Feminists Observe 53rd Anniversary Of Suffrage

By The Associated Press
Feminists staged demonstrations and fairs, conducted church services and honored their greats during "Equality Day" activities marking the 53rd anniversary of women's suffrage.

Seneca Falls, N.Y., site of the first women's rights convention 125 years ago, saw an elaborate ceremony Sunday to induct the first 20 members of the new Women's Hall of Fame.

"Great Guts" awards were presented in Los Angeles at a combined picnic, fair and demonstration sponsored by the National Organization for Women.

The awards honored women including Billie Jean King, the tennis star; Olga Connolly, the former Olympic athlete; Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., and singer Helen Reddy, who created something of a feminist anthem with her rendition of "I Am Woman."

In Washington, a women's fair continued in a park near the White House and a rally was set for today on the steps of the Capitol.

A Catholic feminist group demonstrated outside St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York to protest inclusion in the day's liturgy of a verse by St. Paul, Ephesians 5:22, saying:

"Wives should be submissive to their husbands as if to the Lord."

Also in New York, a group called Lesbian Feminist Liberation converged on the American Museum of Natural History with a 20-foot long, lavender-painted "female" dinosaur made of paper-mache.

The day marked the signing Aug. 20, 1920, of the 19th Amendment to the U.S.

Women ministers led a feminist service at Trinity Methodist Church in Atlanta. At Christ Congregational Church in Princeton, N.J., there were readings from "The Women's Bible," written in the 1890s under the direction of Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

And "Roast chauvinist pig" was the main dish at a picnic held at Rock Springs, north of Orlando, Fla.

Constitution, giving women the right to vote. But a number of activities focused attention on the pending equal rights amendment intended to wipe out all discrimination against women.

In Cincinnati, bicyclists and roller skaters wheeled around Fountain Square in a "Ride for Rights." Feminists designated "Giant Step Backwards" awards for those they blamed for blocking ratification of the amendment in Ohio.

Hearings On Clean Air Standards Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency today was to start three days of hearings on proposed clean-air standards that could affect local economies throughout the nation.

The Congress and the courts have ordered EPA to ban significant new pollution of clean air and the agency is trying to define the point at which this level is reached. The answer may determine whether new industries can move into a community and whether the community itself can be permitted to grow. Under the Clean Air Act of 1970, EPA has set nationwide air quality standards to protect human health that must be met by 1975.

It also has set more stringent standards, to be implemented at the discretion of each state, to protect plants, animals, property and the environment. There are many areas with air cleaner than required by the two federal standards, and EPA expected economic growth in these regions.

Last year, however, the Sierra Club sued EPA, claiming that the Clean Air Act forbids "significant air quality deterioration" even where the two standards are already being met.

A U.S. District Court agreed and so did an appeals court. Then, by a 4 to 4 vote last June, the Supreme Court allowed the lower court decision to stand.

On July 16, EPA offered for public comment a choice of four plans for preventing significant deterioration of air quality.

The Sierra Club's immediate comment was another lawsuit, now pending, which charged that none of the EPA alternatives was strict enough.

EPA's first alternative was to set a national limit on the allowable increase in concentrations of sulphur dioxide and particulate matter (dust) in the air.

EPA's second alternative would set limits on emissions of sulphur dioxide and particulates from smokestacks.

The third alternative would let each state determine "significant deterioration" on a case-by-case basis.

The fourth alternative would limit pollution concentrations in the air, as in the first alternative, but on a regional basis rather than national.

Swedish Gunman Holds Hostages In Vault

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The besieged gunman holding four hostages in a locked bank vault told police early today that he had tied them to the walls. He said that if anesthetizing gas were pumped in they would struggle when they lost consciousness.

Police immediately suspended operations to capture the gunman and a convicted murderer with him and free the three young women and a man taken hostage last Thursday.

The police agreed to a truce until 9 a.m. EDT, lowered sandwiches and drinking water through an opening they had drilled in the ceiling of the vault, and withdrew their forces from the area. They gave no indication what they would do when the truce ended.

"We would not like to see these young people hanged, that's why we agreed to a truce," said Police Chief Curt Lindroth.

"We are dealing with an inhuman being who does not hesitate at anything. We could hear the girls plead for their lives. Their despair was genuine."

Police began drilling through the ceiling of the 19-by-40-foot vault Sunday night in apparent preparation for the gas attack. The gunman fired one shot into the vault's ventilator drum during the drilling, but nobody was hit.

The police had been trying to starve the gunman out since the six were locked in the vault on Saturday. Police had refused them food, water or a portable toilet.

The gunman told police Sunday he had burned about half of the $650,000 ransom paid him last week. Apparently this was in response to the suggestion of a reporter in a telephone interview with the man that he burn the money as a symbolic protest against prison conditions.

The man was also promised safe passage out of Sweden if he released the hostages, but he insisted on taking two of them with him.

The drama began Thursday when police interrupted the gunman while he was robbing the bank in downtown Stockholm. One policeman was wounded in the hand by the robber, who was armed with a submachine gun and carried more than a pound of explosives.

He held up in the bank with the three women and one man as hostages. The gunman then ordered that Clark Olofsson be brought to the bank. He is a convicted bank robber and police killer who escaped from prison twice and last month unsuccessfully tried to blast his way out with dynamite.

