

Goldwater Finds Many 'Double-Dippers'

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater is a "double dipper." There are a lot of them in the Federal government.

A "double dipper," according to Sid Taylor of the National Taxpayers Union, is an employee of the government who also draws military retirement pay.

What marks Goldwater, a retired Air Force major general, is that he is not too comfortable accepting the double stipend.

Yet he is not uncomfortable enough to refuse his military pension which totals $546 a month.

A Frank Letter

In a typically frank and candid letter to Taylor late last year, Goldwater outlined his problem.

He first accepted the retirement pay in 1961 when he was at least technically — on the unemployment rolls. He was returned to the Senate the following year.

Goldwater says he does not feel reserve officers should get retirement pay unless they serve a full hitch with the regulars and calls the day-for-day credit twice too generous.

But, Goldwater laments, "if I wrote to the Reserve Command and told them I did not want my check anymore, this would never get through the computer."

"What would happen is that my check would come out regularly each month and then, even if I might refuse them, they would be piling up, and some day I would have to take the accumulation and then tremendous taxes would have to be paid," he added.

A Lesser Job

Goldwater conceded that reservists holding ranks of colonel or up in Congress, the Pentagon and around Washington would probably be doing a lesser job if called up than they do now.

But Goldwater said the law "is pretty clear" that a retired reservist in Congress can accept retirement benefits "and still be legal, even though there is a question of morality about it."

Columbia Grand List $22.1 Million

The net assessors valuation for the October 1973 Columbia Grand List is $22,141,576, an increase of $29,200 over the final net Grand List of October 1972.

Chairman Richard Kristoff said there is usually about a $500,000 increase in the Grand List but this year it "was gobbled up by Public Act 460" which concerns classifying land as forest.

A summary shows for residents' real estate there was $14,520,370 gross with $339,400 in exemptions to servicemen, their relatives and the blind making a net total of $14,180,970; elderly, $622,194 gross with $15,500 exemptions, making a net total of $637,694; woodland, $2,700 gross, no exemptions; personal, $540,415, with $385 exemptions, making a net total of $154,930; auto, $1,564,900 with $4,890 exemptions, making a net total of $1,560,010.

For non-residents, real estate shows a net total of $4,639,360, including exemptions; woodland, a net total of $1,530, no exemptions; personal, $515,475, no exemptions; auto, net total of $118,150 with exemptions.

There are 870 houses listed for residents; 837 barns; 1,033 house lots; 24 commercial buildings; 713,331 acres; 57 house lots of elderly; 147 acres of woodland.

For non-residents there are 181 houses; 211 barns; 288 house lots; 27 commercial buildings;

Trucker Protest Threatens Economy

Meskill To Hear Trucker Views

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill was to meet with representatives of the independent truckers today, a day after he warned protesting truckers against disrupting highway traffic in Connecticut.

A spokesman for the governor said late Monday Meskill agreed to the meeting at the state Capitol after the truckers said they felt they have been misunderstood, and wanted to air their side.

The truckers decided to put off plans to picket major oil companies in the New Haven area pending the outcome of the meeting with the governor.

The protesters informed the major distributors Sunday they would picket, if necessary, out "cesses and desist" order is not heeded, a Superior Court restraining order would be sought against the disruptions, including the blocking of fueling stations.

"The law of the jungle will prevail if everyone takes the law into their own hands," Meskill told newsmen.

Food Shortages Increasing In Many Areas

A strike by independent truck drivers protesting high fuel prices threatened a crippling blow at the nation's economy today.

There were numerous reports of food shortages and of housewives raiding supermarkets for necessities that soon may be in short supply. Scores of plants were shutdown because their production and distribution facilities are serviced by trucks, throwing thousands out of work.

As the militant independents sought to keep all truck traffic off the highways, there were increasing reports of violence. In Pennsylvania, Gov. Milton J. Shapp declared a state of emergency. He said it was prompted by violence which "endangered the safety, health and welfare of a substantial number of citizens."

In Washington, officials were meeting in lengthy sessions to consider the truckers' demands.

In New Orleans, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz predicted the truckers' strike would cost the American economy tens of millions of dollars, perhaps hundreds of millions within one week.

The real loss will be for consumers, indeed for the families of truckers themselves, that aren't able to find the products they normally expect on the shelves of the supermarkets of America," Butz told a convention of the United Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Reports of frenzied buying of groceries and the closing down of food suppliers cropped up in most parts of the country.

The nation's largest chicken processor, Holly Farms Inc., Wilkesboro, N.C., stopped operations indefinitely at three plants causing the layoff of 3,700 employees.

At a Kroger store in Cincinnati weekend sales were almost doubled. The manager said the normal purchase of $12,000

Zoning Amendments Discussed

Bridgeport To Ration Gas

United Press International

Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio today declared Connecticut's largest city "in a state of emergency" and ordered gasoline rationing similar to the so-called Oregon plan.

Panuzio said he decreed the order to initiate rationing on Thursday under authority of the city charter "as the conservator of the peace within the city."

The plan which ties gasoline sales to the last digit on marker plates with even numbers eligible to buy gasoline on even numbered calendar days and odd numbers on odd numbered days.

For marker plates ending with letters, A through L will be considered odd numbered and M through Z even numbered. Gasoline may be sold to all vehicles on Saturdays and the 31st of the month in such months.

Bridgeport, located in Fairfield County, has been severely crippled by gasoline shortages. The heavily populated county has been the daily scene of long lines at beleaguered filling stations.

Many stations in the city have closed permanently or temporarily because of failure to obtain sufficient gasoline supplies.

Fairfield First Selectman John J. Sullivan said he would not ask gasoline retailers to join in any plan that is not enforced throughout the entire state.

Stratford Town Manager Joseph Venables said his town would most likely join in the Oregon plan but not until next week.

James A. Butler, first selectman of Trumbull, said he would issue an executive order Wednesday to begin rationing.

Proposed Zoning Rule Amendments Criticized

By DOUG BEVINS

Several provisions of proposed amendments to Manchester's business zoning regulations drew criticism from lawyers at Monday night's public hearing before the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC).

Atty. John LaBelle, representing developer Alexander Jarvis, was the principal opponent to the zoning amendments, which stiffer regulations concerning business uses and apparently place more restrictions on commercial development.

The proposed amendments, creating an entire new section of zoning regulations on general business uses, were drafted by Town Planner J. Eric Potter. After Monday night's hearing, PZC members tabled the matter.

LaBelle criticized sections of the amendments which require developers to make improvements to town roads, and he was critical of several other provisions which give the PZC greater authority to impose conditions on its approval of development plans.

One section of the proposed amendments states that "a developer shall make improvements to all public right-of-ways... as may be required by the director of public works as he deems appropriate and necessary for the proposed business operation."

LaBelle maintained that the PZC doesn't have the authority to delegate "any aspect of zoning" to another town official, and he said it's the town that must improve its highways.

LaBelle also contended that a provision allowing zoners to "impose specific safeguarding conditions" on some applications would be illegal.

"I don't think the board can adopt a wide-open regulation like that," LaBelle said, claiming that the wording would give PZC members an excuse to demand just about anything.

