Sterilization Abuse

A grievous deprivation of fundamental human rights was recently uncovered in Montgomery, Alabama, where it was found that as many as 11 minor girls may have undergone involuntary sterilization operations at a government-funded family planning clinic.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, the funding agency, has ordered an investigation of the story, which came to light when the father of two black girls sued the agency for the involuntary sterilization of his two daughters. The operation was deemed "involuntary" in that neither the parents or the children understood the nature of the procedure.

While it is our sincere hope that the "Big Brother" state of George Orwell's "1984" will continue to remain fiction, this action is illustrative of the planning of individual lives which can take place in the super-state, which knows what is best for everyone.

This action was ethically unthinkable, and as gross a violation of human rights as occurred in other periods of human history, when boys were desexed to become harem-guarding eunuchs or members of the "castrata" to preserve the pleasing quality of their soprano voices before normal tone deepening had taken place.

If these children had been blinded or robbed of their hearing, their deprivation would be no greater nor the offense more heinous than this taking from them of an inalienable human right, that of procreation.

While it may be ethically permissible for a mature adult to choose sterilization, it is certainly criminal to perform this operation on an unsuspecting child, or with the permission of parents who do not fully understand the operation, or its irreversibility.

Every human being has the right to have children, who they hope will rise to a greater stature than they have been able to achieve.

We all hope to achieve a small bit of immortality by living on in our children and their children. This is the stuff of dreams.
No agency of government should dare to perpetrate so inhuman an act whether under the guise of family planning or other meddling sociological theorizing.

It is plainly not the province of government.

An Awesome Phenomenon

LONDON — The sun was observed over England at 10:13 a.m. (GMT) Tuesday last. Dogs bayed, cats hissed and in Devon cows game naught but clootted cream.

The phenomenon was first observed by the Vicar of Twilling-on-Water while feeding his hedges. He immediately composed a letter to The Times deploring this "still another desecration of the traditions all true Englishmen hold dear."
By 10:28 a.m., the Vicar's sighting had been confirmed by reliable observers from Mrs. Peacock's in Cornwall to Budding-on-Crouch.

"I saw a great ball of fire in the sky, Mumsey," sobbed frightened little Betsy Peacock of Wombles-in-Wold. "It is the end of the world then?"
"I don't know, juv," said Mrs. Peacock solemnly. "I told your Dad we should have voted Labour."

In Llewellyn, Wales, 88-year-old Llyll Lllyl claimed to have seen the sun once himself when he was a lad. "Tis the same but a bit smaller he said. Neighbors, however, said the old boy had been getting a trifle potty lately and his memory was not to be trusted. Acting swiftly in the emergency the BBC urged the nation to remain calm and broadcast warnings every three minutes as to the danger of staring at the celestial phenomenon with the naked eye or even through smoked glass.

But despite such official pleas, the awesome spectacle unnerved many a usually unflappable Englishman. "Scandal in Dartmoor," headlined The Daily News. The story told how E. Heathcliff Burtus-Taylor, Esq., became so addled by the sight while on a day's hike across the deserted moors that he actually removed his necktie. He was, of course, promptly arrested for indecent exposure.

The Heirs Of Watergate

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Two themes will dominate the 1974 and 1976 political campaigns: the bicentennial of independence and the corruption of power at Watergate. Together they form an image of an Eden betrayed. The 1974 congressional and gubernatorial races will feel the hot breath of Watergate. As for 1976, it is bound to be a year of pious and profuse rhetoric, of high morality and of favoring winds for the heirs and beneficiaries of Watergate.

Obviously anything can happen in three years to transform the political climate, whether by foreign or internal crisis. But barring some major act of God or intervention of the Senate committee, the chances are that one of the other will get a vice-presidential spot. But they may go higher, especially Baker. There is little to say about the Democrats at this point, except that these years should be green pastures for them politically, yet they have a lean list. Of the survivors of the 1972 disaster, Sen. Henry Jackson is the only one with prospects. Sens. Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey may still have a chance, but they were both prominent in the 1972 race, and the post-Watergate mood

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, July 24, the 204th day of 1973. There are 160 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1946, the United States made the first underwater test of an atomic bomb, exploding the device off Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.
On this date, the Cuban government expropriated the U.S. Embassy building and grounds in Havana.
Five years ago, the House of Representatives passed a bill to curb interstate mail order sales of long guns and certain types of ammunition.
One year ago, striking longshoremen shut down all major ports in Britain, and thousands of other workers struck in sympathy for five, jailed dock workers.
Today's birthdays: Former U.S. food and drug administrator in 1970, Sen. Daniel Webster, 59. Theatrical producer Alexander H. Cohen is 53.
Thought for today: One may live as a conqueror, a king or a magistrate, but he must die as a man. — Daniel Webster, American lawyer and statesman, 1782-1852.

