

Mary Rowe Recruits MIT Women

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — If more women graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, more women would hold influential positions in business, government and education in the United States, according to Mary Potter Rowe, special assistant for women and work at MIT.

A large proportion of MIT graduates have gone on to fill pretty powerful positions — especially in government," Dr. Rowe said in an interview. Part of her job is to recruit female students for MIT and to see that women are treated equally with their male counterparts once they get there.

Dr. Rowe reasons that with a higher percentage of female MIT graduates, there would be a correspondingly higher percentage of women making important decisions on the country's educational, governmental and economic policies. Women currently account for about 10 per cent of MIT's total 7,700 student population.

Dr. Rowe's job was created about six months ago. She reports directly to MIT president Jerome Weisner and Chancellor Paul Gray. She serves as a counselor to both students and faculty, as an adviser to the administration and as an "ombudsman" to all.

The major problem for women at MIT as well as in society is "invisibility," Dr. Rowe said. "You're the only woman in the classroom, but somehow your question is never heard or the answer you gave is attributed to the male student who sits behind you," she said. "It's as if women weren't even there."

As a partial move to combat this invisibility, the halls of MIT's administration building are lined with posters saluting women.

Women bartenders? Do women have a constitutional right to be bartenders? Until the last few years, courts have steadfastly said no. Laws against women bartenders, once challenged as discriminatory, were upheld on two main grounds:

1) that their presence would encourage immorality in a place "where the worst passions are aroused"; and
2) that they could not keep the peace as effectively as men bartenders.

But in several recent cases, courts have taken a fresh look at the question and come up with the opposite answer. Immorality is no more encouraged, said one court, by a woman behind the bar than by waitresses out front serving cocktails.

As for keeping the peace, another court had this comment: "The saloon days of the Wild West are long gone. Nowadays the typical bar does not provide a setting for violence and danger, if in fact it ever did."

For good measure, the court added: "Women are as capable of mixing drinks as men."

Less innocuous activities, however, may still be subject to restraint. Another case involved a city ordinance forbidding the use of "9 girls" — women wearing the management to solicit drinks from male customers. A tavern owner claimed that his women employees were being deprived of their freedom of speech and assembly.

"Their freedom of speech," he reasoned, "includes the right to talk to customers and their freedom of assembly, includes the right to mingle with customers." But a court said the rights of speech and assembly, while guaranteed in general by the Constitution, may be limited in specific situations for specific reasons. Noting the city's power to encourage drinking, the court said: "If the regulation curtails freedom in some slight degree, the limitation is not unconstitutional. These rights are not absolute."

But the problems, as well as the solutions, are not directed solely toward women, Dr. Rowe maintains. The door of her office is posted with overlapping male and female signs with a peace symbol in the center. The password is "androgyny" — to signify that men and women should be psychologically both male and female.

Society has made it difficult for people to be androgynous, Dr. Rowe said. "It means permitting men to cry, to join the nurturant professions, to care for children and colleagues. It means permitting women to be assertive and financially independent and giving them wide career options," she said.

"Already," she said, "the child care arrangements for at least one fifth of all working mothers are the fathers of the children." Encouraging and supporting female students at MIT will place women in traditionally male fields like science and engineering and will give male students the opportunity to study in an atmosphere more closely resembling society. It will permit both male and female students for the androgynous world, she said.

Buildings Razed In Quake Area

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Demolition crews were leveling thousands of unsafe buildings today as other workers searched for more bodies in the ruins left by the earthquake Tuesday in southeast Mexico. Nearly 500 bodies had been recovered, and officials predicted the death toll might reach 1,000 in the 300-square-mile area of Puebla and Veracruz states.

President Luis Echeverria toured part of the area by bus Wednesday and ordered the demolition of some 10,000 buildings still standing but considered unsafe in more than 50 towns. The president spent hours listening to the survivors of the worst quake in Mexican history. Alfonso Tabara, director of the government's Housing Development Institute, said the demolition would take two to three weeks and prefabricated houses would be provided within 15 days for the homeless. A Red Cross spokesman said in Ciudad Serdan, one of the towns that suffered most, 50 per cent of the 22,000 inhabitants were homeless and had gone to relatives in other towns.

Cars Recalled
WASHINGTON (AP) — Volkswagen of America has agreed to recall an estimated 112,000 of its Karmann Ghias to correct possible gasoline or gasoline vapor leaks into the passenger compartment. The recall involves all Karmann Ghias manufactured from August 1967 through April 1972. Letters are to be mailed to owners warning of the potential fire hazard.

UAW Talks On Detroit
DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and the Chrysler Corp. discussed non-economic matters today as they continue talks on a new pact to replace the contract expiring Sept. 14. The union said its membership at Chrysler had voted nearly 92 per cent in favor of strike action if a new agreement is not signed by that date.

Check On Skylab
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space Agency officials are to determine today whether the three Skylab 2 astronauts are medically fit to continue their scheduled 55-day mission aboard the orbiting laboratory. A decision on whether the flight, now in its 34th day, should be continued is made routinely each week. Space officials say the astronauts are in excellent health and respect the expectations of Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma who remain in orbit.

Refusals Comment
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Watergate committee counsel Sam Dash has refused to confirm or deny the committee has issued a subpoena for Las Vegas Sun publisher H. M. "Hank" Greenspan, ordering him to bring records of telephone calls, tape recordings and other material with him for an appearance before the committee. Greenspan said he was subpoenaed, but would not take newspaper records to Washington.

Labor Revamp
WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO plans a major restructuring. One of its byproducts could be prevention of another instance of local affiliates backing a presidential candidate while the national federation remains neutral. Such a revolt occurred in 1972 when some local affiliates backed Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., for the presidency while the national federation withheld any endorsement.

Nixon Plans Appeal Of Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vowed to resist a historic court order commanding him to deliver secret Watergate tape recordings for a judge's private inspection. Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon Thursday to produce the tapes demanded by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, but temporarily withheld the effect to allow time for an appeal. Nixon refused to obey the order. The White House, in a statement from San Clemente, Calif., said without elaboration that the President's lawyers "are now considering the possibility of obtaining an appellate review or how otherwise to sustain the President's position."

The order and a companion 23-page opinion fueled the President's clash with the courts and the Senate Watergate committee over access to the tapes of his conversations with key advisers implicated in the Watergate scandal. The dispute has been carried further than any similar confrontation over presidential power in U.S. history. On a key point, Sirica squarely disputed Nixon and ruled that the President's authority to withhold the tapes has ultimate authority to determine whether material sought in a criminal investigation is protected by executive privilege. Nixon has claimed that a president's confidential records are privileged from disclosure. The existence of the tapes became known last month when a former White House aide told the Senate committee that Nixon routinely recorded his Oval Office conversations. Cox, acting on behalf of the Watergate grand jury, then subpoenaed tapes of eight meetings Nixon and advisers at the time, John W. Dean III, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

The committee was elected at a party congress Aug. 24-28. The list does not identify the ranks and titles of the members. The order of names in the list follows the number of strokes required in writing the family names of the members. The party chairman, whose family name, Mao, takes four strokes, heads the list followed by Wang Hung-wen, a former Shanghai textile worker and vice chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Revolutionary Committee. Other members of the political bureau include Premier Chou Enlai, whose name appears 18th following Mao's wife Chiang Ching, veteran Communist Chu Teh, vice premier Li Teh-sheng and others.

Heat Puts Drain On Power Supply

Hot and muggy air continued to blanket much of the Eastern Seaboard and Midwest today as power companies cope with heavy demands for electricity. Some 200,000 New Yorkers were left without power Wednesday night after several feeder cables burned out. The blackout affected an area of Queens including LaGuardia Airport, where passenger terminals were darkened but emergency power kept runways lit.

While the New York State Power Pool for a second day resorted to a 5 per cent voltage reduction, the Tennessee Valley Authority reported it was relaying to New York power generated by private utilities in Texas and the Southeast. Temperatures reached 95 Wednesday in New York City, 94 in Chicago and 98 in Washington. The National Weather Service warned that air pollution in the capital metropolitan area was at record high levels.

Egypt, Libya Move to Merge

CAIRO (AP) — Arab unity advanced another small step Wednesday night with the announcement that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Libyan strongman Muammar Khadafi had agreed on the procedure by which their two countries would merge. The agreement was a victory for Sadat, who had insisted on a cautious, one-step-at-a-time approach to unification instead of completion of the merger by Sept. 1, as Khadafi wanted. The two leaders agreed that the first step would be the creation on Saturday of a 100-member constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the still unnamed new state. The assembly will include 50 members of Egypt's Parliament and 50 members of the Libyan Popular Revolutionary Committee.

