Watergate Issue Before Sirica

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica today told the two Watergate grand juries that they are not dismissed and will be dismissed only if they return a presidential conviction.
Sirica said he had called the jurors to his courtroom to explain their status in the light of the events of the past week. He spoke to the grand juries a few hours before White House lawyers were due to present the case to a Watergate tapes commission. They hope will head off demands for President Nixon's impeachment.

The House returned to session with at least two members ready to file impeachment resolutions and many more saying they are ready to consider such a move.
In a packed courtroom, Sirica told the jurors, "I urge you to be patient while the various immediate problems surrounding this investigation are resolved by this court."

The judge emphasized the word "patient." He said the House returned to session with all the top prosecution lawyers of the special prosecutor Archibald Cox shifted to the Justice Department.
After he addressed the grand jury Sirica asked, "Are there any other matters to be heard by this court?"

There was a long silence with many heads turned toward the special prosecution force attorneys. But none spoke.
"These are long silences with many heads turned toward the special prosecution force attorneys. But none spoke.

Fierce Clashes Mar Cease-Fire

By The Associated Press
Fierce tank and artillery clashes erupted along the Syrian Canal today and dogfights erupted over the Syrian battleground despite the U.N. ceasefire.
The war raged into its 18th day on both fronts after a only partial overnight pause for the precarious Security Council truce negotiations to halt the combat in place and open the way to diplomatic efforts.

Egypt called for emergency Security Council meeting to discuss what it said were Israeli violations of the fragile cease-fire. The council president, Sir Laurence McIntyre of Australia, called a midday session at U.N. headquarters in New York.
Egypt and Israel had accepted the truce appeal - worked out by the UN - in the southern sector of the canal front had orders to continue fighting to hold their fire unless ordered to do so.

But Syria kept silent on the U.N. call, and only hours after it went into effect there were mutual accusations of violations by Egyptians and Israelis along the canal front.
A correspondent for Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Israeli and Egyptian forces by today were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Mayor Thompson, in a special proclamation, proclaimed that the road normally known as Main St. in Manchester will be temporarily renamed United Way for the period Oct. 21 to Oct. 27, and that it shall be for the purpose of helping to promote and recognize the importance of the success of the 1973 United Way campaign. Many New Englanders Support Impeachment

By The Associated Press
Several citizens and citizens' groups in New England called Monday for impeachment of President Nixon, and their political leaders generally took a wait-and-see attitude.
Only Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., said he would not support a move to impeach the President over the firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox.
"Persons with different philosophical views might find the firing an aggravation," Wyman said, "but in reality it is not enough to get rid of a president."

Four Nobel Prize Winners Named

STOCKHOLM (AP) - The 1973 Nobel Prize for Chemistry was awarded jointly today to British Prof. Geoffrey Wilkinson and German Prof. Rudi Schöckley and Otto Fischer. The physics prize went to two Americans, Leo Esaki and Ivar Giaever, and a Briton, Brian Josephson.
Wilkinson and Fischer were cited for their "pioneering work, performed independently, on the chemistry of the organometallic so-called sandwich compounds."
The two professors share $120,000 prize equally for their work on hydrocarbons. The Royal Academy said they had "revolutionized transition metal chemistry during the two decades which have passed since their discovery."
Fischer was born in 1918 and educated in Munich where he has been director of the inorganic chemistry laboratory since 1969.
Wilkinson, born in 1917, was educated in London. He is professor of inorganic chemistry at the renowned Imperial College of Science and Technology which produced several former Nobel winners.
Earlier today the Science Academy, after deliberation of record length on four alternates, awarded the Nobel Physics Prize to Esaki, Giaever and Josephson for their discoveries connected with the generation of power through superconductors at extremely low temperatures.
Josephson was cited for "his theoretical predictions of the properties of a supercurrent through a tunnel barrier, in particular those phenomena which are generally known as Josephson effects."
Japanese-born Esaki, who works with the IBM Corp. and Norwegian-born Giaever, who works for General Electric, share one half of the $120,000 prize, while the other half goes to Josephson of Cambridge University.
The Nobel prizes for chemistry and physics were to be given in 1973.