FORGIVENESS
"Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." These words tended to puzzle me years ago. They seemed to imply the attitude: "All right, Lord. See how magnanimous I am to forgive so-and-so. Therefore you must forgive me." One day I realized that the whole basis of forgiveness is love, and what this phrase from the Lord's Prayer really meant was: "We know your forgiveness, Lord. Please help us to forgive like that." — Emily Gardner Neal

The Nixon-Brezhnev Summit

By Lee Roderick

(Special To The Herald)
WASHINGTON — It is a reasonable bet that, if asked what was the most important event in the United States in June, most Americans would quickly name the Watergate hearings. They would be wrong. By all odds the most important event was the visit of Soviet Communist Boss Leonid Brezhnev, who spent 47 hours with President Nixon during his 10-day stay, during which 11 major agreements were concluded.

Even given the sensation of Watergate, the fact that the Summit failed to generate more public curiosity or media attention is a measure of how different the world of 1973 appears from the world of just a few years ago. And it is ironic that Richard Nixon, whose presidency has been shackled for the present by Watergate, is the man primarily responsible for "making the world safe for diversity."

The June Summit was the first one between the two super-powers to be held outside the shadow of a world crisis. In 1959 and 1961, it was Berlin. The Midwest war at the top of the agenda in 1967, and last year Vietnam was the albatross around America's neck.

Last month, however, Brezhnev brought a new Russian image to the United States. Instead of in bygone days when Nikita Khrushchev removed a shoe and bumped it on a UN lectern to make a point, now the public saw the world's top Communist spill his champagne during a toast, and playfully feign embarrassment.
Clever. Perhaps natural, perhaps not. The U.S. has no good reason to treat such lightheartedness as representative of the mood in the poll-buro when the setting is Moscow and there are no cameras. However, it would be a serious mistake to likewise dismiss the importance of what happened at the Summit sessions themselves.
White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler was right when he said, "We believe the Summit meeting can be characterized as a meeting of accomplishment and not one of atmospherics."

Among the 11 major agreements, probably the most important was the one on the prevention of nuclear war. Although not self-enforcing, it was a landmark declaration of intent in which the two countries pledged efforts to reduce the chance of nuclear conflict.

Other agreements included guidelines, intended to enable completion of a permanent SALT agreement on offensive nuclear weapons by the end of next year; four agreements to cement commercial and economic relations between the two countries; and five additional agreements calling for bilateral cooperation in the areas of peaceful use of atomic energy, agriculture, world ocean studies, transportation, and cultural exchanges and contacts.
Whatever else came out of the Summit, and whatever are the real intentions or motives of the USSR for closer ties with this country, one fact stands out: Communists, like Capitalists, get hungry. The huge, if controversial, Russian wheat deal last year demonstrated conclusively that Russia is ready to deal.

The Soviet Union has vast reserves of natural resources, including energy, waiting to be tapped. This country has an unmatched agricultural capacity. Mutual need inevitably draws the two countries closer.
In an interview last year, one of the world's top Communist theoreticians, Milovan Djilas of Yugoslavia, put the situation in perspective. In an interview with C.L. Sulzberger of the New York Times, the maverick Communist said, "Economically you (the United States) succeeded in pressing the Marxist world into collaboration with you. You proved the truth of your theory that no economic system can develop isolated from others. And you stayed strong enough."

COEP Video Tapes Shown to Board

The Board of Education watched television at Monday night's meeting.

A demonstration of video tapes for use in the classroom phase of the Manchester High School COEP (Co-operative Occupational - Education Program) work-study program was shown to members of the board by Neil Lawrence, COEP director, and COEP teacher coordinator Tom Rodden.