Humid with hazy sunshine Friday, highs 95 to 100 north, 90 to 95 south. Humid tonight, low in the 70s. Precipitation probability 10 per cent tonight and Friday. Winds west to northwest 10 to 15 m.p.h. during the afternoon hours, variable under 10 m.p.h. at other times. Outlook for Saturday: Continued hot and humid.

members of Egypt's Parliament and 50 members of the Libyan Popular Revolutionary Committee. After the constitution is completed, it will be submitted to the people of both countries at a referendum. But no timetable was specified for completion of the constitution or proclamation of the union. The agreement specified that Sadat and Khadafi will remain in power in their respective countries until the merger is completed. The constituent assembly is to nominate a president for the new nation, and Khadafi has said he will

Police Find Booby Traps Set for Motorcyclists

Sgt. Joseph Brooks of the Manchester Police Department indicates to Robert Mantel of HELCO where the booby traps were found on the trail. The two men inspected the HELCO property Wednesday morning to determine whether the traps had, in fact, been set on land owned by HELCO. Mantel said that the traps were definitely on HELCO land. This is the second discovery of such "pungi sticks" this month. All traps were set on the HELCO powerlines, apparently to deter motorcyclists from using the land for "scrambling." (Herald photo by Knapp)

DAVID KNAPP (Herald Reporter)
Manchester Police said that they have recently, in two separate incidents, found booby traps planted on paths used by motorcyclists in the area of the Hartford Electric Light Co.'s powerlines, near Bush Hill. The booby traps, metal fence corner posts of angle iron, sharpened end above the ground in two points along the trail used by the motorcyclists. Police said that the maker of the "pungi sticks" would be charged with reckless endangerment if apprehended. Police said that if someone was killed or injured the charge would be increased to first-degree reckless endangerment or manslaughter. Sgt. Joseph Brooks of the Manchester Police Department, and a resident of the area, said that the motorcyclists whose average age is about 14, were a problem in the area due to the high level of noise made by their machines. Brooks said that most of the "bikes" had poor mufflers or none, and make a lot of noise in the usually quiet neighborhood. Most of the land on which the "bikers" as they are called, ride is owned by HELCO. Earlier this week police and Robert Mantel, a HELCO official, looked over the terrain where the booby traps were found. Mantel said that the stakes were "definitely" on HELCO property. The first of the traps were discovered by children in the area, who told their parents. The parents then notified police. Officer Ralph Nezas was called to the area on Aug. 7 to investigate the discovery of the first stakes. He described the traps that he found as being made of angle iron corner posts, freshly sharpened, and cut to lengths of about 10 inches. Brooks, who found three more such traps Monday in the same area on the trail, said that they apparently were made from the same type of material. In both cases the traps were concealed in narrow portions of the trail, where the motorcyclist would probably be watching the obstacles on either side of him and not the ground. The traps were apparently planted in a series so that one would cause the motorcycle to fall. The second was positioned approximately where a motorcyclist, traveling at about 20 m.p.h. would hit the ground after impact with the first trap. Both Brooks and Nezas said that the traps were "definitely put there to cause harm."

signs are now. Mantel also said that there had been signs of the same type as the Kenney St. signs posted in the Glendale Rd. area, but they had apparently been torn down by vandals. Brooks referred to the persons in the area who complained to police and HELCO about the motorcyclists as a "vocal minority," and said that the majority of people in the area either used the property themselves for hiking, horseback riding or bicycling or had children who were among the group of motorcyclists using the paths. Many area persons said that they were "upset" by the "No Trespassing" posting of the land. Many children in the area are not allowed to ride their horses on HELCO land since it has been posted and they are unable to understand why they are being penalized for the actions of the motorcyclists. Some persons in the area said that the motorcyclists, while they did make a lot of noise, were very polite and considerate of other persons using the area. Mrs. Howard Gorman of 604 Bush Hill Rd., said that when horseback riders are on the trails, motorcyclists turn off their machines so as not to frighten the horses and move off the trail to allow them to pass. The fact remains, however, that the land has been designated a "no trespassing area" and that anyone there without the permission of the owner (HELCO) is subject to arrest on charges of third-degree criminal trespass.

These are the "booby traps" set on the HELCO powerlines off Glendale Rd. The "pungi sticks," made of angle iron fence posts, are sharpened to a razor's edge at the top and were planted in the path, with about two inches of the sharpened end above the surface. (Herald photo by Knapp)

N-Power's Saving In Coal Estimated
 Chicago - Experts estimate that without nuclear power plants the United States would have to burn 10 million tons of coal daily to meet electricity needs in the year 2000.

In contrast, three tons of uranium and plutonium, used in nuclear plants, would produce the same amount of energy. One pound of nuclear fuel contains the same energy as 75 tons of high-grade coal.

Flights Reduced

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Allegany Airlines says it will cut flight service from Tweed New Haven airport by 80 percent Oct. 1 as a temporary step until most of its major services to Bridgeport and Groton are consolidated here.

The airline will reduce its daily flights from five to two because current flights from Tweed New Haven average between 9 and 12 persons, the airline's public relations director, David Shipley, said Tuesday.

"In the interim, we have to reduce flights to keep our losses to a minimum," he said.

An Important Bill

While we are on this current mass transit kick, we would like to call attention to the impending vote, probably in mid-September, on the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1973 (HR6452) which would authorize $400 million annually for two years in grants to states and local public bodies to assist in financing the cost of operating mass transit systems.

Proponents of the bill feel it can achieve a variety of positive results, according to Joseph G. Minish, D-N.J., chairman of the Urban Mass Transit Subcommittee.

Among those he cites include: Stabilized or reduced fares, less tax burden on local taxpayers, and expanded service.

"In fact," he says, "it was the finding of the committee that if the goal of substantially increasing passengers is achieved, then transit revenues will go up, reducing the need for future increased federal operating subsidies."

He cited an Atlanta, Ga., example wherein a reduction of fare from 40 cents to 15 cents with a subsidy brought an 11 million passenger increase.

To be eligible under the proposed bill, the federal Department of Transportation would consider the number of passengers in the system, the population of the area served, and miles in the system. Payments would be based in part on the number of revenue passengers carried to stimulate responsible management since this would be re-evaluated annually.

But most important, we think, is the bill provision which requires the state or local body seeking federal assistance to have a comprehensive mass transportation improvement program designed to improve service and to place its operations on a sound business and financial basis.

Rep. Minish predicts an uphill battle to get the law on the books. It would seem that as far as Connecticut is concerned the proposal, in its present form, could be beneficial for improving rail commuter service in the southern part of the state into New York City and help the present state subsidized bus operations in the Hartford area.

Such assistance from the federal government, coupled with impending funds from the Highway Trust Fund in the future, could free state funds toward developing and establishing mass transit service in areas now lacking except in extremely embryonic forms.

Property coordinated and adequately funded, a three-level (federal, state and local) attack could be started to meet our mass transit needs. The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1973 appears to be worthy of passage in this context.

Tobacco Land Disappears

Another big chunk — 475 acres — of Connecticut's best tobacco growing land is going to disappear for real estate development. The Hartman Tobacco Co. has sold its Buckland Farms in Manchester to developers who have grandiose plans for the future.

The developers, MAP Associates of Manchester, have contracted to buy an additional 85 contiguous acres. In addition the state is obtaining some 113 acres in the immediate area for the reconstruction of the Wilbur Cross Highway and connecting roads. This means that 673 acres of tobacco land are slated for conversion to other uses. This year the number of acres cultivated for tobacco in Connecticut was about 7,500.

Manchester officials are happy and have indicated they will rush through necessary zoning changes. The land, redeveloped with stores, hotel, condominiums, library, church, village green, restaurants and food shops will bring in more municipal revenue than the present acreage assessments on the land.

The development will take time, perhaps as long as 15 years. Hartman will continue to grow shade tobacco for cigar wrappers until the bulldozers move in.

The state's decision to proceed with the improvement of the Wilbur Cross Highway, officially I-86, prompted the Hartman interests to sell and MAP to buy. The ramps to and from the interstate route will place the development within highway access of the populous Hartford area and convenient for tourists.

While old tobacco farms disappear, few new ones are replacing them. The Connecticut Valley has the reputation of growing the world's best shade tobacco. Progress has no respect for such reputations. — Meriden Morning Record

Advice from Mills

WASHINGTON — At a time when his own economic experts are worried sick about runaway inflation, President Nixon has received contrary advice from Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, a conservative business tax incentives to prevent a severe recession.

Mills, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, offered the advice in a secret meeting at the White House with the President a few weeks ago. The only other man in the room to hear Mills' private views was George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury and Mr. Nixon's economic czar.

Dangerous though the inflationary pressures are, Mills informed the President, he was beginning to feel that the recessionary dangers are worse than a possible sharp rise in unemployment.

Mills next recommended to Mr. Nixon his tentative scheme for a fast tax write-off to divert scarce materials into new plant and equipment, a means of both fighting inflation and cushioning a recession.

Although such a plan has been contemplated by Mills all summer (and was reported by us several weeks ago), this was the first time he had presented it to the President.

Mr. Nixon was non-committal, asking Shultz to look into it. In fact, no serious consideration has yet taken place at the Treasury. What's more, Mr. Nixon's advisers still believe that the inflation crisis is so severe that Mills would be better off looking into a tax increase.

A footnote: Having finally taken his doctors' advice for a complete rest, Mills is now in excellent physical condition. The aching back which led Mills to announce last month that he might resign from Congress is causing him no trouble today.

Bush vs. Richardson
Although a Republican national chairman George Bush is publicly saying nothing, his deep concern is revealed by the fact that he has on his desk a copy of the complete text of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson's Aug. 8 speech promising to take the Justice Department out of politics.

