Why Would Anybody Pre-Arrange A Funeral?

There are various reasons why a person may want to pre-arrange and perhaps even pre-finance a funeral. Some do it out of self-concern. Others in an attempt to assist their survivors after death occurs.

Regardless of the cause, it is always prudent to consider the possible effects on survivors. It should also be kept in mind that unforeseen developments and unknown factors—such as when, where and how death will come—could change original plans substantially. Pre-arranging financing is involved, certain safeguards should be included.

The entire subject of pre-arranging and pre-financing funerals is examined in a practical brochure published by the National Funeral Directors Association. Its valuable insights could prevent unwise planning.

Six other NFDA brochures discuss: thoughts about the funeral, arranging a funeral, funeral costs, the presence of the body, the condoleance visit, and children and death. You will find them most helpful because they are based on current research and knowledge. Send for your FREE copies today. You will be glad you did.

Dr. Foote Resigns State Health Post

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut Health Commissioner Franklin M. Foote Monday became the latest department head to resign from state government.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said Monday night he had accepted the 65-year-old physician's resignation, effective Nov. 1. He named Dr. Douglas Seward Lloyd, a former Suffield resident, to succeed him.

Lloyd, 53, a graduate of Duke University and the Duke Medical School in North Carolina is currently chief resident in family practice at Duke. "Connecticut has been fortunate indeed to have the dedicated services of Dr. Foote," Meskill said in announcing the resignation.

He said Foote previously indicated his wish to retire, but agreed to stay on until a successor was chosen.

Foote was appointed in May 1959 by former Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff.

One of his last official actions will be to preside over Wednesday's meeting of the state Public Health Council, which will consider regulations governing abortions.

Lloyd's starting salary will be $11,500.

Also, Manchester Community College, University of Connecticut, Eastern Connecticut State College, Southern Connecticut State College, Connecticut College, University of Hartford, and Wesleyley College.

Berte Attacks Cummings On Rev-Share Statement

Republican Town Chairman A. Paul Berte said today he "was appalled" at a statement Friday by his Democratic counterpart, Ted Cummings, concerning the effects of federal revenue-sharing funds on Manchester's current tax mill.

"His statement," said Berte, "clearly indicated a lack of knowledge and understanding of the town budget."

Cummings said Friday, "The two-mill reduction in Manchester's taxes was due to a cautious, careful, prudent, business-like approach to local problems, and not because of federal revenue-sharing."

Berte today repeated his statement made last week: "The cut in Manchester's mill rate was due to the federal revenue-sharing program."

"The fact is," he insisted, "without the use of revenue-sharing funds in the town budget there would undoubtedly

Shultz Reports No Progress On Jewish Issue

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz reported no solid progress today in coming to terms with the Soviet Union on the problem of emigrating Soviet Jews.

Speaking at a news conference after three days of meetings with Soviet officials, Shultz said he had explained to the Soviets that Congress is reluctant to pass the tariff reductions Moscow wants until Jews are allowed to emigrate freely from the Soviet Union.

When asked if Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had given him any indication they would agree to congressional demands, Shultz sidestepped the question.

"You can observe that there has been a much larger granting of permission to emigrate last year than the year before that, and so on," he said.

"So the flow is there. That is the objective. That is what concerns Sen. Jackson and his supporters. There is some evidence there for them to look at."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., is the sponsor of an amendment that would link the granting of most favored nation status to the Soviets to free emigration from Russia.

Opposes Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. William R. Catter, D-Conn., has asked the Cost of Living Council to reject a proposed first class stamp rate increase from eight to 10 cents.

"The 20 per cent increase in first class mail at this time of record inflation is unjust and unnecessary," said Catter.

Gas Cloud Threatens Albertans

NEW NORWAY, Alta. (AP) — Crews tried today to cap a gas well that blew out of control Tuesday, sending up a cloud of poisonous gas that drove hundreds from their homes in central Alberta.

The affected area is prime cattle country and it was feared the gas would take a heavy toll of livestock.

The Sun Oil Co. well at the north end of Red Deer Lake, 50 miles southeast of Edmonton, blew out a mixture of crude oil, water and sour gas containing poisonous hydrogen sulphide.

The water stirred attempts to burn off the toxic fumes by igniting the gas flow.

A spokesman for the oil company said a repair crew was doing routine maintenance on the well when it began to blow and "got away from them."

The gas formed a cloud up to a mile wide and 800 feet high that moved northeast along Battle River. The wind whirled eight hours after the blowout, and the cloud moved south.

The villages of New Norway, Faircloth, Bitters Lake and Gwynne were evacuated, along with farm homes in the anticipated path of the gas.

A Mounted Police spokesman said Camrose, a city of 5,000 about 20 miles northeast of the well site, "could become vulnerable for evacuation."

Seven persons were hospitalized there with chest pains and sore throats, the first symptoms of exposure to hydrogen sulphide.

Inflation Lesson Given Directors

SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)

The sad truth about inflation was learned painfully Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors, when it received a first-hand lesson in spiraling costs over the past five years.

During a public hearing on proposed drainage installations in the Henry-N. Elm-Tanner Sts. area, the board was told that the project, estimated to cost $45,000 to $50,000 in 1968, would cost an estimated $100,000 today.

The board learned also that the combined estimated cost in 1968 for 17 drainage projects proposed in 1968 had been completed or undertaken to date.

He recommended the $90,000 to $100,000 needed to correct the Henry-N. Elm-Tanner Sts. problem be taken from revenue-sharing funds and that planning for the project be started immediately. He recommended, further, that a subcommittee of the board be named, to work with the manager and the public works department in reviewing and updating the proposed projects on the 1968 list.

Weiss estimated the Henry-N. Elm-Tanner Sts. project could be under construction in

Sidewalk Sites Plague Board

SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)

Pietrantonio wasn't commenting on Manchester's impending election. He was talking about sidewalks and where to place them — on the east or west or north or south side of the street.

It all started last spring, when the directors voted amendments to the town's safety measure, all amendments declare that when the board initiates a project and votes to install sidewalks as a safety measure, all assessments about abutting property owners are waived. In other instances, the abutting property owners are still required to pay their 50 per cent share.

Among sidewalk projects voted by the directors at 100 per cent of the town were those on Hartford Rd., Wehber St., Kenney St. and Hackmatack St.

After objections by Hartford Rd. residents to engineering plans which required removal of some trees, the plans were changed, the sidewalks were constructed to go around or skirt the trees, and the plan for some sidewalks on the south side was abandoned.

With both precincts reporting, the vote was 208 for prohibition, 294 against. But 18 absentee ballots remained to be counted and 83 voter choices were filed.

The sale of alcoholic beverages was legalized in 1967. Four years later, the voters rejected a proposal for prohibition. The "dry" lost by 32 votes.

Judge Gives Lecture On News Leaks

BALTIMORE (AP) The federal judge handling the grand jury investigating Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told the jurors today in an unusual public hearing that they should not be influenced by stories from the news media.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman summoned the jury, after a private meeting with lawyers for Agnew and the Justice Department, to lecture them on their responsibilities and duties in investigating federal crimes.

"We are rapidly approaching the day when the perpetual conflict between the news media, operating as they do under freedom of speech and freedom of the press, and the judicial system charged with the protection of the rights of persons under investigation for criminal acts, must be resolved," Hoffman said in his personal records for 1967-72 and that he would be forced to testify or go to jail for concealment.

There were 18 members of the 20-member panel present in the courtroom, 10 of them men.

Hoffman told the jurors that if they feel they may have been "improperly influenced by the news media" and cannot honestly consider the evidence, they should advise me promptly to this effect."

The public session lasted 15 minutes and then the judge

Premier Believes Jewish Emigration Will Continue

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir says she believes the flow of Jews from the Soviet Union will continue despite her failure to get Sududinn Khan, prince of Transnistria, to let the Schoeman transit camp continue to operate.

Mrs. Meir returned to Israel Tuesday night after a fruitless 90-minute meeting in Vienna with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky.

She told newsmen she was "very sad" about Kreisky's insistence on fulfilling his promise to Arab terrorists to close the facility 20 miles south of Vienna. The Jewish Agency has processed emigrants from the Soviet Union at the center before tying them to Israel.

Asked if she expected the closing of the camp to stem the movement of Soviet Jews through Austria, Mrs. Meir replied: "I hope not... I believe it will."

Mrs. Meir was to meet with her cabinet today to discuss the situation.

Mrs. Meir said the most convenient solution would be to fly the emigrants direct from Moscow to Tel Aviv, but this could only be done with the approval of the Soviet government. It appeared unlikely that the Kremlin would cooperate in such an arrangement because of the opposition of its allies.

Kreisky stressed that he was not going to bar individual emigrants from passing through Austria; "only the special facilities we have been able to grant so far no longer be available."

He said his government fears it cannot protect the camp adequately against Arab terrorist attacks.

Mrs. Meir said she and her cabinet would discuss the offer of the Netherlands to take over as the main route for the immigrants from Russia. She called the Dutch proposal "a moving gesture."

Kreisky defended his capitulation to the two Arab

Public Session Follows Hearing Agnew Complaint

The public session lasted 15 minutes and then the judge directed the jury to "resume your deliberations."

U.S. marshals escorted the panel along the fifth floor corridor to their room, sealed off from the public, where they were to hear a waiting witness, William J. Muth, an Agnew fund raiser and former Democratic city councilman in Baltimore. Muth declined to answer questions last Tuesday.

"This whole damned thing is un-American," Muth told a newsmen in confirming he was being recalled, ordered to testify in his personal records for 1967-72 and that he would be forced to testify or go to jail for concealment.

"Why shouldn't they give me immunity?" he asked. "I don't know anything about the whole affair."

The jury is probing alleged political corruption in Maryland. The Agnew phase of the investigation centers on allegations of bribery, extortion, conspiracy and tax violations which, sealed as Baltimore County executive and governor during the 1960s.

Nixon Denies Asking Agnew To Step Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared today he has never asked Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to resign and voiced strong support for an Agnew target, Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen.

Nixon replied "certainly not," when asked at a news conference if he had done any contingency planning on finding a possible Agnew successor.

Asked if he agreed with the vice president's assessment that he is a victim of Petersen's effort to recoup prestige lost in the Watergate prosecutions, Nixon said that Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson has told him neither Petersen nor any of his aides had been the source of news leaks about the Agnew investigation.

"If I did not approve Mr. Petersen's handling of the investigation, he would be removed at this time," Nixon said.

Nixon, appearing relaxed and making occasional small jokes, again urged that all Americans assume the vice president is innocent unless proven otherwise.

At one point, Nixon said he had been briefed on the Justice

Political Saboteur Relates Tricks To Watergate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political saboteur Donald H. Segretti today listed for the Senate Watergate committee the tricks he pulled on Democrats last year and publicly apologized for his activities. They were "wrong and assure the country that I am not a political spy," Segretti said.

The California lawyer said he was recruited for his tricky work by former White House aides Dwight L. Chapin and Gordon Strachan and paid a salary of $18,000 yearly and about $40,000 in expenses by Herbert W. Kalmbach, President Nixon's one-time personal lawyer.

Segretti testified that his activities during the 1972 Florida primary including distribution of a phony letter on campaign stationery of Sen. Edmund Muskie that accused two other Democratic presidential candidates of sexual misconduct.

He pleaded guilty in federal court Monday to three misdemeanor counts in connection with the political sabotage he undertook in the Florida primary.

Segretti said the letter on the stationery of the Maine senator was his own idea. It was not by any other person. "I was not my own desire to have anyone believe the letter, but, instead, it was intended to create confusion about the various candidates," Segretti said.

Another Massachusetts Democrat, Rep. Torbert McDonald, said the administration should publicly for this "stupid act."

Segretti said he recruited assistants to carry out his activities "to make a voluntary political spy."

The White House announced Tuesday immediate mandatory allocations on propane gas and said it would impose the controls on distillate oils within a few weeks.

The distillate oils include diesel fuel, jet fuel, kerosene and the home heating oil especially needed in the cold winter of New England and the upper Midwest.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., quickly sent a letter to the President charging that the administration's delay in applying mandatory allocation to home heating oil "has precipitated a crisis for the Northeast."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, also urged a complete mandatory allocation program. He said the White House action was only "a piecemeal approach."

John A. Love, director of the President's Energy Policy Office, had held out against mandatory allocations throughout the summer, urging the oil industry to make a voluntary program work.

He said regulations for home heating oil allocations would be issued and put into effect "in the near future."

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton estimated this would take two weeks.

Love emphasized that mandatory allocation would not eliminate any potential shortages, but would only assure a fair spread of available fuel.

The Interior Department has estimated the nation may be short of at least 100,000 barrels per day of home heating oil this winter and bad weather or other adverse conditions could make that shortage worse.

Fuel Allocation Timing Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — "What that means is that my constituents are going to go cold this winter," Kennedy wrote.

But Virginia H. Knauer, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs, disputed Kennedy's claim.

"The President's action is designed to ensure that those with the greatest energy needs are served first. This will not be a winter where American families are left out in the cold," she said.

Another Massachusetts Democrat, Rep. Torbert McDonald, said the administration major surgery is required.

McDonald, chairman of a House power subcommittee, urged passage of legislation, already approved by the Senate, which would require the President to impose mandatory allocations on a broad range of petroleum products including gasoline.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate

The full-time secretary even a one-man business can afford!

TOTALPHONE has arrived! The astounding new computerized phone service that acts as your personal secretary in five amazing ways, works for about 21¢ a day [all day, all night, all 365 days a year], never takes a coffee break and never talks back!

