Prosecution Starts Case Against Boyle

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — Special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague today began trying to trace the cold-blooded, hired killing of a reform candidate for the United Mine Workers presidency to W.A. "Tony" Boyle, the former UMW president charged with the 1969 Yablonski murders.

A jury of nine men and three women was to hear Sprague argue for the first time today that Boyle, 72, and ailing, conceived the idea which resulted in the New Year's Eve, 1969, deaths of UMW archrival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The UMW dissident, his wife, Margaret, and their daughter, Charlotte, 25, were shot to death by three hired killers as they slept in their Clarksville home in the southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields. The killings occurred three weeks after Yablonski lost to incumbent Boyle in a bitter election for the union's presidency.

In his opening statement, Sprague portrayed Boyle as the "arranger" who authorized the payment of $20,000 in union funds to Yablonski's actual assassins through an elaborate scheme involving a non-existent UMW organizing fund.

Seven persons, including the three assassins, have either been convicted of or have confessed to three counts of first degree murder in the Yablonski deaths. A UMW district president also has pleaded guilty to federal charges that he violated Yablonski's civil rights by conspiring to kill him.

Early prosecution witnesses were to include Claude E. Vealey, 30, of Cleveland, who admitted three years ago that he and two other Ohioans actually killed the Yablonskis; and William J. Turnblazer, 52, of Middlesboro, Ky., president of UMW District 19.

Sprague will try to link Boyle to the killings through Turnblazer, whose information led authorities to the former UMW chieftain who is already serving a three-year federal prison term for illegally contributing union money to political campaigns.

The state charged that, at a June 23, 1969, meeting at UMW headquarters in Washington, D.C., Boyle told Turnblazer and Albert Pass, then secretary-treasurer of District 19, that Yablonski "ought to be killed or done away with." Pass was convicted last year of the Yablonski murders.

Mariner Hunts For 'Moonlet'

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 hunted through space today for a glimpse of "Charley" — the unknown moon of Mercury whose possible existence surprised astronomers Sunday.

The cameras of the spacecraft, nursing a serious short circuit in its electrical system, swept the area above sun-baked Mercury as it retreated from the planet at 25,000 miles an hour, hoping to confirm the existence of the moonlet.

It would be the 33rd known moon in the solar system. The possibility of its existence was revealed Sunday by Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, of Arizona's Kitt Peak National Observatory, who said Mariner 10's ultraviolet spectrometer had detected "a strong source of radiation, detached from Mercury, in apparent motion relative to the planet."

Initial calculations estimated that the spectrometer had registered the presence of a body about 15.5 miles wide, circling bleak, crater-pocked Mercury, closest planet to the sun.

An associate told newsmen that when Broadfoot revealed his findings, he was asked what he would name it, as the discoverer of a heavenly body is traditionally entitled to do.

He said Broadfoot replied with a grin:

"When I was a boy, I once had a dog named Charley, and I've always wanted to name something after him."

There had been no previous indication that Mercury had a moon but the planet is so difficult to study from Earth — tucked into the blinding glare of the sun and more than 90 million miles away — that the possibility had not been ruled out.

If "Charley's" existence is confirmed, Earth will lose its status as the only planet with only one moon. Jupiter has 12 moons, Saturn 10, Uranus 5, Mars 2, and Neptune 2. So far as is known, Venus has no moon, nor has Pluto, though a satellite of Pluto, the outermost planet of the solar system, could be difficult to detect from Earth.

Appealing to employers to hire veterans, he said: "We trusted them with our country's honor in Vietnam. They met the test. Now we can trust them in our industries and places of business here at home."

"To ensure that we have policies which pull together the activities of the entire government and more fully meet the needs of the veterans, I am today creating a new Domestic Council on Veterans Services. It will be chaired by the administrator of veterans affairs, Mr. Donald Johnson. Its membership will include four members of the cabinet and others."

Earlier Sunday, Nixon made a surprise appearance at the Key Biscayne Community Church. The minister, the Rev. J.A. Geschwind, said he had not known until 15 minutes before the President arrived he would attend the service.

Godfrey, III, (UPI) — Wilbur Trimbe, president of Lewis and Clark Community College says test papers and answer sheets used in law enforcement classes have been stolen.

Trimbe said that during his investigation of the thefts four students and three members of the campus security force were demoted.

Sometimes, Trimbe said, "College kids will steal tests, but when it's your own security involved the credibility of the institution is affected."

Veteran Services Council Created

KEY BISCAZYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has created a new Domestic Council Committee on Veterans Services to coordinate federal efforts to "more fully meet the needs of the veterans."

Nixon, announcing his action Sunday in a national radio address from his Key Biscayne home, said the committee would be headed by Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald Johnson and would include four unnamed cabinet members.

Nixon acknowledged unemployment among Vietnam veterans has risen within the past three months and they are also faced "with staggering increases in the costs of higher education."

Appealing to employers to hire veterans, he said: "We trusted them with our country's honor in Vietnam. They met the test. Now we can trust them in our industries and places of business here at home."

Gunfire Erupts Again

Syrians Warned On Escalation

United Press International Syrian and Israeli guns and tanks resumed their daily pounding in the Golan Heights for the 21st straight day today and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was reported to have warned against further escalation.

The Israeli army command

said that Syrian gunners opened up on one of the two Israeli positions captured from Syria in the October war on Mt. Hermon. It was the third attack within a week on the observation point that Dayan has called "the eyes of Israel."

A spokesman said there were no casualties in the relatively light morning artillery and tank exchanges, however.

Syrian communiques indicated the Syrians were escalating both the duration and scope of what the Arab press was calling a "war of attrition."

On Saturday and Sunday they said artillery and tank fire continued for 11 hours. For the first time Sunday night they spoke of striking "in depth" at Israeli military targets behind the front lines.

The Israeli newspaper Mariv said Dayan warned "of a tough Israeli response if the deterioration on the Golan continues." He spoke to a closed session with Jewish fund raisers in New York, Mariv said.

The fighting went on in the Golan Heights as the talks for troop disengagement there marked time awaiting a Syrian delegation expected in Washington in about 10 days. Dayan expressed the belief Sunday that Syria probably wanted an agreement.

Dayan said Sunday the Soviet Union was resupplying the Syrians with arms and said he would press Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger for weapons to match the Russian contributions when they meet later today to discuss arms supplies.

Dayan also said Cuba had sent troops to Syria to join North Korean, Kuwaiti, Saudi Arabian and Moroccan forces already there. He did not indicate if the Cuban troops had taken part in the fighting yet.

Dayan, concluding two days of talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement, said on NBC's Meet The Press he was "hopeful" the two sides could reach agreement despite differences that remain "big and wide."

Blind Rider Draws $1,100 in Pledges

By BETTY RYDER

A tired and weary Lenny Gauba is resting in bed today nursing aching muscles and fighting a fever as a result of Sunday's Bike-a-thon conducted in the parking lot of Iona Manufacturing Co. on Regent St.

Gauba, who reportedly collapsed after completing 501 quarter-mile laps for a total of 125 1/4 miles, began his ride at 8:30 a.m. and terminated it at 4:45 p.m. to secure pledges to benefit the Organization of the Handicapped and Hope House, Inc. for autistic children, both in Manchester.

"If all the pledges are honored," Gauba said this morning, "we should realize close to $1,100. People from as far away as Kensington, Enfield, and New Britain called and gave us pledges."

Gauba, who is legally blind and a member of the OTH, was, however, disappointed with the response by Manchester citizens.

"I couldn't believe it," he said. "When I think how I worked at the (State) armory during the power shortage and helped folks, it was hard to believe that they wouldn't help me help other people in need."

Would he do it again? "Yes, if it will help less fortunate people," he said.

Manchester residents who Gauba feels have failed him this time may get a second chance. Although he doesn't plan another bike-a-thon, he did say more projects to raise funds for the two organizations will be planned in the near future.

"We need the money," he added, "so we'll just have to devise projects to raise it."

Gauba extended thanks to all those who visited him at the parking lot and especially to his supporters.

Joseph Blette, OTH chairman, who was on hand throughout the day along with other OTH and Hope House, Inc. workers, also enjoyed a well-deserved night's sleep.

Those unable to pledge support on Sunday may do so by sending their checks to: Organization for the Handicapped, Mayfair Gardens, Apt. 215, N. Main St., Manchester.

South Windsor

Democratic Hopefuls Give Views on Issues

JUDY KUEHNEL

The three Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination presented their views before a packed crowd at the Timothy Edwards School in South Windsor Sunday afternoon.

Each of the candidates—Ella Grasso, Robert Killian and Frank Zullo — expressed regrets over the absence of Homer Babbidge who, up until Saturday, had been the fourth Democratic candidate for the nomination.

Babbidge dropped out of the race citing lack of finances as a reason for not being able to continue.

Killian, who elaborated on Babbidge's withdrawal, said the former UConn president was "priced out of the business" of campaigning and "one of the first things the government and people will have to address themselves to" is the high cost of elections.

For the most part the more than 300 people who attended the forum were pro-Killian, but both Mrs. Grasso and Zullo drew large rounds of applause for various issues.

When confronted with recent polls showing Mrs. Grasso ahead of the gubernatorial pack, Killian said "The history of polls or polling can't equate the questions and issues."

"The people's rights shouldn't be pre-empted, eight or nine months ahead," said Killian. "I slug it out. I hope the people are turned on the point where they say we are the electorate. Gov. Meskill said I should resign a couple months ago...he's gone and I'm still here."

Referring to her poll figures, Mrs. Grasso said, "I've never commissioned a poll and have no intentions of doing so."

"The only poll I'll accept is the one in November," said Mrs. Grasso. "In 20 years of public life I've never stopped believing that's the only poll I'll accept," said Mrs. Grasso.

Zullo, former Norwalk mayor, said not being in public office "is a minor handicap...it's hard to get the newspaper, television coverage, etc. No one knew who Meskill was when 'Mim' Daddario was 17 points ahead in the polls, however, and three months later Meskill was governor."

Zullo contends the candidate should be judged on his position on the issues, his ability to campaign and "on forums such as this one."

"I realize on the issue of recognition I stand last, but I won't stand last on these other points," said Zullo.

Still referring to the polls, Killian called it a "dangerous process indeed" for people to be committed "eight months before the elections."

Asked what evidence she could give the voters that her fate would not be the same as former gubernatorial candidate Emilio Daddario's (who headed the gubernatorial polls and lost the election), Mrs. Grasso said, "I stand on my credentials over the past 20 years in public office."

Zullo said "these type of forums won't let 1970 happen again and there is no need for anyone to commit themselves three months before the election."

Killian was asked why, after being considered the organization candidate, Mrs. Grasso "seems to be the organization candidate, now."

Killian attributed this to being the one-time Hartford Democratic chairman and the misconception he was "a boss."

This, he felt, has had some adverse effect on his campaign. "I've never been the candidate of any people but the people's candidate," said Killian. "I can't bring anybody, to the moon or show them the stars. All I can do is show the people what I've done during three-and-one-half years of hostile administration."

Killian spoke of his involvement with the oil companies and the battle he waged against them, saying "it was lonely out there."

"I will state my record of performance. A lot of things that happened, happened after people were warned about this, frequently by me," said Killian. "A lot of things that didn't happen, didn't because I stopped them." He cited the Greater Hartford Community College savings and the opposition to "Tommy's Trolley" — the airport monorail proposed by Gov. Meskill.

All the candidates discussed the present tax structure, tax needs, state income tax, welfare, state budgetary items, parochial school aid and abortion.

Mrs. Grasso received a tremendous round of applause when she voiced her opposition to abortion, saying "the unborn have rights."

Zullo said that as governor he could not allow his Catholic views to interfere with the Supreme Court decision to allow abortion.

Killian said he is against abortion but also referred to the Supreme Court's decision.

Concluding the debate Mrs. Grasso was asked whether she would like to have Killian remain as attorney general if she won the governor's seat, to which she replied "whatever place Bob wants would be for him and the convention to determine...I'd like him with me."

Killian, referring to the long and warm relationship he said he and Mrs. Grasso have shared, said it was time for a new attorney general and for him to move "up and out."

MACC News

By Sister Mary Patricia, S.N.D., Executive Director

At the heart of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches is the Division of Christian Unity whose basic purpose is to foster unity among Christians of all denominations and brotherhood among the people of God.

The division members have been very diligent during the past year - at work in the business of fostering unity among Christians by making available opportunities for ecumenical worship services and more recently providing a schedule of denominational services which would be explained for visitors to the churches.

Manchester Brotherhood Night is a tradition for the Temple radio station, WWUW, will go off the air for about two weeks to move its transmitting facilities to Avon Mountain.

The station, at 91.3 mhz, stopped broadcasting Friday and will resume operations in April.

The new station antenna will be placed on Avon Mountain in a space donated by WFSB-TV, Hartford.

WWUW, a student-operated station, went on the air July 15, 1968.

Tito Preparing Yugoslavia For An Era After He's Gone

By BARRY WATERS BELGRADE (UPI) - At 81, President Tito looks tamed and extremely fit for his age, travels frequently, still goes bear and deer hunting and remains the guiding hand at the helm of government.

But last November he publicly admitted for the first time that he was old and uncharacteristically said: "...a president must be active and it is a question of whether a man of my age can continue to satisfy the people."

Since then Tito has suffered an illness that kept him out of action for a month, Yugoslavia has acquired a new constitution and an 18-month purge designed to ensure that Tito leaves Yugoslavia in united Marxist hands is winding up as the 10th party congress approaches.

As a result of these collective developments, political observers are looking to the congress, provisionally scheduled for May, for clues to the direction Yugoslavia will take when Tito dies or retires from the political scene.

Western diplomats say Tito may well use the occasion of the congress to begin handing down some of his power. Currently he is president of the republic, commander of the armed forces and president of the party. Observers suggest he might resign one of the presidencies, most probably of the republic.

Build up Authority Doing so, Tito would not lessen his prestige but would be given the chance to build up the authority of the collective leadership he has led so far to take over the presidency if that is still on his mind.

It may not be. Government sources say now that Tito has become less enthusiastic about the idea of a collective leadership and has come to recognize the need to rely on a shepherd the country when he departs the political scene.

According to this latest scrip, the sources say, Kardelj will be voted into a special new post at the congress—either a secretary-general of the party or possibly as an institutionalized vice president—in order to make sure he has a strong hand in post-Tito Yugoslavia.

Although unquestionably Tito's No. 2, Kardelj has no pretensions to be a member of the party presidium and has previously been dismissed as a possible successor for his lack of charisma and public appeal.

TV Inauguration The first presidential inauguration to be carried by television was that of President Harry S. Truman, Jan. 20, 1949, who was seen over 15 stations from Boston to St. Louis.

Going Too Far

We are sort of old-fashioned and particularly so when it comes to children.
This is why we are a bit disturbed by the ruling in a New Jersey state court that girls should be allowed to play with boys in the Little League baseball program.
We aren't quarreling with the rights of women to be equal to or better than men but we think it is going a bit too far when little boys can no longer be boys and little girls no longer girls.
Lord knows there is plenty of time in life for waging the battle of the sexes without using our children as pawns for our adult games.
We don't quarrel with the right of little girls to play baseball and our own experience has shown us that males have no monopoly on athletic skills.

But the basic right of every boy or girl for that matter is to be and enjoy being a boy or girl for awhile during that most wonderful time of life — childhood.
We think there should be a right of a child to be a child and to savor and cherish this fleeting period in life before he or she is burdened with realities of life.
It is bad enough to push our children into elementary school dances, dating, etc.
What in heaven's name are we raising: Children or miniature adults? Okay, in New Jersey, the girls may be able to try out for the Little League teams and some will make it.
But we think the game and childhood will never be the same again and the children will be poorer for it.

'Good Will' Baloney

It would be folly for us to speculate on what actions, if any, will have been taken by the traveling troupe of Arab oil ministers at the time that this appears in print.
They seem to be playing a cat and mouse game as they go from one national capital to another amid hot and cold speculation on what they will do next.
From their Vienna meeting, however, has come one of the greatest pieces of sheer audacity which we have seen in a long time.
They have ruled that they will not raise oil prices for a three-month period, as a "good-will gesture" toward the western oil consuming nations.
At the same time they warn that if galloping inflation in the petroleum using nations is not controlled that they will have to increase their crude prices at the end of the three-month grace period.
It should be remembered that a year ago the price of crude oil in the Mid-East was somewhere in the vicinity of $3.50 per barrel. Today, after several unilateral increases by the oil producers, the price is $11.65 per barrel. The increase has not been attributed to economic reasons, but rather to promotion of the national interests of the oil producing states.

One of the principal reasons for inflation in the western world has been the astronomical rise in oil prices, which have sent the cost of electricity, gasoline, and petrochemicals skyrocketing.
The oil producers, thus, have been one of the greatest single causes of inflation in the consuming countries.
They now warn us that unless we can control the inflation which they have moved to create, they will again have to raise the price of their crude oil. This, of course, will help create more inflationary tendencies in world economies.
This is an example of the illogicality which has permeated the whole affair of the Arab embargo and price squeeze.
If this is an example of their "good will," God save us from further helplessness.

The Trotter Block

To the editor:
"Correct answers come from knowledgeable people." I am sure you are right. Just got through this morning with an inquiry that left me with thoughts such as "This is enough, can't take it any more, tired of being a broken record."
No town is not going to demolish my building at 101-102 Center St. It is the Trotter Block and the little white house on Trotter St., that is the Town's property, where the demolition will take place. These are the locations that the taxpayer has been supporting, not the building at 101-102 Center St. When? I don't know. I, too, two weeks ago, was transferred from department to department, with a final transfer to Mr. Weiss's office. Being too busy with the budget, he had his secretary read a memo to me, not knowing what the definite plans are, as to where, how and when the roads will become a reality. False accusations, such as made because I refused rental, are not fair to me or to Mr. Weiss because I am sure if the Town was in need of space, one does have procedures and plans to follow. Five years ago, a promise of erection of the drainage system from the Trotter Block was made and that has not become a reality as yet but I am still living with hope that with the demolition consideration will be given to my backyard.

BERRY'S WORLD.

I have written information concerning the Trotter Block. Please, for further inquiries, contact Mr. Weiss or the Board of Directors. They will have the exact information you as a taxpayer are looking for as they are your government of the people, by the people, and for the people.
Unkind words spoken cause hard feelings and they are so unnecessary because by contacting the right channels correct information is always given. I only know what I read in the Manchester Herald.

It Is Our Flag

WASHINGTON — The only sensible thing to say about the Supreme Court's 6 to 3 ruling against a Massachusetts law that made it a crime to treat the American flag "contemptuously" is that both the majority and minority were right.

In its ruling, the Court wiped out a six-month jail sentence imposed on one Valerie Goguen of Leominster, Mass., for wearing a 4-by-6-inch flag sewn to the seat of his blue jeans.
So far, so good. The Massachusetts law was a marvel of ambiguity which, as conservative Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. declared, deprived an accused of due process.
What Powell meant was that the 1890 statute was vaguely worded and did not set out any standards. Thus, a would-be violator was left ignorant of what would constitute an offense. Nor did the law provide guidelines for law enforcement officers.
In short, it was a lousy law — which may explain why it was so seldom enforced during its 70-year life. So the majority properly struck it down.

