Now that the first quarter has passed, the Illing staff has had an opportunity to at least partially evaluate its efforts in the realm of team teaching.

Team teaching is the term used at Illing and across the nation to describe a concept of teaching effort. Basically it consists of four or five teachers who work together in establishing and implementing a program for a specific group of students.

At Illing the teams are made up of groups of 110-120 students and four or five academic teachers. These academic teachers follow the objectives of the townwide curriculum but coordinate their efforts so there is a relationship between at least two or three academic areas.

Many times throughout the year special team units are created which allow for 100 per cent interdisciplinary team teaching.

One point that must be stressed is that the reading, mathematics and English skills are the primary objectives of the Illing program. Experience has shown, however, that if one discipline relates to another in a practical and functional way, then students are motivated to learn more.

Students often ask, "Why do I need to know how to do...?" Interdisciplinary team teaching attempts to show and prove, on a daily basis, that education is a total experience and not just a series of 40- or 50-minute classes that have no meaning beyond the walls of the classrooms where they are taught.

In addition to providing communication between teachers in the academic sense, team teaching also has another benefit for the student. If a child has an emotional or social problem, the daily meetings of all teams provide a vehicle for discussion and suggestions for alleviation of a concern.

Team teaching is in some ways a return to the old-fashioned philosophy of self-reliance and individualism which it is a slightly larger classroom.

The amount of team teaching and interacting a team does is decided by the team itself based on the needs of the particular group of students. Most teachers at Illing agree this concept requires a greater expenditure of teacher time.

NASA Week

The first week of December has been designated as NASA week at Illing Junior High.

Thanks to the efforts of the assistant school superintendent, Dr. James W. White, and the Illing science staff, two very special assemblies have been held to help celebrate National Space Week.

Illing students were treated to an unusual elective assembly on Monday. About 30 students who were interested in NASA activities or amateur radio operations attended a lecture-demonstration by the amateur radio speaker Bruce Marcus.

Marcus made voice communication in the classroom and satellite communication satellite which is currently in orbit around the earth. This satellite was designed and built by amateur radio operators all over the world. The AMSAT satellite was launched in orbit by a NASA rocket.

Marcus, a local business man, explained the workings of the satellite and its role in amateur radio operations. During a live demonstration, students talked to the satellite and had their voices reflected back to earth in micro-seconds.

This program was in preparation for the school assembly held Wednesday, which was conducted by NASA. The Space Science Education project was presented as a lecture-demonstration designed to acquaint the community with the purposes and goals of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's explanation of air and space.

The program included discussion of the history, current projects, rocket technology and practical civilian application of the satellite.

The program also served as an interdisciplinary valve since it dealt in part with science, mathematics and history and communication.

A major part of the program showed possibilities of future space travel and how students might someday take part.

The main thrust of the program could be summarized as a challenge to the public to prepare themselves for the party they must play in this age of space.

The two assembly programs coordinated by Illing science teacher, Nelson Youngerman,

New England Energy Crisis Actions Symbolic

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer

Some officials are wearing sweaters to work, a few have given up big cars and Christmas displays may be more tinsel than light as the New England state governments try to set a good example during the fuel shortage.

So far, many of the belt-tightening measures have been symbolic. But stronger action may be coming to deal with a winter fuel shortage that some predict will run as high as $5 to $6 per gallon in New England.

State buildings in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island have lowered their thermostats to 68 degrees during working hours and many lower the heat still further after 5 p.m.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent wore a sweater to a recent press conference, and a few legislators picked up the trend.

Christmas won't be quite the dazzling holiday it usually is. There will be no state Christmas tree in Vermont this year.

Most states have shut off the flood lights that illuminate their state houses.

Even the famous Christmas display on Boston Common will use 65 per cent less energy this year, according to a spokesman for Mayor Kevin White. There will be fewer lights burning for fewer hours each day and none at all until Dec. 10.

At the suggestion of President Nixon, all New England states have lowered driving speeds to 50 m.p.h. per hour on most roads, some state with more difficulty than others.

With the legislature out of session, New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson could ask for only voluntary cost compliance with the 50 m.p.h. limit. However, the voluntary compliance resulted in such traffic hazards that Thomson said Friday he would ask the legislature to make lower speeds the law.

Thomson was also among a handful of state officials to announce that he would switch from his state limousine to a small economy car, at least for short trips.

In Rhode Island, the limit outside of the Providence area is 35 m.p.h.

Hampshire has been shortened by 10 days, with the decision for school closings left to local officials.

The Massachusetts Board of Education has recommended public and private schools cut their energy consumption by 20 to 25 per cent.

At least two state legislatures will be called into special session to consider energy bills.

The Massachusetts legislature, which just adjourned last Friday could be called back by next week, according to Gov. Sargent.

Quarry Preservation Urged

It doesn't look like much from the road, but this site near the intersection of Buckland Rd. and Burnham St. in Manchester is the remains of the Wolcott Quarry, or Jambstone Quarry, where bones of three different dinosaurs were found in the late 1800s. Geologists and conservationists are now concerned about preserving the site, because it is within boundaries of a proposed commercial-industrial-residential development. (Herald photo by Bevin)

Town Gasoline Quota Omits Any for Buses

Bolton officials are trying to find a way to get the town's allotment of gasoline increased so that it can continue to keep the school buses running. Gulf Oil Co., which has been supplying the town with gasoline, informed the town that the town quota for 1974 will be 526 gallons a month. That figure, however, was based on 1973 usage before the town contracted to supply fuel for the buses.

That contract went into effect in January 1973. When selectmen learned of the allotment, they notified George Shelley, purchasing coordinator of the Capitol Region Council of Governments, who wrote to

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and to the Connecticut Office of Civil Preparedness. The selectmen also notified Dr. Joseph Castagna, former superintendent of schools. Castagna wrote Gulf Oil saying that the current minimum monthly use by Bolton was in the neighborhood of 3,000 gallons and urgently requesting that the town's allotment be raised from the proposed 526 gallons to 3,000 gallons. Castagna wrote that the present school bus transportation contract calls for all buses to be garaged on town property — recently permission was granted to Eastern Bus Lines, Inc. owner George Negro to house to buses at his garage because of theft and vandalism — and filled up at tanks supplied by the town. Castagna wrote that the fuel allocation of 526 gallons would

Romanian President Visits

HARTFORD (UPI) — Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu planned to tour a steel producing plant today with an eye toward buying some heavy machinery for his Communist-bloc nation. Ceausescu arrived under heavy security at Bradley International Airport aboard an Air France plane from Cleveland where he visited a diesel plant.

Ceausescu, 56, an engineer, will visit Pratt and Whitney Machine Tool division of Colt Industries in East Hartford. At a reception for the Romanian head, Pratt and Whitney officials Guy Shaffer said Romanian technical experts have been in his plant over the past 15 months observing production. Shaffer said the Romanians were interested in heavy machinery rather than consumer goods.

Public Employes Restless

Public employes in Connecticut are restless. The slow down by state troopers to dramatize their demands for salary increases is but the latest in a series of work actions by policemen, teachers, and other state employes. Limited in collective bargaining because of no-strike laws, the employes have taken to other devices to make their points, such as slow downs and calling in "sick." It is increasing and the General Assembly and the Meskill Administration will probably be faced with some type of law which will give state workers similar collective bargaining rights as those enjoyed by non-public employes. This obviously will be highly controversial for partisan as well as social and economic reasons. But the challenge is there and will have to be faced. The idea of school shutdowns because of teachers reporting "ill" or traffic law enforcement being ignored as part of a protest, is a confrontation-type of bargaining in areas where we, as citizens, have come to expect negotiation and conciliation to prevail. Each of us has horror of the thought of a fire department or a hospital medical staff walking off the job. This is why, in the case of emergency services particularly, the no-strike clause has broad support. Thus, giving public employes the right to strike may not be practical at this time. The alternative is to be open-minded and seek out some uniform means of arbitrating employe-state salary differences; making the right to strike not necessary, and governing the other tactics of slow downs and calling in sick. It is a challenge to the leadership of state administrators, legislators, and those representing public employes.

We must weigh on the one hand the overall public welfare and security and the basic right of every worker, public or private, to negotiate individually or collectively with his employer. That public employes, especially in certain sectors of public service cannot take the same actions such as striking as private employes, does not mean they should be penalized for it. Some compromise is in order lest the slow downs and "sick calls" spread to a point where there is a polarization detrimental to both sides.

The Passing Zone

To the editor: I'm writing in response to the article which appeared in your newspaper titled "Sickening Pleasure." I, for one, am driving 50 or less and as far as I can ascertain the majority of people are doing the same. Naturally, there are a few who will not abide by the new law but it is not up to us to try to enforce the law when our police officers are hired to do that job. People realize that gas is very expensive and if some want to waste their money and pay at arm and a leg for gas, let them. And, if paying so much for gas doesn't stop them, the state trooper will, not the everyday driver. No one has a right to block traffic by driving in the passing zone. That to me is breaking a law. We all must conserve and I don't think slowing down is much of a sacrifice to make. But let's not try and change the world all alone. It will change. We all feel the seriousness of this crisis. But we shouldn't be ridiculous about it and cause an accident by driving in the passing zone. Remember, the passing zone is just that, a passing zone. JoAnn Dowler South Street Coventry

