Terry Higgins, Director of Consumer Education

This holiday season give your children a special gift. Buy them a toy that is safe and fun. It is very important when buying toys for your children to choose all toys carefully and selectively.

Choose a toy appropriate for your child's age and development. Many toys have age group labels on the package. This is a good guide but should always be coupled with plain common sense. Don't be fooled by the package that says: "Wonderfully entertaining and educational for children from four to 14!" Nothing can be quite that appealing to children so different in age. Avoid the elaborate, the complex, the potentially frustrating. Look instead for the sturdy, the simple, the easily understood.

Warfare is a "Not Intended for Children Under Three Years of Age," should be heeded. Remember that younger brothers and sisters may have access to toys intended for older children once the toy has been brought into your home.

Your child's age determines his ability to handle electrically operated toys or chemistry sets. It is wise to buy toys of these types for older children only. Don't allow your child to remove or replace electrical components. Also, never add to or substitute substances in a chemistry set.

"Label looking" plays a vital part in careful toy selection. Check for labels on fabric toys for "washable," "flame retardant," or "flame resistant" notices as well as "washable" and "hygienic" for stuffed toys and dolls.

Avoid toys that produce excessive noise. Even toy catapults fired too close to a child's ear can cause damage. Also, avoid shooting games, especially those involving darts and arrows, unless the games are played under close parental supervision.

Toys for the very small child and infant should be chosen with extra care. Playthings that are safe for older children become hazardous in the hands of little ones. When choosing a toy for a toddler or infant, make sure it: —Is too large to be swallowed.

—Does not have detachable small parts that can lodge in the windpipe, ears, or nostrils. —Is not apt to break easily into small pieces or leave jagged edges.

—Does not have sharp edges or points. —Has not been put together with easily exposed straight joints.

—Is not made of glass or brittle plastic. —Is labeled "non-toxic" and "avoid painted toys" if infants who put playthings into their mouths.

—Does not have parts which can pinch fingers or toes or catch hair. —Does not have cords or strings that could be strangled.

Examine all toys. Don't mistake such things as high price, fancy packaging and ads for quality, durability and safety. To help you judge for yourself the merits and relative safety of playthings, our department is offering free single copies of a booklet titled "What You Should Know About Toys." We are also offering free single copies of the Department of Consumer Protection's "Banned Products" list. This list shows products, mainly toys that have been found hazardous by the commission and subsequently banned from sale. For a copy of the booklet or list, write: Drug Control Division, Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, 06115.

Company Planned To Seek Consumer Justice

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Public Equity Corp., the company that hopes to make a living suing other companies in the name of consumer justice, won't be in action until nearly a year from now, but at least plans are moving ahead.

Earlier this year, those plans almost came to a halt as its backers, became involved in other projects, including some backstage roles with the Senate Watergate committee. And the arrival of some of the seed money that had been pledged was delayed because the donors lost it in a badly depressed stock market. But Tom Mechling, the founder, says that the "counter corporation" should be in action by this time next year, the Securities and Exchange Commission willing. It will be registered with the SEC in February.

"Assuming a six- to eight-month period of consideration by the SEC, the company hopes to begin selling $2.4 million of shares at $5 a share, or $50 for the minimum purchase of 10 shares. As profits are made on class action and civil damage suits and the like, they will be plowed back into the company, with only minimal dividends paid to shareholders. Can shareholders be happy with minimal dividends? Mechling thinks they can be, and he bases his view on the nature of the people expected to invest: altruistic, idealistic, eager for change, perhaps angry at industrial abuses.

The underwriting will be handled by the company instead of by an investment banker, with solicitations made to many of the people who earlier aided George McGovern's 1972 presidential campaign, Common Cause and other groups. A great deal of emotion exists on the issues in which Public Equity plans to be involved. Millions of Americans are angry over faulty products and pollution, to name only two concerns, but have felt powerless to act. Given this opportunity, Mechling said, they might quickly absorb the 488,000 shares being offered. Nobody knows if they will, of course, but Mechling, a challenge-seeking youth of 33, distills energy from optimism. He is, in fact, contemplating possible measures to keep the stock from rising em-

Democrats Sweep Town Election

State Voting Results Mixed

By The Associated Press
Republicans won a sweet victory in Bridgeport and an upset in Meriden while Democrats notched an upset of their own in Stamford in Connecticut municipal elections Tuesday.

On balance the Democrats won the day by wresting control from the GOP in at least 32 towns. Republicans took control in 10.

Leaders of both parties said Republican stay-at-home accounts in large measure for the shifts. Incumbents were re-elected in Connecticut's other major cities while a racetrack referendum was defeated in Southington.

Democratic state Chairman John M. Bailey said the only effect recent national events such as Watergate seemed to have on Tuesday's outcome was to keep some Republicans home.

GOP state Chairman J. Brian Gaffney agreed, noting the turnout appeared lower than in the last municipal election in 1971. Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas A. Famulo scored an unofficial 29,915-to-18,914 victory over Democrat William E. Mullaney in the state's most closely watched election. Socialist candidate Albert M. Perocco drew 2,175 votes.

Famulo, who won his first term two years ago by a scant nine votes, carried a host of Republicans into office, including 10 Common Council members enough to give Republicans control.

Speculation that Famulo will be the GOP's nominee for lieutenant governor next year is bound to increase. Although he said Tuesday night he wanted to finish his term in Bridgeport, Famulo added: "No politician chooses to do anything."