For apparently the same reasons, LaBelle attacked another section of the proposed amendments, which states that the PZC cannot approve applications for "special exceptions" unless the location is suitable for the particular use.

The proposed amendments define "special exceptions" as shopping centers, hotels, motels, outside storage of merchandise, and any use with public parking of more than 40 vehicles.

LaBelle was joined in his critical remarks by Atty. Leon Podrove.

Sunny and very cold today. High in the upper teens. Clear continued cold tonight low 5 to 10 and in the 20s along the coast. Increasing cloudiness and not as cold Wednesday, high in the mid 20s inland and the upper 20s along the sound.

PZC Given Extension On MAP Plan

MAP Associates, an investment partnership led by developer Arthur N. Fischer of New York City, has approved a 65-day extension of the time limit in which the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission must act on MAP's requested zone changes for a massive development at Buckland.

The original deadline expires Feb. 6 & 65 days from the close of the Dec. 3 public hearing on the requested zone changes.

PZC members are still studying MAP's proposal, which consists of a $100 million, 263-acre mixed-use development on tobacco land at Buckland.

Chamber Launches Membership Drive

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is launching a massive membership drive today and Wednesday, according to Burl Lyons, vice president of the Organizational Affairs Division.

The drive, according to Lyons, is to broaden the membership base of the Chamber and add the necessary financial and volunteer resources to the organization in its efforts to produce the "Commitment to the Challenge of Tomorrow" — the Chamber's five-point urban problem solving program of work.

The membership drive is in the form of an "operating room" technique using members of the Chamber's Board of Directors, Membership Contact Club and selected businessmen and women from the membership.

Prospective members will be telephoned directly from the conference room at the Chamber's office. Special "hot line" telephones have been installed for this purpose.

Everett J. Livesey, vice president of the Urban Affairs Division, has worked with Lyons in organizing the manpower resources for the "operating room."

A specially designed postcard with the logo "Why Not Join?" was mailed out to all prospective members. In addition, the Chamber also produced the 1974 membership directory and buyers guide including an action program report which appeared as a tabloid insert in The Manchester Evening Herald Saturday edition.

Many businesses when asked to join the Chamber have responded favorably," said Lyons. He added, "Many of them have noted that they have never received an invitation to join and for that reason have not been an active member in the past. We hope to extend that invitation to the many businesses who have not to date joined the Chamber in its attempt to provide the effective business leadership in maintaining a viable, healthy community."

Contacting Potential Chamber Members

Board To Get Details On Laurel Lake Issue

The Manchester Board of Directors has added a review item and two possible action items to its agenda tonight.

The review item is a report by Town Manager Robert Weiss — concerning final payment for Laurel Lake acquisition several days before the town took title to the property.

Participating in the review, in addition to Weiss, will be Roger Negro, town treasurer; and Thomas Moore, town controller.

To insure against any similar pre-payments in the future, Weiss announced today the town council's office will inspect all paperwork in conjunction with town acquisition of real estate.

The procedure will determine that all appropriate steps will have been taken by the town before any funds are transmitted.

The possible action items concern acceptance of deeds for access from Lookout Mt. Dr. to the town's water-tower, quarter-acre property.

Last Thursday, Town Council William Bronelli told the directors there is nothing on record to prove the town has a right-of-way to the property — although an oral, gentlemen's agreement has existed since the water tower was built.

The directors instructed him to get deeds to the right-of-way, so the written record will show the town indeed has access to the water tower and will show, at the same time, the access is only to the water tower and not for public use.

The board will consider acceptance of two

Children's Dental Health

(This is the second in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 2-8.)

"I have heard confusing stories recently about the dangers of radiation. Are dental x-rays safe for young children and pregnant women?"

X-ray examinations of your teeth are very important to you and your dentist. The dentist can only give you the best possible care by making x-ray examinations of your teeth and supporting structures when he feels such examinations are necessary.

With the aid of x-ray films, the dentist can see such things as the beginnings of tooth decay, which he could not see with his eye alone. He can detect abnormal growth conditions, such as unerupted or mal-positioned teeth. He can find abnormalities like tumors and cysts before they have an opportunity to grow and create more serious problems.

Dental x-ray examinations made with modern equipment and safeguards pose no dangers to the patient. Modern dental x-ray equipment actually exposes the patient to far less total body radiation than he would receive from walking down the street and being exposed to radiation from natural sources.

As part of his training, the dentist has had extensive instruction and experience in the operation of x-ray equipment and interpretation of x-ray films.

The dentist is alert to any potential hazards to his patients through the use of radiation equipment.

The American Dental Association recommends the use of high-speed film, a beam that is properly restricted by collimation and filtration, and an open-ended, properly shielded cone to reduce scatter radiation. In addition, the ADA advises that leaded aprons be used on children and all adults of child-bearing age.

You can be sure that your dentist will not recommend the taking of x-rays unless he feels they are necessary for diagnosis and a subsequent course of treatment.

Bid Condition Was Incorrect

In last Wednesday's account of bids received for the collection of Manchester trash and rubbish, a condition of the Trash-Away Inc. bid was stated incorrectly.

Trash-Away, the present contractor, stated its bid prices would be increased by $5,000 a year (and not 5 per cent, as stated) in the event the town didn't sell it gasoline.

The difference between $5,000 a year and 5 per cent a year could be as high as $12,000 to $15,000 a year in the price bid.

Trash-away, one of only two bidders for pickup to commence July 1, is the apparent low bidder on a one-year contract. Sanitary Refuse, which held the town contract prior to July 1, 1971, is the apparent low bidder on a four-year contract.

The Manchester Board of Directors is to decide which one of four alternate methods of collection the town is to have — once-a-week curbside pickup, twice-a-week curbside pickup (the present method), once-a-week with newspapers also, twice-a-week with newspapers also.

Before a contract will be awarded, a detailed study must be made of the bids — to determine whether all conditions were met.

Watergate Impact on Election Fund Option

By RAY DE CRANE

Last year, for the first time, taxpayers could designate $1 of their tax money to go into a special 1974 Presidential Election Campaign Fund.

Only three per cent of all taxpayers took advantage of it. The total raised for campaign purposes was a mere $2.8 million out of a potential of about $100 million.

Many reasons have been advanced for the poor showing. It was new and taxpayers traditionally shy away from trying new things. Perhaps taxpayers thought it would add to their tax or reduce their refund if they made this choice (it does not). A special attachment, Form 4875, was called for if such a contribution was made.

Since this was an unfamiliar form, taxpayers avoided using it.

Now with the unfavorable glare of the Watergate disclosures, it will be interesting to see how many individuals want to be campaign givers, instead of leaving this up to wealthy individuals and major corporations.

The choice this year appears right on Page 1 of Form 1040. No special form is required. You need not indicate a party preference. All of the money so raised goes to a general fund to be distributed to the parties.

This year you not only can designate $1 of your tax money ($2 on a joint return), you can also correct the short-coming on your 1972 return, if you wish.

British Coal Strike Set

LONDON (UPI) — Leaders of Britain's coal miners today ordered a shutdown of Britain's coal mines at midnight Saturday despite government warnings that would lead Britain from economic chaos into economic disaster.