However, Justice Byron R. White, who concurred in the decision, even declared that the law violated First Amendment freedom of expression by punishing "ideas about the flag unacceptable to the controlling majority in the legislature."
This was surely an unacceptable opinion. Freedom of expression covers a multitude of rights, but I'm sure the Founding Fathers didn't mean it to include wearing the flag on one's behind. Perhaps they should have, but the First Amendment is what it says, not what a Supreme Court justice says it is.
No, Powell's opinion for the majority was the only possible decision the Court could reach. The issue was a pure and simple one of due process, a right that extends even to individuals whose conduct some of us may find contemptible.
Nevertheless, I was surprised to find Powell bowing to the Justice William H. Rehnquist was off-base in dissenting, but only because of the presence of the due process issue. He was quite right in saying that states had a right to prohibit particular displays of the flag, regardless of changing times and mores. As he noted, the flag is something special, "not merely cloth dyed red, white and blue, but also the one visible manifestation of 200 years of nationhood."

I don't happen to consider the flag sacred, because it is after all a civil symbol. But it is our flag, and I'll buy any carefully worded legislation that tells us in simple and precise English that the flag should be treated with respect. I cling to the belief that the Founding Fathers, civilized men all, wrote a Constitution for other civilized people, not for a nation of punks.

Nuts to that. To repeat, the Massachusetts law was a bummer, but I don't like a Supreme Court justice suggesting that laws should be enacted that reflect contemporary fads. The use of drugs has become commonplace in America, but I don't want the Supreme Court ruling that this is okay because times have changed. Powell made the mistake common among some elders of leaning over backward to be tolerant of what might be called the New Morals.

Edward L.R. Elson, said the view is "a thesis I would support based upon my personal acquaintance with those who serve in the national government. This is an appraisal based on more than 27 years of close observation of our nation's political leaders."

As elsewhere in the industrial world, here in Japan the kinds of pollution causing official worry and leading to restrictive law are those deemed injurious to health. But the Japanese have another variety. It is visual.
I have traveled the country from Tokyo to its most southerly point at Kagoshima and find most of that unfit for even the crudest farming and dotted only with occasional isolated hamlets. The Japanese jammed into limited flat space on four main islands may long ago have concluded that fancy urban planning is luxury beyond their practical needs.
Furthermore, their cities were devastated in 1945 U.S. fire-bombing raids that burned the hearts out of some 600 major centers. Obviously, their first, hasty rebuilding was elemental and utilitarian — and even though the wipe-out gave them a golden opportunity to lay out "new cities" with spacious imagination.
In fact, there are few wide, handsome, tree-lined avenues anywhere. Here in Osaka there is one such boulevard, lined with well-designed modern office buildings. Not far away is another attractive cluster erected alongside two parallel canals. Nagoya has some wide streets similarly appealing to the eye.
The speciousness and beauty built into some of the newer hotels in Japanese cities is firm proof that the Japanese really have lost some of their faded artistic sense in the tidal wave of headlong economic growth. Even Tokyo, a postwar utilitarian mishmash, is developing a new artistic gloss in its commercial structures of recent vintage.

Empty urban spaces often are piled with junk, and the ugly automobile graveyard is a common sight here.
For some of this unattractive clutter there may be excuse. Some 80 per cent of Japan's total area is mountainous, and most of that unfit for even the crudest farming and dotted only with occasional isolated hamlets. The Japanese jammed into limited flat space on four main islands may long ago have concluded that fancy urban planning is luxury beyond their practical needs.

Yet these fussy buildings are a supermodern overlay on a Japanese scene which in too many places looks like a city of the western world in the early 1920s or earlier.

Japan, to be sure, retains its spectacular graveyards, shrines, temples and other places bespeaking its almost mystical past. Often these are carefully guarded by surrounding, well-kept park areas which are like oases of peace in the bustling writer of the pragmatic Japan of 1974. Yet a quick eye-scan across a big city may not pick out these charming reminders of Japanese antiquity. An old castle may loom high, but much else of traditional beauty is tucked away amid the clutter.
Japanese government and business leaders acknowledge that "housing" has not kept pace with economic growth as measured by GNP and export-import levels. But the job, to be properly done, may be bigger than even they can acknowledge. For much of the new housing I have seen does not ease the visual problem of clutter, but only fills empty spaces amid the chaos. And the badly needed superhighways, resembling America's, hardly help the scene. A beautiful land is marred by a people maybe too much in a hurry.

Gift to MIT To Finance Methane Study

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The Massachusetts Institute of Technology Energy Laboratory has announced receipt of a $100,000 gift from a Minneapolis industrialist for the establishment of a methanol study center.

The money was donated by John B. Hawley, president of Northern Pump Co., Minneapolis, after he became interested in the possible use of methanol as an additive to gasoline to improve fuel economy.

MIT officials said the grant would be used to test private cars and research engines with methanol-gasoline blends and for testing the chemical behavior of these blends.

Hawley, a 74-year-old investor who owns a number of oil and gas wells, has also made a grant to Texas A&M University to continue work there on methanol production in coal.

Bookmobile Year Old Town Funds Now Sought

By JOHN JOHNSTON For The Herald

The "Thomas Hooker" is now in the home stretch of a one-year, experimental "Books on Wheels" project of the Manchester Public Library.

"We want to continue the program, and our own mobile unit is being asked for as a part of the 1974-75 budget," John F. Jackson, head librarian, said.

The bookmobile, manned by John Cooney and James Purnell, is used to take books to 20 town areas during its four-week schedule.

The project operates daily, Monday through Friday, except when the town libraries are closed on legal holidays.

At each stop, patrons are able to make their choices from a selected collection of about 2,000 books and other materials.

Jackson cited the following service statistics, through March 14: Bookmobile days on the road, 143; total number of visitors, 7,089 (2,485 adult and 4,604 juvenile); registrations, 680 (348 adult and 332 juvenile); circulation of materials, 14,873 (6,337 adult and 8,536 juvenile); daily average circulation, 104.

Also, number of stops, 338; shut-ins served, 32; convalescent home patients served, 79; senior citizens served individually in their homes, 4.

One of the liveliest stops is at Holiday House on Cottage St. Purnell plays a selection of old records.

By Another Name In medieval times, the word "garbage" applied to a combination of chicken manure, feces, and innards stewed as a delicacy by creative chefs.

Forest Service Seeks Permission To Spray Moths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service may have to spray DDT on about 400,000 acres of forest in Oregon, Washington and Idaho this summer to control the tussock moth.

The moth, a serious tree pest, heavily damaged western forests last year when the Environmental Protection Agency refused to allow emergency use of DDT.

John R. McGuire, chief of the Forest Service, made the 400,000-acre estimate in an environmental impact statement of tussock moth control filed last week.

Typical of the favorable impression the bookmobile has made is a letter from Harold Morah of 14K Garden Dr. "I am 64 years old and have emphysema," he wrote.

"I can't walk up to the library so I appreciate the bookmobile. They (Cooney and Purnell) are sure very accommodating boys. They help me a lot...I want to give credit to the people who deserve it; therefore, I am writing to you."

Anyone who is handicapped or a shut-in, or a person who knows of anyone who is either, may arrange to have the bookmobile make an individual stop, Jackson said, by calling Mary Cheney Library any morning from 9:30 to 10.

The program has been favorably received," Jackson said, "judging by phone and letter reports to me. It is good to hear from people in the community. I feel there is an even greater potential for more service to be rendered by such a mobile unit in the community."

Officials decide it is needed. John R. McGuire, chief of the Forest Service, made the 400,000-acre estimate in an environmental impact statement of tussock moth control filed last week.

Bolt Shortage Brings Union, Owners Together

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was an unusual meeting, to say the least. The United Mine Workers union and the coal operators, who will be on opposite sides of the contract negotiating table later this year, were on the same side this time.

The meeting, called by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton last month, didn't receive much publicity. But the outcome apparently means the nation's coal mines will continue in production, helping ease the energy crisis.

Morton called together representatives of industry, labor and government leaders in an emergency meeting on roof bolts, a vital item in coal production. They are relatively inexpensive, costing up to $3 each, depending on length.

Roof bolts are used to keep the ceilings of coal mines from collapsing. They resemble "molly bolts" used by the home handyman to fasten heavy objects to the house walls.

Mines use more than 100 million roof bolts annually and the shortage is a serious problem because the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act requires them.

James M. Day, Administrator of the Interior Department's Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, noted that it potentially was a question of miners' lives and said, "If sufficient roof bolts are not in place as work progresses in underground mines, we will have to close them."

William A. Vogely, ranking Interior Department economist, said the shortage could result in a "vicious circle."

"No roof bolts, no coal. No coal, no steel. No steel, no roof bolts."

Coal operators blamed the shortage on roof bolt fabricators. They in turn blamed steel companies for not making steel rods needed for their manufacture.

Steel companies pointed to prices set by the Cost of Living Council. More realistic prices structures, roof bolt fabricators said they would increase production. The bolts may cost more in the future, but the shortage should disappear.

And during the entire discussion, United Mine Workers officials were on the same side as the coal mine operators. Both knew without the bolts mines would be closed and their interest was the same: Find a way to increase production.

Peace Talks Unlikely In Cambodia

By ROBERT KAYLOR PHNOM PENH (UPI)

Phnom Penh, 40 years old, is a shy little man who illustrates one reason it has been impossible to even make a start at negotiating an end to the war in Cambodia.

Just a shade over five feet tall, with curly black hair and two gold teeth, Hem was until two weeks ago one of the Hanoi-trained cadres that for the past four years have operated the Communist fighting machine here.

Then he and a comrade defected to the U.S.-supported regime of Marshal Lon Nol, not for overriding ideological reasons but because they feared for their lives at the hands of local-grown Khmer communists they say are moving to take control.

"They accuse those of us who went to Hanoi of turning our backs on our people, and they say we are revisionists," said Hem former commander of the 302nd Battalion of the Khmer Liberation Army, speaking through an interpreter.

"Some of us have been killed already. I felt we were going to be eliminated."

Observers here see several problems standing in the way of peace talks, among them the reluctance of the ailing Lon Nol to take any real steps toward negotiations. The case of Hem, one of about 20 of the so-called "Hanoi Khmers" who have started to quit fighting in the last few months, illustrates another problem.

North Vietnam, which formerly provided many of the troops in this sector of Indochina, has dropped into the background of the war here. But an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 Khmer communists and "nationalists" of various stripe fight on.

It has so far been impossible to locate through diplomatic initiatives anyone who speaks for the entire movement.

For the U.S. government it has meant well over $1 billion in aid and a new controversy over whether American military advisers are operating against the orders of Congress. For the Cambodian people, it means that the suffering and privation of war continue.

Communist radio broadcasts say that the ousted former chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, heads the exile government from his base in China, but Hem sniffs at this.

"Sihanouk is purely a mouthpiece for the Khmer nationalists," he said. "I know what Sihanouk is doing: in Peking is a facade to get more support from the peasants. I don't think the Khmer communists will ever let Sihanouk come back."

Hem said that his own instructions, constantly repeated in 16 long years of training in North Vietnam, were to return to Cambodia to promote a revolution to overthrow the "royalist" regime.

The son of a farmer in the southern province of Takeo, Hem was a Viet Minh soldier in the fighting against the French. When that war ended in 1954 he boarded a Polish ship with about 1,000 others and was taken to North Vietnam. Analysts believe about double that number of "Hanoi Khmers" eventually went north.

They were originally told they would return home in two years, but the order to start the march back to Cambodia did not come until April 1970, within one month of the ouster of Sihanouk by Lon Nol.

Hem and his fellow defector, Khun Savuth, 41, also a former battalion commander, both believe that most of the peasantry does not like the communist system and that only a handful of the insurgent troops are volunteers. But they see little chance of organized resistance to the communists among the peasants at this stage.

Quebec Dwarf's France Canada's French-speaking province of Quebec spans 594,860 square miles, almost three times the area of France itself.

"Did you know that a gas dryer uses 70% less natural energy than an electric dryer?"*

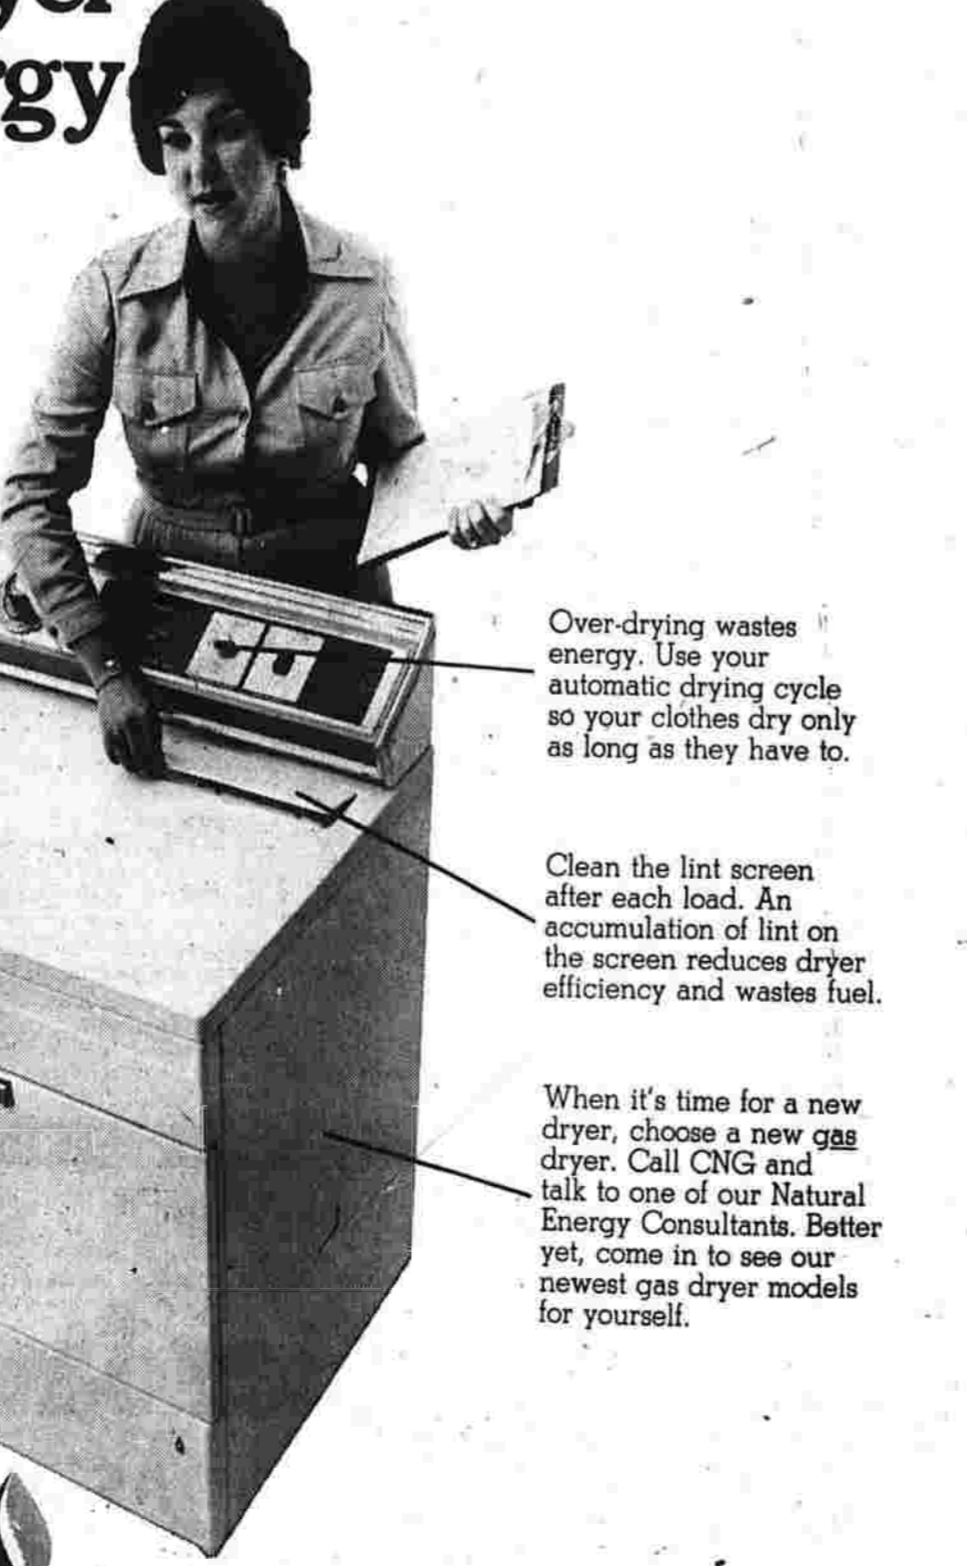

Georgia DiPietro Director of Consumer Information Connecticut Natural Gas Corporation

Natural gas is natural energy. It's piped directly from the wellhead to your home. Very little energy is lost in the process.

Electricity, on the other hand, is not natural energy. It has to be generated, usually by burning fossil fuels such as coal, oil or natural gas. In the generation and distribution of electricity, most of the natural energy in those resources is lost.

That's why drying clothes with a gas dryer is more efficient than with an electric dryer. And not surprisingly, a gas dryer also costs less to operate. How much less depends on how you use it. Here are just a few ways to save energy and money with your gas dryer.

Dry only full loads. You'll save energy and, because a gas dryer dries faster, you'll still keep up with your washer.

Over-drying wastes energy. Use your automatic drying cycle so your clothes dry only as long as they have to.