The police at first identified the gunman as Kaj Hansson, a 21-year-old escaped convict, but he turned up in Honolulu. Reliable sources said the man was a 32-year-old safecracker who escaped from prison on Aug. 2.

Canadian Rails Still Idle

MONTREAL (AP) — Negotiators for Canada's striking railwaymen and its railroads maneuvered through the weekend without getting back to the bargaining table, despite the threat of legislation to end the nationwide rail strike. The strike is now in its fourth day.

Labor Minister John Munro said the two sides had to make some progress toward a settlement by today or the government would ask Parliament to impose a settlement.

Talks broke off Friday night. Executives of Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Rail invited union representatives to meet with them on the basis of a conciliation board's recommendation of a 17.8 per cent pay increase over two years. The Associated Non-Operating Railway Unions rejected the offer but said they were willing to hold direct negotiations.

The union is demanding a 10.8 per cent pay increase for each year of a two-year contract. The last public offer by the 11 railroads was 7 per cent in the first year and 6 1/2 per cent the second.

Paper Shortage Spreads To Business Forms, Bags

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortages of paper are causing increasing problems in the supply and availability of newspapers and such basic items as business forms, corrugated boxes, waxed paper and paper bags.

Much of the attention so far has focused on newspapers, some of which have run low on newsprint because of paper mill and railroad strikes in Canada. But increasingly tight situations also are being reported in a wide variety of other paper products.

A Los Angeles maker of bags and wrapping paper reports it is able to buy only 60 to 70 per cent of the paper it needs. A Bridgeport, Conn., grocery store says it is running out of paper bags. Gulf Oil Corp. says it finds suppliers are reluctant to bid on large orders of business forms.

In Washington, D.C., the General Services Administration reports that paper inventories are short millions of pounds.

An emergency procurement system based on national security priorities has been invoked "seven or eight times" in the recent past to supply paper to the Department of Defense, the Central Intelligence Agency, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a GSA spokesman said.

The reasons cited for the paper shortages are many and complex. A principal consideration, observers say, is that new paper mills are costly and take two to four years to build. Several years ago, there was a glut of paper, prices were low and there was little incentive to build new plants.

Then came the business boom of the early 1970s, at the same time as governments were moving toward stricter pollution control. Industry officials say that over a billion dollars, or approximately one-half of all new capital investment, went into pollution control, cutting into funds for expansion.

Today, mills are reported working at full capacity. Yet industry officials say they have been hampered by such factors as economic controls, labor problems, bad weather in timber country, power cut-backs and a lack of investment capital.

"The return on investment has not been sufficient to attract a large amount of commitment to build new capacity," said Edwin A. Locke, president of the American Paper Institute.

Some critics contend that, faced with overproduction and low prices in the late 60s, the paper companies deliberately avoided developing new capacity to create a tight supply and thereby raise prices.

"People who make those statements don't have the facts at hand," said Ralph Michaud, a paper industry analyst with the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Officer Fined

ANA, Guam (AP) — An Air Force officer who was found principally responsible for the accidental bombing of a Cambodian village has been suspended from duty, reprimanded and ordered to forfeit $700 pay, the Air Force announced today.

Another officer was reprimanded and suspended, and two were given letters of admonishment, a spokesman said.

The officer, Capt. Prince A. Brumfield, was the radar navigator aboard the B52 bomber which dropped its bombs on the village of Neak Luong Aug. 6, killing 137 Cambodians.

The drama began Thursday when police interrupted the gunman while he was robbing the bank in downtown Stockholm. One policeman was wounded in the hand by the robber, who was armed with a submachine gun and carried more than a pound of explosives.

Gunfire Erupts In Mideast

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Arab forces exchanged fire today along the cease-fire line in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria, the military command announced.

It was the first reported outbreak along the line since July 12 when the Israelis said three Syrian tanks entered the Golan demilitarized zone and opened fire on Israeli positions. One Syrian tank was knocked out in that encounter, the Israelis said.

The action today began when the Arabs opened up with bazooka and small-arms fire at an Israeli army patrol at the southern end of the heights, captured from Syria in the 1967 Middle East war, a communique said. The Israelis returned the fire.

The communique did not say if the clash involved regular Syrian forces or guerrillas. Israel has always claimed that Arab irregulars could not strike across the Syrian cease-fire line if they did not have prior approval from the Syrian army.

Letter Bomb Explodes In Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secretary at the British Embassy was seriously injured today in an explosion. Officials said a letter bomb apparently was the cause.

The secretary was sorting mail on the sixth floor of the embassy, officials said. The explosion occurred about 9 a.m.

George Washington University hospital officials identified the victim as 51-year-old Nora Murray and said she lost one hand and that the other was seriously injured.

Police and embassy officials sealed off the building to keep out newsmen but employees of the embassy were permitted to go to their jobs.

There have been more than 30 such bombing incidents during the past month in London.

Wanted: Politicians

Politics in the best of times is an uncertain career.
And today, in the midst of the national preoccupation with the Watergate scandal, the polls indicate an increasing aversion among citizens everywhere — Manchester or Flaming Arrow, Timbuktu — to become politicians or, more important, encourage our young people to join those ranks.
This rejection of political involvement, either as a party member or as a candidate should it become too prevalent, could be the ultimate tragedy of Watergate.
Restoring morality and credibility to government is more than turning the rascals out. You must have moral and credible men and women to replace them.

