Hijackers Receive Free Or Kill Instructions

DUBAI (AP) — A coded message originating in West Germany told the hijackers of Japan Air Lines jumbo jet today to kill the passengers immediately or let them go without delay.

The message said: "If you intend to kill the passengers on board jumbo 444 do it once, otherwise be human enough to release them."

"It sounds ridiculous if you permit those whom you obviously want to kill to receive refreshments and meals.

"Please give up your intentions. There are other means of unbloody possibilities to reach your political aims."

The message was signed off "13569, inhabitants of Federal Republic of Germany."

Palestinian guerrilla organizations frequently send coded messages including long series of numbers on radio broadcasts in the Mideast.

The coded signoff could mean the message was transmitted by accomplices or allies in West Germany.

Four hijackers are holding 139 passengers in 100-degree-plus heat here, and the air pirates announced earlier that they had expected instructions very soon from their headquarters.

"We are soldiers and we have to wait for orders," said a radio message from the terrorists aboard the plane.

One of the hijackers is a Japanese, and the president of Japan Air Lines, Shizuo Asada, asked to speak to him in Japanese. The air pirates refused, saying they would talk only to officials of the Dubai government and would make their demands known only after they received orders.

Earlier reports said the terrorists who took over the big plane Friday shortly after it left Amsterdam were demanding that Israel release Kozo Okamoto, the Japanese terrorist serving a life sentence for the Tel Aviv airport massacre in 1972. But today an official of Japan Air Lines said, "We still don't know what they want; in fact, some of us are beginning to think the hijackers themselves don't know what they want."

The Israeli government so far had made no response to the reported demand for Okamoto's freedom. But the Israelis have refused all such demands in the past and were expected to reject this one.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government was discussing the possibility of offering some of its officials as hostages in place of the passengers aboard the plane. Meanwhile, it sent Vice Transport Minister Bunsei Sato to Dubai to do what he could.

The plane has been refueled, food was being sent out to it regularly, and a small generator was connected to it to keep the air conditioning working, at least partially. But there was no communication during the night between the hijackers and the control tower.

The plane was surrounded by about 100 police and Bedouin troops who were ordered to stay at least 300 yards from it.

The air pirates released one of the Japanese crew members, purser Yoshihisa Miyashita. He had been wounded when a grenade carried by one of the terrorists — a Latin American woman — exploded accidentally and killed her.

The purser said there were four male hijackers in addition to the woman: a Japanese, a European, a bearded, dark-skinned man who appeared to be a Pakistani or an Arab, and a fourth man, possibly a Latin American, who had been the woman's companion.

Energy Crisis Impact May Show Up In Bids

SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)

The impact on Manchester of the nationwide energy crisis will be known Aug. 3, when bids are opened for fuel oil for the school system, for the town's firehouses and for municipal departments; and Aug. 20, when bids are opened for fuel oil for the 8th District Fire Department and public works department.

The Aug. 3 bids will be opened at 3:30 p.m. in the office of Raymond Demers, business manager for the school system. It has been the custom for the school board to seek bids for fuel oil to cover its needs and municipal needs.

The Aug. 20 bids will be opened at 7:30 p.m. at the 8th District Firehouse.

On June 5, bids on fuel oil covering the requirements of eight towns and four school systems (Manchester was not included) were opened by the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CROCG).

East Hartford Mayor Richard Blackstone, chairman of CROCG, labeled the bids "very disappointing."

He said prices on No. 2 oil were up about 40 per cent from last year, on No. 4 oil up 40 to 45 per cent, and on No. 6 oil up about 36 per cent.

He said he was disappointed in the lack of bidders. Last year, he said, there were as many as six bidders on any one grade of oil — this year, only one to three.

He said, as a result of the high bids, not all the towns involved in the bidding contracted for oil at this time, "but it isn't expected that the price situation will improve in the immediate future."

"As a result," he said, "there will be a serious impact on the budgets of the various towns and boards of education in the Capitol area."

Mayor John Thompson has alerted the state's Congressional delegation to the difficulties the municipalities are facing in obtaining bids for fuel and gasoline needs.

U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, in his reply, told him of his amendment to the Mandatory Fuel Allocation Program, approved by the Senate as part of the legislation. The amendment would set up a special Office of Emergency Fuel Allocation, expressly to supply towns and cities faced with a cutoff of essential services, because of lack of fuel.

