Bids Sought For Gas, Oil

Manchester's purchasing agent declines to predict what the response will be to invitations he has sent out for bids on the town's gasoline, motor oil, grease and lubricant needs for the coming year.

"I know the situation is very serious," said Maurice Pass. "However, we're making every reasonable effort to locate a source for next year's needs. Gasoline and motor oils may be in short supply, when compared to previous years, but they still exist, and the suppliers are still in business."

The bids received will be opened Dec. 14 in the Municipal Building. Pass said he has sent bid forms to seven suppliers of gasoline, including Chevron Oil Co. of Fairfield, the town's present supplier, and to 10 suppliers of motor oil, grease and lubricants.

The present contracts for the automotive supplies expire Jan. 21, and with about 200 gallons of regular-grade gasoline, with 90,000 gallons of it for the police department, 15,000 for the Park Department, 20,000 for the Water Department, and 170,000 for the Highway Department. The storage capacity for the four departments is 27,000 gallons.

The motor oil, grease and lubricant needs are for a variety of grades. An estimated 2,000 gallons of motor oil is being sought.

plated that lots 9 and 10 are not to contain less than 4.3 acres each.

Two others subdivisions, Northern Hills Section 1 on Old Colchester Rd. and property of William Eisenman on Wall St. and Loveland Rd., were received by the commission for consideration.

The Northern subdivision is proposed for five lots and the Eisenman is for 16 lots. Both subdivisions will be referred to the Recreation and Conservation Commissions so that recommendations may be made for open space.

to be held Dec. 12 at the Glaucoma Center in Wetherfield.

The tests are offered to persons 35 years of age and over and residents wishing to make an appointment may call 228-3890.

John Fulginiti, night conservation chairman for the Lions Club, stresses the importance of the testing citing how "one out of every eight blind adults is a victim of glaucoma."

However, if spotted early and treatment undertaken immediately, Fulginiti said, glaucoma need not rob one of his sight.

Astronomy For the next several weeks, weather permitting, interested fifth grade students and their parents will be spending Wednesday evening observing the skies.

Thomsen Warkoven, one of three men who led the opposition (the others were William Hooker and former Town Director Frank Stamler), said he, too, was circulating a petition. He said it already was signed by 90 to 95 per cent of the residents, opposed to the plan because of its high cost.

Cold Hall Causes Some Sour Notes

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The energy crisis is bringing forth some sour notes from members of the Portland Symphony Orchestra. Musicians are complaining that City Hall Auditorium is so cold during rehearsals that their instruments fall out of tune. Members of the string section are also miffed because the sudden shift from a warm room to a cold hall can damage their instruments and require expensive repairs.

The situation, they say, is especially bad on Sunday evenings because the building's heat is turned off for the weekend. "It is so cold onstage you have to wear heavy clothes to keep warm," says Paul Ross, the principal cellist. "It is really difficult to play well in an outfit better suited for a walk through the snow." Ross went to Sunday night's rehearsal clad in a heavy leather coat, an alpine fur hat, thick woolen trousers and boots. "When it gets real warm, say around 52 degrees, I take off the hat," he says.

Mrs. Olson liked what she saw when she visited an Eastern-style night club featuring a belly dancer. She took lessons from the dancer, and made her debut in the same Pasadena, Calif., club six months later.

Though she has danced only once before a nightclub audience, she has had one other major public performance. She danced at her own wedding.

Plastics Industry Pinched

HARTFORD (AP) — As many as 5,000 state workers in the state's plastics industry could lose their jobs as a result of federal price controls and the lack of export quotas for plastic resins, the Connecticut business and industry association (CBI) said Tuesday.

CBI's president Arthur L. Woods said price controls have made it more profitable for the industry to export "a limited output." As a result, plastic product manufacturers have had to buy back material from outside the country at exorbitant prices, Woods said.

First Great Lakes Ship Built In 1679

Ottawa — The first sailing vessel to appear on the Great Lakes was the Griffon, a two-masted 80-tonner with a high bow and stern. Built above Niagara Falls on what is now the Canadian side of Lake Erie, it was completed in the summer of 1679.

With explorer Robert La Salle in command, the schooner sailed to the present site of Green Bay, Wis., starting the era of Great Lakes commerce.

of Consumer Concern

Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection
Barbara B. Dunn, Commissioner
Terry Higgins, Director of Consumer Education

Though children usually take falls well, a fall from an elevated surface, particularly in the first year of life, can be extremely dangerous. The potential serious injury an infant could suffer in a high chair fall is one of the main reasons that we are concerned about high chair accidents.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that approximately 7,000 injuries involving high chairs are treated annually in hospital emergency rooms throughout the country. Just how serious can a fall from a high chair be? One study states that a fall from a high chair could do serious damage to an infant's nervous and circulatory systems. "With this state of life his brain is growing rapidly and the skull is comparatively thin and unprotected. It is a child's head that is most likely to be affected when he falls out of a high chair since the disproportionate weight of an infant's head makes him rather top-heavy. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), data reflect his heavy incidents of head injuries in high chair accidents. The head was reported, not the legs which are most commonly injured in high chair accidents involving older children.

It should be briefly noted that high chair injuries are not limited to the young but span a wide age area. Not unexpectedly it is the arms and legs and not the head which are most commonly injured in high chair accidents involving older children.

What causes children to fall from high chairs? CPSC studies show that the most prevalent cause of high chair accidents is the disengagement of the tray from the high chair. Children fell when they had or pushed against the tray from the high chair. Children fell when they leaned or pushed against the tray and it gave way. Older children unlock the tray themselves. Be sure that if you have a child using a high chair the tray is properly fastened and the latch or lock secured.

There is also a high incidence of children falling with the tray in place. The child stood, jumped, or climbed up, and then tripped over the side. Two incidents were reported where the child fell even though strapped in with a safety belt. It is also relatively simple for a child to slide under the tray. In both these cases, it is important that the child be securely fastened in the high chair and supervised at all times.

Children can also lean or rock causing a high chair to topple.

over. Again proper supervision is important. Also vital is the selection of a high chair with sufficient lower supports to prevent it from toppling. High chair pose a pinching problem for both young and old. Most injuries reported involved the locking mechanism. To prevent pinching or entrapment injuries, select a high chair that has adequately covered locks and joints, or if you already own one, cover all areas that might pinch or trap a little finger.

The importance of the high chair tray in high chair injuries is apparent. Also, the CPSC studies reveal a disturbing feature of restraining devices to prevent falls. The cross-type restraint in particular was found to be inadequate, even when properly attached, when used alone. If the tray becomes disengaged or is not used, the restraint won't work. In addition, an active child, particularly a small one, has little trouble getting both legs on one side of the strap - intentionally or unintentionally.

The CPSC is working toward better manufacturing standards for high chairs. In the meantime, parents can do their part in protecting their children from high chair injuries by becoming aware of the hazards and closely supervising children in high chairs. We ask any parent to contact the department with complaints or suggestions on high chair construction or design.

We welcome suggestions and questions. Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: "Of Consumer Concern," Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or call 800-842-3636 - toll-free.

Tuition Question

The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a challenge to Washington State's policy of charging residents who attend its colleges and universities a higher fee if they have not lived in the state for a year.

The suit has far-ranging implications in that the court has ruled, in a Connecticut case, that the states cannot keep a student from establishing legal residence during the length of his academic career. In a Minnesota case, it has affirmed without opinion, a one-year residency requirement.

The Washington suit does not challenge whether the students are bona fide residents but whether the state can, consistent with constitutional demand for equal protection, treat its acknowledged residents differently by higher tuition charges merely on the basis of length of residence.

Should the court decide states can use residency as a basis of tuition charges, it will mean relief for the taxpayers of a state who support a substantial portion of higher education cost. The basis for out-of-state tuition charges had been to give some recognition to the fact that parents of resident students are paying tuition indirectly whereas the out-of-state student's parents do not.

But a decision acknowledging this, by permitting a residency requirement, may not be final for the question seems to hinge on the length of residency required before in-state tuition would apply.

Obviously the states will accept one year, which would be a partial saving, but would like to have it apply to the full academic tenure of the student coming from out of state.

This would seem to run contrary to the Connecticut case which allows students state citizenship as soon as they meet state requirements for non-student immigrants.

In this light, even the one-year ruling may be in jeopardy when the Supreme Court decides the new case.

It would appear the states should consider some alternatives to solving the problem. It would take some time to work them out but reciprocal agreements between the states might provide a solution under a formula where the states would be paid or pay the difference between tuition fees and actual education cost. This would, we think, give the student the advantage of selecting the school best geared to his needs and not penalize the taxpayers of states blessed with schools attractive to students.

We think this approach, as well as other ones, should be explored because our colleges and universities should be kept open to all without non-intellectual limits or they will become ingrown and possibly provincial. Yet this open door policy's financial burden should not fall solely on long-time state residents entirely as is now the case with the out-of-state tuition concept all but thrown out the window.

Rationing "Last Resort"

President Nixon should stick by his conviction that gasoline rationing must be considered a "last resort" in meeting our nationwide fuel emergency. Congress is giving the President's power to order rationing, and the contingency planning for such a step is under way. That is as far as the government needs to go until we get a better grasp of what can be accomplished by all the other energy conservation measures now taking shape across the country.

Viewing gas rationing as unavoidable only blunts the force of appeals for voluntary reductions in fuel usage. If the government is going to hand out ration cards anyway, what difference does it make if we try to cut down on gas consumption on our own? Resignation toward the inevitability of rationing is a sure way of making it necessary.

Treasury Secretary George Shultz believes some Americans — including some of the energy advisers in the Administration — are over-reacting to the problem. Americans can avoid rationing if they act intelligently, he says, and we agree.

Those whose memories go back to World War II remember the bureaucratic apparatus that was necessary to allocate gasoline. We can also remember how difficult it was to make rationing equitable when "need" for the use of cars was so hard to define in objective terms. With automobiles and highway transport today playing a far greater role in our personal lives and in farming, commerce and industry, those problems would be much more acute. The war we are fighting now is not against a foreign enemy but against that part of our energy use — particularly in the use of cars — that can be trimmed away without cutting into our livelihood. We know that the excess is there to be trimmed.

The idea of placing a big tax on gasoline is only rationing in disguise and one thing an economy already showing signs of slowdown does not need is a massive shift of money into government hands. If the government thinks motorists need a nudge in the pocketbook to make them more prudent with gasoline, a better idea would be to simply take controls off of fuel prices and let them seek their own level, which is sure to be high in this time of shortage.

The larger profits that might be earned by the oil industry would be available to finance the exploration and development of new domestic fuel resources, furthering the aim of making our country self-sufficient in terms of energy. Another bird would be killed with the same stone. The oil companies would have finally lost their argument for continuing the controversial oil depletion allowance.

We are still at the beginning of our energy crisis and the best paths to follow are not yet clear. There is much to do and much to consider before we plunge down the thorny path of rationing. — The San Diego (Calif.) Union.

The Energy Crisis

To the editor: There is a shortage of everything in this country but pills but if you breathe that too loud they'll be in short supply too.

If you want a raise, you get a grape, wrinkled and with seeds. The $1.29 steak is a piece of garbage. I looked at a case full last week and walked out. Insulation, nails, plasterboard, are only a few of the items that are hard to get. And the prices are ridiculous.

The panic stricken, and I have to include our governor, who said "Be prepared to have a meal with a neighbor to save fuel," are among those that create the panic.

Everyone is suddenly a thief or expected to be. You can't buy a gas cap with a lock.

Turn your thermostat down, drive slower, use one tv instead of two, use fewer lights and take off the price controls and let the law of supply and demand "work."

Maybe I'm crazy and the rest of the country is sane, but I can't stand listening to the panic stricken talk about being "warm." People are paying $125 for a cord of wood. They're nuts.

Even if we're getting 20 percent of Arab oil it makes sense that if we all try to conserve we can save 10 percent. Daylight saving time is another 4 percent. (These are official figures, not mine).

Plus, Libya is still sending oil and the Iranians are going to do what they can to help.

Therefore, at worst, we have a shortage of 6 percent. That doesn't mean the thinks motorists need a nudge in the pocketbook to make them more prudent with gasoline, a better idea would be to simply take controls off of fuel prices and let them seek their own level, which is sure to be high in this time of shortage.