The abdication by our citizenry of leaving politics to the so-called professional politician contributes to the climate in which Watergates thrive.
That men in power become corrupt is true only when corruption is wittingly or unwittingly abetted by those of us who do not care enough to voice our concerns whenever we feel something is not being done right in city hall, on Asylum Avenue, or on the Potomac.
Maybe now is the time for each of us to ponder anew a ringing challenge of a few years ago:
"Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country."

No Good On Tax Form

One of the more original end runs around the truth by a member of the beleaguered Nixon administration, to borrow a term from the game favored by that same administration, has to be that of Melvin R. Laird recently.
Far from pleading lapse of memory as others have done, the former Secretary of Defense, who is not the President's counselor for domestic affairs, forthrightly stated that he had recommended secret bombing operations in Cambodia in 1969 and 1970 in order to hit Viet Cong and North Vietnamese sanctuaries and to save American lives in South Vietnam.
When asked at a news conference about the method by which the raids were kept secret, he confirmed that a "separate channel of reporting was established for these particular attacks." The press was told only of the bomber targeting in South Vietnam, which provided a credible cover story for the secret strikes.
But while admitting that "I did approve the separate reporting procedure on the Cambodian strikes," Laird went on to say that "I did not approve at any time the falsification of any Air Force, Navy or Defense Department records."

In other words, the truth about the Cambodian raids existed all the time and was available to those in the government with a "need to know." Though the press, and the public, were fed a lot of baloney, the secret records were never falsified.
Imagine a court hearing the same kind of defense from, say, a man charged with tax evasion.
"Yes, it's true that I did use a 'separate reporting procedure' in reporting only part of my income to the Internal Revenue Service. But I did not at any time falsify a second set of records if kept for my own use."
It would be a strange jury that would buy that argument. It would be a strange public that would buy the same kind of reasoning from one of its alleged servants.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak
Laird's Agnew Warning

WASHINGTON — A confidential telephone call from top White House aide Melvin R. Laird to a Republican congressional leader, warning him not to go all-out in defense of Vice President Spiro Agnew, is now being analyzed by party professionals of the depth of the crisis that threatens Ted Agnew.
In his Aug. 7 telephone call to Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, Laird carefully specified that he was talking not as a White House aide.
His message: don't get on a limb in the Agnew affair, particularly with an all-out defense of the Vice President. Stay away from the Agnew affair as far as possible.
Agnew is under intense federal investigation on charges of possible criminal violations of various federal statutes involving bribery, extortion, tax fraud and conspiracy.
Republicans who know about the Laird call to Anderson (described as "astonished" by the warning) assume that Laird and possible other party grandees have contacted other senior Republicans with similar warnings.
Moreover, the Laird telephone call to Anderson fits a pattern that has infuriated the Agnew camp. For example: 1. Before Agnew himself received formal notice from the Justice Department that he was under investigation, Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson reported (in late July) to White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig, Jr., with a briefing on all aspects of the case. On Aug. 2, Agnew's attorneys received their letter from the prosecutors.
2. A prominent television commentator was privately cautioned by an official of the Justice Department 10 days ago in words similar to those used by Laird to Anderson: Don't go overboard for Agnew, you may wind up with egg on your face.
3. The White House has gone to embarrassing lengths not to put the President on record as to his Vice President's innocence. White House spokesman Gerald Warren will only say that Mr. Nixon's confidence in Agnew has not changed.
4. The New York Times front-page dispatch of Aug. 15, outlining charges against Agnew in vivid detail, is believed by furious Agnew allies to have emanated from high levels of the Justice Department (who flatly deny it), not from Maryland sources also implicated in the charges against Agnew.
It is not surprising that allies of Agnew, whose talents have sometimes been grossly used by the President to advance Mr. Nixon's interests, would be filled with dark suspicion over these incidents. They regard them as proof of nefarious underground administration warfare against Agnew, partly to ease the President's immense Watergate burdens.
Thus, in this conspiratorial view — so understandable on the part of Agnew intimates — Mr. Nixon or Republicans close to him are greasing the skids for the hapless Vice President. Under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, they are quietly preparing to nominate a successor — most likely John B. Connally.
It was Connally who saved Mr. Nixon from disaster in the Texas oil crisis of August 1971. Perhaps Connally, the former Democratic governor of Texas who turned Republican at a moment of maximum help to the Watergate-beleaguered President last spring, can help again.
To Agnewites, that fits the known fact that Connally recently cancelled his plans for a long trip abroad and for a lesser-known fact that some Connally friends predict he will be back in the administration in October.
But in fact the Laird warnings may spring from something far less conspiratorial. They may be a flashing signal of caution based not on any desire to do in Agnew but on a rational and informed judgment that Agnew is a goner.
Likewise, Richardson's July briefing of Haig, before Agnew himself had formal notification, may also be explainable as a rational act based on the President's prior right to know. "Is that normal?" a Justice Department official repeated in answer to our question: "Hell, nothing's normal in this case. We're playing it by ear."
But such quiet and rational explanation is understandably difficult for Agnewites. The mood in the Agnew camp grows isolated and embittered. Now, with word being secretly passed to "keep clear" of the Agnew affair, that mood will intensify, with dangerous implications for the Republican future no matter how the investigation finally ends.