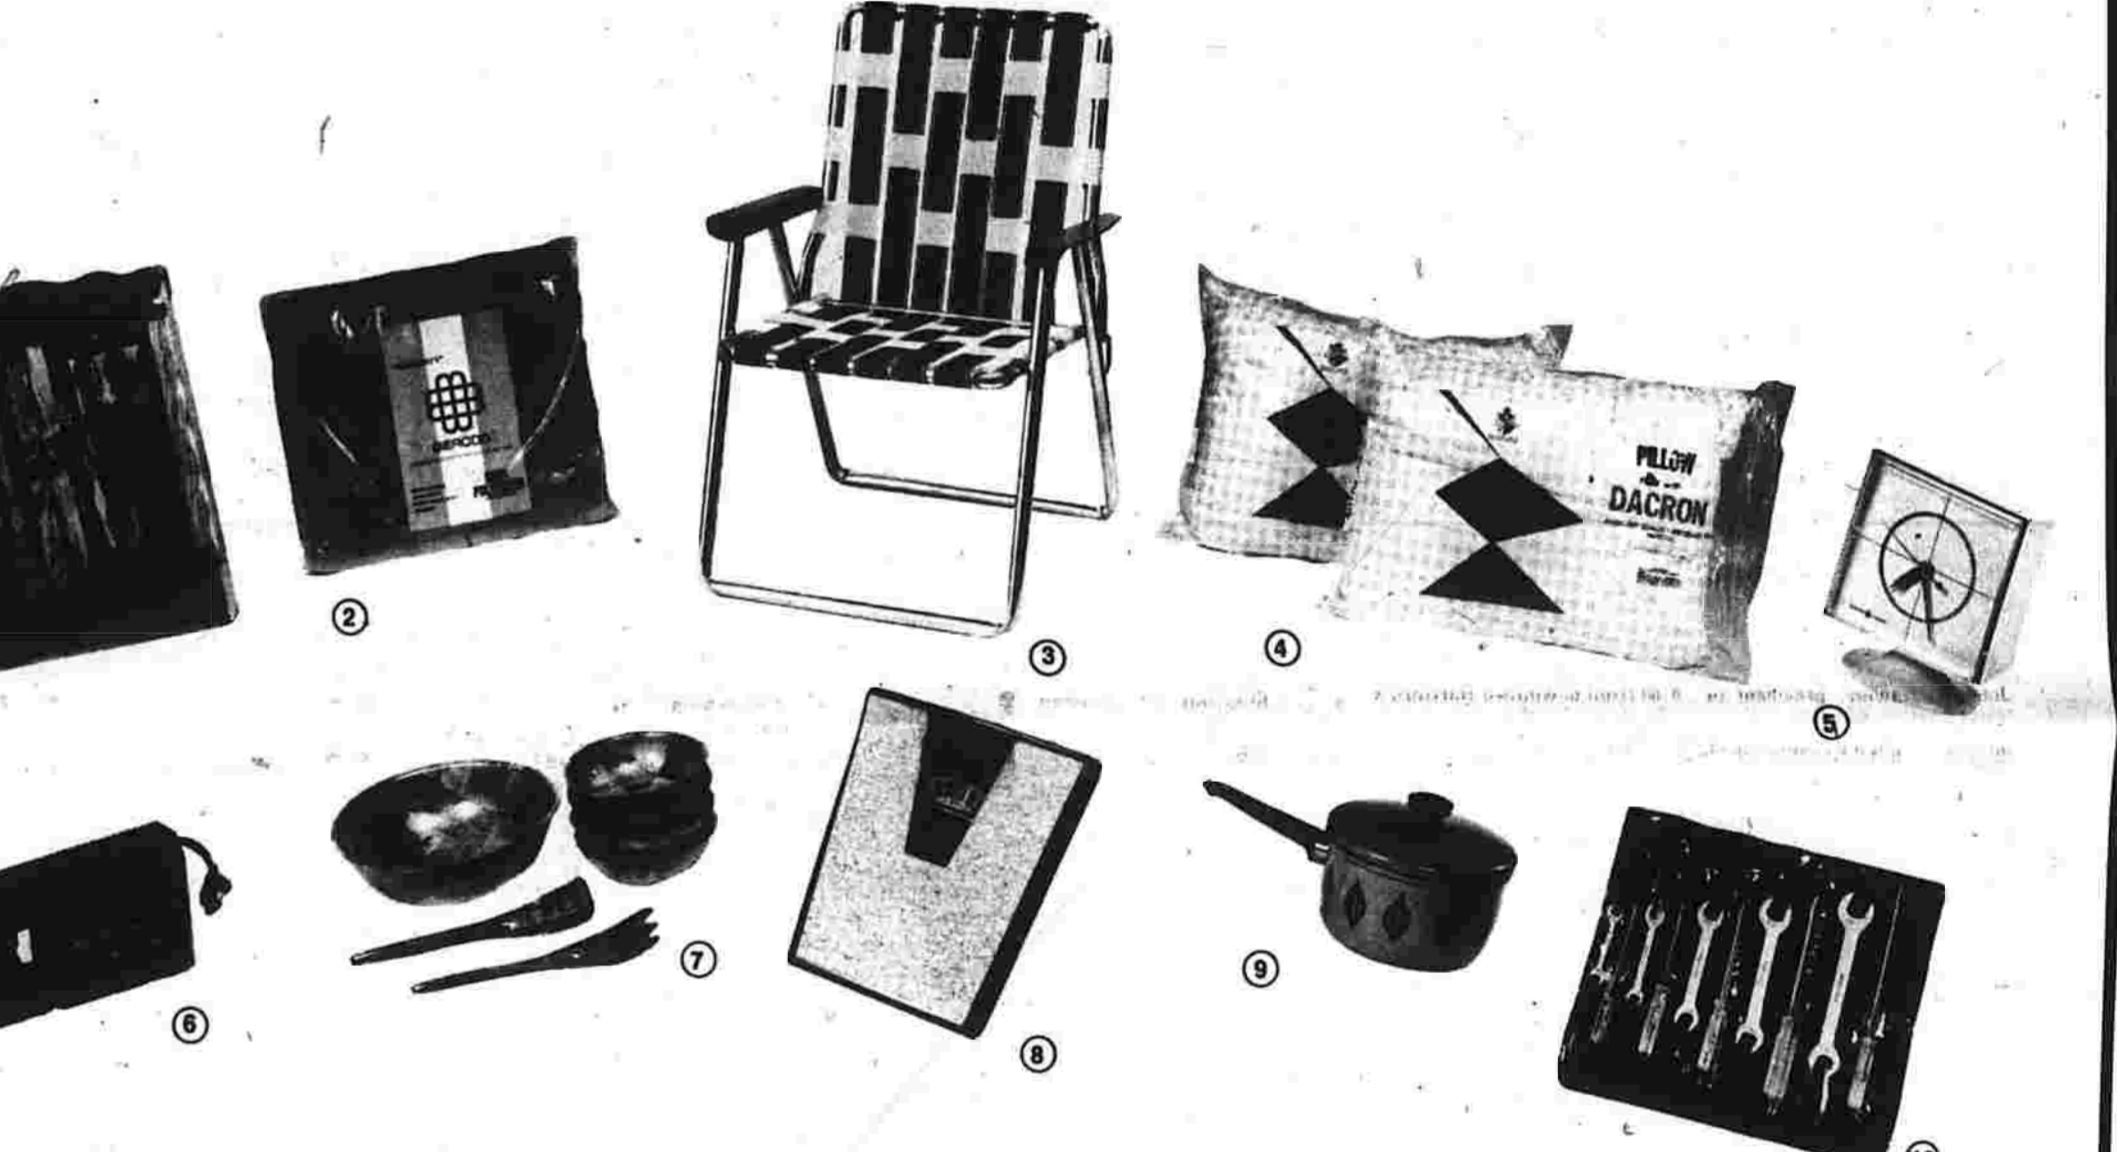

Clean the lint screen after each load. An accumulation of lint on the screen reduces dryer efficiency and wastes fuel.

When it's time for a new dryer, choose a new gas dryer. Call CNG and talk to one of our Natural Energy Consultants. Better yet, come in to see our newest gas dryer models for yourself.

CNG Save energy. Save money. Make your new dryer a gas dryer.

Pease Exalted Ruler Of Rockville Elks

William K. Pease has been elected exalted ruler of the Rockville Lodge of Elks for the 1974-75 lodge year. Pease is a resident of Manchester and has been a member of Rockville lodge since 1958.

The week of Aug. 12 through 17 was set as the date for the Pease Executive committee assignments to be announced soon. Proceeds from the affair will benefit the church and St. Joseph's School.

Other officers elected were: Rodney Gray, esteemed leading knight; Emanuel Cantrano, esteemed loyal knight; Donald Devine, esteemed lecturing knight; John Williams, treasurer; and John Yeoman, trustee. Yeoman is a past elected ruler.

Elected to his 18th consecutive term as ruler was Stanley Letizia. Installation ceremonies are scheduled for April 5, Paul Rikhs St. is now exalted ruler of the lodge.

Men's Leagues Team managers or captains interested in entering teams in any of the men's softball leagues, sponsored by the Vernon Recreation Department, are asked to attend an organizational meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lottie Fisk Building, Henry Park.

Donald Berger, director of recreation, said four leagues are planned again, including the daily leagues, two independent leagues, and a recreational league. Last year there were 30 teams and about 400 men involved in the leagues.

In addition to team managers and captains, the meeting Tuesday is open to any individuals who are not affiliated with a team but would like to do so.

Teams planning to enter the league should call the recreation office, 875-7775, before Tuesday.

An organizational meeting for the women's softball league will be scheduled in about two weeks.

Masonic Show Adornam Chapter 18, Royal Arch Masons, will sponsor its second annual variety show Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Vernon Middle School.

Proceeds will benefit the DeMolay scholarship fund. Some of the acts to be featured are Betty Ann Genito dancers; Jane Whitmore and her country western and gospel music; the Whistling Midgets; Bernard Bentley and his band; Ottmar Held and Rodney Gray, vaudeville skills; the Mission Airs; the Spina Temple Chanters; and Mildred Coleman.

Ann Marley will serve as stage manager and Ed Soler's orchestra will provide background music for some of the acts.

Tickets may be purchased at the door both nights. (The donation for adults is $2 and for senior citizens and students $1.)

Democratic Contest Narrows To Three

HARTFORD (UPI) — In his home territory of New Haven he was operating without the backing of the local Democratic organization which swung to Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn.

Worse for Babbidge, a political newcomer was that many of the liberals, academicians, intellectuals and independents, who might have been expected to support him turned instead to Mrs. Grasso.

Kilian has announced he will contest his incursions in a primary challenge May 22 for Hartford's 70 delegates to the party's convention.

In the poll, published by the Hartford Times and the New Haven Register, Mrs. Grasso would defeat Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., a leading Republican contender 55 per cent to 33 per cent.

According to the survey, Steele would defeat Kilian 48 per cent to 34 per cent and would have defeated Babbidge 51 per cent to 24 per cent.

The poll, conducted by Decision Research Corp., of Wellesley, Mass., was completed last Wednesday.

In other developments along the Connecticut campaign trail, Douglas J. Bennet Jr., administrative assistant to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has resigned last Wednesday.

The Democratic nomination for the congressional seat now held by Steele Before committing himself to the gubernatorial race, Steele had been considering running against Ribicoff this fall.

Hebron Briefs NANCY DRINKUTH Correspondent 228-3970

Tuesday: Public hearing to discuss report of the Town Office Building Addition Study Committee, 8 p.m., Hebron Elementary School.

Wednesday: Jones-Keefe-Batson Post 95 American Legion Auxiliary, 8 p.m., American Legion Hall.

Thursday: Board of Education special meeting, 7 p.m., Gilead Hill School; budget presentation of the Board of Education before the Board of Finance, 8 p.m., Town Office Building; Recreation Commission, 8 p.m., Town Office Building.

JUDY KUEHNEL Avery Brook will continue to overflow as the South Windsor Town Council may take the drawing board, with the hopes of reaching a solution towards ending the brook's many years of flooding.

Officials today could give no indication as to what they next plan to present to Avery Heights residents — irked over the thousands of dollars of damage to their property caused by the flooding brook. Conservation voters overwhemingly defeated a $100,000 bond resolution aimed at controlling the brook's overflowing banks.

By a two-to-one margin Saturday, residents defeated a resolution which would have resulted in the purchase of 28 acres of open-space land and the construction of one of two dams, aimed at slowing down the brook's torrent. The final vote was 11-1 against the resolution, 500 in favor of it.

For many years residents have asked various Town Councils to find a solution to the flooding in Avery Heights, caused by major housing construction in the area.

This council — which platformed on the promise to offer residents a solution — had the flooding brook, which was constructed and there was some question as to whether the dam could have been constructed without taking his home.

It is believed the Town Council will now speedily already allocated funds for channelization of Avery Brook. However, this is not seen as a solution to the flooding.

South Windsor Education Seminars On Alcohol Planned JUDY KUEHNEL Correspondent 644-1364

The South Windsor Community Service Council, in cooperation with the Greater Hartford Council on Alcoholism, Inc., will sponsor two educational awareness seminars on alcohol for the general public on Tuesday, and Tuesday, April 9, at 8 p.m.

The sessions will be held at the Society for Savings, 1768 Ellington Rd., South Windsor. Moderator for both evenings will be Kimberly Cheney, executive director of the Greater Hartford Council on Alcoholism, Inc. and president of the Connecticut Association for Alcohol and Drug Abuse, Inc. Cheney also serves as a member of the Governor's State Advisory Council on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Obscenity Definition Requested

HARTFORD (UPI) — Guy Wolfe, the assistant state prosecutor who has handled the state's pornography cases since 1972, believes the legislature ought to come to grips with defining what is obscene.

"They should at least try to define hard core pornography," Wolfe said Sunday. "The changes they are planning won't help me a bit."

The Judiciary Committee has reduced its original plan to overhaul the state's obscenity statute to bring it in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's 1973 pornography decision.

The committee has decided it will make the community standards required by the high court ruling to include the entire state.

Such a remedy, Wolfe said, is inadequate since most pornography cases are handled in the circuit courts and sent to court jury is not drawn from the entire state.

Wolfe said the old national standard which the U.S. Supreme Court rejected should be returned — that obscene materials are those "utterly without redeeming social value."

"It is unfortunate that obscenity can't be defined more precise terms," he said. Rep. James F. Bingham, R-Stamford, co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the courts should determine what the definition of obscenity means.

But Wolfe said to the legislature, rather than the courts, should define obscene materials. Legislative modification of the state law is needed because of the high court ruling that local community standards decide what constitutes obscene material.

Tolland Planning Commission To Hear Parson Bid

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet tonight at 8 in the education administration building.

On the agenda is a zone request from Kenneth Parsons for the former KD property off Rt. 74 to commercial recreation. Parsons has plans to open a Howard Johnson campground which he presented several months ago. A Department of Environmental Protection hearing for approval of subsurface disposal systems was held last summer and an approval was only recently given.

Lawrence Becker is requesting a zone change for gravel removal for 28 acres, formerly owned by Wright, on S. River Rd.

Also expected to be acted upon at tonight's meeting are proposed apartment plans on Anderson Rd. and election of a permanent chairman.

Baseball Registration Boys' League baseball registration has closed with over 35 registrations. The senior program for boys 13 to 17 will have some openings. Interested boys should contact Peter Tracy.

Troups for boys 10 to 12 and not assigned to a 1974 major troupe will be April 20 at Lavinia Field. All 8-year-olds will try out April 21. Pony League troupes will be at Cranford Park on April 20. The instructional league will have its first session May 4 at 10 a.m. at Lavinia Field.

Seaton-Lalonde, McAdam-Rock Pin Finalists, Town Title Matches Sunday at Holiday Lanes

New champions will be crowned in both the Men's and Women's Division in the 1974 Town Duckpin Bowling Tournaments at the Holiday Lanes.

This became a certainty following yesterday's rolling in the semifinals.

Ken Seaton and Norm Lalonde both rolled their way into the championship match next Sunday by whipping Fred McCurry and George Pelletier in the Men's Division.

Defending champion Carol Noske fell in the Women's Division to Jean McAdam and Delina Rock ousted Gail Marinelli.

The finals in both divisions will be best-of-seven sets with the battles for third and fourth places in each grouping a three-out-of-five affair.

Defending men's king, Don Simmons was sent to the sidelines by Seaton in a quarterfinal match.

Yesterday, in a battle of veterans, Seaton had to pull out all the stops in downing McCurry. Seaton copped the first two games, after the pair dosed in the first with 132 scores, then saw McCurry win the next two to force a fifth and deciding game. Seaton then rolled his best score of the day, 154, to gain his first finals.

The Lalonde-Pelletier match brought together two of the state's best average small pinners. Lalonde, got better with each game in taking three straight from the former town ruler. The husky veteran threw a 134, followed with 150 and added a 173 to win in a breeze.

Over in the Women's Division, which was on a handicap basis, Miss McAdam trimmed Miss Noske, three games to one, and Miss Rock needed five games to oust Miss Marinelli.

With the set all tied at two games each, Miss Rock fashioned a brilliant 157, which included an eight-pin hand-dicap, to win. Miss Marinelli had a 16-pin handicap. Miss McAdam and Miss Noske each had 16-pin handicaps.

The finals Sunday start at 2 o'clock with the public invited.

Crusaders Second Best In World Hockey Play

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cleveland Crusaders and the Toronto Toros are safely berthed in the playoffs of the World Hockey Association.

The Crusaders, in second place in the East, officially wrapped up their spot in the post season play with a 4-2 victory over the Jersey Knights Sunday, while the third-place Toros nipped the Los Angeles Sharks to nail down their place.

Two goals by Skip Krake, the first breaking a 1-1 tie and the other the eventual winner, were the big factor in the Crusaders' victory. Cleveland led 3-2 in the late going when Ron Ward scored the winning goal into an empty net with 10 seconds left.

The Toros and Sharks were tied at 4-4 in their game at Toronto when rookie Pat Hickey beat goalie Pat Hogan on close range for the win-

Flawless Play - TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Playing nearly flawless tennis, Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., defeated Vijay Amritraj of India, 6-1, 6-2, Sunday at the Rotary-Schick U.S. LTA tennis classic.

Veteran Laver Still Has Power

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — At age 35, red-haired Rod "The Rocket" Laver has proved that if he can get his adrenalin up he still has the power at the net and enoug a serve to earn top ranking.

On Sunday at the Ironwood Country Club in the $50,000 Kemper International Desert Tennis Classic, the veteran from Australia turned back up-set-minded Roscoe Tanner of Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-4, 6-2.

Laver, now of Corona Del Mar, Calif., earlier in the day had defeated top-seeded Arthur Ashe in a match delayed Saturday because of high winds. They resumed a match that stood 6-7, 7-6 and Laver took the third set, 6-2, to reach the finals.

Then it was a battle of left handers as Laver took on the ambitious 22-year-old Tanner, who had surprised the seeds with a succession of upsets in the tournament.

Laver, first man to win $1 million in tennis explained his victory as, "my adrenalin was up" following the Ashe match.

Net Leader

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billie Jean King, the world's leading active female player from Hilton Head, S. C., Sunday took a 2-1 lead over pacer-faced Chris Evert in their 1974 series by beating the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. teen-ager, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 in the final of the $60,000 S&H national women's indoor tennis tournament.

Stockton Wins

ATLANTA (UPI) — Young Dick Stockton of Portland, Wash., N. Y., overwhelmed ailing Jim Hebeck of Czechoslovakia, 5-2, 6-1, Sunday to win the $50,000 Peachtree Corners WCT Blue Group tennis tournament.

Faulty Parachute Caused Car Death

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — A faulty parachute led to a weekend drag racing accident that killed veteran driver Dave Anderson of Minnesota and injured two mechanics.

Anderson's dragster went out of control at 248 miles per hour Saturday during qualifying runs for the $100,000 Southern National Drag Race Championship.

The 761-pound car struck David Oxendine, 25, of Charlotte and Red Jackson, 26, of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and then smashed into a concrete retaining wall.

Another mechanic, Charles Raugh, 36, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was treated for burns at Cabarrus County Hospital.

Anderson was making a qualifying run for the championship, inaugural event of the 1974 International Hot Rod Association season.

Kennedy Safford of Chicago was victorious in the Funny Car Division, Dale Funk of Radelliff, Ky., in the Top Fuel Division and Wayne Gapp of Lovonia, Mich., in the pro Stock Division Sunday.

Allison Wins Hickory Race

HICKORY, N.C. (UPI) — Bobby Allison, driving a Chevrolet, led all the way in winning Sunday's Hickory 500 stock car race.

Allison started on the pole position and piloted his 366 cubic inch engine car at an average of 72.17 miles per hour for a one-lap victory.

Second place went to local favorite Tommy Houston, who also drove a Chevrolet, and third to Dodge driver Buddy Baker of Charlotte.

Rounding out the top five in the NASCAR Grand National event over the 68.3 mile Hickory Speedway track were Bobby Isaac in a Chevy and Neil Castles in a Dodge.

Benefit Game

A benefit basketball game between the Hartford Knights football team and the faculty of Manchester High will be held Friday evening, April 5, at Clarke Arena.

This game will benefit the scholarship fund of the Future Business Leaders of America Club at the high school. Tickets for the event are $1.

Foreman Continues Unwanted Vacation

Foreman is not permitted to leave Venezuela until his tax problems are resolved to the satisfaction of local authorities.

The champion's manager-trainer, Dick Sadler, said he hoped the necessary tax clearance could be obtained in time to Foreman to catch a late afternoon flight to the United States.