The necessity for a recommendation regarding the Board of Directors to establish a without account for the special vocational project to be funded by the Connecticut State Department of Education prompted the audio-visual presentation.

The objective of the project, for which the state granted $5,441.94, is to provide COEP and other students with factual up-to-date information concerning career opportunities.

Developed by the staff of COEP, the tapes will be used throughout the school system for high school, secondary school and older elementary school students, as well as for schools in outlying areas.

The recommendation was passed by the board and action, in other board actions, the

SAM Film Tonight

"Winning" is the title of the film that will be shown in Center Park tonight by SAM (Summer Activities in Manchester). It portrays the excitement of the Indianapolis 500 race and the cast includes Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. This semi-documentary is recommended for mature audiences. It is in color. The show starts about 9 and will end about 11:15.

Jackstons Are Members Of Reform Committee

A Delegate Reform Committee, formed within the Connecticut Democratic Party, by former State Sen. Edward L. Marcus of New Haven, claims representative in more than 100 of the state's 169 towns and lists Nicholas and Phyllis Jackson as representatives from Manchester.

Marcus, executive secretary of the committee, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in a 1970 primary. The committee plans public hearings in the state's six Congressional districts, to determine which is the best formula to propose.

On the Delegate Reform Committee representing Glastonbury is Mrs. A. Estelle Flanagan, who was defeated last year in her try for the post of state senator from the Fourth District.

Representing Ellington is Paul Prokop, representing Hebron are Cynthia G. Wilson and David Albee, and representing Tolland is Marilyn Durand.

Efficiency Of Utilities Debated

HARTFORD (AP) - A man brought in by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to help the governor oppose rate hikes for two utilities, said Monday that public utilities commissions should look into utility company efficiency.

Dr. Richard Hellman of the University of Rhode Island said both the Connecticut Light and Power Co. and the Hartford Electric Light Co., the firms Hellman testified against, are relatively inefficient compared to similar companies throughout the United States.

Vernon Health Education Planned at RHS

A comprehensive health education program to be called "Education for Living" is being planned for installation at Rockville High School for the coming school year.

A state grant received several months ago allowed the committee made up of educators and administrators to prepare a curriculum guide which will encompass a mini-course for all Grade 9 students together with a compilation of all health units available to students in all of the disciplines or subjects.

Mrs. Claire Albom, supervisor of physical education for girls, was appointed by the Board of Education to set up a health education program for the school system. Curriculum guides for the health education programs in the lower grades have already received commendations from the state education group.

The first of the programs was instituted for Grades K-6. Vernon received state funding for this for having submitted one of the best proposals.

Mrs. Albom told the board that the state had commended the curriculum guides because the curriculum is based on a mental health approach to health education and involves the individual child as well as the classroom teachers. The state board also complimented the committee for weaving the program into many subject areas where it is most meaningful to the students.

Although a drug education program was interwoven with the high school curriculum, Mrs. Albom, several months ago, cautioned the board that a drug education program itself was not the answer to a total

Storm Blamed For Crash Of Airliner

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The pilot of an Ozark Air Lines plane that crashed in a St. Louis suburb thinks he flew through a tornado and is sure the plane was hit by lightning. Authorities say at least 36 persons died.

Ozark Flight 825, which originated in Nashville, Tenn., and was carrying 41 passengers and a crew of three, crashed into a wooded ravine Monday night during a violent thunderstorm.

The Federal Aviation Administration said Arvid Linke, pilot of the turboprop Fairchild 27, radioed shortly before the crash that he believed he was in a tornado and that he had been hit by lightning. Authorities determined the cause of the crash that he believed he was in a tornado and that he had been hit by lightning.

The plane left Nashville at 3:35 p.m. Monday en route to St. Louis. It had made intermediate stops at Clarksville, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky.; Cape Girardeau, Mo.; and Marion, Ill.

Winds peaking at 37 miles per hour accompanied a downpour of nearly two inches of rain during the brief storm that came at the time of the crash. Two giant oak trees stopped the plane's descent just short of an unoccupied gymnasium on the campus of the University of Missouri-St. Louis in suburban Normandy.

Conditions at the airport, although bad, were described by an FAA official as "not bad enough to close down operations."