Massachusetts Justice

WASHINGTON — Ah, but the Irish are getting some of their own back in Massachusetts. In the old days the cops slugged the neighbors out of them if they talked back and more than a few of the boys were introduced to the inside of a jail for hitting a barroom pal on the head and often enough even for smelling of potene.
Now the dead ones must be chortling in their graves because the Irish are big in the Bay State, especially those named Kennedy, although even a McNulty or a Sullivan can sass a Saltonstall and get away with it. Indeed, the poor white Anglo-Saxon Protestants have been so decimated by birth control it's wonder the state's Irish proprietors haven't decreed that no WASP need apply for any of the good jobs.
But the main thing is that the Kennedys have displaced the Cabots and Lodges as the ruling barons. Jack could have been elected king of Massachusetts on the bidders' vote alone, and the state sent Teddy back to the Senate only a few months after that unfortunate incident at Chappaquiddick.
Teddy lost his driving license, of course, which shows that Massachusetts judges disapprove of autists who are involved in accidental drownings, especially when the victim has a good Polish name like Mary Jo Kopeckne. The inquest judge even said he was not sure he believed Teddy's story, although the Senator had spent a week with his brain trust organizing it.
Anyway, the Kennedy Irish continue to benefit from the pursuit of true justice, not to be confused for running a red light on his velocipede. Joe Kennedy, son of the late and in some quarters revered Bobby, is the latest in the family to discover that the pendulum has swung and an Irishman now has his civil rights.
Twenty-year-old Joe was at the wheel of one of those jeep-like vehicles, enjoying a ride on Nantucket Island with his brother David and five girls like any lad with a good helping of animal spirits. There was some kind of traffic mixup and the Kennedy machine wound up on its back, injuring most of the passengers, but not Joe, and leaving one of the girls at least temporarily paralyzed.
Young Joe was charged with negligent driving, which was only right even if he was a Kennedy. Shortly, he was brought to court and there — by one of those coincidences that fascinate the true Irishman who doesn't bother his lively mind with petty niceties — Joe found Judge George Anastas, a college classmate of Kennedy's uncle, Joseph, Jr., who was killed in World War II.
The wire service reports suggest that Judge Anastas was pretty stern with young Joe. "You had a great father and you have a great mother," he told Joe. "Use your illustrious name as an asset instead of coming into court like this."
Then, although Kennedy had pleaded not guilty, Judge Anastas ruled that said defendant had indeed driven negligently, an offense that carries a maximum jail term of two years, or a $200 fine, or both. But because true justice has come to Massachusetts and the Irish are no longer persecuted by pureshipped Puritans, the judge looked into his heart and fined Joe only $100. It is not known whether Anastas was influenced by Joe's reply when he asked the young man if he believed a jail sentence was a deterrent highway accident. Joe said no.
Then everybody went home and hoped that Pamela Kelley, 18, would get well and maybe even walk again.

Bourne-Golas

McKenzie-Parks

Mrs. Paul C. Bourne

Mrs. Daniel H. McKenzie

The marriage of Miss Doreen Marie Golas of Coronado, Calif., formerly of Manchester, and Paul Carl Bourne of Garden Grove, Calif., was solemnized Aug. 4 at St. James Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Golas of 71 Brookfield St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Bourne of Garden Grove, Calif. The Rev. Joseph Puzo of West Hartford performed the double-ring ceremony and was celebrant at the nuptial Mass. Mrs. Ralph MacCarone was organist. Bouquets of white gladioli and pompons were on the altar. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of ivory chiffon accented with Swiss appliques, designed with high neckline, bishop sleeves, and straight skirt which fell from the Empire waist terminating in a chapel train. Her full-length veil of imported silk illusion fell from a matching cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of Shasta daisies, white roses and baby's breath. Mrs. David A. Golas of Manchester, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor.

Important Facts About Buying Quantity Meat

STORRS - With the freeze remaining on beef and prices sure to go higher in September when the freeze is lifted, many consumers are rushing out to buy a quarter of beef for the freezer. Buying carcass meat for the freezer is a very different kind of buying than selecting a few cuts each week at the supermarket, says Dr. Louis A. Malkus, Extension livestock and meat specialist at The University of Connecticut. If you are not wise to the ways of quantity meat purchases, you may be disappointed. One of the most frequently misunderstood facts about carcass meat is that of weight loss. While it is a seemingly obvious fact that meat isn't really "all meat" consisting of excess bones and other inedibles, nevertheless that is a fact that is often overlooked, points out Dr. Malkus. Meat in quantity is normally sold by "carcass weight" or "hanging weight." This is an accepted selling practice but it is one that can be misleading if you don't know the facts. Carcass weight is taken before boning, trimming, shrink and other cutting losses are figured. Cutting losses can run as high as 30 to 35 per cent of the carcass weight depending on the fat covering and the way you want the meat cut. You pay the advertised price per pound for the whole side or quarter including the portion that ends up as waste. Cutting, wrapping and freezing costs may be additional. Most freezer outlets include these costs in their advertised price. Ask questions of the dealer about all costs. The next big question is quality. How well can you judge the quality of beef hanging on the rail? It's one thing to rely on the beef cuts you select week after week at the grocery store. It's quite another thing to walk into a place you've never bought from before. You have some assurance of quality if the meat is federally graded. If not, you'll have to be your own judge or rely on the dealer, reminds Dr. Malkus. As a rule of thumb, a side of beef yields about one-quarter roasts, one-quarter steaks, one-quarter ground beef and one-quarter waste. A side is more economical than a quarter separately, providing your family likes and can use all cuts equally well. Mrs. McKenzie will enter her junior year at Central

