Mayor George Athanson, right, and Connecticut State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli of Manchester hit the road to prepare for a three-round boxing match next month.

The match is being conducted to raise funds for combating leukemia. If the hot weather — and workouts — continue, the men will be banterweights instead of their present middle-age middleweights. (AP photo)

Political Pugilists Prepare

There has to be a special reason for two grown men to jog in record high temperatures which were recorded in the state yesterday. Hartford Mayor George Athanson, right, and Connecticut State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli of Manchester hit the road to prepare for a three-round boxing match next month.

Cheney Tech Graduates To Hear Woods Tonight

Arthur L. Woods, president of Connecticut Business and Industry Association, Inc., will be the speaker at the Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School graduation ceremonies tonight at 8 at the school auditorium.

Arthur L. Woods

He was elected to this position in December 1970 when the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, Inc. was combined with the Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce. Prior to his appointment as president of CBIA, he was the association's executive vice president. He also served as the association's first insurance manager, officer manager and secretary.

Born in New York City, Woods has resided in Connecticut for a number of years. He received his B.S. degree from Syracuse University, College of Business Administration.

Are Your Years Showing A Bit?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You may not be ready for the scrap heap, but your years are showing it —

It makes you feel sad and sentimental when you read that Hank Aaron or anybody else will break the 714-lifetime home run total of immortal Babe Ruth.

You will retire sometime in the 20th or 21st century. You can remember watching a barber give three crew cuts in a row.

In case a lady faints in public, you still know what to do to revive her.

You have seen a runaway horse. As a boy, your ambition was to be a fireman or a policeman.

You never wore a pair of long pants before your 16th birthday. In your youth most of the older men you admired chewed tobacco or smoked pipes or cigars rather than cigarettes. You can recall when people expressed surprise or dismay by saying something like, "What in tarnation is going on around here, anyway?"

The preacher could hardly keep his audience's attention if he didn't denounce hell out loud and in no uncertain terms at least a dozen times during his Sabbath sermon.

If your life depended on it you might be able to name one or two, but never three, of the songs the Beatles made famous.

You feel something is missing on the mornings you wake up without a twinge of arthritis.

No woman, including your wife, has kissed you anywhere except on the cheek or forehead for the last 10 years. Reading this column makes you want to cry.

Inmate's Claim Denied By Judge

HARTFORD (AP) — A Somers prison inmate's claim that the use of so-called "strip cells" in the hospital section of the prison is unconstitutional has been denied by a Superior Court judge.

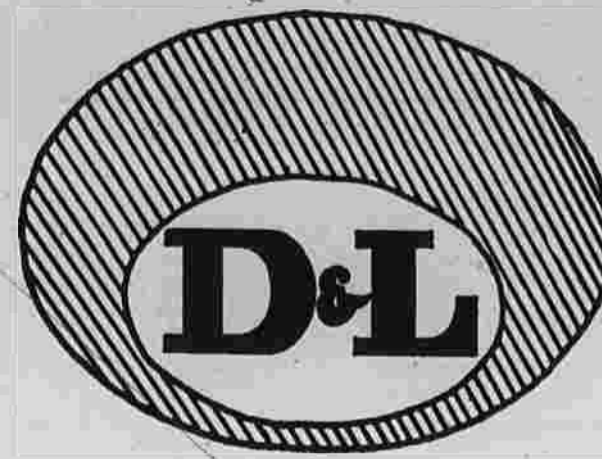

Judge William P. Barber said he found the cells "well ventilated, lighted, heated and accessible."

"The court took a look at this place when at the institution and concludes that the limited confinement therein did not constitute cruel or inhuman punishment under the circumstances," the judge wrote.

The ruling came on a writ of habeas corpus application by inmate Jerry Houston who is awaiting trial on a first-degree kidnapping charge.

Houston claimed that he was confined to a "strip cell" in the prison hospital section for 16 days and that the action deprived him of the right to religious services, access to the prison's law library and the right to participate in the prison's work programs.

Judge Barber noted that Houston was placed in the isolation cell for his own safety after a suicide attempt. He said an investigation revealed that "strip cell" inmates are allowed contact with the prison's law librarian and that a chaplain visits the cells twice a week. He said participation in the work programs is a privilege which may be suspended by prison officials.

The Tenure Question

It has been long argued, and not without reason, that "politics" has no place in public education. In some states this has been interpreted to almost the extreme where educators were all but precluded from political participation in our democracy and to that extent were second class citizens.

The past three decades have seen many changes in education economically and philosophically. There has been an increasing amount of "political" activism emanating from all campuses through outspoken professors and militant students.

This has not been all bad although confrontations such as Kent State cannot be condoned. However, as the colleges and universities, through their educators and students became more actively involved, more and more members of the so-called establishment whose barricades were being stormed, began to criticize certain things in education just as the campus activities were criticizing things in society.

However, it is more than a tit-for-tat reaction.
The cost of education has constantly risen over the years and while only a few decades ago, there was reasonable basis for pleading poverty, the salary structure of most educators today are not too far out of line when the fringes of subsistence, long summer vacations, etc., are considered.

One of the most frequent targets of criticism from the outside is the tenure system which virtually insures an educator a job for life once he has completed a certain period of satisfactory service.

How tenure began is slightly fuzzy, depending which part of the country you are from. In some areas, it was instituted as a means of attracting people into education as an incentive to compensate for low salaries. In others, tenure was instituted as a reform to protect educators from personal harassment and removal merely because the legislators, citizens, or campus administrators, didn't like their politics or other views.

But whatever the causes that gave rise to tenure, any consideration or evaluation today must be in the context of job security. Today, with civil rights more specifically defined, removal of an educator for political reasons, we think, would be more difficult. As for an individual or group of individuals pressuring the firing of an educator, the education profession is strong and well organized and has, in most instances, fairly well defined means of adjudicating grievances of this type.

Tenure becomes basically job security and in this light we find it hard to defend on a blanket basis.

We find, in the current debate over tenure in the Connecticut Community College system, some logic in the concept of flexibility for a community college to meet changing educational needs. This could cause a changing need in the instruction skills of a college. This is to say, tenure could saddle a college with a staff of "deadwood" in that they are expert in areas no longer needed by society or wanted by students.

Another aspect of tenure, in the light of job security, is that even a casual review of personnel changes of a college or even a secondary school quickly shows the higher caliber of instructors are the ones which are lured away by better offers elsewhere.

Tenure, we believe, does not insure the institution that it will keep its best but, unfortunately, can insure that it cannot weed out easily those who fall over the years to keep up on their subject matter or, once cloaked in tenure, start to rest on the laurels which earned them tenure.

From the educator's point of view, tenure is probably vital as a principle, if nothing else.

Our thought though is that perhaps it is an obsolete one and perhaps administrators and educators should rise to the challenge of finding a substitute form of job security based on and adapted to the changing roles of colleges and universities. It is in the non-academic fields that we feel tenure threatens to be most detrimental and on this basis, we would hope the community college system might pioneer the long-term contract approach as a substitute.

Who knows after some of our more tradition-bound educators have tried it, they might like it.

Getting Dirty

WASHINGTON — The brawl over the cost of defending Western Europe, borne mostly by the United States taxpayer, is getting dirty. Where money is concerned, our loving allies are not above resorting to the swiftest kick in the groin.

European officials now are following that Henry Kissinger's "new Atlantic Charter" speech of April 23 was an attempt to "blackmail" our allies into paying a bigger share of the bill for keeping the Russians off their sacred soil, in return for U.S. agreement on trade and monetary matters.

"Well, I'd have used a prettier term, like friendly persuasion," says a high State Department man. "But in fact we are putting some pressure on Europe to give us a hand. With Congress deeply concerned over our balance of payments deficit, there's a very real danger it will vote for a unilateral withdrawal of American troops if NATO countries continue to evade their military responsibilities."

State's man knows what he's talking about. For the first time in more than a decade of trying, the Capitol Hill forces led by the highly respected Majority Leader Mike Mansfield have a reasonable chance of enacting legislation to force a reduction of U.S. armed strength in Europe. With the Republic beset by inflation and a weakened dollar, it makes sense to cut that strength because the 300,000 American

Other Editor's Say Fulbright's 'Gag' Bill

(New York Daily News)
The U.S. Senate endorsed Sen. J. William Fulbright's plot to mute the nation's overseas information effort as the first step toward strangling it to death.

By a 42-37 vote, the chamber approved a cut of $31 million in the $224.4 million authorization bill for the U.S. Information Agency.

Fulbright (D-Ark.) and his Foreign Relations Committee authored the slash on the grounds that USIA was overweight in the administrative department.

But the plan truth of the matter is that the senator wants to cripple or kill all programs that, like USIA, tout America's horn throughout the world or, like Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, beam honest news to the serfs behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains.

One bit of "muscle" cut out of the USIA bill was $16 million for a transmitter without which American broadcasts cannot reach Red China and Southeast Asia.

Fulbright regards activities of this type as beastly affronts to the despots in Peking and Moscow. They, in turn, duly demonstrate their "mellowing" natures by piping a flood of venomous hate-America propaganda to all corners of the globe.

The Senate may be willing to swallow Fulbright's cold-war-is-over drive. But we hope and pray the House will stop the senator's malicious mischief and restore the USIA's full budget.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

We had the pleasure of meeting the person responsible for organizing the first Father's Day observance. And it was a woman, Mrs. Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., and one of our best friends in the Far West was her son who once served as assistant superintendent of Glacier National Park.
Mrs. Bruce Dodd was one of six motherless children and on the third Sunday in June, 1910, she spearheaded a church service in father's honor. Following a great amount of legislative labor, the custom was established. So, dear old dad, as you sit back and enjoy Father's Day this Sunday, just remember that you owe it all to a woman's ingenuity and persistence. Chances are dad won't forget it either when the bills arrive for his gifts.

In advance of The Herald's special edition on Manchester's birthday which will appear June 23, we are averaging about 40 mail orders per day.
Nearly all states are represented in the special mailing, but not surprising, Florida and California, are leading the parade.
Your orders for mailing the special edition to friends and relatives can be placed with our circulation department.

Sales of recreational vehicles are rolling ahead each year and if you have been on the highways recently you can believe that claim.
Retail sales of recreational vehicles, travel trailers, truck campers, camping trailers, motor homes and pickup covers, totaled $2.4 billion in 1972, an increase of 46 per cent over the previous year.

The Herald is pleased to be participating in distribution of the book, A New England Pattern, written by Dr. William E. Buckley of Manchester which contains the history of this fine town.

We have made arrangements with the book's publisher, The Pequot Press of Chester, to assist with the promotional efforts though all book orders will be handled by The Pequot Press.
It seems to us the book is a most appreciated gift for friends and relatives, particularly those who at one time resided here.

We thought the new anti-hijacking measures might have contained a provision that only passengers were allowed in the boarding and deplaning areas of airline terminals but found ourselves wrong on a jaunt into the Midwest. At O'Hare International Airport in Chicago there was even more congestion with friends and relatives greeting airline passengers. It's true that the well wishers have to go through the security check, just like the passengers, but that's all. We were told the provision that passengers only are permitted in the boarding and deplaning areas is strictly a local airport option.
No well wishers are permitted in the boarding area at Bradley International. To us, it appears to be a good regulation.

The passenger security check seems to be working out well. There is little delay, compared to the hour or so wait, when the regulation first became a reality six months ago. We observed no grumbling at all on the part of passengers regarding the security check.

