Wilson Named PM

Labor Party Takes Over

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today named a new Labor government that included Denis Healey, 56, as chancellor of the exchequer to lead the nation out of its economic crisis. The government called immediate peace talks with striking coal miners.

Healey, defense secretary in the last Labor government, will have the task of handling the country's severe fiscal medicine needed to pull it out of its deepening economic crisis.

James Callaghan, 62, chairman of the Labor party and a former Labor government chancellor of the exchequer and home secretary, was named foreign secretary.

Roy Jenkins, 53, widely regarded as a successful chancellor of the exchequer during Wilson's last administration, was named home secretary, a job he also held earlier in Wilson's last government.

Eric Varley, 42, a little known Labor party member, was named secretary of state for energy. His job will primarily be to deal with Britain's energy crisis and also with her rich offshore oil resources in the North Sea.

Mrs. Barbara Castle, 61, employment secretary in Wilson's last government, was named secretary of state for social services.

Anthony Wedgwood Benn, a prominent left-wing Labor party leader and minister of technology in the last Labor government, was appointed secretary of state for industry.

Michael Foot, 60, a one-time rebel leftwinger, was named secretary for employment.

Immediately after being appointed, Foot invited leaders of Britain's 269,000 striking miners to meet him later today for peace talks.

His familiar pipe clenched between his teeth, Wilson arrived at the prime minister's residence at No. 10 Downing St. shortly before 10 a.m. from his nearby home.

Wilson smiled and waved to waiting newsmen and photographers before entering the familiar black door.

His day started with good news. The pound sterling, shaky throughout the recent crisis, climbed 1.75 cents at the foreign exchange market, opening at $2.2878.

Mrs. Meir Delays Resignation Plans

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir called an emergency meeting of her Labor party's ruling central committee today in a final effort to overcome bickering and form a new government.

Mrs. Meir changed her mind Monday night after announcing plans to give up her attempts to establish a new coalition government and step down from office.

She had vowed to tell President Ephraim Katzir of her decision to let somebody else form a new government, but decided at the last moment to keep trying until Wednesday after Labor politicians pleaded with her to stay on.

White House Attorneys Seek Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House attorneys have asked to meet with House Judiciary Committee leaders Wednesday to discuss a committee request for presidential papers in its impeachment inquiry, it was learned today.

President Nixon's chief attorney for Watergate matters, James D. St. Clair, asked chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., for the meeting late Monday night but did not produce any of the numerous White House documents, tapes or logs the committee requested Feb. 25.

The White House failure to respond to the request for more than a week had irritated some Republican and Democratic committee members. Some had been prepared to urge during a meeting with impeachment inquiry staff today that subpoenas be issued for the material.

The committee's special counsel, John M. Doar, said before making the initial request that it should not take St. Clair very long to comply.

Air Force Fuel Plane Crashes

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — An Air Force KC135 aircraft, carrying 136,000 pounds of fuel, crashed and exploded early today.

Five of the seven crew members were hospitalized at McConnell AFB. Two others were missing and presumed dead.

The craft came down on property belonging to Cessna Aircraft about 3:50 a.m.

Special Hearing Set by Sirica

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has called an extraordinary hearing Wednesday to help him decide what to do with a grand jury's secret report believed to detail President Nixon's possible role in the Watergate cover-up.

Sirica announced plans for the hearing Monday after a hastily called meeting with Watergate prosecutors, White House lawyers and attorneys for two of Nixon's former top aides now under indictment in the alleged cover-up plot.

In a one-sentence statement, Sirica said the hearing was set so "all interested counsel may state their views regarding disposition" of the report, which the grand jury handed him last Friday after indicting seven of Nixon's former White House and campaign aides.

Sources have said the grand jury asked Sirica to forward the report to the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering Nixon's impeachment.

The committee was scheduled to meet this morning for a "major briefing" by the staff on the progress of the investigation to date and possibly to consider subpoenaing White House information.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., said Monday the White House had not yet responded to a committee request for material issued eight days ago.

He said the committee wanted to give the White House a "reasonable time" and "I believe it is a reasonable time."

Nephews of Sen. Weicker

Two Survive Plane Crash

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Two boys who survived two nights of subfreezing temperature and a fierce snowstorm in the Colorado Rockies were rescued Monday from the wreckage of a plane that killed their mother, father, brother, sister and the pilot.

The survivors, rescued because of the diligence of a young boy, were the nephews of Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Garfield county undersheriff Robert Hart said a 9-year-old boy who saw the plane vanish Saturday led rescuers to the wreckage. Hart said the boy, who was not identified, told his father he saw the plane go down, but the father refused to believe him.

The sighting was not reported until Sunday.

"The boy that saw the plane disappear was taken back up Sunlight Peak in the morning," Hart said. "The boy pointed out where the plane disappeared and directed the helicopter and snowmobiles."

Andrew Godfrey, 8 and his brother, Mark, 11, were hospitalized in Aspen, Colo. A hospital spokesman said Mark was in "serious to

Buckland Homeowners May Appeal Decision

By DOUG BEVINS

Leaders of an 80-member homeowners association opposing plans for Arthur M. Fischer's proposed development at Buckland indicated today there will probably be legal action to overturn Monday night's rezoning decisions made by the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC).

William Anderson and Lawrence Noone, who head the Buckland homeowners group, said they'll be talking to the association lawyer to possibly instigate court action appealing PZC decisions granting zone changes for the massive, mixed-use development.

Anderson and Noone, who both live on Burnham St., were shocked and disappointed this morning after learning of the PZC's Monday night votes granting zone changes of 256 acres of tobacco land near their homes.

"They (the PZC) acted hastily and incorrectly," Anderson said.

"It's wrong for our neighborhood — and our town," Noone commented.

Anderson and Noone indicated that a court appeal, if it takes place as expected, will probably be based on traffic considerations.

Multiple-Use Plan Involves 256 Acres In Manchester

By DOUG BEVINS

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) Monday night approved zone changes to allow a massive, mixed-use development on tobacco land at Buckland.

With little fanfare and only an hour of discussion, PZC members changed zoning on about 256 acres of land now zoned Rural Residence.

The zone changes were being sought by MAP Associates, an investment partnership led by developer Arthur M. Fischer of New York City, for a 10-to-15-year development of commercial, industrial, and residential uses.

Rezoning approved by the PZC is for 138 acres of CUD (Comprehensive Urban Development) Zone, 80 acres of Business 3 Zone, and 38 acres of Industrial Zone.

The PZC denied a fourth part of the MAP Associates' application — for seven acres of Business 1 Zone at the southwest corner of Burnham and Windsor Sts.

The PZC's votes on the rezoning came on motions made by John Hutchinson and seconded by Joseph Swenson. The decisions were split into two votes: One for the business and industrial zoning and the other for the CUD application.

