Firefighters Battle Tanker Blaze

Working from the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Dependable, firefighters work to subdue flames aboard the tanker, Key Trader, near the mouth of the Mississippi River near Pilot-town, La. The tanker, involved in a collision Friday with the Norwegian ore carrier, Baune, had in addition to the fire, been leaking heating oil into the river. The Coast Guard reported late Sunday that there was smoke, but no visible flames above the deck of the tanker. (UPI photo)

President Huddling On Energy Matters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon had two meetings concerning the energy situation on today's agenda, one with a bipartisan group of congressmen and a second with energy and Internal Revenue Service officials to talk about monitoring the oil industry.

But while he is supposed to be conducting those sessions, a caravan of truck drivers planned to parade past the White House in protest of rising fuel prices, and congressional committees began hearings on the energy crisis.

About 250 long-haul rigs spent the night at two truck stops in Doswell, Va., about 75 miles south of here, preparing for the caravan, said Jay Lofton, president of the new United Truckers of America.

Lofton said the White House informed his group by telegram last week Nixon would be available for a meeting with the drivers today, but Sunday a White House spokesman said no such meeting was on the President's agenda.

About 300 truckers stopped their rigs and picketed along roads from steel mills in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia Sunday, apparently in protest of smaller than desired rate increases granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission for hauling steel and iron.

A third group, the National Council of Independent Truckers, planned to begin a two-week shutdown at midnight tonight.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was to join Nixon at the energy briefing for congressional leaders to report on the Mideast troop disengagement agreement.

The Iraqi news agency reported Sunday that the Egypt-Israel accord is expected to result in an end of the Arab oil boycott.

Nixon also summoned energy and Internal Revenue Service officials for a noon meeting to outline preliminary monitoring of the petroleum industry's records on reserves, production and pricing.

In Houston, federal energy chief William E. Simon promised today "to put a dip stick" into every major fuel supply tank in the nation. "We recognize — we have said all along — that the petroleum industry reporting system is inadequate. That's why the federal energy office is going to mandate inventory reports and audit them regularly with field checks," he said in a speech to the National Association of Home Builders.

In a radio address Saturday, Nixon said voluntary energy conservation may result in forestalling gasoline rationing through next spring.

He also said he will seek to prevent oil companies from making "unconscionable profits" out of the energy crisis by asking Congress to pass a windfall profits tax and making a critical review of tax breaks for U.S. oil companies operating overseas.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson's Permanent Investigations Subcommittee scheduled hearings today with representatives from seven big oil companies as witnesses.

Energy Advisors Named

Last Tuesday, the Manchester Board of Directors authorized the creation of a seven-member Energy Advisory Committee, to involve itself in regulations, problems and recommendations pertaining to the energy crisis and to advise the board on any actions it should take to enforce the recommendations — mandatory or voluntary.

Directors Robert Price and Hillary Gallagher were given authority to name the committee — from a list of eligibles already compiled.

Today, Price and Gallagher announced the members of the committee as follows: Walter Fuss, vice president of Griswold & Fuss, consulting engineers, and former Manchester director of public works; Norman Comollo, vice president and treasurer of Mitchell Electric; David Barry, former Manchester town counsel, and former state senator, state representative and deputy mayor.

Also, Mrs. Mary Ann Roy, assistant professor of history at Manchester Community College; Charles Crocini, plant engineer at Manchester Memorial Hospital; E. Theodore Bantly, president of Bantly Oil; and Dr. Frederick Otter Jr., physicist at United Aircraft Research Laboratories.

Mobile Home Variance Requested

A woman whose home was damaged by fire during last month's ice storm crisis is asking the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) to let her live in a mobile home while her house is repaired.

The woman, Marilyn C. Fuller of 159 Olcott St., is asking the ZBA to waive a section of the town zoning regulations which prohibit parking of trailers for more than 24 hours when used for human occupancy.