Thompson didn't comment on the oil situation but he did comment on the gasoline situation.

"At the present time," said Thompson, "Manchester hasn't suffered from the gasoline shortage. However, along with other towns in the state, it is watching the situation with concern and with hope that federal action will be in time to prevent serious problems."

Town Manager Robert Weiss has assured the Board of Directors, "We anticipate no shortage of gasoline at this time."

Capt. Rickenbacker WWI Ace, Dead At 82

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, a grade school dropout who survived dogfights with the Red Baron to become a World War I flying ace and the guiding genius behind Eastern Airlines, died today in Zurich, Switzerland, Eastern officials said. He was 82.

An Eastern spokesman said Rickenbacker died of heart failure at a Zurich hospital. His wife was with him at the time. His death ended a career of excitement and danger that prompted him to say in 1970: "I've cheated the old Grim Reaper seven times that I know of."

An Eastern spokesman said funeral services would be held in Columbus, Ohio, his native city, later this week.

Rickenbacker was the epitome of every Walter Mitty's dream.

As early as 1914, he was pushing race cars to 134 miles an hour on the sands at Daytona Beach.

By the time the United States entered World War I, Rickenbacker was earning $40,000 a year as an auto speed demon.

In 1917 he enlisted in the Army and became staff driver for Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Though 27 and two years over the age limit for airmen, the 5-foot-2 Rickenbacker transferred to the fledgling flight service and got his lieutenant's commission after only 12 practice flights in the fragile Spads.

Assigned to the 94th Hat-In-

The Ring Aero Pursuit Squadron, he shot down his first plane with a machine gun April 29, 1918. A month later he shot down his fifth to qualify as an ace.

Soaring without a parachute in primitive planes propelled by engines less sophisticated than those in today's lawnmowers, Rickenbacker eventually blasted down 21 German aircraft and five observation balloons out of the skies over France.

On his way to becoming America's ace of aces, he met propeller to propeller with the flying circus formed by Baron Manfred von Richthofen, the "Red Baron."

Surrounded by three scarlet-nosed planes of the German

Eddie Rickenbacker

"ace of aces," Rickenbacker tried to get away but his pursuers showed "extraordinary adroitness in handling their machines. The heavens seemed quite crowded with the three dancing Fokkers."

"After a time, an opportunity came to try to outrun them, and with the motor full open and the nose straight down, I looked back and saw them fading away in my rear."

The American who learned to fly by the seat of his pants later was to say: "From hero to zero is about the average hero's fate. This hero business shouldn't be taken too seriously."

But a generation later and half a world away, Rickenbacker's cool head in another war gained him the "hero" badge again.

While on a mission for the secretary of war, the B17 in which he was a civilian passenger ran out of fuel on Oct. 21, 1942, and ditched in the South Pacific some 600 miles north of Samoa.

The eight men aboard escaped with their lives and four "scrawny" oranges.

"After the oranges were gone," Rickenbacker recalled, "there showed up a terrific lot of pangs of hunger and we prayed for food. Within an hour after a prayer meeting a seagull came in and landed on my head...we wrung his head and feathers from him and carved up his carcass and distributed it and used his innards for bait."

The fishermen's union went on strike after failing to reach agreement with the Seafood Producers Association on a new contract.

Nearly one third of Connecticut's 169 cities and towns lowered their tax rates this year, thanks to federal revenue sharing.

Many towns used the federal funds to maintain the same tax rate while they hired additional staff or bought equipment.

Many Towns Use Rev-Share To Reduce Millage Rates

At least 74 towns lowered their mill rates, but in 19 cases, substantial drops were due to property revaluation in 1972.

The tax reduction among non-revaluating towns ranged from 0.1 mills in Newtown to 10.34 mills in New London. Most of the towns dropped rates one or two mills.

One mill equals one-tenth of a cent, or one dollar for every $1,000 in property value. The figures were supplied by the state Tax Department, to which each town must report July 1.

Although in most cases a lower mill rate means lower taxes, that isn't true in every town because of the complicated relationship between mill rates and assessment levels.

Charles Daly, head of the tax department's Municipal Division, said a variety of factors could lead a town to lower its rates. The towns don't have to report why rates went up or down.

In New London the reduction was a result of three factors.

"We had a good surplus from last year, we used some of our revenue sharing money and we didn't undertake any major new projects," said New London real estate director Robert J. Flanagan.

