Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Trouble in paradise is the picture that is painted at the U.N. headquarters of faraway Micronesia, known officially as the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

Outsiders thinking about the 115,000 inhabitants of the 2,000-odd islands may envy their simple life, their 75-to 85-degree degree of self-government.

Germany controlled the islands before World War I, and Japan had them between the wars. The United States took them in World War II. The U.N. Security Council gave Washington a trusteeship over them on April 2, 1947.

The agreement made the islands a so-called strategic trust territory. That allowed the United States to establish bases and station forces there but required that it move the inhabitants toward self-government or independence.

Even before that, however, the United States had started using some of the islands as atomic test zones, and Bikini Atoll became an international household word.

Bikini, Eniwetok and Kwajalein are part of the Marshall Islands, one of three groups in Micronesia. The others are the Carolines, which include Peleliu, and the Marianas, of which Saipan and Tinian are part.

Saipan is the territorial capital. They had agreed by last year that Micronesia should have self-government in free association with the United States. Then the congress suddenly instructed its delegates to seek independence. The talks were suspended.

Probers Argue For Tape Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee urged a federal judge today to consider his earlier order demanding that President Nixon turn over White House tapes to determine if the White House claim that they must be kept secret is valid.

The committee had subpoenaed five tapes and then filed a civil suit asking for a ruling upholding the legality of its demand. "What in effect the President is arguing," said Dash, "is that we should conduct a factual inquiry but not too much, don't try to find out who did it."

Mrs. Shirley Bellardo of 380 Ferguson Rd., counsels a student at Manchester Community College where she is a counseling aide. She was an MCC student herself in 1971 and went on to earn her bachelor's degree at the University of Connecticut. (Herald photo by Olfara)

Back Where She Started—But Role Different

FLOYD LARSON (Herald Reporter)

How often have you heard some friend express the regret that he or she wished they were younger or could do it all over again and start or finish college?

More and more we are finding students spinning several generations because the barriers of age in higher education that once existed, mostly in the minds of the person harboring the desire to return to school, are fast disappearing.

Institutions like Manchester Community College, represent in one sense the big breakthrough in adult education. First, in carrying a transfer program which can lead to advanced degrees, it provides a transition term of up to two years, for the "over 30" set who want to see if they can track it after years away from a classroom environment; second, by being located near one's home, costs of this "dipping one's toe in the water" of formalized education are lower.

Today at MCC there is one mother who spent many years of her life in Manchester doing the typical club activities most mothers engage in while their children are being reared. She decided to continue her higher education despite the more than two-decade lapse since she attended business school. But that in itself is not the unique aspect of Mrs. Shirley Bellardo's decision. The thing that makes her decision to return to the classroom unique is that it has completed a full circle since 1971 when she enrolled at MCC as a part-time student. Since then she has earned a bachelor's degree and is now employed at MCC as a counseling aide.

Not only is she an alumna of MCC and on its staff, but has the distinction of having served on the Regional Council of MCC which serves the college as an advisory board. She was appointed in January but had to resign when taking her MCC job to avoid any possibility of conflict of interest.

Add to this the fact that Mrs. Bellardo, long before she realized she might someday return to the classroom and engage in work in the field of education, was active in the Manchester League of Women Voters during the years that she worked for and earned an associate of arts degree in general studies at MCC. She then enrolled at the University of Connecticut at Storrs and last June earned a bachelor's degree with a major in English and education. She was able to do her practice teaching at Manchester High School under Gilbert Hunt with Judy Keeney as her supervising teacher.

Today as a counseling aide, she is working with many of the same young people she met in her practice teaching classes.

While practice teaching she decided her interest was more with students on an individual basis and when the opportunity presented itself to join the MCC staff as a counseling aide, she said she had had no reason to regret it.

Her daughter, Suzanne, now teaches elementary school in Worcester, Mass., and her son, Mark, who was a junior high student when Mrs. Bellardo started classes at MCC, is now a freshman at Boston University. Husband Ralph is an engineer with Pratt & Whitney's research department in East Hartford.

With her experience as a mother, having had to counsel her own children on their college plans, and her newly achieved educational background, she feels her job is rewarding to her and helpful to the students.

As for going on to school late in life, so to speak, she encourages more of her contemporaries to consider it. As a matter of fact, she said, after a few years at counseling, "I just might try to get a master's degree."

The event will be at 8 p.m. at the KofC Home on Main St. Tickets, at $5 per person, are available from any member of the club.

He said the Oct. 18 cocktail hour is open to all residents of Manchester, whether Republicans or Democrats.

"The important thing," he said, "is to elect the party who is E.S.P. — Experience, Savings and Performance."

Weiss Questions Census Figure

Town Manager Robert Weiss says, "It just isn't so."

He says the State Health Department is wrong when it estimates Manchester's population at 48,600 as of July 1.

The 1970 census credited Manchester with 47,994 population and the Connecticut Register and Manual estimated its 1971 population at 49,200.

"I just can't accept the latest figures," Weiss told the Board of Directors Tuesday.

Who knows. They say figures don't lie.

