

Crime Said Not Needed To Impeach

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House impeachment inquiry staff said today it had concluded that President Nixon could be impeached for non-criminal acts, including abuse of the powers of the Presidency.

In a 65 page report to the 38 members of the House Judiciary Committee, the staff, organized to study possible impeachable offenses, stressed that impeachment was "a grave step for the nation."

"It is to be predicated only upon conditions seriously incompatible with either the constitutional form and principles of our government or the proper performance of the constitutional duties of the presidential office," the report said.

The report said, "The duty of a President to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution to the best of his ability includes the duty not to abuse his powers or transgress their limits, not to violate the rights of citizens, such as those granted by the Bill of Rights and not to act in derogation of power vested elsewhere by the Constitution."

In saying a President could be impeached for acts other than criminal offenses, the report cited as impeachable conduct "undermining the integrity of the office, disregard of constitutional duties and oath of office, arrogation of power, abuse of the government process, adverse impact on the system of the government."

"Clearly, these effects can be brought about in ways not anticipated by criminal law," the report said.

The report appeared to hold the President responsible for the conduct of his subordinates, although the staff did not spell out whether it felt he was responsible for acts not specifically authorized by him.

Publisher Randolph Hearst established a "People in Need" food bank to start handing out free groceries as an act of faith to save the life of his kidnapped daughter. Headquarters for the bank has been temporarily set up in this office of the Hearst Building. Gas Dealers Vote Delay In Protest Closedown

United Press International As the state received federal assurance that purchased foreign petroleum would not be deducted from its monthly fuel allocation, Connecticut gasoline dealers head off closing down their stations.

Some 250 members of the Connecticut Gasoline Retailers Association met in Hamden Wednesday and voted to wait until Monday before deciding whether to close down in defiance of the federal ban on favoritism at the pumps. Dealers in Greenwich and nearby Port Chester, N.Y., shut their stations Tuesday in protest of the order from energy chief William E. Simon. A scattering of stations opened today but the Greenwich group vowed at the Hamden meeting to continue their lockout for as long as possible.

The president of the retailers, Charles R. Matties, said the dealers want to see results obtained by national negotiators on Saturday before planning any statewide action.

Meanwhile, assurances came from the Federal Energy Office that the state's attempts to import gasoline would not affect its allocation.

State energy chief Eckardt C. Beck said Wednesday the assurance came from FEO allocation expert John Weber. Earlier, another FEO official apparently indicated gas obtained out of federal stocks would be deducted from the state's monthly allocation.

FEO Deputy Chief John Sawhill was interviewed on the CBS report as he was getting off a plane in Washington.

When asked whether Connecticut gas obtained out of federal stocks would be deducted from the monthly allocation he said it would.

"We think Sawhill was caught unprepared and he made the remark not realizing he was wrong," a state energy spokesman said.

He said Beck called Weber who said, "We don't want to discourage the importation of gasoline at a time when it is really needed."

Town Stations to Stay Open

By JUNE TOMPKINS Manchester residents who may have been concerned that local service stations would join in a statewide shutdown Saturday, Sunday and Monday can be assured this will not happen.

Peter Listro, president of the Manchester affiliate of the Automobile Service Council of America, said today a statewide shutdown of gasoline stations was averted at a meeting last night of gasoline dealers from every area of the state who gathered in Hamden to discuss and vote on the situation.

Although Listro did not attend the meeting, he talked with officials in Bridgeport who were at the meeting.

However, Listro said service stations in Milford and Greenwich have closed and are servicing only emergency situations.

If the town were to close all gas stations, it would serve no purpose, as Listro sees it. It would only create utter chaos and result in nationalization of gas stations, he said.

"It's virtually impossible to find any one plan that will work," he said.

The proper clarification of the federal ruling on the energy crisis is lengthy and complicated, said Listro.

"There are too many variables for any one plan to work," he said. He said the Oregon plan seems to be working fine in Bridgeport, but the towns of West Haven and Stamford are "getting clobbered." He said the car owners who cannot get gasoline in Bridgeport on their off day go outside the city.

Listro thinks any gasoline rationing would only be successful on a national level. "A dealer could have his attendants pump all his gas at one time until it's used up and then let his attendants off, and lower his overhead," he said. "Also, there's a financial burden on the dealers when there's no time to give the customers the extra services they would like." Listro figures the dealers' profit margin is "at a loss now."

Mayor John Thompson said there is no plan to ration gasoline in town. He said, "We'd have to be either on a state or national program to observe gas rationing."

At a recent state conference of mayors, a committee was appointed to review all the possible plans in meeting the present gasoline crisis, Thompson said. At the annual meeting of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors Tuesday, there will be a report from the committee, Thompson said.

"I should hope there would be no shut down on gas stations," he said.

Mitchell Jurors Being Selected Away From Public

NEW YORK (UPI)—Selecting of qualified juror prospects proceeded entirely in private today in the Mitchell-Stans cabinet scandal trial, with a federal judge feeding the questions only in the presence of the lawyers, defendants, and stenographers.

Quered as to the propriety of picking a panel outside the public exposure of a courtroom, a member of the defense legal staff said the American Bar Association had recommended such procedure in cases of unusual publicity portent.

The idea is to keep the content of the questions out of the papers and off the air so that prospective jurors cannot figure how to answer so as to dodge duty. With prospects being examined individually in the private quarters of Judge Lee P. Gagliardi after a trial delay of months of parrying and stalling and a jury-picking drag of a day and a half because of legal logistics, the judge said Wednesday.

"It is a slow process, but we are making progress."

That was at the close of court at 5:07 p.m. The individual questioning had begun at 2:07 p.m. in the judicial "robing room," here between sessions and dons his black robe before taking the bench. Judge Gagliardi told an assembled 84 veniremen: "We are going to take you individually in the robing room to go into more detail as to your eligibili-

New Tape Delivered In Hearst Abduction

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI)—Another tape from the Symbionese Liberation Army has been delivered to the parents of kidnaped Patricia Hearst, reporters were told today at the Hearst Hillsborough home.

Reporters outside the Hearst mansion were told of the new tape by a television newsman, John Lester, who has been acting as go-between between the family and newsmen.

Lester said the tape, which did not contain the voice of the 20-year-old kidnaped girl, was received Wednesday night by the Rev. Cecil Williams, who also received an earlier tape.

Lester said Williams telephoned Miss Hearst's father, newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst, and played the tape to him. Lester said it contained a demand for $4 million. He said the tape appeared to be from "Cinque," whose voice was on the earlier tape recording with Miss

Hearst and who identified himself as the "general field marshal" of the Symbionese

Editor Kidnaped

ATLANTA (UPI)—Wednesday with a man who claimed he wanted to discuss a news story.

At 9:15 p.m., Jim Minter, managing editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Georgia's largest morning newspaper, apparently was kidnaped Wednesday night by a group calling itself the "American Revolutionary or Liberation Army."

A man who identified himself as a "colonel" in that army told a Constitution official that the newspaper would hear further from the group.

"We have to assume that Reg has been kidnaped," said Constitution executive editor Bill Fields this morning.

Murphy, 40-year-old father of two teen-age daughters, left his home around 7:30 p.m. EDT

Wednesday with a man who claimed he wanted to discuss a news story. At 9:15 p.m., Jim Minter, managing editor of the Atlanta Constitution, got a telephone call from a man who said Murphy had been kidnaped.

He said the Constitution would hear further from him by another means, "meaning, I assume, that it would be other means than a telephone." Fields said.

At 9:20 p.m., WAGA-TV received a call from a "colonel," who claimed, "We got Reg Murphy." He said he was from the American Revolutionary Army or the American Liberation Army, the

No New Prospects For Sale of Iona

By SOL R. COHEN Town Manager Robert Weiss said today he knows of no new developments in efforts to find a buyer for the Iona Mfg. Co. facility and operation.

He reiterated his remark of a week ago when he said, "Chances for finding a buyer, transferring ownership and continuing operations is very slim."

Iona, which has been in Manchester since 1957, is a subsidiary of General Signal Corp. of New York. Officials of the corporation announced Feb. 11 it is phasing out its Manchester operation and moving all equipment to its Canadian plant. It blamed financial problems and the loss of United States markets for its decision.