Working For United Way

Helping in the efforts of the United Way of Greater Hartford fund campaign in the Manchester area are James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools in Manchester; William Wilson, town personnel supervisor; John I. Hultine, manager of the East Hartford office of Southern New England Telephone Co.; and Dr. Alan Kemp, dentist.
The services provided by the United Way are many. Included are programs for youth, day care for retarded children and adults, training programs, well-child clinics, U.S. armed forces agencies, and info-line - a 24-hour telephone service.
The largest percentage of the distribution of United Way funds - 33 per cent - goes to family and children's services; 22 per cent to recreation, youth services; 17 per cent to Red Cross, and 9 1/2 per cent to health services. The rest of the total percentage is distributed among planning and coordinating services, administration, campaign costs (4 per cent), other United Ways, funds and their agencies, and national agencies.
As of last Friday, the fund had reached 68 1/2 per cent of its goal, which is $4,574,000. Contributions from Manchester so far total $17,600 which represents 22 per cent of the town's goal. However, this does not include donations from Manchester residents which have been made through out-of-town places of employment.
Durward Miller, local United Way drive chairman, says, "If more people would become involved just a little bit, we could do a lot more."
The United Way fund drive continues through Nov. 1.

Open Season On Nixon

It is almost as predictable as sun up. There is no doubt there are men in Washington who want Richard M. Nixon removed from office. If they cannot prod the House into starting impeachment proceedings, they are ready to hound him out of the White House if they can via public opinion.

The increasing pressures of recent weeks (despite the headline grabbing diversion of the Agnew affair) have been subtly evident for behind the scenes a scenario was being laid out to direct blame for action or inaction on the President whatever happens.

Immediately after the Court of Appeals ruled the Watergate Tapes should be given to Judge Sirica, Nixon critics began speculating whether he could comply with a "definite" Supreme Court order to do so, assuming he would appeal. The effort, apparently, was to force Nixon into a corner where he would pre-commit his obedience to a Supreme Court ruling knowing fully that, win or lose, the President could not delay Watergate by the appeal process without harming his already damaged case.

In other words, he had reached the stage where he stood to lose more than he could gain by appealing the case. The critics on the other hand wanted an appeal, not because they are basically concerned with over concentration of power in the presidency, but because they do not like this power being vested in Mr. Nixon.

Mr. Nixon, no political novice, knows when to pull in his horns and the compromise worked out by him and Sens. Ervin and Baker, is essentially along the lines of one suggested several weeks ago by the Court of Appeals in its efforts to head off a constitutional confrontation.

In a nutshell, the President caught his critics by surprise and in doing so he had to make a big sacrifice. Fully aware the compromise would not be universally acceptable, the President knew, and events tend to bear this out, that the critics only view this for their vendetta was Mr. Cox, who was appointed as an "independent" investigator of the Watergate affair. However, his independence, up to his firing, was pretty much a one-way street for while he was careful in not siding with the administration, his lack of attempts to point out instances of cooperation made him an adversary within the administration rather than an unbiased pursuer of truth which some would have us believe.

When all the allegations, oratory, etc. are swept away, the one fundamental issue remains. President Richard M. Nixon's power as president is no different than the power which reposed in all of his predecessors since 1932.

Thus it is not a constitutional crisis of power usurped but rather a political and highly partisan debate over the use or alleged abuse of power.

The Congress has gone full circle from the hastily adopted Gulf of Tonkin resolution to the current much-debated resolution to limit presidential war-making powers.

When all the hue and cry dies down, the House knows that while it can bring an impeachment bill by a majority vote, the Senate can only do so by a two-thirds vote.

The inferences that the nation could not stand the ordeal of impeachment proceedings is an evasion for the truth of the matter; and, what really should concern us as citizens, is whether the Congress could conduct impeachment proceedings without destroying what little aura of respect it still has after years of abdication to powerful presidential personalities.

The issue before us is not whether a president should be impeached but whether we have a Congress which could in good conscience do so and really sleep at night.

Impeach

To the editor:
It was with a heavy heart Sunday that I was compelled to petition Rep. William F. Cotter, my voice in the House of Representatives, to vote "yes" to impeach President Nixon.

Although Nixon and I are far apart in political philosophy, it gives me great sorrow to condone the impeachment of the Chief Executive of my country. Nevertheless, my patience can no longer tolerate the abuse of presidential power by arbitrary decisions which flout the law and breed disorder in and out of government. Our democratic institutions are far too precious to be endangered.

There has been sufficient corruption, instability, usurpation of power and censorship to forward us that all the signs of a dictatorship are steadily infiltrating the presidency.

The Congress must be restrained but just, grave but firm, in implementing the impeachment process. We have exhausted every alternative and now must use the ultimate defense incorporated in the Constitution as the insurance against its destruction.

Regarding

To the editor:
Your editorial of Oct. 18 entitled "No Winner in Mid-East" was emotionally rewarding to many people who, for such a long period of time, have had profound feelings of frustration over the situation in Israel. It made public the inescapable truth that so often is repressed and covered over by the propaganda and lies of those who are afraid to face reality.

The thoughts expressed in your editorial are the same that many sensible thinking people have had for many years. It was refreshing to read them in our home town newspaper.