A random sampling of town officials, and the Connecticut Conference of Mayors indicates a number of towns used revenue sharing to lower their mill rates. Other towns used revenue sharing to hold the line on taxes.

"New Britain used $2.4 million of its revenue sharing monies to offset a tax increase for the 1973-74 fiscal year. While this is not considered a tax reduction, it offsets what otherwise would have been a substantial tax increase to meet rising costs," Mayor Stanley J. Pac said.

East Haven Mayor Frank

Messina said "the injection of revenue sharing allowed increased spending, but dropped the mill rate 1.5 mills."

In Bethany, First Selectman Gordon Carrington said taxes were reduced one mill. There was enough money left over to pay a resident state trooper and equipment for the Public Safety and Highway Department.

Cheshire hired an additional patrolman and another building inspector and kept the tax rate at 48 mills.

"I doubt the additional manpower would have been put in without a tax increase which would have been necessary," said Cheshire's temporary town manager, Ernest Rumberg.

Revenue sharing led to tax cuts in several cities which have been hard-pressed for tax revenue in the past. Bridgeport lowered the mill rate 3 mills, New Haven 3.1, Norwich 7.3, Meriden 1.3, Stratford 2.1, Waterford 5, Manchester 2.

There's a danger in using revenue sharing to lower taxes because the amount cities and towns receive from the federal government is based in part of their local tax effort. Using federal funds to lower taxes one year can mean fewer federal the following year.

Jet Crashes In Tahiti

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — A Pan American jetliner with 79 persons reported aboard crashed into the sea north of the Papeete Harbor channel Sunday night.

Four survivors were taken to the Papeete hospital, but one of them, a stewardess, died there.

Three bodies have been recovered.

The Boeing 707 jet crashed shortly after taking off for Los Angeles.

Reports from the scene said one American who had been taken aboard a rescue craft jumped into the sea when he recognized the body of his wife.

A heavy odor of jet fuel hung over the area.

Pierre Angeli, governor of French Polynesia, left by ship for the scene of the crash. He was accompanied by Aymar Achille Fould, secretary of state at the French Defense Ministry in Paris, who came to Tahiti for the French nuclear tests that started last weekend.

The tests are being held at the Mururoa Atoll, which is 850 miles south of Tahiti.

The plane was flying Pan Am's flight 816, from Auckland, New Zealand, to Los Angeles with a scheduled stop in Papeete. It crashed at 10:15 p.m. local time, or 4:15 a.m. EDT Monday.

There were 69 passengers and 10 crew members aboard.

Five tugs from the French navy were on the scene looking for survivors with the aid of floodlights.

The sea was calm, and debris of all sorts was floating on the surface of the water. Cushions from the plane seats, clothing

Be Fair With Nixon

It is time that an over-all evaluation of the Nixon accomplishments be stated, and they have been many. Unfortunately, they have been overshadowed and dimmed, temporarily, by the public drama of the Senate Committee hearings.

In part this may relate to Nixon's lack of charisma in the sense that President Kennedy was a personally charming man, or that President Eisenhower projected a father image that made everyone feel the country was in good hands with such a paternalistic figure.

Also, it must be acknowledged that President Nixon has never been the darling of the left, or liberals of the country. On the contrary, there is a large group of "Nixon haters" who are in positions where their prejudices may be transmitted readily to the public.

This condition existed before the 1972 election in which the "silent" majority gave the President a whopping endorsement for another term in office.

In order of importance, it might be reasonable to start such an itemization with the Southeast Asia morass. It may be remembered that it was under Eisenhower that the first "military advisers" went into Viet Nam. And this was after the French had been driven out after the seige of Dien Bien Phu and finally disengaged themselves from this frustrating war.

Involvement in Viet Nam grew in the Kennedy years and was finally brought to its great acceleration in the Johnson era.

Richard Nixon, as some seem to forget, did not begin that military exercise, but rather inherited it.

With the great help of Dr. Henry Kissinger, he has been able to extricate the nation from this entanglement and bring back to the country the thousands of American men and women who served there.

The road has not been easy. Ceasefires, truces, etc., have sometimes been disappointing. But the hard fact is that he has done it and even the Cambodian problem may be on the path to solution.

We hope that the country has not become one whose way of living is expressed in the cynical "What have you done for me lately" philosophy.

