Goldwater Fears Political Unrest If Nixon Quits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., says resignation of President Nixon would cause "an upheaval in American politics" and "raise havoc with the whole world."

He said he would not advise the President to step down. He said he thought it would be better for the President to stay in office and let the voters decide in the next election.

Goldwater said he believed President Nixon has "started a recovery" in the standing with the public since two months ago when the Arizona senator had declared Nixon's credibility had reached an all-time low from which he might never recover.

"It is not easy to tell how high that recovery has gone, but I think he is better off now than he was when I made that remark," Goldwater said.

"I can't believe, for example, that the Democratic party would sit idly by and allow Vice President Ford to become president."

This training experience was attended by the man adult volunteer leaders who make the experience of Cub scouting available to the boys. Over districts throughout Long Rivers Council were represented.

On Compromise Withdrawal Plan

Kissinger Meets With Israelis

United Press International Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for two hours with top Israeli leaders today in a bid to iron out differences in conflicting Egyptian and Israeli proposals for crucial troop withdrawals near the Suez Canal.

Senior U.S. officials accompanying Kissinger said the Egyptian and Israeli proposals were similar enough to make a compromise possible.

"We have gone from the generalities to the specifics," said a source in the U.S. delegation. "The differences which exist are manageable."

The source said Kissinger felt no more than one more round of shuttle trips between Egypt and Israel would be necessary before reaching a "workable agreement."

Armed with a white canvas map case and folders of details from the Egyptian government, Kissinger and his aides met in Jerusalem for two hours with Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and other key Israeli officials.

Kissinger arrived in Jerusalem Monday night carrying a troop withdrawal proposal from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The Egyptian plan was a counterproposal to an Israeli plan worked out over the weekend. Kissinger presented the Israeli plan to Sadat Monday in Assiut, Egypt, but Egyptian Foreign Minister Ignati Fahmy termed it "not satisfactory."

A U.S. source in Jerusalem said today Kissinger "does not consider the problem so large as he did 48 hours ago."

"I presented the Egyptian ideas and response to the Israeli proposal to the deputy prime minister, the foreign minister and other Israeli colleagues," Kissinger said after today's meeting. "They will now consider it. But I think we had a warm and I think a very useful discussion."

"I had the impression they (the Israelis) considered them to have constructive aspects."

U.S. officials said Kissinger would meet with the Israeli leaders again in the afternoon to get their reaction to the Egyptian plans.

The officials said that once the two sides begin making progress toward an agreement in principle on disengagement, a joint Israeli-Egyptian working group probably would be set up to iron out the details.

They said the working group would meet before Israeli and Egyptian military representatives return to the Middle East peace conference in Geneva.

The Geneva negotiators were scheduled to meet today, but the session was cancelled because of Kissinger's talks.

Pietrantonio Quits Board of Directors

By SOL R. COHEN
Democrat Anthony Pietrantonio, senior member of the Manchester Board of Directors, has resigned his post, effective immediately.

In a letter sent today to the board's secretary, he cites the pressures of his business as his reason.

Pietrantonio is owner of Prestige Printing on Main St. He has been on the board since March 1967, when he succeeded Raymond Ellis, also a Democrat, who resigned because he was moving to Alaska. Pietrantonio was re-elected in 1969, in 1971 and in 1973 (last Nov. 6). He was board secretary from November 1971 to November 1973.

Although Pietrantonio gave pressures of his business as the official reason for his resignation, his unofficial reason is believed to be tied to differences he has had with Town Manager Robert Weiss—differences which became frustrations and which were brought to a head during the Dec. 17 week of Manchester's ice storm.

"I had about 6 p.m. on Friday and I had to go out to see my office before a group of people, and reportedly told him, 'If it was up to me, I'd fire you right now.'"

A half hour later, Pietrantonio handed Weiss a letter announcing his resignation from the board.

Weiss said he ripped the letter and threw it away.

"I told him," says Weiss, "as far as I'm concerned, I don't have your letter. I haven't seen it and I hope you'll reconsider." Pietrantonio, who hasn't attended a board meeting since that day, said today he has been reconsidering his move and that "it still stands— that he is resigning."

"There's no way I can back out from this confrontation," he said. "I'm not about to throw any stones. It's the culmination of many frustrations and I don't want to back out."

As Pietrantonio explains the events of ice storm week, he and his wife received many calls from elderly people living in the densely populated area of the downtown section of Manchester.

Weiss said he ripped the letter and threw it away.

Preliminary School Budget Set At $11.7 Million For '74-'75

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Superintendent of Schools James P. Kennedy presented a preliminary 1974-'75 budget of $11,796,732 to the Board of Education Monday night.