Shame

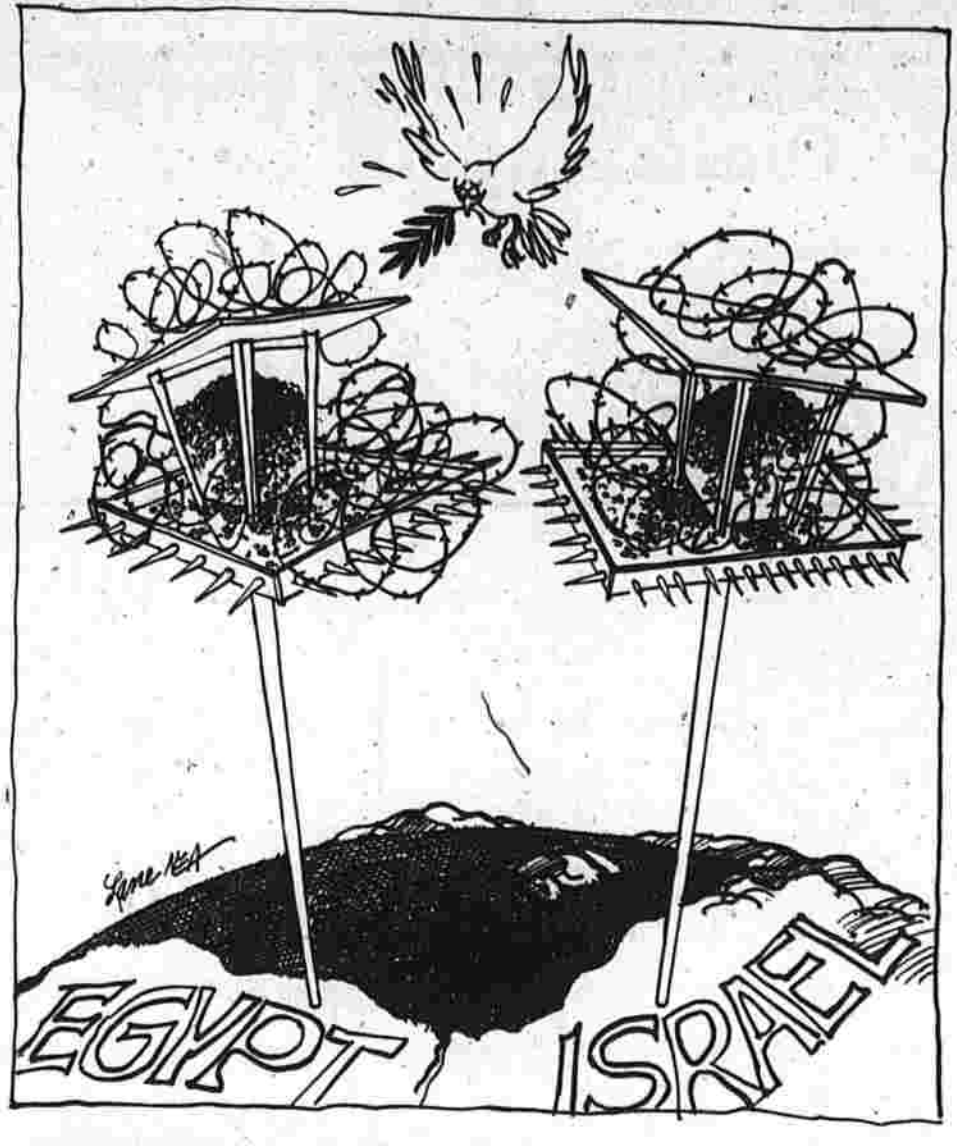

It seems that apathy is rampant in this country. It is the same of Drake, N.D. that a fanatic who probably never could compare to even McCaffy's first reader, could set himself up as judge, jury and book burner of such great authors as Hemingway, Faulkner and even McCaffy's first reader. If he is such a great judge of literature he should take sponge in hand and erase the four-letter words written on the walls of his small town. Every boy and girl from 10 up knows what these words are and what they indicate. In this town one who signed himself "burning of the books," created such a stir that soon to untold millions over nationwide tv, expect their pupils to "play fair" while taking tests in their classes? If the teachers can cheat in the evening, why can't kids cheat in the afternoon? Or is that one of the special privileges of rank that teachers have? Are our institutions of higher learning really teaching our children that honesty is the best policy? If a child is caught cheating, he is dealt with severely, so let it be with teachers. I feel they should be punished in accordance with their misdeeds. So for the next six months, or $2,500 worth whichever comes first, their paychecks should be sent to Kreskin for him to hide. And see if they can find them on a finders-keepers basis. Better yet send the checks to me and I will hide them and see if Kreskin can find them by reading my mind. And I will certainly think the right thoughts, won't I? Father of Manchester school children R.J. MacLachlan 66 Strickland St. Manchester

The Kreskin Episode

An open letter to Mr. Emmerling and the Board of Education concerning the Kreskin episode. We have some teachers in our school system that, for one, feel we could do without. I do not feel that anyone who deals in deceit, conniving, breach of contract, and underhanded double-dealing, deserves a place in the education system in our "Fair Town." These can teachers that have demonstrated actions of this caliber to their students, and of this community, and

Kissinger's Sinai Plan

WASHINGTON — In private, confidential talks with congressional leaders, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is revealing his inner plan to guarantee a Mideast settlement: a joint U.S.-Soviet military force with other nations sharing, under the symbolic flag of the UN Security Council. Kissinger, bucking somewhat diminished headwinds from the potent pro-Israeli bloc on Capitol Hill, carefully notes that for the first time in history the Soviet Union has agreed to a "peacekeeping" force in which they themselves may serve. The Soviet presence in Sinai in a UN-backed peacekeeping force would infuriate pro-Israeli hardliners already fearful about growing Soviet power in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Arab Middle East. But Kissinger argues with cold logic that this growth of Soviet power is far more predictable, in an escalating spiral, as long as the Arab-Israeli dispute continues. Soviet influence there, in short, was made possible in the first place by the Arab-Israeli 25-year war in which Moscow was invited in as the Arab champion to offset American aid to Israel. But Arab identification with the U.S. and the West, particularly strong in Egypt and Saudi Arabia, should reassert itself after the Arab-Israeli struggle is brought under control — a condition that, ironically, Soviet presence in a peacekeeping force will hasten. Thus, Kissinger still has congressional leaders that the Sinai peninsula must be restored to Egyptian sovereignty and a "powerful" UN force placed in the largely demilitarized Sinai to prevent military attack by either side against the other. So far, his

Bruce Biossot Refining Pinch Fuels The Crisis

All aside from the question whether we get gasoline rationing soon to deal with immediate shortages, the matter of meeting tomorrow's constantly rising fuel needs is not being dealt with urgently and in orderly fashion. For instance, it is well known that oil refinery capacity in this country has not grown in the past few years at the same pace as the demand for refined products. So our sharply rising fuel imports have been including both these and crude oil. This year, with our daily consumption of crude reaching 17 million barrels a day (compared to 14.2 million for all Western Europe), U.S. refinery capacity is estimated by the industry at 13,224,000 barrels a day. That represents an advance over 1970 of less than a million barrels a day, even as the U.S. automobile population and other oil users have risen sharply. The outlook for the years just ahead seems a good deal worse, unless we quickly find additional fuel sources. By 1975, assuming no miracle breakthroughs for other kinds of energy like solar, nuclear or geo-thermal, U.S. oil demands will be at 18.8 million barrels a day. The figure will touch an estimated 22.5 million in 1980 and a whopping 26.2 million in 1985. In the meantime, under present projections, refinery capacity in the U.S. will be climbing only very slowly to 13.7 million barrels a day in 1975, 15.6 million in 1980, and 17.3 in 1985. The foreseeable 1985 gap is huge. The situation really is perilous. To the extent President Nixon has not been pre-occupied with Watergate, he and his energy counselors have been consumed in argument over the comparative practical and political aspects of rationing vs. voluntary fuel cutbacks. Such debates may be inescapable in a free society wherein many leaders detest the idea of stiff controls and some deeply question their feasibility in time of peace. But, obviously, this short-range struggle distracts the counselors from the larger concern over where tomorrow's larger required oil resources are going to come from. Any government worth its salt would be hard at determining, right now, an exactly judged system of priorities for future resources. There has been too little real thought and too much airy talk, compounded by a lot of glib outsiders (including some environmentalists), about alternative power sources like solar or geo-thermal whose development is still rudimentary and for which the time and cost factors may be too steep for quick consideration. The basic question for today is: Where can we get more oil quickest and easiest? Until the Middle East war and the Arab's embargo on shipments to us, we'd be counting on more and more Middle East oil to fill rising needs. Now Arabs are saying they may resist larger and larger Western demands on their reserves, even if political restrictions end. Oil from Alaska's North Slope awaits the pipeline, probably not to be finished until 1977. Great oil reserves require costly development and long battles with environmentalists. Synthetic crude is potentially huge volume from Colorado's shales, Canada's tar sands and the liquefying of our endless coal stores demands capital, manpower, new technologies, time. In what order of priority? Meantime, the only added oil really available to us lies in U.S. wells in the Southwest already tapped for their cheapest output but still holding two-thirds of their potential. Another third can be got out. What's keeping us?

The Hughes contribution. After all, he said, Hughes had given $250,000 to O'Brien. Some in his audience got the impression the President was implying that O'Brien had received the funds during his first tenure as Democratic national chairman in 1968. The comparisons seem wholly superfluous, calculated to muddy the waters. Mr. Kennedy's closest aides say they cannot remember Rebozo as any kind of real "friend" of the former President. The $250,000, to O'Brien, was compensation for legitimate, contracted public relations work unconnected with politics, beginning in 1969, and, as such, wholly irrelevant to the secret $100,000 payment to Rebozo.

