

Trucker Demands Snarled In Red Tape

United Press International
Federal energy chief William E. Simon, after a late night session with representatives of independent truck drivers, indicated today that government red tape could prevent an immediate solution to their problems.

At the same time, Simon said he opposed one of the drivers' key demands, a rollback of diesel fuel prices to May, 1973, levels.

On the highways, there were scattered incidents of violence directed at drivers who continued rolling their rigs.

Five days of violence associated with the truckers' strike brought Simon and about 40 other federal and state officials to a closed-door meeting in Washington Sunday where more than two dozen truckers aired their gripes. Simon said he has kept President Nixon informed "of all the events of the day."

"This is an interagency problem that cuts across the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Department of Transportation, the Federal Energy Office," Simon said after the second of two sessions broke up early this morning.

Meetings continue today, and Simon said the participants "will sit down with the nitty gritty." He said Sunday's meetings concerned mostly "technical matters" such as rollbacks, allocations and price "pass-throughs."

Earlier, he was reported to have told the truckers it would take congressional action to solve a major complaint—speeding up ICC rule-making procedures, which make it difficult for trucking firms to get quick approval to "pass-through" higher costs in the form of rate increases.

As for price rollbacks, Simon said: "I am against rolling back prices. Personally, I am opposed to that because it's counterproductive to our intermediate and long term goal of bringing on long-term self-sufficiency in this country, which is our only answer."

But he said later: "I didn't say that the prices were not going to be rolled back. I gave an opinion...that I've stated quite often. I'm optimistic reasonable men are going to get together on this issue."

Simon to Attend Hearing
Simon said he would appear at a House Ways and Means Committee hearing today, but that another high-level FEO official would meet with the truckers.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, who called the meeting, said, "All parties have been thoughtful and candid. Definite specific progress has been made in several areas." He refused to elaborate, and Simon indicated the hard bargaining was put off until the late morning session began.

In addition to the rollback and

ICC procedures, the truckers said they wanted a price freeze on all oil products, a public audit of oil companies, a joint congressional committee study of their problems, removal of allocation quotas from truck stops and a crackdown on any hoarding of diesel fuel by major trucking companies.

In other developments in the shutdown:

They'll Get It
—Attorney General William B. Saxbe, in Mechanicsburg, Ohio, asked governors and police departments to take any steps necessary to prevent violence by truck drivers. "It appears that truckers want a confrontation, and they're going to get it," he said.

—Max Krugman, a Carpentersville, Ill., truck driver was shot in the shoulder when he stopped his semi-trailer truck to check his tire pressure on Interstate 94 near New Buffalo, Mich. His unknown assailant got out of a car, asked "if he was working today" and when Krugman said yes the man said "Well, you won't be for long" and shot him, Krugman told police. Krugman was in fair condition.

—Herbert Rider, a trucker from Harrison, Ohio, was shot in the shoulder at a Kentucky Turnpike interchange about 18 miles southwest of Louisville. He also suffered face and neck cuts from flying glass. Rider said a second shot was fired at a truck following his, but that the driver was not injured.

—Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan ordered 900 National Guardsmen activated and placed under direction of the Highway Patrol. The guardsmen would be used for ground patrol, convoy escort and aerial surveillance, Gilligan said.

—Two tankers were burned in Peabees, Ohio, causing $32,000 in damage. Ohio officials said the highway patrol was providing escorts across the state to drivers requesting protection.

—The Pennsylvania State Police reported 15 rock-throwing incidents on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday. Most of the rocks were thrown from overpasses. Several windshields were broken, but there were no injuries. The number of Pennsylvania National Guardsmen on active duty was doubled to more than 2,000 to deal with the strike.

—Indiana State Police said at least six shots were fired from a car on the Northern Indiana toll road, several miles north of Valparaiso, and two shots struck the cab of a truck. The driver was not injured.

In other news of the energy crisis:

—The Beirut newspaper Al Nahar Sunday quoted "informed Arab sources" in Washington as saying the Arab oil embargo against the United States would be lifted at the beginning of March.

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Sunday he opposes gasoline rationing at this time, "because I remember back in World War II when we had gas rationing we had all kind of crime, we had black marketing, we had a terrible fouled up situation from beginning to end—even when we were fighting a world war. And it seems to me in the present atmosphere that it would be even worse. You'd have the worst aspects of rationing."

—The Federal Power Commission approved, 3 to 2, the highest price in its history for natural gas sold in interstate commerce. The commission authorized a joint project of seven producers to sell the gas to Southern Natural Gas, a pipeline serving Southern states, at a cost of 55 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The price is 22 per cent more than the previous record of 45 cents set last May.

Governor To Seek Court Ban On Trucker Traffic Disruption

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said today he will seek a superior court order prohibiting truckers angered over fuel prices from disrupting state highways.

"The law of the jungle will prevail if everyone takes the law into their own hands," he said.

The governor told newsmen he has asked the military department and state police to prepare contingency plans for removing truckers' blockades.

"We want to assure safe passage through Connecticut for everyone," the governor said.

Meskill, in addition to seeking a court restraining order that would hold violators in contempt of court, said he would ask the state Public Utilities Commission to consider revoking their Connecticut permits.

The governor said he would ask the names of violators be turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission for possible national suspension of their permits or licenses.

Meskill would not go into details on the contingency plan but indicated it would involve towing truckers blocking fuel terminals.

"We don't plan on blowing them up," he said when asked whether towing was what he had in mind.

The governor urged truckers to obey the law and "not concede to the few who are calling for violence and trouble."

Federal Budget Tops $300 Billion Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — His plans for a balanced budget shattered by the energy crisis, President Nixon today proposed a record $304.4 billion budget that means the nation will spend almost $10 billion more than it collects next year.

Backing his pledge of "no recession," Nixon's blueprint for fiscal 1975 unveiled a strategy to fight unemployment at all costs—even it means "busting the budget" and continued inflation and higher prices.

It was the sixth straight red ink budget for the Nixon presidency. If the proposed figures are correct, the federal government will have spent $77 billion more than its revenue since he entered the White House in 1969.

About one-third of the 1975 budget dollar will be returned to citizens in the form of Social Security and welfare benefits, food stamps, unemployment insurance and other government payments.

National Defense
Another quarter—$87.7 billion—is earmarked for national defense. It is the largest defense budget ever, but in terms of percentage of the Gross National Product it is the "smallest since the beginning of the Korean War in 1950."

National health insurance and welfare reform, two programs Nixon stressed in his State of the Union message last week, will get no money at all in the new budget. He said it will take more than one year to get them cleared by Congress and into operation.

This fiscal philosophy, plus the mild and conciliatory tone of Nixon's message, was in stark contrast to the harsh words of a year ago when President chopped off a number of venerable programs and promised to impound money appropriated by Congress if the lawmakers didn't hew to rigid spending ceilings.

Congress broke the limits anyway, and the administration now forecasts a deficit of $4.7 billion for the current fiscal year. That will double to $9.4 billion in 1975, Nixon said.

Open House Termed 'Gratifying'

"Extremely gratifying," is the way Mrs. John R. McElraevy, president of the Manchester Association for the Help of Retarded Children, (MAHRC) termed the response to the open house conducted at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop Sunday.

Some 500 persons toured the facility and watched workshop clients give demonstrations and job descriptions of the work they perform.

The workshop, now housed in the former Lincoln School, was started in 1965 and occupied quarters at 45 N. School St., until 1973 when the Board of Directors voted to grant them use of the first floor at the school.

Staff members on hand to conduct tours included: Mrs. Clifford Sullivan, supervisor; Mrs. Darrell Morrisette, assistant supervisor; Mrs. Rosalind Dymek and Joseph Blette, instructors; Clifton Sanborn and Robert Lovett, contract coordinators; Almet Sullivan, custodian; and Norman Fendell, workshop director and executive director of MAHRC. Assisting them were the following workshop volunteers: Mrs. Clifton Sanborn, Mrs. Lina Lockhart, Miss Karin Carasone, Mrs. William Calderwood, Mrs. Joseph Blette.

A recently innovated feature which attracted great interest was the woodwork shop under the direction of Robert Jackson. He is instructing boys in the art of furniture repair and refinishing. The woodwork program is a component of special education but is gradually being developed into a joint project of special education and the workshop.

Fendell, commenting on the facility, cited the purpose of the workshop is to provide a supervised program of rehabilitation and work experience for mentally retarded persons over 21. Part-time clients under 21 are those who are still in special education classes.

Serving refreshments which were donated by MAHRC members were: Mrs. David Sombrie, Mrs. Roy Vaughan, Mrs. S. J. Benson, Miss Ada Wehmann, Mrs. Roger Negro, Miss Ruth McElraevy, Miss Karin Carasone, Mrs. Evert Carlson, Miss Ruth Hadden, Miss Ora Hadden, Mrs. Joel Belanger and Mrs. James G. Brady. Mrs. John H. Kenneally was in charge of the guest book.

The Sheltered Workshop functions under the auspices of the Manchester Association for the Help of Retarded Children, Inc. Members of the board of directors of MAHRC are: Mrs. McElraevy, Clifford Sullivan, vice president; Mrs. Almet Sullivan, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Toconis, recording secretary; Mrs. Evert Carlson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Janice Stewart, financial secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Gordon, Mrs. John Lahta and Roger Negro, directors.

The Connecticut state weather forecast: Cloudy and cold this afternoon with occasional light snow. Accumulations up to one inch. High near 20 in Greater Hartford area to 20 to 25 south. Partly cloudy and very cold tonight, low zero to 10 below in Greater Hartford area to around five above near the sound. Partly sunny and cold Tuesday, high near 20.

Assembly Convened Wednesday

Meskill Budget Message To Launch New Session

HARTFORD (UPI) — When Gov. Thomas J. Meskill steps to the podium Wednesday to deliver his budget message before the legislature, he will be presenting more than a budget.

He will be calling his own troops, the sizable Republican majorities in both houses, to order to seize the initiative and maintain it for the rest of the session, the better to wage a successful campaign this summer and fall.

One undisclosed source has placed the governor's budget figure at $132 billion, up a modest $60 million from last year.

With his impressive $70 million surplus as a backdrop, Meskill will ask the legislature to reduce the sales tax from 6.5 to six per cent.

While the Democrats will have to wait to criticize the individual departmental allocations within Meskill's budget, they are already saying the sales tax should be 5.5 per cent.

There will be no suspense on the proposed elimination of the taxes on electricity, gas, water and telephone bills. Meskill is backing repeal.