Moreover, Bush's worry mirrors the concern of other top party leaders — and at least one of President Nixon's senior aides — that, in taking his department out of politics, Richardson may be closing political doors the party needs opened.

Bush tells intimates he is in full accord with Richardson's determination to eliminate the disastrous political overlap with law enforcement procedures that have resulted in indictments of two former Nixon cabinet members.

At the same time, some of the gossip you hear from fairly high officials in Nixon's own administration is getting nasty. They're whispering with a carefully sanctimonious air that Nixon has had to resort to tranquilizers and sleeping pills because he's been so upset with the life as No. 1. It's no going to a reporter should print such gossip when everybody in Washington is talking about it.

In fact, the talk was the prevalent low before Nixon's break-up at Press Secretary Ron Ziegler in New Orleans. Apparently annoyed by the crash of reporters as he was entering

Kissinger As Secretary

For over four years Henry Kissinger has held power without office. When he is confirmed by the Senate — which is likely, though only after lively questioning — he will have power and office together. Next year will thus offer an interesting laboratory experiment in reputations.

It isn't clear whether the mystique surrounding Kissinger has been due to the aura of secrecy around him and his behind-the-scenes role, or whether it comes from something intrinsic in the man himself. If it is the latter, the mystique will remain. If it is the former, we are in for a painful process of the demystifying of Henry Kissinger — painful to him, delightful to some who have seen ginning for him and who will find him more intolerable as secretary of state than as the Scarlet Pimpernel of diplomacy.

The theater of history continues to be more dramatic than the fictional imagination. Suppose someone had imagined during the 1968 campaign that Mr. Nixon would make a foreign-born German, who was a Jew and an intellectual as well, the architect of his foreign policy.

Suppose our dream-spinner had added that the same President — re-elected, caught in a miasmic political scandal, facing the toughest ordeal of his life — would make this man secretary of state, would add to his duties and powers the ones he already possessed and would thereby be strengthening his own hold on the Presidency and his own command of its powers.

We would scoff, wouldn't we, at this crazy dream-trip, and tell the fool to get back to reality. In the hard daylight of history, reality said that there had never been a foreign-born secretary of state, never been a Jew in that office, and while the first secretary of state — Thomas Jefferson — had been the most brilliant intellectual in American political history, Americans had come to distrust intellectuals in high office.

Asked about such matters at his press conference, Kissinger said, "There is no other country in the world where a man of my background could be considered" for secretary of state. The whole sentence was a bit portentous, and if you felt caustic about the man and his country at this moment you could, I suppose, ridicule him for sounding the "only in America" theme.

It was a moving occasion for him, and the incredible theater of history has made it moving and meaningful for others, myself among them. There are no exact precedents to measure this event by, though one recalls the nomination, by Woodrow Wilson, almost 60 years ago of the Populist Boston lawyer called Louis Brandeis to be a Supreme Court justice and the storm that swirled around it in the Senate hearings. And 34 years ago one recalls a lesser but similar storm over Franklin Roosevelt's nomination of Felix Frankfurter to the same court.

In both cases the nominee was a liberal, a Jew, an intellectual, associated with Harvard — and in Frankfurter's case foreign-born. The nominations were in the end confirmed, but not without a storm. There is no storm over Kissinger now. It took some daring in 1968 for Mr. Nixon to make him his chief adviser on foreign policy, but the appointment as secretary of state, liberal, inevitable — and a stroke of political astuteness. This is now far the United States and its climate of equal-

Some Light Of Justice

To the editor:
I would like to comment and shed some light of justice on your article entitled "Grave Act." Thought I believe that Israel may have acted illegally in diverting an Arab passenger plane, I also believe that if one is to judge such an act, moral and honorable judge should also examine the psychological motivations behind it.

I differ with the editor when he states, "there is nothing that can be said in defense of this act." Is he so short in memory to recall that 6 million Jews perished in the German ovens because the world stood at the side lines and was indifferent. The Jews stood alone during this dreadful episode and were the worst in the history of mankind. The Palestinian terrorists have struck several times including the killing of over 30 people in Lod airport and at Munich, killing 11 of the best Israeli athletes which you appear to mention so casually.

Not once has the UN condemned these terrorist acts. With the 15 Arab states and their friends in the UN, how could they condemn acts which they supported? But yet when Israel does something that is condemned by all, again, the Jews stand alone in an indifferent world. How would a judge react in judging these two events: Arab and Israel? By joining in the condemnation of Israel at every act he would help to develop a rule of law and might encourage an even handedness the next time the Arabs attacked the Israelis. But if after repeated voting the court refused to condemn the Arabs for their terrorism and illegality, he should at some point refuse to participate in such a one sided process of injustice of condemnation.

This, I am afraid, is what has taken place in your judgment of this act and also at the UN. You must temper your judgment of this act with understanding and attempt to seek the real reasons and not the "specious" characteristics you attribute to the "Israel apologists."

If I may, I would like to analogize some situations that might make my argument clear.

When a man breaks a window and steals food and bread from a grocery store he is guilty of theft and should go to jail? No, a judge would find that if the food is for his starving family and he is saving their lives, he is not guilty.

If Mexico and Canada were condoning terrorist acts upon the citizens of the United States and no one stood up in the UN to condemn these acts, what would be our reaction? As our history books tell us we would have gone on the offensive and done the attacking. As you might recall we would chase cattle rustlers into Mexico, in order to retrieve what rightfully belonged to us. We went into Cambodia and Laos and bombed the hell out of these two countries which we constitutionally had no right to do.

So, a country that lives each day on the brink of disaster and attempts to capture the leaders of these gangsters in order to prevent any further acts of savage bloodshed, should be allowed a more reasonable justification than you allowed in your editorial. Instead your sentiment was absolute condemnation. George Habash was the man they wanted. Why? George Habash was the commander, not the leader of the organization responsible for the Lod massacre and more recently for the hijacking of Japan Airlines Boeing 747. If this man was captured the benefits would have been great.

Your argument that terrorist activities have been carried out by non-governmental groups and not a sovereign power of a nation, which Israel is, is actually very naive thinking. It has been reported by the New York Times, and admitted by Yemen, South Yemen, Iraq, Kuwait, that they give funds to the PFLP. By the mere fact that Arab funds support the terrorists and they are harbored by the Arab countries make them just as guilty as the crimes and just as guilty as those who fired the shots. So when you use the tag "non-governmental groups" this is merely window dressing and not political reality and the fact of the matter happens to be that covert aid is given and approval is given by the Arab governments themselves. The penalties meted out to terrorists are light. Only last week, three terrorists who were caught red handed in the Israeli, their battlefield in free. The same had happened in Greece, Germany and Austria. Why shouldn't they operate, when the chances of being killed, jailed or even imprisoned, are very small. Extraterritorial treaties with nations have been turned down flat. There is not one country in the world, not one, prepared to do this with Israel as reported by General Yavir, former Army Intelligence chief. Their reasons are political and the fight against terrorism rests only on the shoulders of the Israeli. Their battlefield is world wide and they must protect their people and property wherever they may be located.

Sure, the Guild of Air Pilots are concerned with their own safety and their passengers, but what have they done to prevent terrorism? Have they brought pressure against the countries who don't prosecute hijackers? Why is it so ironic that just recently Israel and supporters of the state have taken offense at advertisements of American Oil companies which they deemed conciliatory towards the Arab states and an attempt to keep a free flow of oil to this country. Don't you realize that would have occurred with or without Israel's presence in the world. Again, let us not be so naive.

No, I don't believe the air attack is a bad piece of publicity in fact as reported by General Yavir: "The members of the Arab organization are expending their energies on trying to find the culprit who leaked information." We have thrown a spanner in the works and if the battle against terrorism is to be won we have to continue to throw spanners in the works. This tactic will perhaps save many lives and gain us time.

Your advice is ill given when you state that, "the best guidance to Israel may come from friends in this country who can see the situation in better perspective, perhaps than is the case in the Middle East." Friends in the U.S. will never have a better perspective because these values of the "Grave Act" will be "manikind's response to the Middle East dilemma." And I am firmly convinced that some one up there will be watching for that justice which is so imbedded in the Old Testament. As prophesied, "Nations will be judged." Michael Dworkin 256 Ludlow Rd. Firemen Join In Lake Area Drill

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 646-0375 Members of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department, (BVFD), recently participated in a mutual aid drill with volunteer firemen from Coventry.

The drill was held on the Rosedale Beach Association area of Bolton Lake to determine how fast a fire in the area could be attacked.

One thousand feet of four-inch diameter hose was laid out with water being pumped at the rate of 800 gallons a minute.

Bolton belongs to the south end of the Tolland County Mutual Aid System which also includes Andover and North and South Coventry.

Along with Bolton, Andover and South Coventry presently have the four-inch diameter hose. North Coventry expects to have it within the next two months.

orders must also be approved except for purchases made from petty cash funds. The policy states that while the board sessions will be open, members will reserve the right to regulate public presentations to keep meetings orderly and efficient.

Persons wishing to address the board must first be recognized by the chairman and must identify themselves and speak as briefly as possible.

