BOOK REVIEWS

Killers of the Seas, by Edward R. Ricciuti. (Walker, $10) Every ocean swimmer has had a glimpse of fear at the thought of sharks, but who ever thought to worry about killer sharks and man-eating catfish? Well, this author will give you the creeps about the deep in detail you never dreamed — and at the same time reassure you more maligned man-eating and man-eating rays eager to leave swimmers alone.

Dealings With Cheeks, by A.D. Livingston. (Lippincott, $8.95) Do you know how to spot such things as... stacks, two-timing, and edge-work dice? If you gamble, you ought to become these among the tricks of the cheater's trade and the author here tells you how to keep yourself from being taken by anyone but lady luck.

Stalin: The Man and His Era, by Adam B. Ulam. (Viking, $12.95) The Soviet people were never told, but dictator Josef Stalin suffered nervous breakdowns twice, tied the Kremlin after Hitler's invasion of Russia. Neither time did Soviet generals try to displace Russia's "man of steel."

Ulam's "Stalin" presents an enlightening explanation of modern Russia and the postwar world. Gerald P. Nadler (UPI)

Archie's Newest Pal Comes From Naples

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Vincent Gardenia is Archie Bunker's new neighbor on the author of "All in the Family" series, and Archie would certainly move to a new neighborhood if he suspected in real life that Vince was born in Italy.

His home is a two-family Brooklyn, where he has lived all his life. He owns the house and rents out the upstairs apartment to another family.

She is pampered by Conchita, however, whenever he gets home. She is a accomplice to his few possessions as possible. "Like to be as free and unencumbered as possible," he says. "That way I can take any picture offer in Europe or television, assuming that comes my way."

Visits Relatives — He says acting absorbs all his time and most of his thoughts. He signed to appear in only 10 of "All in the Family's" annual 13 new episodes. He spends the rest of his time working in guest appearances on other television shows.

Among his friends in Hollywood are Carroll O'Connor and Jean Stapleton, who star in the CBS series. He has been to their homes frequently for dinner and talk about the good old days when they all worked in New York.

News for Senior Citizens

Hi! Well, it's Wednesday and once again we're here at the regular routine here at the center, and we are starting the Senior Epistle. Part of our story is on Wednesday and the final on Saturday.

I've got some good news for you. Last week I put our order in for our bus, and believe you'll be surprised at the favorable price we received. I'll have all that information a little later on, when everything is all finalized. I had to get the order in now to assure us of a good chance of getting it this spring.

Now I'd like to realize that we are still in the neighborhood of $1,000 short, but I know that if we were able to get this close, by the time our payment we'll make it. Just think, pretty soon now you won't have to be reading about us needing money for the bus. That should be good news, as the old record is wearing out.

Last Friday night we had 44 setback players with the following winners: Mina Reuther, 151; Ernestine Donnelly, 146; Hans Fredrickson, 138; Harry Rouhan, 134; Helen Erickson, 124; Clarence Durhing and Joseph Kearns, 124; William Mcweeney, 120; Eva Lutz and John Gally, 118, and Lyla Steele, 117.

She is your final chance to register for the California trip. Everything is shaping up pretty good now, and before you get it we'll be off and flying. Just about in five weeks as a Table Singers, under the direction of Miss Martha White.

1973 Good Year For Workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan, 1973 was "a good year" for workers. Brennan and his top aides gave their optimistic report at a news conference Tuesday.

"It's a good year, I think, when everybody can still be running their automobile, the ball parks are all full and people have their television sets," Brennan said, adding the qualification that, "we've had some problems in the year."

He said Temco promised it state after it had said earlier it would have to stop because of gasoline prices in Canada.

Costle said Tuesday manufacturers have launched a campaign against air pollution devices because they are being hampered by earlier profit-oriented philosophies of producing big cars with many options.

Sen. Charles T. Alford, D-Suffield, said Tuesday the GOP leaders are afraid the subcommittee, an arm of the Legislative Management Committee, will do its job.

Five new members were appointed to the subcommittee following criticism from deputy majority leader Sen. George L. Gunther, R-Stratford, that legislative leaders failed to make the appointments.

The Democrats also said the appointments were illegal because the membership of the subcommittee was increased from four to six members without the approval of the Legislative Management Committee.

American people who work for a living. "Frankly, I wonder what Pete Brennan is smoking," said President Jerry Wurf of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union. "I think 1973 was probably the most devastating year we've experienced since World War II."

"We had high unemployment, we had unprecedented inflation, we had an outrageously inequitable wage control program and we had the spectacle of an American President chiseling on his income tax. If progress, God help us."

"It's a ridiculous statement," said Patrick Gorman, head of the Meat Cutters union. "We've had a good year for workers."

White House press secretary, when asked in San Clemente, Calif., to comment on the wholesale price jump, said the administration's goal continues to be "a stabilized economy."

Energy Priorities

We have read with more than passing interest the statements made by the president of the National Education Assn. before a Senate education subcommittee in seeking a higher priority for schools in the energy crisis.

Helen D. Wise, who heads the 1.4 million member group, cited the critical importance of education of our children and said it should not be curtailed or sacrificed during the energy crisis.

We agree there should not be a sacrifice of educational quality and curtailment is not necessary — unless we lock ourselves into a traditional nine-month school year.

Curtailment, however, to Mrs. Wise, is a four-day week with longer school days or a longer term.

Her concern over the fact that state rules and laws require school to be open a certain amount of days each year to be eligible for state aid is an obstacle any legislature can overcome.

The real problem is that by tradition we have accepted as inviolate a September to late May or early June school year.

What we can't understand is the objection to a longer winter vacation as being disruptive whereas a three-month summer holiday is not.

The whole concept of a nine-month school term is economic in origin, not educational. It is a throwback to the days when husky boys and girls were needed to help do farm work and other chores in a less industrialized economy.

No, we don't want to shorten the school year or lower the quality of education, but we cannot see how spreading 180 or so school days over 10 months would do any harm to the pupils if it can save energy.

It's disrupting influence on teachers is another story.

Leadership Needed

Sir: As the ice storm has passed and only branches and shattered trees are left, I wonder, what did we learn from this? As the height of the disaster I called the town manager's office. I asked him if he had declared a state of disaster in the town. The reply I received was, "What good would it do?"

I noticed however that various towns that made this declaration had service much sooner than we in this town. If I did not do good, what harm could it have done?"

Next I called the great God governor, Mr. Meskill, and asked if he had declared a state of disaster in the town. As he was sking at the time, he was unable to answer, but his secretary informed me that this was not his responsibility but the White House. One phone call from a Republican governor and possibly we might have had the entire U.S. Army within helicopter time. They have the chain saws, axes, and manpower to have cleaned up the town in 24 hours.

Instead my wife and I saw a huge truck with two National Guardsmen picking up twigs (no exaggeration) for about half an hour.

HELICO has been criticized but I saw a crew with a lift let the bucket down twice during the rain storm and empty from six to eight buckets of water each time. I saw no state vehicles or park department trucks during the entire holocaust.

Why was a state of emergency not called for from either the state or our City of Village Charn?

I was informed that there were 27 units working in town. I traveled about half the town and saw not one unit working. I was told that I looked in the wrong places. Yet an office holder toured the town and reported, I believe, four units at work.

I stand on this statement, that the entire structure from governor to the town manager was lax and guilty of laxity, and I don't care if I am wrong. I will gladly send a letter of apology to the paper and higher authorities. But I do not feel I am wrong.

We had no power as did hundreds from Monday 11:30 a.m. until Friday 6:00 p.m. Where were the 27 units, the qualified units from out of state. Not here. The National Guard was cleaning West Hartford, Glastonbury, Farmington and any town but Manchester. What the town needs is leadership, not laxity.

Oil Prices Go Up

At present the United States is producing about nine million barrels of oil per day. And at the same time we are importing about six million barrels daily.

Of course all of the import oil is not Arabian. Much of our imported oil comes from Venezuela, Canada, Nigeria, Iran and other countries.

The nine million barrels a day which are being produced is not all the oil which the country can produce by any means. It is all the oil which it is economic to bring forth at the controlled price of $5.25 per barrel.

There is much more oil in the country which is not being produced because no one can make any money at the controlled price. Two Texas authorities have estimated that a price rise of several dollars per barrel for oil would almost triple the supply of oil now being produced.

At $5.25 per barrel it is not economic, with few exceptions, to use secondary and tertiary methods of recovery. Drs. Gramm and Davidson say that 90 percent of the United States oil reserves exist in fields which are now considered depleted, since they cannot be operated at the price of $5.25 per barrel.

There are several tried methods of recovering oil from "depleted" fields, which work very well, but cannot be justified at the present price level.

The famous Salt Creek field of Wyoming, backdrop for the Teapot Dome scandal, is still producing oil and it is more than 50 years old. It is produced by a secondary recovery method which has brought up more oil

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

A number of newspapers have announced circulation rate increases to keep pace with the growing cost of newsprint, ink, film, chemicals, and other supplies.

Currently, we are paying $213.50 per ton for some newsprint. Just a short time ago, in October, we could purchase it for $175. If it was available.

Most newsprint is manufactured in Canada and those firms aren't governed by the Cost of Living Council. Much of it is going overseas, the same place that many other items in critical supply are going.

Here at The Herald we are hoping to hold the line on purchase of paper. Those who receive the paper via the U.S. mail may be for an increase because of the postage hike coming in March.

We have heard the suggestion that senior citizens should be able to buy the paper for a dime instead of 15 cents. No way, not only from a cost standpoint but in the bookkeeping area alone, charging two prices is impossible.

Some folks have also wondered why newspapers in metropolitan cities can have a lower price. It is all a matter of volume, just as in any other business, in terms of advertising and circulation.

Now that the speed limit on federal highways has been established at 55, we have another example of how the federal government can spend the money of the taxpayers.

States that lowered the limit to 50, such as Connecticut, will have the new 55-limit signs installed with the federal government picking up the tab. It's another government example of where the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing. States have to conform to the 55-mile limit or lose that precious federal money. It's too bad we aren't in a position to tell the federal government what it can do with its highway money.

What about those thousands of bumper stickers printed with the words, My Limit 50? They should still be effective though. People can save gasoline by holding it 50.

A word of caution to those who might be storing gasoline at home. We read the other day where a gallon of gas is supposed to have the explosive force of 14 sticks of dynamite. Some communities have adopted emergency ordinances that prevent individuals from storing gasoline on home premises. Such ordinances have been requested by fire departments.