Capital Fare Irresponsible

WASHINGTON — Sometime next spring or early summer, the Supreme Court will hand down a decision on a black-white school busing argument that must set some kind of a record for irresponsible meddling by a Big Brother government. The case involves a court-ordered merging of Detroit's mostly white districts of outlying counties and the trams of educational integration. It goes without saying that the ruling by the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals calls for establishment of the size and shape of a new Detroit-area school system which would require massive busing. Now for the preposterous. In a series of actions that began more than three years ago, the Federal courts have held that both the city of Detroit and the state of Michigan are responsible for the city schools' becoming 64 per cent black and therefore "incapable of being fashioned" into an integrated system. Desegregation limited only to the city of Detroit, said the lower courts, a Federal court in June 1972 approved a plan whereby the city school district and 52 other districts in neighboring Oakland and Macomb counties would be incorporated into one district covering 700 square miles. More than 700,000 pupils would be included in this bit of gerrymandering, of whom about 10,000 would be bused to achieve integration. Lunatic. For whatever reason, while families have fled Detroit in large numbers over the past decade, schools in the 52 suburban districts are 80 per cent white. Those are the facts. Now then to argue that the city of Detroit and the state of Michigan are responsible for these facts of life is quite like an exercise in judicial idiocy. It is saying that the city and state officially sponsored the flight of white families to the suburbs and the detention of black families in the city. But both the city and state had a big economic stake in trying to keep whites in the city, to prevent the city's decay. So now, unless the Supreme Court speaks from its collective mind rather than its glands, the

Jaorski And Connally

Although John B. Connally secretary visited special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's office recently, he did not see Jaworski and left after interrogation by federal prosecutors about the milk lobby. Connally was spotted on the elevator getting off on the floor where Jaworski has his office. That set off a commotion from Rep. Chalmers Wylie of Ohio, who commented that a constituent in Columbus, an ophthalmologist, feared the President was using his office for personal gain and asked Mr. Nixon's response. That set off a 14-minute answer which dwelled at length on Rebozo and the $100,000 in cash he received from Hughes for establishing a political contribution to Mr. Nixon. Rebozo, said the President, has been chummy with many Democrats — a particularly good friend of Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, he said, and a "moderate" friend of the late President Kennedy. After discussing his own finances, Mr. Nixon returned to the deposed Archibald Cox.

Today In History

Today is Friday, Dec. 7, the 51st day of 1973. There are 24 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, Japanese planes attacked Pearl Harbor at the beginning of the Pacific War. On this date — In 1787, Delaware became the first state to ratify the U.S. constitution. In 1808, James Madison was elected president. In 1921, the U.S. and Austria resumed diplomatic relations after World War I. In 1944, the United States announced that all six of the Japanese aircraft carriers which struck Pearl Harbor three years earlier had been sunk. In 1971, an unmanned Soviet space capsule was sending back radio and television signals from the planet Mars. Ten years ago ... former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suggested ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as a Republican presidential candidate. His action was seen as a blow to the hopes of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Richard Nixon. Five years ago ... after a delay, a South Vietnamese delegation left Saigon for peace talks with North Vietnamese and American negotiators in Paris. One year ago ... in Manila, a man was killed as the state of Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos during a public ceremony. Today's birthdays: Actor Eli Wallach is 58 years old. The U.S. representative to the Organization of American States, Sol M. Linowitz, is 60. Thought for today: He laughs best who laughs last — English proverb.

Today's Thought

Season of Expectation "Now is the high time to awake out of sleep; for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed." Romans 13:11 Advent is a season of expectation. We are reminded that we must be alert, if we are to experience God's salvation. Salvation is always near, but we are so often caught up in despair and difficulty, that it seems that God has forgotten his promise to save and heal us. If we are awake and watching we will see that, when we least expect, God is present. O God of Promise, help us to be awake and watching, that we may experience your presence and healing. Amen. Rev. John F. Flora III St. George's Episcopal Church Bolton

A Cheer for Our Side

What with Watergate and all, some Americans find themselves in a melancholy mood concerning their country and the democratic system on which it was founded. Is there then someone to say "Three cheers for the USA," instead of knocking it? There is, and interestingly-enough he is not just a "flag-waving patriot" but a Canadian. Gordon Sinclair, a Toronto radio commentator, recently broadcast an editorial, widely reprinted in the press and Congressional Record. We give excerpts from it here.

This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on the earth. . . . Germany, Japan and, to a lesser extent, Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States. When the franc was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris. I was there, I saw it.

When distant cities are hit by earthquakes, it is the United States that hurries in to help . . . This spring, 59 American communities (were) flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped. The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions upon billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, war-mongering Americans. I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplanes. Come on, let's here it! Does any other country in the world have a plane to equal the Boeing Jumbo Jet, the Lockheed Tristar or the Douglas 10? If so, why don't they fly them? Why do all the international lines except Russia fly American planes? Why does no other land on earth even consider putting a man or woman on the moon? You talk about American technocracy, and you get radios. You talk about German technocracy, and you get automobiles. You talk about American technocracy, and you find men on the moon — not once but several times — and safely home again. . . . You talk about scandals, and the Americans put their right in the store window for everybody to look at. Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them — unless they are breaking Canadian laws — are getting American dollars from Ma and Pa at home to spend here . . . When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down through age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

I can name you 5,000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble? I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake. Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I'm one Canadian who is damned tired of hearing them kicked around. They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles.

Fuel From 'Tar Sands'
Ottawa-The only large-scale commercial operation producing fuel from tar sands—residue containing very viscous or semi-solid hydrocarbons that can be converted to petroleum products—is a 45,000-barrel-a-day unit in Alberta, Canada. The tar sands is surface-mined. Hot water separates the hydrocarbons from the rock. Synthetic crude oil is made by upgrading the hydrocarbons.

Hospital Completes Stress Test Study

Through a research grant from the Heart Association, Rockville General Hospital has completed a study in treadmill stress testing on children, under the direction of Dr. Ellen Marmer, pediatric cardiologist, at the hospital.

Utilizing the hospital's new equipment a patient can be monitored on any one of the six treadmills while walking on the treadmill at a predetermined speed and per cent of elevation. This is to achieve a desired cardiac rate for diagnostic evaluation of the patient's heart under stress. The new stress unit also includes a debrillator for use in an emergency situation that could arise during tests of this type.

The program involved the testing of about 100 children, aged 4 through 8, and took several months. The children tested were normal, and Dr. Marmer compiled data in hopes of adding further knowledge to the challenge of diagnosing abnormal tracings.

The data gleaned from the tests indicates the feasibility of stress testing and vital capacity measurements in young age groups, provided care is maintained to achieve maximal cooperation. Dr. Marmer said in her report.

She said that in comparing subgroups, suggestive evidence shows six-year-olds function more reliably within the testing framework.

Dr. Marmer said that maximal performance was more difficult to achieve in

Mothers Club To Meet, Plan Holiday Party

The Tolland County Mother of Twins Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Tolland. The Christmas evening gift exchanging, with a talk session after the meeting. Anyone interested may contact Mrs. Pat Jackson, president, at 666-7436 for details. The club's annual children's Christmas party will be held Dec. 16 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the same location. Santa will be on hand to meet the children and to present them with gifts. Holiday refreshments will be served.

College Note

Judith Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour B. Kaplan, of 128 Adelaide Rd., is a member of the Ithaca College Chorus at Ithaca College, Ithaca, N.Y. A holiday concert will be presented Sunday at the College's Walter Ford Hall.

Concert Set At Emanuel

"A Program of Music for Advent and Christmas" will be presented Dec. 16 at 3:30 p.m. at Emanuel Lutheran Church. This is the second in the series of Emanuel concerts. The combined Adult Choirs of Emanuel Church and the First Church of Christ, Congregational, of Unionville and the Emanuel Handbell Choir will participate in the concert, which is open to the public.

The featured work will be Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria." Its text is the "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" from the Ordinary of the Mass. The program will also include "Christmas Day" and the old French carol, "Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence," both by Gustav Holst. Soloists are Sheila Bushman, Margaret Gustafson, soprano; and Eleanor Johnson and Ann Kuzmicki, altos.

Richard S. Matteson, director of music at Emanuel Church, and Rebecca P. Matteson, minister of music at the Unionville church, will both be conducting and accompanying during the concert. Mrs. Matteson, a graduate of Hartt College of the University of Hartford, has served in her present post at the Unionville church for over two years. She previously was the assistant organist at the Cathedral of St. Joseph, Hartford. Matteson, also a Hartt College graduate, was organist at South Congregational Church in Hartford before coming to Emanuel Church in 1972.