The decision was announced by a member of the union executive committee at end of a 3½-hour meeting of the 27-member executive.

Britain depends on coal for 70 per cent of its energy, and a months-long slowdown by the miners had forced the nation into a three-day work week.

The economy was further disrupted by slowdowns by railroad workers.

Mineworkers President Joe Gormley confirmed the shutdown decision earlier.

"Of course the union's executive is not bound to decide there is going to be a strike," Gormley said at the meeting opened. "But I have no doubt there will be."

The union executive was deciding whether to escalate a 12-week-old slowdown into a national miners' shutdown starting Sunday.

The government said the strike would mean a 2½-day or even two-day work week, power blackouts, cold homes and millions jobless. About 70 per

A Time For Statesmanship

The State of Connecticut has more than its share of problems which it can do little about. It can keep up its chint for a fairer share in gasoline allocations, it can continue pressure to influence national legislation, and it can continue to protect its job-providing industries from raiders foreign and domestic.

But the fact remains that Washington casts a long shadow and many of the things which bug us are only resolvable by Washington or through Washington's assistance.

As the State Assembly is about to begin its 1974 session, we hope that with so many problems facing the state which it is relatively powerless to resolve, the leadership in both parties will not create any more problems.

We realize that the November election casts a long shadow too and it is only natural that in the immediate days ahead there will be a jockeying for political advantage as Republicans seek to keep control of the state and the Democrats seek a return to power. This is as it should be.

But we think there is a fine line between justifiable political differences and out-and-out political manipulation.

The Republicans with control of both houses must resist the temptation to railroad through the Republican programs. To do so is to waste the talent and ideas of the minority on the many issues which the state can do something constructive.

On the other hand, the Democrats can, if they will, give stature and enhancement to the two-party system by being a constructive loyal opposition. It can offer not only constructive criticism of majority proposals but must, we feel, assume the added duty of offering alternatives where they feel alternatives are necessary.

For both parties the temptations of political manipulations are strong. But the months and years ahead are filled with many uncertainties. We sincerely hope that the 1974 session will be marked by an awareness that actions taken or not taken now will act for years to come. It is a time for reason and thought. It is a time to keep political positions flexible enough to rise above politics when the common good is at stake.

Connecticut and its people should come first. We only ask that both parties, no matter how they might differ in the philosophies of how government should act, remember that the government belongs not to either political party but to the people.

And to keep the legislators informed of the peoples' will, we suggest each of us watch the assembly session closely and inform our representatives and senators frequently in the weeks ahead.

We would charge each of you to keep informed and inform your legislators and we charge our legislators to pursue their principles with vigor and strength toward the end that when the session is over it will be one of major accomplishment for the people of Connecticut. If this is done, the trend toward deterioration of confidence in democratic government can be reversed. If it is not done, we fear that trend will continue to the detriment of the people and all public servants, regardless of party affiliation.

No Big Problem

Recently we suggested on this page that Connecticut might consider adopting a system similar to Oregon's to limit sales of gasoline by using license numbers with the last digit as a basis for determining which day the car owner could buy gas.

In Oregon, the system is for odd-numbered license holders to buy on odd-numbered calendar days and even-numbered on even-numbered calendar days with all able to buy on Saturday since all stations are closed on Sundays.

A reader has pointed out that in Connecticut we have many motorists who have the so-called "vanity plates" which do not carry numbers.

While this may seem to be a problem, we think it can be resolved by designating A through L as eligible for odd-day purchases and M through Z for even-day purchases.

The reason, whatever system is devised for limiting purchases, is not to ration gasoline but to alleviate the now present long lines of motorists lining up at the pumps. It is merely a device to spread the available amounts of gasoline more equitably among all motorists.

Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON — American workers have now had time to digest the fact of life that the more insurance they buy the bigger the premium. In this case, the insurance is Social Security, one of the past half-century.

Last year, a bighearted—and politically conscious—Congress put through a two-step benefit increase of 11 percent and simultaneously raised the maximum wage base on which the 5.35 per cent Social Security tax is imposed from $10,800 to $13,200. For those who took only a quick look, this seemed very nice.

But two results are already discernible from this largesse. For many individuals, Social Security payroll withholdings now exceed income tax withholdings. And those with earnings above the base receive no benefit credits in return for the higher Social Security payments they make.

Worse still, higher Social Security benefits have added fuel to the fire of inflation. Said a report by the Congress Joint Economic Committee, "The budget costs of consumers rose dramatically during 1973, primarily as a result of inflation, but to some extent because of increased tax payments. We estimate an 11 per cent rise in Social Security payments for the low-budget family over 1972, and a 31 per cent rise in payments for the intermediate and high-budget families."

In meat-and-potatoes terms, the committee's study figured that "the increased cost of Social Security payments (taxes) was so large in 1973 that it increased its share of the average consumer's budget from 4.2 to 5.1 per cent."

Curiously, few people think of their Social Security payments as a budgetary expense. But $5 billion annually to be covered from Treasury funds raised by other taxes.

You're right. The dough would have to come from somewhere, meaning increased taxes in other fields. But for one would not go into a tantrum if our ruling lords slapped in increased excise taxes on jewelry items such as cigarettes, booze, diamond rings, earrings, necklaces, automobiles in the dreadnought class and excess profits earned by the big oil companies. You go looking for money where it is, and it is not in the pocket of the Social Security pensioner or the coal miner.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court may have to grapple with one of the most delicate of church-state questions: Clergy confidentiality.

The case arose when Dr. Paul Boe, 58, director of the Division of Social Service of the American Lutheran Church, refused to answer some questions put to him by the grand jury — particularly about identity of people he might have seen carrying guns — on grounds an answer would violate the confidence of what he believed was a legitimate pastoral relationship.

Full Support
Boe has known AYM leaders since the late 1960s. In 1968, Boe helped AIM incorporate and Lutheran mission programs has funded several AIM projects.

Because I felt that I had been invited to work as a churchman in confidence, that I would not reveal things that he had seen and heard, I refused to testify before the grand jury," he says.

ALC President David W. Press has announced that citation only an hour before Boe was to begin what would have been 14 months in jail.

Boe's presence at the trial itself to the question of clergy confidentiality and instead reversed the decision on technical grounds.

While temporarily free, Boe still could be called before the grand jury and the whole process could be carried out with more attention to the technicalities.

However, South Dakota law, under which Boe first was held in contempt of court for his refusal to answer questions, limits privileged communications to confessions from a contrite or repentant parishioner.

The National Council of Churches and the U.S. Catholic Conference, joined by eight other denominations or church agencies including Boe's two sister churches, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, filed a friend of the court brief to support Boe.

Singing out the South Dakota law's emphasis on the one-to-one relationship of a pastor and single penitent, the brief argued:

Last Friday, the majority leaders of the Connecticut legislature gave newsmen a mini briefing on matters to be considered in the session which starts Wednesday.

In a way it was a pre-view of what Gov. Thomas Meskill will recommend in his State of the State message, to be delivered at 11 a.m. before a joint session of the General Assembly.

Certainly, the majority leaders have, at the very least, an inkling of what the governor will say. And again certainly, they wanted the media to think the recommendations come from a broad spectrum of the legislators (Republicans and Democrats alike), and not merely from Gov. Meskill and his advisors.

