Laotian Rebel Coup Crushed

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotian government troops today crushed a right-wing general's attempt to overthrow Premier Souvanna Phouma and torpedo a pending agreement on coalition government with the Hanoi-backed Pathet Lao.

The coup leader, exiled Gen. Thao Ma, a former commander of the Laotian air force, was reported killed when a T28 bomber he had commandeered crash-landed after being hit by ground fire.

The uprising, mounted by Thao Ma from his exile in Thailand, lasted only 10 hours. Prince Souvanna Phouma went on national radio at midday and told his people: "The coup has failed."

The premier imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew on Vientiane but said it probably would be necessary only for tonight. The capital's airport and all border crossings remained closed.

"Government troops and police had shown a complete loyalty and devotion to the cause of national unity," Souvanna Phouma later told diplomats in an hour-long meeting in his private dining room.

"The kingdom remains completely quiet while government troops showed themselves to be completely behind the government."

The premier said he had telephoned the Pathet Lao delegation in Vientiane at mid-morning to tell them they were safe and not to worry. It is the negotiations with the Pathet Lao, in which the Communist-backed insurgents are expected to win wide powers, that prompted Thao Ma's rightist coup attempt.

Souvanna Phouma said two government troops were killed during a bombing run by the Thao Ma rebels on a military camp on the outskirts of Vientiane. The rebel casualty count was not immediately known but sources said the toll was light.

Ex-Agnew Aide's Diary Reportedly Lists Kickbacks

NEW YORK (AV) — U.S. Atty. George Beal in Baltimore reportedly has obtained a diary of kickbacks and payoffs to Maryland political figures that was kept by a former aide to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the New York Daily News said Sunday.

Quoting unnamed authoritative sources, the News called the diary a loose compilation of payments from contractors and consultants to Jerome Wolf, who was state roads commissioner from 1966 to 1968.

The newspaper article did not say whether the diary implicated Agnew.

Agnew was governor of Maryland in 1967 and 1968. Wolf was a vice presidential aide until 1970, when he left to become president of Greiner Environmental Systems, Inc.

A federal grand jury in Baltimore is investigating Agnew and other political and financial figures for possible bribery, extortion and tax fraud. Agnew says he is innocent of wrongdoing.

Time magazine quoted a Justice Department official on Sunday as saying, "the department has no choice" but to indict Agnew.

"At least three witnesses have told of delivering cash payoffs to Agnew. The evidence is so strong that the case must be taken to trial," the official said.

Time also reported that Agnew had sought to tap President Nixon's Watergate lawyers for help in preparing a constitutional defense that would prevent the vice president from having to go on trial, if indicted, while still in office.

Agnew asked Nixon's lawyers to explore the possibility that the vice president might adopt Nixon's own argument that he cannot be prosecuted until after he has been impeached, convicted and removed from office by Congress, Time said.

Pleads Innocent

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy III pleaded innocent and went on trial today on a charge of negligent driving stemming from an automobile accident that left one girl partially paralyzed.

Kennedy's uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his mother, Ethel, were among spectators in the small crowded courtroom.

Rescue Try Continues

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Rescue crews hoped to reach by this afternoon the cave-in debris that has trapped two men since Friday at the end of a copper mine tunnel south of here.

Verne McCutchan, state mine inspector and head of rescue efforts, said it would take about nine more hours to burrow through the mound of wet earth to the trapped miners.

Watergate Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Nixon flouts a court order to release White House tapes, Congress must seriously consider impeachment, says Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

But Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, says Nixon has made "a very strong case" for not turning over the tapes to the Watergate special prosecutor, Archibald Cox.

Redding School To Use Senior Citizen Aides

REDDING (AP) — School officials hope senior citizens can teach youngsters with learning problems the basics of reading and arithmetic in an experimental program using retired persons as tutors.

The school district is recruiting retired persons to help adolescents make instructional materials that can be used to teach other children in regular classes.

"Together the senior citizen and the adolescent can make the materials and that way the adolescent can learn the skill that he should have learned long ago in school," said Mrs. Rosa Lee Saul, director of the pilot program for Regional District High School No. 9 and schools in Redding, Easton.

"By using retired people with skills we will be trying to involve children, involve senior citizens and create teaching aids for other classes," said Lawrence R. Miller, superintendent of the district which has been awarded a $25,000 federal grant to fund the Senior Citizen Tutoring Program this year.