PZC members voted 4-1 on the Business 3 and Industrial Zone applications (David Paris was the dissenter) and 3-2 for the CUD rezoning (Paris and Clarence Welti were the opponents).

PZC members voting on the applications were Hutchinson, Swenson, Paris, Welti, and chairman Alfred Sieffert.

Monday night's decision by the PZC came about four months after the first public hearing on the applications was conducted Nov. 5. That hearing and a second hearing Dec. 3 drew considerable opposition to the MAP Associates plans from an 80-member Buckland homeowner's association.

Leaders of the homeowners group indicated this morning there will probably be a court appeal seeking an overturn of the PZC decisions.

PZC members discussed the MAP Associates' applications for only an hour before making their decisions Monday night. They had, however, discussed the project at other recent meetings, including a session last week with Fischer, the developer.

Hutchinson, moving for approval of the applications, said the commission had studied the proposals thoroughly, and he presented a 10-item list of favorable considerations.

He maintained that rezoning would be consistent with the town's plan for development, providing for logical and orderly development in harmony with regional land use plans.

State plans for interstate highway improvements will relieve traffic flow, Hutchinson said, mentioning also that environmental concerns will be satisfied by state and federal regulations, that Fischer's proposed development will broaden the town's tax base, and that the project will be the best use of the tobacco land.

Paris and Welti, opposing the CUD rezoning, agreed that existing zoning regulations for the CUD Zone allow development of too high a density.

Welti suggested that the CUD regulations need a complete overhaul, because the present rules are "excessive" in terms of density.

Paris maintained that CUD zoning at Buckland would allow a density of housing inappropriate for the area.

Paris also contended that the proposed mixed-use development could be attractive and self-contained, but it would be isolated from the rest of Manchester.

"That's ideal," Town Planner J. Eric Potter replied.

"But it's the kind of thing that tears a town apart," Paris added.

Paris said he has noticed a trend toward a greater proportion.

District 9 Polls Open Until 8 P.M.

The polls will close at 8 tonight in the District 9 (Keeney St. School) Democratic primary for seven seats on the Democratic Town Committee. The seven persons endorsed for the committee in a Jan. 29 caucus are being challenged by seven incumbents who failed to win endorsement.

About 800 registered Democrats are eligible to vote today. A total of 193 voted Jan. 29. Those wishing rides to the polls may call 649-1955.

Council Balks at Naming Dureiko to Fire Position

Peter Dureiko was appointed as a deputy building inspector but his appointment as deputy fire marshal was tabled at the meeting of the Vernon Town Council Monday night. Because there was some controversy about the latter appointment and because Mayor Frank McCoy was out-of-town, the council agreed to table action on it until the next council meeting when the mayor would be present to offer more information. Councilman Thomas Benoit voiced objection to the same person being appointed to the two deputy posts. He said the positions should be filled by two different persons thinking independently, noting he did not feel there would be a check and balance system with the same person holding both positions. Benoit also added that the deputy fire marshal should be certified and "I don't think Dureiko is."

Town Attorney Abbott Schwebel said he understood from a state meeting that he attended that the deputy would do some of the leg work for the fire marshal who would do the certification. He said there is a difference between certification of fire marshals and deputies. During the course of approving appointments to boards and commissions, Councilman Thomas Wolff brought up the subject of minority representation on the various commissions. While some council members felt it is the responsibility of the Democratic and Republican Town Committee chairmen to see that the state statute concerning minority representation is complied with, Wolff felt the town clerk should be called upon to do this. The motion was then passed to instruct the town clerk to prepare a list of commission members with party-affiliation noted, and to maintain this list, to the best of his ability, and to note the maximum majority representation for each. Other appointments approved were: Ronald Gates to Vernon Housing Authority; Mary Ellen Linderman to Recreation Commission; Gary Horan, alternate on Zoning Commission; Donald Eden, Union Negotiations Committee; Karl Baer, Redevelopment Commission; reappointment of Jim-Daigle to Redevelopment Commission; and reappointment of Herman Olson to the Traffic Authority.

Comment Session Attracts No One Not even one person appeared this morning at a two-hour Board of Directors comment session, reported Republican Director Vivian Ferguson, whose turn it was to take comments, complaints and suggestions. Three persons appeared at the session Feb. 21 and only one Feb. 5. The board's comment sessions, started early in 1967 when Nathan Agostinelli was Manchester mayor, are held on the first Tuesday and third Thursday of each month.

FBI Regaining Prestige

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, which has been in some degree of eclipse since the death of J. Edgar Hoover, gives promise of regaining the respect and admiration which it long held in public esteem.

Arrest of the kidnapers of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy, and recovery of the ransom money intact, within five hours of Murphy's release, was a notable deed of crime detection.

In his story of the kidnapping Murphy praised the FBI effort throughout the affair and said that anyone who said a bad word against the bureau law officers would have to answer to his wife, who was enthusiastically pleased with their handling of the case.

In the Patricia Hearst kidnapping they are operating under wraps, of course, with their prime concern being the return of the kidnapped girl, as this is being written.

There is no doubt, however, that the quietly they are accumulating information about her kidnapers, as well as the rest of the so-called Symbionese Liberation Army. At the proper time they will take the required actions.

The FBI, under Mr. Hoover, was one of the favorite targets of liberals.

They saw every agent as a potential arm of a police state, such as in Russia, or the vicious little dictatorship that Poppa Doc Duvalier ran in Haiti.

Perhaps, Mr. Hoover, who at his death was the only director the bureau had in its existence — was partly responsible for this. He was autocratic, formidable and seemingly unassailable. And he was strictly a law and order man giving no quarter to criminals, or agitators of the scholastic type of the '60's.

The tenure of Acting Director Pat Gray was an unhappy one and ended in his resignation.

Upon the ascent of former Kansas City Police Chief Clarence Kelley to FBI director there seems to have been a turnabout in the status of the agency, which may have been predicting, perhaps hopefully, might go out of existence.

It will not take many feats like the Murphy kidnaping work to return the FBI to prominence equal to that which it held under Mr. Hoover, or perhaps, to even greater standing.

Americans interested in law and order, the prevention of crime, and apprehension of malefactors, should welcome that.

Credit Card vs. Cash

As a hardshelled and mossbacked believer in paying cash, one of our pet peeves has been the fact that the widespread use of credit cards has upped prices of the consumer, whether you paid cash or not.

Perhaps some ease to our indignation may be found in a suit which has been filed by Consumer Union against two credit card firms.

The suit makes our point entirely that people who pay cash, because they like to know how much of their money is really theirs, are being put upon. What happens is this: If you charge $100 to your credit card, when it is collected by the issuing agency and, finally paid to the people owed, 5 per cent is deducted to pay for the service. You pay $100, the credit card company gets $95, and the creditor gets $95.

