Vandals Damage Fence at Satter's

Six ten-foot sections of chain-link fence at Satter's Post, separating the parking lot from the pool, were reported down by Manchester Police Thursday afternoon.

Police said that over the last few weeks several children have been riding bicycles along downed portions of the fence. Manchester Park Superintendent Ernest Tureck said he suspected the downed fence was the work of vandals. He said replacement sections of the chain-link fence cost about $50 each. He added that repair of the fence will probably be done by town employees at minimal cost, however.

Bid Withdrawn

A request for a zoning variance to allow Coleman Bros. shows to set up amusement rides at the Manchester Fairgrounds next month has been withdrawn.

The variance request had been scheduled for a public hearing before the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday night.

The request was withdrawn, according to town planner J. Eric Potter, after legal advice indicated the application was not a matter of zoning.

Michael Drown, president of the Parkade Merchants Association, said he had filed an application for a license to operate the fairgrounds next month. The license would allow the Parkade to hold a public event on the premises, which would include the operation of amusement rides.

The license would be held in conjunction with the Parkade's 17th anniversary celebration Oct. 17. Drown said Coleman Bros. will attempt to obtain a police permit, as provided for by town ordinance, for the show.

The application was filed with the Liquor Control Commission on Oct. 10, 1973. The application is subject to public hearing on Oct. 17, 1973, at 7:00 p.m. at the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals, 100 State St., Manchester, Conn.

Interested parties may object to the application at the public hearing. The hearing is open to the public. A copy of the application may be obtained from the applicant, Peter E. Brown, at the above address.

Democrats Big Telethon Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Democratic party tests its post-Watergate financial pull tonight with a nationwide telethon to pay off the party's debts and raise funds for 1974 elections.

There is little doubt regarding the Democrats' thrust. The leadoff speaker is Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair.

"We expect Watergate to cause greater donations than ever before," says John Y. Brown Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Telethon. "The whole Watergate scandal proved the need to support political parties by a broad base of small donations," he said.

"If such a system had been in effect, Watergate never would have happened."

Brown, who made his fortune popularizing a fried chicken chain, was the instigator of last year's Democratic telethon. The event raised $4 million from 400,000 donors, he said.

This time he is hoping for $6 million, because of Watergate and better organization. He said the party will remain in the individual states.

The sources said Friday night that the grand jury has decided only that it is appropriate for the grand jurors in Baltimore to consider information about Agnew gathered so far in an investigation of alleged kickbacks by contractors and architects to Maryland politicians.

The sources said there was no indication when the continuing investigation of Agnew would be completed. The vice president has described as lies allegations that he took kickbacks in return for awarding contracts while he was Baltimore County executive and subsequently governor of Maryland.

Earlier Friday, Dale Anderson, the first Maryland official indicted in the scandal, pleaded innocent in Baltimore to charges of bribery, extortion and conspiracy.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Justice Department spokesmen asked whether Richardson had made his decision to seek an indictment of Agnew.

The sources said the decision to let the grand jury see the results of the Agnew investigation apparently was behind the change in official comment.

In August Richardson had advised Agnew by letter that he would have an opportunity to meet with prosecutors before a final decision was made. The sources said they were unaware of any such meeting.

Richardson and Agnew were charged with a conspiracy to receive and give kickbacks, however.

Fuel Price Lid May Be Lifted Later This Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has decided to raise price ceilings on gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oil where dealers can justify the price hikes.

Council Director Joseph T. Dunlop gave no precise indication Friday of when the higher prices would hit consumers, but said the council "will act promptly" after a Sept. 25 meeting at which time detailed cost information will be reviewed.

The council also announced approval of a one cent per gallon price increase by Atlantic Richfield Co. effective Monday for both gasoline and home heating oil.

Thousands of gasoline dealers have protested that the Phase 4 ceilings have put them into an economic squeeze.

Dunlop said the dealers will now have a chance to prove their case. He said they will shortly receive forms to submit price, cost and profit information to justify the increases.

Under the Phase 4 price ceilings that took effect in early September, many independent operators were required to roll back their prices up to three cents a gallon.

This was evidenced Friday when the national association of attorneys general.

And in another energy development, the Federal Power Commission has extended the period in which natural gas can be sold at unregulated prices. The commission said the move was aimed at increasing the supply of natural gas that will be available this winter.

Barbara Richmond (Herald Reporter) Since 1945 when the Rockville Hospital was moved into the former William Maxwell home on Union St., like Topay, it has "just grown," into a modern, fully equipped building.

This was evidenced Friday when the second phase of the hospital's development program was reviewed at a town officials and the press.

John Götter, chairman of the Board of Directors and a local builder who has supervised the building of the additions, credited the trustees for "prudently conserving and wisely using endowment funds to make the modern facility possible."

Götter said, however, that this source of funds can be considered reliable as a way of meeting capital needs. He explained that the Bissell Trust, named for long-time member of the board, the late William Bissell, cost $1,000,000 when it was built in 1969.

