Today's Thought

The Cost of Saving Souls
We may be sweet singers, eloquent and moving preachers, skillful organizers, masters of men and assemblies, wizards of finance, popular and commanding leaders, but if we are not soul-winners, if we do not make men and women see the meaning and wisdomness of Jesus, and hunger for His righteousness and purity, and bow to Him in full loyalty, then one thing, the chief thing for an Army Officer, we lack. And yet that one thing is within the reach of us all. If we live for it, if we put it first, if we shrink not from the cost, we may be soldiers. Oh, we shall be at all cost, winners of souls!" — Commissioner S. L. Brandy.

After a delicious dinner we went upstairs to conduct our Fun-Day program. We learned that Fritz Wickson was admitted to the local hospital, as was Catherine Malcolm. Cis Wilson, Elizabeth Cone and Robin Carroll are ill at home.

Our speaker Mrs. Morse spoke on the purpose of RECOA. It is to be a referral agency to sift out information to all organizations or agencies working with the older citizens. The region consists of 27 towns.

I reminded the group that tickets are now on sale for the Polynesian Nite Dinner which will be held March 22. The afternoon closed with card playing and dancing.

What's this about being possessed?

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA) — There was a combination press reception and birthday party for Linda Blair, the little girl who stars in "The Exorcist." It gave me a chance to ask William Peter Blatty, who wrote the book and the screenplay, the question which has been troubling me.

"The picture makes such an impact on those who see it that I've been worrying whether it might not spark an epidemic of 'possessions' by impressionable people in the audience."

Bill Blatty admitted the possibility but said he isn't particularly worried about it. "There may be a rash of such things for a while," he says, "as there was when the first book came out. But it will be a transitory thing. Anyone who goes into the theater healthily will come out healthy. Some neurotics may find a focus for their neuroses. That's all."

Elizabeth Montgomery, like any star's parent, worries about her kids (she has three) being spoiled because of who their mother or father is. But she thinks she has an edge in handling the situation.

"Being a second generation help," she says. Her father was, of course, the great star Robert Montgomery. "I know how to keep the kids from being let to get to them. When Willie, who's nine, asked if he could see a movie on his birthday, he said any movie would be all right — as long as it wasn't one of my films."

LOSE 10-20 POUNDS! Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country. The diet consists of easy weight loss while still eating almost as much as you want.

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

New Bids Asked On Chief's Car
Because only one bid was received earlier this month for furnishing the town's fire chief with a new car, and because the one bid received was about $200 more than had been budgeted, the town of Manchester is seeking new bids. They will be opened March 8 in the Municipal Building.

Matthew Pass, town purchasing agent, said the specs will remain essentially the same as the first time. Not much has changed since the bidding more competitive and still being in a price now to keep the kids from being let to get to them. When Willie, who's nine, asked if he could see a movie on his birthday, he said any movie would be all right — as long as it wasn't one of my films."

The lone bidder earlier this month was Charles Motors of Manchester — for a Chrysler Newport eight-cylinder, four-door model, with a 1965 Chrysler Newport taken in trade.

Pay Hike For Congress

It appears likely that members of Congress will get a substantial pay increase unless there is a massive, loud cry from the taxpayers.
The President's budget includes a pay hike for congressmen. Their salaries would increase from the present $42,500 to $51,850 in three steps with the first step, to $45,700, beginning next month.

While bills have been introduced to reject the pay hike, unless Congress acts by March 6, the raises will be in effect.
The proposed pay increases have received little publicity.

If you are against the pay hike, in this day of mounting inflation, write your Connecticut congressional delegation and express your feelings.

Other Editor's Say

Fuel Allocation Fiasco

Imagine a food allocation system that limited the Jones family to 80% of its caloric intake of February 1972, with a prohibition against the members sharing their individual allotments.

Pop had been on a pizza bingo two years ago, so now he's entitled to 80% of 4,000 calories a day. Mom was on a crash diet so she gets on 80% of 800 calories. Junior has grown six inches but still gets on 80% of 1,800 calories. Baby was born last April. Tsk, tsk. She gets nothing. And Grand-dad died in August; her 1,600 calories are returned to the federal government.