Of interest is that during the 15 years of jet operation, mail service has cost the Postal Service less and less over the years on a unit basis. The yield to the airlines for air mail has declined by 45 per cent in the past 15 years but the amount of air mail carried has increased by 283 per cent.

With that 11 cents that you spend for an air mail stamp, the airlines last year received 0.4 cents and the Postal Service 10.6 cents. In 1959, the airlines received 0.7 cents out of each six cent stamp.
With regard to first class mail which is moved on a space available basis, the airlines received 0.3 cents from an eight cent stamp while the Postal Service receives 7.7 cents.

We saw the Boston Red Sox humble the Kansas City Royals at Fenway but had an enjoyable chat with the Royals skipper, Jack McKeon, who was the playing manager of a minor-league club in the mid 1950s when we served as the club's part-time business manager. Though the job was for all purposes, full-time, it was part-time as far as the pay was concerned which was okay since we couldn't afford any more.
McKeon spent 24 years in the minors, is currently writing a book on his experiences, which is something that even Joe Garagiola didn't reveal on his recent television show. Actually, McKeon didn't join the Royals organization until 1969. Prior to then, he was with Minnesota, which in the earlier days until Cal Griffith moved the franchise to Minnesota was the Washington Senators.

In the minor league days of the 50s the Montana club had two players who you might say went on to fame and fortune.
One was a wild southpaw pitcher who often drew the comment from catcher-manager McKeon: "Just get it over the plate we got nine chances that way." His name was Jim Kaat, now an ace pitcher with the Minnesota Twins.
We had an outfielder who told us following one of those frequent 400-mile, all-night bus rides, "there has to be an easier way to make a living." He apparently discovered it, because the outfielder was Charley Pride, now a noted country-western singer.
The big time hasn't changed McKeon. He's warm, hospitable. He's still living in Burlington, N.C., but is giving thought to moving to Kansas City. And regardless of the class of baseball, the old adage that bases on balls will get you into trouble holds true. That's what started the defeat of the Royals the night we watched them.

McKeon knows the pitfalls of being a major league manager, here today, gone tomorrow. But he has a master's degree in physical education and that should be some satisfaction.

In our chat, we commented that it's a small world, as one of the umpires in that league nearly 20 years ago was Bernie Givino, manager of Manchester's Parkade Lanes. McKeon smiled at the recollection. Sometimes with only 400 people in the stands on a cold May and June evening, we used to get McKeon to bait the umpires in the possible hope of a publicity build-up for the following night.
We always instructed Jack that when the ump turns his back to you for a second time during a rhabarb knock off the chair. Sometimes Jack forgot and we ended up forking over a $25 or $50 fine. Jack was the perfect "actor," though and loved every minute of it. He still loves it but he isn't "acting" now, he's dead serious.

Unit Price Advertising Discussed At Hearing

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD (AP) — State Consumer Protection Commissioner Barbara Dunn and the grocery stores' trade association agreed that the law was difficult to enforce and repeatedly asked for proposals to modify it.
One food business representative suggested an index within the ad, with the unit price listed in a box at the bottom of the page.
Mrs. Dunn's counsel, Roberts Sills, proposed that the ads merely carry a notice that the items in the ad are unit-priced at the store.
Milton Segel, representing the 100 First National Stores in Connecticut, said 25 per cent of consumer use ads to select stores, not to select products. He said unit pricing in advertising is unenforceable and not beneficial to the consumer.

The grocery industry is at a "profitless point" and is not inclined to buy more advertising space, he said.
An A&P representative warned that unit pricing information would be very confusing in radio and TV ads. He suggested that the regulation be delayed and reconsidered by the legislature.
A bill to take out the advertising section of the Unit Pricing Law was killed by the 1973 legislature.
Everyone at the hearing opposed the use of unit pricing in advertising. Professor Peter LaPiacca of the University of Hartford Business School said newspaper ad space would be wasted if unit prices were added. To be meaningful, he said, the ad would have to carry the unit prices for five or six brands of the same item. And, other stores would have to carry the same list in their ads, he said.

A statement distributed by the Democrats urged Mrs. Dunn to strictly enforce the law. By not enforcing it, "we are granting immunity to business and denying the average citizen basic rights," the statement said.
Some studies have indicated that only 10 per cent of buying public is using unit pricing information, Professor LaPiacca said.

Buy Wine To Beat Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — Buy now, drink later, is the motto of a growing number of Americans who are investing in wine as a hedge against inflation.
Keith Gould of Los Angeles paid about $15 per bottle two years ago when he bought a case of 1966 Chateau d'Yquem—a sweet, white dessert wine. He spotted the same wine recently in a neighborhood liquor store for $35.99 a bottle.
Terry Roberts of New York spent $50 six years ago for a case of 1961 Chateau Talbot, a red Bordeaux. Today, Chateau Talbot is selling for over $200 a case—a 300 per cent increase.
Gould and Roberts are lucky. They started buying before the price of French and other imported wines started spiraling to record levels, boosted by increased demand around the world and the devaluation of the dollar.

An increasing number of Americans have discovered wine in recent years. The California Wine Institute estimated that, from 1960 to 1972, total U.S. wine consumption increased from about 1.8 million gallons a year to 287 million gallons a year.
Gould, 39, became interested in wine when he lived in Boston several years ago. "I knew a little bit about California wine," he recalled. He started tasting, drinking and buying. Now he has about 250 bottles of imported French wine in the air-conditioned, shaded den he uses as a cellar.
"I have Bordeaux, Burgundies, a little Loire," he said. "I can't afford to buy really good wine today. The price is out of sight."

Gould said the wine he bought before moving to California has "doubled or almost tripled. I save it for big occasions."
Investing in wine isn't quite like investing in the stock market. For one thing, U.S. laws prohibit individuals from selling wine without a dealer's license. On the other hand, you can't drink your profits from General Motors.
Roberts, a financial writer for The New York Times who lives in a New York suburb, started collecting six years ago, "just prior to the great price escalation."
Now, he said, "I have a fairly substantial cellar, a couple thousand bottles."
Most of Roberts' wine is Bordeaux, hardest hit by inflation. He estimated he spent about $15 a bottle on the average for a total investment of about $5,000. The wine is now worth between $25,000 and $30,000, he said.

U.S. Fishermen Taking Second Look At Hake

SEATTLE (AP) - The Russian fishing fleet has returned to spend its eighth year off the Pacific Coast, and with its coming U.S. scientists and fishermen are taking a second look at the harvest.

Though commercial fishermen have complained that the Soviets are out to get their much prized salmon, Soviet efforts have concentrated on what was long thought to be a worthless scrap fish, the hake.

In recent days, the Coast Guard says, as many as 67 Soviet fishing vessels were spotted off the Oregon and Washington coasts.

And with a continuing search for new sources of inexpensive protein, scientists and fishermen are also taking a second look at the $20 million harvest of the lowly Pacific pollock the Japanese made last year fishing the Eastern Bering Sea, off the coast of Alaska.

Dr. Lee Albertson, director of the Northwest Fisheries Center for the National Marine Fisheries Service, predicts the harvest of these previously ignored fish could "greatly exceed" the harvest of salmon.

Hake and pollock are processed into a raw protein meal or concentrate. But even Henry Soike, manager of industrial development for the Port of Grays Harbor, Wash., also sees a potential for protein processing using hake.

Two plants have tried processing fish in Grays Harbor, he said. The first was a victim of what he called the "Russian Invasion" of the fishing grounds in 1962 and the second was an experimental government program that operated during 1967.

Democrats To Discuss Apportionment Rules

The Manchester Democratic Town Committee will meet three times in the next 15 days, to discuss and act upon several proposed amendments to its rules.

Its meetings will be June 14, June 20 and June 27, all at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The proposed amendments were distributed to the committee members May 30 and were discussed briefly.

The basic change concerns the number of committee members and the method for apportioning them among the existing seven voting districts. At present, the rules establish a town committee of not less than 70 members, elected by caucus in each of the seven districts. They are apportioned on the ratio of one member to each 140, or fraction thereof, of the registered Democrats in a district.

The change would establish a town committee limited to 74 members, also elected from the seven voting districts but apportioned on the ratio the registered Democrats in the district bear to the total registered Democrats in the Town of Manchester.

Another proposed change concerns duly elected committee members who move out of the district from which elected. At present, he or she loses membership on the town committee and a replacement is elected from the original district.

Under the change, the moved member would keep his or her membership on the town committee for the term elected and would continue to represent the original district.

Town Chairman Ted Cummings said the reason for three

Space Held Key To Improving RHS Offerings

Most of the recommendations made in the Rockville High School evaluation report cannot be implemented unless the facilities are expanded, Joseph Powers, chairman of the Board of Education, said Monday night.

The board had been scheduled to discuss the report in detail but after a discussion which mainly centered around the recommendations and commendations concerning the guidance department, it was agreed to have the administration and the curriculum committee of the board meet with the department heads and then report back to the board sometime in the fall.

Martin Fagan, principal of the high school, reminded the board that the purpose of the report is to improve the total school program. He said he feels the board has to set up priorities and explained that it is not necessary to agree with all of the recommendations made by the evaluation committee.

The evaluation team, among its recommendations, called for additional elective course offerings; a continued program of curriculum evaluation; a continuing effort by the Guidance Department to poll graduates and to utilize the information in an attempt to upgrade the curriculum offerings; a course in distributive education in the Business Education Department; a course in power mechanics in the Industrial Arts Department; a specific course in health education, articulation between the Education Department and the teaching staff.

Other recommendations are an expansion of the computer program; a coordinated effort to enable all eligible students to take part in the work study program; the use of semester, abbreviated or mini courses in an attempt to provide additional academic offerings; provision of advanced courses of study for the most able

For a quick, effective job of cleaning a white kitchen stove, refrigerator and other white enamel cabinets, use spray-on type window cleaner and rub with a soft, clean white cloth.

At a bridal shower, play the kitchen detective game. Place flour, beans, macaroni, coffee, etc. in tin cans that have light lids. Let the guests shake the cans to identify the contents.

When wrapping a gift for a bridal shower, tie something useful on the ribbon. A set of measuring spoons, a wooden spoon or for, or both, add to the attractiveness of the gift.

Place rocks about the size of a hickory nut around the top of potted plants, covering the dirt. You will find that the plant retains moisture in a heated room longer and looks prettier too.

Perms Special For July & August Golden Charm gives you Zito's Perm reg. $30.00 for $11.50. It includes shampoo, cut and set.

To make your potholders stay clean longer, spray them with spray starch. Stains, such as grease, do not sink in.

To remove dark spots from copper flower planters, dip a half lemon in salt and rub the planter. Rinse in hot water and polish with a soft cloth.

MADDOX Vegetarianism, drugs in the youth culture

By GAYNOR MADDOX A vegetarian is a person who does not eat meat, fowl or fish. Some also avoid eggs and all dairy foods. Those who forego all animal, egg and dairy food often are called "vegans."

There is nothing new about vegetarians. Throughout history they have been among us - inspired by religious and cultural groups for ethical and idiosyncratic reasons.

The Harvard study concludes that those who had vegetarians toward the use of drugs interesting. More subjects had used drugs in the past than were using them at the time of the interview.