Weiss, who said last week five firms were interested in acquiring the Iona plant, said today he submitted the five names to General Signal and that it is handling all negotiations. He said his pessimism over successful negotiations is because of the time element. He explained General Signal officials said they are anxious to start moving Iona's equipment to Canada as soon as possible—maybe in March. The Iona products manufactured there, Weiss said, account for about 30 per cent of Canadian purchases of small appliances — of all brands.

William Sleith, who founded Iona and who remained one of its officials when it was sold in 1969 to General Signal, said today phasing-out operations will be over a longer period than originally announced.

He said plans are for moving all of the equipment to the Canadian plant (in Welland, a

The Great Deer Debate

SOL R. COHEN

It was no great thing. True, the Connecticut House of Representatives spent a fun-filled hour debating a less than earth-shattering proposal—without coming to any conclusion. But then, the legislators were marking time anyway—waiting for 4:30 p.m., when the traditional annual party by the Speaker of the House was to commence.

Nobody was hurt—unless one considers the hundreds of school children from all parts of the state. They started it all when they voted in their schools for designating a state animal—something the state hasn't had.

Their overwhelming choice was the white-tailed deer and that was the recommendation of the legislature's committee on government administration and policy. That also was how the bill read when debate began on it. But, to everyone's surprise, even those who opposed it, that wasn't the way it wound up.

First, those same opponents (obviously with tongue in cheek) offered an amendment—to substitute the words "sperm whale" for "white-tailed deer."

When the debate was over and the roll-call vote taken, lo and behold, the amendment carried, 68 to 67, and the bill now proposed that the sperm whale be designated the state animal.

Then came the roll-call vote on the amended bill. Obviously, someone abstained from voting, for the count was 67 to 67. The bill lost. Voila. No state animal—until at least the 1975 session, anyhow.

It is very likely that the state's school children will participate in a referendum before then—to determine what the statewide choice is.

During the debate on the bill, an opponent of designating the deer remarked, "Can't you just hear a hunter crying out, 'Oh, My God—I've shot the state animal!' It's like stomping on the state flag."

Replied an opponent of designating the whale, "How many of us have ever seen a whale wallowing around the state?"

Former House Speaker William Ratchford, with a Solomon-like approach, suggested, "Perhaps we can follow the Oregon Plan—the deer on odd-numbered days and the whale on even-numbered."

Golda Meir Seeks to Form Cabinet

By Robert Slater JERUSALEM (UPI)—Prime Minister Golda Meir set out today to pick cabinet members in Israel's first minority government, calling on a balking Defense Minister Moshe Dayan to join the shaky coalition.

Dayan said Mrs. Meir lacked the necessary parliamentary strength to set up a coalition "with a political direction." He called instead for new elections and vowed to boycott a minority government.

Mrs. Meir announced plans Wednesday night for the minority coalition just 45 minutes short of the expiration of a six-week deadline following Israel's Dec. 31 national elections.

Political sources said the new coalition, although three votes short of a majority in the Knesset (parliament), appeared strong enough to negotiate a Middle East peace settlement with the support of fringe parties.

The coalition, made up of Mrs. Meir's Labor group, affiliated Arab legislators and the Independent Liberal party, will have 58 votes in the 120-seat Knesset. The rightist Likud, the largest opposition bloc, has 39 seats.

Mrs. Meir made her announcement after meeting with President Ephraim Katzir at his Jerusalem residence. As head of a caretaker government since the elections, she had until Wednesday to form a new government.

Katzir gave Mrs. Meir another week, however, to choose members of her cabinet and present the new government to parliament for formal approval.

The National Religious party, a member of the old government, refused at the last moment to join the new coalition because of a squabble with Labor party leaders over plans for a constitutional amendment defining a Jew.

Labor party sources said the new government, the first minority coalition to rule Israel since independence in 1948, was unlikely to complete its four-year term.

Mrs. Meir said she intended to ask Dayan to reconsider his threat to give up his cabinet post "under present conditions of dissension" in the coalition government.

Dayan, who had called on Labor leaders to form a broad coalition with the hawkish Likud bloc, said Wednesday he would refuse a cabinet post in a minority government and campaign for new elections.

Troops Pull Out

The last of the Israeli troops who stormed across the Suez Canal in the 1973 Middle East War rolled back across the waterway in tanks and trucks today to wind up a 129-day occupation of the canal's west bank.

United Nations peace-keeping forces were scheduled to move in at noon and take control of the abandoned zone, the final one-third of a 560-square-mile bulge along the waterway's West Bank captured from Egypt.

Egyptian forces were to return to the area six hours later, taking over a rock and earth causeway built by Israel across the canal following last October's 17-day war. Israel previously took down four portable pontoon bridges.

A veteran Israeli paratrooper who led forces in smashing through Egyptian lines across the canal on Oct. 15 was to be the final soldier to cross back into the Sinai Desert.

Although no Israeli combat troops will remain on the West Bank, Israel's liaison officers with the U.N. peace team will man a field headquarters near Egypt's Fayid air base to help supervise future pullbacks.

The Israelis have until March 5 to pull back into the Sinai Desert to a new defense line 13 miles east of the canal under terms of the 40-day disengagement agreement with Egypt. In return, the Egyptians were to cut back their forces along the canal's east bank and pull all surface-to-air missiles out of the Sinai.

The defense minister said, meanwhile, the pullbacks on the Suez front had resulted in demobilization of half the Israeli reserve forces called up for the last war. He said an additional 25 per cent would be released within two months if the troop separation pact worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is completed successfully.

Arab press reports said Kissinger would start his fourth Middle East peace mission since the war on Monday with a stopover in Algiers for talks with President Houari Boumediene. Kissinger was expected to go on to Syria, Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia in an attempt to get Jerusalem and Damascus to start troop disengagement talks for the tense Golan Heights front.

Pres. Ephraim Katzir (R) offers a word of encouragement to Prime Minister Golda Meir after granting her a week to form a minority government for the first time in Israel's history. Mrs. Meir's decision followed the National Religious Party's refusal to rejoin her coalition government. (UPI Photo)

Larry Linville plays Maj. Frank Burns in "M. A. S. H."

Common Characteristic

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPD) — Larry Linville is every bit as square as Maj. Frank Burns, the humorless fathead he portrays in the "M-A-S-H" television series, but that is the only common characteristic the two share.

Major Burns, although married to a girl back in the states, has a passionate crush on Hotlips Hoolihan in the series.

Linville, on the other hand, is a devoted husband to his wife of 12 years, actress Kate Geer. She is the daughter of actor Will Geer, the garrulous grandfather in "The Waltons" series.

Until "M-A-S-H" came along, Linville's prospects weren't too bright. Their house is one of many in a middle class development in the San Fernando valley. There are no real luxuries nor can he afford servants.

Porch is Focal Point
Larry mows the lawn himself and helps with the housework. Not infrequently the Linvilles go to the supermarket together, talking along their daughter, Kelly.

Their home is decorated with good hardwood furniture, solid and comfortable although not too fancy. Indoor plants abound.

A large, covered porch is the focal point of Larry's off-hour activities. It is occupied by a full-sized glider in the process of being built — and glider. He couldn't afford to buy one, so he is now nearing completion of his dream.

One of Larry's friends is Bill Conrad, the star of "Canon," who is also a glider buff. They enjoy getting together and comparing notes on the thermal in various parts of the country.

Larry has converted one of the three bedrooms of his home to an office-workshop.

Bits of glider parts can be found on chairs and a desk. But the principal reason for the office is a typewriter where Larry spends a good deal of time writing scripts.

He has sold a movie screenplay to Disney titled "Grandpa's Fantastic Flying Ragwing Machine." It's about an antique airplane and an old man who keeps it in his barn. The old man part will be played by Will Geer.

There's also a role in the film for Larry.

From time to time Larry, Kate and Kelly troop over to Geer's house for family dinners — usually attended by 20 or more relatives, in-laws and old friends. Often that is the extent of the Linvilles' social activities.

Burns Is a Jerk
They do have a small ritual on Saturdays. Kate parks Kelly at the home of a neighbor — who has a houseful of children — and the Linvilles go to an afternoon movie. Thereafter they have a candlelight dinner at a good restaurant. Then they go home to watch "M-A-S-H."

