Competitive Bidding Almost Nil On Short-Supply Items

By DOUG BEVINS

The function of the town purchasing agent has changed in the last few months from a person who gets needed goods for a good price to a person who just gets the needed goods. That's the opinion of Maurice Pass, director of general services purchasing agent for the Town of Manchester.

The reason price is no longer the major concern is apparent failure of the competitive bidding procedure because of shortages of many commodities, Pass said. "We've been getting bids," Pass said, "but we're dissatisfied and unhappy with the amount of competition in some bids, particularly petroleum products."

Not Getting Competition
"We're not getting the competition we've been enjoying in the past," Pass explained. Often suppliers of merchandise

British Train Crews Disrupt Rail Service

LONDON (UPI) — Wildcat walkouts by train crews today disrupted Britain's state-run rail system, plunging London's busy commuter network into chaos and axing long-distance services through the country.

Tens of thousands of commuters were forced to hitch rides, struggle for places on overcrowded buses or simply stay home.

"People who normally use our suburban services should find alternative means to travel," the British Railways Board said.

Britain Sunday was without any trains at all for the seventh successive week because of a slowdown by 29,000 locomotive engineers.

The British Railways management Sunday sent home about 25,000 out of 50,000 rail workers who are members of two other unions to avoid which is in short supply are reluctant to bid for town contracts because of the availability problem, he said.

For example, putting gasoline out to bid "was almost a mockery," Pass said. "We're still getting the petroleum products," he said, "but we're very unhappy with the price situation."

Pass said Manchester, though, has been very fortunate in acquiring petroleum products. The town has experienced some difficulty, but so far the obstacles have been overcome.

The situation is not the same in some other Hartford area towns, Pass said, where a few municipalities "are in deep trouble" with gasoline supplies. The failure of some towns to get bids on petroleum products is apparently the reason behind a suggestion made last week by George Shelley, coordinator of the Capitol Region Purchasing Council.

More Authority

In a letter to officials of towns in the region, Shelley recommended modification of bidding requirements to give purchasing agents authority "to act quickly without being burdened with cumbersome regulations."

"If a purchasing agent is suddenly offered a supply of some item in short supply," Shelley said, "he should be able to accept the offer on the spot."

"Also, in case of scarce commodities, it should be allowable to extend contracts with present suppliers even though some terms, principally price, may be changed," Shelley said.

Pass, who is a member of the review committee of the regional purchasing council, agreed that sometimes a purchasing agent "can grab something quick and save a buck," but more often the problem with bidding procedures is availability of goods.

Manchester's town charter provides for an emergency procedure, if approved by the Board of Directors, which waives the competitive bidding requirement if the circumstances of a particular case should merit the waiver.

Not a Good Idea
But a blanket waiver of bidding requirements isn't a good idea, Pass said.

"It should be an emergency procedure, a last resort," he said.

A better solution to the problem, Pass said, would be an increase in the financial limits for bidding.

Markoff Batting Only .100

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Early federal tax returns show that only 10.7 per cent of taxpayers are earmarking $1 for presidential candidates in the 1976 election.

Internal Revenue Service figures compiled from the first 403,000 forms showed that one taxpayer in 10 marked the box on their form authorizing $1 of their taxes for the campaign.

This is more than triple last year's markoff when only 3.1 per cent checked the box but likely to disappoint advocates of election campaign reform.

David Ishin, co-director of the Committee for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, said he was hoping for a 25 per cent response. But the first spot check represents a tiny fraction of the country's 78 million or more returns to be filed this year.

Congress Nears Action On Energy Powers Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both houses of Congress plan on taking final action this week on a bill giving President Nixon emergency powers to deal with the fuel shortage, possibly before the Chief Executive delivers an energy-oriented State of the Union address Wednesday.

Tornadoes Batter South

By United Press International

Tornadoes and high winds knocked down buildings and wires in southern and southwestern states today and left casualties in their wake.

The storms in the South followed a day of turbulent windy weather for the northeastern quadrant of the United States, which brought building damage and some blackouts to states from Michigan to New York, where winds of more than 60 miles per hour were clocked. One dead was recorded in New York.