No one seems to have the answer as to why buying gasoline in Connecticut is more difficult. We put United Press International on the story, hoping they could do a nationwide recap of service stations, and they didn't come up with an answer either.

Meanwhile, some of our friends who had visitors from the Midwest and elsewhere over the holidays, heard off the remark, "We only had trouble buying gas in Connecticut." One fellow, driving out from Texas, told T.J. Crockett the only problem he experienced was in the Nutmeg State.

Out in Flagstaff, Ariz., that newspaper carried a story that stations have "gas to spare." Some are even open on Sunday; some were open New Year's Day.

Now that we are back on Daylight Saving Time, many folks are wondering why it didn't happen long before. Yet it is probably another example of politicians realizing we have an energy crisis and rushing to the panic button.

And yet, all the nation isn't on it. Indiana is one state that passed legislation exempting it from DST and the Hoosiers are deserving of a little bit of praise for wanting to be on their own. Hawaii doesn't need it because it has a lot of daylight the year around. At least four other states have asked the federal government for an exemption.

A new law went into effect in Illinois this month which Manchester should take a look at.

In that state, motorists are now permitted to make a right turn on a red light if it is safe to do so.

The right turn helps to move traffic. At the same time, we don't believe it presents a safety problem.

If you think Manchester has been around for awhile, Waterbury will observe its 300th birthday the week of June 1-9.

Wonder if Waterbury needs any assistance from Manchester's 150th birthday committee?

We hope the Town of Manchester, and Chamber push efforts toward taking a serious look at the establishment of a mini-bus operation into our various shopping areas.

Meanwhile, the 10-cent bus ride is back downtown in Little Rock, Ark. The bus system was put into operation by the downtown association.

We know the Parkade experimented with a bus for shoppers awhile back but in view of our present crisis we think it would meet with good response.

Out in California, the Supreme Court ruled by a 4-2 majority, that adult children have a responsibility to contribute to the financial support of their aged and indigent parents.

The cases upon which the court acted, involved two elderly women and their sons both well into middle age. The sons contended they couldn't pay the $70 per month of their mother's support as specified in the new California Welfare Act.

The majority opinion pointed out that the duty to parents went back to the state code of 1872 and further to the Elizabethan Poor Law in England in 1602.

The most shocking thing of all, though, is why the support of an elderly parent has to become a case to be settled in court. Some old-timers can recall the days when families took care of their own without public assistance. In fact, accepting such assistance was often termed a disgrace.

Tel. 228-3971

There are only a limited number of tickets available for the exhibition basketball Jan. 26 between the "Jints," members of the New York Giants football team, and the Barritt Mutual All-Stars.

The game at Rham High starts at 2 p.m. and tickets are $2. Proceeds of the game, which is being sponsored by the Recreation Commission and local realtor Richard T. McDonald, will go to local youth sports organizations.

Players
Playing for the "Jints" will be Pete Athas, Scott Hermann, Richard Houston, Bob Hyland, Ron Johnson, Mike Kelly, Spider Lockhart, Ken Parker, and Freeman White.

For the All Stars: In Clements of the Giants will be coaching due to a recent neck injury. Playing will be Paul Warzocha, Ron Jones, George Garrity, Dan Roberts, Bill Fuller, Howie Dickerman, Dave Rybczyk, San Lemanski, Dave Rybczyk, and Tim Luddy.

Preliminary
Players from the Hebron Youth Basketball Organization, to be selected by their coaches, will play in a preliminary game.

As for the "big" game, it should be a toss-up with neither team having a substantial height advantage. The two tallest for the "Jints" are Hyland and White, both 6-8. They will be opposed by Dickerman at 6-4 and Jones, Garrity and Rybczyk, all 6-3.

Following the game, there will be an autograph session where the Giants' player will be available.

Sign Decision Delayed

VIRGINIA CARLSON, Correspondent
Tel. 228-9224

The executive council of the State Building Code Standards Committee has extended the time limit on the decision concerning the Landmark Drugstore sign as it awaits receipt and examination of the transcript of the last meeting on that subject Nov. 30.

A decision will then be submitted to the selectmen, according to First Selectman Joseph Szegda.

The case concerns the town and Sam Pescatelli, building official, versus Francis Beckish, owner of the Landmark.

Mrs. Beckish appealed to the state Building Codes Standard Committee last summer on the decision of the town's Building Code Board of Appeals (BCBA). The appeal concerned a sign permit application brought to the BCBA.

The Landmark closed last week and, according to Mrs. Beckish, the business is for lease but the building is not for sale.

Motorboat Problems

Marshall Nuhfer, who was appointed to the Lake Association committee, has asked the selectmen to appoint two more members to the committee on the study of rights-of-ways and boat encroachment of rights-of-ways. In order to get a cross-section of views, suggestions and recommendations, Nuhfer asked the members not be lakefront owners nor be associated with rights-of-ways.

Other members of the committee, appointed by the Lake Association, are Audrey Miller, Roy Ferguson and Arthur Quimby.

"We want to chew the thing out and come up with some suggested rules and regulations to the selectmen who can review them and send them back for further work or call a town meeting," said Nuhfer.

Earlier in 1972 the selectmen received notice from the association about a possible ordinance that would control boat moorings, rights-of-ways and docks.

The purpose of the ordinance was to regulate the mooring of all types of boats on the lake in front of their property. It was proposed that all lakefront property owners would have the provision of mooring boats on the lake in front of their property.

It was further proposed that the use of lake rights-of-ways be restricted to those entitled to it by their property deed and then only for swimming purposes. The selectmen were to provide areas for the mooring of boats for other than lakefront property owners. The town beach and the dike were suggested.

About 50 persons turned out at the September selectmen's meeting after it was learned about the proposed ordinance through newspapers after the August association meeting. Questions concerned parking and overloading at the town beach mooring. At the time it was decided the selectmen would review the problem.

Travelers Responds To Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee report says The Travelers Corp. was the only major life insurance stock company in the nation to complete a response to a government study on corporation holdings.

The study was initiated to get the government to force investment firms to disclose more data.

It revealed Travelers was ninth in the nation's 28 largest investors with assets of at least $5 billion.

High Court Rules On Grand Jury Witnesses Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has ruled a grand jury witness may not refuse to answer questions on the grounds they are based on evidence illegally seized by police.

On a 5-3 vote Tuesday, the Court refused to extend to witnesses at grand jury proceedings the "exclusionary rule" which applies in federal trials. That rule prevents use in federal trials of evidence seized in violation of the fourth amendment's ban against "unreasonable search and seizures."

The case involved a Cleveland grand jury investigating possible loan-sharking activities. One of the witnesses called was John Calandra, president of the Royal Machine and Tool Co. in Cleveland.

FBI agents had conducted a search of the company's premises under a warrant con-

Kennedy Thanks Pleases Family

There are four very staid children in the Mulvey household on Wales Rd. They were the recipients of a thank you note from Ted Kennedy Jr. The four children, Dawn 16, Cindy 13, Kelly 9 and Timothy 6, upon hearing of young Kennedy's recent operation, sent a large Snoopy get well card to Georgetown University Hospital to "Teddy" sending their thoughts and prayers and wishing him every hope that he would be walking again soon. Instigator of the children's effort, according to their mother, Mrs. Richard Mulvey, was Cindy who herself had spent some time in a hospital with rheumatic fever and who knows what it is like to be "in a hospital when a kid."

Teddy's note, which was handwritten on a plain white card, stated: "Thank you for sending your feelings, notes and thoughts and remembering me in your prayers. The little time I took you to write these notes encouraged me greatly and now I am just beginning to walk. Thank you very much for thinking of me." The note was signed Teddy Kennedy Jr.

The children, who still can't believe they have actually received a thank you note from Teddy, are taking turns bringing it to school to show to their friends.

After that, it will be carefully placed in Cindy's scrapbook along with other family memorabilia.

The GOP Town Committee will meet Jan. 15 to elect a town chairman.

At a recent committee meeting Paul Diehl was nominated for the post. Acting chairman, Margaret Jacobson, who is vice chairman of the committee, was also nominated but declined to accept.

Nominations will be accepted from the floor. Only members of the town committee are eligible to vote in selection of the chairman.

Plans for the Lincoln Day roast beef dinner was also completed at the recent meeting. The dinner will be held Saturday, Feb. 9 at 9 p.m. at St. Mary's Church Hall on Rt. 31.

Plans are for entertainment and door prizes at the dinner. Tickets are $3.75 each and may be purchased from Jhn Druge or Walter Thorp.

GOP To Elect Chairman Jan. 15

Also present at the meeting were State Sen. David Odegar and State Rep. Jesse Brainard. They reported to the committee on bills to be presented in the coming session of the legislature.

Brainard reported he had received information that the Connecticut Light and Power Co. has been estimating light bills for the area that are quite high, and consequently the power company has the use of the customers' money for 30 days at a time without paying interest on that money.

He said that if after investigation he found this to be a fairly prevalent practice he would introduce a bill in the legislature to eliminate it.

He went on to say that after reviewing the voting record of the last legislature he felt that the representatives were not a rubber stamp for the governor. He said that the representatives tried their best to represent their towns and districts.

He stated that the New Community Referendum Bill may not get into this session, but that he was trying for it. There is a possibility that this bill could come in under an emergency bill.

Odegar reported there will probably be pay raises for state employees this session but said that just because it is an election year, "we are not going to give the state away to the state employees." He stated that at the present time reclassification was being conducted for all state employees.

Odegar also reported that a phosphate ban bill will be acted on in this session and that the blue laws would be revised.

Fashions Influenced By Energy Crisis

BETTY RYDER
Women's Editor

NEW YORK — The fashion industry has taken steps to aid the energy crisis by designing a group of spring and summer outfits from fabrics that can be washed in cold water.

The Federal Energy Office has asked all homemakers to adopt cold-water laundering with a cold-water detergent as a major energy-saving measure in the home.

At the Waldorf Astoria, editors attending the 62d Press Week viewed a show which included fashions by 11 leading designer-manufacturers, all dramatizing the modern woman's demand for a wide range of round-the-clock clothes that are easy and inexpensive to care for and energy saving with cold water machine laundering.

Colorful prints, polyester knits, nylon and cotton, as well as 100 per cent acrylic were among the fabrics used in fashionable, dynamic-looking clothes for all occasions.

For the sporty look, casual attire, or the out-on-the-town ensemble, clothes can be obtained in fabrics that thrive on cold water care.

