Nixon Addresses VFW Convention

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was expected to issue a call for stability and peace in Southeast Asia in a speech seen as an effort to start moving his administration out of what he called the mire of Watergate. Nixon flew to New Orleans to address the 74th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The occasion will be his first public appearance in six weeks.

Consumer Cost Rise Slowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that consumer prices increased two tenths of one percent in July, the lowest monthly increase in eight months. President Nixon's 60-day price freeze, announced in June, apparently was responsible for the small increase. The increase in the previous month was seven tenths of one percent.

Officials Silent On Assassination Conspiracy Plot

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal and city law enforcement officials are saying little publicly about a "possible conspiracy" to assassinate President Nixon during a brief visit here. One federal source close to the investigation of the alleged plot said Monday it should be made seriously even though nothing happened.

Free Market Welcome

There may be a ray of sunshine in the strong statements issued from the administration that Phase 5 will be a return of a free or "market" economy. In our belief this is the only step which will get the economic of the country back on a sensible basis.

However, we do not imply that this is an immediate panacea to high prices, labor discontent and the serious dislocation existing in the food and meat industry. We have had enough "instant" panaceas to find that they do not work.

It will probably take 18 months to two years before the law of supply and demand will return to full strength. High food prices today should insure more widespread planting, and hence more abundance, with concomitant lower prices. But you don't grow a crop in a day.

Steps other than Phase-type controls can be exerted by the government to halt inflationary trends. The Federal Reserve Bank can do much by controlling government borrowing which is inflationary.

Too, national appropriations for many expenditures should be closely scrutinized. Among these might be the cost of maintaining large troop deployments in overseas bases.

Military expenditures always can be strong statements issued from the administration that Phase 5 will be a return of a free or "market" economy. In our belief this is the only step which will get the economic of the country back on a sensible basis.

One of the toughest knots to untie in the fight against inflation and for lower food costs is the crop subsidy program. This insures farmers support prices on different commodities. Thus, if wheat or tobacco, or peanuts fall below an established price the government, which means the taxpayer, makes up the difference. No one has ever suggested that when prices are way above support that the grower return the difference to the national treasury.

These subsidy programs have been sacro-sanct to congressmen from the crop producing states. But, realistically they tend to keep prices up and inhibit production.

Harried taxpayers, faced with an ever more costly market basket, cannot be expected to look kindly on vast expenditures for these crop subsidies with farm prices spiraling upward. It will get worse before it gets better. But we think return to a free market is the only solution which will work.

An Envidable Position

Oh, how the politicians in other states must envy Connecticut. For several weeks now, we have had a good old-fashioned political squabble over state finances.

What makes it so unique is that the squabble is over a surplus rather than that more common fiscal problem—a deficit.

Our good Gov. Tom Meskill is accused of building the surplus through a too-frugal control of the bureaucratic purse-strings and at the expense of the taxpayer who was given but a token half-cent cut in sales taxes.

The Republicans naturally cite the surplus as evidence of good management, fiscal responsibility, etc.

And try to stir us we may, we just can't seem to hard up this old typewriter to heights of indignation that seem to come so easily when pontificating on a deficit.

Now there are a hundred things wrong with a deficit but who among us isn't pleased whenever our personal bank statement shows an unexpected balance?

And, if we are like most people, we usually quickly find some way to blow the windfall.

This is where the similarity ends, however, since it appears at this writing, that Gov. Tom is not going to bow to pressures to "blow" the surplus. With an election coming up, he is prepared to tough it out and face the electorate with the state having money in the bank rather than risk a possible deficit inherent in any closely balanced budget.

Now it can be debated whether the surplus is due to excessive taxation or unexpected economic prosperity in Connecticut but the fact remains we have one and it sure beats buying oats for a dead horse which is what you do when you pay taxes to cover deficits.