The larger profits that might be earned by the oil industry would be available to finance the exploration and development of new domestic fuel resources, furthering the aim of making our country self-sufficient in terms of energy. #### Disgusting

Three front page articles appearing in The Herald Nov. 29th are both discouraging and disgusting.

Let us take up the letter first. For one or more teachers in our school system to purposely and admittedly deceive Kreskin in his recent performance is a disgrace. Certainly that type of thinking has no place in our school system. I hate to realize that a large part of my tax money is going to support teachers with that little ability and that type of mind. I hate to think of the influence that sort of individual can have on our students. The sort of attitude and understanding that can spread around as regards the towns of Manchester from a small, stupid act such as this could be irreparable for some time. I can see such actions only as a hindrance to the betterment of the town. I trust that the Board of Education will take such actions as deemed appropriate.

It seems to me that both the Democratic Club of Manchester and the Parkade Merchants Association are about a year overdue in their concern about Buckland Commons. America was built on free enterprise. Good, clean competition never hurt anyone. Certainly fortunate for the North End of Manchester that the same attitude that the Parkade Merchants are demonstrating did not hold true among it's leading merchants. Today there is a North End of

Hi Neighbor

Burt Lyons, Publisher

In these early days of the Christmas shopping season, Manchester area retailers are hoping for solid business, but some feel that because of the energy crisis, inflation, and a number of other factors, that while buying may be heavy it might not be done with the usual Christmas abandon. We discovered that sales of one item have been strong: Free-standing fireplaces as well as all fireplace accessories. This bears out a Bureau of Advertising memo the other day that the fireplace industry is doing so well that it is approaching the $100 million mark.

The demand has been so great that deliveries are behind schedule and some retailers have doubts about being able to obtain additional fireplace accessories.

In advance of trimming your Christmas tree, you might find it of interest that four strings with 50 miniature lights require as much power as a 100-watt bulb or as much as it is needed to iron a shirt. At least that's what Home Furnishings Daily says, which also expects the sale of tree lights to be good this season but families will use the lights for less hours.

Overheard the other day was the remark that most motorists seem to be adhering to the new lower speed limits. One fellow commented: "The only vehicle that passed me was a major oil company truck loaded with gasoline."

In the meantime, we received a telephone call asking why the parking lot at Manchester High School is still loaded with cars, apparently driven to school by students. There was the suggestion that if a great majority of the students could walk to school, an awful lot of gasoline could be saved.

However, years ago when kids quit walking to school, we were forced to build a lot of gymnasiums in order to keep them fit.

Maybe if we could get more of the students back to bicycles we could save gasoline and at the same time probably give the student more physical conditioning than that obtained in gym class. The bicycle was once the popular mode of travel for the fortunate high school student but one has to be beyond that ripe old age of 40 to remember it.

Mayor Jack Thompson, the Charlie Atlas of Manchester, has suggested bicycle racks downtown for the convenience of shoppers and store personnel. It's an excellent suggestion.

We can see we are going to be flooded with letters now, asking who is Charlie Atlas?

We aren't an economist but it does seem that if price controls were removed from gasoline and other petroleum products we might be on the road toward living easier with the energy problem.

We saw the beef shortage go away when price controls were lifted and the market was permitted to operate without the constraint of controls. One can't help but wonder that if oil and gasoline prices were allowed to reach their own level the people would make the decision themselves as to whether to buy or not buy. That's the economically healthy way to do it. Capitalism and a free market have brought this country the riches it enjoys. Maybe we ought to give them a chance to work now without a lot of artificial restrictions.

If you get a chance, take a drive down Purnell Pl. and view the vast improvement. Our salute to the town for a job well done and a tip of the old bonnet to the Savings Bank of Manchester and Regal's for their beautification efforts at the rear of their buildings.

Awfully back we published a letter in the Open Forum which stated that The Herald's crossword puzzle is too difficult for the average person.

In our office the other day was a representative of Newspaper Enterprise Association, New York, the firm that provides us with the puzzle. He commented it was the first time he had ever heard the complaint that the puzzle was difficult.

"I've heard it the other way. People have complained that the puzzle is too easy," he commented.

At this point, it looks like the puzzle will stay unless we can come up with another.

"Sorry, No Want Ads Today. All Ads Will Appear Tomorrow."

That's the message the Chicago-Sun Times carried awhile back in a move to conserve newsprint.

Withholding all want ads for just one day would result in quite a newsprint saving for a paper the size of the Sun Times.

Just when we thought the environmentalists went underground, possibly due to the energy crisis, they reappeared with the announcement of the proposed Buckland shopping center development.

We shall reserve editorial judgment on the development until the Planning and Zoning Commission, the group which has the expertise to dig out all the facts and figures, renders a decision.

The proposed Family Life Program in the Bolton schools has generated quite a few letters, to the Open Forum with all the writers asking that their names be withheld.

We can understand why parents prefer their names not be published; their children might be ridiculed by other children and there might be trying times in the classroom. At the same time, though, we wish to remain firm that all Open Forum letters carry a signature. We do think, however, that all parents should make it a point to reveal dive into the curriculum pamphlets and be prepared to express an opinion. Let the Board of Education know your thinking either in person or by the mail.

A frequent contributor to our Open Forum says he should be allowed to use a pen name because we carry the column, Old Coder, under an alias. He may have a small point. However, the Old Coder doesn't write about current events. He's an historian.

By Sol R. Cohen

Town Treasurer Roger Negro reports Manchester's Pension Fund "has fared very well" in bond and stock investments, when compared to Dow Jones and Standard & Poors posted averages for the period Sept. 29 to Nov. 25, 1973.

The bond and stock averages have been dropping in that period and Manchester's Pension Fund value has dropped 8.8 percent. Negro said, comparing it to a 12.7 percent Dow Jones drop and a 18.1 percent Standard & Poors drop.

Negro said 53 percent of the Pension Fund is invested in bonds, "which have held," 12 percent in commercial paper, "paying 6 1/2 percent," and 35 percent in stocks, "some of which have been weak and have felt the effect of the current market."

He said 14 percent of the stocks are in oil services, "which have been going up and are still on the up incline."

He said the combination of bonds, commercial paper and oil service stocks, "largely accounts for the fund's sound standing at this time."

Speaking of doctors, one is reminded of the observation that half the doctors in the United States finished in the bottom half of their class.

The first "Citizens for the Election of Ella Grasso for Governor" headquarters is opening tonight in Plainville, with a cocktail party afterward is managed by the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co.

The two town committees and the candidates in the Nov. 6 election have to Dec. 21 to file reports on campaign contributions and expenditures.

To date, only Democrat Phyllis Jackson, elected a town director, has filed a report.

It shows $79 in contributions and $770 in expenditures, plus $247.31 in personal expenses.

A steady reader of this column asked a question we couldn't answer. Possibly a financial expert might do better.

Isn't it true, went the question, that when the Town of Manchester sells notes in anticipation of bonds for a year or two or three, it hikes the town's cost for interest charges and actually adds to the appropriation the voters approve in referendum?

To one Manchester woman, turning down the thermostat six degrees is a nightmare. That's what she had one night, and her teeth chattered so loud they woke her up.

They were in a glass on her dresser.

Manchester's latest voter-registration figures show Democrats outnumbering Republicans in all four of the town's Assembly Districts (8-12-13-14), as well as in those parts of Manchester represented by Senate Districts 3 and 4.

Exceptional Movie Deals With Football

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — At about this time of year, we get mighty sick of anything involving televised football. It's a glut on the market. But we have to make an exception tonight for a football movie.

It's called "Bloodsport," is on ABC-TV and studies the pressure of high school football stardom when said stardom only aims at college and pro ball and the subsequent good life such can offer.

You ought to watch this 90-minute show, particularly if you have a better-than-average high school footballer in the family and especially if he dreams of playing college and pro ball someday.

The movie, featuring Ben Johnson as the father of a teen-ager groomed for childhood for football stardom, isn't one of those falling indictments of the game that usually come equipped with sniggering locker-room banter about sex and beer busts.

It's instead an intelligent look at growing up in small town football and is as understated and low-key as "The Last Picture Show" that earned Johnson an Oscar a few years back.

In "Bloodsport," Johnson plays a basically decent man who works with his older son at a local factory; his obsessive dream is to keep his youngest son out of the factory and in the football limelight.

The boy, sensitively portrayed by Gary Busey, is softspoken, modest and a good student. But like his father, he believes only in the power of the pigskin.

He sums it up after the sympathetic factory owner, asking if he hasn't other ambitions, points out that thousands of excellent high school footballers never made the professional ranks.

"Well, what you say is probably true," the kid replies. "But I can't let myself think that way. I mean, my grades are okay, but I'm not winning any scholarships because of them."

"Football is the only way I'm going to make it. Otherwise, I'm going to be working in your factory alongside my brother and father."

And he's pushed in this goal of winning by his gum-chewing, hard-charging, prayer-spouting coach—Larry Hagman—who's the sort who encourages the victim of a broken leg to run until the pain eases.

The dream starts falling apart when the youth is invited to a college campus—and finds himself amid 50 other high school prospects, 13 of them star quarterbacks like himself.

But the reality of football mania doesn't fully hit him until near the end of a winning season, when a gasping, grossly obese teammate drops dead, apparently from an undetected heart condition, during a grueling practice session.

The fact of the lad's death only is used as another reason to win the Big Game. It's noted at a school pep rally amid cheers, a victory prayer from the coach, a blare of brass and a bonfire in which past opponents are burned in effigy.

An AP News Analysis

Korean Students In Forefront Of Resistance

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
SEOUL (AP) — A South Korean miner entombed in the collapsed shaft of a coal mine painfully scrawled out his will 55 minutes before he died.

His last wish was that his three small children be educated.

Kim Chong-Ho's will was published in Korean newspapers last week alongside accounts of student clashes with riot police. The demonstrations that began two months ago were aimed at getting back the freedoms President Chung Hee Park took away 14 months ago when he proclaimed martial law.

One of the most literate peoples on earth, the South Koreans place an extremely high value on education, as Kim's will testifies. Thousands of children go to school from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., supplementing their regular daytime classes with special night ones to make the difficult climb from one level to the next.

The 300,000 university students who stand at the apex of the educational system are regarded as the nation's elite. They were in the forefront of resistance during the dark 35 years of Japanese rule. They brought down President Syngman Rhee in 1960.

Now they are in ferment again, holding mass meetings, hunger strikes, class boycotts and street marches to emphasize their demands that Park restore the press, academic and personal freedoms he suppressed under a decree called "national revitalization reforms."

Citing what many Koreans believe is the nonexistent threat of North Korean invasion and subversion, Park replaced the nation's liberal democracy with a largely hand-picked legislature, installed Central Intelligence Agency agents on university campuses and clamped down on free speech and the newspapers.

The students lay low for months, unwilling to confront the government.

The bungled kidnaping of popular opposition leader Kim Dae-Jung — he got 5 million votes in a close race against Park for the presidency in 1971 — was the catalyst.

Then the conviction of four Presbyterian leaders on charges of trying to instigate Easter worshippers to anti-government actions aroused the Christian community.

The first demonstrations were small and hesitant and staged on campus. Gradually they picked up momentum, but efforts to take to the streets are regularly beaten back by the riot police.

Says one of the activists: "Our aim is to obtain a responsible opposition leadership and free elections — a peaceful change."

Watergate Handling Called Inept

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The president of the American Bar Association says President Nixon's legal position in the Watergate case has been advanced in "an inept way."

Chesterfield Smith cited handling of the doctrine of executive privilege which protects certain presidential matters as confidential.

He said the way the White House has handled it leads people to "think it's some way that somebody in the executive branch of government is trying to conceal evidence."

Smith also told a news conference that he anticipated disciplinary action against many attorneys involved in Watergate.

Old Egyptian God Plays Tricks

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — An impish little Egyptian called Bes who was playing tricks over 5,000 years ago is causing trouble again, this time in Istanbul.

His activities have drawn complaints from irate tourists and Turkish police are hot on his trail.

Bes was the Egyptian dwarf-god who presided over marriage, and especially over the marriage feast. He tended to get drunk and play practical jokes, some of which went a bit far. In fact they were downright obscene.

He still has a following in some circles here. A statue of the little god found in the ruins of Ephesus in southwestern Turkey and now kept in the museum at nearby Selcuk, has drawn numbers of locals and foreigners fascinated by his aspect.