And for the romantic, the evening wear in this unique energy-saving collection is designed to be worn by candlelight. The Carive collection for spring '74 features long "wrap-up" dresses draped or tied to the side with shirring falling from the shoulders.

The dress with something extra (a jacket) is popular this season with short cropped jackets or slightly longer ones just skimming the hipline.

Mini-dot border prints, dolman sleeves and overblouses reminiscent of the early forties again hit the fashion scene.

Soft, warm, fragile prints, billowing chiffons and buttons and bows are all fused into smart stylish costumes. In all the collections viewed so far this week during the New York Couture Business Council presentations, one thing is evident — the look of the "lady" has returned.

Aging Drug Addict Becoming A Problem

By LESTER C. KJOS

MIAMI (UPI) - When a drug addict gets old, he doesn't just disappear, as it sometimes seems. He fades away.

Dr. Emil F. Pascarelli, director of community health services at Roosevelt Hospital in New York City, says the problem of the elderly addict is growing more serious every year and within the next two decades could multiply drastically.

Pascarelli called for more attention to the lifelong user of heroin and other drugs, despite such users' lack of visibility.

The old-time addict, usually a loner, doesn't just die or give up drugs," Pascarelli said at a meeting of the National Gerontological Association in Miami recently.

"He digs himself into the community and maintains a low profile, thereby avoiding harassment, arrest and public attention. He has decreased his illegal and antisocial behavior, but he is still there, and he needs help," he said.

Pascarelli said of 330 persons in treatment at Roosevelt Hospital, three were over 70, three over 60 and 31 over 50.

He said as an addict became older, he frequently switched from heroin to a substitute such as a drug called hydromorphone, which he still obtained from a street pusher.

"The street-walker older addict - remember he is among a group of elite survivors - is aware of the poor quality of heroin, its low potency and the dangers of overdose syndrome," Pascarelli said.

Social Security

Q. I have been a self-employed barber for the past 30 years. I plan to retire in June when I become 65. In carrying my shop and all my equipment to another barber, what proofs must I bring to the Social Security office when I file for retirement benefits?

A. In addition to proof of your age and your Social Security number we will need a copy of your 1973 tax return and a receipt showing that your Social Security taxes for 1973 were paid. And the bill of sale of your barber shop.

Q. My brother, who was a bachelor, died last month and I was appointed executor of his estate. I understand Social Security pays a death benefit. What must I do to collect this benefit?

A. It will be necessary to obtain a short form certificate of appointment as executor from Probate Court. You will also need a death certificate, your brother's Social Security account number, an itemized receipt funeral bill. In the event you have not paid the funeral expenses you may authorize a direct payment to the funeral director. You may file a claim at any Social Security office.

Q. I'm planning to retire later this year, but I'm worried about proving my age for Social Security retirement benefits. The only proof I have is a notation of my birth in a large family bible, but my sister who has the bible lives in Chicago. Should I have her send the bible to me?

A. No, it would be easier and less expensive for both of you if your sister took the bible to a Social Security office near her home. They would copy it, certify its authenticity, and then mail the information to our office.

Q. I plan to stop working March 1. Can you tell me what proofs are necessary for me to bring to the Social Security office when I file for retirement benefits?

A. You should bring your Social Security account number, proof of your age, and your earnings for 1973 and up to the time you retire in 1974.

Q. When I become 62 later this year, I want to retire and get Social Security benefits, but I can't find any documents to prove my date of birth. Now what can I do?

A. Get in touch with any Social Security office, and the people there will be glad to help you. Although you may not have a copy of a birth or baptism record, one of these may still be shown on official records. If not, there are other documents, such as a census record, a school record, or an insurance policy, that can be used to establish your age.

Council To Compile

The state and, in turn to the federal government in the hope the area will benefit from federal low-cost loans.

The council is obtaining ideas from members, Civil Preparedness officials, town officers and others as to what to include and recommend.

A sense of urgency in completing the project was noted as Clark mentioned, and the council agreed, winter is not over and "another storm could cause power outages."

Prior to discussing the two projects, Clark informed the council of Chamber activities during the storm and the town's officials and James "Dutch" Fogarty, the town's Civil Preparedness director.

Clark reported on the program instituted last week in which the Chamber is acting as a go-between on complaints from consumers against gas stations and the Department of Consumer Protection.

It was reported that only a "handful of inquiries" have been received and most had been handled to the mutual satisfaction of both parties.

Clark announced that the Chamber is planning to hold a meeting to discuss the problem of gas stations.

He stressed, however, that the Chamber is planning to hold a meeting to discuss the problem of gas stations.

Storm Losses Survey

Townpeople who suffered financial losses to their homes in last month's ice storm crisis were urged today to inform town officials of the losses to assist the state in acquiring federal declaration of Connecticut as a disaster area.

Town Manager Robert Weiss asked residents to write to him about their losses by the end of next week.

Tangible losses which should be specified could include costs of fallen tree removal, property damage, heating system repairs, broken pipe repairs.

Financial loss to private homes. The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is taking a survey of local businesses to their losses.

Urging acquisition on behalf of their organizations were Althea Potter, president of the Manchester League of Women Voters.

Dr. Robert Stanton, speaking for the proposal, said he was speaking also for the residents of Timrod Rd. Dr. Stanley Milewski, also a proponent.

Dr. Douglas Smith, former chairman of the Chamber's Beautification Committee, urged acquisition.

Also backing the acquisition were Truman Cowles, Roger Lemelin, Edward Dennis and Hayden Grayson Jr.

Mrs. Michael Swetes, an opponent of the proposal, said, "We have lots of land now we aren't using, including wooded land from here to Bolton and Glastonbury."

He stressed, however, that the Chamber is planning to hold a meeting to discuss the problem of gas stations.

Cougars Cling to Lead And Defeat Housatonic

By Chris Blake

Apparently, success has spoiled the Manchester Community College basketball team. Leading by as many as 14 points with four minutes remaining, the Cougars had to hang on to down CCAA rival Housatonic Community College, 68-62, last night in a rugged, foul-plagued contest at Cheney Tech.

A Herculean effort on the boards by MCC center Ernie Moore told the story. Moore corralled a school-record 28 rebounds, including 17 in the second half when needed most.

In addition, Moore was Manchester's top scorer with 15 points. Greg Moody added 11 and Curt Iverson and Tom Tucker chipped in with 10 apiece.

The game was by no means a shooters' dream. The Cougars shot 32 per cent while the Hawks were much better at 37 per cent.

After a nip-and-tuck first half which saw MCC take a 31-30 lead into the locker room, fouls took over for the second half.

Indians Roll Up Lead And Hold On for Win

By Len Auster

At first, the Manchester High basketball team had the tilt securely in its hip pocket, then it fell flat High out of the trap. But Coach Jim Moriarty's Indians had enough left under the stretch to stage of a furious second-half rally.

It was a second-half rally that registered an 85-70 verdict over their CCLL foe in Meriden last night. This was the second straight victory for Moriarty's Indians after they had lost their first game to the Hawks.

Moriarty says he's "leary" that he might be traded now that the Chicago White Sox have Ron Santo, but as far as he's concerned, the Indians saw their lead quickly dissipate as Platt outscored the locals, 28-6, to close within six, 47-41, with 4:35 left. Just prior to this juncture, Moriarty reinstated his starting lineup which he had removed with more than five minutes left in the third stanza.

The quintet of Carl Carlson, Paul Bushy, Jack Maloney, John Fenney, and John Keenan yielded five unanswered points.

"Unl's I Cheat" LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Silver-haired Pete Newell, the highly respected general manager of the Los Angeles Lakers, has taken "I cheat" as his motto.

"I've heard it too many times from men I respect and it's a helluva indictment. If it's the case, there's something terribly wrong."

name Prothro SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Youth, trades and live football can be topped from the San Diego Chargers next season by Tom Prothro as head coach.

"It's never believed in ball control," he told a new conference after being given a long-term contract Tuesday to coach the club. "If I have a choice, I favor the big play. Time of possession doesn't mean a damn thing to me."

"Bitter and Dirty" SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Outspoken Ohio State coach Woody Hayes says recruiting is getting "more bitter and dirty" than ever.

Falling before a powerful Waterford High wrestling team, the East Catholic matmen lost their second meet in as many starts yesterday, 51-12, at the Eagles' nest.

The only two Eagle victories were scored in the 123-pound and 128-pound weight classes respectively as Steve Turgen won on a pin at 1:49 and Dave Skrabut pinned his opponent at 5:40.

Games Reset

Manchester High's two postponed games against Bristol schools due to the recent ice storm have been rescheduled.

The Indians will face Central Monday night and Eastern Wednesday night at the Clarke Arena. Dave Higgins, director of athletics, said.

The Tribes will also be in action here next Friday against Maloney High of Berlin. This Friday the locals travel to East Hartford to oppose Penney High.

On the other side of the ledger, Coventry bowed to Bacon Academy, 65-40, in a COC confrontation and NCCU leader Ellington High dropped out of the unbeaten ranks losing to Pulaski High, 44-40, in non-conference play.

Senior indoors upped its record to 5-1 in the CVC with an easy 81-57 trouncing of Southington High on its home court. Senior 6-6 center Tom Goodwin parred the way with 24 points while Neal Mackey and Blair Buecher added 17 and 14 markers respectively to the Bobcat total. Ray Michanyuk lost scoring honors with 29 for Southington.

One Expert Was Wrong, Left Early

Interesting Observation: Before East Catholic High and South Catholic High met on the basketball court last Saturday in a battle of undefeated clubs one expert said: If East tries to run with South, South will win by 40 points. And, if East plays a slow-down game, South will win by 20. Coach Stan Ogradnik's Eagles played both ways and wound up a 12-point victory. The prognosticating expert was seen leaving the University of Hartford gym several minutes before the final buzzer sounded. "The victory was a complete team effort," Ogradnik said. Tom Goodwin, the stand-out center with Coach Charlie Sharos' fine South Windsor High basketball team is following in his father's footsteps. Young Tom, at 6-6, is the same height as his Dad, Ken, who played several seasons with Manchester hoop entries in Eastern and American League warfare. The latter started at the University of Rhode Island before joining the pro ranks. East Catholic High's basketball team featured two sets of brothers this season. Seniors Ron and Don Soucier have been joined by Mike and Cephus Nolen with the varsity cagers. Don Soucier, who was injured early in the season, has rejoined his teammates. Manchester Country Club will name two new members to its Board of Governors at Tuesday night's meeting to replace John Dymant and Merrill Whiston. Bill Lilliman, Hartford Civic Center director, is a man of action as well as one who changes his mind. Earlier, Lilliman told me that he was leaning to the American Hockey League franchise for Hartford and wasn't giving the World Hockey Association any serious consideration for a home in the new Hartford Center to open next January. Lilliman's arguments for an AHL franchise made sense as it is an established league, with much smaller overhead, and a Hartford entry would be a natural with New Haven, Springfield and Providence neighboring foes. The WHA clubs are losing money and several are on the brink of folding. Despite this, Lilliman has opened his arms to the WHA and tossed a wet sponge at the AHL.

