

Students Visit Rome For Educational Tour

A group of 13 Manchester High School juniors and seniors departed from Kennedy International Airport in New York Thursday for an educational tour of Rome.

Charting their course of travel are some of the 13 Manchester High School students who left for Rome Thursday for an educational tour. Marty Hahn and Kathy Peterson point out places on the map as they are watched by left to right: Nancy Launi, Casey Mahone, Cindy Seidon, Jennifer Davis, Joe Sinnamon, Pam Fraser, Rae Strickland, and Mrs. Virginia Cameron, Latin and English instructor. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Some of the students are presently studying Latin, and others are former students of the language, said Mrs. Virginia Cameron, Latin and English instructor who is sponsoring the trip.

The group's agenda includes a tour of Rome, visiting the Colosseum, the Vatican, St. Peter's Basilica and the Fountain of Trevi.

Accompanied by seven adults, the group will travel to Naples. They will take side trips to Pompeii, the Village of Amalfi, and the Isle of Capri. They will return to Naples April 18 and will leave for home from Rome April 26.

Coventry

Craft Show Scheduled

MONICA SHEA Correspondent 742-9495

The 9th Annual Arts and Crafts Show and Sale will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 20 and 21 at the Coventry High School from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

Applications will be accepted by Mrs. Olive Gordon, P.O. Box 125, Coventry, Conn. 06238. Fifty dollars will be awarded to the entry judged best of the show. There will be twenty dollars 1st place awards and honorable mention ribbons at the discretion of the judges.

Student art will be judged separately and the best of show will receive two dollars.

All work will be received on Friday the 19th from 7 to 9 p.m. only. A feature of this year's show will be "portraits" by Ruth P. Bezaker.

Mrs. Bezaker attended the Hartford Art School, Sea Pines School on Cape Cod and the Art School of Fashion in Hartford.

A student of Edith Dale Monson, Sylvia Patriocelli and Walter Korder, Mrs. Bezaker has been a quick sketch artist for art show and benefits and is assistant buyer for the G. Fox picture department.

She is a member of the Manchester Fine Art Association and many other art leagues.

Refreshments will be provided at the show at a nominal cost.

The committee of Mrs. Virginia Grabowsky will be calling Republicans for baked goods contributions or cash donations if a person is unable to bake.

The proceeds from the show will benefit exclusively the Coventry Student Loan Fund.

Israel Begins Retaliation

United Press International said Israel captured Arab guerrilla collaborators today and blew up homes in a half-dozen Lebanese border villages in what Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said was a new retaliation policy that could leave much of Lebanon "destroyed and deserted."

On the Golan Heights Syrian and Israeli forces today fought with artillery along the ceasefire line for the 33rd consecutive day, a Syrian military spokesman said.

Dayan said in a news conference in Tel Aviv the raid was in retaliation for the Arab guerrilla attack Thursday in Qiryat Shmona, and he warned more devastating raids were in store if the Arab strikes continued.

"If the Lebanese government will allow terrorist headquarters to enjoy their freedom and convenience in Beirut, and at night they will cross the border into Israel, I think that eventually a good part of Lebanon must be destroyed and deserted," he said.

Lebanon said that Israeli troops killed two women, kidnapped 13 civilians and blew up 24 homes and an electrical substation in the village of Mshabeb. The Defense Ministry said the wreckage of a home blown up in the village of Mshabeb.

"If the citizens of Qiryat Shmona cannot live peacefully and normal lives then the citizens of Lebanon will not be able to live peacefully and normal lives either," Israel Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told a news briefing on the strikes.

The raids came in response to guerrilla attacks Thursday in which 18 persons died in Qiryat Shmona, an Israeli town near the Lebanese border.

Kidnaped Diplomat Found Shot, Beaten

CORDOBA, ARGENTINA (UPI) - American diplomat Alfred A. Reilly, III, released by leftist guerrilla kidnapers, underwent surgery today after being found lying near a creek, beaten and shot.

"His condition is serious but he is holding his own," a spokesman at the Reina Fabiola hospital said. "He has regained consciousness and is expected to recover."

The spokesman said Reilly had been shot once in the stomach, the bullet exiting from his back. He also had numerous bruises and found 14 hours after his abduction.

An officer of the U.S. Information Agency from Kiel, Wis., said Reilly was abducted Friday morning by a heavily armed group of eight men and a woman belonging to the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP).

The ERP was also responsible for the kidnaping of Victor Manuel, 37, of Cleveland, an executive of the Esso Argentina Oil Co. Despite payment of $14.4 million ransom on March 14, Samuelson has not been released.

The 36-year-old Laun, who was seized as he ate breakfast at his home in Unquillo, a town 15 miles from Cordoba, apparently was wounded while trying to fight off his abductors. He was dragged bleeding from his home and thrown in a car that sped off.

An ERP communique delivered to news media several hours later said two commando units had "carried out the arrest of the North American citizen Alfred Laun to interrogate him about his counter-revolutionary activities" and said he would be held in a "people's jail" pending trial.

However, the seriousness of Laun's wounds apparently caused the guerrillas to change their plans.

A caller identifying himself as an ERP spokesman phoned a radio station with instructions on where to find Laun.

Reporters discovered him in his underwear, "wrapped in blankets and lying between trucks parked near a creek on the outskirts of Cordoba. His hands were bound with wire and his eyes covered with a black cloth.

A bottle of blood plasma was rigged to supply vital fluid to his veins and a note left at the scene explained that emergency surgery had been performed.

Coast Oil Drilling Favored

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government council on Environmental Quality will recommend extensive offshore oil drilling along the Atlantic Coast and the Gulf of Alaska, according to a report released Friday.

In the 318-page report, the council admitted the risk of serious environmental consequences to commercial fishing and tourist trade in the event of oil spills, storms or other accidents. But, citing economic concerns and nation's need for energy self-sufficiency, the council said it will recommend leasing in 23 unleased areas in the Atlantic and Gulf of Alaska.

The report, released by Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., will officially be made public April 18.

In a summary statement on oil prospects in the Outer Continental Shelf, the council concluded that leasing "can be un-

Fish Attack Swimmers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) - Schools of voracious fish attacked swimmers at a public beach Friday, sending five youths to hospitals.

Officials identified the attacking fish as bluefish and jack crevalle, ranging up to 15 pounds and three feet long. They apparently followed schools of smaller bait fish into a pocket close to shore and then went into a feeding frenzy.

"They went berserk," said lifeguard Lt. Mel Deutsch. "They were striking at everything." Five youths, ranging from 10 to 17, were hospitalized and six others treated for fish bites and released following the attacks at Baker's Haulover Beach just north of here. The beach was closed for most of the day.

About 75 persons, most of them young surfers, were in the water when the attacks started. The first bitten was a surfer, James Knapp, 17, who required 60 stitches to sew up cuts on his foot.

"He was bitten on the foot, which was dangling over the side of his surfboard," said lifeguard Dale Brockway.

Dean Tuney, 10, said he was standing in about six inches of water, trying to net a mullet with his shirt when a fish about two feet long grabbed his finger and held on. A lifeguard finally knocked the bluefish away but young Tuney was threatened with the loss of a finger.

Bonnie Browne, 14, required about 50 stitches to sew up bites in the back of one leg. Bluefish are toothy and sometimes called "choppers" or "bulldogs of the sea" because of their voracious appetites and fighting qualities when hooked. Jacks are spade-shaped fish which lack teeth but also are voracious feeders.

"Actually the fish didn't attack the swimmers," said Brockway. "The swimmers just got in the way of the fish as they pursued the mullet to shore."