"It's almost like learning to read through an interest in cooking," he said.

About 600 of the approximately 3,000 students in the district have some perceptual or learning disability, Miller said, which is about the national average. There are about 96 children in the district aged 13-18 who are potential participants in the pilot program, Mrs. Saul said in an interview.

"The real guts of this program is finding senior citizens interested in volunteering," Miller said in an interview. "We want anybody we can find—plumbers, artists, housewives. The thinking is to get a breadth of background, but the most important thing is an interest in children."

Mrs. Saul said the program would create a non-punitive relationship between the old and young participants. The adolescent who has been considered as a slow learner wouldn't be judged on his performance and wouldn't have to compete with other youths.

Monorail Job Given To Ford

HARTFORD (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. has been chosen to build a $4.4 million monorail system at Bradley International Airport, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill announced today.

Assassination Threat Cancels Nixon Motorcade

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Nixon's motorcade through New Orleans was canceled today on advice of the Secret Service, which said it had uncovered a "possible conspiracy to assassinate the President" during his visit to the city.

The Secret Service asked New Orleans police to arrest a former policeman who was described as armed and extremely dangerous.

Police declined to say whether the former policeman, identified as Edward N. Gaudet, alias "Puncy," was wanted in connection with the President's visit.

A White House spokesman said the change in motorcade plans resulted from an investigation by the Secret Service, the FBI and the New Orleans Police Department.

In Washington, Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said: "Over the past week we have received information over a possible conspiracy to assassinate the President during his visit to New Orleans this date."

Warner said it was believed more than one person was involved.

the state Bond Commission meets Friday.

The final contract will be negotiated after the funds are approved, Meskill said.

The monorail will shuttle passengers between the Bradley terminal and a new 1,500-car parking lot three-quarters of a mile away.

Two 30-passenger cars will travel over a single-lane track at about 30 miles per hour. Passengers will operate the cars in the same manner as an automatic elevator.

Ford says passengers never will have to wait more than a few minutes between cars.

It is expected that passengers will pay a small charge to cover operating costs. Meskill said he didn't know what those costs would be once the system was completed, hopefully by the summer of 1975.

Meskill said Ford's bid was neither the highest nor the lowest of the seven firms that competed for the project. He said Ford was chosen because it had "an obvious capacity to do the job."

A prototype of the monorail was demonstrated last year at TRANSCO '72 — the International Transportation Exposition at Dulles International Airport in Washington, D.C. More than 25,000 visitors rode on it during the exposition.

Meskill also said the Ford monorail, unlike some of the others, appeared suited for possible future use in Connecticut's urban centers.

He said the system would be thoroughly tested at Bradley and at Ford's test center in Dearborn, Mich., prior to 1975.

Forest Fire Crisis Shifts To California

By The Associated Press

Sixteen fires burned out of control on 93,000 acres of land today in the West's "explosive" range and forest fire crisis.

Losses have been estimated at several million dollars.

Information officer Dick Klade of the Interagency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho, said the crisis was shifting to Northern California and firefighters were being flown south from the upper tier of Pacific Northwest states.

Klade said 156,735 acres have been blackened by the fires. Affected land included major big game reserves in Montana and northern Idaho, timber in Oregon and Northern California and range lands in Oregon and Montana.

The fire center gave this breakdown by states of major fires out of control, the acreage they affect and total acreage burned:

—California: four fires out of control on 28,000 acres with 42,950 acres burned.

—Nevada: one on 3,000 acres; 3,150 burned.

—Montana: eight on 57,000 acres; 59,350 burned.

—Idaho: two on 5,000 acres; 32,285 burned.

—Oregon: one on 2,200 acres; 17,650 burned.

—Washington: none; 1,200 burned.

—Wyoming: none; 150 burned.

John Russell, a fire center spokesman, said no deaths have been reported among firefighters. However, a U.S. Forestry Service spokesman said one man was killed in an auto accident when he fell asleep at the wheel after working long hours ferrying firefighters.

Officials said forests in southeastern Washington, northeastern Oregon and parts of northern Idaho were extremely vulnerable because of dead trees due to a tussock moth infestation.

And the center said lightning storms in southern Idaho, northern Utah and western Montana are starting new fires.