Dr. Kennedy's request represents a 6.3 per cent increase of $696,732 over last year's appropriation of $11,100,000.

In contrast to last year's presentation, this one was considered to be "trimmed down for the public's grasp."

Dr. Kennedy acknowledged the help of an able staff and cooperation from school administration in preparing what the board interprets to be the educational needs and wishes of the community.

For the second year of a five-year program, the PPBS (Planning, Programming and Budgeting System) was used to prepare the budget on the basis of program goals and objectives.

Besides calling it a "realistic budget," Dr. Kennedy termed it a continuation budget and an improvement budget.

Dr. Kennedy's budget proposal calls for $6,096,561 to go for regular learning programs; $1,968,944 for special learning programs and $3,821,227 for administrative programs.

Included in the total increase are adjustments for inflation and salaries on non-certified personnel (clerical and maintenance staff), said Dr. Kennedy.

The total increase also includes money necessary to meet the steps on the salary schedule; however, not included in the increase are raises of certified personnel which have not yet been negotiated, Dr. Kennedy said.

In his report of increases over last year's expenditures, he mentioned tuition to other districts which has increased $40,000 over last year.

The major portion of the budget increase is found in five areas explained by Dr. Kennedy. They include $200,000 for salary adjustments, $46,000 for built-in fringe benefits (medical, dental, life insurance, estimated transportation cost increases, $40,000 tuition to other districts, and $108,000 in the improvement budget, totalling $522,000.

Dr. Kennedy also mentioned that the increase spread over 41 other programs including text books and paper supplies which show a special escalation in cost.

In Dr. Kennedy's statement to the board, he said the administrator's "unmindful" of the dilemma the school presents to the community.

He said, "We want to make improvements in our schools, but the taxpayer is faced with extraordinary inflation," which also strikes the school system as a consumer.

There will be four budget workshop sessions on Jan. 17, 21, 24 and Feb. 4 prior to its presentation to the town manager on Feb. 21.

Case Mt. Action On Directors' Agenda Tonight

By SOL R. COHEN
The priority agenda item the Manchester Board of Directors will consider tonight is the proposed purchase of the 229.56-acre Case Mt. parcel.

The federal government already has allocated $298,953 toward the $631,622.50 purchase price and the state already has delivered a $165,525.50 check for its share. (The check has been deposited and is drawing interest.)

The town's $167,000 cost share, as proposed by Town Manager Robert Weiss, would come from $96,043 available in the Insurance Refund Account, $54,050 in the 1972-'73 anticipated surplus, and $16,907 available in the Capital Improvements Reserve Fund.

Weiss said he has been assured by the Hartford office of HUD (federal department of Housing and Urban Development) that the government's $298,953 share will be delivered about a month after a deed is filed and all necessary papers completed.

The purchase would be from Wells Case Dennison, Robert Case Dennison, Dorothy Case Beach, the Tonic Springs Co. (the two Dennisons and Mrs. Beach), and Mrs. Mary A. Murphy.

A public hearing on the proposal was held last Tuesday, with about 130 persons in attendance and with more than 30 in front speaking. The sentiment appeared to be about 3 to 1 in favor of the purchase.

Also on tonight's agenda will be the case of what they get under appropriations—all to be financed by equal grants or receipts—and on amendments to the town's ordinance-lease with the Manchester Country Club. The amendments would provide for a 100 per cent refund to 400 for families, $300 for single males, $200 for single females, and $55 for juniors.

The board will consider appointing a new member to the Development Commission, to succeed Thomas Toomey who resigned; and a new member to the Redevelopment Agency, to succeed Victor Moses who resigned when he was named assistant town council.

Also on the agenda item placed there at the request of Director Hilary Gallagher, it is for considering a mandate to commercial establishments—by turning down their lights.

Heating Oil Allocations Cut Under Federal Edict

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government today cut allocations of heating oil 15 per cent and warned homeowners they would be expected to turn thermostats down six degrees.

The six-degree formula also applies to heating oil, including businesses, must lower thermostats by 10 degrees or face running out of fuel before winter is over.

The new regulations became effective today with publication in the Federal Register. They also allocate gasoline, propane, kerosene and diesel fuel in these amounts:

—Gasoline: Agriculture, transportation, emergency services, energy production industries and sanitation services get 100 per cent of their current requirement. Other businesses get 80 per cent of what they get in 1972. Gasoline stations are limited to their 1972 consumption, which means their supplies will run down about 30 per cent from current needs.

—Butane: Agriculture, petrochemical production and medical buildings get 100 per cent of current requirements. Homes get 95 per cent of what they get in 1972.