Although Sadler first insisted Foreman would not pay any Venezuelan income tax, the champion Friday put up $150,000 of his own money to cover taxes on his purse of $700,000, white bond of $150,000 was posted to cover tax on revenue from ancillary rights.

Sadler maintained Foreman's contract with Video Techniques, Inc., of New York, co-promoters of the March 26 fight, called for a tax free purse.

Norton, who was knocked out in the second round, used a similar formula to satisfy the income tax department — $40,000 in cash to cover his $200,000 purse plus a $40,000 bond against taxes on ancillary earnings. Norton left Saturday.

Both camps have blamed local promoter Aldemaro Romero, a song writer, for their troubles. They maintain Romero told them on the day of the fight that the tax question had been resolved in their favor and they would be free to leave without penalty.

Romero denies he gave the fighters any such undertaking.

Biggest Challenge Ever Faces NFL After Miami Stars Plan to Defect

TORONTO, Ont., (UPI) — The three Miami Dolphins stars who have signed for a total of $3 million to jump to the new World Football League think other National Football League stars may follow their example.

One of the first could be their Miami teammate, star tackle Manny Fernandez.

Linesman fullback Larry Csonka, who signed with the Toronto Northern along with running back Jim Kick and pass-catching whiz Paul Warfield, said he has talked with Fernandez and has an offer from Portland of the WFL, and found Fernandez "very interested" in jumping.

And Warfield predicted, "Our signing will have a bearing on what others will do if and when they are asked to jump."

The triple signing, the most prestigious step taken by the new league in the biggest challenge to the old established National Football League since the NFL merged with the old American Football League, was disclosed Sunday.

Exact details of the contracts, which call for the trio to play for the Dolphins this year under the options in their Dolphin contracts and then come here in 1975, were not revealed. However, it was disclosed the package breaks down to roughly $1 million per year to be divided in an undisclosed manner among the three.

The signings followed conferences here among Edward Keating, who represented the three players, and Toronto owners John Bassett and H. A. Stallway.

Csonka, who was getting about $60,000 from Miami, explained that the Northern offered the trio "more than we anticipated, even more than we had asked for." But he added that the financial consideration was not the only reason for jumping.

"Money isn't always the only consideration," said the 27-year-old fullback who was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Dolphins' Super Bowl victory in January. "In this case, it is one of the considerations, of course. But there are others which I do not wish to discuss."

The reaction south of the border was mixed. In Miami, the Dolphins reacted bitterly and talked of possible court action in New York, a top NFL official more coolly expressed "disappointment."

"We were torpedoed," declared Dolphin owner Joe Robbie in Miami. "We're going to completely investigate our legal rights in a situation where three of our players have signed contracts while still under contract to us."

Robbie said agent Keating had given him an ultimatum at midday. He said Keating told him to make them an offer of $3.5 million to stay in Miami and to deposit $3 million of that in a bank with a no-out, no-trade contract and the total payable to the players' heirs if anything happened to them.

Robbie said he turned that down flat, and added, "Have you ever been asked to put $3 million in the bank as the price of continuing the conversation?"

In New York, Jim Kensil, executive director of the NFL and chief aide to NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, said the players' decision to jump was "their business" but that he was "disappointed" such high quality players "would so abruptly leave those who have invested so much in them."

In Hollywood, Fla., Dolphins coach Don Shula, for whom the three players expressed great personal loyalty, said he was surprised because he didn't think the trio was going to come to a decision so quickly.

Shula said he asked the three players to go to Toronto and "listen to what the people in Toronto had to say." He added, "I thought they were going up there to do that and negotiate face to face. I'm disappointed that's not the way it happened."

Csonka said his other reasons for wanting to jump definitely did not include the Miami fans, who are "super," or Shula.

"I'd love to play football for him (Shula) the rest of my life," Csonka said, "but sometimes the things you want do most simply aren't in the cards. As I've said, there are a lot of factors involved."

The big deal faces one major obstacle here in Canada. The Federal government already has expressed its opposition to a WFL team in Canada. Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde has repeatedly said he will attempt to keep the WFL out of the country on the grounds it could damage the Canadian Football League.

Bassett has said that if his team cannot play in Toronto, it will move to a city in the United States. Csonka, Kick and Warfield will then join the team wherever it is located.

Bassett added he hoped the signing would influence the government to change its stand on the WFL.

The Northern had made no secret they intended to go all out to get the three Miami stars, announcing in advance of the WFL draft that they would zero in on them, then following through by picking them, and now putting together the big money package.

Leo Cahill, general manager of the Northern, indicated that other WFL clubs would pay part of the cost of this signing, a huge prestige boost for the whole league, but did not indicate how much.

Csonka, rated the top fullback in the NFL at the present time, is a former Syracuse University All-America who has starred for six seasons with the Dolphins. In 1971 and 1972 he became the sixth man in NFL history to gain more than 1,000 yards on the ground for two straight seasons.

Kick, 27, is close to Csonka off the field and the two are nicknamed in Miami. "Butch Cassidy" and the Sundance Kid." Kick, however, often has complained about not being played enough by Shula. Like Csonka, Kick, from Paterson, N. J., has been the trio with the Dolphins for six seasons.

Warfield, at 31 the oldest of the trio, formerly starred for the Cleveland Browns before coming to the Dolphins where he continued to be rated as one of the top wide receivers in pro football.

In Florida, Shula said he didn't know what having the three stars on his squad this season with the knowledge they were jumping to a new league would mean to the Dolphins' spirit and performance.

"This is a situation that we just haven't faced before," Shula said.

It's a statement that could be applied to the whole NFL.

Connie Hawkins on Move - Bucks' Mickey Davis Defends

Bucks Sweep Two Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks, sweeping the first two games of their playoff series at home in the National Basketball Association, have put the pressure squarely on the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Bucks took their 2-0 lead in games by romping to a 109-90 victory in Milwaukee Sunday night after a much tougher 99-95 victory in the opener Friday night. Now the scene shifts to Los Angeles where the Lakers will have to make the home court advantage stand up — or be on the way to a rapid knockout.

In the only other playoff game Sunday night, the Capital Bullets evened their series against the New York Knicks at 1-1 in games by beating the Knicks, 99-97 in Landover, Md.

The Bucks' opening game tonight is in Detroit where the Pistons, who scored a road game breakthrough Saturday by beating the Chicago Bulls, 97-88, in Chicago, get a chance to take a commanding lead in their series.

Unlike the opening game thriller, the Bucks had things all their own way in Sunday's win over the Lakers after a close first half when they were held to a 50-48 margin. In the third period the Bucks hit on 10 of 20 shots and out-rebounded the Lakers, 17-9, to open a 63-52 lead and they never were pressed after that.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league MVP, again led the Bucks with 32 points and 25 rebounds while Bob Dandridge added 21, a sum matched by the Lakers' Gail Goodrich.

The Bullets trailed the Knicks by eight points during the second period but that when Walt Frazier got in foul trouble. After that the Bullets came back to a 50-44 lead at halftime and stayed in front the rest of the way to atone for a 102-91 loss in New York Friday. The third game of the series will be in New York Tuesday.

Elvin Hayes of the Bullets had 34 points — 18 of them after he got four personals. Coach K. C. Jones said they debated "a thousand times" whether to take Hayes out because of the fouls but concluded, "It's never safe to take him out."

Said the Knicks Jerry Lucas, "We tried to take it right to him (Hayes), but he played like he had two fouls instead of five."

Phil Chenier had 35 points for the Bullets and Dave DeBusschere led the Knicks with 29.

In Detroit, the Bulls — who are in the playoffs for the seventh time in eight years — are facing the fact they never have won a road game in the playoffs.

"We're in the hole now," admitted Bulls' coach Dick Motta. "We've lost the home court advantage. Detroit has the edge now."

Although Sadler first insisted Foreman would not pay any Venezuelan income tax, the champion Friday put up $150,000 of his own money to cover taxes on his purse of $700,000, white bond of $150,000 was posted to cover tax on revenue from ancillary rights.

Sadler maintained Foreman's contract with Video Techniques, Inc., of New York, co-promoters of the March 26 fight, called for a tax free purse.

Norton, who was knocked out in the second round, used a similar formula to satisfy the income tax department — $40,000 in cash to cover his $200,000 purse plus a $40,000 bond against taxes on ancillary earnings. Norton left Saturday.

Both camps have blamed local promoter Aldemaro Romero, a song writer, for their troubles. They maintain Romero told them on the day of the fight that the tax question had been resolved in their favor and they would be free to leave without penalty.

Romero denies he gave the fighters any such undertaking.

Senior Softball Play Set for Girls 13-16

Girls who wish to play softball this summer will now have a choice between the town sponsored Felina League and the newly formed Senior Softball League.

The new league is for girls ages 13 through 16 who wish to play something other than 50-pitch softball. Differences girls can expect in this league will be bunting, stealing, no arc pitching, no tryouts, and the guarantee that each girl who registers will be assigned to a team and play a minimum of three innings in every game.

According to David Schwartz, who will direct play, arrangements for sponsors, equipment, schedules and playing fields have already been completed. All that is needed now is a good turnout at registration which will be held Saturday April 6 and Sunday April 13 between 10 and noon and 1 and 3, next to the high school athletic field off Brookfield St. An insurance fee of $3 will be charged.

Sunny days are here again.

Celebrate the return of Spring. We have a new Bug with a metallic gold finish brighter than buttercups or the hearts of doves. It has a sunroof to let in the sunshine and the scent of a growing world. There's a touch of the wild in its racing type wheels. For the touch of your hands, there's a covered steering wheel and special sunburst shift knobs. The Sun Bug — it's carefree on a May morning. And it doesn't eat gas. We've only made a few of these golden cars. If you don't buy one now, you may never get another chance for a place in the sun.

Wooden to Return To UCLA Campus

ATLANTA (UPI) — Veteran basketball Coach John Wooden said Sunday he definitely would return to UCLA next season and would have a good team despite losing center Bill Walton and five other seniors.

Wooden answered questions before the Atlanta Trip Off His All-American center Bill Walton.

Walton, who missed the banquet, was voted the outstanding basketball player in the country by United Press International for an unprecedented third straight time.

Wooden told the group he did not want to make a list for Walton's absence but he did want to apologize for him not being there.

"I had nothing to do with our defeat (in the NCAA tournament)," Wooden said. "So many people are after him that he told me before the tournament he was going to the mountains to get away from everybody."

Wooden, the nation's winningest basketball coach, said there had been speculation this season by persons not connected with UCLA that he might retire.

"After our loss there might be some people connected with UCLA who might want me to retire," he joked, "but I definitely expect to be back at UCLA next year. My wife told me she wants me to be back, and generally speaking I try to follow her desires."

"We graduate six seniors, and I'm proud of that. I'm proud of our players who have become lawyers, teachers and successful in other professions," he said. "That's the purpose of being in college, not to become professional basketball players."

"We have some good youngsters. We expect to have a good team next year and a very exceptional team the year after next," Wooden said.

Wooden, who has coached at UCLA 26 years, said he would like to see three rule changes. "I'd like to see a 30-second clock put in; I'd like to eliminate all jump balls and I'd like to do away with offensive rebound baskets."

Wooden said he believed there is much less cheating in recruiting than is generally believed. "It's always easy to say we must have cheated when some coach gets a player you wanted," he said.

Wooden said the greatest requisite for a successful coach was patience. "One of the weaknesses of most young coaches is that they expect too much too soon," he said.

Wooden said this year's UCLA team which lost in the semi-finals of the national tournament to North Carolina State did not have the desire of the past two years.

"I told them when they were sophomores they were a delight to work with, that it would not be so easy the next year and when they were seniors they would be insufferable. They weren't as hungry and I didn't motivate them."

PZC Hearing Tonight On Open Space, AA Zone

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will consider rezoning of land off Vernon St. and "open space" designation of a Hilltown Rd. parcel in separate public hearings tonight.

The first item on the agenda is a rezoning request filed by Robert W. Melendy of 140 Taylor St. seeking a zone change from Rural Residence to Residential AA Zone for a 7.5-acre parcel between Vernon St. and V. Vernon St.

There are no buildings now on the site, which has about 175 feet of frontage on Vernon St. and 470 feet of frontage on V. Vernon St.

Comment Session

A 9 to 11 a.m. Board of Directors' comment session is scheduled for Tuesday in the Manchester Municipal Building. It is for those town residents who wish to file comments, complaints or recommendations on any subject in the board's jurisdiction.

Now in their eighth year, similar sessions are held on the first Tuesday and third Thursday of each month. Those who appear are granted anonymity and their remarks are sent to the town manager's office for review and reply.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed bids will be received in the Office of the Director of General Services, 41 Center Street, Manchester, Connecticut, until April 11, 1974, at 11:00 a.m. for the following:

- SANITARY SEWERS - KEENEY, ERIE STREETS, GARDEN GROVE RD.
- PATCHING OF TOWN HIGHWAYS
- GLOBE HOLLOW CONCESSION STAND

Bid forms, plans and specifications are available at the General Services Office, 41 Center Street, Manchester, Connecticut.

Town of Manchester, Connecticut.

Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special) - New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from former overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and stilly weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

E-DIET AVAILABLE
To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E-Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: Vite-E Diet, Dept. K-11526, Burbank Blvd., North Hollywood, Cal. 91601. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied).

change, if approved by the PZC, will be followed by a request for a four-to-ten residential subdivision of about 100 acres; the remaining nine acres are each assessed at about $1,500.

The second public hearing item on the PZC agenda concerns a request by Leslie A. Buckland of 619 Hilltown Rd. to designate 37 acres of his land as "open space" to qualify for reduced taxes.

The designation, which has already received endorsement by the PZC, would require modification of Manchester's Comprehensive Plan of Development.

Town Assessor Edgar Belleville, discussing the Buckland request with the PZC in January, said Buckland has already devoted the parcel to open space use. In the last few years he has planted trees, trimmed brush, and improved drainage on the property.

The PZC is expected to conduct a business meeting after the public hearings, with several routine items on the agenda: Approval of plans for Green Manor Construction Co.'s Manchester Industrial Park subdivision, approval of the Clarke and Burr subdivision at Slater St. and Tolland Tpk., and discussion of future business.

A course in basic photography will be offered by Manchester Community College (MCC) beginning April 16. The class will meet from 9 a.m. to noon each Saturday for eight weeks in the photographic laboratory on the Hartford Road campus.

The course will teach basic photographic techniques and laboratory procedures. Students will take a variety of photographs, develop their own film, and make prints and enlargements. Emphasis will be on the perfection of technical skills and the development of an ability to judge quality. The instructor will be Sylvian Oltara, former chief of photography at the Manchester Evening Herald, now a member of the MCC faculty.

Further information may be obtained by calling the extension division, 646-2137.

Retirees' Classes

A course for retired persons and those contemplating retirement in the next few years will be offered by Manchester Community College in cooperation with the East Hartford Adult Education Program beginning April 2. "Planning for Retirement" will meet Tuesdays for two weeks from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at East Hartford High School.

Course topics will include planning retirement income, social security, use of leisure time, health insurance plans, and federal and state assistance programs. There will be no tuition charge.

Further information may be obtained by calling the MCC extension division, 646-2137.

The Week In Review

United Press International Secretary of State Henry Kissinger visited Moscow for three days to try to revive the detente with Russia and pave the way for a June visit by President Nixon. When he left, it was unclear how much he had accomplished.

He said he had made "good progress" on bilateral issues in his more than 20 hours of talks with Soviet Communist party Secretary General Leonid I. Brezhnev, but he left unanswered whether he had made progress on the vital issues of strategic arms limitation and the Middle East.

Kissinger went to Moscow to prepare the working papers for Nixon's visit. The centerpiece of that visit could be some agreement on the next stage of limiting offensive missiles and bombers, but the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) have been deadlocked in Geneva.

The most important bilateral question on the table was Soviet-American trade. Kissinger favored a more liberalized trade policy.

WASHINGTON - Senate investigators charged that American oil companies acted together in the Middle East to help increase oil prices and company profits. Senior members of a Senate investigating subcommittee said the corporations had no incentive to keep Arab nations from raising prices when their own profits rose at the same time.

WASHINGTON - The White House said it was possible that some of the 4 1/2 tape recordings sought by the House Judiciary Committee might not exist. "It would depend on where the conversations took place," said a spokesman.

WASHINGTON - The House voted to prohibit federal courts from ordering long-distance busing of children as a means of ending school segregation.

WASHINGTON - A Watergate grand jury's secret report dealing with President Nixon was sent to the impeachment investigators in the House.

WASHINGTON - The House and Senate passed a new minimum wage bill and sent it to President Nixon for signature. It set a new rate of $2.30 an hour and added minimum wage security for 10 million workers not previously covered by the law.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. - A report on political spending by Associated Milk Producers, Inc., prepared at the request of its own officers, indicated general irregularities involving both Republicans and Democrats over a long period.

NEW YORK - John W. Dean III, former White House counsel to President Nixon, testified that John Mitchell and Maurice Stans, former Cabinet officers, were totally involved in efforts to keep Robert Vesco's financial affairs secret at least until after the President's re-election.

GRACEHAM, Md. - Most of the 10-million birds of Graceham flew away following five days of noise bombardment of their pine forest roost. But officials said they didn't know if the birds had headed north or just dispersed around the countryside in smaller flocks.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Democrats, as well as Republicans, are becoming political captives of Watergate. Many Democrats show signs of latching onto Watergate as the magic wand to bring them election victory this fall (and perhaps in 1976) despite words of caution from party leaders.

Whether Democratic leaders have any real hope or intention of stemming this tide is questionable. But publicly and privately, they warn that Watergate could be a weak political crutch for Democratic candidates. They point out that the Teapot Dome scandals occurred when Republicans had control of the national government, but that this did not prevent the GOP from winning elections in the 1920s.

Cleofeal Reardon The current warnings have been lost for the most part so far in the gleeful reaction by Democrats, high and low, over what is happening to Republicans because of Watergate.

An incident at a recent meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Washington is perhaps revealing. Strauss interrupted to announce the indictments to the meeting. As the name of each accused was read off, there was a loud round of applause. Strauss even joshed the National Committee which was about to consider ground rules for the 1976 Democratic presidential nominating convention.

Democrats for not applauding quite so loudly for the last of the seven. (He had pronounced former White House aide Gordon Strachan's name as "Straw" rather than "Strawn," and many in his audience didn't recognize it.)

A Quick Re-wrap Strauss suddenly realized that newsmen were present and quickly explained that the tragedy but for the hope that it would never happen again.

"All of us are pleased," Strauss said, "that justice is finally working so well."

It was a quick recap, but not quite enough to disguise the euphoria in Democratic circles over GOP miseries and victories in special congressional elections this winter to fill House vacancies in normally solid Republican districts.

First, in Pennsylvania, a Democrat managed to oust out a victory over a campaign in which Watergate was not greatly stressed. It was the first time a Democrat had won in that district in almost a quarter of a century.

Key Issues Then in Michigan, Watergate and Nixon were made the key issues by the Democrats and that district seat formerly held by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, which hadn't gone Democratic in 60 years, was lost by the GOP.

The day after the surprise Michigan victory, Democratic campaigns for special elections in Ohio and California were noticeably. There was a stepped up emphasis on Watergate, emulating the strategy which brought out Democratic victory in Michigan. Out of those latest races, however, the Democratic victory for only the fourth time in a century in the Ohio district around Cincinnati, while a Republican outdistanced seven Democrats to take the California seat in GOP hands.

While joining in raising cautions lights to Democratic in-cumbents against relying on Watergate too greatly in the fall, Strauss is not inclined to stough over the affair as a possible winning issue.