St. Bridget Church, Manchester, was the scene Aug. 17 of the marriage of Miss Linda Gull Parks and Daniel Hugh McKenzie, both of Manchester. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parks of 17 Cole St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKenzie of 100 Belmont St. The Rev. William J. Stack of St. Bridget Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white pompons. Miss Joanne Ball of Hartford was organist and soloist. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a double crepe gown with deep sheer ruffle attached to a chantilly lace bodice with Venice net accented full sheer sleeves, with detachable train with sheer ruffled. She wore a Carnotlet cap accented with pearls with a three-tiered finger-tip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Lisa Parks of Manchester was her sister's maid of honor. She wore an apple green flared sheer over tulle gown fashioned with short puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and banded neckline. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a green rose with white ribbons. Bridesmaids were Miss Sheryl Siefert of Manchester and Miss Carolyn Watson of South Windsor. They wore gowns similar to that of the honor attendant's gown except in mystic blue. They wore matching picture hats and each carried a rose. Doreen Golas of Manchester was best man. Ushers were Rodney McKenzie and Stephen McKenzie, both of Manchester, and brothers of the bridegroom. A reception was held at the bride's home. For a cruise to the Caribbean, Mrs. McKenzie wore a navy skirt and print jacket with matching accessories. The couple will reside at 67 Beiden St., New Britain. Mrs. McKenzie will enter her junior year at Central Connecticut State College. Mr. McKenzie is a senior at CCSC. He is employed at Mott's in Newington.

South Windsor School Lunch Costs On Board's Agenda

The South Windsor Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school library and one of the items to be discussed is a request to increase the cost of school lunches.

The board will also consider revisions of its rules of order and policies and a request to establish an inters position for the business office.

A report will be made by the superintendent on the Pleasant Valley School playground and on the reorganization of the central office and the high school.

Committee reports will also be given and the board will discuss items to be placed on the agenda for the Sept. 11 board meeting.

PZC MEETING

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall to discuss several requests for permits including one from Bal Co. for a two-year extension of its gravel removal permit.

The South Windsor Jaycees are also seeking a temporary and conditional permit for the Wapping Fair; Andre Charbonneau is requesting a revocation of land on Edwin Rd., and the town is seeking permission for soil removal from Rye St. for sanitary landfill.

There will be an informal discussion concerning prospective purchase of property on Rt. 5 by Harry and Joseph Finnigan.

There will be discussion of a site plan to be presented by an attorney representing Standard Printing Co. for a subdivision proposal for the Savin Industrial Park.

Jason Soda System will present a site plan for Edwin Rd., and final action will be taken on the Monsanto site plan addition.

Other matters to be discussed will be the Green Ridge subdivision, Oak Grove Acres subdivision, and ALCA site plan.

CHURCH BOOTH

The women of Wapping Community Church will sponsor a booth at the Wapping Fair to be held Sept. 8 and 9. The booth will feature home-baked goods, handicrafts and a quilt raffle.

The quilt was made by the ladies of the church under the direction of Mrs. Ida Frisk.

The ladies are in need of more handicraft items to sell at the booth. These items or baked goods may be left at the fair or at the home of Marie Whitaker, 29 Orchard Hill Dr., or the home of Margaret Parenchuck, 122 Dogwood Lane.

Proceeds from the booth and raffle will go toward the purchase of storm windows and screens for the third floor of the Sunday School building.

Bolton Ahern Will Resign Board Chairmanship

CONGRATULATIONS

Alvyn Ahern, chairman of the Board of Finance, has given notice to the other board members that he will not be available to serve as chairman in the new fiscal year.

Ahern is in the fifth year of a six-year term. He cited the long-standing practice of excessive duties borne by the chairman, with other board members approving or disapproving his (the chairman's) work and attending meetings, as the basic reason why the chairmanship changes so often.

Although Ahern tried to delegate work during his term as chairman, his efforts fell on deaf ears, he said.

One of two Democrats on a Republican-controlled, six-man board, Ahern discusses partisan politics as a factor.

"The Board of Finance, for the most part, has risen above partisan politics," said Ahern. "Each member is an individual, with the best interests of the town at heart. It is just unfortunate that the board expects the chairman to do

Seniors Plan Harkness Visit

ANNE EMT

Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Young at Hearts Club will visit Harkness Memorial Park in Waterford on Wednesday. The club invites anyone who would like to join them to attend and to meet at the Andover Congregational Church at 10 a.m. A box lunch and lawn chairs should be brought along.

Through the efforts of the club, the Andover area care for residents 65 years of age or older are now available at the Town Office Building at no cost.

This card entitles the bearer to discounts in some of the stores and anywhere in Manchester where senior citizen cards are honored by the merchants.

If a resident is unable to get into the Town Office Building to pick up a card, arrangements can be made to mail out the cards.

Today's Thought

FIRST PHASE
Why bother? Ahern concluded by pledging to cooperate fully with the new chairman.

The board will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall with the election of officers included in the agenda.

Bus Drivers
The Bolton Board of Education has tentatively approved the list of bus drivers submitted by Eastern Bus Lines, Inc. pending receipt of physicals which are scheduled this week.

Mortimer Harlow, will again be supervisor dispatcher, having complete charge of the buses and runs. Twelve out of 17 drivers have returned from last year.