The crash was the first involving a casualty for Ozark, which resumed flights July 5 after a 71-day strike by mechanics. The airline serves 62 cities in 15 states, mostly in the Midwest.

An Ozark spokesman in Nashville said the aircraft built by the Fairchild Hiller Corp., was of the type that has been in service for commercial airlines since the mid-1950s.

An Odd Fellows official said the skeleton was one of several used in the group's secret rituals. The official said two other skeletons were removed from the building after the fire.

Most such skeletons, he explained, are from the mid-1800s and are usually the bones of slaves or Indians.

The bones discovered Monday are in the custody of Dr. Joseph A. Falumbo, the state's acting chief medical examiner.

Tax Record-Seeking Auditors Given Coffee

EAST HADDAM (AP) - Veteran tax fighter Vivien Kellems refused again Monday to reveal the inner sanctums of her financial situation to two state Tax Department inspectors.

Over a serving of coffee and cookies at her home here, the retired industrialist whose battles with federal and state tax collectors have become almost legend—she keeps saying "no"—retorted her right to conceal her financial and tax records in her own home in accord with the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution which outlaws unreasonable searches and seizures.

When pressed for back tax filings or statements from corporations from which she may have received dividend payments, Miss Kellems said, "Lock Marybeth. There are no figures. I haven't filed anything with anybody."

Marybeth Mercurio and Robert Egan were sent by the state Tax Department to examine the 76-year-old Miss

Our Father's Mustache

The head of our household is essentially a conservative man. He continues to wear a crew cut despite the dictates of fashion. He prefers white button down shirts, regardless of the fact that rainbow colors are in.

Therefore, a few years ago on our summer vacation, when he seemingly abandoned all that he stood for by growing a mustache, I was rather shaken. "Why? I questioned him suspiciously, 'after all these clean shaven years have you decided to look like Captain Kangaroo?'"

My husband was either unable or unwilling to explain his actions. "Why am I growing a mustache? I don't know. Why do birds fly?" he responded with a grin. Then he added, "And this isn't a Captain Kangaroo mustache. It's a Burt Reynolds."

By the end of the first week, when it was obvious that their father was growing a mustache, the girls practically ostracized him and even refused to kiss him goodnight.

Through all this my husband remained calm and steadfast and occasionally I saw him reach up and stroke his mustache with a satisfied look in his eyes.

The last night of our vacation he took out his razor, and without saying a word to anyone, shaved his lip clean. Every year since, he has followed the same pattern, always shaving his mustache as vacation ends.

Now on a two weeks vacation, a man is quite limited in the kind of mustache he can cultivate, but my husband has managed, in addition to the Burt Reynolds, a very handsome Stan Smith and a dashing little Mark Spitz.

This year we are taking a full three weeks vacation and I can't wait to see what he can produce with an extra week of growing time! Maybe a mustache with mutton chops, maybe a Fu Man Chu.

One thing is sure. Since his birthday falls in the middle of vacation, our gift to him is going to be his very own mustache cup!

Summer Fun At Camp

You can't "hole" her back—Sonia Green pitches a beanbag through the goal at the Interfaith Day Camp field day. A camp for Manchester and Hartford area children, now in its sixth year, is supported by donations from local churches and service organizations. Held at Concordia Lutheran Church, the camp is staffed with 22 volunteer counselors who help the 50 campers enjoy crafts, games and swimming at Globe Hollow. The camp recently visited the Willington Game Farm, and plans to splash in at Rocky Neck Park next week. The Broad Street Dairy Queen will donate 100 jets Thursday to the young campers. Williams Off Hospital Bed to Coach Stars, Anderson Expresses Fierce Desire to Win

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An undaunted Dick Williams and a determined Sparky Anderson reflect the intense mood of tonight's 44th All-Star baseball game at plush Royals Stadium.

Williams left a hospital bed after a recent appendectomy to lead the American League team while National League manager Anderson vows: "I'm here for just one thing—to win."

The setting is particularly dramatic, considering that All-Star games in the past have been brushed off by some players as insignificant exhibitions.

But Anderson has expressed a fierce desire to beat the American League in the mid-summer classic.

"I'll try to figure out what makes Williams will be making, and everybody on my staff will be ready to help out," says the Cincinnati Reds' manager.