In Meriden, Republican John Quine spoiled Democratic Mayor Abraham G. Grosman's bid for a second term by lodging an unofficial 10,277,945 victory. Grosman, who had been denied his party's endorsement and had to win the nomination in a primary, asked for a recount and conceded 10,000 to Quine when the second tally confirmed his defeat.

In New Britain, Democrat Mel Stanley Pac beat former Republican Mayor Albert Politi 16,118 to 7,830 and improved his chances of gaining a spot on the Democratic state ticket next year. Mayor Frank J. Longo of Bristol won a second term against Republican James F. O'Donnell in the wake of a battle with the town's Democratic registrar to keep his name at the head of the party's ticket. The registrar wanted Longo's name removed because he also headed an independent slate. The unofficial vote was 10,473 to 8,249.

Stamford Mayor Julius M. Wilensky's bid for a third term was upset by Democrat Alderman Frederick P. Lenz Jr., who netted an unofficial 15,630 votes to Wilensky's 15,486.

In other major cities: Democratic Mayor George A. Athanson won a second term in Hartford, defeating Republican Madeilyn C. Neumann 19,318 to 4,867.

Democratic Mayor Bartholomew F. Guida was given a third term by New Haven voters. He defeated Republican newcomer John A. Esposito by an unofficial 21,284 to 12,231.

Waterbury Mayor Victor S. Gorman won a third term by a 10,473 to 8,249 margin. The school question won by just under 3,500 votes—8,008 to 4,516. In 1972 it lost by about 470 votes and in 1971 by about 3,000. The pay raise proposal lost by 497 votes—5,194 for—5,641 against.

The five charter-changes approved pertain to a Merit System for town employees, 7-195 to 3,482; a change in the police grievance procedure, 6-560 to 3,782; a change in the designation of zoning enforcement officers, 4-649 to 3,780; removal of sections referring to water and sewer regulations, to conform to state statutes, 5-500 to 4,682; and a change from the designation Welfare Department to Department of Social Services, 6,532 to 3,737.

In addition to rejecting a pay raise for directors, the voters rejected the following proposals: To require the Board of Directors to elect a vice chairman and deputy mayor, 3,789 to 6,576; to create a Department of Finance to consolidate all fiscal operations under a director of finance, 3,834 to 6,287; to raise the ceiling for purchases without competitive bidding, 4,766 to 5,648; to permit emergency borrowing without a referendum, 3,877 to 6,383.

Also, to place the water and sewer departments under the jurisdiction of the director of public works, 4,391 to 5,836; to place the Park Department under the jurisdiction of the director of public works, 4,682 to 5,742.

The defeated proposals, except for one, followed the recommendations of the Manchester Property Owners Association. The MPOA had recommended passage of the proposal for pay raises for town directors. It took no position on the school bond question.

School Referendum Approved

DOUG BEVINS
(Herald Reporter)

Manchester voters Tuesday reversed a trend of school referendum defeats and approved, by an approximate 2-1 margin, a $6.6 million appropriation for renovations and additions to Bennett and Illing Junior High Schools.

The vote on the school proposal, which was the first of 13 questions on the voting machines, was 8,008 to 4,516. More than 2,000 of the nearly 14,700 persons voting in all said they were pleased with the results.

Allan Thomas, school board chairman said, "It's good to see every cent of value possible out of the improvement project."

Paul Phillips, chairman of the school board's advisory committee, said he was pleased voters recognized need for secondary school space.

"I'm happy the kids will get good school facilities," he said.

Paul Phillips, chairman of the Town Building Committee, termed the school question vote "a great victory." He said,

"The town will be proud they got approval of school projects, successfully, since 1968. In 1968, voters turned down a new elementary school in Center Springs Park, and in 1971 townspeople defeated referendums for a new junior high school, a new northeast elementary school, and a junior high school swimming pool.

School board members, administrators, and others after hearing the favorable news of the school referendum's approval Election Night—all said they were pleased with the results.

Voters Favor Incumbents

SOL R. COHEN

Manchester Democrats completely swept the municipal election Tuesday and retained control of all offices except those guaranteed the Republicans under minority representation rights.

Manchester voters, besides electing candidates to town offices, approved by a 8,008-to-4,516 vote a $6.6 million appropriation for renovations and additions to Manchester's junior high schools. They approved, also, five town charter changes and rejected seven others.

The election sweep was by margins ranging from just under 1,000 to some instances to about 4,500 in others and, compared to Democratic victories in Manchester of past years, was almost a landslide proposition. Not one Republican candidate defeated his or her Democratic counterpart in any of the town's 10 voting districts.

The high vote-getter was Mayor John W. Thompson, with 28,805 votes of 14,698 cast. Next highest was Town Clerk Roger Negro, returned to office with 9,203 votes. Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel, endorsed by both parties and running without opposition, received 6,655 votes as a Democrat and 5,276 as a Republican. Town clerk since 1956, he was re-elected to a four-year term.

Democrats elected to the Board of Directors in addition to Thompson are: Pascal Prignano, 8,959 votes; Mrs. Phyllis Jackson, 8,644; John Tami, 8,648; Anthony Pietranonzo, 8,587; and Robert Priece, 7,779. All are incumbents except Prignano.

The board will meet for its organizational meeting Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Town Building. Thompson's mayor and Prignano's deputy mayor, the secretary is expected to be Mrs. Jackson, to replace Pietranonzo in the office.