Leadership Needed

Dear editor:
Man has tried and will try to end war and establish peace, justice, equality and prosperity by a program of more wars, establishment of military, commercial and other similar types of empires and mandates and by doing horrible things in the name of law and order.

Today's Thought

Just use me — I am the bible. I am God's wonderful library. I am always — and above all — the Truth.
To the weary pilgrim, I am a good strong staff.
To the one who sits in gloom, I am a glorious light.
To those who stop beneath heavy burdens I am a sweet rest.
To him who has lost his way, I am a safe guide.
To those who have been hurt by sin, I am healing balm.
To the discouraged, I whisper glad messages of hope.
To those who are distressed by the storms of life, I am an anchor.
To those who suffer in lonely solitude, I am a cool, soft hand resting on a fevered brow.
O child of man, to best defend me — just use me!

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak
Israel's New Doctrine

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

TEL AVIV — The fact that a principal left-of-center faction called Mapam in Prime Minister Golda Meir's government is moving sharply away from its old dovish commitment to a demilitarized Sinai peninsula is just one example of the immense anti-Arab political impact of the Syrian-Egyptian attack on the day of Yom Kippur.

In short, all members of any political party advocating what is deemed here as the frightening policy of ever withdrawing from the Egyptian Sinai peninsula, where one of the world's historic tank battles took place, could soon meet in a telephone booth.

Thus, some of Mapam's leaders are quietly preparing to junk the old demilitarization policy for a hard-line posture claiming Israel's future right to fortify Sinai with defensive weapons.

In the throes of the most dangerous war Israel has ever fought with its eternal Arab foes, that policy switch by Mapam might seem no more than a normal effort to tailor policy to short-term political advantage. During a war of survival, doves are often unpopular.

But in fact, this otherwise remarkable switch on postwar Sinai policy actually cloaks a groundswell change of stunning magnitude in the national mood, from old to young, from new immigrants to old Sabras, carrying an agonizing message to Richard Nixon's White House. This change, judging from our talks with politicians of all persuasions, is not a temporary reaction to the war that started on Yom Kippur. It has earmarks of permanency which will make U.S. postwar settlement efforts an even slipperier slope than before if Israel's battlefield positions don't suddenly deteriorate.

Even before the newest war, a recent poll published here showed that Israelis calling for retention of the territories captured in the six-day war of 1967 had climbed to about one-third of the whole population. Judging from the volcanic impact of the Egyptian-Syrian attacks and their initial success, this is now close to 100 per cent.

No one here believes the real target of those attacks was return of the 1967 territories. High government leaders talk privately of Syrian papers captured on the Golan heights laying out a Syrian military plan to sever the northern part of Israel and split the country in two.

Teddy And John

WASHINGTON — It must be more than a touch bewildering to be Sen. Teddy Kennedy and former Texas Gov. John Connally these days. Were either of those men, I would be tempted to forsake big-time politics and tackle something easy like constructing a perpetual motion machine.

Two developments a couple of days apart seem calculated to create confusion in the Kennedy and Connally minds and cause them to ponder the twistings and turnings of political fortunes.

Kennedy leads all the early polls as the No. 1 contender for the 1976 Democratic Presidential nominee. Yet the latest Harris survey reports that by a margin of 43 to 41 per cent a plurality of those interviewed say "I do not fully trust his integrity." Here in Washington, White House domestic adviser Melvin Laird told a group of reporters that Connally gave up his best chance for a Presidential nomination when he turned Republican.

Crazy, in Kennedy's case, the only possible explanation is that those voters who have named him their first choice for the Presidency did so despite doubts about his integrity. Apparently they feel that the Kennedy name and charisma, plus Teddy's good looks, personality and "Kennedy style" compensate for any lack of trust in his rectitude.

At the same time, we have Mel Laird saying admiringly that John Connally "made a great sacrifice to become a Republican," and "should be welcomed" into the party, but also telling Connally in effect that he must expect the GOP to nominate him for the White House.

Admittedly, the wheels-within-wheels complexities of Presidential politics are enough to drive most sane men up the wall. Moreover, a lot of other Republicans — possibly including Mel Laird — would like to get that 1976 nomination. But Connally can be forgiven for wondering what promoted Laird to count him out of the running before the horses are out of the gate.

Although Richard Nixon is a secretive man, it is no secret that he admires John Connally and—at least up to the moment Laird spoke his little piece—counted the Texan as a leading candidate to succeed him, if not THE leading candidate. Yet Mel Laird is one four or five men in the White House who can claim inside knowledge of Nixon's political thinking. Laird can say he was speaking only for himself, but that's like Henry Kissinger insisting that his statements on the Israeli-Arab war are news to the President.