Let's Really Plan

Dear Sir:
The mayor of Auburn, N.Y., advised the members of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce to seek industrial expansion for Manchester in areas such as "mini-steel mills," while stating that "the responsibility of a town is to its young people growing up, to keep them where their roots are, family and friends." Yet he said nothing about such concerns as what Manchester and the surrounding area will look like, sound like, and smell like, in five, 10, 20 years.
If Manchester has the responsibility of providing jobs for its young people, does it not also have the responsibility to provide public transportation so as not to increase pollution from cars and not to increase congestion? How can we stop any further chopping up of Manchester's still relatively attractive residential areas? Might we consider planting "green belts" of trees and parkland to separate residential areas from industrial areas as well as providing recreation areas?

Let's really plan for our children — for a community that future generations will want to stay, live, and work in; not one in which people wish to escape from as soon as they can afford to.
Sincerely yours,
Elsaine Stetson

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 21, the 233rd day of 1973. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1861, the United States ordered construction of the first atomic submarine.

On this date — In 1680, Pueblo Indians took possession of Santa Fe, N.M., after driving the Spanish out. In 1918, the World War I battle of the Somme River began in France.

In 1940, the Communist revolutionary Leon Trotsky died of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Mexico City. In 1945, it was disclosed that Japan had evacuated its last North American foothold in the Pacific War — the Aleutian Island of Kiska.

In 1950, members of the United Nations signed their new permanent secretariat building in New York City. In 1959, Hawaii became the 50th state in the Union.

Ten years ago: South Vietnam's President, Ngo Dinh Diem, died of a gunshot wound on a bloody crackdown on Buddhist opponents. Five years ago: Soviet forces which had invaded Czechoslovakia seized the liberal Communist leader, Alexander Dubcek. One year ago: Dock workers in Britain returned to work, ending a month-long strike that shut down the nation's ports. Today's birthdays: Britain's Princess Margaret is 43. Basketball star Wilt Chamberlin is 37. Thought for today: We cannot always oblige, but we can always speak obligingly. — Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Fair Hearing Unlikely

WASHINGTON — Some years ago, a Massachusetts politician reluctantly noted published reports that he had been dallying with a lady who was not his wife and replied to a newsman's question as to what effect the rumors would have on his campaign for reelection. "Let's put it this way," he said with forced cheerfulness. "They don't make a shoo-in."

Until the bomb burst, Agnew was considered the frontrunner for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1976. He was an incumbent, he had a national constituency and he had not been involved in the Watergate mess. Now he has fallen back with the pack.

Politics is pragmatic to the point of mercilessness. Republican leaders across the country who had nominated George Bush in effect uttered "It's just one thing on top of another," adding that Agnew's implication was in effect uttered when he told reporters "It's just one thing on top of another."

It is all unfair, but as John Kennedy once said, life is unfair, and big-time politics is not a cricket game. By any decent standard, Spiro Agnew deserves — nay, has an inalienable right to — a fair hearing. He is unlikely to get one from those who manipulate Presidential politics and who sun the Big Bet as the pig.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Lethal ITT 'Souvenir'

WASHINGTON — The stunning secret memorandum that brought the ITT affair to the door of the Oval Office was given Senate investigators by Charles W. Colson's former confidential assistant who now performs similar duties for Secretary of Labor Peter Brennan.

Sen. Sam Ervin's Watergate investigating committee has kept secret the name of the unidentified secretary who turned over the explosive 1972 memo on ITT by then presidential aide Chuck Colson. In fact, it was Joan Hall, Colson's skilled private secretary until she left the White House last year.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Hall was interviewed by Ervin committee investigators the evening of Aug. 1. Contrary to usual practice, no Republican staffers were present. At that time, Mrs. Hall turned over the March 30, 1972, Colson memo warning that other secret internal memos would "directly involve" President Nixon in the favorable antitrust ruling for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT). She also turned over other unspecified documents.

Her motives are a mystery. Contending that "I don't have to talk to you about this," Mrs. Hall told us nothing. The Senate investigators are also mute. Colson told us Mrs. Hall had taken the ITT memo home as a "souvenir" of her days in the White House but felt compelled to hand it over when a Senate subpoena asked for any pertinent documents in her possession.