The never-before Totalphone services:

- Call Forwarding Totalphone transfers your incoming calls to any number any time you want it to. So, when you sneak a few hours away to go to the ball game your business calls will ring at home (or at Mom's) where someone who knows your business can take messages!
- Call Waiting When you're already on the phone and someone else tries to reach you, Totalphone sounds two beeps. By putting the first call on "hold" you can answer the second and then switch back and forth — keeping two customers happy at the same time!
- Speed Calling Totalphone will code the numbers [local or long distance] you call most frequently into just three digits each. So your contractor in Springfield who was eleven turns of the dial away is suddenly only a beep and a boop away!
- Three-way Calling Totalphone lets you add a third party to your two-way conversations [whenever you want to] without operator assistance — a real time saver for business conferences!
- Touch-Tone Phones Modern Touch-Tone [push-button] phones will replace your dial sets when you order Totalphone. Touch-Tone is faster and more accurate than dialing. It's more fun, too, because each button plays its own melodic note!

Homemaker Exhibit

"What Extension Can Do For You?" will be the theme of an open house to be held at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Thursday from 1 to 8 p.m.

There will be exhibits of past and future programs of the various homemaker groups. These exhibits are to help acquaint the public with the educational information that is available to it.

Among the exhibits will be a vignette compiled by the Pond Hill Homemakers group of Coventry. Members of this group are Mrs. Phyllis Waldron, Mrs. Mary Kenyon, Mrs. Marilyn Gilbert, Mrs. Irene Sherman, Mrs. Barbara Palmer, Mrs. Barbara Perkins, Mrs. Leona Jeros, Mrs. Geraldine Cunningham and Mrs. Lois Kaminsky.

Other exhibits will feature food preservation, international foods, health foods, quilt making, and furniture refinishing.

Agricultural and 4-H agents and the extension home economist will be available for consultation at the open house. The general public is invited. No admission fee will be charged.

A vignette of items made by the Pond Hill Homemakers group of Coventry, will be among the many displays to be featured at the open house to be held Thursday, from 1 to 9 p.m., at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon. No admission will be charged. A speaker from the International Youth Exchange will be featured at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Seed Prices Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock producers who turned to fall pastures to help offset rising costs of feed concentrates have found seed supplies also tight and expensive, according to the Agriculture Department.

Prices paid for seed used in planting fall crops for winter cover and pasture were up 47 per cent from a year earlier as of Sept. 15, says the department. Compared with the base year of 1967, the prices for all seed averaged 97 per cent higher.

The Sept. 15 average price of uncertified alfalfa seed was $108 per 100 pounds, up from $54.80 on the same date last year. Certified alfalfa was $119 per hundredweight, up from $65.50.

Other seeds such as clover, timothy, orchardgrass, vetch and fescue also have soared in price.

Seed for the big field crops has risen too. Wheat for fall planting averaged $7.20 per bushel Sept. 15, compared with $2.97 a year earlier. Oats were $3.90 compared with $2.27. Barley $4.60 compared with $2.80, and rye $4.50 compared with $1.78 a year ago.

Economists Interpret Price Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists, analyzing the big eight per cent drop in prices of raw farm products last month, say it prices for wheat, cotton and a few other commodities had not gone up the government's index might have dropped the most in half a century.

As it was, the eight per cent slide — led by lower prices for livestock — was the most since the "prices received" index went down nine per cent from January to February 1948.

If the index had dropped 10 to 11 per cent — as some had thought it might — the decline would have been the largest since the fall of 1950 when it plummeted 12 per cent from November to December.

Statistics often point to 1920 as one of the roughest years on record for farmers. From July through December that year the price index dropped a total of 39 per cent, according to USDA records.

Cattle in July 1920 were $9.25 per 100 pounds. By December they were $6.48 per hundredweight. Hogs went from $13.90 per hundredweight to $8.50. Wheat dropped from $2.43 per bushel to $1.46; corn from $1.75 to 67 cents; and cotton fell from 37.6 cents per pound in July to 12.6 in December.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12

Rockville Session

Margie Majewski, 20, of 9 Linden St., Rockville, has been bound over to the next criminal session of Tolland County Superior Court on a charge of sale of marijuana.

The binder came after she pleaded innocent Tuesday and waived a hearing in probable cause.

Additional charges against Mrs. Majewski, who is also known as Ginetta Gray, were notified Tuesday by Prosecutor Joseph Paradise. The notified charges were a second count of sale of marijuana and two counts of possession of controlled drugs.

In other cases before Judge William Graham Tuesday: Jerry L. Anselmo, 16, of 37 Phoenix St., Vernon, fined $15 for operating motor vehicle without license and $15 for operating unregistered motor vehicle.

Gary M. Bamon, 19, of 61 Park West Dr., Rockville, fined $35 on a substitute charge of disorderly conduct. He was originally charged with intoxication, breach of peace, and two counts of interfering with a police officer.

Lee Bonday, 30, of Hartford, breach of peace, fined. George E. Wilson, 26, of Hartford, breach of peace, fined. Roger C. Bousquet, Michael J. Blunzier and Patrick E. Meskell, all 19 and all of Enfield, all charged with illegal discharge of fireworks, all fined.

Gerald Buttimer, 33, of 153 Maple St., Ellington, disorderly conduct, fined. David A. Eklund, 20, of 8 Faith Dr., Vernon, driving wrong way on one-way street

Sophisticated Track Checker Seeks To Avert Derailments

By LEW FERGUSON Associated Press Writer

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Santa Fe Railroad says it now has the most sophisticated piece of equipment in existence for detecting trouble spots on track before they cause derailments or other problems.

A specially equipped car — a converted private Santa Fe executive's car of about 1940 vintage — takes a reading every 11 inches as it travels along the track, measuring nine track conditions.

"It's the only one like it on the books," said C.R. Kaelin, Santa Fe's director of technical research and development. "There are other cars like it, but not nearly as sophisticated."

The car began its first assignment Monday, a trip to Los Angeles and back to collect data on Santa Fe's tracks to the West Coast.

Officially dubbed the "Track Geometry Scientific Testing Car," it includes an instrument room, work shop, office and galley and has its own generators. It is self-sufficient except for locomotion.

Special sensory devices attached to the wheels record such things as how far the rails are apart, roll and pitch of the car, alignment of rails and surface condition of the rails. Nine indicators on the wheels feed information to a "GeoTrac" recorder in the instrumentation room.

Inside the car, a "gyro-stabilized pendulum" records the car's movement to give an indication of how much sway the track causes when cars pass over it.

A computer now being programmed will be added to the car to provide tapes of the data collected on the runs. The "Geo-Trac" now provides a printout that shows every track deviation.

The computer also will summarize defects and provide a printout for each mile of track tested.

To a railroad, all of this is something just unheard of," Kaelin said.

Group Will Hear Talk On Learning Flaws

ANNE EMIT Correspondent Tel. 228-3971

Miss Patricia Lenihan, State Department of Education consultant for perceptual learning disabilities, will be the guest speaker Thursday evening at 7:30 at Rham High School at a meeting of the Cross County Association for Children with Perceptual Learning Disabilities. Miss Lenihan's topic will be, "Problems and Solutions" for children with learning disabilities.

The meeting is open to the public and all educators, teachers, parents and other interested individuals are welcome and urged to attend.

The association would like to stress that it is concerned with children of all ages from preschool through junior-senior high school. It would also like to emphasize that it is not only a Rham organization and membership is open to anyone from surrounding towns.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting either Mrs. Charles Oliver or Mrs. Audrey Wolcott, both of East St., Hebron.

"But there are no limitations on what the grand jury may consider," he said. Coffey said Chief U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal is being asked to impanel the special grand jury in Hartford within 30 days.

Purse-Snatcher Injures Woman BRIDGEPORT (AP) — Minnie Virgilia, 70, of Fairfield received a broken arm Monday when she became the city's 77th purse snatch victim this year.

Police said she was pushed to the ground on Waterman street. Police Sgt. Joseph A. Walsh said he would assign dog patrols to the areas where purse snatchers were reported.

Task Force Seeks Grand Jury Crime Probe HARTFORD (AP) — The head of the federal Organized Crime Strike Force in Connecticut says a special grand jury will be requested to investigate organized crime in the state.

Special U.S. Atty. Paul E. Coffey said bookmaking, loan sharking, extortion and internal revenue code violations will be central points of the inquiry.

"But there are no limitations on what the grand jury may consider," he said. Coffey said Chief U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal is being asked to impanel the special grand jury in Hartford within 30 days.

How About It, Neighbor?

If someone bet you ten dollars, could you name the people who live in the five houses next to you, up and down your street? Or, if you live in an apartment, or condominium, could you name ten other tenants or dwellers in your living complex? We doubt it.

Your mother or father, most likely could have done this. They lived in another time, another era — a time when there were neighborhoods in a sense that they do not exist today. No one is really to blame for this, it is just something that has happened to life in America.

Not so long ago, a group of children who started to school in the first grade together, were reasonably sure that most of them would be in the same graduating class from high school.

People live on streets where they were born. They grew up there, lived there, many of them died there. And the streets formed neighborhoods where almost everyone knew everyone else. Many of the men worked together. And they mostly walked to work or took a bus, or a streetcar.

Houses had been there for a long time. The same families lived in the same houses, sometimes for generations. A newcomer in a neighborhood might be someone who had been there only five or ten years. Children grew up together. Most of the women on the street knew all of the children. And many times they knew all their birthdays, since children and birthdays were pretty much the women's business.

There was a feeling of belonging

there, a solidarity that is something gone in the past.

Statistics say that American families move about every five years now on the average. Children go to several or many schools in the years between first grade and high school graduation.

Moving vans on a street used to be a very rare thing. And they were a little shock to those who lived there. A friend, a neighbor was moving away. It was like a bereavement.

Today, the moving van is unnoticed. There is no sorrow about a family moving. They were hardly known anyway. Maybe only the children in the families knew each other, as so often happens. Neighborliness — in the old sense — seems to have gone. A lady up in Montana, deploring this, has started a movement this year to have an annual Neighbor's Day in September. It would be a day on which people would call on their neighbors and learn something about them.

We all ought to try it. We may find someone lonely, someone ill. Or we may find a very delightful person, whom we click with right away, even though up until then we had hardly admitted to knowing each other.

Make an effort to be friendly with your neighbors. It can be very pleasurable. You may find a mutually interested, helpful friend. Swap a recipe or a tool or know-how.

Long ago we were admonished to love our neighbor, as the most important commandment of the law. The good Samaritan was the man who was truly neighborly.

Try it. It could enrich a lot of lives.

The Altar of Reality

The reconvening of the United Nations has witnessed the admission of two Germanies, recognizing for the first time that the partition of World War II is real and the states are two separate national entities, even though East Germany is very much a satellite of Russia.

Chiang Kai Shek, the aging leader of the Free Chinese on Taiwan, must wonder at the quickness with which his nation was expelled from the UN in order to make room for Red China, which refused to join as long as Free Chinese were members, and hence admitted of national stature.

Chiang and his followers were sacrifices on the altar of reality. There was no longer the least hope that Taiwan and his forces would some day return to the mainland and overturn the Red rule there. Hence, to gain a greater detente with Red China and seek a balance of power, Taiwan was written off.

There are problems with other partitioned nations, also. North and South Korea almost parallel the German situation with one state sustained by an ally of the Communists and the other looking to the West for its very life.

The proliferation of nations within the UN was marked this time by the admission of the Bahamas. This was all done with a very straight face and no public admission that it is an absurdity.

Membership in the United Nations was 45 at the time of its formation. It is now about 125. This means that there are 130 other nations in the assembly which on the face of it are the equal of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France, etc.

The rank of the members has grown in leaps and bounds by the inclusion of the so-called "emerging" countries. Some of these, in our opinion, are emerging very slowly. Most of them are former colonial possessions which have not yet learned to govern themselves. With few exceptions they seem to enjoy a mutual sharing of economic chaos.

We do not mean to disparage their aspirations. But it is totally unrealistic that they have the same status as the world's established and leading nations in the assembly, even though there is differentiation in the Security Council.

Nominally they hear little of the cost of UN, if they bother to pay their assessments. And many use it as a sounding board for anti-U.S. propaganda. A recent example was the member from Cuba who accused the U.S. of fermenting the Chilean revolution which overthrew the Allende government.

It is an indignity for our Mr. Scall to have to devote himself to answering ridiculous propaganda of the type emanating from Cuba, an economically sick satellite of the Soviets.

Unless until some realistic method of admittance and voting is devised for the UN, it is hard to accept it as a viable institution.

Letter Edged In Black

WASHINGTON — We the people have received another letter edged in black from the all-thumbs charlatans who operate what is jokingly entitled the U.S. Postal Service. Unless sanity takes over, it will cost us still more not to get our mail delivered on time after next Jan. 5.

This macabre announcement was made by Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen at a National Press Club luncheon. Klassen says his boys will boost the price of first-class stamps from 8 to 10 cents and air mail stamps from 11 to 13 cents. There will be other increases of between 5 and 38.6 per cent for other classes of mail.

Obviously, Klassen's solution to the scandal which is our postal service is to soak the customers: it was only last year that the price of first-class postage was raised from 6 to 8 cents. Now the Postal Service also plans to increase by 38.6 per cent the cost of mailing second-class material, primarily newspapers and magazines; raise the third-class bulk rate from 4.8 to 6.3 cents for 15 ounces, depending on volume; raise the price of a postcard from 6 to 8 cents and air mail cards from 9 to 11 cents, and increase the fourth-class parcel post rate to 6 cents a pound.