Both are fascinated by the CBS series and delighted with its popularity.

But Larry does have reservations about the character he plays: "Frank Burns is a jerk. I couldn't stand being in the same room with him. He's pathetic

Library Growth Calendar Theme

A 1974 calendar, combined with some statistics from the 1973 annual report, has been prepared by Manchester's public library system. A limited number of copies are available at the main desks of the Mary Cheney and Whiton Memorial Libraries.

The calendar's theme is growth, with drawings for each month to illustrate it by Lynn Beaulieu of the Mary Cheney staff.

Growth of the system's services last year is borne out by these figures: Circulation of materials, 362,497, up 4,110 from 1972; book collection, 144,215, up 8,848; and book budget, $31,866, up $9,830.

One report page of the calendar has this information on materials other than books available: 22,104 pictures; 14,517 pamphlets; 3,748 phonograph records; 1,307 microfilms; 107 framed art prints; 133 ea; and 16 mm films that may be obtained through membership in the Film Co-op of Connecticut, Inc.

Two registration statistics showed losses in 1973: Total items to 1,194 adults and 92 children; and Whiton Memorial Library circulated 47 items. Borrowers were from 24 out-of-town libraries.

Under the reciprocal service last month, Jackson said, Mary Cheney Library circulated 1,286 items to 1,194 adults and 92 children; and Whiton Memorial Library circulated 47 items. Borrowers were from 24 out-of-town libraries.

Extortion vs. Charity

Most newspapers which we read — and they are a fair cross section — have refrained, thus far, in commenting editorially on the extreme emotional agony which has been inflicted on the family of Randolph Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

The story, well-publicized by now, is that their daughter, Patricia, was kidnapped from her Berkeley apartment by a group calling itself the Symbiense Liberation Army. This group is reportedly a Maoist revolutionary organization which has already claimed credit for the killing of Oakland educator Marcus Foster, a black.

such a gift being accepted by members of the groups named to be the beneficiaries.

This has been recognized by Rev. Edward L. Peet, president of the California Council of Older Americans. Mr. Peet said, "we will go hungry before we will accept food under the threat of violence."

Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers of America, sent a telegram to the Hearst family disavowing any knowledge of the plan since the UFA was one of the groups to receive food.

Hearst has made a counter offer to the kidnapers, to distribute $2 million worth of food for the poor and the needy. The original demand was $400 million.

The demand is a parallel to one made to the Ford Motor Company last year by Argentine terrorists as the price of desisting from kidnaping Ford executives in that country.

Ford met the demand and donated more than a million dollars in ambulances, medical and hospital supplies for the poor.

It is not our purpose here to discuss the action of the kidnapers and the steps which should be taken in this and other similar happenings should they occur.

The kidnaping of Miss Hearst is, at the present, the problem of the Hearst family, Berkeley and San Francisco police, and state and federal authorities.

THE moral question is: can one accept, no matter how poor, food that is given as the result of kidnaping, beatings and extortion?

We think the answer to that is in the negative, even though it is acknowledged that there are some people, who, without qualm, would grasp a red-hot anvil if it were given to them for nothing.

The situation is analogous to the acceptance of stolen goods, knowing that they were stolen. It is not only morally wrong, but it is also criminal.

Thus, no matter how charitable the Symbiense Army would be with other people's money, obtained by kidnaping, unlawful detention and threat of murder, a sense of morality will deter many from accepting such charity.

In our opinion, such acceptance would amount to complicity in a crime.

If a very large proportion of those designated beneficiaries of the terrorists "charity" accept, it will be a very dark day in the history of a nation founded on law and order with the opportunity for every man to rise through honest effort.

Rationing Debate Needed

Our junior Sen. Lowell Weicker has introduced a bill calling for rationing of gasoline. He is sincerely concerned that unless rationing is instituted there will be increasing chaos at the gas pumps here and elsewhere.

His plan is somewhat sketchy, however, and raises some serious questions.

We cannot help but feel that if motorists are unhappy now because of the long lines, his "sticker" plan to take away one day's driving a week from each of us is even an unappealing solution.

in giving up a day of driving, will feel they should be rewarded with unrestricted driving on the permissible days.

As we have stated before, the ultimate answer is incentive for conservation of existing supplies and incentive to increase the supply so that demand and supply are restored to a balance.

Sen. Weicker's proposal deserves, and we hope it will get, a full airing in the Senate. We think it is time that rationing, whatever plan is proposed, be debated fully so that the American people will be fully aware of all its ramifications, good and bad, before they are imposed on us.

Assuming Sunday is a day we are all but giving up now, is Saturday going to be the logical day for most Monday-Friday workers to surrender?

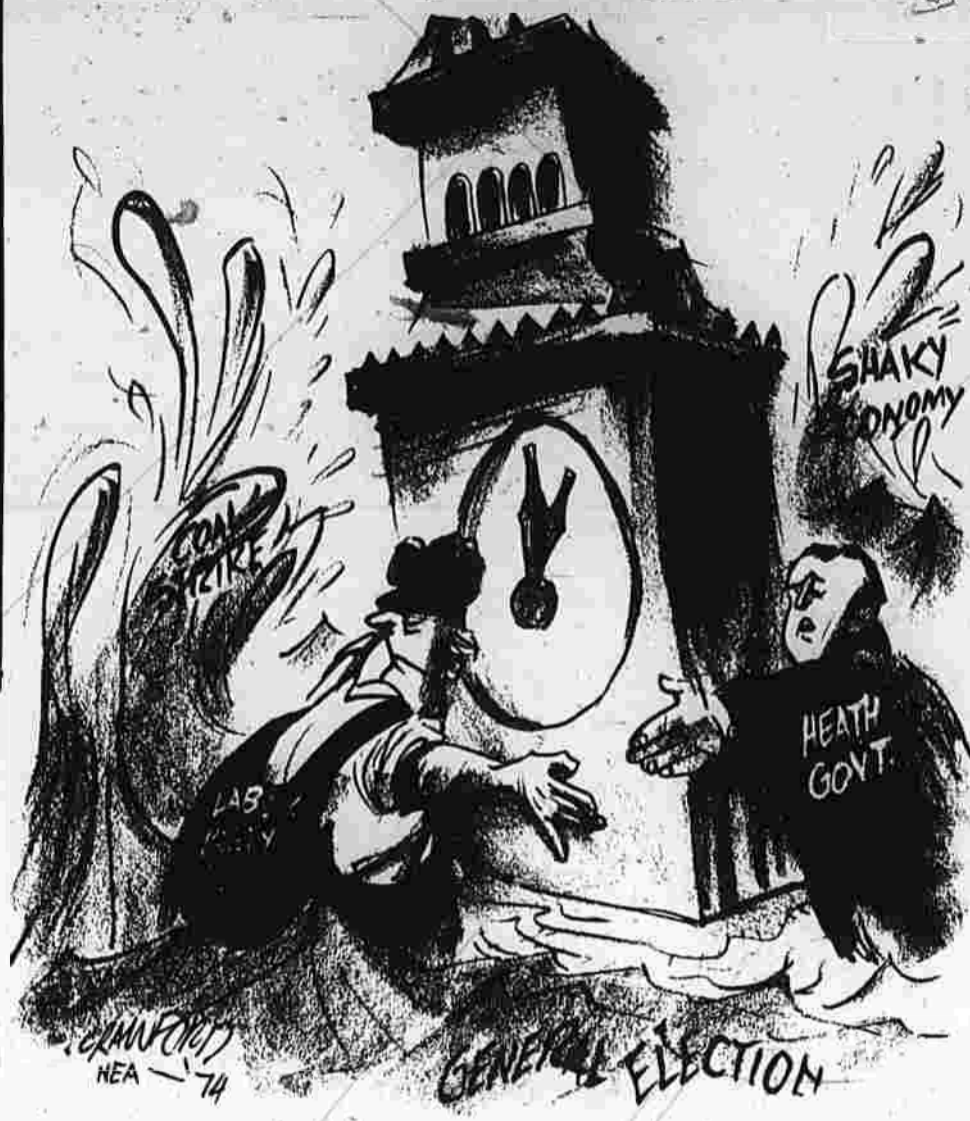

Are we really solving the demand on gas by limiting the days we drive or isn't the real issue to be resolved the number of miles traveled? The list could go on.