However, former associates of Mrs. Hall describe her as a battle-seasoned veteran of the bureaucratic wars who would not dream of taking home an explosive document for sentimental reasons. Their questions: Why did she turn over the ITT memo? Are there any more explosive "souvenirs" at home?

Agnew And Bell
George Bell, who as U.S. Attorney in Baltimore supervises the wide-ranging investigation of all charges, but his dilemma remains: whether Agnew, like Reagan, definitely plans to run for the presidential nomination.

A footnote: Another Reaganwood operative is Paul Russo, press conference advance man at the Republican National Committee. Reagan wants Russo, an ex-aide of Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, as his chief advance man.

Today's Thought

Be careful not to abandon yourself to personal likes and dislikes, so that you are controlled by personal whimsies. In such a crowded world, these feelings can't be helped because you can't be open and confident with everyone. No Contest Seen At GOP Caucus

The Vernon Republican Caucus will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the First Federal Savings and Loan building, Park Pl., Rockville. Incumbent Mayor Frank McRoy, who is completing his second term, announced his intention to seek re-election. No opposition is expected in this or any other slots for the Nov. 6 elections.

With the exception of two present councilmen, the eight other Republicans on the 12-member council are expected to seek re-election. Milton Tedford, announced his resignation as a last week because he has accepted a position with the state Department of Labor. State statutes forbid anyone in this position to hold elective office.

Stuart Neff, who has served on the council since 1965 when he was re-elected, will not seek re-election. Tedford's resignation was effective immediately, therefore it will be necessary for the Republicans to name someone to fill the vacancy until November. It is expected the name of Atty. John Giullietti

Bus Available For Trip To Glaucoma Test

If 40 elderly persons indicate they wish to be tested for glaucoma, the Recreation Department will furnish a bus Sept. 5 to take them to the Glaucoma Eye Detection Center in Waterbury, Conn.

Donald Berger, director of recreation, said at least 40 persons must indicate they wish to have the test or the appointment will go to some other town. Due to the large number of persons throughout the state seeking to have the free tests, the date had to be set six months in advance and this will be the only opportunity this year for Vernon residents.

PZC Approves Plan For CL&P Expansion

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Tel. 875-4704

The Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night approved phase one of Connecticut Light and Power Co. expansion plans for its facilities on Rt. 74 on condition that any forthcoming recommendations by PZC engineers, Griswold & Foss, be followed through.

The first of two phases, after working Kingsbury Ave. at the Rt. 30 interchange to allow for increased traffic, includes site work, paving of up to three acres for parking, and the septic system. CL&P Northern Division manager, George Russell, said the state has approved the septic system.

Phase two, scheduled for this winter, will include the building plans. The expansion will add 50,000 square feet and will enclose the existing 100-square-foot building. The building will accommodate about 100 employees when completed.

Valley View
James R. Darkey of Valley View presented PZC chairman Douglas Prior with a letter Monday night, requesting a meeting to be set up with the PZC, town council, and the first selectmen.

South Windsor

Books Given To Library

"Norman Rockwell," by Thomas S. Buehler, has been presented to the South Windsor Public Library by Sam Hantgan in memory of his father, Nathan Hantgan.

Brownie Troop 788 has also donated several books to the library including some on nature, games and fun activities. Books in the fine arts and decorative arts are being purchased for the library through a fund established by the late Anna Gaylord Rockwell, in memory of her cousin, Ruth Sperry Thompson.

All gift books are so designated by a bookplate bearing the name of the donor. Several local clubs and civic organizations have donated books and equipment to the library.

There are some 35,000 marriages every year in the United States of persons above the age of 64. Reasons given for taking the step include love as well as companionship and economy.

Bolton

Substitute Teachers Sought

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
646-8773

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Joseph Castagna, says his office is preparing the teacher substitute list for 1973-74.

Anyone interested in substituting in the Bolton schools is asked to call Dr. Castagna's office for an application. The number is 643-1569.