Be it as it may, here are some of the things one might look for in the governor's message:

Repeal of the tax on utilities.

A cut in the sales tax.

Retention, in some form, of the capital gains tax.

Increased aid to the municipalities for operating the schools, either in the ADM (average daily membership) grants or the block grants.

An amendment to the statute which governs that state surplus — to permit spending it in the next fiscal year. The existing statute restricts the spending to the second fiscal year following the year of the surplus.

More stringent laws for control over lobbyists.

Last Tuesday night, during a three-hour meeting of the Board of Directors, four of the eight light bulbs in one of the three chandeliers in the Hearing Room, plus all eight in another (this one directly over the press table) were unswitched and not burning.

A check with the power company revealed the town effected a saving of 35 to 45 cents.

A check of the thermostat that same night revealed it was registering close to 80 degrees, necessitating the opening of two windows.

Tours may be scheduled by writing "Tour Line Service," State Capitol, Hartford, or by calling the day at 566-3662 during the day or Sen. Odagard at 648-3111 in the evenings.

State Court Judge Commands Nixon To Testify At Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A California judge today set President Nixon a voucher for $790,48 and commanded that Nixon spend it on travel expenses to testify at a burglary trial of John Ehrlichman and two other former White House officials.

The unprejudiced subpoena for the Honorable Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States, resident of the White House, Washington, D.C., was signed Monday by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer.

It embarked the judge on a head-on collision course with Nixon, and could lead to important decisions on the scope and limitation of the powers of the judiciary and executive branches.

The White House has already announced Nixon will "respectfully decline" to obey and Attorney General William French Smith said he would fight it to protect the stature of the presidency.

No president has ever been compelled to testify in any court, and Ringer's subpoena was the first for a president in 156 years and only the third in the history of the republic.

President Thomas Jefferson and James Monroe compromised with federal court summons. Jefferson turned over a subpoenaed letter. Monroe answered questions in writing.

Ringer's subpoena declared Nixon "a material and necessary witness" to Ehrlichman's defense.

Ehrlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young are awaiting trial on charges of burglary and conspiracy for allegedly giving the orders that led to the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the White House investigators known as the plumbers.

Part of their defense is that they were acting as federal officers at the time.

Air Standards
To the Editor of The Courant:

In an editorial January 12 you discussed the difficulties involved in establishing air quality standards and enforcing them by regulation. You recognized an important problem in the field of environmental protection, one which is being carefully examined by the federal government.

In 1971 the Environmental Protection Agency established national ambient air quality standards for the six major pollutants. Each standard was set on the basis of scientific evidence available at the time.

In the several years since those standards were established, additional scientific evidence has come to light. The National Academy of Sciences, an independent agency, was asked to evaluate the standards in light of new scientific findings.

The Academy has made several interesting statements which probably indicate the tenor of the conclusions that will be reached by the Academy's study.

The Academy states that "Due to the limitations of present knowledge, it is impossible at this time to establish an ambient air concentration of any pollutant — other than zero — below which it is certain that no human beings will be adversely affected."

However, evaluating new evidence that has been presented since 1971, the Academy says that "Present knowledge of health effects appears to afford no compelling basis for suggestions to either raise or lower the currently mandated primary air quality standards at this time." The report concludes that much research is needed on the effects of pollutants in the coming decade.

Thus, scientific evidence seems to indicate that the standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency are related to health effects and are, in fact, protective of the health of our citizens.

The Department of Environmental Protection has come a long way in implementing programs to control the emission of air pollutants from industrial, business and municipal sources. We will probably find, however, that complete as our control of pollutants may be from those sources, we may fail to protect the health of Connecticut citizens by failing to achieve the health-related air quality standards.

The area in which we may fail will be in reducing automotive pollutants. Without some involvement in establishing land use patterns, in which use of the automobile plays an integral role, we may never be able to protect the citizens of this state from the hazards of pollutants produced by the automobile.

It is the Department of Environmental Protection in Hartford which must design and carry out these programs with the participation of the 169 municipalities in the state. The Air Unit is very much sensitive to the role of local citizens in land use decisions related to air quality.

Your editorial does a service to the citizens of Connecticut in informing them of new developments in federal policy relating to air pollution. I believe the citizens of this state have made a commitment to clean healthy air, and that they will participate with the Department of Environmental Protection in achieving reasonable goals set by the federal government.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newsweek reports that actor Burt Reynolds apparently got cold feet before posing for his famous mad centerfold in Cosmopolitan.

"It took him two hours to get out of his bathrobe," the photographer, Francesco Scavullo, is quoted as saying.

Somehow I never thought of Reynolds as the demure type. Ever since reading about the episode, I've been trying to picture in my mind the scene in Scavullo's studio.

I see Reynolds tentatively emerging from the dressing room in a heavy terry cloth robe. He spots Scavullo, who is tinkering with the lights, and quickly backs inside.

"He Gets Cold Feet"
"It's okay, Mr. Reynolds," Scavullo calls. "I'm almost finished. We'll be ready to shoot as soon as you're in position. Mr. Reynolds? You can come on out now."

Scavullo goes to the dressing room door. Trying the knob, he finds it locked. He raps and says, "Mr. Reynolds? Are you still in there?"

There is a long silence. Then a small voice from inside says, "I can't go through with it."

"You can't back out now, Mr. Reynolds. It's too late to line up another model!"

The door slowly opens and Reynolds peers out. "Have you tried Henry Kissinger yet?"

"He isn't available until the January issue."

Reynolds again hesitantly steps out, clutching the robe tightly to his chest.

"Good boy!" Scavullo says encouragingly. "Now if you will stretch out over there on that cot, we'll be through before you know it."

Something is Wrong
Scavullo gets set behind his camera, but suddenly straightens up again.

"I thought something was wrong. You've still got on your bathrobe."

"Do I have to take the robe off?"

"Of course. Didn't Mrs. Brown, the editor, tell you I wanted you to pose in the nude?"

"Yeah, but I guess I didn't realize I would have to take my robe off. Couldn't you fake it?"

"Mr. Reynolds, we are almost two hours behind schedule. Please remove your robe."

"Will you promise not to look?"

"How can I take your photograph without looking?"

"Stretch your eyes and turn your head."

"Okay, Mr. Reynolds, my eyes are shut tight. Is the robe off now?"

"Just a second. Would you mind putting on this blindfold?"

"I don't see that issue of Cosmo, you'll remember that the picture turned out fine. But as far as I'm concerned, Reynolds is still just another pretty face."

Cigarette smokers, who for one reason or another, have not heeded the surgeon general's warning that "cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," may soon find non-smokers taking a firm stand against them.

It is becoming more and more commonplace to see "no smoking please" signs in public places, private homes, and even in cars of drivers who are participating in a car pool. The tables in special banquet halls which once bore "reserved" signs are now being replaced to some extent by "for non-smokers only" signs.

Dr. Douglas S. Lloyd, state health commissioner, has noted that recent scientific evidence, more and more indicates that cigarette smoking can be harmful to other people in addition to the smoker himself. Dr. Lloyd says non-smokers should initiate action that would assert their rights to breathe air free from smoke.

