Taxpayers Cautioned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With the deadline just four days away, the U.S. Postal Service has issued a word of caution to taxpayers who wait until the last minute to send in their federal income tax returns.

Those taxpayers who choose to delay mailing their returns until April 15 should bear in mind that most post offices are unmanned for several hours after midnight, the postal service said in a statement.

That means, for example, that a tax return slipped into a post office collection box too late for a pickup on April 15 will be postmarked April 16, the statement said.

The Postal Service said that persons who must wait, for some reason, to the last minute should familiarize themselves with mail collection times to avoid a panic trip to the post office branch, which already may be closed.

Christian Pilgrims Re-Enact Crucifixion in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (UPI)—About 3,000 Christian pilgrims chanting prayers and singing hymns wound through the old city's narrow Via Dolorosa today, re-enacting the crucifixion of Jesus Christ almost 2,000 years ago.

The pilgrims, many of them carrying wooden crosses on their shoulders, stopped at each of the 14 stations along the way where tradition says Christ stopped to rest on his way to Mount Calvary. They sang and prayed in English, French, Arabic and Greek as they moved toward the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, focus of the Good Friday and Easter Sunday services.

As it happens every four years, the western and eastern Christian churches observed Good Friday on the same day. The Eastern churches, including Greek and Armenian Orthodox and Egyptian Coptic, follow a different calendar and usually celebrate Holy Week services on different dates.

Crowds lining the Via Dolorosa to see the processions were about half the size of those last year. There was a similar drop in attendance at December's Christmas services in nearby Bethlehem and city officials attributed it at the time to tension following the October Middle East war.

Most of the pilgrims were Roman Catholic but there were some Protestant groups singing hymns in English. As they walked to each station of the cross, ritual incense suffused the clear, warm air of this hilltop city.

"It's a great honor to be here on a day like this," said Conrad Phaneuf of Erie, Pa. "It's not very uncomfortable to be here in this tension since I've been here before but I'm not 100 per cent comfortable."

The Good Friday processions followed Thursday's ritual washing of the feet by the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox prelates inside the church, a ceremony symbolizing Christ's washing of the feet of his disciples on Holy Thursday.

There were also processions around Mount Zion, site of the Last Supper, and to the Garden of Gethsemane.

Security was tight, as is usual during the Holy Week services. Israeli soldiers carrying machine guns walked through the crowds of pilgrims.

Holy Week began last Sunday, when palm-carrying pilgrims from church societies around the world marched to St. Stephen's Gate, at the walls surrounding Jerusalem's old city section. The procession symbolized Christ's entrance to Jerusalem.

House Committee Issues Subpoena It May Be Powerless to Enforce

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Judiciary Committee today issued a subpoena to President Nixon to deliver the 41 Watergate tapes it has subpoenaed from him.

The panel's artillery in this new conflict is limited to the moral authority of the House, the weight of public opinion and the message from Republicans manifested in the bipartisan 83-17 vote by which the historic subpoena was approved Thursday.

The subpoena demands that Nixon deliver 41 tapes by 10 a.m. EDT April 25 for use as potential evidence in impeaching him and putting him on trial in the Senate.

His refusal to comply could itself become an impeachable offense, and the House is likely to treat it as one.

The White House left open the question of whether Nixon would voluntarily comply with the subpoena.

"We will answer this communication and previous ones from the committee at the end of the Easter vacation (April 22)," Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary, said.

"The answer we will give will be comprehensive and conclusive," Nixon has managed through court maneuvering to avoid complying with two previous subpoenas which were issued by the Senate Watergate committee in pursuit of much of the same material.

But the House committee draws its authority to judge a president's conduct directly from the Constitution and considers itself in a stronger position than were the investigation senators last summer.

A last-minute effort Thursday by James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, to avert a subpoena by promising to surrender some but not all of the requested tapes failed.

St. Clair's offer would have given the committee tapes of conversations between Nixon and his aides recorded in February, March and April, 1973.

White House officials had expressed optimism as recently as last weekend about chances of progress.

Final SALT Agreement Ruled Out for This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today ruled out any chance of final agreement this year on the Soviet Union this year on limiting nuclear strategic arms of the two superpowers.

Kissinger was questioned by reporters as he escorted Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy to his limousine following a breakfast meeting.

Asked about the outlook for a permanent agreement in Strategic Arms Limitation

Talks (SALT), Kissinger replied: "We will not have a permanent agreement this year. Whether there can be an agreement on part of it really is not clear yet."

"We are in the process of discussing it and we have to formulate some proposals now in response to the Soviet proposals and then we will know."

Kissinger had hoped to gain a SALT breakthrough with the Soviets in a recent trip to Moscow. He had gone there to lay plans for President Nixon's expected summit trip to the Soviet capital, at which the President had hoped to conclude another phase of arms accords.

The Kissinger trip was unsuccessful from the standpoint of a breakthrough although White House officials had expressed optimism as recently as last weekend about chances of progress.

Israel Blames Massacre of 18 On Lebanese Government

United Press International Israelis gathered to bury their dead beneath the brush-covered hills of the Galilee today and angrily blamed neighboring Lebanon for the Arab guerrilla slaying of 18 men, women and children at the town of Qiryat Shmona.

"The Lebanese government must know that we regard it and its citizens who are aiding the terrorists responsible for the massacre," Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said.

Lebanese Premier Takiyeddin Solh, fearing retaliation, met in Beirut with envoys of the United States, Soviet Union, China, France and Britain to warn of "aggressive intentions" by Israel.

A three-man guerrilla squad, which Israel said came from Lebanon, ran through two apartment buildings in the northern Galilee town Thursday morning, killing residents who answered knocks on their doors.

Three townsmen, five women, eight children and two soldiers were slain by bazooka, submachine gun and grenade fire. Sixteen other Israelis were wounded.

The guerrillas died in a blast of explosives after holding off Israeli troops for 4 1/2 hours from a four-story apartment in the town of 18,000 persons a mile-and-a-half from the Lebanese border.

A snuff commando group calling itself the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command said it staged the raid to bid to free 100 guerrillas from Israeli jails.

A day after Israeli commandos gunned down three top Palestinian guerrilla leaders in their Beirut homes in retaliation for terrorist attacks.

Mrs. Meir, who resigned Thursday but agreed to stay on until her successor was picked, told the Knesset (parliament) the attack was "assassination for assassination's sake."

Information Minister Shimon Peres said Israel "shall not hesitate to take the urgent measures necessary, both for our defense and to prevent murderous attacks."

Israeli Ambassador Josef Teboah lodged a formal protest at the United Nations, calling the attack a "barbaric atrocity."

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said he "deeply deplores the tragic incident" and said such attacks could undermine Middle East peace efforts.

On the northern cease-fire lines, Syrian and Israeli troops exchanged artillery and tank fire Thursday along the Golan Heights for the 31st consecutive day.

Tentative Date Set For Watergate Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal judge has set June 17-18 two days to the day after the 1972 Watergate burglary—for the beginning of the conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman and five others involved in the Ellsberg break-in.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell Thursday said in a brief order the trial date may be changed pending motions by some defendants for separate trials.

Charged in the case with Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former domestic affairs adviser, are Charles Colson, former Special White House Counsel; convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy; and three Cuban Americans, Felipe De-Deigo, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio Martinez.

The indictment charges they conspired to violate the civil liberties of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, the Beverly Hills psychiatrist who once treated Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, Ellsberg's man who made public the "Pentagon Papers" on Vietnam. Judge Barrington Parker said the trial would begin immediately after a May 13 hearing and ruling on a motion to move the trial to California. Reinecke is a leading Republican contender for governor in the primary.

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter Jr., who lied to investigators about Watergate out of loyalty to Nixon and to his friends, was sentenced Thursday to 30 days in prison. Porter, who could have received a maximum of five years in jail, said he thought the sentence by U.S. District Court Judge William E. Bryant was "very, very fair."

Defense and prosecution attorneys in the New York City conspiracy trial of former cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans met in private Thursday with U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Garlanti. Presumably the discussion centered on the content of Garlanti's instructions to the jury when the trial winds up, probably late next week.

Lawmakers Seek to Tighten Control Over State Spending

HARTFORD (UPI)—Risking a gubernatorial veto, the legislative Appropriations Committee is recommending passage of bills giving lawmakers more power over spending.

The issue of financial authority has been a long-standing dispute between Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, now a lame duck executive, and legislative leaders of his own Republican party and the opposition Democrats.

Lawmakers already have shown some signs of increased independence with their approval of a $1.38 billion budget for the coming fiscal year.

The legislative budget exceeded Meskill's recommended spending plan by about $60 million.

The Republican governor set forth his spending priorities in February and announced in March he would not seek a second four-year term as Connecticut's chief executive.

The controversial legislation approved Thursday would: • Replace the governor's executive appointed majority on the State Bond Commission and Finance Advisory Committee with a legislative majority; • Require the governor to issue monthly reports on the state's fiscal condition.

Meskill already has expressed disapproval over the legislation which was only under consideration at the time of his veto threat earlier this week.

He said monthly reports would be "ally" but would sign the measure to if it were amended to require only quarterly reports.

Committee co-chairman Sen. Nicholas A. Lenge, R-West Hartford, acknowledged Thursday the committee action puts the legislature on a collision course with Meskill, but suggested Meskill may have a change of heart.

"After all," Lenge said, "his statements were only to the press. That is not an official statement."

If the governor vetoes the bills anyway, the legislature might be inclined to override the veto, Lenge said.

Lawmakers, he said, "know the importance of balance and cooperation" between themselves and the executive and might have the commitment to see this is done," he said.

Action on the controversial bills could come early next week.

Scene of Terrorist Slayings

Old Science Whimsey Now Serious Proposals

PARIS (UPI) — They're talking about towing icebergs to the hot countries again. And hanging windmills in the sky. Not to mention filtering water through burnt rice husks. What was once taken for scientific whimsy is now getting serious consideration by scientists pondering problems of dwindling energy and growing pollution.

The idea of hauling icebergs north from Antarctica was suggested 25 years ago by John Isaacs, an American oceanographer, and vastly ridiculed. At least two scientists believe it's not a laughing matter any more.

Dr. Gerrit H. Toebes and R.A. Ramachandra Rao said in a paper presented at a recent U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) meeting here: "Given an economical solution to some major engineering problems, it will be possible to supply coastal sites in arid parts of Australia and western South America with iceberg water."

Windmills is that the wind does not blow all the time on the earth's surface. But if they were hanging from balloons up where it never stops blowing... "Wind-powered generators operating in the troposphere (just below the stratosphere) are likely to be developed in the future," the Russian said. "These are devices placed at heights of from five to 7.5 miles where the jet streams are to be found, air currents of constant speed and direction moving three to seven times faster than those close to earth." Conceding many problems of aerodynamics are yet to be solved, the scientists asserted. "The widespread introduction of wind-powered generators and their mass production in thousands, is planned for the end of the seventies."