No. Unquestionably Nixon was privy to Laird's views and did not consider it in his personal interest to disapprove the public airing of those views. John Connally has been put on notice by the White House that he is no more than one of the pack in the race for the GOP nomination. Why else would Laird speak of Connally's great personal sacrifice to become a Republican?

As for Kennedy, he may be yet another victim of Watergate. One of the major issues in 1976 will be morality in government, and obviously many voters are still confused by the Chappaquiddick incident in their search for Mr. Clean. For instance, while those questioned by Harris' interviewers disagreed by 49 to 34 per cent that Chappaquiddick showed Kennedy "does not deserve the Presidency," they also disagreed by 43 to 36 per cent that Kennedy "could give the country the kind of inspired leadership we need."

The temptation is to dismiss the particular poll as a brand new Republicanism, and those questioned by Harris' interviewers disagreed by 49 to 34 per cent that Chappaquiddick showed Kennedy "does not deserve the Presidency," they also disagreed by 43 to 36 per cent that Kennedy "could give the country the kind of inspired leadership we need."

Events of the past few years have had their effect on the voter. Chappaquiddick plus Watergate has made him more uncertain than usual about "popular" political men. "That is Kennedy's problem and it is Connally's problem, too. Connally has no Chappaquiddick on his back and he was not involved in Watergate, but he suffers from his status as a brand new Republicanism, and like Mel Laird, workers in the GOP salt mines may not be persuaded to hand the party's biggest prize to a candidate whose loyalty is of such recent vintage.

The Innocent Bystander

Art Hoppe

Be Patriotic, Cop a Plea

A wave of compassion swept the nation's capital following the emotional televised speech in his own defense delivered here last Monday night by Bugsy (Stickey Fingers) Eclair.

In 40 pages of detailed charges, federal agents had accused Bugsy of extortion, bribery, perjury, graft and felonious mopey. As the world knows, the former Baltimore gang leader pleaded guilty to one count of income tax evasion and was given the stiff sentence of a $10,000 fine and three years of unsupervised probation.

"I copped a plea," Bugsy said, tears welling in his eyes, "for the good of the country."

As some viewers sobbed uncontrollably, Bugsy told a dramatic story of how he had been victimized by self-serving businessmen, overambitious prospectors and "the post-Watergate public morality."

Amidst angry cries "down with the post-Watergate public morality," Bugsy stoutly denied he was guilty of extortion, putting out a contract for anyone, or even the one count of tax evasion he had pleaded guilty to.

"I just did it," he said, his voice choking, "so that everybody could get a little peace and quiet."
What hurt him most, he said, was that anyone would even think for a moment that he would approach a businessman demanding extortion money.
"That's really a laugh," Bugsy said. "It was them who came to me. Everybody knows how warm-hearted, kind and generous these businessmen are."
"So they'd slide up to me, say, 'Bugsy, I hear you are a little on the shorts. Please accept this ten grand in a plain wrapper for your starving wife and kids. I was going to give it to the Holston-Holistic Fund, but you're more worthy cause."

"What can I do for you in return? I'd beg them. But they always said, 'Absolutely nothing, Bugsy. Like all us businessmen say, it's far better to give than receive. And isn't it a shame my cousin Louie's store burned down last week?'"

"What could I do but accept their little gifts to encourage their Christian spirit? And now these warm-hearted, kind, generous, Christian businessmen have accused me of extorting bribes. Would you believe these dirty rats who are admitted bribers," said Bugsy dramatically, "or me?"

The logic of Bugsy's defense swept the cheering audience to their feet. He dramatically concluded, his hand over his breast, "My only regret is that I have but one plea to cop for my country."

There can be no question that Bugsy's noble self sacrifice has softened the hearts of all Americans. Just yesterday, Judge Homer T. (Hang 'Em By the Thumbs) Pettibone sentenced Mary Worth mother of eight, to only a single year in jail for defrauding the government of $12.83 in welfare payments.

"I'm letting you off easy," said Judge Pettibone. "In tribute to the shining example Bugsy has set for us all."
But perhaps the most lasting effect lies in the new determination of political leaders here that the new insidious "post-Watergate public morality" will never again be permitted to ruin the career of another innocent victim.

VOTE the Paper Drive Earns $234

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
Tel. 646-0375

Carol Lorenzini, Bolton Junior Woman's Club conservation committee chairman, reported that 26,000 pounds of paper were collected during the club's recent paper drive, for a total profit of $234.

At the beginning of last week the Rockville Scrap Co. had quoted the price of scrap paper as $14 per ton.

Saturday when the papers were collected throughout town and delivered to Rockville the firm was paying $18 per ton. Last year the price was $9 per ton.