The Butler wing, the one just opening at 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Major figures of the Democratic party will appear with such entertainers as Milton Berle, the Fifth Dimension, Henry Ford, James Garner, Jack Lemmon, Florence Henderson, Robert Goulet, Carl Reiner, Dick Van Dyke and Nancy Wilson.

Götter praised the hospital directors for undertaking a building program of this size without going to the community for direct support by conducting a fund-raising drive.

He added, "Unfortunately, this source of funds can no longer be considered reliable as a way of meeting capital needs."

Under the economic stabilization program, hospitals are being forced to drain off their reserves funds which were intended for replacement of obsolete facilities and equipment, in order to meet operating expenses," Götter explained.

"Requests by hospitals to increase rates sufficiently to meet increased operating costs for food, supplies, and salaries, which are rising just as in all businesses and government services, are being denied arbitrarily if they are above adequate guidelines, until all reserve funds are exhausted," Götter said.

The result of this, Götter cautioned, will be deterioration of buildings and equipment, which they represent and property which are rising just as in all businesses and government services, are being denied arbitrarily if they are above adequate guidelines, until all reserve funds are exhausted," Götter said.

The area involved will include all of the developments off Skinner Rd. and the project will tie-in to the Dart Hill Pumping Station which is now under construction.

Commissa Construction did the work on the Talcottville Pumping Station.

Rocari Industries of East Granby, was second low bidder at $1,692,680 and Excavators Inc. of Meriden, third, at $1,693,615.

The project is one phase of a major plan to provide all homes in Vernon with sewer service.

News for Senior Citizens

Hi Folks!
First of all, two buses will be leaving Monday for a three-day tour of the Pennsylvania Dutch country, and those registered must be at the Senior Center at 6:30 a.m. We have tags for your luggage all ready for you, and we suggest that you plan on a traveling light. It's not a long trip, and you certainly don't have to dress up. Wear casual clothes because for the most part you'll be riding the bus, or walking through flower gardens, and shops. See you Monday morning.

Last Friday evening we started our setback games, and with the turnout of 48 players, we had a nice turnout. We had 150 players, and we had a very good time. We had a very good time. We had a very good time.

Final Golf
Monday morning was the last day of golfing for our tournament. We had 18 of the boys in a head-to-head match. I think this shook the boys up a little, as they did not do as well in scoring. Al Bolla, 42; Al Bourant, 46; Al Petke, 47; and Charles Turpinian, 48.

Don't forget the banquet which will be Thursday, Sept. 20 at Willis's Steak House, 444 Center St. Happy hour fun from 6:30 to dinner at 7:30 p.m.

On Monday morning we had 90 members attending our kitchen social games, and in our largest we had one of our largest crowds for pinocle. We had 14 full tables, and the winners were: Lillian Lewis, 710; Grace Baker, 706; Elizabeth Jesman, 688; Esther Anderson, 672; Robert Schubert, 677; Florence North, 669; Sam Schors, 669; Harriet Keeney, 669; Alice Anderson, 663; Mabel Wilson, 659; Ann Thompson, 652; Ann Ferras, 650; Leon Falout, 649; and Josephine Schuetz, 648.

Ceramics
Tuesday rolled in and we started out with our ceramic class, and are quite pleased at the interest in ceramics. In fact, we had to divide the group with some coming on Tuesdays, and others on Wednesdays. We are fortunate that Gloria can really teach this program, and was very happy to have a real professional come in and volunteer her services to help with the classes. Margaret Schaller has been teaching ceramics for over 25 years and it's good to have her experience helping us.

Oil Painting
This Tuesday morning we will be starting our oil painting class, and are happy to report that our good friend Kay Henriksen will be back with us. The class starts at 10 o'clock and is to be for beginners as well as for those with experience.

Bowling
Last Tuesday afternoon our Senior Bowling League got off to a very good start. We had 20 teams, but we would like to see a few bowlers, who do not want to play every week, sign up as substitutes to fill in when the regulars are sick or can't play for some other reason.

Bertie's Dubbing had the high triple of 420 and the high single of 164 for the women. For the men, Leo Gouni had 504 for the high triple and a 174 for the high single.

On our Tuesday shopping trip we took 15 members over to the Main St. and Parkside shopping centers. We'll be at it again this week starting at Westhill at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Card Games
Then came Wednesday, and it was pinocle in the morning with 42 players, and the winners were: Lyla Steele, 562; Frances Pike, 565; Paul Schultz, 560; May Derby, 552; Bernice Caswell, 540; Leo Simpson, 538; Jennie Fogarty, 535; and Beatrice Mader, 535.

In the afternoon we had our bridge games with our tables week were: Marjorie Reed, 5; Irene Foley, 3,500; and Ivy Sidelid, $220.

This Wednesday morning we will be offering a crewel embroidery class here at the Center, and are happy to announce that Mrs. Barbara Poland is coming back to teach the class at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Meals Program
People have been calling about our meals program, so we can tell you we are going to start on Monday, Oct. 1. We will be serving lunches five days a

Doyle Discusses Hospital Cost Agency's Goals

BARKHAMSTED (AP) - The executive director of Connecticut's new Commission on Hospital and Health Care says it will do more than just decide whether a hospital can charge a few extra dollars for a room. John A. Doyle Jr. says it will give the state more control over the hospitals, telling them how they can and cannot spend some of their money and approving or rejecting new services before they are offered.