The fear we have is that motorists,

Sen. Weicker is performing a useful service to this state and the nation by bringing the rationing issue to a head.

As it now stands, without full detailed discussion of how a rationing system would be implemented, administered and enforced, we could panic into accepting a cure worse than the disease.

Solzhenitsyn Outside

NEW YORK — The politburo had to think feverishly about what to do on Solzhenitsyn and came up with the cleverest possible solution: to carry him bodily out of Russia. They got rid of his physical presence, if not of his continuing, brooding shadow.

It was a cunning answer to an impossible question: They didn't dare kill or even imprison him, much as they would have wished to. They couldn't afford to let him be. So they seized him and flew him out.

As long as he was inside he was a rival government, attracting every dissident to himself as a dynamic center, revealing conditions inside Russia as only a Russian inside Russia could do. Outside he can continue to write and talk with his great moral authority, but the dimension of being inside Russia is gone.

Jackson In '76?

WASHINGTON — Scoop Jackson already has friends in every state of the union asking folks what they think about him as Presidential material. Later this year, he'll set up a more formal "exploratory" organization whose function will be to determine the extent of his strength among party functionaries at all levels.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., is telling the truth when he says he hasn't decided whether to run for the White House. He'd be a fool to announce this early and set himself up as a target for all the "unannounced" hopefuls.

Indeed, it's a point for Jackson that press gallery wags are fond of saying a man from Mars could mistake Scoop for a Republican because of his sober mien. Except in the world of the chic and the determinedly trendy, there is to be no comfort in the company of an unconventional Presidential candidate, as McGovern learned when he even lost his own state of South Dakota. Vice President Gerald Ford is more solid, like Jackson, he gives the impression that he's a solid. I don't think many voters distrust McGovern; they just thought Nixon was more businesslike.

So — Jackson in '76? Well, he's got a good shot at it. Except for Teddy Kennedy, a questionable starter, the Democratic Party is not all that rich in Presidential candidates. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., is a nice guy and smart. Jackson people can say the same about their tiger — and can suggest that the man called Scoop is now being referred to as "Mister Energy." It is a calculated recognition from Maine to Hawaii.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Women's Christian Temperance Union has undertaken a campaign to conserve energy by curtailing the production of demon rum.

Officials of the organization point out that substantial amounts of electricity, gas and other fuels are consumed in the distillation process.

If you're not disputing their premise but in all fairness it should be noted that not all the energy used in making booze is wasted.

Tel. 228-9224

Policy adopted by the Board of Education recently includes an effort to have the public attend more of its meetings.

The meetings are open to the public and it is the board's policy to announce in advance the date, time and place of all regular and special meetings, as well as the topics to be discussed.

The board said all township people will be especially encouraged to attend all budget meetings of the board. School personnel are also invited to attend board meetings.

Cheney Homestead Hours Unchanged

The energy crisis will not affect the hours during which the public may visit the Cheney Homestead at 106 Hartford Rd. According to the Manchester Historical Society, owners of the property, they are still 1 to 5 on Thursday and Sunday afternoons.

There is a nominal fee for children 16 years old and younger when accompanied by a parent, society members, and Cheney family members are admitted free.

Special tours will also be arranged on other afternoons or at night for 10 or more adults.

Hasn't Been Road-Tested

The energy crisis has led some people to try many things to conserve fuel. Jacob Mueller of Mar Vista, Calif. has rigged up a windmill, which he says will propel his car once it gets going on a flat surface at a speed of 30 to 35 miles per hour. His theory hasn't been tested yet, since he has a license for the trailer. (UPI photo)

Bolton Shredder Decision Upsets GOP

Donna Holland

Republican Town Committee members at their meeting Tuesday said they were very upset over the decision by the Board of Finance to reject an appropriation of $350 for the purchase of a shredder.

Their discussion included the fact that the town has an ongoing brush removal program.

If purchased, the shredder could be made available for townspeople to rent or for other towns to rent.

By unanimous vote the GOP urged the finance board to schedule a special meeting to reconsider and reverse its decision.

The Board of Finance has scheduled a special meeting for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the town hall.

Committee members also notified the selectmen that they fully endorse the selection of Jim McCurry as part commissioner.

Quirks In The News

What's in a Name?
OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — Two suspects were arrested Wednesday by Thurston County Sheriff's deputies for siphoning gasoline from a vehicle owned by Glen Pettit of Rainier, Wash.

The youths were charged with petty larceny.

The Durable Fly
MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A university professor says a common garbage fly could cultivate man in a nuclear holocaust.

The newspaper The Australian said Peter Parsons, professor of genetics and human variations at La Trobe University, found that the vinegar fly, usually found buzzing around decaying fruit in trash cans, can survive more than 100 times more radiation than man.

"Perhaps a nuclear holocaust would lead to a return to a world of insects and other lower forms of life," Parsons said.

Snake Shock
CLARKSDALE, Miss. (UPI) — A city court fine of $25 was levied Wednesday against a housewife who carried a threepaw pet box constrictor on shopping sprees.

Eileen Shell said she usually brought the snake with her on shopping trips so she could feed it its meal of live mice, bought at a local pet shop.

Mrs. C.A. Downing, another Clarksdale housewife, was standing by the milk counter of a grocery store when Mrs. Shell came in. Mrs. Downing said she asked the other woman if she really carried a snake with her. In response, Mrs. Shell opened her coat and showed her the pet.

"I cried from Saturday until Monday," Mrs. Downing said. Mrs. Shell, fined for disturbing the peace, said no one ever

Andover School Board Expected To Ask Budget Increase

ELLEN LARIVIERE

Fuel costs for the school have risen sharply, but the board hopes to be able to finish the school year without completely depleting the budget in this increase in just about everything, the board will be asking for more money next year.

To mention just a few, the board will be seeking more money in teachers salaries, utilities, heat and maintenance expenses.

A new expense added to the budget will be for physical education. A part-time physical education teacher is under consideration, and although there is already some equipment at the school, more will be needed.

The dry well at the school had to be replaced recently and while all of the bills have been received the board feels the total cost will be about $1,000. Some of the money will come from the existing maintenance fund and the board has the authority to take funds from excesses within other areas of the budget to pay the remainder of the cost.

The board feels it was able to cut the cost of the new well by considering having the work done by the town rather than hiring an outside contractor.

The dry well that had to be replaced was put in during 1948 and no maintenance repairs had been made since its installation. It was reported.

Tolland Elderly Housing Before State Bond Unit

The State Bond Commission is expected to approve, at its meeting on Friday, a Department of Community Affairs grant of $400,000 to the town of Tolland to construct 30 units of rental housing for the elderly.

State Sen. Jesse A. Brainard (R-33rd A.D.) announced Rep. Brainard said he has been informed that a centrally located 12-acre site "appears to be the best location" for the project out of some 10 sites that have been "carefully" considered.

"This project has been developing for more than a year and I am greatly pleased to be informed by Gov. Thompson, Messill that it is now being funded so we can proceed started so construction," Rep. Brainard said.

The project is expected to be completed within two years from the time of the funding go ahead, according to Rep. Brainard.

Brainard said he has been informed by the DCA that Tolland's share of the cost in the form of municipally derived advanced funds will be approximately $42,000 of which $20,000 would be applicable toward site and legal fees. He noted that "such advances, however, are 100 per cent reimbursable up to the total $400,000 of the grant itself."

Explaining the procedure to be followed, Brainard said, "Earmarking of the bond grant will have to be followed by approval of the state public works commissioner of the site, project plans and specifications, estimated development costs and the management or operational plan to finance the project's ongoing administrative and operating costs.

"This will be followed by a contract between the town and the state which, when certified by the DCA commissioner, will authorize the state treasurer to release the grant moneys for the project.

"If the project over-runs the $400,000 grant, the town may pick up the difference, or scale down its plans and solicit new bids."

Hi Neighbor!