In other policy changes, the school board said it will have the right to review and possibly veto any administrative rules if, in its judgment, they are not consistent with board policies.

When administrative action does not fall under any specific board policy, the board asks that it be informed of the action immediately.

Another policy will require administration personnel to make an inventory of stock, supply and equipment at least once a year.

Also, it will be necessary to fill out purchase orders when buying goods, services and equipment for the school.

Several firemen have discussed the situation with the selectmen and it was felt that new equipment could be used with work being done by the firemen.

They plan to request from the Board of Finance an appropriation for the purchase of the necessary pipe and gravel for the hydrants.

Mrs. Madeline Eriandson and Mrs. Dawn Wood will assist Mrs. Kelleher as teacher aides. The school also has teacher aides from Eastern Connecticut State College during the year.

Local school officials have adopted a salary scale range and family size criteria for use in determining which children are eligible for the program.

Those who are eligible to receive free meals will range from a gross yearly income of $2,565 for one in the family with the scale going up to $10,180 gross income and 12 in the family. The income is increased by about $800 for each child added.

Those who are eligible for reduced rate meals will be judged on a scale running from $3,280 with one in the family to $13,860 for 12 in the family. The income amount is increased by about $1,000 for each additional family member.

Families not meeting the criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical bills, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or any disaster, are eligible to apply.

Applications will be sent home with the children in a letter to parents and additional copies will be available at the principal's office at each school. The information on the applications will be kept confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted anytime during the year. In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such lunches for these children, they should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the board's policy, the principal of each school will review the applications and determine who is eligible. If the parent is dissatisfied with the ruling he may request a hearing by writing or calling, Dr. Robert Linstone, assistant superintendent of schools.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Eggplant is a vegetable which brings me many inquiries. Many cooks do not know what to do with it. Or, they say it has a bitter taste or that it "bles" the tongue. Again, it can be too mushy. Eggplant was introduced to the Americans by the Spaniards. They learned of it from the Moors at least in the 12th century and maybe earlier than that. Actually, eggplant had its origin in antiquity probably in India. The earliest written records are 5th century Chinese. The next oldest records are Arabic in the 9th, 10th and 12th centuries. I don't know what happened in the 11th. The vegetable takes its name from the shape as well as the size of its fruit. While we think of the eggplant as being a fairly good size, there are varieties small enough to be cooked whole. I have seen in Hawaii a long thin variety which is popular with Oriental people. In Japan, the eggplant ranks third or fourth in popularity among vegetables. Eggplant has long been a main dish here for many Mediterranean people. It is an excellent meat substitute. The first secret in cooking eggplant is to salt it while raw. Let's go through the steps for a good main dish which is an excellent meat substitute. Eggplant parmesiana is a complete meal. It can be served with a green salad if you like. It is made the same way as veal parmigiana. Take the raw eggplant and peel it using a sharp knife. You will have to cut off the stem and blossom ends first. Cut the eggplant in thin slices. Using absolute troweling, place each slice singly on the troweling. Do not place slices on top of each other. Sprinkle with salt and let sit a half to one hour. Before very long, you will see brown water emerging especially from those slices that have the most seeds. This process is going to eliminate the sharp taste one sometimes gets from eggplant. Blot the upper sides of the slices with more troweling or simply turn them over on the troweling unless it is too wet. Now, you are ready to begin. Always follow this procedure regardless of the recipe you are making. If you cut the eggplant into dice, for example, you will still salt. If you stuff the eggplant with meat or other mixture, salt the shells as well and blot before filling. Though I am not fond of it, the eggplant skin is quite edible. When stuffed, many people eat the skin too. Eggplant Parmigiana Slice raw eggplant and place on absorbing troweling. Salt. Let stand 1/2 to one hour. Blot brown water which emerges with more troweling. Dip eggplant slices in beaten egg, then in herbed bread crumbs. Fry until golden brown in an inch or two of peanut oil which is very hot, turning the slices once. (Hint: Don't stack the slices after breading. I use paper plates and have only one layer so the moisture doesn't get the breading soggy before cooking.) You can stop right here, salt the slices and eat them as is. They should be eaten right away. For the parmigiana, take an ovenproof dish. Place a thin layer of tomato sauce on bottom of dish. Place layer of drained cooked eggplant in dish. Cover with tomato sauce. Continue this procedure until all eggplant is used (3-4 layers of tomato sauce, a layer of mozzarella or American cheese, another layer of sauce. Optional: sprinkle all with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake at 400° until bubbly and cheese is melted. May be prepared in advance, refrigerated and baked later. If cold, allow for extra cooking time. If you have no tomato sauce, here's an easy one made with canned tomato sauce. Tomato Sauce for Parmigiana Recipes 1 tablespoon olive oil 1 clove garlic 1 cup or more canned tomato sauce salt and pepper to taste Brown garlic in oil. Add tomato sauce and seasonings. Simmer 10 minutes. For added flavor, add any of the following: bay leaf, rosemary, oregano, basil, parsley.

Try Fresh Beets For A Change

STORNS - Using vegetables more often in a variety of ways can help stretch your food dollar and beat the food monotony, according to Janina Czajkowski, Extension nutritionist at The University of Connecticut. Fresh beets are especially economical because you get two in one value when you use both the beet greens and the red roots. A half-cup serving of cooked beet greens can provide your day's quota of vitamin A. Miss Czajkowski adds, Cook beet greens like other greens in a small amount of boiling water until they are tender-crisp. Roxy red beets can be delicious and can add color to any meal. To keep this rich, red color, young beet roots should be cooked unpeeled with at least half an inch of the stem left on. You may want to add a little vinegar to the salted cooking water to brighten the color and step up the flavor. Cook beets in a covered saucepan in boiling water until they are tender. Plunge them immediately into cold water. This quick dip will make the skins slip off more easily. Slice and serve cooked beets with salt and pepper. Plan to cook several beets at one time to use for pickling, salads, cold plates and casseroles. Miss Czajkowski suggests the following main-dish recipes featuring fresh cooked beets: Beet Salad, as served in Finland, combines three cups cooked, diced beets, two cups cooked, diced carrots and one cup cooked, diced potatoes with one medium onion, diced. Arrange a row of diced beets, row of carrots, row of potatoes and a row of hard cooked egg slices on a large platter. Repeat rows until the dish is full. Serve cold with vinegar, or favorite salad dressing. Garnish with pieces of salted or pickled herring, sliced ham or tuna fish. Red Flannel Hash is a New England favorite that uses planned? overs that have been prepared ahead of time - cooked beets, cooked potatoes and meat. Combine three cups cooked potatoes, chopped and one cup cooked beets, chopped. Add one small chopped onion and one cup cooked, chopped corned beef, pot roast or beef or ground beef. Heat one tablespoon pork drippings or margarine in a large frying pan. Spread the vegetable-meat mixture over the bottom of the pan. Brown slowly on medium heat. When a crust forms, fold the mixture as for an omelet, or turn it and brown it on the other side. Do not stir the mixture as it cooks. Makes six servings.

Steam Car Still Needs Lot Of Work

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—A firm that has worked four years to develop a steam engine automobile says the model it has produced so far is heavy, bulky and burns a lot of gas.

Thermo Electric Corp. got its first Environmental Protection Agency grant in 1969 to develop a low-polluting steam car. So far, it has spent more than $2.5 million in federal money, as well as separate grants from the Ford Motor Co., a spokesman said.

"The system we have right now is heavier and larger than a regular internal combustion engine," said Edward Doyle, manager of the project. "Our advantage is that we can achieve lower emissions than the internal combustion engine."

"Its fuel consumption has tended to be high," Doyle said, "but the same as standard car engines with current pollution control equipment."

Doyle said the present engine model is being used in a laboratory, and a working automobile with a steam engine probably will not be ready until spring of 1975.

Much of the work so far has been spent developing a condenser and boiler small enough to fit under a car hood, Doyle said.

He added, "There's a lot of development work to do. There are all kinds of small problems that have to be worked out."

One of these was finding a fluid to drive the engine. Water, although efficient, was rejected because of its high freezing point, Doyle said.

Presently in use is a refrigeration liquid that is less efficient than water but freezes at 80 below zero.

Textured Protein Comes of Age

By Gaynor Maddox

Americans are flat up against a meat crisis. A possible beef shortage looms and high meat prices are stunning the housewife. In self-defense the homemaker must search for some new acceptable to the taste, nutritious and less costly protein alternatives.

Under these unusual pressures Americans are becoming aware of textured vegetable protein. Blended with fresh chopped beef (75 per cent beef, 25 per cent vegetable protein) the resulting product proves less costly, good to eat, and nutritionally is practically the same as beef. This product has been around several years but generally overlooked until now.

This vegetable protein is made by extracting oil from soybeans and also heating them. The protein is then extracted and concentrated. The protein is mixed with other ingredients such as vitamins, colors, seasonings and binders to produce a textured protein product.

Many companies are rapidly intensifying this processing of soybeans including Swift, General Mills, Rabson and Central Soya. About last March consumers interest in textured vegetable protein burst into full bloom. Today the demand for vegetable protein, mixed with chopped beef (not frozen) beef is often just a few jumps ahead of the supply. Sometimes it drops behind, so great is the demand. The various processors of the beans and processors of the texture products are striving not only to expand to meet the great demand but to adjust to an even greater future demand. Textured vegetable protein has entered our national food picture for keeps. It tastes good, is cheaper than meat and does not need refrigeration.