Experience, Statistics Basis of Grim Forecasts

CHICAGO (AP) — To the average American, a holiday weekend means a chance to relax a little, to spend some time with the family or just get away from it all.

To the people at the National Safety Council, a holiday weekend means another round of grim projections and counting of the death toll on the nation's highways.

The council began issuing its projections for the six holiday weekends each year in 1942. Current forecasts are based on accumulated experience and statistics.

As a general rule, the council says, 18 per cent more people die on a holiday weekend than during a similar amount of non-holiday time.

That figure is deceiving, however, because there are more people on the roads driving more miles. When the death rate is figured on a basis of number of persons killed per estimated miles driven, the council says the holiday toll is 11 per cent higher than the non-holiday figure.

Why the higher figure? "People are in a hurry to get home," a council spokesman said. "People are in a festive holiday mood and abuse the use of alcohol more than normally and they also neglect to use seat belts."

The council has estimated that alcohol is a factor in more than half of all traffic deaths; that speeding is involved in 30 per cent of them; and that fatalities would be cut by 20 per cent if everyone used seat belts.

There are two sets of figures to take into account. First there is the immediate death toll — the number of people who die during the holiday and whose deaths are reported within hours after its end.

Then there's the final death toll, not available until 10 days or two weeks after the holiday period and including people who died of injuries suffered during the counting period.

The council says it issues its predictions of deaths to alert people to the dangers.

This year the council issued an "immediate death rate" prediction of between 550 and 650 traffic fatalities during the Labor Day weekend. An Associated Press tabulation showed 559 deaths.

Here's a rundown of the Labor Day figures for past years:

- 1972: 580-630 immediate death estimated; 602 counted.
- 1971: 600-700 estimated; 616 counted.
- 1970: 570-670 estimated; 612 counted.
- 1969: 625-725 estimated; 612 counted.
- 1968: 575-675 estimated; 688 counted.
- 1967: 560-660 estimated; 606 counted.

The immediate death rate tells only part of the story, however. This year, for example, the final tally showed 750 persons killed and 22,500 injured during the Labor Day holiday.

According to the council, a final tally by the council for a similar, nonholiday period including a weekend in September, 600 persons were killed and 18,000 injured. That would be an increase of 25 per cent during the Labor Day weekend. But the council also estimated that Americans drove 12.5 billion miles during the Labor Day holiday, compared with an estimated 11.9 billion during a three-day period including a weekend but not on a holiday.

And it figured that 6.1 persons died for every 100 million miles driven during the Labor Day holiday while 5.1 persons died for every 100 million miles driven during the nonholiday period. That's an increase of about 19 per cent.

Where do all the figures come from?

The council has a variety of sources. "Just about all the state police departments and many municipal police departments" contribute information, a spokesman said.

Auto clubs and state officials frequently estimate mileage driven on the basis of gasoline tax receipts.

The council, in projecting the number of people who will be killed during a holiday weekend, takes into account the toll during previous similar holidays; the traffic death trend during the current year; and other factors, including weather and — this year — the gasoline shortage.

The council says bad weather in any season keeps motorists at home and reduces deaths. Statistically, the roads are safest in February.

Reverence for ancestors is evidenced in the construction of tombs in Madagascar. Half of the tomb is above the ground and half is below. The bodies are taken out periodically and exposed to the sunlight. It is called the "Turning of the Dead."

Hockanum Center Marks First Year

The Hockanum Valley Community Services Center celebrated its first anniversary this week. A year ago Oct. 1 it opened its doors in the Vernon Professional Building on Rt. 30 through the efforts of the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council.

John W. Nichols, executive director of the center, said the first to be helped was a family which was having a problem with a teenager who was staying out too late, skipping school and associating with the wrong type of friends.

To help this family the counselors focused on attitudes and communications and the parents later reported that things were going very well, Nichols said.

Today the center's doors are still open in Vernon, Ellington and Tolland. During the year more than 200 families have used the services for a variety of family-related problems as well as those related to the use of alcohol or drugs, Nichols said.

The center staff also concerns itself with career and vocational guidance, marriage counseling, the problems of the elderly, and numerous other human needs.

The need for such a center was emphasized in a 1969 study done by the late Dr. Louis Goldstein of the University of Connecticut School of Social Work, with the help of members of the services council.

The council formed more than five years ago, laid the groundwork for funding and money-raising. The center is now funded by private donations and pledges from within the communities, as well as grants from Capitol Region United Way, The State Department of Mental Health, and the Connecticut Planning Committee of Criminal Administration.

The later grant, Nichols explained, made it possible for the center to employ a full-time social worker. Those using the services of the center pay fees as they are able, according to a sliding fee schedule.

Several area agencies assist the center by assigning the time of their social workers for several hours per week for counseling. The Manchester Child Guidance Clinic and the Child and Family Services, as well as several area professionals, give freely of their time for career guidance and family counseling.

Nichols listed as the first priority of the center, "to those persons who are in present trouble and who apply to the center for professional help."

Nichols said this is an expensive program but, "How expensive it is, is how you look at it."