The tornadoes hit over a wide area, one wrapped a mobile home around a tree and overturned another in Pinehill, Tex., injuring a 71-year-old woman. Another touched Collins and moved on the McGehee, in the southwestern part of Arkansas, leaving one person slightly injured and considerable damage to roofs and whole buildings.

At least four persons were injured when tornadoes swept over an area southwest of Jackson, Miss., and damage was reported to other homes in extreme northwest Mississippi.

At least 40 homes and two industrial plants were damaged by high winds in Fayette, northwestern Alabama before dawn, leaving no reported injuries but damage estimated into the thousands of dollars.

High winds damaged structures in an area near Keithville, La.

More than one inch of rain dropped in less than half an hour over Shreveport, La., flooding streets and underpasses. Little Rock, Ark., recorded one inch of rain.

It also rained over a broad stretch of the nation from Alabama to the western Gulf Coast and up into southern Missouri.

The Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, swollen from recent rainfall and melting snow, rose steadily toward flood stage in parts of Illinois and Missouri.

The high winds that buffeted parts of the east diminished today. Winds up to 60 miles per hour Sunday had whipped through western New York, Ohio and into Michigan.

A Hartland, N.Y., man was killed when he touched a wind-downed power line in Niagara County, New York. Two men died in a plane crash in Detroit that was attributed to gale force winds.

Detroit Edison repair crews worked late Sunday and early today to restore power to some 55,000 customers in southeastern Michigan. Trees and winds were reported down and buildings damaged by wind from western New York to Michigan.

Clouds cloaked the Great Lakes region through North Dakota and the northern Rockies. Snow fell over parts of Idaho, Nevada and Utah.

Early morning temperatures remained mild from Virginia to New England after the January "heat wave" Sunday. The high in New York City was 66 degrees.

Ohio Truck Driver Wounded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — One truck driver was shot, four trucks were hit by bullets and two truckers were pulled from their rig and beaten in northern Ohio late Sunday and early today as the deadline approached for a nationwide trucking shutdown.

Dennis Nickles, 30, Casey, Ill., a tank truck driver, was shot in the shoulder late Sunday on Interstate 80 in Trumbull County, Ohio. His truck was hit twice by bullets, one slug striking the grill and the other passing through the windshield and hitting him, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol.

A spokesman for the patrol said four trucks were hit by bullets early today on Interstate 80 in Mahoning County, but no one was hurt.

Two bakery truck drivers in Warren, Ohio, were pulled from their rig and beaten by five men today, police said. The driver, Thomas W. Reed, 32, Ashtabula, Ohio, was treated and released at a Warren hospital. His co-worker, Edward Falconer, 37, Waterford, Pa., was admitted to the hospital.

Independent truckers met in two northeastern Ohio cities Sunday and blamed government foodragging on high diesel fuel prices and low speed limits for forcing them to continue a work stoppage.

About 400 truckers met in Youngstown to discuss their protest action but decided nothing concrete had come from Washington to end their strike, which is set to start at midnight Tuesday.

the Cost of Living Council. It was the most disputed section of the measure.

"I think there probably is evidence of a punitive mood" in Congress, said American Petroleum Institute head Frank Icard. In an interview with UPI Saturday he said, "You see all these charges and countercharges made in a very shrill voice, and not getting to the real basic question," he said.

The Hawaii rationing plan, starting today, is similar to Oregon's voluntary system under which motorists with license tags ending in even numbers can buy gas on even-numbered days, turning the pumps over to motorists with odd numbers the other days.

In addition, motorists in Hawaii must have no more than one-quarter of a tankful of gas before they attempt to buy more.

In Tokyo, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani today warned Japan and European countries not to join the United States in a confrontation against oil producing nations.

Commenting on the meeting of oil consumer nations called Feb. 11 in Washington by the Nixon Administration, he said:

"If the idea is to unite them for a confrontation, it will be a serious matter for both consumer and producer nations. It will be an especially serious matter for Japan, which depends almost 100 per cent on imported oil."

"We have no objection to dialogue," Yamani said. "But if they (America) are having this conference for political reasons — to have a confrontation — we won't cooperate."

Yamani said Sunday his King Faisal is considering cutting the country's crude oil prices in order to ease world economic confusion.