A sellout crowd of more than 40,000 will be on hand at baseball's newest park while millions more watch the star-studded affair on national television (NBC). Game time is 8:30 p. m., EDT.

The American League's starting pitcher, Catfish Hunter of the Oakland A's, a 15-game winner, will face Rick Wise of the St. Louis Cardinals in an attempt to cut into the National League's 24-1 lead in the series which started back in 1953. There has been one tie in All-Star competition.

"It's a great honor for me," said Wise, an 11-game winner who was chosen over more illustrious names because he had the most rest.

Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris will lead off for the American League, followed by left-handed pitcher Steve Carlton of the Houston Astros, first baseman Jerry Aaron and right fielder Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs will hit 2-4-5 for the Nationals.

The rest of the order includes Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, Spete, and starter Bill Freehan, Detroit.

Third Base
Ron Santo, Chicago; Joe Torre, St. Louis, and Darrell Evans, Atlanta.

Outfielders
Pete Rose, Cincinnati; Billy Williams, Chicago; Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson, Houston; Willie Davis and Manny Mota, Los Angeles; Roy Falty, Montreal; Willie May, New York, and Bobby Bonds, San Francisco.

Catchers
Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, and Tom Simmons, St. Louis.

Pitchers
Otis, Don Sutton, and Jim Brewer, Los Angeles; Jack Billingham, Cincinnati; Dave Giusti, Pittsburgh; Wayne Twitchell, Philadelphia; Tom Seaver, New York, and Rick Wise, St. Louis.

All-Star Notebook

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baseball's All-Star notebook: The National League has won nine of the last 10 all-star games. The only American League victory occurred when Sparky Anderson managed the Nationals for the first time.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the American League's starting pitcher, isn't worried about having to swing a bat in this non-designated hitter game.

"The pitchers in Oakland have been taking batting practice all season. It's the only thing we've got to look forward to except running."

There are seven ex-National League players on the American League All-Star squad and only two ex-American League players on the NL team. All five Kansas City representatives—John Mayberry, Amos Otis and Cookie Rojas, are ex-NL players, testifying to the

Kuhn's Silence Affronts Aaron

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The final countdown has begun for Henry Aaron, closing in on Babe Ruth's all-time home run record of 714 and when he gets there, the Atlanta slugger hopes he'll find a more cordial welcome from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn than he received when he hit No. 700.

"I got 100 telegrams congratulating me," said Aaron, who'll be at first base for the National League in tonight's 44th annual All-Star Game.

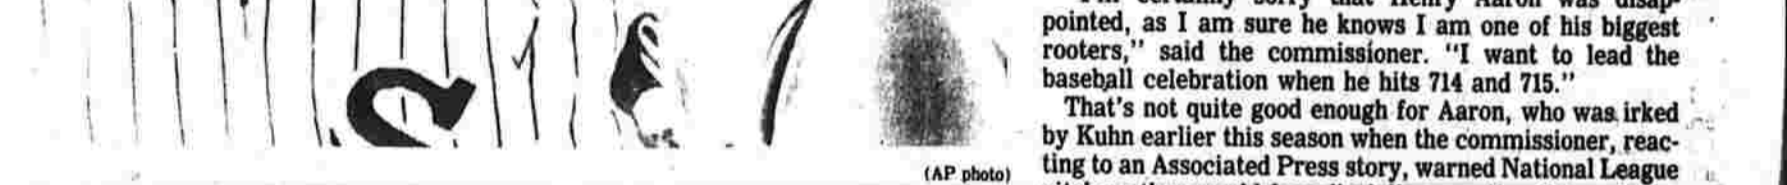

"But I didn't receive a telegram from the commissioner. I would think that the commissioner would send one, too."

It was clear that Aaron considered the action a snub by Kuhn although the commissioner insisted that he meant no slight to the slugger.

"I'm certainly sorry that Henry Aaron was disappointed, as I am sure he knows I am one of his biggest supporters," said the commissioner. "I want to lead the baseball celebration when he hits 714 and 715."

That's not quite good enough for Aaron, who was irked by Kuhn earlier this season when the commissioner, reacting to an Associated Press story, warned National League pitchers they would face disciplinary action if they threw Aaron a soft pitch as he went for the milestone.