Officials Went Unnoticed

Quick now, who's the oldest active player in the NBA? If you guess Larry Wilkens of Cleveland, go to the head of the class. The Cleveland Cavalier star, out of Providence College, was 36 last October. When you view a basketball game and hardly notice the officials, the whistle-blowers rate a line. This was the case recently when Dave Turkington of Manchester and Frosty Johnson of West Hartford teamed up to handle a scholastic tilt of importance. Two friends of many years on the sportswriting team were in the news recently. Death took Arthur Daley, the Pulitzer prize-winning columnist with the Boston Globe. Many a time and many an hour we traveled and worked side by side, on the major sports scene. A clipboard was one of his characteristics. Harold Kaese, a board member of the highest degree, has stepped down after 30 years as a sports columnist with the Boston Globe. Kaese was one of the warmest friends from Boston ever encountered around the baseball beat. Spring training just won't seem the same without running into men like Arthur Daley, Jimmy Cannon and Mill Gross, all of whom died recently, and Kaese. The latter always carried a little black book full filled with facts and figures on the Boston Red Sox.

All-Star Selections Star in NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave DeBusschere, Bob McAdoo, Rick Barry, Phil Chenier and Sidney Wicks all showed again Tuesday night when they were chosen for next week's National Basketball Association All-Star game.

DeBusschere, hitting on 14 of 26 field goal attempts, finished with 31 points in leading New York to a 108-90 triumph over the Bulls for the Knicks' first win in Chicago since Feb. 17, 1972.

The Knicks led by nine points at the end of the first period and by 25 at the end of the half as DeBusschere connected on seven of 10 field goal tries and netted 15 points in the first quarter and 19 before the intermission.

Wait Frazier connected for 24 points for the Knicks while Bob McAdoo was high for the Bulls with 18.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Buffalo downed Atlanta, 109-96. Golden State beat Houston, 104-82. Capital edged Los Angeles, 94-92, and Portland whipped Kansas City-Omaha, 123-110.

McAdoo's 32, points and 20 rebounds as the Braves moved to a half game ahead of the Hawks for six of the seven field goal attempts in the final quarter in bringing the Bulls back from a 25-point deficit. His free throw with 25 seconds remaining gave Capital a 91-88 lead, and two free throws by Elvin Hayes and one by Mike Floriani offset a pair of layups by Jim Price. Gail Goodrich of the Lakers tied Chenier for scoring honors with 27 points.

Chenier scored 11 of his game-high 27 points in the final four minutes to help Capital beat Los Angeles. Chenier hit 11 of 17 free throws and 11 of 17 field goal attempts.

Unsed Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wes Unsed, long troubled by knee problems, will be lost to the Capital Bullets at least until Jan. 17 while his arthritic left knee is placed in a walking cast for the third time this season.

Although team physician Dr. Stan Levine said that "surgery is probably the ultimate answer," he added that Unsed must do further damage to the knee by playing on it. The Bullets and Unsed are trying to avoid surgery so that he will be available for the rest of the season.

Santo Signs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ron Santo, moving crosstown after 14 years with the Cubs, has signed a two-year contract with the Chicago White Sox.

The star third baseman was acquired by the White Sox several weeks ago after he rejected an earlier offer to bid to trade him to San Diego.

Rookie Sidelined

Sacharak required 10 stitches to close the wound Tuesday after he broke a shower stall door at his Long Beach, N.Y. home.

McGinley Retires

HARTFORD (UPI) — Arthur Bosworth "Art" McGinley, 84, dean of Connecticut sports writers and sports editor of the Hartford Times for more than 50 years, announced his retirement Tuesday.

Squaring his record at 1-1 Iling's ninth graders trounced Webb Junior High of Wethersfield yesterday, 40-43. Bob Noonan (18), Bill Gagnon (15) and Mike Sherman (15) led the local point-makers. Noonan, Sherman and Jeff Backofen did the bulk of the rebounding.

EAST GIRLS

More than doubling the scoring output of Our Lady of the Angels Academy, East Catholic High's girls basketball team scored a 49-22 decision in Enfield yesterday. East led at the periods, 6-1, 19-3 and 29-9. Scoring honors went to East's Judy Lauder with 13 points. Gail Tamonaco (10), Dec. Cassette (9) and Sue Carney (7) helped in the scoring department. # Dolphins Far From One Big Happy Family

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

HOUSTON (UPI) — You know it is this close to Super Bowl time, nobody wants to rock the boat.

The super-efficient staff which churns out the publicity for the Miami Dolphins would like you to believe the world champions are one big happy family, to coin a phrase.

Miami's management would like you to believe the same thing. It's a perfectly understandable except for one thing. It isn't true.

The fact is there are some unhappy members among the Dolphins, and what they're unhappy about is a piece of management policy which obviously wasn't too well thought out because it reflects partially toward the married players over the bachelors.

Word, it seems, filtered down from Joe Robbie, the man upstairs who calls the shots, that management would pay the hotel and transportation expenses for all the Miami players' wives coming here for Sunday's Super Bowl game with Minnesota.

Not a word was said about the bachelors on the club, fellows like Jake Scott, Larry Little, Martin Briscoe, Jim Mandich and Mary Fleming to name only a few. If they wished to have their mothers or girl friends come here and see the game, they'd have to pay for them themselves.

The bachelors felt the invitation was discriminatory, that management was being cheap.

Criticism Continues

Grant Fires Salvos Again at NFL Czar

HOUSTON (UPI) — The relationship between Bud Grant, the taciturn coach of the Minnesota Vikings, and pro football czar Pete Rozelle is as acrid today as the frigid snow zero weather back in Bloomington, Minn.

In a rare direct challenge to Rozelle's authority, Grant continued to criticize his team's Super Bowl training facilities even though an NFL official warned him that he might be fined by Rozelle for doing it.

Jim Kensil, the executive director of the NFL, phoned Jim Finks, the Vikings' general manager, and told him to tell Grant "there could be a fine" for Grant's remarks.

"I don't want to be under a handicap," Grant said. "Both teams worked out Tuesday as they started the final count-down of practice sessions for Sunday's clash.

Shula and Grant disagreed slightly on the Vikings' image on the field. Shula said, "The offensive identity of the Vikings the last two years has changed completely now that they've got guys like one each by Sparyk Leggs and Mark Simmonell.

Nassif Arms topped Wyman Oil, 15-4 as Bruce Johnson led five points. Jim Tierney (4) and Al Glenn (3) led the Oilers.

Hartford Wins

The University of Hartford defeated undefeated Bentley 99-82 to win the Palm Beach Atlantic Invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night in Florida.

There was a meeting at Biscayne, Fla., where the Dolphins trained last week, and some of the players got up and spoke their piece in front of Vice President and head coach Don Shula.

"They knew he wasn't responsible but they still wanted him to know they were pissed off," Jake Scott stood up and said, "What's going on here, Shula, are you a vice president or not?"

Mary Fleming who used to be with Green Bay and who's playing in his fifth Super Bowl, wanted to say something. He told everybody how the late Vince Lombardi made sure that when the Packers handed out mink stoles to the wives of the Green Bay players on Christmas, the mothers of the bachelors on the team received the same gift.

Fleming Stands Up Too

"Yes, I stood up in that meeting, too," says Mary Fleming. "I said that since we are a team, we should go as a team. I also said I thought the married guys should stand up for the single guys."

Mary Fleming sat down and Larry Conka immediately got up. Larry Conka is married and a devoted family man, but he didn't let that get in the way of speaking out against what he felt was an injustice.

"He said if the club couldn't pay for the mothers, then he'd be willing to pay for his wife's expenses," says Larry Little, the Dolphins' superb offensive guard.

Government Should Stay Out Of Business, Says Meskill

SOI R. COHEN

Gov. Thomas Meskill drew tremendous applause from Manchester Kiwanians Tuesday when he said, "I don't believe government can do anything well but raise and spend money."

His remark was in answer to the question, "How do you feel about the suggestion that the oil industry be turned into a public utility?"

Gov. Meskill, in Manchester for three appearances Tuesday, spoke at a noon luncheon of the Manchester Kiwanis Club at the Manchester Country Club before over 100 persons — the largest turnout in recent years at a Kiwanis meeting.

He was introduced by GOP Town Chairman A. Paul Bertie who, along with State Sen. David Odegar, accompanied him in his Manchester visits.

Meskill said his philosophy of government is "a hands-off policy, where business is concerned."

He conceded there will be a great public clamor for a federal takeover of the oil companies.

"That doesn't mean it will be done," he said.

He compared socialization of the oil interests to Medicare which, he insisted, hasn't proven to be better than health care would have been if handled by private insurance companies.

He said there is no truth to the general belief that Connecticut is being picked on in the gas and oil crisis and that it's in worse shape, deliberately, than other states.

"It's not true," he said. "All the eastern states have problems. It's not by design. We must realize we have no refineries in New England."

He pointed out that last November, where there were important local issues, people came out to vote and Republicans were elected.

"If we have a dull state campaign, with few issues," he warned, "Watergate may become an issue. People will lose interest and will stay home."

Acknowledging the state may experience an economic recession this year, he said the administration still will offer some kind of tax relief — possibly a cut in the sales tax. "The tax relief may not be as much as originally expected, but it will be there," he promised. He said the large 1973-74 surplus will be taken into consideration.

He said he was opposed to a state income tax in 1970 and still is.

He said, "I'm just as antagonistic toward the oil companies as other citizens, but there's not much we can do here. The people in Washington are doing everything they can to free up more gasoline for New England and to control the prices. We must remember the oil companies are in business to make a profit. They'll go where they can make the best profit — sometimes, in direct contrast to proposed distribution plans."

Asked the inevitable question, "How was the skiing up in Vermont?" he replied, "My report, or the ski report?"

He explained, as he had earlier at Manchester High School, that he had promised to take his son skiing and that, when he felt his office had the ice-crisis situation well in hand, he did, but came back when he saw the crisis deepening.