Five Killed In Accidents

By The Associated Press

Three motorcyclists were among the five persons killed on Connecticut highways over the weekend, bringing the 1973 death toll for cyclists to 51. A Connecticut man was shot to death in Vermont, a Trumbull man died in a Vermont wreck and a plane crash in Colorado claimed the life of a Simsbury man.

Police said John J. Stauckas, 24, of Litchfield perished Sunday evening when his motorcycle went out of control and crashed into a fence along Rt. 341 near Kent. Troopers said Stauckas was pronounced dead at the scene.

Dale N. Wyse, 25, of Old Saybrook was fatally injured early Sunday when he was after it hit a fence on Gravel Street in Meriden. Police said the cycle was found 80 feet from where it struck the fence.

William J. Braxton, 19, of Wayne, Pa. was killed in a motorcycle wreck Friday night in Stamford, police said.

State police said Braxton's motorcycle was struck from behind by a car driven by Robert E. Anderson, 24, of Stratford. Anderson was charged with misconduct of an automobile, police said.

New Haven police said 39-year-old Frank Luzzi of New Haven died shortly after his vehicle struck a tree on Concord Street late Sunday night. Officers said Luzzi died at Yale-New Haven hospital.

An Ellington man, 29-year-old Charles Breen, was killed when his car went out of control and crashed on South Road in Ellington Saturday morning, officers said.

In Corinth, Vt., police continued the investigation of the fatal shooting of William Dubicki, 21, of Plantsville, Conn. Officers said Dubicki was sitting in a field Friday when he was shot in an apparent hunting accident.

Harold L. Belanger, 52, a resident on both Trumbull and West Wardsboro, Vt., died Friday in Duxbury, Vt. when his car collided with a truck on Rt. 100, police said.

A 20-year-old Simsbury man, Stephen George Payne, perished Friday evening when the airplane he was a passenger in went into a spin and crashed into a wheat field near Castle Rock, Colo. The pilot of the single-engine plane, Douglas Peister, 20, of Denver, also died in the crash.

Police recovered the bodies of two persons believed to have died last week in separate drowning accidents.

Greenwich police Saturday morning pulled the body of Robert Millhouse, 48, of Stamford, from Long Island Sound. He had been missing since Aug. 12 boating mishap.

In Trumbull, police recovered the body of Edward M. Delmastro Jr., 28, of Trumbull, from a pond in Fairchild Park. He had been missing since Wednesday.

New Approaches To Auto Pollution

According to glowing reports, engineers with the Honda Motor Company of Japan have solved one of two major problems bugging U.S. automakers.

They've done it by developing a "stratified charge" engine, something that has eluded American know-how, which they claim meets the original 1975 emission standards (now postponed to 1976) for carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons.

The stratified charge engine, utilizing dual combustion chambers in each cylinder, would eliminate the need for fuel-consuming add-on devices like the catalytic converters American technology has been pursuing. U.S. automakers are said to be working out licensing agreements with Honda.

There remains the problem of nitrogen oxides, however. To eliminate or reduce these requires recirculating exhaust fumes for further combustion, again at a penalty in drivability and fuel economy.

Just recently, the Environmental Protection Agency, at the behest of the auto industry, also postponed this scheduled standard for another year, from 1976 to 1977.

The interesting thing is that the EPA itself has stated that nitrogen oxides are not presently a significant air pollutant in most parts of the nation. This was one of the points touched on by John K. McKinley, president of Texaco, Inc., during testimony before the Senate Air and Water Pollution Subcommittee.

"A single standard for clean air quality on a nationwide basis may not be defensible," he told the senators. In view of the fuel shortage, which he predicted would continue throughout the decade, he recommended relaxing the nitrogen oxide standards for non-critical areas so that exhaust recycling would not be required.

McKinley also suggested that the legislators consider adopting a "two-car strategy" — one type of car meeting more rigid nitrogen oxide standards for California and certain other critical areas, another type for marketing in the rest of the nation.

This, he argued, would be "a simple and practical approach" since neither type of car would require catalytic converters.

The two-car strategy, combined with a noncatalytic solution to carbon monoxide, and hydrocarbons (which Honda seems to have accomplished) would save the nation something like three million barrels of petroleum a day by 1985, McKinley testified.

It is, he offered, an idea "worthy of consideration."