The bus runs, which will be published at a later date, are basically the same as last year.

Registration
The offices of both the Elementary and Center School will be open for registration of new students Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Principal John Eagles said it is essential to register children at these times in order to ensure adequate placement.

Area Police Cruiser Hits Ocean Reef

VERNON

Delmore N. Williams, 21, of 79 Brooklyn St., Rockville, was charged Sunday afternoon with first-degree assault and interfering with a police officer in connection with an incident at his home.

Police said that Williams assaulted an unidentified male with a hammer. The victim was taken to Rockville General Hospital where he was given emergency treatment and later was released.

Williams is being held in lieu of a $1,000 surety bond and was to be presented in court today in Manchester.

Board

The Regional District 8 Board of Education is faced with a long agenda for its monthly meeting this evening at 7:30 at Rham High School.

Among the items on the agenda are presentation of revised high school administrative organization, the hot lunch program, student activity funds, a review of summer maintenance, preliminary summer school reports, a special education report from the Connecticut State Department of Education.

Also, student dropout data, the appointment and election of board committees and representatives, consideration of policy on teacher evaluation, approval of substitute policy and establishment of rates for payment, student representatives to the board, and financial and non-instructional appointments.

Andover

Cheryl A. Pruscha, 21, of Mile Hill Rd., Rockville, was charged Sunday afternoon with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and interfering with a police officer.

Police said that the arrest was made on Rt. 30.

She was released on her written promise to appear in court on Sept. 18.

Raymond Radatz, 27, of Sleeping Giants Apartments, Vernon, was charged Sunday with disorderly conduct.

He was released on a $50 non-surety bond for court Sept. 18.

Tolland Fifth Grade 'On Display'

The fifth grade class will be "on display" this year as the first class going into the Middle School from the Individually Guided Education (IGE) program at Hicks.

Vene Harding, Middle School principal, says the first job is to find out "exactly where the student is at, start from this point and move forward. We know they're going to be different than any fifth grade previously. They're used to moving around and having more than one teacher."

The fifth grade will be following up with the IGE setting. However, Harding pointed out that the IGE program at Hicks' last year concentrated mainly on word-attack and reading skills, only one facet of the curriculum. Hicks used the organization of IGE and carried it over to other subjects, such as social studies.

There is a certain termination point of the IGE language arts, which some students have reached, according to Harding. Those who have not will continue until the level has been reached. Others will go on to the study skills aspect of the program.

Harding says there will be the same type of grouping, with approximately a two-week block of time on each skill. The Middle School will have "clusters," three-member teaching teams instead of the familiar "unit" structure at Hicks. The staged clusters will be used for all subjects.

"Differentiated Staffing" will be another familiar approach under a different title, worked out by the teams of teachers, where each will teach a subject, but with different approaches. A number of programs will be explored to see how the teams best work out.

The sixth grade will experiment with team teaching also this year, with two teams of three teachers each. One group of three teachers will not be in a formal group.

Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, school superintendent, said that although the incoming fifth grade will be the first moving up from the IGE program, it is next year's fifth grade that, after two full years of IGE, will really be the model class. Hicks IGE program will expand this year to include study skills and expanding math.

The IGE program last year concentrated on reading and, to follow through, there will be two or three part-time reading teachers for fifth and sixth grades.

Of the nine fifth grade teachers this year, five will be new to Tolland and three will be first year teachers. Last year all of the fifth grade teachers spent some time at Hicks to observe the IGE in operation, according to Hicks principal, Andrew Wisnawski.

The Middle School addition is reported to be on schedule and Harding was relieved to see a shipment of steel arrive Aug. 17. It was the late delivery of steel that held up the building of the original Middle School three years ago. The new classrooms will not be ready for school opening, and possibly not until January, but the crowding can be more easily withstood with the knowledge that it is temporary.

Two conveniences enjoyed by the school staff for the past three years will no longer be used. The state Board of Health will not allow the use of the garbage grinder or the paper pulper, saying they added to the school's septic problems. Harding said the paper pulper had only been used on a limited basis, due to an apparent malfunction, and that additional waste added by the discontinued use of both items will be carried to the dump by the dumpster.

Their heads are bursting with questions

The Columbia is bursting with answers.

Start their college education now with the encyclopedia created right on a college campus.

It's the most important gift you can give your children today. In this complicated, competitive world, education is the only sure road to success. Yet statistics show that only 7 of every 10 grade schoolers will finish high school. Only 2 finish college.

Will your child be one of those?

Yes, if you take positive steps. If you instill the right habits, provide the right tools. A first-rate encyclopedia right in the home is one of the best possible tools. And the Illustrated Columbia Encyclopedia in 22 volumes is a first-rate encyclopedia.

The text of the Columbia was created right on a college campus. It was compiled by over 200 experts and published by special arrangements with the Columbia University Press. It has been acclaimed by educational leaders everywhere.

More than 75,000 accurate, lively articles cover everything your children will need to know for school assignments, from the elementary level right through high school and college. And the articles are highlighted by over 7000 illustrations, more than 1000 in full color.

But the Columbia does more than just cover academic needs. It deals with the pressing problems of the day—from narcotics addiction to the place of marriage in society.

It answers tough questions with real facts. An informed child is more likely to ward off trouble than an uninformed child. An educated person is more likely to succeed. Give your children their chance at success. Start building your set of the Illustrated Columbia Encyclopedia today.