For many years bicycle riding was very popular for pleasure as well as business and convenience. Often groups would spend all day Sunday for a trip to Springfield before lunch and home after it. Every year Manchester had a 20-mile road race. It was quite popular and drew many spectators and spectators from out-of-town.

The starting and finish line was at Park St. The course went down Main to Charter Oak Grove, up Oak Grove to Porter, thence to E. Center and Main St. and south to the finish. It was supposed to be four miles around and five circuits completed the race.

Some of the riders with the biggest handicaps would start before the "scratch men" were given the gun to start. Prizes were given for the first few finishers also for the few making the best time against the stop watches.

Walter Luettgen and a fellow named Alexander were always the scratch men and were so well matched that they were in a very close race. It was a good 50/50 bet on them. They always took the first two time prizes which were the best in the prize list. Of course, it was not possible for them to come in first in place because some of the handicaps were so large.

There was a narrow wooden bridge at Charter Oak and Autumn Sts. that could only be used by slowing down a lot. Some riders took the chance of plowing through the brook where there was a place for horses and wagons to go to the horses could drink and the wheel felloes got soaked up to make the steel rims tight.

Most fellows made it without losing much speed but a few were thrown by the loose stones in the brook and were eliminated by injury to themselves or damage to their mount.

Encouraged by his racing popularity in town, Luettgen started a bicycle sales and repair shop in the southeast corner of the House & Hale building basement and enjoyed good success for years. When he gave up his business he became a state game warden.

Maurice Madden was also a good racer but was given the handicap over those two scratch starters. He also had a bicycle sales and service store in the old Cheney block at Main and Charter Oak.

The town farm was where Highland St. turned to become Campmeeting Rd., east of Highland Park. The old highway has crossed over the site. One of the inmates was a man named John Cowan, a big man physically. He used to walk every day down town and back in the forenoon and again in the afternoon.

Maurice reacted in a way that was typical of all the boys in that Madden family. He felt sorry for old John with those long wags so he gave him a good bicycle. John continued to make his regular two trips a day with his bike, but always

Walking, and pushing the wheel. When asked, "Why don't you get on and ride, John?" his answer was always the same: "I can't today, I'm in a hurry."

After the 20-mile race was finished the "slow race" would start from the Center and end at Park St. The man that used the most time making the trip got the prize.

Rules included: Rider must not touch the ground, must not stop moving, and must follow an approximately straight line. Tom Raby always won. Later Tom was one of the first motorcycle riders in Manchester.

Because school started at 9 o'clock, O.C. did errands in Hartford for Main St. stores before going to school in the morning. He had a good bike then and the L.A.W. wheel part was good, too. It was easy because the store he went to opened at 7 a.m. and he would be waiting when the man came to open up.

Hebron Kindergarten Visits To be Reversed

NANCY DRINKUTH Correspondent 228-5970
A proposal for a new type of kindergarten visitation day was discussed at the Board of Education meeting Thursday night. The new program will be used at the Hebron Elementary School this spring.

The kindergarten visitation will be spread through four days June 4, 5, 6 and 7, rather than one day. Children will come to the regular kindergarten class with their parents.

In the past regular kindergarten classes were cancelled on the day of the visit and all children enrolled for the next year came to school at once. Parents were not included in the visit.

It is felt that the new plan which includes the parents will help the children in classroom adjustment and not be so threatening as having all the new children coming at once. On the fourth afternoon, at a kindergarten mother's tea, all parents will be invited to meet with the classroom teachers, art teacher, physical education teacher and nurse to hear about the programs available to their youngsters.

Board members asked Principal Paul White to report to them concerning how the new program is received by both parents and children.

Transportation The Board received a request from the Queen family of Carriage Dr. asking for bus service on their road now that the gas situation has eased somewhat. The motion is to resume this service failed for lack of a second.

The motion to provide bus service on Buck Rd. as requested by the Pellissier family also did not receive a second. Other Bus Considerations Principal Paul White who is in charge of all transportation setting that to date the school board "has not admitted it made a hearing by the Board of Education for the board to explain its procedure in reaching decisions on what teachers get tenure."

Mrs. Kornfield said she was protesting what she regarded as the hasty action of the school board members in agreeing to drop six teachers about to be eligible for tenure next year upon the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Hardy.

Gilead Ralph Saccuzzo, principal of the Gilead Hill School, told the Board of Education about the Career Day which was held recently for all sixth graders. He praised the Junior Women's Club for its sponsorship of the event and said that Career Day would become a part of the sixth grade program.

He also reports two maintenance problems at Gilead. During recent rain storms the roof, which was repaired extensively last year, began to leak again. Saccuzzo said that he had contacted Eagle Roofing about the job and has not heard anything from the firm yet.

The other problem is poor drainage of the outside play area. In a spot under the swings there has been considerable erosion. This problem has been referred to First Selectman Alan Field for his opinion.

Coventry Mrs. Kornfield Petitions Over Teacher Issue

A resident, Roslyn Kornfield is circulating a petition calling for a hearing by the Board of Education for the board to explain its procedure in reaching decisions on what teachers get tenure.

Mrs. Kornfield said she was protesting what she regarded as the hasty action of the school board members in agreeing to drop six teachers about to be eligible for tenure next year upon the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Hardy.

Of the six teachers, two were reinstated after hearing and another was reinstated by the board on the recommendation of the administrator. Of the six, four were from Coventry Grammar School and three of these teachers have been reinstated.

Mrs. Kornfield describes the original procedure taken by the board as "improper and asks that steps be taken to prevent a recurrence."

Mrs. Kornfield said "the school board received the recommendation from the administrator to drop the six teachers just three days before the March 1 deadline when teachers whose contracts are not to be renewed must be notified."

A 'Veto-Proof' Congress

The call has gone out from Democratic leaders and is being echoed by certain labor leaders for a "veto-proof" Congress.

As we interpret this, it means electing congressmen who will lock-step with present Democratic incumbents who have had some of their pet projects vetoed by the President and who were then unable to persuade the necessary two-thirds of their colleagues to override the veto.

This call for a "veto-proof" Congress is a confession of leadership failure on the part of the Democrats who have majority control in both the House and Senate.

The reason many vetoes have been sustained is not because there have been too many Republicans in either chamber but because many Democrats could not go along with their leadership in a veto showdown. We think leadership is needed. We think the Congress can and should provide it. But we think true leadership is more than mere numbers.

Sound legislation, rationally presented, debated and enacted, can and does survive the veto power of the President.

In most instances where the President has used the veto, the major portion of the legislation in question was not the issue. Many of these bills were objectionable to the President because of non-related amendments attached to the legislation. Several major bills have become law with the President's signature once these riders were dropped.

The question before the electorate is, or at least it should be, not a matter of packing the Congress with more Democrats just because they are Democrats or more Republicans just because they are Republicans. The answer is in electing men and women who will represent the interests of their constituents, even if it means saying no to them on occasion.

If there is any one reason why Congress has not been able to rise to its proper role in our government it is its failure to initiate actions that are overwhelmingly supported by its own membership.

No, we don't need a "veto-proof" Congress. We do need one that will stand on its own two feet for the good of the whole country. We don't really care if a congressman is pro-labor, pro-business, pro-black, pro-white as long as he is pro-American first. And until the Congress can rise above its factional loyalties, it can never be truly "veto-proof" for it is factionalization in both parties which has made the veto the potent tool it is. This reaffirms, once again, the wisdom of our Founding Fathers in granting the President veto power.

Keep It 55

Although truckers don't like it, and even though some motorists feel they are crawling along at a snail's pace, evidence is mounting that the 55 mile per hour speed limit is saving lives and proving with no uncertainty that speed does kill.

Reports from states throughout the nation show a decline in the highway fatality rate since the energy-conservation lower speed limit was imposed.

We are concerned that pressures will mount, now that gasoline supplies seem to be more plentiful, to raise the speed limit again.

From our point of view, the time which could be saved by a higher speed limit for the average motorist is so small it is hardly worth the risk. Truckers claim the slower limit is cutting their income by slowing them down. But before pushing the panic button about what a higher freight rate might do to our budget, we'd like to see if this added cost wouldn't be offset to a large degree by lower auto insurance rates because our highways are safer at 55 miles per hour.

Then too, if the speed limit is raised, you can bet your last dollar the time you save will be spent in a gasoline line.

The Almanac

United Press International Today is Friday, April 12, the 102nd day of 1974 with 263 to follow.

The moon is between full and the last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

Also on this day in history: In 1861, the Civil War began when Confederate troops opened fire on Fort Sumter, S.C.

In 1945, President Franklin D. Roosevelt died at Warm Springs, Ga. About three hours later, Vice President Harry Truman was sworn in as chief executive.

In 1954, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, referred to as "the father of the atom bomb," was suspended by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission as a possible security risk.

In 1961, Russia launched a man into space. He became the first human to orbit the Earth and return safely.

A thought for the day: American writer George Curtis said, "Imagination is as good as many voyages... and how much cheaper!"

And when the Roman officer standing beside his cross saw how He dismissed His spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

Andrew Tully
Some Men Always Go In Harm's Way

By HOLMES ALEXANDER
WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Now, just relax," said Dr. Clarence W. Couchmaster, who is master of the psychiatric clinic, "My first question is — what is your name?"

"It would be the easy and popular thing to tell you who I am. But that would violate executive privilege and national security. I shall simply say — I am not a crook."

"Has anybody called you a crook?"

"No to my face. But, then, I lead a rather sheltered life. The reason I'm on your couch, Dr. Couchmaster, is hardly anybody understands me, and I'm not sure I understand myself. I'm always going in harm's way."

"In harm's way? You seek danger? You live recklessly?"

"Yes, that's it. Just about every trouble I get into is of my own choosing. To begin with, I chose a perilous profession, and barely four months before my birth, former President Theodore Roosevelt, in October 1912, was shot in the chest while campaigning for the presidency. If there's such a thing as "Well, sir, let's suppose that you attained your presidential ambition. Do you believe that you would have observed prudence in the conduct of office?"

"Dr. Couchmaster, I have reasons to doubt it. I truly believe I would have rendered myself an accident prone. For example, what would be more reckless than to install listening devices in the private offices of the White House? I would have known at the time that I could easily become the limer bit. What if some aide of mine had been questioned under oath before somebody like Sen. Sam Ervin, and had been forced to reveal that the Oval Office was bugged? What if various confidential informants and couriers had demanded those self-incriminating tapes? Wouldn't I have been asked for something worse than death, the disgrace and dishonor which are the tragedy of those who fall from high places?"

