

Veterans Home Doctor Faces Cut in Pay

By EDWARD BUTLER
HARTFORD (UPI) — More than a month has passed since orders went out for Dr. L.A. Chotkowski to take a pay cut or lose his high paying job. But the pro-Nixon physician who wants to defeat Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, remains in his post illegally.

The state hired Chotkowski in 1969 as chief of medicine at the Rocky Hill Veterans Home and Hospital for a yearly salary of $35,000.

The position, by law, is supposed to pay $22,779 and be classified under Connecticut's Civil Service merit system.

If Chotkowski were hired under the merit system, his campaign against Weicker would be illegal under the provisions of the federal Hatch Act, a law prohibiting classified civil service employees from engaging in political activities.

In the course of his investigation, LaBelle found 143 individuals illegally holding "special assistant" jobs while they should have been classified workers in the Civil Service merit system.

Commissioner Edward Simpson told UPI last month. Chotkowski was among the 143 illegally-hired special assistants, and LaBelle's report detailed the circumstances behind his hiring.

"A qualified physician" could not be found at the offered legal salary of $29,799, according to LaBelle.

The position was removed from Civil Service classification and the salary boosted to $35,000 for Chotkowski.

But when Chotkowski's situation became known, State Personnel Commissioner Edward Simpson told UPI last month.

"That was in early January. Since then, Chotkowski's boss, hospital Commandant Robert Beckwith, told Simpson he didn't exactly know what to do with his illegally-hired doctor."

"So I wrote back to Simpson and dumped the whole thing in his lap," Beckwith said.

On the one side, the black wastes of the Golan Heights slant down the side of Mt. Hermon toward Damascus. On the other, they look down on the Sea of Galilee and the kibbutzim of the Israelis.

Under Israeli occupation, Israeli gums lie within range of Damascus less than 30 miles away.

Held by the Syrians, they menace the farmhouses and the kibbutzim of Galilee and the Jordan Valley.

But the strategic value of the Golan Heights is only one, and perhaps the lesser one, of the reasons which complicate Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's latest mission to the Middle East, and his hopes of restoring peace to an area which has birthplace of three of the world's great religions.

The Golan Heights occupy about 500 square miles of poor and capable of little but subsistence farming.

A Marginal Living
Prior to 1967 war, a few thousand Syrian farmers eeked a marginal living from it with olive groves and sheep raising. Israeli settlers who replaced them have raised cotton and vegetables.

Even its military value has come under question since the October, 1973, war. Israeli civilian settlements designed to act as a shield actually got in the way of combatants and probably cost lives instead of saving them.

Beyond the strategic value of the heights is the emotional value.

The Syrians say that the wars of 1947 and 1973 drove from their homes 175,000 people who now exist as refugees.

Poor as their homes may have been, they demand the right to return.

"Part of Israel"
On the Israeli side are the strong feelings of the young settlers who have moved into some 17 farming communities, and the universal feeling among Israelis that never again will their kibbutzim below the heights be subjected to Syrian guns. Illustrative is Prime Minister Golda Meir's assertion that the Golan Heights are an "integral part of Israel."

Beyond all this are the problems facing the Israeli and Syrian governments.

Syria, despite its ancient history, has been an independent, modern nation only since 1946 and has been torn by an endless succession of intrigues and coups. President Hafez Assad, a former air force general, must move with the greatest caution, his steps determined not only by factions at home but by his relations with neighboring Iraq, Iran, like Syria, is ruled by the Baathists, a vague form of Arab socialism characterized by violence.

Assad reportedly is fearful for his military flank if a settlement is reached between Egypt and Israel, and favors moderation.

In Israel, Meir is faced with a serious division within her own labor party effecting her ability to rule.

But of the Israeli leadership she gives the greatest chance of bringing an end to 25 years of war.

Church To Talk Parking

By ALEX GIRELLI
The council of St. James Church has agreed to further discussions with the Parking Authority and the Downtown Action Committee over a plan to provide 80 parking spaces on church land.

Francis DellaFera, president of the church council and the church's representative on the Downtown Action Committee, reported this morning that the council met Tuesday and reacted favorably to pursuing the idea.

He made it clear, however, that no commitments have been made and he outlined several steps which would have to be taken before any work could go forward.

DellaFera was reporting to the downtown committee. He said any proposal would be approved by council, which is an advisory group, by the church pastor, and by the archbishop. The council also plans to put it before the members of the parish for their approval, and to refer the question in some kind of referendum vote.

Under the present plan the church would not sell land and would not incur any expense. It would gain use of the parking spaces which would also be available for public use.

The area involved is the northwest corner of the church property. Another idea, which would have placed parking closer to the northeast corner, has been rejected because it would eliminate the lawn there. DellaFera said the eastern edge of the parking area, under the present plan, would be about 120 feet from Main St.

A meeting to discuss the plan further has tentatively been set for Monday evening. At the meeting would be representatives of the church council, the Parking Authority, and the Downtown Action Committee.

DellaFera estimated it would take from a month to six weeks to get all the approval necessary if a plan is agreed upon.

William Sleith, chairman of the downtown committee, said that if the town presents a concrete proposal to the Department of Transportation it would delay its plan to eliminate angle parking on Main St. When new traffic lights were installed there, parallel parking was put into effect. Angle parking was restored as a temporary measure when merchants protested the loss of parking spaces. But the survey indicated that angle parking must be eliminated.

Drain Work Progresses

Work on a new storm drainage system in the N. Elm St.-White Brook area is progressing satisfactorily, reports Town Engineer Walter Senkow, who estimated the project will be completed in April.

The new system replaces an undersized 24-inch pipe with a 48-inch pipe and is intended to correct a drainage problem dating back about 25 years.

The situation was brought to a head last summer, when torrential rains caused considerable flooding in the area and homeowners petitioned the Manchester Board of Directors to do something about it.

Directors allocated $42,000 from revenue-sharing funds for the project and the contract was awarded to the J.N. Clapp Co. of Ellington.