Clothes Make The Student

School administrators around the country are still trying to arrive at an accommodation with the new generation which strikes a balance between absolute individual freedom in the matter of personal dress and some sort of standards, while permitting everyone concerned to get on with the business of teaching and learning.

One midwestern school has come up with a dress code which, it hopes, will achieve that end. At the Crestwood High School in Mantua, Ohio, the following will be frowned upon during the coming school year:
Undershirts (with nothing over them), tank tops (with nothing under them), sweatshirts or jackets with names of gangs or pictures, shorts, sandals without socks and cleated shoes.

For girls, heavy cosmetics, low-cut dresses, sheer blouses or midriff tops and high heels are banned.

Boys must be clean-shaven with sideburns not to exceed beyond the jawbone. Jeans and long hair will be permitted but must be kept neat and clean, and shirts must be buttoned and tucked in at all times.

It's pretty rough, but maybe the kids will be able to live with it.

Mr. Nixon's Dirty Trick

Aug. 23, 1973 — In what was described by perceptive observers as "the dirtiest trick in American political history," the Manchester Evening Herald and Vice President Agnew resigned today.

With Mr. Nixon unenjoying the lowest popularity rating in the polls of any White House occupant in 20 years, the move was not totally unexpected. In addition, of course, both he and Mr. Agnew were under investigation for unethical practices.

Analysts agreed, however, that the voters' dissatisfaction with the Republican Administration was due far more to high prices and the state of the economy than to the Watergate or Baltimore scandals.

As Mr. Nixon, himself, said in his historic Farewell Address: "This means you won't have me, Spiro or Phases I through 5 to kick around any more."

Aug. 24, 1973 — Speaker of the House Carl Albert (Dem.-Okla.), the next in succession under the Constitution, was quickly sworn in as President today.

He chose the President Pro Tem of the Senate, James Eastland (Dem.-Miss.), as his Vice President and the nominating committee.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Aug. 20, the 232nd day of 1973. There are 133 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1741, Alaska was discovered by the Danish navigator, Vitus Jonas Bering.

On this date: In 1776, in the Revolutionary War, George Washington eluded the British in Brooklyn, N.Y., and moved his army across the East River to Manhattan in dense fog.

In 1831, a French army pushed into Belgium, forcing the Dutch to withdraw.

In 1853, the 23rd American President, Benjamin Harrison, was born in North Bend, Ohio.

In 1914, in World War I, the Germans occupied Brussels, Belgium.

In 1941, in World War II, Russians blew up their Dnieper dam as German troops swept into the Ukraine.

In 1955, hundreds were killed in anti-French riots in Morocco and Algeria.

Ten years ago: Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Belgrade for a 15-day visit to Yugoslavia.

Five years ago: Czechoslovakia was invaded by the more than 200,000 Soviet troops and taken forces from other nations of the Warsaw Pact.

One year ago: The worst floods in nearly half a century in South Korea took a toll of about 400 lives.

Today's birthdays: Republican Senator George Aiken of Vermont is 81. Former baseball manager Al Lopez is 68.

Today's Thought

As peace with God implies peace with your neighbor, be reconciled and make amends where possible.

If you fear you may flatter the pride of your neighbor or a family member by overlooking an offense or an injury, then correct him for it; but do it in private and gently; don't use a "sledgehammer technique."

Above all, be prepared at all times to forgive (even if you can't forget). Real love expresses itself in mutual consideration and sincere exchange not in sticky-sweet flattery or harsh, bitter insults.

Spies In Life And Fiction

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Note two "dirty tricks" episodes getting press attention — the Iraqi plane which was the target of an Israeli kidney golf, and the kidnapping of a South Korean opposition leader from a Tokyo hotel.

It is a heavy cost in prestige that the Israelis will pay for their ill-starred adventure. The denunciations they are getting are pretty ironic when you consider that the Israelis were reaching — wrong or right — to a series of air piracy attacks against them. They thought they could capture George Habash and put him on trial as the directing brain behind the terrorist attacks, from the Olympics massacre to the recent shoot-up in the TWA lounge at the Athens airport.

Two wrongs don't make a right, no. What the Israelis was wrong as well as rash. Legally it was piracy. But its intent, by a daring seizure and a dramatic Habash trial, was to put an end to the crazy, inhuman chain reaction of hijacking and terrorism, which has plagued the Middle East since Adolf Eichmann's. They must have had a spy in the terrorist organization or low on some Arab totem pole — who was feeding them the information. The risks were high, but so were the stakes.