Dr. Ivy Celender, director of the nutrition service for General Mills, explains that textured vegetable protein contains as much protein as meat on a moist basis. In texture, taste and chewiness they

"Out of sight, Out of mind"

Don't forget your furnace and air conditioner filters just because you don't see them every day. If they're dirty, they waste fuel energy and money. Today that's doubly serious, because the cost of living is rising and because America's domestic energy supplies are falling far behind demand.

Change your filters at least once each heating season, against each cooling season if you have a central air system. And send today for a free copy of "A Consumer's Guide to Efficient Energy Use in the Home." It's packed with ideas that can save the nation's energy and your money.

Sub Rescue Planned CORK, Ireland (AP) - A rescue operation is under way for two men trapped in a minisubmarine 1,375 feet down on the floor of the Atlantic 150 miles off the southwest coast of Ireland. The two Britons, Roger Chapman, 28, and Roger Malison, 35, who were laying a communications cable, reportedly by radiotelephone they were "alive and well." Rescue workers said the two had enough air to last them until Saturday.

Fish Kill Probed The State Department of Environmental Protection has ordered an investigation into the discovery of several hundred dead fish in the north and northwest shore area of the Snipsie Lake Reservoir which serves Rockville residents and some sections of Vernon, Tolland, Ellington and South Windsor. James McQueen, who operates the modern treatment plant of the Rockville Water and Aqueduct Co., has assured customers that the water is all right for consumption. The fish found were mostly two- to four inch smelts. All of the dead fish are being buried to avoid an odor problem, water company officials said. Samples of the dead fish will be sent, along with a full report, to Theodore Hampton, deputy commissioner of the Department of Environmental Protection. Water company officials do not anticipate having to change the treatment procedures at the plant which was put into operation about three years ago to improve the quality of the water.

Nixon (Continued from Page One) called it "a great victory for the search for truth." Strick recognized the President's need for confidentiality in the formation of public policy, but disagreed with Nixon's claim "that it is the executive that finally determines whether its privilege is properly invoked." He stated: "For courts to abdicate this role to presidents or anyone else, to make each officer the judge of his own privilege, would destroy the integrity of our constitutional system and breed unbearable abuse." Strick added that he was not suggesting Nixon "could not be trusted as his own judge in matters of privilege," but he could not set a precedent "that might permit or encourage some future high executive officer to become a despot."

Egypt, Libya

(Continued from Page One) Sadat and the Egyptian people have long been cool to the idea of speedy union because of Khadafi's insistence in Libya on strict adherence to Islamic law. Nearly a fifth of Egypt's citizens are Christians of the Coptic sect and since 1962 Egypt officially has been a non-sectarian socialist state. Egypt is attracted to the merger, however, by Libya's rich oil reserves. Libya has only 2 million people to benefit from the oil wealth, while Egypt, with a population of 35 million, has long been mired down in poverty stemming from unchecked population growth, a massive armament program and a lack of natural resources.

Heat Puts Drain On Power Supply

(Continued from Page One) normal summer level. Policemen, firemen and Water Department employees worked to turn off opened hydrants. In New York, Consolidated Edison was forced by repeated failure of 27,000-volt feeder cables to cut power in Jackson Heights and parts of Corona, Woodside and Elmhurst. The blackout started at intersections and delayed subway service because trains had to be run with hand signals. Hospitals as well as the airport switched to emergency power supplies. In the Washington area, the air quality index reached a record 160 at Fairfax, Va., during the sixth day of an air pollution alert. Any figure above 100 is considered hazardous. Parts of O'Hare International Airport and an adjacent hotel in Chicago were blacked out because of a fire in an underground electrical vault. Flight operations at the airport were unaffected. Commonwealth Edison spokesman said the fire probably was caused by overstrained power cables.

SBM Will Start On Drive-In Now The Savings Bank of Manchester announces that, in light of the town's announced plans to improve Purnell Pl., it has decided to begin construction of the drive-in and walk-up facility on its Main Office immediately. The free-standing building will be located on Purnell Pl. adjacent to the bank's Main Office parking lot at the rear of the bank. The facility will offer drive-in and walk-up service with a sidewalk to the walk-up window clear of vehicular traffic. There will also be direct pedestrian access to Main St. The entire area will be landscaped and well-lighted. Everett J. Livezey, president of the bank, said, "Our new drive-up facility will fill a need we have long felt should be included in our services to our customers. The new drive-up facility further demonstrates our dedication to the redevelopment of Downtown Manchester. We know that many of our customers who normally use one of our branch offices will also value themselves of the new service. "We have decided to begin construction immediately in order to help further the Town's plans for improvements to Purnell Pl."

Adult Evening School Offering New Courses

Several new courses will be offered at the Vernon Adult Evening School which will start classes the week of Sept. 24 at Rockville High School. For the fifth consecutive year the adult department has received a grant from the state for use in a course in adult basic education.

New courses added to the general curriculum this semester will include career typing, minor homehold repairs, scuba diving, economics for the laymen, how to make Christmas decorations, growing foliage and flowering house plants and oriental cooking.

Other courses will be offered in the following areas: Typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, data processing, basic foreign (computers), business machines, welding, woodworking, painting, sculpture, drawing, ballroom dancing, decoupage, decorative painting, multi-crafts, contract bridge, sewing, tailoring, knitting, crewel embroidery, Spanish, French, German, cake decorating, needlepoint, crocheting, batik, golf and leathercrafts.

Residents of Vernon will be charged $2 per course and non-residents $3 per course. There are some exceptions to these fees and they are listed in the brochure on the adult evening school.

One of the exceptions is the high school review classes to prepare adults for the Connecticut State Equivalency Diploma. All books, materials and registration fees will be free of charge to residents and non-residents.

Vernon

Program Will Assist Handicapped Adults

A new program for mentally handicapped adults will be offered by the Vernon Department of Continuing Education this fall starting Sept. 24 at Rockville High School.

The program, specifically designed to enlarge social contacts and enhance job opportunities for the handicapped, will be free for all applicants, regardless of their town of residence.

The program will be under the direction of Anthony Magliocco, supervisor of special education for Vernon. He said it provides a necessary follow-through component for the various programs the town sponsors in the day program.

The adult program will be held in the evening. "By bringing these handicapped persons into contact with other adults it will help them become part of the mainstream of society," Magliocco said.

The instructor will be Thomas Martello, who is a graduate of Rockville High School and Southern Connecticut State College where he majored in special education.

Martello said the classroom phase of the program will include training in social and vocational skills, consumer education and health education. In addition to the instructional phase, some nights will be spent bowling, swimming or watching some spectator sport.

Anyone wishing further information should contact Magliocco at 643-4679 or Martello at 673-8471.

Coventry

Board Seeks Funds For Adult School

The Coventry Board of Education agreed Wednesday night to go before the Town Council and request funds for an adult education program and retrofitting of the Capt. Nathan Hale School driveway.

The board will seek $4,500 to extend the school drive to obtain access to Rt. 31. Currently, school buses and through traffic are routed to the back of the high school to Ripley Rd. This creates a traffic hazard as vehicles must pass an area heavily used by students for athletic activities, board members said.

If the horseshoe-shaped drive is constructed, the existing back drive would be closed. Acting chairman Joan Lewis suggested the board consider instituting an adult education program.

A similar program was sponsored by the board during the 1971-72 school year. At the time, its director reported on the program's success.

Staff members at the first grade level reported progress toward full implementation of Phase II-A of the sequential learning program. Dr. Hardy said the program is on schedule with K-12 System Y implementation anticipated by 1978.

To Fill Jobs ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) - State and union officials in Alaska say their own unemployed will be able to fill all the labor needs for construction of the $3.5 billion trans-Alaska oil pipeline, that out-of-staters won't have much of a chance. Although 18,000 jobs will become available when work starts on the 78-mile line, under state law Alaskan residents will be given preference in hiring.

"They feel that the language barrier may be a problem, and that appears to be the main reason why we're not getting as many as hoped for," he said. Of the men who applied, 139 are white, 108 are black and 25 are Hispanic. The women candidates include 13 whites, 33 blacks and 2 Spanish-Americans. Under city regulations the 200 New Haveners who applied will get first chance at the jobs.

New Haven Police Get 320 Candidates

NEW HAVEN (AP) - An effort to recruit more minority group members into the New Haven police department in two weeks has produced 320 candidates, 44 per cent of them black, 8 per cent Hispanic and the rest white, the department reports.

The group will be narrowed through testing and interviews to fill 30 openings after the drive ends Oct. 1. Deputy Chief Inspector Charlie Grady, who heads the recruitment program, said Tuesday he was disappointed with the small Spanish-speaking turnout.

"They feel that the language barrier may be a problem, and that appears to be the main reason why we're not getting as many as hoped for," he said. Of the men who applied, 139 are white, 108 are black and 25 are Hispanic. The women candidates include 13 whites, 33 blacks and 2 Spanish-Americans. Under city regulations the 200 New Haveners who applied will get first chance at the jobs.