According to Dr. Lloyd, there is growing evidence that a non-smoker who is exposed to a "smoke-filled room" can inhale as much smoke as if he himself had smoked. It was further noted that a recent German study demonstrated that smoking several cigarettes in a closed room soon makes the concentration of nicotine and dust particles so high that the non-smoker inhales as much tobacco by-products as a smoker inhales from four or five cigarettes.

Other evidence indicates that smoke from an idling cigarette may be twice as toxic as smoke inhaled by the smoker, that smoker's children will more frequently than non-smoker's children usually because of respiratory disease; and that smoking stunts fetal growth. Dr. Lloyd urges non-smokers to express their discomfort and to object when smokers light up without asking permission.

"Insist on your right to breathe clean air free from harmful and irritating tobacco smoke," he concluded.

A Mother's Love

A warm and tender love story has been published by the David McKay Company entitled "For Love of Anne." It is a mother's story of the life and death of a beloved daughter. Anne de Leusse died in Paris in midsummer just after she had passed her 15th birthday. She had been ill for most of those 15 years. Despite its essentially tragic theme, "For Love of Anne," is characterized not by pity or sentimentality but by a mother's affection for her child and her admiration of her child's brief but valuable life.

Written by Claude de Leusse, it is a beautiful, sensitive book. Madame de Leusse is a working journalist in Paris, a world traveler, and has been a model for Chanel. She and her husband, Comte Charles de Leusse, have two other children who survived their beloved sister Anne.

While her story is sure to bring a few tears, readers will find it a heartening story, — a tribute to courage and to love.

A Return To The Victory Gardens

Early seed sales in the South are already indicating that young people will soon be sowing and hoeing in trim little gardens this spring. The desire to economize is apparently the big reason for this garden revolution, but with the gasoline shortage, fighting traffic, etc. people are turning to their homes for more pleasure and playing an important role. Many seed firms have garden planting plans available and one such firm says that a family of four can save $120 on food bills from a seed investment of $30. Under this particular plan vegetables such as tomatoes, squash, peppers, cabbage, beans, lettuce, carrots, Swiss chard, and radishes were included and should supply enough for the family with some left over for canning.

There's Nothing Nutty About a Squirrel

My husband is fighting a losing battle with the squirrels in our back yard, and I'm afraid that his failure is beginning to get to him.

Each year when he puts out bird feeders to try to make them squirrel-proof. Each year, he fails miserably.

When we first started to feed the birds, we bought a variety of feeders including one confidently marked "keeps squirrels off." We installed them according to the manufacturer's instructions, either directly on trees or perched on the top of poles.

Within 24 hours the work was done and every squirrel in town grand feasting on our bird feeders. They selected the plumpest, tastiest seeds and when their stomachs were filled, they stuffed their cheeks for a between-meal-snack.

The very sight of the squirrels threw my husband into a rage. He opened the kitchen window, banged the door, and yelled "scat" in his gruffest voice. The first time the squirrels heard they scampered away in fright. But after a few days they became so accustomed to his ranting that they never even bothered to look up.

My husband's first major anti-squirrel effort was to wire with consummate ease using their tails for balance.

"Why don't you just relax and enjoy the squirrels," I said to my husband today in an effort to placate him. "It's like having a three-ring circus outside the window. Besides, we're plenty of seed for both the birds and the squirrels."

"Face it Dad," added our teenage son, "those squirrels are just too smart for you."

My husband looked at us both with disdain and took off for his workshop in the basement where he immediately set up a loud hammering and sawing.

After awhile Tom went downstairs to investigate. He came back with the information that his father was building a 100 per cent squirrel-proof-feeder. "Dad says that no dumb squirrel's going to outsmart him!" explained Tom with a grin.

I hate to be disloyal. But, I'm betting on the squirrels.

Court Rules Visits To Children Not Linked To Support Payments
HARTFORD (UPI) - The state Supreme Court has ruled a divorced man must pay full child support to his ex-wife, even though her move to another state made it difficult for him to visit the children.

The ruling, published in today's issue of the Connecticut Law Journal, overturned a Superior Court decision which reduced Robert Raymond's weekly support for each of his four children from $25 to $10 because Mrs. Raymond failed to obtain court permission before she moved.

Raymond had charged because his children were removed from the state, he was denied his rights of visitation. He argued that the state would no longer be restricted to parkland, it would be denied his rights of visitation. Democrats Plan Two Endorsements

The Manchester Democratic Town Committee has scheduled a meeting for Thursday night at 8:30 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room to make two endorsements. Matt Moriarty Jr. is expected to be endorsed for the Board of Directors and David M. Barry for the Democratic nomination for Fourth District state senator.

The endorsements will be by the incumbent town committee, sitting as a committee of the whole.

Moriarty would succeed Anthony Pietranico on the board. The latter, also a Democrat, resigned last month. Democratic Chairman Ted Cummings said today, "For the good of the community, it is essential that the vacancy on the board be filled as soon as possible; in fact, the sooner the better."

Bill Walton Named to Receive Sullivan Award

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Red-haired Bill Walton, the Howard Hughes of college basketball, has been named to receive the AAU's Sullivan Award for 1973. But that wasn't really a surprise. The surprise was Walton was at a Monday news conference at UCLA to pose with his award as the nation's top amateur athlete. Walton, who has kept his distance from reporters since he arrived on Westwood campus from La Mesa, Calif., four years ago, showed up with UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan and Bruins' Coach John Wooden.

AAU President David Rivenes of Miles City, Mont., announced Walton's selection but said the presentation would be made at a formal dinner. Walton is the 44th recipient of the award, which is made by a vote by members of the AAU Board of Governors. The board represents all 50 states and each of the AAU's 20 sports plus members of the sports media who cover amateur athletics. "It is a great honor and I'm very pleased to receive this award," Walton said. "But I think the coach knows and the guys on the team know that I'm really not receiving this for myself. We just all understand that the media tends to pick out individuals and I happen to be 6-11 and have red hair and

I'm the one who gets picked out. I'm sure my teammates realize the importance of this trophy as an award to our team and our coach." Walton may have been uncomfortable but he didn't show it. Dressed in a blue work shirt and blue jeans and wearing sandals sans socks, he smiled frequently and didn't dodge any questions. After the news conference, he put on a back pack and rode off on his 10-speed bicycle across the campus. Morgan admonished a reporter once during the news conference after the newsman asked Walton about his famous knees and if they would prevent him from playing pro basketball next season. "Gentleman," he said sternly. "I'd like to stop this right now from this type of questioning. We're here for the Sullivan Award which is an amateur award. We're here for UCLA and UCLA basketball and I think that's what we will talk about." In the voting, Walton—only the second basketball player honored by the AAU—received 1,856 for 1972 Olympic 800-meter gold medalist Dave Wottle of Bowling Green. The first basketball player chosen for the Sullivan Award was Princeton's Bill Bradley in 1965. Walton was the 16th California resident to win the award and the second athlete from UCLA. Rafter Johnson, winner of the decathlon gold medal at the Rome Olympics, was honored in 1960. Johnson also played basketball two years for Wooden.