In public speeches and statements, Strauss links President Nixon and the Republican party as being responsible for the worst administrative incompetence in the history of the nation.

Nixon and the GOP both have "disgraced the public trust," Strauss says.

Which all goes to prove that politicians, like gamblers, are inclined to follow the old saw: "never get off a winner."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. John D. Pastore, D-R.I., has introduced legislation to create a joint House-Senate committee on science and technology.

Pastore, chairman of the Atomic Energy, which would be absorbed by the new committee, was joined in sponsoring by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., the ranking Republican member of the committee.

He urged this Congress to "adopt the wisdom of the 79th Congress which had the foresight almost 30 years ago to redirect the scientific and technical forces of the Manhattan project by removing them from the control of the military."

Pastore said the joint committee on Atomic Energy must be replaced because the United States must expand its energy focus to include "sources such as the sun, the tides, the wind, fossil fuels, synthetic fuels, nuclear fission, geothermal, running water, and any other energy sources our ingenuity may yet uncover."

The committee would have 16 members from each chamber.

Pastore also urged passage of pending legislation creating the Energy Research and Development Administration to be based on the scientific and technical resources of the Atomic Energy Commission, the office of coal research, the Bureau of Mines and other agencies.

The Pastore-Aiken bill would grant the new joint committee jurisdiction over the Energy Research and Development Administration.

tories in special congressional elections this winter to fill House vacancies in normally solid Republican districts.

First, in Pennsylvania, a Democrat managed to oust out a victory over a campaign in which Watergate was not greatly stressed. It was the first time a Democrat had won in that district in almost a quarter of a century.

Key Issues Then in Michigan, Watergate and Nixon were made the key issues by the Democrats and that district seat formerly held by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, which hadn't gone Democratic in 60 years, was lost by the GOP.

The day after the surprise Michigan victory, Democratic campaigns for special elections in Ohio and California were noticeably. There was a stepped up emphasis on Watergate, emulating the strategy which brought out Democratic victory in Michigan. Out of those latest races, however, the Democratic victory for only the fourth time in a century in the Ohio district around Cincinnati, while a Republican outdistanced seven Democrats to take the California seat in GOP hands.

While joining in raising cautions lights to Democratic in-cumbents against relying on Watergate too greatly in the fall, Strauss is not inclined to stough over the affair as a possible winning issue.

In public speeches and statements, Strauss links President Nixon and the Republican party as being responsible for the worst administrative incompetence in the history of the nation.

Nixon and the GOP both have "disgraced the public trust," Strauss says.

Which all goes to prove that politicians, like gamblers, are inclined to follow the old saw: "never get off a winner."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. John D. Pastore, D-R.I., has introduced legislation to create a joint House-Senate committee on science and technology.

Pastore, chairman of the Atomic Energy, which would be absorbed by the new committee, was joined in sponsoring by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., the ranking Republican member of the committee.

He urged this Congress to "adopt the wisdom of the 79th Congress which had the foresight almost 30 years ago to redirect the scientific and technical forces of the Manhattan project by removing them from the control of the military."

Pastore said the joint committee on Atomic Energy must be replaced because the United States must expand its energy focus to include "sources such as the sun, the tides, the wind, fossil fuels, synthetic fuels, nuclear fission, geothermal, running water, and any other energy sources our ingenuity may yet uncover."

The committee would have 16 members from each chamber.

Pastore also urged passage of pending legislation creating the Energy Research and Development Administration to be based on the scientific and technical resources of the Atomic Energy Commission, the office of coal research, the Bureau of Mines and other agencies.

The Pastore-Aiken bill would grant the new joint committee jurisdiction over the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Brennan Foresees Unemployment Drop
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter Brennan believes there will soon be a substantial reduction in unemployment that was caused by the energy shortage. Reporting to Congress, he said as many as 200,000 workers, most of them in the service station and airline industries, lost jobs between November and February as a direct result of the energy crisis. Nearly 300,000 others were laid off in industries indirectly affected by the shortage, Brennan said. These included workers in the automobile, aircraft, boatbuilding and recreation industries. Despite these job losses, the nation's unemployment rate in February remained at 5.2 percent, the same as in January, Brennan said. The overall employment level and labor force remained stable, he added. The report indicated that the impact of energy-related unemployment had shifted from New York, Ohio, Indiana and Kansas to Michigan, apparently moving from industries supplying the auto industry to the auto industry itself, the report said. Brennan made three recommendations to Congress. —Early passage of the Job Security Act to improve the unemployment insurance program and to establish a temporary program extending unemployment compensation in areas of high employment. —Prompt action on appropriations to provide public service employment. —And enactment of a proposal now before Congress to help manage and develop the nation's energy resources. The report said that in the long term, the adverse impact on employment will be due more to higher fuel prices than to shortages. The search for alternative energy sources and the greater use of domestic fuels should actually stimulate employment in some industries, Brennan said.

Animal of the Week:

The Walking Catfish

Walking catfish live in Florida. They can walk on land and live out of water for as long as 12 hours. They like to stay moist, so they usually walk at night, using their tail and fins to move like a snake. It is believed that these fish were brought here by tropical fish salesmen who threw them into ponds. These fish have done a lot of damage because they eat shrimp and other fish. However, cold weather has killed many of them, and helps keep them under control.

Prosecution Starts Case Against Boyle

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — Special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague today began trying to trace the cold-blooded, hired killing of a reform candidate for the United Mine Workers presidency to W.A. "Tony" Boyle, the former UMW president charged with the 1969 Yablonski murders.

A jury of nine men and three women was to hear Sprague argue for the first time today that Boyle, 72, and ailing, conceived the idea which resulted in the New Year's Eve, 1969, deaths of UMW archrival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The UMW dissident, his wife, Margaret, and their daughter, Charlotte, 25, were shot to death by three hired killers as they slept in their Clarksville home in the southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields. The killings occurred three weeks after Yablonski lost to incumbent Boyle in a bitter election for the union's presidency.

In his opening statement, Sprague portrayed Boyle as the "arranger" who authorized the payment of $20,000 in union funds to Yablonski's actual assassins through an elaborate scheme involving a non-existent UMW organizing fund.

Seven persons, including the three assassins, have either been convicted of or have confessed to three counts of first degree murder in the Yablonski deaths. A UMW district president also has pleaded guilty to federal charges that he violated Yablonski's civil rights by conspiring to kill him.

Early prosecution witnesses were to include Claude E. Vealey, 30, of Cleveland, who admitted three years ago that he and two other Ohioans actually killed the Yablonskis; and William J. Turnblazer, 52, of Middlesboro, Ky., president of UMW District 12.

Sprague will try to link Boyle to the killings through Turnblazer, whose information led authorities to the former UMW chieftain who is already serving a three-year federal prison term for illegally contributing union money to political campaigns.

The state charged that, at a June 23, 1969, meeting at UMW headquarters in Washington, D.C., Boyle told Turnblazer and Albert Pass, then secretary-treasurer of District 12, that Yablonski "ought to be killed or done away with." Pass was convicted last year of the Yablonski murders.

Mariner Hunts For 'Moonlet'

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 hunted through space today for a glimpse of "Charley" — the unknown moon of Mercury whose possible existence surprised astronomers Sunday.

The cameras of the spacecraft, nursing a serious short circuit in its electrical system, swept the area above sun-baked Mercury as it retreated from the planet at 25,000 miles an hour, hoping to confirm the existence of the moonlet.

It would be the 33rd known moon in the solar system.

The possibility of its existence was revealed Sunday by Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, of Arizona's Kitt Peak National Observatory, who said Mariner 10's ultraviolet spectrometer had detected "a strong source of radiation, detached from Mercury, in apparent motion relative to the planet."

Initial calculations estimated that the spectrometer had registered the presence of a body about 15.5 miles wide, circling the planet in 2.5 hours, closest point to the sun.

An associate told newsmen that when Broadfoot revealed his findings, he was asked what he would name it, as the discoverer of a heavenly body is traditionally entitled to do.

He said Broadfoot replied with a grin:

Veteran Services Council Created

KEY BISCAZYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has created a new Domestic Council Committee on Veterans Services to coordinate federal efforts to "more fully meet the needs of the veterans."

Nixon, announcing his action Sunday in a national radio address from his Key Biscayne home, said the committee would be headed by Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald Johnson and would include four unnamed cabinet members.

Nixon acknowledged unemployment among Vietnam veterans has risen within the past three months and they are also faced "with staggering increases in the costs of higher education."

Appealing to employers to hire veterans, he said: "We trusted them with our country's honor in Vietnam. They met the test. Now we can trust them in our industries and places of business here at home."

"To ensure that we have policies which pull together the activities of the entire government and more fully meet the needs of the veterans, I am today creating a new Domestic Council on Veterans Services. It will be chaired by the administrator of veterans affairs, Mr. Donald Johnson. Its membership will include four members of the cabinet and others."

Earlier Sunday, Nixon made a surprise appearance at the Key Biscayne Community Church. The minister, the Rev. J.A. Geschwind, said he had not known until 15 minutes before the President arrived he would attend the service.

Law Course Test Answer Sheet Stolen

GODFREY, Ill. (UPI) — Wilbur Trimbe, president of Lewis and Clark Community College says test papers and answer sheets used in law enforcement classes have been stolen.

Trimbe said that during his investigation of the thefts four students withdrew from the course and three members of the campus security force were demoted.

Gunfire Erupts Again

Syrians Warned On Escalation

United Press International
Syrian and Israeli guns and tanks resumed their daily pounding in the Golan Heights for the 21st straight day today and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was reported to have warned against further escalation.

The Israeli army command

said that Syrian gunners opened up on one of the two Israeli positions captured from Syria in the October war on Mt. Hermon. It was the third attack within a week on the observation point that Dayan has called "the eyes of Israel."

A spokesman said there were no casualties in the relatively light morning artillery and tank exchanges, however.

Syrian communiques indicated the Syrians were escalating both the duration and scope of what the Arab press was calling a "war of attrition."

On Saturday and Sunday they said artillery and tank fire continued for 11 hours. For the first time Sunday night they spoke of striking "in depth" at Israeli military targets behind the front lines.

The Israeli newspaper Mariv said Dayan warned "of a tough Israeli response if the deterioration on the Golan continues." He spoke to a closed session with Jewish fund raisers in New York, Mariv said.

The fighting went on in the Golan Heights as the talks for troop disengagement there marked time awaiting a Syrian delegation expected in Washington in about 10 days. Dayan expressed the belief Sunday that Syria probably wanted an agreement.

Dayan said Sunday the Soviet Union was resupplying the Syrians with arms and said he would press Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger for weapons to match the Russian contributions when they meet later today to discuss arms supplies.

Dayan also said Cuba had sent troops to Syria to join North Korean, Kuwaiti, Saudi Arabian and Moroccan forces already there. He did not indicate if the Cuban troops had taken part in the fighting yet.

Dayan, concluding two days of talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement, said on NBC's Meet The Press he was "hopeful" the two sides could reach agreement despite differences that remain "big and wide."

Blind Rider Draws $1,100 in Pledges

By BETTY RYDER

A tired and weary Lenny Gauba is resting in bed today nursing aching muscles and fighting a fever as a result of Sunday's Bike-a-thon conducted in the parking lot of Iona Manufacturing Co. on Regent St.

Gauba, who reportedly collapsed after completing 501 quarter-mile laps for a total of 125 1/4 miles, began his ride at 8:30 a.m. and terminated it at 4:45 p.m. to secure pledges to benefit the Organization of the Handicapped and Hope House, Inc. for autistic children, both in Manchester.

"If all the pledges are honored," Gauba said this morning, "we should realize close to $1,100. People from as far away as Kensington, Enfield, and New Britain called and gave us pledges."

Gauba, who is legally blind and a member of the OTH, was, however, disappointed with the response by Manchester citizens.

"I couldn't believe it," he said. "When I think how I worked at the (State) armory during the power shortage and helped folks, it was hard to believe that they wouldn't help me help other people in need."

Would he do it again? "Yes, if it will help less fortunate people," he said.

Manchester residents who Gauba feels have failed him this time may get a second chance. Although he doesn't plan another bike-a-thon, he did say more projects to raise funds for the two organizations will be planned in the near future.

"We need the money," he added, "so we'll just have to devise projects to raise it."

Gauba extended thanks to all those who visited him at the parking lot and especially to his supporters.

Joseph Blette, OTH chairman, who was on hand throughout the day along with other OTH and Hope House, Inc. workers, also enjoyed a well-deserved night's sleep.

South Windsor

Democratic Hopefuls Give Views on Issues

JUDY KUEHNEL

The three Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination presented their views before a packed crowd at the Timothy Edwards School in South Windsor Sunday afternoon.

Each of the candidates—Ella Grasso, Robert Killian and Frank Zullo — expressed regrets over the absence of Homer Babbidge who, up until Saturday, had been the fourth Democratic candidate for the nomination.

Babbidge dropped out of the race citing lack of finances as the reason for not being able to continue.

Killian, who elaborated on Babbidge's withdrawal, said the former UConn president was "priced out of the business" of campaigning and "one of the first things the government and people will have to address themselves to" is the high cost of elections.

For the most part the more than 300 people who attended the forum were pro-Killian, but both Mrs. Grasso and Zullo drew large rounds of applause for various issues.

When confronted with recent polls showing Mrs. Grasso ahead of the gubernatorial pack, Killian said "The history of polls or polling can't equate the questions and issues."

"The people's rights shouldn't be pre-empted eight or nine months ahead," said Killian. "I slug it out. I hope the people are turned on the point where they say we are the electorate. Gov. Meskill said I should resign a couple months ago...he's gone and I'm still here."

Referring to her poll figures, Mrs. Grasso said, "I've never commissioned a poll and have no intentions of doing so."

"The only poll I'll accept is the one in November," said Mrs. Grasso. "In 20 years of public life I've never stopped believing that's the only poll I'll accept," said Mrs. Grasso.

Zullo, former Norwalk mayor, said not being in public office "is a minor handicap...it's hard to get the newspaper, television coverage, etc. No one knew who Meskill was when 'Mim' Daddario was 17 points ahead in the polls, however, and three months later Meskill was governor."

Zullo contends the candidate should be judged on his position on the issues, his ability to campaign and "on forums such as this one."

"I realize on the issue of recognition I stand last, but I won't stand last on these other points," said Zullo.

Still referring to the polls, Killian called it a "dangerous process indeed" for people to be committed "eight months before the elections."

Asked what evidence she could give the voters that her fate would not be the same as former gubernatorial candidate Emilio Daddario's (who headed the gubernatorial polls and lost the election), Mrs. Grasso said, "I stand on my credentials over the past 20 years in public office."

Zullo said "these type of forums won't let 1970 happen again and there is no need for anyone to commit themselves three months before the election."

Killian was asked why, after being considered the organization candidate, Mrs. Grasso "seems to be the organization candidate, now."

Killian attributed this to being the one-time Hartford Democratic chairman and the misconception he was "a boss."

This, he felt, has had some adverse effect on his campaign.

"I've never been the candidate of any people but the people's candidate," said Killian. "I can't bring anybody to the moon or show them the stars. All I can do is show the people what I've done during three-and-one-half years of hostile administration."

Killian spoke of his involvement with the oil companies and the battle he waged against them, saying "it was lonely out there."

"I will state my record of performance. A lot of things that happened, happened after people were warned about this, frequently by me," said Killian. "A lot of things that didn't happen, didn't because I stopped them." He cited the Greater Hartford Community College savings and the opposition to "Tommy's Trolley" — the airport monorail proposed by Gov. Meskill.

All the candidates discussed the present tax structure, tax needs, state income tax, welfare, state budgetary items, parochial school aid and abortion.

Mrs. Grasso received a tremendous round of applause when she voiced her opposition to abortion, saying "the unborn have rights."

Zullo said that as governor he could not allow his Catholic views to interfere with the Supreme Court decision to allow abortion.

Killian said he is against abortion but also referred to the Supreme Court's decision.

Concluding the debate Mrs. Grasso was asked whether she would like to have Killian remain as attorney general if she won the governor's seat, to which she replied "whatever place Bob wants would be for him and the convention to determine...I'd like him with me."

Killian, referring to the long and warm relationship he said he and Mrs. Grasso have shared, said it was time for a new attorney general and for him to move "up and out."

Army Searches Belfast Area For Gunmen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British army troops and police cordoned off Roman Catholic and Protestant areas of Belfast today in a house-by-house search for gunmen and bombers who took six lives over the weekend.

A British officer said the searches were one of the biggest operations of the kind in 4 1/2 years of Northern Ireland violence.

The biggest one concentrated on Lower Ormeau Road area where security officials said eight persons have been killed in less than a year.

The British officer said the security forces also hoped to turn up information that residents might be frightened to volunteer otherwise.

Weekend bombings and assassinations took the death toll to 991 since fighting between Northern Ireland's majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and British army and security forces broke out in August, 1969.

Mitchell-Stans Prosecutors To Call SEC Aides

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are two more important government witnesses — assistants in the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) — to be called in the influence-peddling trial of two former Nixon cabinet members.

The government is expected to rest its conspiracy case against former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans early this week after hearing testimony from the two witnesses — Stanley Sporkin and Robert Kushner.

The federal court trial is in its seventh week. Testimony has been taken from 27 prosecution witnesses, including two who linked Mitchell and Stans directly to the criminal counts in their indictments last week.

These witnesses were former White House counsel John W. Dean III, who claimed Mitchell tried in 1972 to interfere in an SEC case against Robert L. Vesco, and former SEC Chairman G. Bradford Cook, who gave similar testimony against Stans. Mitchell was head of Nixon's re-election campaign at the time and Stans was its chief fund raiser.

Sporkin, particularly, was closely associated with the fraud charges brought by the SEC against Vesco three weeks after the 1972 presidential election.

Both defendants are charged with conspiracy, perjury and obstruction of justice in trying to obtain a secret $200,000 contribution for the Nixon re-election fund from Vesco in return for impeding the SEC case against the financier. Vesco, now a refugee abroad, was indicted with Mitchell and Stans.

Going Too Far

We are sort of old-fashioned and particularly so when it comes to children.
This is why we are a bit disturbed by the ruling in a New Jersey state court that girls should be allowed to play with boys in the Little League baseball program.
We aren't quarreling with the rights of women to be equal to or better than men but we think it is going a bit too far when little boys can no longer be boys and little girls no longer girls.
Lord knows there is plenty of time in life for waging the battle of the sexes without using our children as pawns for our adult games.
We don't quarrel with the right of little girls to play baseball and our own experience has shown us that males have no monopoly on athletic skills.

But the basic right of every boy or girl for that matter is to be and enjoy being a boy or girl for awhile during that most wonderful time of life — childhood.
We think there should be a right of a child to be a child and to savor and cherish this fleeting period in life before he or she is burdened with realities of life.
It is bad enough to push our children into elementary school dances, dating, etc.
What in heaven's name are we raising: Children or miniature adults?
Okay, in New Jersey, the girls may be able to try out for the Little League teams and some will make it.
But we think the game and childhood will never be the same again and the children will be poorer for it.