Monks' Money-Saver Menus

NORTH EASTON, Mass. (AP) - If you're spending more at the market but still worried about getting balanced meals, take a tip from the monks.

"They've been eating better for less for centuries. Monks traditionally eat cheap, simple food, cooked by recipes that have been handed down over the years. And the monks are often known for their good health and longevity. Now, with food prices out of sight, monks are talking more about their health and longevity. "Monks in all most religious orders grow their own fruits and vegetables," said Brother Herman E. Zaccarelli, director of the Catholic Food Research Center.

"I would like to correct the impression most people have about monks," he said. "Contrary to popular opinion, we enjoy eating. With or without the price freeze, we like to eat."

Their recipes, developed over the centuries, "delight the stomach without emptying the purse," he said. "One of his favorites is called 'woodchuck' - a German concoction that dates back several hundred years. It contains peppers, mushrooms, cheese, pimientos and eggs-but no woodchuck. "Our Spanish-style tuna recipe goes back a few centuries, too," Brother Herman said. "It originated in Spain. It was given to me by a monk in Puerto Rico."

5 tablespoons flour 1/2 cup water 2 cans (4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms, with liquid 1 small jar pimientos, cut up Salt to taste

1/2 cup water 2 cans (4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms, with liquid 1 can (7 ounce) chunk-style tuna, drained and flaked Heat oil in a saucepan or large skillet. Add rice. Sauté until golden. Add onions, green pepper, salt, cayenne, garlic clove, tomatoes, tomato juice, water and undrained mushrooms. Cook, covered, over low heat 35-40 minutes or until rice is done, stirring occasionally. Add tuna. Cover and heat through. Serves 8.

SPANISH TUNA 1/2 cup oil 1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice 1 medium onion, sliced thin 1/3 cup chopped green pepper 1 teaspoon salt Dash of cayenne 1 clove garlic 1 can (No. 2) tomatoes

Bloop Single Robs Nolan Ryan of No-Hitter

Munson Spoiler As Yanks Lose

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who said baseball was a game of inches should have been at the California Angels-New York Yankees game Wednesday night. In the first inning, New York catcher Thurman Munson lofted a fly ball toward second base. Angels' second baseman Sandy Alomar and shortstop Rudy Meoli headed towards the ball, signalled that each was going to catch it, then let it drop to the Anaheim Stadium turf.

TIRELESS WILBUR WOOD, the Chicago White Sox left-handed knuckle ball virtuoso, continues to roll along, pitching usually with only two days' rest. Wood, who had a 24-17 record in pitching 377 innings in 1972, won his 20th game this year with more than two months left in the season.

The miscue, which was ruled a hit by the official scorer, was the only safety Angels fireballer Nolan Ryan surrendered on his way to a 5-0 victory. Ryan, who has thrown two no-hitters already this season, wasn't disturbed. But Meoli, who had made game-saving catches in both no-hitters, was upset. "I came within four inches of catching it," he said. "We both called for it at the same time. It should have been caught."

But Ryan had to "settle" for the third no-hitter of his career. In other American League games Wednesday night, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Texas Rangers 6-1; the Kansas City Royals edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Milwaukee Brewers bombed the Chicago White Sox 9-0; the Boston Red Sox topped the Oakland A's 4-1, and the Detroit Tigers clipped the Minnesota Twins 9-5.

Angels 5, Yankees 0

Ryan struck out 10, giving him a total of 314 for the year — 68 behind Sandy Koufax' major league record of 382 established in 1965. The win gave Ryan a 15-16 record. It was the 18th time this season he had fanned 10 or more, breaking the American League record Ryan had shared with Sam McDowell. Koufax owns the major league record with 21.

California scored an unearned run in the third inning and exploded for four more in the seventh to hand George Medich his eighth loss in 10 decisions and send the skidding Yankees to their eighth straight defeat.

Orioles 6, Rangers 1
California scored an unearned run in the third inning and exploded for four more in the seventh to hand George Medich his eighth loss in 10 decisions and send the skidding Yankees to their eighth straight defeat.

Tigers 9, Pirates 5
The Tigers scored an unusual pair of runs in the first inning when Aurelio Rodriguez struck out with runners on second and third. But Minnesota catcher Phil Roof let the ball get past him, allowing both runners to score.

Mets Vacate Cellar And Into NL Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets are out of the cellar and into the National League East pennant race. With a 3-0 victory over San Diego Wednesday night, the Mets climbed out of last place for the first time since June 28. And while breathing the heavy air of fifth place, the Mets charge into St. Louis, which is leading the division, but only by two games. The race, in fact, is so close that anything near a sweep by the Mets could put them right into serious contention, since they are now only 3 1/2 games out.

Did you know that in 1927 when Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs with the New York Yankees, this total represented nearly one-seventh of all homers hit in the entire American League during that season? Ruth's two best years as a pitcher, while wearing the uniform of the Boston Red Sox, were in 1916 and 1917 when he won 23 and 24 games respectively. The unsung hero in the summer Recreation Department program were the members of the maintenance crews which maintained the playing fields and night after night. Ernie Turek and his men rate a bow...Red Hadden, general chairman of the Five Mile Road Race Committee for the Tall Cedars, reports entry blanks will be ready next month. No decision has been reached as to whether to allow female runners to compete as registered entries. Lack of locker facilities and cramped space in the East Side Rec serves as race headquarters may help retain the popular Thanksgiving morning race on an official all-male only basis. Supreme Court Justice Byron (Whizzer) White took the National Football League in rushing and later became a Rhodes scholar...Enjoying a fishing and golfing vacation in Sebec Village, Maine, with Wally Fortin are Manchester High and Legion baseball players Ray Sullivan, Bob Odell, Bruce Peck and Paul Gilha. The New York Yankees have given veteran outfielder Johnny Callison his unconditional release...Claude Harmon, former Masters champion, will be the voice behind the Mike in live video coverage of the GHQ this weekend at Wethersfield. WTIC will have a crew of more than 50 Connecticut's premier golfing event...Johnny Bench, stand-out Cincinnati catcher, is part-Indian. The Redlegs appear ready to overtake Los Angeles in the National League West.

Players No Different
Actually, football players are no different today than they were 10 years ago. "Miami's Don Shula claims. 'They still want to win, they still want to excel. But they ask more questions than 10 years ago, especially, 'Why?' When I first started coaching you would put something up on the board and they'd sit back and accept it. Now they ask 'Why?' But I enjoy it. It's a good question for me because it makes me think; it makes me sell that much more."
"Of course," the Dolphin coach adds, "players' appearances are a little different than 10 years ago, but I've changed too. I've gone back to wearing cuffs."

Short Punts 'n Passes
Ex-Yale standout Calvin Hill, who has made it big as a running back with Dallas, feels he would have been an All-Pro tight end if injuries to Danny Reeves and Craig Baynham didn't give him a chance to carry the ball. "I always thought tight end was my natural position, and I believe I had the disposition to be a defensive player, a linebacker probably. It's difficult for me as a running back. I have to stay low and I'm a natural high runner. Even my size, 6-4 and 225, is too tall."...New York Giant defensive end Jack Gregory, works a 525-acre cattle ranch in Mississippi during the off-season...Washington boasts five potential 1,000-yard ball carriers in Larry Brown, Duane Thomas, Charley Harsaway, Moses Denson, and Herb Mul-Key...Matt Snell is averaging 4.6 yards per carry with the New York Jets in exhibition games to date...Julian Fagna, Jet punter, has averaged 33.1 yards for 16 boots this summer.

Wheeling and Dealing Reaches Fast and Furious Pace in Football

NEW YORK (AP)—The wheeling and dealing was fast and furious in the National Football League Wednesday as scouts scrambled to pare down their rosters and to strengthen weak spots before the start of the season. Leading the trading scramble once again was Joe Thomas, general manager of the Baltimore Colts and one of this season's biggest wheeler-dealers. Thomas made his 20th trade since Jan. 22, acquiring Ed Money from Detroit for an undisclosed draft choice. Money, who missed most of last season because of a shoulder injury, was obtained to strengthen the Colt linebacker corps, weakened when Ray May suffered stretched knee ligaments earlier this preseason. John North wasted little time in getting in the trading market. In his second day as New Orleans head coach, he traded away a veteran tackle, Dave Long, and a couple of undisclosed draft choices for Jeff White, a place kicker from Miami, and running back Henry Matthews from the Patriots.

The Los Angeles Rams lost a long-time stopper when middle linebacker Marlin McKeever announced his retirement after 12 years. The Rams also announced that rookie running back Steve Jones, fifth-round draft choice from Duke, was traded to St. Louis for a future draft choice. Meanwhile, the Patriots acquired quarterback Charlie Richards from Washington and running back Jerry List from Oakland, both for future draft choices, while the Minnesota Vikings got linebacker Keith Best from Kansas City for a draft choice. The Pittsburgh Steelers took steps to strength an injury-riddled offensive line by acquiring Glen Ray Hines from the Houston Oilers and two years with New Orleans before being acquired last winter by Oakland. Mike Siani took the advice of his attorney and returned to the Oakland training camp, after walking out after last Saturday's exhibition with Minnesota. The second-year

Wide receiver Paul Warfield and defensive end Bill Stanfill were listed as doubtful. Warfield is suffering from a strained neck and Stanfill entered a hospital with a stomach ailment. Wide receiver Howard Twilley was still out of practice with a sore toe, but was expected to see some action. The Dolphin coach said Bob Griese would start at quarterback with Larry Conka and either Jim Kick or Mercury Morris as running backs.