The highest vote-getter on the Republican side was Mrs. Vivian Ferguson with 6,802 votes. Re-elected to the Board of Directors, she will be minority leader, the first woman in that post in Manchester history. Joining her on the Board of Directors are Republicans

Re-elected to the Board of Selectmen were: Democrats Charles Bychowski, 8,475 votes; and Mrs. Irene Pich, 8,470; and Republican Mrs. Mildred Schaller, 5,545.

And, re-elected constables were: Democrats William Desmond, 8,149; Clarence Foley, 8,722; Joseph Mazeri, 8,229; and Paul Phillips, 8,294; and Republicans Robert Meek, 5,425; Sedrick Straghan, 5,783; and Joseph Swenson, 5,831.

Registrars of Voters Herbert Stevenson, Democrat, and Fred Peck, Republican, are asking election workers and the general public to comment on election procedures Tuesday. They said they used a new IBM checklist for the first time and want to know just how effective Investigators said the shootings apparently occurred about 3 p.m. Tuesday at a food market about a mile away from the house, owned by one of the victims, had been broken into and ransacked, the authorities said. A safe was looted of an unspecified amount of money, they said.

"There was blood all over the place," a reporter said in the death scene.

Two adult victims in the house were tentatively identified by police as Walter Parkin, 32, and his wife, Joanne. The other identities given were of their two children, Lisa, 8, and Bob, 4.

Other names were not immediately learned. All the victims had been shot to death, deputies said. Some of the children were found in a bedroom. Mr. and Mrs. Parkin were found in a closet. Another body was found in the kitchen.

Nine Found Slain

ACAMPO, Calif. (AP)—Nine persons were discovered today shot to death and strewn about a luxury ranch-style house in this small community about 30 miles south of Sacramento, the San Joaquin county sheriff's office reported.

Sheriff's deputies said the grisly discovery was made by the Acampo Fire Department this morning while answering a rescue call.

Cargo Jet Crew Knew Plane Was In Trouble

BOSTON (AP) — Investigators picking through the wreckage of a Pan American Airways cargo jet that crashed Saturday at Logan International Airport have turned up the first evidence that the crew knew the plane was in a critical emergency condition. Rudolf Kapustin, head of an investigating team from the National Transportation Safety Board, said Tuesday the investigators found a cockpit transmitter dial set to 7700, an internationally recognized "mayday" code. The signal is transmitted to ground radar screens under normal conditions, Kapustin said but was not picked up on radar scopes at Logan airport as the 707 craft made its approach. Logan's control tower lost radio communications with the jet about three minutes before the crash, which killed all three crew members aboard. Kapustin said the dial had to be set individually to the four digits of the emergency code. "It isn't just a switch that could have been knocked into place by the force of the crash," he said. He said the fire reported in the plane could have knocked out the craft's communications with the ground. Authorities have said that, before it apparently lost ground communications, the doomed plane had radioed only that it had a fire and needed priority clearance for a quick landing. There was no indication, they said, that the crew thought the plane was in an emergency situation.

Stamps In The News

Dr. David Livingstone, the celebrated explorer and missionary who was responsible for opening huge areas of Africa to civilization, is honored on two new stamps by Botswana. The stamps commemorate the 100th anniversary of Livingstone's death. Both stamps are inscribed "Centenary of the Death of Livingstone—1873-1973."

The 3-cent stamp depicts a profile of Dr. Livingstone, wearing a hat and a long coat, looking towards the right. The background is a light color with a subtle pattern. The 5-cent stamp shows a full-length view of the man, wearing a hat and a long coat, standing in a landscape. The background is a light color with a subtle pattern.

Austria's new stamp commemorating the centenary of the birth of opera star Leo Slezak will look very familiar to many Americans. The stamp bears a portrait of Slezak who appeared on many stages throughout the world. But the picture will remind those who see it of Slezak's son, Walter, noted actor in American films. The elder Slezak gained fame not only as a magnificent tenor but also as a writer and a philologist.

The 4-cent stamp has a drawing of the actor's mask in the background. The inscription above the portrait is: "Leo Slezak 1873-1973."

If butterflies are free, then the new government of Lesotho is glad to publicize its myriad varieties of the species at no cost. Seven butterflies of Lesotho are featured on a new series of stamps from that country.

The 4-cent stamp shows the Mountain Beauty, 5-cent Christmas Butterfly, 8-cent Painted Lady, 10-cent Yellow Pansy, 12-cent Blue Pansy, 15-cent African Monarch and the 20-cent Orange Tip.

Thus, stamp collectors can become butterfly collectors just for the price of the stamps, which are available at your local dealer.

Many Laplanders live in Norway where their handicraft is on display and for sale in numerous stores. Some of these Lappish works are seen on the latest set of stamps from Norway. The 75-cent stamp shows a segment of a knife carved from reindeer antlers. The 10-cent illustration is a detail from a woven ornamental belt. The 14-cent stamp depicts a detail from the tin embroidery of a woman's handbag.

It Can Happen Here

It is most difficult to write about the incident last week in which some young people in our community harassed our policemen and firemen physically and verbally.

It is difficult because the acts are too serious to be ignored and city officials have taken cognizance of this fact by pledging vigorous prosecution of the offenders and issuing a warning that such acts will not be condoned in the future.

It is difficult because a town the size of Manchester finds such incidents, no matter how commonplace they may be elsewhere, almost unbelievable.

