

Odegard Comments On Vo-Ed Report

Sen. Dave Odegard, of Manchester, co-chairman of the General Assembly's Program Review Committee, has commented on his committee's recently released "Report On Secondary Vocational Education in Connecticut."

"Our report indicates a strong need for improvement in the administration of this state's vocational education programs. We must have better information on what our needs are in terms of the types and numbers of vocational education programs, and we've got to a better job of following up on vocational education graduates to see which programs have placed the greatest percentage of their graduates," he said.

Odegard expressed concern that Connecticut has the dual problem of high unemployment and a lack of skilled workers for state businesses and industries. "We could solve both of these critical problems at the same time if our vocational education programs were managed more effectively," he said. "We need to find out where the jobs are, and train people to fill them."

He noted that the committee's study found that the regional vocational-technical schools are unable to provide training for all those who qualify for admission, and that students who are not accepted at the vocational-technical schools most often cannot obtain equivalent training in their own local public schools.

"It's clear that we have to expand the opportunities available for our young people to obtain a trade education. The high quality technical training available at the technical schools should be maintained and selectively expanded, but we must also increase the vocational education opportunities available in the local public schools."

The Department of Education's lack of ability to effectively evaluate its vocational education programs was also noted by Odegard.

"The Department of Education puts together a 'Graduate Follow-Up Report' each year which supposedly shows how well graduates of vocational education programs fare in the job market. But our research shows that the 'Graduate Follow-Up' is poorly done."

"The Program Review Committee found that the data in the 'graduate Follow-Up' is not reliable. It is collected by nearly 180 schools at different times."

Asks Nixon to Resign

Sen. James V. Buckley, C-R-N.Y., Tuesday called for the resignation of President Nixon because of the Watergate scandal. "There is one way and one way only by which the crisis can be resolved, and the country pulled out of the Watergate Swamp," Buckley said in asking for the resignation. (UPI photo)

Nixon Gives Views On Relationship With News Media

HOUSTON (UPI) — President Nixon had a simple answer Tuesday night as to why a majority of Americans surveyed did not believe his assurance there was not a recession.

"It's because 80 per cent of the people listen to television and radio," Nixon told a meeting of broadcasting executives where his sometimes stormy relations with the news media were questioned.

Nixon also had an answer for dealing with press critics: "The president should treat the press just as fairly as the press treats him."

And he made it clear he doesn't believe the press has always treated him fairly. "I realize bad news is news, good news is not news," he said.

"People don't win Pulitzer prizes by being fair, but being against. I understand that, and that is the job of investigative reporting."

But, even so, Nixon said, "I am not obsessed by the press. I am not going to be diverted by the press from doing what I set out to do."

Asked if the country would have been better off if the Watergate affair had gone undetected, he said, "certainly not. The action was wrong, the action was stupid."

Record Catch
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon fishermen have completed a record annual shrimp catch, accompanied by record prices.

Landings of 24.1 million pounds greatly outdistanced last year's harvest of 20 million pounds and was two and one-half times greater than the 10-year average catch. Prices paid to fishermen were twice what they were three years ago, reaching 22 cents per pound.

Lufkin Drops From Race

HARTFORD, CONN. (UPI) — Dan W. Lufkin today withdrew his name from the running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination citing, "solely personal considerations," and saying he will not be a candidate for any elective office in 1974.

The 43-year-old millionaire environmentalist from Newtown said the impact of the Watergate scandal and a recent report alleging financial irregularities in a business dealing had "nothing to do with my decision whatsoever."

Lufkin also told a news conference that he would not be a candidate for the U.S. Senate against Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

"I am not now and will not be in 1974 a candidate for any elective office," Lufkin said.

Flashing a boyish grin, Lufkin was asked whether he would support Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

He sidestepped an answer suggesting that while he thought Steele would be a "good candidate, so also did he think Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio and House Speaker Francis Collins of Brookfield would be good candidates.

Lufkin said he would announce within the next few weeks just who he will support for the nomination and he will also help finance that campaign.

Lufkin's contributions and that of a business partner to the successful 1970 campaign for the U.S. House of Representatives totaled $103,000.

Lufkin was later named state environmental commissioner by Meskill.

Hectic Days For State GOP

The past 10 days have been hectic ones for the state's top Republicans and the next few days and weeks promise to be even more so.

And in the middle of all it is State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, who is being propelled into a situation of "advise and consent."

It all started when Gov. Thomas Meskill announced he would seek a second term. He immediately became a "lame duck" governor.

Meskill's announcement left Agostinelli as the only one of four Republicans elected to state office in 1970 still in a power base for this year's election.

Out, in addition to Meskill, who was lieutenant governor; and Robert Berdon, who was state treasurer. Both accepted appointments as Superior Court judges.

Meskill's withdrawal opened the gates for speculation as to whom the Republicans would nominate for governor. GOP State Chairman J. Edward Gaffney asked for a two-week moratorium on announcements and endorsements.

However, it soon became obvious that Gaffney, Meskill and Sen. Lowell Weicker were ready to back Dan Lufkin of Newtown, former environmental protection commissioner. Gaffney, reportedly, had the assurance he would be retained as state chairman.

Yesterday, in a meeting in Bridgeport with top GOP leaders, Lufkin told them he was a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and that he'd announce his decision publicly today. Actually, he had never announced he was a candidate.

Lufkin's withdrawal before he had entered, leaves Congressman Robert Steele of Vernon the leading candidate, with Agostinelli and Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio still very much in evidence. Panuzio is a favorite with state GOP leaders. So is Agostinelli who is, in addition, one of those top state GOP leaders.

"A Steele for Governor" committee has filed papers with the secretary of state's office, with Steele's signature on the affidavit as the candidate. State law requires a consent signature by the candidate before a political committee may file. Steele has made no announcement, other than to say he is "leaning" toward the candidacy. He said he will have an announcement before April 1.

Because of the "facts of life" concerning conventions and politicians, it is obvious Agostinelli is a candidate for either governor or state comptroller.

With Lufkin, a downstate in the race for governor, Agostinelli might have been considered for lieutenant governor.

However, should Steele emerge the GOP candidate for governor, it is extremely doubtful the convention delegates would choose Agostinelli as his running mate — for purely geographical reasons. Steele is from Vernon and Agostinelli from Manchester — neighboring towns and both east of the river.

And, should Panuzio emerge the GOP candidate for governor, it is even more unlikely he would be his running mate. This time it would be for ethnic reasons — both are Italians.

The safe thing to predict at present is that Agostinelli will be on the GOP state ticket in November.

Dr. Lowe To Resign As President Of MCC

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Dr. Frederick W. Lowe Jr., first president of Manchester Community College, will resign as president effective Feb. 1, 1975.

In a prepared statement released today by the college, he said he feels the college needs a president with new vigor and ideas, as well as a president with different capabilities, more suited to the changed circumstances of the college after eleven years of development.

The announcement of Dr. Lowe's wish to resign was made today by the Board of Trustees of Regional Community College.

Lowe will be succeeded by Dr. Roger P. Bagley, chairman of the board, said today his personal opinion is that Dr. Lowe's leadership at the college has been outstanding.

In attributing MCC's success to Dr. Lowe, Bagley said the college has had phenomenal growth since its beginning in September 1962 — the greatest of any community college in the state. There are 12 community colleges in the state, Bagley said.

"Even as the college grew," he said, "it could not accommodate all who wanted to go there." Manchester Community College is now larger in student population than any community college in the state, he said.

Bagley emphasized the college's stability calling the institution the strongest in the state.

Because of illness, Bagley said he was unable to attend the board meeting at which Dr. Lowe's resignation was discussed. He said he had no previous knowledge of Dr. Lowe's action.

Dr. Lowe was first selected to be dean for the new community college in 1962. Before assuming his new duties, he was chairman of the English Department at Glassboro State College, Glassboro, N.J.

At Glassboro he was also responsible for personnel, and for curriculum revision. In less than three years after Dr. Lowe's appointment, he was named president of MCC.

According to a statement Dr. Lowe made when he was named dean of MCC, he said he saved the job of the community college for a whole new group of people who might never have had them 40 or 45 years ago.

Dr. Lowe was unavailable today for comment.

DOT To Discuss Changes at Center

By DOUG BEVINS
The state Department of Transportation (DOT) has indicated it is willing to participate in the purchase of the Odd Fellows Building at 409 Main St. to make way for traffic improvements to the Main and Center Sts. intersection, according to William Steinhilber, chairman of the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee.

Steinhilber told his committee this morning that he will discuss feasibility of the intersection improvements at a meeting with DOT officials tomorrow.

Proposals to realign the intersection have been discussed for several years, but a revival of the idea for town purchase of the Odd Fellows Building died in December when the town's Board of Directors removed the item from consideration.

Steinhilber said tomorrow's meeting with the DOT will be an "exploratory effort" in which he'll try to determine to what extent the DOT would participate in land acquisition for the Center improvements.

The proposed traffic improvements will be the first topic of discussion at tomorrow's meeting with the DOT. The Odd Fellows Building would have to be razed in order to realign the intersection. The improvements also require "taking" of land from Center Congregational Church.