In short, Klassen wants across-the-board increases. He says the new rate structure would bring in some $2.1-billion additionally each year, a development he obviously believes would be dandy. Haloney.

It is haloney because Klassen's excuse for raising mail rates is that his quasi-government corporation is under "severe inflationary pressures...the cost-price squeeze has affected us just as much as it has the entire economy." So Klassen's prescription is to add to the "severe inflationary pressures."

Those lucky, or lazy, individuals who mail only a few letters a year may think the new rates would have little or no effect on their budgets. Ha! That $2.1-billion added income prescribed by Klassen has got to come from somewhere and that somewhere is the average consumer. Because the increased rates will increase operating costs for every business in the country, they will be passed on to the public.

I'm not talking only about newspapers and magazines or other businesses which use the mails to deliver their merchandise to the customer. Food will cost more, and shoes, trichies, TV sets, refrigerators — you name it. These items will cost more because it will cost more to do business, beginning with the increased price of mailing monthly bills. Multiply an extra two cents by the thousands of bills mailed monthly by big department stores and you have an annual cost few businessmen desire to absorb.

Klassen has added what he apparently believes is a sweetener to his message. He pledges that the Postal Service will strive for overnight delivery of at least 95 per cent of air mail destined for major cities within a radius of 600 miles, as well as overnight air mail service between some 500 specific major cities regardless of distance. Klassen claims this promise is new. He says "This marks the first time that mail users have been told publicly and specifically in what time frame a letter or parcel should be delivered." Where has the man been? The Postal Service has been feeding us the same fraudulent jazz for the past three years and it still takes a miracle to transport a postcard across the street. Klassen dismisses those earlier promises as merely an effort to achieve "internal standards," but his flukes announced them as The McCoy.

Klassen seeks to appeal to worshippers of efficiency by declaring that "We're running the Postal Service like a business organization." Bah! Delivering the mail is not a business operation but is intended as a public service. Does he suggest that police and fire departments start billing the public for their services in order to balance their books?

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Oct. 3, the 276th day of 1973. There are 89 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1952, the British exploded their first atomic bomb, in a test off the coast of Australia.

On this date — In 1868, war between Austria and Italy was ended by the Treaty of Vienna.

In 1983, President Abraham Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

In 1932, Iraq joined the League of Nations as a British mandate ended.

In 1955, Italian forces invaded Ethiopia.

In 1964, a nine-power conference in London agreed that West Germany should enter the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1962, American ports were closed to all ships carrying cargoes to Cuba.

Ten years ago: The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed in principle to ban nuclear weapons from space vehicles in orbit.

Five years ago: Military leaders in Peru ousted President Fernando Belaunde Terry in a bloodless coup.

One year ago: Premier Jens Otto Krag of Denmark resigned after his countrymen gave him a decisive political victory by voting for membership in the European Common Market.

Today's birthdays: Writer Core Vidal is 48. Conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski is 50. Thought for today: The history of liberty is the history of the limitations on the power of government. — President Woodrow Wilson, 1856-1924.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

There isn't a week that goes by that doesn't have some type of observance complete with a proclamation by the mayor, governor, and sometimes even the President.

Three important weeks begin Sunday. It is National Newspaper Week, National 4-H Week, and National Fire Prevention Week.

Most newspapers won't devote a lot of space to Newspaper Week because of the critical newspaper situation. At The Herald, our efforts will be devoted to our carriers, those who bring you the paper each day and particularly on National Newsbay Day, Oct. 13, though it should be called Carrier Day because we have several girls.

Our salute to all firemen, the many youngsters in 4-H and their adult leaders who make it all possible, and The Herald's growing carrier force. Many people have the opinion that 4-H is just for rural youngsters. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In many of our major cities, 4-H is doing a commendable job.

Main Street's Phil Harrison says the paper shortage is also being felt in his business. He notes that file folders, even scratch pads, are getting difficult to secure and the price has also risen.

The worst part of it all is the word from suppliers that no relief is in sight, in fact the paper situation is likely to get worse.

The decision by a Connecticut Common Pleas Court ordering newspapers to stop advertising jobs under separate male and female columns came as no surprise. We could see the handwriting on the wall which is the reason we changed to a single column about a year ago. Editor & Publisher, the trade journal for this industry, cites a case in Pennsylvania in which the Human Relations Commission of that state is virtually trying to rewrite the English language.

According to the commission, there are no more salesmen, doormen, foremen, busboys, barmaids or housemothers. They have to be, at least in classified ads, salespersons, doorkeepers, supervisors, kitchen helpers and house parents. According to the commission, an advertiser who seeks either a waiter or a waitress is in violation; he probably has to advertise for a waiter person. It may all sound a bit ridiculous but we can see the time when both our advertisers and our classified employees are going to have to be extremely careful in just what words they choose.

As we get ready to observe National Newspaper Week, it seems fitting we call your attention to a bill in Alabama. Gov. George C. Wallace has signed into law a measure requiring newsmen, or newswomen, to make financial disclosures before being allowed to cover state government. Reporters who fail to comply with the legislation will be barred from covering "state government in any way."

The same law also requires public officials to disclose their financial holdings and divest themselves of any possible conflicts of interest.

George Marlow is a life-long resident of Manchester but he had first occasion to use the Highland Park Spring recently.

During one of our storms, the Marlow well was struck by lightning and before he could get it repaired, George transported water from the spring to his home.

We received nothing but silence on our reward offer for information leading to those who lifted the Connecticut flag from in front of our building.

So since the pole looked so bare we went out and bought another. We padlocked this one. But if someone needs a Connecticut flag, let us know and we'll go out and take up a collection so you can buy one.

In this day when there is a lot of conversation on the tight money mortgage market and high interest rates, you might find it of interest that a House subcommittee is holding hearings on the administration's new housing proposals.

While the President outlined a number of steps to pump money into the home-mortgage market, Congressional reaction has been more than cool, and therefore little or no new legislation is expected.

We are reminded, though, of some 20 years ago when we had a desire to own a weekly newspaper and the lender calmly commented, "Money is never really tight; it all depends on what you want to pay for it."

We didn't pay the weekly.

Hartford National Bank and Trust Company's publication, Comments, says Japan has recently passed West Germany to assume second place among the world's capitalist economies. If the growth rate which brought Japan to such stature is maintained, some forecasters claim Japan will challenge the United States economy for top honors by the end of this century, having streaked past the Soviet Union sometime during the 1980s.

"It is an interesting speculation, and although we doubt that Japan has much chance of surpassing the U.S. in economic might, it is remarkable that such an idea can occur at all regarding a country of half our population on one twenty-fifth our land. Especially so when one remembers the devastating results of World War 2 but a few short years ago," says Comments.

Last week wasn't one of our better weeks. It all began with an electrical short in The Herald's roof-top-heating and air conditioning unit. We're glad there was more smoke than fire and praise is certainly due the Manchester Town Fire Department for the splendid efforts of its men.

We waited more than a week for an equipment part to reach us by air from Alabama. In the meantime, The Herald crew would sweeter and then freeze.

One order of newspaper, the commodity upon which your newspaper is printed, was canceled because of the tight supply. A couple of neighbors called up and said "If newprint is so tight, I'll help you out and cancel my subscription." That's never good news. About mid-week this writer developed a severe back and chest pain. We endured it until the end of the week. Thanks to the fine facilities at Manchester Memorial Hospital and our physician, the pain turned out to be only a virus. But it made us keenly aware once again of the fine medical facilities in Manchester for which we should all be grateful.

The Candidates Are Saying-

Phyllis Jackson

(Mrs. Jackson is a Democratic candidate for the Board of Directors.)

We recognize that deficiencies still exist in our town administration. Two years ago, when the Democrats took office, we inherited a number of problems that existed under the previous Board of Directors.

We discovered that monies had been borrowed needlessly on short term notes. The funds that had been received for the Secondary Treatment Plant and the sewer trunk lines had been commingled with other town funds and a mere $600,000 was "misplaced." We resolved that problem by insuring that those receipts of all funds which are earmarked for special projects are accounted for separately.

We appointed a new assessor. This department has worked hard to bring all assessments up to date and is keeping up with the task of immediate reassessment of all new completed construction when the Certificate of Occupancy is issued. This means additional revenue in our town treasury.

The collector of revenue office is, in my opinion, the most important department in our administration. It has been my experience, having been involved in business accounting and management for the past 18 years, that careful and meticulous attention is always given primarily to revenue. Expenditures depend on revenue—both go hand-in-hand—one cannot exist without the other. We recognize, as I am sure, does the collector himself, that some problems exist in his office and that appropriate attention is needed to rectify these problems.

The auditor's report indicates that this situation has existed for many years and that changes are mandatory. Some of the important recommendations include:

1. Balancing of accounts receivable to the control account.
2. The billing of delinquent taxes at least once a year, as required by the state tax commissioner.
3. Returning to the water and sewer departments billings and control of water and sewer charges.
4. Departmental collections of monies to be transmitted directly to the treasurer.

I have consulted with the auditors, in order to become more knowledgeable of the existing situation, and have devoted a great deal of time to the studies of the functions of this office. There is no question in my mind that the auditors' recommendations for the proper and expeditious methods to handle our revenue should be implemented immediately.

This is not an impossible task. It merely requires that the proper changes be instituted in that office. If re-elected, I pledge to see that it is accomplished.

The final answer to all this could lie in the establishment of a department of finance, with a director for the finance who would be the controller—as proposed by the Charter Revision Commission. This change in our charter, if approved, would consolidate all the fiscal operations of the assessor, controller, collector of revenue and director of general service under one department.

You, the voter, can make this important decision by approving Question 5 on the referendum which pertains to the department of finance.

Falls

Next to traffic accidents, falls kill more people than any other type of accident. Each year, approximately 20,000 people are killed and 12,500,000 are injured by falls. Surprisingly, most falling accidents are on the same level, not from high places.

Here are some things you can do to protect yourself and members of your family from falls in your home.

Arrange furniture so that there is a clear path of travel one room to the next. When you have to run an obstacle course, your chances of tripping and falling increase. Place cords for electrical equipment away from walking areas.

Install handrails on all stairs and teach your children to use them. Keep acater rugs away from the head and foot of the stairs because these can cause sliding accidents. Stairs are for walking and should not be used as storage space for toys, clothes, packages, and debris.

Adequate lighting is important, too, especially on stairs. Night lights in hallways and bathrooms are very helpful. Place lights so they can be turned on from the bed to avoid falling in the dark.

Floors should be kept clean. Buff them to remove excess wax. Wipe up all spilled water, oil, or grease immediately to avoid slipping hazards. Loose floor boards and worn floor

Blast, Gunfire Injures 14 In Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb explosion and gunfire wounded 14 persons in Northern Ireland Tuesday night. Two wounded men were found in the Roman Catholic Falls Road quarter of Belfast, one shot in the leg, the other in the buttocks. They were believed the victims of a punishment squad from the Irish Republican Army.

During the day Tuesday eight persons were wounded by a 300-pound bomb in a car left in a construction company yard in Cookstown.

Congress Asked To Lift Ban On Trademark Goods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has asked Congress to permit U.S. travelers abroad to bring home certain goods now banned by trademark restrictions.

The 1930 law the department wants repealed allows firms and individuals owning trademarks to prohibit the importation of items — such as cameras, watches and perfumes — bearing the same trademarks.

This is a constant source of irritation for traveling Americans," said William E. Simon, deputy secretary of the Treasury.

Elks Sponsor Contest For Youth Leaders

The Rockville Lodge of Elks will sponsor a Youth Leadership Contest for high school juniors and seniors, in conjunction with the state and national Elks associations.

Announcement of the contest plans was made by Taul J. Rothka, exalted ruler of the Rockville lodge.

The contest will be open to all high school juniors and seniors, provided they are under 19 years of age as of July 1, 1974.

John Williams Jr., is local chairman of the youth activities committee. He said the purpose of the contest is to recognize the outstanding girls and boys who are respected by their classmates, teachers, clergymen, coaches, parents and the lawpeople.

The two top prizes, on the local level will be U.S. Savings Bonds. In turn the applications of the top winners will be sent to be judged on the state level. Winners on that level will receive $500 educational certificates.

These certificates may be turned over to colleges, vocational schools, business schools and such, and utilized for educational purposes. The state winners will also be eligible to go on national competition where the top three winners will receive $2,000, $1,750 and $1,500 cash certificates.

Entry blanks will be distributed this week to the principal of the high school in Vernon, Tolland, Ellington, Stafford and South Windsor, all towns serviced by the Rockville Lodge of Elks.

Additional applications may be obtained by writing to the Office of the Secretary, Rockville Lodge of Elks, Box 247, Rockville. All entry blanks must be submitted to the secretary, no later than Nov. 1.

Area Gasoline Prices Rising

BOSTON (AP) — The Automobile Legal Association says gasoline prices in New England rose an average of more than a half a cent per gallon during the weekend.

The club said a survey of 160 service stations in the states showed that many operators plan to raise prices again by the end of the week.

An ALA spokesman said the average price per gallon for regular gasoline last week was 38.8 cents and Monday was 40.5 cents.

He predicted the average price will be 41 cents per gallon by the end of the week.

Price hikes were most evident in the greater Boston area and on Cape Cod, followed by western Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the spokesman said.

He said the average price for gasoline varied Monday from 39.4 cents per gallon in central Massachusetts to 42.5 cents per gallon in Vermont.