True, we have young people who get out of hand on occasion and there are times when citizens as well as officials are upset because no matter how hard you try you can never entirely eliminate these things.

tion, the police and fire departments, in their avowed intent to be tough on the offenders. We would hope our courts will also realize that these acts, even though they represent a juvenile immaturity on the part of the perpetrators, are too serious to be punished by a mere reprimand.

There are three things each of us can do. First, as parents we can and must instill in our children a respect for law and order; second, we must recognize that those we entrust with police powers have basic civil rights also and support them in every legal action they take to preserve law and order in our community; and third, we must get involved by recognizing that some parents will fail in their parental responsibilities and we as citizens must set an example ourselves, not only for our own children, but the other children in the community.

There can be no guarantee that last week's incident won't happen again. There can be no guarantee that all the culprits will be caught and punished.

We can only hope that public opinion will support our local authorities in their efforts to nip this trend toward hooliganism in the bud.

Unless we do, it will spread like a cancer. What we might now hopelessly classify as isolated incidents will become a regular occurrence as those who would defy the law feel that they can get away with it because we, as individual citizens of Manchester, do not care as long as we aren't directly involved.

Those who refused to comply with such orders were in one instance trespassing on private property and in another instance starting fires which could threaten lives and property. (One youth was seriously burned.)

We support the town administration's process a chance to prove allegations to be more than just allegations?

Can we demand guarantees of warm homes unless we are willing to give up some of our fuel wasting pleasures?

Can we demand cleaner air and cleaner water without giving up some of our tax dollars to pay the cost?

Can we hope and pray for peace in the Mideast or anywhere in the world when each of us is not willing to give up a little of our independence and aggressive wants?

Can we really ask for an end to inflation unless we give up some of our frillish wants?

Can we honestly ask for lower prices on the things we buy and not be willing to take lower wage raises or give more of ourselves to increase productivity?

Can we ask for less taxes and not give more voluntarily to meet social and charitable needs in our communities?

Yes, there is no end to the list of our wants.

The question is, as it always has been, what are we willing to give to attain those wants?

For unless we do give instead of just take, the wants we so dearly desire may devour us.

Wanting And Giving

In scanning the newspapers of late and viewing the tube, one almost thinks that Christmas is nearer than it really is.

The headlines and commentaries seem to be like a Christmas shopping list.

Heading the list are repeated requests for cleaner politics and even some are now asking for a new President.

Others want warm homes this winter which runs contrary to those who want clean air.

Everyone wants a long-term peace in the Mideast but some want it on Israel's terms and others see it only on Arab terms.

In addition, close to everyone's pocketbook is the desire to end inflation, lower prices, reduce taxes, etc.

Everybody wants something and what it now.

But the problem is that while we are being flooded by demands from the wanters, there does not seem to be much in the way of the spirit of giving.

Can we have cleaner politics, for example, unless we are willing to give up some of our selfish demands which we try to get from politicians?

Can we really sincerely demand the President resign or be impeached when we really haven't given due

Max Lerner Comments

Is Nixon A Tragic Figure?

NEW YORK — We still don't know what will happen to him but, under the strings of events, the style, personality and character of Richard Nixon are being projected — in however shadowy a way — on a merciless screen. No President in American history has ever been subjected to so total a scrutiny of what he has done, what he is like, who in fact he is. None has ever been so hard pressed, none has ever maneuvered so continuously, endlessly, inexplicably.

Each position is occupied, shifted, abandoned, replaced by another, in a bewildering succession that leaves the watchers more incredulous and the disclosures more incredible.

The whole business forms a treasure-trove for the psychobiographers who have for years been trying to reach an assessment of Mr. Nixon's complex, elusive personality.

Some of the traits they spotted in him have been borne out by recent events: his "loner" quality, his isolation, his soul-searching spells with himself at decisive moments, his proneness to crisis, his secrecy; his deviousness; his passion to win and dominate; his sense of being bested by enemies; his obsession with power; his cult of technique; his distrust of personal or political enemies; his concern about his image; his moodiness; his sense of letdown at his moments of triumph; his willingness to take unusual, risky and unpopular ways to achieve ambitious goals; his lack of scruple about means when he is convinced of his ends; his love of surprise; his belief that, when a leader takes history by storm, he will be vindicated by history.

There is a sentence in James David Barber's study of Mr. Nixon's political personality, written in 1971, which was shrewdly predictive and which rings a resonant bell today. "I think that if Nixon is ever threatened simultaneously with public disdain and loss of power," Barber wrote, "he may move into a crisis syndrome. But no one can be sure that his resilience won't overcome and survive what might otherwise become a psychological talisman.

You hear many things about Mr. Nixon, whether you listen to the gossip in Washington, New York, Los Angeles or Cambridge. He will resign, say some. He will commit suicide, say others. He will press the button and start a nuclear war, say still others. He will engineer a military coup (presumably with Gen. Alexander Haig's help), the story goes, and will suspend constitutional government. The gossip spreads fast, to every world capital. In every national crisis, the all-too-real dangers are compounded and distorted by hysteria and fanaticism.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

The other day a fellow commented to us, "The paper sure picked up a lot of advertising on this campaign." The tone of his voice seemed to imply that all advertising is simply clear profit. We could have reminded him of the increased cost of newspaper, ink, other supplies, and the great amount of space we contributed to the various candidates and the issues, but then why should we have to defend the position?

Unfortunately, it's a simple fact that newspapers couldn't exist without advertising. And we appreciate the political parties, the candidates, and the hundreds of merchants who support this newspaper. At the same time, we also think we do a job for all of them.