The paper drive ended earlier than planned due to the fact that one of the trucks was an open van and it was not considered safe to leave it parked at the Town Hall over the weekend.

Last year 21,820 pounds of paper were collected.

As future drives will be conducted, residents are asked to begin saving or to continue to save their papers and magazines.

Halloween Party
Teachers and parents of students in Grades 5 and 6 will sponsor a Halloween party for these students Thursday at the Town Hall from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Door prizes and game prizes will be awarded.

Prizes for the funniest, most original, prettiest and ugliest costumes will also be awarded.

Refreshments will be served. Donations of finger foods may be brought to the party by any student attending.

BoMarCo
The October event for BoMarCo (Bolton Married Couples) will be a card party. It will be held Friday at 8 p.m. at Herrick Memorial Park.

Cosetting the event are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Desjournes and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richardson.

Church Fair
United Methodist Church Home for the Holidays fair will be held Nov. 10 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Dorothy Miller has been named general chairman.

Both chairman named are Karen Aspinwall, crafts, fancy work; Alice Mack, Carol Lavery, candies; Helen Swartz, Mary Nichols, knitting; Carol Bolleris, nature nook, crafts using natural products, painted bottles.

Townwide Calendar
A long range townwide calendar of all Bolton events is being compiled by the Bolton Ecumenical Council to avoid conflicts and to enable various groups in town to support each others efforts.

All organized town groups, both public and private, are requested to furnish a calendar of their events for 1973 and 1974. The calendars can be given to any of Bolton's clergymen before Oct. 25.

The calendar will be maintained in a location accessible to everyone.

Wetlands Agency
Stanley Bates, conservation chairman, told the selectmen that he had been authorized by the members of his commission to inform them that they would be willing to be official body to administer the Inland-Wetlands Act's required by PA 155.

The conservation commission agreed to work with the planning commission and the zoning board and to turn in its resulting plans to the Department of Environmental Protection.

Although the selectmen gave Bates the go ahead to establish a wetlands regulatory agency, the action must be approved by townspeople at a town meeting.

Revenue Sharing
Bolton's payment for the first quarter of the fourth entitlement period, beginning July 1, 1973 and ending June 30, 1974, in the amount of $15,047 has been received by Catherine Peterson, town treasurer.

Testimonial
Joseph Licitra, former Bolton selectman, will be honored at a testimonial dinner Friday, Oct. 26, at St. Maurice Parish Center, Bolton.

He has been on the Democratic Town Committee for more than fifteen years and has served as vice president of the United Fund of Manchester.

Licitra resides on School Rd. with his wife and daughter.

There will be dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Pablo Casals, Cellist, Dies

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Tributes poured in today acclaiming the greatness of Pablo Casals, the cellist and humanitarian who died Monday at 91.

He was buried this afternoon in a black granite vault, less than a block from his home here.

Casals, who for the last 45 years used his musical talents in a protest against tyranny and a campaign for peace, died after three weeks in Anaxillo Juto Hospital. He was hospitalized after a heart seizure, but doctors said he also suffered from chronic bronchitis, a kidney failure and circulatory ailments.

He was the foremost cellist of the 20th century and a superlative performer into his 80s. In recent years he won new honors as a conductor. He was a source of inspiration to the musicians with whom he worked every summer at the Marlboro, Vt., music colony.

"Sometimes I feel like a boy," Casals once said. "Music does that. I can never play the same piece twice in the same way. Each time it is new."

"Pablo Casals was one of the greatest musicians of all time and the greatest cellist," said Eugene Ormandy, the music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra. "His love of people was probably the reason for his rich and long life."

Scouts Start Tom-Wat Drive

Profits made from the sale of these items will be used to pay for troop camping next summer and to replace and purchase additional equipment for Hebron's growing scout unit. In addition, each scout will be competing for prizes to be awarded to scouts making the largest volume of sales.

The PTO is presenting a "Family Bingo Night" Thursday evening at 7 at the Hebron Elementary School.

All ages are welcome and there will be prizes, refreshments and door prizes for only $1 a family.

Over 25 local and area businesses have donated prizes for the event and the PTO is urging "kids" to treat Mom and Dad to a "great night of fun."

Boy Scout Troop 28 for the next three weeks will be conducting its annual Tom-Wat fund-raising drive door-to-door throughout town.

Scouts will be visiting homes in their neighborhoods to take orders for a variety of items in the Tom-Wat kit prepared especially for the Hebron troop. The first time around the boys will take orders only for the items chosen by customers and will collect the money upon delivery of the orders, which will be in plenty of time for Christmas.