Americans have long been known for their basic sense of fairness. Perhaps a little exercise in memory is in order rather than complete fascination with the television drama.

What is quietly troubling Democratic leaders, beyond the hard reality of Chappaquiddick itself, is a cluster of concerns linked to his personal make-up and problems.

Kennedy's attitude (and his family's) toward the press, being shot as were two of his brothers is high on this list. Party leaders are understanding of this, but it makes them wonder seriously about the extent of the senator's desire for higher office.

What has happened to the campus disorders which wracked the nation during the end of the Johnson years? The negro militants have gone from Black Pantherism to running for public office. Certainly an evolutionary process has been at work. But is it taken place in the environment brought to the nation by President Nixon.

Crime statistics are looking better than they have in years. Efforts to make the streets safe for the citizen have been effective. Has Nixon's tough law and order policies had nothing to do with this?

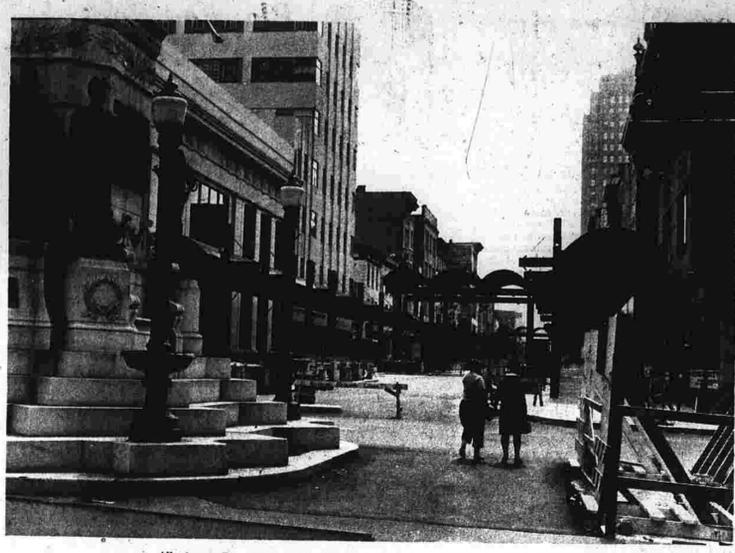

True, there seems to have been errors, particularly in the economic field. Phase Three has been supplanted with a fourth attempt, and hopefully, it will be learned that price controls cannot be imposed at the consumer end of the funnel, without being in force all the way back to production prices.

Have we forgotten that this is the same Richard Nixon who almost was assassinated in the service of his country in Venezuela in what had started out to be a good will mission? This is still the same Richard Nixon who had the famous kitchen confrontation with Khrushchev on a Moscow visit.

We hope that the country has not become one whose way of living is expressed in the cynical "What have you done for me lately" philosophy.

Chappaquiddick Still Looms Big In Politics

By Bruce Blossat
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy may have to find some new way to deal with the 1972 Chappaquiddick incident if he decides to seek the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination. I find no sign that the mere passage of time will make the famous episode go away.

On the contrary, there is evidence that there is a curious, murmuring undercurrent running against Ted even as the standard issue markers indicate he is far and away his party's most popular choice at the moment.

At the time of his well-publicized venture into Alabama to share a platform with paralyzed Gov. George Wallace, I checked the mood of leaders in massive New York. Gazing at 1976, one analyst I respect highly said:

"To the extent people are talking of they believe Kennedy is leading — but they are looking for somebody else." No deep new quest is required to understand the reason. It's Chappaquiddick. And anyone probing Democratic governors at the June national conference in Lake Tahoe could quickly discover that this is a national appraisal.

Furthermore, just as "Watergate" for the Nixon administration is today a generic term covering not just the June 17, 1972, bugging and burglary but a whole range of activities, so "Chappaquiddick" could be on the way to becoming generic for Kennedy.

What is quietly troubling Democratic leaders, beyond the hard reality of Chappaquiddick itself, is a cluster of concerns linked to his personal make-up and problems.

New Terrorist Acts Torpedo Peace Hopes

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon, (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and their foreign supporters are escalating terrorism inside Israeli-held territory and abroad in a new campaign to torpedo any hopes of a Middle East peace effort.

The hijacking of a Japan Air Lines plane to Dubai, an Arab sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, is the latest example of the terrorism campaign.