Tolland County Group Asks Meskill Free Welfare Fund

The Tolland County Democratic Association, expressing concern over the recent impoundment of General Assembly appropriated funds, has written to Governor Meskill enclosing a resolution adopted by the association.

The funds involved welfare money and the association, in its letter, urged the governor to rescind his action "so that appropriated funds may be used to the fullest extent for the welfare of the people of Connecticut."

The resolution calls for operating the state government on a sound fiscal basis, while at the same time maintaining the traditionally high quality of essential services.

It charges that the fiscal policy of the present administration has, in effect, created a situation where essential funding of such services has been withheld, "and in effect impounded, contrary to the expressed will and intention of the General Assembly."

It urges Governor Meskill to "cast aside all political considerations and immediately release those funds which are required," and have been duly appropriated, to repair the continuing serious damage that is evident in the deterioration of humane services and thereby recognize that the fundamental purpose of government is to serve the needs of all the people of the state."

Guidance Survey

Ninth and 11th grade students in Manchester's public schools will be asked to take a "priority counseling survey" over the next two weeks.

The secondary school guidance departments say the survey isn't a test, but instead just helps counselors to identify information with which to help students achieve their career and education goals.

The priority counseling survey, a recently developed program, was used at Bennet and King Junior High Schools in a pilot program last year. Through use of data processing, guidance counselors are provided with print-outs of student responses.

Jaycees Mark 20th Year

The Manchester Jaycees are planning to celebrate the 20th anniversary of its chartering Oct. 27. Dick Bohadik, chairman, has announced.

The event, to which all former Jaycees and especially charter members are invited, will be at D&D Caterers on Rt. 85, Bolton, starting at 7 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Nathan Agostinelli, state comptroller and former Manchester mayor. Tickets at $20 per couple can be reserved from Bohadik by telephoning 649-2545 by Oct. 15.

Bohadik said a steak dinner is planned and the formal program will be brief, leaving time for fellowship among present members and those who have belonged to the chapter since its inception in 1953.

BAA Asks Townspeople For Backing

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent

Bolton Athletic Association (BAA) annual membership drive is now under way. Funds raised are used as supplement to town athletic and recreational programs.

During the past year the BAA was able to enter a team in the intertown basketball tournament and also supplemented a summer basketball league.

New jerseys were provided for four Farm League baseball teams, entrance fees were paid for the intertown Little League tournament and materials were provided to build scoreboards for both the Little League and Farm League teams.

Equipment was purchased by the BAA for a newly formed three-team girls' softball league and softball for the men's slow pitch softball league.

A Bunker Hill Jungle Jim was purchased and installed by the BAA at Herrick Memorial Park for young children.

Another need in Bolton this year was the formation of six-week summer recreation program. The BAA allocated funds for the purchase of equipment and supplies for the program.

All types of athletics and recreation for all age groups are supported by the BAA.

The drive is conducted through October. Memberships are $5 for a family and $25 for businesses.

Checks may be sent to the Bolton Athletic Association, P.O. Box 192, Bolton, Conn. 06040.

BAA President Mike Giglio asks all townspeople for continued and new support in order that next year will be as successful as the past year.

Senior Citizens Offered Class in Crewel

Classes in crewel embroidery and needlepoint will be sponsored by the Recreation Department and the Adult Education Division, for Vernon senior citizens, with the first class to be held Oct. 16.

Both beginner and advanced classes will be held with Mrs. Mabel McCann as instructor. Those attending do not need to have had any experience in crewel work or needlepoint.

The classes are free-of-charge for any senior citizen. The only charge will be a small one for the materials to be used. The recreation department director, Donald Berg said, will pick up part of the cost of the materials.

Registrations must be made as soon as possible so that adequate materials can be obtained in advance of the class. Calls should be made at 8 p.m., Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club, 102 Norman St., and Friday at 10 a.m. at the South United Methodist Church campus. Alotens for the 12 to 20-year-old children of problem drinkers will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club. The family groups are open to friends and relatives living with severe problem drinkers.

Council To Make Choice On Ice Rink Land Sale

The Vernon Town Council will hold a special meeting tonight at 8:30 to come to a decision on the sale of a parcel of land in the town's industrial park.

At Monday night's meeting of the council, Senator Thomas Carruthers presented a proposal for construction of an indoor ice facility on industrial park land.

Carruthers offered to purchase the land at a cost of $2,000 an acre. Meanwhile, contractor David J. Webster, who is building small industrial buildings in the park, has offered to buy the same parcel at a cost of $3,500 an acre.

Prior to Webster's offer, the Economic Development Commission told Mayor Frank McCoy that the land should go for no less than $3,000 an acre. The parcel in question consists of about 10 acres. Carruthers proposal called for the town to install a minimum access road.

Carruthers told the council that $2,000 would be his top offer. The town has set up a study committee to determine the feasibility of building a town-operated ice facility. Carruthers said he does not want subsidized competition from the town.

The meeting tonight will be attended by members of the BAA who are expected to have figures as to the amount in taxes the ice facility will bring in as compared to the amount

Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection
Barbara B. Dunn, Commissioner

Q. Your department periodically announces that certain brands of mattresses have been taken off store shelves because of the possibility of botulism. Would you tell me a little more about botulism?

A. First of all, botulism poisoning is extremely rare. Although the organism is common in the environment, it is usually harmless because it cannot grow and therefore produce toxin in the presence of oxygen.

If, however, the bacteria gets into an airtight container without being destroyed by proper cooking, they can multiply and become deadly. Modern methods of commercial canning have greatly reduced the threat of botulism from these products. Since 1925, there have been only four reported botulism deaths in this country associated with commercially canned foods.

In recent years, most instances of botulism have been found in home canning when the preparer doesn't cook the food a long enough time at high enough temperature to destroy the organism. Since 1925, about 700 deaths from botulism have resulted from home canned foods. Botulism organism is tasteless and odorless, but is deadly.

Whenever botulism is found in commercial foods, there are precautions you take. Any canned product should be examined before opening. Danger signals: Bulged or heaved-up lid, leakage of the contents, or bubbling or boiling of the contents when the can is opened. If you notice any of these characteristics, call our Department's Food Division. The number is 866-3389. Never taste the contents and keep the can and contents so that we can test for contamination.

Q. By the time I'm through food shopping, going through the checkout counter and driving home, many of the frozen foods I've bought are partially thawed. Do you have any hints to help keep them frozen?

A. There is no way to guarantee that they will stay completely frozen but things will be better if, first of all, you choose packages that are very firm and clean without any color from the contents showing. Avoid sweating, ice coated, wet or limp packages. Always try to pick up frozen food last on your shopping trip. Put all frozen items in one bag and unpack the bag as soon as you reach home.

Q. Has anything been done about the contents and labeling of frozen TV dinners?

A. The FDA has issued a final order spelling out the foods that must be included in a frozen packaged dinner and also describing how this product must be labeled.

Commonly referred to as "TV Dinners," these products must contain at least three different foods. One must be a significant source of protein. Each dinner must have one or more of the following: Meat, poultry, fish, cheese, eggs, vegetables, fruit, potatoes, rice or other cereal-based products (other than bread or rolls). In addition, these dinners may also contain other foods, such as soup, biscuits, dessert.

The label on the package must have an accurate description of each of three (or more) foods included in the dinner. These foods must be listed so that the first food mentioned is the one that weighs the most, the second is the next heaviest, and so on.

A MAN OF LITTLE EVILS.

by Stephen Dobyns. Alhambra. 290 Pages. $5.95.

This first novel leans heavily on the characters of two men and a tense psychological confrontation between them. Unfortunately, however, the characters are not defined well enough in their early development to present a clear understanding of the confrontation.

Why does a London-based American newspaperman, in a profession faced with skepticism and noninvolvement, devote his every minute toward forcing a killer into confessing his crime? The reason given for his role-switch is not adequate. A wider knowledge of the reporter's personality might have answered the question.

For mystery fans, however, the book should be entertaining. The extended face-to-face confrontation of the main characters has moments that will make you read a little faster.

Unfortunately, the story line bridging those moments is less interesting. At one point, the reporter breaks from his bleak existence, makes a quick visit to the bedroom of the girl friend of the murdered victim and forces himself on the girl in an affair that hints of significance. But there seemed to have been no genuine reason for the incident, except that perhaps the author felt it was a good spot for a sex scene.

BOOK REVIEWS

The gunfighter is Jake Hollander, suffering from a perpetual case of ennui at 45 but still able to stir up enough spirit to head for El Paso with the thought of opening a saloon with the money he has won cheating at cards. En route, a woman riding the same train as Jake conveniently drops dead and he inherits her two small children and their old carpetbag.

The kids are nice enough - one's a deaf mute and the other a child prodigy - but keep your eye on the time-keeper, especially since the author gets rid of the kids, can't, runs across some old friends in a miserable New Mexican mining town and gets conned into staying on as sheriff. He and the kids live in the jail.

Enter the hardhearted prostitute, a girl who loved Jake back when he was wiping out all the bad guys in Kansas, and a most engaging villain bent on stirring things up and there you have it.

Marilyn Durham, who scored a hit her first time out with "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," has turned out another competent novel that does

Riddable Nuisances Cataloged

By HAL BOYLE, NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without: Anyone weird cookbooks, such as "How to Bake a Tarantula" or "Tasty Salads Made from Your Backyard Weeds."

Old high school sweethearts who drop into town unexpectedly and ask you to take them to dinner on a date that happens to be your wedding anniversary.

Neighbors who make you a gift of 20 pounds of uncleaned fish they caught four days ago and forgot to take out of the back of their car.

Everybody who tries to face life by running away from it, such as dropout college students, office work shirkers, runaway husbands and renegade wives.

Guys who lend you leaky fountain pens without warning you of their defect.

Letting cocktail canapes for dinner.

Fathers who are spending so much money on their daughters' wedding receptions that they weep openly if you pour yourself a second glass of second-rate champagne.

People who think you are organically wrong because you don't always eat organic foods.

The sound of opportunity knocking on the door of a room in which all you want to do is get a little sleep.

Going on a blind date with a girl who has a million-dollar body and a 10-cent mind — or vice versa.

A big purple blossom on your nose the night of the junior prom.

Applying for a job, 10 years after graduating from high school, to the classmate who was voted the most likely to succeed.

A weekend at a ski resort where the snow is so good your girl wants to spend all the time skiing.

Buying a home the week after the mortgage rates jumped another half of a percentage point.

Bumping into an old army platoon buddy you thought you never could forget and desperately trying to remember his nickname — just as he calls you by a nickname that belonged to another guy in the platoon.

Being called a "male chauvinist pig" by a fat woman as she elbows you away from the counter at a department store shirt sale for men.

Wives who go to fortune tellers for advice on their marital problems. Doctors who, after listening to your symptoms, send you to another doctor to treat you. Then, if you get well, they take part of the credit.

People who try to show off their individuality by buying as a pet a breed of dog so strange that no one in the neighborhood has heard of it or can spell the name. They are the kind of people who would never lose out a bone to an ordinary mutt in the rain.

From these and other pin-pricks of mind and being, deliver us, Amen.

Former Supervisor Sues UConn Hospital

HARTFORD (AP) — The University of Connecticut has been sued for $500,000 damages by a former nursing supervisor who claims she was fired after complaining about a transfer at University-McCook Hospital.

In addition to monetary damages, Mrs. Charland seeks reinstatement to a job similar in responsibility to her former post. Mrs. Charland was supervisor of McCook's psychiatric unit from 1951 until 1969 when she was transferred to the hospital's infirmary and given work normally done by beginning nurses, the suit claims.

After a second transfer, the legal papers said, Mrs. Charland was told she was being recommended for dismissal because a position at her level was not included in the next year's budget.

She was dismissed in September 1972, according to the suit. It claims she was not given formal written notice of the dismissal nor was she granted a hearing, thus denying her freedom of speech, due process and equal protection under the laws.

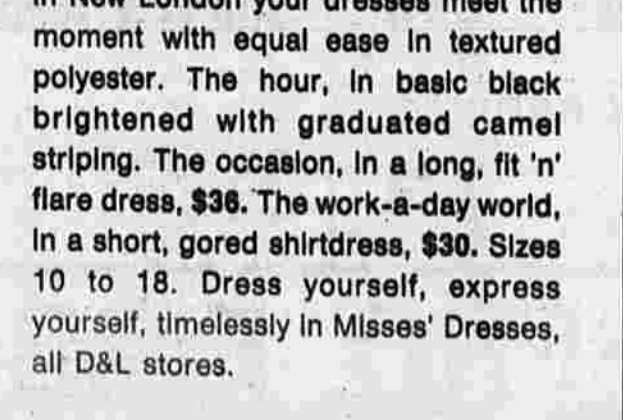

The suit was filed last week in Hartford federal court.

Window Problem Solved

BOSTON (AP) — A recommended solution to the problem of glass falling out of what is the tallest building in New England has been accepted by John Hancock Co. provided that future tests come out alright. The solution involves replacing all of the building's 10,000 panes of glass with new glass.

Completion of the building has been delayed more than a year because of high winds blowing out panes of glass. No one has been injured because of it, but streets next to the building in Copley Square have been closed to traffic when winds blew strongly.

A spokesman for the insurance company said that the recommended solution is to replace the original thermopane glass with half-inch thick, single sheet, reflective tempered glass.

Murder Victim Feared Violence

BETHEL (AP) — Betsy Reedy, one of the two American teachers found slain on St. Croix, told her family she was worried about the recent violence on the Caribbean island, says her father. Eugene Reedy said Betsy, who returned from St. Croix after school was out to spend the summer in Connecticut, expressed concern about the rash of murders on the small island.