RX For Income Tax Blues

By Lee Roderick
(Special for The Herald)
WASHINGTON — "When we object to taxes we may have good reasons, but I suspect there is also involved a failure to recognize how much the quality of life that we enjoy, and even our opportunities to earn money, are dependent upon the effective functioning of government."
As Americans sweat and scrape to meet a fast-approaching income tax deadline, this thoughtful philosophy by a West Virginia theologian might provide welcome comfort. In a timely essay reprinted in the Congressional Record, Rev. Nevins S. Kendall of Elkins, W. Va., argues that despite abuses such as Watergate, government is a gift of God.
"In the 13th chapter of Romans, Paul tells us that government is an institution that has been established and ordained by God, that those who govern are serving as ministers of God," writes Rev. Kendall. Observing that Paul was referring to the government of Rome, not remembered for its compassion, the author noted that the great missionary may also have "sensed that if government has a monopoly on bungling and ineptness and waste; as if these things are never to be found in churches and colleges and corporations."
Rev. Kendall even has nice words for the politician. "It is a part of his job to draw together groups that represent conflicting interests or points of view, and through a process of give and take find some common ground, some consensus that may not be fully pleasing to anybody but which is acceptable to enough of us so that we will not be paralyzed but can move ahead, without this function of a politician, life would simply grind to a halt."
"I do not think that very many people have been any more angered and disgusted than I have been by the cluster of events that we call Watergate. But I also feel that many of us have over-reacted," the author continues.
"Even in the face of Watergate I continue to believe, and I have never felt more certain of this, that among the people who serve us in government at every level there is a degree of integrity, a degree of confidence and a degree of dedication to the common good that is unsurpassed and possibly even unmatched in any other segment of our society."
Asked to comment on this assessment by Rev. Kendall, the chaplain of the Senate, Rev.

Andrew Tully
It Is Our Flag

WASHINGTON — The only sensible thing to say about the Supreme Court's 6 to 3 ruling against a Massachusetts law that made it a crime to treat the American flag "contemptuously" is that both the majority and minority were right.
In its ruling, the Court wiped out a six-month jail sentence imposed on one Valerie Goguen of Leominster, Mass., for wearing a 4-by-8 inch flag sewn to the seat of his blue jeans.
So far, so good. The Massachusetts law was a marvel of ambiguity which, as conservative Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. declared, deprived an accused of due process. What Powell meant was that the 1890 statute was vaguely worded and did not set out any standards. Thus, a would-be violator was left ignorant of what would constitute an offense. Nor did the law provide guidelines for law enforcement officers.
In short, it was a lousy law — which may explain why it was so seldom enforced during its 70-year life. So the majority properly struck it down.

However, Justice Byron R. White, who concurred in the decision, even declared that the law violated First Amendment freedom of expression by punishing "ideas about the flag unacceptable to the controlling majority in the legislature." This was surely an unacceptable opinion. Freedom of expression covers a multitude of rights, but I'm sure the Founding Fathers didn't mean it to include wearing the flag on one's behind. Perhaps they should have, but the First Amendment is what it says, not what a Supreme Court justice says it is.
No, Powell's opinion for the majority was the only possible decision the Court could reach. The issue was a pure 2nd simple one of due process, a right that extends even to individuals whose conduct some of us may find contemptible.
Nevertheless, I was surprised to find Powell bowing to the western world in the early 1920s or earlier.

Japan, to be sure, retains its spectacular castles, shrines, temples and other historic places bespeaking its almost mystical past. Often these are carefully guarded by surrounding, well-kept park areas which are like oases of peace in the bustling welter of the pragmatic Japan of 1974. Yet a quick eye-scan across a big city may not pick out these charming reminders of Japanese antiquity. An old castle may loom high, but much else of traditional beauty is tucked away amid the clutter.
Japanese government and business leaders acknowledge that "bousing" has not kept pace with economic growth as measured by GNP and export-import levels. But the job, to be properly done, may be bigger than even they can acknowledge. For much of the new housing I have seen does not ease the visual pain of clutter, but only fills empty spaces amid the clutter.
The badly needed superhighways, resembling America's, hardly help the scene. A beautiful land is marred by a people maybe too much in a hurry.

Urban Sprawl Chokes The Lotus Blossoms

Empty urban spaces often are piled with junk, and the ugly automobile graveyard is a common sight here.
For some of this unattractive clutter there may be excuse. Some 80 per cent of Japan's total area is mountainous, and most of that unfit for even the crudest farming and dotted only with occasional isolated hamlets. The Japanese jammed into limited flat space on four main islands may long ago have concluded that fancy urban planning is luxury beyond their practical needs.
Furthermore, their cities were devastated in 1945 U.S. fire-bombing raids that burned the hearts out of some 600 major centers. Obviously, their first, hasty rebuilding was elemental and utilitarian — even though the wipe-out gave them a golden opportunity to lay out "new cities" with spacious imagination.
In fact, there are few wide, handsome, tree-lined boulevards anywhere. Here in Osaka there is one such boulevard, lined with well-designed modern office buildings. Not far away is another attractive cluster erected alongside two parallel canals. Nagoya has some wide streets similarly appealing to the eye.
The speciousness and beauty built into some of the newer hotels in Japanese cities is firm proof that the Japanese really have lost none of their fabulist artistic sense in the tidal wave of headlong economic growth. Even Tokyo, a postwar utilitarian mish-mash, is developing a new artistic gloss in its commercial structures of more recent vintage.
Yet these flossy buildings are a supermodern overlay on a Japanese scene which in too many places looks like a city of the western world in the early 1920s or earlier.

The Trotter Block
To the editor:
"Correct answers come from knowledgeable people: Just got through this morning with an inquiry that left me with thoughts such as, 'This is enough, can't take it any more, tired of being a broken record.'"
No town is not going to demolish my building at 101-109 Center St. It is the Trotter Block and the little white house on Trotter St., that is the Town's property, where the demolition will take place. These are the locations that the taxpayer has been supporting, not the building at 101-109 Center St. When I don't know, I, too, two weeks ago, was transferred from department to department, with a final transfer to Mr. Weiss's office. Being too busy with the budget, he had his secretary read a memo to me, not knowing what the definite plans are, as to where, how and when the roads will become a reality. False accusations, such as made because I refused rental, are not fair to me or to Mr. Weiss because I am sure if the Town was in need of space, one does have procedures and plans to follow. Five years ago, a promise of correction of the drainage system from the Trotter Block was made and that has not become a reality as yet but I am still living with hope that with the demolition consideration will be given to my backyard.

I have written information concerning the Trotter Block. Please, for further inquiries, contact Mr. Weiss or the Board of Directors. They will have the exact information you as a taxpayer are looking for as they are your government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Mrs. Smith Speaker At Cheney Tech

Mrs. Catherine V. A. Smith, chairman of the State Board of Education, will be a guest speaker Wednesday at the open house program at Howell Cheney Technical School for parents of seventh and eighth grade students.

Catherine V. A. Smith

The event will begin 6:45 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m. Mrs. Smith, who lives in Hamden, received her bachelor's degree in biology at Middlebury College (Vt.) and her doctor's degree in zoology at Yale University.

Mrs. Smith has served on the Hamden Board of Education, has been secretary of the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education, and a director of the New England Program in Teacher Education. She has also been active in various civic organizations.

Other speakers who will participate during the introductory assembly in the auditorium are state senator David O'Leary, state representative George Hannon, and school director John Garofalo.

Shop and academic teachers will be available to demonstrate programs and to answer questions. Guidance and administrative personnel will also assist parents in helping to select a suitable program.

The earlier departure time—4 p.m.—provides an added service for employees of downtown Hartford companies who have scheduled or are planning earlier dismissal times, according to state Transportation Commissioner Joseph Burns.

Gift to MIT To Finance Methane Study

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The Massachusetts Institute of Technology Energy Laboratory has announced receipt of a $100,000 gift from a Minneapolis industrialist for the establishment of a methanol study center.

The money was donated by John D. Hartley, president of Northern Pump Co., Minneapolis, after he became interested in the possible use of methanol as an additive to gasoline to improve fuel economy.

The center will concentrate on follow-up work started by two Lincoln (Neb.) Laboratory scientists—Thomas N. Reed and Robert M. Learner. The two scientists authored an article in Science Magazine saying that methanol is a clean, liquid fuel which can be produced from a variety of sources and can be added to gasoline to improve fuel economy, increase octane and decrease emissions in cars with no alteration.

MIT officials said the grant would be used to test private cars and research engines with methanol-gasoline blends and for testing the chemical behavior of these blends.

Hawley, a 74-year-old investor who owns a number of oil and gas wells, has also made a grant to Texas A&M University to continue work there on methanol production in coal.

"Hawley is keenly aware of the ultimate depletion of our valuable petroleum," Dr. Reed said. "He decided that if we waited for the government to initiate the necessary programs, we would wait too long."

Bookmobile Year Old Town Funds Now Sought

By JOHN JOHNSTON For The Herald

The "Thomas Hooker" is now in the home stretch of a one-year experimental "Books on Wheels" project of the Manchester Public Library. The blue and white van, on loan from the Connecticut State Library, made its first run July 11 last year.

"We want to continue the program, and our own mobile unit is being asked for as a part of the 1974-75 budget," John F. Jackson, head librarian, said. "If we are unable to have one included in the library program, the demonstration bookmobile project will have to cease operation the first week in June."

The bookmobile, financed by the bookmobile fund, was used for the first time on Monday through Friday, except when the town libraries are closed on legal holidays. At each stop, patrons are able to make their choices from a selected collection of about 2,000 books and other materials.

Jackson cited the following service statistics, through March 14: Bookmobile days on the road, 143; total number of visitors, 7,080 (3,489 adult and 3,591 juvenile); registrations, 680 (348 adult and 332 juvenile); circulation of materials, 14,873 (8,337 adult and 6,536 juvenile); daily average circulation, 104.

Also, number of stops, 338; shut-ins served, 32; convalescent home patients served, 70; senior citizens served individually in their homes, 4. One of the liveliest stops is at Holiday House on Cottage St. Purnell plays a selection of old and well-remembered tunes on the house organ while residents sing along without benefit of songbooks. At this stop, Cooney says, he hides in a corner, "So the aides won't ask to dance with me. I know they'd be like my mother and not let me lead them in the dancing."

By Another Name In medieval times, the word "garbage" applied to a combination of chicken manure, fish, and innards stewed as a delicacy by creative chefs.

In addition to the "Thomas Hooker's" regularly scheduled summer, fall, and spring stops, Jackson added, the library cooperates with the Town Recreation Department when schools close for the summer vacation by making the bookmobile's offerings available at a number of recreation areas. Included in these are swimming pools, Camp Kennedy, and the Oak Grove Nature Center.

"The program has been favorably received," Jackson said, "judging by phone and letter reports to me. It is good to hear from people in the community. I feel there is an even greater potential for more service to be rendered by such a mobile unit in the community."

Typical of the favorable impression the bookmobile has made is a letter from Harold Moran of 14K Garden Dr. "I am 64 years old and have emphysema," he wrote. "I can't walk up to the library so I appreciate the library bookmobile. They (Cooney and Purnell) are sure very accommodating boys. They help me a lot. I want to give credit to the people who deserve it; therefore, I am writing to you."

Anyone who is handicapped or a shut-in, or a person who knows of anyone who is either, may arrange to have the bookmobile make an individual stop, Jackson said, by calling Mary Cheney Library any morning from 9:30 to 10.

Forest Service Seeks Permission To Spray Moths

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Forest Service may have to spray DDT on about 400,000 acres of forest in Oregon, Washington and Idaho this summer to control the tussock moth.

The moth, a serious tree pest, heavily damaged western forests last year when the Environmental Protection Agency refused to allow emergency use of DDT. Now under heavy congressional pressure, the EPA has agreed to permit DDT to be used if forestry and other officials decide it is needed. John R. McGuire, chief of the Forest Service, made the 400,000-acre estimate in an environmental impact statement of tussock moth control filed last week. He said a final decision would depend on factors including the possibility that insect populations may be reduced by natural forces.

If DDT is used this year, McGuire said it would be sprayed from helicopters at the rate of three-quarters of a pound in one gallon of fuel oil per acre and the applications will be "carefully supervised and monitored" by a number of state and federal agencies, including the EPA.

Bolt Shortage Brings Union, Owners Together

WILLIAM R. BARRETT WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was an unusual meeting, to say the least. The United Mine Workers union and the coal operators, who will be on opposite sides of the contract negotiating table later this year, were on the same side this time. The meeting, called by Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton last month, didn't receive much publicity. But the outcome apparently means the nation's coal mines will continue in production, helping ease the energy crisis.

Peace Talks Unlikely In Cambodia

By ROBERT KAYLOR PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Hem Thoung, 40 years old, is a shy little man who illustrates one reason it has been impossible to even make a start at negotiating an end to the war in Cambodia.

Just a shade over five feet tall, with curly black hair and two gold teeth, Hem was until two weeks ago one of the Hanoi-trained cadres that for the past four years have operated the Communist fighting machine here.

Then he and a comrade defected to the U.S.-supported regime of Marshal Lon Nol, not for overriding ideological reasons but because they feared for their lives at the hands of local-grown Khmer communists they say are moving to take control.

"They accuse those of us who went to Hanoi of turning our backs on our people, and they say we are revisionists," said Hem former commander of the 302nd Battalion of the Khmer Liberation Army, speaking through an interpreter.

"Some of us have been killed already. If it were going to be eliminated."

Observers here see several problems standing in the way of peace talks, among them the reluctance of the ailing Lon Nol to take any real steps toward negotiations. The case of Hem, one of about 20 of the so-called "Hanoi Khmers" who have started to quit fighting in the last few months, illustrates another problem.

North Vietnam, which formerly provided many of the troops in this sector of Indochina, has dropped into the background of the war here. But an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 Khmer communists and "nationalists" of various stripe fight on.

It has so far been impossible to locate through diplomatic initiatives anyone who speaks for the entire movement.

For the U.S. government it has meant well over $1 billion in aid and a new controversy over whether American military advisers are operating against the orders of Congress. For the Cambodian people, it means that the suffering and privation of war continue.

Communist radio broadcasts say that the ousted former chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, heads the exile government from his base in China, but Hem sniffs at this.

"Sihanouk is purely a multipiece for the Khmer communists," he said. "I know what Sihanouk is doing in Peking is only a facade to get more support from the peasants. I don't think the Khmer communists will ever let Sihanouk come back."

Hem said that his own instructions, constantly repeated in 16 long years of training in North Vietnam, were to return to Cambodia to promote a revolution to overthrow the "royalist" regime.

The son of a farmer in the southern province of Takeo, Hem was a Viet Minh soldier in the fighting against the French. When that war ended in 1954 he boarded a Polish ship with about 1,000 others and was taken to North Vietnam. Analysts believe about double that number of "Hanoi Khmers" eventually went south.

Peace Talks Unlikely In Cambodia

They were originally told they would return home in two years, but the order to start the march back to Cambodia did not come until April 1973, within one month of the ouster of Sihanouk by Lon Nol.

Hem and his fellow defector, Khun Savuth, 41, also a former battalion commander, both believe that most of the peasantry does not like the communist system and that only a handful of the insurgent troops are volunteers. But they see little chance of organized resistance to the communists among the peasants at this stage.

Quebec Dwarfs France Canada's French-speaking province of Quebec spans 594,880 square miles, almost three times the area of France itself.

James M. Day, Administrator of the Interior Department's Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, noted that it potentially was a question of miners' lives and said, "If sufficient roof bolts are not in place as work progresses in underground mines, we will have to close them." William A. Vogely, ranking Interior Department economist, said the shortage could result in a "vicious circle."

"No roof bolts, no coal. No coal, no steel. No steel, no roof bolts." Coal operators blamed the shortage on roof bolt fabricators. They in turn blamed steel companies for not making steel rods needed for their manufacture. Steel companies pointed to prices set by the Cost of Living Council. Morton tried to cut through all that.

"This meeting was called to seek solutions, not to lay the blame. The age of coal lies before us, not behind us. We are cranking out about 800 million tons a year. We have got to do a long term benefit of this country it is essential for our energy needs that we bring the coal to the surface where it can be used or further processed. "Now let's get to work—and find a solution."

John Tabor, Commerce Undersecretary, was next. He said, "We know bar steel is traditionally a low profit item. But your country's coal mine operators and their miners need them, these roof bolts. And you need the coal."

Then came the solutions. Steel producers said they would work with the Cost of Living Council for more realistic price structures. Roof bolt fabricators said they would increase production. The bolts may cost more in the future, but the shortage should disappear.

And during the entire discussion, United Mine Workers officials were on the same side as the coal mine operators. Both knew without the bolts mines would be closed and their interest was the same: Find a way to increase production.

"Did you know that a gas dryer uses 70% less natural energy than an electric dryer?"*

Georgia DiPietro Director of Consumer Information Connecticut Natural Gas Corporation

Natural gas is natural energy. It's piped directly from the wellhead to your home. Very little energy is lost in the process.

Electricity, on the other hand, is not natural energy. It has to be generated, usually by burning fossil fuels such as coal, oil or natural gas. In the generation and distribution of electricity, most of the natural energy in those resources is lost.

That's why drying clothes with a gas dryer is more efficient than with an electric dryer. And not surprisingly, a gas dryer also costs less to operate. How much less depends on how you use it. Here are just a few ways to save energy and money with your gas dryer.

Over-drying wastes energy. Use your automatic drying cycle so your clothes dry only as long as they have to.

Clean the lint screen after each load. An accumulation of lint on the screen reduces dry efficiency and wastes fuel.

When it's time for a new dryer, choose a new gas dryer. Call CMG and talk to one of our Natural Energy Consultants. Better yet, come in to see our newest gas dryer models for yourself.

Dry only full loads. You'll save energy and, because a gas dryer dries faster, you'll still keep up with your washer.

Save energy. Save money. Make your new dryer a gas dryer.

Women Receive Jewels Degree

Mrs. Steve Van Meter

Mrs. Steve Van Meter of 136 Hamilton Dr., Mrs. Rose Stoecklin of 215 Kimberly Rd., Newington, and Mrs. Donald Noblett of Wethersfield received the Ritual of Jewels degree in Ela Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, March 26 in the home of Mrs. Noblett.

Mrs. John Papenhausen, president, officiated at the candlelight ceremony assisted by Mrs. Don Cleveland, vice president. Mrs. Jeff Williams and Mrs. Dave Waggoner acted as torchbearers.

The survey estimates that 37 per cent of women returning to work after an absence of 10 or more years are qualified to seek the kinds of jobs for which they apply. For those seeking work in the secretarial, office and clerical fields, 12 per cent have prepared themselves with refresher courses and study which would enhance their chances of getting a job by 80 per cent. Of the employers 79 per cent are estimated as willing to pay the returning women salaries commensurate with their qualifications and experience, despite an interruption in career continuity.

Another job impetus for a lesser number of women not primarily interested in remuneration was discovered to be the desire to relieve boredom, find mental challenge and make better use of time outside the home. A relatively small number of women were spurred to work again by the want of added income for pleasure spending.

The survey points out that those women whose work drive is not prompted by economic need are less interested in secretarial, office and clerical jobs as compared to positions loosely termed "administrative" or "managerial." While women who return to work for the prime purpose of earning needed money are much more willing to accept the former kind of employment, Snelling and Snelling offices felt the Women's Liberation Movement was a factor in selective job seeking by those women returning, but not constrained to work.

The survey also defines the motivations for those women who pursue and secure employment not withstanding these reasons for reluctance. According to Snelling, the main motive for women returning to work was found to be the need to supplement or replace husbands' income to meet family obligations. Women so motivated are frequently divorced or separated from husbands, and assume the role of "bread-winner" out of necessity.

Team managers or captains interested in entering teams in any of the men's softball leagues, sponsored by the Vernon Recreation Department, are asked to attend an organizational meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lottie Fisk Building, Henry Park.