New Grid League After Money Cards

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The National Football League has dealt its hand and the new World Football League will be seeking any money cards left in the deck today when it completes its college player draft. The remaining 30 rounds of the draft (the first six rounds were held Jan. 22) were scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. PDT. Pulling the rug out from under the NFL, the WFL signed UCLA star running backs James McAlister and Kermit Johnson and USC guard Booker Brown last Monday before the elder league's draft Tuesday.

"Now that the WFL clubs have had a chance to study the NFL's draft, they'll complete their drawing today. The drafting order will be the same as that used Jan. 22, with Memphis leading off followed by Boston, Florida, Toronto, Birmingham, New York, Southern California, Philadelphia, Hawaii, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Detroit. The players selected today are expected to make up the brunt of the WFL rosters depending on the signing of early draft picks and NFL and Canadian League veterans who play out their options.

O.J. Simpson, who set a single season NFL rushing record with the Buffalo Bills in 1973, echoed the thoughts of other NFL players in expressing the hope that the WFL succeeds. "I sincerely hope that the league catches on, especially for the players' sake," said Simpson before receiving the S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award in New York Monday.

"Of course, I have no intention of leaving since I'm tied up with the Bills and am satisfied. But I tell any player who asks me, 'If your contract is about up, I wouldn't sign another one until I checked out the other league.' I'd hate to lose any of the guys on our team, but we're in this business to make money and they should be able to get the best offer they can. I hope the league makes it." Simpson said the future of the WFL would be decided the week of May 1.

"That's when the option clauses are over and the players can negotiate with the new league," he said. "I think there are enough football players to make another league work." The WFL's draft of current pro players will be held Feb. 18-19 in Chicago. In addition to the draft, several teams were expected to announce the signing of free agents today.

Pro Jockey Mary Bacon

Most Courageous Athlete-of-Year

Battered, Kidnapped, Featured in Playboy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — She's been battered, and kidnapped. She rode in three thoroughbred races last week before giving birth to a child and survived that ordeal well enough to be featured in Playboy Magazine. That's not to make female jockey Mary Bacon the Most Courageous Athlete of the Year, according to the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association. She was honored for her numerous comebacks from disabling injuries Monday night at the Association's 70th annual dinner.

Mrs. Bacon, currently riding at New Orleans, has survived a broken back, a crushed pelvis, a broken collar bone and six days of unconsciousness during her incredible 300-win career. "Most people just think I'm nuts," Mrs. Bacon said Monday at the association's 70th annual dinner attended by some 1,600 persons. Bobby Clarke of the Philadelphia Flyers was honored as the Professional Athlete of the Year and John Cappiello, of Penn State, was named the year's top amateur athlete. She suffered a broken back in 1969 when she was thrown by a horse and broke her collar bone in 1971 in another track accident. "I don't really think I'm courageous," Mrs. Bacon said. "I'm just doing something I love. The only thing I know is that I only feel completely free when I'm on a horse. My whole life exists from the gate to the wire." In 1972, she was caught under a falling horse and spent six days in the hospital, unconscious with three blood clots on the brain. She left the hospital abruptly, went to another state, and 11 days later rode in three races. In 1973, Mrs. Bacon was pinned by a frightened horse in a stall at Aqueduct and suffered a crushed pelvis. She spent seven weeks in a cast and her weight dropped from 101 to 87 pounds. Mrs. Bacon, who is in her mid 20's, has also survived a kidnapping by an admirer and threats on her life. She is the third woman in the 42-year history of the award to be so honored. Olympic discus winner Babe Didrikson Zaharias was cited in 1952 for her battle against cancer and Mrs. Betty Meade of Merion, Pa., won the award in 1968 after returning to championship squash competition despite losing the lower part of her left leg in a car accident.

Aeros Protect Old Superstar

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — The Houston Aeros are really going to extremes to protect 45-year-old superstar Gordie Howe and Monday night's only World Hockey Association game seemed to call for extreme action. The Aeros led the Jersey Knights, 7-1, the eventual final score, when a brawl erupted with 13 seconds left to play. Houston obviously felt Jersey's Ted Scharf was hitting Howe with a little extra enthusiasm and John Schella of the Aeros squared off with Scharf and Larry Lund went against Jersey's Dean Boylan. When peace seemed to be restored, Schella got into a fight with Kevin Morrison that spilled over to the Houston Rockets. Houston backup goalie Wayne Rutledge then threw a punch at Morrison, bringing the Knights off their bench and the Houston players to Rutledge's defense. Morrison then jumped onto the Houston bench but order was restored.

"I think Jersey was trying to start trouble," said Houston Coach Bill Dineen, whose club owns six-point edge in the WHA West race. "They had their tough guys on the ice for the last three minutes and they hadn't played that much the whole game. I thought the referee should have had Scharf off the ice for hitting someone like that a minute before the fight started." Scharf was hit with 15 minutes in penalties and a game misconduct in the final period. "I'm not worried about Gordie Howe," he said. "I know I can't scare him. He's not going to run from me. Some of these other guys see me running at Howe and they'll show respect for me next year and the year after that. That's who I'm trying to intimidate." As for the hockey game, it was no contest. Jersey scored first on Don Herriman's third goal of the season early in the first period. Frank Hughes scored his 30th goal four minutes later, followed by goals by Lunc and Andre Himse to give Houston a 3-1 lead after one period. Ted Taylor scored Houston's lone goal in the second period before Marty Howe, Hughes and Murray Hall scored the final three goals in the third period.

Boston College Ace Tops Foul Shooters

DURHAM, N.H. (UPI) — Jere Nolan of Boston College is the region's best foul-shooter, according to New England Major college statistics released by the University of New Hampshire. Nolan, a 6-9, 175-pound guard, has converted 891 per cent of his charity tosses this season, displacing Providence College's Kevin Stacom, who dropped to third place in that category. Craig Phillips (20), Dave McKenna (18) and Bob Hartnett (12) led Westwood to its triumph. Al Brown and Bob Carlson with 11 and nine markers led the losers. In the Senior League, Kahanas Kids registered a forfeit win over the Aircrafters.

Nassif Arms remained undefeated last night in the Midweek League at the West Side Rec. Ken Marshall and Marc Decarais with four apiece led Burger while Paul Tyler and Mike Thompson with 10 apiece led the winners while Jeff Pheola's 17 points led Remodeling. Roundup that the top five announced Monday were Warren Frohmus of Vermont in second place, John Clark of Northeastern University in fourth place and Ken Wolfe of Harvard in fifth position. Kenny Boyd of Boston University continued to lead the region in scoring average, hitting at a 21.9 point-per-game clip. He was followed by Providence's Marvin Barnes at 20.7 points per game; Adam Sutton of Dartmouth at 19.5 points per game; Rich O'Connor of Fairfield at 19.4 points per game and Boston College's Bob Carrington, at 19.2 points per game.

Al Skinner of Massachusetts led the region's major colleges in field goal percentage, hitting at a .638 clip. Bob Cooper of Providence was second at .579; Fairfield's Ralph Rehn and Nolan were tied at .549 for third place and Boston College's Mark Katerink was in fifth place at .548. Barnes, a strong candidate for All America honors this year, continued his domination of the rebounding statistics, hauling in an average of 17.7 carrots a game.