Diabetes Association To Present Conference

Manchester members of the Connecticut Diabetes Association will present a free public conference Friday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Verplank School to help diabetics deal more successfully with their disease and to modernize public understanding of diabetes.
"Economic Diets for Diabetics," "Sick-Day Rules in Diabetics," "Genetic Counseling for Diabetics," and "Choice and Techniques of Medication" will be discussed by a panel, which includes a physician, diabetes teaching nurse and a dietitian. Dr. David S. Wilcox of Hartford, vice president and a past president of the association, will lead the panel discussion. There will be a question and answer period after each topic is discussed.
Mrs. Gabriel Nemeth of Downey Dr. is chairman of the arrangements committee for the conference.
Dr. Neil Auerbach, president of the association, said that of Connecticut's more than 3,000,000 people about 80,000 have recognized diabetes mellitus while an equal number have latent or undiagnosed diabetes.
"The Manchester Conference," he said, "is one of the association's series of Diabetes Seminars, assisted by Pfizer Laboratories, designed to encourage diabetics to care for themselves more conscientiously and to explain matters that have arisen in modern treatment such as U-100 insulin and oral medication."

Loving Miss

The engagement of Miss Joanne Mary Bortone of Stamford, formerly of 273 Bedford Rd., Manchester, to Mark Stephen Rosenfeld of White Plains, N.Y., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew W. Bortone of Stamford.
Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Rosenfeld of White Plains, N.Y.
The bride-elect, a 1969 graduate of Manchester High School, was a member of ICH (Instructors of Handicapped). She is a 1971 graduate of Centenary College for Women, where she received an AA degree and was a member of Kappa Phi Delta sorority. She received a BS degree in occupational therapy from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1972.

Mr. Rosenfeld is a 1964 graduate of White Plains (N.Y.) High School. He received a BA degree in sociology in 1968 from Colgate University, where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon. He is a former teacher for the emotionally disturbed children in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he was employed for three years. He received a MS degree in occupational therapy from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.
The couple plan a Sept. 16 wedding at The Rye Town Hilton Inn.

She carried a colonial bouquet of pink mini-carnations, bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Danielle Parrish of Manchester, sister of the bride, and Miss Linda Gouchoe of Bolton, sister of the bridegroom. They wore orchid nylon jersey gowns designed with square neck, long sleeves and bodice overlaid with deep purple lace. They wore matching headpieces, and carried small bouquets similar to those of the maid of honor.

The Rev. Norman Swenson performed the single ring ceremony at a candlelight service. Ernest Johnson Jr. of Manchester was organist and Mrs. John Morris of Glastonbury was soloist. White gladioli, yellow daisies and pompons were on the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pearl de sole fashioned with full sleeves and wide panels of Venetian lace on the skirt. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was arranged from a matching lace cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Gail Parrish, of Manchester, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an orchid print Empire gown with a matching orchid picture hat.

New Fields To Open For Women

By AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK (AP) — Newly-named women executives are mostly mythical, according to the president of a leading executive search firm.
Lester Korn, president of Korn-Ferry International, says there are four or five areas where women executives have a chance of success in today's business world, "but she's not there yet."
The categories he finds most open to women are consumer product areas, entertainment, the professions and government.
"Only in the last two years is there any acceptance of women as executives to fill executive needs. It was lip service until recently. Even today, a woman has to be qualified. Otherwise, no one wants to talk to her," Korn added.
The executive-finder added that the major stumbling block for women in positions of responsibility is their capability. They often do not have specific practical experience for a job. Men do.
"Five out of every hundred middle management executives have a chance of being a woman. That's one in 20."
In the next three to five years, candidates for top offices will be limited because of the population there is to draw from. If women are at mid-level already, they have a chance. Some — in academic, political and professional fields — are ready now. But the percentage is small. The growth of women executives is not as large as most people project," Korn added.
Areas in which Korn finds hope for future female executives — areas with profit and loss responsibility, which is his term for authority — include toiletries, food companies, entertainment, accounting and research, legal profession, public relations and education.

Nun Proves Point That Music Can Teach

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer
MIDDLETOWN (AP) — Sister Roberta McGrath believes strongly that music can teach. And to prove her point, she began writing her own songs to use in the classroom.

Now, after three years of songwriting, she has made two recordings and published a book of her songs which have sold a total of 4,000 copies in the United States and Canada.

The subjects of her simple, instructional songs range from the bible to every-day experiences.

"My whole reason for writing songs is to show you can sing about God as well as talk about him," she said during a recent interview.

Sister Roberta plays a 12-string guitar which is almost half her size. One of the first recordings entitled "A Brand New Day," she, student Judy Smith and the Rev. Stephen Raughter sing her compositions against a choral background.

One of the most popular songs is "I'm Special."

The mother of a retarded child said that as she heard her son singing the words, "I can do all sorts of things that are really quite unique," she realized that she had never considered his strong points, Sister Roberta recalled.

Children seem to be more influenced by the song.

"They respond better and there's a freedom there that older people lack," she said.

"I've tried writing songs for older people but they don't seem to use them as well," she said.

Her singing voice and songwriting talent prompt many to call her the "singing nun," she noted, but she doesn't like the nickname because of its commercial connotation.

Sister Roberta receives no money from her recordings or songbooks. Proceeds go to the Hartford archdiocese's Office of Communications in East Hartford and her order, the Sisters of Mercy, where she lives.

A native of Waterbury, Sister Roberta has taught for 19 years at Mercy High School and now is the school's music director. Next fall she will teach exclusively in the primary grades at St. Patrick's Catholic School in Norwich.

She began writing songs after being unable to find music suitable for use in first-through-third-grade classes, which she

Guidelines Suggested For Government Study

Tentative guidelines for the establishment of a Blue Ribbon Committee to study forms of government were accepted Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors.

A subcommittee of directors, consisting of Jon Norris, chairman; John Tani and Charles McKenlie, recommended a committee of about 15, "plus or minus," to be non-political, diversified and to represent all segments of the community.

Norris said his subcommittee is recommending a May 1, 1974 deadline for the Blue Ribbon Committee's report and, if its report warrants further action, a November 1974 referendum on whatever recommendations change in government, if any, is pursued.

Norris explained that, should the report recommend a change in government, the directors might find it necessary to appoint a new Charter Revision Commission, required under the state's Home Rule Act when charter revisions are to be considered in referendum.

As the board was about to instruct Town Manager Robert Weiss to contact town groups for recommended members for the Blue Ribbon Committee and to publicize the search, Weiss asked to be excused of the task, on the basis his job makes him an interested party in the study.

The board decided it will send the letters and publicize the search, the recommendations it receives, whatever the number, will be sifted down to size and the makeup of the Blue Ribbon Committee will be announced at the board's July meeting.

Cemeteries Rules Are Compromised

A compromise set of new rules for town cemeteries was adopted Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors.

According to the objections by veterans' groups to the proposal that only flush markers be placed in the Veterans' Fields, the directors voted to make the choice of markers (flush or upright) optional, based on the wishes of the family.

The board rejected a proposal for giving cemetery workers 11 days off per year, and voted to keep the days at the present 5 per year.

The directors also voted to keep the time schedule for funerals as it has been, and for the time being, to continue the practice of the town doing the billing for lot-opening charges. A proposal had been made for requiring the funeral directors to do the billing.

The compromise agreement in cemetery rules followed a meeting held with funeral directors and veterans' group representatives by Town Manager Robert Weiss and Cemetery Superintendent Robert Harrison.

Variety Show Participants

Pupils at Robertson School rehearse for their annual variety show, to be presented Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Left to right are Susannah Russak, who will do a jazz ballet number; Denise Duda, piano; and Cheryl Riskley, tap dance. The show, involving pupils in grades 3 to 5, is directed by teachers Mrs. Ann Zajchowski and Mrs. Deana Leikin.

Channel Tunnel Costs Up

LONDON (AP) — Cost estimates are rising by the minute as supporters work to move a much-discussed English Channel tunnel from the dream to the construction stage.

An engineering report due for debate in Parliament later this week says it will cost $2.125 billion to have the planned twin railway tubes in operation by 1990.

The tunnel would enable trains to whisk passengers, autos and freight between London and Paris in 2 hours, 40 minutes, less than half the present time by rail and ferry.

In 1963, experts had talked of completing the tunnel in the 1960s, at a cost of $470 million.

High costs were one reason the British government delayed construction then. The same argument is being heard now against the tubes. But supporters argue that, if Britain and France continue to hesitate, it will cost still more.

A parliamentary green light is needed for the project to move forward.

The next phase is building of tunnelheads and short pilot tubes near Folkestone, England, and at Sangatte, near Calais, France.

During preparation of the latest report by one British and one French consulting firm, all the traditional arguments were raised against linking the two countries by undersea tube.

And some critics came up with a new reason reflecting the times: The tunnel, carrying most of Britain's trade with Europe, would become a target for terrorists, ranging from the Black September Palestinians to the Irish Republican Army.

Over the decades, various proposals were shelved, mainly out of strategic considerations. The British always felt safer behind the large moat they call the English Channel. But this is illogical now that Britain has joined the Common Market, tunnel advocates say.

"There is still opposition to a tunnel from those who favor a bridge. But this would cost an estimated $5 billion.

The proposed 37-mile tunnel could carry 4,500 cars an hour in both directions and in only 10 days could handle all of the 1 1/2 million vehicles carried by ferry in 1971.

According to the 1972 British-French agreement, a British and a French private company would put up half the costs, the governments the rest. The latest report said the enterprise would pay for itself in 25 years and in 50 years the tunnel would pass completely into public ownership.

Consensus Cites Need For More Supervision
More supervision is needed at night programs sponsored by the Town Recreation Department — those programs which take place at town schools.

That was the consensus at a recent meeting of the legislative committee of the Manchester PTA Council. Mei Siebold, recreation director, attended the meeting with Wilson Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools; and Ted Fairbanks, supervisor of buildings and grounds for the Board of Education.

Vandalism was cited as one of the problems, but Siebold said no great amount of vandalism has resulted because of the programs themselves.

The PTA Council said that "rowdism, drinking and alleged drug use" were also problems.

Siebold said that, while school janitors have found empty bottles on school grounds, that alone does not prove youths taking part in the program were drinking. Bottles have been found on the grounds of the schools in question on many occasions when there have been no rec department programs underway, according to Siebold.

Siebold also said that there was no indication that drugs are being used by participants of the program.

On the subject of "rowdism," Siebold said that there was a rowdy element involved in the program, but that it was not of serious proportions and that a certain amount of such behavior was to be expected when dealing with the age group taking part in most of the department's programs.

CCLU Plans Suits To Open Town Beaches
NEW HAVEN (AP) — Fairfield, Milford and Westport were selected Tuesday by the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union as potential targets for a court test of the rights of the towns to limit non-residents access to municipal beaches.

CCLU Director William Olds said the organization's executive board had selected the three towns, with Fairfield considered the first target. He said Milford and Westport were considered as secondary targets.

LAB B'S'V

SASKATOON (AP) — Director J.W. Hamm says the Saskatchewan soil testing laboratory is getting busier. The laboratory located at the University of Saskatchewan, processed 5,894 samples in the 1972 fall testing period compared with 2,801 in 1971.

The laboratory analyses soil samples sent in by farmers and gives advice about the use of fertilizers to overcome nutrient deficiencies for specific crops.

The directors have been asked by the school board to authorize a Nov. 8 referendum on the proposed additions and renovations.

A proposal for a $8.8 million appropriation ($8.4 million for each school) lost in referendum last November. The new proposal is for modified plans at an estimated $8.8 million ($2.9 million for each school). The modified plans would be based on those provided last year for Illing by Arnold Lawrence, and for Bennet by Richard Mankey. The directors have been assured additional architects' fees will not be requested.