Donald Berger, director of recreation, said four leagues are planned again, including the dusty league, independent leagues, and a recreational league. Last year there were 30 teams and about 400 men involved in the leagues.

In addition to team managers and captains, the meeting Tuesday is open to any individuals who are not affiliated with a team but would like to do so.

Teams planning to enter the league should call the recreation office, 675-7775, Tuesday.

An organizational meeting for the women's softball league will be scheduled in about two weeks.

Masonic Show Adairman Chapter 18, Royal Arch Masons, will sponsor its second annual variety show Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Vernon Middle School.

Democratic Contest Narrows To Three

HARTFORD (UPI) — Although the American public may hold politicians in low esteem these days, when it comes to running for public office, political professionalism still counts.

Worse for Babbidge, a political newcomer was that many of the liberals, academicians, intellectuals and independents, who might have been expected to support him turned instead to Mrs. Grasso.

Killian has announced he will contest her incursions in a primary challenge May 22 for Hartford's 70 delegates to the party's convention.

In the poll, published by the Hartford Times and the New Haven Register, Mrs. Grasso would defeat Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., a leading Republican contender 55 per cent to 33 per cent.

According to the survey, Steele would defeat Killian 48 per cent to 34 per cent and would have defeated Babbidge 41 per cent to 34 per cent.

The poll, conducted by Decision Research Corp., of Wellesley, Mass., was completed last Wednesday. In other developments along the Connecticut campaign trail:

Douglas J. Bennet Jr., administrative assistant to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has resigned to see the Democratic nomination for the congressional seat now held by Steele. Before committing himself to the gubernatorial race, Steele had been considering running against Ribicoff this fall.

In the early morning hours of Aug. 30, Green called Vernon Police to his Vernon Gardens apartment. He told police he found the two children near death, when he returned from walking the dog.

Green's wife, from whom he was reportedly separated at the time, had left for work at St. Francis Hospital, and Green had gone to the apartment to sit with the babies until a sitter arrived.

The children were rushed to Rockville General Hospital but

Obscenity Definition Requested

HARTFORD (UPI) — Guy Wolfe, the assistant state prosecutor who has handled the state's pornography cases since 1972, believes the legislature ought to come to grips with defining what is obscene.

"They should at least try to define hard core pornography," Wolfe said Sunday. "The changes they are planning won't help me a bit."

The Judiciary Committee has reduced its original plan to overhaul the state's obscenity statute to bring it in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's 1973 pornography decision.

The committee has decided it will make the community standards required by the high court ruling to include the entire state.

Such a remedy, Wolfe said, is inadequate since most pornography cases are handled in the circuit courts and the circuit court jury is not drawn from the entire state.

Wolfe said the old national standard which the U.S. Supreme Court rejected should be retained — that obscene materials are those "utterly without redeeming social value."

It is unfortunate that obscenity can't be defined in more precise terms," he said. Rep. James F. Bingham, R-Stamford, co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the courts should determine what the definition of obscenity means.

But Wolfe said that the legislature, rather than the courts, should define obscene materials. Legislative modification of the state law is needed because of the high court ruling that local communities should decide what constitutes obscene material.

South Windsor Avery Brook Project Defeated JUDY KUEHNEL

Avery Brook will continue to overflow as the South Windsor Town Council now returns to the drawing board with the resolution, 590 in favor of it.

Officials attribute the Avery referendum loss to one of two things: Voters apathy and sympathy for the family of Phillip Welles.

Welles' home is located adjacent to where Site 1 would have been constructed and there was some question as to whether the dam could have been constructed without taking his home.

It is believed the Town Council will now spend already allocated funds for channelization of Avery Brook. However, the first stage of that plan is called for a small dam entitled Site 2 which would have withheld 28 per cent of the flood waters.

Eventually voters would have been asked to accept stage two, a Site 1 dam that would have withheld the remainder of the flood waters.

Thompson Uncommitted On Governor Nominee

Mayor John Thompson said today he will remain uncommitted until all available candidates have had a chance to talk to the (state convention) delegates and the people.

The Democratic Town Committee is meeting Wednesday to tally the preferential poll taken for naming 22 Manchester delegates to the Democratic convention.

Wednesday's meeting is at 8 p.m. in Illing Junior High School cafeteria.

The committee members were asked to indicate their choice from among State Atty. Gen. Robert Killian, Congressman Ella Grasso, former UConn president Homer Babidge and former Norwalk Mayor Frank Zullo.

The withdrawal of Babidge from the race will change the situation only for the 4 or 5 committee members who had been backing him.

Democratic chairman Ted Cummings said they told him they will support one of the three candidates or will be uncommitted.

The uncommitted count among the poll members will be the basis for the number of uncommitted delegates to be chosen April 17.

Thompson, who said he was uncommitted from the start, explained why.

"Although, from what I can see Grasso and Killian will run strong in Manchester, I'll hold off announcing my choice until I've heard them all in forum discussions. I think it's healthy for the party if the candidates can get around the state and talk on the issues. That's how we'll know where they stand."

Vernon Council Meets Tonight

A public hearing on a proposed ordinance to establish collection and disposal of special benefit and user charges for this purpose will be conducted tonight at 7:30 at the Administration Building.

The hearing will precede the regular meeting of the Town Council.

As the Sewer Authority, the council will also conduct a public hearing concerning a request for extension of sewers to Walslow Rd.

At the council meeting the Rink Study committee, appointed by Mayor Frank McCoy, will report its findings on a feasibility study made concerning an ice facility for the town.

Other reports scheduled to be heard are: Subcommittee on sidewalk replacement; drainage problems; audit recommendations; and appointment of deputy building inspector.

The council will also discuss the results of a study concerning planning and zoning, conducted by the Vermont League of Women Voters, and the purchase of the Vernon Water Co.

The council is also expected to act on a proposed schedule for budget deliberations and to set a date for the public hearing on the general and education budgets.

Under new business the council will accept a request of the tax collector for summary transfers and a recommendation that this be referred to the delinquent taxes and assessments subcommittee.

Yaz Going All Out

Checking in on the doings of the Boston Red Sox in spring training during Grapefruit League exhibition games the brightest spot has been, without question, the over-all all-out hustle of Carl Yazwerman.

As Yaz goes, so goes the Red Sox as a familiar saying for years. The former American League batting champion and Most Valuable Player led the club to a pennant in 1967 and several near misses in his 13 years in Boston.

Yazwerman, set to embark on his 14th major league campaign, all with the Red Sox, has really worked his butt off for new manager, Darrell Johnson. The latter's appointment of Yaz as team captain came as no great surprise. Yaz has been the team leader, the guy the players have looked up to all spring.

The highest paid man on owner Tom Yawkey's payroll, a reputation on which Yaz has really worked his butt off for new manager, Darrell Johnson. The latter's appointment of Yaz as team captain came as no great surprise.

Aaron Lures Largest Turnout But Twins Play Giveaway Ball

NEW YORK (UPI)—The largest baseball crowd in eight years turned out Sunday in Orlando, Fla., lured by the final appearance there of the man about to break Babe Ruth's record, and they not only saw him, but they also saw a brand of baseball which made them blink.

The prime attraction, of course, was Hank Aaron, appearing with the Atlanta Braves.

But in the end, it was the muddled Minnesota Twins who put on the best show, and the 5,103 who were on hand still aren't sure what they saw at Tinker Field was pure comedy or watered-down tragedy.

Atlanta beat Minnesota, 6-5, the Twins suffering their 20th spring setback in 23 outings, but it was the way the Braves did, coming up with two unearned runs in the ninth with two out and without benefit of a base hit, which sort of overshadowed everything that Aaron did.

Reliever Vic Alper, the loser, had two strikes and no balls on Mike Lum when he walked him and the next batter also, Tom Burgmer on Mike Lum and hit Rowland Olfelt to fill the bases after which Dusty Baker then kicked it allowing two runs to score.

As for Aaron, he hit a high infield pop that went for a double in the second inning when the Twins lost the ball in the sun. Then in the fourth he lifted another pop-up which third baseman Eric Soderholm let drop for an error.

So much for great defenses. Cardinals 5, White Sox 2 Bob Gibson, tuning up for his Opening Day pitching assignment with the Cardinals, limited the White Sox to two runs in seven innings en route to a 5-2, Louis victory.

The first four White Sox batters hit safely in the first inning but sloppy base-running was responsible for them scoring only one run. Gibson pitched the White Sox on one hit over the next five innings before yielding another run on two hits in the seventh.

Royals 9, Red Sox 6 Paul Splittorff, the Royals' 20-game winner last year and the pitcher against the Twins, gave up all six of Boston's runs but was the winner.

Expos 6, Orioles 5 Jim Wohlford singled in the decisive run with a sixth inning single and Fran Healy drove in four runs with a homer, triple and double to help the Red Sox at York, Pa.

and a double. Rookie outfielder nicked Montreal reliever Bill Stoneman for a three-run homer in the eighth.

Willie Horton drove in four runs with a single, double and a homer for the Tigers in their 8-3 win over the Reds. Lefty Don Gullett worked five scoreless innings before Horton cuffed him for a two-run homer during a four-run sixth.

Lerrin LaGrow and Jim Ray spaced six hits. Dave Concepcion's homer off LaGrow was the only hit the Tigers' right-hander gave up in the six innings he pitched.

Phillies 9, Pirates 5 Mike Antonie, Willie Montanez and Mike Schmidt all teed off on Dock Elpis for home runs in the Phillies' 9-5 decision over the Pirates. Ed Farmer, a recent pick-up by the Phils, hurled three-hit ball over five innings and was the winner. Richie Hebner homered for the Pirates.

Ron Blomberg, who can fly, scored all the way from first base on Craig Nettles' hit-and-run single with the run that gave the Yankees a 2-1 win over the Mets at Fort Lauderdale.

Craig Swann gave up both in 29 minutes of spring, pitched shutout ball over the first seven innings to get the victory.

Astros 5, Rangers 4 Playing before 44,017 in the Astrodom, the Astros shaded the Rangers, 5-4, on rookie outfielder Mike Easter's regular with the bases full in the ninth inning. It was Easter's third hit of the game.

Tom Griffin, slated to pitch Houston's regular season opener Friday, left Sunday's contest in the fourth when he bruised his finger by getting hit with his own foul ball.

Dodgers 8, Angels 4 Joe Ferguson and Von Joshua each had three hits to help the Dodgers down the Angels, 8-4, in the rubber game of their series in Los Angeles. Bill Buckner won the Fresno Thompson Memorial Award as the MVP of the series and Andy Messersmith, Saturday's winner, was the recipient of the Lefty Phillips Memorial Award as his outstanding pitcher of the series.

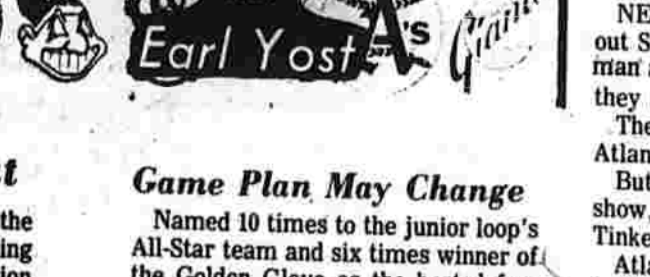

Padres 4, Cubs 3 Willie McCovey rocketed one of Horacio Pina's serves for a 10th inning homer that provided the Padres with a 4-3 triumph over the Cubs. Vicente Romo pitched two scoreless innings in relief and was the winner.

Indians 6, Brewers 2 Back-to-back homers by Charlie Spikes and Dave Duncan gave the Indians a 6-2 verdict over the Brewers at Tucson, Ariz. The winner was Jim Perry but he gave the game in the sixth when hit on his pitching hand by a liner off George Scott's bat. Perry went to the hospital for precautionary X-rays.

New champions will be crowned in both the Men's and Women's Division in the 1974 Town Duckpin Bowling Tournament at the Holiday Lanes.

This became a certainty following yesterday's rolling in the semifinals.

Ken Seaton and Norm Lalonde both rolled their way into the championship match next Sunday by whipping Fred McCurry and George Pelletier in the Men's Division.

Defending champion Carol Noske fell in the Women's Division to Jean McAdam and Delina Rock ousted Gail Marinelli.

The finals in both divisions will be best-of-seven sets with the battles for third and fourth places in each grouping best three-out-of-five sets.

Defending men's king, Don Simmons was sent to the sidelines by Seaton in a quarterfinal match.

Yesterday, in a battle of veterans, Seaton had to pull out all the stops in downing McCurry. Seaton copped the first two games, after the pair deadlocked in the first with 132 scores, then saw McCurry win the next two to force a fifth and deciding game. Seaton then rolled his best score of the day, 154, to gain his first final.

The Lalonde-Pelletier match brought together two of the state's best average small pinners. Lalonde, got better with each game in taking three straight from the former town ruler. The husky veteran threw a 134, followed with 150 and added a 173 to win in a breeze.

Over in the Women's Division, which was on a handicap basis, Miss McAdam trimmed Miss Noske, three games to one, and Miss Rock needed five games to oust Miss Marinelli.

With the set all tied at two games each, Miss Rock fashioned a brilliant 157, which included an eight-pin handicap, to win. Miss Marinelli had a 15-pin handicap. Miss McAdam and Miss Noske each had 16-pin handicaps.

The finals Sunday start at 2 o'clock with the public invited.

Crusaders Second Best In World Hockey Play

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cleveland Crusaders and the Toronto Toros are safely berthed in the playoffs of the World Hockey Association.

The Crusaders, in second place in the East, officially wrapped up their spot in the post-season play with a 4-2 victory over the Jersey Knights Sunday, while the third-place Toros nipped the Los Angeles Sharks to nail down their place.

Two goals by Skip Krake, the first breaking a 1-1 tie and the other the eventual winner, were the big factor in the Crusaders' victory. Cleveland led 3-2 in the late going when Ron Ward scored the wrapup goal into an empty net with 10 seconds left.

The Toros and Sharks were tied at 4-4 in their game at Toronto when rookie Pat Hickey beat goalie Paul Hogan, one point behind Quebec, has on at close range for the winning goal, his 26th of the season, at 14:11 of the third period.

In other Sunday games:

* Fran Huck scored at 2:00 of sudden death overtime on a pass from Bobby Hull, who had scored two goals, to give the Winnipeg Jets a 4-3 victory over the Vancouver Blazers.

* The Minnesota Fighting Saints scored three goals in the first period and cruised to a 5-2 victory over Houston at St. Paul, Minn.

* The New England Whalers nipped the Quebec Nordiques, 3-2, on Tommy Webster's bullet shot under the goalie's arm in a 1-on-1 situation in overtime.

* The Edmonton Oilers trimmed the Chicago Cougars, 4-1, prevented the Cougars from overtaking the now-completed three-place Nordiques. Quebec, one point behind Chicago, has two games left.

Veteran Laver Still Has Power

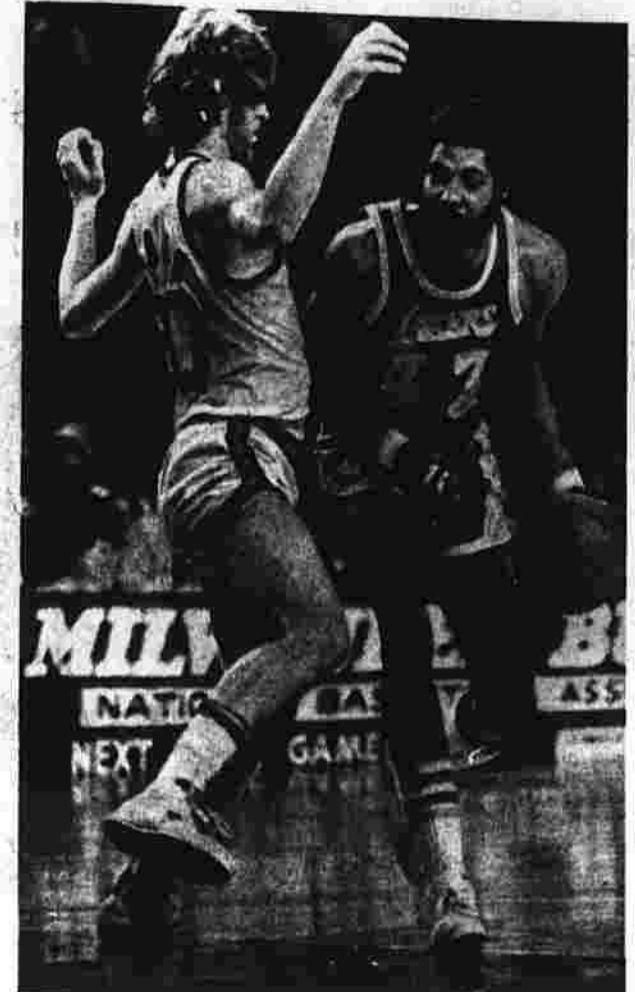

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — At age 35, red-haired Rod "The Rocket" Laver has proved that if he can get his adrenalin up he still has the power at the net and enough of a serve to earn top ranking.

On Sunday at the Ironwood Country Club in the $50,000 Kemper International Desert Tennis Classic, the veteran from Australia turned back upset-minded Roscoe Tanner of Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-4, 6-2.

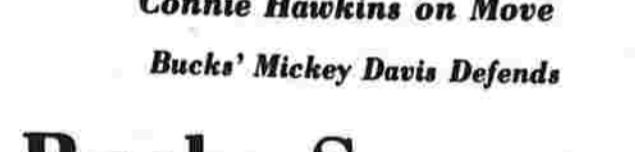

Laver, now of Corona Del Mar, Calif., earlier in the day had defeated top-seeded Arthur Ashe in a match delayed Saturday because of high winds, they resumed a match that stood 6-7, 7-6 and Laver took the third set, 6-2, to reach the final.

Then it was a battle of left handers as Laver took on the ambitious 22-year-old Tanner, who had surprised the seeds with a succession of upsets in the tournament.

Laver, first man to win $1 million in tennis explained his victory as, "my adrenalin was up" following the Ashe match.

Bucks Sweep Two Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks, sweeping the first two games of their playoff series at home in the National Basketball Association, have put the pressure squarely on the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Bucks took their 2-0 lead in games by romping to a 109-90 victory in Milwaukee Sunday night after a much tougher 99-96 victory in the opener Friday night. Now the scene shifts to Los Angeles where the Lakers will have to make the home court advantage stand up — or be on the way to a rapid knockout.

In the only other playoff game Sunday night, the Capital Bullets evened their series against the New York Knicks at 1-1 in games by beating the Knicks, 99-87, in Landover, Md.

The only playoff action tonight is in Detroit where the Pistons, who scored a road game breakthrough Saturday by beating the Chicago Bulls, 97-88, in Chicago, get a chance to take a commanding lead in their series.

Unlike the opening game thriller, the Bucks had things all their own way in Sunday's win over the Lakers after a close first half when they held to a 50-48 margin. In the third period the Bucks hit on 10 of 20 shots and out-rebounded the Lakers, 17-9, to open a 62-52 lead and they never were pressed after that.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league MVP, again led the Bucks with 32 points and 25 rebounds while Bob Dandridge added 21, a sum matched by the Lakers' Gail Goodrich.

The Bullets trailed the Knicks by eight points during the second period but that's when Walt Frazier got in foul trouble. After that the Bullets came back to a 50-44 lead at halftime and stayed in front the rest of the way to atone for a 10-91 loss in New York Friday. The third game of the series will be in New York Tuesday.