In addition to the existence of an undersized storm drainage pipe, the problem was aggravated by a water line and sanitary sewer line passing through the 24-inch storm drain. The other pipes reduced the flow area and the debris flowing through the storm drain caused continual clogging.

Secrecy, No Competition Cause High Funeral Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first survey of funeral home prices ever conducted by the federal government showed today that funerals can be bought for as little as $210 but the average buyer, because of price secrecy and lack of competition, may wind up paying closer to $2,000.

The survey by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) included 56 funeral homes in the District of Columbia, but the results said the results revealed many of the same problems faced by consumers nationwide.

Few Cuts Made In Grand List

By SOL R. COHEN
Manchester's net Grand List, based on Oct. 1, 1973, valuations and after adjustments and reductions by the Board of Tax Review, is $294,363,352. It is $17,532,977 or 6.2 per cent above last year's Grand List and is the basis for the 1974-75 budget and tax rate (to be adopted in May and to be in effect July 1).

The Board of Tax Review reduced the gross Grand List (announced Jan. 23) by only $12,667 — one of the lowest reductions in the past several years.

The greatest reduction was in motor vehicle assessments, following a check with the Motor Vehicle Department. The cut in this category was $81,040, bringing the net figure to $22,861,024 — up $2,209,438 over last year.

Real estate was cut by a minuscule and record-low $4,600 to $244,868,839 — up $12, 734,550 over last year.

Personal property was cut $47,017 to $33,395,300 — up $2,303,133 over last year.

Last year's net taxable Grand List, after adjustments, was $296,943,032. It was up about four per cent over the year before that.

Town Assessor Ed Belleville said this year's increase is the largest since Manchester's 1966 revaluation year and credited real estate construction in 1972-73 for the greatest part of it.

At the same time, he warned against optimism over next year's Grand List.

The new allocation brings the state supply to within eight million gallons of normal.

Beck said Wednesday the Energy Emergency Agency asked 20 oil companies to release the allocation as quickly as possible by increasing their output by 8 per cent.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger pauses at Tel Aviv airport with Foreign Minister Abba Eban on his arrival in Israel Wednesday. Kissinger left Israel for Tel Aviv in Cairo today.

Kissinger, Gromyko Pursue Peace Quests In Mideast

BULLETIN
CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat announced today the United States and Egypt are returning to diplomatic relations with Israel, Middle East News Agency reported.

A high American official said that further progress towards the Middle East peace depended largely on whether Kissinger is successful in getting a military disengagement between Syria and Israel. Syria thus far has refused to attend the Geneva peace conference of which Kissinger and Gromyko are co-chairmen.

Arab diplomatic sources said that Kissinger and Gromyko met during their Middle East visits but no plans were announced.

Food Bill Going Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers are expected to spend at least $18 billion more for food this year than last, and most of the increase will be in the price not in the food.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the nation's food bill this year is expected to be between $17 billion and $18.4 billion. It was $13.9 billion last year.

The forecast was based partly on an earlier prediction that retail food prices in 1974 would average about 12 per cent above last year. A new department publication, "Demand and Price Situation," said that while higher prices will account for most of the jump part of the increase will go to finance a 1 per cent increase in per capita food consumption.

American consumers are expected to eat more meats. But they will regain only about half the ground beef lost to a 10 per cent drop in per capita food consumption last year, officials said.

Energy And Unemployment

While our immediate attention in the energy crisis is focused on the gasoline pump, we really should be more disturbed about the impact it can have on New England and Connecticut in particular.

Getting to and from work is important and to the degree our leadership solves this problem might be the yardstick against which we can measure how they will cope with energy shortage created unemployment and other industrial and service problems.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, in introducing a bill to extend unemployment benefits to workers laid-off because of the energy shortage, paints a grim picture.

In a Senate speech recently, he pointed out that the region is heavily dependent on oil; many industries use petrochemicals; many industries produce parts and components for the auto industry and others make energy-consuming appliances like refrigerators and air conditioners.

In effect, we could suffer not only from fewer jobs because of the shortage, but also suffer because many things we manufacture use energy. He cites projections that could increase New England's unemployment to one-half million this year if the shortage is not overcome.

The purpose of his bill, which would provide (at federal expense) benefits for up to two years, is to tide workers over who exhaust regular benefits.

But he is optimistic too. He expresses his belief that in "the long run New England's economic prospects, especially those of Connecticut, are bright." Our state is a dynamic area that is attracting many service industries in trade, finance, health, education, the arts and recreation.

"But we cannot ignore the short-term problems of unemployment which are being aggravated by the energy crisis," he said.

We can only say, "Amen," and hope that this bill will be enacted. We hope that Sen. Ribicoff and others in Congress and the administration will not let it go at that but continue to press for policies and programs which will justify his optimistic forecast that the future is indeed bright.

Legal Confrontation Ahead

The principle that everyone should receive treatment based solely and entirely on merit is due for a head-on clash with the idea that blacks should receive favored treatment in hearings before the Supreme Court shortly.

Blacks have been receiving preferential evaluation by many law schools in judging their qualifications for admission. This has been invoked as a sort of preparation to black people for the years in which the race was in slavery in the United States.

Another consideration in the very liberal treatment of blacks was the relatively lower economic status of the minority and their small representation in the profession.

A white law student at the University of Washington is the instigator of the litigation which is to be considered. He was twice refused admission although 37 blacks with admittedly lower scholastic standing were taken into the school.

The plaintiff was a magna cum laude graduate of the Washington undergraduate school and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

A Seattle trial judge ruled in favor of the white scholar, a Mr. DePunis, but the verdict was overturned by the state's Supreme Court.

After the initial ruling DePunis was admitted to the school and is still there under a ruling of Justice William O. Douglas pending the Supreme Court's findings.

The university law school had taken the position that it was its duty to admit a larger number of blacks in order to promote integration and to train more blacks, and other minorities, for the legal profession.