Put it that way and it sounds absurd. But this is precisely the way the Federal Energy Office is allocating fuel to the nation's communities with the same result. Many areas have all the gasoline they need. Others have been starved to panic point. And there is no way to equalize the distress because the price mechanism of the marketplace is inoperative. With profits held uniform by decree across the country, and distribution maintained by fiat, there's no way to even out the suffering.

In the emergency allocation it announced recently, FEO essentially ignored these problems. Instead of trying to juggle supplies from one area to another, it simply ordered refiners to draw down inventories by 2 million barrels by the end of the month, distributing that amount in 20 states where the lines have been the longest.

In areas that are suffering the worst, the public naturally believes their community or state is being purposely shortchanged by the oil companies. But gasoline is being allocated against a two-year-old base period. A lot has happened to the market's demand patterns in those two years. As in the Jones family's food consumption, there are dozens of variables. When most of the variables are in a positive direction, the town or state does all right. When most of them are negative, there is a tightening that is followed by panic.

Mr. Simon may have suspected that allocating gasoline is an impossible, thankless task, where one wrong decision out of 20 will throw the system into chaos. But his office continues to pursue the illusion that it can set things right with another round of decrees, when all these do is bring the nation closer to rationing.

For what? To keep the price from going up, which is another impossible task. The price mechanism is the only instrument the government can employ that can handle a billion variables an hour, that will enable New York to buy a little gas from California, for Miami to buy it from Jacksonville, for Chicago to get it from Springfield, and to reverse the process when the direction of the variables change. Decontrol of petroleum prices is the only solution and it will be the ultimate one, after Washington has tried and produced fiascos with every other scheme its imagination leads it to. — Wall St. Journal

There are the effects of the conservation measures themselves. Five million autos in Southern California save a lot of gasoline by driving at 55 m.p.h. instead of 70 or 75. In the New York area, including New Jersey and Connecticut, only a tiny percentage of the gas consumed two years ago was consumed at speeds above 55, so there is little realized saving on this count relative to most of the nation. The same is true to a degree in all the large central cities.

Another variable makes conditions worse in New York City than in most other cities. Two years ago, it was neither a major transit nor terminal point for long-distance motor tourism, the type of driving that has been most sharply curtailed by the crisis. Thus, the amount of gas it now retains by not having to sell to transients is small, overwhelmed by the increased demands local residents put on the allocated supply by not driving out of the region as they did in 1972.

The Federal Energy Office supposedly has its computers working to figure all this out, so it could order supplies around regardless of base periods. But no computer can keep up with this mass of rolling variables, for each decree of energy czar William Simon introduces new variables. New computers will always have to be employed to address the distortions and panics created by the old ones. And while a computer might be able to find out where there is "extra" fuel and where there are panics, it can't easily manage either the politics or logistics of getting gasoline from here to there.

Mr. Simon may have suspected that allocating gasoline is an impossible, thankless task, where one wrong decision out of 20 will throw the system into chaos. But his office continues to pursue the illusion that it can set things right with another round of decrees, when all these do is bring the nation closer to rationing.

For what? To keep the price from going up, which is another impossible task. The price mechanism is the only instrument the government can employ that can handle a billion variables an hour, that will enable New York to buy a little gas from California, for Miami to buy it from Jacksonville, for Chicago to get it from Springfield, and to reverse the process when the direction of the variables change. Detente in Russia aiding repression?

Senior officials in the Nixon Administration are edging into a debate on whether our approach to detente is aiding and abetting increased political repression in the Soviet Union. There are few opposed to detente. They don't want a return to the old days, but they are gravely concerned by what appears to be happening inside Russia.

There is no question political repression is increasing. Cables arriving virtually daily that the case of Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn is not unique. Growing numbers of Russian thinkers are condemned to mental hospitals, to prison and forced labor camps. More are losing their jobs — and being stripped of their licenses to work.

What's particularly disturbing is that the repression of intellectual dissent increased most sharply about the time detente began to be taken seriously and that it has continued with unusual vigor ever since.