Putnam Hospital Raises Rates
PUTNAM (AP) — Average rates for semi-private rooms at Day Kimball Hospital have been increased by $2.50, Hospital Administration Charles F. Schneider said Tuesday.

Lippman Hospitalized
NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Lippman, the retired journalist and author, was listed in critical condition early today at a hospital where he had been taken after suffering a stroke. Lippman was rushed to New York Hospital Tuesday from his Manhattan home on 63rd Street near Fifth Avenue. Lippman celebrated his 84th birthday last week.

The increase will make the average charge for a semi-private room $61.79 a day, he said.

The International Ice Patrol is made up of the U.S. and 16 other maritime nations, sharing the cost of the patrol. Great Britain pays the largest share because of more tonnage moving through the North Atlantic shipping lanes. The responsibility of carrying out the assignments rests entirely with the U.S. Coast Guard.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Booby Trap Against Trespassers

On the outskirts of town stood an old open-air theater, abandoned for years. The owner of the property, recent of occasional trespassers, decided to get tough. He placed a small bomb under the stage, connecting it to a nearby door.

However, a court held him responsible for the young man's death.

"It is no defense," said the court, "that the victim was a trespasser. While the law authorizes an owner to protect his property by reasonable means, considerations of humanity preclude him from setting traps dangerous to the life and limb of those whose presence may be anticipated, even though they may be trespassers."

On the other hand, less drastic measures against trespassers have usually been upheld. One case involved a barbed-wire fence which a home owner put up to stop pedestrians from taking short cuts across his front lawn. This time, when an injured trespasser claimed damages, the court turned him down. The judge said the wire obstacle, in plain sight, was a reasonable way for the owner to protect his lawn.

Of course, the right to use force is greater when there is menace not only to property but also to people. Accordingly, most courts have sanctioned the use of deadly force, if necessary, against burglars breaking into a home. As one judge put it:

"The idea that a man's house is his castle is not that it is his property. The sense in which the house has a peculiar immunity is that it is sacred for the protection of his person and his family."

Hearing Conducted On Unit Pricing In Ads

HARTFORD (AP) — A New Haven newspaper executive said that state regulations might constitute a burden on interstate commerce.

Speaking at a public hearing on regulations to implement the advertising section of the 1971 act, Dowd said, "If the department were to try to regulate out-of-state media in the same manner as it proposes to regulate advertising in Connecticut, such regulations might constitute a burden on interstate commerce."

Because the unit price act doesn't apply to single owner-operated stores, Dowd said such stores, particularly the larger ones, might have a competitive advantage over chain stores.

More than a dozen food store representatives said the regulations could force them to raise prices to cover the cost of including the extra information in their ads.

In a letter to the commissioner, Barbara Shuttlesworth, the Vernon housewife who helped organize the national meat boycott last spring, said, "With the economy the way it is today, one thing the consumer doesn't need is a price increase for an unneeded service."

She agreed with those who testified that unit prices were effective only at the "point of purchase" and not when they appeared by themselves.

Seymour C. Simpson, representing Shopwell Stores, said the regulations would result in "advertisements that have the attractiveness and readability of a stock market page or a racing sheet."

"My opinion has always been that any possible benefit that may be derived from the requirement of unit prices in advertising is far outweighed by the potential of added costs to the retailer which it appears will be passed on to the consumer," Mrs. Dunn said. She indicated that another attempt would be made next year to have the legislature repeal the advertising section.

Recreation Department

The Manchester Recreation Department Women's Division is sponsoring a free pre-school recreation program at the West Side Rec. 110 Cedar St. This program is available only to mothers who are participating in the Women's program day classes. A licensed nursery teacher has been hired to run this program which will be held in the former library, beginning Oct. 15. During the first two weeks in October the children will have supervised play in the basement bowling alley area until their classroom is ready. In order to keep this program free of charge to Manchester residents the Recreation department needs the cooperation of townsmen. Donations of equipment is absolutely essential. The following items are needed and may be left at the West Side Rec. Monday to Friday between 9:30 a.m. and 12 noon and 1 and 4 p.m. The materials needed are: a rug, play furniture, story books, coloring books, toys such as wheel toys, blocks, cars, riding toys such as like bikes, horses, and animals on wheels, doll furniture, dolls, old hats for make believe, small size table and chairs, pillows, mats, blankets, old shirts for smocks, babyfood jars for paint, a rocking horse and other large play equipment. Miscellaneous scrap material. For home pickup please call Mel Seibold, 56-6010.

Mrs. Rita Poulin, a graduate of the University of Connecticut, will be teaching French conversational classes, beginning Oct. 24 for the women's classes at West Side Rec. Classes will be held Wednesdays, and include French I-IV. The text used is "French Made Simple" and students should furnish their own textbooks. The fee for the 9-week session is $12.

Mrs. Poulin intends to encourage students to speak in French along with a review of grammar. Her classes are geared for both beginners and advanced students. Students will be placed in a class according to their ability. Registration may be made by calling the West Side Rec. at 843-8786. Fees can be paid in advance pending a check to the West Side Rec. made out to the Manchester Rec Dept. A tape recorder will be used to help students correct their pronunciation. Currently she

Department's investigation and that the allegations against Agnew involved "are serious and not frivolous."

On other subjects, Nixon — Urged Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to reconsider his decision to shut down special transit facilities for Soviet Jews en route to Israel.

Noting that Kreisky acted in the face of terrorist demands by Arab nationalists, Nixon said that "We simply cannot have governments, large or small, give in to blackmail by terrorist organizations."

—Said he is "thinking in terms of three or four months" in considering a major trip to Europe, adding that it could come sooner and "probably not much later."

Saying he would not leave the country while major legislation is pending, Nixon reported that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has told him negotiations aimed at forging a common American-West European position on key issues are "well ahead of schedule."

—Said Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will visit Peking Oct. 29-30 and will visit Japan on the same trip at a time still to be announced.

—Said no timing has been set for a presidential visit to Japan but that he has agreed to go there by the end of next year.

—Declared he will make no decision on whether or not to make a pre-convention endorsement of potential Republican presidential candidates in 1976.

Nixon said he did not want to support or oppose anyone "until they have been tried on the field He said in primary elections that offer a new experience shows that some seemingly strong candidates "can't hit big league pitching."

—Declined to take sides in a debate over whether the nation's unemployment goal should be four or five per cent, saying the important point is to put as many people to work as possible.

Town Manager Robert Weiss is supporting a recommendation by the Manchester Conservation Commission for two-week curbside pickup of newspapers.

He told the Board of Directors Tuesday night he is preparing a formal report on the proposal — to include the estimated cost to the town. Weiss said he believes the income from selling the paper to dealers will, in time, balance out against the town's cost for its pickup.

Weiss said the town's three-year contract with its refuse and garbage collector expires June 30, 1974. He said talks will begin in November for a negotiated or bid contract for 1974-77.

During a short public hearing Tuesday night on a proposal to increase sewer rates, Joseph Bauletti of 81 Lyness St. He said the national average of water from taps entering the sewers is only 80 per cent.

Mayor John Thompson replied, "It's a matter of our dollar needs to meet our sewer department costs. Our method of charge is not unusual. It is used in many places."

Police Report

MANCHESTER

An attempted break into Crooke's Texaco service station at 270 W. Middle Tpk. This morning resulted in the arrest of Raymond Richard, 28, of 299 Main St., on a charge of third-degree burglary.

A car owned by a Fairfield man, reported stolen from Bridgeport last month, was recovered Tuesday at the rear of 615 Parker St., where it had apparently been abandoned two weeks ago.

Two youths, armed with a wrench, opened a fire hydrant on Cooper Hill St. at 8 p.m. Tuesday and then ran away toward Pleasant St. They weren't apprehended; firemen closed the hydrant.

South Windsor
South Windsor Police are investigating a break into the Big Barney Auto Wash on Rt. 5, reported yesterday.

Police Chief John Korrigan said the door to the storage area was pried open and about $100 worth of small tools were reported missing.

Everett E. Roberts, 18, of 92 Troy Rd., South Windsor, was charged with driving under the influence of liquor or drugs after he was observed driving in an erratic manner yesterday, police said.

Roberts was released on his promise to appear in Circuit Court 12, East Hartford, Oct. 29.

Francis F. Grosso, 46, of Gerald Park, Coventry, was treated and discharged from Manchester Memorial Hospital after suffering injuries in a Monday afternoon accident on New Bolton Rd.

Police said the Grosso vehicle, headed east, went off the right side of the road, struck a utility pole, and overturned. Mrs. Grosso told police the accident occurred when she swerved to avoid hitting an animal in the road.

She was charged with failure to drive right, police said. Court date is Oct. 29.

Two 19-year-olds were taken into custody by Manchester Police Tuesday afternoon in connection with alleged target shooting at tin cans in a sand pit at the rear of 746 Parker St.

Police lodged charges of illegal discharge of firearms within town limits against Richard T. Migliore of 415 Summit St. and Ronald G. Allen of 87 Bissell St. They were both released on their written promises to appear in court Oct. 29.

Other arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included: —James E. Dowsett, 18, of 145 Phoenix St., Vernon, taken into custody Tuesday afternoon on a Circuit Court 12 warrant charging him with violation or probation. He was held in lieu of a $1,000 surety bond for presentation in court today.

—Ann K. Firestone, 19, of 27 Coburn Rd., charged Tuesday afternoon with failure to grant right of way, after an apparently minor two-car accident at Spruce and Maple Sts. Court date is Oct. 29.

Suspicious Suitcase Is A Dud

HARTFORD (AP) — The police bomb disposal unit removed from the federal building a suspicious suitcase addressed to the FBI Tuesday, but the parcel contained only children's games and personal items, officials said.

The bomb squad was called after a custodian saw the suitcase and note Monday night. A fireman stood by the suitcase, which was wrapped in a steel net and driven to the bomb disposal site where it was opened.

Police said they found trinkets, games, jewelry, a metal statue of a horse, a camera and personal papers. Officials said the investigation of the incident was called off because no laws had been broken.

Commented Town Manager Robert Weiss, "Whichever side we put sidewalks on, we get complaints. School and police personnel recommended sidewalks on the south side of Hackmatack St."

Before the registration session there will be a brief meeting for mothers and daughters. A registration fee of $2 will also cover the insurance costs for field trips.

School President Glenn W. Ferguson granted the request reluctantly.

NEWINGTON (AP) Rising feed costs and the lure of high profits from the sale of beef and land are tempting Northeast dairy farmers to go out of business, says an industry official.

The resulting decrease in milk production among the six New England states and part of New York state far outstrips the national average, according to Walter Bryant, publicity director of Yankee Milk, a regional cooperative.

Milk production has been falling off an increasing rate, he said, going from between 4 and 5 per cent in the spring to 9 per cent in August.

The national average was down 3 per cent in August, he added, showing that "it's not confined to this part of the country but it's more extreme in the Northeast."

Bryant said in a telephone interview that more dairies have gone out of business in southern New England than in other parts of the region because that's where farms must compete with suburbs for land.

Connecticut lost 27 dairy producers in the year ending last April, leaving the state with 907 farms which can meet about 40 per cent of the state's demand, said Gordon Allen, head of the state Agriculture Department's Dairy Statistics Division.

New York and Vermont lost 20 farms each during the same period, he said. "Feed grain prices are the one outstanding factor in the picture of rising production costs," Bryant said.

Segretti said his pranks included: —Sending a letter on Muskie stationery "alleging unauthorized use of government typewriters by his staff."

—Placing of stink bombs at a Muskie picnic and at Muskie headquarters in Florida.

—Placing classified ads asking Muskie if he would "accept a Jewish running mate," a reference to the senator's statement that a black vice presidential candidate should not be nominated by Democrats in 1972.

—Distribution of flyers in the public to a nonexistent open house at Muskie's Miami headquarters.

The Minnesota senator was another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

side of Hartford Rd. was abandoned. When the plan was announced for constructing sidewalks on the north side of Wetherell St., residents there objected.

The plan was changed. The sidewalks were constructed on the north side. Then, when plans were announced for constructing sidewalks on the east side of Keeney St., residents in that area objected.

The plans were changed. The sidewalks were constructed on the west side. Tuesday night, the directors received a 28-signature petition from residents of Hackmatack St., protesting plans to construct sidewalks on the south side of their street.

They requested a change in the plan — to permit sidewalks on the north side instead.

The board scheduled a public hearing on Hackmatack St. sidewalks for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. The public hearing is needed, the directors agreed, to hear arguments from all persons concerned, including school officials.

Ernst, has joined the staff at Manchester Memorial Hospital as of Oct. 1, as controller-assistant administrator.

He succeeds David A. Bourne who resigned to accept the position of controller at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston.

Roy graduated from Bryant College and has taken graduate courses at the University of Connecticut. He has served as a division controller with Brand-Rex of Willimantic. He is a member of the Hartford Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Roy lives with his wife, Lotte, at 14 Somerset Dr. They have a daughter, Cynthia.

Weiss Says Complaints Of Materials Unfounded

Town Manager Robert Weiss has assured Director Vivian Ferguson that complaints relative to construction materials in the Tudor Lane and Squire Village apartment complexes are unfounded.

The complaints were received by Mrs. Ferguson in the wake of the Sept. 8 tornado which swept through Manchester's North End and were relayed to the manager.

She didn't identify the complainants but said they were concerned about the type of nails used in the Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. construction and in the type of material used in the electrical receptacle boxes at Squire Village.