Mrs. Fuller's request is one of four items scheduled for public hearings tonight by the ZBA. The hearings are scheduled to start at 7 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

A Dec. 19 fire severely damaged the Fuller residence during the ice storm crisis. Firemen said the blaze damaged about half of the east part of the 1½-story frame structure.

The house was declared uninhabitable after the fire. Firemen said the blaze apparently started as the result of emergency use of a fireplace in the home. The fire was one of several similar incidents reported in the third week of December, when most of Manchester was without power for five days.

Mrs. Fuller's application to the ZBA states there is a unique hardship involved in the case, because zoning regulations make no provision for emergency living quarters for residents whose homes are damaged in disasters.

The mobile home she is seeking to occupy is about 115 feet away from the road, the application says, and is well screened.

Other items scheduled for ZBA hearings tonight are:

- A special exception requested by Benet Rothstein of East Hartford to allow operation of a child day care center at 48 Spencer St., in the Squire Village housing development. Rothstein says families living at Squire Village need a readily accessible child care facility.

- A variance requested by Warren C. and Grace D. Markham to erect a two-family house at the southwest corner of Pearl and Harrison Sts., in an industrial zone.

Zoning regulations prohibit residential structures in Industrial Zones, but the character of the neighborhood is primarily residential, the Markhams say.

- A request by Robert and Charlotte W. Wilson to approve a change in the configuration of their corner lot at 51 N. Lakewood Circle to maintain an existing in-ground swimming pool.

The swimming pool encroaches on land of their neighbor, according to maps filed with the ZBA, and the Wilsons are proposing a land swap with the neighbor.

Congress Faces Many Questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress went back to work today after a month of voter pulse-taking that convinced some members they are expected to act with greater vigor and speed to resolve nagging questions about Watergate, the energy crisis and the economy.

Said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.: "This Congress is on trial this year. Can we respond to each of these crises? And I think the people of this country expect us to. There are answers to these problems."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., echoed Percy's view. "The day is over," Weicker said, "when you can just point to the executive branch and say they're too powerful. That means exactly nothing."

"If Congress wants to go ahead and achieve respect and power, it's going to have to earn it by devising legislation that meets our needs... I'd like to have a Congress that anticipates crises so they don't occur at all... I'd like to see Congress get off the dime."

On Watergate, the congressional focus now is on an investigation by the House Judiciary Committee of whether there is grounds for impeachment of President Nixon. Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said he hoped to get the matter settled "as early as possible" but said: "Speed is secondary to accuracy and thoroughness."

On energy, the Senate took up right where it left off in disagreement Dec. 21, with an emergency energy bill first up for consideration, while separate House and Senate committees held hearings on shortages.

Percy, a member of a Senate subcommittee that opened hearings on how great the oil shortages are, said the big oil firms would be given an opportunity to "clear the record once and for all" of suspicions that they have not been candid with the public or the government.

On the economy, congressmen said their canvassing of constituent views showed great distress over soaring prices but there appeared no consensus on whether tighter controls were needed.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that fears of such things as a dollar loaf of bread and a dollar for a gallon of gasoline was "driving people" up the wall.

Albert, Percy, Weicker, Jackson and a group of other senators and House members appeared on the NBC-TV Today Show to discuss pressing problems facing lawmakers in the 1974 session.

On impeachment, Percy, Jackson, Weicker and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., all agreed that they did not believe there presently was necessary two-thirds sentiment in the Senate to oust the President if the House voted impeachment.

Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., believes there is "sufficient evidence to sustain a finding of probable cause" of impeachment. "In the case of President Nixon" he said

Saturday, "the still-expanding record is replete with evidence of both criminal and political offenses."

Sen. Hugh Scott, the GOP leader, said Sunday (on CBS: "Face the Nation") that he felt the President could not be removed except for a crime and "it would have to be a provable crime, not merely a charge which is handed about from one newspaper to another."