A Christmas Story

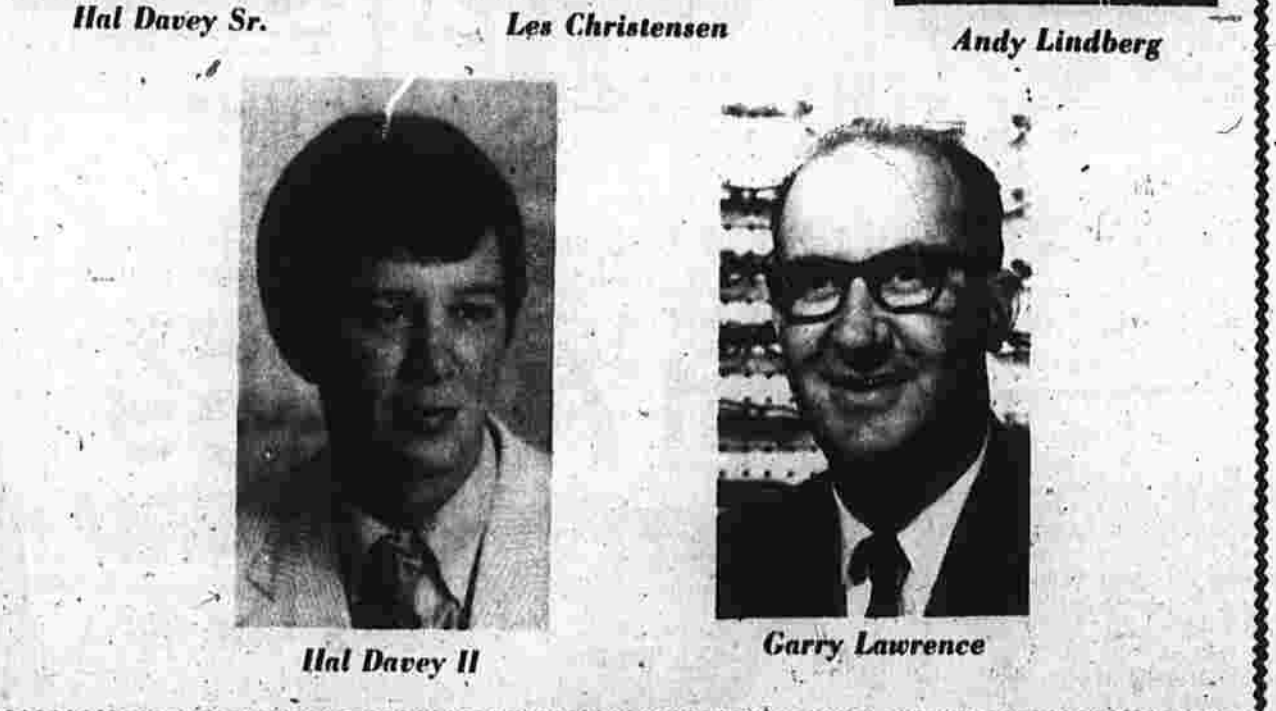

'Twas the night before Christmas and there in his chair, father was moaning and tearing his hair. While upstairs in bed, all still and asleep, The children didn't know what made daddy weep. The money had been paid, the gifts had been bought, and all was well with the world, or father had thought. He'd gone to the car, put the toys on the seat, and then to the market for good things to eat. He returned to the car, and what did he find? Some thief in the night had stolen him blind. Unfortunately, there are other people besides Santa Claus tiptoeing around during the Christmas season carrying gifts. Where Santa Claus creeps down chimney with bags of delights for the kiddies, the sneak thief creeps through darkened parking lots to steal bundles of cars of unsuspecting shoppers. With a few pointers from the Insurance Information Institute, however, it may be possible to thwart the thieves and save your presents for Santa's bundle. When you are out shopping and find it necessary to leave the car unattended with gifts inside, always lock your purchases in the trunk. Not only does this provide greater security, but by taking the package out of sight any temptation for thieves is effectively removed.

Mothers Vie For Title

Mrs. William H. Conley, president of the Connecticut Mothers Association, has announced that a search has begun for the Connecticut Mother of 1974. This mother will be honored by the Governor and will represent Connecticut at the annual conference of the American Mothers Committee in New York in early May. From among the state mothers will be selected the American Mother of the Year. Mothers may be nominated by organizations — religious, civic, educational, social — and even by individuals. The candidate must be a successful mother and homemaker as evidenced by the character achievements of her children, the youngest of whom must be 15 years of age. She must be an active member of a religious body, and must have a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and have contributed to the service of her community. Nomination forms may be obtained from the Secretary, Mrs. George Turrell, 60 Arrowhead Lane, Fairfield (06424) and all nominations must reach the committee on or before Jan. 15. The purpose of the American Mothers Committee is to work with women of all faiths to develop and strengthen the moral and spiritual fibre of the American home, and to give to the observance of Mother's Day a spiritual quality which highlights the standards of ideal motherhood and recognizes the important role of the mother in the home, the community, the nation and the world. Since 1944 Connecticut has had a State Mother. Recent Mother of the Year have been: Mrs. Theodore Gold of West Cornwall (1967); Mrs. James Ewen of Orange (1968); Mrs. William Conley of Fairfield (1969); Mrs. Bruce Cassidy of Stamford (1970); Mrs. Phillip Hutt of Milford (1971); Mrs. Robert Weinerman of Hartford (1972). The Connecticut Mother of the Year for 1973 is Mrs. John T. Casey of Milford.

Sheraly Johnson of 13 Summit St. will appear as Lucia in the traditional white gown and candle wreath on her head as the star of the ninth annual Lucia Festival presented by Scandia Lodge, Vasa Order of America, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Emanuel Lutheran Church. (Herald photo by Gen-tiliumo)

Lucia Festival Saturday

In Sweden, the Christmas season officially begins with the Lucia Festival usually celebrated about Dec. 13. St. Lucia lived in Italy during the early centuries of Christianity. The story of her goodness and kindness was brought to Scandinavia by early Christian missionaries.

In festivals, St. Lucia wears a crown of glowing candles and carries a tray of coffee and cakes. She and her attendants sing Swedish Christmas songs. Members of the Lucia Festival cast are: Catherine Dufour and Susan Cain, attendants; Donna Landry, tomtar; Lee Spencer, stag bo.

Others in the cast are: Lynn Douville, Carlene Douville, Melissa and Amy Hawkins, Adrienne Dufour, Amy and Beth Fournier, Cara Thompson, Melinda Koski, Scott Matson, Robert Matson Jr., Steven Gustafson, Kevin Anderson, David Dufour, Ronald Erickson, Judith Torstenson, Amanda Torstenson, and Carlin Anderson.

Directors of the pageant are: Miss Lijia Strazinski, Mrs. Clara Stowell, Miss Justina Johnson, Mrs. Jane Thompson and Frank Morasco. Accompanist is Mrs. David Hawkins.

Coffee, bulla (rolls) and popakor (cookies) will be served by Lucia and her attendants in Luther Hall following the presentation. Mrs. Eivra Anderson and Mrs. Gerda Orr Melissa and Amy Hawkins, are in charge of refreshments.

Coventry Club To Coordinate Car Pool

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
742-9495

The community affairs committee of the Junior Women's Club has volunteered to coordinate a car pool information center at the Town Hall Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Residents who are interested in forming car pools are asked to mail, phone or come directly to the Town Hall Saturday for an exchange of car pool information.

Pertinent data about each individual's desire for a car pool can be mailed to Car Pool, Box 185, Town Hall, Coventry, or phoned to 742-8845 Saturday.

The Women's Club, in cooperation with Town Hall personnel will sponsor a Christmas carol sing Thursday, Dec. 13 at 6:30.

Santa will arrive about 7:15 to visit with the children.

They asked that in light of the energy crisis, each child coming to the carol sing bring a handmade weatherproof tree ornament made by the child.

The children's ornaments will be placed on the tree during the tree decorating ceremony.

Following the carol sing, the children may visit with Santa in the registrar's room. Refreshments will be served in the board room following the sing.

To Sell Trees

The North Coventry Volunteer Fire Department will once again be sponsoring a Christmas Tree Sale.

Trees may be purchased any night at the firehouse from 6 to 9 p.m. and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays from Dec. 12 to Dec. 24.

As in the past years they will have white spruce, blue spruce, Scotch pine and Douglas fir trees.

All proceeds received will go toward the department building fund.

Yule Luncheon

The Coventry Garden Club's annual Christmas luncheon will be held on Tuesday at noon at the home of Mrs. Laurier Demars on Torbridge Rd.

Mrs. Edward Duerksen will be cohostess.

Dance Sunday

The Coventry Whirlways Square Dance Club will hold a dance Sunday at the Captain Nathan Hale School from 7 to 10 p.m.

The callers will be Jemy Letendre and Jack O'Leary.

Tickets will be sold at the door. Soft-soled shoes are required and the rounds will be cued.

Bicycle Death

CANTON (UPI) — Daniel Howard Rozford, 13, of Canton died at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford Thursday from injuries suffered in a bicycle accident Nov. 23 near his home, police reported. Daniel was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Rozford of Canton.

Favors Cutback In Police Hours

NEW BRITAIN (AP) — A city government efficiency study committee has recommended that police work a four-day, 40-hour week as an economy move.

The study also called for a 26 per cent cut in working hours for police and fire department personnel and a 23 per cent decrease in other city agencies.

The 216-page report, which included 314 recommendations, said by cutting unnecessary overtime, eliminating job duplication and restructuring the city administration the local government could save $2 million a year in operating expenses.

The report was prepared by a group of 25 local business and civic leaders and compiled by Warren King Associates of Chicago, a consultant that worked on the Eberington Commission report on efficiency in state government.

Coventry DevCo Outlines Community Plan

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
742-9495

DevCo Project Manager Dick North presented a preliminary outline of the proposed new community Wednesday evening to the Citizens Advisory Group.

According to North, the general position of the four common areas established, and these will conform to the land area owned by DevCo.

The centers will spread out like fingers from the center of the new community which may contain a multiple-use community center.

Each of the commons is being planned to contain up to 1,500 dwelling units. A number of retail centers are also being proposed to be located around the community but their positions have not been determined.

According to North, DevCo hopes to keep the high density areas in the center of the land it owns, so that from the existing roads in the rural character of the town the road would look the same.

Jack Green, DevCo staff member, stated that the new community would contain four elementary schools, one for each center, and an undisclosed number of middle schools. But Green said it was his hope that there would only be one high school in town for all Coventry residents.

North said DevCo was looking into the possibility of hooking up to a regional system of sewers that could possibly be located across the river in its sewer lines down Rt. 4A and past the lake area. He hoped that this would eliminate the town's fear of severing the lake area and its possible ramifications of increased building there. DevCo is also studying the possibility of hooking into a Coventry Sewer system if one is built.

Doug Webster reported for the municipal finance subcommittee. He said that towns are looking for the maximum amount of service for the lowest possible taxes and that property taxes are the base of funding for Coventry. He also said that because of the low evaluation of farm, open spaces, and forest land, a high burden is placed on homeowners in Coventry, but that the residents of Coventry consider it necessary to protect rural character of the town.

Added Phone
The deputy sanitarian and the building inspector can now be reached at 742-7089 in addition to the old number 742-6407.

JOHNSON'S
The Flower America

MUNICH 1973

The proposal for a mutual security pact with Israel, as recently advanced by Secretary of State Kissinger and Senator Fulbright, reveals the size of the disaster which is developing in the Middle East for Israel, for America, and for the non-Communist world.

Although Israel has expressed a flexible position with respect to her borders, evidently she is about to be pressured by the United States into accepting boundaries she cannot defend. If Israel returns to the pre 1967 War border, the whole densely populated area of Israel — 10 or 12 miles wide altogether — will be within range of the Katyushas and other weapons supplied to the Arabs by the Russians. With the surface to air missiles the Arabs possess, the unprotected area of sky will not be just over a strip of desert near the Suez Canal — as it was in the Yom Kippur War — but over the whole of Israel.