When told by one Kiwanian, "The resentment people feel is because the doctor was not around when the patient needed him," he replied, "I suppose you're right."

Earlier, he had conceded that the Vermont skiing incident could very well hurt him politically.

Asked a second inevitable question, "Are you a candidate for re-election?" he said he hasn't made up his mind.

Earlier, he had said he considers himself a candidate at this time, but reserves the right to change his mind. He said he must consider his obligations as a husband and as a father to his five children.

He said "looking at it objectively," "Watergate should have little effect on the November state election."

"The biggest problem for the Republicans, as far as Watergate is concerned," he said, "is a moral problem — a defeatist attitude."

He pointed out that last November, where there were important local issues, people came out to vote and Republicans were elected.

"If we have a dull state campaign, with few issues," he warned, "Watergate may become an issue. People will lose interest and will stay home."

Acknowledging the state may experience an economic recession this year, he said the administration still will offer some kind of tax relief — possibly a cut in the sales tax. "The tax relief may not be as much as originally expected, but it will be there," he promised. He said the large 1973-74 surplus will be taken into consideration.

He said he was opposed to a state income tax in 1970 and still is.

He said Connecticut's sales tax, though higher than in most states, is more non-regressive than most. Principally because of the many exceptions afforded the taxpayer.

Had they known the truth, they could have left their homes for other quarters."

He concluded, "Sometimes — and it's equally true in politics — it's better not to answer all questions. But if you do, make sure the answers are true."

Registration for spring semester classes will take place through Thursday in the registrar's office in the administration building on the main campus. ## College Offers Credit Course In English

"English as a Second Language," a three-credit course designed to improve the understanding, speaking, reading and writing of English of persons for whom English is not the native language, will be offered during the spring semester by Manchester Community College.

Classes will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning on Jan. 21, from 10 to 10:50 a.m. in Room A5 on the main campus.

Although the class is oriented toward individuals who have a basic knowledge of English, the small size of the classes has allowed instruction to be individualized according to students' needs. Students also will participate in group activities planned to meet problems common to all of the students.

Registration for spring semester classes will take place through Thursday in the registrar's office in the administration building on the main campus. The hours will be 1 to 4 and 6 to 7:30 p.m. A second registration period will be held next Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 14 and 15, during the same hours.

Anyone wishing further information about the course can call the instructor, Mrs. Dorothy Horwitz, at college extension 371.

Bolton Town Gets $15,047 In Revenue Share

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
Tel. 646-0375

The town has received a check for $15,047 which represents its share of revenue sharing funds for the second quarter of the fourth entitlement period.

Thus far the amount received from revenue sharing is $22,890.74 which includes interest. The funds have been placed in an executive proposal for the construction of a new town library.

Next week the Board of Finance will meet to approve or disapprove the expenditure of funds.

A Town Meeting has been tentatively scheduled for Jan. 28 at which time residents can either accept or reject the proposal.

Selections Meetings
Selections meetings have been scheduled for the first and third Monday of each month throughout 1974. When Monday is a holiday, the meeting will be postponed for a week.

Summarizes Storm Week
Clifford Massey, civil preparedness coordinator, in a letter to Col. William Dickson, civil preparedness coordinator for District III, summarized emergency operations in the town during the recent storm crisis which resulted in power failure to most of Connecticut.

He noted the services available to residents, how they were utilized and the work of many volunteers during the emergency.

Heard Complaint
One selectman said at the meeting that he heard a complaint or two about services during the emergency.

The services rendered during the emergency were all rendered by volunteers.

Many of them gave up a week's pay from their regular jobs to stay in town and help in case they were needed.

These volunteers cleared the roads of storm debris, watched for fallen lines, manned the firehouse for 24 hours a day, and on the second day of the storm opened and manned Herrick Memorial Park as an emergency shelter.

They moved two families to more comfortable surroundings and by the end of the first day had obtained and given out instructions on how to drain furnaces and pipes to those who injured.

Storm Debris Pickup
Town highway crew will continue to pick up storm debris daily as time permits.

Residents are reminded to leave any debris, from the storm only, in neat piles in front of their homes as close to the road as possible.

Although the National Guard did assist in the cleanup over the weekend with two trucks and 20 men, it is not known if they will return.

About 100 loads of debris were hauled to the rear of the town garage by the volunteers.

Col. Nathan Agostinelli, commander of the 168th Infantry Battalion, will be sent to thank you by the selectmen for the work of the National Guardsmen over the weekend.

The men were still talking about Morra's help when they returned to their headquarters.

Agostinelli said in a phone conversation to a Bolton resident that although the guardsmen worked hard every one of them was impressed by the work of Bolton's First Selectman Richard Morra.

Kissinger To Discuss Mideast Issues With Egyptian Leader

United Press International Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will arrive in Cairo Thursday for talks with President Anwar Sadat on the Geneva negotiations on Arab-Israeli military disengagement, diplomatic sources said today in Cairo.

Israeli sources also have reported an imminent Kissinger visit to Jerusalem in hope of straightening out the disengagement problem so the peace talks could get on to major political questions.

White House officials said Kissinger will discuss with President Sadat the Egyptian reaction to the Geneva talks.

While at Aswan, Sadat has been planning wide-scale administrative changes to place the emphasis on Egyptian economic development, education and scientific research, the newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

Conference officials in Geneva said the short meeting today and the six-day break will allow Egypt and Israel to consider the Israeli disengagement proposals.

The conference officials said the military men in Geneva are unable to handle such sensitive political talks and that they will allow the technical details of disengagement decisions only after they are made by their governments.

The Military Working Group continued its discussions and decided to meet again on Tuesday Jan. 15 at 4 p.m. in a brief statement said after today's session between General Fahal Magdoub of Egypt and Moshe Dayan of Israel, and their aides.

It was the sixth session of the talks.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said last week he explained Israel's attitude on disengagement plans to Kissinger in Washington, but that the Egyptian reaction to them had not yet come.

Heavy Exertion Warning Issued

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Health Commissioner Douglas S. Lloyd today warned middle aged and older men that heavy exertion while shoveling snow could lead to a heart attack.

Lloyd also said anyone with a history of high blood pressure, heart ailments or obesity should hire someone else to shovel snow or move a stalled automobile.

Middle aged and older men not used to strenuous work should start shoveling snow, Lloyd said. If they cannot avoid the task, Lloyd said, they should shovel the snow in "small bites" and take "frequent rest periods."

Lloyd also cautioned motorists not to start a car inside a garage unless the garage door is open, to avoid asphyxiation.

Man Pleads Innocent To Charge of Robbery

Barnes St. Pierre, 30, of East Hartford, pleaded innocent today to a robbery charge in a proposed emergency package which includes energy power for the governor and a change in utility rate structures.

Other proposals in the package include a long-term state energy bond, a state "truth-in-energy" law, and a program to provide energy facts to consumers, the use of waste energy by industry, and requests for Congressional action.

The emergency energy powers proposal would authorize the governor to expand the definition of emergency during the Civil Preparedness Act.

A Connecticut energy bond would obtain funds on projected energy supplies and demand over 5-year, 10-year and 20-year periods, said Post.

A "truth-in-energy" bill would guarantee to consumers facts on the energy consumption of necessities and conveniences such as heating and air conditioning systems, automobiles and appliances, Post said.

Another proposal, encompassing government, utilities and industry, would establish the establishment of "total energy systems." One such system would use waste heat generated in a manufacturing process to heat an office building, Post said.

Two of the resolutions which were among the requests to Congress have already been implemented or at least planned by now — Daylight Saving Time and gasoline rationing.

Other proposals to be aired at the hearing deal with a grant to public transportation, incentives for home insulation and changes in the building code regarding lighting and insulation.

Post said a proposal to tax motor vehicles according to weight and horsepower was "these grants to public transportation, incentives for home insulation and changes in the building code regarding lighting and insulation."

Investment Firm Buys Bishop Corner's Tracts

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — A West Hartford-Bloomfield investment firm says it has acquired land and buildings on two additional commercial tracts at the Bishop's Corner Shopping complex.

Harold Konover Investments said Tuesday it has purchased 6.3 acres on the southwest corner which contains Hartford National Bank, Aetna Insurance Co. and several retail shops.

Also bought were nine acres on the southeast quadrant, including the building in which the First National Bank and Value House are located.

Konover said he plans to turn the shopping complex into "an investment in the interest of meeting the balanced needs of the area."

He said future considerations will be given for such areas as vehicle and pedestrian mall movement, pedestrian mall and new concepts in retailing.

Vet Council Hears Talk About Rocky Hill Home

Guerrino J. Agostinelli, executive officer of the Rocky Hill Veterans Home and Hospital, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Veterans Council at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Agostinelli, a Manchester native, attended local schools prior to entering the U.S. Army in World War II. Before being appointed to his present post in 1966, he served as state service officer for the WPAW and national service officer for the Disabled American Veterans, AMVets and American Legion.

He told the group that the Rocky Hill facility, which was dedicated in 1960, replaced the Pitches Home in the North Hills. The Pitches Home was the first veterans home in the United States and was dedicated in 1894, he said.

The Rocky Hill Home and Hospital, he said, has facilities for 750 veterans in the home and a hospital of 350 beds. The hospital has a physical medicine and rehabilitation service, surgery, radiology and pathology departments, a laboratory and a medical library.

He said that the veterans who live in the "barracks" are part of a unique work therapy plan.

Guests at the council meeting included commanders of all Manchester veterans organizations and presidents of their auxiliaries.

Burt Dittus, development director of Manchester Memorial Hospital, extended greetings from the hospital, which has hosted the council's annual meetings for the past three years.

Edward Dupre, council chairman, announced that the February meeting will be at Manchester Community College.

In Miner Case

St. Pierre is being held on $100,000 bond at the Connecticut Correctional Center, Hartford.

Another man charged with murder in the case — Paul A. Guesis, 47, formerly of East Hartford — is being held in a California jail on burglary charges there, Abbott said.

Judge Joseph Danahy approved St. Pierre's request for a jury trial on the charge of being an accessory to first-degree robbery, and the case was put on the trial list.

St. Pierre was arrested by State Police on a murder charge, but that charge was dropped in Superior Court Dec. 7, and the robbery charge was substituted.

St. Pierre is free on a $5,000 bond.

In a companion case, the court set Jan. 24 as the date for the case of Stephen M. Tine, 19, of East Hartford, who is charged with murder in the Tine case. Tine is being held on $100,000 bond at the Connecticut Correctional Center, Hartford.