Washington, however, had 1 per cent black enrollment in its law school which is the exact percentage of blacks in the state and in the northwest states which it serves.

The court is being besieged with briefs from agencies with an interest in the question. Among them is the Anti-Defamation League of the B'Nai B'rith, a Jewish organization.

"They take the position that if a black student cannot be denied admittance because of his race, constitutionally, neither can a white student.

They remember the "quota" system for Jewish legal aspirants which was in use for years and limited the number of their race in many law schools.

They now fear that Jewish students hoping for a legal education will be denied admittance in favor of blacks, even though they have higher qualifications.

Archibald Cox is taking part in the case as a representative of Harvard Law School. Many other schools are also finding briefs in defense of their black admittance policy.

The Federal Equal Opportunity Commission is also participating in the case, which is somewhat anomalous. Others are the AFL-CIO and United Auto Workers.

The theory or policy of reparations is somewhat difficult to uphold. Since some attempts at reparations may be totally invalid, the son of a well-to-do doctor, only technically black, and of comfortable means, might be admitted ahead of white applicants because of race.

The case will bring head on confrontation between two ideas accepted in many quarters as being desirable. They are, of course, mutually exclusive and one must give way.

Who's Quitting?

WASHINGTON — I will tell you what the American people don't need in the month of February 1974. They do not need President Nixon telling them in one of his Stars-and-Stripes Forever speeches that they "are not a nation of quitters."

Who's quitting? Not the little old lady I know who's given up her twice-monthly movie so she can afford to eat. Not the junior executive who just borrowed $5,000 at 9 per cent interest so he could keep a couple of kids in college the rest of the year. Not the folks in those ever-lengthening gasoline lines, or homeowners who are being gouged by bandits selling heating oil.

Too Many Secrets Plague Our Leaders

There is something dreadfully wrong with the way the U.S. government is being run. A senior cabinet official must ask subordinates down the line what it is that other Cabinet officers and the White House really have in mind.

When those queries have to be made not once but repeatedly, and when the queries concern basic objectives of Cabinet members with whom this senior secretary meets regularly.

The men involved in this incredible situation do not dislike or distrust each other nor do they have competing political ambitions. They are only seeking fundamental knowledge needed to run their departments with reasonable success.

The problem, as Adm. Thomas Moorer found to his chagrin, is not that there are "top secret" papers but that there are other papers and conversations no one hears about. These notes of discussions and memoranda aren't circulated even to those with the highest security clearances and have a "need to know."

It is now common knowledge that Melvin Laird, when secretary of defense, was not cited in some advance planning on vital military decisions concerning Viet Nam. His case is not unique among high officials. Even the White House staff is compartmentalized so deeply that sometimes one hand works against another.

Library Plans Adult Programs

Rockville Public Library which has, over the years, sponsored a variety of programs for children, is now interested in sponsoring programs for adults.

Among the programs under consideration is one for owners of small businesses. The program would be held during the day and cover a number of topics.

Among topics being considered are: Organization and basic accounting needs for small business; cost analysis and price forecasting and business managements; budget, federal and state taxes; and borrowing money for a small business. Plans are to have the workshop run for a six-week period and each session to run for three hours. The sessions will be held in the Edith Peck room of the library and will be conducted by executives selected by the Small Business Administration.

No charge will be made for the workshop and those completing five of the six sessions will be awarded a certificate.

Forms are being sent out to owners of small businesses asking if they would be interested in such a workshop. If an owner wishes, he may also have an employee attend with him or for him. Answers should be returned by March 8, to the library.

Parking Provided For Commuters

Zocco is manager of Hardee's in Vernon. Specific information concerning the areas where parking is available, may be obtained by calling Mrs. Zocco at 872-2853 between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The parking areas are specifically for persons who wish to form car pools to go to out-of-town jobs. Wolfanger said he hopes commuters will take advantage of this opportunity to save gasoline.

Report from America:

Nearings Lead Simple Life

By Arthur Frederick HARBORSIDE, Maine (UPI) — Scott Nearing is 90 and his face is creased with age and from many cold New England winters. His eyes disappear when he smiles.

Nearing and his wife Helen, 89, have homesteaded in New England for more than 40 years, ever since they decided to leave the city and search out a simple life. First in Vermont, and now in Maine, they have grown their own food organically, have built their own buildings out of stone and have cut their own firewood.

Nearing turned his back on Western civilization years ago, after being fired from teaching jobs at two colleges because of his radical political beliefs. He thinks Western civilization has been on the decline since the late 1800s.

"Western civilization is on the carpet, just like Nixon is now," he said.

Nearing's day began as usual at 4:30 a.m., and he worked on his latest book until breakfast. He had spent the morning working around Forest Farm and now was eating homemade soup out of a wooden bowl.

"I've been working on this theme since 1926," he said. "It's called 'Where Is Civilization Going?' It's a social analysis of civilization. Almost no one has analyzed society objectively as far as social organization is concerned. That's what I'm trying to do."

Nearing threw a fagot of twigs on the fire in the kitchen woodstove and went out to the woodshed, tugging a wheatharrow full of red and axes behind him. The Nearings burn driftwood and dead trees as much as possible, cutting down live trees only when they have to.

Helen led the way to a half finished stone building at the foot of the hill, across the road from the bay. The building will be a library and garage and will stand in front of the Nearings' new stone house, to be finished hopefully by next fall.

"I've done all the stonework," Helen said. "If people stop by to help they hand the stones up to me and I put them in place."

Finding help hasn't been hard. In recent years there's been a steady stream of visitors, mostly young people, who have read "Living the Good Life," a book about homesteading which Scott and Helen wrote in 1954.

"Last year I kept a head count and we had 2,300 visitors," Helen said. "This past year I stopped counting after 2,500."

The Nearings have lived in an old frame farmhouse since they came to Maine 22 years ago, and they're looking forward to moving into the new stone house.

"This place isn't our house," Nearing said about the farmhouse. "It's somebody else's house."