The statue, a nude one, shows one part of the god on a much larger scale than the rest. Most of the time the statue is kept veiled for fear of giving offense, but the custodian will coyly lift the veil if asked.

Postcards of Bes are on sale in Izmir and Istanbul, and recently key-rings with a miniature reproduction of Bes in all his glory have gone on display at souvenir stalls.

Now some female tourists have complained to the tourist police here that souvenir-sellers are approaching them as they step off their ships in Istanbul harbor and thrusting the key-rings and post-cards at them in the hope of a sale.

The police found themselves in a dilemma. The post-cards can be treated as obscene publications, but apparently key-rings are not mentioned in the Turkish law books under "indecentness."

All sellers could do was pick up the sellers for molesting women, and confiscate their stock.

Maine Man Makes Own Power

NORTH WINDHAM, Maine (AP) — Since Lawrence Smith installed a hydroelectric plant in his back yard, the energy crisis has been next door and down the street, but not at home.

Five years ago, Smith erected a 15-foot high dam across an outlet of Little Sebago Lake behind his home and installed a self-styled turbine and a "generator off an old steam engine."

Since then, more electricity than he and his wife can use has been flowing from the tiny hydroelectric plant into his fully-equipped, six-room home and his heated, two-car garage.

"It's very practical and trouble free," said Smith, who spends about three or four dollars a year on transmission grease to keep his private power plant going. He said his initial investment was $4,000-5,000.

Smith said the steady flow of 25 kilowatts from his plant to the house doesn't exactly encourage conservation.

"When you've got your own powerhouse, you tend to leave the lights on. We take it for granted now... sort of like the refrigerator." The electrician said one big reason he built his hydroelectric plant was to be self-sufficient.

"A lot of people could have a lot of things, including power, if they had the gumption to work for them instead of relying on the government," Smith said.

Economic Cycles Still Watched By Forecasters

By JON CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Whether they like it or not, economists are always looking at cycles of ups and downs because, as almost nobody fails to understand today, that's the way the economy bounces.

In fact, the greatest single effort of economists since the days of the depression of the 1930s has been to flatten out these cycles and thereby lessen the damage of inflation and unemployment.

Wise economists today feel far less able to tell monetary and fiscal authorities how to run a smooth economy. They might not like to admit it, but a good many believe the world's economies will always be a merry-go-round.

That is, when one nation's economy is high another's might be low, the result of different economic policies, temporary trade advantages, changes in the demand for goods, the availability of labor, and so on.

But now, oddly enough, all the horses seem to be descending together, just as they ascended in unison and remained high over the past few years. They went up together and now they seem to be falling together.

Students of cycles claim they haven't seen such a pattern since the late 1920s. The fact is that almost all the world's great industrial nations are suffering from serious inflation — in some instances far worse than in the United States. Most are seeking to slow their economies, but few are willing to let them fall.

This was so even before the Mideast oil ruback caused economists everywhere to sharpen the economic declines they already had forecast. They expected an easy descent and a bounce; now they're not sure. Talk of a worldwide recession is more common in informal discussions than in the more considered, published forecasts that have been issued. One economist's decline, they fear, could reinforce that of another.

The United States, for instance, appears finally to have corrected its trade imbalance. This is, it has arrested the condition in which dollars were flowing out because imports exceeded exports.

Now that the United States finally is selling more abroad than it imports, the economists note, the strength of the dollar is improving. But then they make a second observation: If America's trading partners fall into a recession, how will they be able to buy American goods? If foreign economies are down, if workers are without jobs, where will the buying power come from?

Council Tells of Steps To Conserve Energy

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent

It was at this point that Richard Breen, local realtor, announced that he was sick and tired of hearing about DevCo when the town had so many other problems to face, like the sewer question. Breen said that the town is hiding behind DevCo instead of working to correct problems. He said the town must stop treating South Coventry as a poor relation. Paul Diehl then said that in his opinion DevCo was to threaten to the town's way of life and a very important problem facing the town.

The council directed the town manager to see if there were any funds available to secure the Salvation Army property when it becomes available.

The council also authorized a tax sale to be held not later than Dec. 31, 1974. The sale will include 72 parcels of land.

The council referred to the finance committee a long-range funding plan for the five departments which would establish a percentage point of one mill to become a regular part of the town budget. This is being proposed to prevent any more confrontations between the departments and the council.

The council also authorized the town manager to put out for bid the two 1955 Zabeck trucks that are no longer needed by the town.

Francis Conolly reported on the Rehabilitation Program Design and pointed out that the committee had been broken up into five task forces: Housing, roads, land use, health and safety, and financial. These forces will report back with recommendations in the spring.

The council appointed Joe Shannah and Roger Barrett to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

About Town

Manchester Civic Club will be selling fruit cake Thursday from 8 to 8 p.m. in front of the Main St. branch of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

Royal Bank Precinctory will meet Friday at 8 p.m. at Orange Hall.

Director to coordinate the efforts that may become necessary if the fuel crisis gets worse. Anyone interested in serving the town in this position should call Mrs. Fowler or one of the council members. This director is necessary to work with the Red Cross, town personnel and the National Guard.

George Bolduc Jr. read a statement during the audience of citizens concerning the abatement order given his father. Bolduc said that the council shouldn't be led down the garden path by the Board of Health and authorities in the town attorney to start civil action against lake area homeowners with abatement orders because some of these people are victims of the town's bureaucracy which made them wait as long as three weeks for the approval of their plans to correct the pollution problems.

The council authorized the town attorney to proceed with the civil suit, but to remove these from the list who have initiated action to correct their problems. This was approved unanimously.

Deceased On DevCo.

Dan Manley charged that Dick North, project manager of DevCo, by his recent statement that there was "a great deal of room" for a new community from the North Hartford was forming a racial problem for the purpose of helping their development.

He asked that the council investigate what he considered "a downright dangerous and possible illegal action" and see if any state or federal laws have been violated.

The Board of Education Tuesday decided to deny a request of Mrs. George Bassett to reinstate bus transportation on Cone Rd. Mrs. Bassett may now appeal the decision to the State Board of Education.

The board held a public hearing on the case last week and discussed it further Tuesday before reaching its decision.

Business Manager David Hopwell recommended that the request be denied because the 2/10 mile walk for the children is not unreasonable. The unavailability of the minibus is not the crux, he said. If the vehicle were available, it could be used to replace special education transportation to Manchester and West Hartford, which is now being contracted out.

Director Hired

Paul Feeley, a high school guidance employee, was hired as director of the evening adult school program for next semester.

The board considered three applications for the post, with a negotiable salary.

CIRCUIT COURT, 12
Rockville Station

A Rockville couple, Robert Piraniemi, 43, and his wife June, 43, of 40 Pleasant St., pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of fraudulently obtaining state aid.

The couple waived a hearing on probable cause and they were bound over by Judge Nicholas Armentano to Tolland County Superior Court.

Second-degree larceny charges against each were nolle prosequi (not prosecuted) by Prosecutor Joseph Paradiso.

Harley Frasier, 23, of no certain address, was given two 60-day suspended jail sentences and placed on one year probation by Judge Armentano in connection with third- and fourth-degree larceny charges. Third-degree forgery and criminal impersonation charges against Frasier were nolle prosequi.

Richard Wilson, 18, of 31 Vernon Ave., Rockville, was fined $50 for fourth-degree larceny in connection with a theft from the 7-11 Store on Rt. 30 in Vernon.

In companion cases, a charge against Albert Morris, 16, was nolle prosequi and a charge against Robert Arnold, 18, was continued until Dec. 18. They were both charged with fourth-degree larceny. They also list the same residence as Wilson.

Other cases heard Tuesday included:

—Francis Bassette, 21, of 44 Charter Rd., fined $15 for operating an unregistered motor vehicle. Improper use of plates charge was nolle prosequi.

—Joseph Bocharth, 26, of 107 Prospect St., unnecessary noise, file closed.

—Edward Waite, 23, of 5 Cherry St., fined $150 for operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension.

—Lawrence Ziemba, 23, of 47 Village St., fined $50 for breach of peace. Additional charges of breach of peace and interfering with an officer were continued to Dec. 18.

—Michael Heavides, 17, of 77 Seneca Dr., Vernon, disorderly conduct and escape from custody, both nolle prosequi.

—James McKay III, 22, of East Hartford, fined $75 for evading responsibility and $10 for intoxication.

—Eileen Langan, 40, of 46 West St., failure to drive a reasonable distance apart, nolle prosequi.

—Brian Legare, 19, of 140 W. Main St., disorderly conduct, nolle prosequi.

—Paul Musso, 18, of Enfield, disorderly conduct, nolle prosequi.

The idea for the forum was that of Maurice Miller, new chairman of the board, who said there had been comments that there was a credibility gap between the board and the public. The forum is intended to allow the public to speak at public meetings, on any subject it is concerned about.

In other action at Monday's meeting, Miller appointed board member James Beatter to act as liaison between the board and the Permanent Building Committee on plans for the addition to

Rockville High School

In keeping with this board approved educational specifications for the high school addition and the addition to the Vo-Ag Building at the high school site. The specifications have to be referred to the state for its approval.

The board also approved a three year contract for school custodians. This contract has been in the negotiating process for 11 months. The custodians will meet today to act on it.

Also approved was a trip to Bermuda. Students in the Middle School and the high school science classes pay their own way to make the trip to the Bermuda Biological Station. Two groups spend one week each.

The board also approved a trip for the Rockville High School. Board approval must be obtained if any portion of a trip is made during school time.

The next regular meeting of the board will be on Tuesday, Dec. 18 rather than the usual Monday meeting night.

Other officers are David M. Fraser of 50 E. Middle Tpke, vice president; John DiOscio Sr. of 20 Fulton Rd., secretary; and Thomas E. Scheibel of 23 Michael Dr., Vernon, treasurer.

Norman F. Pierce, master of the lodge, congratulated James B. Herring for the job done for the lodge during the year.

Electric Consumption Down

By The Associated Press

Milton Musick, chairman of the Mayor's Emergency Energy Committee, said today that utilities are making a decline in electricity consumption during November.

"We're not only cutting growth, but are making inroads into actual usage," Pacific Gas & Electric in San Francisco said that for the week ended Nov. 24, consumption was up 2.6 per cent over the figure a year ago, but was 10.4 per cent below what had been predicted.

Bill Conley of the New England Power Exchange, which supplies Chicago and most of northern Illinois, said consumption was down, but temperatures were up.

"We believe that the decrease—or a good portion of it—is due to conservation measures," he said.

The Edison Electric Institute, which compiles nationwide statistics, confirmed that electricity usage declined during November, particularly near the end of the month. But the institute warned that its figures did not take into account variables like the weather and therefore said it could not draw any conclusions from the figures.

Some utilities tried to take into account the weather when making their computations. Public Service Electric & Gas, New Jersey's largest electrical utility, said that for the week ended Nov. 24, consumption was 569.7 million kilowatt hours, a decline of five per cent over the same period in 1972.

A company spokesman said the average temperature for Nov. 22 was 49.3 degrees this year compared with 44.9 degrees last year.

There is some decrease in usage that can be attributed to customer action.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Hamilton County's park rangers say that from their observations the Midwest is in for a severe winter.

"Natural signs observed in the field point to a nasty winter," said the Hamilton County Park District's newsletter for December.

It continued:

"Butterflies began flocking early and migrating early."

"There are a lot of spiders, black bugs and worms crawling about."

"Blackberry blooms were especially heavy."

"Squirrels are building nests low in trees."

"We had foggy days in September."

"Hickory nuts have a heavy shell."

"Tree bark is heaviest on the north side."

"Katydids were hollerin' early."

"Hornets and yellow jackets' nests are close to the ground."

"Muskrat lodges are large. Birds are up all the wild berries early."

"Squirrels and rabbits have heavy fur."

"Ant hills are high."

"The observations were made at the county's four large parks and rangers said the results, taken over the years, are indicative of a bad winter."

The Park District News said that if the previous warnings are not convincing enough, "the woolly bear caterpillar is the clincher."

"There are a lot of them; they have a thick coat, and they started creeping and crawling before the first frost."

"They have more black than brown."

Co-Op Plans To Start Food Store

HAMDEN (AP)—A group of consumers has said it would establish a private grocery store, open only to subscribers, which will save $5 to $15 per week on food bills.