USC and UCLA Powers Again In West Coast College Football

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Southern California's sophomore sensation as juniors and UCLA's wishbone-T attack is a year older as these cross-town rivals appear the powers of college football in the Far West. Coach John McKay, who has had national championship teams at Southern Cal in five-year intervals—1963, 1967 and last season—says his 1973 Trojans can improve over the 12-0 squad because the youngsters on that team should be better than ever. They include juniors Richard Wood, All-American linebacker who helped the Trojan defense limit opponents to 134 points, at split end, plus senior Lynn Swann, flanker of whom McKay said last year: "Swann is to us what Johnny Rodgers is to Nebraska." The Trojans are favored to capture the Pacific-8 title and Rose Bowl again, but the "gutty little Bruins" of UCLA are definitely no longer little. They compare well with USC's 1970-size linemen, and the Wishbone-T offense Coach Pepper Rodgers installed at the end of the 1971 season has matured to seem almost unstoppable.

Coach Chester Caddas has the enviable job of choosing the race for third place in the Pac-8 is wide open, and in the PCAA San Jose State appears the foremost challenger to San Diego State and UOP. UCLA, with Kermit Johnson leading the Pac-8 in rushing, was second only to Oklahoma in rushing last year and could be much tougher to defend since James McAlister, big and quick, has been moved from halfback to fullback. The Trojans and Bruins pit a balanced offense against a running attack in the battle for Pac-8 supremacy, and a similar battle shapes up in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association between the University of the Pacific and San Diego State. The Tigers of UOP, 8-3 last year, rarely saw the football, challenging foes on the ground with the Houston Veer option offense. Mitchell True, who gained 1,064 yards for UOP last year, is gone but the Tigers have running talent in Willard Harrell and Mike Mangrum.

Archery Degrees Awarded Couple

Degrees as certified professional archery instructors have been given to Bob and Betty Wirtz of 61 Hickory Dr., Coventry, after completing a business and instructional school course of the Professional Archers' Assn. Bob Wirtz has been a competitive archer for 13 years and is also an accomplished bowhunter and bowfisherman. Betty Wirtz holds titles on both the amateur and pro level in state and New England archery competition. She was rated ninth nationally last year. The couple hold membership in the Pro Archers' Assn., National Field Archery Assn., Connecticut Archery Assn., and the new Connecticut Touring Archers.

Prestigious Hambletonian Flirth Trainer-Driver Surprised in Big Race
DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Even Canadian-born Ralph Baldwin, 67-year-old trainer and driver of Flirth, was somewhat surprised that the gelding won harness racing's most prestigious event for 3-year-old trotters—the Hambletonian. Flirth is royally bred—the son of the great sire, Florioan—but he was untested as a 2-year-old. "He developed problems in Florida right at the start of our training," said Baldwin, who explained that the colt had muscle trouble in his hind legs and was gelded. Arden Homestead Stable of Goshen, N.Y., the owner, never will be able to collect the stud fees that a Hambletonian champion usually can demand. Flirth, listed as a 6-1 shot, trotted in the betless race, wedded before a record crowd of 18,000 sweltering fans in 96 degree heat, won in straight heats of 1:38.2 and 1:57.1. The second mile was a world record for any aged trotting gelding, erasing the 1:57.1 competitive mark by Greyhound in 1968. In 1935, Greyhound was the first gelding to win the Hambletonian. Flirth became the second. Flirth had made only nine starts this season, winning four but a mere $17,825. His first prize of a record $14,710 purse was $72,355. The biggest disappointments were co-favorites Knightly Way, driven by John Simpson Jr., and Arnie Almahurst, reined by Gene Riegler. In both heats, Knightly Way was second at the start of the stretch, only one length behind the pace-setting Flirth. In the first heat Knightly faded to finish 11th in the field of 16. In the second he was sixth. Arnie, in the No. 1 post position, was held back about two lengths from the mobile starting gate by Riegler and got a smooth start. But midway on the backstretch, as he moved into fourth place, he broke stride and finished 16th. In the second heat, Arnie never was better than seventh and finished 10th. Second place money of $36,177 went to the filly Florida, driven by Canadian-born Joe O'Brien. Florida was recently bought for a reported $175,000 from Frank Ervin and George Alexander by R. D. Fossati of Italy.

Heat and Humidity Takes Toll On Gonzales in U.S. Tennis Open

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Defending champion Billie Jean King launches the women's segment of the U.S. Open tennis championships against Peggy Michel of Los Angeles today.

More of the oppressive heat and humidity that hung over the West Side Tennis Club Wednesday was expected, but the women will have somewhat of a break. Their matches are best-of-three sets affairs while the men's are best-of-five.

Pancho Gonzales, the 45-year-old sentimental favorite who lost in four sets and then said he was not planning to play in the main event next year, called the center court a furnace and said after one set he felt like he was carrying 10-pound weights on his feet.

Ilie Nastase of Romania, cofavored with Stan Smith, said he doubted he could have gone five sets. Arthur Ashe said the heat bothered him, but because of the "anthropological significance" of his black heritage he might be able to endure better than others, especially Europeans who "don't know which side is up" when it sweaters because sauna-like weather seldom touches their continent.

Gonzales, a specimen of physical fitness at 180 pounds, won the first set against Tom Okker 7-6 when he aces him for a 6-4 tiebreaker, but the younger Dutchman, seeded seventh, prevailed 6-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

All other seeded players who saw action also advanced. Nastase had an easy time with Humphrey Hose of Venezuela, a last-minute qualifier like Miss Michael. The Romanian, the epitome of decorum despite the heat, won 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Smith, of Sea Pines, S.C., had it even easier. In the first set, Patrick Proisy of France pulled a groin muscle and finally called it quits with Smith leading 6-4, 5-0.

Ashe, the No. 3 seed from Miami, was extended to four sets by Australia's Colin Dibley 7-6, 6-7, 7-5, 6-2.

Australians Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall, seeded fourth and fifth respectively, had easy times with their opponents. Laver breezed past Harold Solomon of Silver Springs, Md., 6-0, 6-2, 6-2 and Rosewall sailed to a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Graham Stilwell of Great Britain.

Groman's Girls Tourney-Bound

It was off to Chattanooga, Tenn., last night for Groman's girls' softball team which will seek the National Amateur Softball Assn. championship.

The group of 24, including 15 players, left last night at 5:30 by bus to New York and then a flying trip to Chattanooga.

The Nationals will be double elimination. The Connecticut champions will know their playing schedule until drawings Friday.

Although the fund drive fell short of the necessary $3,000, the girls did raise $2,100 to help defray expenses. The squad will be quartered at the Ramada Inn in Chattanooga.

Special thanks from sponsor John Groman and the girls are extended to the following: Carl Silver, who directed the benefit; Bob McCann, of Allied Printing, who supplied the tickets; Umpriss Dave Dooman, Bob Parizeau, Dave Turkington, Bob Kemp, Tom Conran; the players and coaches. The Herald and the following who contributed $25 or more: White Glass, Moriarty Brothers, Harry Baskind, Dairy Queen of Williamstown, West Side Old Timers, Wilson Bennett, Stanley Best, Andy Antiniano, Groman's Sport Shop, Connecticut ASA, Dawson Florist of Williamtown, Steve McAdam and George McCaughey.

Football Fun At Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — A 11-conover, Rice University's unpredictable head football coach, likes to keep his players and assistants guessing as well as the opposition. Discipline has been relaxed. There are no bed checks. The players can grow hair and chin whiskers down to their knees if they are able and so desire.

Rice players have just one rule — they must conduct themselves in a manner becoming a Rice football player at all times.

During a basketball game last winter, Conover didn't think one of his players was abiding by that rule in the stands and he turned bouncer and escorted the player out of the Rice gym.

Last year, his first season as the Owl's head man, Conover turned commensurate on the field, directed an opponent's

Famous Manager Of Fighters Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Yancey "Yank" Durham, manager of boxing champions, died this morning as the result of a stroke suffered Aug. 28. He was 52.

"He was in a coma since being stricken," said a hospital spokesman shortly after Durham died at 1:50 this morning.

Durham was manager of former heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster and middleweight contender Willie "The Worm" Monroe.

Frazier and Durham's family were present in the Temple University Hospital at the time of his death.

Durham started his training and managing of fighters in Police Athletic League gymnasiums. He worked for many years as a welder for the Pennsylvania Railroad, later the Penn-Central.

Durham started his rise to boxing fame the day in 1961 when a short, fat kid walked into a PAL gym and said he wanted to be a fighter. The fat kid was Joe Frazier.

Durham put Frazier on a weight reducing program, taught him the art of self defense and offensive boxing. Frazier went on to win the 1964 Olympic Games heavyweight title, turned pro under Durham's guidance and in 1970 won the world heavyweight title by defeating Jimmy Ellis.