Helen ran through the snow to the house site and pointed out where the rooms would be.

"I'll have a room in front, overlooking the water, and Scott's room will be in the back with an east window," she said. "He gets up early and he likes to see the sun rise."

Bennet Career Seminar Features Law Enforcement

JUNE TOMPKINS The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the career education department of the Manchester public schools hit a headline Wednesday with the presentation of a career seminar on courts and law enforcement.

The seminar is one of a series planned to present various careers descriptions, their requirements, advantages and disadvantages to 20th grade students to help them in selecting a career.

As the groups of about 50 students in each school listened to three police officers, an FBI agent and a prosecuting attorney, one common thought was made clear.

Miss Patricia Graves, Manchester policewoman, drew applause from the group when she told them, "Police departments are there to help you."

Miss Graves, who also works with the youth bureau in the detective division of the Manchester Police Department, said a policeman has to take the same type of training as a policeman.

Baker told the group he has a college degree, and he said it was most helpful meeting today's competition and dealing with the public.

Canteen Tom May Find Warehouse Home

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Canteen Tom, resident cat at the Oklahoma state prison, has a chance to go straight and do some honest work in Connecticut.

Michael Rancato, manager of Mr. Fireplace store in New Haven, has offered to give Canteen Tom a fresh start with steady work as a "watchcat" in his warehouse.

Rancato said Tom's salary would be $8 a month, to be contributed to the prisoners fund at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

Rancato's offer was considered the most promising of the lot but the decision will be up to inmates. "These inmates grow pretty fond of their mascots," Johnston said. "It will be up to them to decide."

Charles Stotts, the inmate who wrote the letter, said that Tom has the mental qualifications for the job. "Tom don't act much like a cat, he seems to have more personality characteristics of a dog," Stotts wrote. "He doesn't like to be handled so he could never live around small children. He is too independent to make a good pet. However, he'd make someone a pretty good friend."

Canteen Tom was born July 25, 1967, and has spent all his life within the walls of the state prison. On July 17, 1973, the day the prison was torn by riots, Tom saw his first dogs — two members of the Tulsa police department's canine corps.

Canteen Tom was offered to give Canteen Tom a fresh start with steady work as a "watchcat" in his warehouse.

Rancato said Tom's salary would be $8 a month, to be contributed to the prisoners fund at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

Rancato's offer was considered the most promising of the lot but the decision will be up to inmates. "These inmates grow pretty fond of their mascots," Johnston said. "It will be up to them to decide."

Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Mrs. Sigmund's Sour Cream Drop Cookies

Susie Sigmund was a girl who liked only plain food when she was growing up. "I was an only child and my parents never forced me to eat anything I didn't like. I wouldn't even taste tuna fish." Today, Susie is the compiler of a cookbook.

Susie's husband, William J. Sigmund Jr., had a much more varied taste. He had traveled extensively with his parents and was accustomed to many dishes. Although the couple were neighbors as children, it wasn't until after their marriage that Susie became interested in tasting and experimenting in the kitchen.

"Bill enjoys cooking too. He'll look through a cookbook and, if a recipe sounds good, he'll try it, especially on weekends." Susie told me. With three young sons to run after, she doesn't object to her husband utilizing the kitchen. The boys are Billy, age five, Christopher, two and Jeffrey, a year old.

Susie hopes that at least one of her sons will one day enter the medical profession. A licensed practical nurse herself, Susie's mother and mother-in-law are both registered nurses. Her father-in-law is a doctor. "I hope when the boys are older to complete my nurses training," she says.

With her family now occupying most of her time, Susie still finds time to sew and garden in season. A member of the Bolton Junior Women's Club, she had a friend who was a member of the Vermont court. "She told me that Vermont ladies had compiled a cookbook of favorite recipes. I thought we in Bolton might do the same so I suggested it to the membership and they liked the idea." Ginny Wickham of Dimock Lane was her co-chairman for the project.

At first, Susie began to wonder whether there would be enough recipes to form a book. "They came in so very slowly. Eventually, there were so many that we had to eliminate more than 200 recipes." When I asked her when the turning point occurred, she conjectures that the stimulus may have been the art of several categories including the book and on its cover: Bonnie Massey, Ann Maulucci and Parise Lemaire are the three artists, all of whom you have read about previously in this column.

The book's title is "Country Cupboard Cooking" which was Bonnie Massey's suggestion. There are 245 pages covering several categories including pickles and preserves in a final chapter entitled "Potpourri." We find granola cereal, pickled eggs and orange wheat germ French toast, among others.

Each member of the Bolton Junior Women's Club submitted 7-8 recipes. Selection's wives and other well-known citizens were invited to participate. Six women have books available for sale at their homes - Ginny Wickham, Linda Boothroyd, Pat Noren, Patrice Lamaire, Bonnie Massey and Bonnie Placore, or contact any club member.

The following selection of recipes are all Susie's. The corn fritters are Pennsylvania Dutch, as the Sigmunds came from Litzitz, Pa. All appear in the book, published in December.

Panel Approves Death Penalties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill setting conditions in which the death sentence automatically would be imposed for some federal crimes.

Neither judge nor jury would have the discretionary power to impose a lesser penalty if the conditions were present.

In approving the bill with little debate Wednesday and sending it to the Senate floor, the committee affirmed its belief that executions serve society's needs.

It called the death sentence "a valid and necessary social remedy against certain dangerous types of criminal offenders."

The panel disputed as inconclusive studies that say capital punishment does not deter criminals.

It acknowledged that the possibility always exists that an innocent defendant may be put to death, but said it knew of no such instance.

The bill spells out "mitigating circumstances" under which a defendant would be spared from execution and "aggravating circumstances" under which death would be mandatory upon conviction.

The purpose is to meet the objections of the Supreme Court which declared in 1972 that the death sentence was so unevenly and arbitrarily administered in this nation's courts as to be unconstitutional.

The court invited Congress and the states to set standards for the imposition of the ultimate penalty of death. The bill was proposed by the Justice Department in response.