"But, sir, any psychiatrist would recognize these as acts of self-destruction."

"I'm not dumb, Dr. Couchmaster, but it just seems I don't give a damn. I don't know the name of caution. Had I achieved my loftiest ambitions, with a salary of $200,000 a year and a generous expense account, I think I would have courted the danger of claiming extravagant tax deductions, and promising Chairman Russell Ford for F&M Construction Inc., two-family dwelling at 153-155 Hill St., $27,000.

Wabreks Guest Speakers At MMH Auxiliary Event

Dr. Alan J. Wabrek, formerly of Manchester, and his wife, Lyn Wabrek, will be guest speakers at the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's annual luncheon meeting April 23 at The Colony restaurant in Talcottville.

The noon event will also feature Dr. R. Clay Burchell, director of obstetrics and gynecology at Hartford Hospital.

They will speak on "Sexual Therapy as a part of Medical Care."

The areas covered in their talks will include sexual counseling as a part of medical care, sexual difficulties couples may have, and what actions go on in counseling with the emphasis on "communication."

Dr. Wabrek, presently living in Hartford, graduated from Clark University, Worcester, Mass., and received his medical degree from Boston University School of Medicine in 1963. He interned at Beverly Hospital in Beverly, Mass., and served his residency at Hartford Hospital.

He was on the staff of the American Marriage Council, Philadelphia, Pa. in 1971-72, the Center for Study of Sex Education in Medicine, directed by Family Planning at the University of Pennsylvania from 1970-72, and director of the Long Island Jewish Medical Center from 1972-73.

Dr. Wabrek is now director of sexual therapy, department of obstetrics and gynecology, at Hartford Hospital and assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine. He is a member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors committee on training and standards, the American Medical Association, Board of Medical Examiners, American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and a Fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

She interned at the Long Island Jewish Medical Center from 1972-73. She is a member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors, the National Council on Family Relations, and the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Tickets for the event may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Charles Baxter, 34 O'Leary Dr., by April 20. The cost of the luncheon is $4.50.

"I will pay whatever tax may be due." "Of course I'd have known all the while that I was inviting personal and financial ruin, Dr. Couchmaster."

"And you cannot explain these destructive urges?"

"Not entirely. But there may be a clue in an interview given to a friendly columnist by Commerce Secretary Fred Dent. The Secretary indicated that it was my lifestyle as a national leader to take big risks in order to get big results."

"Always going in harm's way, is that it?"

"Yes, Dr. Couchmaster, and my remaining friends and loyalists are awfully worried about it."

"I don't believe the Constitution of the United States gives you the right to commit a crime if you want to, therefore, the Constitution does not guarantee you the right to maintain or violate the personality it forced on you in the first place — if and when the personality manifests, strongly antisocial behavior."

Unfortunately, for the one point of view, imprisonment is very often not enough. For the other, behavior modification snacks too much of something like Big Brother would like to use "for our own good."

In the meantime, while the experts argue, crime marches on.

Columbia Sign Regulations Effective May 1

VIRGINIA CARLSON
Correspondent
Tel. 228-9224

The Planning and Zoning Commission has adopted sign regulations for the second time. They are filed with the town clerk and amended effective at noon May 1.

The unanimous decision resulted following a public hearing Tuesday.

The purpose of the sign regulations is to conserve the natural landscaped areas of the town and to improve the vista from highways by restricting and regulating the construction of signs, members said.

The regulations allow for reasonable advertising while reducing the possibility of sign construction that may be unsightly, distracting or hazardous to traffic.

The section concerning non-conforming signs in RA 1 was unanimously voted to be deleted in its entirety. One section was altered to read, "When the business involved is interrupted for more than one year, all signs must be removed."

Another section deleted from the regulations had stated that within five years from the adoption of sign regulations, all non-conforming signs must be made to conform to the regulations. This section caused more discussion than any other among the PZC members. It was said that there were places of business in town that could not remove signs even if they wanted to. Leo Goldberg, a member of the commission, said he felt the grandfather clause used in other regulations could pertain to signs as well. He felt the five-year clause would cause expense to the town in court cases. He added he felt there were not that many signs in town which no longer conform.

Mrs. Frances Beckla, owner of the Landmark (now closed), through her attorney Charles Tarpinian, appealed the previous regulations based on the non-conforming sections. The Becklas had requested three sections be deleted.

Hockey Desert
The Columbia Amateur Hockey Association will serve dessert, milk and coffee April 19 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Congregational Church hall.

Mrs. Beverly Peplin and Mrs. Jan Gamache will handle the previous annual banquets because of the change in the seating capacity of the hall.

Another section deleted from the regulations had stated that within five years from the adoption of sign regulations, all non-conforming signs must be made to conform to the regulations. This section caused more discussion than any other among the PZC members. It was said to remove the chokes from artichokes by using a serrated and curved grapefruit knife.

Tolland County SNET Collecting Old Phone Books

Residents of Vernon, Tolland, and Ellington may turn in their old telephone books, as part of the ecology effort, April 15.

There will be a large metal bin provided at the business office of the Southern New England Telephone Co., 1 Court St., Rockville. It will remain there until April 23.

Large bulk collections should be taken to a tractor trailer located in front of the telephone company garage, New State Rd., Manchester.

Richard F. Rose, manager of the Rockville office, and chairman of the company's team spearheading this area's drive, said the success of the collection rests on the full cooperation of the community. He said, "It is virtually impossible for the phone company to recover these books by itself."

He explained there is the very real problem that if people do not care enough about the environment to turn in their books, there is no practical way of recovering them.

As customers must keep their current phone books until the new ones become effective on April 15, it would not be practical for the phone company to pick up the old ones when delivering the new ones, Rose said.

Once deposited in the bins the old books will be sent to a paper factory where they will be recycled into such forms as cardboard, roofing paper, and presboard.

During the open house, which operated all day Thursday and again Friday morning for 600 first grade children, and Thursday evening for 200 adults and upper-grade children, the greenhouse had been one popular center of attention.

Students had taken armfuls of branches from an English ivy vine which climbs up one side of the greenhouse and partly across the top, and each visitor received an ivy cutting in a plastic cup of rooting medium to take home.

Hydroponic beans One student project, growing bean plants in jars of what appeared to be blue water, demonstrated the hydroponic method of plant production. The jars were well filled with roots.

Healthy green beans and leaves grew above the jars, some showing buds. If the project is a complete success they will yield green beans.

The blue color came from a soluble fertilizer mixture which had been added to the water. A small pump, with a plastic tube reaching into each jar, provided a supply of oxygen as air bubbled through the water.

The bean seeds had been suspended with tape just at the surface of the water until the roots grew sufficiently to hold the plants erect. The quart size canning jars have been emptied occasionally and refilled with fresh water and nutrient solution.

Mr. Landers and I both recalled hearing about the hydroponic production of vegetables on a larger scale during World War II at some of the United States bases in the Pacific where vegetables grown in soil were unsafe because of pollution or where there was little soil of any kind.

The beans seem to have survived their exposure to the smoke, but damage is showing incipiently on some of the other plants as time passes. Geraniums, at first thought to have been nearly untouched, now show browning leaves.

"It takes a while," says Mr. Landers, "for air pollution injury to appear."

Smoky from Manchester Smokey, who said it was "hot" inside his shaggy suit, turned out to be a young man from Manchester, Jeff Bretteuse, now attending Manchester Community College after graduating last year at the high school. He is getting additional credits now to enter the University of Connecticut and intends to make a career in agriculture.

He introduced himself to the children and asked them to give him their names, offering his hairy paw for them to shake.

Helping visitors as a guide in the plant science area was Paul Rohack, now studying education at the University of Connecticut, after earning a degree in agriculture. He is assigned to Rockville as a practice teacher, an experience required for qualification as a teacher of vocational agriculture.

Paul is from Greenwich and found his fellow students at the University amazed that a resident of that urban and affluent community would choose this field. Paul agreed with my observation, however, that there is probably no better place in Connecticut for a greenhouse or nursery business, selling plants to homeowners. His uncle operates a garden center in Greenwich.

The practice teacher said he has learned a lot at Rockville. He was assigned first to teach a unit on small gasoline engines, about which he knew, he says, nothing. He learned along with the class to take an engine apart, put it together again and make it run.

He has worked also in plant science, which has been his major subject, but he found the high school students most intensely interested in mechanical matters. They were not always attentive in a plant science class but "in the shop you could hear a pin drop."

This beginning teacher finds work in vocational agriculture very rewarding and he likes particularly the opportunity to visit the students at their homes where he is expected to supervise their home projects. He thinks their participation in the Future Farmers of America organization, where each is expected to stand up and talk, at least occasionally, in a chapter meeting, is invaluable training.

Gardening

with FRANK ATWOOD

Smoky the Bear should have stayed over last weekend at Rockville High School, after helping to entertain first graders there on Thursday and Friday at the open house program of the Vocational Agriculture Center.

After Smokey and everyone else had left the building, Sunday a fire started in the shop, on the other side of the building. Heavy smoke was drawn through the greenhouse by ventilator fans which continued to operate and damaged many sensitive plants. Head teacher Neal Landers said the larger tomato plants seem to be fatally injured.

During the open house, which operated all day Thursday and again Friday morning for 600 first grade children, and Thursday evening for 200 adults and upper-grade children, the greenhouse had been one popular center of attention.

Students had taken armfuls of branches from an English ivy vine which climbs up one side of the greenhouse and partly across the top, and each visitor received an ivy cutting in a plastic cup of rooting medium to take home.

Research on Drugs Waits Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's chief drug quality enforcement agency last week said the agency last fall after serving as dean of the University of Illinois School of Medicine.

"Despite the downward trend in total of new drug entries during the past 20 years in this country, the fact is that the number of really significant new chemical entities has remained steady and level at 5 or 6 per year," he said.

Potential Danger Schmidt said drugs were developed with "incredible speed" during the past four decades, especially in the 1940s and 1950s. He said they also multiplied in complexity and in potential danger.

Also during this time we have leaped light years ahead in our discovery of sophisticated new methods to examine drug reactions in both animals and man. Among the things we have learned is that much can go wrong with drugs."

Schmidt said a wide variety of potential effects must be considered today that were not even thought of a decade or two ago.

"More and more, we are dealing not in the destruction of organisms but with the basic elements of life and human growth," he said. "Safety and efficiency assurances are thus likely to be even more complex and more important than ever before."

To absorb present and future knowledge breakthroughs and to apply that knowledge with maximum benefit and minimum risk to patients almost surely will take more time than in the past. And it likely will cost more money. Our future will certainly be more complex and more expensive."

Stiff Restrictions The FDA has been criticized in recent years for imposing stiff safety restrictions on the sale and use of new drugs. Critics say it has created a drag on drug development.