The directors must act by early August, if the referendum question is to appear on the November voting machines.

UConn Named Test Center
The University of Connecticut has been designated as a test center for the administration of the National Teacher Examinations July 21.

The tests, prepared by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., will be taken by college seniors preparing to teach, teachers applying for certification or licenses, and those seeking positions in schools requiring such tests.

Registration forms for the test are available at UConn's Bureau of Educational Research and Service at Storrs.

Federal Agency Seeks To Trace Stolen Guns

BOSTON (AP)—The federal government has plans for a program they hope will help you from getting shot by a gun that gets misplaced in a warehouse.

Raymond N. Kiely, North Atlantic regional director of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF), told a news conference Tuesday that thousands of guns disappear each year in interstate transit from manufacturer to suppliers and retailers.

Often, no report of the loss is made to federal authorities or police because none is required by law, Kiely said.

"The outfit that loses the guns will report it to his insurance company to recover his loss, but we may never hear about it until it turns up at a crime," Kiely said.

ATF has developed a program with the truckers and gun manufacturers that the bureau hopes will help them keep track of these lost guns.

"We're trying to tighten controls and make it as difficult as possible for a criminal to get his hands on a gun to use in a crime," Kiely said.

"When a shipment of guns is lost, we have asked the truckers or the manufacturers to let us know about it on a voluntary basis," Kiely said.

A form for this purpose has been prepared by Arthur Montuori, ATF special agent in charge in New England.

Kiely said ATF has been assured of the voluntary cooperation of the American Trucking Association and of the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute.

The serial numbers of lost guns, as well as of guns reported stolen, will be forwarded to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) in Washington, where they will be entered into a computer, Kiely said.

Law enforcement agencies throughout the nation have quick access to these computer files, he said.

"There are two purposes behind this program," Kiely said.

"One is to get a record on all lost and stolen guns in the nation," he said. "The other is to look for trouble spots in the transit system—places which seem to lose more than their share of guns."

"If we hear of a place that is losing guns, we can set up a procedure to watch it," he said.

Kiely said the voluntary reporting program would start in New England July 1 and, "once we've ironed out the bugs and kinkers," would be expanded to a national program.

He said New England was chosen to start the program because the bulk of the firearms manufacturers are located here and that is where the shipments originate.

He said no exact figures are available, but he estimated 75 per cent of all guns manufactured in the United States are made in New England.

Illegal Auto Registration Target Of Four-State Effort

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Four neighboring states have joined New York in a drive against those who register cars illegally in other states to avoid liability insurance requirements.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany said Tuesday.

More than 200 cases were reported under investigation from information provided in the last three months by authorities in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Vermont, Tofany said.

Most cases involve motorists who produced New York driver's licenses and out-of-state registrations when stopped by police.

Tofany said state law prohibits a driver with a New York license from registering his vehicle in another state.

He said the program was an outgrowth of a New York-New Jersey effort begun last November.

Motorists suspected of registration irregularities are requested, Tofany said, to clarify their residences. If they fail to do so, licenses or registrations are suspended pending a hearing, Tofany said.

Child Drowns In Pool

DEVON (AP)—William Lutinski, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lutinski, drowned Tuesday when he fell into the swimming pool behind his home, police said.

A neighbor summoned police after the youngster's mother discovered the boy submerged in the pool shortly after 9 a.m.

The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Millard Hospital after efforts to revive him failed, officers said.

It was the second drowning death in the Millford area in three days. A 17-year-old boy drowned Sunday while swimming at Eisenhower Park.

Town's Incorporation Was Front Page News

An original copy of the June 3, 1923 edition of the Connecticut Courant, fore-runner of the Hartford Courant, has been donated to the town by Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Hall Jr. of 61 Village St.

The edition was printed the day on which the Connecticut General Assembly approved incorporation status for the Town of Manchester, and the news was announced on its front page.

Because the edition is in fragile shape, the town plans to mount and frame it and to present it for public display.

The paper was given to Walter Hall by his mother, Mrs. Mary Carter Hall of 42 Strong St. She received it from a cousin in Arlington, Va., whose mother was a Manchester native.

Originally, the paper had been owned by the family of Virgil Caryon Carter and his wife, Sarah Grant Carter, lifelong residents of Manchester. Their son, Joseph C. Carter, also a lifelong resident of Manchester, conducted a coal business in the North End in the early 1900's. Thus, the Carter family and its descendants owned the edition for an uninterrupted period of 150 years and 4 days. It was presented to the town on June 7, 1973.

Penn Central Losses For 1972 Reported

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A net loss of $2.48 million for calendar 1972 has been reported by the Penn Central Co., parent of the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co.

The loss amounted to 10 cents per share, compared with a net loss of $5.70 million or 24 cents per share in 1971, the firm said in its annual statement.

The figures do not include results of Penn Central Transportation Co., a wholly owned subsidiary, which suffered a net loss of $222.83 million or $9.24 a share for 1972, compared to $650.15 million or $23.23 per share in 1971.

The losses included extraordinary charges in 1972 of $24.93 million or $3 per share and in 1971 of $275.63 million or $11.43 a share.

Unaudited results for the first quarter of 1973 show a net loss of $11.25 million or 47 cents a share excluding Transportation Co. losses of $55.25 million or $2.2 a share.

Comparable 1972 figures showed a net loss of $1.23 million or 5 cents a share excluding Transportation Co. losses of $65.19 million or $2.70 a share.

Economic Authority Requested

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called on Congress Tuesday to give President Nixon broader authority "to build economic systems which will carry us forward through the rest of the century."

Speaking at a meeting of the Michigan Manufacturers Association, Agnew said global economic issues "equal importance" with political and security issues.

Agnew urged congressional action on Nixon's trade reform bill so foreign nations "will understand that, in spite of disagreements here at home, the nation is ready to stand by its historic commitment to build a more open international society as fast as the rest of the world will progress with us toward that goal."

Trade talks scheduled to begin in Tokyo in autumn require particularly broad presidential authority, Agnew said.

Reform in international trade agreements "is not just a question of our lowering chemical tariffs 'X' per cent; it is the Japanese lower car tariffs 'Y' per cent," he said.

White House Even Lonelier Since Watergate

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, a lonelier man than ever before, seems even more alone since the Watergate scandals separated him from his two closest aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

White House insiders say that C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a frequent Nixon companion, is the only friend they can recall having dined privately with the President at the executive mansion in recent months.

Even the Nixon family circle at the White House is dwindling. Tricia and Edward Cox have taken up residence in New York. Julie and David Eisenhower live in a Bethesda, Md., house rented from Rebozo.

Mrs. Nixon and Julie have described the Watergate as agonizing for the President and tragic for the families of Haldeman and Ehrlichman, who resigned April 30. "We've been friends so long," Mrs. Nixon said.

The Nixon family has taken up a theme pronounced by lawyer son-in-law Cox that "Watergate is a thing of the past."

Investigators will thrash it out, they say, and the President must move ahead with his important official business, including the foreign policy breakthroughs which they think will make his mark in history.

In earlier, happier days of his presidency, Nixon explained himself:

"I am a somewhat unusual man to be in political life, because I tend to be less gregarious, frankly, than the average person in this position in political life. I don't tend to be a first-name, or basically shall we say, too familiar. That is my nature. I tend to be somewhat formal."

From the time he moved into the oval office, Nixon established a pattern of depending on his staff, even for news reports.

One aide describes Nixon as operating "with the condensing executive of a large corporation would work." He prefers written reports to personal meetings, the aide said, because "meetings take time and the President is a very good budgeter of time."

In his personal life as President, Nixon quickly demonstrated a desire for privacy, hideaways and frequent changes of scenery. A weekend spent in the White House is a rarity for him.

Traveler

In one 10-day period earlier this year, Nixon visited his retreats at San Clemente, Calif., on the Pacific Ocean, Key Biscayne, Fla., on the Atlantic and Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland. He frequently goes from Key Biscayne to a friend's private island in the British Bahamas.

In the White House he sought so long to win, Nixon is said to find the trappings of the famed oval office distracting and has established a smaller hideaway in the Executive Office Building next door.

Aides cannot recall Nixon ever working in his shirtwaist. His only concession to informality on the job is to wear a sports jacket occasionally.

Once when there were reports that the President sported faded purple trousers at Camp David, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "well, he wears sports clothes from time to time. I think faded is a little exaggerated. Some of his slacks have cuffs on them. I mean he's a regular guy, he wears sports clothes."

But purple? "I don't know about purple," said Ziegler, "some of his slacks are blue."

Nixon also retreats to the tiny Lincoln Sitting Room of the second floor family quarters in the White House, where he often has a cozy fire—even in the warm weather—and listens to music from stereo equipment stored in a closet.

Nixon recently explained his need for aloneness:

"Great decisions, if they are to be good decisions, must be made coolly... Of course, I like to hear everyone, but then I go off alone and decide..."

He has established Camp David, located on an isolated wooded mountaintop, as one of his chief decision-making spots. It is a 20 minute helicopter ride from the White House, which one of his daughters has likened to a big, empty hotel.

Nixon runs in place for exercise and bowls occasionally at two lanes in the Executive Office Building next door to the White House or at Camp David alleys. He likes swimming, goes in just about daily when he's at Camp David, and brags about taking a plunge in the heated pool there once when the temperature outside was "five degrees below."

Nixon dines on a low-fat diet he says "keeps you in better mental shape—it does me." His weight is around 172 now.

Recently he set the record straight about his reported taste for cottage cheese and ketchup. It's spiced up more often now with pineapple. "You have to dress up cottage cheese to eat it," Nixon said.

One of his favorite simple dinner dishes is reported to be baked breast of chicken with lemon juice, oregano and chopped parsley fresh from the White House garden.

Nixon's habits are pretty well fixed and predictable. He has breakfast on a tray in his room, looking over briefing papers while he eats. Lunch is on a tray in his office, alone. He has dinner around 6:30 p.m. usually with the family.

Nixon is usually at his oval office by 8 a.m. with the first order of business the famous blue looseleaf notebook labeled "Daily News Summary" waiting on his desk.

Ex-Welder Turns Out Sparkplug Art Objects

CAMDEN, Main (AP)—George Drinkwater, a one-time student of industrial welding with an artistic flare, has given up the arc welder to make little people out of spark plugs.

"As far as I'm concerned they are art," the 28-year-old native of this coastal artists' colony says of his whimsical gallery of spark plug figures.

"I learned never to do political sculpture," Drinkwater said. "It's too dangerous. Besides somebody stole it."

As for the spark plugs, "I shouldn't let it, I suppose, but I first got the idea for the spark plug people from a picture in a magazine," Drinkwater says.

Although he says some people are skeptical about the artistic worth of his sculpture, afraid they're being ripped off, Drinkwater charges a minimum of $20 for some small pieces and $50 for larger ones. He says he's making a good living with his art.

Drinkwater plugs are on exhibit at a local bank and the Rockport Full Tilt Gallery, started by Drinkwater and another sculptor, will be the main outlet for his work in the future.

For now, Drinkwater plans to exhibit at a local bank and the Rockport Full Tilt Gallery, started by Drinkwater and another sculptor, will be the main outlet for his work in the future.

Drinkwater normally works in steel and bronze with an acetylene torch and arc welder.

Obituaries

Mrs. Charles P. Klotzer — Mrs. Margaret Finley Klotzer, 60, of 300 Woodbridge St. died this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital after being stricken at her home. She was the wife of Charles P. Klotzer.