Why is this so? Men here in high positions are asking whether our moves for detente may be making this repression more desirable or "necessary" from the Kremlin point of view, or more so because of the Soviet leaders' belief that in opening the door even slightly to American industrialists, scientists and engineers, they must counter this foreign democratic influence by cracking down on their dissenters? Do the Russian leaders consider this contact with Americans as giving rise to a potentially significant challenge to their power, however minor that challenge may appear to us in the United States? U.S. officials know how sensitive Soviet leaders are on the introduction of new thoughts. It is now pretty well agreed here in the Soviet Union that the Communist Party leadership of the Ukraine, who told the Politburo bluntly that if the Czechs were allowed to go on with their freer discussions, their mildly incoherent actions and their contacts with the West, he could not answer for what might happen in his crucial southern territory.

There's another worrisome aspect of our cooperation with the Soviet Union. Did the U.S. grain deals, and Washington's promise of future aid and assistance, so bolster the hand of the Moscow government's leaders now believe they have the strength to increase censorship as far as they like? The U.S. officials debating this question are very sensitive to the effects of economic prosperity and scarcity on political power and the strength of dissent.

Then there's the matter of hope. It has been reported Hungarian and Czech intellectuals and students lost faith with the United States went along without meaningful protest after the Soviet takeovers in their countries. The question being asked here is whether closer U.S.-Soviet relationships are causing Soviet thinkers — who for years have considered America as their last recourse — to believe now there is no chance of assistance from the United States.

These are troublesome questions and they are being debated here most seriously. The officials involved are beginning to ask themselves the question Solzhenitsyn posed — whether there can be detente without first relaxing some Soviet controls.

Juicy Item In Truman Book Should Have Been Tossed Out

WASHINGTON — History of course also is made out of the animosities between Truman and Eisenhower. World War II might not have happened had Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge not so thoroughly detested Woodrow Wilson. Yet I am sorry that Merle Miller saw fit to find room in his book, "Plain Speaking," for a quotation from Harry Truman about Dwight D. Eisenhower's alleged wartime romance with a WAC named Kay Summersby.

Truman is quoted as saying Gen. George C. Marshall warned Eisenhower that if he divorced his wife to marry Miss Summersby, he, Marshall, personally would destroy Ike's career.

This was a gratuitous entry in Miller's otherwise splendid "oral" biography of Truman. Everybody by now must know that the two men didn't get along from the moment Ike decided to run for President in 1952. It was the kind of juicy item that could have been tossed into the wastebasket as immaterial and irrelevant. After all, the Eisenhower-Summersby romance was won of gossip. Neither Ike nor Miss Summersby ever admitted it, and so far as I know no one ever caught them in flagrant delict.

I'm afraid Truman's quote has the Truman flavor. He was one of my few heroes, but sometimes his sharp tongue got the better of his sharp intellect.

The Lighter Side

By Dick West
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The kid and I were in a gas line. To pass the time, I was telling him stories about the olden times.

"What was it like getting gas in the olden times?" the kid asked.

"I shaded my eyes with my hand and peered into the distance. 'See that service station up on yonder bluff? I can remember when it stayed open 24 hours a day.'"

"You sure you don't mean 24 hours a week, old timer?"

"Yeah, kid, I'm sure. It was open all day and all night. I can remember it as plain as yesterday."

Some observers have said that Truman and Eisenhower hated each other. That's much too strong a word for their animosity. They certainly disliked each other and thought little of each other's policies and philosophies. Neither ever showed an inclination to extend the olive branch. As the Washington Post's great Eddie Follard once remarked, "They're just too goddam stubborn and independent to kiss and make up."

Today's Thought

Romans 1:17
Martin Luther was sitting in his cell in Wittenberg, reading the Book of Romans. Coming to verse 17 of the first chapter he read, "The just shall live by faith." Luther paused and pondered, and then unexpectable joy flooded his heart. Until then he had tried to earn salvation, but never had he felt that he had done enough. Luther learned that man is justified by faith, not by works. Romans 1:17 became for him the "gate to paradise." That was Luther's conversion!