Doyle, a former campaign worker and now legislative aide to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, was elected to his new job by the commission Thursday. Doyle is credited with drafting the bill passed by the legislature this year that created the commission.

The first big task of the panel, which officially starts work Oct. 1, is to decide on rate increases requested from about 26 of the state's 34 general hospitals.

"The need to contain hospital costs is paramount," Doyle said in an interview Friday.

He added that the unnecessary duplication of facilities and services has contributed to steadily higher hospital costs, which have risen by 12 percent in the last year in Connecticut.

The commission, with its veto power over each item in hospitals' capital budgets and over their operating budgets as a whole, can do something about it, Doyle said.

"Connecticut has one of the finest, highest quality health care systems anywhere in the world," the 29-year-old ex-high school English teacher said. But "there's room to suspect that we may have overbuilt in some areas," because of a lack of coordination between hospitals, he said.

"The number of open heart units in the state far exceeds the need," Doyle said. He noted that the American Heart Association has set a standard of 200 open heart operations a year at the minimum needed to maintain a unit. He said only two of the seven or eight units in Connecticut meet that standard and some do only about 20 operations a year.

Conversely, Doyle said, there is only one comprehensive intensive burn care unit in the state and more are needed.

"You may have two hospitals that the American Heart Association has set a standard of 200 open heart operations a year at the minimum needed to maintain a unit. He said only two of the seven or eight units in Connecticut meet that standard and some do only about 20 operations a year.

Defense Fat Can Be Trimmed

If there ever comes a day when Defense Department spokesmen inform Congress that the nation's military forces are in good shape, that they have all the weapons they will need for the foreseeable future, that there are no ominous Soviet developments on the horizon and yes, gentlemen, there is a good deal of fat that could be trimmed off the defense establishment — if that day should ever come, we will know that President Nixon's promised "generation of peace" has truly arrived.

Yet despite the ending of the Vietnam war, all the talk of detente and rapprochement between East and West and hopes for the SALT disarmament negotiations, one would think we were still in the dark, early days of the Cold War when the Communist threat to world peace and freedom was first perceived.

Melvin ("Gloom-and-Doom") Laird is no longer secretary of defense, but the new secretary, James R. Schlesinger, has effectively caught up the banner of national security and rapped it across the knucks of congressional budget-cutters, whom he accuses of indulging in "postwar follies" that would dismantle the nation's defenses.

As before, Congress will end up by giving the Pentagon plenty much what it asks for in the way of more and better weapons systems. It will because it is only common sense to err, if error it be, on the side of caution, and because it is so excruciatingly difficult to decide what will be needed and what will not be needed to meet challenges of the future or just to preserve America's deterrent credibility.

It has been difficult up to now, at any rate. According to one observer, however, those on Capitol Hill who believe it is time to rein in military spending are potentially in a much stronger position than they have been in the past.

For the first time, they can now make intelligent decisions about the defense budget because they at last have sources of independent and reliable information, writes John Fischer in Harper's magazine.

He cites two sources outside the government, the Brookings Institution and the Center for Defense Information, the latter staffed by a number of retired admirals, generals and other former Defense Department officials, who have been giving close scrutiny to the nation's defense needs.

Their findings give scant comfort to the snow-white doves among us, Fischer notes. Defense spending can't be slashed overnight by the amounts some radical critics have suggested. But they do indicate that some $7 billion as a start could be cut out of the military budget for fiscal 1974 without weakening our defense posture.

There are plenty of opportunities for minor economies. For example, all our armed forces are top-heavy with brass. For every enlisted man, there is one officer or noncom to supervise him. Much larger savings could be made by modest cuts in the size of our armed forces and the closing of unnecessary bases at home and overseas.

At the very least, these independent sources are presenting facts, figures and documented "strategic scenarios" that can be studied by conscientious congressmen who neither want to be accused by the folks back home of gambling with America's security nor want to place further strain on an inflationary economy which, itself, could weaken the United States more than the lack, say, of a more sophisticated nuclear submarine.

"If they choose to use this information as a courageous and responsible way," says Fischer, "that could be the best news of the century for the American taxpayer."