A renewed — and as the past twenty-five years have taught us — inevitable Arab aggression would leave two possibilities. The United States could honor a commitment to come to Israel's defense. This would mean, as in Vietnam, direct involvement of United States troops, only this time with the danger of confrontation with the Soviet Union. Or the United States could renege on its commitment when the time came. This is the more likely event, since if an all-out attack was launched against Israel in the pre 1967 War borders there would probably not even be time for American intervention to be feasible. If the United States offers Israel a security pact for her survival, in place of defensible borders, then it means the United States has in effect written off Israel.

But weakening Israel will only lead to catastrophe for the United States and the West. Even the first stage of an Israeli withdrawal, which would open the Suez Canal, will give the Soviet Union complete freedom of maneuver throughout the Middle East, the Indian Ocean, and along the coasts of eastern and southern Africa. The Soviet Union's progress will be irresistible, and the whole Middle East will fall into her grasp.

Within a short time, it will be the Soviet Union who decides whether oil shall be sold to the West, Europe and Japan — completely at the mercy of the Soviet Union for oil — will be neutralized. Indeed, the Arab oil producers have already, on their own, partially achieved this result.

Soviet domination of the world will be well on the way. In 1933 the sacrifice of Czechoslovakia to Hitler at Munich (for the sake of "peace in our time") brought on the Nazi domination of Europe and the horrors of World War Two.

Selling out Israel today, for the sake of "detente," will leave the United States tomorrow face to face with a rampant Soviet Union — alone.

THE VERY GRAVITY OF THE CRISIS DEMANDS THAT ALL THINKING AMERICANS URGENTLY COMMUNICATE WITH THEIR CONGRESSMEN AND SENATORS, TO PUT A STOP TO THIS DISASTROUS COURSE OF OUR FOREIGN POLICY.

- We suggest that you send this Clipping to your Senator or Congressman.

Obituaries

Albert L. Laliberte, 81, of 600 Center St., husband of Margaret Moriarty Glasson Laliberte, died at his home this morning after a long illness. He was born in New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 10, 1912, the son of Antonio and Marie Sawyer Laliberte, and resided in Manchester several years. He was employed as a foreman in the materials department at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corporation, East Hartford. He was a World War II Air Force veteran and a member of the Manchester Lodge of Elks. Survivors besides his wife are a son, Russell E. Glasson of Waterfield; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Stepanki of Manchester; a brother, Norman Laliberte of East Hartford; three sisters, Mrs. Bertha Hurley and Mrs. Doris Collins, both of Manchester and Mrs. Edna Howat of South Windsor; three grandchildren and one great-grandson. Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., followed by a Mass of the Resurrection at the Church of the Assumption at 10:30. Burial will be in Rose Hill Memorial Park, Rocky Hill. Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. The family has requested memorial contributions be made to the Manchester Memorial Hospital Appreciation Fund.

Mrs. Ann N. Palaima, 54, of 64 Farm Dr. and Sea Brook Beach, N.H., wife of Alfonso Palaima, died this morning at Hartford Hospital. Born in Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 1, 1919, she was the daughter of Thomas and Anielo Pac Kolodziej. She was a member of the Holy Innocents Church.

(Continued from Page One) are very rare. Only four specimens have been found so far, and three of them came from the Wolcott Quarry. The three types of dinosaurs found at the Wolcott Quarry were relatively small, though they were some of the earliest species. The specimens found were Ammosaurus major, and two types of Antisaurus (sometimes called Yaloesaurus).

The Triassic sedimentary rocks of the Connecticut Valley are famous for dinosaur footprints, but skeletal remains are very rare. Only four specimens have been found so far, and three of them came from the Wolcott Quarry.

Tremors Reported
COLCHESTER (UPI) — Residents in at least seven towns reported earth tremors between 3:40 and 4 p.m. Thursday, state police said. The tremors were reported in Colchester, Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Vernon, Manchester and Vernon. However, a geophysicist professor at the University of Connecticut said no trace of an earthquake was indicated by a seismometer. Edward Chiburis, of the Marine Science Institute in Groton, said the tremors may have been a sonic boom, but certainly not an earthquake.

Mixed Emotion
FRUITA, Utah (UPI) — The hamlet of Fruita, probably the last place in Utah where more than 50 per cent of the people have it, are looking forward to getting the spring, probably in the fall.

South Windsor
ARNOLD Smart, 44, of East Hartford, was charged with third-degree burglary, third-degree larceny, and second-degree criminal mischief in connection with the investigation of an incident Thursday at the Jones Motor Co., 540 Sullivan Ave., South Windsor.

Workers Strike
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Puerto Rican workers who struck a frozen food manufacturer Wednesday and Thursday were to be considered for rehiring today. About 30 workers walked their jobs in support of a fellow worker who had unsuccessfully tried to have his salary increased, and were all fired.

Burn Victim
HARTFORD (UPI) — An 8-year-old Windsor girl who was burned by a hot water bottle at St. Francis Hospital in 1965, has been awarded $18,000. A Superior Court jury made the award Thursday to Theresa McGrath. The lawsuit said Dr. Harold F. Scully of West Hartford, the anesthesiologist placed hot water bottles on her legs to control her temperature during the operation. The suit said the water was too hot and resulted in burns to her right leg and ankle.

Police Report

MANCHESTER
James W. LaPenta, 19, of Wedgewood Dr., was charged Thursday night with possession of marijuana, Manchester Police reported. He was taken into custody at a 40 Olcott St. apartment, police said, after a neighbor complained to police of suspicious activity at the apartment. Police said a small amount of marijuana and hashish (a marijuana derivative) were confiscated. LaPenta was released on a $150 non-surety bond for appearance Jan. 7.

TOLLAND
Michael Paige, 30, of Alden Circle, Tolland, was charged with failure to grant one-half the highway in connection with the investigation of a two-car accident on Rt. 30, Tolland, Thursday. The driver of the other car was William Costa, 37, of 36 Stein Rd., Ellington. Paige is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Jan. 7.

VERNON
David Staley, 20, of 7 Temple St., and Michael Foley, 19, of Mt. Vernon Apts., both of Vernon, were charged yesterday with possession of controlled drugs, illegal possession of prescription drugs, third-degree burglary in a building in the daytime, and fourth-degree larceny.

Other arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:
—Raymond J. Martin, 35, of 39 Foster St., charged this morning with breach of peace, third-degree assault, and threatening. Police, who lodged the charges via a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant, said the charges stem from an alleged incident involving Martin's former girlfriend. He was released on his written promise to appear in court Dec. 31.

Gaal Elected Master Of Friendship Lodge

Frederick M. Gaal, 67, of Bolton, Thursday night was elected worshipful master of Friendship Lodge of Masons. He succeeds Robert A. Haugh, who presented to Ulask a citation and plaque. Ulask was honored for the many roles he has played in the lodge. He has held every post in the Master's Club — president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, custodian of the works and clerk of the works — and has been active with the degree team both as a participant and coach. He is a charter member of the lodge, one of the first candidates when the lodge was formed in 1964. Ulask has also been active in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and is a past chancellor. He is a machinist at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp. at East Hartford. A bachelor, he lives with his widowed mother.

Coin Theft Suspect Arrested

LYNN, Mass. (UPI) — Leonard Piazza, 44, a painter, was arrested in a variety store Thursday night in connection with the robbery Sunday of ancient coins from the Fogg Museum at Harvard, believed the largest such heist ever pulled. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Cambridge District court and was freed on $10,000 bail. He was to appear in the court today. Piazza, who resides here, was arrested by Cambridge detectives after they received information that he bore a remarkable similarity to one of four suspects depicted in a composite sketch and distributed this week.

Trooper Impass Continues

HARTFORD (UPI) — A state police union spokesman says troopers are so disgusted with Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's refusal to step into their wage dispute, "anything can happen." The troopers staged a one-day work slowdown Tuesday protesting the impasse between their union and the state personnel policy board. The policemen seek a $1,500 wage increase which would make their salaries comparable to those of colleagues in Connecticut's larger cities and that of troopers in other states. State Personnel Commissioner Edward J. Simpson and State Police Commissioner Cleveland B. Fuesenich reportedly met with Meskill Thursday, and a governor's aide told newsmen Meskill would not mediate in the impasse. Cpl. Donald Ferris, president of the state police chapter of the Connecticut State Employees Association, said "the average trooper will be so disgusted with this that at this point anything can happen." Ferris said association president Thomas Lyon, however, would personally visit the governor and ask him to intercede. He is a charter member of the lodge, one of the first candidates when the lodge was formed in 1964. Ulask has also been active in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and is a past chancellor. He is a machinist at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp. at East Hartford. A bachelor, he lives with his widowed mother.

Hoopsters Are Ready

Boys Girls

On Monday, Nov. 26, I had an interview with Jim Moriarty, social studies teacher and varsity basketball coach here at Manchester High. Coach Moriarty feels very strongly that this year's varsity team has got what it takes to get it through a good season and possibly become state champs. Despite the loss of such greats as Tom Tucker, high scorer, Rich Haberman, top rebounder, Larry Perry, starting center and Phil Stamen, starting guard, the Tribe still has a great defensive line. The following seniors are returning as candidates for possible starting positions: Kim Bushey, Kurt Carlson, John Feeney, Conny McCurry and Joe Stankewicz. To round out the Indian squad, juniors John Koepke and Jack Maloney are expected to turn in fine performances.

Moriarty also says that this year's team is the best material that he has ever seen in all his years as a basketball coach. Although two of our best players, senior Dallas Dodge and junior Ray Sullivan are out with injuries, Coach Moriarty is still very hopeful. The boys practice very hard for their games, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons and Tuesday and Thursday nights, as well as on Saturdays. On Tuesday, Dec. 11, why not come on out to the basketball game? It will be an away game, played at Maloney High School in Meriden. Tickets will be on sale in front of the office for those of you who will be taking the bus. So, listen in your room for time and date of the game. Remember, your team is as good as you make it! — Mary Chase

If anyone stops in the gym after school, they will notice MHS's winter teams in session. Among the groups practicing the girls' 1973-74 basketball squads, senior Dallas Dodge and junior Ray Sullivan are out with injuries. Coach Moriarty is still very hopeful. Miscellany

The High School World is starting this column, "Miscellany." It will contain miscellaneous information, items too small for an article, and odd bits of data.