Lick The Platter Clean

My mother raised me to eat everything on my plate. There were no exceptions to her rule. When I protested tearfully "I can't!" meaning that I simply could not push another lima bean past the lump in my throat, my mother reminded me of the starving children in Europe.

Now, we have tried to raise our children to eat everything on their plates too. But, being modern parents and desecrators of the soft-spoken Heim Ginnot, we have used different methods.

Uniting People Is A Challenge

There is a spiritual answer to alienation and other forms of turmoil. Joseph G. Heald, Miami, Fla., told an audience here Monday.

Mr. Heald, a well-known Christian Science teacher and lecturer, spoke under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Manchester.

"If we were to raise the concept 'We the people' higher to 'We Thy People' or 'we God's People,' would we find a bond of unity that embraces everyone without fragmentation or exclusion?" Mr. Heald asked.

Mr. Heald called on his audience to meet the challenge of overcoming all that would fragment and alienate.

Mr. Heald said that there are spiritual laws to help us which anyone can test, prove, demonstrate, observe, practice, measure in action.

Mr. Heald said that obedience to the law of God is required before unity can be established between individuals and their source.

Mr. Heald gave several examples of how applying the teachings of Jesus to present-day situations have brought healing, including the correcting of a businessman's hearing difficulty.

Break-Even Possible On 60-Ton Pickup Of Paper: Giles

Manchester's director of public works estimates the town could break even in the cost involved for collecting and recycling newspaper if a minimum of 60 tons were collected weekly.

Jay Giles, in a report prepared by him and by Ronald Kraatz, environmental officer, estimates the town's contract for refuse collection would require about $28,500 per year additional for once-a-week curbside pickup of newspaper or about $77,000 per year additional for twice-a-week.

"Assuming that the cost for collection would be substantially lower than the proposed costs (by the refuse contractor), if the town accepts competitive bids," explains Giles, "it appears that the market value of newspaper is sufficient to cover the collection and baling costs."

Consequently, Giles recommends bids be received for this on a separate contract for collecting newspaper on a once- or twice-weekly basis for a trial period to June 30, 1974.

He recommends also that the town's refuse collection contract go out for bid in January, and that the bid include a provision for curbside collection of newspaper.

The town's three-year contract with Trash-Away Inc. expires June 30, 1974.

Bids are advertised on a baling and recycling station. Giles points out that baled newspaper returns a much higher price than loose newspaper.

The Board of Directors is asked for an additional appropriation to pay for the baling and for improving the recycling station—by adding a loading dock and baler pad, and constructing a roof over the baler area.

Giles estimates the state would pay 30 per cent of the cost.

The policy now followed, of turning 40 per cent of the town's refuse to the conservation commission, be reviewed for possible change.

The town appropriated $60,000 toward the $18,900 cost of the near-completed recycling station. The remaining $41,100 was advanced by Lydall Inc. under a five-year, pay-back agreement.

Lydall is paying the town the market price for loose paper, less its (Lydall's) cost for baling. Lydall retains 60 per cent of the money it owes for the paper and the sum is credited toward the $12,900 it advanced the town. The 40 per cent it turns over to the town is credited to the conservation commission for its use.

60th Anniversary

Seventeen members of the South Windsor Choral Group have been accepted this year as members of the Greater Hartford Youth Choral.

This is one of the largest representations of the schools participating and is the second time South Windsor High School gained the honor of having so many students chosen. Last year 18 of its students were accepted.

Candidates Are Saying...

Herbert Asplund

(Herbert Asplund is a Republican candidate for the South Windsor Town Council.)

Lack of proper planning in the town's road surfacing program has made a mess of several South Windsor roads and has resulted in an unnecessary cost to South Windsor taxpayers.

Roads were resurfaced as part of the sewer program initiated by the Republican administration in 1970, but were then torn up again to install water lines and for other reasons. Proper planning would have required that coordination of municipal services take place prior to the original resurfacing.

There is also money planned for drainage improvements and industrial road construction which is so important to attract new industry to South Windsor and expansion of existing facilities.

The fact that the council has issued a five-year plan does not detract from the activities of the Capital Improvements Committee. They still perform the important function of screening all projects and advising the council regarding priority, just as they have been requested to do by the town charter.

One of the most important aspects of the five-year plan is that it is scheduled so that it does not require a tax increase. It is intentionally planned to be implemented with the existing capital improvements money and revenue sharing funds.

Years from now the town will benefit from the orderly accomplishment of these worthwhile plans, rather than have spent these funds in a piecemeal fashion of disjointed projects.

Leon Mainelli

(Leon Mainelli is an incumbent Democratic Town Council Member in South Windsor.)

For the first time in its history the Town of South Windsor a council-endorsed five-year plan. The need and benefits of such a plan have been recognized for a long time but not until 1973, under the present council, was it accomplished.