Today's Thought

"When something is available, if you desire it, you must place your order. Life moves on and items or openings in demand are soon snatched up. If you debate too long on a sale item, or wait too long to decide to see a presentation in the New England summer theatre the item is sold or all the seats are taken.
God feels this way also about what he offers. Life doesn't wait forever. An openness to God and His word at one point in one's life does not continue through the years if we do not act at the time. You must place your order while it is available. The Bible says, 'Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call upon him when he is near.' It isn't that He will change, but we will. We will feel differently later and will not be able to be as open to God and His word unless we act upon it at the time it is offered and we feel an openness to His proposal to us. The Israelites waited 40 years in the wilderness because they didn't place their order when it was available. God had said, 'Go in and possess the land. I will give it to you.' Rather they decided to check God out, and sent 12 spies to check out the possibilities of taking the area for Israel. When they returned two said, 'Place the order.' 'God will give us the land.' Ten said, 'Don't go in there, there are giants and we'll never win.' The order wasn't placed when it was available and the offer was lost. How often haven't we turned into a wilderness because we didn't place our order when God offered something to us in our hearts, through people, or through His word.
When God offers you something or finds a way to raise it for your consideration, make your decision and place your order. It may be a long while before your heart will be in such a condition to again, know what He wants for you. The Lord while he is near.'"

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Sept. 15th, the 253rd day of 1973. There are 107 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Konrad Adenauer became the first chancellor of West Germany.
On this date — In 1771, the Polish aristocrat Count Casimir Pulaski was commissioned a major general in the American revolutionary army.
In 1789, the U.S. Department of Foreign Affairs changed its name to the Department of State.
In 1812, the Russians set fire to Moscow during the Napoleonic invasion.
In 1835, the Nazis enacted the Nuremberg laws.
In 1959, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Washington for a 13-day visit to the United States.
In 1959, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain flew to Berlin, Germany, to talk with Adolf Hitler.
In 1961, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev exploded in a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala., during Sunday services, killing four Negro girls and setting off sporadic rioting.
Five years ago: Frederic E. Polak became the third Negro general in U.S. history.
One year ago: Former White House press chief G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt and others were indicted on charges of conspiring to break into the Democratic National Committee.
Today's birthdays: Opera singer and pianist Bobby Short is 49.
Thought for today: I have great faith in tools — self-confidence my friends call it — Edgar Allan Poe.

WASHINGTON — Of all the Republicans who had anything to do with President Nixon's campaign for reelection, Sen. Bob Dole most deserves a hearing when he speaks to the issue of electoral morality.
The plain-speaking Kansas was chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1972, but it didn't stop him criticizing the tactics of the Committee to Reelect the President. Dole got himself in trouble with Nixon for publicly finding CREPE contemptible and undoubtedly lost favor with many staunch Republicans at his home state. But there would have been no Watergate had Nixon listened to Bob Dole instead of the John Mitchells and John Ehrlichmans.
Therefore it is surprising to find Bob Dole introducing a resolution which provides that if the Senate's Watergate hearings do continue, they should be closed to the public and the news media.
"It is time to put on the brakes," said Dole. "It is time to turn off the TV lights."
I find myself incredulous in contemplating Dole's resolution. In effect, he is suggesting that the hearings be transformed into a star chamber operation, with only certain privileged members of Congress and their helpers made privy to the hearings. Dole's proposition says Congress has the right to intrude not only freedom of the press, but the people's right to know what's going on.
Dole seems to have forgotten that this country also belongs to the people. It is not the private property of Congress, or the Presidency, or the Supreme Court. It is the people who choose their government and it is to the people that these hired hands must render an accounting of their stewardship.
Dole has "reminded" us citizens that the "purpose of the hearings is to serve legislative interests. It is not to try, convict and sentence Richard Nixon."
Well now, in the larger — and only important — sense, any proceeding conducted to serve legislative interests has legal status only if it serves the public interest. Members of Congress are not elected to work secretly or even furtively but in full view of the people they should be clear to the public and the news media.
"It is time to turn off the TV lights." I don't think so, but even if I did that would be the prerogative of the national media, not of the electorate's servants on Capitol Hill. The Watergate hearings are conducted in public because they are not to be compared with Congressional sessions devoted to working up an appropriation bill when outside distractions should be avoided.