Insurance Chief Says Department Not Well Known By Public

By GARY LUHR
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut's retiring insurance commissioner says the department he is leaving is better staffed than when he took it over, but remains too invisible to the public.

PAUL B. ALTERMATT

Paul B. Altermatt told the Associated Press he hopes to leave state service Sept. 1, 1973. He said he would like to see a greater public turnout at rate hearings and wished the hearings would receive greater press coverage. Altermatt credited the department for helping Connecticut make a smooth transition to no-fault auto insurance last January.

"Certainly no-fault is the thing that's been most in the public eye. Whether that's the greatest accomplishment of the department during the time I've been here remains to be seen."

He said preliminary results have been slow coming in. He arrived, and after two years he reported needed information more promptly.

"Preliminary indications are that the number of personal injury claims are down dramatically, while the total number of claims are up dramatically," he said.

The department has improved its methods of keeping tabs on companies to make sure they stay financially solvent, he said. He called this the "most dramatic" improvement.

"Our rating division is much stronger. We now have a properly-casualty actuary, which we didn't have when I arrived. And after two years we finally got a lawyer in the department," he said.

The outgoing commissioner said he would like to make the department more accessible to the public.

"We had a number of activities that are consumer oriented but we've barely scratched the surface," he said.

Under Altermatt's direction, the department published this year a consumer's guide comparing automobile insurance rates in Connecticut.

Altermatt said the department was one of the first to institute toll-free telephone lines for people to use when they had a question or a problem. The lines are being phased out now that the state has a central information line.

"We have a consumer divison that receives 4,000 to 5,000 complaints a year. I'd like to expand it," he said.

"I'd like to have consumer representatives in other cities in the state even if only one day a week," he added.

Altermatt said his department has had some success with public forums where citizen opinion is sought on various topics. But he said he'd like to see a greater public turnout at rate hearings and wished the hearings would receive greater press coverage.

If ever there was a time to see the difference our own Marlboro plant and our "Quality-Protected" Beef makes — you ought to walk into a Stop & Shop store today. Since we don't have to depend on other processors for our beef, our supply wasn't cut off by the shut-downs you've heard about. Our buyers went to the cattle ranches and feed lots and bought live steers... had them custom slaughtered and shipped to our plant where we do the processing. So we've been able to provide our customers with plenty of beef throughout the current crisis. True, we may not always have every cut... but we will have a good selection. We do have beef at Stop & Shop right now. Even so, we're asking our customers to buy only enough to meet their immediate needs... so we will be able to share our beef supply with more families.

NEW YORK (AP) — The record rise of interest rates this year has presented investors with a new and complex set of financial decisions.

Effective yields of 8, 9 and 10 per cent and sometimes higher dangle seductively these days before practically everybody with money in the stock market, or even the standard 5 1/2 per cent savings account. But the investor has to answer some fundamental questions for himself before making a choice.

Vernon Development Plan In Second Phase

A program aimed at fostering sound economic growth in the area will move into its second phase which will be for Barbara Boster, assistant director of the Eastern Connecticut Development Council (ECDC) to visit as many industries as possible in Tolland County.

The Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce is working with Mrs. Boster who in the first phase introduced the program and requested the cooperation of town officials and public and private agencies toward the goal of sound economic growth for the towns.

Mrs. Boster said the ECDC can provide information about financing programs for expansion and relocation in the area, occupational safety and health information, Department of Environmental Protection requirements, employee training and many others.

The Chamber is working with Mrs. Boster in developing information on industrial sites in the three-town area it serves, Vernon, Tolland and Ellington. She termed the area the most vibrant economically in the region which she serves.

Following a meeting of the chamber's Economic Development Committee, chairman of the committee, Leon Churches, said there is no doubt in his mind that more can be done in the three-town area to attract, maintain and expand industry. He expressed pleasure in the assistance his committee is getting from Mrs. Boster's agency.

Vernon Carruthers Proposal Gets EDC Approval

A proposal made by Sen. Thomas Carruthers of Vernon, for a recreation facility in Vernon's Industrial Park, has been approved by the Economic Development Commission with the comment that the price of the land should be higher than offered by Carruthers.

Carruthers offered $2,000 an acre for the 10-acre plot but the EDC suggested $3,000 to $3,500. The price and also that the site development work be done by the developer rather than the town, as Carruthers asked.

Because there was a delay in receiving an answer from the development commission, Carruthers has indicated he has looked into land in another town to build the proposed facility which would include an indoor ice facility.

He said he has looked at one in Manchester and a site in Ellington as he would like to get started on the project as soon as possible. He commented, however, that being a resident of Vernon he would prefer to see the facility go up in that town and on Vernon's tax list.

He commented he could not see paying the price suggested by the EDC, noting that the acreage in question is of little value for development.

The Town Council has the final say as to what price will be paid for the land and under what conditions the facility should be built.

Former Sen. Robert Hooley, presently a member of the Town Council, prior to Carruthers' offer, presented a proposal for a municipal ice facility. A committee, appointed by Mayor Frank McCoy, is presently studying the feasibility of this proposal.

Giulietti Race Winner

An East Catholic High School student, James Giulietti, 16, of Kelly Rd., Vernon, was winner of the second of the road races to be sponsored for three weeks by the Vernon Recreation Department.

Giulietti clocked 15:39 for the three-mile course besting last week's winner, Pat Brand, who clocked 16:00 flat this week.