Comart Inc., based in Hamden, has received a grant from the co-op Foundation in St. Paul, Minn. to begin the project.

The store will operate like agricultural cooperatives which survive on regular member-customers.

The 4,000 members will pay $15 to join and a $1.25 weekly service fee.

Items on shelves will show the wholesale price, except for fair traded goods. A 7 per cent markup will be added at the cash register. Comart said this compared to a markup of 18 to 25 per cent in national supermarkets.

Savings would range from $40.50 per year for someone purchasing $15 of food a week, up to $689 for the $100-a-week shopper.

The store will open in Hamden when enough members subscribe.

There will be no advertised specials, such as loss-leaders in commercial stores, and the store will inform members of better prices in other stores, according to a statement.

"Best buys" will be marked in the store.

Only members will be allowed to shop at the store.

Attorney Thayer Baldwin Jr., is a principal in the project. Robert R. Forbes is executive director.

CO-OP PLANS TO START FOOD STORE

HAMDEN (AP)—A group of consumers has said it would establish a private grocery store, open only to subscribers, which will save $5 to $15 per week on food bills.

Comart Inc., based in Hamden, has received a grant from the co-op Foundation in St. Paul, Minn. to begin the project.

The store will operate like agricultural cooperatives which survive on regular member-customers.

The 4,000 members will pay $15 to join and a $1.25 weekly service fee.

Items on shelves will show the wholesale price, except for fair traded goods. A 7 per cent markup will be added at the cash register. Comart said this compared to a markup of 18 to 25 per cent in national supermarkets.

Savings would range from $40.50 per year for someone purchasing $15 of food a week, up to $689 for the $100-a-week shopper.

The store will open in Hamden when enough members subscribe.

There will be no advertised specials, such as loss-leaders in commercial stores, and the store will inform members of better prices in other stores, according to a statement.

"Best buys" will be marked in the store.

Only members will be allowed to shop at the store.

Attorney Thayer Baldwin Jr., is a principal in the project. Robert R. Forbes is executive director.

Christmas Tree Use Centuries Old

READING, Pa. (AP) — In 1844, the first Christmas tree in this country was set up by soldiers in Fort Dearborn, Ill. This year, Americans will use nearly 35 million trees during the holiday season, reports Robert Sullivan, president of the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Assn. and director of the national association.

Through the ages, people all over the world have revered the evergreen tree. Norsemen, Celts and Saxons used these trees to ward off witches, evil spirits and ghosts.

BOOK REVIEWS

CATHERINE DE' MEDICI. By Hugh Ross Williamson. Viking, 288 Pages, $16.95.

Catherine de' Medici, wife and mother of the late Valois French kings, was certainly one of the most powerful personalities in European history. She is portrayed in this colorful biography that shows her as something more than a Gallic Lady Macbeth. This she certainly gets in this colorful book by Hugh Ross Williamson, a British author who combines the techniques of the novelist and playwright. If anything, he tells the story too pointedly from the Catholic queen's viewpoint.

Yale To Invite Shockley To Speak

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Nobel laureate Dr. William B. Shockley will be invited by the Yale Political Union to defend his controversial theory that blacks are genetically inferior in a debate with civil rights leader Roy Innes, union President Wade Cleveland said Tuesday.

Tony Felice said he was opposed to extending the school year because it would interfere with teachers summer jobs or their plans to continue their education. Joan Lewis felt that the schools were so hot in June that the children would not be able to function very well.

Energy Crisis Booms T-3 Business

By GINNY PITT Associated Press Writer BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The energy crisis has produced months of back orders for Electromotion Inc., which makes an electric-powered automobile once regarded as something of a ugly duckling.

It comes to a halt—at a stop sign, traffic light or in front of a delivery point. Energy is consumed only when the vehicle is actually in motion. Boston is being used as a demonstration city for the T-3, with battery exchange stations in existence now in four suburbs—Frammingham, Water town, Brookline and Bedford—and a dozen others on the drawing boards.

motorist can trade in a used battery pack for a fully charged one and be on his way in about two minutes. The battery pack weighs 900 pounds but slides easily into the vehicle on a set of rollers built into the chassis. Electromotion envisions a "battery club" in which members would pay a monthly fee so there would be no charge for exchanging batteries at individual stations.

School Buses Moved To Escape Vandals

Activity concerning the buses. It allowed the bus operation to run smoothly with no delay in the transportation of the Bolton school students.

In view of vandalism to Bolton school buses, owned by Eastern Bus Lines Inc., owner George Negro was given unanimous approval by the Board of Education to house all buses at his garage on West St. at all times.

Although the move is contrary to the present contract, permission was given as long as other provisions of the contract are adhered to. The board feels it is a temporary situation and reserved the right to rescind the motion.

Negro reported to the board the siphoning of gasoline all last week. A total of 126 gallons of gasoline were stolen from the buses.

Vandalism included the smashing of five windows, slashing of bus seats, 10 fire extinguishers stolen and gas pump hose slashed.

The police were notified of the thefts and vandalism. The indicated the problem of siphoning gas would probably be increased.

The board conveyed to Negro appreciation of his watchdog

Bolton Teachers Given Guides for Vo-Ed

The Vocational Orientation Committee has been in existence for almost two years now. In a recent report by Jeffrey Heinz, committee chairman, he aims to summarize the accomplishments of the committee to date and to point out directions it may take in the future.

At the Grades K-8 level, four points were considered vital: First, that vocational orientation is desirable and should begin at the kindergarten level. Second, that a definite sequential curriculum was needed to give to the teachers. Third, that the curriculum should be concrete, it should be a guideline for teachers, but they should be encouraged to enhance it with original ideas.

Fourth, that career exploration should focus on understanding self and the environment, and at the K-8 level, should expand knowledge and increase the number of possibilities.

A summer committee, made up of Heinz, Lenianski, Mrs. Finnegan and Mrs. Patrick, chose approximately 36 lessons for each K-8 grade level, and included the suggested lessons in a supplementary curriculum which also includes definitions of job families, a glossary, a statement of objectives and a list of potential speakers and field trip locations.

At the Grades 7 and 8 level, the Mid-Hudson guides will be used according to subject matter areas with special areas such as industrial arts, physical education, art and music represented.

At a recent workshop, the teachers of both the Elementary and Center School were introduced to the abovementioned materials.

Robert Schreiber, past director of the Mid-Hudson Center, was principal speaker. He detailed the rise of the concept of vocational education and also spoke about the teachers.

At the high school level, the committee felt a Cooperative Work Experience Program (CWE) would be very beneficial.

approval. Mrs. Brenda Briggs was hired as the CEW coordinator. She has placed many students in jobs and will soon begin the in-school instructional phase of the program.

The following are the present members of the VOC: Mrs. Gloria Finnegan, Mrs. Maureen Simon, George Lenianski, Mrs. Sharon Donovan, Mrs. Sandra Schenker, Mrs. Flab, Norman Shaw, John Eagles, Siegmar Blumberg, Mrs. Betty Quinby and Heinz.

Here that the committee will probably be considering in the future are: Way of assisting the teachers in the implementation of the K-8 program, formation of a community advisory committee to advise the CWE program and the high school business education program.

possible expansion of the CEW program, and programs at the high school level which would involve students not eligible under state guidelines for CWE.

Heinz noted that the excellent support from the school board and the community have been large factors in the success of gaining new programs.

Stamps in The News

AP News Feature story by SYD KROSNIG

Books about stamps make excellent and thoughtful gifts for new collectors as well as for veterans.

A couple of new books, one especially for children, are evidence that stamp collecting can be an entertaining, enjoyable and educational.

"A Child's World of Stamps: Stories, Poems, Fun and Facts from Many Lands" by Mildred DePrez is illustrated with more than 150 enlarged, vividly colorful postage stamps from around the world. All the stamps are related to the special world of children, and many were issued in honor of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

The stamps depict customs, legends and interests of children in Asia, North America, the Middle East, Latin America, Europe and Africa. Along with the colorful stamps are poems, games and customs more than 50 countries.

The author, Mildred DePrez, is a former curator of the UNICEF stamp collection. The price is $4.95. (Publisher: Parent's Magazine Press)

"The Dictionary of Stamps" by James A. Mackay provides a comprehensive history of philately with enlarged reproductions in color. Mackay, former "keeper of stamps" at the British Museum, has selected some 3,000 stamps as examples from every stamp-issuing authority. They are arranged by continent, in chronological order according to the country.

The variety of stamps ranges from the sprawling and populous People's Republic of China to little Pitcairn Island with 80 inhabitants.

"The Dictionary of Stamps" sells for $17.50 until Dec. 31 and then will be $19.95. (Publisher: Macmillan Publishing Co.)

Many nations have issued stamps honoring the 10th anniversary of the death of John F. Kennedy, but Tojo's set of six for this occasion provides unusual illustrations. Depicted on five of the adhesives are photos of Kennedy with world leaders. The sixth shows Kennedy and the Apollo space program. Sharing the stamp spotlight with the former President are: Macmillan of Great Britain, Schaerf of Austria, Adnan of West Germany, DeGaulle of France and Khrushchev of the U.S.S.R. A souvenir sheet bearing the highest values of stamps plus a profile of JFK was also issued.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has issued a philatelic souvenir card portraying a block of four stamps used in the engraving of the Four Freedoms stamp of 1943. Flanking the block to the left are the six "American Credo" stamps of 1960-1961. Copies at $1 each (limited to five per customer) may be ordered from the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing, 73 ASDA Card, Washington, D.C. 20524. Do not send cash or checks, just money orders or certified checks. The purchaser's name, address and zip code should appear on both the order form and the transmittal envelope. The card was issued in conjunction with the ASDA National Postage Stamp Show in New York.

The United Nations Postal Administration's first commemorative stamp for 1974 will be issued on Jan. 11. It will honor the new headquarters building of the International Labor Office in Geneva, Switzerland. The new stamps will be printed in denominations of 10 cents and 21 cents.

First-day cover collectors should send their envelopes with proper remittances to: United Nations Postal Administration, FDC Unit, P.O. Box 1586, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10107.

FROM THE MAIL BAG... To Leo E. Diehl of Portsmouth, Ohio, your idea for a new U.S. commemorative stamp may be sent to the Stamp Advisory Committee, care U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20509...

To John Laredo of Jamaica, N.Y., it is easier to obtain new stamps and even first-day covers of foreign stamps from a dealer in your area rather than trying to get them directly from a country of origin...

To Mrs. Helen Clark of Merrville, Ind., the Bag stamp you describe is not a major error and, unfortunately, not considered a valuable item.

UAC May Move Corporate Headquarters

EAST HARTFORD (AP) — The United Aircraft Corp. (UAC) is considering a move of its corporate headquarters within the greater Hartford area, a spokesman said today.

He said the company has been negotiating for space in the new Connecticut Financial Center in Hartford.

A headquarters move would involve about 100 people located at the site of the corporation's East Hartford Pratt & Whitney division and would not affect division employees, the spokesman added.

It May Open For Christmas

A Christmas present of a new Olcott St. Bridge appears certain for Manchester, Jay Giles, director of public works, says. The pre-stressed concrete beams are in place, and on Friday, workers put measured tension on steel cables binding them side by side. Giles said the next step is to place curbing and concrete sidewalks on one side of the bridge. Then, a fiberglass fabric will be laid over the concrete beams, to protect them from the road covering. From then on it is all up to the weather, Giles said. If the weather holds up, said Giles, a permanent road surface of bituminous hot mix will be laid. Otherwise, explained Giles, highway department personnel will lay temporary cold (winter) mix for a roadway. In that event, said Giles, the cold mix will be scraped off in the spring and will be replaced with bituminous hot mix. Whatever the method, the bridge will be opened to traffic this month, he said. ### Columbia Decision Due in Sign Case

VIRGINIA CARLSON
Correspondent
Tel. 228-9224
The State Building Code Standards Committee has completed its hearings, after about 12 hours of testimony, in the case of the town and a building official versus Mrs. Frances Beckish.

The committee will render a decision in the near future. Building official Sam Pescatello brought the case to the state committee after a decision by the local Code Appeals Board. The case involves a sign Mrs. Beckish tried to re-erect after it had been down. Pescatello claims the sign is located on the town green and had asked that the application for a permit to re-erect the sign should contain a plot plan showing ownership of the property where the sign is located.