"If you can keep one family from breaking up, even at the cost of $5,000, this is cheap, because this family can then become productive," Nichols added.

Projections for the future include working closely with area agencies, hospitals and other organizations, Nichols said. He hopes that even as applications for help continue at a high peak and services expand, that a waiting list for appointments will be avoided.

The doors of the center are open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and evenings by appointment. People are encouraged to call 872-8318 to make appointments. Nichols said he hopes that even as applications for help continue at a high peak and services expand, that a waiting list for appointments will be avoided.

South Windsor Snow Outlines Rec Needs

South Windsor Recreation Director James Snow spoke to the Board of Selectmen on Tuesday, Oct. 2, outlining the town's recreational needs.

The doors of the center are open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and evenings by appointment. People are encouraged to call 872-8318 to make appointments. Nichols said he hopes that even as applications for help continue at a high peak and services expand, that a waiting list for appointments will be avoided.

He outlined plans for the proposed "Pum Gully" project. Snow stressed the importance of a recreational area to both the town's young people and its senior citizens, and urged the council and its membership to become more active in supporting recreational improvements.

The South Windsor Woman's Club is holding its first meeting of the club year on Monday, Oct. 8 at 7:45 p.m. in the Eli Terry School Cafeteria. Tania Grande, handwriting analyst, is scheduled to be at the meeting.

Albert Decision Correct

In our view, House Speaker Carl Albert took the right step in abstaining from action on the request of Vice President Spiro Agnew for a House investigation of the charges against him now being brought before a Maryland grand jury.

It is possible that the Vice President was on sound legal ground in requesting the House action, even though it seemed to be an attempt to obstruct the procedures of the court in Baltimore.

It was noticeable also that Speaker Albert did not totally reject the idea of a House investigation, but rejected it at the time, because Agnew was under investigative action which could lead to an indictment.

Congressmen being politicians, it is undoubtedly true that partisanship entered into the decision of the speaker and the House members with whom he conferred. The Agnew action did not take Albert by surprise, since the possibility had been considered and studied by the House Judiciary Committee in anticipation of the move.

Agnew, it would seem, was strangely optimistic in thinking that a Democratic majority in the House would rescue him from his Maryland troubles.

There is also a little wonderment that he took the step after declaiming bravely, for some time, that he wanted speedy action on the charges and looked to quick vindication.

Another factor in the legality of House action is that the offenses with which Agnew is charged took place prior to his election to national office. If the impeachment process is intended to remove a man from office as a result of misdeeds during his tenure in that office, can it also be applied to actions taking place prior to that period? Evidently the House felt that it could not.

Over and above the constitutional and legal questions involved, we think there is practicality in the House refusal.

With President Nixon claiming constitutional privilege in refusing to turn over the controversial White House tapes to either the Ervin committee or to Prosecutor Cox, that question seems bound to be referred, with all its complexity, to the Supreme Court.

The Ervin committee has resumed its hearings, on an abbreviated basis, with all the attendant showmanship which it naturally seems to generate. We thus have the Senate deeply engaged in the tapes and Watergate affair, the courts engrossed in settlement of the question of presidential privilege.

Engaging the House, at this time, in another sensational investigation of the charges against the Vice President would be a little too much. Congress has much important business to consider. Among them might be mentioned the energy shortage, with all its facets, foreign affairs, inflation, scarcities at home, etc.

It certainly is no time for all of Congress to be diverted to these extraordinary affairs. There is other and more important business to be done.

It has been our view in the Watergate investigation that the courts were properly the place for settlement. We take the same view of the Agnew investigation.

Whatever We Do— It's Wrong

Each of us in Manchester and its environs has had those days when it seemed that whatever we did it wasn't right.

Our country apparently has the same affliction.

After years of demanding that Uncle Sam cease trying to be the world's policeman, it now appears the same critics are trying to make Uncle Sam the world's number one scapegoat.

The latest effort is to lay the blame for the Chilean tragedy at our doorstep.

The reasoning in some Marxist-leaning circles is that Uncle Sam ceased to be Uncle Sugar to Chile when long-time anti-American Salvador Allende was elected president.

These people, forgetting one of his first actions was to seize American-owned property in the country which included the copper mining industry which was Chile's economic backbone, cited the drop in U.S. aid to Chile as a cause of his eventual ouster. They note that prior to Allende's ascension to power, aid amounted to $25 to $82 million annually but dropped to $8.6 million in Allende's first year and to $7.4 million in the following year.

They compare this with Communist bloc country aid of $363 million in credits and grants which is admittedly higher than U.S. aid has ever been.

Overlooked, apparently, is that under "nationalization" and other socialist "reforms," Chile's need for economic aid increased manifold. It seemed a bit on the ridiculous side to expect the United States to finance a regime which was admittedly anti-American from inception and pledged to a course of Communist economic policy and philosophy which meant that Allende and his government, if he had continued in power and with U.S. aid had survived, would have been soon "sprung the red gospel" to other South American countries. We need only review the lesson of Cuba to see this is the ultimate Marxist goal in Latin America.