Schmidt said the critics are similar—that because of too much law or too much FDA interference, drug development in America is being stifled "and our people are thereby being denied a veritable cloudburst of new miracle medications."

Spokesman said a mandatory allocation program—pending in Congress—may still be necessary. The agency said it believes it will be early 1975 before the shortage eases.

The EPA study showed that a total of 74 cities experienced shortages of chlorine or other water treatment chemicals during the eight months ending Jan. 31 of this year. Of those, 22 cities ran completely out of chlorine for sewage treatment at one time or another and 28 others were short during the period of sufficient supplies for the same purpose.

Cities which ran out of chlorine for wastewater treatment at one time or another were: Binghamton-Johnson City, N.Y.; Borough of Florence, N.J.; Corina, Maine; Dallas; Des Moines; Glen Falls, N.Y.; Greenville, Tenn.; Houston; Jacksonville, Ill.; Jefferson Parish, La.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Kings Park, N.Y.; Mat-tabasset Sanitary District, Conn.; Monticello, Ill.; Nashville, Tenn.; New York City; Orno, Maine; Plattsburgh, N.Y.; Rangleys, Maine; Scotia, N.Y.; Smithtown, N.Y.; and St. Joseph's Resort, Ill.

Kozlowski Ponders U.S. Senate Bid

HARTFORD (UPI) — Edward J. Kozlowski, motor vehicles commissioner, is expected to decide by the end of the month whether to run against Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Kozlowski, a Republican, filed papers with the office of the secretary of the U.S. Senate Thursday, establishing a "Kozlowski for U.S. Senate Committee," the first step toward becoming a candidate.

Kozlowski, the first Republican to take the step toward challenging Ribicoff, who has been serving in the Senate since 1962, has been meeting with state Republican leaders on his plans.

A spokesman for the commissioner said Kozlowski is expected to make a final decision by the end of the month on whether he will follow through on the challenge.

Kozlowski listed as his campaign treasurer Gennaro A. Barbieri of Stratford, an accountant. Committee co-chairman Richard O. Palmer of Milford, president of the Stratford Marina, and Casimir T. Bykowski of Terryville, president of a Hartford research and development firm.

Barbieri said, "We believe Edward J. Kozlowski is an outstanding leader and has demonstrated remarkable achievement and integrity as mayor of the city of Milford, commissioner of public works for the state of Connecticut and as state motor vehicle commissioner."

Another possible candidate being mentioned for the nomination is Rep. James Braman, R-Colchester, a black commercial jetliner pilot who ousted Democrat Rubin Cohen, the so-called "Dean of the House," in the last election.

The correct weekly winning lottery number for Connecticut, drawn Thursday is: 35376

Other state lottery winning numbers are: New York — 068281; New Jersey — 701820; Massachusetts — 236785; Qualifier — 82885; Spring Fever Game — Green 16, Red 0, Blue 12.

Boyle, 72, who ruled the violent union from 1960 to 1970, was the ninth and final defendant to be convicted in the four years since UAW leader Joseph A. "Jack" Yablonski, his wife and daughter were shot to death while they slept in their Clarkville, Pa., home.

The verdict climaxed one of the nation's most complex murder investigations, begun by the careless discarding of beer cans by paid killers on the night of the slayings.

Boyle, recuperating from a drug overdose, came shortly after he was indicted last September on federal charges in the case, and pasty while the jury was polled. His only action was a sad wail to his wife and daughter before leaving the courtroom in a wheelchair.

Defense Attorney Charles Moses, in his only emotional outburst of the trial, demanded a 30-day extension to file briefs for a new trial. Delaware County Judge Frank Catania ruled, however, Moses would receive only the customary seven-day period.

The jury of nine men and five area residents became U.S. citizens last month when they were administered the naturalization oath in Federal District Court at Hartford. They are: Manchester: Patrick Tierney, 3 Robin Rd.; Mrs. Cecile Michaels in behalf of Leo Michaels, 17, of Apt. 203, Squire Village, Spencer St.; Hebron: Jonas Vatsy, Hardy Rd.; South Windsor: Mrs. Susana L. rance, 50 Benedict Dr.; Rockledge: Mrs. Mary Date, Rockledge Dr.

Senate Campaign Reform Bill Faces Several Roadblocks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to pay campaign expenses of presidential and congressional candidates with taxpayers' money has cleared the Senate. But major roadblocks to enactment are ahead.

The Senate Thursday approved a sweeping package of political reforms which not only includes federal subsidies for political campaigns but limits on candidate spending and an end to "fat cat" contributors.

But the bill faces a hazardous future in the House where there is strong hostility to federal financing of congressional races and opposition to other provisions in the comprehensive package.

Even more threatening to enactment of the bill is President Nixon's adamant opposition to the concept of public financing. His stand almost makes it certain that the bill will be vetoed.

After breaking an 11-day filibuster, the Senate voted 53-22 to approve the bill. All efforts to kill the federal financing sections of the bill were turned back, and an effort to return the package back to the Senate Rules Committee last 52-35.

Shortly before approving the bill, the Senate attached a rider, 69-20, under which the members of Congress and all federal employees making more than $20,000 a year would have their income tax returns audited for the past five years.

The bill, which would take effect in 1976, would authorize full federal financing of general elections and matching grants for primaries; set a ceiling on the amount candidates can spend; and put tight limits on the amounts individuals or organizations can contribute to persons seeking office.

The measure allows candidates to spend a limit of 12 cents per voter in a general election and 8 cents in a primary. For a presidential candidate, that would amount to $17 million in the general election and $11.4 million in the primary.

Major party candidates for the White House and Congress would get a federal subsidy equal to the spending ceiling in the general election. But the candidates could choose to use federal funds exclusively, rely solely on private contributions, or take a mix of the two.

Minor party candidates or independent candidates receiving at least 5 per cent of the vote in the previous election would be entitled to a proportionate share of the subsidy. New party candidates could be reimbursed if they received 5 per cent of the vote.

The bill also provides that no individual can contribute more than $25,000 to any candidate, party or political committee during a single year and no more than $5,000 to any single candidate. Organizations would be limited to contributions of $6,000. Cash contributions in excess of $100 would be prohibited.

Mayfair Y Club will have a kitchen social Monday at 1:30 p.m. in Cronin Hall of Mayfair Gardens.

The Involved Young Adults Club will have a general meeting April 20 at 8:15 p.m. at Assumption Church. A surprise auction is planned. The club membership is open to single people between 18 and 28. For further information, contact Joanne Pozarycki at 223-2279 or Kathy Gasper at 643-7071.

The Town Council approved an $8,007,052 education budget Thursday night for presentation to a public hearing and at the same time was told by the Board of Education that the town's school building program, with the expansion of Rockville High School.

During discussion of the budget, Councilman Thomas Wolf asked the board and the administrators if they felt the recently approved addition for the high school would end the school building program in light of the fact that school population is decreasing rather than increasing.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said he felt the school population would cause the school population to rise unexpectedly. He said, however, the only building would probably be the new addition of rooms to a particular school.

The major classifications in the budget and the costs involved are listed as follows: Instruction, $4,501,396; program for exceptional, $701,247; instructional support, $1,023,220; plant, $815,527; coordination, $604,174; and other services, $407,589.

Estimated revenues total $2,302,056 leaving $6,704,987 to be raised by taxation. With one mill worth $102,322, the current education budget would call for 35.2 mills to support it.

The public hearing is scheduled for April 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Vernon Center Middle School.

chairman of the board, said they added, "At the same time it fully recognizes the economic burden placed upon the local taxpayer and therefore exhibits judicious restraint."

The additional $40,872 staff includes salaries for part-time positions, a guidance counselor for Spikes School, full-time librarians for elementary schools, and six-month salary for an assistant principal at the high school.

The additional assistant principal will bring to three the number of assistants along with principal Martin Fagan. When the high school expansion program is completed it will be run in a "house" plan fashion with each "house" having a housemaster or assistant principal.

When Mayor Frank McCoy polled each councilman present to comment on the education budget, the consensus was that the board had done a commendable job and the mayor added his commendation that the school board had come in, for the second year in a row, with a budget that shows careful scrutiny. "I think this board is operating the way the council and the townspeople want to see it," the mayor said.

The public hearing is scheduled for April 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Vernon Center Middle School.

Contract agreements accounting for $217,597 of the increase; plant operations and maintenance, $124,444; new positions, $407,589; and fringe benefits, $45,823; all other categories, $31,380.

It was noted that the slightly more than six per cent increase was austere considering the cost of living index has climbed about nine per cent in the past year and is expected to go 10 per cent the first six months of this year.

This budget represents a realistic level of support to our educational system to continue established programs and to make changes that have been committed to by the community. He and Maurice Miller, superintendent of schools, will be in charge of the implementation of certain staff adjustments and program changes that have been committed to by the community.

The other four drug cases ended Thursday involving juveniles whose names weren't released, police said. Three were charged with sale and possession of marijuana and one was charged with possession of controlled drugs.

The juveniles included two 13-year-olds, one 14-year-old, and one 15-year-old. Police said one search warrant found small amounts of marijuana-like substance and pills at his home.

No Baseball 'Victory' Yet

Not by any measure was the support given by the Board of Directors this week to those who advocated the return of adult baseball to Manchester in the form of a Twilight League a "victory."

Only if the league materializes, with the full support of the Recreation Department — which has gone on record as opposing such play — and completes a full season can it be chalked up as an asset to the community and not a debit.

The Board of Directors has had different views, from two sides of the coin, on the interest to revive a sport that had been dead for more than two decades.

Now it is up to the four teams that were represented at a February meeting held at the West Side Rec. at which time their possible playing rosters were presented, to make definite plans and to attend the organizational meeting to be called by Rec officials at a future date.

Cuspicious by their absence at the Board of Directors' meetings when the proposed baseball issue came up were members of the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission. The latter voted by a 4 to 1 margin to recommend the rebirth of the Twilight League. Rec Department leaders were also among the missing at this week's meeting when the directors gave their full support to adult baseball providing that four local teams were still interested and a playing field available.

The sun may shine as the figure loomed around as needed to run a four-team league, two nights a week. Town Manager Roger Weiss was instructed to find the money necessary to meet operating expenses.

Possible playing fields for baseball are Mt. Nebo, West Side Oval, Cheney Tech and East Catholic. Manchester High's Kelley Field will not be available as the area will be reseeded this summer.

Should the Twilight League materialize, the baseball players would owe a great deal of thanks to Town Directors Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zinsler, in particular, who did their homework well on the matter which included some research, before telling other board members there was interest. Director Phyllis Jackson also adds a nod for her interest and support.