Businesses Get More

—Aviation: Business airplanes get 80 per cent of what they get in 1972. Commercial airlines get 75 per cent of what they get in 1972. Private planes get 75 per cent of 1972. Commercial airlines get 75 per cent of what they get in 1972. Private planes get 75 per cent of 1972.

State Speed Limit Set At 55 M.P.H.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Traffic Commission today raised the speed limit on Connecticut's federal highways in Connecticut to 55 miles an hour.

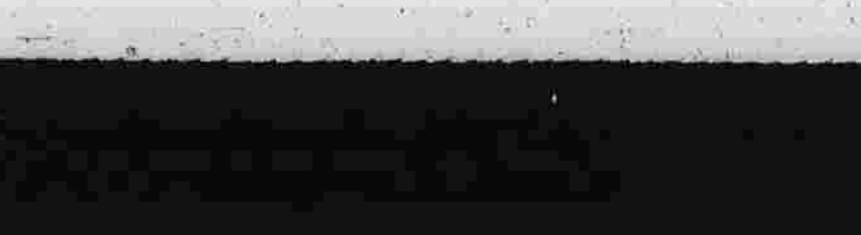

The increase of the speed limit by five miles was in compliance with federal guidelines established by the Federal Energy Office.

The traffic commission, at the urging of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, had lowered the speed limit to 50 m.p.h. late last year as part of the state's effort to conserve fuel and energy.

The 50 m.p.h. limit was directed by independent truckers and some trucking firms with protests saying it was costing them gasoline instead of saving it.

The federal government established the 55 m.p.h. speed limit on federal roads to comply to continue receiving federal highway funds.

The traffic commission said the higher speed limit signs will be posted in three to four weeks, but the 55 m.p.h. speed limit is effective immediately.

Standard Deduction: Don't Cheat Yourself

Internal Revenue Service spends millions of dollars every year tracking down tax cheats. But nobody, it seems, is interested in helping people who, through ignorance of tax-saving opportunities, cheat themselves and pay more taxes than necessary.

Scarcity Creates Scarities

Scarcities in some commodities have begun to be seen as a result of the petroleum shortage. And of course, the scarcities go beyond the obvious ones of gasoline, heating oil, etc.
Oil is so vital to our economy that it affects such diverse products as fiber glass boat hulls, daron for sails, and plastics for many purposes. Hopefully some of the petrochemical uses of oil may be filled by coal, which is equally rich in chemical derivatives.
There is a type of shortage, other than the real shortages, which can be equally as disconcerting in its effect, even though it need never happen.

It is the man-made shortage which occurs when people give in to rumors of scarce tactics and start buying a commodity in amounts far beyond their normal needs.
A most recent example of this is the so-called toilet paper shortage which came about through a rumor that the commodity was in short supply. Credit for this was given the Johnny Carson show, which had several jokes on the subject. This may or may not be correct.
However, the reality which took place was that people did start buying toilet paper in amounts far beyond