All we can say to those who feel that Uncle Sugar abandoned Chile in her time of need is baloney. Allende failed, not because of what Uncle Sam did or did not do, but because the majority of Chileans could not and would not accept the Allende wave of the future and monetary aid, even in the volume provided by his Marxist friends, proved his problems were not solely economic but mainly political.

But facts to the contrary, the critics of the United States will not let logic, reason, or fairness, permit them to pass up any pretext to criticize the United States.

To them, we just can't do anything right.

Agnew In Limbo

NEW YORK, N.Y. — I recall some vividly named novels of between-the-wars England — "Decline and Fall" and "Vile Bodies" — which describe American politics at a time of the tortured Watergate testimony of E. Howard Hunt and the over-the-hill maneuver of Spiro Agnew. For the moment, Agnew is in limbo, clinging to the slipping heaven of his Vice Presidency, tending off the bell of whatever punishment the courts or an impeachment trail would mete out for what happened in Maryland. It took some doing to get himself into that limbo. He seemed to have two courses: to resign (or not) and fight it out in the courts, or to stay on and insist on impeachment proceedings to clear him. He rejected both, and chose to ask the House to investigate the charges against him before it could be ready for a real impeachment test.

It was an astute, even brilliant, maneuver. But questionable morally. Instead of facing the issue head-on, one way or another, he flees the courts, whose champion he has been as a law-and-order advocate, and solicits the mercies of the politicians who might treat him more tenderly, especially in the less liberal of the two houses. I don't call this courage: it is corner-cutting and self-serving. Temporarily it holds off the glare of the law and gives Agnew a stronger bargaining position with the Justice Department. But one can no more say that what is good for Spiro Agnew is good for the country than that what is good for Richard Nixon is good for the country. I start with the country's interests, not the politicians.

The country's interests here are clear enough. First, to have a Vice President available, without a cloud over him, ready to assume the Presidency if required. Second, to settle the murky constitutional issue of whether a Vice President is immune or subject to court processes.

B-1 Makes Sense

WASHINGTON — Without joining the saber-rattling crowd, it is yet possible to depose that the Air Force has the strongest possible case in pleading with Congress for money to build the B-1 nuclear bomber. Unless we ignore the facts of life, this is one plane we need as weapons of peace. The B-1 would replace the B-52, and it is hard to dispute the Air Force's argument that it's about time. Although the B-52 is still operable and probably will remain a deterrent force for the rest of this decade, it is getting old. We have long since stopped producing B-52's — the latest model was delivered 10 years ago. Some $3-billion has been spent to strengthen the plane's wings, and metal fatigue is likely to occur in the next few years.

So the Air Force is seeking $473.5-million in the current budget to finance over the next two years the development and flight-testing of three B-1's. The ultimate cost through the 1980s for 24 B-1's is estimated at $1-billion. That's what we penny-pinchers might call the bad news.

But there is more good news than bad. First, the B-1 will be subject to a new policy called "fly before buy." That is to say, the Air Force will try out the rest only if they work to the Air Force's satisfaction. Second is the plane itself, which comes close to the fly boys' label of "Superbomber."

Not to get too dryly technical, the B-1 is just about twice as good as the B-52. Although it has only four engines, to eight for the B-52, the B-1 will strike at much greater speeds from bases in the U.S. to targets deep in the Soviet Union. At high altitudes, the B-1 will fly at about 700 mph; the B-52 can do only 400 mph at such a low altitude.

That treetop flying is important, for it is at that altitude that the B-1 makes hard common sense. We penny-pinchers should be pragmatic as well as frugal. While hollering for reductions in the defense budget, we can yet face the reality that the Soviet Union says the manned bomber has a future by maintaining a fleet of some 900 bombers with intercontinental capacity. In that context, the B-1 makes hard common sense.

MIT's First Black Woman Ph.D. Cites Need For Role Models

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The first black woman to earn a doctorate in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology says the major problem faced by black students in general and by black female students in particular is the lack of role models.

Shirley Jackson, 27, who was awarded her doctorate in elementary particle physics last month, entered the institute in 1964 for an undergraduate studies. In her nine years at MIT, she said she came in contact with only a handful of black male professors and a few white female professors and administrators but no black administrators and no black female professors.

"One reason it's so rare to find a black female Ph.D., especially in a technical field such as physics, is because there are no role models," Dr. Jackson said.

Others, however, were not always as confident of her skills and her motivation, she said. "In my freshman class of 900 (at MIT), there were only six blacks, two of whom," Dr. Jackson said, "I'm sure the big question was how many of us would make it."

Dr. Jackson has begun post-doctoral work at the National Accelerator Laboratory in Batavia, Ill. "A lot of people have told me I'm very lucky to be in my field now because there aren't many jobs in my field and blacks and women are in vogue for employers," Dr. Jackson said.

"That may be true, but I still have to be a good physicist. Everyone gets a break of some kind to start off with, but you still have to be good at what you do to last."

Her work at the laboratory will be purely research, but Dr. Jackson said she eventually hopes to return to the academic community, perhaps to provide one of the role models she feels are so important to others.