The bell cow of the entire project to revive baseball is Jeff Koelsch. He instigated the move and fully alerted the Recreation Department of the interest and it was through his efforts that adult baseball may be on the regular sports menu in Manchester again starting in early June.

Credit too, must go to the four members of the Advisory Recreation and Park Commission — one voted against — who supported Koelsch's claims and recommended to the town's Board of Directors to pass the issue.

The director's favorable vote of 8-1, with Matt Moriarty abstaining, could well be taken as a vote of confidence.

Among the office visitors Tuesday morning was State Comptroller Nate Agostinelli.

The conversation started and ended with Hank Aaron's feat of establishing a new all-time career home run record the previous night.

"I had to go to an early meeting and I didn't get home until the game was several innings old," he said.

"As I opened the door, my son came running over, all excited, and said Aaron had hit a home run. I was disappointed that I didn't see it but thanks to video replays, I guess I saw it 49 times before I went to bed."

The Resurrection

After the Sabbath, as Sunday morning was dawning, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to look at the grave. Suddenly there was a strong earthquake; an angel of the Lord came down from heaven, rolled the stone away, and sat on it. His appearance was like lightning and his clothes were white as snow. The guards were so afraid that they trembled and became like dead men.

The angel spoke to the women. "You must not be afraid," he said. "I know you are looking for Jesus, who was nailed to the cross. He is not here; he has risen, just as he said. Come here and see the place where he lay. Quickly, now, go and tell his disciples - He has been raised from death, and now he is going to Galilee ahead of you; there you will see him! Remember what I have told you." So they left the grave in a hurry, afraid and yet filled with joy, to go and tell his disciples.

Suddenly Jesus met them and said, "Peace be with you." They came up to him, took hold of his feet, and worshipped him. "Do not be afraid," Jesus said to them. "Go and tell my brothers to go to Galilee, and there they will see me."

Connie McCurry Hurls Four-Hitter, Indians Tack 4-1 Loss on Penney

By Len Auster

Accounting for all its runs in the second inning, the Manchester High baseball team relied on the stout pitching of senior Connie McCurry the rest of the way to register a 4-1 win over CCLL for Penney High of East Hartford yesterday in the season opener for both schools at Kelley Field.

McCurry went the distance, yielding one unearned run on four hits while striking out nine and walking two, both in a rocky first frame. He settled down afterwards getting the Black Knights in order five times.

Bob Odell led off the four-run Manchester inning by drawing a walk and was sacrificed to second. He raced home on a Tim Thebaudus infield single, which Penney second baseman Fred Robinson made a fine effort on.

Thebaudus sole second and was chased home by a Ray Sullivan single to right center. Sullivan was one of the Silk Town batting stars, going three for five at the plate, plus two stolen bases.

Bruce Peck followed Sullivan's hit with a walk and the pair went scurrying home on a Jack Maloney triple to deep right. Penney hurler Rich Linden then induced Dave Bidwell to fly out to end the uprising. Save for that one frame, Linden also turned in a good performance on the hill.

McCurry's shutout bid was ruined in the sixth inning. Catcher John Zadrozny reached on an error, and following a forced play at second, rightfielder Tony Barillari sent a fly over the centerfielder's head for three bases and the RBI.

With its season successfully started, Manchester journeys to West Hartford Monday to battle CCLL rival Conard High. Wednesday, the Harold Parks-coached Indians host Meriden-based Maloney High.

Ice Issue in News, Support Necessary

Does Manchester need an indoor ice skating facility? That's what Manchester's Board of Directors wants to know.

This week the directors appointed the Advisory Park and Recreation Committee to explore the possibility of a private or public indoor ice skating facility in Manchester and report back. Ronald Gates is the commission chairman.

If the skating and hockey program is ever to get off the ground, action must be taken now, when the issue is hot, so to speak.

Noel Nightingale and Clyde Miller, representing the Manchester Youth Hockey Assn., appeared before both the Advisory Board and Board of Directors' meetings and presented their reasons for such a facility in Manchester.

Parties interested are invited to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Advisory Board Thursday night at the Municipal Building. Public comments may be made from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Mel Siebold, recreation director, was authorized to investigate the costs of ice facilities in the area and to report at a future advisory session.

Eagles Down Aquinas On Semiao's Two-Hitter

By Dick Ledbetter

Sparked by the two-hit pitching of Ron Semiao, East Catholic won a solid 6-1 decision over St. Thomas Aquinas yesterday at East. Semiao's fine performance spotted Aquinas' opener while East evened it record at 1-1.

The win was a pleasing one for Coach Jim Penders as East came back from a 1-0 deficit with strong fifth and sixth innings.

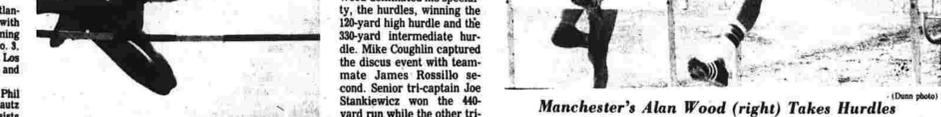

The game started slowly with Semiao and Aquinas starter Jim Greco each facing the minimum nine men in the first three innings, with Eagles leftfielder Mark McMahon the only base runner. He was erased on a doubleplay.

Aquinas tallied in the fourth as centerfielder Glen Schlottbeck was hit by a pitch. He stole second and raced home on a two-out single by left by Tom Farrell. After the score, Semiao allowed just one runner to reach second.

East threatened in its half of the fourth with two consecutive singles but Joe Banning and Dan Socha were stranded as Greco pitched his way out of the jam.

The next inning was different. Tom Miles led off with a walk and Bob Love followed with another walk. John Riccio forced Love at second with Miles going to third. Semiao then helped his own cause by laying down a perfect suicide squeeze. Miles scored with Semiao safely reaching first. Co-Captain Banning then collected what proved to be the game-winning hit as he doubled to right driving in Riccio.

Joe Coleman Brilliant In Stopping Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI) — Public recognition keeps eluding Joe Coleman. Over the last three years there have been few pitchers as effective as the 27-year-old Coleman, yet the Detroit Tigers' right-hander gets nowhere near the publicity given other prominent American League hurlers like Mickey Lolich, Jim Palmer, Catfish Hunter or Nolan Ryan.

For example, during the last three seasons Coleman has won 62 games, which is only one less than Lolich, Palmer and Hunter and 15 more than Ryan. Yet, despite these impressive statistics, Coleman remains a forgotten man in the eyes of most of the baseball public.

Coleman had a spectacular chance to lose that stigma and gain instant national acclaim Thursday when he came within five outs of pitching the first no-hitter by a Detroit pitcher in Tiger Stadium since 1963. Virgil Trucks performed the feat on May 15, 1952, against Washington.

Coleman lost his chance with one out in the eighth when light-hitting Gene Michael slapped a 3-2 pitch up the middle for a single. Coleman even lost his shutout in the ninth when Roy White hit a leadoff homer for the Yankees' only other hit.

Coleman wasn't that upset about losing the no-hitter, however.

"All no-hitters usually bring bad luck with them," he quipped. "I had a 1-2 count on Michael, then gave him a forkball, fastball, forkball — all high. I had to come in with a fastball on 3-2 and you have to give him credit because he hit it."

Coleman, besting Mel Stottlemyre while evening his record at 1-1, was aided by a two-run homer by Mickey Stanley as the Tigers handed the Yankees their first loss of the season after four victories.

In other American League games, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 7-6, Baltimore nipped Boston 7-6 in 11 innings, California whipped Texas 11-8 and Minnesota and Chicago played to a 4-4 tie in a game that was called after six innings because of rain.

St. Louis took a doubleheader from New York 8-7, 4-3. Philadelphia edged Chicago 4-3, Montreal beat Pittsburgh 5-1, Atlanta topped Los Angeles 6-4 and Houston routed San Diego 9-1 in National League action.

Brewers 7, Indians 6. John Briggs drove in three runs with a single and a homer as the Brewers handed the Indians their fifth straight defeat. Jim Colborn, who won 20 games for Milwaukee last season, was hit hard for the second straight time and knocked out of the game in the first inning, but Jerry Bell turned in 6 2/3 innings of one-run relief to get the victory.

Angels 11, Rangers 8. Lee Stanton, Frank Robinson and Mike Epstein paced a 15-hit attack with home runs as the Angels posted their fourth win in five games. Bill Singer, a 29-game winner last year, went 7 2/3 innings to notch his first win of the season.

Twins 4, White Sox 3. Bobby Darwin drove in three runs with a triple and a single and Ron Santo drove in a pair of runs for the White Sox before the rain made the field unplayable. The game will count toward individual player records but will be replayed in its entirety at a later date.

Colbert Tops Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Nicklaus is right where the Masters leaders read you'd expect him to be — more like who's that than close at hand. The pacesetter, going into today's second round, is a stumpy Kansan named Jim Colbert who is solving unknown despite having won three tournaments in nine years on the PGA tour.

The three runnerups — Hubert Green, Hale Irwin and Don Iverson — are pretty much in the same boat. Green still has trouble getting people to spell his name correctly. Even though he won the Bob Hope Classic and at Jacksonville earlier this year, people kept mistaking him for Bert Green, also in this tournament.

Colbert, who has won less than $14,000 so far this year, closed strong in Thursday's opening round to post a 5-under-par 67, the first time he had broken par in three Masters' appearances.

Green, Irwin and Iverson all had 68s, with Irwin getting his by running off a string of five straight birdies on the back nine of the sun-swept Augusta National course.

But all four had to be uneasy. Nicklaus, four-time champion and pre-tournament favorite, was only two strokes off the pace when he had bogeyed 18 (where he missed a 12-footer).

"Early in the round, I wasn't aggressive enough with my putting," said Nicklaus. "I missed some silly little putts. But I would have been satisfied with my round if I hadn't bogeyed 18."

Nicklaus made it clear he expects conditions to favor him over those ahead of him the next three days. "If the greens speed up, as expected, it will favor the better, more experienced players," said Nicklaus. And, who fits that bill more than he?

Colbert, delighted last year to make the cut here, said he felt playing in two previous Masters helps his chances this time. "When I came here this year, I felt I had served my apprenticeship," he said.

The 32-year-old Colbert had six birdies and only one bogey in Thursday's round. But he felt the birdies at the pro basketball and hockey playoffs were getting into the swing of things. It makes for a variety of sports to view but somewhat confusing also. You don't know whether the player should hit, throw or catch it — whatever it is.

Turning to the week old baseball campaign the predictions from this corner are not out of the unusual. The Baltimore Orioles in the American League East; the Oakland A's in the West; the New York Mets in the National League East; and the Los Angeles Dodgers in the West.

The World Series winner will be the Dodgers over the A's.