It serves as a guide for the council and all other functions in South Windsor to plan and implement their programs in a coordinated manner. The plan will be reviewed annually to be sure it reflects the thinking and needs of the town.

The plan contains money for road reconstruction and, more importantly, for right-of-way acquisition. Numerous projects in town have been tied up for lack of rights-of-way with the construction money for the project already appropriated.

The plan contains money for land fill area improvements, land acquisition, should the town have been tied up for lack of land and sidewalk construction projects.

The Greater Hartford Youth Choral is sponsored by the Society for Savings. Vocal director at South Windsor High School is Nicholas R. Lesbines.

Coventry Food Stamps Plan Meeting Topic

The Public Health Nursing Association and the Committee on the Aging have made arrangements for representatives of the state Food Stamp program to visit at home and provide a nutritional adequate diet that will benefit every family member.

Any family, or individual living alone, who cooks its meals at home and whose income falls within the monthly income and assets limits, may be eligible to purchase food stamps.

Any residents interested in visiting the Town Office Building on Oct. 29 is requested to call the Public Health Nursing Association at 742-7312 prior to Oct. 24 in order that an adequate staff will be available.

The office hours are 9:30 to 12 and 1 to 3 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

The program is a direct way to add dollars to family food money, and the primary purpose of the program is to provide a nutritionally adequate diet that will benefit every family member.

Both groups are encouraging residents of Coventry who might qualify to visit the Town Office Building on Oct. 29 and file application or ask any questions they might have about the program.

Coventry Decision Delayed On Group Home

The Planning and Zoning Commission Monday postponed a decision on the Sterling MacPeters application to use his property at Rt. 31 and Mason St. for a group home for 10 children, from the Mansfield Training School.

The postponement was to give the Board of Education time to complete all the facts and make recommendations. The board will meet Thursday.

The commission will approve or deny the application at its next meeting.

All the people present at a hearing spoke in favor of the application.

There is a possibility that housing the 10 students in Coventry could cost the town $10,000 for the education of these children at Talcoville. This would be about 2 per cent of the Board of Education budget.

The commission approved the subdivision and zoning request of Ethelena and William Zeigler on Riley Hill Mountain Rd. The request was to add one more building lot on their land.

The commission recommended acceptance of the proposed ordinance regulating the sewer and water facilities.

Frank Connelly, town planner, reported on the survey that the towns hope to send out to 20 new communities in other states to see what arrangements were made between the town and the developers concerning sewers, schools, water facilities, etc.

The town hopes to receive ten replies.

Democrats Plan 'Fun(d) Raiser'

A "Democratic Swing-in" is scheduled for Saturday by the Manchester Democratic Town Committee. It will be at 8 p.m. at the Elk's Club on Bissell St., with dancing from 8 to 1 and casual dress recommended.

Sub-titled "A Fun(d) Raiser," there won't be any speech-making. Herbert Stevenson, arrangements chairman, has promised.

However, several notables have said they will make an appearance and say "hello."

Among them are First District Cong. William Catter, State Attorney General Robert Killian and former UConn president Homer Babidge. Tickets are $8 per couple.

"This is strictly a night for fun and funds," said Stevenson. "Everyone is welcome — Democrats, Republicans and unaffiliated."

Jottings from the Baseball Beat

Here's one fellow who picked Oakland to win the World Series against New York although I was rooting for the Mets to complete a second miracle. My pick of the A's in six games was off by just one, the set going the full seven-game limit.

Contrary to the thinking of many, participants in the World Series share in only the receipts from the first four games. The take for the fifth, sixth and seventh games go to the commissioner's office as well as to the American and National League offices.

Porter Blinn, of South Windsor, chief New England and Eastern Canada scout for the Cincinnati Redlegs, took in the National League playoff games in New York as guest of the organization. Blinn has been with the Reds four years. Last year he covered 40,000 miles scouting including the last month of the National League season charting the Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Mets and St. Louis Cardinals.

Little Known Fact Department: The New York Yankees led the American League in road attendance in 1973, losing more than one million, 440,000 fans through the turnstiles.

The New York Yankee Winter Caravan, with a new manager - Dick Williams - will make its annual appearance in Connecticut in late January. It will be interesting to see how the old Williams will warm up to the New York press. The latter was hot after Ralph Houk before the latter resigned.

Jimmy Piersall, the much-traveled former major league outfielder out of Waterbury, is trying to land a coaching job with any major league club. He managed Orangeburg, S.C., in the Class A Western Carolina League last year and set a record for ejections. Now 44, Piersall said if not successful in getting a big league job would love to come to Bristol and handle the Red Sox farm club in the Eastern League. He's now living in Richmond, Va.