The terror campaign began June 30 when an Israeli military attack, Youssef Alon, was gunned down beside his Washington, D.C., home. Since then a bomb exploded in a crowded Jerusalem vegetable market, bombs were found in Israeli movie houses and a Palestinian held 15 persons hostage in an Athens hotel before negotiating safe passage to Kuwait.

Capital Fare

Andrew Tully
Watergate Consequences

By Robert Strauss
Chairman, Democratic National Committee
(Editor's Note: Andrew Tully is on vacation. During his absence CAPITAL FARE will be written by an assortment of guest columnists.)

One cannot address the question of the political mood of the American electorate in 1973 without first touching on the subject which is first in everyone's mind — the Republican Watergate conspiracy.

I do not feel that I have to do this. I do not feel that I have to do this. I do not feel that I have to do this.

When one talks about the political mood of the nation, we must consider what Watergate may eventually do to an electorate which often expresses dissatisfaction, alienation, and occasionally outright contempt for the very concept of political parties.

I believe that politics is a noble profession. It is served by men with rare exception by men and women of high moral and legal standards, served by men and women dedicated to living up to the public trust.

One of the administration's greatest disservices to this nation is the implication to the American public that all politicians do — implying that politics is evil, corrupt at all levels, in all parties.

This attempt to tranquilize the sensibilities of a good, decent and law-abiding polity, to put to sleep the people's judgment and morality, is perhaps the most destructive element of this incredible scandal.

In 1900 Teddy Roosevelt said: "No man is above the law, and no man below it, nor do we ask any man's permission when we require him to obey it."

While some will try to convince us that "they do it all the time," let us remember that the distinguished members of the House of Representatives and the Senate, as well as elected public officials on every level of our state and local government, do not do it.

Thomas Jefferson once said: "Men, by their constitutions, are naturally divided into two parties: Those who fear and distrust the people, and those who identify themselves with the people, have confidence in them, and cherish and consider them as the most honest and safe depository of the public interest."

And not just the Republican Party, but of far more importance, all America is the loser. Now, the American people are reassessing their government, addressing the Republican Party's ability to meet their needs and solve their problems. The American people are looking for a viable alternative, they are looking for a change in the direction of a government in the philosophy of government. I strongly believe that the Democratic Party provides a viable alternative, not just to the scandal of Watergate, but to the scandal of inflation, to the scandal of the energy crisis, to the scandal of the lack of national planning, to the scandal of life in America under Republican leadership.

Last-Minute Donations Save College

CENTER HARBOR, N.H. (AP) — Belknap College, on the verge of closing early last week, will remain open because of last-minute financial contributions.

Following an all-day meeting Friday to assess the liberal arts college's chances for survival, the board of trustees voted to keep open the school on the shores of tree-lined Squam Lake.

Public Relations Director Jim Miller said pledges totaling $780,000 have been received so far, bringing contributions within $300,000 of the amount needed by next fall to get the college out of debt.

The science-oriented school has struggled with financial problems throughout its 10-year history.

Miller said the trustees will meet again July 28 to begin streamlining the operation to emphasize strong points, such as an environmental sciences program with a focus on meteorology.

Some important leaders of the guerrilla movement will establish residence inside Israel, and the occupied territories to direct the new operations.

Nabins was published about guerrilla strategy outside the Middle East, but it is obvious that the Palestinians rely heavily on cooperation with foreign terrorist groups.

Weather Watcher Watches Witch

By JOY STILLEY
 NEW YORK (AP) — I have just gotten 100 per cent soaked in 10 per cent chance of rain. When the radio announcer advised me of the 1 to 10 odds this morning I reviewed my options: Carry one section of my umbrella; don the front panel and left sleeve of my raincoat; unfold my pleated raincoat to 1-10th of its potential; or just forget the whole pessimistic prediction. Of course, I have to concede that the weatherman did at least mention the word rain, even though it was merely a whisper. More often his forecast of sunny skies is still ringing in my ears when I step unprotected out of the house into a downpour. I would give up listening to these imaginative prognostications except that I persist in the hope that somewhere I will find a clue as to whether the day I am facing calls for minimum or maximum coverage.