Then came the flap. It is unclear how and why the Israelis first said lamely they had stopped the wrong plane but it was very much the right plane without the right passengers. The guerrilla leaders said they had canceled their four reservations at the last minute because the scheduled Iraqi plane was late, and things didn't smell right. Perhaps.

I suspect that the real story is the most fantastic one: that it happened in reality as it would happen in political intrigue fiction. If I were writing the script I should have a master spy in the guerrilla setup whom the Israelis trusted. But I would have him become a double agent, or perhaps have been one all along. A double agent could have led the Israelis out, involving them in a high intrigue, only to let them drop with a thud into the trap that the guerrillas had set for them.

It was a double spy then, having taken care of the Israelis, he will know how to take care of himself. If it was an Israeli spy, trapped by counterespionage or by chance, then heaven help him, for he will need help somewhere.

The snatch of the South Korean leader from a Tokyo hotel could also have a double spy-fiction nimbus around it. It could have been a South Korean agent, to get rid of a troublesome opposition leader, or by North Korean agents, to make it look like a South Korean dirty trick and thus make trouble for Gen. Park's regime.

The Japanese police may find differently, but I incline toward the second view, because that is how my favorite writer of political suspense fiction in Asian settings, Gavin Black, would do it. His recent concoction, set in Kuala Lumpur — "The Bitter Tea" (Harper) — is also about a sinister political kidnapping. The epigraph is from Japanese haiku: Poisoned leaf of betrayal/makes bitter tea.

Lest I scant Watergate, there is a brilliant new fiction — "The Defection of A.J. Lewinter," by a fledgling in the field, Robert Lattell (Houghton Mifflin). It centers on the technique of putting together a CPP — comprehensive personality profile — to shed light on a scientist who has taken the secrets of the MIRV nose cones to Moscow.

The yarn has three merits — it makes the American and Russian spy bureaucracies, in a touching love story and is witty. But the CPP is exactly what getting reelected is a John Ehrlichman claimed as Congress's first priority, the justification for breaking Capital Hill almost surely will go to the mat with Richard Nixon on the cost of living issue next month.

Scop Jackson is not talking merely as a partisan Senator. He chaired a Senate Permanent Subcommittee he has Investigations inquiry into last year's big grain sales to the Soviet Union. "The Russian grain sales were hailed as an historic move forward for the American economy," Jackson noted. "But the sales actually signalled the beginning of higher prices for less food for American consumers."

Jackson has the facts going for him. The present surge in food prices does indeed date from the Russian purchases. While opposing what he calls "permanent controls" on grains, Nixon has chosen the long-range course of encouraging more food production. The farm bill signed into law two weeks ago removed virtually all restrictions on output and offered new incentives to the farmers to grow all the food and fibers their operations can manage. This is what used to be called the American Way during the same period.

Meanwhile, the electorate has been hearing from Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., that President Nixon's foreign policy is to blame for high food prices. Referring to the administration's "inflation" with farm exports, Jackson charged that his "infatuation" had forced up the price of almost all foods in America.

PZC Favors Proposal For Bank

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) has gone on record as favoring a bank building in town if it is going to replace a non-conforming use to a lesser degree of non-conformance.

Chairman Bruce Bradford told members the Citizen's Bank of Glastonbury is interested in putting up a branch office here and already has an option on a parcel of land although he did not disclose where the land is.

hear from residents on the bank proposal.
The PZC voted unanimously on a change which would allow storage sheds of 150 square feet maximum, not on a permanent foundation, to be erected by special permit with ten feet side- and rear-yard distances from abutting neighbors.

However, a five-year waiver would be required from abutting neighbors. The effective date for the new regulation will be Sept. 1 at noon.

The PZC approved lots 12, 13, 14 and 15 in the Wildwood subdivision on Pine St. owned by Shirley Somichsen of Madison. John Somichsen, representing his wife at the meeting, stated some drain curtains on other lots that were the subject of the PZC's action.

Faith, Determination Keep Center Going

By MARIA BRADEN Associated Press Writer
MILLSTONE, Ky. (AP) — Mabel Kiser believes the Lord will help her continue to serve the poor folk of the Appalachian mountains.

She's pretty sure the government won't.