Mrs. Klotzer, a stenographer at the Manchester assessor's office at the Municipal Building for over 15 years, was born in Rockville May 24, 1913, daughter of John and Margaret Tobin Finley. She had lived in Manchester for 35 years.

She was a communicant of St. Bridget Church and a member of its Rosary Society. She also belonged to the Manchester Council of Catholic Women.

Survivors, besides her husband, are two sons, William P. Klotzer of Manchester and Dennis J. Klotzer of Coventry; two brothers, Clarence Finley of Rockville and Leonard Finley of Westfield; two sisters, Mrs. Elton Campbell and Mrs. Bert Schuey, both of Rockville; and five grandchildren.

The funeral will be Friday at 8:15 a.m. from the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with a Mass of the Resurrection at St. Bridget Church at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Association of Greater Hartford, 310 Collins St., Hartford.

Mrs. Cathryn A. Hall — Mrs. Cathryn A. Hall, 71, of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, died Monday at her home. She was the widow of Frank Hall.

Mrs. Hall was born June 21, 1901 in Manchester and had lived in Hartford for 25 years. Before her retirement, she was employed as a clerk at the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., Bloomfield.

Survivors are two brothers, Edward Burke and James Burke, both of Hartford; and a sister, Mrs. Laura Jones of Orlando, Fla.

Funeral services will be Friday at a time to be announced at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. Burial will be in Buckingham Cemetery, Glastonbury.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Miss Emily Terragni — Miss Emily Terragni, 82, of 121 Wadell Rd., died Tuesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Miss Terragni was supervisor of the controlled offices at the G. Fox & Co., Hartford, and a member of its 25-year Club. She was born in Hartford and had lived in Manchester for about 25 years.

Survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Angelina T. Crandall of Manchester and Mrs. Lena T. Stevens of Elcador, Calif.

The funeral will be Friday at 8:30 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., with a Mass of the Resurrection at the Church of the Assumption at 9 a.m. Burial will be in Mt. St. Benedict Cemetery, Bloomfield.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

It'll Help in Retirement

Allan C. Ensign, center, teacher at the Tolland Middle School contemplates the joys of retirement as he and his wife accept a purse presented to them by Gerald Ralston, another teacher at a testimonial dinner Tuesday night in his honor at the Bolton Lake Restaurant. The event honored Ensign of Sycamore Lane, formerly of Glastonbury, who is retiring next week after 30 years of teaching elementary school, mostly in Connecticut. He was feted by more than 40 persons associated with the Tolland school system where he has been for the past seven years. He has also taught in Bloomfield and East Hartford. He will make his home in Washington, N.H., with his wife and two daughters. Two sons in New Jersey and New York were unable to attend the affair. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Team Teaching Will Expand

DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter)

Team teaching at Manchester's two junior high schools will be expanded to include all seventh and eighth graders, the Board of Education learned Monday night.

Illing Junior High School, which has had one team in seventh grade and team in eighth grade this year, will have three teams in each grade next year.

Bennet Junior High School, which has had a total of five teams in both grades, will expand to nine teams to cover all students in seventh and eighth grade next year.

There may be a pilot teaching team working with ninth graders at Bennet, Assistant Principal Ron Edmondson reported. But at Illing, ninth graders will not be involved in team teaching because the Illing ninth grade is housed at Manchester High School, Illing Principal Richard Lindgren said.

Edmondson, briefly detailing this history of team teaching in Manchester — it started at Bennet in 1971 — noted that the idea of team teaching is not really new. Edmondson said that 19 years ago, when he was teaching seventh grade at

Base Uses Discussed By Council

NEW CASTLE, N.H. (AP) — New England communities facing the economic impact of military base closings should give thought to using them as possible sites for refineries, super ports or atomic energy power plants, the New England Council says.

The regional development agency, holding its summer meeting here, said Tuesday such uses should be studied as a means of providing new jobs. It said federal surveys of surplus property take time but affected communities need immediate help.

On other matters, the council:

- Urged the President and Congress to return to Phase I price and wage controls.
- Rejected total federal responsibility for welfare.
- Recommended encouragement of hydrofoil commuter travel from New York into New England.
- Recommended against legislation that would provide welfare benefits for strikers.
- Voted to pick up the functions of the New England Regional Commission. If the commission is not extended by Congress, the Regional Commission is similar to the Appalachian Commission, which worked in the depressed area of Appalachia.

Directors Table Sewer Swap Issue

SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night again tabled a proposal for a sewer swap with South Windsor in the Buckland area, where the Arthur M. Fischer Co. of New York plans a commercial-industrial-residential development on about 565 acres of Hartman Tobacco Co. land.

Tuesday night's action was unanimous and with little discussion. The basis for the tabling action was to determine whether the town's Secondary Treatment Plant would be able to absorb the increased sewage load.

A determination is expected by Aug. 31, based on a report the town must furnish to the state Department of Environmental Protection and on its acceptance or rejection.

Also tabled Tuesday night, for an undetermined period, was a proposal to complete the transaction for purchasing the 110-acre Laurel Lake dry-dred from Robert and Wells Denison.

The transaction, at a $449,500 cost, still awaits title clearance for the property and a change to Industrial Zone.

The Planning and Zoning Commission was to act June 25 on the town's request for the zone change. Weiss said he will ask the commission to delay its action, pending title clearance.

Also tabled was the appointment of a member to the Town Building Committee, to succeed

Wilfred Dion, who resigned when he accepted employment with the school board.

The directors approved the appointment of the Rev. Ronald J. Fournier, co-pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, to the Commission On the Aging. He succeeds the Rev. Robert J. Burbank, who resigned when he accepted a post in Millford.

The directors designated the town clerk as the responsible person for the maintenance of the board's minutes. At present, the town manager's office is responsible for the minutes.

In the future, the town clerk or his deputy will be present at all board meetings.

Light Working At Spruce St.

The recently installed traffic light at Charter Oak and Spruce Sts. was put into operation Tuesday, according to state traffic authorities.

The light was installed under a state grant to control the heavy volume of traffic in the area.

Meeting Changed

The Bolton Board of Education has changed the location for its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The meeting will be held at the office of Bolton Elementary School and not at the Center School library as originally planned.

Manchester SAVINGS & LOAN Association

Minimum mortgage requirement 5%

It was in 1891 that the American Association, joined that National League. Savings & Loan was founded, too!

In 1891 the American Baseball Association merged with the National League to form a 12 club organization. In the same year Manchester had its first financial organization... Savings & Loan... where folks could place their savings or secure financial assistance in buying a home.

We're still here in 1973, helpful as ever, offering home mortgages for as little as 5%. Costs for repairs or remodeling can be added later on without a refinancing charge. You can pay up your Savings & Loan mortgage early without a penalty, too. Come in for home financing counselling. No obligation.

Power Shortage Glossary Given

NEW YORK (AP) — Following is a glossary of terms used by the electrical utilities in describing their efforts to meet the critical demands for power.

Watt—the electrical unit of power or rate of doing work.

Kilowatt-1,000s. The capacity of generating stations is generally measured in kilowatts. Consolidated Edison's No. 3 Ravenswood power plant in New York City is the company's largest unit rated at 1 million kilowatts. The total U.S. electric generating capacity in 1972 was approximately 405 million kilowatts.

Volts—measure the pressure used to force a flow of electricity through a wire. It is similar to measuring water pressure in a hose in pounds per square inch. Generally, electricity flowing into a home or office on the CON Edison system is rated at 120 or 208 volts.

Voltage reduction—is a common technique used by electric systems to insure a continued supply of electricity and reduce over-all demand. The average consumer is usually unaware of a voltage reduction as the quality of service remains almost unchanged. In the Con Edison service area, voltage reductions of three per cent, five per cent or eight per cent can be made as a precautionary measure to "spread" or "stretch" the available power supply over the system.

Peak—is the maximum customer demand for electricity in a given period. The peak for the Con Edison service area was established July 19, 1972, when 7,972,000 kilowatts were supplied to meet customers' needs.

Save a Watt—is a term Con Edison uses to encourage people to conserve all types of energy—especially electricity. Residential consumers are urged to turn off or reduce unnecessary air conditioning, to delay use of appliances such as sweepers until the late evening hours or weekends and to turn off all unnecessary lighting. Large users—building operators, manufacturers, shopping centers—are also asked to cut back use of electricity.

Premium Promotion Requires Energy And Creativity

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More pure energy and creativeness probably pours into America's marketing of products than into the invention and design of the products themselves. And nobody believes this more than the premium people.

Marketing men will tell you that you can no more sell a worthless product through promotion than you can produce a lily white image for a corporate polluter. But if the product has any quality, you can send it on its way.

There are, for example, instances of products that cost less to produce than the container that carries them. And there are products that sell not for their intrinsic desirability but because of the premium attached.

Selling the image and selling "something additional" have, therefore, sometimes become as important as the primary product itself, as is illustrated by this tiny tabloid summary of a cocky industry with its sights on the stars.

Premiums have been around a long, long time, hundreds of years by some calculations, but certainly from the pre-Civil War days of B.T. Babbitt, who offered a color lithograph for 25 of his soap wrappers.

Before that time premiums were handed out regularly, but generally not in a systematic way. In 18th century Louisiana, for example, the premium was lagniappe, generally a bit of candy or gum drops or a bit of shrimp.

Trading stamps, incidentally, failed to keep pace. After growing from a pease-size $10 million in 1930 to the watermelon proportions of $900 million five years ago they slipped to under $70 million but reportedly are growing again.

By 1973 the industry had grown to the massive proportions of $4 billion, made up of a multitude of incentives ranging from bubble gum cards to round-the-world trips for winners of sales contests.

Retail Ad Director

Richard W. Cosgrove, 29, has been named retail advertising manager of The Manchester Herald. The appointment was announced by Duane Edmonds, the Herald's director of advertising and marketing.

Cosgrove comes to Manchester from The Dallas (Tex.) Chronicle where he also served as advertising manager.
Prior to that he was with the advertising department of the Coors of Alene (Idaho) Press.

He is a graduate of Northern Illinois University at DeKalb.
He served in the U.S. Air Force four years and had a one-year tour of duty in Vietnam.

Cosgrove's civic duties include work with the United Crusade, Kiwanis and Toast masters. He was named Coors of Alene Jaycee of the Year in 1972.

He and Mrs. Cosgrove are the parents of two children, ages 10 and 5.
Edmonds said that one of Cosgrove's chief responsi-

Richard W. Cosgrove abilities with the Herald's expanded advertising department will be to serve the firm in the Manchester Shopping Parkade.

President's Daughter To Visit Hartford

WASHINGTON (AP)—Julie Nixon Eisenhower is to make two appearances Thursday in Hartford, Conn., touring a housing project for senior citizens and making a commencement address at a school for the deaf, the White House said Tuesday.

The first stop for the President's daughter will be at 1:30 p.m. at the P.C. Smith
Tower, a nondenominational home for senior citizens, where she will attend a strawberry festival before taking a brief tour of the facility.

At 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Eisenhower is to speak at ceremonies marking the graduation of 36
students at the American School for the Deaf in West Hartford, with her speech being translated by an interpreter using sign language.
Gov. Thomas J. Meskill will introduce Mrs. Eisenhower.

Bolton Kindergarten Visit Set

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
Tel. 646-0075

Tomorrow children who normally attend the afternoon session of kindergarten will attend the morning session in order that incoming kindergarten students may visit the school in the afternoon.