HARTFORD (UPI) — A fifth teen-ager was struck by a car since Monday's institution of Daylight Saving Time as another emergency package which includes energy power for the governor and a change in utility rate structures.

Mace Spraying Leads To Four Arrests

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — Four Massachusetts residents face court appearances Jan. 28 for allegedly spraying the chemical Mace aboard an Eastern Airlines plane.

The four were arrested by state police at Bradley International Airport when the plane made a scheduled stop on a trip from Atlanta, Ga. to Boston and back.

Police said the pilot radioed that the Mace had been sprayed on the coach section of the plane, started throwing coffee at each other and one had sprayed Mace, causing passengers to cough and rub their eyes.

Arrested on breach of peace charges were: Michael Hanlon, 16, of Revere, Mass.; James Taylor, 22, also of Revere; Karen Woodell, 18, of Boston and Judy Bonner, 22, of Everett, Mass.

They were released on $50 cash bonds pending their court appearances.

Police said the substance sprayed was definitely Mace, but they could not explain how it was obtained or how it passed through airport security at Atlanta where the youths boarded the plane.

Education, Property Tax Priorities Said Insufficient

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities said Tuesday the legislature's Appropriations Committee has given insufficient priority to education and property taxes.

Conference President John Sullivan, first selectman of Fairfield, said the committee should set the short term goal of lifting Connecticut to the national average rank in state spending for local education.

"It would cost the state $12.1 million to achieve this modest objective next year," Sullivan said.

Sullivan also said the committee should give priority to grants which actually add to local revenues rather than simply replace income lost through repealed taxes.

The group said the 1973 legislature, for example, repealed most personal property taxes, thus preventing municipalities from collecting revenue for non-voluntary business equipment and farm machinery.

"The state cannot — in good conscience — allow cities and towns to be torn apart between rising property taxes and inflationary school costs," he said. "The money will not help our school children if it continues to sit in the state treasury."

What's causing her pain?

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB — Why am I writing on lined paper to a famous doctor when there are hundreds of doctors in the United States?

First, I am in such pain I cannot write legibly otherwise. Second, there seems to be no help. This sounds unusual in the United States. But doctors don't have much time, and I am sorry to say, very little help.

Doctor, I am a "hypochondriac." My two most recent operations were for cancer. How I imagine them, the pathologist and I have not decided for sure. I do have some stress, of course, for cancer is not an easily understood malady, but I have the most trouble with it what doctors dismiss as a painless ailment, diverticulosis. X-rays do show cancer there. Diet does not help. I've tried them all, and each doctor seems to have a different idea. Medications do not help. Nothing relieves the pain.

Now, doctor, would you do it you had an inoperable pain for which nothing can be done? How would you deal with a problem that doctors say (many do) is not there? I've tried to find some simple food to eat on, something that wouldn't increase the cramps. When one is desperate, what does he do?

DEAR READER — Of course you have pain. It doesn't matter whether a pain is caused by a broken bone, from nervous tension or from some other problem, it is still pain and needs to be relieved if possible.

No doubt your bowel problem is a painless ailment, diverticulosis. X-rays do show cancer there. Diet does not help. I've tried them all, and each doctor seems to have a different idea. Medications do not help. Nothing relieves the pain.

Mace Spraying Leads To Four Arrests

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — Four Massachusetts residents face court appearances Jan. 28 for allegedly spraying the chemical Mace aboard an Eastern Airlines plane.

The four were arrested by state police at Bradley International Airport when the plane made a scheduled stop on a trip from Atlanta, Ga. to Boston and back.

Police said the pilot radioed that the Mace had been sprayed on the coach section of the plane, started throwing coffee at each other and one had sprayed Mace, causing passengers to cough and rub their eyes.

Arrested on breach of peace charges were: Michael Hanlon, 16, of Revere, Mass.; James Taylor, 22, also of Revere; Karen Woodell, 18, of Boston and Judy Bonner, 22, of Everett, Mass.

They were released on $50 cash bonds pending their court appearances.

Police said the substance sprayed was definitely Mace, but they could not explain how it was obtained or how it passed through airport security at Atlanta where the youths boarded the plane.

Education, Property Tax Priorities Said Insufficient

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities said Tuesday the legislature's Appropriations Committee has given insufficient priority to education and property taxes.

Conference President John Sullivan, first selectman of Fairfield, said the committee should set the short term goal of lifting Connecticut to the national average rank in state spending for local education.

"It would cost the state $12.1 million to achieve this modest objective next year," Sullivan said.

Sullivan also said the committee should give priority to grants which actually add to local revenues rather than simply replace income lost through repealed taxes.

The group said the 1973 legislature, for example, repealed most personal property taxes, thus preventing municipalities from collecting revenue for non-voluntary business equipment and farm machinery.

"The state cannot — in good conscience — allow cities and towns to be torn apart between rising property taxes and inflationary school costs," he said. "The money will not help our school children if it continues to sit in the state treasury."

Great Lakes Area Pounded By Snow

United Press International Snow pounded the Great Lakes Region and western Pennsylvania early today, while freezing rain and sleet hit the Ohio Valley area with all but a respite.

Ice and snow forced the cancellation of three Ozark Airlines flights. Most of the passengers were given shelter and aid by the Salvation Army.

The roads are open here, a patrolman at Decatur, Ill., said. "But it's travel at your own risk."

Dense fog covered the southeast Missouri area, much of Arkansas, and along the Gulf Coast creating some difficulty in driving.

Bitter cold air covered portions of Texas, while in Connecticut a winter storm watch was issued.

Clear skies were found today over most of Florida, portions of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Colorado and the Upper Mississippi Valley.

The West Coast area, which had its worst weather in 25 years the past week, had clear skies today, while snow fell in Montana with rain and snow showers from the southern Rockies through the southern Plateau region.

Early temperatures today ranged from 23 degrees below zero at Miami, Minn., to 76 degrees at Hibbing, and Key West, Fla.

Nation's Budget Expected To Top $300 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of running the U.S. government in the next fiscal year will exceed $300 billion, more than the combined federal budgets from the founding of the Republic to World War II.

The proposed jump in federal spending puts the $300 billion mark some $10 billion over the $290 billion that President Nixon's budget for 1975 would hold outlays to a limit of $288 billion.

It also marks the sixth straight year the government will spend more than it collects in revenues.

Budget Director Roy Ash, in an interview Tuesday with UPI, set the deficit at $6-$10 billion for the 1975 fiscal year that begins July 1.

Ambulance Practices Investigation Sought

HARTFORD (UPI)—A state representative says he has asked Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to order a full scale investigation of ambulance practices in the Hartford area.

Rep. Edgar A. King, R-Farmington, said Tuesday many residents have complained of a variety of alleged crimes, fraud and other illegal activities being practiced by some ambulance companies in the state.

He said he has received complaints about distributed stickers which contain an emergency number which is held by an out-of-town service.

King said last summer it took Professional Ambulance Service about a half-hour to reach the West District School while an injured boy lay on the ground with a back injury.

A spokesman for the school said stickers were ordered to remove the stickers following the injury.

Harvey Kagan, owner of the ambulance service, said his vehicles could reach any part of Farmington in eight to 11 minutes.

He said stickers were mailed.

Extortion Try Goes Awry

DENVER (UPI)—In an extortion attempt that looked like something out of Keystone Kops, three men went first to the wrong house and then kidnapped a bank executive and his family. They were arrested for running a stop sign and the unharmed family was freed.

The FBI said federal extortion charges could be filed today against Dennis Hodgland, 28, Johnny Hogland, 25, and Rick May, 19.

The three suspects were held under $15,000 bond each.

They were arrested Tuesday when police stopped their car for running a stop sign. Guns and stolen credit cards were found in their possession.

A search in the neighborhood of one of the suspect's home turned up a moving van in which Jefferson Bank and Trust Company Vice President Harry Black, his wife and two daughters were found bound and gagged. They were shaving from the cold during their six-hour stay but otherwise unharmed.

According to police, the series of events began before midnight Monday when two armed men dressed in police uniforms entered the suburban Lakewood, Colo., home of a federal geophysicist.

Tibbets, his wife, and three children were tied with wire and pillow cases were stuffed over their heads before the suspects apparently realized they had the wrong victims.

Tibbets said the men were "disgusted" when they saw they were not the right victims.

Police said the extortionists then went to the Black home and kidnapped the five members of the family. An affidavit from the FBI said Black was told his family would be buried alive in the moving van unless he got ransom money from his bank when it opened.

"They weren't gentle with us," Black said. "We were shoved around and tied up with tape while we were in that truck."

Two Die In Milford Fire

MILFORD (UPI)—A mother and her young son died Tuesday night after a fire swept through their home on Park Avenue in Milford.

Fire Chief William Healey said the victims, Ann Marie Valle, 30, and her three-year-old son, Robert Davis, were found by firemen in a back bedroom of the home.

Firemen applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but the two were pronounced dead when taken to Milford Hospital.

Chief Healey said the fire broke out about 8:40 p.m. and the cause was undetermined.

Wheat Export Slowdown Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration has quietly asked wheat exporters voluntarily to slow down shipments overseas during the next few months to ease a tight supply situation which bakers fear could produce a bread shortage this spring.

Officials said delayed orders could be filled after June when the United States begins harvesting what is expected to be a record 2-billion-bushel 1974 wheat crop, about 300 million bushels bigger than last year's record harvest.

Richard E. Bell, a deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said the administration remains firmly opposed to formal wheat export controls. He said there is enough of the grain still on hand in the United States to meet domestic needs until the new crop is harvested.

Some of this wheat is controlled by exporters and included in export contract reports, "but the wheat is still here and can be bought or used domestically," he said.

Officials said they had no indication yet as to what response exporters would bring. But recent market reports indicated the pressure of demand on the dwindling U.S. supply has pushed prices up. Ordinary hard red winter wheat rose 31 cents a bushel to $5.51 at Kansas City last week compared with $2.72 a bushel a year earlier.

Salvation Army Sets Up Historical Commission

What's old is what's new—at the Salvation Army.

In eleven eastern states, Salvationists and their friends are busily ransacking old trunks in attics and basements, going through storage bins, desks and files, looking for letters, diaries, documents, scrapbooks, photographs, news clippings, and other material having reference to the Salvation Army.

"The need for a historical commission has been felt for many years," Commissioner Bramwell Tripp, eastern territorial commander of the Salvation Army, said in New York. "We are very pleased that this has finally come about. The Army's work in the United States began back in 1880, but most people—and even some in the Salvation Army—are not aware of just how much American history is to be found in Salvation Army annals."