We aren't completely cold-hearted, though. That flyer you received last week on the school referendum was inserted by us into The Herald at no charge as a public service to both political parties, the schools, and the community.

Incidentally, the flyer was printed as a public service by the Manchester Board of Education Bennett Print Shop.

Like all newspapers, we would like to avoid all typographical errors, but our problem is further compounded with technical problems in our type-setting equipment. We know the problem, but are searching for the solution, so we appreciate your patience.

We feel we owe Phyllis Jackson an apology, though. In print, she was referred to as Jackson too many times. It is Jackson, and forgive us, Phyllis. Our people know better but getting the message to the electronic equipment is difficult.

And Monday we got the phone number of the Democratic headquarters in the Republican party's advertisement. That was a human error, not an electronic misdeed. It is difficult to convince those involved that it was an honest mistake but it was.

Our Democratic endorsements lost us one subscriber. Outside of that, we came through the election unscathed.

You can't charge this one up to the Post Office Department.

In the morning mail we received an invitation to an event that morning which was actually under way 30 minutes prior to our receiving the mail.

The Post Office wasn't at fault because the invitation was postmarked the previous night.

We surmise the party didn't really want us to attend the function anyway but was being nice and issuing an invitation.

The Mini-Page will remain in the paper even though something else may have to go.

In answer to our query last week about the popularity of the feature, we were besieged with telephone calls.

A number of grandparents told us that after they finish reading the Mini-Page, they mail it on to their grandchildren in other states.

Another mails the page to a daughter in the Midwest who is a teacher and uses it in the classroom.

Another suggested that we approach Superintendent of Schools Jim Kennedy about using it in the Manchester schools.

One caller recalled the Mini-Page of awhile back which told about the first World Series and commented that her husband, as a young boy, saw that first World Series.

There has been a suggestion that Fred Peck, Roger Negro, yours truly, and a few other fine physical specimens, enter the Thanksgiving Day Race.

We can't speak for the other fellows but since we come from a cold, invigorating state such as Montana, the weather is much too mild in Manchester to stimulate us to a racing event. Then, too, since there is an energy crisis, we believe in conserving energy.

While on the energy subject, we read in Newsweek where Oregon Gov. Tom McCall has ordered the handles removed from most hot-water faucets in every state office building. Los Angeles is considering turning off every other street light.

It appears that while we may save energy, we may not save any lives, due to electricity blackouts. One can't also help but wonder how much money the taxpayers might save if all government employees were limited to a 10-minute coffee and rest-room break.

We know of one employer, in a small plant of 20 people, who said he could increase productivity one hour each day just by keeping the temperature of all rest rooms at 60 degrees.

Thinking about Christmas? The electronic calculators which are flooding the market are replacing the slide rule, long the indispensable tool of the engineer and mathematician.

Sale of slide rules is going off at 25 per cent. The only thing the slide rule still has going for it is that an electronic calculator capable of doing everything a good slide rule can do costs about 10 times as much. But even that change as calculator prices continue sliding down.

The current issue of the national Elks magazine pays tribute to the Connecticut Elks Association for its support of the Newton Children's Hospital. Not too long ago, the Connecticut Elks presented $300,000 to the hospital which brought to more than $682,300 the amount contributed to the hospital by the association over a 20-year period.

Connecticut's 40 lodges, with 30,000 members, annually contribute an average of $1,500 per lodge.

The article relates that Dr. George A. Caillouette of Manchester, along with two other fellows, was responsible for putting the Elks charity project in the big time. They established sizable goals and made appeal to the lodges. Dr. Caillouette "blazed a trail from lodge to lodge pleading for support for the hospital."

The Elks can be extremely proud of their hospital project.

Something to think about: While you are fighting the high cost of living, the Cost of Living Council has authorized paper makers to increase prices 4 to 17 per cent.

The council stated: "The industry 'requires pricing flexibility if the production of less profitable, lower quality, and lower-priced products is to remain economically feasible.'"

Apparently, the council doesn't consider an increase of up to 17 per cent inflationary.

Should Be Stopped Dear Sir: I'm 11 years old and I'm writing about the worst that ever happened to Bolton and Coventry. The Hartford Process is its name and it's just dumb as it is. This is a free country. We have a right to live in it. Nobody's going to push us around with 20,000 people or more moving in.

Nobody is going to over populate our fields so that you don't see farms in Northern Coventry. I don't want to see apartments galore. So many people have moved because of Hartford Process. I think it should be stopped.

Signed, Scott David Gorke RFD No. 5, Box 245 Coventry

Another of our boyhood friends has gone. While the obituary notice called attention to Dusty May's prowess in professional hockey, it failed to tell, what many old timers remember, that Jack was better than average of the amateur baseball players of his time. He was sought as a member of several teams in town.

One day Dusty was catching for the old "Red Clippers" against a Burnside team at Burnside. It was quite clear to all of us that he had made a sure "put-out" of a Burnside runner at the plate but the umpire gave the "safe" sign.

Dusty dropped his mask, laid a bat on his shoulder with both hands gripping the handle and walked up to the umpire, who was a Burnside man about twice his size.

"Did you say he was safe?" "Well, oh, no, I mean he was out."

"That's what I thought," and Dusty put on his mask and got behind the plate for the next batter.

Some folks may remember when the opening of the Buckley Bridge was celebrated. There were parades several days.