Naturally this cuts down on the margin of profit to the firm whose goods or services has been purchased. If they need $100 for that they have sold, they have to charge $105.27 to net that same one hundred, after paying 5 per cent to the credit card company.

And what happens to the old-fashioned cash buyer? Well he is charged the higher price too for something which should have cost him $100.

Isn't it a crazy-mixed-up world when the fellow who walks in with $100 cash in his hand, has to pay more, and finally paid to the people owed, 5 per cent is deducted to pay for the service. You pay $100, the credit card

A Poor Deal

Tonight, the Bolton taxpayers will be asked at a special meeting, called for no other purpose but to purchase a chipper of questionable quality and price.

The chipper, asking price $5,800, was rejected by Andover townspeople in January 1970. It was offered to us minus $2,000.

The chipper, asking price $5,800, was rejected by Andover townspeople in January 1970. It was offered to us minus $2,000.

I don't think the question is anymore whether we need a chipper or not but whether we should buy this particular chipper. A different chipper would still bring in a 50/day of use return.

It has been pointed out that Andover is the logical chipper owner because the dump is there that we can't get rid of chipper from them at $50 per day, which, of course, would be reimbursed by the state.

Therefore, we won't even have any of the maintenance problems associated with it. I spoke with the Andover first selectman Thursday and he said that although they are intending to buy a chipper, if

School Doors Opening To Learning Disabled

According to the U.S. Office of Education, more than 4.5 million school-age children suffer from some form of handicapped condition that affects their capacity to use or understand language.

These handicaps range from minor learning disabilities to aphasia, the impairment of loss of language faculties, and dyslexia, the impairment of the ability to read due to brain defects.

Without the ability to grasp the basic tools of language, a child's future academic success — and social development — are severely limited.

It is a landmark federal district court decision, a consent decree was issued which mandated Pennsylvania to provide special education programs and services for handicapped children. This mandate is the largest of public education in Pennsylvania's response to it — has set a precedent that is being followed in school districts across the country.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education has developed a program for learning-disabled children in the nation. It was developed by Monterey Learning Systems through research conducted by the Behavioral Sciences Institute, a nonprofit educational research and therapy organization. More than 29 school districts covering the entire state and more than 1,000 speech and hearing personnel are involved in the project.

Parents in other states are following the example of their counterparts in Pennsylvania. As a result, at least a dozen similar consent decrees have been issued by federal courts across the country and educators in some 30 states have chosen to integrate Monterey's program into their public school systems.

Nixon's Biggest Mistake

WASHINGTON — A letter from a mail carrier in upper New York state is typical of hundreds received in the past three months on what might be called the Case of Some of the People Against Richard Nixon.

"How do you like that?" asks the postman, who signed his name and address but begged anonymity "because I don't want to get fired. I paid more income taxes than the President. The working force now numbers more than 80 members."

Last week the choice of delegates for the State Convention were endorsed. Named to represent Mr. Grasso in District 1 was Charles N. Ezes and Mrs. Nicholas; District 2, Louis Anelli; District 3, Beverly Glassman and Lewis Dube; and District 4, Thomas Griffin and Mary Sedlock.

Also named was Mrs. Lorraine Calabrese as hospitality chairman for "An Evening With Ella" event to be held March 23 at the St. Margaret Mary's Church Hall, Hayes Rd., from 8 to 11. Mrs. Grasso will be there to meet with South Windsor residents and answer questions.

Church Women Meet
The executive board of Wapping Community Church Women will meet March 11 at 8 p.m. at the home of Ed Hegutubo, 41 Orchard Hill Dr.

The group will hold a meeting March 18 at 7 p.m. at the church.

Buckland Rd. between Denning St. and Oakland St. was closed to through traffic today because of a break in a sewer line. The Department of Public Works announced today.

It will remain closed tomorrow and possibly Thursday while repairs are being made.

Motorists are urged to use alternate routes such as Clark St. and Denning St.

Buckland Rd. will also be closed from 5 p.m. March 9 until 1 a.m. March 10 for work on a culvert.

The road will be open to traffic, with some delays, from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. on March 9 and 10.

A major culvert will be reconstructed between Denning St. and Smith St. In the event of the inclement weather, the project will be postponed until the weekend of March 16 and 17.

Suggested alternate routes are Smith St., Clark St. and Denning St.

Delegates Endorsed
The "Friends of Ella-South Windsor" committee reports continued growth in enthusiastic workers for Mrs. Grasso in her bid for the Democratic candidacy for governor.

The working force now numbers more than 80 members.

Last week the choice of delegates for the State Convention were endorsed. Named to represent Mr. Grasso in District 1 was Charles N. Ezes and Mrs. Nicholas; District 2, Louis Anelli; District 3, Beverly Glassman and Lewis Dube; and District 4, Thomas Griffin and Mary Sedlock.

The group will hold a meeting March 18 at 7 p.m. at the church.

The program will include a tour of Manchester Memorial Hospital, followed by a movie and dessert and coffee. The business meeting will be held at the hospital.

If you plan to attend, call Jean Clay, 644-5491, or Margaret Farnchuck, 644-1281, by March 11.

Court of Honor
Scout Troop 186, South Windsor, will observe its 10th anniversary with a family supper and Court of Honor on Wednesday, at the Avery St. School.

The observance will include the awarding of Eagle badges, the highest achievement in scouting, to two boys, bringing to eight the number of Eagle scouts in the ten-year history of Troop 186.

The new Eagle Scouts are Scott Wisneski and Jay Ferguson Wisneski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Wisneski, 2965 Ellington Rd., is a 9th grade student at East Catholic High School.

Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ferguson, 736 Avery St., is a junior at South Windsor High School.

Several other scouts will receive advancement awards.

Guest speaker will be Abraham Glassman, Joseph R. Russo Jr. is scoutmaster of Troop 186.

200 Expected At GOP Fete
About 200 persons are expected to attend Saturday when Manchester Republicans hold their Lincoln Day dinner.

The event is co-sponsored by the Republican Town Committee and the Republican Women's Club. It was scheduled several weeks ago.

Guest speaker will be Abraham Glassman, Joseph R. Russo Jr. is scoutmaster of Troop 186.

Honored at Testimonial

Jim Arnold, right, former chairman of the South Windsor Board of Education, and Paul Kupchunas, who served on the town's Planning and Zoning Commission for 25 years, were honored at a testimonial last Friday with more than 200 people in attendance.

Arnold served on the Board of Education for eight years and as its chairman for four years. He stepped down from the board last November. Kupchunas did not choose to seek re-election in November. Attending the banquet were Hartford Mayor George Athenson and Atty. General Robert Killian. (Herald photo by Dunn)

No Changes Planned At New Hope: Uccello

By ALICE EVANS
"No major policy changes are being planned for New Hope Manor at this time; everything is just as it has been," Mrs. Madeline Uccello, president of its board of directors, said today.