Dr. Don De Sylva of the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science said there is "no record of such a massive attack ever occurring on humans."

"In 28 years of working on the beaches here, I can't remember anything like it," said chief lifeguard Jim Holland.

Reilly Convicted Of Manslaughter

LITCHFIELD (UPI) - Peter A. Reilly, 19, awaits sentencing for the death of his mother last September.

A jury found Reilly guilty of manslaughter in the death of his mother last September.

Reilly faces a maximum prison sentence of 20 years. The judge set a May 14 sentencing date.

State's Attorney John F. Bianchi's major point in the Reilly's prosecution was that the young defendant had testified he had seen his mother alive and still gasping for breath after her throat was slashed. A pathologist, Dr. Ernest M. Izumi, had testified that a number of stab wounds and other injuries had been inflicted on the body of Reilly's mother only after she was dead.

Arguing for the defense, Attorney Catherine Roraback said the state had produced no material evidence, and a State Policeman had confessed Reilly into confessing after eight hours of interrogation in Hartford without food or sleep after the crime.

Asked if he had thought the verdict fair, Bianchi, who had sought a murder verdict, told a reporter, "That's all it was, manslaughter. I believed that from the day it happened."

Reilly's mother, Mrs. Patricia Reilly, was 34 when she was killed. She had been in the hospital for several weeks before she died.

Reilly was 17 when he was charged with the murder. He was held in the Litchfield House of Correction, where he was held for several months before being released on bail.

Reilly was 19 when he was convicted of manslaughter. He is currently in the Litchfield House of Correction, where he is serving a 20-year sentence.

Cinematographers Fight For Quality

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Maybe you didn't notice but this is the Year of the Cinematographer. At least, the ASC — American Society of Cinematographers — is trying to get that idea across to the public.

They think, and there is some justice in their position, that moviegoers are not sufficiently aware of the contribution of cinematographers to motion pictures. And so they are launching a big campaign to remedy that situation.

Ernest Laszlo, one of Hollywood's great cinematographers, is currently president of the ASC. He believes that more attention should be focused on the cameramen, because their art is currently in a state of decline.

"Quality has gone out the window," Laszlo says. "The current philosophy seems to be that as long as it gets on the screen, it's all right. It was hard for us to find five worthy nominees for the cinematography Oscar this year."

He thinks that today, with budgetary considerations so important to movie-making, the artistic part of films has become largely forgotten.

"There's no demand for quality photography today," Laszlo says.

He also believes the public has the wrong idea of just what is good photography.

"Quality is not a union nor a guild but an educational, professional and cultural organization. The members — there are only 185 active members — are invited to join. There are a few TV men who have become members but so far there are no women."

One of ASC's most recent activities is an every-other-month program honoring various pioneer cinematographers. Fifteen have been saluted so far.

"Most of our pioneers are getting along," Laszlo says. "We'd like to honor them while they're still alive."

Laszlo points out that that's not exactly the way things should be judged.

"When you do an exterior picture," he says, "and you can wait for the right light, the shots can be taken by 10-year-old child. The way to tell quality photography is in an interior picture — God knows how long it takes to get it right."

 Maurice B. Smith of Broad Brook won the Man-of-the-Month award for February from Metropolitan Fire Insurance Co. & Manchester District office.

The award is based on total

JOBS INCREASE
 The total number of non-farm jobs in New England increased by 4,700 between January and February, according to preliminary figures reported by the New England Regional Office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor.

The increase brought the number of non-agricultural jobs to 4,770,000 and represented 110,200 more jobs than last February. Jobholders in February historically show little change as establishments tend to maintain a steady payroll until spring, the labor report said.

HIGHEST GRADE
 David A. Duchesne of Hebron will be given a Gold Medal Certificate by the Connecticut Society of Certified Public Accountants because he achieved the highest grade, in a single sitting, in last November's state CPA examination.

Duchesne, employed by Sikin, Shapiro & Co., will receive the award at the society's annual ball in September.

Duchesne was one of several hundred candidates who took the four-part CPA test last November.

A University of Connecticut graduate, Duchesne is 23 and single.

News for Senior Citizens

By Wally Fortin

Hi! Another Saturday is here, and boy the days are rolling along and already it's here. Checking further, I see here Memorial Day is just a little over a month away.

Altogether, we find snow on the ground this past Wednesday, but I guess we were lucky, we didn't get all the snow that surrounding areas did.

News this Holy Week starts off with action on Tuesday when we had our regular morning class for ceramics with everyone putting the finishing touches on their Easter bunnies.

Bowling
 In the afternoon, the big noise was the knocking over of the big pins as our Senior Bowling League was busy at the Parkade Lanes with the following results:

In the Women's Class A group, Mary Chaves took both honors of high triple of 460 and the high single of 192.

In the Class B group, Lee Steinhilber took both honors of high triple with 514 and the high single with a 146.

In the Men's Class A group, Wesley Frost took the high triple honors with a 514 and the high single was won by Alfred Ubert with a 192.

In the Class B group, James Raticello took both honors of high triple with 427 and the high single with a 159.

Pinochle
 Next came Wednesday and things started off with 40 players for pinochle with the following lucky winners:

Flora North, 495; Wilfred Messer, 500; Grace Windsor, 589; Wesley Frost, 583; Esther Gaudette, 577; Marjorie McLean, 572; Grace Moore, 589; May Derby, 588; Lee Steinhilber, 566; Lillian Lewis, 555 and Bess Moanan 545.

In the afternoon it was another group for ceramics in one room and we had 20 players in the main hall for bridge with the following winners: Eugene Toch, 5270; Jack Owen, 4340; K. W. White, 3214 and the Danhauser, 3780; Mary Thrall, 3280 and Marjorie McLean, 3220.

Holy Thursday rolled in, and with it some decent weather for a change. Here at the office it was rather lively because we sort of planned it that way. Many of our regular members had suggested that we omit all the usual and lively action so that they could attend body services.

So the place was a little quiet; however, we did have a few visitors, and it was a good chance for us to play catch-up on work and start setting the wheels in motion for our coming "Bib Week." May is Senior Citizen Month, and is the month when we hold our "Big Week."

Gardening
 Remember my telling you about a chance to do some gardening? A chance to grow your own vegetables? Well, we had a few people saying they would be interested, so we will hold a little meeting here at the center Wednesday, April 17 at 1:30 in the afternoon.

It is open to anyone interested in working their own gardens, so come on in and join us. A little hard work now, and you'll be reaping a real harvest before you know it.

Because we were closed on Good Friday, and you folks missed your popular kitchen social games, we decided that for Friday this Thursday we would run a kitchen social for you. Along with this, the afternoon will end with some square dancing.

Speaking of square dancing, our "Linden Squares" will hold their square dance lesson as usual on Thursday morning.

Menu
 Monday: Cream of mixed vegetables soup, steamed frankfurter with sauerkraut, crisp potato chips, pickle, vanilla pudding with topping, beverage.

Wednesday: Corn chowder, tuna fish sandwich with relish, potato chips, cream puff, beverage.

Thursday: Post Easter dinner of chilled tomato juice cocktail, baked shoulder of ham with mustard sauce, oven roasted potatoes, buttered chopped broccoli, roll and butter, chilled fruit, beverage.

Friday: Fluffy pancakes with butter and syrup, grilled sausage and applesauce, beverage.

Schedule for the Week
 Monday, 10 a.m. to noon kitchen social game, one can of canned goods needed; noon to 12:30 p.m., lunch is served; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., set-back games. Bus pickup at 8:30 a.m., return trips at 12:30 and 4 p.m.