Two Girls Trapped In Avalanche

NORTH BEND, Wash. (UPI) — Two girls were buried by an avalanche that roared down a 6,200-foot Chair Peak Sunday as a horrified father looked on. Another snowslide forced more than 60 rescue workers out of the area.

The rescue operations were conducted throughout Sunday night under lights and flares but there appeared to be little hope for Jean D. Kisman, 10, Seattle, and Linda D. Angell, 13, Renton, Wash.

Rescuers said the snow was very wet and heavy and it was unlikely there were any air holes.

Lee Hahn, directing the operation from a ski lodge a mile away, said Michael Kisman saw the snow slide come down on his daughter and the other girl.

Kisman told Hahn the girls ran and the snow covered them about 200 feet from Lake Source.

Porter Pleads Guilty To Lying About Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert L. "Bart" Porter, who kept quiet about Watergate for fear he would be accused of "not being a team player" by those in the White House who were involved, pleaded guilty today to one count of lying to the FBI about the scandal.

Porter, 35, entered the plea before U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant. Bryant postponed sentencing until he receives a probation report.

Porter, who had been one of the bright young men in the White House and in President Nixon's re-election campaign, testified in June at the Senate Watergate hearings that he had lied to the FBI to disguise the "dirty tricks" nature of cash payments to Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy.

Porter had been scheduling director for the Committee for the Re-election of the President. He told the committee that Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of the re-election campaign, had asked him to perjure himself.

The Connecticut state weather forecast: Rain likely tonight ending Tuesday morning becoming partly cloudy and mild Tuesday afternoon. Low tonight in mid 30s to mid 40s. High Tuesday 50 to 55.

UConn Economist Offers Outlook For Milk and Dairy Products

STORRS — A tight milk market — supplies down — and retail prices steady to firm. That's the dairy outlook for '74.

Dr. Johnson reports that the U.S. government kept the lid on milk prices last summer, without shortages because of the long-range nature of the dairy business. Once a cow is in production, the milk flow continues day by day until the lactation (milking period) ends unless the cow dries or is sent to the butcher. Also, dairymen must sell the milk right away because of its perishability.

Reigning lost milk production (milking period) ends unless the cow dries or is sent to the butcher. Also, dairymen must sell the milk right away because of its perishability.

As a result, 1973 decreases in milk production mean long-term trouble for consumers in the way of shortages and higher prices of milk and dairy products.

The bride-elect will graduate from Emmanuel College in Boston, Mass. in May.

Her fiancé is an accounting major at Husson College in Bangor, Maine.

The wedding is planned for June 2.

The dairy marketing specialists lists the following reasons for low farmers' morale.

1. Price supports for cheese, nonfat dry milk, and butter have been set at the lowest figure, 80 per cent of the 80 to 90 per cent of parity prescribed by law. The government hopes that there's an adequate supply of milk.

2. Six Presidential proclamations in the past 10 months, starting December 30, 1972 and ending November 1, 1973, have allowed extra emergency imports of dairy products. The reason given by the government is that there's an inadequate supply of milk.

The inconsistency with the "adequate supply" reason for low price supports has been noted by dairy farmers and they're aware of it. The amount of milk sold under these proclamations is about 3.3 per cent of a year's milk production.

Dr. Johnson believes that these proclamations aren't desirable because: "They discourage dairy farmers, seeming to indicate that the Flanigan Trade Report recommendation of a 14 per cent reduction in the U.S. dairy industry, and imports of $1 billion of dairy products annually, is being followed.

They substitute unreliable world supplies of milk for more dependable domestic production. The European Economic Community, for example, subsidizes dairy exports when supplies are high. Yet, a drought two years ago in New Zealand forced Great Britain to import 140,000,000 pounds of butter from the U.S.

"They are a direct minus in our balance of payments.

"Dairy farm inspections are not always known, and, in many cases, are inferior to those in this country. Imports could come from countries where the cattle plague or foot and mouth disease exist."

Dr. Johnson lists two other reasons for low farmers' morale:

3. An emergency Class I price hearing for all 61 federal milk marketing orders regarding the price of milk for dairymen in the U.S. last August and

"The morale of dairy farmers, causing an accelerating exodus from the dairy business, was particularly low last summer and fall when soaring feed costs were not matched by rising milk prices. Recent milk price increases have, however, bolstered morale, and should check the exodus rate."

Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is room at the top for women waiting careers in high finance and if they don't make it, the fault lies with the attitudes of both sexes.

Reason: Women still put themselves down and get a generous assist from the men. As one male executive remarked, "They already have their own cigarettes. What else do they want?"

Yet, says the president of one of the nation's leading banks, "The ability of a brain to function has nothing whatever to do with the sex of the body housing it."

Those are the words of John H. Vogel, President, National Bank of North America. No male chauvinist that Vogel: "I'm for women in business and specifically for women in banking," he told a Virginia Bank Administrative Institute Convention in Norfolk.

A Tremendous Job Vogel cited the number of women his bank employs and the numbers in banking nationally. "Sixty-five per cent of my employees are women operating on every level—from letter-trainer to department head," he said. "I know personally that they do a tremendous job ... in fact I have a hunch that someday one of them will be proving that she can do mine."

Better than 18 per cent of North America's officers are women. Women began to move into banking during World War II to close the man-power gap.

Today, on a national level, Vogel said 67 per cent of all bank employees are women but only 21 per cent (25,000) are officers.

And, when they get to the top, they earn an average of $3,000 a year less than men who have the same positions, he said. One reason women don't advance more rapidly to the top lies in their "lost years" in the professional world, time used for child bearing and rearing.

But also slowing their advancement is lack of education — "This one I must lay at the feet of women themselves." They're caught in the unfeminine mystique. "They feel that it is unfeminine to department head," he said. "I know personally that they do a tremendous job ... in fact I have a hunch that someday one of them will be proving that she can do mine."

Powerful Maloney Matmen Just Nip MHS Grapplers

Powerful Maloney High's wrestling team had to fight for its life Saturday afternoon at the Clarke Arena before overcoming a determined Manchester High squad, 27-25. The verdict remained in doubt until the final heavyweight event.

With a crowd of about 350 looking on, the Indians captured six straight weight classes from 107-pound to 140-pound. But, from this point on, the Spartans took command and won the match in the finale.

Junior Neil Snuffer, wrestling in the lightest-weight class, set the mood by narrowly missing victory in the final seconds of the third period. Ed Machuga, Mickey Miller, who remains undefeated in five matches, and Lee Smuller followed with easy wins. Snuffer electrified the crowd with an outstanding performance of wrestling skill and determination.

Senior Bud Durand manhandled Maloney's Kevin Daley in the 128-pound class and Co-Captain Mike Volland followed with a decision. Despite being weakened by an illness, Volland wrestled a skillful match of strategy and in the final 30 seconds exploded to capture a reversal and a 4-2 decision.

In the 140-pound contest, Skip Odell pinned previously undefeated Pat Temple in the first period at 1:38 mark. From this point on, the visiting Spartans took control winning the last five matches.

Maloney's margin of victory was provided in the 147-pound match. Spartan Bill Podgorski pinned Tim Bixby with three seconds left in the match. Without the additional three points, Manchester would have come out top. A decision is worth three points and a pin six.

Previously unbeaten Rick Letts lost his first match of the season to Rick Dickson in the 107-pound class by an 11-2 decision. The setback dropped the locals' standard to 3-2 overall and 0-1 in the CCIL.

Results: 100-Pound (ML) dec. N. Snuffer 6-5; 107-Machuga (M) dec. Steinbeck 4-0; 114-Miller (M) pinned Gravel 1:32; 121-L. Snuffer (M) dec. Valiquets 9-5; 128-Durand (M) dec. Kuntz 6-0; 169-Zemetis (ML) pinned Jacobs 5:11; 187-Dickson (ML) dec. Letts 11-2; Hwt.-Miller (ML) pinned Bushey 1:37.

In javay action, Maloney topped Manchester, 27-25. Results: 107-Gertowski (ML) dec. Miller 8-2; 114-Derewionka (M) dec. Petrelli 6-0; 128-Dion (M) dec. Bruins Weekend Victories May Be Costly With Orr Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boston Bruins won both of their games over the weekend but may have paid dearly for the victories.