In the industrial parade, the Bon Ami Co. entered a large yellow baby chicken and its slogan "Haant scratched yet."

The big chick walked with its head held high but the little black spot at the top of its breast was really a transparent window through which the motive power, Dusty May, could see his way.

Good bye, old friend, Dusty. Old Coldeger

Immunisation Clinic

An immunization clinic sponsored by the Public Health Nursing Association and the Town Health Department will be held Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon and 5 to 8 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus hall on Main St.

Dr. Robert K. Butterfield, president of the medical staff at Manchester Memorial Hospital, says that many of the patients seen in the emergency room are not protected against measles, rubella, polio, tetanus, or diphtheria, and he suggests that all eligible people take advantage of the clinic. These are the diseases to be covered by the immunization program either on a first time or updated basis.

Further information about the immunization is available at either the Public Health Nursing Association or the Town Health Department.

Ron Dellums Speaking to Peace Groups

Congressman Ron Dellums of Berkeley, Calif., will be the featured speaker. He was elected in 1970 on an anti-war platform and is chairman of the House Subcommittee on Education and the first black man to sit on the House Armed Services Committee.

David Perry, overseas director for the American Friends Service Committee, will speak on post-war Vietnam and the effect of the war and subsequent ceasefire.

New England Vote Marked By Upsets

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Incumbent Press Writer Upsets in Massachusetts and Connecticut highlighted New England's municipal elections Tuesday while, Maine voters turned down a controversial proposal which would have created the first state power authority in New England.

Voters in Maine and Rhode Island indicated a desire to have their state offices out of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire and create a state lottery.

Vermont is the only New England state which held no elections Tuesday.

Five Massachusetts mayors lost their offices, as did the mayors of two Connecticut cities.

Lebanon, N.H. voters filled a vacancy in the legislature, sending Joanne Symons, a Democrat, to the state House of Representatives.

A $3 million bond issue for acquisition of state park lands won overwhelming approval in Maine's election. Voters in that state approved a lottery, which is expected to bring in some $8 million annually. But a citizen petition to create a Power Authority of Maine was defeated.

There were more than 150 municipal elections in Connecticut, with no surprises other than the narrow defeat of incumbents in Meriden and Stamford.

Author Writes Of Stone Wall In Mansfield

Jewell A. Friedman of Storrs, formerly of Manchester, is author of an article entitled, "A Passion For Stones," which is appearing in the November issue of "Voyager" magazine.

Miss Friedman, whose subject is a stone wall in Mansfield Center, investigated the history of the wall which is over 90 years old and encompasses a pasture the equivalent of six city blocks and runs for almost a mile. It contains an estimated 6,000 tons of rock, and if built today, would cost at least $60,000 for labor alone.

American Presence In Egypt Strong

By C.C. MINICLER
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO (AP) — It's not easy for a stranger to find the American diplomatic presence in Egypt; it appears on page 69 of the diplomatic list under "Espagne" and is identified by the red and gold flag of Spain. Cairo broke formal diplomatic relations with Washington in 1957, and Spain has been the official American representative here ever since. But its embassy shelters a small American diplomatic mission, just as the Indian Embassy in Washington provides a cover for the Egyptian government's representatives. Despite the low diplomatic profile, Americans are all over Egypt, prospecting for and producing oil, digging for archaeological treasures, examining the sick, teaching and doing business. Country taxis tend to be 25-year-old Dodges or Chevrolets. Egypt Air, the national airline, has just bought three more Boeing to add to its mixed Soviet and American fleet. Three billion cigarette filters a year are to be produced by new machines from America. American cigarettes continue to be popular, even at $1.25 a pack. American movies, television shows and Time and Newsweek also are popular with the Egyptians. Some 2,200 Egyptians went to the United States in the first seven months of 1973 as tourists or students and another 617 obtained visas to emigrate to the United States. As many Egyptians have studied at Harvard, Princeton or Yale as at Cambridge or Oxford. There is an American university in Cairo, two blocks from the Nile, and a TWA advertisement with the American flag is posted on a railroad underpass on the road to the pyramids. Chicago House, run by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, is on the Nile at Luxor. Fifty American firms have offices in Cairo or Alexandria. American oilmen are operating in the Gulf of Suez, opposite the battlefront in the southern Sinai Desert. They have prospected in the Western Desert and soon will be looking for oil off the Nile Delta in the Mediterranean. An Egyptian official pointed out that other Arab countries already have their oil, but Egypt is still searching and needs American know-how and money to help.

Bid Waived For Park At Park

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 646-0375

The selection has voted unanimously to waive a bid in the amount of $1,500 for construction of a park gate for Herick Memorial Park at the request of Park Commissioner Roberta Simon.

The selection felt justified in granting the request because of the difficulty in obtaining a stone mason and the fact that winter is coming.

Peter Sienna Resigns Peter Sienna, liaison person on drug information to town of Bolton, has resigned. His resignation was accepted by the selection.

Winter Arrangements The selection will request the new superintendent of schools, Raymond Allen, who begins his duties Dec. 1, to attend a meeting with them and the town highway foreman to discuss winter operation arrangements so everyone knows the procedure being followed.

Insurance A bill passed recently makes it mandatory to insure town clerks from financial losses and expenses arising from claims, demands, suits or judgments by reason of negligence resulting in any errors or omissions in the indexing of any instruments in the land records.

Presently the policy with $100,000 coverage is written by Lloyds of London with an approximate annual premium of $300.