The 1974 session is technically only a "Budget" session—short and limited in scope. The "energy crisis" both limited and expanded it by causing Republican leadership to propose "energy emergency" legislation and, ostensibly to save energy, reduce the Assembly work week to three days. Tuesdays and Thursdays will be for hearings and committee meetings and Wednesdays for full sessions and votes.

Even lobbyists better disposed to Republicans than Democrats say the shortened work week will do more to help Republicans control Capitol happenings than to conserve energy.

While budget matters and the energy emergency measures will predominate during the opening of the session, committee-sponsored bills on many subjects may surface to destroy the calm.

Even if they don't, Democrats who don't control a single committee, will be able to accuse Republicans of burying worthy measures.

Election and legislative reform measures are being developed. Campaign misdeeds at the state and local level have forced the Elections Committee to consider disclosures of and limitations on campaign spending and giving.

Mrs. Grasso Pledges To Give Government Back To The People

By SOL R. COHEN

"The road is dark and long and tricky — yet, that's the road we'll have to take to give government back to the people."

So spoke Ella Grasso Saturday night in Manchester. The Sixth District congresswoman addressed a turnout of about 200 persons, attending the annual dinner-dance of the Democratic Women's Club of Manchester. It was held at the Manchester Country Club.

Mrs. Grasso is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor and, if her reception in Manchester is any indication, she is a top favorite — with women and men alike.

In speaking of the "dark and long and tricky road," she compared it to her trip to Manchester Saturday night, after speaking to a Democratic victory dinner in Lebanon. Because of the bad weather, she was about an hour late and arrived at the country club when the diners were finishing dessert.

"I said grace in Lebanon and had expected to give the benediction in Manchester," Mrs. Grasso apologized.

She said she is giving up almost certain re-election to Congress (to run for the governorship) "because I want to serve all the people of my state, and not merely the people in my district."

She repeated previous statements regarding a possible primary. "I hope I can be nominated without one. However, as long as my friends stand by me, I'll stand by them — all the way."

Mrs. Grasso said, if nominated for governor, she would be happy to run with whomever the state convention nominates for lieutenant governor.

"Whoever it might be," she said, "and provided I'm nominated for governor, he'd be running with Ella Grasso — a person, and not just a woman." Incidentally, because she arrived at the dinner late, Mrs. Grasso missed meeting Republican Robert Steele, congressman from the Second District.

He and his aide, Rick Story, stopped in on their way from an appearance in Hartford to another one in Willimantic.

Steele table-hopped from one group to another — introducing himself. Some of the Democrats acknowledged he "had a lot of nerve to appear in the opposition's den." Others said what he did was "in poor taste."

He left before Mrs. Grasso arrived but not before he dropped hints he would be very happy to be the GOP candidate for governor, in the event Gov. Meskill decides not to run.

In her speech, delivered without notes and without a prepared text, Mrs. Grasso said, "The greatest and most Curtain time is 8 p.m. Box office, 246-6807.

Bushnell Memorial The Hartford Symphony Orchestra under the baton of music director Arthur Winograd will feature piano soloist Jerome Lowenthal. Lowenthal regularly plays at major summer festivals including Ravinia and Tanglewood.

The program features "There is not a single hair curler, bedroom slipper or bathrobe in any of the musical numbers or sketches," said Mitzi, pleased with herself.

"And there aren't any kids either."

"Our attitude is that every wife should wear a beaded gown. Downs deep inside all women are glamorous but sometimes wives just can't keep up. I know I'm a wife who sometimes cooks corned beef and cabbage. Honestly, Mitzi promises there will be no clichés. In one kitchen scene she wears only an apron. True, it's a pinafore which covers her up, but barely."

Jack Bean, Mitzi's husband

Better still, Mitzi's CBS special beginning tonight is all new material with Ted Knight (who plays the moronic newscaster on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show"), Suzanne Pleshette and famed television plumber Jane Withers.

One of the difficult problems with specials is coming up with a theme for a one-hour show. Mitzi's is "Mitzi - A Tribute to the American Housewife."

"This is not a single hair curler, bedroom slipper or bathrobe in any of the musical numbers or sketches," said Mitzi, pleased with herself.

Rail Reorganization

New life, or at least the hope of it, was breathed into the nation's railroad industry when President Nixon signed the Regional Rail Reorganization Act on January 2.

Proponents of the measure, which was based on a concept that originated with Union Pacific Corp. whose prosperous railroad operations are entirely in the West, hail it as a major turning point for rail service. One not only for the ailing lines in the Northeast but throughout the nation.

The act emphasizes a free-enterprise approach rather than the dubious alternative of nationalization.

It will set up a non-profit federal railway entity — the United States Railway Association (USR) — to administer $15 billion to help troubled railroads. The money is to be raised in the private sector, with the federal government guaranteeing the loans.

At the same time, a new profit-making investor-owned corporation called Consolidated Rail Corp. will be created to take over the properties of the bankrupt roads, get them in good condition and operate them.

The new law calls for trimming down to eliminate duplicating tracks and facilities and lines no longer needed. Unprofitable branch lines may be maintained with a subsidy by state or local governments willing to assume 30 per cent of the total subsidy. The other 70 per cent would come from Washington.

The recommendations for eliminating 175 miles of Connecticut's 664 miles of track was made in a special report Friday. This is now being studied by Department of Transportation officials who have indicated they will consider buying such trackage should it have any future transportation potential.

It should take an estimated 15 months to do the planning, another 12 months for the basic reorganization and rehabilitation of the bankrupt roads and another four years for continuing rehabilitation — track repair and modernization, new and rebuilt rolling stock and updating yards and other facilities.

This is hoped that by 1980, the Northeast will be served by a major new and rehabilitated system, the Consolidated Rail Corp., in addition to those lines now operating profitably in the area. Passenger service will be provided, too, with assistance to Amtrak from the new corporation.

There is hardly any need these days to argue the importance of a healthy railroad industry, as manufacturers get most of their raw materials by rail and ship most of their finished products by rail.

A 1970 study showed that freight trains moved 86 per cent of the country's pulp and paper, 74 per cent of its canned goods and 46 per cent of its meat and dairy products.

According to the Association of American Railroads, a train can carry four times as much inter-city freight for the same amount of energy as a truck would require, and can do it with only one-third the air pollution per ton-mile that would be caused by a truck.

The State of the Union

The American people have given their State of the Union address. First, the President gave the Congress and the people his assessment of national priorities and problems ahead. This was followed with the assessment made by Sen. Mike Mansfield, majority leader of the congressional priorities.

While both addresses were overshadowed by the divergent viewpoints on Watergate — the President wants to cut it short and Sen Mansfield feels it must run its natural course — there was a broad area in which there is hope that the executive and the Congress can work together on common goals.

While both protect the prerogatives of each branch, it was refreshing to note common concern for resolving the energy shortage, improvement of social welfare programs, and other areas of concern.

The President accented the foreign affairs goals of his administration and Sen. Mansfield gave due credit to the President and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for the Russian and Chinese detentes and the Egyptian-Israeli Suez troop withdrawal.

As much as the President would like to, Watergate will not fade away; but despite, Mansfield's defense of the right and "onerous responsibility" of the Congress to pursue possible impeachment, the majority leader, we believe offered a conciliatory olive branch to the executive in stressing the areas in which there is mutual concern and general agreement as to desired goals.

It is our hope that both the executive and the Congress can and will attempt to meet these challenging opportunities.

The challenge to the President and to the Congress has been placed by both in the same light. That challenge is not the ultimate resolution, early or late, of Watergate; but what meaningful national legislation will be enacted in spite of Watergate's shadow.

Both have pointed out many problems to be resolved and the question now is not what must be done as much as getting the wheels in motion quickly to get the job done.

We hope that both sides will show the flexibility and leadership needed to get the non-Watergate issues resolved. We think the climate has been set for this to be done. We think this is what the majority of Americans want and they want it done ahead of party considerations or upcoming election advantages.

New Values, New Worlds

This is the last in a series of five articles of emerging values and lifestyles entitled: "A NEW BIRTH OF VALUES." Will our grandchildren, and theirs, looking back at our time, call it the era of materialism, just before the final crackup of material values? I suspect they will. But they will also add that something new began in the '70s, that it was an effort to reach for a new awareness and a heightened consciousness, and to explore the mysteries that loom beyond the surface world of the senses.

I know this goes against the grain of doom-thinking among many writers today. Reading their words' end stuff, I keep wondering whether they and I are writing about the same America. Yes, the threats to our life from without and within are real — from nuclear weapons, from contaminated ecosystems, from Arab oil lords who can paralyze the world's economy, from corrupt politics and politicians. But if you look beneath the surface there are new beginnings being made, too.

In every era something is dying and something is being born. What makes our era that both feelings are

Proposing and Disposing

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon has proposed to his heart's content. But on the issue of impeachment, the House of Representatives will do the disposing.

When the President places "only one limitation" on his cooperation with the House Judiciary Committee, now studying his possible impeachment, he knows that the extent of his cooperative must be acceptable to the House. Otherwise, the House won't play.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., declared after Nixon's State of the Union message, that "He plainly doesn't intend to cooperate — except on his own terms." Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., Chairman of the House Republican Conference, concluded that Nixon was speaking "in the spirit of conciliation." Events could prove either man right, but in fact, nobody except the President knows what he'll do.

Nixon's statement told the Congress nothing. He said only that he would "follow the precedent that has been followed by and defended by every President from George Washington to Lyndon Johnson" of never weakening the principle of executive privilege.

He would not do anything that would "impair the ability of the Presidents of the future to make the great decisions that are so essential to this nation and to the world."

That's just rhetoric. Nixon offered no specifics; he didn't say he would furnish this information or without that information. He crossed no 'i's, dotted no 't's. What he did say was that he would "follow the precedent" of his predecessors. How much would he tell the prosecution?

Besides, Nixon's position is unique. Washington, John and other Presidents never applied the principle of executive privilege to the issue of impeachment. True, Andrew Johnson was impeached, but the House all but ignored him.

Curbing America's Growing Pains

With the economy lagging and darker clouds hovering about, not too many Americans may be in a mood to hear about "stopping growth."

This capital gives them fits anyway, and they'd probably be even more disturbed if they thought any kind of example was being set by the stop-work order on development imposed in suburban Fairfax county, in Virginia across the border. Fairfax built private home construction and industrial and commercial building for a period of from six to 18 months, depending on circumstances.

I have no idea how many other places if any in this nation have brought "growth" to a halt or are contemplating such a course. But I do not know one spot where the news from Fairfax county could only be greeted with a broad smile of satisfaction: the office of Oregon's Gov. Tom McCall.

He gets national attention for a lot of reasons, including his energy-conservation measures, his discouragements to new settlers in his state, his personal use of a small foreign automobile to dramatize the fuel crunch.