Easter

Tomorrow, the Christian community will observe Easter.
The services climax Holy Week and a Lenten period of self-denial by those who profess to follow the teachings of Christ.
While Christ to the Christian embodies a religious concept and way of life, the fact of His mortal existence has made an impact on all the world since his brief life on this earth.
Much of His teachings or philosophy was not new nor exclusive to His followers. In an historical sense, He was a catalyst emphasizing what is good in man and more important, man's potential for good.

His commandment to love your neighbor as thyself is a universal aspiration of all good men. While it is so simple to say, and to believe, it is difficult to practice. For while there is no greater love than a man's love for his fellow man, there is no greater inhumanity than man's inhumanity to his fellow man.
Easter, for the Christian, is a time of introspection and redemption.
For the world, we hope it would symbolize the renewal of desire on the part of good men of all creeds to seek the ways of peace, harmony, and a better life for all men everywhere.

Senate Bill Flawed

The Senate has passed its version of a campaign expenditure reform bill which joins a previous effort still in the house.
The chance of a bill being enacted, even in altered form, is slim if it contains any provision for public financing of campaigns. It would be vetoed by the President.
The overriding of such a veto is remote simply because the members of both houses, as incumbents, do not resist the idea of making it any easier for opponents to raise money.

Appointees divest themselves of any economic interests they might have which might present a conflict of interest in performing their jobs. Maybe the Congress might explore this concept as applied to themselves. It would at least put the sources of their potential influence on their votes on the table so the public can decide whether a vote really represents the electorate he serves or his own economic interests.
What is basically wrong with the spending and contributing limitation type of controls is that they do not do much except hold down the cost of campaigning which is desirable and with which we have no quarrel. But to make it more difficult to raise funds openly will drive the "fat cats" underground instead of eliminating them.

Another flaw is that the limitation on what can be spent is probably within the realm of accounting but the limitation on how much can be contributed is not. If a person is limited to $1,000 dollars per candidate, it is not too difficult for him to get others to front for him to give additional amounts.
The one provision where a potential candidate must raise $10,000 in $100 chunks is also easily circumvented. This has been done in states where there are limits on campaign contributions.
The idea of limiting contributions increases the temptation for under the table shenanigans rather than a cure.
As we have stated before, the money issue is the tip of the iceberg. Power is the root problem.

Public financing will not solve the basic problem of pressure on the office holder. As long as our political system embodies some form of the philosophy, "to the victors, belong the spoils," these pressures remain for it takes more than money to elect. It takes workers, it takes street-corner advocates, and it takes political promises. This is how the two-party system functions and all public financing would do is increase the pressures from non-monetary areas.
The issue is not dead. It may be some time before the House takes up either of both Senate bills. Whatever evolves is not slated to become effective until 1976.
In the meantime, we hope the 1974 candidates and their parties and committees will take the high road in campaigning. If this is done, maybe we will find that personal honesty and self-restraint are still the best ways to eliminate corruption in politics.

Lee Roderick's Special Report
Air National Guard Faces Hairy Problem

By Lee Roderick (Special to The Herald)
WASHINGTON — The country's Air National Guard and Air Reserve programs have a hairy problem on their hands. The issue is, well, hair.
"Serious command, morale, enlistment and reenlistment problems are resulting from the fact that Air Guardsmen are under more stringent haircut regulations than Army Guardsmen who sometimes drill on the same installations," Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) explained in a Senate speech.
The issue has seethed within state ANG units and their parent organization, the National Guard Association of the United States, which has put continuing pressure on the Air Force to relax its grooming standards. The liberal stance taken by Sen. Thurmond, a power on the Senate Armed Services Committee, has increased the pressure.
In a recent letter to Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas, subsequently made public, an ANGAS official, Major General Henry W. McMillan of Florida, said a survey of state units

The Efficiency of Power Plants

By HOLMES ALEXANDER
WASHINGTON, D.C. — An open letter to Mr. John M. Simonsen, chairman, Mechanical Engineering Dept., Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah:
You and a good many mechanical engineers, both academic and industrial, were plenty miffed about my column, in January when I berated "stupid engineering" and called it a story of Stupidity Street that our best power plants have an efficiency of only about 35 per cent.
In my book "Tomorrow's Air Age" (Rinehart, 1953), I had some pages on the "sonic barrier" which was supposed to put a limit on the speed of flight. Early in 1947, the chief engineer of a major aircraft firm declared, "There is no living person who has been able to reach the speed of sound." But in October of the same year, Capt. Charles Yeager flew straight and level over the California desert at 1.3 times the speed of sound. As an aerodynamicist put it to me, "The so-called sonic barrier, turned out to be no more than a bump in the road. I think it's the same way with the 'thermal barrier' which relates to the inefficiency of power generators. I think it's a showed that 38 would prefer more lenient hair standards, with five opposing leniency. General McMillan added that responding states indicated that, because of the regulations, 38 per cent of initial contacts failed to enlist and 39 per cent of Air Guardsmen failed to re-enlist.

"We are strongly convinced that a positive, enlightened approach to bringing current Air Force grooming standards in line with those of today's society will be of mutual benefit to the Air National Guard and United States Air Force alike," he wrote.
Recommendations by ANGAS include (1) allowing hair to touch the ears; (2) allowing hair to extend to the middle of the back collar; (3) allowing sideburns to extend horizontally beyond the corners of the mouth, but not beyond the natural hair growth line; and (4) allowing members of the ANG to wear wigs which conform to grooming standards.

myth. The paper supplied me by Bill Miller is written by J.B. Dicks, University of Tennessee, who says that "this technology is going forward with the anticipation that a power plant effort would commence in two years.
Two years no longer than that to increase the efficiency level from 35-40 per cent to 50-70 per cent. From the Wright brothers' flight in 1903 to the peak of commercial prop-plane efficiency in 1947, the speed of flight had increased by an average of a mere 7 per cent a year. Mechanical engineering has done far better.
When I wrote the column which brought forth objections, Senator Jackson's committee was thrashing around in the Energy Crisis. I talked to witnesses who bemoaned the way we squander every form of energy. One of them pointed out that our industrial power plants allowed about two-thirds of generated energy to get away.
Well, this seemed a good point to make, and I made it. I try not to embrace the conspiratorial theories which are often offered to journalists. I do not believe for a moment that mechanical engineers are holding back technology in collusion with energy producers to create scarcity and high prices. But I bet we haven't yet reached a "plateau" in the efficiency of our power plants.

Today's Thought
The Week of Passions
Sunday's Triumph
If there is no resurrection of the dead, then Christ must still be dead.
And if He is still dead, then all our preaching is useless and your trust in God is empty, worthless, hopeless.
And we apostles are all liars.
If big contributions are immoral, do we need a law saying so? Each candidate is free to reject them. All that is needed is proper publication of contributions on a regular basis and let the voters decide for themselves if a large contribution means a candidate has "sold out."

In 1894, in the depths of the depression, 4.7 million American families were reported to be receiving welfare payments.
In 1941, Russia and Japan signed a five-year neutrality pact.
In 1964, Sidney Poitier became the first black man to win a motion picture "Oscar" as the best actor for the previous year.
A thought for the day: President Thomas Jefferson said: "When you speak, count to 10 before you angry, if very angry, 100."

because we have said that God raised Christ from the grave, and of course that isn't true if the dead do not come back to life again.
If they don't, then Christ is still dead.
And you are very foolish to keep on trusting God to save you, and you are still under condemnation for your sins.
In that case all Christians who have died are lost!
And if being a Christian is only of value to us now in this life, we are the most miserable of creatures.
But the fact is that Christ did actually rise from the dead, and has become the first of millions now dead who will come back to life again some day.