The Board of Finance will be sent a copy of the bill. As soon as a firm price for the coverage is received by the Insurance Advisory Board, either a new category appropriation or a transfer of categories will be requested from the finance board.

The Insurance Advisory Board also informed the selection that it has raised the limit on money stolen from town hall from $1,500 to $5,000. The selection unanimously approved.

New Marker Plates Municipal marker plates numbered 1 through 150 have been assigned for interchangeable use on town-owned passenger vehicles, trucks, road equipment and trailers.

The plates are to be attached to any vehicle with the corresponding permanent registration certificate in the vehicle. Plates are interchangeable and plates and corresponding certificates may be changed to any vehicle anytime without notifying the motor vehicle department.

Presently used plates and registration certificates must be returned to the department of motor vehicles.

The use of the new municipal plates will eliminate annual renewal of the bulk of vehicles.

Shot-At Hiker Nears End Of Long Trek PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (AP) - Without the use of cars and after being shot at four times, Bruce Plasse is on the last stretch of his cross-country hike from Newport, Calif., to Newport, R.I.

Plasse, 24, expects to fulfill a long-standing wish to hike across the continental U.S. next month when he walks into the East Coast Newport.

If all goes well, the trip will have taken him a year and months, and a cost of more than $3,000.

Plasse said he has been shot at three times by hunters and once by a frightened woman who heard a noise near her house. All were bad marksmen.

A former program director for station KKAR, Paloma, Calif., Plasse's hometown is Whittier, Calif.

Israel Announces Casualties

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel announced Tuesday that 1,854 Israeli soldiers were killed in the Middle East war. It was the highest death toll Israel has suffered in a war since its first conflict with the Arabs in 1948, when the figure neared 5,000. The announcement of the previously secret casualty figures said about 1,800 Israeli soldiers were wounded and still hospitalized. Many Israelis had expected the number of wounded to be much higher and the disclosure was greeted with some relief.

Resignation Request Late

VIVIAN KENNEDY

An interesting letter was received by the Planning and Zoning Commission from minority selectman Charles Thifault calling for the "immediate" resignation of Werner Kunzli as PZC alternate because of conflict of interest. Thifault noted he had opposed the appointment by the Board of Selectmen in 1971 because Kunzli has a real estate agency. The letter was interesting in that it was received by the commission just hours before Kunzli's two-year term expired. Thifault cited several dates of PZC meetings where, he charged, Kunzli sat in when business in which he had an interest was conducted. Chairman Douglas Prior said there was no question but that there was no question but that disqualification himself from every meeting where he had business.

Barry To Quit Town Counsel Post To Seek Office

SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

David M. Barry, Manchester town counsel since November 1971, has notified Democratic officials he isn't available for reappointment — in order to devote his time to a possible try next year at public office.

Barry said Wednesday, on his 43rd birthday, "There is a strong possibility I will be a candidate for some elective office in 1974 and I expect to devote considerable time to my possible candidacy before making a decision on running for a particular office."

Although he added, "I will make my definite plans known early next year," it is believed by many political observers he is interested in the Democratic nomination for state senator in the Fourth District. The incumbent is Republican David Odgaard, now serving his second term.

Barry preceded Odgaard as state senator in the district and held the post for three terms. In June 1971, he passed up a try at a possible fourth consecutive term. He made an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination for First District congressman. The nomination went to then State Sen. Jay Jackson of West Hartford. Barry considered contesting the nomination in a primary but ruled against it. However, Jackson was challenged in a primary by William Cotter and lost to him. Cotter went on to become U.S. representative.

Barry served also as state representative, Manchester deputy mayor, member of the Board of Directors, and chairman of a Charter Revision Commission.

Democratic officials declined to say who will succeed Barry as Manchester town counsel. However, it is believed by many it will be William Bronell, now assistant town counsel.

The town counsel is paid $11,000 annually and the assistant is paid $7,000. The town counsel is appointed by the Board of Directors. He names his assistant counsel. The board elected Tuesday will name a new town counsel Nov. 20, when it meets for its first business meeting.

Survey Shows Parking Loss Hurts Main St.

DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

The recent change in downtown Manchester's Main St. parking layout has caused major economic loss to businesses, according to a report prepared by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Several merchants have indicated a "possible necessity to either close, sell, or move off the street if the situation cannot be remedied," stated the report, which was presented to the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee this morning.

Richard Clark, executive vice president of the chamber, said this morning the merchants' comments were made in a chamber survey of merchants and property owners two weeks ago.

Clark said he and other chamber officers, as well as town officials, will meet with state transportation department officials Nov. 14 in an attempt to obtain temporary restoration of the angle parking on Main St.

Much of the Main St. angle parking was eliminated, or changed to parallel parking, last month when state-imposed improvements to the downtown traffic signal system were completed.

"Generally speaking," the chamber report says, "the merchants and property owners of Main St. feel that the new traffic light control system has improved the flow of traffic on Main St."

"However, the revision from the diagonal parking to the parallel parking has received overwhelming criticism," the report continues. "From the

On the House side, Democratic whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., predicted action on the President's proposal before the December recess. "If he wants a bill, we'll give him a bill," said Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., chairman of the House subcommittee on power.

Congress Promises Speed On Energy Law Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Congressional leaders have promised prompt action on most or all of the energy-saving measures requested by President Nixon in his address to the nation.