The children from the afternoon session will be picked up at the bus stops designated for the regular bus runs. Dismissal of all kindergarten pupils will be at 11:20 a.m.

Tomorrow all kindergarten pupils who want to will have the experience of eating lunch in the lunchroom. The lunchroom managers have prepared juice, fluffertaster sandwich, potato chips, carrot and celery sticks, milk and ice cream as a menu for which there will be a 90-cent charge to be paid as soon as possible.

For incoming kindergarten students, those whose last name begins with the letters A-M may visit from 12 until 2 p.m.
and children whose last name begins with the letters N-Z may visit from 2:15 until 3:15 p.m.

Parents must arrange transportation. Children are to be brought to the kindergarten rooms and should be picked up promptly at the close of the hour. Parents are requested to provide name tags for their child.

Special PTO Meeting
A special meeting of the Bolton Parent Teacher
Organization will be held tonight at 8 in the all-purpose room of the Elementary School.

As the status of the PTO will be decided at this time, all members are urged to attend.

Stamps In The News

AP News Features
By SYD KRONISH

Papua-New Guinea can be called a picturesque panorama of people, places and promise. Its population of 3 1/2 million consists of many races and creeds speaking some 700 languages.

That's why its new definitive issue of six stamps is called "Papua New Guinea Panorama."

The 1-cent hails the Milne Bay District, which is 7,200 square miles. The design shows a wood carver from the Trobriand Islands making a canoe prow. The 7-cent is a tribute to the south coast of Papua, east and west of its capital, Port Moresby. Depicted is a coastal village built on traditional piles over water.

The 3-cent, for the East New Britain District, features a view of the Rainings People at a ceremonial dance. The 15-cent honors the Chimbu District, 2,300 square miles of high country; it shows Mount Elimbri and a typical native round house. The design is found in woven cane chest bands worn there.

The 25-cent value illustrates a council house typical of the East Sepik District. The 40-cent, for the Madang District, which extends along the northern coast, pictures some of the waterways typical of the district and the design has been adapted from a finely carved black palm section of a pig arrow.

Three unique Bicentennial cachet covers will commemorate this year's Independence Day, July 4. They will be issued in a limited edition by the International Stamp Collectors Society.

One cover will show Independence Hall in Philadelphia, site of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Another will have the Liberty Bell superimposed on the Declaration paper. The third cover will carry a reproduction of the famous painting showing the signing ceremony.

Each cover will bear three stamps depicting three signers of the Declaration - Washington, Jefferson and Franklin. They will be postmarked July 4 at Philadelphia.

The complete set of three covers is available for $3.50 from the International Stamp Collectors Society (Bi-centennial Covers Section), P.O. Box 48066, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Today's Thought

One of the most prevalent meanings of the word "cross" is with reference to any hurt or handicap.

A cross is something you take upon yourself for the sake of another. A burden is the handicap that is handed you by life's circumstances. A cross is the pain you reach for in order to change those conditions of life which hand out burdens to others.

No one is ever drafted to take up a cross. He is invited, and he does so voluntarily. When Jesus said, "If any man would come after me..." all the power of human freedom is wrapped up in that little word, "if." Not even the Lord of the cross himself can make you carry a cross. You do it of your own volition.

Hebron House Size Change Tabled, PZC Meets Strong Objection

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Planning and Zoning Commission last night faced very strong opposition at the public hearing to consider changing the minimum house square footage requirements and zoning in executive session after the hearing to table any action on the proposed changes.

The commission was proposing requirements for a minimum of 1,250 square feet of floor space for a one-family dwelling on a one-acre lot and 1,500 square feet of floor space on a two-acre lot. Present regulations require 900 and 1,200 square feet, respectively.

Not one of the 40 persons who attended the hearing spoke in favor of the proposal, and several builders and realtors in town had legal representation attending the meeting on their behalf.

Atty. Lester Katz of Hartford represented Caron Brothers, Gross and Dallaire Realty, Hebron Construction Corp., Richard McDonald Realty, Robert I. Tupper Realty and Anthony Sylvester Construction Co., and spoke on behalf of the group.

Katz, in stating his case, picked up a statement made by Wilbur Dennis, PZC Chairman, who indicated, as Katz put it, that "something is happening" which makes the changes necessary.

He asked for the reasons for the change and for Dennis to clarify the "illusion" he was creating that there was more to the situation than meets the eye.

Dennis stated he was not in a position to reveal any facts at this time, and would only clarify that the proposed changes were being kept within the framework of the new town plan being worked on.

He did point out that it is the planners' feeling that the larger square footage requirements would ease the tax burden somewhat and this appeared to be the only concrete advantage the commission could present.

Opposition

The opposition related the tax burden issue and centered around creating non-conforming uses for approximately 85 per cent of the homes in town, zoning out young couples and the elderly, aggravation of existing sanitary and septic problems and increasing the present energy crisis and lumber crisis.

The opposition felt that larger homes bring in larger families, thus increasing costs for education and burdening even further Hebron's existing poor sanitary, and septic soil conditions.

In refuting the opposition's statement that those with non-conforming houses if the changes were passed would have to build larger, more expensive homes if anything happened to the existing structure, commission member Roy Wirth pointed out that regulations now stipulate the owner may reconstruct a similar home within 12 months.

Dennis also said that the commission had no intention of zoning out young couples or the elderly, and reminding those present of the statement in the proposed regulations, "These requirements may be modified by the Planning and Zoning Commission as a special permit in the case of an individual lot."

It was pointed out that a special permit and that could be a point of embarrassment to some people to have to come before the commission for a special permit and that the commission should not have such power.

Andover School To Raise Its New Flag

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

In observance of Connecticut's Flag Day, June 14, the elementary school will raise its new flag with ceremonies starting at 2 p.m.

All grades will contribute a portion of the overall program and the correspondence regarding the flag, which was flown over the Capital, will be read. The program will end with community singing of appropriate music for the occasion.

Library

Volunteers presently are taking an inventory of all books in the school library and a list of those who have books outstanding will be compiled and parents will be notified.

If by this Friday the books are not returned, bills will be sent out to cover the cost. The program will be determined out of the amount for depreciation formula.

Area Police Report

COVENTRY

Louise A. Curry, 17, of Rt. 31, Coventry, was charged Tuesday with using a motor vehicle without the owner's permission.

All grades will contribute a portion of the overall program and the correspondence regarding the flag, which was flown over the Capital, will be read. The program will end with community singing of appropriate music for the occasion.

Library

Volunteers presently are taking an inventory of all books in the school library and a list of those who have books outstanding will be compiled and parents will be notified.

VERNON

Roland L. Fitzgerald, 16, of 56 Tankerowners Rd., Vernon, was charged with third-degree assault, breach of peace (two counts) and interfering with a police officer, police said.

According to police, Fitzgerald was charged in connection with a fight at Rockville High School. A charge of interfering with a police officer and the second breach of peace charge stems, police say, from Fitzgerald's behavior after police arrived on the scene.

He was released on a $1,000 non-surety bond for court July 3.

ROCKVILLE

Edsel McCarthy, 17, of 66 Orchard St., Rockville, was charged with failure to drive in the proper lane in connection with a one-car accident on Bolton Rd. Tuesday.

Police say the McCarthy car left the road and struck a pole. No injuries were reported in the accident.

ROCKVILLE

Raymond Griffin of 79 Brooklyn St., Rockville, reported that the windows of his car had been smashed by vandals. He also told police that all four of the vehicle's tires had been slashed.

SOUTH WINDSOR

Reginald Smith, 41, of 1066 Main St., Manchester, was arrested on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant charging him with first-degree reckless endangerment.

SOUTH WINDSOR

Police say that the arrest is the result of an investigation into a recent incident in which Smith allegedly fired a gun into the ground near persons during a target practice session in the Meadows area of South Windsor.

SOUTH WINDSOR

He was released on a $500 non-surety bond for court June 25.

HARTFORD

Martin Morris, 17, of 21 Norma Rd., South Windsor, was charged on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with impairing the morals of a minor in connection with a recent incident in the area of Wapping School.

HARTFORD

He was released on a $2,000 non-surety bond for court June 15.

HARTFORD

Hartford Man Killed Crossing Interstate 84

WEST HARTFORD (AP)—Rushel Gadsom, 35, of Hartford was killed late Tuesday night when he was hit by a car as he was walking across Interstate 84, state police said.

They said Gadsom's car had run out of gas and he crossed the highway in search of a service station. As he was recrossing the road, he was struck by a car near the Corbin Corner westbound exit, police said. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Subdivision

The PZC approved lots 17, 18 and 19 in Section 11 of the Slocum Heights Subdivision as a subdivision, but not for building purposes at this time due to the lack of frontage which will have to be approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

It was also stipulated that the right-of-ways coming onto Blackman Rd. show a 30-foot radius and that certain lot lines and notes be removed from the final plan.

There was no opposition to this subdivision at the public hearing.

Millstream Estates

Lot 5 in Millstream Estates was approved with the commission accepting an amended plan.

Action on Lot 1 was tabled to enable the commission to secure further information on water seepage.

Millstream Park

Action was also tabled on Lot 1 in Millstream Park, with the commission voting to seek clarification from Paul Schur, principal sanitarian for the State Health Department, on several points.

These included concern that the certain drain might flow into an existing swamp, thus creating adverse conditions in the state brook behind the property, no percolation tests shown for the reserve area and the well location not shown.

Deepwood Drive

The commission took no action on a request from Murray Ostrager to approve Lot 8A on Deepwood Dr. in Amston where a modular home has been placed on the 50 foot by 295 foot lot.

The commission has received a letter from Schur stating that the department has reviewed revised plans of the sewage disposal system for the lot and the "plan complies with the public health code."

However, two adjoining property owners attended last night's meeting with one citing the possibility of contamination of the brook at the rear of the property and the other citing the possibility of contamination of his well.

Area Police Report

COVENTRY

Richard Paquet, 16, of 24 Hayes Rd., South Windsor, was charged Tuesday on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with third-degree larceny and fourth-degree larceny.

Police say that he has been charged in connection with a recent shoplifting incident and the theft of ten-speed bicycles in the South Windsor area.

He was released on his written promise to appear in court on June 25.

VERNON

Roland L. Fitzgerald, 16, of 56 Tankerowners Rd., Vernon, was charged with third-degree assault, breach of peace (two counts) and interfering with a police officer, police said.

According to police, Fitzgerald was charged in connection with a fight at Rockville High School. A charge of interfering with a police officer and the second breach of peace charge stems, police say, from Fitzgerald's behavior after police arrived on the scene.

Social Security

Q. Will Medicare Coverage for the disabled be the same as the Medicare Coverage now provided for people 65 and older?

A. Yes, the only difference is in the requirement for getting Medicare Coverage. Disabled people must have been disabled for 24 consecutive months. There is a special provision for people who have a kidney transplant or dialysis.

Q. I am totally disabled and get monthly Social Security checks. I understand I'll get Medicare coverage starting next month. My wife, who has never worked under Social Security and doesn't get monthly checks, is also totally disabled. Will she also be covered under Medicare next month?

A. No. In your situation, only the disabled worker, will become eligible for Medicare benefits next month. Recent changes in the law extend Medicare protection to disabled workers, disabled widows and widowers aged 50 to 65, and certain other disabled people. Disabled wives are not included.

A. Drugs are only covered by Medicare in specific situations. The hospital insurance program will pay for drugs you receive while a patient in a hospital or skilled nursing facility. The medical insurance program covers only drugs which cannot be self-administered and are received either in a physician's office and as a hospital outpatient.