Rebels Push Back Cambodian Rescue

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A rescue column got within one mile of a 1,200-man garrison trapped on the outskirts of the former royal capital today, but was being stopped by heavy Communist fire, military sources said.

Two columns of government troops are trying to relieve the garrison surrounded by Communist forces. The rescue column was stopped by heavy Communist fire, military sources said.

There have been no reports of casualties from Oudong or from the surrounded troops, but the number of dead and wounded is expected to be high.

The surrounded soldiers are also easy targets for Communist mortar crews firing from a 300-foot-high hill nearby, the highest piece of ground for miles around the city.

Royal Kidnap Try Shocks Britain

LONDON (UPI) — The crime would have been without parallel in modern times: The kidnapping of Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth, and the holding of an entire nation to ransom. It failed, partly by coincidence.

Police charged Ian Ball, 28, described as unemployed and of no fixed address, with attempted murder today after he ambushed the limousine carrying the Princess and her husband Capt. Mark Phillips near Buckingham Palace.

He will appear at Bow Street Magistrate's Court today, charged with the attempted murder of Princess Anne and her husband.

Realizing he had failed as police reinforcements came up, the gunman raced into the dark of nearby St. James' Park, pursued by police constable Peter Edwards, 21, who brought him down with a flying tackle.

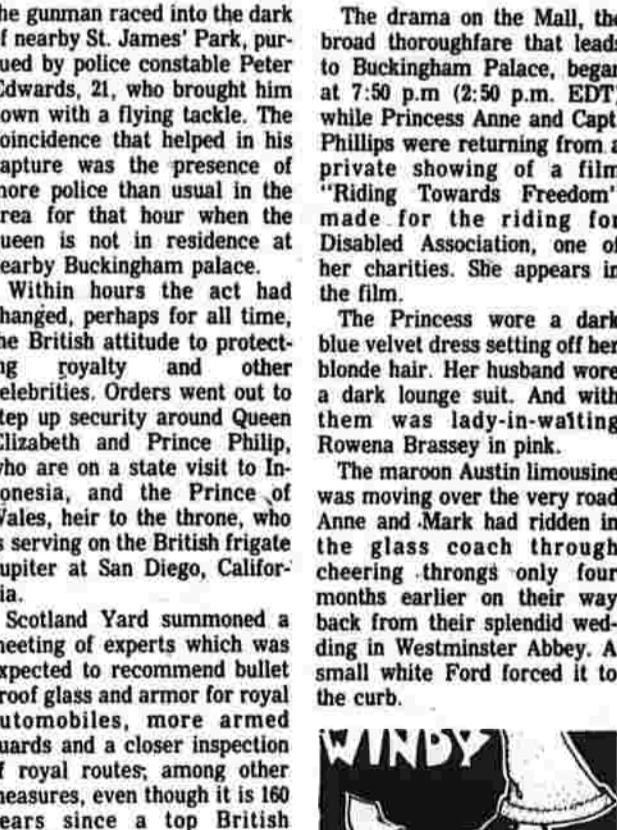

The coincidence that helped in his capture was the presence of the Princess' maroon Austin Princess automobile which the queen is not in residence at nearby Buckingham Palace.

Within hours the act had changed, perhaps for all time, the British attitude to protecting royalty and other celebrities. Orders went out to step up security around Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who are on a state visit to Indonesia, and the Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, who is serving on the British frigate Jupiter at San Diego, California.

Scotland Yard summoned a meeting of experts which was expected to recommend bullet proof glass and armor for royal automobiles, more arm guards and a closer inspection of royal routes, among other measures, even though it is 160 years since a top British political figure was assassinated.

Even police were shocked by the incident. "What the hell is the queen coming to?" said a senior officer. He added that security had not expected anything unusual.

Firm Applies To Construct Gas Pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. and Canadian governments were asked Thursday to approve construction of a $2.7 billion pipeline to carry natural gas from the north slope of Alaska and the Mackenzie River delta of northern Canada into major energy-consuming areas of the two countries.

The application was filed by the Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. and Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Limited, who termed the proposed 2,400-mile pipeline "the largest construction project in the history of private enterprise." They said it could be in partial operation by 1978 if given prompt approval.

Robert G. Ward, President of Alaskan Arctic Gas, said the when full capacity was reached the pipeline would deliver "well over four billion cubic feet of about 6 per cent of North America's current demand for some 24 trillion cubic feet a year.

"These intensive and expensive efforts have produced information that places us in a pre-eminent position to link the enormous gas reserves in the far north to U.S. markets where the need for this clean fuel is so tremendous," he added.

Ideology of New Towns Described by Dr. Allen

MONICA SHEA Correspondent Tel. 743-9495 Dr. Irving Allen, a professor of sociology at the University of Connecticut, spoke Wednesday night on the "Ideology of New Towns" in the fourth of a series of seminars on new towns being sponsored by the Institute of Urban Planning and Zoning Commission.

Dr. Allen said that the ideology of new towns is a neutral kind of planning instrument that has been used both to the good and bad.

He said that the origin of the ideas for new towns began in Britain at the beginning of the century and was devised to control the growth of metropolitan areas.

He said that the new town idea caught on quickly in Britain and became a plan for social development.

Allen said that in Britain the new town idea had many anti-city overtones.

Several new towns were built in Britain in the 1920's and '30's but it wasn't until after World War II that Britain made new towns a major goal as an answer to a very serious housing shortage and to stop the sprawling growth of London and to preserve a Green Belt around that city.

Allen said that new towns were introduced in this country in the 1950's but didn't catch on until the 1960's when the honeymoon with suburbia came to an end in America.

At this time the planners latched on to the idea of new towns to direct and control urban sprawl.

Allen found it interesting that new towns didn't catch on until so late in America and attributes this to the American aversion of social planning.

Allen said that throughout history, social historians have noted an anti-urban sentiment. This is shown in America's willingness to abandon their cities.

He said this trend of abandonment slowed down during the depression but at the end of World War II there was a stampede to the suburbs.

Allen said the suburbs were viewed as anti-city ideals and as retreats from the bustle and bustle of city life. People were looking for a simple kind of country living.

Allen said the nation is committed to the suburbs and shall continue to be so. He said the central cities have been losing population since 1950.

Allen said that the new town idea is part of the suburban migration.

He said new towns are an effort to control and contain suburban growth and are an exciting arena for planners.

Allen claimed that urban renewal and the model cities program are failures because they failed to cure the urban problems.

He said the new town propaganda was closely centered on the idea of family life and on the idea of building a community to restore the lost neighborhood.

He said new towns were interested in completely closing in life and aims to provide comfort from the cradle to the grave.

Allen said that the new town idea may hasten the abandonment of the cities by the white middle class and that perhaps more cities are going down the drain and the suburbs will be the arena of life.

He said that new towns may bait people back to apartment living but that the American dream Machine is for single-family dwellings on one- and two-acre lots.

Allen said that new towns are simply planned suburbs and have the same impact on the metropolitan region as a suburb does but that if new towns are not built other types of housing such as tract houses will be built.

He said if new towns are planned well they could offer amenities that cannot be provided in other suburban communities of the same size.

Volunteer Firemen Bar Women

VIRGINIA CARLSON Correspondent Tel. 228-9224 Two women who sought membership in the Volunteer Fire Department have been rejected by members of the department although they were unanimously recommended by the membership committee of the CVFD.

The two women, Mrs. Lee Couette of Rt. 87 and Mrs. Genevieve Stewart, Hill Top Lane, said they wanted to do a service to the community by riding the ambulance. Both women took the first aid courses sponsored by the American Red Cross and the fire department, a requirement of the quality to ride the ambulance.

Both women were backed by their husbands, both volunteer firemen.

Reg. Council Chairman Mrs. Pat Murphy has been named the Recreation Council's beach chairman. She will be in charge of the beach for the three summer months when the council leases the town-owned beach.

Mrs. Stewart said she is "very disappointed" to think the firemen do not realize the need and rejected them. She added that it upset her to think they could not have been accepted for a six-month probationary period in which they could prove or disprove themselves.

The vote was 23 to 9 and 22 to 10 with no reason given for rejection.

Registration dates for students eligible to enter kindergarten in September are March 25 from 12:30 to 3 p.m., March 26 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Children who are five years old on or before Dec. 21, 1974 are eligible.

The registration form, health history form and emergency information form should be turned in during registration. A birth certificate also must be presented.

A complete physical examination and immunization against polio, rubella and measles are required before Sept. 1.

When asked whether the woman could lift a patient onto a stretcher, Mrs. Couette said she felt she could. She also felt there would be other people on the scene.

Both women had had physicians and had filled out applications to the department. They were informed there is no separation between the fire department and the ambulance service and they would be expected to go to fires, drills and meetings, they said they did not want to invade the men's privacy at the meetings, but said they would be willing to go to fires.

He said that new towns were introduced in this country in the 1950's but didn't catch on until the 1960's when the honeymoon with suburbia came to an end in America.