Anyone who has an item of interest to leave it in the HSW box in the student office, Rm. 155.

Upwards of 95 couples are going to the Junior Prom this Saturday. This means that some 180 MHS lovebirds will be waiting to hear their hearts' delight, with an estimated 100 girls will be home, crying their eyes out, and an estimated 100 guys will be home, kicking the walls because they didn't ask those 100 girls.

Talking about the controversial Kramits show, participant Mr. Olson (football coach and math teacher) has declared, "no dishonesty was involved."

Student-Type People In The News

Manchester's representative in the Junior Prom Scholarship Pageant, which will be January 21, is Linda Caraban, a senior at MHS. When I spoke with Linda, she impressed me as a pleasantly self-confident and bright individual. She has an awareness of current events and shows a sensitivity towards people. Linda characterizes herself as an "optimist" who "like excitement."

Other things she likes are petting, skiing, horticulture, modern dance, embroidery, and above all, acting. This affinity for acting is shown in her participation on Sock and Buskin as secretary and her choice of the pageant, a dramatic monologue.

Plans for her future stem from an interest in language and art history, on which she hopes to hold a double major. After obtaining an extensive background on the "business and aesthetic" aspects of museums, while in Europe, Linda wants to return to the U.S. and become involved in public relations or another facet of museum work. — Wendy Horvitz

AL'S BID FOR 'HOMECOMING QUEEN' FAILED, BUT DIDN'T COUNT HIM OUT OF THIS YEAR'S PROM QUEEN CONTEST!

South Windsor Hockey Association Seeks Sponsor

JUDITH KUHNEL, Correspondent 644-1364

The South Windsor Youth Hockey Association, a non-profit organization composed of parents interested in providing the youngsters of the community with a winter sport, are desperately in need of sponsors for the young athletes. A total of $150 is needed to keep one player on the ice for the season. It is hoped that individuals, businesses or organizations will sponsor a boy for $50. The sponsor would then receive a photo of their player to display.

The remainder of the money needed to keep the boy skating would be shared equally by the association and the player. There are presently 153 boys and four girls, divided into four leagues. The Mites, which is primarily a "learning team"; the Squirts, 9 and 10 year olds; the Peewees, 11 and 12 year olds; and the Bantams, 13 and 14 years old.

This year the Northern Connecticut Youth Hockey League, which South Windsor is a member, has scheduled 10 games. And added 11 non-league games will bring the total to 24 games scheduled for the season.

Approximately $14,000 is needed to keep the teams playing this year. In the past some of the needed revenue has been raised through candy sales and donations.

The teams are coached by Jerry O'Sullivan, the Mites; Al Soelgrove and Bill McGuire, the Squirts; Jack Hird and Terry Chase, the Peewees; Dave White and Chuck Colucci, the Bantams.

U.S. Social Goals Said Slipping

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The United States, after taking great strides in social betterment during the 1960's, seems to be losing ground this decade. The president of Notre Dame University says.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh said, "while we climbed up to a peak (last decade), I think we've leveled off and are slipping back a bit."

The change from the "turned on" atmosphere of the 1960s is worrisome, he added, because "student life is a good barometer of life of the nation."

Father Hesburgh, a leading spokesman for higher education, was at Yale to deliver three talks under the university's prestigious Terry Lectures program.

Commenting on his subject, "The Year 2000: Dream or nightmare," he said the world has the materials to eliminate many of its ills.

Past, present, and future, those three. We should be interested in all of them. It is indeed a narrow person who confines his interest to any one of the exclusion of the others. Most of our life span is devoted to the present. We must provide for our living and for those we have with us. About the future we actually know very little. When we get older and more reluctant to change, we are more likely to feel our relationship with the past. History and folklore about his predecessors. He suggests and highly recommends that any retired person who is assailed by the feeling that it is all over for him, start trying to trace back his own life history and forebears. Instead of being bored by time dragging, he will find it flying so fast he wishes there was more of it. One of O.C.'s grandmothers told about one of her uncles who was a marine on the English ship that took Napoleon Bonaparte into exile on the island of St. Helena after the battle of Waterloo. His old powder horn has been passed down until it is now O.C.'s cherished possession. Another of her uncles was a drummer in the American Army in the War of 1812. We still have his drumsticks labeled to identify them. The other grandmother had a brother in the Union Army in the Civil War. He didn't come back and it was supposed he had been killed in battle. Many years later a strange man came to the door, introduced himself and said he had been searching for years to locate grandma whenever he could get time for it. He had been a fellow prisoner with grandma's brother in the Andersonville prison after they had been captured by the Confederate forces. There were so many prisoners that the buildings could not hold them, and many had to stay out in the yard in all kinds of weather. Those who could get hold of any old lumber or rubbish tried to make some shelter from the sun and rain. Food was so scarce that everyone was undernourished and some nearly starved and sick. Uncle Bertram was in great pain. He crawled toward the high fence to ask a guard, patrolling on top of it, if he would try to get a doctor for him or smuggle him some Jamaica ginger to relieve the pain in his stomach. A wire was stretched across the fence. When he got near that wire the guard aimed at him back to tell him about if Bertram passed the wire. Uncle Bertram crawled back into the hut and asked the other fellow to tell his sister, but did without telling where she lived. That man had spent what time and expense he could for many years to fulfill that wish of a stranger. "Doesn't that teach us something?" Retired persons who have completed their working careers need not feel they are worthless. If their hearing is impaired they can bequeath their temporal bones to help others to hear. They are needed for study and research to benefit our fellow men. One can also bequeath his eyes to an eye bank so they can be used to bring some unfortunate person from blindness back to an enjoyable life. Also, we can donate our bodies to a medical school for study and research. They are needed for the training of doctors and surgeons and many parts can be stored in liquid for the rehabilitation of folks who otherwise would be crippled. You will feel better when you carry your identification cards for all of these things, knowing that your passing will immediately begin benefiting many. Your family is relieved of all funeral arrangements and expense. The only ones who can could not hold their own to this is the undertaker.

The business of cutting and supplying firewood is booming in the Manchester area as winter comes and still of us who heat our homes with oil anticipate short supplies.

Driving along Lake St., Bolton, I glimpsed a one-way sign "Wood" and turned into the driveway at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Safranek from 3 to 11 p.m. at Cheney Bros. velvet mill, comes home for sleep and breakfast and then gets out to the woods. Edwin's father-in-law, Oscar Forand, likes to help with the sawing, and when we took the picture for this column, Gary Safranek, 13, Ed's son, was helping after school. Gary has two sisters, Christine, 18, and Henrietta, 5, and a brother, Glenn, 12.

Joe does most of the work in the woods, and he gets his trees from developers who want the land cleared for building houses. He has been working recently in the Box Mountain area, not far from home, but has a job ahead in East Granby, a considerable distance from Bolton.

Joe uses a chain saw, cuts down the trees designated by the developer, whittles their species, cuts the logs and larger limbs into four-foot lengths, which are stacked in the woods until they can be moved. He leaves the brush to be pushed through a power chipper and spread on the ground as mulch, and leaves the stumps to be pushed out by the contractor's bulldozer and hauled to a dump.

He occasionally has a buyer for saw logs, but not often, and

Abortion Rules Revised

HARTFORD (AP) — The state Public Health Council has approved a revised set of proposed state regulations dealing with abortion.

The regulations now must go before the state legislature's Regulations Review Committee and the state attorney general for further action.

Sections of a previous set of regulations submitted by the council were ordered reworked by the attorney general's office in October.

The new set, which incorporates some of Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian's suggestions for revision, is expected to reach final adoption according to state Health Commissioner Douglas S. Lloyd.

holds the four-foot stick which is pressed against the revolving saw blade.

Asked how much wood he expected to handle, Joe Safranek said he had thought he would have 90 to 100 cords, but he expects now it may go to 100 cords. He sometimes buys wood that someone else has cut "if the price is reasonable."

Ash Burns When Green

Ash, he says, is the only wood that will burn when it is green, and, looking for further information on the burning qualities of different species of wood, I was offered a rhyme that Hartford County Agent Fred Nelson said someone had sent him. It was credited to an anonymous author, he said.

Bolton Bike Hikes Prove Popular

Blackstone Country Club for breakfast, followed by a trip through Hebron and Andover before returning to Bolton.

On Nov. 24 the club covered over 40 miles on a ride beginning at 8:30 a.m. (all riders start at this time) at Bolton High School and heading towards the Coventry Lake area. The group returned briefly at Falcetta's house before traveling down Hender Rd. in Coventry to Rt. 6, Andover, and then returning to Bolton.

On Dec. 2, the group left from Sperry's Glen, riding to Glastonbury. There they were served refreshments and entertained by art teacher Mrs. Marion Nicolay. After traveling through Glastonbury, East Hartford and Manchester the group returned to Bolton. The trip was about 35 miles.

This Saturday the club will meet at Bolton Pharmacy at 8:30 a.m. Riders will head towards Vernon and the Crystal Lake area.

Falcetta and Audette invite all students in the Bolton school system and any adults who would like to join the group to be at the pharmacy before 8:30 a.m. and to know that they will be more than welcome.

The ultimate goal of the Cycle Club is to make overnight camping trips in the spring. Club members help each other keep their bikes in repair. On long trips students not having ten speeds or easy riding bikes are waited for.

Audette noted that only two students have been lost along the way so far, and they did make it home safely.

Super Saturday

St. George Episcopal Church will have a Super Saturday for interested children tomorrow from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Super Saturday is a program of religious instruction, arts and crafts and recreation.

This Sunday, Dec. 23, a service of Advent lessons and carols will be held. The children will be visited by St. Nicholas following the service.