One time Martin Luther went to see another great reformer who was at the point of death. Luther asked him what he was doing. Quickly the reformer said, "I am putting all my good and all my bad works in one heap. They are as nothing. I have leashed my soul to Calvary. I trust in that, and am on my way to the New Jerusalem." Luther replied, "Go on your way; you will receive a warm welcome there."

Church of the Assumption

The Rev. Ronald J. Fournier, co-pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, will be guest speaker Sunday at the 7 p.m. service at the Salvation Army Citadel. Later, he provides the message for the evening. The service is open to the public.

Baha'is To Mark Ayanam-I-Ha Day

The Baha'is of Manchester invite the public to join them in a celebration of Ayanam-I-Ha Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Meadows Convalescent Home, Bidwell St.

The celebration will include a play written by a class of the Manchester Baha'i School, musical selections, exchanging of gifts between the children, and games for all. Arrangements are being made for some to visit and entertain residents of the Meadows.

Ayanam-I-Ha commemorates the beginning of the Intercalary days in the Baha'i calendar, which are devoted to hospitality to friends, giving of gifts, and ministering to the poor and sick.

The Baha'is year consists of 19 months of 19 days each with the addition of four "intercalary days," five in leap years, between the 18 and 19th months in order to adjust the calendar to the solar year.

Anyone wishing to attend or wishing information on the Baha'is faith can contact Phil Des Jardins, chairman of the Spiritual Assembly of Manchester, at 666-0992.

The Bible Speaks

In their conception of God, men have always had difficulty in striking a proper balance between his love and justice. We have seen God as an angry ogre, virtually rubbing his hands in glee at the prospect of detecting us in a sin. Contrariwise, we have viewed him as an over-indulgent grandfather, thus dvening him of any sense of justice.

Somewhere between these extremes is the God of the Bible. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," but it is respect, rather than moral dread, "God is love," also, but he is not blind to our faults.

"The balance" He is just, yet the justifier of helplessly unrighteous men through the gift of his Son, Rom. 3:21-26, to absorb the "stripes" due them (Isa. 53:5). Still, this gift must be accepted, and the New Testament shows us how.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Talk is anything but cheap

Several lines of play would have worked. The one adopted by South was to lead a heart to dummy's ace at trick three; to discard a club on the king of spades at trick four; ruff the last spade next; enter dummy with the second high heart at trick six; ruff a heart at trick seven while East discarded a club; enter dummy with a high club at trick eight and ruff dummy's last heart at trick nine.

This series of plays left East with four trumps. It would have been pointless to ruff some time along the way. South had nine tricks in the hand. East ruffed and had to lead to South's K-Q-10 trumps.

The rest of the hand was played with all the speed and solemnity of a pontifical high mass. Fortunately for South's well-being he managed to make his small slam after all because East had to follow to enough spades, hearts and clubs to allow South to score all his seven trumps plus five of dummy's six aces and kings.

Thousands Help Maryland Housewife Help President

By MARY HANLEY
OLNEY, MD. (UPI) — Mrs. Dolores Smith's one-woman campaign for the President has prompted thousands of Americans to offer their help, stamps, dollars and good wishes.

Mrs. Smith, a 40-year-old housewife and mother of 3½ year old twin daughters, began her "Americans in Support of the President" campaign six months ago when she decided the press was out to get President Nixon and that the opinion polls against him were distorted.

She knew there had to be more people who felt as she did and decided to "provide this silent majority with a poll of its own." If people would write she would tabulate their letters.

Since then she has received more than 5,000 letters from 42 states and Puerto Rico, not counting 30 anti-Nixon letters, and made it onto a television talk show in Dayton, Ohio.

In December she had 200 letters on her card table. Now she has set aside a room for sorting and stacking, complete with a portrait of President Nixon and an American flag.

Olney rural letter carrier John Beall says she averages 50 to 75 letters a day. "She's my busiest customer... It can't be that everyone's against Nixon when this is going on here. I think someone ought to investigate those investigators," he said.

The writers include housewives, young married couples, retirees, military types, Vietnam widows, school children, registered Democrats, and one ex-POW.