At this time the planners latched on to the idea of new towns to direct and control urban sprawl.

Allen found it interesting that new towns didn't catch on until so late in America and attributes this to the American aversion of social planning.

Allen said that throughout history, social historians have noted an anti-urban sentiment. This is shown in America's willingness to abandon their cities.

He said this trend of abandonment slowed down during the depression but at the end of World War II there was a stampede to the suburbs.

Allen said the suburbs were viewed as anti-city ideals and as retreats from the bustle and bustle of city life. People were looking for a simple kind of country living.

Allen said the nation is committed to the suburbs and shall continue to be so. He said the central cities have been losing population since 1950.

Allen said that the new town idea is part of the suburban migration.

Handicapped Plan Arts, Crafts Fair

The first statewide Arts and Crafts Fair for the Handicapped will be conducted April 27 in Center Park. Plans for the project were discussed Tuesday night at an Organization of the Handicapped (OTH) meeting at the VFW Home.

Joe Blette, OTH chairman, said, "Over 100 handicapped persons have indicated interest, and we hope that we will have many more before fair time. Those participating will display their crafts which will also be for sale."

Blette said a drawing will be made for a color television, an air conditioner, and two 10-speed bicycles, with Miss Connecticut selecting the winning tickets.

"We are conducting a candy sale, this week and next at the Manchester Parkade and on Main St. Proceeds from this project will be used to offset the cost of insurance required to use the park for our fair," Blette added.

Public Records You Can Give Blood When You Reach 17

The Bloodmobile will visit Manchester Monday at the South United Methodist Church, corner of Hartford Rd. and Main St. from 12:45 to 3:30 p.m. Seventeen-year-olds are now eligible to donate blood, according to a recent announcement from the National Red Cross.

Healthy youths who meet the other donor requirements will now be accepted if they present a signed parental permission slip at the time of their donation. Forms are available from the Manchester Red Cross office at 237 E. Center St., or at Quinones injured in the gun battle that took place outside a state court here.

An unidentified woman was also wounded by accident. Authorities said the two lawyers challenged each other to a duel after heated words in the courtroom.

Goodnight, Chet

Chet Huntley is dead of cancer. The famed newscaster, who with his sidekick, David Brinkley, brought the innovation of tandem-anchormen to television newscasting, knew his string was running out because when he was told by doctors following surgery that his illness was terminal, he is quoted as saying, "That's the way the dice rolls."

At the height of his career, he retired to return to his native Montana and pour his energies into a recreational development in the Gallatin Valley near Yellowstone National Park called Big Sky, Inc., and financed by the Chrysler Corp. The complex is well under way and in future years many will come to know why Chet decided to spend the last years of his life there.

His fame was such that his return to Montana immediately sparked efforts from Republicans to get him to challenge Senate Majority Leader

Mike Mansfield or if the Senator should retire, the Democrats were willing to have him step into Mansfield's shoes. For a newsmen of national stature to be considered for such a post by both parties is a tribute to the even-handed objectivity he applied to his craft and a tribute to the man himself in this age of polarization of ideologies.

Huntley was the product of an environment and depression economy of the high plains country as was the late Sen. William Benton who represented Connecticut so ably not too many years ago.

We know the Big Sky Country will miss his presence as millions missed his presence when he left his career in the East and returned home in 1970.

Goodnight, Chet, you were a credit to your craft, your home state and to our nation, for proving once again the doors are always open to those with ambition regardless of their humble origins.

Stop Kidding Ourselves

WASHINGTON — Let us pray, fellow sufferers, that the White House and Congress will not let Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent's $10-billion plan to develop a synthetic fuels industry in the United States get bogged down in politics as usual.

Dent's proposal, which has been making the rounds of government agencies, is aimed at lessening American dependence on foreign oil and gas by producing those fuels at home in a variety of ways, using sources from coal to garbage. So far, the Interior Department has argued that Dent's price tag of $10-billion over a 14-year period is too high, but no agency yet has argued against the idea itself.

Well, good. Embargo or no embargo, we have got to stop kidding ourselves. The country does not now have enough sources of energy to supply domestic demands. It never will have enough unless we turn to methods of producing energy through synthetic processes. Dent claims this can be done because the country has "proved" untapped resources, and "technology to convert these sources to synthetic fuel is known and can be in operation in commercial-scale plants by 1978."

Under the Dent proposal, the federal government must be prepared to protect the new synthetic fuels industry from international price wars. This means the Treasury would step in and pay the industry subsidies if, say, the Arabs reduced their oil prices sharply in an attempt to bankrupt the U.S. producers.

Over 14 years, Dent estimates the government would pay subsidies for the synthetic production of oil $3-billion, and support the synthetic gas industry to the tune of $4-billion. There would also be an initial $7-billion of subsidy money to bring the plants into commercial-scale production. That's not peanuts, of course, but neither are the prices of white working stiffs are paying for heating oil, gasoline and related products these days. I should hope some arithmetic experts would give Dent's cost estimates a hard going-over. But the Dent plan is not a Santa Claus gimmick. The companies themselves would have to spend $23.1-billion to build the oil processing plants and $25.85-billion for the gas facilities.

Critics outside of government already have attacked President Nixon's "Project Independence," to make the U.S. self-sufficient in energy in 1980, as a return to the "Fortress America" concept. They're saying the same thing about the Dent proposal. But the "Fortress America" idea would not be all that selfish. If the U.S. became self-sufficient, our friends also would benefit. There would be more Arab oil to go around, and at lower prices.

Moreover, the plan would spur incentive among present producers of fuel. As Dent sees it, a synthetic fuel company would bid for a government contract providing for the purchase of a specified amount of oil or gas at a profitable price. With business assured, the company could borrow the money needed to build its plant. In the current crisis, that kind of partnership makes sense.

So does the conversion of garbage into oil and gas. We've got garbage all over the lot. Its disposal is already a major problem and the situation will get worse. Using garbage as a synthetic fuel base thus would solve the disposal problem and help alleviate the energy problem.

In sum, the Dent program seems both feasible and practical. It needs a lot of discussion and perhaps some revisions — to avoid windfall profits to the new industry, for instance. But there should be a minimum of political caterwauling over this one. The idea cries out for the kind of statesmanship that will label the effort a national program, instead of a White House or Congressional one.

Venezuelan Oil Politics

were really concessions — made to the Arab states in the U.S. role as peace broker in the Middle East, were made from a knowledge that the Arab embargo, while causing some hardship and inconvenience, could not disrupt us completely as such an embargo could do to Europe and Japan.

We would hope this lesson will be taken to heart by the administration and the Congress — and the American people — in the days ahead.

We must continue to practice energy conservation.

We must use this respite from critical shortages to develop a full-fledged energy policy and agency which could be mobilized into action quickly should an embargo be reimposed.

We must continue to accelerate efforts to seek new petroleum energy sources and alternative sources of energy.

If we can commit ourselves to such a course of action we will in effect be creating a deterrent to future embargoes.

For until we achieve independence of foreign energy sources, the biggest stick we have in averting embargoes, against ourselves or our allies will be a policy and program which will enable us to cope with them with a minimum of social and economic impact.

When the oil producing nations abroad know the United States has worked out on a stand-by basis a system to handle any future embargo, the economic impact of such actions is blunted and therefore less likely to occur.

The United States, by preparing now for such possible contingencies as future embargoes, by continuing efforts to practice energy conservation, and using its new-found prestige among many of the Arab leaders; has a momentous opportunity to end once and for all the threat of "economic blackmail" to the industrialized world.

Yes, the embargo is ended. Keeping it from being reimposed is the task ahead. It will take the best that is in all of us to meet this challenge. We can do this only if we do not become complacent and slip into our old wasteful energy habits and refuse to face the reality that the real energy crisis is yet to come. That crisis is the day when nature imposes her embargo because she no longer has any more oil for man to use.

CARACAS — Most Venezuelan politics affects only Venezuela, but its oil politics affects the world. While the Arab oil decisions hold the center of the world stage, and rightly, the coming decisions by the newly installed President Carlos Andres Perez will form an important part of the world's energy future.

First, a few primary facts. Venezuela — fifth in oil production, third in oil exports — was an oil exporter before the big Arab oil strikes were made, and was one of the founding members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). The Arabs were influenced by their idea of common economic action. But the Arabs beat them to the recent price hikes, and Venezuela followed hard on their heels.

The oil tax reference price here, on which the 60 per cent government tax is collected, has increased from a little more than $3 a barrel to $14. The oil company officials are very about it, but the ordinary Venezuelan is likely to draw a moral of his own: If the companies and consumers can stand such stiff prices and taxes now, then for some years the Venezuelans must have been exploited.

This mood sets the climate of opinion here on oil politics. The company officials have to face the fact that the oil days of company domination, which began with the dictator-president, Juan Vicente Gomez, are over. In the coming negotiations to decide the new government, and power setup on oil, it is the government that will be dominant and will call the tune.

The Pathetic Drama Of the Terrorist

Victims of political kidnappings, airplane bombings and other acts of terror have one consolation — if they survive to be able to appreciate it. There's nothing personal involved.