Senate Interior Chairman Henry M. Jackson said his committee would hold public hearings on emergency legislation today and would report it out by Friday. Senate approval could be expected next week, Jackson said.

On the House side, Democratic whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., predicted action on the President's proposal before the December recess. "If he wants a bill, we'll give him a bill," said Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., chairman of the House subcommittee on power.

Town Takes Steps To Conserve Fuel

and
SOL R. COHEN

You'd better take a second look at that wood lot you may own, or even the trees on your property as you may need the wood for fuel.

In President Richard Nixon's talk to the nation last night, he outlined fuel and energy conservation plans which would mean sacrifices of some of the "luxuries which we have come to consider as necessities."

Manchester is in the process of developing a plan to curtail energy conservation and will place it in operation as soon as possible, said Maurice Pass, town purchasing agent, today. Pass, who has been designated coordinator of energy conservation by Town Manager Robert Weiss, said a general order went out a week ago for a cutback in gasoline consumption, "with the cutback to be as much as possible, to a minimum of 5 percent."

He said plans are being made for installing a heat device on Manchester Building thermostats, so that the heat there will be shut off at 10 p.m., the heat in the Hall of Records will be shut off at 4:30 p.m., the end of the working day, that there will be a reduction in all recreation facilities when they aren't in use, and that there will be a general reduction in heat in all public buildings.

Pass said, "We plan to cooperate with national, state and local orders for energy conservation to the best of our ability, and yet without curtailing essential services to the point where the result is harmful. I am sure all municipalities will cooperate to the utmost."

Superintendent of Schools James P. Kennedy said today that the schools began a five-day ago to turn back their thermostats. The temperature maintained at 68 degrees during days and turned back to 66 degrees at night.

School principals have been advised to use lights with care and consider the daily school routines in their plans for dismissal of students — how much opening of outside doors is involved during dismissal time?

Thermostat engineers are expected to calibrate all school immediate crisis is over. Frank N. Baird, Petroleum Institute, offered "strong endorsement" of the President's proposals and added that an additional step not mentioned by Nixon would be to authorize the resumption of offshore oil and gas. But he added that it would require some commitment that mines would not be forced to shut down once the relocation of clean-air standards, the tapping of naval petroleum reserves and giving the government power to reduce speed limits nationwide and restrict working hours.

Macdonald said Nixon already had the authority to do most of what he asked and accused the President of playing "an absolute shell game" in blaming Congress for inaction.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., said he and other oil-state senators oppose one presidential proposal that would allow the federal government to regulate the intrastate production and use of oil and gas.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said the President's message "did not contain enough specifics in dollars or programs to do the job. The $19 billion mentioned by the President is considerably less than we spent on Apollo and probably will be 10 per cent of what is actually needed," he added.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Nixon has made a good — although belated — beginning in facing up to the energy shortage," and the

SIMSURRY (AP) — To Adam

E. Kacmarcik of Rockville, a lottery ticket was "just a lot of numbers" until today, when they added up to $75,000 for him.

"We were happy to win the $20," said Mrs. Kacmarcik, noting that the couple had won two $20 prizes before in the state lottery. "We just never expected to win," she kept repeating in a shaky voice, with tears in her eyes.

Kacmarcik is an inspector at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford. She works in an insurance company.

Mrs. Esther Glennon of Broad View St., Newington, won the $15,000 runner-up prize. A widow, she is an assessment clerk at the Newton town hall. She said she would spend some of the money on her ten grandchildren.

Tapes Bad, Court Told

WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Nixon's personal secretary testified today that parts of the subpoenaed Watergate tapes are very poor and possible to hear every word on them.

Rose Mary Woods, Nixon secretary for more than two decades, said that it took her nearly a month, working off and on, sometimes on weekends and far into the night, to type a rough transcript of seven conversations between President Nixon and Watergate figures.

Miss Woods said the first saw one of the controversial tapes Sept. 29, 1973, when, at Nixon's request, she typed a transcript of the tapes that were subpoenaed. "I went up there to try to listen — I use that word advisedly — to take down as much as possible of the tapes that were subpoenaed," she testified at a hearing before U.S. District Judge John Sirica.

She said it was a difficult job and that despite working until 3 a.m. Sunday morning, and again all day Sunday after arising at 6 a.m., she was unable to complete a transcript of even one conversation.

"The quality is very bad on some," she said, "depending on

The Manchester Sheltered Workshop, formerly located on School St., is now in its new quarters at Lincoln Center. An open house is being planned for later this fall.

The Sheltered Workshop moved into its new quarters Monday, Town Manager Robert E. Weiss and Mayor John Thompson were on hand to greet the clients as they arrived for work at the new facility.

In May, the Manchester Board of Directors granted the use of the first floor of the former Lincoln School to the Manchester Association for the Help of Retarded Children, Inc. for its sheltered workshop program.

The town installed new washrooms to meet specifications for handicapped persons, repaired the heating system and replaced broken windows.

MAHRC undertook major renovations and remodeling and equipped all the rooms with paneling, new floor covering and furniture. The work was done by contractors and volunteer labor. A bequest to MAHRC from the estate of Lillian Copeland and memorial and special gifts financed the cost of materials and equipment.

Contractors and consultants were Roger Roy of Hartford, William Reagan, Robert Palis, Ronald Desrozier, Robert Berthiaume.

The corridor floor has been refinished by Michael Mincuccia and Charles Gilbert under the direction of Theodore Fairbanks, superintendent of the volunteer labor force: Joseph