Orson G. Swindle III, a major in the Marine Corps from Camilla, Ga., who spent 6½ years in North Vietnam in prisons, included a copy of his letter that appeared in the Washington Post which said: "Thank God for Richard M. Nixon, my President, my commander-in-chief, and my fellow American."

Wrote 15-year-old Cornelia B. Size of Hamden, Conn.: "...what you are doing is wonderful. I love you and your wonderful family."

Sparks 'Silent Majority'

Mrs. Dolores Smith's one-woman campaign for the President has prompted thousands of Americans to offer their help, stamps, dollars and good wishes. She lives in Olney, Md., and feels the 'silent majority' needs a means to speak out. (UPI photo)

Vitamin-Iron Overdose Warning Issued

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Health Department has warned that heavy dosages of vitamin pills with iron can induce severe diarrhea.

The department said Friday that 116 cases handled last month by the Poison Information Center, five involving young children with iron poisoning resulting from swallowing too many vitamin pills.

In one case, the department said, a 2-year-old East Hartford child swallowed 30 of the pills.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "For the present, the key to the market's direction is in the hands of the Arabs, and rallies must be considered suspect unless backed by tangible evidence of a policy change," says Standard & Poor's Corp. It urges investors to adopt a "go-slow policy" until near-term developments in the oil crisis are clearly positive.

Cyclical stocks are emerging as the new leaders in two-tier market with the glomors trailing far behind, according to President National Bank of Philadelphia. Since the stock market is a discounting mechanism in relation to business and economic cycles, the bank says "cyclical stocks should continue to be the market leaders and their upside potential from current levels is significant."

Tenant Rights Bill Considered

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature's State and Urban Development Committee is considering a bill to balance the rights of owners and tenants in rental properties.

Rep. Rosario T. Vella, R-Enfield, co-chairman of the committee, said present rent laws give landlords unequal rights to receive rents while failing to require them to provide services.

Vella said the new legislation is sure to draw criticism from both landlords whose privileges will be reduced and tenants who will claim it still favors landlords.

The new legislation, to follow recommendations by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, will require tenants to comply with cleanliness standards and other factors affecting the other tenants in the building.

Landlords for their part will be forced to comply with health and safety standards and housing and building codes.

MANCHESTER
Roy Farnham, 23, and Eugene Thatcher, 18, both of East Hartford, were charged early this morning with intoxication, Manchester Police report.
Farnham was also charged with evading responsibility in connection with a one-car accident on Highland St. in which an eastbound car struck a HELCO utility pole, snapping it in half. Police said that Farnham apparently left the scene and was discovered two miles away on E. Center and Lenox Sts.
Police said that Farnham and one of three passengers in the vehicle refused medical attention for minor bruises. The car had to be towed from the scene, police said.

Thatcher was released on his written promise to appear in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, March 11, while Farnham was released on a $200 non-surety bond for appearance the same date.

Linda Roy Ravlin, 24, of Coventry, turned herself into police headquarters Friday and was charged on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with third-degree larceny in connection with the theft of a wheelchair from Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Police said that the woman allegedly took the chair for use by a friend with an injured foot. The property, valued at $125, was spotted on several occasions by hospital employees at a location on Union St., police said.

The Ravlin woman was released on her written promise to appear in court March 11. She had been a former of the hospital, police said.

Lisa Soderstrom, 16, of Glastonbury, was charged Friday with illegal possession of controlled drugs, obtaining controlled drugs by deceit and obtaining controlled drugs by false name and address.

Police said Ms. Soderstrom apparently tried to get drugs at a pharmacy by use of false name and prescription. Police were notified of the attempt by the druggist on duty.

Ms. Soderstrom was released on a $500 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, March 11.

Gas

just how widespread the shut-down has become.

"We just didn't expect it this soon," Parley said. "We really thought the dealers would at least wait until the federal government had had time to do something."

Richard R. Roina, attorney for the Greenwich gasoline dealers expressed hope Friday that striking retailers will reopen by weekend, following his meeting with federal energy officials. Roina, however, gave no indication whether most of the 46 gas stations which closed Tuesday, would open their doors by today.