"Terrorists see themselves as taking part in dramatic, symbolic and even magical acts," says Dr. Lawrence Zele Freedman, a University of Chicago psychiatrist who has spent 20 years studying aggression and violence.

Terror is an assaultive act aimed at harming another person or persons, he says, but the desired effect is on a third group, the audience.

"The terrorist is more concerned with that impact than the destructive effect on the immediate victim of the assault," Freedman has coined a new term — "politraxism" — from the Greek words meaning "upsetter of the community."

"Terrorism," he says, "is the politraxic crime par excellence."

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

"My father, my sister and I can all make a meal if we have to. That's the only time I do it though," Helle Hansen smiled as she commented. "The dessert I made for the American Field Service buffet was one I could do by heart as that is common in Denmark. In fact, you might call it a basic recipe."

Helle is a guest of the Jay Stager family of 29 Forest St. She is a native of the Danish island of Lolland which sounds like "Lawland" as Helle pronounces it. Her parents are teachers of gymnastics on a school level comparable to our junior high schools. Her home is a farm on which sugar beets, grain (mostly wheat and hops) are grown. Hops are used in the making of Danish beer, a major product.

"We also have horse though they are mostly for fun. My sister's friends board their animals with us and they can roam about outdoors in the summer." Helle has never been a true farm worker. Her father has good friends who help him, mostly at harvest-time. "When I did help on the farm, mostly when I was younger, it was more of a fun thing."

Helle's English is excellent. She studied the language for five years before coming here in August. Before completing her education through college level, she will have studied German, French, English, Swedish, Norwegian and Latin in addition to her native tongue. This is primarily because Helle has chosen languages as her major.

The first day of school was difficult for Helle. As the names of the students were being called off by the homeroom teacher, she thought she would never be able to learn them all. "Even the teacher had to ask, 'How are you?' she didn't quite know how to respond as she took the question literally. 'Everyone is very nice to me. The transactions between the students and the teachers are very good here.' She is impressed with the help provided the students by teachers. In Denmark, you are strictly on your own. If you don't get something the first time around, you must research it yourself or hire a tutor to help you."

Because all education is free to those who desire it, it is assumed that students are at school to pay attention and learn. Seven years of school is required by law although there are few dropouts. "It has been five years since anyone dropped out (of my school) and then it was only one." While there are vocational schools, the apprentice system is strong in Denmark and is chosen by many.

School uniforms were a complete surprise to Helle. Danish girls wear pants to school almost exclusively. "I can't remember when I last wore a dress." The only time a girl wears a dress is if she is going to some special event after school. I was shocked when I saw the gym suits. "High school gym suits are one-piece garments with elastic-legged bloomers under the shorts). Leotards or shorts are worn in Denmark."

Gymnastics in Denmark is similar to the floor gymnastics we saw on television from the Olympics. There is not as great a variety offered in sports — no tennis, for example. Helle thinks this is probably because the schools are not as large.

Helle teaches gym to small boys at a private club. She is continuing her education in this field so she can teach. "If you don't have a parent, it is a higher level. Scouting takes up a good deal of her time. As a troop leader, she is away much of the time in summer hiking or on walking tours which can last as long as 10 days."

When we compare living patterns, food and, in fact, all other areas of living, between the U.S. and Denmark, it must be borne in mind that almost everyone in Denmark is of one background as to language and customs. There is one religion that of the state, though others are permitted, there are so few, however, that only in the larger cities could one find churches other than that of the state.

As for breakfast, Helle states, "Breakfast is not as big as it is here. Of course, it depends on where you come from but once a family decides on what their breakfast will consist of, they have the same thing over and over again. If you were to order breakfast, a typical one, in a hotel, you would probably get bread, cheese, Danish pastries and tea or coffee. Here, you may have something different every day of the year."

We never get dessert for lunch. Maybe an apple or banana which we might save for later in the day. Lunch is not carried in a paper bag or lunch pail. Instead, we have a little container just big enough for four little sandwiches. Usually, each little sandwich will have something different on it depending on what you like — say cheese, egg, liverwurst. Some people put a piece of chocolate though I don't like it."

The Danish sandwich is world renowned. It is served open-face, on paperthin buttered Danish dumplings that are called smørrebrød. The major ingredient is placed atop the bread usually pumpernickel, but there is no limit to what may be artistically arranged and attractively garnished. It is eaten with a knife and fork and is usually accompanied by Danish beer, though occasionally a Danish might choose aquavit. (Aquavit is made similar to the process used in the making of gin. It is a typical Scandinavian drink, the Danish product being the driest. It is flavored with caraway and served icy cold, though no ice is put into the liquid itself.)

In the photo above, you see an iron stein with rounded cups. This is used for making ableskiver which are a sort of Danish dumpling that is practically a national dish. "Able" means "apple" though there are none in the recipe given below. Originally, a piece of apple or a little apple was placed in the batter after a little had been poured into one of the cups. You can still do this if you like. The dumplings are similar to doughnut holes though they are not sugared, and are less sweet.

Helle is 18, charming, intelligent and good company. She is a senior at Manchester High School. "I certainly plan to come back here again. Oh."

Lemon Fluff (Danish Citronfrømag) 8 eggs 1 cup sugar 2 tablespoons gelatin 1/4 cup lemon juice 1/4 cup boiling water 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind whipped cream for topping Beat egg yolks with sugar until thick and lemon colored. Soak gelatin in a little cold water and add 1/4 cup boiling water. Stir until dissolved and add egg mixture, mix well. Add lemon juice and the grated lemon rind and lastly the stiffly beaten egg whites; blend well. Pour into glass serving bowl. Cool in refrigerator. Top with whipped cream before serving.

(Danish Apple Dumplings) 1/2 lb. flour 1/2 quart buttermilk 1/4 teaspoon baking powder 2 eggs 1 oz. sugar a little salt

Stir the flour, eggs and sugar with most of the buttermilk and a pinch of salt. Just before baking, the baking powder is stirred into the remainder of the buttermilk and mixed into the batter. The pan is greased lightly with a little butter in each depression; then filled halfway up with batter. While the dumplings are still liquid inside, they are turned over and baked on the opposite side. (A small piece of apple or appleauce may be placed in the batter by pouring a small amount of batter, then the apple, then more batter).

Scout News

Scouting's involvement in the nation's bicentennial program will turn to a new emphasis of fitness and safety next fall, according to John L. Treadway, president of the Long Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America.

In connection with the national youth organization's 64th anniversary in February, it was announced that the second year of the BSA bicentennial program will be built around "Be Prepared for Life (Be Safe Be Fit)," Treadway said.

"The new program emphasis will begin on September 1," Treadway explained, "and will involve all of the 30,000 members in this area. The series of local and unit activities will provide for the conservation of our human resources."

Among the activities that will be available to the 925 packs, troops, and posts in this area will be the Presidential Physical Fitness award and the Fitness and Sports, and defensive driving courses in cooperation with local traffic safety officials.

Other features will include bicycle safety and aquatic. "Young people who take part in the BSA bicentennial activities will be eligible to receive colorful recognition emblems and medals," Treadway said. The 1974-75 awards show the Bunker Hill flag which "exemplifies the early American's drive to conserve their military genius and manpower in order to establish their new country."

School Calendar Listed

NANCY DRINKUTH
Correspondent

The school calendar for 1974-75 was recently presented to members of the Board of Education. This calendar had previously been approved for use in Hebron, Andover, Marlborough and at Rham by members of the Central Office Committee.

The schools are scheduled to open on Wednesday, Sept. 4. The calendar includes 184 days. The state requires that schools run 180 days. The extra days are planned in case of snow or some other forced school closing.

In December the last day of school will be Friday the 20th and school will resume on Jan. 2. Schools will be closed the third week in February and the fourth week in April next year. June 25 is the last scheduled day of school in 1975.

Appointments

The board approved the appointment of Marcia Eaton, physical education teacher, for one day per week next year. Mrs. Eaton is presently teaching one-half day per week. Members of the board also entertainments and other uses pertaining to the welfare of the community."

ADM Letters

The Board of Education sent letters asking for support in the General Assembly for increase in the ADM to $300. The letters were directed to Gov. Thomas Meskill, Sen. David Olegard, Reps. Dorothy Miller, Ruth Truex, Rufus Rose, Catherine Smith and Maurice Ross, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, Sen. Lowell Weicker and Rep. William Cotter.

Public Hearing

The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing March 28 at 8 p.m. in the all purpose room at the Gilead Hill School concerning development for the Town of Hebron.

A copy of the new town plan is on file in the office of the Town Clerk at the Town Office Building.

PTO

The PTO has announced that the sweat shirts sale will be extended until March 22. Unless there are at least 50 orders in each school no order will be placed.

Due to the energy crisis and the lack of gasoline, there will be no PTO sponsored swimming program this summer. It is hoped that the program will operate again during the summer of 1975.

The PTO will hold an open meeting March 28 at the Hebron Elementary School at 8 p.m. Dr. Vincent Rogers will talk about open classroom education. A short business meeting will precede the talk.