Proxmire Pens Books On Physical Fitness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, who jogs five miles to work each day, has written a book on physical fitness because "as a nation we are in one hell of a mess." The Wisconsin Democrat complains, "We are too fat, too soft, too tense. We are prone to alcoholism." Proxmire's book, "You Can Do It!" calls for exercise, dieting, and relaxation. If that is insufficient, he adds that with plastic surgery you can have "more hair on your head, a beautiful nose, no bags around the eyes, and fewer wrinkles." The latter is from a man who, it should be noted, has had hair transplants and reportedly a face lifting. Even such a confirmed physical fitness buff as the senator sometimes throws his diet out the window, Proxmire reveals. After such repast, he felt "as wicked as most guys must feel after a night at Hugh Hefner's reliable guidelines as to whether I should take along a raincoat and umbrella, but I have at last found the foolproof solution. I have purchased a small house with two little doors through which emerges one of two figures. If the little girl is out it won't rain despite the early morning clouds. But if the witch is glowing at me I grab my rain gear. So far she has been right every time, no matter how sunny the skies when she makes her prediction.

As a helpful gesture my husband recently bought me a radio-type gadget tuned to a frequency that broadcasts nothing but official weather information 24 hours a day. A flick of the wrist, and you get an instant spiel on the elements. The drawback to this arrangement is that what the temperature will be in this town on this day comes at the beginning of a five-minute tape. If I miss it I'm subjected to everything I don't want to know about the weather. Up to now I had found no

Trust Fund Balance Reported

HARTFORD (AP) — The total market value of Connecticut's three major investment funds was $21 million as of June 30, $1.2 million less than at the same time a year ago, State Treasurer Alden A. Ives reported Friday. The reduction was the result of a 9 per cent net loss during the year in the state's Mutual Equity Fund. Alden said the loss compared favorably, however, to the 22 per cent average reduction in comparable mutual funds throughout the country. The equity fund had a net market value of $162.7 million as of June 30. The other major funds are the Connecticut Mutual Fixed Income Fund, which had a net value of $454.8 million, and the Mutual Mortgage Fund valued at $3.8 million.

Typewriter's 'Father' Given $12,000

New York—Fifty or so writing-machine investors had preceded him, but Christopher Sholes, a journalist and printer, became known as the "father of the typewriter" because in 1873 he produced a machine efficient enough to be put into production. Called a Type-Writer, it had a carriage return operated by a foot treadle. One drawback was that the line being typed could not be seen, since the type bars struck upward against the bot-

Days of Auction Markets May Be Numbered

By STEPHEN H. MILLER AP Business News Editor NEW YORK (AP) - The unveiling of Phase 4 economic controls drew more attention, but there was new jostling this past week in the effort to change the way Americans do their investing.

The NYSE, which is jockeying to hold a dominant position in the new central market, warned this might give dealers outside exchanges an unfair advantage over brokers.

The SEC last week turned down Big Board requests that the central market's unified ticker not be started until uniform rules are worked out to decisions or needs. The Big Board contended that a dealer-dominated market - by no means a certain result of central market plans - could drive small regional brokers out of business and reduce a flow of investor money

Zoning Hearing Thursday

The Vernon Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building to hear three proposals for plans of development.

Rosewood Gardens Inc., developers of Nutmeg Village apartment complex on Rt. 83 is asking permission to construct 146 additional units.

Melvin Steinman, developer of Nutmeg has already been granted permission to build 210 units of luxury apartments some of which have been completed and are occupied.

Steinman's original request was for approval of 517 units. The request was denied by the commission on recommendation of other town officials who felt that number of units would cause an increase in traffic hazards along Rt. 83.

Fear of overloading the present sewage treatment plant was also a major factor in denying the larger number of units. The state, however, has ordered the town to expand the treatment plant and also plans to widen Rt. 83.

Steinman feels these developments make the previous objections invalid as the plant should be expanded and the road widened before the additional units are completed.

Other items scheduled for action are: U&R subdivision on Felt Rd.; Herbert Wanza subdivision on Avery St.; Skyview subdivision, Graham Rd., John Mitchell plan of development for Pleasant Valley and Ellington Rds.; Thomas Domesly plan of development, Wapping Village; Jean Shepard, SWEET materials; and ALCA site plan of development on Burnham St.

In the vehicle were Matthew Parquette, 16, of 118 Florence St., and Greg W. McAllister, 16, of 19 Jackson St. Both are charged in the case. Police say that both were released under $150 non-surety bonds for court Aug. 6.