She denied rumors that the drug rehabilitation center for girls is having serious problems. She said the center's regular studies.

"Education is one of the features that makes our program unique. The girls are able to keep up with their studies at school, and we want to help them with the things they have to know," she said.

"Part of the duties the girls have is learning to cook and menu planning. We dropped that part of it as the girls were unable to read a recipe or directions on a can. These are things that the kids ready to go out on re-entry would have to know," she said.

New Hope, which had 11 girls in residence in February now has only six. In explaining the drop, Mrs. Uccello said there are three girls on re-entry status, which is a period when the girls return to their homes for a trial readjustment. They, Mrs. Uccello said.

"We are not concerned with race, religion nor ethnic background; we only see girls that are in need," Mrs. Uccello said as she denied rumors that the board is trying to bring Catholicism into New Hope.

The Rev. Wayne Kendall of South United Methodist Church is the center's spiritual advisor. He conducts "open sessions," not religious programs, and is planning to have members of other churches come to the center and discuss their faiths, Mrs. Uccello said.

Council Votes $22,000 For Housing for Elderly

Following brief public hearings Monday night the Vernon Town Council approved a resolution appropriating $22,000 for housing for the elderly and an ordinance requiring psychiatric exams for employment in the Vernon Police Department.

No one spoke against either proposal at the public hearings. Francis Pitkat, executive chairman of the Vernon Housing Authority, spoke in favor of the $22,000 appropriation which will be used for preliminary work in connection with the proposed 30-unit project.

The new units will be built adjacent to an existing project on Grove St. Pitkat said the new complex will include a community room which the old project does not have, thereby giving residents of both a place to hold social functions.

Pitkat said there is also a great need for more housing units so the new project will fulfill this need.

The State Bonding Commission has already appropriated the funds to construct the project. If the total is not used up the town may get the $22,000 back.

No one spoke for or against the ordinance requiring police officers to take a psychiatric exam before they are hired.

Ryan on PZC

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent
644-1364

The South Windsor Town Council last night unanimously approved the appointment of Richard Ryan to the Planning and Zoning Commission, a position for which the Republicans nominated Joseph Carino.

Ryan has been serving as an alternate to the PZC. Carino, however, was approved for appointment to the Econom Development Commission to fill an unexpired term ending November 1977.

The end of the controversy appeared in sight when Carino himself nominated Ryan to replace his name for the PZC appointment at the Republican Town Committee meeting Thursday night.

The council, however, accepted the resignation of PZC member Richard D. Nicholson because of a possible conflict of interest, which leaves the PZC still short its seventh member.

Two girls have left New Hope voluntarily without finishing the program. They felt that they had progressed enough to make it on their own, Mrs. Uccello said.

"We are not concerned with race, religion nor ethnic background; we only see girls that are in need," Mrs. Uccello said as she denied rumors that the board is trying to bring Catholicism into New Hope.

The Rev. Wayne Kendall of South United Methodist Church is the center's spiritual advisor. He conducts "open sessions," not religious programs, and is planning to have members of other churches come to the center and discuss their faiths, Mrs. Uccello said.

Betty's Notebook

BETTY RYDER
Women's Editor

The American Shakespeare Theatre jumped the gun on spring Sunday with a kickoff subscription party in the elegant Tower Room at the Arnold Bernhard Arms & Humanities Center at the University of Bridgeport. Despite the rain and sometimes dense fog, over 120 lovers of Shakespeare turned out to hear plans for the new season.

Guests sipped dry, red wine and sliced tender chunks of imported cheeses to accompany an assortment of crackers, while others strolled to the large windows to look out on the street lights on the campus below.

James Stewart, subscription campaign director, speaking in the absence of Michael Kahn, artistic director of the theatre, who was enroute from Chicago by plane, told the guests of plans for the theatre's 20th anniversary.

"David Birney, star of the CBS Television series, 'Bridget Loves Brainerd,' and Roberta Maxwell, currently appearing in the Long Wharf Theatre production of 'The Seagull,' will join the company of the American Shakespeare Theatre this season," Stewart said.

Birney will play Romeo in "Romeo and Juliet," and Miss Maxwell will play Juliet, and Maria in "Twelfth Night."

Part way through the program, Kahn arrived looking tired but unruffled after his "madcap" ride from the airport. Though he regretted his late arrival, he was obviously quite elated over the fact that he had met Maria Callas, diva of the grand opera, who is appearing tonight at Carnegie Hall in New York City. "It was the first time that I didn't mind having the plane circling around and around while waiting for landing instructions," Kahn commented.

He is very enthusiastic over the upcoming productions at the American Shakespeare Theatre. For those of you who may not yet have had the opportunity to see his work, he has a way of taking a story, and presenting it with all the flair of Shakespeare, but with an eye on today.

To help alleviate the energy crisis and accommodate the audience, the theatre has made arrangements with the New Haven Railroad to make special stops at Stratford, and car pools can also be arranged by calling the theatre. Since Shakespeare is not the most popular of subjects, the theatre is offering a special program of "The Seagull" and "Twelfth Night" which are being presented by the American Shakespeare Theatre for an on-the-spot lesson. What better way to understand "Romeo and Juliet," than by seeing for yourself. Or as William would have said, "Welcome hither, as the spring to the earth."

Good Luck, John

Manchester will lose one of its most colorful restaurateurs later this month, when John Casella turns over the helm of the Seafood Wharf at 623 Main St. to new management. John, who has no immediate plans for getting some rest after putting in 18 hours a day for the past few years, will be missed. A former New England welterweight and lightweight boxing champion, he always managed to find time to listen to a friend or share a story. Well-known for his fine Italian food (which he often referred to as "a la Sicilian"), he was always quick to whip up something extra if his customers so desired. Besides, no one ever quite came up to making a Rob Roy like he does.

While we extend a hearty welcome to the new management and wish them much success, it is with regret that we say "so long" to a good friend.

Congratulations Troop 640

The efforts of one Browline Troop has helped provide needed work for clients of the Manchester Sheltered Workshop, a rehabilitation center. Congratulations to Troop 640 whose members collected 1,157 wire cutters for the workshop. Under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Letendre, Stephanie Letendre, Kelly Meek, Kelly O'Connell, and Tracy Brainard, did an outstanding job.

It's rewarding to know that in these busy days, when the art of television and other "fun" activities are predominant, that such fine young ladies found time to help the less fortunate.

Come On Down

There is an old saying that "marriages are made in heaven," and one Montana bridegroom proved there may be some merit in that age-old adage. The Daily Inter Lake in Kalispell, Montana reported on a wedding in which the prospective bridegroom and three of his attendants parachuted from a plane into the church parking lot. Just to add a little more bravado, and while their families and guests waited with bated breath, the bridegroom free-fell part of the distance to his waiting fiancée.