The Easter Egg Hunt

Day Care Center Busy

Visiting the Hockanum Valley Day Care Center in Vernon could be likened to visiting the woman who lived in the shoe with one big difference — the teachers there do know what to do with all of the children.
The center, which is the town's first financed by state and federal funds, is nearing its second birthday and although its start was slow, it is now operating at full capacity of 30 children (aged 3-5) with more on a waiting list.
The fees paid are on a sliding scale. Mrs. Roseann Kapsia is teacher-director and Miss Kathy Belliveau is a full-time teacher. They are assisted by two teacher aides, Debbie Rich and Lorna Dvorak, plus many volunteers in specialized fields. Some mothers also volunteer time to the center.
One has only to spend a day at the center, which is housed in the Vernon Center Congregational Church, to be enveloped with the feeling that it is one big and happy family.
The teachers are keyed to the individual needs of the children and the children seem to know what is expected of them and respect each other and the teachers.
About half of the 30 children arrive in time to have breakfast which is served at 8:30 a.m. Miss Belliveau cooks the breakfast. The cook for the center, Mrs. Joanne Vets, prepares lunch and the morning and afternoon snacks.
Without being told, when a meal or snack is finished, the children take away their table settings and put them on a cart to go to the kitchen.

While one might expect utter chaos with so many small children gathered in one place, there is none of this at the center. The children have fun but they know, for instance, that they are to walk and not run in the halls.
"Guess what I saw yesterday? I saw the man in the pizza shop throw the pizza way up," one little girl confided to her friend. And then she proceeded to make "pizzas" out of the clay she was molding, using her imagination to top it with clay mushrooms and peppers.
"We can take it," one group gleefully chanted as "Miss Kathy" read them a story about animals. Their cue for this chant came when the teacher said, "Oh my goodness!" just before a particularly exciting part of the story.
Under the guidance of Mrs. Kapsia the children very gently planted tomato plant seeds and put them in the windows where they can watch them grow.
Each day's activities are planned by Mrs. Kapsia and carried out by her and her assistants. In the morning the children are divided into groups for pre-school classes. After lunch there is nap time followed by supervised free play. On nice days they go outside and enjoy the new playground equipment complete with sandbox.
During the summer months the children are taken on field trips to such places as the University of Connecticut farm, the Willington Game Farm, the Capitol in Hartford, Lutz Museum in Manchester, and other points of interest.

Mrs. Kapsia said the volunteers are a blessing to the center. Among them are six dentists and one doctor, a nurse provided by the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association, social workers, office workers and a gymnastics instructor. Maryellen Linderman devotes one day a week to teaching the children various crafts. Elise Strickland is a volunteer social worker; Betty Telford drives the mini-bus owned by the center; Alice Moe of the Manchester Child Guidance Clinic volunteers time each week; and Mrs. Dorothy LaMott spends one afternoon a week leading a gymnastics class.
The Vernon Junior Women's Club sees to it that there is a birthday cake for each child's birthday.
There are some items the center needs but does not have the funds to purchase. One of these is a camera so special occasions, and other times too, can be captured on film for the scrapbook the teachers are keeping.
Also needed are an aquarium and riding toys such as tricycles and cars in good condition. The television set on which the children especially liked to watch Sesame Street, was out of commission but another was donated so that has been taken care of.
Children, unlike some adults, do not pretend to like or love someone if the true feeling is not there. The children do love the teachers and workers at the Day Care Center.

Everyone pitches in to help. Stacia Traylor puts her breakfast dishes on the cart as Joanne Doherty walks away.

Planting tomato seeds to watch the plants grow is fun. Helping is Mrs. Roseann Kapsia, teacher-director while Brenda Courtenanche mixes soil. Kevin Young waits for his name tag for his plant.

Riding the wooden "horse" is fun even if you do have to be bundled up in winter clothes. James "Snoopy" Mote coats for a few minutes. Waiting their turn are, left to right, Louise Bernard and Debbie Mair.

Vernon Historical Society Finds Home

The Vernon Historical Society, at a special meeting Thursday night announced it now has a home for its collection of historical memorabilia.

The meeting was also a special one to preview a display of antique toys. Some of the items are now owned by the society and some were loaned for the occasion.

Through an arrangement with the Union Congregational Church, the ell of the Phineas Talcott House at Prospect St. will be used as the society's museum. The ell is part of the parsonage of the Union Church.

The house was built in 1845 by Talcott who gave Talcott Park

(the park across the street from his home) to the town as a public park.

The ell consists of what was once a court room, plus two other smaller rooms. Talcott, in 1847, built the large American Mill on E. Main St. in Rockville. For many years the mill produced some of the finest woolen cloth in this country.

The society feels the historical part of the house, plus the fact it is in a central location, will make it an ideal home for a museum for Vernon. The "court room" will serve as an exhibition hall where displays for public viewing will be set up. For the present, the other two rooms will serve as preparation and storage areas.

Allan Dresser, vice president of the society, will be chairman of the museum committee and Miss Hazel Lutz, founder of the Lutz Junior Museum in Manchester, will direct the setting up of the displays. All members of the society's executive council will serve on the committee. Arthur Lyon is president of the society.

The antique toy exhibit will be open to the public during library hours. It is set up in the Edith Peck Room of the Rockville Public Library.

This miniature gramophone is part of an antique toy display in the Edith Peck Room of Rockville Public Library. It is owned by Miss Bernice Bamforth of Vernon and dates back to the 1920s. The display was assembled by the Vernon Historical Society and it will be open to the public until 6 p.m., April 17. (Herald photo by Richmond)

The black and white checked outfit worn by this child-like mannequin, is one the late George Sykes of Rockville wore when he was a child. Sykes was the president of three mills in Rockville, the three were later merged to form the Hockanum Woolen Mills. The outfit, in near-perfect condition, consists of checked jacket and checked Tam o' Shanter. It is in the display of antique toys at the Rockville Public Library, sponsored by the Vernon Historical Society. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Riding in a doll carriage that dates back to the 1880s is a doll not quite so old, dating back to the early 1900s. Both belonged to the family of Miss Hazel Lutz of Vernon. They are in an antique toy display at the Rockville Public Library. The display was arranged by the Vernon Historical Society. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Home Is the Soldier

By ROBERT CAREY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Braniff Flight 171 was due for a stop at 10:11 p.m. from Oklahoma City on the last flight of the night to Memphis. The airport was nearly deserted, except for a cluster of people at Gate 12. They fidgeted a bit when word came that the flight would be half an hour late because of a schedule mess-up in Oklahoma City. So there I was with more than a half hour and not so much as a newspaper to look at. Concession stand closed. So was the bar — Sunday night.

What to do? In the arrival area at Gate 12 there were a couple of tired salesmen, heading home to Memphis one supposed. And then there was another group, different somehow.

There were several older women, grandmothers maybe, bouncing infants on their knees. Two tall men in jeans and long sleeved dress shirts, booted and angular, with narrow hawklike faces, peered out at the runway and the night.

Over by the window stood three younger women, hair beehived up and back combed like they fit it in country beauty shops.

Children At Play And through and about them all ran about a half-dozen children, aged 4 to 6, having a big time, scooting up and down the empty corridors, playing hide-and-seek.

As we waited a girl in white walked into Gate 12, honey blonde hair, pretty face, turned up nose and a handful of freckles.

She walked up to the younger women. There was some hugging and kissing and, "How pretty you look." Must be old friends. Or maybe relatives. Were they all going somewhere or meeting someone?