Manchester baseball fans on hand for some of the World Series games at Shea Stadium included Lefty Bray, John LaBelle and his son, Peter, Larry Rubinow and Jeff Koelch.

While he didn't invent the one-handed catch, Rusty Staub of the Mets catches every ball in that manner. And to think from Little League up the youngsters are taught to use both hands whenever possible to catch all balls. Many youngsters pattern their play after big leaguers.

When Cincinnati faced the Mets at Shea Stadium in the National League playoffs, one of the Redleg batting practice pitchers was Joe Nuxhall, who at 14 was the youngest ever to appear in a major league game. He's now at least 30 years older and 100 pounds heavier than when he broke in with the Reds. Nuxhall is part of the CinCY radio and televise broadcasting crew.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The New Orleans Saints have acquired tight end John Beasley on waivers from the Minnesota Vikings.

Beasley, a 6-foot-3, 235-pounder from the University of California, caught 114 passes for 1,239 yards and 11 touchdowns in his first five National Football League seasons—all of them with the Vikings.

Football Wash

NEW YORK (AP) - Hanging out the college football wash: Bear Bryant was so pleased Alabama's triumph over Tennessee that he presented his players with victory cigars after the game.

Smith & Wesson are the latest heroes at Southern Methodist. That's Coach Dave Smith, who's guided the Mustangs to a 4-1 record, and quarterback Ricky Wesson, who came off the bench Saturday after Kellen Baker suffered a shoulder separation and rallied SMU to a 27-7 triumph over Rice.

Denver had lost to San Francisco 35-34 and to Kansas City 16-14 earlier this season by fourth-quarter field goals. It looked like more of the same until Charley Johnson moved the Broncos 34 yards on three plays to the Raider 28-yard line, setting up Turner's kick.

After Nebraska's 10-9 squeaker over Kansas, Coach Tom Osborne was pessimistic. Unless the offense picks up, he said, "We might not win more than one or two ballgames the rest of the year."

He says if Nebraska defeats Big Eight rival Oklahoma State this Saturday morning, facing Kansas City in the American Conference's Western Division. Both clubs have 3-1 records. Denver staged in contention with a 2-3-1 mark.

Field Goal Duel Ends in Standoff

DENVER (AP) - The Denver Broncos, who've died by the field goal twice this season, learned to live with it Monday night as the Jim Turner-Greg Blanda kicking duel ended in a standoff.

Turner's third field goal of the second half, a 35-yarder with three seconds to play, enabled Denver to salvage a 23-23 tie with the favored Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Blanda, the 49-year-old marvel, also had three successful boots, and his final one, from 49 yards out with 36 seconds left, appeared to have won it for the Raiders.

School Space Survey Proves Inconclusive

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

The only thing a survey conducted by the Vernon PTO Council proved was that 583 parents out of 589 polled feel additional space is needed at Rockville High School.

Of the respondents, 330 said they voted at the September referendum. At that time voters were asked to act on just expanding the academic facilities at the high school and were given the option of approving an expanded gymnasium and a pool. Only 533 of the 589 chose to answer several questions concerning their vote at that time.

The question of the high school expansion has twice been defeated at special referendums. The question is again going to the voters on Nov. 6 with the price tag lowered, and it was the original intent of the survey to check the feelings of the town as to whether the next referendum will be successful.

John Ryan, president of the council, told the Board of Education last night that what the council ended up with was the "feelings of 589 citizens."

The council had hoped to have the survey completed much sooner than it was, but was unable to attempt a random survey and from that to be able to say the town feels one way or the other about the high school expansion, Ryan said.

However, it did not work out that way. The sampling was done by one out of every ten names on the voting list, picked in random fashion. In a random "chunks" of names were not returned, Ryan explained, the survey cannot be projected to the entire town.

Vernon

Teacher Added For Retardates

The increasing number of children in special education classes at the Vernon School system led the Board of Education to approve the hiring of another teacher to establish an additional classroom with the needs of three pupils more per class as compared to last year.

He further explained that the public meeting to explain the proposed plans for expansion which will go to a vote on election day. The meeting had a good turnout and the board gave the board no indication of how the township would be voting on Nov. 6.

He said as class size is increased the opportunity for a teacher to plan and carry out individual educational prescriptions is reduced.

The state recommends 12 children to a special class and the additional classroom should bring the Vernon classes to number about 12 students in each of the present 15.

Kerkin said the optimum class size varies with the needs of each special child, but at the present time the school system is operating on the average of three pupils more per class as compared to last year.

Clearly, his participation in this endeavor was highly questionable, and a full explanation to the citizens of this community is in order. The new teacher will be two-thirds reimbursed by the state.