Elvin Hayes of the Bullets had 34 points — 18 of them after he got four personals. Coach K. C. Jones said he debated "a thousand times" whether to take Hayes out because of the fouls but concluded, "It's never safe to take him out."

Said the Knicks Jerry Lucas, "We tried to take it right to him (Hayes), but he played like he had two fouls instead of five."

Phil Chenier had 35 points for the Bullets and Dave DeBusschere led the Knicks with 20.

In Detroit, the Bulls — who are in the playoffs for the seventh time in eight years — are facing the fact they never have won a road game in the playoffs.

"We're in the hole now," said Coach Dick Motta. "We've lost the home court advantage. Detroit has the edge now."

ALLISON WINS HICKORY RACE - HICKORY, N.C. (UPI) — Bobby Allison, driving a Chevrolet, led all the way in winning Sunday's Hickory 249 stock car race.

Allison started on the pole position and piloted his 366 cubic inch engine car at an average of 72.187 miles per hour for a one-lap victory.

Second place went to local favorite Tommy Houston, who also drove a Chevrolet, and third to Dodge driver Buddy Baker of Charlotte.

Rounding out the top five in the NASCAR Grand National event over the 363 mile Hickory Speedway track were Bobby Isaac in a Chevy and Neil Castles in a Dodge.

FRIENDSHIP MIXED - Helen Longo 181-477, Pegge Shelsky 183-465, Wanda Dorozenki 173, Lee Bean 177-492, Bert Tostain 176-481, Sharlie DeLisle 195, Mary Whipple 194-465, Shirley Pointer 190-475, Donna Mieczkowski 177-492, Bob Kemp 200-530, Bill Avery 218-532, John Hilyak 205-507, Bruce Moquin 201-545, Lanny DeLisle 205, Vaughn Sherwood 217-550, Eric Temple 219-554, Larry Curti 221-537, Don Dorman 200-519, Carl Lopak 130, Walt DeLisle 506, Nelson Walsh 502.

BENEFIT GAME - A benefit basketball game between the Hartford Knights football team and the faculty of Manchester High will be held Friday evening, April 5, at Clarke Arena.

This game will benefit the scholarship fund of the Future Business Leaders of America Club at the high school. Tickets for the event are $1.

Biggest Challenge Ever Faces NFL After Miami Stars Plan to Defect

TORONTO, Ont., (UPI) — The three Miami Dolphin stars who have signed for a total of $3 million to jump to the new World Football League think other National Football League stars may follow their example.

One of the first could be their Miami teammate, star tackle Manny Fernandez.

Linesman Larry Csonka, who signed with the Toronto Northern along with running back Jim Kick and pass-catcher Phil Paul Warfield, said he has talked with Fernandez, who has an offer from Portland of the WFL, and found Fernandez "very interested" in jumping.

And Warfield predicted, "Our signing will have a bearing on what others will do it and when they are asked to jump."

The triple signing, the most prestigious step taken by the new league in the biggest challenge to the old established National Football League since the NFL merged with the old American Football League, was disclosed Sunday.

Exact details of the contracts, which call for the trio to play for the Dolphins this year under the options in their Dolphin contracts and then come here in 1975, were not revealed. However, it was disclosed the package breaks down to roughly $1 million per year to be divided in an undisclosed manner among the three.

The signings followed conferences here among Edward Keating, who represented the three players, and Toronto owners John Bassett and H. A. Stallway.

Csonka, who was getting about $60,000 (from Miami), explained that the Northern offered the trio "more than we anticipated...even more than we had asked for." But he added that the financial consideration was not the only reason for jumping.

"Money isn't always the only consideration," said the 27-year-old fullback who was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Dolphins' Super Bowl victory in January. "In this case, it is one of the considerations, of course. But there are others which I do not wish to discuss."

The reaction south of the border was mixed. In Miami, the Dolphins reacted bitterly and talked of possible court action. In New York, a top NFL official more coolly expressed "disappointment."

"We were torpedoed," declared Dolphin owner Joe Robbie in Miami. "We're going to completely investigate our legal rights in a situation where three of our players have signed contracts while still under contract to us."

Robbie said said agent Keating had given him an ultimatum at midday. He said Keating told him to make them an offer of $3.5 million to stay in Miami and to deposit $5 million of that in a bank with a no-cut, no-trade contract and the total payable to the players' heirs if anything happened to them.

Robbie said he turned that down flat, and added, "Have you ever been asked to put $3 million in the bank as the price of continuing the conversation?"

In New York, Jim Kensil, executive director of the NFL and chief aide to NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, said the players' decision to jump was "their business" but that he was "disappointed" such high quality players "would so abruptly leave those who have invested so much in them."

In Hollywood, Fla., Dolphins coach Don Shula, for whom the three players expressed great personal loyalty, said he was surprised because he didn't think the trio was going to come to a decision so quickly.

Shula said he asked the three players to go to Toronto and "listen to what the people in Toronto had to say." He added, "I thought they were going up there to do that and then they would give the Miami Dolphins a chance to negotiate face to face. I'm disappointed that's not the way it happened."

Csonka said his other reasons for wanting to jump definitely did not include the Miami fans, who are "super," or Shula.

"I'd love to play football for him (Shula) the rest of my life," Csonka said, "but sometimes the things you want to do most simply aren't in the cards. As I've said, there are a lot of factors involved."

The big federal government one major obstacle here in Canada. The deal faces already has expressed its opposition to a WFL team in Canada. Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde has repeatedly said he will attempt to keep the WFL out of the country on the grounds it could damage the Canadian Football League.

Bassett has said that if his team cannot play in Toronto, it will move to a city in the United States. Csonka, Kick and Warfield will then join the team wherever it is located.

Bassett added he hoped the signing would influence the government to change its stand on the WFL.

The Northern had made no secret they intended to go all out to get the three Miami stars, announcing in advance the WFL draft that they would zero in on them, then following through by picking them, and now putting together the big money package.

Leo Cahill, general manager of the Northern, indicated that other WFL clubs would pay part of the cost of this signing, a huge prestige boost for the whole league, but did not indicate how much.

Csonka, rated the top fullback in the NFL at the present time, is a former Syracuse University All-America who has starred for six seasons with the Dolphins. In 1971 and 1972 he became the sixth man in NFL history to gain more than 1,000 yards on the ground for two straight seasons.

Kick, 27, is close to Csonka off the field and the two are nicknamed in Miami, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." Kick, however, often has complained about not being played enough by Shula. Like Csonka, Kick, from Paterson, N. J., has been with the Dolphins for six seasons.

Warfield, at 31 the oldest of the trio, formerly starred for the Cleveland Browns before coming to the Dolphins where he continued to be rated as one of the top wide receivers in pro football.

In Florida, Shula said he didn't know what having the three stars on his squad this season with the knowledge they were jumping to a new league would mean to the Dolphins' spirit and performance.

"This is a situation that we just haven't faced before," Shula said.

It's a statement that could be applied to the whole NFL.

Wooden to Return To UCLA Campus

ATLANTA (UPI) — Veteran basketball Coach John Wooden said Sunday he definitely would return to UCLA next season and would have a good team despite losing center Bill Walton and five other seniors.

Wooden answered questions before the Atlanta Trip Off Club where he accepted the James Naismith trophy for his All-America center Bill Walton.

Walton, who missed the trophy, was voted the outstanding basketball player in the country by United Press International for an unprecedented third straight time.

Wooden told the group he did not want to make alibis for Walton's absence but he did want to apologize for him not being there.

"It had nothing to do with our defeat (in the NCAA tournament)," Wooden said. "So many people are after him that he told me before the tournament he was going to the mountains to get away from everybody."

Wooden, the nation's winningest basketball coach, said there had been speculation this season by persons not connected with UCLA that he might retire.

"After our loss there might be some people connected with UCLA who might want me retired," he joked, "but I definitely expect to be back at UCLA next year. My wife told me she wants me to be back, and generally speaking I try to follow her desires."

"We graduate six seniors, and I'm proud of that. I'm proud of our players who have become lawyers, teachers and successful in other professions," he said. "That's the purpose of being in college, not to become professional basketball players."

"We have some good youngsters. We expect to have a good team next year and a very exceptional team the year after next," Wooden said.

Wooden, who has coached at UCLA 26 years, said he would like to see three rule changes. "I'd like to see a 30-second clock put in. I'd like to eliminate all jump balls and I'd like to do away with offensive rebound baskets."

Wooden said he believed there is much less cheating in recruiting than is generally believed. "It's always easy to say he must have cheated when some coach gets a player you wanted," he said.

Wooden said the greatest requisite for a successful coach was patience. "One of the weaknesses of most young coaches is that they expect too much too soon," he said.

Wooden said this year's UCLA team which lost in the semi-finals of the national tournament to North Carolina State did not have the desire of the past two years.

"I told them when they were sophomores they were a delight to work with, that it would not be so easy the next year and when they were seniors they would be insufferable. They weren't as hungry and I didn't motivate them."

Faulty Parachute Caused Car Death

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — A faulty parachute led to a weekend drag racing accident that killed veteran driver Dave Anderson of Minneapolis and injured two mechanics.

Anderson's dragster went out of control at 248 miles per hour Saturday during qualifying runs for the $100,000 Southern National Drag Race Championship.

The 761-pound car struck David Oxendine, 23, of Charlotte and Red Jackson, 26, of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and then smashed into a concrete retaining wall.

Another mechanic, Charles Raugh, 36, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was treated for burns at Cabarrus County Hospital.

Anderson was making a qualifying run for the championship, inaugural event of the 1974 International Hot Rod Association season.

Kennedy Safford of Chicago was victorious in the Funny Car Division, Dale Funk of Radcliff, Ky., in the Top Fuel Division and Wayne Gapp of Lovonia, Mich., in the pro Stock Division Sunday.

Foreman Continues Unwanted Vacation

CARACAS (UPI) — Undefeated heavyweight champion George Foreman continued his unwanted Venezuelan vacation today while lawyers tried to untangle his tax problems resulting from last Tuesday's successful title defense against Ken Norton.

Foreman is not permitted to leave Venezuela until his tax problems are resolved to the satisfaction of local authorities.

The champion's manager-trainer, Dick Sadler, said he hoped the necessary tax clearance could be obtained in time for Foreman to catch a late afternoon flight to the United States.

Although Sadler first insisted Foreman would not pay any Venezuelan income tax, the champion Friday put up $150,000 of his own money to cover taxes on his purse money of $700,000, while bond of $150,000 was posted to cover tax on revenue from ancillary rights.

Sadler maintained Foreman's contract with Video Techniques, Inc., of New York, co-promoters of the March 26 fight, called for a tax free purse.

Norton, who was knocked out in the second round, used a similar formula to satisfy the income tax department — $40,000 in cash to cover his $200,000 purse plus a $40,000 bond against taxes on ancillary earnings. Norton left Saturday.

Both camps have blamed local promoter Alejandro Romero, a song writer, for their troubles. They maintain Romero told them on the day of the fight that the tax question had been resolved in their favor and they would be free to leave without penalty.

Romero denies he gave the fighters any such undertaking.

Senior Softball Play Set for Girls 13-16

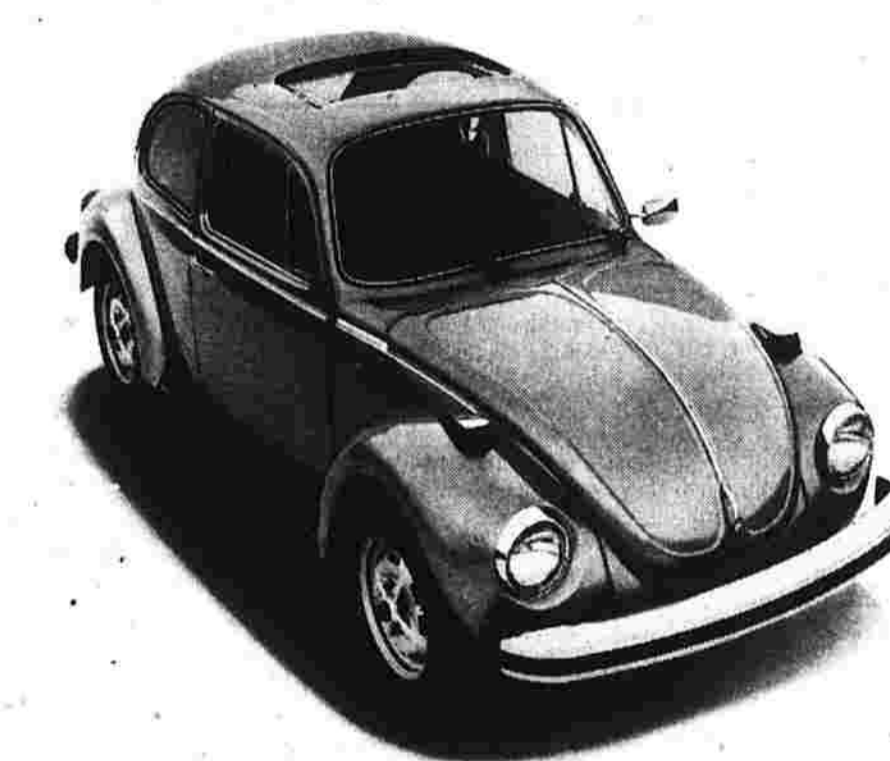

Girls who wish to play softball this summer will now have a choice between the town sponsored Felice League and the newly formed Senior Softball League.

The new league is for girls ages 13 through 16 who wish to play something other than slo-pitch softball.

Differences girls can expect in this league will be bunting, stealing, no-arc picking, no tryouts, and the guarantee that each girl who registers will be assigned to a team and play a minimum of three innings in every game.

According to David Schwartz, who will direct play, arrangements for sponsors, equipment, schedules and playing fields have already been completed. All that is needed now is a good turnout at registration which will be held Saturday April 6 and Saturday April 13 between 10 and noon and 1 and 3, next to the high school athletic field off Brookfield St. An insurance fee of $3 will be charged.

Sunny days are here again.

Celebrate the return of Spring. We have a new Bug with a metallic gold finish brighter than butter on the hearts of daisies. It has a sunroof to let in the sunshine and the scent of a grassy world. There's a touch of the wild in the leatherette corduroy upholstery. And a touch of the wind in its racing type wheels.

For the touch of your hands, there's a covered steering wheel and special sunburst shift knobs.

The Sun Bug — it's carefree as a May morning. And it doesn't tear gas. We've only made a few of these golden cars. If you don't buy one now, you may never get another chance for a place in the sun.

Oil Crisis Hits Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American officials believe the uneasy Middle East truce will mean a reduction in the amount of Arab oil flowing to the Soviet Union, with the eastern European satellites bearing the brunt of the cutbacks.

Reports reaching Washington indicate that Moscow already is neither as willing nor able as in the past to supply crude oil to its satellites. As a result, Bulgaria, Hungary and Poland recently have made substantial purchases of Libyan petroleum at skyrocketing auction prices.

Radio Budapest broadcasts monitored here said Poland bought one million metric tons of Libyan crude oil at $10 to $20 a barrel — nearly triple the already inflated "posted price" demanded by the Arab states.

Hungary and Bulgaria were said to have purchased 500 thousand metric tons each from Tripoli at equally high prices.

Even those East European nations not buying Libyan oil are being hit by recent sharp increases in posted prices because their purchase agreements call for payment in goods. This means the eastern Europeans are getting less for their exchange.

U.S. officials estimate that Russia will increase oil production from 430 million tons last year to about 474 million tons in 1975, with about 18 million tons being earmarked for export. Of this, about 50 million tons would go to its eastern European allies.

These officials are convinced that Russia will increase oil production from 430 million tons last year to about 474 million tons in 1975, with about 18 million tons being earmarked for export.

The Week In Review

WASHINGTON — Sen. Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee, the ranking Republican on the Senate Watergate Committee, urged President Nixon to turn over all "relevant" tape recordings and documents to the House Judiciary Committee, which is deliberating the President's possible impeachment.

WASHINGTON — The House voted to prohibit federal courts from ordering long-distance busing of children as a means of ending school segregation.

WASHINGTON — A Watergate grand jury's secret report dealing with President Nixon was sent to the impeachment investigators in the House.

WASHINGTON — The House and Senate passed a new minimum wage bill and sent it to President Nixon for signature. It set a new rate of $2.30 an hour and added minimum wage security for 10 million workers not previously covered by the law.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — A report on political spending by Associated Milk Producers, Inc., prepared at the request of its own officers, indicates general irregularities involving both Republicans and Democrats over a long period.

NEW YORK — John W. Dean III, former White House counsel to President Nixon, testified that John Mitchell and Maurice Stans, former Cabinet officers, were totally involved in efforts to keep Robert Vesco's financial affairs secret at least until after the President's re-election.

GRACEHAM, Md. — Most of the 10-million birds of Graceham flew away following five days of noise bombardment of their pine forest roost. But officials said they didn't know if the birds had been killed or just dispersed around the countryside in smaller flocks.

PARIS — The French government announced it will no longer cover the operating deficit of the luxury liner France, whose first-class dining room has been billed as "the best restaurant in the world." Maritime sources said this means the ship will be taken out of service.

WASHINGTON — The White House said it was possible that some of the 42 tape recordings sought by the House Judiciary Committee might not exist. "It would depend on where the conversations took place," said a spokesman.

Class of 1949 Seeks Missing Classmates

Manchester High School's class of 1949 will conduct its 25th reunion May 11 at the Colony Room in Talcottville, N.H.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of these classmates is asked to contact Barbara Robinson, 20 Wolcott Lane, Vernon, Tel. 675-6262, so that invitations may be sent.

Fastidious cannibals on the Fiji Islands once ate with human flesh with the fingers would make them ill.

Democrats Becoming Political Captives of Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats, as well as Republicans, are becoming political captives of Watergate.

Whether Democratic leaders have any real hope or intention of stemming this tide is questionable. But publicly and privately, they warn that Watergate could be a weak political crutch for Democratic candidates.

It was the day a grand jury indicted seven former associates of President Nixon on charges of a Watergate coverup.

Democrats for not applauding quickly explained that the "smiles were not for the tragedy but for the hope that it would never happen again."

Then in Michigan, Watergate and Nixon were made the key issues by the Democrats and that district seat formerly held by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, which hadn't gone Democratic in 60 years, was lost to the GOP.

The day after the surprise Michigan victory, Democratic campaigns for special elections in Ohio and California changed noticeably. There was a stepped up emphasis on sound bites and sound bites.

While joining in raising caution lights to Democratic inaction, the party also is trying to distance itself from the Watergate scandal.

Brennan Foresees Unemployment Drop
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter Brennan believes there will soon be a substantial reduction in unemployment that was caused by the energy shortage. Reporting to Congress, he said as many as 200,000 workers, most of them in the service station and airline industries, lost jobs between November and February as a direct result of the energy crisis. Nearly 300,000 others were laid off in industries indirectly affected by the shortage, Brennan said. These included workers in the automobile, aircraft, boatbuilding and recreation industries. Despite these job losses, the nation's unemployment rate in February remained at 5.2 per cent, the same as in January, Brennan said. The overall employment level and labor force remained stable, he added. The report indicated that the impact of energy-related unemployment had shifted from New York, Ohio, Indiana and Kansas to Michigan, apparently moving from industries supplying the auto industry to the auto industry itself, the report said. Brennan made three recommendations to Congress: — Prompt action on appropriations to provide public service employment. — And enactment of a proposal now before Congress to help manage and develop the nation's energy resources.