Weiss said that Chief Building Inspector Thomas Monahan has reported he couldn't find violations of Manchester's housing standards and that the nails and electrical receptacles were of approved laboratory types. He offered to explain the inspections more fully to the complainants — if they would identify themselves.

The Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. complexes suffered considerable damage in the Sept. 8 tornado, which was confined to an area of about four blocks wide. The Squire Village complex was opened officially last week. It is on Spencer St., just west of Hartford Rd. Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. are off Oakland St.

The Candidates Are Saying

Democratic candidate for Board of Directors

Recently, there have been claims by some Republican office-holders that the Democratic Board of Directors was taking credit for fiscal policies that rightly belonged to them. It's time to set the record straight.

When the Democratic majority assumed power less than two years ago, the fiscal picture in Manchester was bleak. The previous Republican administration had raised taxes by 10 mills in five years; a major revaluation followed during this period; and many Manchester voters were disenfranchised, because the budget-making process did not include the minority party.

Without sound, positive, fiscal management, the federal funds would be merely a stop-gap measure. Instead, we turned them into a savings plan for the people of Manchester.

The record is clear and speaks for itself. We have worked diligently for the people of Manchester to bring about increases in the Grand List and sound fiscal management. No money from the federal government or revaluation was used to maintain the stable tax rate.

This year, our second budget provided for a two-mill decrease. It is true that Congress made available funds to the cities and towns for their use — and we all applaud that program. However, receiving of federal funds did not in itself necessitate a two-mill tax decrease.

All 100 towns in Connecticut received the funds, but very few had a two-mill decrease and, certainly, fewer had a major revaluation before the prior year.

Roy lives with his wife, Lotte, at 14 Somerset Dr. They have a daughter, Cynthia.

Weiss Says Complaints Of Materials Unfounded

Town Manager Robert Weiss has assured Director Vivian Ferguson that complaints relative to construction materials in the Tudor Lane and Squire Village apartment complexes are unfounded.

The complaints were received by Mrs. Ferguson in the wake of the Sept. 8 tornado which swept through Manchester's North End and were relayed to the manager.

She didn't identify the complainants but said they were concerned about the type of nails used in the Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. construction and in the type of material used in the electrical receptacle boxes at Squire Village.

Weiss said that Chief Building Inspector Thomas Monahan has reported he couldn't find violations of Manchester's housing standards and that the nails and electrical receptacles were of approved laboratory types. He offered to explain the inspections more fully to the complainants — if they would identify themselves.

The Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. complexes suffered considerable damage in the Sept. 8 tornado, which was confined to an area of about four blocks wide. The Squire Village complex was opened officially last week. It is on Spencer St., just west of Hartford Rd. Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. are off Oakland St.

Number Of Dairy Farms Dwindling

NEWINGTON (AP) Rising feed costs and the lure of high profits from the sale of beef and land are tempting Northeast dairy farmers to go out of business, says an industry official.

The resulting decrease in milk production among the six New England states and part of New York state far outstrips the national average, according to Walter Bryant, publicity director of Yankee Milk, a regional cooperative.

Milk production has been falling off an increasing rate, he said, going from between 4 and 5 per cent in the spring to 9 per cent in August.

The national average was down 3 per cent in August, he added, showing that "it's not confined to this part of the country but it's more extreme in the Northeast."

Bryant said in a telephone interview that more dairies have gone out of business in southern New England than in other parts of the region because that's where farms must compete with suburbs for land.

Connecticut lost 27 dairy producers in the year ending last April, leaving the state with 907 farms which can meet about 40 per cent of the state's demand, said Gordon Allen, head of the state Agriculture Department's Dairy Statistics Division.

New York and Vermont lost 20 farms each during the same period, he said. "Feed grain prices are the one outstanding factor in the picture of rising production costs," Bryant said.

PZC Views First Segment Of Buff Cap Development

A small parcel of the 2,000-unit development of Buff Cap Rd. was presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night.

The informal proposal, which looked okay according to Douglas Prior, PZC chairman, showed 45 single family homes, 45.5 acres, nine acres of roads, and expansion of a pond to 3 acres.

The PZC members noted that the phase presented originally called for 34 lots which has increased density somewhat, but that the proportions are still being maintained.

Neborsky pointed out that the pond was not originally included in the plans and, therefore, the plan now has increased open space. Pathways were shown throughout the development, designed to avoid roads where possible, and, if the entire master plan goes through, the pathways will eventually lead to schools.

At the informal hearing held five months ago, about 100 townspeople attended and some voiced objection. Prior had said the "Buff Cap Development" could be built under present regulations, with a zone change. He explained that the PZC presently has regulations for single dwellings, apartments, and commercial.

The preliminary plan in May included a sophisticated presentation including slides, charts, maps of soil conditions, streamlines, and more.

Library Sets Children's Program

The junior division of the Rockville Public Library will start its pre-school programs Oct. 9 and the programs for school-aged children Oct. 6 under the direction of Mrs. Luella Denley, librarian.

The Oct. 6 program will consist of a demonstration of trucks and equipment of the Rockville Fire Department and will be held in the parking lot to the rear of the library.

Robert Purcell, coordinator of the school-age programs, said Fire Chief Donald Maguda and several members of his department will be on hand to answer questions and initiate junior fire marshals. This program ties in with National Fire Prevention Week.

Mrs. Joan Lucia, coordinator of the pre-school programs, said the schedule this year will include story hours, an Indian program and a puppet show. The story hour programs will be divided into three groups with children attending according to the first letter of their last names beginning with letters H to G. A second story hour on Oct. 23 will be for those whose last names begin with letters H and the final one on Oct. 30, letters O-Z. All story hours will start at 10 a.m.

Other segments of the pre-school program, an Indian Puppets and a Punch and Judy puppet show, will be scheduled at later dates.

Additional programs for school-aged children, scheduled for later in the season, will include the Walt Disney movies, "Melody Time," and "Bristle Face," a Halloween party, a supersnacker program, crafts, and a Christmas puppet show.

Schedules for all programs are available at the checkout desk of the junior wing of the library.

Energy Office Created

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, by executive order, today established an office of energy policy with an immediate goal of reducing Connecticut's energy consumption by 7 per cent.

The new office will be headed by attorney Gordon T. Allen of Weathersfield, a Meskill staff assistant.

The order includes specific directives to several state departments affecting their use of energy and fuel. It also requires that the regulatory functions of the agencies be carried out with fuel conservation in mind.

The office will be funded for 18 months through a $75,500 grant from the New England Regional Commission. The grant is Connecticut's share of $22,000; the commission has distributed among New England states to analyze and monitor energy activities.

Meskill's order also encourages all state government agencies to exercise initiative in developing energy conservation programs.

Only two persons, both men, appeared Tuesday at a two-hour Board of Directors comment session, named by Director James Farr. It marked the last session for Farr, who is retiring from the board.

One man complained of a traffic situation at Parker St. and Tolland Tpke., where cars from Tolland Tpke. enter Parker St. on both sides of cars waiting there to enter Tolland Tpke.

He recommended that a safety pile or some other form of divider be placed there.

The second man complained of drunken motorists at Buckley School, where the amesite meets the concrete sidewalk. He said it is a dangerous situation and may cause accidents.

USDA Seeking Hamburger To Beef Up School Menus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is shopping for hamburger so school cafeterias can beef up their menus, but officials admit they might have to settle for chicken soup again if prices are too high.

No ground beef has been purchased by the federal government for school lunch programs since Jan. 8, 1972. Except for some pork purchased last winter, USDA has concentrated mainly on chicken and turkey.

But, with the recent decline in live cattle prices, the Food and Nutrition Service says it is time to look at hamburger again. "The desirability of providing ground beef is there, and the need for it as a nutritious food is there," William G. Boling, associate director of child nutrition programs, told a reporter. "But we don't know about the price."

The government notified suppliers last week that offers on ground beef will be accepted for consideration through Oct. 12. Boling said that if prices are too high the offers will be rejected.

A number of factors, including the beef supply, market outlook and the effect of purchases on consumer prices are used in deciding whether to accept the offers, officials said.

Last December, and on several occasions afterward, the department solicited bids for school lunch beef and then rejected them all because the prices were too high.

But live cattle prices have plummeted from more than $56 per 100 pounds in August to around $38 now. The decline has brought pressure on the department from the American National Cattlemen's Association to begin buying beef again.

The last time USDA bought ground beef for school lunches — 21 months ago — it cost around 58 cents per pound in wholesale quantities. At that time, consumers paid 70.6 cents for hamburger in retail stores, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

In August, the most recent month surveyed, hamburger averaged nearly $1.04 per pound in retail stores.

Chicken and turkey, regular school menus a year ago, are continuing to be major items for USDA donations.

As of Sept. 25, according to USDA more than 6.5 million pounds of chicken costing up to 48 cents per pound wholesale had been purchased for the 1973-74 school year.

The August prices of frying chicken in retail stores averaged 92.2 cents per pound. Turkey purchased by the department for school lunches totaled 2.3 million pounds by mid-September, including an average of about 75 cents per pound at wholesale for ready-to-cook whole birds. The August retail price was 79.6 cents per pound, the government said.

During the 1972-73 school year, the department bought 94.3 million pounds of chicken; 51.5 million pounds of turkey; and about 18 million pounds of pork for donation to lunch programs.

These donations are in addition to food purchased by school systems for their own programs.

Company officials explained that she was part of a program to achieve parity for minorities and women in all phases of employment.

Fuel Allocation Queries Answered

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Mandatory allocation" is the average household, that sounds like more bureaucratic gobbledeygook. But in the words of White House energy adviser John A. Love, it's a plan "to let consumers and distributors know that positive action is being taken" to cope with fuel shortages.

An explanation of just what it means follows in this imaginary interview with an average consumer:

Q — Is there really a fuel shortage or is it just your newspaper guys trying to create headlines?

A — The Interior Department has just studied the situation and reported the nation will be short of distillate oils by about 100,000 barrels a day this winter. Propane gas is already in short supply. Natural gas supplies cannot keep up with increasing demand, and some companies are refusing to take new customers.

The pressure is increased by antipollution rules that will reduce the burning of some fuels because they give off too much sulfur.

The President's top energy adviser said Tuesday that "it is clear that the nation will not 'muddle' through this winter. We will experience some fuel shortages this winter and perhaps over the next few years."

And Stephen A. Wakefield, assistant secretary of the Interior for energy and minerals, predicted "the strong probability of a gasoline shortage next summer."

Q — That had? Well, I know about natural gas, but what is "distillate oil?"

A — If you lived in New England you would know. It means a variety of refined oils including diesel fuel, jet fuel, kerosene and especially home heating oil. And homes really need reliable heating in the winter up in New England and the Upper Midwest. A lot of hospitals, factories and businesses depend on it too.

Q — Where does propane come from?

A — Most people don't have much to do with propane, but farmers need it to dry their crops, and some families living in isolated homes or trailers use it for heating and cooking. Industrial vehicles, such as forklift trucks, and other equipment sometimes have to use it in enclosed areas where the exhaust of gasoline or diesel fuel would poison workers. Propane is even turning up more often in natural gas pipelines; the utilities add it to meet short surges in demand which is called "peak shaving."

Q — What is the government doing about the fuel problem?

A — Well, for one thing, it is asking every citizen to reduce his use of fuel and energy as much as possible: to lower air conditioner and heater settings, drive less and drive slower to save gasoline, insulate your home, things like that.

The government itself is trying to cut its fuel consumption by seven per cent.

Beyond that, it has offered to let the states ease up on their clear-air efforts, temporarily, so high-sulfur fuels can continue to be used.

On Tuesday, the White House announced, after a lot of hesitation, that it was imposing a mandatory allocation system on propane gas and will impose it within a few weeks on heating oil and the rest of those "mid-distillate oils."

Q — Mandatory what?

A — Allocation. That means the government will control the distribution.

Q — You mean they will ration everything? Where did I store those World War II stampbooks?

A — No, no, no. Not that kind of rationing. At least, not yet. Under mandatory allocation, the government will only control fuel distribution at the wholesale level. You won't need ration tickets or anything. You just purchase fuel as usual from your dealer. The dealer will get the fuel from his usual supplier. But that supplier, under the new program, will be required to sell the dealer a fair amount of fuel; he can't drop the dealer just because there is not enough to go around.

Q — What fuel supplier would do a thing like that?

A — Ask some of the independent dealers. Some of them said last summer that the major oil companies were using the fuel shortage as an excuse to cut off their supplies and force them out of competition with the majors' own brand name outlets. The major companies have denied it.

But, one way or another, Love said fuel supplies were not always reaching some dealers or some areas of the country.

Q — Then why didn't the government start this "allocation" thing last summer?

A — I did, but it was left up to the fuel suppliers to follow the government allocation guidelines voluntarily. Love warned them that allocations would be made mandatory if voluntary cooperation did not work. On Tuesday, the White House said it was making allocation mandatory.

Q — Will that prevent the shortages?

A — No. All it can do is make sure some people don't hog the available fuel while others run out.

Q — How will it do that?

A — Simple. It will require suppliers to divide up their available fuel among the customers they have sold it to in the past, in proportion to those past sales.

Q — But what about those northern homeowners and hospitals, and the farmers who need propane? Will they have to suffer with only a reduced proportion of last year's supply like everybody else?

A — No. The mandatory allocation program will set aside part of the available fuel "off the top" for distribution first to fill priority needs.

Q — Like what?

A — Like what? It's for heating oils and other distillates that have not been adopted yet but Love made it clear that homes and hospitals would receive high priority.