Young and Talented
Such performers as Boog Powell and the human vacuum cleaner, Brooks Robinson, are getting old by baseball standards but Manager Earl Weaver has a plethora of young and talented birds to draw from. Included in the Orioles' youth movement is second baseman Bobby Grich, who should just be about ready to blossom into one of the stars of the junior circuit. Add to the likes of Al Bumbry, Don Baylor and Ross Grimsley, the latter obtained from the Cincinnati Reds in the Merv Rettenmund deal, you see Weaver has the ammunition. And don't forget about Cy Young Award pitcher Jim Palmer.

The Red Sox should make the biggest challenge to the Orioles, but somehow, someday they'll finish second. The Yankees? At this printing, they're leading their division on defense. Can you believe that? It won't last.

Too Much to Overcome
Early conviction here held that without Dick Williams as manager, the Oakland team wouldn't be the same. They are. It's tough to run excellent pitching and hitting all at once and skipper Alvin Dark walked into a picture job. Look for the White Sox and the Kansas City Royals to mount the biggest challenge to the defending world champions.

Sentimental Choice
Going with the Mets has to be a sentimental choice. Is there any logical explanation for picking a club which just has pitching? Tom Seaver-Jerry Koosman-Jon Matlack-Tug McGraw-George Stone. Is that enough? Considering pitching is felt to be 75 per cent of baseball, it sure is. And if Rusty Staub and John Milner remain healthy and Cleon Jones performs up to the level he's shown he is capable of, Manager Yogi Berra could have another winner. St. Louis and Montreal could contend but Pittsburgh without pitching isn't going anywhere.

Dodgers' Year
Unless everybody runs into the infamous "sophomore jinx" the Dodgers should capture the NL West. They have talented young performers like Steve Garvey, Willie Crawford, Ron Cey and Joe Ferguson to do the hitting along with veteran Jimmy Wynn, and also an excellent pitching staff. The acquisition of Irgemont Mike Marshall from Montreal for Willie Davis should be beneficial. The San Francisco Giants have a bevy of young talent who can hit. Houston and Cincinnati also can hit. But all three are questionable when discussing the mound corps. If pitching comes through for these clubs then there should be a dogfight in the NL West, the winner to be the favorite in the World Series.

Thoughts APLENTY

by Len Auster

Thoughts aplenty. The pacesetter, going into today's second round, is a stumpy Kansan named Jim Colbert who is solving unknown despite having won three tournaments in nine years on the PGA tour.

The three runnerups — Hubert Green, Hale Irwin and Don Iverson — are pretty much in the same boat. Green still has trouble getting people to spell his name correctly. Even though he won the Bob Hope Classic and at Jacksonville earlier this year, people kept mistaking him for Bert Green, also in this tournament.

Colbert, who has won less than $14,000 so far this year, closed strong in Thursday's opening round to post a 5-under-par 67, the first time he had broken par in three Masters' appearances.

Green, Irwin and Iverson all had 68s, with Irwin getting his by running off a string of five straight birdies on the back nine of the sun-swept Augusta National course.

But all four had to be uneasy. Nicklaus, four-time champion and pre-tournament favorite, was only two strokes off the pace when he had bogeyed 18 (where he missed a 12-footer).

"Early in the round, I wasn't aggressive enough with my putting," said Nicklaus. "I missed some silly little putts. But I would have been satisfied with my round if I hadn't bogeyed 18."

Nicklaus made it clear he expects conditions to favor him over those ahead of him the next three days. "If the greens speed up, as expected, it will favor the better, more experienced players," said Nicklaus. And, who fits that bill more than he?

Colbert, delighted last year to make the cut here, said he felt playing in two previous Masters helps his chances this time. "When I came here this year, I felt I had served my apprenticeship," he said.

The 32-year-old Colbert had six birdies and only one bogey in Thursday's round. But he felt the birdies at the pro basketball and hockey playoffs were getting into the swing of things. It makes for a variety of sports to view but somewhat confusing also. You don't know whether the player should hit, throw or catch it — whatever it is.

Turning to the week old baseball campaign the predictions from this corner are not out of the unusual. The Baltimore Orioles in the American League East; the Oakland A's in the West; the New York Mets in the National League East; and the Los Angeles Dodgers in the West.

The World Series winner will be the Dodgers over the A's.

Young and Talented
Such performers as Boog Powell and the human vacuum cleaner, Brooks Robinson, are getting old by baseball standards but Manager Earl Weaver has a plethora of young and talented birds to draw from. Included in the Orioles' youth movement is second baseman Bobby Grich, who should just be about ready to blossom into one of the stars of the junior circuit. Add to the likes of Al Bumbry, Don Baylor and Ross Grimsley, the latter obtained from the Cincinnati Reds in the Merv Rettenmund deal, you see Weaver has the ammunition. And don't forget about Cy Young Award pitcher Jim Palmer.

The Red Sox should make the biggest challenge to the Orioles, but somehow, someday they'll finish second. The Yankees? At this printing, they're leading their division on defense. Can you believe that? It won't last.

Too Much to Overcome
Early conviction here held that without Dick Williams as manager, the Oakland team wouldn't be the same. They are. It's tough to run excellent pitching and hitting all at once and skipper Alvin Dark walked into a picture job. Look for the White Sox and the Kansas City Royals to mount the biggest challenge to the defending world champions.

Sentimental Choice
Going with the Mets has to be a sentimental choice. Is there any logical explanation for picking a club which just has pitching? Tom Seaver-Jerry Koosman-Jon Matlack-Tug McGraw-George Stone. Is that enough? Considering pitching is felt to be 75 per cent of baseball, it sure is. And if Rusty Staub and John Milner remain healthy and Cleon Jones performs up to the level he's shown he is capable of, Manager Yogi Berra could have another winner. St. Louis and Montreal could contend but Pittsburgh without pitching isn't going anywhere.

Dodgers' Year
Unless everybody runs into the infamous "sophomore jinx" the Dodgers should capture the NL West. They have talented young performers like Steve Garvey, Willie Crawford, Ron Cey and Joe Ferguson to do the hitting along with veteran Jimmy Wynn, and also an excellent pitching staff. The acquisition of Irgemont Mike Marshall from Montreal for Willie Davis should be beneficial. The San Francisco Giants have a bevy of young talent who can hit. Houston and Cincinnati also can hit. But all three are questionable when discussing the mound corps. If pitching comes through for these clubs then there should be a dogfight in the NL West, the winner to be the favorite in the World Series.

RSox Bow in Sea-Saw Affair
BOSTON (UPI) — In order to be played well, baseball must be played: A) Every day. B) In warm weather.

The Boston Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles played Thursday for the first time this week in brisk weather that turned downright nippy around the 11th inning when the Red Sox finally handed the O's a 7-4 win.

To say neither team played well is to misquote the managers. "Sloppy," was Earl Weaver's appraisal. The Baltimore manager added: "Not one pitcher looked good out there. There was no moisture for the pitchers and it hurt (Jim) Palmer, (Luis) Tiant, (Doye) Alexander and (Diego) Segui. It was not a good day to play, especially after being off so long.

The Red Sox took a 3-0 lead after three innings, getting two runs in the second on Mario Guerrero's RBI single and an error by Brooks Robinson and a solo run in the third on Doug Griffis's single.

The Orioles responded with three runs in the fourth on Tiant, two on Rich Coggins' homer that Bernie Carbo had gloved but dropped in the bullpen upon slamming into the fence.

Baltimore went up 4-3 in the seventh and Boston responded with two on a hit, three walks and a passed ball in the bottom of the inning to take a 4-4 lead. The Orioles tied the game in the eighth and went ahead 6-4 in the 10th but another error on Griffis' grounder gave the Orioles the victory in the 11th.

Murtaugh Worried About Pirate Start

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nonchalant Danny Murtaugh, the manager who's partial to rookies, sometimes looks as if he posed for those "what, me worry?" posters.

But even Murtaugh is starting to get just a bit worried about the Pittsburgh Pirates' shaky start this season. Murtaugh keeps insisting the Pirates need just one victory to get started.

The Pirates, though, are having all kinds of trouble getting it. You'd never know they're supposed to be the team to beat in the National League's Eastern Division.

They stretched their perfect record Thursday night. They've played four games and lost them all.

Steve Rogers, who was so impressive in the second half of last season for Montreal after being called up from the minors, tossed a six-hitter at the heavy-hitting Pirates for a 5-1 triumph.

"It sure would help to get that first win," Murtaugh said. "I think that's all we need to turn this thing around. I can't remember getting off to a worse start but I don't really have any records to back me up."

Murtaugh, though, did find one thing to smile about — the pitching of Dock Ellis. Pitching is the Pirates can use a good season from the controversial Ellis, who's stopped wearing his hair curlers on the field this year.

Murtaugh said, "I thought Ellis looked good. If he can pitch that well all year, I'll be happy."

Ellis said, "I felt pretty good out there. But then I also felt good at the start of the season. Those new (cowlid) baseballs feel a little better. Ron Fairly always hits me pretty good. That double he hit was a pitch six inches off the plate and he went out and got it."

Fairly drove in the two runs off Ellis with a double and a single. "With that lineup up there," Rogers said, "you can't zero in on any one man, especially with these left-handers, so you have to bear down all the time. My arm began to cool off in the sixth inning but it warmed up again in the eighth."

In other games, St. Louis swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 8-7 and 4-3, Chicago downed Philadelphia 4-3, Atlanta beat Los Angeles 6-4 and Houston routed San Diego 9-1.

Braves 6, Dodgers 4. Hank Aaron hit his 718th homer to highlight a three-run seventh inning rally and lift the Braves past the Dodgers. Aaron has three hits this year and they're all homers. But Aaron got off to a slow start last year before rebounding to hit .301. Only 5-114 fans showed up in Atlanta.

The first game was supposed to be a Tom Seaver-Bob Gibson duel. But the Cards routed Seaver, staking Gibson to a 6-0 lead only to have him blow it before the Cards scored two unearned runs in the eighth to pull it out. St. Louis rallied for two runs in the ninth inning of the second for the triumph. Tim Lincecum's sacrifice fly drove in the deciding run.

Cubs 4, Phils 3. A two-run pinch homer by Tommy Hutton in the ninth lifted the Phils past Chicago.

BUFFALO (UPI) — The Boston Celtics could make life a little easier on themselves tonight when they take on the Buffalo Braves in the sixth game of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Celtics hold a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series and could eliminate the Braves with a win. However, the Braves, who have been impregnable at home, undoubtedly have different ideas.

Sloan's Ankle Injury Dims Bulls' NBA Hopes
DETROIT (UPI) — Chicago is faced with the prospect of playing Saturday's deciding seventh playoff game with Detroit minus key guard Jerry Sloan.