The Ghosts At Algiers

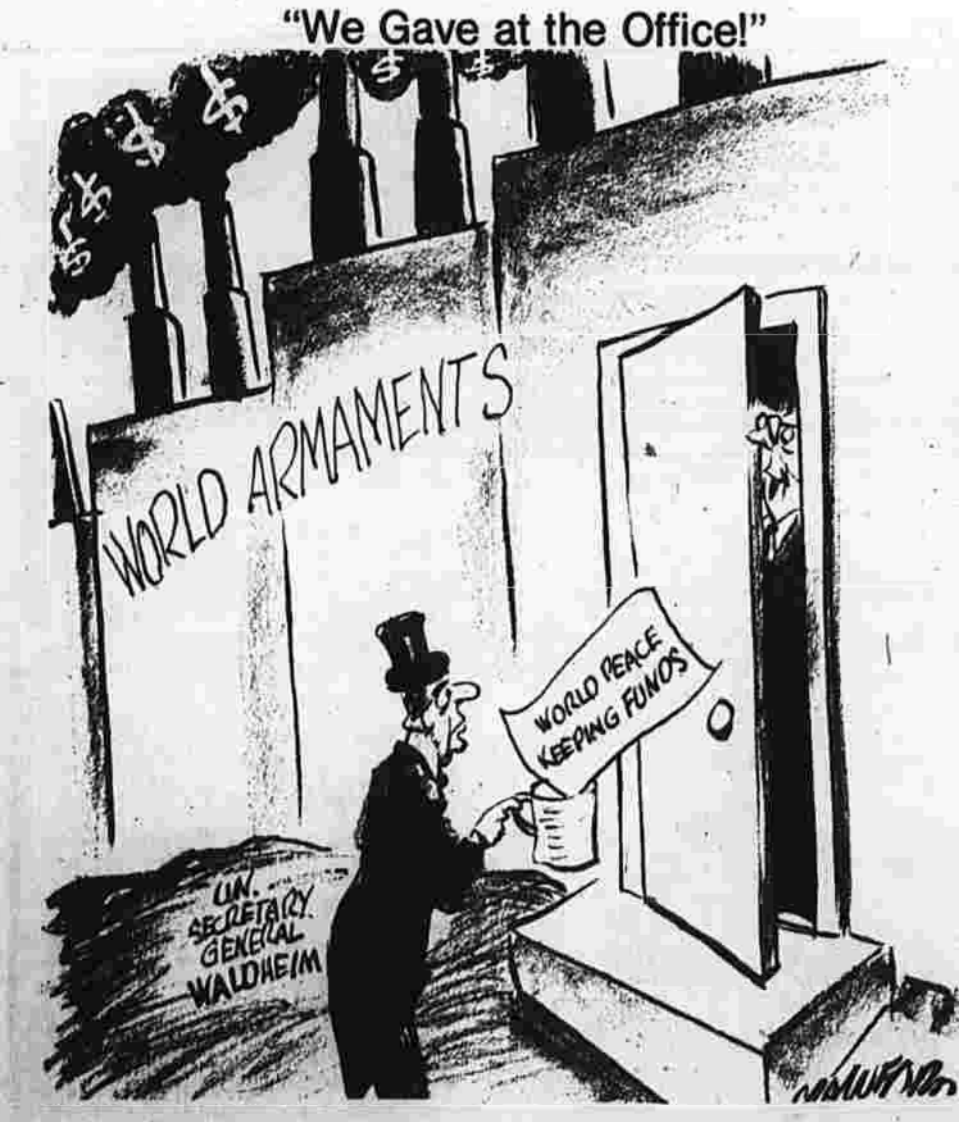

WASHINGTON — The problem with the conference of the presumably "nonaligned" nations, which ran its dreary, futile, talk-ridden course at Algiers, was that it had no focus except discontents. The vocabulary at the conference was delightfully absurd. Imagine Fidel Castro sitting in judgment on whether Brazil and Bolivia are nonaligned or aligned, when Cuba is cemented to the Soviet Union by the ties of sheer survival. Imagine Prince Sihanouk lecturing Castro when he is himself similarly cemented to China for his own claims as ruler of Cambodia.
Think of the conference billed as one of "small" as against "big" nations when the subcontinent of India is one of its leading members. Think of a conference billed as one of "poor" against "rich" nations when Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Khadafi of Libya have more billions in annual oil revenues than they know what to do with, certainly more than they care to plow back into welfare projects for their people.
The great revolt against the West, starting with India's independence in 1947 and the Bandung conference in 1955, took place in the same decade that saw the cold wars of America with Russia and China. They led to the terms "third world," "neutralism," "non-alignment."
The cold wars are over now, yet the corpse of the old terms is still hauled out after the reality itself has died.
It is time we buried the old business decency, and its language too. It serves neither purposes one, and Tito's and Nasser's, but whose purposes does it serve now except the meaning, or of championing strong middle classes, on holding on to technical skills rather than expelling them, on cherishing the freedoms of thought and research on which all advances in societies are based.
There is a crisis for the new nations which went unmentioned at Algiers. The earlier cult of a swift industrialization, with its demands for economic aid, has shown its emptiness. All it did was to sap the confidence of the leaders and people. A new mode of salvation has not arisen in its place. There is no way of avoiding the hard work, the quiet experiments, the exertions of energy and enterprise, the tapping of whatever experience earlier nations had, the building of competent elites. In winning their independence the new nations borrowed ideas, techniques from the very same West they were revolting against. As they cope now with the problems of living in organic societies, the old catchwords won't help them much. It would be foolish for them to close their minds against whatever insights and solutions they are finding, wherever they may come from.

The Mini Page Talks with Senator Baker

In February of this year, Congress appointed a special committee to look into the illegal, improper and unethical conduct which is said to have taken place in the presidential campaign of 1972.

The committee has the power to investigate three things: the Watergate scandal, the "dirty trick" charges for all 1972 presidential campaigns and the collection and use of campaign funds.

The Committee must report back to Congress by February 28, 1974. It will only make suggestions and recommendations. It will not write any laws. This will be left to other committees.

The Mini Page talked with the vice-chairman of the committee, Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee.

He feels that it is important for children to understand that this is not a court proceeding where each person who testifies is on trial to determine whether or not he is guilty. He would like for youngsters to realize that the committee's purpose is to find out exactly what happened so they can suggest new laws which will prevent the same actions in the future.