The commissioner outlined the Army's work through the years and its deep involvement with everyday life in the United States.

"For one thing," the commissioner said, "we have been responsible for initiating many of the reforms and techniques of social work in this country. In fact, the Army has been involved with every aspect of American life. In a very real sense, Salvation Army history is American history."

The newly formed Salvation Army Historical Commission will serve a two-fold purpose:

- 1) It will establish a permanent historical research center for students and professional researchers dealing with virtually all areas of the Army's work in the United States since its beginnings in 1880, and (2) it will also supervise the maintenance of a preservation and display center of Salvation Army artifacts.

The Army is asking that anyone who might have relevant historical material which they would care to donate or lend for copying purposes, contact the Salvation Army officer in their area.

A number of leading libraries and educational institutions are very excited about this," Commissioner Tripp said. "They have expressed great interest in this project. It will, after all, benefit everyone, both in and outside the Army."

So, what's old is what's new at the Salvation Army.

WIN AT BRIDGE
Negative double gets tricky

WIN AT BRIDGE

The fact that we are going to show negative doubles, by the partner of the opening bidder in this column, does not mean that we recommend the bid strongly.

You can get on well without it. Unless you and your partner understand just what you are doing, it can get you in real trouble.

Three hearts isn't the greatest contract ever, but it makes since all South has to lose are two spades and two diamonds. He will even make an overtrick if the defense doesn't cash their diamonds right away.

Obviously, the partner of the man making this double is expected to bid the other major if he holds four cards there and must bear in mind that his bid shows no extra values.

The South hand is a rock-bottom minimum if you care to call it that, but he has no problem after the negative double. He bids two hearts. North raises to three and South passes.

What do you do now? A — Bid five notrump to show that your side holds all the aces.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid five notrump and your partner bids six hearts to show both missing kings. What do you do now?

South Windsor School Board Rejects Change In Its Schedule of Meetings

The South Windsor Board of Education met Tuesday night and voted down the proposed revision of policy which would have changed the meeting night to the second and fourth Wednesday of each month.

The board's attempt to change the schedule of meetings from Tuesday to Wednesday was prompted by some complaints that the meetings conflicted with those of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Most of the board members felt that to make a change effective Feb. 1 would inconvenience those who had arranged their schedules around the present dates.

Superintendent of Schools Robert W. Goldman suggested that town officials be contacted and an attempt be made to coordinate all town meetings beginning in September.

The board discussed the hazards created by Daylight Saving Time. Dr. Goldman said that the only children waiting in semi-darkness for bus pickups are those attending the high school and Ellsworth School, both which open at 7:50 a.m.

Some children from Timothy Edwards School and Pleasant Valley School now wait in dim light, but it was noted that a couple of weeks would automatically change that situation as the sun rises earlier.

Dr. Goldman felt that to open the high school and the Ellsworth School later would force a 10 to 15 a.m. opening for Ell Terry and Wapping Schools, as the starting time for the elderly and the Franklin Park project. Meals are served daily in the community rooms of these projects.

Funds Approved

Roberts told the directors that many people cannot participate in the programs because they are unable to get to the two places where meals are being served. He said that transportation becomes more important as the programs expand. Roberts also reminded the directors that questionnaires had been sent out to senior citizens regarding a work pool. He would like as many as possible returned.

Roberts said there are opportunities for senior citizens to work at home.

He noted, however, that he is in favor of the plan and that the executive committee will be also. He said that it will be presented to the directors and he hopes a favorable decision will be reached.

The Chamber took on the project from the beginning only to act as catalyst. The committee has been headed by Glenn Roberts and Walter Berry.

The Chamber can work in any area where it sees the need, initiate action, and then turn it over to another organization to carry it on.

Vernon Head of Council Favors Running Retirees' Program

Clarence O'Crowley, president of the board of the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council, told the board of directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce at a Tuesday meeting that he hopes his board will accept favorably a request of the Chamber to accept leadership of its Committee on Retired Persons.

O'Crowley told the Chamber directors that the request comes at a rather propitious time as far as the services council is concerned. He noted that the council now has a Day Care Center organized and operating. He said his first concern about taking on the retired persons program is that it will require further staffing and money.

He noted, however, that he is in favor of the plan and that the executive committee will be also. He said that it will be presented to the directors and he hopes a favorable decision will be reached.

The Chamber took on the project from the beginning only to act as catalyst. The committee has been headed by Glenn Roberts and Walter Berry.

Vice President Almost Hip To Siblings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — His kids think he is "average, verging on hip." His wife is looking forward to his retirement from politics. And Vice President Gerald R. Ford said about himself that he's a "lousy cook" but a crackerjack dishwasher.

The homespun insights into the life of the nation's 40th "Vesp" evolved in a 90-minute television interview at Ford's Alexandria, Va., home with late night talk show emcee Dick Cavett.

The taped show is scheduled to be seen at 11:30 p.m. (EDT) Thursday, Jan. 10 over ABC.

"Do you conceive, or does the possibility of living in the White House scare you?" Cavett asked Ford's wife, Betty.

"It's inconceivable. We're very happy here. It is unwise to even speculate on that. None of us talk about it or think about it," she replied.

Home Built 19 Years Ago

The modest two-story brick and frame home that he and Betty built 19 years ago for $25,000, was jammed with cameras, lights, technicians and Secret Service agents and afforded little movement.

Asked how he approached "the marijuana problem with your children," Ford said he is not yet convinced the drug should be legalized and that "it's not a problem as far we know with our children."

Michele, 23, and John, 21, are away at college. Steven, 17 and Susan, 16, are in high school and live at home.

"What would you do if you walked into the house one day and found one of your kids smoking a joint?" asked Cavett.

"I think I would be understanding. I would not take a violent step. I would object and I would try to find a cure through reason rather than through utilization of force," said Ford.

Reads Sports Page First

Seated in the den, Ford said most of his television viewing is centered on sports events and his newspaper is the sports page.

"where I've got a 50-50 chance of being right. Then I read the first page and things are a little different."

Steve and Susan, when asked whether they would rate their father "average, square or hip," said "average, verging on hip."

Embargo May Fade Away

LONDON (UPI) — Arab nations might lift their embargo against the United States and Holland next month or just let it "fade away" quietly, industry experts say.

The experts said pressures were building up against the embargo because of its possible long-run threat to the Arabs by increasing the prices of Western manufactured goods and damaging the economies of oil buyers.

They said Iraq and Libya as well as non-Arab Iran have been supplying considerable quantities of petroleum despite the boycott and were planning major expansions of production.

The informants said hardline Arab nations might block an official lifting of the embargo, but seemed likely to go along with unofficially letting it simply "fade away" from the scene.

The sources said, however, ending the embargo against the United States and Holland imposed because of the Arab nations' support of Israel — would not lead to an early increase in overall crude oil prices.

They said the Arab petroleum nations seemed intent on restricting supplies to oil levels to maintain a firm price and to conserve their resources.

Up until now, oil hardliners such as Saudi Arabia's King Faisal have insisted that complete Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories before permitting petroleum shipments to the United States and Holland.

The experts said, however, there was a good chance that the bulk of Persian Gulf states would allow the embargo to end unofficially once the Middle East peace talks in Geneva start to show results.

MMH Hikes Rates

JUNE B. TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter)

Rate increases were granted to Manchester Memorial Hospital Wednesday by the Commission on Hospitals and Health Care.

The more than six per cent rate increases apply to the operating room, laboratory, and X-ray department, all referred to as special services areas.

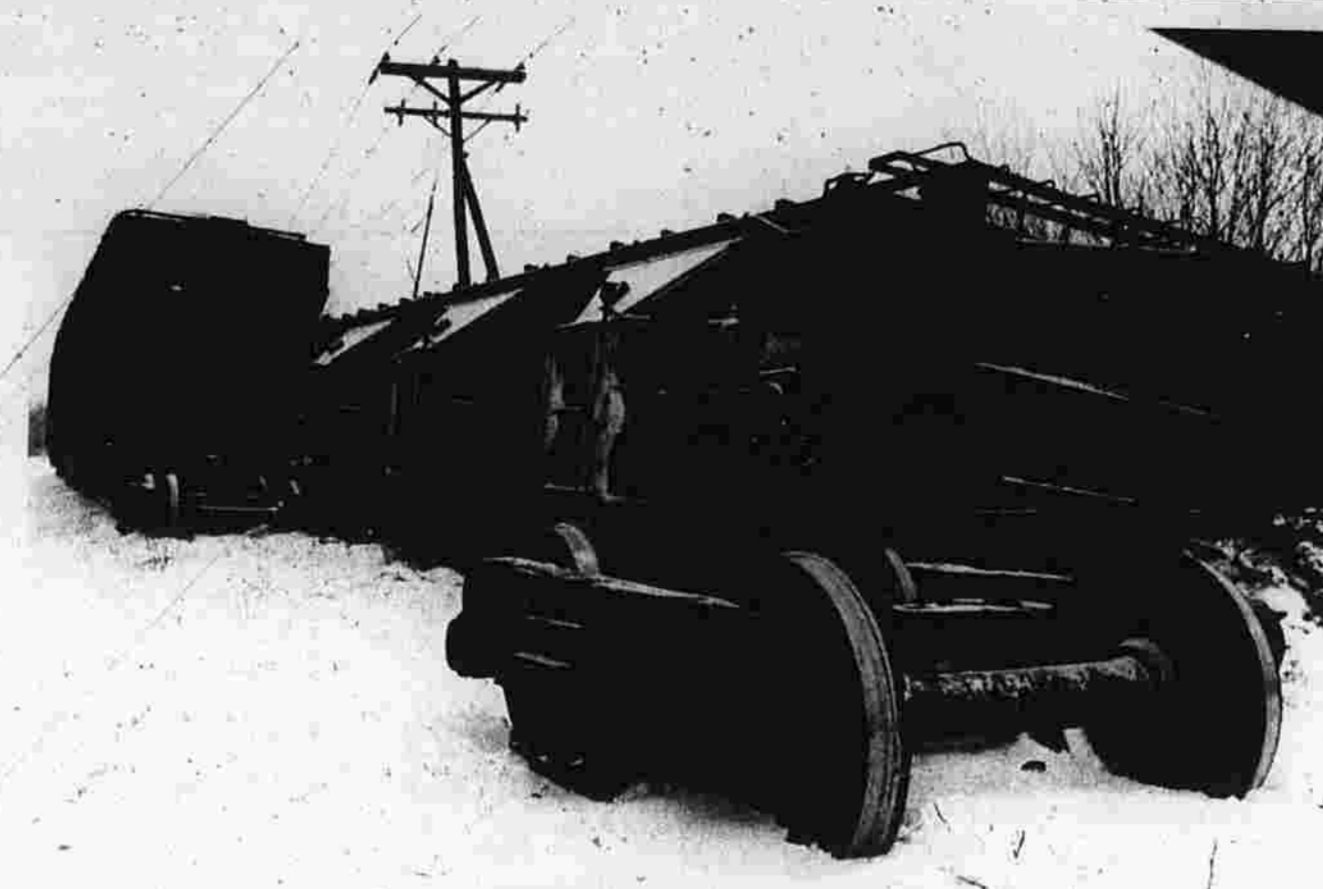

In a hearing which didn't start until 1:05 p.m. Wednesday, Edward M. Kenney, Manchester Memorial Hospital administrator, said he was pleased a decision had finally been reached in the hospital's favor. The final decision was not without its drawbacks, he said.