Mitigating factors which would automatically spare a defendant's life are these: If at the time of the crime he was under age 18; if he was mentally impaired, played a minor role in the crime or could not reasonably have foreseen that his conduct would cause or create a great risk of causing death.

Under existing federal laws, the death penalty is provided for treason, espionage, and where death results, kidnapping, aircraft hijacking, illegally dealing with explosives, bombings, bank robbery and, in federal jurisdictions, rape and murder.

The panel shook the casinos and high rise buildings of Las Vegas 70 miles away, toppling stacks of gambling chips and swaying chandeliers and blinds.

It was registered on seismographs throughout the West, spreading the equivalent of an earthquake of 5 to 5.5 magnitude on the Richter scale.

A small dust cloud puffed skyward and the ground jumped several feet at ground zero as the nuclear device was detonated at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The weapon was lowered 2,100 feet down a four foot wide vertical shaft. The Environmental Protection Agency, monitoring the test from a plane flying above the site, said no radioactive material escaped into the atmosphere.

It was the 430th nuclear test at the site.

Test Shakes Las Vegas

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — A nuclear weapon, believed to be a sophisticated missile warhead, was exploded beneath the desert Wednesday less than a month after President Nixon warned that Russia is pushing development of new nuclear arms.

The blast shook the casinos and high rise buildings of Las Vegas 70 miles away, toppling stacks of gambling chips and swaying chandeliers and blinds.

It was registered on seismographs throughout the West, spreading the equivalent of an earthquake of 5 to 5.5 magnitude on the Richter scale.

State Funds Will Pay For School Equipment

Impounded state funds which have now been released for use of the Board of Education in the areas of home economics and business education will pay for several items of equipment for the Vernon School system.

The Board of Education has approved spending $6,534 from the education budget and it will be fully reimbursed by the state.

The money will be used to purchase a refrigerator-freezer, $360; two micro-wave ovens at $450 each; one washing machine, $225; one electric stove, $499; and eight sewing machines, $1,400 ($175 each).

All of the above items will be for use in the home economics department. For the business education department, $3,150 will be used to purchase six transcending machines.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said he has been assured by Mayor Frank McCoy that the funds from the state, which automatically fall into the general budget, will be reimbursed to the board's budget.

DOT Changes Plans For Some Highways

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Department of Transportation has proposed major changes for Hartford area highways at a meeting of the Hartford Public Safety and Public Utilities Committee.

The proposals, made Wednesday, include elimination of some entrance and exit ramps on I-84 entirely and the rebuilding of others.

The changes would eliminate many hazardous stretches of highway caused by drivers entering on the left and dodging cars in other lanes in order to take the next right hand exit.

The proposals also included a tunnel under Bushnell Park to connect I-84 with I-91, and a widening of I-84 from two to three lanes in certain areas.

State and city officials must agree on the plan before mid-April if the state is to retain federal funding of the project, a DOT spokesman said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Businessmen and investors around the world are now in the grips of an inflationary fever," says Argus Research Corp. With new highs being recorded daily by commodities, the possibility of a flight from the currency is raised throughout the Western world, it continues. But barring new random disturbances, world economic monetary policies indicate the inflation rate will be contained during the second half of 1974 and the beginning of 1975, the firm says. "And for the United States that means dropping back to a trendline inflation rate of five to six per cent," it adds.

Board Approves Computer Aide

On approval of the Board of Education, the Vernon school system will have a new part-time computer programming assistant to work with Daniel Chesney, data processing manager.

Chesney, to date, is the only person who operates the computer, and last fall he asked for a back-up person not only to assist him in the department but also to have someone who could take over should he be absent for any prolonged period.

Although the town has been considering using the computer, and the Vernon Police Department has requested use of it for some of its data work, presently it is only used for educational work both for teaching students and for business purposes.

It is expected the salary for the part-time programmer will amount to some $1,300 for the remainder of this fiscal year. This would be figured on an average work-week of 20 hours. The time may fluctuate according to the work-load.

It was noted that the need for such a person was reinforced in the annual audit report which recommended that town and education system finance officers review the potential maximum utilization of the computer system being used by the Board of Education.

The town has indicated using the computer for such items as tax bills, sewer user charges, the Grand List, and voting lists. The police would use it for traffic and accident reports, operations management, police information, and case inventory. The police department has offered to supply the keypunch information and the necessary supplies.

A committee of the board, headed by William Houle, is keeping in touch with the town officials but nothing definite has been agreed on as yet.

When Chesney originally made the request last October that the board hire the part-time person, he suggested an annual salary of $7,000 and that part of it be paid out of the general government budget, assuming the town will use the system.

School Board Begins Task Of Paring Budget Requests

VIVIAN KENNESON Correspondent Tel. 875-4704

The Board of Education, presented with the proposed budget for the first time Wednesday night, began the annual tedious task of going over each item, looking for places to cut.

For the first time the board and school superintendent have not had the responsibility of actually gathering and preparing the figures. Dave Hopewell, new school business manager, presented board members with numerous fact sheets regarding all phases of the budget, current and proposed. The board members were given a copy of the budget, and after more than three hours discussion, the board went up with a "ballpark figure" of $3,122,327, but members stressed that the figure is not final.

The $3.1 million was fixed at by adding the total of direct cost increases, new program and additional staff. Fixed costs, and estimated salary increases.

Inflation has hit the school budget hard, with unavoidable cost increases, salaries and non-salaried items. In non-salaried items, special education tuition projected increases are $36,800 or $26,800, depending upon whether the system maintains its own educational program or contracts with a state contractor (reimbursed by the state), and an assistant principal, to which the board is already committed.

Nearly all the requirements at the Middle School are due to the expansion and new facilities available. Tentative approval were given a full-time craft instructor, part-time home economics, half-time physical education, and combined science and math teachers.