A testimonial dinner for Gladys Miner, retired town clerk, is scheduled for Friday,

Baha'i Community Notes New Year

The Baha'is of Manchester are joining members of the Baha'i community throughout the world today in celebrating New Year, the Baha'i New Year.

Wednesday night the local group gathered at the home of Mrs. June Burkas on Union St. for prayers and selected readings from the writings of Baha'ullah, prophet-founder of the faith.

On Saturday, they will get together with friends at a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil DesJardin, 146 Summit St. Those wishing more information may call Sharon Bjork, 647-1824.

According to DesJardin, chairman of the Manchester Baha'i Assembly, the Baha'i calendar is based on the solar year and consists of 19 months, each with 19 days. The year is equalized by four intercalary days (five in a leap year) preceding the last Baha'i month. The new year coincides with the vernal equinox.

Bolton—Who Owns Memorial Field?

DONNA HOLLAND

A request from Henry Ryba, recreation commissioner, for $1,000 to put the field behind the Bolton Elementary School in shape led to a discussion as to who is actually responsible for the property.

The field is used by school students as well as town sport groups and other Bolton residents.

Larry Shaw, park commissioner, said the field should be done in clay now in order to make it a good playing field that would be virtually maintenance free. Board of Finance members could not reach a decision as to whose responsibility it was nor did they feel they should make a decision.

It appeared sending a request to the selectmen to have them request Town Counsel, Marshall Taylor decide if the town or school is responsible.

Morris Silverstein was the lone finance board member opposed to the decision. He felt the $1,000 should be appropriated now, in the park budget, and the work begun.

In May 1947 at a special town meeting the sum of $1,000 was appropriated to be spent under the direction of the selectmen for recreational purposes. An amendment

Bolton Disagreement Delays Firehouse Fund

DONNA HOLLAND

At its meeting Monday the Board of Finance by a 4-2 vote turned down a request from the selectmen for $1,000 for preliminary plans for an addition to and renovation to the firehouse.

In its request the selectmen stipulated that a builder or contractor supply plan data instead of an architect.

Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission, felt it was to the best interest of the town to hire an architect. Cheney did not discuss the stipulation with the members of his commission.

The original request came from the fire commissioners who did not feel an architect was necessary for an addition. However, Robert Morra, fire commissioner chairman, recommended if it was necessary to use an architect, one be hired on an hourly basis to draw up plans from which contractors could bid.

The PBC earlier approved the request for preliminary plans and requested them from the selectmen who in turn approved the request with the stipulation. The finance board is writing the selectmen advising that the stipulation be settled to the satisfaction of all before the appropriation is again requested.

The finance board unanimously approved the request for an appropriation of $100 for Calvin Hutchinson, assessor building inspector, for dues and mileage from cash surplus.

It also approved a request for a transfer of $500 from the snow and ice removal wages category of the selectmen's budget to general highway wages.

Unanimously approved after much discussion was a request from Bolton's newly appointed park commissioner, Larry Shaw, for an appropriation of $300 of which $150 is for building maintenance needs and $150 for oil.

The appropriation will be taken from cash surplus.

The board also approved a transfer of $100 from the park department's budget category equipment maintenance to building maintenance miscellaneous needs.

The transfer of $100 and appropriation of $150 is needed due to excessive vandalism recently in the park building.

The programs include learn to swim, water safety, first aid and home nursing as well as motor services.

In addition, Dormer indicated, funds are necessary to help continue the work of the Connecticut Red Cross blood program, one of the most outstanding in the country.

Contributions should be made using the postage paid envelopes provided for returns.

Last and Fourth

The Bolton Ice Palace had a freeloader during its regular figure skating lessons Monday evening—a black and white springer spaniel.

Charles Nielson, ice clearing machine operator, read the dog tag number and called the town clerk's office in the hopes of locating the owner.

"At the time, the Board of Finance and the Board of Education were holding a budget work session at the town hall."

Andrew Maneggia, school board chairman, sitting nearest the phone, answered the call. His dog, a black and white springer spaniel, had strayed from home earlier in the day. You guessed it; the dog is his.

Maneggia's wife, Jean, picked up the dog at the rink; by that time it was contentedly sleeping alongside Nielson.

Maneggia expressed appreciation that Nielson, who easily could have just helped the dog out the door, took the time and trouble to locate the owner.

Elderly Housing

MHA Eyes Brainard Pl. For 40-Unit Project

The Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) is strongly considering a 40-acre lot at Brainard Pl. and Johnson Ter. for a 40-unit elderly housing project.

MHA officials have approached the owner, developer Alexander Jarvis, who has reportedly quoted a price of about $100,000 for the site.

MHA Chairman Pascal Mantrangelo today confirmed that the housing site selection committee is concentrating on the Brainard Pl. property, but he didn't say how far negotiations have proceeded.

However, the architectural firm retained by the MHA to plan the state-funded housing project has already designed a building with the Jarvis parcel in mind.

Endersin said the building was designed with a restraint that property will be limited, and the Jarvis land appears to be the MHA's first choice for the housing project.

It appears, though, that if the MHA opts for Jarvis' land there won't be enough money to cover the costs of site acquisition.

The state Department of Communities and Development has approved the plan for the building.

Most Gas Retailers Stay Closed Sunday

Most Manchester Gasoline Retailers Haven't Made Plans for Sunday

Most Manchester gasoline retailers haven't made plans for Sunday openings despite President Richard Nixon's Tuesday night executive order lifting the Arab oil embargo.

Local dealers contacted today reported that their gasoline supplies haven't changed and most stations will remain closed on Sundays.

Station owners who have been closed Sundays for several months agreed there just isn't enough gasoline to sell seven days a week.

And even if the local stations had as much fuel as they want it appears unlikely they'd be open Sundays. Many dealers said they like having a day off.

They've cut overhead expenses by closing Sunday, and because motorists have changed gasoline-buying habits the Sunday openings wouldn't be profitable.

Another gasoline retailer said he might think about Sunday openings if he had more gasoline, but increased supplies aren't expected.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — UCLA's John Wooden put North Carolina State on notice Wednesday that Bill Walton is ready for the Bruins' NCAA playoff game with the Wolfpack Saturday.

"Bill became himself about two weeks ago," Walton, an awesome 6-foot-11 All-America center, will lead second-ranked UCLA against the top-ranked Wolfpack at 3:10 p.m. EDT Saturday in an NCAA semifinal game.

The other semifinal match, at 1:10 p.m. EDT, pits 5th-ranked Marquette against 10th-ranked Kansas. Coaches of all four teams discussed the semis over a special telephone hookup with sportswriters who already have gathered for the playoffs.

Wooden said the Bruins' performance had improved since their back-to-back losses in February to Oregon State and Oregon, upsets that knocked UCLA out of first place in the ratings.

"We've used our high post offense a little more and it has worked real well," said Wooden. North Carolina State will be out to avenge its only loss of the season, an 84-66 defeat by UCLA last Dec. 15. But Wooden doubled the Wolfpack would have any psychological advantage over the Bruins.

"I believe you can discount that game," he said, adding, "but I would rather be in the position of having beaten a team by a substantial margin before than to have lost to them by a substantial margin."

Wallop coach Norm Sloan was delighted that All-America David Thompson performed well and had no ill effects from Tuesday's practice, his first since a fall last Saturday lacrating a high ankle requiring 15 stitches.

When the 6-foot-4 forward first came on the practice court, Sloan said, "All of us were trying hard to act like we were not watching him, but we were."

"When he dunked one I felt like cheering," Sloan said. "We were all watching more than we wanted to admit."

Kansas coach Ted Owens sounded the writers that the UCLA-North Carolina State contest, although the center of intense interest, is not the only game being played in an outstanding Marquette team.

The Jayhawks earned a semifinal berth by squeezing out of the consolation game.

Moriarty Resigns

Manchester High Head Basketball Coach Jim Moriarty Tenders His Resignation

Manchester High head basketball coach Jim Moriarty tendered his resignation from the post, David Wiggins, athletic director of athletics, afternoon.

Moriarty, who had compiled a 44-11 record in his six years at the helm, cited personal reasons and the fact that the basketball program here has grown to his expectations for resigning.

In his letter to Wiggins, Moriarty is quoted as saying that a change in leadership was in order.

Moriarty's 1970-71 team was his most successful. It marked a 9-7 regular season record. The Bruins finished second in the Division II playoffs.

Director of Athletics Wiggins stated Wednesday that the school is in no hurry in naming a new waterbury head coach.

"I'll be looking for the best candidate possible. If we can't find one in the system, then we'll go outside. We will screen all candidates very carefully to reach expectations and we have plenty of time."

NIT Tournament

BC Eagles Rate Nod Over UConn Huskies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Utah is a 5-point favorite over Memphis State and Boston College a 2-point pick over Connecticut in Thursday night games which wind up the quarter-final round of the National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The winners advance to semifinal berths against each other on Saturday afternoon when Jacksonville and Purdue, which won quarter-final games on Tuesday night, will clash in the other game. The nationally-televised final round is on Sunday afternoon.