"I hope to make a contribution in physics and in education," she said. "If I can serve as an example to others, even though that's not my goal, it will certainly help."

Fitzgerald Reinstated By U.S. Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced Wednesday it has accepted a Civil Service Commission order to reinstate A. Ernest Fitzgerald, who was fired as a cost analyst nearly four years ago after uncovering a $2 billion cost overrun on the C-5A transport plane project.

The Air Force said it has agreed to a settlement with the Civil Service Commission's Sept. 18 ruling. The commission rejected Fitzgerald's claim that he was dismissed because of his testimony about the C-5A but held that the Air Force had not properly dismissed him for other purely personal reasons.

"Action is under way to restore him to an appropriate position with back pay retroactive to Jan. 5, 1970," the Air Force said in a brief two-sentence statement.

Vernon $3,000 an Acre Set For Ice Rink Land

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

Thomas Carruthers of Vernon, who wishes to build an indoor ice facility in the town's Industrial Park, may purchase 19 acres of land at $3,000 an acre. The proposal was approved by the Town Council at a special meeting Wednesday night.

comment on the proposal until he goes over the many stipulations with his attorneys. He will reveal his decision at a press conference to be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. Carruthers said, however, that he is concerned about a big stipulation, that carries a 30-year covenant, that the land cannot be used for other than recreational purposes.

He also said he is concerned about a stipulation that the facility has to be built within one year. He said his plan is to accomplish this, but unforeseen problems could delay the project.

Asked about a comment made Monday night at the regular council meeting when Carruthers said he would not want subsidized competition from a town-operated ice facility, he said he is not too concerned about this aspect.

A proposal made by Councilman Robert Houley several months ago asked that the town purchase an acre of land for a facility which "would have to be self-sustaining." Mayor Frank McCoy appointed a study committee to look at the feasibility of such a project.

Carruthers' proposal was presented to the study committee last night, carries with it a provision that Carruthers would be given $3,000 credit for construction of a minimum access road which would bring the net cost to $27,000.

Webster offered a straight $3,500 an acre which would build another small industrial plant on the land. Carruthers was given until noon on Monday to come to a decision and after that time the offer would be void. He said this morning that he did not wish to

South Windsor Notes

The South Windsor Youth Hockey Association opened the 1973-1974 season recently with a successful registration. Last week, 148 youths registered for the coming season as follows: 62 Mites (Ages 6-8), 42 Squirts (Ages 9-10), 36 PeeWees (Ages 11-12) and 18 Bantams (Ages 13-14).

This turnout should result in a busy season with the Mites, Squirts and PeeWee divisions each having several teams. Registrations will continue to be accepted through the end of October. Anyone interested should call Bob Beaulieu, 644-0992.

The Ladies Auxiliary announces that a used equipment sale will be held on Monday, Oct. 8, at the Hartford Arena, Rt. 5, South Windsor, from 10 to noon. Equipment for sale should be tagged with the name of the seller and price asked.

At Wednesday night's special meeting, Clarence O'Conley, chairman of the Economic Development Commission, cited the social value of the ice facility. It will bring in taxes and save the town building such a facility.

State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli has confirmed reports he is getting letters from state Republicans about his availability next year for the GOP nomination for U.S. senator. Agostinelli said he is flattered by the proposal but declined to comment on his decision. He said he won't make one until the end of the year—possibly even later. In the meantime, he said, "It is always nice to know people are talking about your political prospects. It's nice also to be recognized wherever you travel in the state."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff is the Democratic candidate for re-election and Agostinelli acknowledges Ribicoff will be difficult to beat, whoever the Republican candidate is to be. The leading contender for the GOP nomination has been Second District Congressman Robert Steele, who has been speaking engagements throughout the state but who has declined to reveal whether he is a definite candidate for the nomination. Agostinelli has indicated several times in the past year he intends to remain in public office, despite reports that Gov. Thomas Meskill would like to replace him on the state ticket.

Vrecenak-Blazinski

St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel in St. Thomas was the scene Aug. 31 of the marriage of Miss Janet Ann Blazinski of Manchester and Robert Donald Vrecenak of Clifton, N.J.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blazinski of 44 Sautiers Rd. Mr. Vrecenak is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vrecenak of Clifton, N.J.

The Rev. James Moran of St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza and venetian lace gown. Her short veil was attached to a lace and pearl Camolot cap. She carried a bouquet of white roses, yellow peonies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Karen Graf of Bristol, was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ellen Blazinski of Manchester, the bride's sister; and Miss Pamela Richard of Hartwinton. They wore pink gowns trimmed with white lace. Mrs. Graf carried a bouquet of deep pink carnations, daisies and blue baby's breath. ### From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Once upon a time, a bubbly, happy housewife lived in a pretty blue colonial house in a lovely neighborhood. She liked being married and taking care of her two attractive children, a little girl named Katie, almost seven, and a boy Jim who was five.

In a few short weeks, her life would change; she would continue in her present role, as happy as ever, but things would never be the same again.