At Hicks School the initial offer was given to a full-time clerk, one full and one part-time; gifted and talented teacher, half-time to be shared with Parker; health, half-time to add to one already half-time; and four instructional aides.

The board will meet Monday 8:30 p.m. to continue budget discussions. A meeting will be held March 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Tolland High school cafeteria.

Tentative approval was also given to a clerk for special services, which includes special jello with fruit.

Thursday: Italian grinder, potato chips, corn, dessert.

Friday: Tuna long boys, cheese slice, peas and carrots, peaches.

The Middle School addition will add $43,000 for heat, insurance, and miscellaneous; gasoline will increase by $6,864, and electricity by $10,224. Supplies and textbooks are expected to rise 20 per cent, or $21,526.

Fixed cost salaries include total $78,319, including increments for teachers, secretaries, janitors, aides, principals and nurses, plus two new custodians for the Middle School addition.

Presented with 22 proposed new programs in the high school, Middle School, and special services, the board tentatively approved 13 at a cost of $2,000. Programs included in the figures are math 3, modern novel, folklore and mythology classes, voice, brass and woodwind ensemble, recorder concert, and accompanying courses at the high school. Also home economics, crafts (industrial arts), and girls basketball programs were approved at the Middle School. Also included were two special service items, one for socially and emotionally maladjusted at the Middle School, and one for educably mentally retarded at Hicks.

The latter program, if adopted, would enable six to nine Tolland youngsters, presently attending classes in the Vernon system, to attend Hicks. The cost proposed is $11,546, but $10,000 of it would be deducted from special education tuition. The special education program are two-thirds reimbursed by the state.

One item under new programs which was tentatively approved, but was switched to "additional staff requirements," was Drafting 1 and 2 at the high school. The course has been taught previously but, due to lack of schedule time for teachers, was discontinued last year. Leinbuehler of the I.D. department said projected enrollment in the drafting classes is 100 to 120 students.

Under additional staff requirements, the board considered 30 items. First round approval at the high school went to teachers for math, English, home economics, and education, a work experience program coordinator (reimbursed by the state), and an assistant principal, to which the board is already committed.

Robert Dean, chairman of the board, used a figure of $2,174,373 for estimated salaries for all personnel for next year. He stressed that the amount, representing combined increment and cost of living raises of 8.3 per cent, was simply picked from the air to arrive at an approximate total figure.

The Board of Selectmen turned down a proposed teachers' raise of 9.8 per cent combined cost of living and increments. The selectmen sent the contract back into negotiation. Yet to be negotiated are clerical, janitorial, administrative and nurses.

Estimated revenue anticipated for the next fiscal year total nearly $800,000. This includes $14,900 ADM if Gov. Thomas McKillop's proposed $25 ADM holds. Pressure is being applied for increased ADM to $30. If this occurs Tolland's share would be raised to $838,500 ADM.

The board will meet Monday 8:30 p.m. to continue budget discussions. A meeting will be held March 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Tolland High school cafeteria.

'River People' Evicted

STROUBSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A small army of federal marshals evicted more than 80 "river people" from their colony on the proposed site of the Tocks Island Dam along the Delaware River.

The "Operation went very smoothly," said Robert Campbell, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. "They were taken to the edge of the federal property and that was it. After that, they were on their own."

The mass eviction at the commune-type colony began at daybreak by 90 jumpsuited marshals supported by State Police. The move abruptly ended a more than three-year court battle between the squatters, some who inhabited the land since 1969, and the U.S. Justice Department.

The squatter families, who have been living in about 20 homes on the heavily wooded, 21,000-acre site while planting crops and raising livestock, ignored a federal court order to leave the land last Dec. 12 or be forcibly removed.

Although the octopus is generally smaller than most people believe, one species from the Pacific Ocean measures 28 feet across the tentacles.

East Easily Outclasses Lyman Hall, 83-45, Whelton Sets Hot Pace With 24-Point Show

By Len Auster

Scrawled in the dust atop this party's mode of transportation were three words of wisdom—"East is Best." Last night at New Britain High in the playground round of the State Basketball Tournament Class A Division, East Catholic was clearly that.

Shrugging off a late season letdown, Coach Stan Odrogny's 11th ranked Eagles ran roughshod over a thoroughly outclassed Lyman Hall of Wallingford quintet, 83-45, before 1,600 fans. East advances to the round of 16 and will face tonight's Plainville-Warren Harding winner Tuesday at an undetermined site while the 22nd ranked Housatonic League-member Trojans bow out with a 16-9 record.

Defense, rebounding, shooting from the floor was outstanding as all the pieces of the jigsaw puzzle fell into place for East. Enjoining a rare height advantage, the Eagles hauled in 64 rebounds, including an incredible 26 offensive rebounds. Jumping Joe Martens was chairman of the boards with a season-high 15 caroms. Junior center Jim Wehr was next in line with 13 rebounds while John Riccio cleared the backboards for nine.

"We didn't know what to expect from them (Lyman) but this was the last thing we expected. We did an excellent job defensively, especially Riccio and (Ron) Soucier. They stuck to their men (John Mattie and Rob Riccietelli) early and that set the tempo," rejoiced East mentor Odrogny. Riccietelli and Mattie were held to 14 and 12 points respectively, seven under their seasonal averages.

Lyman led early, 4-4, but with Riccio netting nine of his 19 points in the first stanza and Joe Whelton seven of his game-high 24. East led after the first turn, 19-11. In the second period, East put the tilt in its hip pocket, outscoring Lyman, 12-2, to take a 30-13 halftime lead. The Trojans connected on their first shot of the canto, but misfired on their next 11. And they never got a second shot as Martens in particular, skyrocketed over boards to latch onto errant tosses.

Odrogny substituted freely in the third and fourth quarters, with the Eagles cruising to their biggest margin at the end. The closest the Wallingford club came in the second half was 55-53.

"We didn't play a great game overall, but defensively, we turned in a fine effort. We made great improvements, the execution of our offenses was a lot sharper than the last few games — but we still can be sharper," noted Odrogny.