McCall isn't big on new economic growth, either for Oregon or most other states. He thinks we've reached a point of diminishing returns, where the losses (often hidden) may in some cases actually outweigh the gains.

Not too long back, he zeroed in on a report made by the Chamber of Commerce in his own capital, Salem.

The report cited what it saw as the worth of 100 new workers to a given community. The Chamber said they'd mean 296 additional people, 51 more school children, 112 more households, 174 other workers employed, $270,000 more in bank deposits, $280,000 in added personal income, and $360,000 more retail sales a year.

McCall doesn't see all these dazzling figures as a huge plus for anybody in the long run.

He figures 112 further households mean, in Oregon at least, three new subdivisions. With many children in these families, that puts fresh, often unexpected pressure on schools frequently already overcrowded.

Aside from the community support facilities obvious to all, McCall notes in a recent talk that inevitably some newcomers will require costly government social services, counseling on alcoholism, self, vocational rehabilitation.

The Oregon governor cites a Denver study which showed that 100 new jobs if they stay in the city, inevitably come through to its end in higher taxes.

McCall isn't against all new growth, no matter what the place, the time or the circumstances. He simply thinks we've gone giddy over it, and should not accept easy assurances that gains from it are automatic.

Bolton Bolton Student Interest High In Technical School

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent

Early indications at Bolton Center School are that student interest in the technical schools is high. Presently attending Cheney Tech.

There is no tuition for Bolton (or Connecticut) residents at a technical school. Transportation is arranged by the local school boards.

The application deadline for these schools this year is March 1.

Interested parents and or students are invited to contact Jeffrey Heintz, guidance counselor, regarding possible student application to one of the area technical schools.

Bolton's ratio of applicants to students accepted has been quite high in recent years.

By Feb. 4, when the results of the recent differential aptitude tests are in, John Eagles, principal, and Heintz will begin processing applications.

Two assemblies were recently held for students in Grades 7 and 8 featuring speakers from two of Connecticut's regional technical schools.

Lennart Johnson presented a series of slides to the students depicting various school programs at Cheney Tech.

Cheney offers a four year day program in the following areas: automotive mechanics, carpentry, machine drafting, electrical, industrial electronics, machine shop and tool and die making.

One year programs offered include barbering, construction design, drafting, dental assistant, licensed practical nursing and welding.

Explorers Started
Twenty young men registered this past week for a new organization under the sponsorship of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department named the Special Interest Explorers Group.

Elected temporary officers of the group were Jeff Waddell, captain; Tom Preuss, lieutenant and Robert Johnson, secretary.

At its next meeting the group will formulate a set of by-laws and a program for the coming year.

Other who registered into the explorers are William Chick, Michael Morin, Jerry Chermeka, Dana Ward, Tom Behling, Tom Cavanaugh, Steve Greene, John McCarrick and David Waddell.

Volunteer firemen named advisors to the group are Bob Morra, Jim Preuss, Dan Rattazzi and Larry Shaw.

The youths were registered by Frank Ennis, from the Algonquin District, who explained the purpose and functions of explorers.

Peter Beckwith of Beckwith Supplies showed a film on fire equipment to the boys.

The explorers will meet Monday evenings at 7 at the firehouse.

Meeting Site Changed
The third in a series of open meetings with community residents and the family life committee has been changed from the library in Bolton Center School to the all-purpose room at Bolton Elementary School. The meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Care Line Receives 404 Calls In Three Months

The Connecticut Child Welfare Association (CCWA) Care Line, a statewide round-the-clock Child Abuse Prevention telephone line has received 404 calls since opening Oct. 1. Mrs. Jeanette D. Dille, executive director of the CCWA, reported that the calls of concern came mostly from neighbors, friends, mothers and fathers, and involved some 520 children of all ages.

The Care Line, proclaimed by Governor Meskill as a public service during Care Line Week, Feb. 1-4, responded with 186 referrals for immediate services to such agencies as the Welfare Department's Protective Services Division, Visiting Nurses Association, Health departments, schools and private social service agencies.

A "unusual" child abuse hotline, the Care Line is privately run by the CCWA. During its first three months of operation, it received calls from 82 different cities in Connecticut, mostly from major population areas such as Bridgeport, Hartford, Middletown, Bristol, New Haven, Waterbury, and West Hartford. Of the calls, 50 came from neighbors, 15 came from friends of the family involved, 53 from mothers concerned about their children, 19 from fathers and 38 from other members of the family.

Mrs. Dille reported that although the Care Line can be called at any time, most calls are received between 8 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. in "most things happen after hours when people are home. This is real evidence pointing clearly to a need for service availability beyond the 35-hour week."

She further noted that the most dramatic call concerned an eight-month-old baby deserted by its mother and left with a friend who, frustrated and unable to care for the child, called the Care Line repeatedly in varying stages of indecision threatening to abandon the child also. The Care Line kept the person on the phone long enough to alert police and emergency Protective Services of the child's location. Within two hours, Mrs. Dille said, a naked bruised and deserted baby had been picked up by police and was safe in the hospital.

Governor Meskill in designating this week Care Line week in Connecticut, cited the efforts of the Greater Hartford Jaycees for promoting the line and the CCWA for running it.

Doctor develops Home Treatment to Rinse Away BLACKHEADS

See Blackheads "Wipe Off" After a Single Helen Helene Skin and Beauty Treatment

INA LEE, Beauty Consultant

A leading New York dermatologist has developed a simple, medicated home treatment that rinses away blackheads and whiteheads in a matter of minutes.

"I saw it demonstrated recently on five women and two teenage boys. The results were almost breathtaking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cleansing tissues that finished their treatment."

But this wasn't all. In the case of two older women, I saw enlarged pores reduced and rough, muddy complexion made cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. In the case of teenagers, I saw acne pimples improve after one application. After seeing these results, I can well understand why so many beauticians are now acclaiming this doctor's treatment as one of the most important beauty discoveries.

Flats Dirt off Face

The treatment starts with a thorough skin cleansing. A special laboratory-developed whipped cleansing cream is used that takes off not only surface dirt, but also swollen and loosens pore-caked grime with its emollient action. It liquefies as soon as it is applied and literally floats the dirt right off your face.

After this is rinsed off, a delightful mint-scented cream is applied. Within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this specially medicated cream into a plaster-like masque. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws on waste matter in the pores.

...In 8 or 10 minutes you simply rinse with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see blackheads and other pore "blemishes" actually come off on your tissue. And your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Woman's View

By GAY PAULLEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—When is a "bargain" not really a bargain? When it's a used item which comes equipped with a safety hazard or hazards as well as an alluring price tag.

"The price of an accident is remembered long after the price of a bargain is forgotten," is the way safety experts put matters.

They're talking about risks of buying at garage sales, "on their" way to becoming a nationwide industry popular as pizza and almost as compelling as a free trip to Hawaii sweepstakes.

"Family Safety," publication of the National Safety Council, reports garage sales are used so often that there are now four books on the market telling you how to throw your own.

Who goes to garage sales? Friends, relatives, neighbors, dealers, collectors and junkie addicts (junkie describes anything that isn't genuine antique), and people who simply want to save a buck.

The current publication from the safety people cautions that you may pay a higher price for new and reputable products, but your money also buys a warranty, direction for maintenance and safe operation, clear warnings when required, and the label of Underwriters' Laboratories or other testing agency as well as conformity with up-to-date voluntary or official standards.

So, let the buyer beware. Here are some hazards to be aware of when you buy at a garage sale.

Old crabs, which are less likely to have proper (and safe) side spacings and side latches that may be unreliable.

Old toys that may not comply with the new safety laws enacted in 1970.

Watch out for missing parts on equipment, especially guards, and equipment without safety or operating instructions.

Old and chipped enameled cookware can provide a breeding ground for bacteria. Be alert for hidden defects in equipment, a painted ladder for instance that may have paint hiding a structural defect, electrical appliances which aren't really grounded (ground wires may be loose or broken).

Katherine Ristau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ristau, 26 S. Hawthorne St., has been named to the dean's list for the first semester at Quinnipiac College, Hamden. She is a freshman majoring in physical therapy.

Miss Lynn Anne Orłowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Orłowski of 7 Keeney St., has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Westbrook College, Portland, Maine.

Elizabeth L. Blase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Blase, 84 Henry St., is a recent graduate of the University of Connecticut, where she received a BA degree in mathematics. She was a member of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi and Pi Mu Epsilon National Honorary Mathematics Fraternity.

Vernon Town Council Will Hear Radio Proposal Tonight

Vernon Fire Chief Donald Maguda and Rockville Fire Chief William Johnson will present a proposal for a change in radio communications for the departments at the meeting of the Vernon Town Council tonight.

The plan asks that the departments have a radio frequency of their own instead of the Tolland County Mutual Aid frequency which they now use.

There will also be discussion of a proposed ordinance requiring psychiatric examinations for employees of the Vernon Police Department.

The proposal was recommended by former Chief Edmund Dwyer who retired last month. Mayor Frank McCoy said the purpose of the ordinance is primarily to remove this matter from the field of union contract negotiations.

The Ice Facility Study Committee will present its report for the council's consideration. The committee was asked to explore the feasibility of such a facility for Vernon.

Donald Berger, director of recreation, will report on the estimated costs for renovation of the People's Bank Building, bought by the town, and being considered for use as a Senior Citizen Center.

The council will also be asked to approve an appropriation of $22,000 for costs of advance work in connection with the construction of another housing project for the elderly.

Vernon Democrats Ask Town Consider Buying Water Co.

The Vernon Democratic Town Committee has approved a resolution urging Mayor Frank McCoy to implement an immediate study to evaluate the feasibility of the town purchasing the Vernon Water Co.

The resolution states that the mayor may do so by means of a referendum and at his discretion. The resolution was proposed by Robert Houley and Thomas Dooley.

Dooley is a Vernon representative to the General Assembly and Houley is a former state senator.

In the resolution, sent to Mayor McCoy, it was stated that the Democratic Town Committee, through the resolution, does not take a specific position on the possibility of the purchase of the now privately owned Vernon Water Co.

The committee, the resolution stated, is urging a complete review of the matter "that could have long-range implications to the well being of all Vernon citizens."

The Rockville Water & Aqueduct Co. and the Vernon Water Co. a few weeks ago, filed a petition with the Public Utilities Commission to permit the sale of Vernon Water Co. to Rockville Water & Aqueduct.

The request asked that the present customers of the Ver-

Carino has twice been nominated for the commission seat, and the council has rejected him twice.

Also expected tonight is the appointment of a town auditor (term ending November 1975), an alternate to the Zoning Board of Appeals, an alternate to the Planning and Zoning Commission, and four members to the Building Code Board of Appeals.