In a matter of days, her name would be known across the nation. She would be sought after by newspaper and television reporters. Telephone calls would come from faraway states. She would go to Washington to testify before the Banking and Currency Commission of the House of Representatives.

The lady is Barbara Shuttleworth of 51 Wishire Rd., Vernon who had the idea and the courage to carry out the meat boycott of last spring. "Nobody seemed to be doing anything about rising prices though everyone was talking about it," says Barbara. She was then president of the Vernon Junior Women's Club. While attending an executive board meeting of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs, she sought their help and the drive was on.

How did the experience reshape her life? "I wanted to go back to being an average American housewife," she says. "I liked my life and was very content and happy. But it can never be the same because now I am much more aware of my family, more aware of my own home here in Vernon, I made the country's problems my problems."

Barbara and her husband Richmond enjoy their two young children. "We camp a lot and lately have been attending the country fairs. Katie can flycast as well as her father and both she and Jim like animals and nature. I want my children to know there are experiences that are more valuable than just watching the TV or the movies."

Proudly displayed on the living room wall is a plaque presented to Barbara by the Tolland County Bar Association. The annual presentation is made to a citizen who has contributed to the community "beyond the call of duty."

As a result of her fight against inflation, Barbara became chairman of the Unit Price Education Committee for the state of Connecticut. She was appointed by Commissioner Barbara Dunn of the Department of Consumer Protection. Comprised of six members, the committee is currently engaged in devising a hand-out sheet on unit pricing to educate the consumer on how to use this system.

"The biggest problem we have is in simplifying the system on paper. It is very easy to explain verbally. Once a person gets used to it, he can really save money. On one occasion, two people went into a market and bought the same items. One used unit pricing, the other didn't. There was a difference of $10-$12 between the two," Barbara explained.

"The biggest value is comparing sizes. Detergents and catnap are good examples. On most things, it is hard to figure out which is the better buy. When making grocery purchases, Barbara buys a two-week supply. "I don't plan specific meals because I may not feel like making a certain thing on a particular day. If chicken or meat is on sale, I'll buy extra. We used to have meat six or seven times a week before the boycott, now I have non-meat dishes often. We might have a tuna casserole, or a meatless spaghetti or eggplant."

Barbara's canneloni with meat is one she devised herself after having ordered a dish in an Italian restaurant. "It is an excellent company dish, tasty and much cheaper than a roast, though not my least expensive dish. It can also be served with a bechamel sauce or bechamel mixed with a little tomato sauce," she states. "The fish is good for company too but the hamburger stew is just for family."

Weather Key Factor

Chief sports tub-thumper at the University of Connecticut, Joe Solys reported over the luncheon table earlier this week that two factors in home attendance for football games are (1) the weather on Friday and (2) the weather forecast for Saturday.

Seaver Tests Arm

NEW YORK (AP) — Like Mark Twain, the reports of Tom Seaver's demise were greatly exaggerated.

Seaver's tired right arm has passed its most important test and he is today's definite probable pitcher for the New York Mets in their National League playoff opener at Cincinnati Saturday.

The Mets went through a routine 90-minute workout at Shea Stadium Wednesday. It was routine for everyone else and very important for their most important right arm.

In the quiet of the right field bullpen, surrounded by scores of poised cameras, Seaver threw. The result was considerable persuasion and a grin on the face of pitching coach Rube Walker.

Reds Tab Driessen For Rookie Honors

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who produced three National League "rookie of the year" honorees during a six-year span in the 1960s, think they've found their first choice of the 70s.

Driessen, a 24-year-old infielder who says "I'd rather play in the World Series than win any award," looms as a prime candidate for 1973 rookie honors.

"There's no doubt in my mind he's the best rookie in the league," says Manager George "Sparky" Anderson as the Reds brace for the National League playoffs this weekend against the New York Mets.

Driessen, virtually overlooked by pro baseball's extensive scouting system, was signed by the Reds in 1969 at a tryout camp.

Platoon System Orioles' Plus

OAKLAND (AP) — Vida Blue, the Oakland A's starting pitcher in the American League playoff opener at Baltimore Saturday, says, "I can't even remember 1971."

That was his reply today when asked whether he was nervous two years ago when he went out to the mound in another playoff opener at Baltimore. The left-hander, who won 24 games that season, was pounded for five runs in seven innings, and the Orioles were on their way to a three-game sweep.

During the stretch drive, when the Orioles pulled away to nail down their fourth American League division title in five seasons, each ran off a lengthy hot streak.

Baylor started first, and from July 17 through the end of the season he batted .366. It was .389 until the final three days.

Next came Rettenmund, going at a .388 clip for more than a month beginning on Aug. 6, before falling off to .319 for the final eight weeks.

Coggins joined in on Aug. 14, and swatted away at .378 through last Saturday's final game. Finally, Bumbry zipped along at .416 from Aug. 22 until the end.

When the Orioles open the best-of-5 American League playoff series against Oakland's Western Division champs at home Saturday, platooning will remain fashionable.

"It's a credit to Weaver the way he handled the four players," said Coach Jim Frey. "He stuck with Rettenmund and Baylor because he had confidence in them, and it proved to be the right choice."