Political Economy

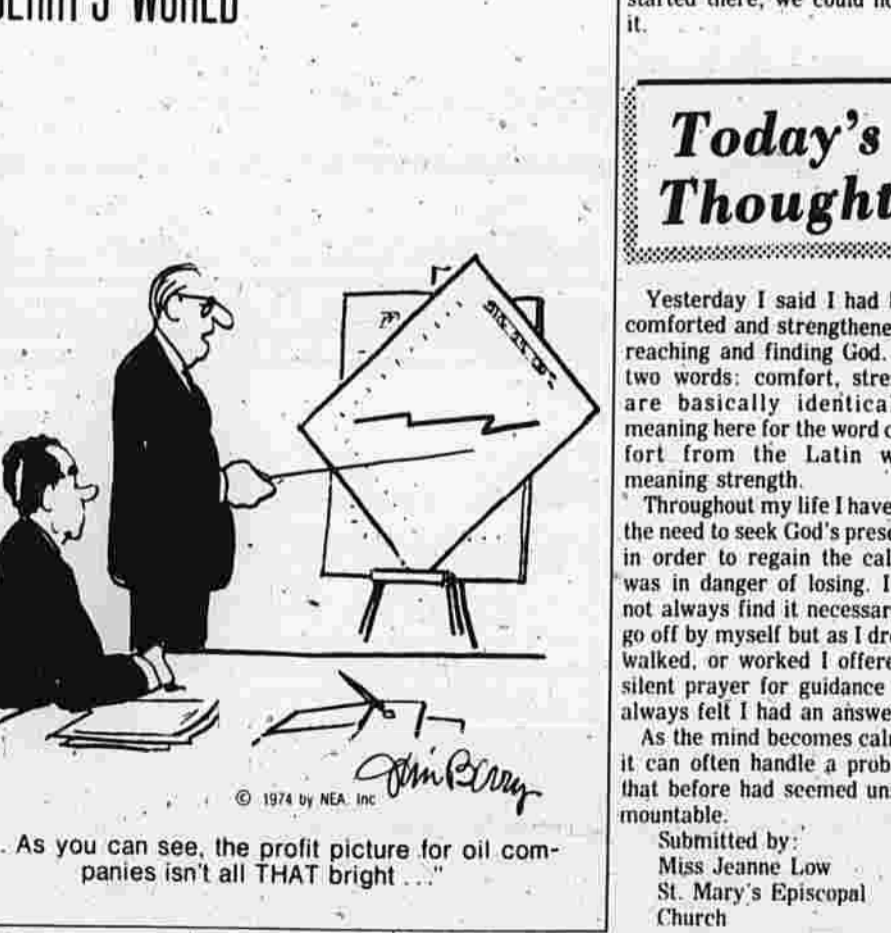

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Witnessing the shambles that is England, the confusion in the Western alliance and the cross purposes in Washington in handling inflation, unemployment, energy and ecology, I mourn the absence of a unified partnership of economics and politics. We may rue the day when the curriculum-makers separated the two subjects in college catalogues.
Originally, in 18th- and early 19th-century Europe the two were joined in holy wedlock in the science and art of political economy. But toward the start of our present century, we proclaimed the divorce. Each went its own unhappy way, and we — the children of the birth — are wreathed.

BERRY'S WORLD

As you can see, the profligate price for oil companies isn't all THAT bright.

Motorists Find Gas Shortage Confusing

MARK MILLER
HARTFORD (UPI) — Some gasoline dealers in Connecticut with older pumps have a problem. The gauges on the pumps do not register more than 50 cents a gallon.
The realists involved to not dismiss the gauge problem lightly because they believe gasoline prices will go higher.
The obsolete pump gauges are one of the few hard facts surfacing in a storm of uncertainty that has baffled Connecticut since December.
Then the public was told to reduce its speeds to 50 miles per hour by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill and the public complied because it grasped the reasoning.
But now it is distrustful about statements and counter-statements, rumors and posters by bureaucrats, oil company promoters and elected officials.
Anti-trust Suit
Attorney General Robert K. Killian has filed a $750 million suit against major oil companies, alleging conspiracy. He says the S. Justice Dept. is lacking in prosecutorial zeal in such cases.
Killian said in a Jan. 4 opinion that services station managers like Stiff Hartsburg of Milford could sell gas to whom they please.
Barbara B. Dunn, state consumer protection commissioner, said the selective selling by promoters and dealers of the state's new Unfair Trade and Practices Act.
Perhaps, but if a dealer is prosecuted in Connecticut it will be a precedent because of the newness of the law. Meanwhile, Stiff Hartsburg says he turns away strangers.
"These stumble-ups come in here just because my gas is cheap. Where were they when I opened a gas station?"
Outraged Motorists
So outraged were Connecticut residents about the selected selling that the state Consumer Protection Department received 2,000 telephone complaints that he began, a spokesman said.
Killian wants to subpoena information on Connecticut oil companies and the state's legislative authority to obtain similar information.
The two have been at loggerheads. Killian heightening the conflict by announcing as a Democrat gubernatorial hopeful and department previously trying to "anti-trust" his cabinet are rigid. They all stick to their systems and the union house.
Meskill conceded at one point while there was no hard evidence to suggest Connecticut was a retaliatory target of the oil companies because of their economic oil weapon with their political clout in the joint action of the oil-producing nations. In both areas there is the same quality of totalitarian control. The Israelis wield their economic and political action under a more democratic rule. Even the Americans are learning, slowly and painfully, that economic and politics must be joined in a political economy.
But let us not feel too superior to the British. We have a bigger margin of economic survival. We are able to take the slack as we move closer toward zero growth. If we had started there, we could do it.

Today's Thought

Yesterday I said I had been comforted and strengthened by reaching and finding God. The two words: comfort, strength are basically identical in meaning here for the word comfort from the Latin word meaning strength.
Throughout my life I have felt the need to seek God's presence in order to regain the calm I was in danger of losing. I did not always find it necessary to go off by myself but as I drove, talked, or worked I offered a silent prayer for guidance and always felt I had an answer.
As the mind becomes calmer, peace can often happen a problem that before had seemed unmountable.