"Tell the commissioner he didn't lay it in for me," said Aaron, after tagging No. 700 against Philadelphia's Ken Brett last Saturday.

NFL's Uncatchable Man Keeps Identity Hidden

NEW YORK (AP)—Duane Thomas, among the most elusive runners in the National Football League when he led the Dallas Cowboys to victory in the 1972 Super Bowl, remained uncatchable Monday when he failed to report to the Washington Redskins' training camp.

Redskins' Coach George Allen, whose disposition outwardly sweats the ice cream to bowl when it comes to talented football players, did not appear concerned over Thomas' latest hidden player trick.

Thomas, football's most famous missing person, was traded from the San Diego Chargers to the Redskins last week for a first-round draft choice in 1973 and a second-round pick the following year.

Allen had said previously that it would not matter if Thomas didn't report until Tuesday.

But Allen is concerned about star running back Larry Brown, the first 1973 holdout for the 1973 season. Brown, the NFL's most valuable player last year, has refused to report to camp.

Baltimore receives an undisclosed draft pick.

Stukes, 6-foot-3 and 212 pounds, had been a starter for the Colts since 1969 and led the team in interceptions last season with five. He has 20 career interceptions.

Colt's Housecleaning Nobody's Untouchable

BALTIMORE (AP)—When Alex Hawkins captained the Baltimore Colts' special teams in the 1960s as a virtual unknown, he was jokingly referred to as "Cops Who?"

Going into the 1973 National Football League season, almost the entire Colts' team—just two years removed from a Super Bowl championship—has a similar identity problem.

In just one year on the job, Gene Mangan, Joe Thomas has changed the complexion of the Colts.

Since dealing off Baltimore's living legend, quarterback Johnny Unitas, on Jan. 22, Thomas has made 15 trades.

Eleven veterans, five of them 10 years or more experience, are gone. Another, with 10 years in the NFL, has retired.

A check in the Baltimore roster indicates that the end is not yet in sight, and Thomas readily concedes that anything is possible.

"Nobody is an untouchable when it comes to trading," Thomas said after dealing cornerback Charlie Stokes to the Minnesota Vikings Monday for an undisclosed "high draft choice."

"You might consider a second-line player untouchable, if you can't get something better for valuable points in the draft," he said.

"Yet, you discuss him. You always look to upgrade your club, and anyone can be traded if the move will help. I'll listen to anybody."

At the moment, Thomas is getting quite a few inquiries about the availability of a Baltimore tight end.

Since acquiring Ray Chester, a Pro Bowl tight end from Oakland for defensive end Bubba Smith, it's generally conceded that Tom Mitchell, Baltimore's 1972 starter at that spot, is prime trade bait.

"The Colts have a surplus at wide receiver; although none of the players is considered a star at the moment, and one or two of those may be dealt off. Jim O'Brien or Eddie Hinton are possibilities."

In addition, Thomas has an ace in the hole as he scouts open spots in the NFL.

Baltimore currently has two prospects for the 1973 season: Paul Horney of Worcester, Mass., matched par with a 71. Low among the prospectees was Joyce Ann Jackson with 73. Terry an Mesuener, the reigning Miss America, supervised a putting contest.

Jimmy Fund Golf Day Termed Successful

BLOOMFIELD (AP)—It was a successful day for young autograph seekers at the Tumble Rock Country Club here and for the hopes of young people suffering from cancer in the Jimmy Fund Hospital in Boston.

Almost 60 sports personalities joined area government and business people in a benefit golf tournament sponsored by the Hartford Police Department to raise money for the hospital which concentrates on research and treatment for children with cancer.

The lowest estimate of the amount raised was $10,000 while sponsors said it could reach $20,000.

Among the celebrities on hand were Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins National Hockey League team and Tony Conigliaro, a former great with the Boston Red Sox.

Several New York Mets players were also there, as well as a dozen proffers from the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Pro golfer Bruce Devlin scored the low gross of five-and-a-half, while 1973 British amateur golf champion Dick Siderow of Easton had a 70.

Pep's Case Rekindled, Won't Serve If Named

HARTFORD (AP)—Former world heavyweight boxing champ Willie Pep, in a clinch with the state over his application for a referee's license, says, in effect, that he won't serve.