Plan Would Cut School Fuel Use

VIRGINIA CARLSON

Board of Education members presented with a point contingency plan for meeting the energy crisis, have accepted only two of the proposals, tabling the others until a coordinated plan can be sought with Windham High School.

The proposals, recommended by Superintendent Clarence Edmondson, include shortening the school day, closing schools during the severest periods and eliminating all activities held after school.

The board agreed to suspend field trips with the hope they can be reinstated in the spring. A conservation plan has been implemented within the school, with thermostats turned down to 68 degrees during the day and lower after school hours.

The proposal for shortening the school day involved delaying the opening time to 10:30 a.m. and closing at 3 p.m. The plan eliminates recesses and provides a 30-minute lunch hour. Edmondson said he suggested the plan be effected the last school week in December, the month of January and February and the first two weeks of March.

Out of the 373 families surveyed regarding this suggestion, 53 would be adversely affected, according to Edmondson, referring to working parents. This proposal would save about 2,000 gallons of oil. The school uses about 50,000 gallons a year.

Another proposal by the superintendent is to close school for the February vacation on Feb. 8 and reopen Feb. 25. Since Feb. 12 is a holiday anyway, only four days would have to be made up.

This could be accomplished by holding half-day sessions in May on Saturdays, or taking unused snow days or a combination of both, he said.

He added that teachers do not want to cut into the April vacation because they feel it is important to the students.

Another recommendation would eliminate all after-school activities in the building, both school and community, in-

Medical Speaker Will Visit MMH

Dr. Bruce Bower of Hartford will spend several hours Tuesday with the medical staff at Manchester Memorial Hospital during which he will assist in visiting patients and participate in consultations.

Dr. Bower is an expert in endocrine diseases. His visit is a part of a continuing education program arranged for members of the medical staff at the hospital for the purpose of continually updating their knowledge and introducing improved techniques.

At noon, Dr. Bower will speak to the staff on "The Management of Diabetes in the Surgical Patient."

Greenliness Discouraged

HARPENDEN, England (UPI) — Trying to keep his tank full during the oil crisis cost a motorist $2.50 for five cents worth of gasoline Thursday.

Garage owner Lou Ogelesky said he had imposed a $2.50 minimum on all sales to discourage drivers trying to keep "topped up" during the crisis.

"It serves him right," said Ogelesky of the man whose tank needed just five cents worth. "He asked for his money back. He claimed his petrol gauge was broken. We told him it was his own fault for being so selfish."

Washington Back in Baseball, Osteen for Wynn Major Deal

HOUSTON (UPI) — Baseball left Washington two years ago with a cloud over its head and when it returns to the nation's capital next April the cloud will still be there. The National League voted unanimously Thursday to allow grocery store chain owner Joseph Danzansky to move the San Diego Padres cross country to Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington, D.C. Danzansky had bought the Padres from C. Arnholt Smith for $12 million. It will be the first time in history Washington has had a club in the National League. After approving the sale and move, the league owners already the defendants in a $12 million breach of contract suit filed by the city of San Diego. "We are shocked with an antitrust suit as well. I was threatened when I heard of the league's action," said San Diego city attorney John Witt. "I'm confident as I can be had no choice but to move the team after Smith's attorney, John Holt, surprised them by stating Smith could no longer keep the team. Despite Smith's allegedly crumbling financial empire, it had been expected he would attempt to keep ownership of the club as well as the right to keep the club in San Diego for the financial loss the city suffers when the baseball team moves. Just as much acrimony arose two years ago when Bob Short uprooted the Washington Senators and moved them to Texas, leaving the city without major league baseball for the first time since 1961. "I'm very happy for the fans of Washington," Short said Thursday. The league owners felt they

Witt, on behalf of San Diego, has filed the breach of contract suit against the National League because the Padres have a 20-year contract for the use of San Diego stadium. The Padres have been in the league only five years. Witt was also upset with the committee formed on Capitol Hill which had told league owners Washington might be willing to indemnify the league for any losses suffered by moving the team. One of the committee members is former vice presidential nominee Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo. "I can't imagine a congressman from anywhere can justify pouring the federal taxpayers' money into a baseball team in any one city," said Witt. "A thing like that costs taxpayers everywhere in the country."

Golfers Busy But No Aces

Sher Ferguson Cards 68, Lowest Score of Season

By Earl Yost Usually at this time of the year, after the regular golf tournament schedule at the Manchester Country Club has been completed, there are a rash of hole-in-ones.

Hackney said one reason for the absence of post-tourney aces was due to changes in the eighth hole. "That used to be the easiest for a hole-in-one but it's playing tough now," Hackney noted. With good weather prevailing, with higher than normal temperatures and no snow, a number of golfers have been getting in some play. "Monday is always the slowest day but if the weather stays good, we have anywhere from 50 to 60 players out Tuesday and Wednesday and as many as 100 on Saturday and Sunday," the pro added. Meanwhile, Hackney and assistant, Ralph DeNicolo, are busy handling Pro Shop sales which are always good before Christmas. The shop has been stocked with all the golfer's needs. The course remains in excellent condition and play will be allowed as long as the weather holds up. Perhaps those end-of-season hole-in-ones will start falling again.

Second Straight Win for Cougars By Chris Blake The Eastern Connecticut State College JV's may have been wary of a 6-6 center coming into last night's game with Manchester Community College. But in the final analysis, it was a 5-9 guard who spelled doom for the Warriors.

Slack shooting Curt Iverson hit for a game high 26 points and had seven steals to lead Manchester Community College to its second victory in as many starts, 81-65, against the Eastern Connecticut JV's at the Cheney gym gym. Three other players hit double figures for Manchester with Greg Moody adding 18, Ernie Moore 14, and Kerry Johnson 10. Chuck Stewart was high point man for Eastern with 23 markers. Getting out of the gate quickly, MCC took a 7-0 lead in the early stages of the first half. The visitors came back to within five, 15-10, with 12:28 remaining on a three-point play by Stewart, but that was as close as the Warriors came in the half. Early foul difficulty put Moore on the bench for the last eight minutes of the first game, but Johnson, Lomax and Bob Kichinet filled in the void nicely. Lomax netted five points in the first half, including a steal and

Same Old Story Prevails In National Grid League

By United Press International
It's the same old story but with a novel twist. As usual, the Oakland Raiders and the Kansas City Chiefs are battling for the National Football League's American Conference Western Division title.

So, as usual, Saturday's game between the Chiefs and the Raiders in Oakland will go a long way in deciding who will participate in the playoffs. However, analysts waiting in the wings are the Denver Broncos in the thick of the battle with the first winning season in their history. The schedule slightly favors the Raiders in the race, while Kansas City is the only team of the three that must depend on

76ers' Number Claimed by Bulls

By United Press International
At this stage, it's 10 to 1 the Chicago Bulls won't lose a game to the Philadelphia 76ers this season. These aren't odds. The figure represents Chicago's record with the 76ers over the last three seasons. The Bulls continued their domination over Philadelphia with a 103-89 victory Thursday night, making it two in a row against the 76ers. Chicago won all four of their previous meetings in 1972-73 and was 4-1 the previous season.

Chet Walker, who is averaging five points above his career 17.1 point mark, scored 27 points and Bob Love added 23. Fred Carter scored a game-high 30 points for Philadelphia as the 76ers lost their 17th game in 26 outings this season. The Detroit Pistons rallied to edge the Seattle SuperSonics, 110-108, in the only other NBA action.

The Pistons, who have won four in a row, trailed 106-101, with 2:38 remaining but put together two foul shots by Don Adams, five points from Dave Bing and a field goal by Bob Lanier, while holding the Sonics to two points in the final 3¼ minutes. Bing led the winners and took game honors with 38 points. Spencer Haywood was high for Seattle with 29.

Vernon Town Balks at Plan To Curtail School Use

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)
The Vernon Board of Education will not be rushed into any order or precipitous action at this time, Maurice Miller, chairman of the board said today, concerning the state board's ruling on school closings to save fuel.

The state board has called for an extended vacation period and ordered all schools to close at 4 p.m. except when the state board's emergency energy crisis committee. Miller said the local board will consider the state board's recommendations. He said, "We may well have some merit."

The chairman said the local board will make changes if and when necessary. As newly elected chairman of the board, Miller made his committee appointments at last Monday's meeting of the board. One of these committees was an ad hoc emergency energy crisis committee.

Miller said the local board will consider the state board's recommendations. He said, "We may well have some merit."

McDonough Guilty

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Stephen McDonough, 33, was found guilty today of assaulting a state police patrolman in connection with the Sept. 2, 1971, shooting at Palmer on the Massachusetts Turnpike.

He also admitted charges of assault and battery by means of a deadly weapon and of unlawful carrying of a saw-edged shotgun. McDonough, son of the Farmington, Conn., school superintendent, had been serving time in federal prison for a Connecticut bank robbery.

McDonough told Superior Court Judge Kent B. Smith Wednesday that he was "sorry to cause the inconvenience to Mr. Reardon."

"I was under the influence of drugs at the time," McDonough pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder in connection with the Sept. 2, 1971, shooting at Palmer on the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Unusual For Nastase Moody Net Genius Smiles in Defeat

BOSTON (UPI) — When Tom Gorman lost a tennis match Thursday to a man he'd always previously beaten, the Wimbledon champion smiled. The defeat was unusual for Gorman, who has never lost a match since he turned professional in 1968. He was defeated 1-6, 3-6, 6-7 (5) by the 24-year-old American, Arthur Ashe.

WIN AT BRIDGE
CARD Sense

Safety First costs no more
Some safety plays are really farfetched. Others should be almost automatic for a careful player. South's three notrump contract looks like a cinch. He wins the heart lead and is at all careless he counts to 10, quick easy trick. Two spades, one heart, five diamonds and two clubs. Then if he is careful he reviews the bidding in accordance with the R of the code word ARCH. He remembers that West made a vulnerable two heart bid without much of a hand. Obviously he held a lot of hearts for that bid. Could he be void of diamonds?