Despite his unusual arrival, the ceremony went off on schedule, with the participants no longer "up in the air." Chances are, really may soon set in, and the youthful skydiver, assisted by his determined young bride, will find that while his head is still in the clouds, his feet will remain planted firmly on the ground.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Catherine Mary Ashworth of Plainville to Richard Bailey Niese of Manchester, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ashworth of Plainville.

Mr. Niese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Niese of 219 Vernon St.

The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Central Connecticut State College in New Britain. She is employed as a teacher by the Stonington Public School System.

Her fiancé received an AS degree in 1967 and will receive his BS degree in May from Western College of Technology, Boston, Mass. He has served in the U. S. Navy.

The couple will be married Oct. 5 in Plainville.

There's No Tiger In My Tank

The gas lines seem to move faster, when I sit back, close my eyes and reflect on happier days. Just last summer my service station was giving away smoky grey glassware with every purchase of gasoline. It was part of a promotion deal to stimulate extra sales. As I recall, you got one glass when you bought a partial tank and two glasses with a full tank.

"Why you can't afford NOT to fill up!" I said to my husband when I proudly showed him my first two glasses. Within a month I'd bought enough gasoline to collect a full dozen highball glasses and was well on my way to a set of juke boxes.

Those were wonderful days. I used to drive right up to the gas pump—without waiting—and say confidently to the attendant, "I'll be right back."

Compare that to my experience today. I waited in line for at least 20 minutes, trying to decide whether it was smarter to turn the motor off or keep it running. Finally, I reached the gas pump, rolled down the window and meekly asked, "How much gas do you want?"

Just to add a little more bravado, and while their families and guests waited with bated breath, the bridegroom free-fell part of the distance to his waiting fiancée.

Tolland Dean Discouraged Over School Costs

Robert Dean, Board of Education chairman, has termed the educational budget a "real disaster." Dean urges townspeople to turn out at the informal hearing Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the high school to give the board an idea where they want programs cut.

According to Dean, a 15 per cent increase, almost $400,000 will merely maintain present fixed costs, showing a 3.4 per cent increase for teachers. Dean added there was no reason why the teachers will accept this increase. "Inflation has really killed us," Dean said. The fact that 70 additional students will be entering high school this fall, where education costs are highest, accounts for $105,000 in additional costs.

Dean made his comments after the board met for its second budget hearing session, where members, in a four-hour discussion, shaved approximately $28,000 from last week's figures. The new total, including unavoidable cost increases, programs staff, appropriate salaries, and present fixed costs, is approximately $3,104,826.

Still in the approved list are two instructional aides for Parker School to replace two aides who will be lost to Middle School under a Title 3 state grant. Also in the budget is a teacher for the school to be shared with Hicks. Parker did not get approval for additional clerical help. Still in the budget for Hicks is three aides and a half-time clerk. One aide and a full-time clerk was chopped Monday.

Meskill's act came on the heels of a series of newspaper articles which quoted a Travelers Insurance official as saying the building could have been purchased last summer for as much as it would cost the state to lease it for four years.

The Hartford Courant reported the state was offered the building for $4.5 million, which was cited by the state.

However since then, S & G Co. of Hartford has agreed to purchase it for the price and lease it to the state at $1.1 million a year.

The Travelers' testimony was solicited following allegations by Attorney General Robert K. Killian. Killian said the state was not bound to the lease.

Meskill had denied the $4.5 million offer was made at all. However Monday, the governor said, "If it were not for the statements made by an officer of the Travelers Insurance Co. and comments made upon it we would go through with the lease."

"I attributed the move to...misunderstanding and 'publicity' surrounding the lease."

"I think the desire to find new quarters, in haste, may have been partly responsible for the decision to lease state against purchase," Meskill said.

Too Small, Not Calvin Murphy

Too small to play in the National Basketball Assn. That was the tag applied to Calvin Murphy, out of Norwalk High School, five years ago when he graduated from Niagara University.

Today, the smallest player in the NBA at 5-10 is enjoying his greatest season with the big boys. Murphy is a starting guard with the Houston Rockets. In his first year, he has a dependable double figure scorer. Recently, during a one week span which covered four games, Murphy had 49 assists, twice hitting the open man 15 times, equalling his career high. The Nutmegger is second in total assists this season. Only rookie Ernie DiGregorio of Buffalo has passed off for more scores. Murphy has been averaging better than seven per game.

Murphy still knows where the basket is, having topped the Rockets in scoring in 17 of their first 60 games. Averaging 21 points per game, Murphy ranks third in field goal percentage, trailing only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob McAdoo. The latter pair specialize in dunk shots being at least a foot taller than Murphy. The latter is no slouch at dunking the ball, as East Catholic High supporters can attest, and he can still get up and stuff the ball with the pros. Murphy was a one-man gang against East in the Class A CIAC Tournament in 1966 as the Eagles were eliminated.

Being told he was too small to play basketball has been an old chestnut with Murphy. "I was told I was too small to play in high school and I made All-America. Then they said I couldn't play in college. I made All-America three years running. Then they said I couldn't play in the pros, but I proved I can."

Murphy is the smallest NBA performer since Slater Martin was doing his thing in the 1950s with the Minneapolis Lakers. "I want to be a superstar," Murphy said, "and I truly feel that I have all the qualities."

Little Calvin has proven a point that there is room in the big leagues provided that you have exceptional ability.

East Cagers Battle Defending A Champ

By Len Auster

It should be a rip-roaring at Sheehan High in Wallingford. Tonight's CIAC Class A Division first round clash between the basketball teams of East Catholic and Warren Harding of Bridgeport has all the ingredients for being one of the tournament's biggest attractions.

The sixth-ranked downstarters are defending Class A titlists while Coach Stan Ogradnik's high-flying 11th ranked Eagles claimed the crown in 1972, besting the Harding quietest in Storrs, 45-42. "They are an explosive team with tremendous ability. Coming out of the tough MBAC (Metropolitan Bridgeport Interscholastic Athletic Conference) with just three losses, now that's something," noted six-year mentor Ogradnik. "We have great respect for them. (James) Kish does a great job of coaching. He mixes up defenses and their press very well. They look like they are doing simple things but they do a lot of complex things," Ogradnik noted.

With plaudits being thrown left and right, Kish in a Saturday afternoon telephone conversation stated, "East appears to have another one of their super teams. And I'm excited about that. Joey Whelton. It's nice to see a kid like that do so well. And that (Joe) Martens. He really skyrockets."

With plaudits being thrown left and right, Kish in a Saturday afternoon telephone conversation stated, "East appears to have another one of their super teams. And I'm excited about that. Joey Whelton. It's nice to see a kid like that do so well. And that (Joe) Martens. He really skyrockets."