I wish I had time to write to you today, but I just bought out a furniture store in Danbury and there's so much stuff coming in that I may have to give up golf this week. Bob and I and a motley crew are bringing in tables, small appliances, mirrors, lamps, pictures, carpet, bedroom sets, cribs, baby and adult mattresses, wringer washers and literally hundreds of things I don't even know about yet, all to be peddled at about half their prices.

So visit us on faith this weekend — you won't be disappointed. Although I don't know how much of the stock will be ready by Thursday night, I promise there'll be lots of it, even if everybody (except me) has to work like tigers. Do tigers really work hard?

The complimentary coffee will be hot, delicious and ready. Don't forget your wallet!

Rhonda Fleming

The Era Of The Redhead Returns

BETTY RYDER
Women's Editor

Hair colorists, wig manufacturers, and hair stylists are proclaiming the return of the redhead. Red has hit our shores in every shade from coy strawberry blonde to varying shades of auburn and henna tints on even the darkest color heads.

But all that is more glamorous than being a lively, bubbly redhead? One movie beauty who is a fine example of the glamour of red is Rhonda Fleming with whom we had the opportunity to chat during a "Day of Beauty" presentation in New York recently.

"I have always been a redhead," Rhonda said, "but I am excited that more and more women are turning to red for their hair coloring."

"Red is the color of all age groups," she noted, "it adds new life to the head and a rosy, youthful glow to the complexion."

Reports from Europe indicate that noted hair designers like Frank Avagradi says dark red lacaj is the hottest color; Alexandre believes red is the "living color"; Jason of Jingles proclaims "henna" in all its varying shades; and Russell Williams is going as far as using tangerine for a fun look.

A native of Los Angeles, the statuesque green-eyed Rhonda attended Los Angeles Public Schools and Beverly Hills High. It was a photo of her on the cover of Inter-scholastic Magazine that led to her being interviewed by, and placed under contract to David O. Selznick who gave her the coveted role of Ingrid Bergman's nymphomaniac patient in "Spellbound."

For that role, she had the unusual achievement of receiving an Academy Award nomination in her first film appearance. Since her debut she has starred in more than 40 motion pictures opposite such male stars as Bing Crosby, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Bob Hope, Robert Mitchum, Charlton Heston and Glen Ford.

She has carved an impressive career in the world of the legitimate theatre having scored strongly in such plays as "Marriage-Go-Round" and "Bell, Book and Candle."

A resident of Beverly Hills, she admits to being an "avid health enthusiast." She swims every day and is expert at tennis and water skiing.

Following a self-imposed leave of absence from her career for several years during which time she pursued her philanthropic activities and love of travel, Rhonda recently decided to resume a full-scale schedule.

"I recently starred on Broadway in 'The Women,'" and have guest starred on television in "Needles & Pins" and "McMillan & Wife," she said. (The latter appearance was aired locally last Sunday)

Recently divorced and anxious to get back into the swing of things, Rhonda gives generously of her time and energies as a volunteer worker for such causes as Cerebral Palsy and the Crippled Children's Society. She is a founding member of the Huntington Hartford Theatre, The Greek Theatre, and The Los Angeles Music Center.

It was the color that marked an era — and, it looks like the color that will mark this era as well.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Blood pressure facts

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you please tell me why doctors are always reluctant, and very often absolutely refuse, to tell a patient what his blood pressure is even though it is normal? A patient pays a fee to find out for his own peace of mind if his pressure has risen or is normal. Is it fair for a doctor not to tell him? I'll be interested to hear your answer.
DEAR READER — Not all doctors avoid telling patients their pressure reading. The main reason most doctors avoid giving you numbers is that it fluctuates normally and most patients have a tendency to think, erroneously, that something is wrong if their pressure is five or 10 points higher on one reading than on a previous examination.

Some patients have a reflex reaction to having their blood pressure reading taken. They become overly anxious about their pressure and everything the blood pressure cuff goes on, whammo, their pressure goes way up. When they are distracted or relaxed, the pressure may be normal. Doctors have learned that one way to avoid having their patients develop such a reaction to the pressure is to avoid them becoming fixated on the numbers. It's not a very satisfactory solution, but it is a common practice with the best of intentions.

Most doctors would not agree that you pay them to find out what your blood pressure is to avoid them thinking of their role as guarding your health. If guarding your health means not

Neighbor's Kitchen
By Vivian F. Ferguson

Shirley Davis and Avis Blomberg have been doing things together for so long that they can't recall how it all started. "I guess we met in Highland Park PTO," said Shirley. "Or was it at the church women's group," said Avis. They both thought for a moment and really didn't know. The two ladies have been putting on luncheons and dinners at South United Methodist Church functions for many years. Avis was assistant manager of The Women's College Club of Boston prior to her marriage so she knew all about quantity cooking. "You should see the old books she has," Shirley told me. "They're so old and dog-eared, they're falling apart — practically held together with rubber bands!"

About 10 years ago, they catered wedding receptions to raise money for the church. They relate the time they had made them a nice big order of large dinner rolls. "We almost went out on the sidewalk and cried," Shirley laughingly recalls. The annual church fair held each October was chaired by this industrious pair for two years. It's a full-time job demanding attention for an entire year. For the last two years, they have arranged and prepared the luncheons for the fair. For five years, they have executed the annual appreciation dinner for the Sunday School teachers.

Avis and Shirley co-chaired the Kitchen Committee for South United Methodist Church for four years, until this year when Shirley became treasurer of the United Methodist Women. Avis remained as co-chairman. Besides their many joint church ventures, the women make ceramics together for which Avis owns a kiln.

The lives of both the Davis and Blomberg families center around their church. The husbands, Alfred Davis and Thure Blomberg are ushers Sunday services. Shirley's daughter Betty, a sophomore at Manchester High School, sings with the youth choir, plays the bells and is one of the rhythm dancers. She is a member of the Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Bible Class. Until she passed the age limit, she was a junior volunteer with The Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Both women have sons attending college. William Davis is at Norwich University, Vermont and Robert Blomberg goes to Gettysburg College, Pa. There is about a week's planning for any large function. They plan the menus and then have to allow time for purchasing the food at favorite spots where they can get the best buys. They make it a practice to plan for 10-15 more persons than the figure given them. "Then, we pray a lot!" On rare occasions when food has been left over, it has been given to the Salvation Army. Desserts are left, it may go to the Drop-in Lounge for Bennet Junior High School students who are open at the church on Mondays and Tuesdays. The molded rainbow salad serves 20, the chicken a la king 16. The salad is a delight to behold, colorful in three layers. You will find the angel pie similar to Mrs. Ellington's cherry merguez of last week. You may like to try this variation.

When A Man Takes Over The House

By Gaynor Maddox
Today there are bound to be more and more dislocations of the American home scene caused directly or indirectly by the fuel crisis. Among the most drastic is the loss of jobs. In today's pattern of living, with a high percentage of married women job holders, this poses a special problem. We are interested in the maintenance of the food supply despite the job situation. In many homes, crisis unemployment will require a turnabout in assigned family work. Let's look at one case: husband, 49, airline captain; wife, 38, school teacher; son, 16, daughter, 18, wife's mother. In a massive layoff, the husband's job as captain is gone. So consequently is the mother-in-law's job as stand-in for her daughter. She lives next door but arrives at her daughter's apartment every day at 3 p.m. grocery, the homecoming children, buying groceries and preparing the evening meal. She does the paid regular commercial rates for this service. So only the wife's check remains to support the entire family. (The mother-in-law immediately accepted an offer similar to what she was doing at the same rate.) Therefore, it became the duty of the pilot-father-husband to take over and run the household. It would not be enough for him to cook eggs all the time or to serve luncheon meats every time someone shouted "chow." He faces many problems. Should he try to duplicate some of his mother-in-law's most popular dinners or resort to TV dinners? The price of meat cuts will startle him. But if he wants his family to get meat he needs to learn cuts that give the most for the money. He will find "specials" provide good meat at a lower (temporarily) price. If he doesn't know how to cook these specials, he can turn to a good recipe for instruction. Also, he can estimate how much meat he'll leave over and plan in advance how to use it later.