All-Star defenseman Bobby Orr, who scored two goals and assisted on a third in Sunday's nationally televised 5-3 triumph over the Philadelphia Flyers, suffered a bruise above his left knee — the same knee on which he underwent surgery 19 months ago. Orr was injured late in the game when he was checked by Philadelphia's Bill Barber.

THE ROTARY-ENGINE MAZDA MAKES MORE SENSE EVERY DAY.

We didn't know there was going to be a gas shortage. And we certainly hope it ends soon. But in the meantime, we want to make sure everybody understands exactly what a Mazda is. And what it isn't.

Mazda is the only rotary-engine car in America. It runs on the cheapest gas you can buy—regular, no-lead, or low-lead. And it gets good mileage. (Mazda would run just as well on lower octane gas if it were available.)

Therefore, Mazda is an economical car.

But the rotary engine also makes Mazda very quick and powerful. Even when you add an automatic transmission and air conditioning.

So Mazda is also a performance car.

We believe Mazda offers you the best balance between fuel economy, performance, size, price and emission control. Plus quality. And proven reliability.

Predictions are that six out of ten people who buy a new car will buy a small car. If you're one of those people, we think you should test-drive a Mazda.

Even before the energy crisis, the rotary-engine Mazda made a lot of sense. But now that there's a gas shortage, it makes more sense every day.

Investment Chatter

Energy Independence May Dictate Success

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investment opportunities during the year will be concentrated in industry areas participating in the campaign to make the United States independent in energy, said Butcher and Singer, a Philadelphia investment banking firm.

"Companies most favorably affected will be those positioned to respond to both market opportunities and government policies," the firm said.

The firm said such companies included those with substantial production and reserves of oil and gas, manufacturers of oil drilling and coal mining equipment and railroads and railroad equipment leasing companies.

The Wright Bankers' Service expects a general stock market recovery this year and looks to the consumer groups to play a leading role.

"Consumer groups are, in our opinion, now worthy of special investment attention in view of their consistent record of comparatively superior investment performance during periods of stock market price recoveries and recessionary economic weakness," the service said in a newsletter.

Goldman Sachs, Inc., said in an investment strategy newsletter that the stock market currently appears to be offering some of the best values it has had in more than 30 years.

"Assuming as we do a 10 per cent decline in 1974 profits and an economic environment in 1975 and 1976 in which profits should expand significantly, we believe that there are more stocks representing excellent value in the market today than we have been able to identify in the better part of two decades."

The price-earnings ratios... are at or below the low end of their ranges for the last 25 years."

Norman Nordeen was elected as assistant secretary in May of 1973. Before joining The Hartford, he was employed by Credit Union National Association Insurance Co. of Madison, Wis., as director of research.

BECOMES PARTNER

Ronald R. Hrubala has become a partner and vice president of Wolf-Zackin & Associates, Inc., of Vernon, an insurance agency.

Hrubala, a 1971 graduate of the University of Connecticut, will assume responsibilities in the firm's commercial sales department.

He graduated from the Aetna Casualty and Surety Sales Course and is now a candidate for the Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter designation, the firm said.

Thomas Jungman of 1097 Main St. has retired after 12 years service with the Stanley Works of New Britain.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Eating is like banking

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am an instructor of physical education, and was a student when you visited our campus. Since then I have encountered some people who have disagreed with me when I told them that eating food late at night didn't tend to make you fatter than eating the same food any time of the day. I remember you discussing this matter and explaining that it was like "putting money in the bank — not when, but how much." Could you please give me any information so I can document my statement to these disconcerting people?

DEAR READER — I am always flattered when someone remembers something I have said in a lecture. You have quoted me correctly. I do not have had an occasional person question this fact. Proving it to your heeklers is a little bit like proving that the sun comes up in the east. The statement is based on one of the most fundamental laws of nature, the law of conservation of energy. It states, as you will find in any adequate college text of physics, "energy can neither be created nor destroyed."

A calorie is a unit of energy, described as the amount of heat energy required to raise the temperature of one gram of water one degree centigrade. Energy in our food is measured in calories. It follows that the calories in our food can neither be increased nor decreased by the time of day they are eaten, a calorie is a calorie in the morning, at noon, in the evening, at night — seven days a week, 52 weeks a year. People who do not understand this or will not accept it are ignoring the fundamental laws of nature.