As flight 171 landed and the passengers began to deplane, the group at Gate 12 was strangely quiet, men and women like, pressing up to the glass and looking down at the plane.

There he is, one breathed. "My God, he's lost weight," said one of the younger women.

Soldier Weeps Yes, but he looks good," said another, a little uncertainly. Then a father of children, and cries of "Uncle Larry," filled the air. The young man, who entered from the flight line carrying a suitcase, knelt down and caught them up.

He pushed on, one arm still around his mother, and toward two tall men. "Bill," he said to one and shook his hand and then he called the other's name. Brothers maybe.

The girl in white held back shyly as the boy walked to a man who had been seated and now stood. He was a big man, over 6-foot-4 in cowboy boots, a John Wayne with grey hair. He reached out and pulled the boy to him, out of his mother's arms.

The big man's eyes were red, but he held on. He released the boy and shoved him gently toward the girl in white, who smiled and hugged him, too. Then they all began to walk away, the girl in white talking animatedly to the boy, who nodded his head and smiled, still near tears. He did not speak but held on to her as they walked. His father silently took the suitcase, which said "Thailand" on it, and followed them out. The others left, too.

The soldier was home at last.

The soldier was home at last.

Turned Down by Little League

Ten-year-old Pam Cunningham sought to register for the Little League baseball program in Manchester but was turned down. The first girl ever to play in the boys' league, Pam was an all-around performer in the Little Miss Softball League last summer. National Little League rules prohibit girls from playing. The pretty girl has always enjoyed playing sports and was disappointed at being rejected.

Friends 1,000 Miles Away

It takes a little time to get accustomed to this New England weather after a three-week vacation in Florida where the temperature every day ranged from the high 70s to the high 80s.

It's amazing how many Manchester residents now run into 1,000-plus miles from home.

Waiting at the Sarasota Airport, a welcome committee was led by Mrs. L. B. and Mr. J. B. LaBelle. The latter was enjoying a few days in the sun along with his wife and son, Peter. Bray and his wife are winter residents on Siesta Key.

Thanks to the efforts of the Brays, excellent living quarters were enjoyed adjacent to their home on the Gulf of Mexico.

Dr. Robert Keeney, after taking in an annual meeting of physicians in Fort Lauderdale, motored to Sarasota and with the Brays spent some time together. No one enjoyed watching the Grapefruit League exhibition games more than Keeney, who soaked up the sunshine on a relaxing vacation.

Insurance man Dick Carpenter, and his secretary, his wife Doris in this case, were quartered nearby. Both played golf regularly and should be in top shape for competitive play at the Manchester Country Club this season.

I also had a chance visit with Horace Murphy and his wife. Horace is the long-time park superintendent in Manchester, now retired. His guests were also local people. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ferris, who were noting their 50th wedding anniversary.

During a sidewalk art show at one of the shopping centers, one of the exhibitors was Eleanor Morton, who ran Bidwell's Soda Shop in Manchester for years with her husband. They have resided in Sarasota for nearly 20 years.

Guests of the Carpenters who helped make it a Manchester Night over the dinner table one evening just as sunset were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heck, who were vacationing as well as the Alan Ledwards, now permanent East Coast Florida residents. Ledyard is a past president of the Manchester Square Dance Club.

George Benton, former popular Manchester Country Club member and golfer, was encouraged at Payne Park in Sarasota before a White Sox game against Boston. Now retired and living in Gulfport, Benton reported his wife wound up second in the Gulfport Country Club's Women's Division Championship Flight for the club title.

Koelsch Made the Rounds

Jeff Koelsch was another seen in my spring travels. He reported he was touring the camps to try and line up enough ball players to come to Manchester so he could start a Twilight League. Jeff was busy every day at the various ball parks collecting autographs for many local youngsters.

En route to Florida, Jeff stopped off in Greensboro, N.C. for the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament and was accorded the red carpet treatment reserved for members of the fourth estate.

Jay Johnston, the local man who was born on McKee St., was working hard to make the St. Louis Cardinals after a stint with the White Sox and Athletics. He looked impressive both at bat and in the field but didn't catch the fancy of the Card brass and was sent back to Oakland.

One of the highlights of the journey was the annual Governor's Dinner. Making up a table were Bray, Keeney, Koelsch and Nungesser, Bill Lee, Bill Newell and John Kershaw, all of the Cougars. In addition, Bill Lee and Jeff Gomez, in the role of principal speaker, was never better. Twenty-five Hall of Famers were present, as well as managers of most of the 17 major league clubs that train in Florida.

Before the dinner at the game that day in St. Petersburg, Keeney, Bray, Koelsch and Gomez had a fanning bee in the dugout. Gomez asked to be remembered to Jerry Jay, a friend of many years.

It was great to be away and to keep a close tab on the Red Sox, Yankees and Mets in particular, and it is good to get back to the desk, too, despite the unseasonable weather. Have a nice Easter holiday weekend.

Celtics Gain Finals As Buffalo Protests

BUFFALO (UPI) — Jo Jo White, fouled as time ran out by Bob McAdoo, hit two free throws to lift Boston to a 106-104 victory over the Buffalo Braves Friday night and give the Celtics the clinching game in the best-of-seven first round National Basketball Association playoffs.

White, who had three attempts to make two, missed the first free throw, but hit the next two and the Celtics won the series four games to two. Boston will take on the New York Knicks in the East finals following New York's victory over the Capital Bullets.

It was a bitter ending for the scrappy Braves. McAdoo had blocked John Havlicek's 12-foot jumper just before Darrell Garretson called him for hacking White.

McAdoo, who scored 28 of his game-high 40 points in the second half and 14 in the final period, had pulled the Braves into a 104-104 tie with seven seconds left when he stole Don Nelson's inbound pass out of the hands of Dave Cowens and then calmly and steadily to stuff it. That goal capped a Buffalo rally in the last 6-12 minutes when Buffalo led by nine, 97-88.

Shortly after the game, the Braves announced they were considering a protest as a record 18,257 fans screamed their displeasure and tossed garbage at the floor. The Braves claimed that there still was one second left on the clock after White's clinching points.

For two and a half periods, it seemed as if Buffalo would square the series and set up a seventh and deciding game Sunday afternoon in Boston. The Braves with McAdoo, rookie of the year Ernie DiGregorio, and Garfield Heard supplying the scoring, led by 10 points in the opening period by seven in the second quarter before Paul Westphal's 12 points brought Boston to within one, 54-43 at halftime.

Buffalo was in command by seven again, 70-63, with 7:20 left in the third quarter but Havlicek, who topped Boston with 30 points, hit 12 points and White added 10 to carry the Celtics into a 67-68 third-period lead.

Celtics' margin in nine points twice in the closing minutes before McAdoo scored the final two Buffalo baskets for the tie at 104.

White finished with 18 points, 14 in the second half. Reserves Paul Silas and Westphal contributed 16 points apiece. Heard and DiGregorio each tallied 20 for the young Braves, in the NBA playoffs for the first time in their four-year history.

Monroe, Tight Defense Carries Knicks to Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Earl Monroe's 30 points and a tight New York defense that held Capital to only four points in the last four minutes carried the Knicks to a 91-81 victory over the Bullets Friday night in the seventh game of their opening round NBA playoff series.

The Knicks now meet the Celtics in Boston Sunday afternoon in the opener of the final of seven Eastern Conference finals.

The Knicks defense in the second half was the telling phase of the game as they limited the Bullets to 30 points, 10 in the third quarter and 20 in the fourth period.