Q. I've been getting monthly Social Security disability payments

A. No. The recent changes in the law extends Medicare coverage only to disabled workers. Minor children are not included.

Q. I am a widow age 61. I have been receiving widows benefits since I was 60. I was disabled at the time I filed for benefits but since it did not affect the amount of my widows benefit I never filed for disabled widows benefits. What must I do to qualify for Medicare as a disabled widow?

A. You should contact the Social Security office and they will take the necessary action to establish your disability.

for almost five years. Because I need constant medication, my drug bills amount to nearly $50 every month. Will Medicare help pay these bills?

A. I've been getting Social Security disability payments

A. No. The recent changes in the law extends Medicare coverage only to disabled workers. Minor children are not included.

Q. I am a widow age 61. I have been receiving widows benefits since I was 60. I was disabled at the time I filed for benefits but since it did not affect the amount of my widows benefit I never filed for disabled widows benefits. What must I do to qualify for Medicare as a disabled widow?

THE FAMILY LAWYER
Rogues' Gallery

Arrested on a charge of gambling, Greg was tried and found not guilty. Later he learned that the police were including his photograph in a public "rogues' gallery," open to inspection by victims of crime.

Greg hastened back into court, this time as a plaintiff. He demanded that the police remove his picture from the gallery, even though they might still consider him a suspicious character.

And the court ordered the police to do just that. Citing Greg's right of privacy, the court said: "A visitor (to the gallery) might conclude that all the pictures were of criminals. This is not a pleasant thought for one conscious of his innocence."

Young Dems Meet June 26

The reorganized and rejuvenated Young Democrats of Manchester are planning active participation in the fall elections and in proposals for involvement in most political activities.

Five Town Firemen Fire School Grads

Five Town of Manchester firemen are among the recent graduates of the spring class at the New Haven Fire Training Center. The men, who successfully completed six weeks of intensive fire training, are: Thomas Barlow of 57 Bigelow St., John Hughes of 583 Hartford Rd., Mark Kravontka of 223 E. School St., John Bycholski of 189 1/2 Oak St., and Graham MacDonald of 27 Cambridge St.

About Town

The Marine Club of Manchester will meet tonight at 8 at the Marine Home on Parker St. The Marine Club Auxiliary will meet tonight at 8 at the Marine Home on Parker St.

THURSDAY it could happen to you!

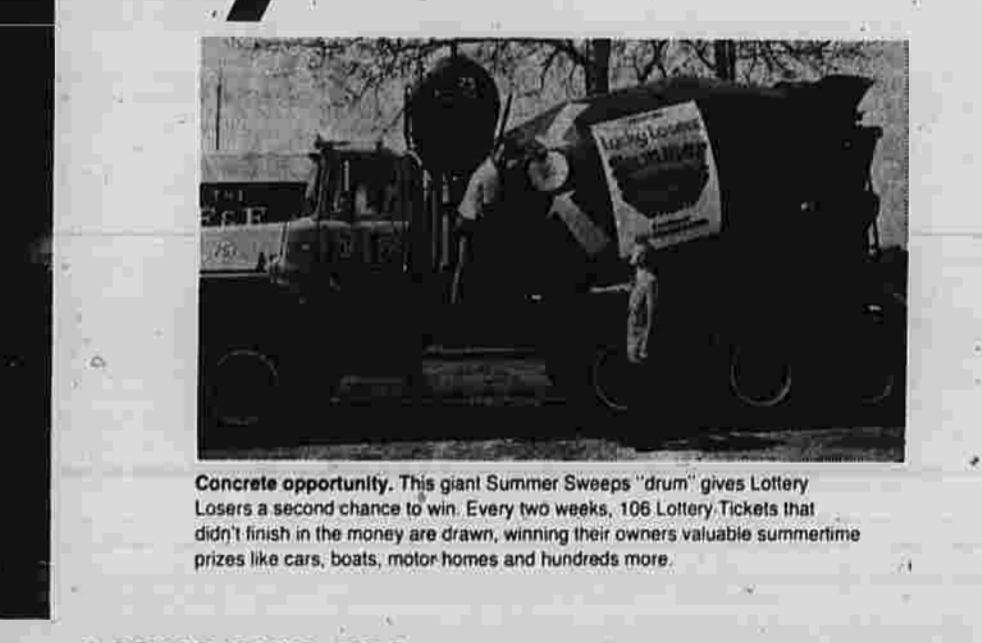

What are you doing Thursday morning at 10:30? If you can stand the excitement, the thrills and the suspense, come on over to the event of the week: Connecticut's State Lottery Drawing. See what happens when somebody — maybe you — walks off with a big bundle of cash or a spectacular prize.

Spectator Sport. Ernest and Martha Jaschinski of Unionville have made a hobby of attending weekly Lottery Drawings. Except for a brief Florida vacation, they haven't missed the fun and excitement of a Lottery Drawing since it started.

Incredible! William L. Suttler of Enfield can't believe his ears as his number is called for a $15,000 prize. With four young daughters at home, he won't have any trouble finding ways to spend it.

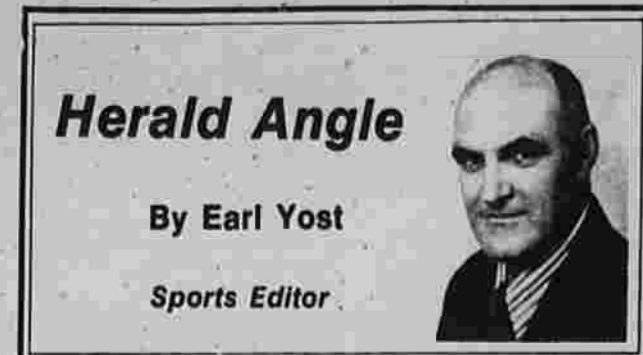

Concrete opportunity. This giant Summer Sweeps 'drum' gives Lottery Losers a second chance to win. Every two weeks, 106 Lottery Tickets that didn't finish in the money are drawn, winning their owners valuable summertime prizes like cars, boats, motor-homes and hundreds more.

LOSING PAYS, TOO. Don't forget, even if your Lottery Ticket doesn't finish in the money, you get a second chance. To play the Lucky Losers Summer Sweeps, just fill in the back of your losing Ticket and drop it in the special drum wherever Tickets are sold. You could win any of 742 fabulous summertime prizes.

IT ALL HAPPENS THURSDAY, June 14, 10:30 in the morning at Suffield Village Suffield

Connecticut State Lottery Where opportunity knocks twice.

Little League 24 Years Ago

Little League baseball in Manchester was introduced in 1950 by the late Sher Robb. Charlie Graff, for many years closely identified with youth baseball in Manchester, forwarded an interesting item to this desk recently, the official Little League batting, fielding and pitching averages of that first season 24 summers ago.

Sparked Team to Title

It was primarily through the efforts of Irish and his fellow ex-Farm League performer, Mike Escavich, that the Dodgers came roaring down the stretch and capped championship laurels.

Jack and Arnie See Eye to Eye

OKAMONT, Pa. (AP) — The lockers of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer—Nos. 226 and 216—are just across from each other in the red-carpeted, fancooled-up stairs locker room of the aged Oakmont Club.

Weather Halts Twilight Tilt

Plate umpire Leo Bravakis, flouting high winds, lightning and a quick downpour, called the Hartford Twilight League game between Moriarty's and Herb's Sport Shop after three and half innings due to unplayable conditions last night at Mt. Nebo.

Trophy for Retiring Coach

In appreciation for a job well done, retiring varsity football coach at Manchester High, Dave Wiggins, was presented a trophy by trustees Jim Colla, Steve Samiotis and Lyle East-

Chuck Joy Memorial Game Scheduled Sunday Night

Manchester's slow-pitch softball program lists approximately 670 active male players, on 58 organized teams. Of this number, few played shortstop the way the position should be handled.

Longshot Could Very Well Win

OKAMONT, Pa. (AP) — This could be the Longshot Open. During the course of this week, the press assembled here will write millions of words about Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

Best Milers In Half Mile

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Two of America's top milers step down to the half mile but there's a competition aplenty in the featured mile event at the AAU Track and Field Championships starting Thursday.

Wood Out of Groove, Howard Out of Outhouse

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilbur Wood says he's out of his groove; Frank Howard just hopes he's finally out of the outhouse.

Golfers Were 25-2-1

Individual scoring honors went to Maloney High's outstanding sophomore, Marty Meskill, with a three over par 74. He carded a 34-38 while the course plays at 36-37-1.

Impressive Mark Not Good Enough

"It seems awfully unusual to finish a season with a 25-2-1 record and not win a thing," was the way Manchester High's varsity Golf Coach Tom Kelley summarizes the season following the seventh annual C.C. Field Day at the Willimantic Country Club.

Patty Torza Golf Champ

Patty Torza, who lives in Ellington, lists Manchester Country Club as her home course and went to college at Southern Connecticut and majored in education, capped the winner's trophy yesterday in the Hartford Times-Williams Ford Tournament of Lady's Champions at the Farmington Woods Country Club.

ANAHEIM (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski figures it better to take than to receive. It is not that Yastrzemski is greedy. He is comfortably in the third year of a three-year contract calling for $165,000 per year from the Boston Red Sox.

Blue Shows Signs Of Regaining Form

OKLAHOMA (AP) — Lethander Vida Blue is showing signs of regaining the spectacular form of 1971. Blue gave up five hits in seven innings against the New York Yankees Tuesday night to lick up his fifth victory of the season.

Learned Hard Way

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Minnesota's baseball team learned the hard way Tuesday night—never provoke a Trojan.

Al Auxiliary Names Officers

ANNE EMT Correspondent
Tel. 228-3871
Mrs. Geraldine S. Grant has been elected president of the Jones-Keefe-Batson Unit American Legion Auxiliary for 1973-1974.

Others elected were Mrs. Lucille Holbrook, vice president; Mrs. Lydia C. Simon, treasurer; Mrs. Eleanor Anderson, secretary; Mrs. Paula Porter, chaplain; Mrs. Dolores Parker, historian; Mrs. Anne Kulyniuk, sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Evelyn Croston, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Holbrook were elected delegates and Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Croston alternates to the 53rd annual convention of the Department of Connecticut July 15, 14 and 15 at the Hotel Sonesta in Hartford.

The Auxiliary announced it will hold a tag and food sale Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Legion Hall.

Donations are sought and anyone having items may contact Mrs. Holbrook or Mrs. Grant for pickup. Items may also be left at the Legion Hall Friday evening.

Red Cross
There is an urgent need for volunteers here to assist in a Red Cross drive in Hebron and Gilead in connection with the summer swimming program for which over 100 youngsters have signed up.

Delegation to Mrs. Elzar Meszias, chairman, no drive was held in these areas of town, and in order for the program to be held, funds must be raised.

Anyone interested in volunteering or contributing is requested to contact Mrs. Meszias as soon as possible.

Cafeteria
Starting Monday, the catering department is open for the last three days, according to Mrs. Marjorie Porter, manager.

In addition, final billing will be sent out this week and Mrs. Porter would like payment no later than Monday. She requests parents to check with their children to see if there is a bill.

Beer Fest
There are a limited number of tickets available for this Sunday's Beer Fest sponsored by the Hebron Republican Women's Club.

The Beer Fest will include a German dinner of bratwurst, sauerkraut, potato, dark bread, coffee and cheese cake and will be from 4 to 9 p.m. at Kalam's Elizabeth Dr.