Oil Conclave Invitation Accepted

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The European Common Market accepted today President Nixon's invitation to an oil conference of industrialized nations Feb. 11 in Washington, a Common Market spokesman said.
The spokesman said foreign ministers of the nine Common Market nations agree that the Common Market should be represented either by its executive commission or by a council of ministers. Details of the representation were still under discussion, the spokesman said.
The Nixon invitation went not only to the Common Market itself but to six of its member nations — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium. They also were expected to accept.
But French sources called the Nixon initiative "dangerous and badly prepared" and said France favors a world oil conference instead. French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert told the ministerial meeting proposal for the Washington meeting was "too dramatic," the sources said.

DevCo Reports On Its Plans

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495
The preliminary plan calls for mixing low density in limited areas of the mixing of use, office space, commercial and residential, in single buildings.
DevCo estimates that the cost of buying the cheapest home would be in the low 20's for a condominium and as high as $70,000 for a detached single family home.
Hannon also reported that DevCo was doing an impact study on how the proposal would affect the financial structure of the Town of Coventry.
He reported DevCo was in communication with the Coventry Development Corp. and that the two would not be in competition with each other but would be possible complement each other in various uses of their respective land areas.
He reported that at present there had been no determination made on the types of recreational facilities that would be available in each phase. This may be determined by the report of the recreational subcommittee.
Trip Planned
It was decided that the trip to Columbia, Md. and Boston, Va. would be made on the weekend of Feb. 8. The group would leave on Feb. 8 and return on Sunday, Feb. 10.
The Citizens Advisory Group will ask a representative of the Committee for the Preservation of Coventry, Concerned Citizens of Tolland County, and Coventry Opposing Specialists to be their guests on this trip.
They also plan to ask a member of the Board of Education, the Town Council, the Planning and Zoning Board, and the town planner to accompany them on the trip.
Three new members joined the advisory group at the meeting: Stephanie Molycka, William Brainerd and Judith Halverson. The group will meet again Feb. 6 at 7:30 at the DevCo Planning Center.

Principals To Notify Of Suspensions from Bus

While Vernon school bus drivers will continue to be in compliance of the student's behavior and their buses will still have the prerogative to decide whether a student will be suspended from riding the bus, the notice of suspension will, in the future, come from the school principal.
A motion to this effect was voted by the Board of Education Monday night. It is a minor change to an existing policy which allows the driver to suspend and the bus company to notify the student and the parents.
Board member Stephen Marchant said the matter was brought to his attention as chairman of the transportation committee, but he felt the rule should remain as it is.
Dr. Daniel Woolwich, the other member of the transportation committee, did not agree with Marchant. He said he intended to destroy the bus and the bus driver should have the right to suspend but the notice should come from the principal of the school that the student attends.
The rule applies only to students in Grades 6-12, not to elementary school children.
David Parker, principal of the Middle School, and Martin Fagan, principal of the high school, said prior to giving the bus drivers the right to suspend and let the bus company notify the parents, they were in constant communication with the bus company and each time there was a difficulty they had to sit in judgment of a teacher each time there was a discipline problem in the classroom.
Fagan said in most cases the driver has already made the judgment "before we get the case." He said, "If I reversed the driver's decision he would lose face with the other students and the parents and that's why we have been operating the way we have."
It was explained that the students are never put off the bus in the middle of a run. If they are always brought to the bus, the student and the parents are then notified of the suspension from riding the bus. Fagan said if a parent considers that the driver has been too severe the case is reviewed and the decision can be reversed.
Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, suggested that, under the new policy, the bus driver notify the school immediately of any suspension and the school will call the parents. He said if the parent cannot be reached that day, the student will be allowed to ride the bus the next day until the suspension is lifted.
James Boettcher, board member, said he feels it is important that the driver have the authority to suspend so he can maintain proper control on the bus.

Vernon Board Approves Plan for School

BARBARA RICHMOND
Preliminary plans for the $5 million expansion of Rockville High School were approved by the Board of Education Monday night and will be reviewed by the Permanent Building Committee tonight.
A Nov. 7 referendum approved the appropriation for the addition to the school. More sophisticated and expensive plans were defeated at two previous referendums.
At the time of the referendum only the schematic drawings were ready. Since then the architects, William McHugh and David Eveleth of McHugh Associates of Farmington, have been preparing the information to be sure the budget is correct and all requirements are being met.
Working the architects have noted within the budget, Eveleth detailed the expansion plan for the board and members of the Maple Street School PTO, hosts of the meeting.
Eveleth presented a breakdown of the work to be done and the costs. For the addition and alterations the cost will be $2,311,800; site development, $619,800; architect fees, $252,400; educational equipment, $374,200; and other additions and alterations, $280,500, a total of $3,838,700.
Site development would include roads, walks and parking areas, $281,800; entrance drive, $87,100; site improvements, $274,200; athletic fields, $80,200; and site utilities, $40,200, a total of $619,800. Educational equipment: For the classroom wing, $144,800; science wing, $247,000; library, $94,300; industrial arts, $81,900; cafeteria, $13,300; other, $44,200, a total of $440,200 for all movable equipment.