Utah impressed with a powerful attack in its opening round 102-89 victory over Rutgers, which included the tournament's highest single-game scoring performance so far, 34 points by Ticky Burden.

Memphis State's Tigers, on the other hand, barely squeaked through the opening round with a 73-72 decision over Seton Hall and its top scorer, senior guard Bill Laurie, led Boston College (19-8) also was only a one-point winner in the opening, 63-62, over Cincinnati. The Eagles, a losing finalist in the NIT in 1969, will have a slight advantage over Connecticut (19-7), which scored a surprise 82-70 win over St. John's in the opening round.

The UConn's, the closest thing to a "home" team the tournament has now that St. John's, Manhattan, and Rutgers have been ousted, are bringing several thousand fans from their campus 150 miles away. Leading the Nutmeggers is 6-1 senior guard Jimmy Foster, who was a standout in the opening round when he sank 11 of 16 shots and totaled 27 points.

Redmond's Three Goals Upends NHL Canadians

NEW YORK (UPI) — If there's anything a hockey player enjoys more than performing the "hat trick," scoring three goals, it's doing so against the team which traded him away and in the city he once played for, so you might say Mickey Redmond couldn't possibly have enjoyed himself more Wednesday night.

He engineered the fourth hat trick of his career, but it was only the first time he did it in Montreal where he was traded to the Canadiens, the team which traded him away three years ago, in pacing the Red Wings to a 7-4 victory.

"It's super to score three goals in Montreal where I used to play," said Redmond. "Our team in playing so relaxed because we know we're not in the playoffs. That's why it was such a wide open game."

Redmond and Doug Roberts, who had a pair of goals, broke a 3-3 tie when they scored within a space of 64 seconds in the first period and after Pete Mahovich netted his second goal of the night for the Canadiens and Jacques Lemaire followed up with another 45 seconds later to cut the Wings' margin to 6-5, Henry Boucha fired home the winner for Detroit at 12:48.

The Vancouver Canucks, struggling to stay out of the cellar in the NHL East, rallied from a 3-0 deficit to beat the New York Rangers, 7-5. Don Lever, Gerry O'Flaherty and Jocelyn Guvermont had two goals apiece for the Canucks while Rod Gilbert scored a pair for the Rangers.

Gil Perreault scored twice in the final 12 minutes giving Buffalo a 2-1 decision over Chicago. Perreault tied the score with his first goal at 8:33 of the final period, converting Rick Martin's pass and then hawk goalie Tony Esposito again by rifling home Jerry Korab's rebound less than five minutes later.

Buffalo Sabres Coach Joe Crozier pondered today what might have been had center Gil Perreault played the whole season. Chicago Black Hawks Coach Billy Reay rued what was Perreault, who missed 23 games in mid-season for the Sabres with a broken leg, scored twice in the final 12 minutes Wednesday night to give Buffalo a 2-1 win over the Black Hawks.

The decision left the Black Hawks sure of finishing no worse than second in the National Hockey League's West Division, without a win in four games against Buffalo this season, two losses and two ties.

But the victory still left the Sabres considerably short of fourth place, the last playoff berth in the East Division.

"I wish we'd had Perreault for those 23 games," Crozier said. "I wouldn't be worrying now about making the playoffs."

"He was slowed up for a little while after he came back, but the last three weeks he's been going great."

Crozier conceded that Perreault's two goals would have produced only a tie for a berth in the Sabres' first period. 90-foot shot by Jerry Korab as time ran out in the first period. Korab fired from the red center line in desperation. The puck was high and not in line with the goal. But Chicago goalie Tony Esposito stuck up his gloved hand to field the puck, and instead it bounced through his glove and deflected into the cage.

Had Esposito not touched it, it probably would have been over the net and to one side as well.

"We got a break on that," Crozier said, "but you need those breaks sometimes."

Reay dismissed the Hawks' performance as "spasmodic, or our poorest effort in quite a while. But until this we'd only two wins in 22 games."

"You've got to give the other club some credit. They were doing well and you're going to have games like this. It was up and down after that first goal."

"I don't know whether Tony should have stopped it, but to me he played a great game. He must have stopped 10 others that could have gone in."

Esposito was bombarded with 40 shots by the Sabres, 23 of them in the final period, while the Hawks put only 1 shot, on Buffalo goalie Dave Dryden, with goals scored by Jim Pappan and Len Figg.

Linkens Tee Off In Heritage Golf

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — The PGA tour comes to this island resort of the very rich Thursday for the start of the $500,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

Hale Irwin will be defending the title he won last September when he broke all Classic records in claiming a five stroke victory with a four-round total of 272. He finished seven shots better than the previous low aggregate over the 6,865 yard, par 71 Harbour Town course.

Irwin will be one of the favorites going into the first round along with 1974 multiple winners Johnny Miller and Hubert Green, the latter who is coming off his three-shot triumph at the Greater Jacksonville Open last week.

WHA West Division Clinched by Aeros

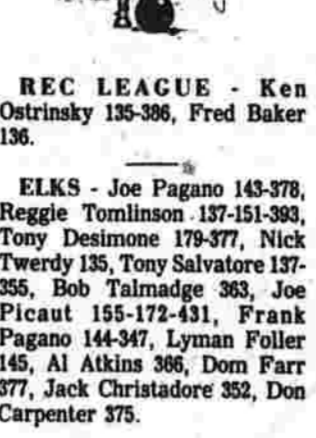

NEW YORK (UPI) — A clinching of the Western Division championship in the World Hockey Association.

Sherritt scored a pair of goals within 22 seconds during the third period Wednesday night to highlight the Aeros' 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Crusaders in Cleveland. Veterans Gordie Howe had two assists in the game as the Aeros took a 13-9-0 lead over Minnesota in the West.

Sherritt's two goals had given Houston a 5-2 lead but Cleveland made it close with a pair of goals in the final five minutes of play.

In other WHA action, the New England Whalers, in first place in the Eastern Division, had a 2-2 tie with Edmonton at Boston as Edmonton rallied from a 2-0 deficit, and the Jersey Knights broke out of a 5-6 tie to beat the Los Angeles Sharks, 6-5. Los Angeles led when they split their slim playoff hopes alive.

St. Joseph's Cagers Protest McKinney Firing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A delegation from the St. Joseph's College basketball team met Wednesday with the college president, Rev. Theodore Toland, to protest the firing of coach Jack McKinney.

"We presented our side," said reserve center John Zipp. "We accepted the positive values of coach McKinney and the negative values of Father Blee."

Zipp referred to the Rev. Michael J. Blee, the director who fired McKinney and who made the decision public Monday in a terse announcement saying only that "It has been decided to replace Jack McKinney as head basketball coach for the 1974-75 season."

No reason was given for the firing but McKinney said he was told by Blee that it was because he had not contributed "some educational value" to team members.

Zipp said Toland "appeared to listen" and promised to make a statement. He said he assumed the statement would be a clarification of Toland's position.

The statement, released late Wednesday, said:

"For some time, there have been differences of understanding between Coach McKinney and St. Joseph's College administration on matters of program and administrative implementation. Since these differences persisted without foreseeable resolution, a decision of termination was reached. Mr. McKinney's personal integrity is not at issue."

In other league action, Fred's Athletic Club topped Teiso, 56-52. John Reichardt (15) and Dick Belerovich (10) were best for Freds while Larry Cowler (17) and Mike Kohler (19) paced Teiso.

New Record Duckpin bowler Tony Marinelli Sr. set a new league record in the Hartford County League as he rolled a three-game string of 517, breaking the old mark of 509 which he and Jim Lambert held previously.

Marinelli had games of 144, 202 and 171 in compiling the new record at the Holiday Lanes. He bowled for the Marinelli Getty Service team in the league.

Zipp said Toland "appeared to listen" and promised to make a statement. He said he assumed the statement would be a clarification of Toland's position.

WFL Florida Team Establishes Home

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Jacksonville city council virtually assured the Florida Sharks of the new World Football League Wednesday of being able to play in the 70,000 seat Gator Bowl this coming season.

The council approved a rental rate reduction scheme which was the final step in acquiring the team for the city. The team also will receive 30 per cent of the parking revenues under the plan worked out by the council.

Sharks' owner Fran Monaco of Deland, Fla., said he was "very pleased" with the 14-5 vote of the council and called the rental plan fair.

Monaco said he will officially make the announcement here within the next few days that the Sharks will call Jacksonville home. He expects WFL president Gary Davidson on hand for the announcement.

Training Camp Roundup Burroughs' Change Makes a Difference

Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers made that switch three days ago and you've never seen such a change in a performer. Playing left field, the 22-year-old left fielder, the eighth inning that was the Orioles' margin of victory in a 4-3 decision over the Kansas City Royals. Dave McNally worked the first seven innings for Baltimore, yielding one run, a homer by Paul Schaal.

Reggie Smith's double in the seventh inning snapped a tie for the St. Louis Cardinals in a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees. Smith's blow was his third hit of the contest, came at the expense of Lowell Palmer and followed a single by Jose Cruz.