Whelton, who pumped in 24 points against Lyman Hall in the Eagles' 83-45 playdown round win, and Martens, who hauled in a season-high 15 rebounds against Lyman, will be two operatives Ogradnik will depend on against the Presidents. John Riccio, who had 19 points in the post-season opener, Jim Wehr and Ron Soucier round out the starting East five.

"We've told our kids that rebounding will be the thing. Harding won't beat you with their first shot but with their second, third and fourth shots. What it means is that we're going to have to do a heck of a job boxing out," warned Ogradnik.

One performer whom East is going to have to stop is sophomore forward Aldo Samuel, who led his club with a 19.4 scoring average. Samuel started as a freshman a year ago and was named the division's Most Valuable Player (MVP) for his performance. "He (Samuel) is No. 1. But, we can't say if we stop him, we'll win. If we stop him then there are his teammates to contend with," Ogradnik opined.

"We know tonight that we might be playing the best team in the tournament. And the kids know it. We also know that if we win it could open some doors. We're going to have to be flying to win tonight. A win either way is going to put a feather in the victor's cap," Ogradnik commented.

East sold out its allotment of 900 tickets and Director of Athletics Cliff Demers asked for and got 20 more. Those were expected to be gobbled up by this morning.

The winner of tonight's clash will face the winner of the Shelton-Naugatuck first round contest in the quarterfinals Friday night at an undetermined site. Shelton is ranked 30th while Naugatuck was 19th ranked in the Class A Division.

Walton Heads List Of All-Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maravich with LSU in 1968-70. The 6-4 Thompson is also a repeat from last year's team, while Wilkes, 6-7, Shumate, 6-9, and Barnes, 6-9, are on the first team for the first time.

In the balloting by 241 sportswriters and sportscasters from across the nation, Walton compiled 678 points out of a possible 482 — named by all but four voters on the first team — in addition to the first team selection of Thompson, the Atlantic Coast Conference top four men on the second team to join the NCAA's leading scorer, Larry Fogie of Canisius. With Fogie on the second unit are Maryland's Tom McMillen and Len Elmore. North Carolina's Bobby Jones and Thompson's teammate Tom Burlison, the tallest player on the team, 7-4. The third team is composed of Barnes' teammate Kevin Stacom, Campy Russell of Michigan, James "Fly" Williams of Austin Peay, Bill Knight of Pittsburgh and Shumate's teammate Gary Brooks.

The two UCLA seniors were named to the first team for the third time. David Thompson of North Carolina State and John Shumate of Notre Dame and senior Marvin Barnes of Providence. The 6-foot-11 Walton made the first team for the first time in his second year. He was named to the first team in the previous year by only six other players in the 26-year history of the UPI-Associated Press poll.

Two players made the difference last night at Lilling as Gromann's Sport Shop-updated Sport Mart, 78-76. Army & Navy Club trounced the Cardinals in the second game, 91-63.

Jim Pratt (19), Rich Riordan (21) and Bill Martens (10) paced Gromann's sport-making with Ernie Uihgennaut (18), Dick Grant (18) and Mike Daly (14).

Each side had three double digit scorers as the Vets shot down the Buzzards. John Dreiscot (20), Joe Massolini (17) and Jay Kurlowicz (15) paced the winners with Ron Strickland (17) and Carl Hinds (10). Buzard's standouts.

Donohue admitted to periods of tremendous anxiety in the second half. "It was frustrating to see the lead dwindling," he said. "I was seriously thinking of putting on the stall with four minutes left to go in the first half. That's what I would have done if I had my way. Notre Dame team will test you. They showed us every defense in the book and they change all the time."

John Shumate, named earlier in the day to UPI's All America team, led the Irish to UPI's All America team, led by Montville High at Windham.

Here for South Windsor was Neal Mackey. His basket in the final seconds led the verdict for the fourth-rated Bobcats. All five starters wound up in double figures for the Central Valley Conference champs and the quietest accounted for all the points.

Leading the scorers was John Fidler with 21. Mackey hopped 19, tall Tom Goodwin 18, Brian Hoyt 15 and Brian Boucher 12 in the well-balanced attack.

Falling far behind in the early going, Ellington was unable to get untroubled. Montville led 42-25 at intermission. Big John Basch, Scott Lane and Tom Griswold with 19, 17 and 14 points led the Knights. Mike Karney canned 27 markers in victory.

The big difference was at the foul line where the winners netted 24 of 30 tries and the Knights only five of 15.

Training Camp Roundup

Twins' DH Oliva Unsigned As Griffith Refutes Role

NEW YORK (UPI) — One year later, the value of the designated hitter remains open to hot dispute. And, naturally, the man who is behind the latest dispute is Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins, who just a few days ago was involved in another controversy concerning arbitration.

Oliva, who thought he had made a healthy contribution to Minnesota last year when he batted .291 with a clubbing 22 RBIs as a designated hitter, learned Monday that his boss had a different perspective of his job. "The designated hitter is something new, we have only had it one year," Griffith said in explaining his refusal to give Oliva the same $91,000 salary he received last year. Griffith is offering $84,000.

"No one knows what designated hitters are worth," Griffith continued, "but I believe they are part-time players and should be paid accordingly." Oliva countered, "I believe I had a good year last season and deserve at least as much as I made then. Other designated hitters like Orlando Cepeda and Deron Johnson received raises. All I want is the same."

Griffith, to strengthen his case, also pointed out that he was informed by team doctors that cartilage and joint ligament on Oliva's right knee will never permit him to play the outfield again.

For Philadelphia Phillie Phanatic Manager Danny Ozark, when it comes to the designated hitter, he can take it or leave it. In fact, he said Monday he will allow American League managers to use designated hitters in exhibition games at their parks, but for himself, he'll leave it.

NL President Chuck Fenerly is allowing individual clubs to run for themselves whether to allow AL rivals to use designated hitters in inter-league play or to opt out. "We won't use it ourselves," Ozark said. "It will put us at a slight disadvantage in some games, but these games aren't that important. They aren't as important as getting my pitchers some at-bats before the regular season starts."

Most teams are at full strength in preparation for the start of the exhibition season Thursday, with a few more stragglers arriving Monday. Leftfielder Gary Matthews, the National League Rookie of the Year in 1973, signed his contract with San Francisco for an estimated $85,000 — a boost of about $18,000... All-Star centerfielder Amos Otis reported to the Kansas City Royals after being delayed at home with personal matters and he looked extra sharp with his line-drive hitting... Joe Morgan, given permission to report late, took part in his first workout with the Cincinnati Reds and he predicted he would have a better season than in 1973, when he batted .290.

In other training camp news: Texas centerfielder Elliot Maddox was struck in the back of the head by a pitch but the injury wasn't believed to be serious... Montreal received good news when X-rays on the right knee of Boots Day, who strained it Saturday while chasing fly balls, proved negative... hamburger tycoon Ray Kroc got his first look at his new club, the San Diego Padres, and said, "I'm looking forward to improving this team any way I can." Left-hander Dave McNally, bothered by a torn muscle tissue in his shoulder, was encouraged by a 20-minute pitching test.