Scott, who said he had information that would "exculpate" the President with regard to Watergate, agrees with colleagues like George Aiken, R-Vt., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that they ought to either impeach him or get off his back.

Kissinger Optimistic On Mideast Talks

United Press International U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Washington today upon his return from the Middle East that he had made progress in getting talks started between Israel and Syria similar to those which resulted in the Suez Canal front troop disengagement pact between Israel and Egypt.

"I think we have made real progress in getting negotiations started between Israel and Syria," Kissinger told newsmen upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

"The most important thing," he said, "is that my trip may have marked the beginning of normal human relations in the area."

In Jerusalem, an Israeli government official said nothing concrete on the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights front emerged from Kissinger's talks in Damascus.

"There is nothing hard and dry," the official said. "There is the separation of forces and the prisoner of war issue. This might lead to a formula for talks by linking the two. This is the very beginning of the possibilities for talks."

Kissinger ended his nine-day Middle East tour, which took him to Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria, with a stopover in London for an hour of airport talks with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home.

As Kissinger left the Middle East behind, it appeared the troop withdrawals on the Suez front for which he won the approval of both Israel and Egypt would take place even faster than originally scheduled.

After a negotiating session at the Kilometer 101 desert outpost in Egypt, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's military commander, said the troop withdrawals would start on Friday instead of Sunday as originally scheduled.

Elazar said the pullback would be completed in 28 days instead of the 40-day deadline set in the withdrawal agreement signed last Friday.

'Box Project' Links Families Miles Apart

BY JUNE TOMPKINS

One day soon a truck from the United Parcel Service will find its way to a rural address deep in the Mississippi Delta and deliver a large box of food supplies and school materials. The box will have come all the way from Manchester.

What makes this a unique situation is that the sender, Mrs. James Fletcher of 199 Homestead St., regularly packs a similar box and sends it off to a particular family, in the Deep South.

Mrs. Fletcher's "sister" family, the Bristers, live in Ita Bena, Sunflower County, Miss., located between Greenville and Greenwood not too far from the Arkansas border. The "sister" family has exchanged family pictures and correspondence with Mrs. Fletcher in return for receiving some of the necessities for living through The Box Project.

The project, which helps needy white, black, and Indian families in the South, North, and Appalachia, began about ten years ago when a Vermont housewife met Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. at the Geneva Disarmament Conference. The housewife, a native of Georgia, was disillusioned at the ineffective governmental attempts to help the poor. She told Mrs. King of her desire for more person-to-person contact.

Mrs. King responded by giving the lady the names of some poor and needy families in her home state. She began sending them boxes of food and clothing.

The charitable act grew when friends inquired for families they might help, and the recipient families responded with names of needy neighbors. The project took on epidemic proportions until by 1969, there were about 2,000 families being helped in this manner.

Mrs. Fletcher learned of The Box Project about 5½ years ago from an article in a Concord, Mass., newspaper. At the time she was doing social work and had no desire to join social groups nor politics.

"This appealed to me because I thought it was something I could handle," she said.

A stamped self-addressed envelope and $5 for annual dues were sent to the project's headquarters in Plainville, Conn. Volunteer help matched a needy family with Mrs. Fletcher and soon the boxes began to go to a new family. Mrs. Fletcher says she will probably continue sending boxes of supplies to the Bristers until all the Brister children are grown and away from home.

The Brister family comprises

Peron Orders Drive Against Terrorists

AZUL, Argentina (UPI) — A seven-hour leftist guerrilla attack against a big army base, ordered a massive drive today to "annihilate" terrorism in Argentina.

A stern-faced Peron, wearing his general's uniform, vowed "to attack this evil at the root" following the bloody commando assault against the headquarters of the 10th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Azul, 170 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Authorities reported five persons killed in the fighting, with a high-ranking officer, Lt. Col. Jorge Ibarzabal, missing and believed taken hostage by the fleeing bandits. The dead included Col. Camilo Gay, the base commander, and his wife, Hilda.