Jobless Claims Up

HARTFORD (AP) — The number of weekly unemployment compensation claims increased slightly in the most recent reporting period but the rate of insured unemployment remained unchanged, the state Labor Department reports.

An average of 46,243 claims were filed for the two-week period ending July 14, up from 36,530 during the previous period, the department said. The increase was attributed to seasonal closings.

The insured rate, which reflects the continued claims filed during a 13-week period, was 2.8 per cent, compared to 2.8 per cent a year ago. The greatest number of initial seasonal claims filings were in Waterbury, 1,419; Bridgeport, 1,047; Torrington, 723; Danielson, 656; New Haven, 688; Meriden, 524; Ansonia 432; and Bristol 412.

The other amendment would increase the application fees. Both have been approved by the Planning Commission.

Weicker Seeks Navy Post For Middendorf

HARTFORD (AP) — U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., has some business other than Watergate on his mind this week.

Speaking in a televised interview Sunday, the junior GOP member of the Senate Watergate committee said he would enter the name of J. William Middendorf II to be undersecretary of the Navy.

Middendorf, formerly of Greenwich and a contributor to GOP campaigns, resigned recently as U.S. ambassador to the Netherlands.

Asked whether the White House was still speaking to him in light of his Watergate investigations activities, Weicker quipped: "Well, an article appeared in the Washington Post yesterday (Saturday); they're doing some talking but the words, I guess, are a little rough."

He referred to the Post's article quoting an unnamed White House source as saying that President Nixon denounced Weicker "with unflattering obscenity."

Weicker said he could not understand criticism of his Wednesday, Town Assessor Bert L. McNamara has announced he is not making them up. The facts are known.

Two Injured In Explosion

BRANFORD (AP) — A charred, disabled 25-foot cabin cruiser lies out of its element today following a weekend explosion. The boat exploded Sunday afternoon as it was leaving Branford Harbor. It was towed to a marina and put in dry dock.

Two men suffered burns below the waist while two others escaped uninjured, police said.

Sign Language For Deaf Has Several Forms

By DAN GREBLER BAT YAM, BETH (AP) — Speaking in sign language for two hours. But no one listened.

The couldn't. They were deaf mutes.

The speaker's words relayed by two interpreters using different sign languages, Israeli and American.

The interpreters' contrasting styles and "signs" underscored a fact long known by deaf travelers: There is no single international sign language understood by everyone in the world of the deaf.

The American interpreter, Mary Anne Royster, uses only her hands in "speaking" the American Sign Language—ASL—Ameslan.

The Israeli, Israel Sela, also employs his hands — and his face and entire body to translate from any of the seven languages he knows into the Israeli Sign Language—ISL.

"With ISL, you use your whole body to give expression," Sela said. "Your face is working. Your body is working. There is intonation, even in signs. If you like something, your face is open. If you don't like something, your face is dark."

When Miss Royster interprets, she may either translate the Ameslan or spell out every word in English, complete with verb tenses.

"We have a sign for as many words as possible," she explained in a slight drawl. "There are new signs being adopted every day so that the deaf get a better idea of what is being said — not just the words, but the concepts as well."

Sela said that in Israeli Sign Language it is difficult to translate word for word, because all the signs are iconic. And because there is no spelling in ISL, like many other languages, he uses a roundabout approach to convey what he is trying to express.

For example, if he is talking about Israel's largest port city, Haifa, he gives the sign for "view," because Haifa is known in the view of the bay. Paris is "the Eiffel Tower." The interpreters were in Tel Aviv for an international conference held by the World Federation of the Deaf and the Association of the Deaf and Mute in Israel.

Miss Royster, a bespectacled blonde who interpreted for her deaf parents and at 18 church services, including hymns and sermon, told an interviewer that "all interpreters need to realize who is in their audience," because of different comprehension levels.

Sela can spell in those sign languages with Latin characters, even if he is not familiar with their symbols. For spelling, the alphabet is the same in English, French or Italian.

He is skeptical of developing a universal sign language, he says, "because signs are concepts, and concepts here are different from other countries." He added:

"When you want to teach a child in his own area the concept of house and family, you can't show him a picture of a nice palace with a child and a nice mom. It's another condition that doesn't tell him anything."

The government spends some $45 million annually to keep the price of this type of bread to half a piaster — or one U.S. penny.

Egypt, which produces about 700,000 tons of wheat annually, must import about 2.3 million tons each year.