Roina said only he was "very impressed" following the meeting with Gerald Parsky, Simons executive assistant. He said he would relay the results of the session to the dealers, allowing them to make up their own minds on re-opening.

He said the dealers' demands were made to Parsky—that dealers be allowed a one-cent per gallon increase in prices; that a nationwide "even-odd" rationing system be instituted, and that local dealers be allowed to give preferential treatment to regular customers.

The details of the state's contemplated federal court suit, seeking to block enforcement of the gas sale ban were expected to be outlined this weekend.

FEO Asked To Plan Rationing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., says he has asked the Federal Energy Office to begin planning for nationwide gasoline rationing.

In a letter to federal energy chief William E. Simon, Friday, Weicker said he was making the request because a bill he has introduced calls for gas rationing to begin 30 days after it is approved.

Weicker said that although his bill does not spell out what type of rationing is to be used, he would like a system that would bar cars from being driven on certain days of the week.

He said a family with one car would get a windshield sticker banning it from being driven one day a week. A second family car would have three stickers and a third would have five.

Columbia Health Care Shows Some Shortcomings

The residents of Columbia, a planned new town in Maryland, have available to them a medical plan which will care for them from birth to the grave according to information given to Mrs. Debbie Breault, one of the Coventry residents who visited there recently.

Mrs. Breault, a member of DevCo's Citizens Advisory Group and chairman of its subcommittee on health, was one of a group which toured Columbia and two other planned communities on a trip arranged by DevCo.

At Columbia, Mrs. Breault met with Niel McGuinn, manager of the Columbia Medical Plan. McGuinn informed her that the plan worked in conjunction with Johns Hopkins Hospital of Baltimore and its underwritten by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company.

Mrs. Breault said the McGuinn reported that the plan was expensive, the monthly fee was between $25 and $50 more than regular medical plans now available.

Mrs. Breault reported that the plan was originally intended to be just for Columbia residents but that there were not enough people in Columbia using the plan, so it was open to all residents of Howard County, the county in which Columbia is located.

Seventeen per cent of the residents in Howard County use the plan and 40 per cent of the residents in Columbia use it.

DevCo is not planning this kind of health maintenance plan, because 20,000 people are not enough to effectively run such a program.

Mrs. Breault reported that she was disappointed in the health plan because it was supposed to concentrate on keeping the well person well and the directions of the plan have not been able to do this.

The people using the plan are required to have a complete physical examination upon joining the plan, but annual physicals are not being required at this time.

Mrs. Breault, who is a public health nurse in Vernon, was also disappointed because there was no health teaching being done and there were no Public Health Nurses in Columbia.

Coventry has a Public Health Nursing Association.

She said McGuinn informed her there was very little in the way of referrals to other agencies in the county. And that the facilities, emergency rooms, clinics and treatment rooms were overcrowded.

Mrs. Breault said that when she mentioned that the examining rooms were small and this must cut down on patient-doctor discussion, she was told that it was hoped that the size of these rooms would limit discussion, and she felt that this was the wrong attitude to take. In her opinion patient-doctor discussion should be encouraged.

Mrs. Breault said that McGuinn told her the waiting list for psychiatric care is long.

Mrs. Breault was impressed by the fact that nurse practitioners and paramedics from Vietnam were being used in the hospital in Columbia.

DevCo planning an ambulatory care facility in its proposed new community.

This center would hopefully be staffed with primary physicians, obstetricians, gynecologists, general practitioners and pediatricians.

DevCo hopes to have on a consulting basis such physicians as urologists and an orthopedic doctor.

It is DevCo's hope that the center would also have a dentist.

The center would have a lab, X-Ray facilities and a pharmacy.

It would deal with minor injuries and illness, but would not have facilities for overnight patients.

School Board Shaves Budget

Members of the Board of Education received new budget figures at a meeting Thursday night. The newest proposal cuts $39,634 from the first figures which had totaled $882,969.

Major cuts were in the area of building maintenance. A full-time position in maintenance had been proposed and $12,000 had been planned for this salary. This item has been cut from the budget.