Springfield, Mass. (UPI) — Joet Goldberg, captain of the Springfield College basketball team will be sidelined with a neck injury for at least 10 days, it was announced Monday. Thoughts APLENTY by Len Auster

East Catholic Basketball

Perennial basketball powerhouse East Catholic is having another one of its seasons. Going into tonight's action, the Eagles are 13-2 overall and atop the Hartford County Conference with a 6-1 ledger. Credit is due to six-year mentor Stan Ogradnik for his outstanding work. Earlier in the campaign, he won his 100th game as a head coach. Ogradnik, however, is the first one to give credit to others. "I have the best assistants anywhere. Jim (Penders) and Frank (Kinel) would make excellent head coaches anywhere they go. You have to give them credit for the time and energy they put in which they don't have to," Ogradnik stated. He may be right. Penders coaches the Jayvee team and has led an unblemished 15-0 mark at this writing. Kinel is in charge of grooming the freshmen and under his leadership they've compiled a 12-2 standard. Those are most impressive statistics which shed light on the capabilities of these two fine leaders.

Good Officials

This corner has taken more than its share of raps at basketball officials. Now I'd like to mention and give credit to some of the best witnessed. Frank Corbin and Bill Stewart handled the recent Manchester-Conard tilt in West Hartford. The pair did an excellent job in a foul-infested contest. Corkin and Manchester resident David Turkington officiated the first East Catholic-South Catholic clash. They were excellent in their whistle-blowing duties. Good officiating in a jayvee contest is hard to come by. The best seen this year has been Tony Scalise and Ed Sweeney, who handled the East Hartford-East Catholic preemie. Scalise was paired later with someone less qualified but his performance didn't suffer. It's nice to see a well-played game that is well officiated. Hopefully, more men like these five are around.

CCIL Race

At this juncture of the season, Conard leads the CCIL race with an 11-2 mark. Right behind is Maloney High of Meriden with a 10-3 standard. A poor third is Bristol Eastern at 9-5. Look for Conard to take the crown. Chieftain Coach Al Basney related, "I said before the season that 15-3 will win it and I still feel that way." According to Basney, the schedule favors his club. Maloney has to face the Bristol schools, Eastern and Central, away and winning in Bristol is a rarity. Conard's busy 6-6 center Robert Farbotko is inconsistent, but when he's on, watch out. Chieftain Captain Frank Sharry, Tim Kelly and Bob Kieley appear to be enough to help Conard win the crown.

Scoring Barrier

Don't gaze too long but East Catholic's All-Stater Joe Whelton is closing in on a scoring barrier. Only two Eagle performers, Tim Kearns and Ray LaGace, have scored over 1,000 points in their careers. Whelton, with 972 points, could break the mark tonight against Hamden High, and if not, surely Saturday night against arch-rival South Catholic.

To Be Complimented

Compliments must be extended to the Army & Navy Club which put on a banquet last Wednesday for the Manchester High 1973 CCIL champion soccer team. The food was excellent and everything was taken care of in a professional-like manner. Rick Wasserman emceed the affair and did an excellent job. Coach Dick Danielson's booters placed second in the Class A State Tournament bowing to Staples of Westport. They deserved recognition and the Army & Navy Club must be congratulated for its recognition of the team.

Holiday Handicap Play Annexed by Emily Peck

Ninety two women entered and 26 made the prize list in the Holiday Lanes Handicap Duckpin Bowling Tournament last weekend. Competition was for bowlers with 108 and under averages. First place went to Emily Peck of Manchester with a three-game score of 408, plus a nine-pin handicap for 417. She won $30. Runner-up was Kay Scabes of Windsor Locks with 392-12-484. The placement was worth $20. Local entrants in the money, showing placement and score, were: 4. Kathy Hayden 339-380-8, Joan Simmons 339-15-37, 7. Lottie Schroeder 342-30-372, 8. Beverly Zamatta 341-30-371, 12. Barbara Rohan 330-333-30-363, 14. Debbie Saral 353-4-359, 15. Irene Sirois 334-24-358, 20. Janet Peck 341-12-353, 22. Gymnastic action yesterday at the Eagles' Nest saw Somers High win the competition with a team score of 48. Second place went to East Catholic with 46 and Montville High was third with 41 points.

In the vaulting event, Miss Lee Aceto, unofficially, Miss Aceto won the vaulting and uneven parallel bar competition and was second in the floor exercise event.

Mazeroski Resigns PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Third-base coach Bill Mazeroski, whose famous home run gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the 1960 World Series over the New York Yankees, announced Monday night he was retiring from the Pirate organization after 19 years of service with the club. Mazeroski informed Pirate General Manager Joe Brown of his decision in a brief telephone call from Bradenton, Fla., the Pirates' spring training camp.

Davey Johnson Has Mind of Own

By MILTON RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone has his own cross to bear. Hank Aaron keeps bearing how he couldn't carry Babe Ruth's shoes and poor old Davey Johnson has people telling him how he couldn't even shine Rogers Hornsby's.

The big reason Davey Johnson has to put up with this corn meal is because Rogers Hornsby generally was known as one of the greatest righthanded hitters who ever lived, if not the greatest, and without even setting out to do it in the first place, he broke Hornsby's all-time home run record for major league season bases. Davey Johnson whacked 43 for the Atlanta Braves last year.

That topped Hornsby's 42 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1922, the same year he hit .401 and drove in 152 runs for them. Johnson managed only .270 and 95 RBIs for the Braves. "I've heard some pretty good stories about him," says Johnson about Hornsby, who died 11 years ago. "I understand he always said what he thought and was very blunt."

Blunt is hardly the word. Rogers Hornsby never beat around the bush in his life. He had about as much subtlety as one of George Foreman's punches. While he never went around knocking you down with the information, if you were born in this country he expected the least you'd know is that he batted better than 400 three different times, led the National League in hitting six straight times and his lifetime average of .358 was second only to Ty Cobb's .367.

Chances are Rogers Hornsby would congratulate Davey Johnson on breaking his home run record, providing someone pushed him into doing it, but chances are also tell you how Johnson would compare with the players of his own era if you pushed him there also. Rogers Hornsby never needed a whole lot of pushing. Schoendienst, that matter, does Davey Johnson, who has a way of speaking his mind, too.

He'd have Sassed Back "If Hornsby would've given me some sass about my breaking his record, I would've given it to him right back," says Johnson. "I'm outspoken also. I feel the one thing any ballplayer should have is pride. If he doesn't have that, he has nothing." Rogers Hornsby would buy that all right. He also would've applauded Johnson's straight-forward approach with Atlanta General Manager Eddie Robinson.

This past year after being dealt to the Braves by the Baltimore Orioles, Johnson, who had hit only five home runs at Baltimore the year before, kept hearing about how he was really playing in a telephone booth in Atlanta.

Schoendienst's Put Down One day when the Cardinals were being shown on TV's Game of the Week, Curt Gowdy mentioned that Johnson was leading the league in home runs at St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst.