That's the highest number of 20-game winners in one league in modern times. The previous high was 10, by the National League in 1901 and the American in 1907, 1920 and 1971.

With the designated hitter rule, you go with your starting pitcher longer," explained Dick Williams, manager of the AL West Division champion Oakland A's, who had three 20-game winners, Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Ken Holtzman and Vida Blue.

"The good pitchers are used more," said Manager Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox. "Also, you go with your best relief pitcher earlier because with the designated hitter rule you don't have to pinch hit for him."

As a coach it is pretty frustrating to look out on the field and see a major league polished and bigger team running roughshod over your team and suddenly realizing that there is not anything you can do about it.

There were also times when Northwest was moving well that I was checking to see whether or not we had all 11 men on the field. We seemed to be short-handed at times.

But even in a bad loss, there are some good plays and good players for your side. Dave Bemer had five receptions for a total of 122 yards. All five passes were routine catches but Dave turned them into great gains with some fine running after the catch. In the offensive backfield, Cephus Nolen and Joe Destinone had good games.

EAST'S BOARD OF STRATEGY - East Catholic High head football coach, John LaFontana, checks play on clipboard with assistants, Jim Gerrity and Dave Petro, and standing, Al Freheit and Bob Levitt. Petro and Levitt handle the Frosh. Saturday night the Eagles entertain St. Bernard's at 7:30 at Mt. Nebo.

Coaches' Corner

By John LaFontana East Catholic

It's not too hard to make excuses or give reasons for losing a game 30-27 or 7-0, but when you lose 42-0, there is not much you can say.

Northwest Catholic came to town with an over 30 points-a-game scoring average and proved they had the people and the plays to do it.

One of the few things that we can take pride in last Saturday was the fact that we held them to seven points in the first half. Offensively, we also mounted a couple of drives in the first two periods and were running and passing well. We had one drive of 89 yards in the first half, ending in a close game.

In the second half the roof seemed to fall in. We had great difficulty covering their pitch men on the Washbone and they were able to rip off very large chunks of real estate. I think our evaluation of them was a little light and I think they are getting better and better every week. They are getting more comfortable in that Washbone as they go on and I think when they meet Xavier they should make a real stab at the championship.

As a coach it is pretty frustrating to look out on the field and see a major league polished and bigger team running roughshod over your team and suddenly realizing that there is not anything you can do about it.

There were also times when Northwest was moving well that I was checking to see whether or not we had all 11 men on the field. We seemed to be short-handed at times.

Rookie Coaches Vie Here Friday Night

By Len Auster

Rookie coaches will duel Saturday night with East Catholic's first year head coach, John LaFontana, still searching for his initial victory, as his 0-2 Eagles host St. Bernard's in an HCC tilt at Mt. Nebo starting at 7:30 P.M.

St. Bernard's new mentor, Dave Pesapane, had an auspicious debut defeating South Catholic in the season opener while being shutout last week by St. Paul of Bristol.

The Blue and White dropped its opener 30-17 to Rockville and will be hoping to rebound from an embarrassing 62-0 trouncing at the hands of Northwest Catholic of West Hartford last Saturday. Even with this overwhelming setback, LaFontana remains optimistic.

"We were able to move the ball, move it the length of the field in an abortive drive, but our offense broke down in some key situations. We have to work on our execution, to be more consistent in what we attempt."

The Eagles will go into Saturday's tilt at full strength. Junior center John Charrette, who suffered a mild concussion against Northwest game, will be ready to see duty.

Offensively, East relies on the passing of quarterback Bob Love and the running of freshman halfback Cephus Nolen and fullback Joel BLOSSOMS - Iris Vaccanti 125-352, Ann Geagan 125-347, Betty Corneliusson 141.

ELKS - Al Pirkey 143-300, Dom Farr 140-367, John Rieder 136-349, Stan Seymour 143-139, Bruce Fish 148-385, Dick Krol 381, Jack Talley 353, Bob Talmadge 385, Mike Denhup 350, Bill Adamy 363, Jack Christodare 354, Charles Christodare 388.

WIVES - Joyce Pontale 205-517, Mary Boyko 181, Anne Hughes 463.

HOME ENGINEERS - Sharon D'Allesandro 182-479, Hildur Zawistowski 183, Laurel Merrisette 181, Gerry Tucker 203-546, Norma Wilson 476, Phyllis Heritage 471, Dolores Holmes 465.

With most new cars performance problems have taken the fun out of driving. But with Mazda's rotary-engine the thrill is back. Mazda is different. It's alive, well and kicking. In fact, it beats a lot of cars that cost a lot more. The Mercedes 450SLC, for example, in a 0 to 60 acceleration race. Or the Thunderbird, in a 50 to 80 high-speed passing test. What's Mazda's secret? It used to be a kick to show your friends how much snap your new car had. But not anymore. At least, not for many new cars. For smog control devices are making them drive, says one automotive writer, "like they have a permanent case of the blues." ### MCC Booters Top Hartford

Sophomore back Steve Teachman started Manchester Community College's soccer team on the right foot yesterday. And it was Teachman's right foot that powered the Cougars to their first victory of the season, a 7-2 conquest of Greater Hartford Community College at Hartford's Colt Park.