The clash was the most serious between guerrillas and the armed forces since Peron, 78, took office Oct. 12 after 18 years in exile. It occurred while the Argentine Congress was considering stiff new penalties for acts of terrorism.

Nearly all guerrilla groups have paid lip service to Peron despite their attacks against government installations. The commandos have also attacked members of the foreign business community, with millions of dollars paid by firms to ransom kidnaped executives.

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — The Connecticut state weather forecast:

Rain this afternoon, clearing tonight. Tuesday sunny. High today in the low 40s. Low tonight upper 20s to low 30s. High Tuesday near 40.

This Was A Year of Change

VIVIAN KENNEDON Correspondent
Tolland spent the last quarter of 1973 changing its makeup as the new charter took effect, creating a town manager-board of selectmen form of government...

Democracy swept the election in November and named the first time in nearly 30 years a control of all boards. John Burakas, highest vote-getter, was elected chairman of the Board of Selectmen...

The budget passed smoothly with a tax rate reduction of one mill to 45. The general budget, cut $115,000, was $1,024,000, while the education budget of $2,615,461 had been cut by $100,000. The Finance Board cut a $15,525 request...

Education The Board of Education has a permanent home in the former Savings Bank of Tolland on the Green. The state will pay almost half the purchase price of $108,000...

Disasters Disasters were plentiful in 1973. Seven-year-old Janice Pocket disappeared from a dirt portion of Rhodes Rd. on July 27 and police have not turned up a trace of her...

Special Tax Benefits For Smart Investors

By RAY DE CRANE
Most people make investments in real estate or in stocks and bonds in order to provide a better life for themselves after retirement. Those who plan their moves wisely with the tax consequences in mind will have far more to show for their efforts than those who ignore the tax collector.

There are risks involved in every investment. Your money may be doubled, it may be lost. Tax laws take these risks into consideration. But woe to the person who is unaware of the special tax benefits on investments or who refuses to use them to his own advantage.

Irish Return to Reality After Victory over UCLA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) - Notre Dame's basketball team returned to reality today with hard drills in preparation for games against Kansas and St. Francis before a rematch Saturday with UCLA.

Ladner Leads Colonels In Fight for ABA Lead

NEW YORK (UPI) - Kentucky is loaded with All-Stars but a big reason it is on top of the American Basketball Association East today is because of a guy named Wendell Ladner, who tries very, very hard.

Notre Dame No. 1 Wooden Grits Teeth Looking to Saturday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - In his own police, soft-spoken manner, John Wooden is gritting his teeth in anticipation of next Saturday night.

Stefanich Ups Bowling Earnings

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - Jim Stefanich, who has been one of the fastest starts in Professional Bowlers Association history, has now his 1974 earnings to nearly $55,000 with a first-place finish in the $100,000 Showboat Invitational tournament.

Casper Fined

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) - Billy Casper has been fined $150 for failing to honor a commitment to play in the Dean Martin Tucson Open Golf tournament last week.

Bucks Go to Jabbar And Victory Results

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Larry Costello has said it so often it's almost become a ritual. "We have to get everyone involved in our offense. It doesn't do any good to go to Kareem all the time."

Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley Cuts Net Down

At least UCLA should be playing loose for the return game with the Irish. "One who broke the record last year, the streak was meaningless," Wooden said.

Stefanich Ups Bowling Earnings

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - Jim Stefanich, who has been one of the fastest starts in Professional Bowlers Association history, has now his 1974 earnings to nearly $55,000 with a first-place finish in the $100,000 Showboat Invitational tournament.

Cotter, Giaimo Urging Early Impeachment

The impeachable offenses aren't limited to indictable criminal violations, he said. "They also include political offenses, broadly defined as breaches of public trust or constitutional abuses of power," he said. "Having reached that conclusion, I would be derelict in my duty if I did not do all in my power to see that the President was impeached," he said.