A general allocation priority list proposed last August gave top priority to food production and processing, followed by petroleum production and distribution to keep the shortage from getting even worse.

Then came health and sanitation, police, firefighting, emergency aid services; public transportation and freight services; public utilities, and telecommunications.

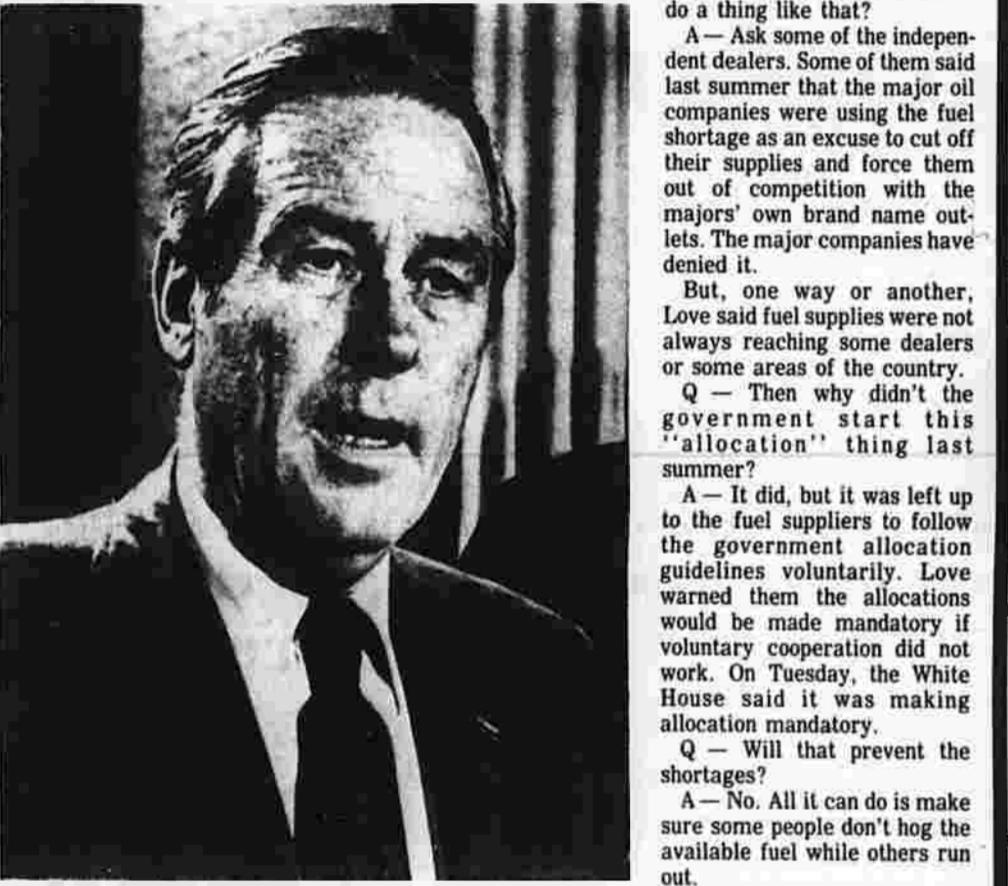

The final regulations, due in about two weeks, will probably follow a similar pattern.

The propane allocation gives top priority to residential use, then agricultural production and food processing, followed by mass transit, buildings housing medical and nursing patients, industrial vehicles or equipment used in enclosed spaces; essential government services; petroleum production and transportation; commercial use under 15,000 gallons per year; and "peak shaving" by gas utilities.

"I think I understand the situation a lot better now. There's just one more thing."

Q — What's that?

A — How much would it cost to rent a bungalow in Bermuda for the winter?

Discusses Fuel Controls

CLC Approves More Product Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers soon will pay more for soaps, detergents, paper products and automobile tires as a result of the latest price control by the Cost of Living Council.

The council Tuesday approved proposed increases for all three industries, although it refused about half of the proposed increase for new tires and tubes.

A council official, meanwhile, said he planned to scrutinize new price increases announced by major oil companies for wholesale gasoline and home heating oil.

Charles Owens, head of the council's energy office, said he was perplexed at the timing of the wholesale gasoline price increases.

Shell Oil Company announced a 0.2 cents per gallon increase; Atlantic-Richfield, 1.5 cents per gallon; and Phillips Petroleum Co., 5 cents per gallon.

The increases all were announced after the council allowed gasoline retailers last Friday to increase their retail prices to reflect earlier increases in wholesale costs. The new increases came too late for the Friday order and must be absorbed by gasoline retailers.

The increases approved Tuesday by the council would average about 3.39 per cent for rubber tires and tubes, 4.69 per cent for paper products both at wholesale and retail, and 9.32 per cent for soaps and detergents.

On Tuesday, the White House announced, after a lot of hesitation, that it was imposing a mandatory allocation system on propane gas and will impose it within a few weeks on heating oil and the rest of those "mid-distillate oils."

Q — Mandatory what?

A — Allocation. That means the government will control the distribution.

Meningitis Vaccine Ready For Market

FARMINGTON (AP) — Two drug companies have applied to market a meningitis vaccine tested for the past year on 1,300 Danbury elementary school children.

The first and second graders were inoculated with two forms of the experimental drug by University of Connecticut researchers, according to Dr. Irving Goldschneider, an associate professor of pathology at UConn and one of the developers of the vaccine.

He said the Army, which developed the vaccine in the 1960s, has used it to protect recruits from meningitis for several years, but the drug couldn't be marketed for civilians until it was proven safe for children.

Goldschneider worked with the Army researchers who developed the drug.

The Danbury field test, which ends today, has been cited by the drug firms as evidence the vaccine should receive federal approval by the general population, he said.

Meningitis is a fast-acting bacterial inflammation of the covering of the brain and spinal cord that often is fatal or leaves the victim with permanent damage of the brain or other organs. It is the seventh leading killer of children, partly because its symptoms are similar to those of other childhood ailments, which makes early diagnosis more difficult.

About half the children in the Danbury test were given the type A vaccine and half the type C, so each half is protected against one of the two most common forms of the disease.

Dr. Martha L. Lepow, a UConn pediatrics professor who headed the Danbury study, said the children would receive the type they originally didn't get so all will be protected against both A and B forms of meningitis.

The test was designed to last three years and involve 1,000 pupils, but federal funding cutbacks forced researchers to end the study after the first year, a UConn statement said.

But researchers say the safety and effectiveness of the drug already has been shown in blood tests of the Danbury children and earlier tests on children of UConn faculty members and patients at the Newington Children's Hospital.

Both types A and C of the vaccine are made from sugar extracted from the cell walls of the meningitis bacterium and produce antibodies that protect against the same type of meningitis bacteria, the researchers said.

"Being a chemical, it doesn't involve the same problems of safety in use, production and manufacture as vaccines containing live or killed viruses or other biological materials," he said. "No serious side effects caused by the drug have ever been reported."

UConn also is testing this vaccine in another one designed to protect against three forms of meningitis in infants born at Danbury Hospital.

Gas Company Management Criticized

HARTFORD (AP) — The Connecticut Public Utilities Commission (PUC) heard from one of the two intervenors in the Southern Connecticut Gas Company's rate case Tuesday — longtime utility adversary George L. Gunther, Republican state senator from Stratford.

Gunther called the company "one of the most managed utilities in the state" as he spoke against its request for a $7.8 million rate increase.

The other intervenor in the case — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill — is still hoping to appear in person before the commission this week before he leaves on a week's trip to Switzerland in an effort to woo Swiss utilities to expand into the United States.

Meskill's chief counsel, Robert C. Leuba, said Tuesday that the governor's Council of Economic Advisors had prepared considerable evidence in connection with the Southern case, and that one of them probably would appear on his behalf if Meskill were unable to be there.

Leuba co-examined company Chairman Richard Bowerman Tuesday about his testimony regarding some of Meskill's recent public statements against utility rate increases.

Bowerman had testified that statements by Meskill and resolutions by the General Assembly on the subject of utility rates "demonstrate a dangerous lack of comprehension of what this process is all about."

He said such comments could adversely affect the willingness of investors to lend money to utilities.

Leuba asked to have that portion of Bowerman's testimony stricken from the record and PUC Chairman Howard Hauman took the request under advisement.

Gunther, meanwhile, said that Southern Connecticut Gas was the only utility in the state that hadn't earned more than the rate the PUC allowed in at least one of the last five years.

"It would seem to me that this company has a management that is incapable of efficiently operating," Gunther said.

He criticized the company for continuing to run "half-page color advertisements" promoting increased gas rates in the face of a possible energy crisis.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB CAN HE BE HELPED Hypoglycemic feels down

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you please write an article on hypoglycemia — low blood sugar? A friend of mine has had it for over a year and even though he is on a sugar free, high protein diet, he feels no better. He sleeps only three or four hours a night and feels so drained of energy he can hardly move. Do you publish any material on it? Is there any hope for his recovery at all? He is ready to try anything. He cannot go on much longer feeling so bad.

Dear Reader — Yes, I have written several columns on this subject. Perhaps it would be helpful to point out that there are many other factors that cause low blood sugar (glucose) besides the diet. The blood glucose level is kept within narrow ranges by the action of the liver, which is a kind of blood glucose thermostat. Whenever the blood glucose gets too low the stores of animal starch (glycogen), or even body protein from muscles and other cells, are simply processed to form more blood glucose. That is why a person in a starvation situation doesn't collapse or die immediately from low blood sugar.

Through the action of the liver and fat cells excess amounts of blood glucose are converted to fat. If the build-up or absorption of sugar is faster than the body can process, the excess is eliminated through the kidneys. All of these mechanisms are then controlled by other glands in the body.

Whenever the liver is damaged there may be a low blood glucose level. Simply put, the liver loses its ability to release glucose into the blood. Any factor that causes liver damage can be responsible for this. Other people have true hypoglycemia where the pancreas regularly forms excess insulin unrelated to the food they eat. Rare individuals with disease of the adrenal glands, sometimes called Addison's disease, also have a tendency to low blood sugar.

Add to that the point that fatigue is a symptom of many things, not a diagnosis of low blood sugar. It can be caused by anemia, tuberculosis, and a host of medical problems as well as being caused by psychological factors. Because many of the symptoms of low blood sugar are the same as those caused by anxiety reactions, many individuals with psychological problems end up being told they have low blood sugar or thinking that is their problem when they really need help in the psychological area.

You can see why I can't really tell you what to expect from this. It has been faithfully followed a proper diet — which may include more than avoiding sugar — then it is hard to see how his problem could be a diet related one. If he is still eating lots of starches (bread, rolls, potatoes) he should stop eating bulky vegetables and use tomatoes to replace citrus fruit. He could also try eating small meals at more frequent intervals.

To this I would add eliminating tobacco, coffee, alcohol, and developing a good fitness program. That could help him — unless he has some problem more complicated than simple low blood sugar related to diet.

Seatbelt Requirement Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) - Calling seat belt requirements on 1974 cars an "unreasonable invasion of private rights," Rep. Louis Wyman has sponsored legislation to block the regulation.

The New Hampshire Republican's bill seeks to ban a Department of Transportation requirement that 1974 cars have devices to prevent car from starting unless all seat belts and shoulder harnesses in the front seat are fastened.

Asked to comment on the bill, a Transportation Department spokesman said the agency believed the system "will go a long way in the... important mission to save lives on the highways."

Town Wants State To Speed Work On Drain Problem

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter) The critical drainage problem at the intersection of Rts. 83 and 74, West and Union Sts., is definitely the state's responsibility but it will probably be many months before it is corrected.

Mayor Frank McCoy said he will try to keep pressure on the state to get the job moving. Councilman Robert Houley then proposed a resolution which is to be sent to the state urging the State Department of Transportation to resolve the situation at the earliest possibility.

Councilman Thomas Wolff asked to include in the motion to ask the state to give a date as to when the project can be completed. Houley, who has served as state senator, commented that it is impossible to tell the state when the project can be completed. Mayor McCoy came to the defense of the state noting he has seen more work done the past few years than ever before.

Child Abuse Prevention Service Launched

HARTFORD (AP) - A 24-hour telephone "counseling" project has three purposes: -Reach people who think they might mistreat a child; -Tell school officials, clergy, and other professionals how to report abuse cases how to do so; -Learn more about the character of abusing parents.

But she says one nationally recognized authority, Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the University of Colorado Medical School, estimates abuse is a greater threat to children under 5 than childhood disease. "There's no reason to believe the situation is any different here than anywhere else. But actually we don't know," she said in a telephone interview.

Child abuse doesn't mean disciplinary spankings, she said. "We're talking about torture, cigarette burns all over a child's upper body, sexual molestation, beating an 8-month-old baby simply because he fills his diapers."

She said the experimental project has three purposes: -Reach people who think they might mistreat a child; -Tell school officials, clergy, and other professionals how to report abuse cases how to do so; -Learn more about the character of abusing parents.

But she says one nationally recognized authority, Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the University of Colorado Medical School, estimates abuse is a greater threat to children under 5 than childhood disease. "There's no reason to believe the situation is any different here than anywhere else. But actually we don't know," she said in a telephone interview.

Child abuse doesn't mean disciplinary spankings, she said. "We're talking about torture, cigarette burns all over a child's upper body, sexual molestation, beating an 8-month-old baby simply because he fills his diapers."

Another family who "just had an unhappy home environment," she said. "The vicarious of what the answerer will do will be trying to convince the mother to hold together."