"That tells you something about the Atlanta ballpark," said Schoendienst. "Davey Johnson wasn't watching the Game of the Week that day, but when he got to the ballpark, some of the Braves, with the typical ballplayers' way of enjoyably amplifying some statements, needed him."

"Jeez, Schoendienst really ripped you on TV." "I wanted to tell him never mind the ballpark I'm playing in, you ought to learn how to hunt and run more and stay out of the double plays with the Punch and Judy hitters you've got. You know, I probably hit more home runs on the field this past season than anybody on our club. Since when is Schoendienst an authority on home runs? I was going to send him a telegram, but I didn't bother."

Now that's where Rogers Hornsby was different. He would've told Red Schoendienst personally.

"People have changed their buying habits," Pelletier explained, claiming that the public's hoarding of gasoline and panic-buying have caused trouble.

He said many motorists drive into his station, which has been limiting purchases to 15, and ask for a fillup. Often the auto gasoline tanks are almost full and will only take a dollar's worth, he says.

"The public is being greedy," Pelletier said, "and I don't feel sorry for them."

Wernon Appropriates $3,000 To Study Ice Rink Feasibility

BARBARA RICHMOND After listening to a report of the Ice Facility Committee and experts in the field of financing, the Town Council Monday voted to appropriate $3,000 for a feasibility study concerning a proposed ice facility.

The study committee was appointed last June by Mayor Frank McCoy and Ruth Ventura was named chairman. In its report the committee said that an ice facility in Vernon "appears" to be feasible.

Through its months of research, the committee has been able to find out some probable cost figures. It is estimated a facility would cost about $750,000 at today's costs; it would require about five acres of land; would have to sell 75 hours of ice time, per week, at $50 an hour; operating costs would run about $130,000 a year; and principal and interest payments that it is "imperative that the facility be well managed with experienced people."

Richard Rand of Herbert J. Simms & Co., a New York investment firm, explained how an ice facility could be financed with tax exempt revenue bonds, which would eliminate any liability on the part of the town.

The council and some members of the ice facility committee did not completely agree with Rand's proposal which included a recommendation that a particular consulting firm be used. Rand then suggested that the town go ahead with the Energy from the sea: at least let us look for it.

Out there, way out there on the Outer Continental Shelf, there may be enough natural gas to supply East Coast cities with energy well into the next century.

But so far, we haven't even been allowed to look for it.

Instead, this nation must import energy from abroad at higher and higher prices. Why are we importing something that may be sitting right out there on our own Continental Shelf?

Part of the reason has been environmental concern. But now, thanks to advanced technology, we can drill with virtually no risk of polluting the water or the air, by men or machines.

NICE THING ABOUT SHOOTING SOMEONE WITH A DART GUN - IT DOESN'T BLOODY UP THE RUG.
GETTING TOO OLD, PUFF... TO BE... UGH... TRYING TO LIFT SOMEBODY INTO A CART.

OUT OUR WAY BY NED COCHRAN

BOY! I HADN'T THROWN MY BACK OUT SINCE I WAS WITH THY KIDS!
AND YOU'VE WOUND UP IN THE SAME SHAPE YOURSELF! NOW! I WOULDN'T HAVE BELIEVED YOU WOULD GET OUT OF THAT EITHER!

CAPTAIN EASY

YOU AND YOUR FOREIGN AGENTS! NOW YOU'VE GOT ME DOWN TO A COUPLE OF BLOODS AND LEAVING THE HOSPITAL WAS AT THE AIRPORTS!
COME ON! LET'S GET PARANOID! WHY ARE YOU FOLLOWING US?
LOOK, SPORT - IT'S A FINE IDEA, BUT WHY ARE YOU CALLING ME A PARANOID? WHY ARE YOU FOLLOWING US?
YOU'RE RIGHT, HE'S FOLLOWING US!

STEVE CANYON

BOON, ROMMY BOON, WHY CAN'T YOU BE DEAD?
MRS. CANNON, I AM UPSET, BUT...
SHE WOULD NEVER LET ME GET UPSET, BUT...
HE ALWAYS CALLED ME A FINE GUY, BUT WHY ARE YOU CALLING ME A MADEN NAME?
WE EXCHANGED LETTERS NOW AND THEN HE WAS A FINE GUY, BUT WHY ARE YOU CALLING ME A MADEN NAME?
SO YOU'LL GO AWAY FROM YOUR OWN LADY!

THE FLINTSTONES

WHAT'S THIS ON TH' FRONT OF YOUR CAR?
JUST MY TEST AND GREATER INVENTION, FRED...
A BOON TO THE TRAVELER WHO LIKES TO EAT...
IT'S CALLED A GRILL!

Standard bidders found clubs

The reason club systems are so difficult for ordinary players lies in the problem of what to do when your suit is a duplicate game. Another pair did even worse. South passed. North opened one heart. Eventually, he played at four hearts and managed to find a way to get set after East opened the king of diamonds.

Even the little guy is getting hurt by the gasoline shortage. Peter Renaud, 12, of Marlborough, Mass., waits his turn in line with his mini-bike for gasoline and must be thinking the consequences if there is a $3 minimum. (UPI photo)

Back-Burner Hassle Offing On State Fiscal Secrecy

By HOWARD S. DRESCHER
HARTFORD (UPI) — Energy, taxes and spending are the likely page-one issues of the 1974 legislative session. But lawmakers from both parties are engaged in a backburner issue that may light some fires with the executive branch.

Missing Flier's Parents Seek An Accounting

DANBURY (UPI) — The parents of a Navy flier missing over North Vietnam has asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to account for his whereabouts.

Strong Opposition Heard To Plans for Apartments

By ALEX GIRELLI

A proposal to zone a 10-acre parcel of land on Anderson Rd. just east of Goose Lane in Tolland drew heavy public opposition Monday night when about 75 residents crowded into the new Board of Education offices for the first public hearing held there.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, after the hearing which lasted three and a half hours, tabled action on the request.

While the only question before the PZC now is the zone change itself, the applicants explained in considerable detail their preliminary plans for development.

Budget Asks Funds For Mass Transit, Energy Crisis

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill today pinned Republican re-election hopes on a $121 million mass transit program and a cut in the state's sales tax, one of the nation's highest.

The governor, opening the 1974 legislative session, called for a modest increase in state spending to $2.32 billion and recommended using a projected $19 million surplus to meet the energy crisis.

"Our goal will be less dependence on the private automobile," he said. "Achievement of this goal will require a high level of funding, but I think a transportation system that will do it — not damage — our environment is a wise, even mandatory, state project," the governor said.

Other proposals in Meskill's budget message include $10.4 million for a new library at the University of Connecticut, $16 million for a new vocational technical school at Groton and $9.6 million for initial construction of the Naugatuck Valley Higher Education Center.

The tax package proposes eliminating the capital gains levy on the sale of homes owned by persons over 65.

It calls for increasing the 74-75 appropriation for the Office of Mental Retardation by $5 million to a total of $36.5 million.

The proposed mental health budget calls for $12 million for community alcoholism programs. In announcing the grant, Meskill urged lawmakers to decriminalize alcoholism by treating it as a medical problem rather than a crime.

The legislature is meeting in a budget session supposedly limited to dealing with financial