Blaming Others: Natural Tendency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What blaming others does to you — did you ever wonder? That tendency to blame others seems to be natural. It is done mostly in one's closest relationships, such as in the family. In such situations, says psychiatrist Gary Singleton, "people's lives are more intensely and intimately involved with each other." The more intensely focused you are on others the more you are likely to have the tendency to blame others. "What can be done about it? A starting point," says Dr. Singleton, "would be to start developing ideas about where you draw the lines of responsibility. What are you responsible for? What are you not responsible for?" "When you are more responsible for yourself, you don't blame others," says Dr. Singleton.

Share of HCC Crown Hope for East Catholic

By Len Auster

Concluding its regular season action tonight is the East Catholic basketball team in Middletown against HCC rival Xavier High.

A victory for the Eagles would give them at least a share of the league crown. Coach Stan Ogradnik's quartet is 7-2 in the HCC, the same mark which South Catholic possesses. Overall, East is 15-4 and will appear in post-season play for the 11th consecutive year.

The Artie Kohn-coached Falcons have an aggregate 8-10 ledger, but they played Northwest Catholic three times so one setback doesn't apply to CIAC Tournament consideration. A win tonight would place Xavier in the Class A bracket.

The Jim Penders-coached East Jayvee team also has its finale tonight. Led by Cephus and Mike Nolan, the young Eagles ripped off 18 straight victories before being upset Tuesday by St. Paul, 51-43. The pair along with junior Mike Hickey has also seen varsity action.

Central Valley Conference champion South Windsor (16-3 overall) completes its schedule tonight at home against HCC-member Northwest Catholic. Northwest, defending Class B champion, qualified for tournament action Tuesday with an upset 62-60 win over South Catholic. The homesteading Bobcats are in the Class A Division title chase.

Winding up dismal seasons tonight are Charter Oak Conference members RHAM and Coventry High with non-conference opponents. The 6-14 Sachemans travel to Middletown High while the 5-14 Coventry Patriots' finale is at home against Storrs-based E.O. Smith.

Also in competition tonight is Ellington High, taking part in an North Central Connecticut Conference playoff. The NCCC crown went to East Windsor. The action tonight and Saturday is just preparation for tournament play. The three other teams performing are East Windsor, East Granby and Suffield.

Top Spot Agrees With NC State 5

NEW YORK (UPI) — Being No. 1 in the nation apparently agrees with David Thompson and the North Carolina State Wolfpack.

The Pack, playing its first game since taking over the No. 1 slot from UCLA this week, crushed Duke 113-87 Wednesday night behind an awesome 40-point performance by Thompson.

Thompson, a 6-foot-4 junior, hit 19 points in the first half and exploded for 21 more in the second as N.C. State boosted its record to 21-1. Tom Barleson, the 7-4 center, added 17 points.

Duke Coach Neil McGeachy was awestruck afterward. "Stat's the best team we've played and David Thompson may be the best player in the nation," said McGeachy, whose club has also lost to second-ranked Notre Dame.

"David was particularly quick and sharp and seemed to be motivated," said Wolfpack Coach Norman Sloan. "We're playing better all the time and the No. 1 ranking may have motivated us."

Thompson hit 16 of his 24 shots, was 8-for-10 from the foul line and pulled down 14 rebounds.

In other games involving ranked clubs, North Carolina (4) ripped Miami of Ohio 83-69. Maryland (6) bombed Duquesne 98-72, Pittsburgh (8) downed Temple 56-49 and South Carolina (16) overpowered Virginia Tech 82-71.

Bobby Jones had a career-high 29 points to lead North Carolina past Miami, the Tar Heels' 19th win in 22 games, and Len Elmore had 28 points and 17 rebounds and John Lucas hit 27 points as Maryland beat Duquesne.

Billy Knight and Lew Hill scored 12 points each as Pitt overcame slowdown tactics to beat Temple and run its winning streak to 22 games while Brian Winters hit 20 of his 21 points in the first half to lead South Carolina past Virginia Tech and into solid contention for an NCAA at-large bid.

Elsewhere, Lloyd Batts had 21 points as Cincinnati, also looking for a post-season berth, downed Xavier 68-56 and Syracuse raced past Niagara 88-60 to run its record to 17-6.

NBA's Pistons Dominate Western Division Clubs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The entire Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association is no match for the Detroit Pistons.

The Pistons, with burly Bob Lanier scoring 16 of his 29 points in the final quarter, beat the Los Angeles Lakers 115-110 Wednesday night to run their season record against Pacific Division foes to a gaudy 21-2. It was Detroit's 20th straight triumph over a Pacific Division team and topped the Pistons' mark against the Lakers this season to 4-1 as Los Angeles lost its seventh straight road game and suffered its seventh loss in the last eight contests. Detroit, which reduced its magic number for making the playoffs for the first time in six years to 11, trailed 81-80 going into the final quarter before the 6-foot-11, 250-pound Lanier took charge, hitting on six of his next eight shots. Willie Norwood added 21 points and John Mengert hit 17 to help the Pistons. Jim Price, playing for the injured Jerry West, earned 31 points for the Lakers, who lost a chance to gain on Pacific Division-leading Golden State, which bowed to Kansas City-Omaha 116-97. Referees Don Murphy and Paul Mihalik called 78 personal fouls plus one technical as five players fouled out of the bruising Pistons-Laker contest. However, the 76 infractions fell far short of the NBA regulation one game record of 97 called in 1953 in a game between New York and Syracuse.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Capital beat Portland 116-101, Houston whipped Philadelphia 115-96 and Milwaukee topped Atlanta 110-94.

Kings 116 Warriors 97
Jimmy Walker and Don Kojis combined for 52 points to power Kansas City-Omaha past Golden State. Walker had 27 and Kojis

25 and Sam Lacy scored 20 and grabbed 19 rebounds. Despite the loss, the Warriors retained their two-game lead over the Lakers in the battle for the Pacific Division title. Cazzie Russell led Golden State with 27 points while veteran warrior Jeff Mullins, who finished with 22, became the 34th player in NBA history to pass the 12,000-point career scoring mark.

Bullets 116 Blazers 101
Kevin Porter scored a career-high 29 points while Mike Riordan and Elvin Hayes accounted for 27 apiece for Capital in its triumph over Portland. The Bullets built a 100-74 lead early in the fourth quarter in streaking to their fifth straight win and ninth in their last 12 games.

Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie both scored 26 points for the visiting Trail Blazers, who dropped their fifth game in a row. Rockets 115 76ers 98

Rudy Tomjanovich scored 12 points to lead a third quarter Houston runaway in the Rockets' win over Philadelphia. Houston led by only four at halftime but outscored the 76ers 30-17 in the third period. Tomjanovich finished with 21 points while Mike Newlin had 18 and Calvin Murphy 16 for the Rockets. Tom Van Arsdale led Philadelphia with 20.

Coaching Advice Heeded by Rockets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Denver Rockets made it seem all so simple.

Thanks to a couple of guys named Smith and Jones and doing what coach Alex Hanum referred to as "paying attention," the Rockets ended their four game losing streak Wednesday night by beating the Kentucky Colonels 124-117.

Steve Jones, fed by backcourt mate Al Smith, hit six straight field goals midway through the second half to carry Denver past the Colonels. Jones wound up with 24 points, the same as Smith, who also had 21 assists, while center Dave Robisch turned in big effort against Kentucky. All-Star Artis Gilmore with 20 points and 12 rebounds.

Dan Issel paced the Colonels with 31 points, hitting 10 straight baskets at one stretch, but took only three shots in the final quarter.

"Our boys says to play Isel by denying him the ball," said Hanum, "and it seemed our people finally began paying attention to the book."

In other American Basketball Association games, New York beat Memphis 117-104, San Diego stopped Utah 109-97 and Carolina beat Virginia 128-121.

Nets 117 Tams 104
Billy Pauliz scored 16 of his game-high 24 points in the first half to lead New York over Memphis. The victory was the ninth straight for New York over Memphis and increased the Nets' East Division lead to three games over second place Kentucky. Julius Erving finished with 20 points for the Nets while Randy Denton and Wil Robinson led Memphis with 14 points apiece.

Q's 109 Stars 97
Veteran forward Steve Johnson scored 30 points to pace San Diego over Utah, snapping the Stars' 14-game winning streak. The Stars fell two games short of the ABA record 16-game winning streak set by the old Oakland Oaks in 1968-69.