Those planning the Annual Fair to the United Methodist Church Nov. 10 will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Noren, South Rd. Chairperson for this year's fair is Mrs. Dorothy Miller. All United Methodist Church school teachers will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Bolton's new Elementary and Center School principal, John Eagles, informs residents that the offices of both schools will be open for registration of new students Monday, Aug. 27 through Wednesday, Aug. 29 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. It is essential to register children at these times in order to ensure adequate placement.

Special Board Meeting
The Board of Education will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Elementary School office to review the Insurance Advisory Board proposal, to take action on the bus routes and to approve bus drivers for 1973-74. Bolton Bulldogs, the town's pony football team, will face Coventry's pony team in a controlled scrimmage Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at Herrick Memorial Park. The Bulldogs are in their third week of practice, getting ready to play the Manchester, (N.H.) Viking football team in a Friendship Bowl game on Labor Day weekend in New Hampshire.

Rev. David Campbell, pastor of the church will be on vacation now through Sept. 3. During this time, the Rev. Earl Custer of North United Methodist Church in Manchester, will provide hospital coverage. Serious emergencies should still be referred to the parsonage.

Sunday worship services will be conducted by two of the church's certified lay speakers, Mrs. Clifford Stephens on Aug. 26 and Mrs. Donald Richardson on Sept. 2. The Rev. John McCollum Sr. will preach on both Sundays.

Archie Bunker's Little Girl

BETTY RYDER

Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Archie Bunker's little girl, "Gloria," is a sharp contrast in real life to the excitable, oft-times exasperated offspring, she portrays on CBS' award-winning television program, "All In The Family."

Sally Struthers, who as "Gloria Slivc," puts up with her antagonistic father, "Archie," her excitable but lovable mother, "Edith," and her not too ambitious husband, "Mike," is a composed, determined, bundle of energy, off-camera.

A blue-eyed blonde, who tips the scales at 110 well-distributed pounds, and stands 5'10" tall, Sally enjoys fashionable clothes, but is unhappy that she is not able to wear them on "All In The Family."

Commenting on her television wardrobe, Sally said, "Would you believe 'Gloria' has two skirts, two blouses and a pair of slacks to select from each week. 'Edith' has a choice of two house dresses, one good dress, and a couple of aprons to change their appearance."

"As for 'Archie,' he wears the same clothes all the time, and poor 'Mike' settles for faded jeans and a shirt," she added.

Sally, looking stunning in a black, long-sleeved jersey gown, said, "It took a long time before I could convince our producer Norman Lear to let me get rid of those Shirley Temple curls, but I still have to wear the barrettes."

She considers her own wardrobe on "All In The Family," as "drab" in keeping with her role as "Gloria Slivc," but recognizes that her appearance is felt across the country.

"I've been on the road," she said, "and someone in many of the beauty shops I've gone into to get my hair washed has said, 'You know, you wear those little barrettes on the show all the time. Do you know how many girls come in here now and ask for a center part with barrettes on the side like Gloria Bunker?'"

An outgoing young woman with cool blue eyes that twinkle mischievously, Sally was born filmed "The Getaway" with Steve McQueen and Ali McGraw, and starred in the stage production of "A Girl Could Get Lucky" at the Illinois' Pheasant Run Playhouse.

Hard work and determination paid off, when Sally won an Emmy Award for the 1971-72 season for "outstanding performance by an actress in a supporting role in comedy," an honor she shared with Valerie Harper of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

She has again been nominated for the 1972-73 season for her continuing role of "Gloria" on "All In The Family."

Success has not spoiled Sally Struthers. This versatile young actress, looks equally as attractive in formal attire as she does in garb of the "now" generation.

At Charles of the Ritz on Park Ave., noted health spa and beauty salon, Sally popped in wearing faded jeans shirt knotted in front midriff-style, and flat sandals. She carried an old paper bag, the contents of which she was obviously very proud.

After telling her hairdresser, Paris, that she needed her hair fixed for a public appearance later that day, she proceeded to show us her "treasures."

"Look at this," she said, as she pulled out an old cloche and popped it on her head, "isn't it beautiful?" But the piece of resistance as far as she was concerned, was a rumpled up old beige duster of the Stutz Bearcat vintage, which she tried on with all the pride of a woman trying on a Mollie Parris creation.