Teachman tallied two goals, one a direct kick from 50 feet. John Unwin added a pair of goals to the MCC scoring parade.

The Cougars made the out-own sure with five second half goals after taking a slim 2-1 lead at intermission. Teachman netted the initial tally of the second half, starting a trend towards MCC dominance.

MacLellan Sparked On Campus

STORRS (AP) - A name mentioned increasingly on the University of Connecticut campus is Al MacLellan.

Who?

Al MacLellan, a UConn sophomore from Tewksbury, Mass., who has gone from virtual anonymity to campus prominence by virtue of his activity on the football field.

The 19-year-old tight end on the Huskies 21 team entered UConn last year with no intention of playing football, at least right away.

"I wanted to take a year off and get used to the school," he revealed in a recent interview. "They didn't know I did anything," he said.

The his coach at St. John's Preparatory School in Tewksbury contacted a UConn coach and the footballers at Storrs found him on the track team.

MacLellan decided to join the Huskies' effort last spring. "When I first came out for spring ball there were three guys ahead of him for the spot at right end."

Now MacLellan has that position all to himself.

"I've been catching the ball and running with decent speed. I surprised myself with the way I've carried the ball."

At first he surprised his coaches and the UConn fans but they're getting used to his performances.

Last Saturday, for example, he snared a 39-yard pass from freshman quarterback Bernie Palmer of Naugatuck and then sped 16 yards into the end zone for a 55-yard touchdown play against a startled Yale defense.

UConn went on to win, 27-13.

MacLellan also scored touchdowns in each of UConn's two other outings this year, making him the team's second leading scorer behind sophomore Eric Torkelson.

What makes MacLellan so successful despite a year away from the gridiron?

"He's got the potential. He has put that together with the performance," said his coach, Larry Naviaux.

"I just don't believe in Saturday ballplayers," the coach added. "He'll play anytime you ask him. He has good speed."

Naviaux also praised MacLellan's blocking ability on UConn's wide-sweeping running plays.

Baylor Speaks Out, Raps Wilt as Coach

NEW YORK (AP) - Elgin Baylor thinks the San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association might have made a poor choice in choosing Wilt Chamberlain as coach.

"I don't think he can coach," Baylor said emphatically. "Whether he coaches or not, it's a big question mark."

"Baylor, a National Basketball Association star with the Minneapolis-Los Angeles Lakers for 14 seasons before retiring in 1971 because of injuries, played on the same team with Wilt during his last four years in the league.

"I don't think he can coach," Baylor. "He never had any discipline. He hardly ever came to practice, and when he did, he didn't work hard, because he didn't think he had to practice. Last season, for example, he didn't go to practice very often in the last couple of months."

"I don't think he can coach," Baylor said emphatically. "Whether he coaches or not, it's a big question mark."

120 Boys Registered For Local Ice Program

After much planning and preparation, the Board of Directors of MYHA (Manchester Youth Hockey Assn.), approached the formal registration of the youngsters of the community Tuesday with optimism.

The turnout for registration was gratifying and inspiring to all who worked so hard to initiate hockey as an augment to youth activities for Manchester and environs. It is obvious to all that there is a genuine interest in this type of program and that the program is filling a big gap in the winter sports scene.

There were over 120 applications issued Tuesday with over 80 firm applications returned. Others are pending because individual parents forgot to bring their checksbooks or youths appeared without a parent. It is felt that there are still others who would like to participate and for that reason registrations will be accepted for the coming week.

Parents may register their son(s) by contacting any member of the board of directors or by writing to MYHA at P.O. Box 142, Manchester, 06040.

All parents who registered their sons will be contacted by the instructor to specify the aspects of program such as equipment, schedule and parent participation.

Woman Burned

dark hair was burned to her blackened scalp. When Mrs. Wagner got onto the sidewalk, she walked in a daze past two apartment buildings, a sandwich shop, a laundry and a record store. Then she crossed a street, passed the drunks who hang out in front of the liquor store and politely asked for help.

By the time the clerk called police and got the blanket, four store customers had picked off the remains of her sweatshirt and covered her with a coat. At 9:39 p.m., a police ambulance picked her up and took her to Boston City Hospital.

Police said there was no known motive. Apparently neither robbery nor sexual assault was involved. No arrests have been made.

The judge also cautioned the jury that it is not its concern "whether a person is immune from indictment or trial." This is the constitutional challenge Agnew's lawyers have raised in seeking to halt the grand jury investigation on grounds a vice president cannot be indicted.

The vice president "is elected by all the people. He holds that office in his own right, and the decision as to whether he should resign is for him to make," Nixon said.

In another Agnew development, effort by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., to force the House to vote on his resolution for a congressional investigation of Agnew ran into Republican opposition.

The youth ministry committee of Emmanuel Lutheran Church will meet tonight at 7:30 at the church.