Also, $8,218 was cut from contracted services and $7,500 was cut from the site improvement account. Late bus service from Rham was taken out of the budget at a savings of $3,200.

Not all of the changes were reductions. It was seen as necessary to set aside an additional sum of $1,300 for heat since the costs have been rising so rapidly. An extra $1,000 had to be put into the budget for the salary of a teacher's aide who will be needed full-time at the Gilead Hill School next year. This teacher's aide is presently working only half a day.

Work on the budget will continue at this Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education, scheduled for 7:30 at the Gilead Hill School.

Health Report

Two hundred ninety two health room visits were made by children during January. Thirty children were sent home from school due to accident or illness. Absenteeism due to illness was high in the last part of the month.

Growth and development programs for fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls and sixth grade boys were held at both schools. Parents were invited to preview films used in these programs before they were shown to the children.

The filmstrip "There's a New You Coming" was previewed by the principals, representative teachers, Board of Education members and the community health nurses. The filmstrip will be purchased by the Gilead Hill School and incorporated into the growth and development program for fourth grade boys later this year.

Retesting for those children who failed initial audio and vision screenings will continue through February.

Magee Fined $500 In Obscenity Case

James Magee Jr., an employe of the Manchester Bookstore, was fined $500 Friday on two counts of promoting obscenity and was given a 60-day suspended sentence with two years unsupervised probation.

Magee was among five persons sentenced on charges involving sale of books in adult bookstores. Their attorney,

Leonard Kamaras of Providence, R.I. said their convictions will be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Circuit Court.

The sentences were imposed by Judge Burton Jacobson in Circuit Court 10, New London.

The defendants were freed pending the appeal in bonds equal to the amount of their fines.

Routhier Pleads Guilty To Thefts from Grant's

Henry Routhier of 126 Pitkin St. pleaded guilty to a charge of first-degree larceny in Tolland County Superior Court Thursday and was ordered by Judge Joseph Dennehy to make full restitution of money taken.

Routhier was arrested Nov. 14, 1973 in connection with the theft of money from the W.T. Grant Store in the Vernon Circle. Routhier admitted diverting payments to the store made through the mail and converting them to cash, to pay off some "heavy medical bills" according to his lawyer.

Routhier was ordered to make restitution of $5,200 to the store in $150 monthly payments agreed to by Grant's officials. Routhier also received a two-to-four-year suspended sentence and three years probation.

"I'm sorry it ever happened," Routhier said in court, adding that he intends to make restitution as ordered by the court.

Asst. State's Atty. Abbot Schwebel noted that Routhier had no previous record and that "jail won't help the situation."

The money was reportedly stolen over a period of months while Routhier was employed at the store. He has since found employment in construction and another part-time job to support his family and make restitution.

Hearst Corp. Adds to Ransom
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Hearst Corp. agreed Friday to put up an additional $4 million free food ransom for Patricia Hearst, after her father said the matter was out of his hands because the Symbionese Liberation Army's (SLA) demands for the girl's release far outstripped his personal fortune.

FBI Special Agent Charles Bates said the action threw the ball back to the SLA. Bates said the FBI would make no move lest it jeopardize the life of Miss Hearst, 19.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the People in Need free food program said food was given out to about 20,000 people on the first day of operation. He said the next day for distribution would be Tuesday.

More Gasoline Allocated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After meeting with President Nixon Friday, energy chief William E. Simon announced the government had allocated an additional 240 million gallons of gasoline to 26 states and the District of Columbia.

But even as the gasoline was being sent on its way, a nationwide shutdown was being threatened by gasoline dealers for Monday, if they do not get permission to increase profits. Presidential assistant W. J. Usery was to meet again with a dealers' group today.

Animal of the Week:

The Dik-Dik

The Dik-Dik lives in the bushlands areas of East Africa that are dry and have bush and vegetation. Some get moisture only from the dew and plants they eat. They live alone, in pairs or in family groups. Dik-diks are shy. When frightened, they dash off, running in leaps. Their call sounds like "dik-dik" and that is where they get their name. They are about 14 inches tall at the shoulder and weigh six or seven pounds. The male has horns.