When asked what she was going to do with the old clothes, she replied, "Wear them. I love old things."

Her other prize possession is an old Balova rectangular watch which she considers a real "bargain."

"Don't you just love the shape," she asked. And to show that she does appreciate some of the finer things in life, she had her jeweler put a diamond and emerald watch band on it.

Incidentally, the diamonds and emeralds, were in pretty good shape, too.

My Matterhorn

Mountain climbing is something I would be perfectly content to just read about in the National Geographic. My fulfillment in life does not depend on reaching the top of anything, particularly a craggy mountain peak.

But, family life is made up of a compromises, so when my family decided to climb Mount Washington, I did the sporting thing and agreed to go with them. As my son said to encourage me, "It's no big deal, Mom, only 6,288 feet."

The morning of our climb dawned bright and sunny and the kids' enthusiasm was contagious. I started out with vigor in my step, swinging my arms at my sides.

About 500 yards up the trail we came face to face with a sign that said in startling red letters, "WARNING! The kids pulled me by the sign very fast, but before I saw the words, 'experienced climbers only.'"

Within a half hour, the one vigorous thing about me was my protests and they came with every breath. "How did I let you talk me into this? I ache all over! I never make it!"

"You're doing fine," encouraged my husband, "Just hold in there till you get your second wind."

"Now my second wind was no hurricane, 'Now that I know what the strength to pull one leg ahead of the other. I moved like a robot, walking to the count of 20 and resting to the count of 30. Once I rested against a pile of rocks that had a wooden cross on the top."

"That cross means some died on this very spot," explained John.

Finally there came a point, when I knew that unless a third wind was coming, I'd had it. I simply couldn't go any farther.

At that precise moment, the kids pointed up the mountain, and shouted with a awe in their voices, "That's it. The top!"

There, about 300 feet straight up was the top of Mount Washington. The American flag

High Rate For Women In Army Reserve Unit

Women without prior military service with civilian experience in a number of fields can now join the Army Reserve at a higher rank and at more pay than those without civilian experience, it was announced today by Maj. Gen. Frederick W. Duncan, commander of the 78th Division (Training) with headquarters in West Hartford.

In addition, Gen. Duncan said that women with these civilian acquired skills will no longer have to go on active duty at an active Army installation for an extended period of time.

He listed the skills needed by local Army Reserve units as stenographer, clerk-typist, information specialist, personnel specialist, legal clerk, supply clerk, to name but a few which qualify under this option and which are needed by the Division.

"These women who qualify under this enlistment program will enter the Army Reserve as privates first class, and will spend only two weeks at the local Army Reserve Center and School at Fort McClellan, Ala., instead of the seven weeks required in the past for basic training," Duncan said. "They are permitted to complete the remainder of their basic training at home with their Reserve units."

Our Servicemen

Marine Pfc. John T. Howells III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Howells of the Candlewood Apts., 1255 Ellington Rd., South Windsor, is on a training cruise in the Caribbean with the 1st Bn. of the 8th Marines, homebased at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Sgt. Edward C. Van Dam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Frazier of Kelly Rd., Vernon, recently was promoted to his present rank while serving with the Air Force as an administrative specialist at McCoy AFB, Fla.

Gunnery Sgt. Jess E. Wagner Jr. of 77 Brookfield St. is serving with the Marine Attack Squadron 322, a unit of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing at the Naval Air Station, Fallon, Nev., where the unit is taking two-weeks of active duty training.

Airman Daniel W. Edwards, son of Frederick G. Edwards Sr. of 107 Spruce St., has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training. The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Keesler for specialized training in the administrative field. Airman Edwards attended Manchester High School.

Army Pfc. George N. Brook, son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Brook, 101 Laurel St., received the Pershing Professional Badge, while assigned to the 56th Field Artillery Brigade in Germany. Pfc. Brook was awarded the badge for his outstanding achievement and devotion to duty. He is an operation specialist with the 1st Battalion of the Brigade's 3rd Field Artillery in New Ulm, Germany.