New York only scored 16 points in the third quarter but Monroe tallied half of that total as the Knicks rallied to a 53-51 halftime margin to 69-61, entering the last period.

Capital refused to fold, however, as the Bullets twice closed to within four points. Archie Clark's basket with four minutes to go left Capital trailing 81-77 and the Bullets lost a chance to close the gap further when Phil Chenier missed two free throws with 2:34 to go.

Baskets by Monroe and Walt Frazier made it 85-77 with 57 seconds left. The best Capital could do after that was two field goals by Tom Kozelko, who had a career high 19 points for the Bullets.

Frazier netted 17 points in the first half, was held scoreless in the third period and managed only four foul shots in the last quarter. His 21 points topped Capital.

Chenier, who scored 17 for New York and Dave DeBusschere added 12. DeBusschere, in his last season with the Knicks, also had 15 rebounds. Center John Gianelli also had 12 points and 13 rebounds but 11 of his retrieves were off the offensive boards.

Elvin Hayes was held to 12 points and Wes Unseld was shut out completely as DeBusschere and Frazier Jackson put the collar on the Capital big men. New York, the defending NBA champions, trailed only once in the game at 84 in the first five minutes but were never headed after that as Monroe and Frazier combined for 27 points in the first half.

UCONN Bow

STORRS (UPI) — University of Connecticut went into the second game of a weekend baseball series against UConn's Storrs campus after losing the opener, 1-2.

Dave Stockton Streaks To Lead in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — In the only other major tournament Masters leader Dave Stockton ever won, he captured the 1970 PGA, he was called a "virtual unknown," but he can expect much more recognition if he hangs on to the lead here for two more days.

"I think my record speaks for itself," said the 32-year-old Californian who has earned eight victories and more than $800,000 in the past eight years on the pro golf tour.

Stockton streaked into the halfway Masters lead Friday thanks to a scrambling, 6-under-par 66 that put him a stroke ahead of Hubert Green and Hale Irwin.

First-round leader Jim Colbert and Frank Beard, who has been fading the past few years, are both at 139 and Gene Littler, Jerry Heard, Tom Weiskopf and Dan Sikes are all grouped with Nicklaus at 140.

Arnold Palmer survived the 36-hole cut (149) by a single stroke when he rebound with a 71 Friday. But defending champion Tommy Aaron, who hasn't played well now for a while, fell by the wayside with his 77-73-150.

Stockton didn't believe his own record Friday, but he said he had a good round until I described it, said Stockton who was in the trees on seven holes and who was constantly scrambling out of trouble.

"I didn't hit very many good shots, did I?" he asked. "I guess I'd better get out and practice. I thought I played better than that."

However, Stockton's scrambling turned up four birdies and one or could finish with a 65, but he finished with a 70 and a 30-foot putt gave him an eagle.

Any golfer who makes an eagle here is given a pair of expensive glass goblets and Stockton admitted he was thinking about them as he lined up his putt.

"Then, I said to myself, 'stupid,' and I thought I was worrying about the goblets for? If you win this thing, you can buy 100 of them."

Stockton admits his driving has been a problem for some time, but he insists, "It's not as bad as it sounds. It's just a matter of hitting it where I wanted to hit it if I'm going to miss."

The 10-year tour veteran credits a Japanese magazine for alerting him to a stance fault, which he has since improved and lengthened his drives.

"The magazine had pictures of 15 or 16 Americans and I had the worse stance of the lot," said Stockton.

"Doc Middlecoff (a television columnist) told me he once spent 10 minutes trying to explain my swing; that he couldn't understand how I could get any power at all with both feet off the ground."

"Now, although it makes me appear bowlegged, I keep my legs still and swing from my armpits down through my hips."

Green, who won both the Bob Hope Desert Classic and the Greater Jacksonville Open earlier this year, and Irwin, whose only two tour victories have been in the Heritage Classic (1971 and 1972), were both one shot off the lead at the end of the first round.

Green had three bogies during a 2-over front nine Friday but bounced back with four birdies on the backside.

"I was not putting well the first few holes," he complained. "I was experimenting with my stroke, which is stupid."

High-Priced Collegians In Hoop Show at East

Two of the most outstanding college basketball players during the 1972-73 season, worth a reported more-than-$3-million dollars when they sign with the pros, will be on display Monday night at East Catholic High.

Marvin Barnes, named one of All-American first teams, will lead the All-Stars against the East Hartford Explorers. The 6-9 Providence College senior will have All-East choice with his charges, Ken Slacion,

Key Injuries To WHA Clubs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Key injuries to the Philadelphia Whalers and the Cleveland Crusaders in the World Hockey Association playoffs.

New England, which won the first Avco World Cup last year, dropped its third consecutive game in the Chicago Cougars, 4-2, Friday night while Cleveland fell to the Toronto Toros, 4-2, in both games, the losing team had the advantage of home ice.

In another quarter-final series, the Edmonton Oilers took a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, three games to one.

The Cougars, who lost their first two quarter-final games to the New England, now own a 2-2 edge in the best-of-seven series and Toronto is trailing with a 3-0 advantage over Cleveland.

Philadelphia beat the Flames, 4-1, Friday night, taking a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, three games to one.

"It's going to be tough now," said Atlanta coach Bernie MacLeish. "We've had to work hard to get back on our feet. We've had to work hard to get back on our feet. We've had to work hard to get back on our feet."

Referee Dave Newell doled out 106 minutes in penalties, which is not a Stanley Cup record but plenty good for a first try in the South.

Play was resumed but 16 seconds later bedlam broke out over straight. United States, the scoring star of the series, stole the puck at mid-ice and skated in alone on Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard. MacLeish's high stick appeared to hit the bar across the top of the net and bounce out. The red light did not go on but Newell ruled it a goal, the fourth of the series for MacLeish.

Bouchard became enraged, charged into the net and hit the chest with his mitt and a moment later his wildly swinging stick caught Newell with a glancing blow. Bouchard received a

Babe Ruth Still King to Older Baseball Fans

NEW YORK (UPI) — A whole generation of young sports fans—and many adults, too—know Babe Ruth only as a baseball star of another era whose career total of 714 home runs was being challenged by Hank Aaron of the Braves.

As Aaron approached that record, these fans began to hear old-timers spin fabulous yarns of the man and his era. They sensed, correctly, too, that there were millions of older people in the United States who will continue to regard Ruth as baseball's all-time home run king regardless of whether Aaron tied or set a new mark.

They sensed correctly, too, that there were millions of older people in the United States who will continue to regard Ruth as baseball's all-time home run king regardless of whether Aaron tied or set a new mark.

The story of Ruth's life is the American dream: poor boy makes good. Born Feb. 7, 1894, in Baltimore, Ruth spent his youth in St. Mary's orphanage and developed his athletic prowess under the direction of Brother Gilbert. Ruth joined the Boston Red Sox as a pitcher in 1914 during the game's dead ball era, was gradually converted to an outfielder because of his longball hitting and was sold to the New York Yankees following the 1919 season.

The Babe became a Yankee at a time when both baseball and the nation were seeking new heroes. Baseball was under a cloud of suspicion caused by the 1919 Black Sox World Series scandal. The United States was entering an era of wonderful nonsense, following World War I, during which it became a nation at play.

A 6 feet 3 inch, 215-pound slugger who swung a 52-ounce bat, Ruth created a new interest for disgruntled baseball fans when he began to hit home runs higher, farther and with immeasurably greater consistency than anyone else in his time. His home runs made the fans forget the Black Sox scandal and restored their faith in the game. His batting power made the Yankees the strongest team in baseball and his drawing power enabled them to construct Yankee Stadium, now undergoing a two-year facelift, as a showcase for the sport.