Mrs. Kiser directs the Rural Letcher County, it's a tiny operation deep in the Kentucky mountains and was one of the first Appalachian projects funded by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

Throughout its seven-year history Millstone has struggled to obtain federal funding. Community support and the faith and determination of the women who run the center have kept it alive and the money has come through each year.

Now the future is uncertain. Federal funds will soon run out and Mrs. Kiser expects her final cut-off notice to arrive any day.

"We'll just try to stay alive from month to month," she said.

She trusts the Lord will show her the way to carry on her work with the poor.

"The whole sewing center is built on faith," she said. "From the beginning the Lord has supplied our needs."

The center employs elderly women from Millstone, a former mining town with a population of 576, and neighboring communities to sew clothes for the poor.

The women cut and sew new material and remake used clothing received at the center. Each needy family that contacts the center receives a package containing three garments for each member of the family.

The center also aids families whose homes have burned. Those so-called "burnouts" receive used clothing and sheets, quilts and pillowcases, and anything else the center can provide.

Each year the center serves about 500 families, with an average of seven persons in a family. The center reaches mainly those in Letcher County, but also employs a "roving seamstress" and has started a mobile operation at Hillsman in Knott County.

Last July federal funds were cut back from $52,000 annually to less than $40,000 and the sewing center staff was reduced from 14 to eight. However, Mrs. Kiser said production stayed about the same.

"The Lord stretches it," she said. "Only God can give you something over money."

Ms. Goose Liberates Stereotypes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Georgie Porgie and Little Miss Muffet have been liberated from the nursery and thrust into the middle of the battle of the sexes by a California housewife.

Texan Hoff has written and published a book called, "Ms. Goose: A Lib-reta." It is a collection of updated nursery rhymes which poke fun at the sexual stereotypes.

For example, her version of the verse about the little girl with a curl:

"There was a little girl, That changed the female role, And made men simply torrid: It was to make good, very, very good."

By using the brains in her forehead!"

Mrs. Hoff, an artist, writer and mother of three, was having difficulty marketing a screenplay she had written and she attributed the problems to sexism. She set up her own publishing firm in her garage and vented her anger and frustration at being stereotyped.

Mrs. Hoff's philosophy is illustrated in her version of "See Saw Margery Daw":

"See Haw Margery Law, To your own self be master, You shall have for a penny a day Birth control, instead of disaster!"

Mrs. Hoff, who was graduated from the University of Chicago at 18, credits her mother, "a very liberated lady," for a new view of Humpty Dumpty.

"When I was a child and would break an egg," Mrs. Hoff said, "my mother would say, 'It's not broken; it's a scrambled egg' and put it in the refrigerator for the next day's breakfast. That's really a woman's wisdom. Only a man would consider the egg broken and lost."

The "Ms. Goose" version: "Mummy's not so Dumbly." "When the Queen rode past the wall, From which Humpty had made his fall, She scooped him into a frying pan And scrambled him back to gether again."

Giles Sewage Report Near Ready for DEP

Early in March, the Town of Manchester was ordered by the state to prepare an engineering report, describing the physical integrity of its sanitary-sewage system and to submit it to the Department of Environmental Protection by Aug. 31, 1973.

The DEP, claiming the 1972 flow through the town's new Secondary Treatment Plant exceeded projected estimated flow for the year 1985, cited the town for maintaining a facility "which no longer adequately protects against pollution of the waters of the state."

Homer Drought Ends

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The homer drought is over for Bobby Murcer and it came in the last stadium in the American League he thought he could get over the fence.

Murcer ripped a Sonny Siebert curve ball into the teeth of a strong southerly wind Sunday night and the ball barely cleared the fence at the 330-foot mark—the New York Yankee centerfielder's first home run in his last 116 times at bat.

The Yanks went on to down the Texas Rangers 6-2 behind Pat Dobson, who was coming out of a slump himself.

"I was absolutely shocked when the ball went out," Murcer said. "This is the worst park in the league on the ball, it blows and blows. If they ever trade it down here, I'm quitting."

It was Murcer's first homer of the year in Arlington Stadium and his 19th of the season. He had not homered since July 13.

Murcer, who hit 30 home runs last year, said, "I'm still not satisfied with the way I'm hitting the ball," even though his average is at a lofty .318.

"For some reason," he said, "I'm struggling and I'm still not in the groove."