But the owner of a bakery in Cairo says the flour used to make bread now days is the worst available in the 30 years since Gamal Abdel Nasser overthrew the monarchy. He describes the flour as dark, too soft and not able to absorb water.

VOICELESS SPEECH—Mary Anne Royster, an American interpreter for the deaf, uses Ameslan, the American Sign Language. There is no single international sign language, but "signs" vary from country to country.

Japanese Navy Straggler Opts To Stay In Philippines

DAVAO CITY, Philippines (AP) — A Navy straggler who remained in the Philippines will go back, I prefer to enjoy my own family here in the Philippines.

Miki said Friday that World War II stragglers who have remained in the Philippines will be eligible for citizenship.

Miki appeared at a brief press conference in this southern Philippines city 610 miles southeast of Manila after an airplane ride from General Santos City, about 70 miles south of Manila.

The World War II Japanese seaman was listed in Japan's war records as killed in action in June 1945 in the southern Philippines, but was discovered alive after his wealthy brother from Osaka, Japan, launched a search for him last April.

Miki said his detachment in the Sarangani island group was surrounded and outnumbered by American troops in 1945. "We retreated to the forest of Balit Island where I was separated from my group of 25 men," he said.

Miki also said his group leader, a Capt. Takeba, and some of his men were eventually captured and returned to Japan. He elected to go into hiding and live among the Bilan tribe.

He also said he had married a Bilan woman, Cristina Handoc, 45, and they had 14 children, seven boys and seven girls.

During the press conference he was asked whether he speaks Japanese. "I do not speak nor understand Japanese anymore," he replied.

Andrews Enters Innocence Plea In Larceny Case

Robin Andrews, 24, of 22 Skisman Rd., Vernon, pleaded innocent to a charge of fourth-degree larceny in court this morning.

Andrews, a patrolman with the Manchester Police Department, was suspended without pay on May 5, pending the finding of the court in the case. The charge stems from the alleged theft of money while conducting an investigation, police said at the time of the arrest.

A motion to suppress the evidence against Andrews was made today. The motion was denied by Judge Eli Cramer.

Andrews' case has been placed on the docket for a September jury trial at East Hartford.

Nutritionists Study Bread

By C.C. MINICLER CAIRO (AP) — Man may not live by bread alone, but many Egyptians eat little else.

To make matters worse, a recent survey found much of the bread used by the legal weight, is of poor quality and may contain bran, stone dust, or pebbles.

Egyptians eat some 650 grams of bread a day, compared to 137 grams daily for Europeans, 120 for Africans and 67 grams for Americans, according to Dr. Ismail Abdou, director of the nutrition institute.

The dependency on bread underlines the weakness of the nutrition and economic levels, observers say.

Abdou says bread provides some 70 per cent of the energy and protein needs of the average Egyptian and may provide as much as 93 per cent for the poorer persons who can afford little else.

But he says this vital commodity has lost its nutritive value as recipes for flour and baked bread are increasingly violated. The difference means a loaf of bread may provide only 9 per cent of the protein requirements, instead of 34.6 per cent, he says.

He favors following the lead of Europe and the United States and introducing vitamin-enriched bread.

Mustafa Kamal Mourad, a member of Parliament's Economic Committee, says Cairo's 6 million inhabitants consume some 20 million loaves of bread a day, most in the form of bigger than dinner-plate size hollow pancakes weighing some 145 grams each.

The government spends some $45 million annually to keep the price of this type of bread to half a piaster — or one U.S. penny.

Egypt, which produces about 700,000 tons of wheat annually, must import about 2.3 million tons each year.

Susie Berning Cops Open Title

ROCHESTER N.Y. (AP) — "Boy, this is the fastest service I've ever seen," said Susie Berning, pulling a $5,000 winner's check out of her pocket. "Usually they mail it to you."

Mrs. Berning said she won the U.S. Golf Association's Women's Open title three times. Her third triumph came Sunday when she carded a par-72 on the 6,100-yard Country Club of Rochester for a four-round, 2-over-par 290 and a five-stroke lead over Shelley Hamlin and Gloria Ehret.

It was a nice way to celebrate her 52nd birthday. But now that the pressure of adding back-to-back Open victories to the one she took in 1968 is gone, she's looking forward to returning to her home in Incline Village, Nev., and preparing for a five-day pack trip to the Sierras with her husband.