When the appeals board said Mrs. Beckish could re-erect the sign without a permit, Pescatello immediately appealed to the state, saying the local board had acted beyond its powers.

Atty. Charles Tarpinian, representing Mrs. Beckish, originally requested the local appeals board to grant his client time to submit a complete application to the building official.

Tarpinian claimed, in a letter to the local appeals board and again at the hearing, that ownership of the land where the sign was to be re-erected had not been conclusively determined.

Tarpinian said that once a survey was completed he would submit a plan which would prove ownership. During the state hearing, surveyor Roger Ferguson was subpoenaed, but Tarpinian raised objections and the surveyor did not testify nor submit a plot plan.

The sign, a free-standing one, has always been controversial in town. It was erected in 1962. In July, former First Selectman Howard Bates sent Peter Beckish a letter asking that he take the sign down and end the long controversy. The letter was never made public and was not entered into the testimony at the state hearing.

Town ordinances provide that selectmen have jurisdiction over the town green and that they may take down any encroachments on the green.

Snow Removal
First Selectman Joseph Segda reminds residents of the ordinance which regulates parking during winter storms. Vehicles are not to be parked on any street or highway maintained by the town during any snowstorm, or until snow removal operations have been completed.

Persons must move vehicles so they will not obstruct removal of sand operations when requested to do so by the operator of any vehicle engaged in town snow removal or sanding.

Those convicted face a maximum sentence of six months in prison. Gignoux was sentenced for Thursday. Gignoux took more than an hour to read the lengthy verdict as he ruled on each of the 36 specifications of contempt remaining against the lawyers and defendants. Dellinger was convicted on seven specifications and Hoffman, Rubin and Kunster were convicted on two each.

Decision Due in Sign Case

Any selectman or his designated agent may order any obstructing vehicle to be towed and the owner is liable for towing and storage fees. Penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of $5.

Atty. Charles Tarpinian, representing Mrs. Beckish, originally requested the local appeals board to grant his client time to submit a complete application to the building official.

Tarpinian claimed, in a letter to the local appeals board and again at the hearing, that ownership of the land where the sign was to be re-erected had not been conclusively determined.

Tarpinian said that once a survey was completed he would submit a plan which would prove ownership. During the state hearing, surveyor Roger Ferguson was subpoenaed, but Tarpinian raised objections and the surveyor did not testify nor submit a plot plan.

The sign, a free-standing one, has always been controversial in town. It was erected in 1962. In July, former First Selectman Howard Bates sent Peter Beckish a letter asking that he take the sign down and end the long controversy. The letter was never made public and was not entered into the testimony at the state hearing.

Town ordinances provide that selectmen have jurisdiction over the town green and that they may take down any encroachments on the green.

Snow Removal
First Selectman Joseph Segda reminds residents of the ordinance which regulates parking during winter storms. Vehicles are not to be parked on any street or highway maintained by the town during any snowstorm, or until snow removal operations have been completed.

Persons must move vehicles so they will not obstruct removal of sand operations when requested to do so by the operator of any vehicle engaged in town snow removal or sanding.

Those convicted face a maximum sentence of six months in prison. Gignoux was sentenced for Thursday. Gignoux took more than an hour to read the lengthy verdict as he ruled on each of the 36 specifications of contempt remaining against the lawyers and defendants. Dellinger was convicted on seven specifications and Hoffman, Rubin and Kunster were convicted on two each.

At the conclusion of the conspiracy trial in February 1970, Judge Hoffman had cited the lawyers and defendants on 175 counts of contempt and imposed jail sentences ranging up to three years in Kunster's case. A federal appeals court threw out the sentences and returned the case for trial to the district court. The appeals court deleted many of the contempt citations.

Convicted with Kunster were David T. Dellinger, Jerry C. Rubin and Abbie Hoffman. Acquitted were Thomas C. Hayden and Bernard "Rennie" Davis.

Three Found Guilty Of Contempt

CHICAGO (AP) — Defense lawyer William Kunstler and three Chicago Seven conspiracy defendants were convicted Tuesday of contempt during their stormy trial before Judge Julius J. Hoffman four years ago.

Lawyer Leonard I. Weinglass and two other defendants were acquitted by Judge Edward T. Gignoux of U.S. District Court, who presided at the trial without a jury which began Oct. 29.

Convicted with Kunster were David T. Dellinger, Jerry C. Rubin and Abbie Hoffman. Acquitted were Thomas C. Hayden and Bernard "Rennie" Davis.

Social Security

Q I'm a widow, and I've been working since 1962 when my husband died. In a couple of months I'll be 60. Although I'm not disabled, I don't want to cut down on my work. Would I be able to get any kind of monthly benefits from Social Security?

A You may be eligible for a reduced widow benefit at 60. Call, write, or visit any Social Security office for more details.

Q I am receiving monthly Social Security benefits as a widow and I'd like to get married again. Will my Social Security benefits stop if I remarry?

A Benefits continue for most widows who remarry after reaching 60. However, the amount of your monthly benefit may change.

Q My husband I were separated for several years before his death in 1967. I am 58 years old and have no children. Am I eligible for monthly Social Security benefits on his work record?

A Ordinarily you cannot collect reduced widow's benefits until you are 60, but if you are severely disabled and cannot work, you may be eligible for benefits now. A widow 50 or older who becomes disabled within seven years before or after her husband's death can receive monthly cash benefits.

Q I am 64 and was totally dependent upon my wife until she died a few weeks ago. Can I receive monthly survivor benefits from Social Security on her work record?

A Yes, if she has enough Social Security credit.

Q I'm a 22-year-old widow getting a monthly Social Security check for myself and my son who is now 17. He plans to enlist in the Army. Should I report this to Social Security?

A Yes. Since you are receiving a payment because you have a child under 18 in your care, your payment will stop when your son enters the Army. You should also report your son's earnings for the year to Social Security office as soon as you know the date your son will enter the Army.

Tolland Teachers To Study Tropical Ecology

VIVIAN KENNESON

The Board of Education recently voted to sponsor two high school teachers in an inservice program of learning and research to set up and run a course in tropical island ecology for Tolland High School students.

The course, similar to that conducted by Rockville and Vernon, and other area schools, will give students an opportunity to learn what science is a career is all about.

Visiting a world-famous biological station, they will be able to observe and study sub-tropical island ecology with aid of sophisticated scientific apparatus and a huge reference library. Additionally, they will be able to observe professional scientists at work.

As one of many preliminary steps in launching such a program, the two teachers will be chaperone a Bermuda trip conducted by the Vernon school system. They will attend an initial meeting, and follow through on every step of the program.

White in Bermuda, they will spend 10 to 12 hours per day with two students in the field and classroom library. Upon return, they will follow up with meetings to evaluate the course, trip logistics, and preparing a curriculum for the course next year.

In future years the trip will be basically self-supporting and will provide an educational opportunity for students. The high school will benefit by the specimens the instructors will be able to obtain. Like all field courses, there are travel expenses for food, lodging and transportation. In this case the expense to the Board of Education is a one-time allocation of $2,000. In the future, the student trip tuition will meet board expenses on the trips.

This program will offer students an opportunity to expose and educational experience equal to that offered by other area towns. Additionally, an evening presentation by the students involved will be offered to interested citizens of Tolland.

CELEBRATES 20th

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Pro Musica Antiqua will celebrate its 20th anniversary by presenting three evenings of Renaissance music at Alice Tully Hall, in November, December and January.

Titles of the first three concerts are "The Course of Love," which is English music; "Spanish Music of the Golden Age," and "A Musical Commemoration of Petrarch," observing the 600th anniversary of the death of Petrarch.

About Your Collision Insurance

Gordon parked his car next to an apartment house, unaware that a burglar was taking cover inside the building. The burglar leaped from a second-story window, landed on top of Gordon's car, and made good his escape. Gordon, however, wasn't so lucky. His jumped-on car needed $180 worth of repairs. Was he entitled to collect insurance for the loss?

"Sorry," said the insurance company, "but you are not covered. You do have collision insurance, but this was not a collision."

However, when Gordon took the matter to court, the judge ruled in his favor.

"Collision," said the judge, "means the impact of objects through one of such objects moving against the other," and this incident fitted that description.

Most motorists carry at least some collision insurance. Typically, this covers the damage done when one car bumps into another. However, it has often been held to extend to more unusual situations.

One motorist collected collision insurance when his car hit a mailbox by the side of the road; another, when his car rolled into an open elevator shaft and fell to the bottom; another, when his car rammed into the curb.

Nevertheless, there are limits. In one case, the point on a man's car was damaged when he ran into a hallway. He insisted that this was covered by his collision insurance, because his car had "collided" with the pellets of ice.

But the court decided this was stretching language too far. Tossing out his claim, the court said: "We do not speak of falling bodies, such as ice or hail, as 'colliding' with the earth. In common parlance, the apple falls to the ground; it does not collide with the earth."

Daylight Saving Passes In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation is expected to return to Daylight Saving Time today, with the exact date to be settled by a Senate-House conference committee. The Senate voted 80 to 10 Tuesday to impose a year-round energy time plan as an energy conservation measure, effective the fourth Sunday after enactment. The House earlier agreed to give industries and transportation companies 15 days to adjust their schedules before advanced time goes into effect. The Senate bill allows each state to exempt itself from Daylight Time if advancing the clock one hour would result in undue hardship. The Nixon administration asked for the legislation, contending that adding Daylight Time during the winter months would result in a three per cent fuel savings. Various experts say the savings would range from a fraction of one per cent to 1.5 per cent. But Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Commerce Committee says that, even without direct fuel savings, year-round Daylight Time would serve as a constant reminder that the nation can no longer waste its energy resources. Several congressmen contend that delaying the onset of darkness by one hour would result in less crime and fewer traffic accidents. Tank Culture Of Catfish Attempted OVERTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has completed a demonstration facility for raising catfish in fiberglass tanks. Dr. Joe Lock, extension area fisheries specialist, said a few fish farmers began growing catfish in artificial tanks about seven years ago. "Researchers have been experimenting with this method for about four years, but there is still a shortage of information, particularly on the costs of production," Lock said. The new aquaculture facility is operated in cooperation with J. T. and Jack Montgomery on their property. The Montgomerys care for the tanks and keep daily records on feed and health. Two tank systems are being compared to the Overton facility. One utilizes fiberglass tanks eight feet in diameter, set on a concrete slab under an open shed. Pond water is pumped through the tanks at 10 gallons per minute. Six of these tanks are stocked with varying numbers of fingerlings. The second system, designed and built by Rod Ewald, Karnes City, is a "high rise" closed system composed of a series of stacked 8-foot diameter tanks. This system resembles a silo. Well water is used for this system. In theory, a controlled intensive culture system has advantages over conventional pond raising of catfish, including ease of detecting and controlling disease, water quality control, less space and capital investment required. Intensive tank culture also presents problems. When fish are crowded, disease problems increase. A complete feed must be used and more expensive than feed used in pond culture. Water pumping costs have increased.

Device Invented To Aid Cerebral Palsy Victims

By MARIA BRADEN, Associated Press Writer, LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 22-year-old University of Kentucky graduate has invented a device for translating the scribbled writing of cerebral palsy victims into legible characters. He has filed for a patent on the device and says a manufacturer has already expressed interest in producing it. It's quite an accomplishment for any young man, but for James W. Fee, it's an even bigger feat. Fee was born with cerebral palsy and when he was 3 years old doctors told his parents he would never walk, talk or use either hand. "Mom and Dad didn't believe it," Fee said recently, "so they taught me how." He attended special classes in New York until he was 13 and then went to a regular school. He was accepted at Pratt Institute in New York and studied chemical engineering there for a year before transferring to UK, where he received his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering last May. Fee plans to continue his studies for an advanced degree and has won a full scholarship from Northwestern University. But he is putting off his studies for a while to work in a project, directed by Dr. Fred Harris at the University of Washington in Seattle, on rehabilitating multiple-handicapped children. "Harris and I agree on a theory of how cerebral palsy affects people — and we're trying to build devices to help them based on that theory," Fee said. Fee was in Lexington recently for a conference on electronic prosthetics (artificial body parts).