Caldwell Jones added 20 for the Q's while Travis Grant had 13. Ron Boone and Jimmy Jones paced Utah with 22 apiece.

Alma Mater Return For West Possible

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Jerry West head basketball coach at West Virginia University?

Remote as it might have sounded a year or so ago, the prospect was advanced by two state legislators Wednesday in the wake of Sonny Moran's announced departure as coach of the Mountaineers.

Moran's disclosure also comes at a time when West, a former All America at West Virginia, appears at the end of the line of his distinguished career with the Los Angeles Lakers after a series of painful injuries this season.

West would be asked to consider the WVU post in a resolution drafted by Sam Morasco and Thomas Goode, who labeled the Cabin Creek native "Superman of Courts."

Sent to the House Rules Committee, the resolution said West "not only brought fame, honor and riches upon himself, but has brought prestige and acclaim to the state of West Virginia by his performance, ideals and sportsmanship."

Swim Championship

Coming up Saturday afternoon at Fenney High in East Hartford is the CCIL Swimming Championship Meet. From Manchester High will be either eight or nine nators who've posted qualifying times from dual meet competition.

Individual Talent

Manchester does possess individual swimming talent. Senior Tri-Captain Jay Murphy is unbeaten in his specialty, the 100-yard breaststroke, and must be designated the favorite in the CCIL's. Murphy broke the five-year old school mark in the first meet of the season, and has since lowered the standard four times during the season.

After the Record

What the Manchester High nators will be after Saturday is the record in the 200-yard medley relay and 100-yard butterfly, but tough sledding awaits him Saturday. Bristol Eastern's John Manning has victories over Nantux under his belt while Hall High's Brian Hogan also is a definite threat.

Love a Winner

There is nothing like a winner to bring out the people. A winning football season at UConn surfaced a number of alumni from the woodwork. What it has also brought Coach Larry Naviaux is a number of outstanding in-state high schoolers.

Already announcing their plans of matriculating at UConn are Keith Simmons and David Bird, two outstanding players from Simsbury High. Bird set all kinds of records in Trojan-land while Simmons starred defensively as well as offensively.

Old Manager Reappears As Finley Names Alvin Dark Skipper of A's

OAKLAND (UPI) - It's been an agonizing 2 1/2 years for Alvin Dark, a time to sit back and reflect and hopefully collect himself.

Dark, a religious man, divorced his first wife four years ago, and then remarried. He had other personal problems as well but held up working on the front of a five-year contract as manager and general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Alvin Dark, who managed the World Champion A's previously, when they were in Kansas City, takes another shot at the job as Charles O. Finley named him the new Oakland manager replacing Dick Williams.

Alvin Dark, who managed the World Champion A's previously, when they were in Kansas City, takes another shot at the job as Charles O. Finley named him the new Oakland manager replacing Dick Williams.

Dark, who has known both the joys and agonies of big league baseball in a career that spans nearly 30 years, was finding it hard to pick the right words, standing up there in the glare of television cameras and countless microphones.

Returns to Old Post

Finley was asked if he would meddle into Dark's work and be bribed again. "For a team to be successful," said the A's owner, "the manager and the general manager have to work together. Since I'm the general manager of this club as well as the owner, I expect to be talking quite often with my manager. And I would hope he would call me when he feels the need. That's only normal, isn't it?"

Horton Killed

ST. CATERINES, Ont. (UPI) - Veteran hockey defenseman Tim Horton of the Buffalo Sabres was killed early today in a one-car crash on route from Toronto to Buffalo.

Horton, 44, was alone in a 1974 Porsche when it left the Queen Elizabeth Way and overturned several times, throwing him from the vehicle. Provincial police said the accident occurred about 4:30 a.m., EST.

Gas Sign Two

CHICAGO (UPI) - The Chicago Cubs announced Wednesday they have acquired defenseman Jim Watson and pitcher Dan Gortons plus two "future considerations" from the Los Angeles Sharks in exchange for wigmans Bobby Whitlock, The World Hockey Association club said it expected both players would be available for Thursday night's game against Vancouver in Chicago.

Kathy's Contract

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Kathy Ryckendall, the youngest tennis player ever to turn professional, Wednesday signed a four-year play to begin with the Philadelphia Freedoms of World Team Tennis (WTT). The 17-year-old Miss Ryckendall was obtained in a trade with Los Angeles for the rights to Australian's Diane Fromholtz.

Mets Sign Milner

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) - The New York Mets Wednesday signed first baseman-outfielder John Milner, who led the club in homers last season. But the Mets failed to reach an agreement with Tom Seaver, who supposedly wants a $180,000 pact.

Kraft Picked

KINGSTON, R. I. (UPI) - Jack Kraft, head basketball coach at the University of Rhode Island, has been named to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Eastern Division selection committee. The panel will select teams which will compete in the upcoming NCAA post-season tournaments.

Leafs Beat Sabres To Extend Margin

They pulled their goaltender in the final two minutes in a desperate attempt to catch up but Rick Kehoe got his second goal at 10:09 into an empty net to wrap up the game.

Injury Hampered Start But MCC's Tucker Stars

By Chris Blake The transition from high school to college basketball involves an adjustment and former Manchester High team captain Tom Tucker, despite a foot injury, has taken encouraging steps towards filling this gap with the Manchester Community College cagers.

Tucker faced more than the problem of inexperience common to all college freshmen. He missed the entire six weeks of pre-season practice sessions and the two games due to a foot suffered in the club's second scrimmage.

UConn Gridders Honored

(Left to right) Republican Rep. Daniel L. McKeever of Ellington introduced co-captains Barry Kemp of Reinbeck, N.Y., and Rich Foley of New London and first-year head football coach Larry Naviaux to the Connecticut House of Representatives Wednesday, honoring them for their fine 8-2-1 season last fall. It was the best UConn gridiron season since the 1958 7-3 campaign.

concerned, Tucker admits it is game. "There are some truly exceptional players in the CCAA—it is a good all around league," he commented. "The competition against most teams is tough and very physical."

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - National Football League players are more concerned this year with freedom and elimination of "fines, curfews and silly rules" than they are with economic issues, according to the executive director of the NFL Players Association.

Coventry
Revised Site Plan Sought

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495

The Conservation Commission has voted to request a revised site plan for the 94-lot subdivision that would comprise the third section of Coventry Hills.

The plan that Mark Lavitt, the developer, presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission was not considered adequate because it complied only with the letter of the law and not with the spirit of the law.

Francis Funk, chairman of the Conservation Commission, said she would like "a new site plan that was more in keeping with the goals and patterns we want developed in Coventry. Mrs. Funk also said that the maximum number of homes is planned for the minimum amount of land and added that it is possible that the plan was laid out on paper but may not relate to the contours of the land.

The commission wants the developer to submit a new plan that takes into consideration the topography and drainage patterns of the site on Merrow Rd. and Goose Lane as well as trees, wildlife and other factors around the proposed site.

The commission also objects to the way the developer has handled the open space area. The developer did set aside the amount of land required by law but the parcel of land is located across the street from the subdivision and no provision for open space land has been provided for on the actual site.

Boat Launch Area
The Conservation Commission, members of the Beautification Committee and a representative from the Mansfield Conservation Commission learned that the state Department of Environmental Protection plans to develop a boat launching area at the Eagleville Dam.

DEP representative Richard Hanes told the group that there were no funds presently available for the launching area but that the plans would be drawn up for a 12-15 car area to give car-top boats access to Eagleville Lake.

Only canoes and boats with small electric motors would be allowed on the lake because it is too small for other types of boats.

Mrs. Funk will meet with DEP and other interested groups to plan for the launching area.

In other business, the commission voted to repeat its prior recommendation to the Town Council that a quarter-mile section of Brigham Tavern Rd. proposed to be widened and improved be paved at its present width or left as is.

The commission also discussed expanding its seven-member group to eleven members, which is now permitted under a public act passed in the 1973 legislature.

If the commission decided to expand it would need a revision of the Charter.

Loyzim Says Seminars Not New City Oriented

MONICA SHEA
Steve Loyzim, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, reiterated that the new City Seminars are not new city oriented.