Mickey Stanley's third straight hit, a three-run homer in the sixth, powered Detroit to a 6-3 triumph over Boston, and Boston got some good news from Larry Dierker in the form of five hits in his first game since he was traded to the Expos. Dierker, hampered by a variety of troubles last year, walked the leadoff batter and then retired 13 in three innings. The Los Angeles Dodgers stole five bases off catcher Hank, filling in for Johnny Bench, and beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, for their fourth straight victory. Don Sutton allowed two runs in five innings for the Reds while Pete Rose had three of the Red's nine hits.

Rain washed out the three games schedule in Arizona, cancelling the San Diego Padres' game at home and the Cleveland-San Francisco contest at Phoenix and the Milwaukee-California exhibition at — get this — San City.

'We're Not All-Knowing' Red's Anderson Declares

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — One of those little shavers, no more than five at the very outside, strategically worked his way over to Sparky Anderson's blind side on the field before the ball game the other day and stood there with a beseeching look on his face and a pencil and piece of paper in his hand.

"Please... please..." implored the youngster softly, oblivious to the fact that some of the boys' awe and excitement of meeting his first major league manager was not only showing but spilling all over him.

Sparky Anderson is the kind of individual who loves kids, ballplayers, fans, everybody. It's all the same to him, developed, he's just built that way. He looked down at this little and, taking the pencil and piece of paper, said to him:

"For you, the world... anything!"

The boy took the autograph and left, but was right back two minutes later.

"Can I have your hat?" he asked Sparky Anderson.

"I can't," said the Cincinnati Reds' manager. "I'll get fired."

The kid looked as if somebody had just destroyed him with all the hard, cold facts about Sanha Claus. He picked his head up and his eyes found Anderson's.

"You said ANYTHING," he mumbled before amblying off.

Sparky Anderson doesn't get stopped too often on the ballfield, but that little episode stopped him. He laughs when he talks about it and believes that in a way, it bears out one of his theories perfectly.

Big league managers, he feels, do not know as people make them out to be, says Sparky Anderson. Big league managers, he says, are the same as everybody else. They have weaknesses, and they make mistakes.

"A manager is not God," Sparky Anderson says. "You mean to tell me it isn't logical to think there could be somebody on the ball club smarter than the manager? Why not? There've been ballplayers who stepped right out of the ranks and became big league managers. They immediately were labeled 'smart.' Did they get smart overnight? Ridiculous. They were smart all along, maybe even smarter than the manager."

Some managers regard their ballplayers only a jump or so ahead of the village dummy and wouldn't accept advice from them if they were going down for the last time in the ocean and nobody else was around, but Anderson goes the other way.

"If any of my players comes up with an idea I didn't

Cougar Nine Beaten Fifth Time In Row

Dropping its fifth straight decision Wednesday was the Manchester Community College baseball team, this time to Anderson Junior College, 7-4, in Anderson, S.C.

We lost another one but I was pleased with our performance. We played with more confidence than before," Cougar coach Jim DeWitt stated.

Anderson, which is now 6-3, jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in its half of the first inning, scoring three runs on two errors, a hit by Jim Lehand, and a sacrifice fly by Larry Warshawsky. Single runs were scored in the fifth, Lehand driving in the run, and in the eighth stanza on a single, an error and a sacrifice fly by Tom Fahy.

Manchester concludes its Southern swing Friday afternoon facing Mitchell Junior College in Statesville, N.C. The Cougars return home Saturday afternoon.

Penn State Withdraws From ECAC Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A desire to be "national leader" in college athletic policy and to save as much as $60,000 a year are the reasons for the announced resignation of powerful Penn State University from the nation's largest conference.

The Nittany Lions, for many years a national power in football, wrestling, and several other sports, formally declared Tuesday they will go through June 30 with previous plans to join the more than 200 member Eastern College Athletic Conference.

The main reason, according to Lions' athletic director Edward Coker, is to pursue the university's desire to exert "national leadership in intercollegiate athletics."

John Morris, university spokesman, explained that Penn State is a national independent within the NCAA, rather than a regional or eastern independent within the ECAC.

"This feeling of having outgrown the bulky, loose-knit ECAC," Morris pointed out, "is made up mainly of smaller colleges and is more representative of their point of view than that of the major college with a large athletic program like Penn State," is supported by the money angle.

The Lions, with a nationally-ranked football team coached by Joe Paterno which has gone to bowl games four times in the last five years and appeared many times on the NCAA's program of college football TV, have had to cut the ECAC in for a share of the money it got from these appearances.

Morris said the ECAC's share has been averaging $5,000 per year for the last five years. That makes Penn State, he said, "the largest financial contributor to the ECAC."

"Although this financial burden was not the main reason for our withdrawal, it was obvious to us that this considerable sum of money could be put to better use within our own system," Morris said.

Morris stressed that Penn State had tried to change things within the ECAC more to its point of view, including the belief that "the burden of main-

Stars Crossed

DENVER (UPI) — The paths of heavyweight champion George Foreman and a fifth-ranked Ron Lyle are destined to cross, according to a handler for the boxing king.

Harry Barnett, an attorney for Foreman, Wednesday said Lyle's Tuesday night unanimous 12 round decision over Oscar Bonavena virtually assured a match.

"Those two are on a collision course," Barnett stressed. "Penn State had tried to change things within the ECAC more to its point of view, including the belief that 'the burden of main-

Double Sessions Continue at Rham

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Regional District 8 Board of Education voted Monday evening to continue double sessions at Rham High School for the 1974-1975 school year.

The same schedule will be adhered to as this year with Grade 8 going in the morning, the Grade 7 in the afternoon and the senior high students all day.

The board took this action after Dr. David Cattaneo, superintendent of schools, informed it that there is "no good alternative next year but to continue double sessions."

Glen Frank, assistant principal, pointed out the present overcrowded situation with 1,200 students attending the school which at full capacity should house only 1,000.

Frank also mentioned how future projections indicate 1,250 students next September, well over the number that can be accommodated in the building at one time.

The administration further pointed out the possibility of having to put the entire school in double sessions if enrollment goes much beyond that expected next fall.

In reviewing this year's experiences on double sessions, Frank pointed out some of the drawbacks that have been encountered.

These included a reduction in programs and after-school activities for seventh and eighth graders, the impossibility of giving seventh graders any extra help in studies, problems of cleaning and maintenance, the impossibility of scheduling total faculty meetings, and widespread "doubling up" on lockers for students.

OSHA

Edward Shine, Assistant Principal, reported on a list of 28 recommendations made by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) following a courtesy inspection March 12.

Of the 28 recommendations, 12 dealt with electrical problems such as grounding of equipment, 8 dealt with shop safety in industrial arts, 4 dealt with the storage of supplies in areas that could contribute to a fire hazard, and the remaining 3 were miscellaneous items.

Special mention was made in the OSHA report on how the industrial facility was one of the finest in the state and how extremely good safety was carried out.

A compliance inspection of the total school by OSHA is expected some time around the first of the year.

Buse Safety

Dr. Richard Zanini, assistant superintendent of schools, informed the board that as of Sept. 1 of this year all Connecticut bus drivers will have to have some training in bus safety.

The board accepted, with regret, the resignation of Mrs. Carol Powell, social studies teacher, for maternity reasons.

It approved the appointment of Ronald Ouellette to fill this position. Ouellette presently is serving on a temporary appointment for Mrs. Powell who has been on maternity leave.

A maternity leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Agnes Valenti, physical education teacher.

The board gave its approval to Tumblewood Gymnastic School, Inc. to again conduct its program this summer in the Rham High School gymnasium at the same cost as last year.

The school, which is under the direction of Michael Zotta and James Celio, will be conducted for four weeks this year, July 1 to July 26.

Calendar

The board accepted the school calendar for next year as submitted by the central office committee.

The calendar is geared for 184 days, leaving four days for makeup days. School will start Sept. 4 and close June 25, 1975.

Budget Hearing April 4

The Manchester Board of Directors has set April 4 (Thursday) as the date it will conduct a public hearing on the tentative budget and tax rates to be recommended for 1974-75 by Town Manager Robert Weiss. The hearing will be at 8 p.m. in Waddell School, Broad St.

Weiss said he will release his budgets sometime next week and that his recommendations will be published in The Herald. He said Tuesday night his recommended General Fund budget will show a substantial increase over the current one and that the recommended tax rate would be up "not 10 mills but more than 2." Speculation has it he will recommend a tax increase of 5 to 6 mills.

Following the public hearing, the board will have to May 8 to adopt budgets and set the tax rates. The new fiscal year will begin July 1.

Thar She Blows

Dan Martin of Everett, Wash., takes his new three-wheeled, steam-powered "car" for a spin, proving that the home-made contraption really does go. Using Presto-Logs as fuel, the vehicle can go 35 miles per hour, but has one serious flaw: it lacks brakes. Object of the project, Martin said, was to show that "it's possible to make something that doesn't require oil to go down the road." (UPI photo)

CORNER OF HARTFORD ROAD & PINE ST., MANCHESTER - 649-7782

Hi Neighbor!