In one of boxing's all-time spectacles, Frazier successfully defended his title against the unbeaten Muhammad Ali in 1971, after Ali settled his difference with the U.S. government and was reinstated as a fighter.

Frazier's success climaxed a quarter century in the boxing game for the fast-talking, flamboyant Durham, whose trademark was speaking of his fighters in the first person — "I'm gonna knock him out in six," or "He never hurt me."

Frazier lost his title last January in a big upset to George Foreman, and Durham was negotiating for a return fight at the time of his death.

Durham was hospitalized Aug. 28 with what hospital spokesmen described as a stroke of major proportions. He had complained of headaches two days earlier. Durham had been hospitalized two years ago with high blood pressure.

Durham was married and had four children, three sons and a daughter.

Accused Of Murder
Richard Green, 26, of Vernon leaves Circuit Court 12, East Hartford Thursday afternoon where he was arraigned on a charge of murder in connection with the deaths of his two young children. Vernon Man Accused Of Double Murder

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)
Richard Green, 26, of Vernon Garden Apts., Rt. 88, Vernon has been charged with murder in connection with the deaths of his three-month-old daughter, Rachel and 2½-year-old son Sean.
Vernon police said they received a call from Green shortly before 8 a.m., Thursday, saying he had been out walking the dog and came back to find the two children near death.
Officers Leo Poirier and James Hodges responded to the call. They said the babies were in separate bedrooms. They were administered oxygen and then taken, by ambulance, to Rockville General Hospital where they were pronounced dead-on-arrival.
Tolland County Medical Examiner Dr. Francis Burke gave the cause of death of Sean as asphyxiation. The exact cause of Rachel's death has not been determined pending further examination of tissues and vital organs.
Police said, however, there were no apparent signs of violence at the apartment.
Green, who has been employed part-time as a head waiter at the Country Square Restaurant in Ellington, graduated in June from the University of Hartford with a BS in business administration and also was taking evening courses at the university.
Mrs. Patricia Green, his wife, is a nurse at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford and reportedly was at work at the time of the tragedy. On his application for a public defender Green said he was separated from his wife. The details of this have not been revealed by police other than to verify the fact they were separated.
Green was arraigned in Circuit Court 12, East Hartford, yesterday afternoon and his case was assigned to Public Defender Terry Sullivan.
He was taken to the Connecticut Correctional Center, Hartford, where he was held without bond.
He was given a hearing before the bail commissioner in that court this morning. Bond was set at $20,000 and he was returned to jail. His case was continued to Tuesday in Tolland County Superior Court, Rockville.
Lt. Edwin Carlson an Sgt. Martin Kineman of the Special Services Unit of the Vernon Police Department are in charge of the investigation.
Private funeral services will be held for the two children with the Johnson-Kania Funeral Home, 105 Oak St., Windsor Locks in charge of arrangements. There will be no calling hours.
Besides their parents, they leave their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Crowley of Windsor Locks and their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Green of Manchester.

Aillon Verdict Awaited

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The tedious wait continued today in Superior Court for a verdict in the triple-murder trial of Guillermo Aillon as the jury deliberated for a fourth day.
The jury gave no indication of the reason for its lengthy discussions. The panel slipped out through a back door Thursday night after ending deliberations at 11 p.m.
At the end of the day Thursday, the 12 jurors had spent a total of 28 hours during which the truck was dispatched full of evidence linked to the August 1972 stabbing deaths of Aillon's wife and her parents.
While the jurors debated the case in secret, Aillon waited nervously in a small detention cell nearby.
About five dozen spectators, including members of the Montano and Aillon families, stayed into the night Thursday in hopes of hearing a verdict.
One woman not related to either family said she had given away two tickets for a performance in Wallingford by country singer Eddy Arnold to be at the courthouse.
The jurors remained in their room or in the adjoining courtroom throughout the day, eating light meals brought in by court personnel.

Nixon To Release Impounded Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, which has lost almost all its court fights over impoundment, is not contesting a federal district court suit seeking the release of $50 million in school funds.
Justice Department lawyers appeared at a hearing before Judge George L. Hart Jr. Thursday and promised that the money would be released.
Hart said that unless the government entered a stipulation to that effect by 10 a.m. next Tuesday, he would issue an order restraining the administration from impounding the funds. The suit was filed by the states of Washington, Pennsylvania, Texas, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Illinois, Connecticut, Florida, Alabama, Maryland, Nevada, District of Columbia, and Missouri.
The development freed $1.1 million for Maryland, whose Washington suburbs are heavily populated by federal workers and military personnel, and $2.4 million for Fairfax County, another Washington suburb.
The suit listed these other impoundments: Washington, $1.7 million; Pennsylvania, $1.5 million; North Carolina, $1.7 million; Oklahoma, $1.7 million; Illinois, $1.5 million; San Diego, $12,000; Connecticut, $39,000; Florida, $1.6 million; Alabama, $400,000; District of Columbia, $810,000.
The suit was the latest development in a continuing controversy over the Nixon administration's impoundment of federal funds.
Courts have heard 23 impoundment suits so far this year — and decided all but one — against the administration, which contends that it holds final responsibility for expenditure of federal funds.

Water, Power Shortages Beseat East, Midwest

Associated Press
By BARTON REPERT
Associated Press Writer
East Coast and Midwest cities beset by a sweltering heat wave today face water shortages and continuing electric power problems. The National Weather Service forecasts no relief from the heat until after the Labor Day weekend.
In New York City, officials declared a water emergency as the temperature Thursday hit a year-high 98 degrees for the second time this week. Philadelphia pumped river water into city reservoirs to help offset an upsurge of water consumption.
The New York State Power Pool for a third day reduced voltage by 5 per cent but utilities said voluntary customer cutbacks had slightly eased the power drain caused by heavy use of air conditioners.
Scattered power failures were reported in Ohio and the Washington metropolitan area, where an air pollution alert continued for the seventh straight day.
The water emergency was declared in New York when water pressure dropped dangerously low in many areas. The city was reported gulping water at a rate of more than 2.1 billion gallons daily, compared with 1.4 billion gallons on a normal summer day.
In Philadelphia, Water Commissioner Carmen F. Guarino said the city was trying to replenish reservoirs being drained at a rate of more than half a billion gallons a day, compared with normal daily usage of 370 million gallons.
District of Columbia officials closed a vehicle inspection station until the air pollution situation improves. The shutdown came after 11 employees at the station became ill because of hot weather combined with fumes from idling automobile engines.
Health officials in New York said the heat wave was partly to blame for an increase in the city's death rate.
Health Commissioner Joseph A. Cimino said 150 people died Sunday, 250 died Monday and 300 died Tuesday. He said a figure of 200 deaths a day was considered normal for the city.

No Immediate Relief Seen In Heat Wave

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The record-shattering heat wave that has oppressed Connecticut residents for several days was expected to continue through the Labor Day weekend.
The National Weather Service at Bradley Airport said the same hot, hazy and humid weather with temperatures near the 100-degree mark appears on tap through Tuesday.
The record 98 degree temperature for August 31 set 20 years ago faced a threat today as the weatherman said the mercury would soar into the 90s.
The 98 degrees registered at 2:25 p.m. Thursday busted the old mark for August 30 of 97 in 1953. Another record was set by Northeast Utilities, which serves most of Connecticut and New England. It said it reached a record power demand of 12.8 million kilowatts Thursday between 1 and 2 p.m.
Connecticut Light and Power Co. said an hour-long brownout due to an overvoltage transformer affected about 10 homes in Cheshire Thursday night. However, power officials expressed optimism that there would be no further problems during the heat wave.
Spokesmen for Northeast Utilities said the New England area "is in better shape than the rest of the country."
Eugene Sturgeon, public relations director for Northeast Utilities, said most heavy industries and large businesses will be inactive during the holiday weekend and won't drain power supplies.
Meanwhile, the Northeastern Forest Fire Protection Commission expressed fears of forest fires because of the lack of precipitation during the past two weeks in Connecticut.
The National Weather Service also reported that there is an "increasing threat of serious air stagnation" as the hot spell continues.
State employees working in non-air conditioned rooms at the Capitol in Hartford got some relief from the heat. They were allowed to go home at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Successful 'Rain Dance'

High Low
Anchorage 42
Boston 67
Chicago 84
Denver 86
San Francisco 59
Washington 58

Quite warm and humid tonight. Patchy early morning fog. Lows between 70 and 75. Sunny, hot and humid Saturday. High in the 90s.
Precipitation probability is 10 per cent tonight, 20 per cent Saturday.
Outlook Sunday—mostly sunny, hot and humid.

When nature decided to endow Manchester and the rest of the Northeast with high temperatures and humidity but no rain, man had to step into the gap. These two unidentified young ladies appear to be making an appeal for rain which the City Recreation Department in a surrogate role Mother Nature supplied in the form of sprinkler irrigation of the new turf on Memorial Field. While the substitute was enjoyable to these two, the rest of Manchester can only hope for other ways to beat the heat and perhaps be a bit green-eyed with envy for not thinking, "why didn't I think of that too?"