Vernon Parking Lot Provided For Commuter Bus

If and when the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) approves a commuter bus service for Vernon, the town will have a parking lot for those using the service.

The Board of Education Monday night gave its approval for the use of a portion of the town's Middle School parking lot for the commuter's cars.

At a special meeting of the board last week the matter was discussed briefly, and after that Mayor Frank McCoy was contacted concerning several stipulations attached to possible use of the lot.

The mayor agreed to these which included a stipulation that the buses must be out of the school parking lot by 7:15 a.m., that all traffic be restricted to use the Rt. 30 exit in the afternoon; that the overflow of cars (if any) use a portion of the north lot (use being granted for the northeast lot); that traffic officials be provided initially; and that other parking arrangements be made before next September.

The PUC held a public hearing on the installation of the commuter service last Wednesday. The town has not heard from the commission as to its decision, although Mayor McCoy had hoped to hear about it before the PUC meeting.

The Connecticut Conference of Mayors is determined it will keep after the federal and state governments until they do something about the monetary losses in the state during the December ice storm.

Friday, at a meeting in New Haven and on a motion by Manchester Mayor John Thompson, it lent its support to state efforts to require the federal government to declare Connecticut a disaster area, thus making it eligible for low interest loans.

About 25 members of the conference were present and the motion passed unanimously. The action had been initiated by the Town of Glastonbury which, like Manchester, suffered hardships and damage during and after the storm.

Also adopted unanimously was a second proposal by Thompson. He stated that, in the event the state doesn't qualify to be declared a disaster area, the General Assembly should consider emergency grants to those communities hit so hard by the storm they suffered extensive damage.

Superior Court Judge Jay E. Rubinow of Manchester has been reappointed by Gov. Thomas Meskill to the State Safety Commission. The appointment is for the period ending June 30, 1975.

Judge Rubinow has served on the 20-member agency since July 19, 1961. The members serve without compensation.

State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli will be the guest speaker Sunday when Charter Oak Lodge of B'nai B'rith holds its monthly breakfast meeting. It will be at 9 a.m. at the Howard Johnson Restaurant in Manchester.

David Wichman, the lodge's vice president and program chairman, said Agostinelli's talk will cover several facets of state government.

Gov. Meskill, who insists he hasn't yet made up his mind whether he will or will not be a candidate for re-election, continues to act very much the candidate.

He is stepping up his appearances in as many of the state's 169 municipalities as possible in his continuing his speaking engagements and his official designations of "weekends and days."

For example, Monday he addressed a forum in New York City on the subject, "Political Decisions in Times of Crisis." Wednesday, he will designate Jan. 23 "School Nurses Day." Thursday, Jan. 24 "National Engineers Week."

Today he is in Norwich and Montville. He will spend Thursday in Torrington.

"We get a colder than normal winter we could run short," said John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office (FEO). But he said that if the weather is normal the threat of a general heating oil shortage will disappear.

Sawhill said that if oil continues to "leak" to U.S. refineries through the Arab embargo, the energy crisis will grow progressively less severe. But the government still says homeowners should turn their thermostats down 6 degrees and businesses 10 degrees.

Heating oil stocks have reached sufficiently high levels so that the government decided not to carry out an earlier decision to force refineries to cut gasoline production five per cent in order to make more heating oil.

"We don't feel the need to mandate the shift at this time," Sawhill said.

The FEO estimated Tuesday that gasoline allotments to individuals under rationing would average between 33 and 49 gallons a month, depending on levels of production and imports. But it doesn't expect to put gasoline rationing into effect except as a last resort. A standby plan is to be ready March 1.

Under that plan the average would not give each person the same amount of gasoline. Biggest allotments would go to people in rural areas and cities with less than 100,000 population. British Face Turmoil

LONDON (UPI)—Railroad engineers ended a 24-hour walkout today, but industrial turmoil raged in Britain, with subway workers taking a strike vote and coal miners maintaining a crippling slowdown.

The nation's 23,000 trainmen returned to work today, ending their second one-day walkout in five days. The engineers, however, kept up a month-old slowdown aimed at winning pay demands.

London's 10,000 subway employees voted to strike Feb. 4 and shut down the city's mass transit system unless authorities grant a $14.49 million pay boost.

The nation's 289,000 coal miners continued a two-month slowdown cutting into the country's dwindling fuel supplies and intensifying the impact of the worldwide energy crisis.