We asked Senator Baker what new laws the committee might suggest.

They might put a limit on the amount of money one person can contribute to a campaign.

They might limit the total amount of money a candidate can spend on his campaign.

Senator Baker feels that the office of the president is "too isolated, too splendid." He suggested that it might be a good idea if the president moved his office from the White House to Capitol Hill.

He also feels that the vice-president should have more responsibilities. Since he presides over the Senate, the vice-president could be a very powerful person and could help the president a great deal. Senator Baker pointed out that this was not a criticism of Vice President Agnew. He feels that it is an unfortunate tradition in our country which has made the vice president's role a very weak one.

Senator Baker has become one of the most popular members of the committee. He has even been nominated as a possible candidate for president in 1976. He is a Republican from Tennessee.

Other members of the Senate Select Committee to Investigate 1972 Presidential Campaign Activities

Senator Baker and Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C. Ervin is the committee chairman.

Plumbers — People hired by the White House to find out who was leaking information to the press.

Subpoena — (su-pen-a) A legal order, in writing, informing a person that he must appear and give testimony.

Indict — (in-dit) To accuse someone of a crime.

Executive Privilege — The right of the President not to divulge conversations and the contents of written material as long as he feels their secrecy involves the national security of the country.

The Jewish New Year

The celebration of the Jewish New Year, or Rosh Hashanah, starts on the evening of September 26. Before going to the Temple or Synagogue, each Jewish family starts the celebration with a festive meal in their home on the eve of the holiday. The Jewish new year coming in is the year 5734.

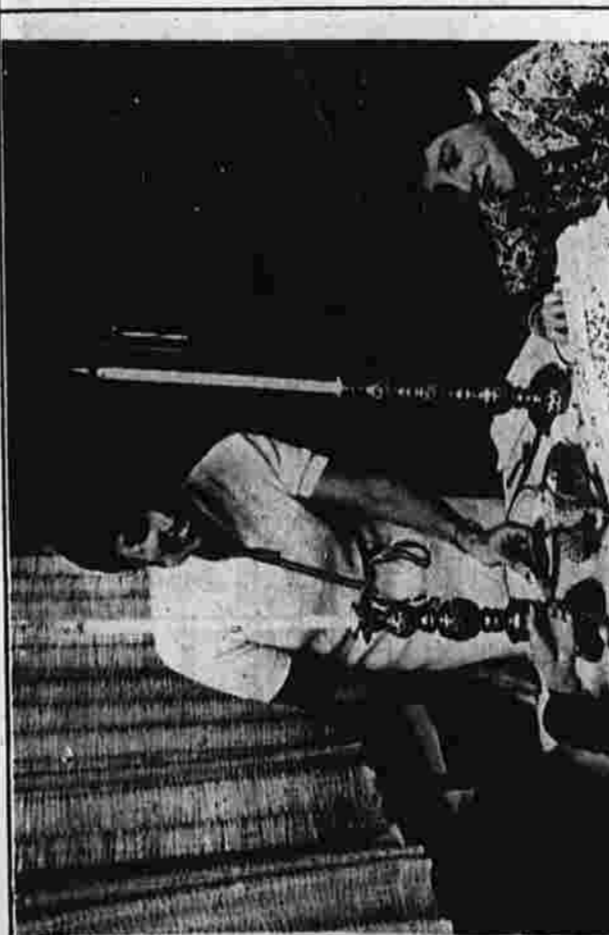

The mother will say a blessing over the holiday candles and the father will say a benediction over them and over a special round loaf of bread.

Each person is given a piece of apple dipped in honey, which will be eaten after a special blessing is said.

Then the family will greet each other, and every Jew they meet during the ten day celebration, with the words "Good Yontif," which means Happy New Year. They may send Jewish New Year greeting cards.

During the celebration in the synagogue, someone will blow a horn called a "shofar." It is the custom that everyone wear something new.

Although the New Year is a happy time, it is also the Day of Judgement. At this time the Jews will say they are sorry for all their wrong doings during the year.

Apple dipped in honey are served during the meal on the eve of the holiday. The apple stands for the fruitfulness of good deeds. The honey is for the sweetness of a happy life.

Senate Restaurant Bean Soup Recipe

The Senate passed a resolution in the early 1900's that the Senate Dining Room must serve Bean Soup daily.

Some say that Senator Fred Thomas Dubois of Idaho introduced the resolution. Others say it was Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota who did it. Here is the recipe. It's too hard for you to make, but maybe your mother would make it for you.

Take 2 pounds of Michigan Navy beans, wash and run through hot water until beans are white. Put on the fire with 4 quarts of hot water. Add 1 1/2 pounds of smoked ham hocks; boil slowly 3 hours in a covered pot. Drain 1 chopped onion in a little butter; when light brown put into soup. Remove 2 cups of beans, puree them and return to soup. When ready to serve, season with salt and pepper. (Serves 8)

What is a Select Committee?