Alfred Fuller, Brush Firm Founder, Dies

HARTFORD (AP) — Alfred C. Fuller, 88, who nurtured a door-to-door brush business into the international Fuller Brush Co., died Tuesday at Hartford Hospital. His family said Fuller died of myeloma, a bone marrow disease, after a short illness. Fuller was born in Berwick, Nova Scotia and came to the United States with $75 at the age of 18. While employed on the Boston Elevated he worked nights making brushes in the basement of his sister's home in Somerville, Mass. in 1906. From this hand-made beginning Fuller built sales to $130 million in 1969 when the company was sold to Consolidated Foods Inc. and left family hands. He served as president until 1943 and chairman until the merger. O'Connor said his office has been advised that the Office of Environmental Affairs has essentially completed its review and expects to forward the statement for the final staff review by the middle of November. O'Connor explained that both sections involved the establishment of a public park or recreation land (linear park) and that are subject to special laws which provide that the secretary of transportation cannot approve a project which requires the use of such public land until he has determined that there is no feasible and prudent alternative to the use of the land and all possible planning is included to minimize harm to the section.

He began his career as a lawyer in Virginia, but entered the Virginia Theological Seminary and was ordained. His church job was as assistant rector of St. John's

Sheriff's Role Hearing Subject

HARTFORD (AP) — For at least the 10th time since the government was abolished in Connecticut, the state's high sheriffs have told members of the General Assembly why their offices should be retained. The sheriffs told members of the committee on the Administration and Policy Committee Tuesday there was no proof that abolishing the posts would save money. The committee is considering a constitutional amendment to eliminate the jobs and transfer the duties of sheriff's deputies to the Judicial and Correction departments. The Connecticut Public Expenditure Council and the Elbridge Commission have called for eliminating the posts. The commission said an estimated $186,000 could be saved if someone else took over the administrative duties that currently occupy most of the sheriff's time. Since its formation, the committee has heard from nine other unsuccessful legislative attempts to do away with the sheriffs. "High sheriffs should have gone out with high-button shoes," said Sen. George L. Gunther, R-Stratford, said. Gunther, who has long favored abolishing the offices, said the main reason they still exist is the "strong political machine" that the sheriffs have built. Middlesex County Sheriff Joseph P. Walsh said there are around 50 appointed deputies, that they do their part-time jobs. "I don't see how it could be done," said Walsh. "I don't see how it could be done," said Walsh. "I don't see how it could be done," said Walsh.

School Closing Decision Near

HARTFORD (AP) — The state Board of Education today grapples with the controversial recommendation to conserve energy by giving Connecticut public-school pupils a one-month Christmas vacation. Board Chairman Catherine V.A. Smith supports the proposal, made by acting state Education Commissioner Maurice Ross, to keep schools closed and dark from mid-December to mid-January. But Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said the decision to close down schools would be made locally, not by the state. Meskill said he would send a representative to today's board meeting to explain his position. School administrators, teachers organizations, local officials and parents groups have opposed the recommendation, arguing it would disrupt education and be a hardship on working parents. Among the groups against the idea are the Connecticut Education Association, the State Parent-Teacher Association and the Association for the Advancement of School Administration. Some opponents of the Ross plan have suggested a four-day school week instead of closing schools altogether. In other developments: University of Connecticut President Glenn W. Ferguson said he was optimistic energy consumption could be cut 20 per cent without changing the calendar. U.S. Rep. William Colter, D-Conn., said he was "dismayed" the Defense Department was considering "jauzaging" junkies for VIPs despite the administration's energy conservation program. State Tax Commissioner George Brown said the fuel shortage would reduce state gasoline-tax revenue. State troopers ended their one-day slowdown and have resumed enforcement of the 50-mile-an-hour speed limit. Allegheny Airlines asked federal authorities for a six-month service suspension in Bridgeport so an estimated 186,000 gallons of scarce aviation fuel could be used on other routes. Penn Central officials said they were optimistic gasoline shortages would entice more commuters to ride trains. Taverns and package stores have been warned they face

MCC Stairwell Gallery Has Show, Sing Friday

Manchester Community College (MCC) has scheduled its mid-year student art exhibition and Christmas chorus sing Friday, at 8 p.m., at the Hartford campus, Robert Manning, director of MCC's Stairwell Gallery, has reported.

The program, Manning said, will start with the 25-member MCC chorus singing traditional and contemporary selections, and popular Christmas carols also to be heard with audience participation encouraged.

After the music program, there will be a reception, with refreshments, at the Stairwell Gallery, where student art works in many media will be exhibited, Manning said.

A student rock band will conclude the evening. The MCC chorus is directed by Robert Water, the accompanist will be Kenneth Woods.

Choral selections for the program include "The Shepherd's Chorus" by Gian Carlo Menotti; "Winter Wonderland"; "I Wonder as I Wander," an Appalachian carol with soprano soloist Betty Lou Green; "Glory to God in the Highest."

Also, "Here Comes Santa Claus"; "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks"; "Let It Snow, Let It Snow, Let It Snow"; "I Was the Night Before Christmas" with soloist Charles Kelly; and "Hallelujah, Amen."

The Stairwell Gallery exhibition includes the paintings, drawings, sculpture, crafts, ceramics, and photography from MCC classes of Manning, John Stevens, Suzanne Stevens and Roy Superior.

The Friday night program is open to the public at no charge, Manning said.

Commuter Defection Reported Waning On Penn Central

NEW HAVEN (AP)—Commuter defection on Penn Central lines in the Connecticut and New York area is waning and should give way soon to increased ridership, a Penn Central official said Tuesday.

White statistics are yet available to support that contention, General Manager Robert K. Pattison of the railroad's metropolitan region seemed optimistic.

"I think the commuter decline has bottomed out," he told a reporter during a demonstration ride for Connecticut legislators and transportation officials.

"It really couldn't have gone much lower," Pattison said. Increased ridership is expected because of the gasoline shortage and the lure of new equipment such as the "cosmopolitan" commuter cars demonstrated on the round trip from New Haven to Stamford.

The first of the self-powered, streamlined cars went into operation in April on the so-called West End commuter line between New Haven and New York's Grand Central Station. Passenger operations on the line are controlled jointly by Connecticut and New York State.

Asked why the main part of New Haven's Terminal was shut down rather than converted to a center, Pease said that city's administration also could have sought federal funds. But he added that space limitations would cause problems in planning for long-term bus service at the terminal.

When the tracks have been welded and other improvements are completed, he said, train speed is expected to be increased to about 100 miles per hour.

A "conservative estimate" of that development, Pease added, is within five years. As the special train passed through Bridgeport, Pease praised the city's administration for obtaining federal money which will help pay for a new transportation center near the old terminal.

Building Trust Among People Is Woman's Job

By EVE SHARBUETT AP Newsletters Writer — NEW YORK (AP) — Gladys Burleigh has held many jobs, all tied by one thread: she feels she has an obligation to young people.

"Our generation has been so remiss in preparing kids for life and caring about them," she said. "I dedicated my life to changing that."

Mrs. Burleigh is executive director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the first woman to hold the post.

An attractive woman in her 40s, Mrs. Burleigh spends much of her time planning for the future. But the former teacher also recalls lessons she learned from experience of the past.

"My first teaching job was in rural North Carolina because I couldn't get a job in Baltimore, Md., my home town. I was a starchy-eyed, idealistic graduate of Morgan State and it was my first encounter with the back of the bus. The driver told me 'You all ride back there,' and I've never forgotten it."

"I was apprehensive about going south to teach, but I wanted to stand on my own two feet. I managed to survive. For three years I lived there and loved it, but one thing still disturbs me: crops were more important than kids," she recalled.

Mrs. Burleigh organized a band in North Carolina before she went to Georgia and became a band director in Muftic. She says she was the only woman to take a band to the state band jamboree, "where some of those men nearly fainted."

She worked in a Maryland girls' reformatory, which she found the most depressing of her jobs. Then, for a time, she helped find foster homes for children in Baltimore, working for the department of public welfare.

The period she terms "ten of the greatest years in my life," she spent teaching in New York City, organizing human relations clubs and working with young people she continues to see.

Her success brought her to the attention of the Board of Education, and she became coordinator of pupil programs with the office of intergroup education.

"But I learned that the bureaucracy destroyed the image of the teacher and destroyed his or her credibility. After a while, I felt useless and decided to come out, giving up all my benefits."

"Now I feel useful again. I'm not moving mountains, but I am chipping away," Mrs. Burleigh added.

Among other programs, she hopes this year to institute a special project for ex-offenders.

"There is a lot of talk about crime in the streets but not much is done about it despite our lip service. People rob in desperation. Many of them are former offenders who can't find jobs. An organization of our type should be more responsive in helping these guys."

The planned assistance includes offering guidance for handling job interviews, how to dress and act for them, and preparation for taking high school equivalency examinations.

Mrs. Burleigh is still very interested in youth programs. She found rap sessions turned off white kids because blacks would often use them to attack and vent hostility.

"So we're working on an international basis with conferences and camps. We hope next year to get kids from several different nations to visit here and meet kids of their own ethnic background, so they can learn themselves about their likenesses and differences," she said.

Mrs. Burleigh admits she is always making plans.

"We don't always know where we're going, but we are always anticipating. A lot of world affairs affect what happens in New York. The energy crisis, for example, could contribute to a rise in antisemitism. The stand taken by Catholics on abortion may react against them. We must plan future programs for that possibility," she said.

She finds it important to work for building trust and understanding among people. "At this point, the country is so totally disillusioned that no one trusts anyone any more," she added.

Mrs. Burleigh says there are many things she still wants to be a part of. In her spare time, she relaxes by playing organ music. She is divorced, and recently completed building a new home in Newburgh, N.Y.

"I can see," she said thoughtfully, "that it's a town I'm going to have to get involved in."

Thermostat Has Legal Limits

HARTFORD (AP)—Turning down thermostats to save fuel has become an act of public duty, but apparently in Connecticut there is a limit to how low temperatures may be set. Section 19-65 of the state General Statutes states that "when any building or part thereof is occupied as a home... or place of business... a temperature of less than 68 degrees Fahrenheit (shall) be deemed injurious to the health of the occupants."

Sixty-eight is the temperature President Nixon and others have asked people to maintain in their homes during the day. There have been recommendations that thermostats be turned even lower at night. The law states that any building owner "who willfully and intentionally fails to furnish... heat to the degrees herein provided... shall be fined not more than $100 or imprisoned not more than 60 days or both."

Economist Predicts 'Dark Age'

BOSTON (AP)—New England employment appears headed into the "dark age" of the crisis with an anticipated 500,000 unemployed by the middle of next year, according to a University of Connecticut economist. "I expect the jobless total to increase by 150,000 by mid-year 1974 to one-half million or nine per cent unless there is a drastic change in our energy picture," said Professor David Pinsky of the university's Labor Education Center.

In a speech Tuesday to the Women's Club of Boston, Pinsky issued the following estimates of New England unemployment by next June: Connecticut—120,000, up 50,000 from present; Massachusetts—275,000, up 70,000; Rhode Island—40,000, up 12,000; Maine—30,000, up 6,000; New Hampshire—18,000, up 5,000 and Vermont—17,000, up 5,000. Dr. Pinsky said that by next June, the national unemployment rate will increase to between 8 and 9 per cent, which is below the New England estimate.

New England unemployment now stands at 350,000 or 6.5 per cent of the labor force. The national average is 4.5 per cent, he said. New England's dilemma is its heavy dependence on oil," Pinsky said. "Over 75 per cent of the electricity generated in the area is from oil, a substantial part of which had been imported from the Near East. This compares with 14 per cent nationally," he said.

The UConn professor said New England will be hit three ways during 1974. —There will be slowdowns and shutdowns in industry due to a lack of restrictions on the use of electricity, natural gas and oil. —There also will be shutdowns and slowdowns because of a shortage of materials made from petrochemicals, notably plastics. —Automobile production and appliance production will be down. He said many New England firms produce parts, air conditioning, frost free refrigerators and other appliances that use large amounts of electricity.

When the red-haired girl you were in love with in the seventh grade broke your secret engagement by marrying another boy, it was a cruel blow. You were both to return the dime store ring you had given her. She simply gave it to her baby sister to play with.

A poor neighborhood was one in which neighbors couldn't borrow things from one another when they ran short, because they were always short. Many people during the depression were so proud that they would starve before taking public welfare — and that's just what some of them did, silently beaten down.

Brucellosis Case Reported
HARTFORD (AP)—After a Hartford girl's father brought home a pig and slaughtered it for eating, the girl came down with a rare disease known as brucellosis, according to state Health Commissioner Douglas S. Lloyd.