Prime Minister Edward Heath said Tuesday he would make a final attempt to find a way out of the crisis by holding a new round of talks with leaders of the 10-million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), Britain's AFL-CIO.

The government, which imposed a fuel-saving three-day work week because of the economic crisis, said it might have to take even harder action, prohibiting Britons from lighting more than one room in an apartment at the same time.

"You don't need to do your teeth with the light on," Energy Minister Patrick Jenkin said Tuesday. "Do them in the dark."

The ailing pound plummeted Tuesday to an all-time low of $2.07 compared with a dollar a year ago — a drop of 14 percent. Dealers predicted it would slump again today.

Case Mt. Purchase Okayed By Directors

By SOL R. COHEN

The ordinance for purchasing the property will be effective 10 days after it is advertised in newspapers. To be inserted in the paper, the ordinance must be published in two consecutive issues of the paper.

The state already has given Manchester a $167,000 loan for its share and the $238,953 allocation promised by the federal government is expected about 30 days after a deed is filed and all necessary paper work completed.

Tuesday night's action was the culmination of efforts dating back to 1963 and initiated by the Manchester Conservation Commission for acquiring the property.

In recognition of its participation and efforts, the board asked the Conservation Commission to submit a list of those people involved in the effort over the past nine years.

Manchester Mayor Robert Weiss said the federal government will retain the property as open space land and that only the federal government may release the restriction.

Weiss suggested a board of trustees to oversee use of the property, said he saw no need for parking facilities there, and suggested they might have to look elsewhere for a buyer.

The Manchester Board of Directors, in a unanimous action Tuesday night, voted to purchase a 259.56-acre Case Mt. parcel for $81,022.50 and to allocate $167,000 as the town's cost share.

Ice Storm Review Tonight

Public comments on the December ice storm crisis will be heard by the Manchester Board of Directors tonight at 7:30 at Manchester High School's Banquet Auditorium.

Representatives of the Hartford Electric Light Co., Connecticut Natural Gas, and various Town of Manchester departments will attend the public hearing, Town Manager Robert Weiss said.

The ice storm review public hearing was originally scheduled for last Wednesday night, but heavy snowfall that day forced postponement of the session.

Heating Oil Supply Hinges On Weather

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal energy officials say there will be enough heating oil to go around this winter unless the weather is unusually severe and provided most Americans turn their thermostats down.

"If we get a colder than normal winter we could run short," said John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office (FEO). But he said that if the weather is normal the threat of a general heating oil shortage will disappear.

Sawhill said that if oil continues to "leak" to U.S. refineries through the Arab embargo, the energy crisis will grow progressively less severe. But the government still says homeowners should turn their thermostats down 6 degrees and businesses 10 degrees.

Heating oil stocks have reached sufficiently high levels so that the government decided not to carry out an earlier decision to force refineries to cut gasoline production five per cent in order to make more heating oil.

"We don't feel the need to mandate the shift at this time," Sawhill said.

The FEO estimated Tuesday that gasoline allotments to individuals under rationing would average between 33 and 49 gallons a month, depending on levels of production and imports. In bigger cities the allotment would depend on a "transit factor," comparing the total population with the number of mass transit passengers. The greater the use of mass transit, the less gasoline motorists would use.

Other developments: —The European Common Market accepted President Nixon's invitation to attend an energy strategy meeting in Washington Feb. 11.

Par American Airways, whose aviation fuel is at critically low levels, said it has received many offers for Boeing fuel at prices two or three times the current rate, but refused to identify the supplier or confirm the offer in writing.

The 250 residents of Castle Gate, Utah are being forced to move from their homes so the McCullough Oil Co. of Los Angeles can use the land for coal production. Increasing energy supplies. The town's council said residents who don't agree to move would face court action by the company.

Tape Tampering Spurs New Pressure For Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A technical panel says it doesn't know who caused an 18-minute buzz on one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes, but it does know the tape was erased by starting and stopping a tape recorder at least five and perhaps nine times.

The report immediately broadened the scope of the extra Senate Watergate hearings and another impeachment pressure.

In a federal court hearing Tuesday, the experts were blocked by White House lawyers from answering Chief Judge John J. Sirica's question: "Was the 18-minute buzz caused by accident, or was it deliberately done?"

We have no view as to who did what for what reason," Thomas J. Stockham Jr., of the University of Utah, one of the six experts jointly named by Nixon's lawyers and the Watergate prosecutors, said.

They Were Blocked

But when the prosecutors and Sirica tried several times to determine if the two-month technical study could determine a deliberate pattern of destruction to erase the tapes, they were blocked by James S. Claire, the President's new chief Watergate lawyer.