A select committee can be set up by the House of Representatives or the Senate. It is established for a limited period of time and for a special purpose. The Committee to Investigate the 1972 Presidential Campaign Activities is a select committee. Unless it is granted more time by the Senate, it will be discontinued in February when it reports to Congress.

Much of the important business of Congress is handled by permanent, or standing, committees. There are 16 standing committees in the Senate and 21 in the House. Each Congressman is appointed to several committees. These committees are then divided into sub-committees to make it easier to carry out their functions.

A Brief History of Watergate

The Watergate complex in Washington, D.C. It is made up of a hotel, apartments and the office building.

At 2:30 in the morning on June 17, 1972, five men were caught in the Democratic Committee headquarters in Washington, D.C. These men were trying to get up a way to bug the headquarters so they could tape and listen to what was said. One of the men arrested was James McCord, who worked for the Republican National Committee. Two weeks later, G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, Jr. were arrested as part of the bugging team. They had set up a listening and observation post at a nearby Howard Johnson Motel.

The "cover-up" began as important men in the Republican Party claimed they had nothing to do with the Watergate scandal.

Later, after President Nixon's election in November, the seven were given jail sentences. One of the arrested men, James McCord, began to talk. The press began to publish stories about the break-in. Factors were brought up that showed that there were close connections between the White House, the Republican National Committee and the Watergate Seven.

Super Sport: David Clyde

The David Clyde story sounds like a tall Texas tale. But it isn't. He was, perhaps, the top high school pitcher in the nation last spring. He was so good, in fact, the Texas Rangers signed him to a pro contract estimated at $100,000. David, age 18, pitched for Westchester High in Houston, Texas. During his career there, he pitched nine no-hitters and won 46 games and lost only six. Last year the six-foot-one-inch, 160-pound left hander won 18 games and didn't lose any. David learned a lot about pitching from his dad, who was a semi-pro pitcher and first baseman.

New Bone in Reds' Doghouse

NEW YORK (AP) — Throw a bone into the Cincinnati Reds' doghouse. Bobby Tolan has earned it. Tolan, suspended by the Reds after a front office run-in last month, delivered the ninth inning single that sealed a Cincinnati comeback and beat Atlanta 7-6 Friday night.

The victory reduced the Reds' magic number for clinching the National League's West division to 11. Los Angeles remained 4 1/2 games behind Cincinnati by walloping Houston 13-1.

In other National League action, Pittsburgh widened its East division lead to 1 1/2 games, defeating St. Louis 3-1. The loss dropped the Cardinals to third place. Montreal took over second place, beating Philadelphia 3-2. San Diego nipped San Francisco 4-3. Chicago's game at New York was rained out.

The Reds were trailing 6-4 with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning against the Braves. That's when Phil Gagliano delivered a pinch single for two runs, tying the score and giving Tolan the chance to be a hero and single home the deciding run.

Douglas 13, Astros 1.

Andy Messersmith tossed a four-hitter and contributed a two-run double to Los Angeles' attack as the Dodgers battered Houston 13-1.

Willie Davis collected four hits and the Dodgers scored four runs to Messersmith in the first inning before he went to the mound.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 1

Pittsburgh struck for three runs in the first inning and hung on to defeat St. Louis, dropping the Cardinals to third place, two games behind the Pirates.

Willie Stargell's bad-boy single scored the first Pirate run and then Richie Hebner doubled home another before Bob Robertson's check-swing single scored the third.

Expos 3, Phillies 2

Montreal nipped Steve Carlton for three runs in the first two innings and made the early edge stand up for a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia that moved the Expos into second place.

Bob Bailey singled home one run in the first and then a walk, singles by Ron Woods and Felipe Alou and a wild pitch added two more in the second.

Padres 4, Giants 3

Clay Kirby and Mike Caldwell throttled San Francisco on six hits, pitching San Diego to a 4-3 victory over the Giants.

John Grubb and Dave Roberts each doubled home a run for the Padres and Derrel Thomas added with a sacrifice fly.

Working Way Up Ladder

One top-flight play-by-play radio broadcaster came out of Manchester, Eddie Cain, who is still in the "big leagues" as the No. 1 man in the booth for the New York Islanders in the National Hockey League.

Another St. Louis product working his way up the ladder is Jimmy Horvath Jr. of Manchester's loss - in this case Manchester Vt., is now Yarmouth's gain as the local man has pulled up stakes in the Vermont community and has settled on Cape Cod.

Horvath drew rave notices from Bill Murphy in the Bellows Falls-Springfield, Vt., Times-Recorder for his work as sports director of the radio station, especially his play-by-play account of basketball and for football games.

Murphy wrote, "Jim Horvath has left a stamp on his listening area, one that sports fans will never forget. Mr. Horvath has done something great for his area."

While operating the Yarmouth station, Horvath will be working in the same community as Bob Hamilton, former pitcher San Diego to a 4-3 victory over the Giants.

Hamilton is assistant football mentor at Dennis-Yarmouth Regional High. The pair is bound to get together on the golf course as both are better than average players. Both are Manchester High grads.