Has it really been 116 at-bats since I hit one? I'm glad this is the last game of the year here."

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said Dobson's eighth-inning performance was the former Atlanta pitcher's best in his last three outings.

"This may be what he needed," Houk said. "It seems like every time he made a bad pitch, it cost him."

Dobson now is 7-4 for the season while loser Siebert's record sank to 6-11.

Houk said Murcer's home run slump wasn't bothering him because "we faced nine left-handers in a row during one stretch—he'll get his homers."

The game may have meant a bullpen demotion for Siebert, who was reached for six hits in 2 1/3 innings. He has been bothered by shoulder problems.

"Sonny has been very erratic. I'm trying to get the idea of putting him in the bullpen to find himself," said Rangers Manager Whitey Herzog.

For the Rangers, it was their 10th loss in 11 games, and fans heavily booed the club.

One young lady went so far as to evade security police and pop into the doorway of the Yankees' dressing room.

That ended all interviews as the Yankees dived for cover.

R Sox on Streak

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox are off on what may be their most important trip of the 1973 season, hoping they can keep a winning streak going and move in on the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East.

The Red Sox, who were pummeled in dropping three in a row to Dick Williams and his Oakland A's last week, rebounded and completed a sweep of a three-game series by edging the Kansas City Royals 4-3 Sunday before a crowd of 27,356 at Fenway Park.

"I think we're going to start scoring some runs and really get rolling," a southerly Bill Lee said after mopping a five-game losing streak and boosting his record to 18-8 with ninth-inning relief of the Royals. "We can't let Baltimore get too far out in the front and make a runaway of it."

Lee, who had five losses and one no-decision start in a vain bid for his 13th victory since July 18, finally made it, despite four hits, including a homer and a double, by Holyoke's Fran Healy, who drove in all three Kansas City runs.

Pole was a last minute replacement for Boston's John Gregorczyk and earned a 1-0 victory with ninth-inning relief. Boston suffered back muscle spasms warming up, but Kasko hopes he'll be ready by Wednesday.

Giants Own N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Who owns New York? The Giants. Who owns Ohio? The Browns.

Those regional issues were decided Sunday in a pair of National Football League exhibition contests pitting bitter rivals. The New York Giants beat the New York Jets 45-30 at the Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., and the Cleveland Browns topped the Cincinnati Bengals 24-6 at Ohio Stadium in Columbus, Ohio.

In Sunday's only other NFL exhibition, the San Francisco 49ers defeated the San Diego Chargers 17-7.

After blowing an early 21-3 lead, the Giants came back and scored three touchdowns in the final period, thanks to three interceptions of passes by Jets' reserve quarterback Al Woodall. Jets quarterback star Joe Namath left the game in the second period with an elbow injury.

"We suffered a lull when Namath went out of the game," said Webster, "and it took us a long time to get going again." In the battle of Ohio, the Browns scored two touchdowns within 12 seconds and overcame a 6-3 Cincinnati edge late in the third quarter.

Frank Pitts rated 21 yards on an end-around play, putting Cleveland ahead 10-0. On the first play of the next quarter, putting five back Clifford Brooks stole a pass by Virgil Carter and ran it into the end zone for another touchdown.

"There wasn't any doubt about it—they were superior," said a disappointed Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown. "They outplayed us all period."

San Diego grabbed a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on a 10-yard pass from John Unitas to Gary Garhart. But veteran John Brodie, making his 1973 debut, brought the 49ers back in the second quarter, hitting six of seven passes for 65 yards including a three-yard scoring toss to Jimmy Thomas.

A 12-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett late in the first half put the 49ers ahead to stay. They clinched it with three field goals in the final period by rookie Tom Wittum.

Saturday, the Chicago Bears tied the Miami Dolphins 10-10; the Minnesota Vikings edged the Kansas City Chiefs 13-10; the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Oakland Raiders 20-14; the Green Bay Packers topped the Houston Oilers 33-14; the Baltimore Colts trimmed the Detroit Lions 28-28; the Denver Broncos defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 38-17; and the Atlanta Falcons beat the New England Patriots 27-10, and the Oakland Raiders dented the Los Angeles Rams 16-3.

Thursday night, the Pittsburgh Steelers whipped the Philadelphia Eagles 17-3, and Friday night, the Washington Redskins dumped the Buffalo Bills 37-21.