Town Help
First Selectman Aaron Reid announced that the town is presently hiring truck drivers and equipment operators and anyone interested in either position should contact him at the Town Office Building.

Football
Registration for the Hebron Rams Midget Football team will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 at the Town Office Building.

In order to register, a boy must be 9 years old by Sept. 1 or not 14 years old by the same date. The minimum weight is 85 pounds and the maximum is 120 pounds.

All boys must be accompanied by a parent and should bring a birth certificate. Boys unable to register now should contact their town representatives: Mrs. Barbara Roy and Mrs. Pat Mancarella, Hebron; Roy Jefferson, Marlborough; and Tony Timman, Andover.

Girls interested in cheerleading should register at the same time, according to Mrs. Charlene Cross who will again be the instructor for this part of the program. The girls should be 12 years old.

Vernon

Applications on Hand For Swimming Lessons

Registration cards for the "Learn to Swim" program to be sponsored by the Vernon Recreation Department, are available in the town schools. Donald Berger, director of recreation, said.

Classes will be conducted at Valley Falls Park, Henry Park and at the Vernon Elementary School pool. They will be divided into three-week sessions. The first will be from June 18 to July 13; the second, July 16 to Aug. 4 and the third, Aug. 6 to 29. All classes will meet Monday through Friday for a half-hour session.

Six different courses will be offered. They will be beginners 1 and 2, advanced beginners for those who passed the beginners course and can swim 75 feet; intermediate swimmers and junior life-savers. Classes will be open to all boys and girls living in Vernon and who are five years of age or older.

There will be an opportunity at a later date for children aged 3 and 4 to sign up for a special tiny tot swimming program in which the mothers take part.

A registration fee of $1 is charged for the swim classes and this is payable at the first class. Also a small charge is made for the use of the pool or a season pass may be used. The passes will be available when the pool opens.

Berger said heavy registration will be available when the pool opens. He said that if a child is not able to take their lessons at Valley Falls, they can be referred to the schools by Thursday so that scheduling can start.

He acknowledged that "the mere establishment of the council-manager form of government does not assure its success."

"The manager," he said, "should administer, but not govern. He should never attempt to crusade over the heads of the directors."

"The Board of Directors," he added, "must leave the manager unhampered by individual suggestions or by attempts at pressure."

"All actions of the Board of Directors and the manager," he concluded, "should be carefully studied and thought out, or there will be a collapse of good government."

Mr. Childs has been a member of the National Municipal League since 1971 and served as its president for many years prior to becoming its chairman in 1972.

He predicted Phase 3 would hasten the return of the nation's free-market system.

But inflation exploded in the first four months of the year. Consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.2 per cent. Food prices alone went up at an annual rate of 25.4 per cent.

Everybody admits Phase 3 was a failure. "The new mandatory system of wage-price controls to be known as Phase 4," he said, "is announcing his new program Wednesday night, Nixon was haunted by his words of assurance about the economy only a few months ago."

When he dumped the mandatory wage-price control system, in favor of Phase 3 on Jan. 11, Nixon said his move could "mean ever greater price stability with less restrictive bureaucracy."

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Mich., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford. "He had confidence in his aides and some of us failed him," Magruder said.

Richard S. Childs, now 81 and living in New York City, is one of Manchester's most noted sons. Chairman emeritus of the executive committee of the National Municipal League, he is recognized universally as "the father of the council-manager form of government."

Although he left Manchester many years ago, he never lost interest in his hometown. At request, Mr. Childs has written a series of vignettes which he calls "A Manchester Boy in the 1880's" and which The Herald will print beginning Monday, June 18, and continuing through Septicentennial Week.

Mr. Childs in a letter received Wednesday, says he has a printed program of the Septicentennial Week events, and "I will have further instructions before I know just when I shall turn up in Manchester, where I expect to stay over one night."

On Nov. 2, 1947, when Manchester's first Board of Directors was installed under the town's new charter, he was the principal speaker.

He said, humbly, "I take great pride in being allowed to figure for a moment in this ceremony."

He told of his own interest in the emergence of clean, well-retired from business to devote full-time to what he called his "first love" - advocating political reform.

In December 1922 he wrote a book on governmental reform called "Civic Victories," and published by Harper Brothers. In it he scored "the burden of electing long lists, mostly of obscure people, to obscure offices," and said, "It is too much for American people to carry successfully."

He acknowledged that "the mere establishment of the council-manager form of government does not assure its success."

Plans for Celebration Reach High Pitch

JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter)
Preparations for Manchester's big birthday, the Septicentennial, are accelerating at high speed. A week-long celebration draws near.

The schedule of events will lead off with a 2 1/2-hour parade June 23 beginning at 2 p.m. from the North End. The long line of march with seven divisions will march south on Main St. to Hartford Rd. The reviewing stand will be in the vicinity of the Army-Navy Club.

The Septicentennial division of the parade will be the longest with six sections. There are more than 42 floats being constructed to represent various organizations and churches in the community.

For the benefit of parents who wish to take in the many events planned during Septicentennial Week, but have baby-sitting problems, the Job Opportunities for Youth (JOY) have offered baby-sitting services. By calling the JOY number, 646-1124, any parent who would like to hire a young person will be referred to the appropriate agency.

On Sunday, memories of the old country fair will be revived when the Youth Country Fair begins at Mt. Nebo at 11 a.m. for a bundle of events and activities that will last well through the evening. Beginning at 11 a.m., box lunches filled with the best goodies that can be packed will be auctioned off for a picnic lunch. The auctioning will be done according to age groups: 12-16, 16-20, over 20, and senior citizens. Lunches should be provided for young children.

Plans have been made for a watermelon-eating contest, free ice cream cones from Shady Glen, a re-ely big "giant whooper" made by New England who will assemble their crafts in Center Park. From 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., various art work will be demonstrated, displayed, and for sale.

Old-fashioned American pragmatism, tempered by a dedication and commitment to society appeared to be the formula to success for 66 Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School students at Wednesday night's commencement ceremonies in the school's auditorium.

White Robert Newson, senior class president, urged his classmates to take pride in themselves as productive tradesmen in society, principal speaker Arthur L. Woods, president of the Connecticut Business and Industry Association, Inc., suggested a cultivation of qualities which provide "more to yourselves than finding careers which pay well."

Nixon Freezes Prices

Did Nixon Set Pattern For Future?

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon has frozen all consumer prices for 60 days, jolting an inflation-plagued economy with a surprise shock treatment while buying time to build a tougher wage-price control system.

Wages were not frozen by the President. Neither were rents, interest and dividends or even agricultural products at the farm level.

But Nixon told the nation in a television-radio address Wednesday night that all other prices paid for goods and services during the next two months cannot exceed prices that prevailed in the June 1-8 base period.

Congressional action is required for proposed action controls and other supporting elements of the President's fourth attempt in two years to curb inflationary pressures. But the price freeze went into effect Wednesday night when he signed an executive order.

Unless lifted sooner, the freeze expires Aug. 12. By then, Nixon said, he will have ready Phase 2 - a limited system which his economic advisers admitted was a failure.

Phase 4 controls, Nixon said, will involve tighter standards and more mandatory compliance procedures than under Phase 3 and will include special measures to stabilize retail food and gasoline prices.

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Mich., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford. "He had confidence in his aides and some of us failed him," Magruder said.

Magruder, testifying with limited immunity from prosecution for what he says to the Senate investigators, told the committee he would name others who participated with him in the operation.

The 38-year-old former congressman conceded he had a dramatic statement almost as an afterthought, after commencing questioning had begun with routine questions about his background and position in the campaign.

His lawyer broke in to ask that he be permitted to read the statement.

Answering the initial questions, Magruder said that he was the president of the former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was responsible for the Nixon re-election campaign due to raising food prices.

Magruder said that meant May 1971, long before Mitchell left the Nixon Cabinet.

Magruder Admits Watergate Role

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jeb Stuart Magruder today confessed to involvement in the planning and cover-up of the Watergate wiretapping, but said President Nixon had no knowledge of his role in this matter.

Magruder's public admission came in a brief prepared statement he read to the televised hearings of the Senate Watergate committee. He said he was willing to take the consequences of his actions.

"Unfortunately, we made some mistakes in the campaign which led to a major national concern," Magruder said. He said he takes full responsibility for the wiretapping.

Magruder said as far as he knows, during the entire period of the Watergate planning and cover-up, "at no time did the President have any knowledge of our errors in this matter."

"He had confidence in his aides and some of us failed him," Magruder said.

Magruder, testifying with limited immunity from prosecution for what he says to the Senate investigators, told the committee he would name others who participated with him in the operation.

Cong Order Cease Fire

SAIGON (AP) - The Viet Cong has issued a cease-fire order to all its units in South Vietnam to take effect at noon Friday Saigon time - midnight Thursday EDT - the Viet Cong radio reported today.

A joint communique signed by the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong in Paris Wednesday calls for such orders to be issued by the Saigon and Viet Cong military commands.

A similar order has been scheduled to come from the Saigon side.

By calling the JOY number, 646-1124, any parent who would like to hire a young person will be referred to the appropriate agency.

On Sunday, memories of the old country fair will be revived when the Youth Country Fair begins at Mt. Nebo at 11 a.m. for a bundle of events and activities that will last well through the evening. Beginning at 11 a.m., box lunches filled with the best goodies that can be packed will be auctioned off for a picnic lunch. The auctioning will be done according to age groups: 12-16, 16-20, over 20, and senior citizens. Lunches should be provided for young children.

Plans have been made for a watermelon-eating contest, free ice cream cones from Shady Glen, a re-ely big "giant whooper" made by New England who will assemble their crafts in Center Park. From 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., various art work will be demonstrated, displayed, and for sale.

Class Graduated At Cheney Tech

BY SUE KLEMENS
Old-fashioned American pragmatism, tempered by a dedication and commitment to society appeared to be the formula to success for 66 Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School students at Wednesday night's commencement ceremonies in the school's auditorium.

White Robert Newson, senior class president, urged his classmates to take pride in themselves as productive tradesmen in society, principal speaker Arthur L. Woods, president of the Connecticut Business and Industry Association, Inc., suggested a cultivation of qualities which provide "more to yourselves than finding careers which pay well."

Wearing Kelly green robes and mortarboards, 66 Cheney Tech seniors marched into the auditorium to the musical accompaniment of the Manchester Citadel Salvation Army Ensemble and the visual rhythm of exploding flashbulbs and clicking cameras, while an audience composed primarily of parents and peers flapped makeshift fans devised from the programs to ward off the heat.

Following the invocation given by Maj. Lawrence J.

Plans for Celebration Reach High Pitch

JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter)
Preparations for Manchester's big birthday, the Septicentennial, are accelerating at high speed. A week-long celebration draws near.

The schedule of events will lead off with a 2 1/2-hour parade June 23 beginning at 2 p.m. from the North End. The long line of march with seven divisions will march south on Main St. to Hartford Rd. The reviewing stand will be in the vicinity of the Army-Navy Club.

The Septicentennial division of the parade will be the longest with six sections. There are more than 42 floats being constructed to represent various organizations and churches in the community.

For the benefit of parents who wish to take in the many events planned during Septicentennial Week, but have baby-sitting problems, the Job Opportunities for Youth (JOY) have offered baby-sitting services. By calling the JOY number, 646-1124, any parent who would like to hire a young person will be referred to the appropriate agency.