Nobody wants him and the other injured Bulls, Norm Van Lier, Clifford Ray and Bob Love, to be healthy more than Coach Ray Scott of the Pistons. Detroit forced the winner advances match by riding the hot fourth-quarter shooting of Bob Lanier and George Trapp to a 92-88 sixth-game victory Thursday night over the Bulls.

The victor in Saturday afternoon's nationally televised affair meets the Bucks in Milwaukee on Tuesday night in the start of the semifinal round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

In tonight's playoff action, the Capital Bullets are in New York to face the Knicks in the deciding game of their best-of-seven series and Boston is at Buffalo holding a 3-2 lead in games over the Braves.

Sloan, the Bulls' 6-foot-5 center who has been hurting the Pistons with his rebounding and outside shooting, suffered a ankle injury that may be severe enough to knock him out of the final game. It was so bad he couldn't walk to the shower after the game. He received the injury coming down with a rebound and apparently aggravated it during the fourth quarter. His running mate, Van Lier, sprained an ankle but did not appear bad enough to prevent him from playing.

Three Hits, Three HRs

ATLANTA (UPI) — Henry Aaron collected his third hit of the season Thursday night.

Naturally, it was a homer — and it broke the all-time major league home run career record.

Of course, the homer — his 716th — snapped the record of 715 he set Monday night when he broke the Babe Ruth's mark of 714. Less than 6,000 fans saw it.

The home run was a line drive into the Atlanta Bulpen in leftfield about 330 feet away from home plate. It came off Dodger relief pitcher Charlie Hough.

Aaron is now 3-for-16 this season. He got off to the same kind of start last year but rebounded to hit .301.

Voice of Democracy Winners Feted

Winners of the 1974 Voice of Democracy essay contest were treated to a night of dinner and dancing at the VFW post on Center Street on Saturday, March 30th.

Dinner was served at 7:30 p.m. and consisted of baked ham, cole slaw, scalloped potatoes, turnips, rolls and butter. Beverages were served during the course of the meal.

Winners were: first place, Linda Claranhan; second place, Diane Kelleys; third place, Tohi Shapiro. All are students in Mr. Hunt's AP English class.

For the past several years Mr. Hunt has been the proud professor of all Voice of Democracy victors.

Present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert B. Hunt, all officers of the VFW, parents of the winners and Mayor John Thompson. Also present were various members of the VFW and friends of the honored guests.

Mayor Thompson spoke on the rarity of honors bestowed on those youth who do try to speak for democracy. He cited that there were far too many Americans preferring to be uninformed in solving the problems of a stumbling nation. These youth, and the ones causing trouble are the publicized, he said. He noted that town and federal government are having many problems and the leading parties are being questioned right and left. He thinks that there should be more involvement of government to improve it.

Next each winner was asked to read her prize-winning speech to VFW members and other attendees. Tohi Shapiro spoke first, followed by Diane Kelleys and Linda Claranhan. Linda's speech was sent in to the state contest for further judging. The theme of each essay was "My Responsibility As A Citizen."

After the speeches all girls were awarded prizes. Linda Claranhan received a $25 savings bond and merit of citation. Diane received a $15 gift certificate to Butterfields and a merit of citation. Tohi received a $10 gift certificate to the same store and a like citation.

In addition, Gilbert Hunt, program coordinator, and winners were given framed posters of the American flag bearing the words: "This is OUR flag, be proud of it."

Gilbert Hunt spoke to the group briefly, noting that the group had come attired as a stalker but for a few humorous reasons decided against it. He served as a comic interlude in the formal ceremonies. The ceremony ended with a salute to the flag and a promise of dancing in the next room. Cane was served.

Knights Lance Faculty

The MHS faculty basketball team, still infallible in our hearts, was publicly demoralized in a futile attempt to gain control of the ball that was most efficiently used by the well-honed Hartford Knights, with a final score of 49-40.

The faculty squad included Pete DiRosa, Bill Diveso, Phil Moriarty, Dan Molanphy, Tom Rodden, Conni Streitelmeier, and Mike Tolosiano.

The Knights repeatedly grabbed rebounds from our illustrious professors throughout the contest. At the half, with the score at 23-16, it seemed that only a miraculous comeback would save the scholars from defeat.

Special notes should be taken of Phil Hyde and Jim Moriarty, who were the high scorers for the favorites with 12 and 11 points respectively. Dick Bowman, defensive tackle, turned in a spectacular performance with 15 points for the victorious

Capital Punishment

Pro

On June 1972, the Supreme Court ruled, by a narrow 5-4 decision, that the death penalty is usually enforced in the United States was a violation of the 8th amendment prohibiting cruel and unusual punishment.

Within 15 months time 18 states (Connecticut included) have chosen to restore the death penalty. Eight states chose not to restore the death penalty. In 15 other states the matter is still pending. And in 10 other states the matter did not come up. In the state of Mississippi the legislature passed a bill restoring the death penalty, but the governor said the bill was "unclear."

Before this ruling was made by the Supreme Court, there were nine capital crimes. They included treason, murder, kidnapping, narcotics sale, rape, and train wrecking. At present, only a few of these crimes are now punishable by death. Murder of a kidnap victim, murder of prison guards, and hijackings are those crimes which have death as a possible consequence.

Many individuals feel that, in certain instances, capital punishment should be reinstated. One needs to look at the facts to see what happens when this punishment is not actively used (in either actuality or in theory.) According to the latest World Almanac, murder is up 2.6 per cent, manslaughter 9.6 per cent, forcible rape 14.1 per cent robbery 5.6 per cent and assault 8.8 per cent.

It is in these same lush mountains that they will spend the night sleeping under the stars. Sunday morning these "children of the forest" will trudge five miles out to the highway, with smiles on their faces and songs in their hearts. Transportation is up and back is being provided by private car.

Rome, Sweet Rome

It all started about a year ago, when Mrs. Cameron asked our Latin class, "Where would you like to go for a field trip?" And someone yelled "How about Rome?"

We considered it a big joke at first, but after we looked into the matter, it seemed like a good idea. After all, we've studied for years about things like the Rome Forum, and the Coliseum and Parthenon, so why not go see them? So after many pitfalls and obstacles, we will embark for Rome this Thursday, April 11th.

At the beginning of the school year, Mrs. Cameron shopped around for a Roman travel package, and found one which included not only Rome, but Naples, Capri and Pompeii as well. Everybody was agreeable to that, and from there on things were full steam ahead!

We had a fairly successful bake sale, and a very successful candy sale, and things were going smoothly. We were sure we'd be spending April vacation basking in the Italian sun.

But, alas, the ice storm ruined our dreams, and it seemed as if the school board would never give us permission to go. Meanwhile, the airlines were steadily raising their fares, so we decided rather mournfully that the trip was off.

But the school board finally relented and allowed us to go. And so after scraping the extra money together for the rate and things were going smoothly. We were sure we'd be spending April vacation basking in the Italian sun.

But, alas, the ice storm ruined our dreams, and it seemed as if the school board would never give us permission to go. Meanwhile, the airlines were steadily raising their fares, so we decided rather mournfully that the trip was off.

IOH Fashion Show Termed a Success

Willie's Steakhouse was the scene for the annual IOH fashion show March 27th at 7:30 p.m. IOH members Grace Bellflore and Kirk Woolpert were co-chairmen of this affair.

Approximately 250 people gathered to view IOH members model spring and summer fashions from Nugent's and Regal's men's shop.

The commentator from Nugent's emphasized the general trend rather than individual combinations. Hats were forecast as one of the bigger fashions for spring.

Also modeled were long dresses (which are returning to the 20's look), denim outfits, sophisticated sportswear, and bathing suits. Although two pieces are still very much in evidence today, one piece are

Guidance News

When dealing with the issue of human life and dignity, it's judicial implications, the subject often becomes station in the gray in between cross and con. Therefore, to the best of our ability we will attempt to clearly define why we oppose capital punishment.

One of its more laudable decisions, the Supreme Court proclaimed that the death penalty was indeed, "cruel and unusual punishment". Now, the legislators of some states would seek to reinstate this despicable practice.

One of the arguments that some would use is that it (the death penalty) is a deterrent to further crimes and it rid society of some of its menaces. There are no statistics that the death penalty does stop criminals from acting. Indeed, crime rates rose in the sixties when the death penalty existed. Often, violent crimes are committed unpremeditatedly or by the mentally unbalanced. There are few words which can justify their right to live.

The Student Assembly will sponsor a Walk-A-Thon for United Cerebral Palsy May 7, Tuesday, 4th period. An assembly will be held to inform the student body of the details of C.P. and the walk.

Think

The following poem was taken from a Scholastic magazine. It was written by a high school senior in Alton, Ill. Shortly afterwards he committed suicide. It was submitted to the World Staff by a junior student of MHS. The editor hopes that it will make an impression on some of our readers — at least make a dent in their mind. If it has done this much, it will have been a success.

On Education
He always wanted to explain things.
But no one cared.
He drew.
Sometimes he would draw it and it wasn't anything.
He wanted to carve it in stone or write it in the sky.
And it would be only him and the sky and the things inside him that he was saying.
It was after that he drew the picture.
It was a beautiful picture.
He kept it under his pillow and would let no one see it.
He would look at it every night and think about it.
When it was dark and his eyes were closed, he could still see it.
When he started school, he brought it with him, not to show anyone, just to have along like a friend.
It was funny about school.
He sat at a square brown desk, like all the other square, brown desks.
He thought it should be red.

MHSers To Go To Vermont

From April 19 through the 21, 10 rugged members of the Outdoor Club will undertake a backpacking expedition through the wilds of central Vermont.

For three days and two nights, the club will carry everything on their backs: food, clothing, and shelter.

The Friday afternoon that they arrive, these sturdy woodsmen will hike one mile through the dense brush and set up camp. Arising early the next morning these fresh air freaks will hike an estimated nine miles through beautiful Green Mountain country.

It is in these same lush mountains that they will spend the night sleeping under the stars. Sunday morning these "children of the forest" will trudge five miles out to the highway, with smiles on their faces and songs in their hearts.

Transportation is up and back is being provided by private car.

Attention: Seniors

Seniors
There is one week left in which to pay your dues and class picnic money. Dues are $2 and must be paid before you pay for the picnic. The picnic fee is $10. Both payments are to be made to your homeroom representatives during the homeroom period.

Your $10 will go to pay for bus transportation to and from the Frank Davis resort in Moodus, two meals, and the many neat activities offered at the Davis's.

You may pay the $10 all at once, or make it in two $5 deposits. If you intend to go, please, you've got one more week to bring your dues, and picnic money in.