The era produced other larger-than-life sports heroes such as Jack Dempsey in boxing, Bobby Jones in golf and Red Grange in football but there was always a special Americana about Babe Ruth. His appetites for wine, food and song were enormous but his highly-publicized escapades only seemed to increase his popularity and inflate the legend.

In attempting to understand old-timers' feelings for that legend, young ones must realize that Ruth often hit more homers in a season than any team in baseball, that he packed 637 home runs into a 14-season period from 1920 through 1933 and that he had a remarkable knack for delivering when the spotlight was on him. He hit 15 home runs in 41 World Series games (in addition to his 714 homers in regular season play), batted a record .255 in the 1928 Series with the St. Louis Cardinals, "called his shot" in a 1932 series game and won the first All-Star game for the American League with a home run.

The legend continued to grow as the once lean and hard young ballooned into a moon-faced 250-pounder with curiously spindly legs. It is the figure of that jovial giant which is part of the Ruthian legend although it was the lean and hard figure of earlier years that transformed the game of Ty Cobb into the game of Babe Ruth.

Ruth ended his Yankee career on a sour note when the club refused to make him manager in 1934 and he played out the last 28 games of his career with the Boston Braves in 1935. He still had the old flair, hitting the last three home runs of his career in a game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, May 25, 1935.

He had a brief fling as a coach with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1938 but then went out of baseball until 1947 when he was named American Legion Junior Baseball Director for the Ford Motor Company.

Ruth died of cancer on Aug. 16, 1948, leaving behind him a legend which may remain unique forever in sports history.

American League Roundup

Angels' Robinson Off to Fast Start

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hank Aaron isn't the only "old-timer" who is teaching today's youngsters a thing or two about the rudiments of batting.

Frank Robinson is handling his own quite nicely.

The 38-year-old Robinson, beginning his 19th season in the majors, is off to a blazing start in his role as the designated hitter of the California Angels.

Robinson, who owns a career batting average of .298 and stands fourth on the all-time home run list, socked the 554th homer of his career and added a pair of singles Friday night while leading the Angels to their fifth victory in six starts, a 15-1 rout of the winless Chicago White Sox.

Robinson's three hits gives him nine in 25 at-bats and his RBIs Friday night ran his total to nine in six games. Yet, Robinson tended to play down his own efforts and prefers instead to talk about the Angels' youth movement.

"I don't really want to talk about my own accomplishments," he said. "I'd much rather talk about getting young players on this team. The (writers) thought we'd only go as far as our pitching but I've said all along the club is much more improved, not only defensively but also offensively. Our lineup we're gonna get a lot of hits and score a lot of runs."

So far the Angels have lived up to Robinson's billing. In three of their first five wins to date the club scored eight runs or more and in their last two victories it has totalled 26 runs on 31 hits.

Manager Bobby Winkles concurs with Robinson's evaluation.

"Now we have five players in a row who can really pop the ball," says Winkles, referring to Bobby Valentine, Robinson, Bob Oliver, Mike Epstein and Lee Stanton. "Last year we had only Oliver and Robinson."

Mickey Rivers and Dave Chalk also drove in three runs for the Angels, who handed the White Sox their fifth straight loss. Nolan Ryan, a 21-game winner last year, went eight innings to pick up his first win of the year.

In other American League games, Baltimore topped Milwaukee, 5-3, Cleveland routed New York, 9-1, and Boston defeated Detroit, 6-3. Kansas City at Minnesota was postponed because of wet grounds.

Orioles 5, Brewers 3
A pair of pitches by Jim Slaton enabled two runs to score in the fourth inning and provided the margin of victory for Baltimore. The Orioles, leading 2-0, had loaded the bases with one out in the fourth when Slaton uncorked a pair of wild pitches to chase across two runs. Mark Belanger followed with a sacrifice fly to give the Orioles a commanding 5-0 lead.

Gaylord Perry, beaten by the Yankees last week, tossed a four-hitter and Frank Duffy hit a three-run homer as the Indians posted their first win of the year after five defeats. Buddy Bell also homered for Cleveland.

Red Sox 6, Tigers 3
Bernie Carbo, acquired in an off-season trade with St. Louis, hit his first career grand-slam homer in the first inning to spark Boston's triumph. Carl Yastrzemski later chipped in with a RBI. Al Kaline, serving as Detroit's designated hitter, homered for the losers.

Rough Tough Philadelphia Takes Commanding Lead

ATLANTA (UPI) — There was blood on the ice. Fights were going on all across the rink. Fans were on their feet screaming and throwing debris. Policemen were rushing to rinkside.

And a visiting television announcer calmly told the folks back home:

"Stanley Cup hockey has come to Atlanta."

Philadelphia beat the Flames, 4-1, Friday night, taking a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, three games to one.

"It's going to be tough now," said Atlanta coach Bernie MacLeish. "We've had to work hard to get back on our feet. We've had to work hard to get back on our feet. We've had to work hard to get back on our feet."

Referee Dave Newell doled out 106 minutes in penalties, which is not a Stanley Cup record but plenty good for a first try in the South.

National League Roundup

RSox' Lee Far Ahead Of '73 Pace

BOSTON (UPI) — Bill Lee figures both he and the Boston Red Sox are miles ahead of their 1973 pace.

Lee won his first game of the season Friday as the Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers, 4-3. And beating the Tigers is something the Red Sox didn't do too successfully last season.

"It's April 12, and I've got my first win. How about that," Lee said. "At this time last season, I didn't even get into a game, let alone win one. I was supposed to be traded to Philadelphia at this time last year, remember?"

Last season, it took Boston two days before they could beat the Tigers, and Detroit's domination over the Red Sox was considered a prime reason why Boston didn't win its division.

"We were 3-15 against them last year," Lee said. "This year, we're 1-0. I'd say we were always out of last year's pace. Lee allowed only five hits and an unearned run in seven innings, before tiring

The show was directed by Mrs. Dorothy Taggart. Sharon Sorokin, 18, of West Hartford, was harpist and Glenn Brainard, 12, of Old Saybrook, was piper.

The leading players included Sharon Vezina as Alice; Michael Peppin, the White Rabbit; Melissa Farmer as Caterpillar; Betsy Hadigian, Cheshire Cat; Cathy Pepin, Dishes; John D'Auteuil, Mad Hatter.

Also, Brian Chandler, March Hare; Glenn Keegan, Dormouse; Vera Englert, Grifton and Brian Jordan, Mock Turtle.

A Glastonbury man was shot in the head and stomach late Friday night while visiting at the Town House Garden Apartments, Strawberry Rd., Ellington.

Stafford State Police charged Patricia B. Pinto, 31, of Glastonbury with first-degree assault in connection with the shooting of her husband, Walter Pinto, 35.

According to State Police, Mrs. Pinto followed her husband to the Ellington address and shot him following an argument.

Pinto was taken to Rockville General Hospital then transferred to Hartford Hospital where he was admitted. He was undergoing surgery this morning.

Mrs. Pinto was released on a $1,000 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12 April 22.

Oil
dertaken in these waters under carefully stipulated and controlled conditions.

The report said should leasing begin it is important that the activities "take place under a policy which puts very high priority on environmental protection, particularly in areas where uncertainty is great."

"The risk of damage to human and natural environments is an inseparable part of such development," the council said. "The guiding principles must be to keep the risks to an acceptable level. Where the risk is greater than that of an available alternative for meeting the same objectives, we should not move ahead until we know more and can do better."