New business on the council agenda includes scheduling a public hearing on the proposed Avery Brook Watershed Flood Control Project.

The survey, announced by State Transportation Commissioner Joseph B. Burns, will start this month and is expected to be finished in July.

Schedules for construction work will be set until the survey is completed, Burns said. The cost estimate is based on 1974 values and includes rights-of-way acquisition, surveying, engineering, and actual construction prices.

The transportation department survey teams will map topography and terrain along Sullivan Ave. from the vicinity of Sand Hill Rd. to Pierce Rd., a distance of about 2,000 feet.

South Windsor Elk of the Year

The first one involved a change of zone to developer Evandro Santini for property at Vernon Ave. and South St. The appeal was granted through default after the attorney representing Santini told the Zoning Commission it had not acted within the specified time required for its decision.

The mayor and the building inspector contended that the commission applied the wrong rule of law in deciding to grant the zone change, by default.

South Windsor School Budget Hike Said Fair Increase

JUDY KUEHNEL, Correspondent
Tel. 644-1364

Cile Decker, chairman of the South Windsor Board of Education, says the proposed $6,400,063 school budget for 1974-1975 "represents a fair increase."

The proposed budget, which is about 10 1/2 per cent more than the 1973-1974 school appropriation of $5,932,430, is meant "to equalize instruction in all the schools," Mrs. Decker said.

The Board of Education recently started a series of meetings to consider the budget, and they'll be meeting again Tuesday night to discuss the high school, new programs, utilities, and pupil service parts of the proposed budget.

School Superintendent Robert Holdman said the budget represents a collection of work by many people and reflects a commitment to support educational programs for teaching South Windsor's youth.

For budget purposes, a 5,962 predicted school enrollment was used. That figure is 102 students less than current enrollment.

It is expected that high school enrollment will increase by 69 students, and Timothy Edwards School's population will increase by 47 students.

The expected decrease in enrollment would be in the elementary schools.

Copies of the proposed 1974-1975 school budget, which contains more than 130 pages, are available to townspeople on a loan basis.

DF&D Appeals Denial Of Shopping Center

DF&D Realty is appealing a Vernon Zoning Commission decision which denied construction of a shopping center at Rt. 83 and Dart Hill Rd. in Vernon.

Atty. Coleman Levy is representing DF&D Realty in the action brought before Tolland County Superior Court.

In denying the request of the realty firm on Jan. 17, it was the second time the Zoning Commission did so and both times the reason given was that Rt. 83 is already too congested, and until such time as the proposed widening of that road is accomplished, the additional shopping center would not be feasible.

The plan of development for the area included a Food Mart supermarket and several smaller satellite stores. The appeal contends that the plan of development represents a permitted use for the area according to the town's zoning regulations.

The appeal further contends that the zoning commission acted "illegally, arbitrarily, and in abuse of its discretion vested in it."

The developer is requesting that construction of the shopping center be allowed now with the stipulation that it not open until the highway is widened.

This was the second appeal recently filed in the court against the Zoning Commission.

The first one was brought by Mayor Frank McCoy and Francis J. McNulty, Vernon's building inspector.

The first one involved a change of zone to developer Evandro Santini for property at Vernon Ave. and South St. The appeal was granted through default after the attorney representing Santini told the Zoning Commission it had not acted within the specified time required for its decision.

The mayor and the building inspector contended that the commission applied the wrong rule of law in deciding to grant the zone change, by default.

Vernon Benoit Backs Ella

In announcing his support of Congresswoman Ella Grasso for the Democratic nomination for governor, Vernon Councilman Thomas Benoit becomes the third prominent Vernon Democrat to support Mrs. Grasso within the past week.

Others announcing their support were State Rep. Thomas Dooley and former Rockville mayor Leo B. Flaherty Jr.

In a letter sent Saturday to William O'Neill of Torrington, chairman of the state Ella Grasso Committee, Benoit, while stating his support for Mrs. Grasso, also complimented the Democratic party for having four well-suited candidates for the nomination for governor.

Benoit further said, of the candidates, "We most certainly should find ways to utilize all of their talents once the decision has been narrowed to one candidate."

Vernon FISH Schedule

Those who need the services of the Greater Rockville FISH organization are asked to consult a new schedule for transportation to and from Hartford and to and from Manchester.

The new schedule has been set up to minimize the number of long distance trips made by the volunteer drivers for FISH.

A driver to Hartford will leave the Vernon area Tuesdays and Fridays about 11 a.m. and make the return trip from Hartford about 2 p.m.

The trip to Manchester will be made on Wednesdays, leaving Vernon at 10 a.m. and returning about noon. The driver for Thursday trips to Manchester will leave at noon and return about 2 p.m.

Persons using the services of FISH are asked to consult this schedule when making their appointments and all calls for transportation will be considered on an individual basis although emergency calls are always accepted.

The number to call for FISH service is 875-3474 (875-FISH.)

Snow came one day late for the scheduled Manchester State Bank's junior ski races at Northville last Saturday. Weather conditions permitting, in the form of sufficient snow, the sponsors will try again Saturday morning. How did the East Catholic High girls' basketball team celebrate its 37-36 win over arch-rival South Catholic High last Friday? The answer was by stopping off in full uniform and eating at McDonald's in Manchester. All tickets for the Aetna World Cup tennis matches March 7-10 have been sold. Trinity College's F.C. Center, scene of the net pro sold event, can seat only 2,127. College basketball umpiring fees have been increased to $36 for varsity games this spring. All-state basketball selections in Connecticut are limited to talented youngsters fortunate enough to get into post-season tournament play. An individual standout who plays with a love never gets the recognition he deserves outside of his own locality. Schoolboy baseball teams may start practice March 11 and first games may be played April 1. Schedules will be limited to 18 games per school with no more than three slotted each week. The Connecticut Baseball Tournament starts May 28 with May 23 games the last to count for consideration. Schools must win 50 per cent of their games to qualify. What's happened to the Boston Celtics? The club has been playing only 500 ball per 10 days and looked sad yesterday in losing to the Bulls.

Television has made a great impact on sports in the past decade, revenue from this media being the principal reason for the almost unbelievable salaries being paid by many of the major league clubs. Bullets Did Everything Right, Celtics Did Everything Wrong

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a simple game, really. The Capital Bullets did everything right and the Boston Celtics did everything wrong.

That, according to Celtics' Coach Tom Heinsohn, is why the Bullets beat the Celtics' 112-99, on national television Sunday.

"The Bullets were physical with us," Heinsohn said, "but we weren't physical with them. We let them get the shots—they didn't let us get the shots. How do you suppose to win like that?"

Boston kept the pressure on in the first half, although it only led by four at the half. The Celtics had built up leads of nine points twice, only to have them erased by the shooting of Phil Chenier, who had 15 points in the half and a game-high 29.

In the second half, the game turned completely in Capital's favor. The Bullets quickly wiped out Boston's four-point lead on baskets by Elvin Hayes and Mike Rindge. With 8:41 left in the third quarter, Kevin Porter started a riot by hitting on a 20-foot jumper to give Capital the lead for the first time at 59-58. Shortly thereafter, Porter and Hayes collected nine points between them to lead the Bullets to an 11-4 streak to break the game open.

The Bullets then stopped Boston's fast break by sending a man to midcourt to intercept them before the break could form.

In other NBA games Sunday, Los Angeles ripped Portland, 124-91, Buffalo, Denver 112-112, and Detroit dumped Seattle, 114-100.

Houston stopped Atlanta, 123-112, and Detroit dumped Seattle, 114-100.

Reserve guard Jim Price came off the bench to score 24 points and Happy Hairston added 23 as the Lakers continued to dominate Portland, routing the Trail Blazers for the 11th time without a defeat at home. The Lakers increased their Pacific Division lead to a full game over idle Golden State and the point spread was the largest margin of victory this year for Los Angeles, topping the 137-109 margin against Portland earlier.

Jerry Sloan hit on 11 of 14 shots and equaled his season high of 25 points as the Bulls ran their current winning streak to eight games by beating Cleveland. It was also the eighth consecutive game in which the Bulls' defense has held its opponents under 100 points.

Bob McAdoo scored 28 points and Jim McMillan added 20 to pace Buffalo over Philadelphia at Toronto and Calvin Murphy scored 23 points and added a career high 15 assists to lead Houston over Atlanta. The victory broke a five-game losing streak.

Bob Lanier and John Mengelt combined for 45 points to lift Detroit over the SuperSonics. Lanier hit for 23 of his game high 25 points in 61-48. Mengelt came off the bench and scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half.

Top Two Clubs Rally for Wins

NEW YORK (UPI) — UCLA and North Carolina State, the nation's No. 1 and 2-ranked teams, found themselves in unique positions—losing—in the first half against conference foes Saturday but came back to score convincing victories.

Southern Cal, hoping to upset the top-ranked Bruins on their home court, jumped to a sixpoint lead, 46-40, with 15:39 remaining after burning the net with 65.4 per cent field goal shooting in the first half.

UCLA coach John Wooden labeled the upset against USC the Bruins' "most important game of the year" because it was a Pacific-8 battle against the only team which might have challenged their dominance and prevented their return to the NCAA playoffs to defend the title. UCLA is now 5-0 in Pac-8 play while USC is 3-2.

"We played as well as we could for three quarters of the game," said USC coach Bob Boyd. "But it is a game of momentum and they hit a streak where we couldn't stop them. We wanted to either take layups on a fastbreak or wait and shoot later and we did that. We had open shots and we hit them. But in the last 10 minutes the Bruins played tougher defense."

Considering the closeness of the game until the late stages, Wooden said he's "hopeful that we have the conference championship wrapped up before we meet the Trojans" at their court. That will be March 9, both teams' final season game.

All-America's Keith Wilkes and Bill Walton had 20 and 19 points, respectively, to pace the UCLA attack while Southern Cal's play was led by USC's 3-2.

With David Thompson and Tommy Burleson combining for 45 points, North Carolina State rebounded from a seven-point first half deficit to score a 105-93 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Virginia Tech.

Thompson scored 23 points and Burleson 22 as the Wolf-pack ran up its 24th consecutive conference win. Gus Gerard matched his season average, scoring 20 points, to lead the Cavaliers.

The victory was State's 15th this season against a single loss, to UCLA, and its sixth without a loss against ACC opponents. Virginia, dealt its seventh straight defeat, is now 5-11 overall and 2-4 in the conference.