Kenney said the commission had not cooperated in giving advance notice of the hearings. Several times Kenney called the commission to find out when the final hearing was scheduled, but received no satisfactory response until almost the last minute, he said. Kenney said the commission offered no explanation or apology for its hasty actions.

The staff report and panel report were, in effect, negated, Kenney said, because the staff had overlooked the cost charge ceiling and also had included a special fund in error. The special fund referred to was the Rogers Fund which has specific restrictions.

Kenney had explained the income from the Rogers Fund at a preliminary hearing before the commission in December. He said he had to repeat the explanation during the early

Still Another Snowstorm!

SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

Manchester residents still reeling from a storm Wednesday that dumped about eight inches of snow on the area, snarled traffic, closed schools and canceled most night meetings, woke up this morning to still another snowstorm.

This one started about 6 a.m. and is expected to add up to six more inches of snow, before changing to sleet or rain later, with more rain predicted for Friday.

The forecast early Wednesday night had been for the precipitation to start toward evening tonight.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Windsor Locks explained that winds, moving northward from Kentucky at about 50 miles per hour (much faster than anticipated), brought the snow to Connecticut about 12 hours earlier than expected.

The storm system is still centered in Kentucky and the snow is in advance of a warming trend and rainfall for the east, a bureau spokesman explained.

George Ringstone, coordinator for the town highway department, said town trucks began sanding and salting operations at 7 a.m. He said the snow is light and fluffy, with much of it blowing away, and that it isn't considered the principal problem.

He said the sand and salt being spread is a protective cover for the sleet and freezing rain predicted for later in the day.

All Manchester schools were in session today. Friday, school sessions are scheduled to start 15 minutes later and end 15 minutes later — because of the impact of Daylight Saving Time.

Ronald J. Marcoux of 210 High St. was a victim of Wednesday's storm. He collapsed while clearing snow at his home, and was dead on arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

New Walkway Considered From Main St. to Purnell

ALEX GIRELLI (City Editor)

The possibility of acquiring a Main St. property damaged by fire last October and converting it to a walkway between Main St. and the Purnell area was discussed this morning by the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee.

The property, a 25-foot-wide strip, is at 881-883 Main St. and was the location of the Johnson-Fredrick Shoe Store and Land-D-Fashion.

Committee members roughly estimated that it might cost from $10,000 to $15,000 to develop the property.

The purchase price is apparently open to negotiation. Committee chairman William Sleith said he received a phone call from a representative of the owner, Mrs. Rose Kronick, urging the committee to consider purchasing the property and not to be dissuaded by the originally quoted asking price, which was $45,000.

Obstacles to creating a new walkway there include the step grade and the existence of an old building to the rear of the land which would have to be torn down.

Dennis Brown, consultant for the committee, was asked to investigate the possibilities. Brown reported this morning on ideas for making an existing walkway between Main St. and Purnell Pl. more attractive. He showed sketches of the walk just south of Regal Men's Store with lighting, repaving out to the curb line, possible planting at its east end, and similar measures to make it more inviting.

Brown mentioned the possibility of conducting a contest, perhaps among students at Manchester Community College, for design along the walkway walls. He also considered the possibility that an area at the east end might be used for outdoor art and craft sales.

Obstacles to that walkway proposal are the fact that it now is used occasionally as a driveway, that it is narrow, and that a fire escape above it must be retained.

The possibility would be some sort of partial roof over it which would make the fire escape less prominent and provide support for lighting. Similar cosmetic ideas were proposed by Brown for the wall

Task Force To Monitor Oil Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy energy chief John Saahill said U.S. consumption of crude oil is also down and that a decision whether to ration gasoline may be postponed beyond March 1, the date of a conference in Washington to work out solutions to oil supply and price problems.

The program in no way reflects on the refiners, but it will assure us that they understand and are abiding by Federal Energy Office regulations," Simon said.

Simon's action follows contentions of some oil industry critics that the government is not getting accurate production and price figures from the companies.

Simon said the task force would be composed of officials from the Internal Revenue Service and the FEO.

The audit program "is designed to insure that petroleum product price increases are justified and reflect only increase costs to refiners for imported and domestic petroleum supplies and not increased profits," Simon said.

Another aim of the action is to give the government a way to verify the accuracy of refinery reports on crude oil and product supplies.

It is a major step towards setting up "an independent reporting and information system" on refinery inventories, Simon said.

Simon said the task force would be divided into teams which "will be conducting continuing audits in corporate offices and visiting individual firms as often as four times a year."

The overall program will cover all 140 refineries in the United States, Simon said.

Under FEO regulations refineries are permitted to adjust prices once a month. The adjustment must reflect only increased costs for crude oil, foreign and domestic, or refined products purchased for export.

The refiners also must report cost justification calculations every month to support price increases.

U.S. consumption of gasoline dropped 18.6 per cent in the week ending Dec. 29 from the previous week, energy officials in Washington said. They said the decline a week earlier was 7.7 per cent.

Changing to all rain over south portions during the afternoon and over northern portions this evening with rain continuing tonight. Temperatures slowly rising into the low to mid 30s by late today and tonight. Friday periods of rain likely and milder high in the low to mid 40s.

The degree day forecast for the Greater Hartford Springfield area. Forecast for today 42, normal 40. Forecast for Friday 29, normal 40.

A British official started a two-week tour of Middle East sheldoms to discuss bringing industrial equipment for oil.

Other developments: —Simon said Wednesday he would order refineries to produce more gasoline to meet summer driving needs if heating oil production reaches a safe level. He said wholesale prices of residual fuel oil rose approximately 8 to 12 per cent in one month last fall.

—Dr. Clovis Maktoud, an emissary of the Arab League now touring the United States in an effort to offset anti-Arab sentiment, said in Washington Wednesday the oil embargo was only a temporary measure intended to underscore "credibility about our pursuits" in the Middle East.

—The American Petroleum Institute said supplies of gasoline on hand in the United States Jan. 4, totaled 209 million barrels, compared with 214 million barrels Jan. 5, 1973, at a later date.

—The Justice Department, in the fourth such suit so far, charged a Springfield, Mass. filling station with four instances of price gouging.

—Jan Byrne, chief of the Chicago Department of Consumer Sales, said laboratory tests show that gasoline adulterated with methane, diesel fuel and water was being sold in Chicago, and possibly elsewhere in the country, some editions to conserve energy.

Maine Governor Scores Comrades In Crisis Action

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis says the New England private electric utilities are trying to fill the position of authority in the energy crisis which he says the New England governors are individually responsible for any damage which might result in their respective states, said Curtis in a letter to Gov. Thomas Salmon of Vermont, chairman of the New England Governor's Conference.

Also in that letter, Curtis noted that he had not been consulted by NEPOOL in the determination of priorities. Curtis said at least one type of business, the broiler and egg producers, would sustain permanent loss of inventories because of the blackout procedure as presently proposed.

In another letter to NEPOOL Chairman William C. Tallian, Curtis said he was "puzzled" that the proposed power reduction plans were drawn up independently of the New England governors, despite the fact they included in some

Bread Prices Inspire More Home Baking

By JAMES HILDRETH United Press International

Faced with a gradual climb in the supermarket cost of bread and industry predictions of more possible increases, some homemakers are rediscovering an almost forgotten art — baking bread at home.

But due to the growing cost of flour, even that alternative is rapidly becoming uneconomical.

Barbara Williams, a Falls Church, Va., housewife, said that since the end of 1972 the price per pound of flour has jumped from 12 cents to 24 or 34 cents.

"Making bread at home will soon be a luxury no one can afford," Mrs. Williams said. "I think we housewives deserve a better deal than the Russians got. U.S. wheat reserves were depleted 18 months ago when the Soviet Union purchased huge supplies of American wheat to supplement its meager crop."

Bill O. Mead, chairman of the American Bakers Association, is another critic of the Russian wheat deal.

Reserves Dangerously Low — He told a news conference in Washington Wednesday that because of large U.S. wheat exports, the nation's reserves are dangerously low.

Mead predicted that a 24-ounce loaf of bread on the shelves of grocery stores may cost $1 by late spring unless the administration moves to place temporary curbs on wheat exports.

In the absence of such restrictions, Mead said, "a bread shortage seems likely" and costs will skyrocket.

Later, Carroll G. Brunthorn, assistant agriculture secretary, rebuffed Mead's charges, saying: "I don't think the price of wheat will increase substantially from current record levels) and the price of bread should not increase substantially this spring." He said the administration does not "see the need for export controls."

Nevertheless, consumers across the nation are finding their weekly grocery bills going up, partly because of climbing bread prices.

"I think it's ridiculous," said Dallas housewife Evelyn Brown of the rising prices. "But I kind of expect it, because of the wheat we gave away to Russia. We'll just eat less bread. We usually make a lot of our own anyway."

At New Orleans' Royal Street Grocery, prices ranged between 35 and 45 cents per loaf, which includes a recent two-cent increase. A store in Little Rock, Ark. was selling a 24-ounce loaf for 53 cents.

At Albany, N.Y., a housewife said she pays 43 to 53 cents a loaf, depending on the size, and that even store brands — which used to be 29 cents — are now 39 or 40 cents a loaf.

"We've stopped buying at food stores and make purchases now at the thrift (day-old) stores operated by the bakers," she said.

The 24-ounce loaf cost 47 cents in Seattle, Wash., and the price jumped to 53 to 54 cents for the same size loaf in Honolulu, where shipping costs have to be figured into the total.

Shoppers were paying as