Also: Astro pitching Coach Roger Craig said Larry Dierker's early spring performance is "the most encouraging sign I've seen in camp..." veteran reliever Cecil Upshaw also reports positive results with his workouts for Cleveland and Manager Ken Aspromonte said the one-time submariner is throwing without pain for the first time in more than a year... Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messersmith, who suffered a groin injury last year, turned in a strong performance and Manager Walter Alston said: "He really looked great. It's been a long, long time since he's thrown that hard."

Chicago goalie Tony Esposito, surrendering six goals over the first two games in Sunday's nationally televised game against Detroit, had his lead for the Vezina Trophy reduced to just four goals over Bernie Parent of the Flyers. The Black Hawk duo of Esposito and Tony Veior has permitted 174 goals in 61 games while Parent and his partner, Bobby Taylor, have allowed 128 in the same number of games.

Parent, by shutting out Montreal Sunday night, also took the lead in shutouts with 11, one more than Tony Esposito.

Defense Left Out In WHA Lone Tilt

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — It wasn't exactly a shining night for defense Monday night. Brian Moroz scored the winning goal 5:33 into the overtime period as the Jersey Knights beat the Vancouver Blazers 7-6 in a World Hockey Association game that saw six goals scored in the second period alone and 13 over-all.

Moroz took a pass from Andre Lacroix and lifted a back-hander over Vancouver goalie George Gardner's left shoulder. The goal was his 18th. Jersey led 3-1 after one period on goals by Norm Ferguson, Gary Peters and Lacroix. Vancouver's lone goal in the period was Danny Lawton's 42nd.

That defense collapsed in the second period as six goals were scored. Vancouver scored the first two, by John Mignault and Murray Myers, and Jersey's Eric Peacock scored the next two, giving the Knights a 5-3 lead. But Myers scored again for the Blazers, becoming a 40-goal scorer for the second time in the WHA scoring race. He led for three years last season, tied for the WHA scoring race with 71 points.

Phil Clark of the Philadelphia Flyers is sixth with 69 points, followed by Brad

Bruins' Esposito Leads NHL

MONTEAL (UPI) — Just as his Boston Bruins have turned the East Division race into a laugher, Phil Esposito isn't leaving anything to chance in a bid for his fourth consecutive National Hockey League scoring championship.

With only one month left in the regular season, the burly Bruin center has taken a commanding 19-point lead over Vancouver's Bernie Parent, according to official league statistics released today. Esposito also leads the scoring race with 54 points, 11 assists less than second only to Orr, who has 71, in that department.

Esposito is only one short of his goal total for last season, but has fallen behind in his effort to equal his NHL record of 76 goals set in 1970-71. Esposito has only 17 games left and needs 22 goals to tie the mark.

Boston, which owns a 10-point lead over runner-up Montreal in the East, also led another sweep of the top three places in the scoring race as Ken Hodges remains third with 88 points, leaving him eight behind Orr. Rick Burris is fourth with 81 points, becoming a 40-goal scorer for the second time in the WHA scoring race. He led for three years last season, tied for the WHA scoring race with 71 points.