In other action, third-ranked Notre Dame beat Davidson 65-54, while North Carolina's Carmelo Clemons led the fift-ranked Marquette defeated DePaul 70-57, sixth-ranked Maryland ripped Duke 104-83, seventh-ranked Vanderbilt beat Florida 58-52, ninth-ranked Alabama beat Auburn 73-64 and 10th-ranked Pittsburgh dominated William and Mary 66-62.

Elsewhere, 12th-ranked Long Beach State kayod Oral Roberts 98-89, 13th-ranked Indiana routed Iowa 85-50, Louisville, tied for 18th in the ratings, upended West Texas State 99-73, 17th-ranked Wisconsin was upset by unranked Minnesota 64-63 in overtime, 18th-ranked Texas-El Paso tripped Northeast Louisiana 59-59, 19th-ranked Syracuse walloped American University 82-63 and Purdue, tied with Syracuse for the 19th spot, was upset by Michigan State 76-74.

Once again Dwight Clay, Notre Dame's "Herman," got the credit for a win by the No. 3 ranked Fighting Irish basketball team. "In their second half spurt," losing Coach Terry Holland of Davidson said, "Clay was just playing a super ball game. He was all over the court and making the big baskets."

Clay, who won the nickname of "The Ice man" because he made last-second baskets to give the Irish over the victories, including the 71-70 upset which ended UCLA's 88-game winning streak, also got credit from Holland for his defensive work.

Celts' Jojo White Passes Off to Don Nelson Path to Hoop Was Blocked by Bullets' Elvin Hayes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Winning the MVP award in the ABA All-Star game last week must have done something to Artis Gilmore, reminded him of his immense capabilities perhaps, because the towering Kentucky center has been playing the best basketball of his career.

Gilmore, 7-foot-2 with long giraffe-like legs and lean torso, reached over the New York Nets for an ABA record 40 rebounds Sunday while leading the Colts to a crushing 123-91 victory.

In other ABA action, Indiana beat Denver 111-102, San Antonio ripped Carolina 108-95 and San Diego dopped Virginia 107-104.

Minnesota scored 39 points and Denver 35 in 150 minutes of Indiana's second half. Indiana's new players, former Net guard John Roche and rookie Jim Bradley, played excellent games despite unfamiliarity with the Kentucky patterns. Roche, confused in the first half, scored 22 of his 26 points in the second half, tying Dan Issel for game-scoring honors.

Bradley started opposite Julie Erving in only his fifth pro game and the rookie, signed out of Northern Illinois two weeks ago, helped limit him to seven points in the first half and 21 overall while scoring eight points and grabbing eight rebounds.

Conference Races On Line This Week

By Len Auster

Two conference races and some decisions about tournament berths may be decided this week in scholastic basketball circles.

Coch Stan Oprodnik's high-flying East Catholic quintet, atop the Hartford County Conference with a 6-1 mark, battles bitter rival South Catholic Saturday night at the University of Hartford Athletic Center. The Rebels are right behind the Eagles with a 5-1 league mark and are currently riding a seven-game win streak.

The two HCC powerhouse met in January with East prevailing 67-55 behind hot-shooting Joe Whelton. John Riccio and Ron Soucier also played vital roles in that triumph. South was handicapped, somewhat, by an injury to 6-5 forward Ted Mauro. He played at less than full speed and that hampered the Rebels. He is back in top form now. The game will be a sellout and no tickets will be sold at the door.

South Windsor is atop the Central Valley Conference standings with a 12-1 record. That includes a nine-game winning streak. The Bobcats have second place Bloomfield High Friday, and a win would put the title in the Bobcats' hip pocket.

Action tonight finds Cheney Tech (5-9) hosting Granby High in a makeup date. One more loss by the Techmen will make them penny High in East Hartford and a Friday contest at Weaver High Thursday night home date against Bolton High.

Manchester High (5-8) has two contests at Clarke Arena this week. The Indians face Windham High Tuesday and Wethersfield High comes to town Friday. Coach Jim Moriarty's outfit must win four of its last five starts to qualify for the tournament. The task seems virtually impossible, as the two opponents this week already have chalked up victories over the locals in earlier engagements.

Manchester Community College (12-4 overall and 6-3 in the CCAA) entertains league-leading Mattatuck Community College Tuesday and Wednesday night the Cougars host Holyoke Community College.

Elsewhere, Rockville High, which qualified for post-season play with a triumph Friday, hits the road for two CVC matchups. The 10-4 overall Rams face Plainville High Wednesday and Glastonbury High Friday night.

Leading North Central Connecticut Conference with East Windsor at 9-2 is Ellington High. The Purple Knights, 12-3 overall, entertain non-conference foe Middletown High Tuesday and return to conference play Friday against Granby High.

The rest of the state finds area teams playing out the string as they've failed to qualify for the hoop tournament. Tuesday RHAM (3-12) is at Bolton (3-11) while Coventry (4-9) is at Rocky Hill (2-11). Coventry is mathematically still alive but its chances are slim.

RHAM entertains COC foe East Hampton in Hebron Friday to round out the slate.

On the distaff side, the East Catholic girls' basketball team battles St. Bernard tonight at 7 at the Eagles' Nest. East, 4-6, also has a Tuesday night match with Pennington High in East Hartford and a Friday contest at Weaver High in Hartford.

The Manchester High maidens (5-5) also head across town lines Tuesday meeting East Hartford High. The Indians return home Friday to engage Storrs-based E. O. Smith. For gymnast enthusiasts, East Catholic has a triangular meet today at the Eagles' Nest against Somers and Montville. The first event is at 4.

Levenson Cops First Place For Boys at Racquet Club

Triumphant in the first major tennis tournament ever staged at the new Manchester Racquet Club on the weekend was Jay Levenson of Framingham, Mass. The Bay State youngster upset Andy Chaikovsky of Hartford in the finals yesterday afternoon, 7-6, 4-6.

Levenson was seeded No. 3 and Chaikovsky No. 2. Both are ranked among the leaders in the 16 and under in New England ranks. The final match was characterized by excellent shot-making on both sides with Levenson battling back from a 3-5 deficit in the first set to win the tie-breaker.

Levenson earlier defeated Drew Hastings of Wilton, 6-2, 6-1, in the semifinals. Chaikovsky gained the title match by sending Chris Fenichell of Darien to the sidelines by 7-6, 6-2 scores. Doubles play found Chaikovsky teaming with Jeff Thomas of West Hartford to walk off with top laurels. The twosome downed Levenson and Dave Gaiski of Chelmsford, Mass., 6-4, 6-7, 6-1.

There were 32 entrants in singles play and 17 doubles entries. Play started last Friday afternoon and continued Saturday and Sunday. Jeff Arnold of the Racquet Club promoted and supervised play along with Pro Jack Redmond.

UConn's Extend Streak

The streaking University of Connecticut Huskies earned their 13th win in 17 games and ninth straight victory with a 93-71 decision over Maine in weekend state basketball action.

Earl Wilson had a team high of 22 points for the Huskies who quickly overcame an 8-7 deficit to build up a 22-16 lead at the 10 minute mark.

UConn had a 41-20 half-time lead in the Yankee Conference contest played before a sellout Field House crowd of 4,115 with about 300 no shows due to bad weather.

Steve Condon had 22 points for the Black Bears. Trinity (1-13) surged midway through both halves to defeat Colby College 67-61.

Trinity's Othar Bjirks and reserve Glenn Woods each finished with game-high 16 points, while Nat Williams held Colby's standout Steve Colletta to 14 points and added an equal number himself.

The game dropped Colby to 5-5. Hollerbach scored a career high 28 points and pulled down 17 rebounds as the University of Bridgeport headed most of the way en route to a 71-70 victory over Springfield.

Hollerbach, a sophomore forward, made a three-point play early in the second half to give the Purple Knights a lead they never relinquished. King gave up only two games when Kerry's often overpowering service got hot and the champ made some of her faults of the afternoon. King continued to come on strong. Her shots were light on the line and her powerful cross-court backhand and well-placed drop shots left Melville shaking her head in awe.

Nice Guys Do Triumph, Nicklaus Proves Point

HONOLULU (UPI) — So much for the philosophy that nice guys finish last.

Jack Nicklaus, who in his comments proved to be a very nice guy indeed, finished first in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Sunday. Which isn't much more surprising than the fact they grow sugar cane on the windward side.

Nicklaus shot a final-round 70 for 271, 17-under par, and a three-shot victory over Eddie Pearce, youngest man on tour. That part was expected, since Jack, who is considered to be the best golfer since the Pleistocene Age, entered the last round with a six-shot margin.

What wasn't expected were Jack's words after he finished, words that proved to be as loaded with sentiment as Jack is with talent. Nicklaus needed a 20-foot putt on the 18th green for a birdie that would have broken the 72-hole tournament record set by the late Ted Malakena in 1966. He missed, the ball missed going in by inches, and Nicklaus joined Malakena as the record holder.

Steve Condon had 22 points for the Black Bears. Trinity (1-13) surged midway through both halves to defeat Colby College 67-61.

Trinity's Othar Bjirks and reserve Glenn Woods each finished with game-high 16 points, while Nat Williams held Colby's standout Steve Colletta to 14 points and added an equal number himself.

Pete Rose No Billie Jean

Riggs Masters Foe

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — In the latest chapter of "Bobby Riggs Keeps his Tennis Gimmick Rolling Along," we find our hero being chauffeured to court on a fork-lift truck and wearing a construction worker's hardhat to challenge baseball star Pete Rose.

Riggs explains the hardhat is needed because he considers Rose a ruffian, recalling that Rose showed little respect for Bud Harrelson on the baseball diamond last year.

And among other costumes that Riggs dons for his truck for the match is a baseball catcher's gear—mask, chest protector and shin guards—"in order to make Mr. Rose fight at home."

But of course, Rose didn't feel at home here Saturday night. He proved to be no Billie Jean King.

While Riggs clowned and casually hit spinning drop shots and lobs, Rose ran about the court the way he runs the baselines—with gritty determination—but not enough tennis skill to stop Riggs.

In all, seven games were played and Riggs won five. Rose's two victories came late in the match when Riggs had turned his side of the court into an obstacle course by dragging six folding chairs onto it. Many of Pete's points came on rebounds off the chairs.

Rose, competitor that he is, had insisted that Riggs begin by playing him "straight regular" tennis. Riggs accommodated and promptly beat Rose three straight games.

Riggs then opened his trick bag and pulled out a dress, a raincoat, a heavy fur coat and the baseball garb to wear while playing. He also toled a beach umbrella and a briefcase at times. Riggs sidestepped the chairs to beat Rose in two of the final four games played for laughs.

Rose, who has only been playing tennis two months, chased down nearly every shot but returned most of them directly to Riggs.

"Do I look as silly as I feel?" a panting Rose asked a spectator after lunging for a spinning shot.