Portrait: Connie McCurry

The word "athlete" generally conjures up visions of a robot-like creature, whose time is spent primarily in the gymnasium or on the ballfield. We are prone to cast all such physical contributions, Connie stated that sports have also helped in other ways. "Just being able to associate with people and learning to get along with them is really important," he reflected.

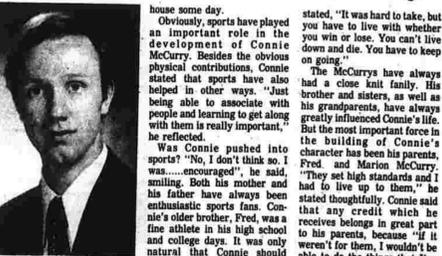

Was Connie pushed into sports? "No, I don't think so. I was...encouraged," he said, smiling. Both his mother and his father have always been enthusiastic sports fans. Connie's older brother, Fred, was a fine athlete in his high school and college days. It was only natural that Connie should follow in his footsteps. "When my brother was in high school, his friends used to call me 'The Shadow,' because I always followed him everywhere."

Of course, no article about one of the finest soccer players in the state would be complete without mentioning this year's Manchester High School Soccer Team. "It was one of the biggest thrills of my life. I was able to be co-captain," Under Werner (Cacase), and go on to the state finals. It was fantastic," said Connie. "I don't intend to go on to teach it. However, his main goal is to become a private constructor, and he'd like to build his own house some day.

Here's Schedule For Bookmobile

Here is next week's schedule for The Thomas Hooker, a Connecticut State Library bookmobile on loan to the Manchester Public Library system:

Bring in your class dues of $2 and your $10 class picnic fee to Room 14, Mr. Korbusinski's office. The room is adjacent to the cafeteria. If he is not there, then one of the teacher aides will receive your money and give you a receipt.

You may pay your picnic fee in two $5 payments, but it will be more convenient for us if you paid all at once.

Money may be brought in during the school year for the next few weeks.

Hopefully we will be getting out to you a letter explaining the dates, places and activities for seniors in June.

Big shot does admirable job

The Admiral looked over the dummy and counted 14 winners. The 12 would come could be developed.

He played the four of spades from dummy and East discarded a diamond. West followed with one club. A fourth discard would give the Admiral three diamond tricks or four heart tricks and East had to surrender to overwhelming naval forces.

There was no reason not to reconner with the club suit so the Admiral ran off the four club tricks while discarding one of dummy's diamonds. West followed with three clubs. The intelligence operation had accounted for 10 of West's cards.

Two rounds of hearts came next. West followed to one so that he was marked with exactly two diamonds. This meant that East had started with five hearts and five diamonds. How could he be squeezed?

Nixon To Pay California Tax

By AL SWANSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Nixon has agreed to pay more than $5,000 in back taxes and interest in his home state of California, but New York tax officials are studying the 1969 sale of his Manhattan apartment and the federal agency that runs the National Archives say he can't have his papers paid to sell to raise money to pay his tax debts.

The California settlement marks the second time in less than two weeks that Nixon has agreed to pay back taxes.

He agreed to pay some $467,000 in back federal taxes and interest April 4, after the Internal Revenue Service ruled invalid the deduction he took on the gift of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives.

Then Friday, John F. Donovan, head of the New York state income tax bureau, disclosed that his office was conducting a "review" of Nixon's sale of his Park Avenue co-op apartment in 1969.

Donovan said the study was prompted by congressional and IRS investigations of Nixon's finances, which concluded he took an improper exemption from the sale.

The committee in a report released April 9 said Nixon improperly avoided paying a capital-gains tax on what it estimated was a $151,488 profit he made on the sale of the apartment.

The General Services Administration (GSA), which runs the National Archives, said that Nixon cannot take back or sell the papers he gave the government over the IRS disallowing the tax deductions he took on the gift.

A GSA spokesman said the gift was final. The ruling apparently ends plans by several businessmen's groups to buy the papers and help Nixon pay his $467,000 in back taxes.

Israel Begins Retaliation

United Press International
Israel captured Arab guerrilla collaborators today and blew up homes in a half-dozen Lebanese border villages in what Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said was a new retaliation policy that could leave much of Lebanon "destroyed and deserted."

On the Golan Heights Syrian and Israeli forces today fought with artillery along the ceasefire line for the 33rd consecutive day, a Syrian military spokesman said.

Dayan said in a news conference in Tel Aviv the raid was in retaliation for the Arab guerrilla attack Thursday in Qiryat Shmona, and he warned more devastating raids were in store if the Arab strikes continued.

"If the Lebanese government will allow terrorist headquarters to enjoy their freedom and convenience in Beirut, and at night they will cross the border into Israel, I think that eventually a good part of Lebanon must be destroyed and deserted," he said.

Lebanon said that Israeli troops killed two women, kidnapped 13 civilians and blew up 24 homes and an electrical substation in the village of Mshabeh.

"If the citizens of Qiryat Shmona cannot live peaceful and normal lives then the citizens of Lebanon will not be able to live peaceful and normal lives either," Israel Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told a news briefing on the strikes.

"The raids came in response to guerrilla attacks Thursday in which 18 persons died in Qiryat Shmona, an Israeli town near the Lebanese border.

Kidnaped Diplomat Found Shot, Beaten

CORDOBA, ARGENTINA (UPI) - American diplomat Alfred A. Reilly, III, released by leftist guerrilla kidnapers, underwent surgery today after being found lying near a creek, beaten and shot.

"His condition is serious but he is holding his own," a spokesman at the Reina Fabiola hospital said. "He has regained consciousness and is expected to recover."

The spokesman said Reilly had been shot once in the stomach, the bullet exiting from his back. He also had numerous bruises and found 14 hours after his abduction.

An officer of the U.S. Information Agency from Kiel, Wis., said Reilly was abducted Friday morning by a heavily armed group of eight men and a woman belonging to the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP).

The ERP was also responsible for the kidnaping of Victor Quesada, 37, of Cleveland, an executive of the Esso Argentina Oil Co. Despite payment of $14.4 million ransom on March 14, Samuelson has not been released.

The 36-year-old Laun, who was seized as he ate breakfast at his home in Unquillo, a town 15 miles from Cordoba, apparently was wounded while trying to fight off his abductors. He was dragged bleeding from his home and thrown in a car that sped off.

An ERP communique delivered to news media several hours later said two commando units had "carried out the arrest of the North American citizen Alfred Laun to interrogate him about his counter-revolutionary activities" and said he would be held in a "people's jail" pending trial.

However, the seriousness of Laun's wounds apparently caused the guerrillas to change their plans.

A caller identifying himself as an ERP spokesman phoned a radio station with instructions on where to find Laun.

Reporters discovered him in his underwear, "wrapped in blankets and lying between trucks parked near a creek on the outskirts of Cordoba. His hands were bound with wire and his eyes covered with a black cloth.

A bottle of blood plasma was rigged to supply vital fluid to his veins and a note left at the scene explained that emergency surgery had been performed.

Reilly Convicted Of Manslaughter

LITCHFIELD (UPI) - Peter A. Reilly, 19, awaits sentencing for manslaughter in the death of his mother last September.

A jury found Reilly guilty of manslaughter in the death of his mother, Mrs. Barbara Gibbons, 51, who was stabbed to death at her Falls Village home Sept. 28.

The seven-man, five-woman jury had deliberated nearly 10 hours Thursday and Friday after being instructed by Superior Court Judge John A. Spierie that Reilly could be found guilty of murder or first-degree manslaughter.

Spierie had defined murder as "killing with the intent to cause death," and manslaughter as killing with "only intent to cause serious injury or under influence of an extreme emotional disturbance."

Reilly faces a maximum prison sentence of 20 years. The judge set a May 14 sentencing date.

State's Attorney John F. Bianchi's major point in the Reilly's prosecution was that the young defendant had testified he had seen his mother alive and still gasping for breath after her throat was slashed. A pathologist, Dr. Ernest M. Izumi, had testified that a number of stab wounds and other injuries had been inflicted on the body of Reilly's mother only after she was dead.

Arguing for the defense, Attorney Catherine Roraback said the state had produced no material evidence, and a State Policeman had confessed Reilly into confessing after eight hours of interrogation in Hartford without food or sleep after the crime.

Asked if he had thought the verdict fair, Bianchi, who had sought a murder verdict, told a reporter, "That's all it was, manslaughter. I believed that from the day it happened."

Coast Oil Drilling Favored

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government council on Environmental Quality will recommend extensive offshore oil drilling along the Atlantic Coast and the Gulf of Alaska, according to a report released Friday.

In the 318-page report, the council admitted the risk of serious environmental consequences to commercial fishing and tourist trade in the event of oil spills, storms or other accidents. But, citing economic concerns and nation's need for energy self-sufficiency, the council said it will recommend leasing in 23 unleased areas in the Atlantic and Gulf of Alaska.

The report, released by Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., will officially be made public April 18.

In a summary statement on oil prospects in the Outer Continental Shelf, the council concluded that leasing "can be un-

Fish Attack Swimmers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) - Schools of voracious fish attacked swimmers at a public beach Friday, sending five youths to hospitals.

Officials identified the attacking fish as bluefish and jack crevalle, ranging up to 15 pounds and three feet long. They apparently followed schools of smaller bait fish into a pocket close to shore and then went into a feeding frenzy.

"They went berserk," said lifeguard Lt. Mel Deutsch. "They were striking at everything."

Five youths, ranging from 10 to 17, were hospitalized and six others treated for fish bites and released following the attacks at Baker's Haulover Beach just north of here. The beach was closed for most of the day.

About 75 persons, most of them young surfers, were in the water when the attacks started. The first bitten was a surfer, James Knapp, 17, who required 60 stitches to sew up cuts on his foot.

"He was bitten on the foot, which was dangling over the side of his surfboard," said lifeguard Dale Brockway.

Dean Tunney, 10, said he was standing in about six inches of water, trying to net a mullet with his shirt when a fish about two feet long grabbed his finger and held on. A lifeguard finally knocked the bluefish away but young Tunney was threatened with the loss of a finger.

Bonnie Browne, 14, required about 50 stitches to sew up bites in the back of one leg.

Bluefish are toothy and sometimes called "choppers" or "bulldogs of the sea" because of their voracious appetites and fighting qualities when hooked. Jacks are spade-shaped fish which lack teeth but also are voracious feeders.

"Actually the fish didn't attack the swimmers," said Brockway. "The swimmers just got in the way of the fish as they pursued the mullet to shore."

Dr. Don De Sylva of the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science said there "is no record of such a massive attack ever occurring on humans."

"In 28 years of working on the beaches here, I can't remember anything like it," said chief lifeguard Jim Holland.

Drizzle and showers this afternoon with possibility of thunderstorms. High in the 40s and possibly as high as 50 this evening. Partly sunny tomorrow with highs in the 70s.