"I don't want to be a referee any more. I don't think I'd be welcome in the courts," Pep said in an interview.

Pep was denied an application for a referee's license by Boxing Commissioner Barbara Dum earlier this year on the basis of a state police report. She refused to make it public.

Pep has said consistently that he's innocent of any wrongdoing. The fight continued and finally he withdrew his application, saying he was frustrated with the hassle. He said he would probably work with the state's youth to help improve boxing in the state.

Earlier Monday there was a threat of court action.

Joseph E. Fazzano of Hartford, Pep's attorney, said in a letter to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill Monday that Pep is willing to meet with the governor.

U.S. Attempt To Close Gap Soviets Superb In Track Clash

MINSK, U.S.S.R. (AP)—Distance runner Dave Wottle, who won the 800 meters in the Munich Olympics, is entered in the 1500 meters today when an American team attempts to erase a Soviet lead in a dual track and field meet.

Wottle, of Bowling Green, Ohio, is entered only in the 1500 and did not compete on opening day Monday.

The Russian men, despite a brilliant performance by the American sprinter Steve Williams, took a 65-61 lead over the U.S. team while the Soviets overwhelmed the American by 53-30.

Williams, from New York City, was overshadowed by the soft Mink trick and captured the 100-meter dash in 10.1. Herb Washington of Flint, Mich., was second in 10.3.

Williams, expecting strong competition from Valery Borzov, the "World's Fastest Human," who won both the 100- and 200-meters in the Munich Olympics, had little difficulty outrunning the Russian.

Running the anchor leg on the 400-meter relay team, Williams grabbed the baton about three

East Hartford's Errors Reward Manchester

By Chris Blake

East Hartford's Legion dug their own grave early with errors and walks, and Manchester reliever Ron Roy delivered the final death blow as the locals turned back East Hartford, 4-2, in Zone Eight play last night at East Hartford High.

Roy saved the win for starter Connie McCurry by fanning the only batter he faced. Al Maximino, with two outs and runners on first and second in the seventh inning, making his first start since July 9th, worked the first 5 1/3 innings, allowing two runs on three hits.

Craig Pinney knocked McCurry out of the box with a bases loaded single, scoring one. Reliever Ken Irish walked in another run making the score 3-2. Manchester, Irish retired the next two batters and averted further damage.

Manchester, aided by two East errors, tacked on one insurance run in the seventh. One error put Jack Maloney on first with one out. The next batter, John McKee, singled sharply down the rightfield line. Rightfielder Maximino made an errant peg, trying to nail Maloney at third, but he scampered home for an unearned run.

Manchester, in their last four outings, allowed runs in the seventh. So the cause for concern even after Irish got Tom Leitz to bounce into a double-play after a leadoff walk in the seventh inning.

Bypassed Connors Takes U.S. Crown

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Young Jimmy Connors, a nonconformist as a touring tennis player, was $12,000 richer today while reigning as the 46th U.S. Pro Tennis Champion.

Ignored in the seedings drawn up by World Championship Tennis in cooperation with the sponsoring New England Merchants National Bank, Connors made a shambles of the rankings on route to the title.

He started by eliminating top-seeded Stan Smith. Then he whipped Ray Moore, sixth-seeded Cliff Richey.

That set the stage for a showdown with veteran Arnie Ashe Monday night in the rain-delayed windup of the $60,000 tournament which carried only $10,000 in total prize money the bank brought the journey to Longwood in 1964.

A capacity crowd of 5,000 was divided as Connors and Ashe, an old favorite here, took the center court on the club's artificial playing surface.

Connors, only 20, convinced everyone, including Ashe, he is for real and has a big future in tennis.

In just over three hours, the former national collegiate champion UCLA defeated Ashe 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Ashe picked up $8,000 for his finish.

Conflict Issue Has No Simple Legal Answer

NEW HAVEN (AP)—There is no simple answer to the growing conflict between Congress and President Nixon because the issues at hand have "never arisen in this stark form," a constitutional law expert says.

The President bases his refusal to surrender tapes of conversations made in his office on the "doctrine of executive privilege which is based in the constitutional principle of separation of powers," Professor Thomas E. Emerson of Yale said in an interview Monday.

The courts have never developed the legal issues involved. Usually these things are decided in the political arena and get to court.