They are being run as a two-year pilot project and is funded by grants from the state, private industry and a foundation. Mrs. Dille said.

Social Security

Q. My mother is 87 years old and has been receiving Social Security benefits for many years on my father's number. She never worked under Social Security. The other day she received a Social Security number in the mail. It does not correspond with the number on her Medicare card. It is a mistake? She did not request a number.

A. It is not a mistake. The Social Security Administration is in the process of issuing a Social Security number to all beneficiaries who are receiving monthly checks on another person's number. Her Medicare claim number will remain the same and her checks will continue to come with the number that is shown on her Medicare card. In this case a person will have a Social Security claim number and a Social Security number of their own.

Q. I opened a bank account for my infant daughter and was told she should have a Social Security number. Is that true? I always thought a person had to be 16 to obtain a Social Security number.

A. Banks may require you to obtain a Social Security number for your daughter in order to open an account. There is no age limit on obtaining a Social Security number.

Q. My daughter, who is in high school, will be taking her college board tests soon. She has been advised that she needs a Social Security number to take the test. How does she get a number and how long does it take to receive it?

A. She may telephone any Social Security office and an application will be mailed to her. After she has returned the application to the office it will take a few weeks to receive the number.

Q. I recently married and my employer stated I have to change my name on my Social Security card. What are the necessary steps?

A. You may phone nearest Social Security office and you will be mailed the proper application to change your name. You will receive another card with your new name. You will keep the same number.

Q. My son is going into the Army and needs his Social Security number. He has a card a couple of years ago but can't find it. How can he get another number?

A. Have him call any Social Security office. He will be mailed an application to replace a lost card. After he has checked our records he will be issued a duplicate card. He will have the same number.

Q. I am 18 years old and need a Social Security number. How do I obtain one?

A. It is necessary to complete an application for a Social Security number. You will have to show your birth certificate and proof of your identity such as a driver's license or a library card. If you were born in a foreign country you will also have to show proof of your alien registration or your naturalization. You will then be mailed a number in a few weeks.

Yogi Has Key to New York But No Contract in 1974

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that he has a key to the city, the only thing Yogi Berra needs is a contract to manage a baseball team for next season. The logical team would be the New York Mets, the club Yogi has piloted to the National League East Division title. But they haven't asked him back yet.

Reds' Manager Respects Mets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Manager George "Sparky" Anderson waved off the New York Mets' record-worst among the four division winners in the majors—and talked of respect for this weekend's playoff opponent.

"I think people are being misled by the Mets," said Anderson. "If that club had stayed healthy all year, they would have won at least 95 games."

Anderson plans to match 18-game winner Jack Billingham against the Mets' Seaver on Sunday in the best-of-five series. Cincinnati defeated the Mets in eight of 12 regular season meetings.

New York overcame the series of setbacks with a late-season onslaught to come from last place as late as Aug. 30 to win the division with an 82-79 record.

Anderson has said he'll open with 18-game winner Don Gullett Saturday. He'll open on Oct. 14 at home.

Baltimore Looks To Annual Caper

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, after an agonizing year on the sidelines, are looking forward to what used to be their annual post-season baseball caper.

"Playing in October is a lot better than sitting in the closet-hiding and painting," outfielder Merv Rettenmund said. "That's what I did last year after we finished third."

The Orioles, who played in the World Series in 1969-71, bounced back this season to win the American League's Eastern Division, and on Saturday they open the best-of-five playoffs against Oakland's Western Division titans.

"It has to be satisfying to win when we weren't picked to win," said outfielder Paul Blair. "But we haven't done anything yet. If we don't get into the World Series, everyone will ask again, 'What happened?'"

Jim Palmer, a 22-game winner due to pitch Saturday's opener against the A's, said the post-season play means "it will take me longer this year to get my golf game in shape."

New Rec Department Rifle Range Dedicated

Last night marked the opening of the new indoor rifle range at the Manchester Recreation Center on Garden Grove Drive. The range was designed by Adam Vabalas of the Manchester Rifle Club which took part in a match following brief ceremonies. The range was constructed at a cost of $10,500. It will replace the ranges at Waddell School and police headquarters. Both the schoolboy and police will use the new facilities.

Hanging Out Football Wash Saturday Big Day In Grid Conference

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash: You couldn't blame the University of Massachusetts' flackos back if he had his mind on something other than football practice Monday. After all, his father was busy in Chicago winning the pennant no one wanted.

"Tim Berra is the most dedicated athlete on our team," says Coach Dick MacPherson. "And he prefers to be known as Tim Berra, rather than Yogi's son."

When Massachusetts plays Rutgers on Saturday, Berra's mind had better be on the game and not on the National League playoffs in Cincinnati.

"He has his mind on baseball," says MacPherson. "he can go elsewhere."

Last Saturday, MacPherson adds, "was just a great day for our conference."

That would be the Yankee Conference, which shocked the Ivy League a couple of times — New Hampshire beat Dartmouth, Connecticut beat Yale, Rhode Island beat Brown. Ironically, Massachusetts, the Yankee Conference favorite, was the Ivy League's sole victim, bowing to Harvard.

"We have a multitude of problems," says Columbia's Frank Navarro. "First, the Ivy League isn't getting the players it did a few years ago as far as depth is concerned. We're not getting the numbers or the quality of a few years ago."

Cacace Brothers Lead Soccer Win

The brother act of Werner and Reiner Cacace accounted for all the Manchester High scoring as they led Coach Dick Danielson's Tribe soccer team to a 3-2 win over Wetherfield High yesterday, extending the Tribe's overall and CCIL record to 6-0.

Werner Cacace scored two goals and Reiner Cacace tallied the other with Werner's second goal proving to be the winner.

Wetherfield took an early lead on a first quarter Mike O'Keefe tally. Manchester dominated play in the early going but shots were off target.

Manchester led the score at the 3:30 mark of the second period on Werner Cacace's first marker. Eight minutes later, Reiner Cacace found the goal to give the Tribe a 2-1 halftime lead.

The Indians put the game on ice with Werner Cacace's goal at the 25:35 mark of the third stanza. Wetherfield Bruce Haslam got the last goal in the final period but it was too little too late.

Once again, the halfback line of Bud Wood, Skip Shense and Connie McCurry turned in outstanding performances. The play of reserve goalie Bob Kanehl was excellent as he has filled the void left by injured starter netminder Mike Sullivan.

Manchester returns to action Friday, traveling to Bristol to take on Bristol Eastern, seeking its seventh straight victory of the current campaign.

Manchester High returns to CCIL action Saturday traveling to West Hartford to take on unbeaten 1-0-1 Conard High in a 1:30 start.

The 1-1 Tribe, under first year head coach Larry Olsen, will once again depend on senior quarterback Rick Mika and junior running back Jack Maloney to generate the offense.

Coaches' Corner

Manchester High

Saturday's win (20-18) over Platt High of Meriden was satisfying to us for two reasons. First, it showed us we could win with key personnel missing, and second, we showed tremendous improvement in an area that was an obvious weakness in our first game.

We had to play our game for the most part without our two starting offensive guards, and defensive ends, and were obviously concerned. Jim Michalik was out all week with a virus and Mike Coughlin re-injured a bad ankle. But replacements at these positions did quite an adequate job considering this game was their first varsity experience.

If this win could be credited to any group, it had to be our defensive rush. After giving up tremendous yardage a week ago against Hall, they turned around and gave a tremendous effort yielding only 39 yards rushing. This had to be the biggest influence of the game. Robbie Roy, end and Steve Dwyer, a linebacker, were constantly in Platt's backfield creating havoc.

Our defensive team caused six turnovers, four interceptions and two punts. It was our pass defense in the second half that gave way and allowed Platt to excite the crowd. After intercepting four times in the first half, our inexperience began to show and we made mistakes which allowed Platt to score three times. At that, it was the extra point attempt by Platt which time expired that made the difference in a win or a tie. On that last attempt, we got one more brilliant play out of Roy and John Samolis who dropped the quarterback on an attempted pass play.

Offensively, we were an improved team over last week also. Rick Mika was 10-23-0 and 156 yards, having another outstanding day. Of the 13 passes that were incomplete, I recall only one that was off target. Our receivers were not making the most of the catches that highlighted our last effort. In the rushing department, we picked up 178 yards with Scott Odell, Jack Maloney and John Kuz carrying the brunt of the load. It was a big help to us regaining the services of Jack Maloney in that our backfield has now regained some of its versatility. Maloney scored two of our touchdowns and kicked two PATs. Odell once again gave us the "workhorse" effort that has begun to symbolize his games, breaking through holes created by Dallas Dole and Steve Georgetti and consistently picking up three or four yards.

Saturday we are on the road again, traveling back to West Hartford to play Conard High. Conard has still the physical type of club that Coach Bob McKee consistently turns out, but they are not the club they were last year. They will be a club to really give our defensive team a workout and severely test our offense. Led by Co-Captain Dave Ober, they have Paul Beattie, a guard, who will run a power I offense with little deception but lots of strength. We have had some very good workouts this week and are really high for this Conard team. I think we will be ready for our biggest test.

Interest Seen For Twi Loop

Adult baseball in the form of a four-team twilight league may be part of the Recreation Department schedule next summer.

While last night's initial meeting to learn if sufficient interest was there didn't produce numbers it did show that the sport is far from dead.

With Jeff Koelsch as a formative session at the West Side Rec found backing from Herb Phelon and Ernie Noske, plus players Dean Fish, Bob Ferron, Don Fay and Dick Goss. Phelon and Goss are former Twilight Leaguers.

Tentative plans call for a four-team league with an effort to limit rosters to Manchester residents only. Already three team sponsors have been secured.

Carl Silver, program director for the Rec, sat in on the session. Possible sites for play would be at Mt. Nebo, Cheney Tech and the West Side Oval. Phelon also pointed out the possibility of including Babe Ruth League play in Manchester next summer.

He pointed out that many youngsters wishing to play baseball, of high school age or experienced personnel this year," Olsen said, "but they have no place to turn."

Any young man interested in playing Twilight League should contact Silver at the Rec office or Noske at 648-8658 or Koelsch at 648-7856. Manchester has

Micronesia — A Troubled Paradise

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Trouble in paradise is the picture that is painted at the U.N. headquarters of faraway Micronesia, known officially as the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

Outsiders thinking about the 115,000 inhabitants of the 2,000-odd islands may envy their simple life, their 75-to 85-degree degree of self-government.

Germany controlled the islands before World War I, and Japan had them between the wars. The United States took them in World War II. The U.N. Security Council gave Washington a trusteeship over them on April 2, 1947.

The agreement made the islands a so-called strategic trust territory. That allowed the United States to establish bases and station forces there but required that it move the inhabitants toward self-government or independence.

Even before that, however, the United States had started using some of the islands as atomic test zones, and Bikini Atoll became an international household word.

The United States ultimately saw the islanders develop enough political consciousness to establish a Congress of Micronesia. Four years ago, a delegation from the congress began talks with U.S. officials on the territory's future.

They had agreed by last year that Micronesia should have self-government in free association with the United States. Then the congress suddenly instructed its delegates to seek independence. The talks were suspended.

Austria Will Delay Closing Transit Camp

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austria probably won't close the Schoenau transit camp for emigrating Soviet Jews until other arrangements are made to move them through Austria, official Austrian sources report.

Kissinger Plans Talks On Mideast

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the next two days Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet with Arab states and ministers of four Arab states in a search for a way to negotiate an end to the Middle East stalemate.

Youth Gang Burns Woman To Death

By DANIEL Q. HANEY Associated Press Writer BOSTON (AP) — Evelyn Wagner was a stranger in town. The 24-year-old white woman from Chicago arrived last weekend to look for a job.

Kreisky's promise last Saturday to close it down. The camp, in a castle 70 miles south of Vienna, is continuing to process Jews bound for Israel despite Chancellor Bruno Kreisky's promise last Saturday to close it down.

But Kreisky was reported firm in his intention to close the camp, and Austrian officials were reported at work on the "technical problems" of shutting it down.

The chancellor has stressed that closure of the camp will not affect Austria's policy of issuing transit visas to Soviet Jews and emigrants from all countries.

Energy Chief Suggests Moves Toward Saving

HARTFORD (AP) — Gordon T. Allen, head of the new state Office of Energy Policy, wants people to quit queuing windows when the heat's on, turn off lights and take a bus instead of driving.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill announced creation of the office and Allen's appointment as director Wednesday. He is ordering state agencies to set an example in conserving energy. Allen had been on Meskill's staff.

Agnew Lawyers Get Wide Summons Right

By LEE LINDER Associated Press Writer BALTIMORE (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew's lawyers held unprecedented subpoena power today to search for news leaks in the federal grand jury investigation of the vice president.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman Wednesday granted the Agnew lawyers broad authority to question anyone in the United States "they deem appropriate and necessary," providing they give the Justice Department at least 48 hours' notice.

Probers Argue For Tape Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee urged a federal judge today to consider his earlier order demanding that President Nixon turn over White House tapes to determine if the White House claim that they must be kept secret is valid.

The committee had subpoenaed five tapes and then filed a civil suit asking for a ruling upholding the legality of its demand. "What in effect the President is arguing," said Dash, "is that we should conduct a factual inquiry but not too much, don't try to find out who did it."

Wholesale Prices Drop Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm and food product prices fell a record 6 per cent last month to their lowest level in 28 years, the government reported today.

The sharp decline in farm products reflected lower prices for livestock and corn, fresh and dried vegetables, live poultry and eggs. Raw cotton and milk prices increased, however.