Overall, East connected on 35 of 58 attempts from the floor. Whelton (11 for 20), Riccio (eight for nine) and

Hartford No. 1 In Division Poll

BOSTON (UPI) — The University of Hartford, 18-2 including wins over Bentley and Assumption, has taken over the top spot in the UPI coaches ratings of New England Division II college basketball teams.

Brandeis continues its lock on the Division III race, with Salem State second.

The Hartford Hawks, who have completed the regular season and have been invited to the NCAA regional tournament at Bentley March 8-9, received 13 of 19 first-place votes and a total of 79 points.

Bentley, 18-4 with two games remaining, picked up five first-place ballots among 74 points to finish second. Bentley will play Assumption in the first round of the NCAA.

Assumption, 18-6, was third with 57 points, including one first-place ballot, while St. Michael's, 18-9 and headed for a first-round clash with Hartford in the NCAA, finished fourth with 37 points.

Brandeis, enjoying its 10th straight week atop Division III, picked up five of 10 first-place votes and a total of 44 points. The Judges, 16-6, were hoping for one of the two remaining invitations to the ECAC Tournament at Tufts.

Salem State, 18-5, collected 36 points, including two top votes, to finish second, while Worcester State was third with two first-place ballots among 27 points. Both teams will complete this Saturday in the NAIA regional tournament at Bryant.

Westfield State received 17 votes to finish fourth, and Boston State was fifth with 10 points.

Points are awarded on a descending scale with first-place votes worth five points apiece.

UConn, Fairfield Awaiting NIT Bids

HARTFORD (UPI) — A round of NIT tournament bids was to go out today and at least two Connecticut teams had their fingers crossed for them.

University of Connecticut, having defeated Boston College which was also considered NIT material, believes it has a chance despite recent setback to Rutgers and Georgetown.

The Huskies, now 17-7, have another biggie coming up Saturday against Boston University. A favorable performance could clinch it.

Fairfield University feels its Wednesday night 51-47 defeat of St. Peter's of Jersey City, N.J., puts it in the ring for a bid.

Its crucial game could prove to be Saturday against Holy Cross. Holy Cross upset Boston College last week.

At least one Connecticut team, University of Hartford, has been named to the NCAA College Division playoffs already.

The Hawks have managed to maintain a spectacular 14-game winning streak.

Trinity College, which was hoping for an ECAC bid, has had its aspirations stunted by their 83-66 loss to Tufts, which is already tournament bound, Tuesday.

Nevertheless, the Bantams, now 16-7, are not out of the running yet.

In Wednesday night basketball, Central Connecticut moved its record to 13-11 by defeating Merrimack College 97-89.

Don Sims led the Blue Devils, scoring 31 points. Teammate Don Jones collected 24 points.

Merrimack, now 8-18, was led by Tom Connor who tallied 27 points.

The two teams tied at 43 halftime.

Freshman Levi Jackson scored his 500th point of the season as he led Western Connecticut State to a 98-61 victory over winless Vassar College.

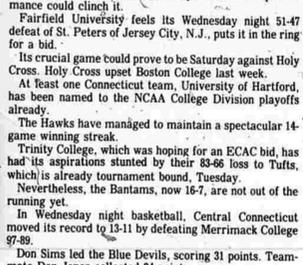

Jackson, who notched 30 points in Wednesday's game, was the first freshman in the history of Western ever to hit 500 points for the season, and only the second player in the college history to do it at all.

The win put Western at 12-11 and Vassar at 0-10.

Co-Champions in Greater Hartford Freshman League

Winners of 15 of 17 starts and a tie for championship laurels in the Greater Hartford Freshman Basketball League was Coach Frank Kinell's East Catholic High squad.

O'Donnell Jumps

BOSTON (UPI) — Fred O'Donnell, the former Boston Bruins' right winger who became dislocated when the club traded him, has jumped from the National Hockey League to the rival World Hockey Association.

Havlicek Watches from Sidelines

The Braves, behind Bob McAdoo's 37 points, beat Boston 122-104 for the first time in 23 meetings since they entered the National Basketball Association four years ago.

"We don't have the personnel to play a tough defense, but we have the great shooters and when we run we can usually open one man or another."

Dave Cowens scored 20 points for Boston while Jo White added 15.

The two teams meet again Friday in Buffalo.

In other games, Kansas City-Omaha beat Atlanta 85-76, Capital City Seattle 104-100, Los Angeles nipped Milwaukee 110-108 and Chicago downed Phoenix 107-95.

Kings 85 Hawks 76

Don Kojis scored 20 points to lead Kansas City-Omaha over Atlanta. Both teams played give-away with a multitude of turnovers but the Kings edged together late in the fourth period after the Hawks had come from five points down to take a two-point lead, 70-68 with 7:05 left. The Kings then outscored the Hawks 13-2 over the next five and had minutes and the Hawks couldn't challenge again. Atlanta was led by rookie Dwight James with 17 points, 15 in the second half.

Bullets 104, SuperSonics 100

Kevin Porter hit two free throws with two seconds left to ice Capital's victory over Seattle. Phil Chenier hit a 20-foot jumper with 1:22 remaining to give Capital a 102-100 lead. Seattle center Spencer Hayward then missed a chance to tie the game with a layup and as the clock ran down, the Sonics' John Hummer fouled Porter. Chenier finished with 25 points while Elvin Hayes added 24 points and grabbed 27 rebounds. Fred Brown scored 20 of his 28 points in the second half for the losers and Hayward finished with 20 points.

Discarded Mike Green Big Factor With Denver

DENVER (UPI) — The Indiana Pacers didn't think they had room for Mike Green, their first round draft choice last year.

"He had just come off a championship built on a solid front line," Denver Rocket coach Alex Hannum, who obtained the rights to Green from the Pacers, explained Wednesday night.

"I decided it was better to get rid of him than to take on another huge contract."