"I object to your honor's question because there's no basis in the previous testimony in the hearings to indicate why it could be done deliberately," St. Claire said.

Sirica withdrew the question, and the prosecutors decided to continue the hearings this week, starting with testimony from seven Secret Service agents, Lou Sims and Alfred Wong, Assistant Prosecutor John Sirica and two who set up the White House taping system and had custody of the tapes, would be quizzed about their access to the Watergate-related recordings.

Francis Keefe, commission chairman, reported that Mary Delia Ferrara, director of social services for the Town of Manchester, had received these complaints and had asked the Human Relations Commission to resolve the problem.

Allan Mason, Manchester's director of human resources, told the commission that Harry VanCamp, chairman of the Fuel Oil Institute of the Chamber of Commerce, had recently said to the Board of Directors that no one being fuel and with money to pay for it would be turned away.

The commission's talks with However, the Manchester

The experts concluded that the tapes had been erased, and that at one time a conversation between Nixon and his chief aide H.R. Haldeman probably existed on the tape. They said the 18 minutes were not erased all at once, but in at least five stages and possibly as many as nine, by someone who first pushed the "record" button, which would erase the previous conversation, and then, the stop button, which would stop the tape.

The White House said it was studying a summary of the report and "it would be altogether incorrect and improper for premature judgment or conclusions to be reached in the absence of any judicial decision and while the (judicial) process is still under way."

The tape involved was of a Nixon-Haldeman meeting June 20, 1972, the first White House taping day after five agents of the Nixon re-election campaign were caught breaking into the White House. The National Headquarters at the Watergate complex, Haldeman's notes of the meeting, introduced in the court hearing earlier, show that the Nixon re-election campaign was discussing the Watergate scandal during the deliberated 18-minute segment.

Members Deeply Concerned

Three members of the Senate Watergate committee, Republican Vice Chairman Howard Baker of Tennessee and Democrats Joseph W. Montoya of New Mexico and Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii — all said they were deeply concerned over the report's showing the Nixon re-election campaign was caught breaking into the White House.

Baker, who only a week ago said the committee may never resume its public hearings into Watergate, said the body "very possibly" may schedule extra hearings on the tape erasure.

Newcomers Reported Having Problem Getting Fuel Oil

By ALICE EVANS

The Human Relations Commission may call a special meeting to discuss problems facing some Manchester newcomers in obtaining fuel oil for their homes.

The commission was told Tuesday night that some families, including two on state welfare and new to Manchester, were unable to obtain heating oil even though they had the cash to pay for it on delivery. The oil dealers refused to deliver oil because the families were not regular customers.

Francis Keefe, commission chairman, reported that Mary Delia Ferrara, director of social services for the Town of Manchester, had received these complaints and had asked the Human Relations Commission to resolve the problem.

Allan Mason, Manchester's director of human resources, told the commission that Harry VanCamp, chairman of the Fuel Oil Institute of the Chamber of Commerce, had recently said to the Board of Directors that no one being fuel and with money to pay for it would be turned away.

dealers only vouched for themselves, not for dealers in area towns, Mason said.

Sirica withdrew the question, and the prosecutors decided to continue the hearings this week, starting with testimony from seven Secret Service agents, Lou Sims and Alfred Wong, Assistant Prosecutor John Sirica and two who set up the White House taping system and had custody of the tapes, would be quizzed about their access to the Watergate-related recordings.

Several approaches to strengthening the ordinance were proposed, including drafting the regulations and attaching them to the ordinance that already is in effect. The regulations might have to be changed to the ordinance to be amended. It would be turned away.

The commission's talks with However, the Manchester

do the regulations in separate stages, tracking the regulations for group homes for the first. Mason said he would talk to Weiss and then "it will be right back in your lap."

Mantle and Ford In Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, two "rollicking rogues" during the New York Yankees' glory years under Casey Stengel, were elected today to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Mantle is only the seventh player to gain election into the Hall on his first year of eligibility. Ford led 29 voters short last year when Warren Spahn was the only player elected in nationwide balloting by 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

To be elected, Mantle and Ford had to appear on 75 per cent of the ballots. This year 955 ballots were cast, which meant they had to be named on at least 722 to be entered in the Hall at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Mantle had 322 and Ford 284. Robb in Roberts, a Philadelphia Phillies pitcher, drew the third highest total with 224 as he failed to make the grade. Ralph Kiner had 213 and McCoy, a pitcher, drew three or more votes.

became a prime candidate to be named a Hall of Famer, joins Spahn, Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller and Sandy Koufax as the only players elected in the first balloting after a retirement period of at least five years.