Loyzim, after welcoming those attending the second seminar Wednesday night said, "This seminar has been criticized by some people in Coventry as being new city oriented - as an attempt by the commission to promote the new city concept.

"I want to assure you that this is definitely not the purpose of the seminar and that the Planning and Zoning Commission would not have sponsored it if such was the case.

"The purpose of this series of lectures is to inform, educate and enlighten our residents of the problems, implications, impact, the pros and cons of such ventures. Only a well informed town and its citizens can be reasonably expected to make intelligent decisions.

"I will not permit this seminar to evolve into a preliminary hearing of the proposal for a new city in our community."

Loyzim said that he didn't know the personal feelings of the speaker of the evening but he did know that he was involved in reviewing a new town proposal which was rejected by Loudoun County, Virginia.

Evaluating New Town Explained by Simmons

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495

Evaluation and criteria used in reaching those conclusions were explained Wednesday night to the second New Town Seminar.

The speaker was William Simmons, planner for the Windham Regional Planning Agency, who was assistant director of planning in Loudoun County, Virginia, when LeVitt and Sons, a subsidiary of ITT, submitted an application to build a new community on 1,300 acres.

Simmons said that what attracted new communities to the county was the cheap land, sewer, capacity and central water supply.

In 1969 the county adopted a comprehensive development plan, Simmons said, which indicated that large tract residential development would be permitted in the eastern part of the county.

This area was chosen because of the school system, availability of roads and industrial parks, he said.

"In a pre-application conference, LeVitt said they wanted to come up with the best planned community the developer had seen on the 1,270 acres they owned," Simmons said. The population of the community was estimated at 13,000.

At this time the planning staff listed 10 items it considered wrong with the plan.

The plan was revised and the planning commission recommended to the Board of Supervisors to 1 that it approve the application.

It was at this time that the Loudoun County Landowners Association with its slogan "Keep It Green" started a strong opposition to the LeVitt proposal.

At the same time the new tax bills came out because of revaluation and more needed services for the new residents, taxes went up sharply in some cases as much as five times, Simmons said.

The Board of Supervisors met on Feb. 2, 1970 and voted 4 to 2 to turn down the application because of its economic impact on the county, Simmons said.

LeVitt went to the Circuit Court claiming the county refused to implement its comprehensive development plan. The court upheld the Board of Supervisors saying the rate of development was at its discretion and that county could not observe the economic impact of the proposed new community, Simmons said.

LeVitt appealed but in June 1972 a new zoning ordinance was passed requiring the developer to pay part of the capital improvement costs made necessary by the new community.

LeVitt withdrew his appeal and refilled his application under the new zoning regulations.

In June of 1973 the Planning Commission voted not to recommend the application to the Board of Supervisors, and Simmons said that the board has made no decision on the application.

Manchester police received a report of vandalism at Bob's Mobile on Hartford Rd. Wednesday, in which two vehicles parked in the yard were damaged.

Robert Pederson, 17, James Dawsett, 15, and Saunders, 16, all of 32 Village St., Rockville, were charged Wednesday by Vernon Police with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny.

Police said while at the Village St. house to make the street, they discovered some marijuana plants growing. An additional charge of cultivating was placed against Dawsett.

Pederson was held overnight in lieu of posting a $500 non-surety bond and Dawsett in lieu of a $650 non-surety bond. Saunders did not have a parent to represent him, he was presented in court and his case was continued.

Keith Deszo, 36, and Julius Rivard, 30, both of Springfield, Mass., were charged with third-degree criminal trespass in connection with the investigation of a complaint from a Vernon resident.

Ronald A. Zerk, East Hartford, was charged with criminal trespass when his vehicle was found by police in the yard in the rear of the Brook at Case Mt. Police report the vehicle was 75 feet beyond the posted "No Trespassing" sign.

Three Killed in Hijack Attempt

Robin Hohn: Firefighter Passengers Escape Delta Airliner

State Energy Team To Visit Here March 1. The easy rider bus team of the State Emergency Agency has responded to the request of the Greater Chamber of Commerce and has agreed to hold hours Friday, March 1, in the conference room of the Chamber.

Robin Hohn, 20, of Springfield, Mass., was charged with third-degree criminal trespass in connection with the investigation of a complaint from a Vernon resident.

Police said while at the Village St. house to make the street, they discovered some marijuana plants growing. An additional charge of cultivating was placed against Dawsett.

Pederson was held overnight in lieu of posting a $500 non-surety bond and Dawsett in lieu of a $650 non-surety bond. Saunders did not have a parent to represent him, he was presented in court and his case was continued.

According to Clark, the Chamber has conducted a campaign to acquire the cooperation of the State Emergency Agency in an attempt to provide an opportunity for Manchester gasoline station owners and operators.

Clark stated, "We are most pleased with the cooperation of both Allen and Budlong in their interest and willingness to help our local gasoline service stations."

He added, "It is through this type of cooperation from our state agencies working in cooperation with the FEO that we can be encouraged that maximum effort is being given to seeking solutions to this crisis situation."

Robinson said that part of her decision to join the department was based on the fact that she was aware the department needed additional help.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Federal Energy Office (FEO) is reportedly considering raising retail gasoline prices for Americans and easing its recent ban against service stations giving preferential treatment to their regular customers.

Justice Department lawyers were scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court in Baltimore today to answer Mandel's charges on Simon's behalf.

Simon argued the governors to be patient and to continue the review of the allocation formula to make it "completely fair and to make sure each state gets an equitable share of fuel."

Hospital Wins Expansion Plans

ROCKVILLE - John Trzmiel, 83, of 21 Linden St., died Wednesday night at the Rockville General Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Helen Lemek Snyder.

Mr. Snyder was born in Poland and came to Rockville at the age of 16. He had been employed as a weaver in the local textile mills before his retirement. He was a member of the Kosciuszko Club.

He is also survived by 2 sons, Stanley Snyder and Edward Snyder, both of Rockville; a daughter, Mrs. Milan Komar of Rockville; 10 grandchildren and a great-grandson.

The funeral is Saturday at 9:45 a.m. from the Burke-Center Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., with a Mass at St. Joseph's Church at 10:30. Burial will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

John G. Strimke, 81, of 181 Tolland St., East Hartford, formerly of Manchester, died Wednesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Strimke was born in Manchester and lived here most of his life. He was moving to East Hartford 20 years ago. He was a member of the Lithuanian-American Society of Manchester.

He had been employed as a toolmaker at Noble and Westbrook, Inc., East Hartford, for 39 years before he retired in 1969. He was a popular band leader and saxophone player with the Three Rays Orchestra.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Marion S. Krejovich of East Hartford; three brothers, Frank A. Strimke, Walter P. Strimke and Joseph G. Strimke, all of Manchester; Archie Thomas of Draucut, Mass.

But later the FBI in Washington said the announcement, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. EDT, would not deal with the Hearst case.

Early today reporters found a larger than usual number of FBI agents in the San Francisco headquarters. Phoning out of employees, he said, will be by the middle of April. The first group of employees, about 50, will be laid off Friday.

All employees laid off will get severance pay equal to one week's wages for each year with Iona. In addition, they will get all accumulated vacation pay to the present.

Oil Boycott Gambling Alleged

HARTFORD (UPI) - Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., today said the Nixon administration was gambling that the Arab oil boycott would end in time to head off nationwide gas rationing this spring.

Steele told a meeting of the Smaller Business Association at the Holiday Inn, the gamble is an enormous one for the country.

If the nation has neither gas supplies nor rationing in effect by mid-April, Steele said current gas lines could double.

Simon argued the governors to be patient and to continue the review of the allocation formula to make it "completely fair and to make sure each state gets an equitable share of fuel."

Consumer Prices Increase Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With soaring food and fuel prices providing most of the push, consumer prices surged nearly 1 1/2 per cent in January, even faster than the sharp jump of several previous months, the Labor Department disclosed today.

The first-of-its-kind jump in the Consumer Price Index meant that Americans were paying 9.4 per cent more for goods and services at retail than they were in January, 1973.

The increase was the biggest monthly rise since August when prices surged after lifting of a short-term freeze.