"Where the risk is acceptable, we should proceed with caution and with a commitment to prevent and minimize potential damage."

The nine potential drilling sites include one in the Gulf of Alaska, four in the New England area, five in the Baltimore Canyon trough off the Middle Atlantic, and five in the southeast Georgia Embayment off the Atlantic Coast from northern Florida to South Carolina.

The council, in assessing the potential oil producing areas, classified each drilling site according to the risk involved.

Church Seeks Easter Funds For Charities
A special Easter collection for archdiocesan charities will be taken today and Easter Sunday at all Manchester Roman Catholic churches.

Funds raised from the collection, which will be held in all Catholic churches throughout Hartford, New Haven and Litchfield Counties, will help support the many multi-sided services and programs directly affecting the lives of over 65,000 people each year, regardless of race, religion or economic circumstances, according to the Rev. John J. Reilley, archdiocesan director of charities.

The appeal helps support numerous services for the needy, poor, disadvantaged, sick, retarded, deaf, troubled young and old. Funds raised remain in the community and in the archdiocese and go directly where the need is, he said.

Quilting Bee at Rec

Mrs. Janet Pickral is tying off a quilt under the supervision of Mrs. Bea Sheftel dressed in old fashioned attire. About ten ladies, quilting students of Mrs. Sheftel, met Thursday at the West Side Rec for an "old fashioned quilting bee" to tie off their quilts they had been working on. This is one of the town's programs funded by the Emergency Employment Act for the past two years. The funding has provided for women in Manchester programs that never existed before. This funding ceases after this year. (Herald photo by Pinto)

New Hope Manor Topic For Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Madeline Uccello, president of New Hope Manor, the drug rehabilitation home for girls on Hartford Rd., will discuss New Hope Monday at the American Legion Auxiliary meeting at the Legion Home.

The Auxiliary will have a brief business session at 7:30 p.m., and Mrs. Uccello will speak at the group's Children and Youth program at 8.

Members of allied organizations have been invited to this program, which is open to all interested persons. Mrs. Sadye Dugas of Bristol, Department of Connecticut chairman for children and youth; and Mrs. Mary Walker of Manchester, district chairman, will attend the event.

Mrs. Leon Bradley is in charge of the social hour, which will conclude the evening's program.

During the evening, Mrs. Martha Freeman will present a gift to the member turning in the most coupons for the April Shower of Coupons, which is part of the child's welfare program to aid less fortunate children.

Members are reminded to bring white elephant or food items for the First District flea market booth April 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Windsor Locks. Members wishing to bake for this project may call Mrs. Laura Freeman, 649-1671, to have items picked up April 20 or 21 before 10 a.m.

Favorite prayers for the unit chaplain's "Book of Prayers" should be brought to this meeting, as the book is due at the district office this month.

Police Report

MANCHESTER

Frank Wojtyna, 35, of East Hartford, was charged with evading responsibility Friday. According to police, Wojtyna's vehicle was in collision with a parked car at Park and New Sts. owned by George Howard, 156 Park St. Court date is April 29.

Edward Staudt, 16, of 193 Loomis St. was charged with fourth-degree larceny Friday in connection with a shoplifting incident at K-Mart. He was released on a written promise to appear April 22.

A tape player valued at about $50 was reported stolen from a locked vehicle parked in the Parkade lot late Thursday.

VERNON

David Reese, 20, of Springfield, Mass., was charged with operating an unregistered motor vehicle Friday. He was released on a $50 non-surety bond for court appearance May 7.

Informing Public Goal Of Main Street Guild Fire Calls

The Main Street Guild decided Friday to devote the coming year to informing the public on the true situation of the downtown merchants.

Lee Watkins, guild president, said "there have been misconceptions which we hope to clear up." He referred, for one thing, to the voluntary eight extra tax mills which the downtown merchants pay to maintain the extra parking areas, and which he does not believe everyone is aware of.

At the meeting, the members expressed dissatisfaction with town Director Phyllis Jackson's remark that the merchants couldn't even agree on the hours they would be open, made at a recent town Board of Directors meeting.

Watkins said that of the estimated 120 merchants on Main St., there were maybe about 10 who did not keep the same hours as the rest of the businesses.

"The majority of merchants maintain a regular 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. day with Thursday evenings open," he said. Some close their stores Monday or Wednesday afternoon, but the situation is not as bad as some people think, he said.

There have been instances, said Watkins, of difficulty in getting the cooperation of chain-operated stores who must "take so much time and go through so much red tape" to get a reply to a request from the guild.

Among upcoming sales promotions are a combined sidewalk sale and exhibit by the merchants and members of arts and crafts societies July 11, 12 and 13.

Soccer Is A Simple And Super Game!

Soccer is a game of action.

Soccer is the most popular sport in the world. It is THE BIG SPORT in just about every country, except the United States and Canada.

Soccer is a game that everybody can play. You don't have to be a certain size. No fancy uniforms are needed. The action changes so fast that there are no set plays; you have to be creative and think. It's excellent exercise, since players usually don't stop playing, except for a 10-minute half-time, or if there is a foul or bad injury.

This shows how teams line up before the kick-off that starts the game.

Soccer is called football in some countries. The object of the game is to kick the ball through a goal. Only the GOALIE can touch the ball with his hands. The five FORWARDS lead the attack and usually score the goals. Three HALFBACKS help the forwards on the offense and defend the goal on the defense. The main job of the two fullbacks is to try to defend their goal to keep the other team from scoring.

Girls make very good soccer players and play on the same team with boys.

A-GOALIE defends his goal. Only one point is scored if the ball goes into the net. Most soccer games have very low scores. Some people do not like this fact about the game.

Soccer Words

Heading—Hitting the ball with your head.

Tackling—Using the feet to get the ball away from an opponent without tripping him.

Passing—Kicking the ball to a teammate. In most cases, this is done with the inside of the foot.

Heeling—Kicking the ball with the heel.

Goal area—The area in front of the nets.

Goal kick—This kick is taken by the defending team when a member of the attacking team kicks the ball over the goal line, but not into the nets. It is kicked from inside the goal area.

Corner kick—This kick is taken by the offensive player when a defensive player kicks the ball over his own goal line, but not into the nets. It is taken from the corner of the field.

Touchline — The lines on each side of the field.

Linesmen—The two officials that stand on each sideline or touchline and decide who gets control of the ball when it goes out of bounds.

Referee—The only official who goes onto the playing field. He enforces the rules, keeps time, penalizes and suspends the players.

Throw-in—The way the ball is put back into play after it goes over the touchline. When a member of one team kicks it out, a member of the opposing team gets to throw the ball in. When he does this, he must keep both feet on the ground and hold the ball over his head with both hands.

Drop-ball—The way the referee sometimes puts the ball back into play by dropping it between two opposing players.

Super Super Sport: Pelé

Pelé, a soccer star from Brazil, is one of the world's greatest athletes. He has been called Brazil's greatest natural resource. In order to avoid the crowds of fans, he sometimes has to be taken to the playing field by helicopter. Pelé is the world's highest paid athlete. He has other interests. He is in the construction and rubber products business. He also likes to write folk songs. He was so poor when he was growing up that he could not afford a ball. He would practice soccer by kicking a grapefruit or sock filled with sand.

What's Wrong Here?

Animal of the Week:

The Indian Rhinoceros

There are only around 600 Indian rhinos left in the wild. They are hunted for sport and because some people believe that their horns have magical powers. Their skin has no hair, but the horn is made up of hairs pressed tightly together. The rhino in this picture has had its horn removed. Adults live alone. The babies stay with their mother for two years. They eat grass and reeds.