Asked after the match to valuate Rose's tennis skills after only two months of training, Riggs replied in women's lib jargon.

"You've come a long way, baby," he told Rose. "But you've got a long way to go."

Night of Decision

Thursday will be a night of decision in regards to the proposed adult twilight baseball league in Manchester for the 1974 season.

Teams interested must attend a meeting scheduled at the West Side Rec starting at 7 o'clock. All clubs must submit their tentative playing rosters.

Carl Silver, program director for the Rec Department, will check each squad and if he feels that each is strong enough for a first-class league, he will pass along his findings to the Advisory Park and Rec Commission for final decision.

Six teams have expressed an interest in playing. Any new entry will be welcomed as well as any individuals who would like to play. The meeting will be open to the public.

Weather Idles Cougars, Face No. 1 Club Tuesday

Due to inclement weather Saturday, Manchester Community College's basketball team will have to wait until tomorrow night to attempt to knock off CCAA kingpin Mattatuck Community College.

Mattatuck is currently atop the CCAA ladder with a sparkling 8-1 league mark. Overall, they're 16-3 and rank second in New England in NJCAA District 15 ratings.

Mattatuck has great depth and is paced by two former all-state players, Willie Leno of Bloomfield and Ernie Blue of Southington. Manchester is currently 13-4 overall and riding a four game win streak. The Cougars must defeat Mattatuck if they have any hopes of attaining the league crown.

Coach Don Geissler will probably go with Stan Alexander and Carl Iverson in the backcourt, 6-6 Ernie Moore at center, flanked by former Manchester High star Tom Ducker and John Dishaw on Bob Kichnet. Brian Reynolds, former East Catholic player, has performed well of late and should see considerable action at a guard slot.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Leo Saban, coach of the Buffalo Bills, was a standout single-wing quarterback at the University of Indiana but was switched to linebacking when he joined the Cleveland Browns.

St. James' Hoopsters Finish in Tie for Title

St. James' under-16 basketball team captured at least a tie for first place in the Hartford Deaneary League Sunday. The locals finished the regular season with a 9-1 victory over Our Lady of Sorrows of Hartford.

The rebounding department tells the tale as the locals won the battle, 27-30. Scoring honors went to St. James' Ed Juselis with 17 points. He also corralled 17 rebounds. Teammates Jeff Pescocillo and Kevin Flynn added 14 and 12 markers respectively. Kevin Capolis topped the losers with 16 tallies. St. James now moves into playoff competition which will determine whom will represent the league in the state playoffs. St. James concluded the season with an "81 record while Our Lady of Sorrows wound up at 7-3.

The former Heisman Trophy winner from USC earned this recognition after becoming the first runner in National Football League history to break the 2,000-yard barrier for a season, winding up with 2,003. Jim Brown set the previous record of 1,983 yards for the Cleveland Browns.

As a result, Simpson will be awarded the Hickok Belt, valued at more than $15,000, at a special awards luncheon today.

Aaron, who hit 40 home runs as a 28-year-old, but fell just one homer shy of matching Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714, received only 17 first-place votes. However, with one of baseball's most cherished records at his mercy, the Atlanta Braves slugger advanced to an early contender for the 1974 Hickok award.

Sandra Palmer Gains Triumph

MIAMI (UPI) — Sandra Palmer "played like a hot dog" for a while Sunday but when it came time to play winning golf, she was a "cold" as the saying is. In the final round of the $50,000 Fidelity World Championship, she won the title.

The top-seeded Nastase, nicknamed "Nasty" by his WCT colleagues, shooed off minor elbow problems to play second-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-2, 6-3, in just 45 minutes.

"I take two cortisone pills this morning," the 27-year-old Romanian told newsmen after the match. "My elbow didn't hurt all day."

Nastase pulled a muscle two weeks ago during the filming of the CBS Tennis Classic, and was X-rayed Saturday by Richmond doctors. The X-rays didn't turn up anything that hadn't been known before.

"It's good to win your first tournament of the year," Nastase said. "It gives you confidence."

He added that he will take this week off with no workouts, and will appear again with the WCT "red" group Feb. 11-17 in Toronto for the Rothman's International.

Billie Jean Unbeatable

FAIRFAX, Va. (UPI) — Both the champ and her latest victim on the Virginia Slims tennis circuit agreed. Billie Jean King was unbeatable Sunday.

King offered 40 minutes of her finest tennis as she defeated second-seeded Kerry Melville, 6-0, 6-2, and took the 10,000 first prize in the Slims of Washington tourney.

"Today's match was one of my best," King, who had urged the 3,000 fans at George Mason University fieldhouse to cheer her on, said after the match. "My timing was there," she said, and Melville couldn't agree more.

"No one could beat Billie Jean today," The Australian player said after the tournament. King gave up only two games when Kerry's often overpowering service got hot and the champ made some of her faults of the afternoon. King continued to come on strong. Her shots were light on the line and her powerful cross-court backhand and well-placed drop shots left Melville shaking her head in awe.

"I was really hitting hard today," she said, and Sunday's performance demonstrated that Billie Jean's strategy of preparing for a match as if "I'm playing the greatest tennis player in the world" really pays off.

This is the second time Billie Jean has taken home a first prize check on the three-week old 1974 Virginia Slims circuit. She won in San Francisco and bowed to Chris Evert in Mission Viejo.

"It was embarrassing," she said about the Evert loss. "My family was there, and I couldn't find the court for five games."

Nastase in Control Of Self and Game

RICHMOND, VA. (UPI) — Temperamental Ilie Nastase was on his best behavior.

He didn't throw his racquet. He didn't glare at linesmen—well, maybe a little. All he did Sunday was play superb tennis and waltz through the finals of the $50,000 Fidelity World Championship.

The top-seeded Nastase, nicknamed "Nasty" by his WCT colleagues, shooed off minor elbow problems to play second-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-2, 6-3, in just 45 minutes.

Tie Useful Purpose For Toronto in NHL

NEW YORK (UPI) — As much as it is scoffed at by traditionalists who support the "win or lose" philosophy, there are times when a tie serves a useful purpose.

Such was the case Sunday night when the Toronto Maple Leafs rallied on a third-period goal by Rick Kehoe to gain a 3-3 standoff at Buffalo. This enabled Toronto to maintain an eight-point advantage over the Sabres in their duel for fourth place in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division.

Fourth place, of course, is the final position that earns a playoff berth. "It was good for us," Toronto Coach Red Kelly said. "It hurts them a little more than our club. We didn't lose anything."

Sabre Coach Joe Crozier refused to give the Leafs an edge and said the one point his team picked up "is better than nothing. I'll take as many points as I can anywhere I can get them. One is better than none."

However, Buffalo goalie Dave Dryden, taking a more realistic view, admitted, "A tie is no good for us. We had a chance to get more points and we didn't."

Downstate from Buffalo, Rod Gilbert became the leading point-getter in Ranger history as he registered two goals and an assist as New York settled for a 5-5 tie against the Minnesota North Stars. Gilbert, a 12-year veteran of the Rangers, has accumulated 731 points, eclipsing the record of 729 set by Andy Bathgate.

In other NHL action Sunday, Montreal beat Detroit 4-1, Boston edged Pittsburgh 5-4, Atlanta and Philadelphia tied 2-2, Chicago shut out St. Louis 3-0 and California beat the New York Islanders 5-4.

Buffalo overcame a 1-0 deficit to go ahead 3-1 on goals by Rick Martin, Craig Ramsay and Gil Perreault. But Errol Thompson got one back for the Leafs late in the second period and Kehoe then got the equalizer at 8:24 of the final period.

Danny Grant and Jude Drouin each registered a pair of goals for Minnesota, which first blew a 3-1 lead in the second period and then rallied for the tie after falling behind 5-3. Dennis Hextall produced the tying goal with five minutes to play.

Murray Young scored two goals to lift Montreal over Detroit in a nationally televised game. The Red Wings, humiliated 12-2 Saturday by Philadelphia, managed to hold the Canadiens to two goals for two periods but Montreal broke it open in the last period on goals by Wilson and Pierre Bouchard.

Ken Hodge registered the fourth hat trick of his career and Boston needed every one of the goals to stave off the pesky Penguins. Hodge, who scored once in each period, now has 36 goals. The victory enabled the first-place Bruins to maintain their eight-point lead over Montreal in the East.

Seniors' Golf To DeVicenzo

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (UPI) — Although Argentine golfer Roberto de Vicenzo has just turned 50, he qualifies as a PGA Senior. He was promptly fired a final round in-order par 66 to win the annual Senior Legion play starts in June following the end of the schoolboy schedules.

Danny Spring and Bobby Hull scored third period goals as Winnipeg defeated Chicago. The triumph, Winnipeg's eighth in its last nine games, moved the Jets to within four points of Houston, the leader in the WHA West.

Jim Harrison collected a goal and three assists to lead Edmonton over Los Angeles. Ron Clinie scored his 29th and 30th goals for the Oilers with Brian MacKenzie and Doug Barrie picking up the others.

Harrison's output boosted him into second place with 69 points in the individual scoring race behind Wayne Carlton of Toronto.

First period goals by Doug Brindley, Jim Wiste and Ray Chausier and the goaltending of Gerry Cheevers sparked Cleveland past New England.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee State football Coach John Merritt has rejected a bid to become head coach of the new World Football League Detroit Wheels, reportedly because the coaching job would be separate from the general management of the team, a newspaper reported.

Business Zone Rules Hearing Topic Today

Proposed amendments to Manchester's zoning regulations to stiffen the requirements for business uses are the subject of a public hearing to be conducted by the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) tonight at 7:30 at the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The amendments, proposed by Town Planner J. Eric Potter, create a general section for business zones, streamlining the regulations as well as giving the PZC more authority to monitor business uses.

Adoption of the general requirements section will allow us to trim down the existing zoning regulations," Potter said.

"For the first time," Potter said, "the regulations would make special exceptions necessary for business development over a certain size."

Uses designated as special exceptions in the proposed amendments are shopping centers, hotels and motels, outside storage of merchandise, and any use which has public parking in excess of 40 vehicles.

Uses which require special exception approval from the Zoning Board of Appeals instead of the PZC include automobile sales and repair, gasoline service stations, bulk oil storage, planning and automobile wash establishments, and restaurants with outdoor building food consumption.

The proposed general business section includes several specific which Potter

Smoking Rules Listed

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent

The Board of Education last week was informed by the student representatives of the rules and regulations which will govern the smoking area.

The smoking experiment will begin Feb. 25 and will run until the last day of the school year. At that time the program will be reviewed.

The students who wish to smoke must receive permission from their parents. They will then be issued an identification card which they must show when entering the smoking area.