Most of the barley and oats in Alberta, Canada, is used for feeding livestock.

Basketball Rule Changes

Followers of basketball can expect to see fewer rule changes this season than any time in the history of the sport according to Ed Stietz, rules editor for the NCAA.

Here are the changes: Rule 1-8 will require padding on the bottom edge of all rectangular backboards.

Rule 2-2 will not allow for head decorations or headwear other than a two-inch, unadorned headband of specified material. All others are illegal.

Rule 2-10 now reads: If the error is made while the clock is running, it must be recognized before the ball again becomes alive following the first dead ball after the error.

Rule 3-4 (a) now makes it mandatory that team shirts be of the same solid color in front and back.

Rule 6-4 will require that for any jump ball, jumpers shall have both feet within the restraining circle.

Rule 9-3 reads: When a player has been designated to be the thrower-in, only he may be out of bounds.

Stietz claims "the popularity and healthy condition of the game of basketball resulted in the fewest significant changes than the history of the game has seen."

Good Looking Candidate

One of the most promising candidates with East Catholic High's basketball team is left guard Gary Carlson, son of Burr

Carlson, former UConn varsity hoop mentor. With the first win behind him, Gordie McCullough of Uhartford started on his second 150 last night in beating

Williams. Jack Repass reports the recent two-day college hoop tourney at Uhartford attracted 3,800 fans. Ray Camporese is running the town basketball program at the East Side Rec this season. He's overseeing play in the Pee-wee, Midget and Junior Leagues. One Midget League entry is without a coach. Anyone interested in helping out should contact Camporese at the East Side Rec Center. Joel Boisvert of Coventry, a member of the Eastern Connecticut State College soccer team, has been named to the

All-New England District 32 all-star squad. Springfield Kings host New Haven Friday night and Rochester Saturday night in American Hockey League games. Friday has been designated "College Night" and all college students will be admitted for half price. Eric Turkelson, who wrote three new rushing records in the UConn football record book, also set two New England marks. When he carried the ball 176 times for 1,233 yards, he broke the old standards held by Bob Mitchell of Vermont. Mitchell had 1,207 yards in 1966 and 258 carries the following season. Four shifts are scheduled Saturday and one Sunday in the Hip

Corpen Open Duckpin Bowling Classic at the Holiday Lanes. The East's top small pinners will be shooting for the $500 prize. "My type of game was eventually revolutionize basketball. I'm already getting letters complaining about the tricky stuff," a modest Pete Maravich of the Atlanta Hawks claims. "People call me a hot dog. I don't mind that." The NBA's leading point-producer claims.

Good News for Golfers

Good news for Country Club golfers was word that Ken Kellher would be back as course superintendent next season. Kellher has done an outstanding job in his first year here. Jack Bowers, clubhouse attendant at the Country Club, has been playing nursemaid to 18 ducks on the reservoir at the rear of the club having fed them regularly for several weeks. Holy Cross has whipped UConn in its last 11 games on the basketball floor. Look for the skin to end tonight.

minutes of play, the Cheney-Tech basketball team's Gonzalez fell apart in the final stanza and the Beavers found themselves on the short end of a 45-41 score to Bolton High last night. The Beavers were leading 30-23 going into the last quarter, but Bolton came up with 22 points in that time span while yielding just 11 to come away with the victory in its season opener. This was the second game for Cheney and its mark now falls to 0-2. Cheney led 11-6 and 17-12 after two periods. Scoring honors were shared by Bolton's Val Avena and Cheney's senior Co-Captain

Tom LeCourt, each registering 16 tallies. Cheney's other co-captain, center Mark Vilhinen, chipped in 13 markers.

Sophomore Paul Groves was second high for Bolton with nine points. Right behind were Scott Lopez and Wayne Post with seven and six points. Coach John Kleis' Beavers will try to break into the win column Friday night as they travel to Stafford High.

Michigan shot 55 per cent from the floor and was led by Campy Russell's 21 points beating Toledo 75-65 and Tony Jenkins' free throw on a technical foul with no time left on the clock gave Harvard a 65-

64 victory over Dartmouth in the Ivy League. Dartmouth was with about two minutes left in the first half.

Pittsburgh was leading 36-21

but the forfeit goes in the books as a 2-0 victory.

"We are protesting against racism at Rutgers," the demonstrators said. "We are interrupting this basketball game to emphasize the immediacy of our demands."

One of the demonstrators said, "There will not be another home game until the demands are met in the proper perspective."

Conelius, paced by sophomore Larry Fogie's 41 points, beat Boston College 81-61 while Rich Hampton and

Gary Dees combined for 47 points to lead Miami of Ohio past Wright State 78-69 with Hampton scoring 24 and Dees getting 20 plus 10 points.

St. Louis remained unbeaten in its first two starts with a 54-68 decision over Oklahoma State. Billy Morris' free throw with five minutes left snapped a 46-46 tie and helped repel a late Cowboy rally.

Dennis Shaffer, who led all scorers with 21 points, sank the ball.

Our guys can handle the ball," said Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman. "They're all ballhandlers. This is probably the best ballhandling team I've ever seen."

The Gophers, with 6-foot-7 forward Phil Filer and Pete

Gilead fighting 7-1 Fessor Leonard and 6-9 Cliff Hayes on the backboards, pecked away at a six-point Furman lead in the second half to finally tie the game 47-47 on 6-foot Phil

Saunders' banking jump shot from the free throw line.

Dennis Shaffer, who led all scorers with 21 points, sank the ball.

Total of 10 Pitchers Traded in Flurry of Deals, Santo Exercises His Rights, Stays With Cubs

Right-hander Nelson Briles and left-hander Ross Grimsley are among the least dealt in the pitching-oriented trades this week at the massive conference of baseball officials.

Briles, the Pittsburgh Pirates' No. 1 pitcher this past season, was dispatched to Kansas City along with rookie infielder Fernando Gonzalez Tuesday.

In exchange, the Pirates received three players from the Royals — catcher-outfielder Ed Kirkpatrick, infielder Kurt Bevacqua and center-fielder first baseman Winston Cole.

However, the trading activity may take a back seat today to some controversial problems facing both the National and American leagues, the bizarre managerial situation involving Oakland owner Charles O. Finley and the disputed sale of the San Diego Padres.

Finley was in town for a meeting with the New York Yankees to resolve the Dick Williams case. Williams had left the A's after winning the World Series this year, presumably to join the Yankees as manager.

But Finley ultimately blocked Williams' escape from Oakland, pointing to his contract and demanding "considerations" from New York if the manager signed with the Yanks. Finley is interested in one or two top New York farmhands, he says.

National League owners, meanwhile, are expected to put the San Diego story in better focus. A group headed by ractrack heiress Marjorie Everett is seeking to buy the Padres and keep them in San Diego, but there are strong indications that the owners will refuse the bid.

Mrs. Everett, described as a "pushy broad" by one high National League official, was not expected to get consent because of her alleged involvement in an Illinois bribery scandal some years ago.

If the National League owners turn the red light on Mrs. Everett, it opens two avenues the league could take over the franchise or the team could move to Washington.

General managers came out swinging early Tuesday morning with announcement of the Pittsburgh-Kansas City trade.

"We want to win now and we feel that Briles can help us do it," said Kansas City General Manager Cedric Tallis, hoping that the burly right-hander can pitch his Royals to the top of the American league West.

Briles, who figured prominently in World Series games for both the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh, had a 14-13 record and 2.84 earned run average last season on the low-key Pirate staff.

Kirkpatrick, selected by Pittsburgh primarily as a back-up catcher for Manny Sanguillen, was the key man in the deal for the Pirates.

Kirkpatrick batted .263 in 1973 and had been with the Royals since the club began major league operations in 1969. Tallis said he "really hated to see him go."

Bevacqua, equally at home at second, shortstop or third base, batted .257 for the Royals last season. Gonzalez split the year between Pittsburgh, where he batted .254 in 37 games, and Charleston, where he hit .299. Cole is a graduate of the Royals' baseball academy in Sarasota, Fla.

Grimsley, who had a 13-10 record for Cincinnati in 1973, joins Jim Palmer, Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Doyle Alexander — probably the best pitching staff in the American League East.

Rettenmund, once a starter for Baltimore and a World Series hero, was kicked out of the Baltimore outfield by the fast development of talented youngsters led by Don Baylor. Rich Coggins and Al Bumbry.

Rettenmund batted a sub-par .282 in 95 games with the Orioles last year.

In other developments at the hectic winter meetings, former Texas Manager Whitey Herzog was named as a coach with the California Angels and longtime Yankee Coach Jim Hegas was named to a similar position with the Detroit Tigers.

Seattle Coach Plans Changes

NEW YORK (AP) - While Chicago Coach Dick Motta was savoring his team's highest point production of the season, Seattle boss Bill Russell began scheming to shake up his team and re-align the skidding club through a series of trades.

"You can bet there are going to be a lot of changes made on this team," Russell said after the Bulls defeated the SuperSonics 120-107 in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night. "I've seen enough. There are going to be some changes. We're going to make some trades and I hope we get some good players in the draft. I don't know where I'm going to get them, but I'm going to get some players for this team."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee defeated Houston 124-109, New York beat Portland 113-100, Detroit dented Golden State 112-93 and Los Angeles topped Phoenix 120-103.

In the night's only American Basketball Association contest, San Diego outplayed Memphis 112-101.

Both Love and Norm Vanlier scored 54 points apiece and reserve guard Dennis Awrey broke the game open in the second quarter as the Bulls defeated the Sonics their 20th defeat.

Awrey scored nine points in a three-minute outburst to give Chicago a 63-47 halftime lead. Fred Brown led the Sonics with 24 points and Spencer Haywood added 23.

Knicks 113, Trail Blazers 100
Walt Frazier, who led New York with 27 points, scored 15 points in the third period and started a surge that ensured his team's victory. Frazier ignited a decisive 12-2 surge in the third period when he hit the first of two free throws and then recovered the missed shot and sank a jumper.

Karen Abdul-Jabbar broke open a tight game by scoring 14 of his 32 points in the second quarter, helping the Bucks to their seventh straight victory.

Pistons 112, Warriors 93
Dave Bing, who totaled 27 points, led a third-quarter charge and the Pistons then weathered a late Warrior comeback for the triumph. Golden State rallied in the final period to trim Detroit's lead to two points. The Pistons then regained command by outshooting the Warriors 16-4.

Lakers 120, Suns 103
Jerry West became the third player in NBA history to score 25,000 career points, bucketing 26 points as he led the Lakers to victory. The effort gave West a career total of 25,002 and lifted him into an exclusive game played by Oscar Robertson and Wilt Chamberlain.

Conquistadors 112, Tams 101
San Diego took an early lead and stayed in command the entire game, but couldn't satisfy Coach Will Chamberlain.

"We should have had it tucked away at halftime," Chamberlain said. "We just turned the ball over too many times and that kept us from really closing."

Chuck Williams led the Q's with 18 points while Charles Edgwe was high for Memphis with 23.

Shutout by Couto Marks NHL Debut

NEW YORK (AP) - Rich Couto may have lost a game, but he won a job with the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

Couto, in his first start as goalie since he was called up from the Cougars' farm system, gave up two goals to Edmonton, as the Oilers defeated Chicago 2-0 Tuesday night.

"I just got the idea to call him up late yesterday afternoon because I heard he had been playing so well for Long Island in the North American League," said play-by-play commentator Stapleton. "I guess the reports I got were pretty accurate," Stapleton said, "and he sure earned another start."

In the WHA's only other game, the Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated the Los Angeles Sharks 2-1.

In the National Hockey League, the St. Louis Blues defeated the New York Islanders 3-1, and the Los Angeles Kings defeated the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Very Slim Chance MCC Will Prolong Closing

There is a "very slim chance" that the energy crisis will result in closing of Manchester Community College (MCC) longer than the scheduled four-week semester break this winter, according to Dr. Herbert Bandes, MCC's director of administrative affairs.

Bandes said, however, that state officials for Connecticut's 12 community colleges are continuing to discuss the possibility.

MCC is scheduled to end its fall semester Dec. 24, and the school would be closed until Jan. 21, when the spring semester starts.

Bandes said a longer winter closing might create a problem for the 500-to-600 armed forces veterans who attend the college, because federal statutes regulating financial assistance for veterans set a maximum 30-day gap between college semesters.