I regret to report that my golf trip to Florida was not too successful. I lost all my contests, four putted five greens and contributed 8 balls to the water hazards. The course professional and my wife came up with the same advice: Stick to the salvage business and take up another sport. I was so crushed I almost slashed my wrists, but that would have delayed the next day's tee off - you just can't keep your four-some waiting.

Anyway, I'm back at work and my wife says I have to work extra hard to make up for the time off. So, I have instructed Bob and my motley crew to work extra hard to make up for the time I took off. They came up with some fancy goodies for this weekend and I'll try to list some of them:

USUALLY	US
1.99-3-Piece Barbecue Tools	1.00
2.39-27" x 36" Window Shades	1.20
3.75-27" Stair Carpet, running yard	1.88
7.95-Casco Swivel Stools	13.00
89.95-Hollywood Complete Bed Set	44.20
32.95-Cushioned Maple Chair	16.80

74.95-5-Piece Dinetette Set	37.20
30-Bar-tender Drink Mix	17.45
29.50-Maple Mates Chairs	17.90

Plus disposable diapers, bedding, carpeting, furniture, paint, sports equipment, dog food, blankets, sleeping bags, clothing and hundreds of things Bob can't even remember.

So come visit and enjoy the complimentary delicious coffee. We'll really enjoy seeing you. Remember that we sell with a real "no-hard-time" money back guarantee if your purchase does not please you in every way. And my wife, as usual, says, "Don't forget your wallet!"

DOUBLE S&H GREEN STAMPS ALL DAY FRIDAY

By GRANT DILLMAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican and Democratic congressmen alike may be overlooking one important thing in trying to gauge the effect of Watergate on their respective causes. Incumbents in both parties could be in trouble when voters elect a new congress next November.

John W. Gardner, chairman of Common Cause, the national nonpartisan good government organization, put his finger on it when he said the election of a Democrat to Vice President Gerald Ford's old Michigan House seat spells trouble for all incumbents — not just Republicans.

House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes made pretty much the same point in advising Republican congressional candidates to campaign against the Democrats who have been running Congress since 1954. It was the way of saying congressional Democrats have their own credibility gap.

Democrats have made much of their victories in three out of four special congressional elections held recently in traditionally Republican strongholds. The Republicans managed to salvage only California's 12th district and even there the GOP winner called it a personal triumph.

In addition to Ford's seat, the Republicans lost the Pennsylvania seat occupied for 24 years by the late Rep. John P. Saylor and the Ohio seat vacated by Rep. William

Library Visit Forces Experts To Take New Look

HAMPTON, N.H. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) is demanding a new look at plans for a nuclear power plant on the New Hampshire seacoast because Dolly Weinhold went to the library.

"That's just common knowledge — when you don't know where to find something, you go to a library," she said, explaining how she started her search for information on the history of earthquakes in New England and how they might affect the $1.3 billion nuclear plant the New Hampshire Public Service Co. (PSC) wants to build at nearby Seabrook.

"The local library had a book published in 1970 by the New England Regional Planning Commission," she said. The book informed her the Seabrook power plant site sits on top of a fault in the earth's crust.

That was worrisome, but she said, "Bruce Beckley, project manager for Seabrook, stated back in June of 1972 that the fault was inactive and there were no problems."

"I was ready to drop it right then and there until three or four persons contacted me. They asked me if it was inactive, why had they felt earth tremors through the years since 1940," she said. That sent her running back to the library. It put her in contact with the State Library, to which she could write for technical books. What the State Library lacked, it wrote away to other libraries to obtain. It was the only kind of research possible for a woman of 31 looking after four children, ages 6, 4, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Weinhold testified at local hearings on the Seabrook plant, where, she said, "One thing that hurt me is the fact I don't have a degree. I'm relying on information from books and I was testifying against scientists who had degrees and they were saying I was wrong."

The AEC took a look at the books Mrs. Weinhold was quoting. And in late January it ordered a new look at safety factors for the plant's controversial open-ocean water cooling tunnels.

Many of those facts came from data published by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), which is the nation's earthquake information center.

NOAA's revised edition of the "Earthquake History of the United States" says the 10-mile-long New Hampshire seacoast area is in a high risk earthquake area, a zone three, the same designation California has.

"The other thing I had was a 1960 map published by the U.S. Geological Survey, which showed a thrust fault that extends from Portsmouth

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet

During the non-skiing season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team Diet" to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right — 20 pounds in 14 days!

The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full" — no starvation — because the diet is designed that way. It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home. (Not the grapefruit diet!)

This is, honestly, a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you own it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

Send only $2.00 ($3.25 for Rush Service) — cash or O.K. — to: NATIONAL HEALTH INSTITUTE, P.O. Box 20, Dept. 16, Durham, Calif. 95628. Don't order unless you want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Because that's what the Ski Team Diet will do.

YOUNG CHILDREN WILL EAT AND DRINK ALMOST ANYTHING!

Keep all liquids and solids that may be poisonous out of their reach.

Medicines, household preparations, insect sprays, kerosene, lighter fluid, some furniture polishes, turpentine, paints, solvents, and products containing lye and acids are most frequently the cause of accidental poisoning among children.

ALWAYS RETURN TO SAFE STORAGE IMMEDIATELY

Never leave a bottle of aspirin or other pills out of place. Return it to a safe place immediately after using.

LOCKED UP POISONS PREVENT TRAGEDY

Never place kerosene, anti-freeze, paints, or solvents in cups, glasses, milk or soft-drink bottles, or other utensils customarily used for food or drinks.

NEVER CALL MEDICINE "CANDY"

GROWING CHILDREN ARE CURIOUS ABOUT . . .

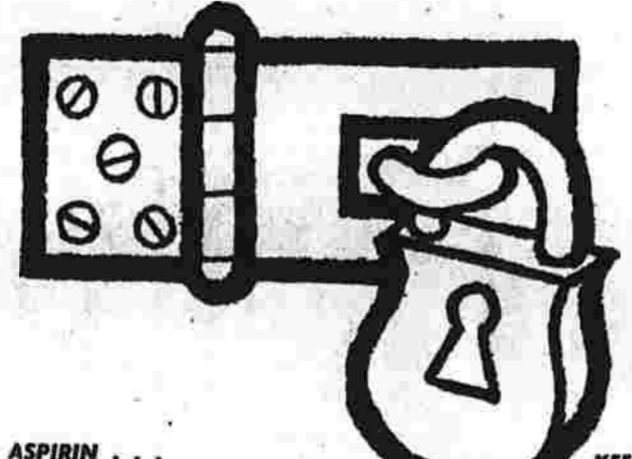

. . . things that glitter . . . pretty colored pills . . . bottles and containers of all kinds. These arouse their natural curiosity. If a child is in the crawling stage, arrange to keep household products in places other than below the kitchen sink unless the cabinet is locked.

If the child is walking, be certain that bottles and boxes containing medicines or household products are put away before answering the telephone or doorbell.

If he is able to climb, find a shelf that is completely beyond his ability to reach, or, better yet, lock these products in a cabinet or closet.

DESTROY OLD PRODUCTS

Four contents down drain or toilet, and rinse container before discarding. Do not put container with its contents into refuse can.

South Windsor Events Set To Stress Bike Safety

JUDY KUEHNEL Correspondent 646-1364

Bicycle Committee

The South Windsor Bicycle Committee, made up of members of many town agencies and interested citizens, has planned several events of interest to people concerned about bicycle safety.

The first of these events will be a presentation by Jerry McTeague on March 23 at 8 p.m. at the Timothy Edwards School Auditorium. McTeague will speak about "Common Sense Bicycle Safety."

McTeague, a South Windsor resident, is the owner of the Jerry McTeague Bicycle Shop in East Hartford. He is a member of the American Youth Hotel, the League of American Wheelmen and the Connecticut Valley Touring Club.

McTeague is a widely known speaker on bicycle safety throughout the Greater Hartford area. He has spoken to many civic and service organizations and has spoken many times regarding bicycle safety in South Windsor and East Hartford school systems.

He has devoted much time to conducting bicycle tours for the Oak Hill School for the Blind and the underprivileged children of the North End of Hartford. He has also conducted bike-a-thons for the American Cancer Society.

During the week of April 8-11, a program on bike safety, which has been prepared by Phil Smith and Don Morrisette of Avery St. School, will be carried out in all the town elementary schools in Grades K-4.

Later in the spring, the BSA groups will hold family bike-rides. Efforts are also being made to encourage a program of inspection and licensing of bicycles and to establish safe bike routes in South Windsor.

The South Windsor Bicycle Committee has cited the fact that about seven out of ten youngsters, from the ages of five to sixteen, ride a bike and that four times each hour a bicycle rider is injured.

According to the Connecticut Safety Commission, a community-wide program on bicycle safety can create a reduction of bicycle accidents, control the problem of lost and stolen bicycles, familiarize youngsters with traffic laws and safety, and develop positive attitude which later will make them safer motorists.