Cain, before taking the Islanders' post, handled play-by-play of Minnesota Viking football games in the NFL and the Minnesota Twins in the American Baseball League. He too, is a Manchester High grad.

Perhaps some day in the not-too-distant future, Horvath will be on the same "big league" level. That's where he got his sights set at the moment.

Notes Off the Cuff

Tom Snow, former sports editor of the Herald, now living in Virginia, will be on hand for the West Side Old Timers' Reunion Saturday night, Oct. 6 at the Garden Grove. Honored will be members of the old Cubs and Majors football teams of 40 years ago. Snow played with the Cubs at one time and later covered their big series with the North End Majors. Jimmy Houch, the all-time football great at Manchester High, is now back residing in Manchester. For a number of years he lived in Vermont. Ellington High moves up a class, from Small to Medium in the CIAC sport picture starting this year. Edna Hilliard's second hole-in-one of her career came on the right day - Sunday. "The first hole-in-one (on a weekday) cost my husband $100," she noted. The 19th Hole was closed when the second ace was recorded and no rain checks were given. Vinny Clements wound up as the New York Giants' leading rusher in exhibition games with 245 yards and a 5-4 average. Ken Holtzman of the Oakland A's would like to see baseball introduce a system by changing the ball-strike count to three balls and three strikes. A 20-game winner, Holtzman reasons, "A lot of pitchers like to throw the first pitch away from the plate, but they wouldn't be able to anymore. You'd have to make sure the first pitch was a strike because if you missed that, you'd have to make a second one too good a pitch because if you had two strikes right away, you'd be walking the line." NCAA champion St. Louis will invade Memorial Stadium Monday to face the UConn soccer team at 4:30.

End of the Line

Angie Link is the new director of athletics at Tolland High. A living wax figure of Roberto Clement, presented to the baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., was dedicated this week. There are now more than 13 million American men, women and children playing tennis today, more than double the number of a decade ago. Have a nice weekend.

Getting off on the right foot yesterday afternoon in Willimantic, Manchester High's soccer team blanked Windham High in a CCIL test, 3-0. It was the season opener for both clubs.

After a scoreless first half, the locals got into the scoring column when Werner Cacace tallied an assist. Again in the final canto of the tale, Cacace recorded his second score unassisted.

Cacace also had a hand in the final tally, setting up Skip Wasserman's goal.

The game was played in a steady rain on Windham's fine new soccer complex.

Administration spokesmen have been less gloomy in their predictions, however.

John A. Love, President Nixon's top energy adviser, told Congress last week that, "with normal weather, a reasonable level of refinery output, and imports somewhat above last year's level, we will have no major problems, but possibly some localized, temporary shortages."

The administration has the authority to impose mandatory allocation, but has resisted such proposals, from Congress.

Retiring Education Leader Reflects on School Changes Education Act in 1958, Sanders said. Since then, Congress has enacted major legislation in the areas of television, libraries, vocational education and aid to the handicapped and the disadvantaged. Because federal funds go first to the neediest states, Connecticut has received much less than most states, but Sanders said Connecticut has made good use of its share for improved planning and management within the department and to start several experimental programs through the state.

He said Connecticut was one of three states recognized recently by the U.S. Office of Education for effectively using funds for the disadvantaged, a program that has been criticized in many parts of the country.

Commissioner Retiring State Education Commissioner William J. Sanders retires Oct. 1. Since 1958 he has seen public school enrollment in Connecticut increase from 400,000 to 675,000 and budgets increase six-fold. (AP photo)

Rockville Hospital Auxiliary Notes 30th Anniversary The Rockville General Hospital's Auxiliary was formed 30 years ago this month and in honor of the occasion, Mrs. Judy TeSelle, president of the auxiliary, unveiled a plaque engraved with the names of the founding members, at an open house at the hospital, Sunday.

The presentation was made in cooperation with the open house which was for the public to tour the hospital's newest wing. The plaque will hang in the entrance hall. Auxiliary members served as hostesses and tour guides for the house.

The charter members of the auxiliary were presented with corsages, another plaque, listing the names of the past presidents of the auxiliary, was presented by Mrs. Lynn M. Fogg, vice president. This plaque will hang in the hospital's gift shop which is run by the auxiliary.

At yesterday's open house, Mrs. Harry Ertel, a charter member, who has maintained her membership for the 30 years, was the guest speaker. She outlined the history of the auxiliary since its inception in 1943. Refreshments served after the tour and ceremonies, included an anniversary cake.

Patrons of the Town of Manchester's Water Department, who have been billed at a new sewer rate adopted as part of the 1973-74 budget earlier this year, will be given credit for charges exceeding the prior 90 per cent charge. Thomas S. Moore, town controller, said today.

The action, he said, was taken at direction of the Town Board of Directors, which has decided to submit the rate share of 100 per cent of the water charge to a public hearing and customers in Routes 1 through 12 have been billed at the higher rate and will be given credit for the overcharge at the next billing, Moore said.

The decision to review the charge and use a public hearing procedure was made after the April 10 meeting of the Board of Directors. He said that the new rate increase was "improperly advertised."