Financial aid to veterans would be affected if there was a longer closing, Bandes explained, noting that MCC doesn't want to do anything that would jeopardize the status of students who are veterans.

Bandes reported that MCC has taken a number of steps — including lowering thermostat temperatures and reducing lighting — because of the energy crisis.

MCC Bandes noted, because of the taken during the semester break, he said, and no problems with fuel supplies are expected.

Thermostats at both the Hartford Rd. and Bidwell St. campuses have been set at 68 degrees in daytime and at 60 degrees when buildings are unoccupied, Bandes said. During the winter vacation, most thermostats will be down to 60 degrees all the time, he said.

Bandes said no problems with heating, fuel are anticipated, as the Bidwell St. Hartford Rd. building is heated by natural gas.

Lighting at both campuses is split between photocell-controlled devices — which can be turned off — and switch-controlled fixtures which are being shut off nights and weekends, Bandes said.

Gasoline shortages haven't yet affected MCC, Bandes noted, because of the minimal usage. About 40 to 50 gallons a month. The college has only two passenger cars, a truck, and 2 three-wheeled vehicles, he said.

Schools Faced With Problem Of Cutbacks

JUNE B. TOMPKINS
(Herald Reporter)

School schedules and curriculum will have to undergo a complete overhauling as a result of Wednesday's mandate by the state Board of Education that all public schools extend Christmas vacations three days and close their buildings at 4 p.m. and on weekends from Dec. 21 through April 15.

The board's ruling does not apply to nonpublic schools.

Former closing proposals which drew objections from many educators were rejected by the state board.

The problems of extra-curricular activities pose multiple problems as to when, if possible, or where.

Although the closing order is for 4 p.m., the state board made a bid for "broad-based" support by amending the closing edict to permit a 5:30 closing for regularly scheduled student activities. Where there are double sessions, those schools are permitted later closing times.

Public meetings are allowed once every two weeks except on Friday nights.

James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said the limited use of school buildings and modification of the school calendar had raised a "host of questions."

He said the Board of Education will take any and all appropriate steps to save energy, and that town public schools will cooperate wherever possible with the state leadership.

Kennedy said the board is awaiting detailed, written instructions and recommendations from the state.

"We plan to meet with other area school officials, with state officials, with major representatives of private and parochial schools within the next few days," Kennedy said.

The board also plans to request a legal opinion from the town council as to the board's authority to modify the school calendar and to restrict use of the town's schools.

Mayor Objects To Closings

MANCHESTER Mayor John W. Tompkins today expressed opposition to the proposal by the state Board of Education to close schools at 4 p.m., to permit them to remain open only one night each two weeks and to close their buildings on weekends.

He said he doesn't believe the proposal is a reasonable one to live in private housing and pay rent."

"This large group of people are just as affected by higher property taxes as any one else, and they have the same problem of living on a fixed income. This was the philosophy which gave birth to the bill," he said.

"We were well intended but what we did in fact was to take away from many people the benefits they presently have."

The changes he proposes will include the excluding of Social Security income from the $5,000 income level set in the bill.

He will also propose that one time gifts not be included as income.

"There are certain situations where a person may get a gift in a single year which would disqualify him from the program which helped the

PZC Moves To Tighten Control of Conservation

A regulation to tighten up the conservation aspect of zoning law was discussed at Tuesday night's South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission hearing. This new regulation is one of several being considered which will give the commission more control over development of the town.

Last month discussion was heard on Planned Residential Zoning regulations which would also give the commission tight control over developers coming into South Windsor.

The new regulations would require a conservation plan to be submitted with any application for a subdivision or a site plan of development. The plan would detail or outline the proposals for soil erosion prevention, sediment control and any other conservation measures that might be taken.

The plan submitted to the commission when the topsoil will be stripped, where it will be stored, for how long and what method of stabilization will be used.

Commission Chairman William Grace said that the commission considers the regulation a welcome addition to the town's zoning regulations.

The South Windsor Zoning Commission favors the proposal, according to Cynthia Wote, its chairman.

An application for a site plan of development for Savin Brothers, Inc. of South Satellite Rd. was discussed. The plan calls for construction of an industrial building in an industrial park zone. The split-faced rock exterior of the building will be in keeping with the appearance of surrounding buildings.

The building will house a food distributor. No preparation of food will take place on the premises since the East Hill food company deals with pre-packaged foods.

Kurt Dembeck of South Windsor expressed the only criticism of the plan. He was concerned with the preservation of the trees on the site. Grace assured him that the commission fully intends to prevent the unnecessary destruction of any trees on the site.

Hospital Readies Expansion Plan

DOUG BEVINS
(Herald Reporter)

Manchester Memorial Hospital (MMH) is readying plans for a $1.5 million renovation project, envisioned to be done by 1975, as the third part of hospital expansion program which began five years ago.

The proposed renovation project was approved by the MMH Board of Trustees last month and will go before various authorities for approval next March.

The seven-item renovation program includes a two-year study of the hospital's present needs and long-range planning, MMH development director, E. J. Kelly, said today, and is the last part of a two-phase development program.

The seven items approved by MMH trustees are:

- Renovation of the old intensive care units on the third floor of the Watkins North Wing, to provide 11 two-bed units and one four-bed unit (25 beds total). These beds, Dittus said, will permit nursing beds to vacate second and third-floor space in the hospital's oldest building (built in 1919).
- Renovation of the old operating room, recovery room, and sterile processing area in the hospital's oldest building (built in 1919).
- Replacement of the existing roof in the Watkins Wing, which was built in 1959.
- Installation of a 160-ton "chiller unit" to furnish chilled water for air conditioning.
- Installation of a new elevator in a spare elevator shaft in the Watkins Wing.
- Installation of a new boiler to provide back-up margin for the entire hospital.

The existing boiler plant was built six years ago.

The seven items approved by the hospital trustees are subject to approval of the Commission of Hospitals and Health Care, the Connecticut Department of Public Health, and the Connecticut Hospital Planning Commission.

Review by these groups is expected next March. If the MMH plans are approved and final bids established by June, the project should be completed by June 1975, Dittus said.

Dittus noted that the renovation project would be funded by the hospital's existing bond issue, with the remaining $1 million to be raised by the hospital.

Dittus said there would be a "concentrated effort" to raise the $1 million, "on a limited basis."

Truckers Continue Road Blockade

By The Associated Press

Protesting truckers maintained blockades today on Ohio's two major interstate highways. Police cleared two blockades in Michigan.

The truckers are protesting the high cost of fuel for their rigs and lowered speed limits, both brought on by the energy crisis.

Federal and state officials tried alternately without success Wednesday to persuade, threaten or detain drivers to clear blockades on Interstate 70 and the Ohio Turnpike. Hundreds of trucks halted traffic for 112 miles on the turnpike and for 10 miles on I-70.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan threatened to take court action if the truck blocks remained in place today.

State feeder roads into I-70 east of Columbus, which also had been blocked by the truckers, were cleared Wednesday night after state officials threatened to arrest any driver who refused to move his truck.

Most drivers left the 15-blocked access intersections voluntarily Saturday, and many were arrested by riot-equipped Ohio highway patrolmen accompanied by National Guard troops on I-70.

In Michigan, police arrested one driver as they cleared blockades early today from Interstate 94 west of Detroit and Interstate 75 north of Detroit.

Elsewhere, Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania threatened to use the National Guard to keep roads clear and Friday.

Winds will be westerly at times than 10 miles per hour tonight and northwesterly at 10 to 15 m.p.h. Friday.

Precipitation probability is near zero tonight and Friday.

Gov. Thomas Meskill will make several recommendations concerning benefits to the elderly at the next session of the General Assembly.

He outlined some of these recommendations Wednesday afternoon to members and guests of the Northeast Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons at the KofC Home.

"We will propose changes in the 'Circuit Breaker' bill, which he called 'basically good legislation,'" he said.

"I think it is being kicked by a lot of people today because of the weakness in it. It's good for a lot of people, and for those people who are hurt by it, we are going to make a change," he said.

The bill corrected "the gross inequity that existed when we had a program which helped the

Oil Lack Ups Status Of Dollar

LONDON (AP) — And now for some good news about oil — for Americans anyway.

The latest supply cuts and price increase by Arab oil producers have helped put the dollar on a high note in the spectacular recovery overseas.

Many bankers and officials in Europe now expect the dollar to be among the strongest currencies in the world in 1974. There is talk in London's financial community that the dollar is twice devalued dollar may have to be revalued upward next year.

The Arab oil squeeze may be designed primarily to pressure the United States. But it could actually help the American economy in two important ways, one short term and the other long term.

Short-term benefits are already apparent. The floating dollar, which had fallen in value by more than 15 percent in February since last February's devaluation, has now regained most of that ground.

Foreign exchange dealers here say one important reason behind the recovery is the oil squeeze.

The Kreskin incident of a week ago at Manchester High School has been called an "unfortunate misunderstanding" by school officials.

At the same time, officials seek a "speedy solution" to disposition of the check — Kreskin's fee — in a letter to Kreskin's personal manager.

The contents are in a statement released by the office of Dr. James Kennedy, superintendent of Manchester public schools.

The statement is as follows:

"Wilson E. Deakin, assistant superintendent for administration of the Manchester public schools, has investigated events surrounding the so-called 'incident' at the Kreskin performance last Wednesday evening at Manchester High School. The 'incident' comes from Kreskin's failure to find the check which was hidden as part of his act and his subsequent charge that he had been treated unfairly. Mr. Deakin has talked to all of the parties involved from Manchester and has had telephone conversations with Kreskin's agents in Hartford and in Pennsylvania. Mr. Deakin also has followed closely the newspaper accounts of this incident both locally and from a wire service."

"It is evident that an unfortunate misunderstanding has arisen. It seems that there have been misjudgments made by some of our staff at Manchester High School and by Kreskin. There are also some remarks attributed to Kreskin's agents, which in the judgment of school-

Truckers Continue Road Blockade

By The Associated Press

Protesting truckers maintained blockades today on Ohio's two major interstate highways. Police cleared two blockades in Michigan.

The truckers are protesting the high cost of fuel for their rigs and lowered speed limits, both brought on by the energy crisis.

Federal and state officials tried alternately without success Wednesday to persuade, threaten or detain drivers to clear blockades on Interstate 70 and the Ohio Turnpike. Hundreds of trucks halted traffic for 112 miles on the turnpike and for 10 miles on I-70.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan threatened to take court action if the truck blocks remained in place today.

State feeder roads into I-70 east of Columbus, which also had been blocked by the truckers, were cleared Wednesday night after state officials threatened to arrest any driver who refused to move his truck.

Most drivers left the 15-blocked access intersections voluntarily Saturday, and many were arrested by riot-equipped Ohio highway patrolmen accompanied by National Guard troops on I-70.

In Michigan, police arrested one driver as they cleared blockades early today from Interstate 94 west of Detroit and Interstate 75 north of Detroit.

Elsewhere, Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania threatened to use the National Guard to keep roads clear and Friday.

Winds will be westerly at times than 10 miles per hour tonight and northwesterly at 10 to 15 m.p.h. Friday.

Precipitation probability is near zero tonight and Friday.

Wholesale Costs Leap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignited by record costs for fuel, wholesale prices leaped sharply in November, the Department of Labor said today.

The department said the wholesale price index rose 1.9 percent last month on a seasonally adjusted basis and 1.6 percent on an unadjusted basis, reversing a two-month trend in which wholesale prices had declined.

Wholesale prices of fuels, and other energy products jumped 19.3 percent, the highest on record for one month. It surpassed the previous high of 4.1 percent in January 1949.

Despite the increase in fuel costs, prices for farm products and processed foods and feed dropped sharply, falling 8.5 percent below October, the report said.

Prices of consumer goods, those bought by suppliers ready for the supermarket, were down six-tenths of one percent on a seasonally adjusted basis and showed a small one-tenth of one percent rise before seasonal pricing patterns were taken into account.

Leading the explosive increase in energy prices were costs of refining petroleum products, including gasoline, up a record 34.7 percent.

Crude oil prices jumped 4.3 percent, electric power 1.1 percent, and coal 6.6 percent.

The leap in fuel prices pushed up prices for industrial commodities by 2.2 percent, the highest on record on a seasonally adjusted basis.