South thinks a little more and sees that he can be sure of his contract with just four diamond tricks and he can play the diamond suit in such a manner as to keep East from getting the lead if he holds all four diamonds. South goes to dummy with a high spade and leads the 10 diamonds. If East ducks, South lets it ride. If East covers, South wins the trick; goes back to dummy with the second high spade and leads another diamond. Then back to dummy with the king of spades to pick up the rest of the suit and wind up with five diamond tricks in spite of East's four-card holding.

Maggiacomo Taken to Jail

Manchester Police detectives continued today to investigate the Nov. 19 knife-killing of Mrs. Carolyn Clayton of Manchester, in the wake of Thursday's arrest of a Hartford man charged with the murder.

"We're still completing the investigation," Police Chief James Reardon said, "picking up all the loose ends."

The man under arrest for the murder — Louis F. Maggiacomo Jr., 46, of 87 Alden St., Hartford — is being held at the Connecticut Correctional Center, Hartford, on a $125,000 bond.

The bond was set Thursday afternoon, after Maggiacomo's midday arrest, by Circuit Court

12 Judge Nicholas Armentano at Manchester. He was represented in court Thursday by Public Defender Terrance Sullivan, and after lunch he was found imbedded in her back when the body was discovered in a second-floor bedroom at her home.

Manchester Police have been working closely with officials from the office of Hartford County State's Atty. John LaBelle in the murder investigation. Police Chief Reardon today declined to release details about the case, and it is expected that further information will be withheld until the case goes to trial.

Pearl Harbor Attack Noted In Brief Rites

PEARL HARBOR (UPI) — A group of Americans bowed their heads in prayer today over the quiet Pearl Harbor waters at the exact moment of the Japanese attack on a sunny morning 32 years ago.

The United States plunged into World War II 32 years ago today when Japanese planes bombed Pearl Harbor in a sneak attack that took 2,335 American lives and severely crippled the Pacific Fleet.

The Japanese who roared in that morning failed to strike any American submarines or aircraft carriers. And these vessels, plus thousands of others constructed after Pearl Harbor, came back to haunt the Japanese in the Pacific phase of the war.

The rising sun glinted over the Pacific again this morning, just as it had on the day the United States was dealt the most devastating military blow it had ever suffered.

Veteran, patriotic and civic organizations as well as private citizens solemnly presented wreaths at the Arizona memorial. The white memorial, which has a low center to symbolize the sagging spirits of Dec. 7, 1941, and high sides to show the rise of the U.S. afterwards, rests above the rusted, sunken hull of the famous battleship, the tomb of more than 1,100 men.

Kissinger Leaves On Mission

Egypt, Israel To Attend Mideast Peace Conclave

United Press International Egyptian Deputy Premier Mohammed Abdel Kader Hatem told parliament today that Egypt would participate in the talks. He said, however, Egypt would not compromise on its demands for Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands occupied in the 1967 six-day war.

Egypt's agreement to join the historic conference came as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, architect of the Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire agreement, began a mission to Europe and the Middle East to lay the groundwork for the Geneva talks.

Egypt recently expressed reluctance to attend the conference because of the breakdown in cease-fire talks with Israel over troop pullbacks from the Suez canal region.

opportunity for leading the region from war to peace.

Hattem, who directs the day-to-day business of the Egyptian government, said Cairo would also demand in the talks with Israel concessions about the rights of the Palestinian people. The speech, equivalent to a state of the union message in the United States, marked the first major Egyptian policy address since President Anwar Sadat spoke to parliament at the height of the 17-day Middle East war on Oct. 16.

Kissinger, before leaving on his second Middle East mission in a month, met in Washington Friday with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Dayan met later with Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements and although the Pentagon would not say what was discussed, sources said Dayan pressed for additional military aid in case the talks break down and fighting resumes.

Kissinger leaves Washington today on a trip that will take him to Arab capitals and Israel for talks aimed at bringing the parties together in Geneva. It was understood, but not confirmed, that he urged Dayan to withdraw Israeli forces from some occupied Arab lands to assure the success of the conference.

Kissinger said earlier he believed the parity would take place as scheduled and the last word from Egypt was that it would attend.

Friday, however, more small arms clashes flared along Israel's Suez Canal front with Egypt and the Israeli command in Tel Aviv said its soldiers came under Arab guerrilla fire inside occupied Arab territory for the first time since the cease-fire took hold Oct. 24.

Ihnan Abdel Kaddous, editor of the Cairo newspaper Akhbar Al Yom and close friend of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, said in an article today the shaky cease-fire lines amount to nothing more than an "armed truce" and added Egypt is "convinced" the Geneva talks will fail.

"We shall not be able to impose peace on Israel through negotiations," said Kaddous, whose weekly articles often reflect presidential thinking. "I believe it is more likely we shall return to the battlefield."

Excessive Use Of Phony License Plates Reported

HARTFORD (UPI) — A former aide to Gov. Thomas Meskill and two gubernatorial appointees were issued phony Connecticut motor vehicle registrations usually used in undercover investigations, state auditors said Friday.

The auditors said the Motor Vehicle Department issued two sets of license plates for cars owned by Sen. Stanley H. Page, R - Collierville, and the name of "Shawn H. Pilgrim."

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Agostinelli said the registrations were assigned Mark Koiva were assigned unmarked state vehicles registered under false names and addresses, the auditors said.

Among the nine phony registrations issued to Comp-troller Nathan Agostinelli's department was one for "Anthony DiBernardo."

It carried specific instructions that the registration not be entered in the motor vehicle master file, making it virtually impossible to trace true ownership of the car, the auditors said.

Ask For Investigation

State Auditors Leo Donahue and Henry Becker said their investigation on "suppressed plates" began when someone complained of possible abuses in the practices.

The auditors concluded "it is virtually impossible to detect misuse of unmarked state vehicles," but the absence of any clear policy or law makes it "difficult to ascertain the propriety of their existence."

The legislature should investigate the practices, the auditors said, and develop "suitable guidelines on the extent and control of unmarked cars."

The auditors said an additional 273 registrations were found for federal or municipal cars, but no information was available on them. They said their chief concern was whether state-owned cars with fake plates were being used properly for undercover work.

The auditors said that at the time of their inquiry last September the state police had the highest number of phony plates, 62 followed by the Department of Consumer Protection, 15.

Meat and Poultry

Consumer Protection Commissioner Thomas

Wilson said the plates were used in fraud investigations and by the department's Meat and Poultry Division.

Motor Vehicles Department spokesman William Heard said there was no law against the use of "suppressed plates," and most were granted to agencies on the presumption they would be used for undercover law enforcement work.

He said he heard Koizowski had never used his suppressed plates but was entitled to them because he was on the deputy commissioner carry badges and are empowered to make arrests.

Heard said he saw no reason why Page should have received the false plates but they were not because he was on Meskill's staff at the time.

Former Motor Vehicle Commissioner John J. Tynan said he personally never used phony plates during his 18 years as head of the department and restricted their use to legitimate police activity.

Tynan, a Democrat who resigned when Republican Gov. Thomas Meskill was elected in 1970, said he would not have given phony plates to department heads "because there was no release and they never asked."

Senate Approves Energy Powers Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has moved toward passage of President Nixon's request for emergency energy powers and the Senate has unanimously agreed to spend $20 billion to make the country self-sufficient in energy within the next decade.

The congressional action came as President Nixon met with his top economic strategists Friday to assess the economic impact of the current energy situation.

The emergency energy legislation was approved by the House Commerce Committee and would authorize Nixon to shift priorities and supplies of fuels to get them to the neediest users. In addition, it would allow the President to order conservation measures to increase fuel supplies.

In the Senate, legislation was approved laying the groundwork for a sweeping

Republicans Play Down Watergate

ATLANTA (UPI) — Republican leaders here today from Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and former Treasury Secretary John Connally after three top GOP spokesmen played down the effects of Watergate on the party.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, refusing to say whether he has decided to resign and run for the presidency, said Friday he hopes the Watergate problems will be resolved soon and the nation will address itself "to real problems."

He called Watergate "a national tragedy" but was quick to add that he considered it "a tragedy, not of the party or the system."

In a speech to delegates at the Southern States Conference, he called for a more diversified Republican party, one which "has the wisdom, the understanding and the courage to embrace a broad spectrum of political thought."

Would Be A Mistake

Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn, while questioning White House judgment in the Watergate incident, said it would be a mistake to replace President Nixon with newly sworn-in Vice President Gerald Ford, partly because of Nixon's expertise in foreign affairs.

Fuel Crisis Termed Urgent

JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter)

Harry Van Camp, chairman of the Manchester Fuel Dealers Association, could not stress the urgency of the present fuel crisis enough Friday at a meeting of town agency officials with Town Manager Robert Weiss.

In acknowledging we have been lucky so far with unusually mild weather for this time of year, Van Camp said even so, the local oil dealers had used all their quotas by the end of the month. He said he would urge everybody to prepare their homes as much as possible to keep cool out and heat in. Discussing acceptable temperatures to maintain within the home, he said it is a scientific fact that the cooler you keep a room, the less likely heat will escape.

Commenting on the problems presented by the suggested new school schedule with early closings, Van Camp said, "I would advise without question cutting out the Adult Education program."

He predicted that by the end of January, with the fuel question what it is, "Everybody will be hurting."

National Republican Chairman George Bush told the approximately 1,200 delegates from 13 Southern states he was "sick and tired of the sideliners critics writing their hands gripping and predicting disaster for this party. The facts don't warrant a Wipeout Issue."

He said, however, he felt Watergate had "a minimal impact on the (1974) election." Watergate hurt, he said, but it was not a wipeout issue for Republicans.

Bush, keynote speaker at the two-day conference, blamed AFL-CIO President George Meany, consumer advocate Ralph Nader "and a handful of others" for most of the campaign to get Nixon out of office.

"I don't feel any grassroots pressure for the President's getting out," he said.