Phil Clark of the Philadelphia Flyers is sixth with 69 points, followed by Brad

Alston Takes In Every Detail As He Enters 21st Year at Helm

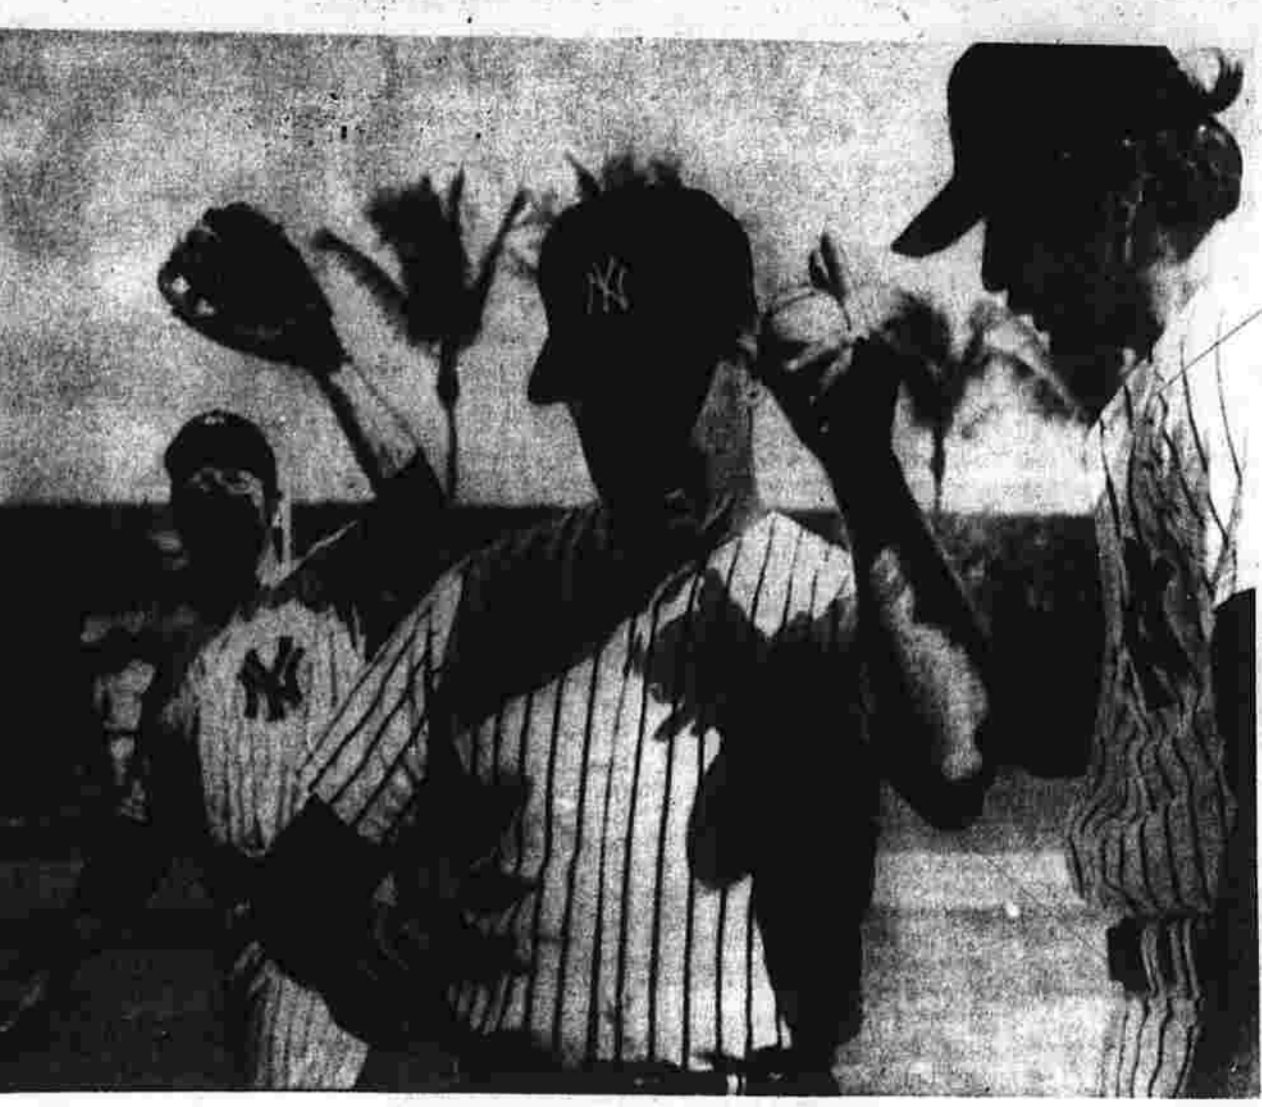

By Milt Richman

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Walt Alston leans on the iron bar behind the batting cage, peering through the mesh and taking in every tiny detail.

There is the unmistakable look of the eagles about him, accented all the more by the crowdfeeling which starts near the corners of both eyes and journey part way down his cheeks.

Alston is embarking on his 21st consecutive year as manager of the Dodgers, and only two men, Connie Mack and John McGraw, have managed one club for a longer period of time. Only eight men in the entire history of professional baseball ever managed for more than 20 years.

Whenever he's referred to as the Dean of major league managers, which of course he is, Walt Alston simply said, "I've been awfully lucky being in a good

Health Plan Issue Key in NFL Talks

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association will continue negotiations with the NFL over a health insurance plan for its members for at least one month after the policy proposed by league owners is canceled.

March 31, player representatives decided Monday night. Cost of continuation of the insurance was estimated at about $35,000 monthly. Individual players will be asked to pay the cost of their family policies estimated at $30 a month.

The board of player representatives planned to contact every NFL player to see if he wished to continue in the group plan, but emphasized the insurance would be continued for a month.

"We can not allow our members and their families to be without health and hospital benefits," Executive Director Ed Garvey said. "In fact, if we are unable to contact all players by the end of the first month, our players' board has authorized us to continue for a second month."

"You can be certain that our negotiations with the owners will include retroactive payment of insurance premiums that have been paid by NFLPA or our players."

Earlier, a Washington Redskins lineman told the players' representatives that club owners retain 30 cents and name.

The best thing a manager can do is have good specialists in the coaching department," he says. "I don't profess to know everything there is to know about pitching. I think, for example, I know about infielders and know when they make a mistake, but I leave the fine points to a specialist like Monty Bassall."

Alston says he never has copied any other manager, wittingly or unwittingly. "I played for Bonnie ... I've been a couple of years in ... Ohio, and I don't like the way he did it. But everybody has to

Squires Best Stars In Overtime Tilt

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "I couldn't watch. I just closed my eyes after the shot was in the air," said Stacy Powell about his game-winning three-point shot that gave the Virginia Squires a 107-106 double overtime win over the Utah Stars in ABA action.

"I already missed two shots that should have won the game, so tossing up that bomb seemed even more ridiculous. It just went in. It never touched the rim," Powell said.

The only game in the ABA season did little to influence the league race. Utah already is assured of a playoff spot and only needs six wins to take its third straight ABA West regular season crown. Virginia now has a 5 1/2 game lead over Memphis for the fourth playoff spot in the East with 14 games remaining.

With the game tied 92-92 and two seconds left in regulation time, Powell missed a shot that could have won it. He did the same thing in the final second of his first extra period and it ended 98-111.

College Basketball Dayton Critics Silenced As Flyers Upset Irish

There were some harsh words last week when Dayton was selected for the NCAA tournament but the critics have all been silenced today.

Dayton shut out the detractors Monday night off of the biggest upsets of the college basketball season as the unraveled Flyers shocked No. 2 rated Notre Dame 97-82.

With a record home crowd of 13,528 chanting, "Goodbye Irish, we hate to see you go," the Flyers surged to a 15-point lead in the first half and then held on the rest of the way to hand Notre Dame only its second loss in 26 games this season. The other was to UCLA.

Donald Smith was the big man for Dayton as he hit 32 points despite being charged with three personal fouls in the first half.

"In all the time I've been (nine years), this is the greatest win we've had," said Dayton Coach Don Donohue. "This will give us a tremendous boost in the NCAA tournament. We just played our game all the way."

Vernon Webster To Get Industrial Site

BARBARA RICHMOND
Ten acres of land in the Vernon Industrial Park will be sold to developer David Webster. The Town Council approved the sale Monday night, going along with the recommendation of the Economic Development Commission (EDC) which recommended rejection of an offer made by Senator Thomas Carruthers to purchase the same land.

The matter has been a controversial one for some time. Webster had offered to buy the land for $3,500 an acre and Carruthers originally offered to pay $2,000 an acre. Webster plans to put industrial buildings up and Carruthers an indoor ice facility.

Because the town is interested in an ice facility, a special meeting last October, the council made a proposal to Carruthers to purchase the land at $3,000 an acre with a $3,000 credit for getting in an access road.

The proposal to Carruthers carried with it several stipulations. The major one being a restrictive 30-year covenant that the land not be used for other than recreational purposes.

Specific Goals Adopted By PTA for Exceptional
The exceptional children, these children who deviate from the norm—the gifted and talented, the handicapped—are slowly but surely emerging from the shadows into the full light of educational facilities.

Locally, the present efforts of a group of parents of exceptional children who have formed a PTA for Exceptional Children are continuing to work to improve themselves and other parents of exceptional children, educate the community at-large, and to provide a meeting ground between those who service the exceptional child and his parents.

Teacher's aides have been obtained for some classes and perhaps one of the most exciting programs has been the schools holding classes for exceptional children, speech clinicians, teachers, social workers, department heads and other people interested in the welfare of the exceptional child but having no personal contact with them.

There is still much to be done to provide these children with the advantages to help them live as normal a life as possible. Allan Chesterton, director of pupil personnel services, says there are presently about 550 exceptional children in special programs. "There are still some who should be programmed, but their identification has not been identified as yet," he said.

He explained that there are some who have a learning disability in some range which does not necessarily relate to the child's learning capacity. This is a new field in which those in the educational field and the medical field are just beginning to become acquainted with and learn to identify, said Chesterton. Some of the problems presently before the PTA for Exceptional Children are:

Through their efforts and with the support of the Board of Education and civic organizations, secretary and treasurer. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Highland Park School, Fort St.