Indiana Coach Bob Leonard was wondering just how wide that decision was Wednesday night after Green scored 22 points — 18 in the second half — and grabbed 16 rebounds to lead Denver to a 118-114 win over the defending American Basketball Association champion Pacers.

In other ABA games, San Antonio outscored New York Knickerbockers 107-103. Kentucky ripped Virginia 104-83 and San Diego tripped Carolina 119-117.

Spurs 107, Nets 103

George Gervin broke a 100-100 tie with two free throws with 1:15 left in the game and James Silas led the San Antonio Spurs, spoke his mind freely and emotionally Wednesday night.

Blasting the "ridiculous and bush" way he was peddled by Virginia owner Earl Foreman to the Spurs, Gervin complained he was "treated like a horse for sale" and urged American Basketball Association players to "take a players' stand as a Players' Association."

"I was kept in the dark most of the time and deceived, just like the fans," said Gervin. "I've never had these businessmen make deals involving your life and expect you to follow blindly. I didn't know where I was supposed to be. It was a lousy 10-10 days and wound up missing a game. Foreman told me I wasn't going anywhere."

Marquette Struggles In Defeating Toledo

NEW YORK (UPI) — A no-fo-funny thing almost happened to seventh ranked Marquette on its way to the NCAA basketball tournament.

The Warriors, who will be one of nine teams today to receive a bid to the post-season tourney, had to struggle Wednesday night before pulling out a 61-58 victory over Toledo.

Maurice Lucas, described by Marquette coach Al McGuire as a player with "un

Pressure Off Aaron, Rose

NEW YORK (UPI) — The pressure seems to be off for both Pete Rose and Hank Aaron. Rose signed his 1974 Cincinnati Reds contract Wednesday for an estimated $180,000 that represented "the biggest raise in my career." He was paid $118,000 last year.

Obviously relaxed, Rose quipped: "Now, I can pay that $250 fine I received during last year's playoff," referring to his run-in with New York Mets shortstop Bud Harrelson at Shea Stadium.

Aaron said at the opening of the Atlanta Braves spring training camp in West Palm Beach, Fla., that, "I think I have plenty of time to break Babe Ruth's home run record. I hope to hit 40 this year."

Aaron, looking as trim at 40 as he did as a rookie 20 years ago, needs one more home run to tie the 714 established by the immortal Ruth.

"I feel no pressure at all... I feel like I know what I have to do to get in shape," Aaron said after a morning workout and prior to taking the afternoon off to play golf.

The Chicago White Sox came to terms with third baseman Bill Melton and then welcomed first baseman Dick Allen for one of his earliest arrivals at a training camp. Allen said he was anxious to get started after missing more than three months of 1973 because of a leg fracture.

Ron Santo, new in camp after 14 years with the cross-town Cubs, said "it feels strange. I feel like a kid, I'm so nervous."

Absences at a couple of camps were noted when infielder Teddy Martinez and special instructor Willie Mays failed to show at the Mets workout in Petersburg, Fla., and the Houston Astros, at Cocoa, Fla., reported that relief hurler Jerry Johnson and utility men Cliff Johnson and Ignacio Javier failed to appear as scheduled.

Los Angeles Dodgers manager Walter Alston decided to hold heart-to-heart talks with his players to determine if we are thinking along the same lines in terms of the weaknesses each of our players must work on this spring," Pitchers Don Sutton and Al Downing and catcher Joe Ferguson remain unsigned.

Pitching coach Whitey Ford reported New York Yankee right-hander Steve Kluck appears well recovered from a sore right elbow that sidelined him most of last season. Kluck showed good velocity on his fastball and sinker, the stick in trade for his 18 victories two years ago.

On the far side of the Grapefruit circuit, the Cleveland Indians had nearly a complete squad of 15 players at Tucson, Ariz. Centerfielder George Hendrick is the only holdout.

Most impressive in the cage was Juan Beniquez, who has been benched by manager Davey Johnson since late last season. He also took batting practice as did all of the non-pitchers.

In fact, until this season, it had been accomplished only seven times in National Hockey League history, and on five of those occasions Orr was the perpetrator. The other two defencemen were Flash Hollett with 20 goals for Detroit in 1944 and Brad Park with 24 goals for the New York Rangers two years ago.

Orr, of course, already has passed the 20-goal plateau this season. The Ranger All-Star Wednesday night Park became the only other defenceman to reach that height for a second time in the game at 20.

"I'd been thinking about it," Park related when asked about the 20th goal. "I said to myself, 'Jeez, it'd be nice to do it again so that you don't think you just got lucky once.' Now it gives me a lot of personal satisfaction to know I've done it twice."

Oddly, just before Park took the ice for that fateful goal, he heard a fan yell "behind him." "Hey, Park, why don't you go out and earn your goal," he said.

Selection Inforama At High School Today

Manchester High School will sponsor a high school course selection inforama today from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Clarke Arena.

The purpose of the inforama is to give parents an opportunity to learn more about the more than 300 courses to be offered at the high school next year.

Department heads and teachers will be on hand and stationed at "booths" with displays or demonstrations. They will provide explanations of course offerings and differences in levels, and answer any questions about courses in their departments.

Members of the Guidance Department will also be available to discuss individual student programs and course selections for next year.

Parents who have questions about the open campus at MHS, semestration of courses and schedules, and other school policies, may confer informally with the school administrators.

All parents of current and prospective high school students are invited to attend. Students are urged to accompany their parents if they do not attend the daytime session held for students.

Church To Discuss Downtown Parking

Two houses on the church property would have to be eliminated to provide room for the proposed parking lot.

At this morning's meeting the downtown committee also viewed plans for a pedestrian sitting area proposed for the parking lot on the west side of Main St. just south of the S&H Green Stamp center. The area, about 50 by 30 feet would be repaved, set off by shade trees (possibly lindens) and lined with benches. It would be located just north of the end of the wall which runs in front of the lot.

It would be cut off from the lot by a low wall of railroad ties.

If the area were paved with brick and all work were done