The students will be responsible for keeping the area clean, and if they are late to class because they were in the smoking area they will be given a warning. The second offense will result in suspension of the smoking privilege.

The smoking area will be the black-topped area outside of the cafeteria, to minimize the danger of fire.

The rules and regulations will be enforced by a student court elected by the student body.

Essay Contest

During the audience of citizens portion of the meeting, Paul Diehl, chairman of the Republican Town Committee, asked for the board's approval to conduct an essay contest in the middle school and the high school. The topic will be "Why I am a Proud American."

Diehl said that he was a flag-

Robert Walsh, Chairman of the Board.

The superintendent reported that the fame of the Coventry High School Dance Band has spread and that the band has been requested to play at the Spring Convention of the superintendents of schools.

Exams Changed

The board granted the request of the student representatives that senior exams be moved up one week to allow the seniors to take exams before the start of senior activities.

The board also approved the proposal which would exempt all students with an average from taking final exams. It was noted that those preparing for college would be required to take final exams.

Bill Hoffman of the Capt. Nathan Hale School reported on the new science program. He said that the program was tailored to the individual. Each student is required to complete a certain amount of work during the school year but at his own rate of speed.

He felt that more advanced students were being helped by the slower students in a program, much more than in a conventional program.

The program is currently implemented in five classes at the middle school and he hoped that it could be implemented in all the seventh and eighth grade science classes next year.

He estimated that the initial cost of implementing the program would be approximately $2,800. Most of this would be for equipment.

He stressed that this program would fit in with the Sequential Learning Program which is presently into its second phase.

Science Program

David Chiel reported on the science program at the high school. He was pleased with the courses currently being offered and wished to retain them, but he wanted to see the program expanded to include an interdisciplinary computer course.

This course would be a benefit to the math department as well as the science department, he said.

He asked for the replacement of the books for the science department of which some are eight years old.

He also requested that replacement of the equipment in the department, stating that most of this equipment has been there since the school was built 13 years ago.

The department also requested eye wash and fire blankets which are required by the state fire laws but which the school doesn't have.

The department felt that the installation of exhaust fans would be beneficial.

Hebron School Budget Items Show Marked Increases

NANCY DRINKUTH

Many items in Hebron's proposed 1974-1975 school budget show marked increases over current appropriations, including hikes in the cost of teaching supplies, utilities, and maintenance.

The Hebron Board of Education is studying a first draft of the proposed budget, which is expected to be considered by the board in late March.

Bolton Briefs

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent

John Whitman, owner-operator of Whitman's Nursery on Rt. 6, has volunteered space at his nursery for the storage of newspapers.

As lack of home storage space prevents many residents from saving their papers on a daily basis, Whitman said that residents may bring their papers to the nursery at any time.

He will store them until a town non-profit group has a paper drive.

In the past, drives have been conducted by the Bolton Junior Woman's Club, a Bolton High School group, and the Cub Scouts.

The rising price of newspaper per ton makes it worthwhile for all residents to save their papers to help the local non-profit groups.

Magazines and other paper goods are also acceptable. The last quoted price from Rockville Scrap Co. was $25 per ton.

Calendar

The Bolton Athletic Association will meet tonight at 7:30 at Herrick Memorial Park.

The nominating committee of the United Methodist Church will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the parsonage.

Both the senior high and Grade 8 membership classes were canceled due to a visit by Bishop Edward Carroll and his wife.

The Bolton church will meet Friday at 9 a.m. at St. George rectory.

Children's Dental Health

(Feb. 29 is the 26th annual National Children's Dental Health Week. As part of the observance, The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, today begins a series of six articles on facts you should know about dental health.)

"My dentist always harps about between-meal sweets. Why should snacking have an effect on my teeth?"

Dentists have determined that frequent eating of foods that contain sugars - particularly between meals - contributes to tooth decay.

This is because dental disease begins with a sticky, colorless film of harmful bacteria called plaque that is constantly forming on your teeth and gums. Plaque is formed from bacteria that are present at all times in the normally healthy mouth.

However, each time that you eat foods that contain sugars, certain bacteria in the mouth are stimulated to create acid. It's this acid that attacks tooth enamel, the hardest substance in the body, eventually causing decay.

Unfortunately for those of us who love sweets, certain bacteria produce these harmful acids within a few minutes. These acids remain harmful for at least 20 minutes each time that you eat or drink a sugary food or beverage. So the longer you eat sweets and the longer the sugar remains in the mouth, the longer the decay process continues.

Of course, it's hard to avoid ever eating between meals. But there are certain foods that should be avoided like cookies and candy which are high in sugar content.

On the other hand, you can make a list of some of the nutritious snack foods:

Raw celery or carrots. Milk and cheese. Nuts. Hard-boiled eggs. Fresh fruits such as apples, oranges and sugar-free soft drinks. Sugarless gums and sugar-free toothpastes.

A good rule to follow is to save those sweets for mealtimes.

Coventry Council Meets Tonight

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent

The town council will meet tonight at the Board Room at the Town Hall at 7:30.

The finance committee will report on recommendations for financing Folly Lane bridge and other items that a town meeting be called to authorize the funds.

The council will consider an ordinance to effectively regulate septic tank pumping and septic disposal in Coventry.

The council will review a proposal by the steering committee to assess new road construction costs to adjoining and benefiting property owners.

The steering committee will move that the town attorney and town engineer be asked to explore the possibility of developing a town ordinance or an amendment to the planning and zoning regulations which will allow the town to assess subdividers for future improvements to town roads impacted by their developments.

The council will receive a petition from the residents of Hinkley May Dr. seeking improvements on that road.

Art Meeting

The Tolland County Art Association will meet Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Edith Peck Room of the Rockville Public Library.

Mrs. Priscilla Souder will be the guest demonstrator as she shows her "struck" style. She will demonstrate painting of oil on acrylic.

Mrs. Souder has won many awards for her distinctive style of painting, including the Best of Show award at the 27th annual fall exhibit of the county association for her painting "For Him."

This same painting recently won her the Mary R. Moore award at the Connecticut Women Artists exhibit which is a juried show.

Warm Clothes

Union (Congregational) Church, Elm St., Rockville, is acting as a drop-off center for those who have warm clothing they wish to donate to The New England Farm Workers Union.

Migrant farm workers, coming into Connecticut from warmer climates, are in desperate need of warm winter clothing such as jackets, slacks, caps, scarves, mittens, and boots.

The clothing may be left at the church, Monday through Thursday mornings between 9 a.m. and noon or those having items to donate may call the church office to see what other times the church will be open.

Persons dropping off clothing may leave their name and the Connecticut Council of Churches and the New England Farm Workers Council will acknowledge each contribution.

Heating Seminar Thursday

The Emergency Home Heating Seminar, sponsored by the Vernon Town Council and coordinated by Councilman Richard MacDonald, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Rockville High School Library.

MacDonald conceived the idea for the seminar after hearing of problems local residents had during the December ice storm when they were without power.

Speakers for the two-hour seminar will be Ted Paviva, a Connecticut Light & Power Co. analyst, and Dan Skiba, a plumber. A question and answer period will follow their presentations.

MacDonald said the seminar will cover many aspects of protecting home and business during a prolonged power outage. He urges at least one member of every local family to attend this informative evening.

The seminar will be open to the public and will be free-of-charge.

Youth Hockey

The Vernon Youth Hockey Association has started its community fund drive and the goal has been set at $5,000. Robert Housley is drive chairman and Dale Martin is president of the association.

Martin said the 1973-74 budget of the association is about $25,000 and the program involves about 300 boys, aged 6 to 18, who are at various levels of instructional and competitive play.

Martin said the registration fees have been increased this year in order to properly fund all of the ice time required but funds still remain a problem.

Martin cited the businesses in the area for their help in the fund appeal in the past.

Auxiliary Meeting

Hatheway-Miller Unit #2, American Legion auxiliary, will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, 22 Middle Rd., Ellington.

Goldwater Finds Many 'Double-Dippers'

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater is a "double dipper." There are a lot of them in the Federal government.

A "double dipper," according to Sid Taylor of the National Taxpayers Union, is an employee of the government who also draws military retirement pay.

What marks Goldwater, a retired Air Force major general, is that he is not too comfortable accepting the double stipend.

Yet he is not uncomfortable enough to refuse his military pension which totals $546 a month.

A Frank Letter

In a typically frank and candid letter to Taylor late last year, Goldwater outlined his problem.

He first accepted the retirement pay in 1961 when he was at least technically — on the unemployment rolls. He was returned to the Senate the following year.

Goldwater says he does not feel reserve officers should get retirement pay unless they serve a full hitch with the regulars and calls the day-for-day credit twice too generous.

But, Goldwater laments, "if I wrote to the Reserve Command and told them I did not want my check anymore, this would never get through the computer."

"What would happen is that my check would come out regularly each month and then, even if I might refuse them, they would be piling up, and some day I would have to take the accumulation and then tremendous taxes would have to be paid," he added.

A Lesser Job

Goldwater conceded that reservists holding ranks of colonel or up in Congress, the Pentagon and around Washington would probably be doing a lesser job if called up than they do now.

But Goldwater said the law "is pretty clear" that a retired reservist in Congress can accept retirement benefits "and still be legal, even though there is a question of morality about it."

Columbia Grand List $22.1 Million

Tel. 228-9224

The net assessors valuation for the October 1973 Columbia Grand List is $22,141,576, an increase of $29,200 over the final net Grand List of October 1972.

Chairman Richard Kristoff said there is usually about a $500,000 increase in the Grand List but this year it "was gobbled up by Public Act 460" which concerns classifying land as forest.

A summary shows for residents' real estate there was $14,520,370 gross with $339,400 in exemptions to servicemen, their relatives and the blind making a net total of $14,180,970; elderly, $622,194 gross with $15,500 exemptions, making a net total of $637,694; woodland, $2,700 gross, no exemptions; personal, $540,415, with $885 exemptions, making a net total of $539,530; auto, $1,564,900 with $34,890 exemptions, making a net total of $1,529,010.

For non-residents, real estate shows a net total of $4,639,360, including exemptions; woodland, a net total of $1,530, no exemptions; personal, $515,475, no exemptions; auto, net total of $1,118,150 with exemptions.

There are 870 houses listed for residents; 837 barns; 1,033 house lots; 24 commercial buildings; 713,331 acres; 57 house lots of elderly; 147 acres of woodland.

For non-residents there are 181 houses; 211 barns; 288 house lots; 27 commercial buildings;

Trucker Protest Threatens Economy

Meskill To Hear Trucker Views

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill was to meet with representatives of the independent truckers today, a day after he warned protesting truckers against disrupting highway traffic in Connecticut.