Charles Dymally of Storrs came in third with a time of 18:15.

Also participating were seven women aged 18-24 with Ruth Veal of Manchester taking first place among the women with a time of 22:06. She was 35th among the total 55 contestants in the race.

Jim Taylor, 50, of Mansfield Center was the oldest of the contestants. He finished in 10th place and Mike Iannocci, 7, of Werner Dr., Vernon, was the youngest participant.

Dr. Douglas R. Dentley, a Tolland veterinarian, lead the master's division and placed 11th over-all.

The final of the three races will be made to the top performers in each division.

The Leo B. Flaherty Sr. Memorial Award will go to the top runner in the three races. The winner of this trophy must come from either Vernon, Tolland or Ellington.

The race starts and ends at Henry Park.

Tolland PZC Hearing Set Sept. 4

 Tel. 875-4704

The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing on Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall, on a zone change request from commercial to multiple family for a proposed apartment complex off Rhodes Rd.

Preliminary plans were presented to the PZC Aug. 6 by surveyor Everett Gardner, builder Armand Gagne, and architect Dan Wright.

The 92-unit apartment complex is proposed on 14 acres with an access road to be located next to the Rhodes Rd. firehouse.

PZC chairman Douglas Prior, citing state regulations, called for the developer to supply names and addresses of all landowners within 500 feet of the proposed complex. The landowners will be notified by mail of the upcoming hearing.

The complex, called "Quaker Hill Village," proposes 88 one-bedroom apartments and 28 two-bedrooms. The exterior plans call for dark stained wood in a colonial style, according to the architect. Parking plans would permit 110 outside, and 26 garage spaces.

Aside from fires of undetermined origin, it continued, defective wiring caused 493 fires last year, with 307 fires caused by careless smokers.

1971 Fires Summarized

HARTFORD (AP) — There were 2,000 more fires in Connecticut last year than in 1971 but last year's blazes took 12 fewer lives, the state fire marshal says.

Last year 5,932 fires were reported in the state's 189 towns and cities, compared to 3,866 the year before. Fifty-three people died in last year's fires.

Fairfield led the state in 1972 with 353 reported fires, down from 418 the previous year, the report revealed over the weekend.

Most fires of undetermined origin, it continued, defective wiring caused 493 fires last year, with 307 fires caused by careless smokers.

Vernon Cafeterias Will Be Open On First Day of School

The Town of Vernon schools will open on Sept. 6 on a full-day schedule and all cafeterias will be open but the opening hours of the schools will vary due to the scheduling of buses.

The high school will be on double sessions for the first time this year. Those attending the morning session which starts at 7:25 and ends at 11:50 a.m., will be transported to school by bus. However, when they return home at noon, the regular walking rules will be in effect.

For the afternoon session which starts at 12:35 and ends at 5 p.m., the reverse will be true. The walking rules will be in effect for those going to school at noon and all students will be transported home at night.

In general, the rules for walking follow those set up by the State Board of Education. Pupils in K-3 will walk if they live one mile, or less from the school. Grades 4-6, one and one-half miles and 9-12, two miles.

As in all rules there are exceptions and the board makes allowances for individual differences such as the health and physical powers of the pupil, the terrain to be traversed, environmental hazard, and the status pertaining to children eligible for special education services.

In addition to the regular bus runs to the high school, this year for the first time a shuttle bus route is being initiated. This service will enable the students to arrive at school earlier than the usual time in order to allow use of the library and to have time for other school activities.

The first shuttle in the morning will start at 11 a.m. and arrive at the high school at 11:50. It will make stops at Elmson and Talbotville Rds., Kelly Rd. and Vernon Circle, Kelly Hill Rd. and Main St., Talbotville, Rockville, Patrick J. Harriman, Columbia, Bruno Fontana, Stafford Springs, Paul S. Eldredge, Colchester.

South Windsor High School Registration

South Windsor High School will be open this week for the registration of new or transferring students.

High School Principal William A. Spohn said much effort is going into constructing a master schedule to meet the needs of all students and to fulfill a growing curriculum.

The guidance office is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., each day, and will arrange to have a schedule for new students, by opening day on Sept. 6.

Presently enrolled students were already scheduled during the past school year. Should a pupil have altered schooling or vocational plans over the summer, he or she must make changes of schedule during this week. All four guidance counselors will be in their offices for this purpose.

Spohn said no schedule change will be made after Aug. 31 if the original course requests have been scheduled.

The principal also said the high school is in need of women who can volunteer again this year to give their time helping the attendance office.

Two women are needed each day for five hours a day, although other hours could be arranged. Anyone interested should call Mrs. Virkler at the high school, 644-1696.

About Town

The Manchester WATES will meet Tuesday evening at the Italian-American Club. Weighing in will be from 7 to 8. Mrs. William Muldoon will be in charge of a games program and members are reminded to bring fresh fruits and vegetables. Members with initials R-2 are requested to bring fruit for the basket.

Stonington Shops Continue To Stay Open

STONINGTON (AP) — Four shop owners arrested last week for allegedly violating Connecticut's Sunday closing law, on Blue Law, were open for business as usual Sunday.

All four were contacted by a reporter and confirmed they were doing business as usual. No arrests were made, police said.

Local police refused to arrest the four last week until Circuit Court Prosecutor Harold Dean obtained warrants.