This principle also applies to many diets that have been proposed. There is no magic way to defy the laws of physics. Our body is a calorie processor. We use the calories in the food we eat, or we store them as fat. Like all energy systems, it is cumulative. That means the changes in your body at the end of a day, a week or a month represent the sum total of the energy in, minus the energy used. If you eat more energy than you expend you get fat. The person who expends more energy than he eats uses the energy in the fat stores to make up the difference.

So, it doesn't make a particle of difference whether you eat 200 calories for breakfast and 400 calories all the rest of the day — or whether you eat only 400 calories for breakfast and 2000 calories before going to bed. The end result is 2400 calories in, and if you don't use that much that day the extra calories are stored in fat.

People who do eat a lot of food at night are most likely to get fat, for quite different reasons. Most people who don't get food energy during the day tend to be less active. They are not active at night either. The net result is their energy expenditure is usually (but not always) low.

However, that doesn't alter the basic law of energy. These people eat more calories than they use. Until someone finds a way to circumvent the law of conservation of energy, a calorie will still be a calorie. When that law is circumvented, look carefully to the west in the morning, you may see the sun rising in the west after all.

MACC News

Friday marked the close of the world-wide Week of Prayer for Christian Unity. This coincided with the first annual meeting of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.
A representative group from member churches gathered at the Concordia Lutheran Church for the meeting to be joined later by friends of the conference. Together they enjoyed the East Catholic Choral's presentation of songs from "Gospel!" then responded to the call to worship.

From joy in fellowship to worship in union was a relatively simple step. The challenge remains: to combine our strengths to achieve common goals. This last seems to be dependent upon mutual understanding and acceptance on a broadening scale.
Activities of the conference through its divisions as well as its board are structured to work toward these programs. Plans for the early spring arise from the Division of Christian Education and of Christian Unity. "Understanding how Judaism-Christian Community Workshops" is a course which will be offered at the Manchester High Adult Education sessions on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock beginning March 11.

Several clergymen have agreed to present the historical development of their denomination and/or their local church, emphasizing its unique characteristics. Questions and discussions under the leadership of Sister Mary P. Cassidy, executive director of the conference, will be a vital part of each session as steps toward growth and understanding among participants.

In a similar vein, the Division of Christian Unity is already planning a schedule of services in cooperation with local churches for the Lenten season. The proposed plan calls for participating churches to provide an opportunity for their regular traditional service to be presented and explained to visitors from other denominations. Although conceived separately, these two programs are providing currently opportunities for growth in understanding and acceptance within the greater Christian body.

A continuing effort of the Division of Christian Unity is the radio broadcast over WHPN news heard on Sunday evenings at 9:30 (changed from 8:45). Area residents can hear more of personalities and activities within local churches. They might also like to let the conference and/or the station know the sentiments of the audience about the broadcast.

Concern for the needs of others leads us to respond to a request of the Connecticut Council of Churches that people be made aware that warm clothing, especially men's clothing is needed for migrant workers. It may be brought to St. Mary's Episcopal Church office (and MACC office) at 41 Park St. during the week between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Holy Spirit Conference PLAINFIELD, N. J. (UPI) — More than 3,000 Christians will meet in Jerusalem during the first week of March to study the power of prayer as a vehicle for healing.
Evangelist Kathryn Kuhlman has described the March 25 assembly as "the first real miracle service in Jerusalem since the original Pentecost."

The Logos International Fellowship, which is sponsoring the conference, said some of the Christians planning to attend have hopes of personal physical healing.
A spokesman for Logos International said "There is a real possibility the Miracle Services and the teachings on the Holy Spirit will be an annual Jerusalem event."

Today's wise food shopper reads the label

This month, the Stop & Shop family of franks will sport new nutritional labels. So if you are concerned about getting the most from your food dollars, you now have additional information to help you compare one food with another.

You will be able to shop knowing the number of calories in each portion, and the amount of protein, carbohydrates and fat each serving will provide your family. And if you're concerned about your family's daily vitamin and mineral intake, you'll find this information, too.

The frankfur packages are some of the first of our Stop & Shop products to have nutritional labeling. Look for more to come!