A spokesman for the governor said late Monday Meskill agreed to the meeting at the state Capitol after the truckers said they felt they have been misunderstood, and wanted to air their side.

The truckers decided to put off plans to picket major oil companies in the New Haven area pending the outcome of the meeting with the governor.

The protesters informed the major distributors Sunday they would picket, if necessary, out "cesses and desist" order is not heeded, a Superior Court restraining order would be sought against the disruptions, including the blocking of fueling stations.

"The law of the jungle will prevail if everyone takes the law into their own hands," Meskill told newsmen.

Food Shortages Increasing In Many Areas

A strike by independent truck drivers protesting high fuel prices threatened a crippling blow at the nation's economy today.

There were numerous reports of food shortages and of housewives raiding supermarkets for necessities that soon may be in short supply. Scores of plants were shutdown because their production and distribution facilities are serviced by trucks, throwing thousands out of work.

As the militant independents sought to keep all truck traffic off the highways, there were increasing reports of violence. In Pennsylvania, Gov. Milton J. Shapp declared a state of emergency. He said it was prompted by violence which "endangered the safety, health and welfare of a substantial number of citizens."

In Washington, officials were meeting in lengthy sessions to consider the truckers' demands.

The truckers' strike caused shutdowns of widely different consumer products ranging from roof bolts to glass products. Plants in Illinois, West Virginia and many industrial states announced shutdowns.

The real loss will be for consumers, indeed for the families of truckers themselves, that aren't able to find the products they normally expect on the shelves of the supermarkets of America," Butz told a convention of the United Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Reports of frenzied buying of groceries and the closing down of food suppliers cropped up in most parts of the country.

The nation's largest chicken processor, Holly Farms Inc., Wilkesboro, N.C., stopped operations indefinitely at three plants causing the layoff of 3,700 employees.

At a Kroger store in Cincinnati weekend sales were almost doubled. The manager said the normal purchase of $12,000

Bridgeport To Ration Gas

Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio today declared Connecticut's largest city "in a state of emergency" and ordered gasoline rationing similar to the so-called Oregon plan.

Panuzio said he decreed the order to initiate rationing on Thursday under authority of the city charter "as the conservator of the peace within the city."

The plan which ties gasoline sales to the last digit on marker plates with even numbers eligible to buy gasoline on even numbered calendar days and odd numbers on odd numbered days.

For marker plates ending with letters, A through L will be considered odd numbered and M through Z even numbered. Gasoline may be sold to all vehicles on Saturdays and the 31st of the month in such months.

Bridgeport, located in Fairfield County, has been severely crippled by gasoline shortages. The heavily populated county has seen the daily scenes of long lines at beleaguered filling stations.

Many stations in the city have closed permanently or temporarily because of failure to

Proposed Zoning Rule Amendments Criticized

By DOUG BEVINS

Several provisions of proposed amendments to Manchester's business zoning regulations drew criticism from lawyers at Monday night's public hearing before the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC).

Atty. John LaBelle, representing developer Alexander Jarvis, was the principal opponent to the zoning amendments, which stiffer regulations concerning business uses and apparently place more restrictions on commercial development.

The proposed amendments, creating an entire new section of zoning regulations on general business uses, were drafted by Town Planner J. Eric Potter. After Monday night's hearing, PZC members tabled the matter.

LaBelle criticized sections of the amendments which require developers to make improvements to town roads, and he was critical of several other provisions which give the PZC greater authority to impose conditions on its approval of development plans.

One section of the proposed amendments states that "a developer shall make improvements to all public right-of-ways... as may be required by the director of public works as he deems appropriate and necessary for the proposed business operation."

LaBelle maintained that the PZC doesn't have the authority to delegate "any aspect of zoning" to another town official, and he said it's the town that must improve its highways.

LaBelle also contended that a provision allowing zoners to "impose specific safeguarding conditions" on some applications would be illegal.

"I don't think the board can adopt a wide-open regulation like that," LaBelle said, claiming that the wording would give PZC members an excuse to demand just about anything.

For apparently the same reasons, LaBelle attacked another section of the proposed amendments, which states that the PZC cannot approve applications for "special exceptions" unless the location is suitable for the particular use.

The proposed amendments define "special exceptions" as shopping centers, hotels, motels, outside storage of merchandise, and any use with public parking of more than 40 vehicles.

LaBelle was joined in his critical remarks by Atty. Leon Podrove.

PZC Given Extension On MAP Plan

MAP Associates, an investment partnership led by developer Arthur N. Fischer of New York City, has approved a 65-day extension of the time limit in which the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission must act on MAP's requested zone changes for a massive development at Buckland.

The original deadline expires Feb. 6 & 65 days from the close of the Dec. 3 public hearing on the requested zone changes.

PZC members are still studying MAP's proposal, which consists of a $100 million, 263-acre mixed-use development on tobacco land at Buckland.

Chamber Launches Membership Drive

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is launching a massive membership drive today and Wednesday, according to Burl Lyons, vice president of the Organizational Affairs Division.

The drive, according to Lyons, is to broaden the membership base of the Chamber and add the necessary financial and volunteer resources to the organization in its efforts to produce the "Commitment to the Challenge of Tomorrow" — the Chamber's five-point urban problem solving program of work.

The membership drive is in the form of an "operating room" technique using members of the Chamber's Board of Directors, Membership Contact Club and selected businessmen and women from the membership.

Prospective members will be telephoned directly from the conference room at the Chamber's office. Special "hot line" telephones have been installed for this purpose.

Everett J. Livesey, vice president of the Urban Affairs Division, has worked with Lyons in organizing the manpower resources for the "operating room."

A specially designed postcard with the logo "Why Not Join?" was mailed out to all prospective members. In addition, the Chamber also produced the 1974 membership directory and buyers guide including an action program report which appeared as a tabloid insert in The Manchester Evening Herald Saturday edition.

Many businesses when asked to join the Chamber have responded favorably," said Lyons. He added, "Many of them have noted that they have never received an invitation to join and for that reason have not been an active member in the past. We hope to extend that invitation to the many businesses who have not to date joined the Chamber in its attempt to provide the effective business leadership in maintaining a viable, healthy community."

City Agency Plans to Help Town's Aged

By DOUG BEVINS

The Community Life Association, a spinoff of the Greater Hartford Process, Inc., is starting a program in Manchester to provide health, social, and other services to over-65 people living in their own homes.

The thrust of the program, according to a Hartford Process spokesman, is to keep the aged at home, if possible, and out of institutions such as convalescent homes.

The Community Life Association is planning the program in four areas and will open offices in Hartford and Manchester.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said Manchester is donating office space at the old Spruce St. firehouse for the project. Weiss said the office space is being made available at no cost to the Community Life Association because the program will be an advantage to Manchester.

The association's program is being funded by the Connecticut Department of Aging, Connecticut Department of Welfare, the United Way of Hartford, and the City of Hartford.

The Hartford Process spokesman stressed that the new program isn't linked in any way to the Hartford Process. Devoe planned community in Coventry.

Elderly persons who wish to participate in the program have to meet several qualifications, the spokesman said, including certification by an attending physician.

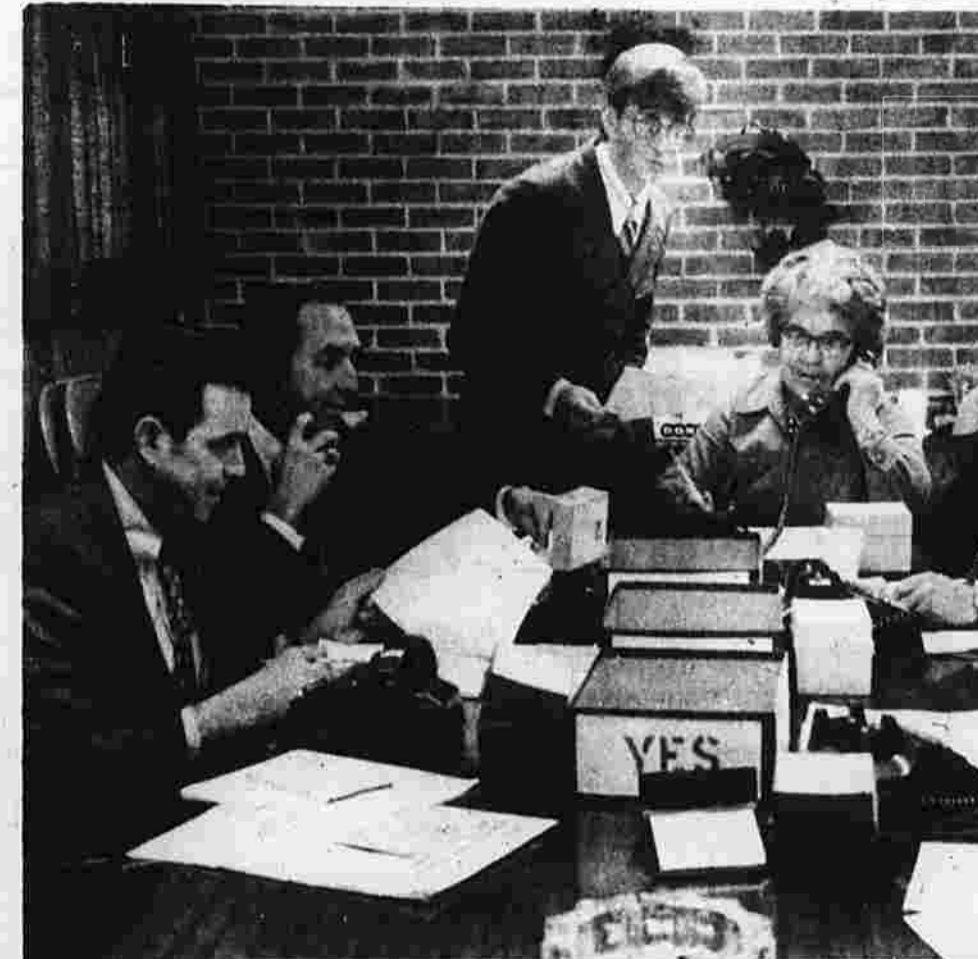

The homemaker, health, transportation, and other services to be offered aren't free, the spokesman said, although Medicare, Medicaid, and other health insurance plans may pay for the services.

If the costs are not covered by insurance programs, the aged would pay as their income permits, the spokesman said.

The Manchester office is expected to open within a month.

Supervisor for the Manchester and Hartford programs is Mrs. Elizabeth Kenny, who can be reached at the Hartford Process office.

The Community Life Association already runs two "neighborhood life centers" in Hartford, providing employment, health, and social services to citizens.
