to achieve racial balance."

On ties, the court issues no opinions, nor does it disclose the way members voted.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., R-Va., said he hopes the Richmond case has "demolished... the idea of busing across community lines to achieve racial balance."

Similar metropolitan-segregation suits are pending in cities across the nation. The issue appears certain to confront the court again next term, perhaps in a case from Detroit in which a circuit court has approved merger for desegregation.

"It's clearly a setback, although a 4-4 decision has no value as precedent," said William L. Taylor, former staff director of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and now director of the Center for National Policy Review at Catholic University Law School in Washington.

"It's certainly a setback in Richmond... We felt Richmond was a strong case on the merits," said Taylor, an attorney, along with lawyers for the NAACP Defense Fund, Inc., for black parents and children in the case.

"What you have if district lines are such a barrier to desegregation) are school districts that are in many places almost as segregated as at the time of Brown," said Taylor in reference to the high court's 1954 decision striking down segregated schools in a case known as Brown vs. Board of Education.

Fox Hill Tower Vandals Prey

Fox Hill Tower is one of Vernon's landmarks. It's used as the symbol on town stationery and on the town seal, but vandals are making it impossible for the general public to enjoy the tower and its view.

Monday night the Town Council listened to a report by Councilman Thomas Benoit who said he was approached by Miss Hazel Lutz of the Vernon Historical Society who asked about cleaning up the tower and the area around it.

Benoit said the windows in the structure have all been broken and vandals have even broken a steel door that was installed to keep them out.

There is hardly a civic group in town that at some time or other has not attempted to fix up the tower and the area around it. Benoit said most have eaten up their resources on this and other projects.

The Recreation Department, which has also worked on keeping the tower presentable, is once again having the matter turned over to it and will be assisted by a special committee to be appointed by Mayor Frank McCoy.

Police Chief Edmund Dwyer has suggested putting a fence around the tower which would allow the area to be closed after dark, but remain open during the daytime hours.

Administration Richard Borden, said the fence would cost in the neighborhood of $4,000 and most council members
