VD Program Evaluated

Donna Holland, school nurse, presented Board of Education members with an evaluation by the students and staff of the recent general discussion program for students in Grades 8, 10 and 12.

The format of the program was changed from three class sessions due to the response of students in Grade 10. The three filmstrips were used in one class session with male and female students separated for discussion the following day.

Evaluation by the staff noted that the program was generally well received. Dr. Ames LePan, school physician, said his sessions with Grade 8 and 12 boys were excellent and Grade 10, although not as good, was an acceptable session.

Mrs. Meridy's groups of Grade 10 and 12 girls had excellent participation and discussion. Grade 8 girls were less verbal but equally as interested.

Comments from students who saw the filmstrips ranged from "informative" to "boring" with an almost unanimous majority of students giving positive comments about the VD education program.

School board members approved the VD program as part of the regular school curriculum. They said future programs should be similar to this year's in time and scope and an outline of the program must be presented to them each year for reviewing prior to implementation.

Landfill Site Safe

Virginia Carlson, Correspondent, Tel. 228-9224. A geological survey indicates the 26-acre site on Rt. 4, east of Lenard's initial engineering investigation disclosed a substantial portion of the parent soil and cover substance consists of gravelly material.

The summary states ground water flows toward the small surface brooks at the eastern and western boundary which in turn discharge into Hop River. Solid Waste Commission Robert Victor, chairman of the Solid Waste Commission, said 2,000 window stickers will be delivered May 2 and will be distributed to residents through the town clerk's office. He said he would distribute them personally at the landfill site on Saturdays. Car registration must be shown to obtain a sticker, he added.

Lenard said the survey proved water will never flow across Rt. 6 to endanger any wells there.

Watergate Transcripts Made Public President Defends Watergate Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A black station wagon was loaded with transcripts of edited versions of many of President Nixon's Watergate conversations and then transported to the Capitol Hill building for use by House impeachment investigators. Richard Houser, a member of Nixon's legal staff for several months, sat in the passenger seat in the station wagon. The automobile, bearing private license plates, left the White House at 9:20 a.m. EDT, in plenty of time to deliver the voluminous documents, as Nixon promised in a television address Monday night, to the House Judiciary Committee by the 10 a.m. EDT deadline for his response to a committee subpoena.

But while announcing Monday night that he would supply 1,200 pages of edited transcripts, Nixon refused to comply with the impeachment panel's subpoena for actual tapes of 42 of his conversations. He said the transcripts "if read with a fair, open mind" will prove him innocent of any wrongdoing in the Watergate break-in and cover-up and show "the President has nothing to hide in this matter."

Eight male members of the White House staff loaded bulging brown envelopes—one for each of the 38 members of the committee—into the station wagon parked in front of the west wing of the executive mansion. They carried three four-wheel cars pushing the envelopes through the double doors of west wing and within five minutes the job was completed and the station wagon was on its way.

President Richard Nixon, conceding that his refusal to surrender secret White House tapes had "heightened the mystery about Watergate" and caused suspicions about his own role, said Monday night he would send edited transcripts to the House Judiciary Committee that is considering his impeachment. He is shown with the transcripts in his office following his nationwide television address. (UPI photo)

George Bush, GOP chairman, called it "a major step in putting impeachment proceedings behind us" and Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott welcomed the "wealth of material," he said was being given the committee.

The White House itself reported the initial public reaction running 5 to 1 in favor of Nixon, according to telephone calls through the White House switchboard.

Party Leaders React Along Partisan Lines

By SOL R. COHEN. Manchester's two political chairmen have expressed diametrically opposite reactions to President Nixon's offer Monday night to make public edited transcripts of White House tapes. Republican A. Paul Berte called the offer "a significant step forward toward resolving the Watergate question."

Algerian Leader Backs Cease-Fire

ALGIERS (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today Algerian President Houari Boumedienne has endorsed his efforts to win a Syrian-Israeli cease-fire and an agreement on disengaging their forces. Boumedienne's endorsement was important because the Algerian leader has a special relationship with Syrian President Hafez Assad. So does President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, and Kissinger flew to Alexandria today to seek his blessing.

Public Reaction Covers Extremes

By GIL GODFREY. United Press International President Nixon's broadcast address defending his Watergate policies Monday night drew diametrically opposite reactions from citizens surveyed by United Press International. Commenting on the President's offer to give the House Judiciary Committee transcripts of the White House tapes, Theodore LaBarre Jr., Glen Burnie, Md., a cable production worker for Western Electric, said: "I think it's a fair compromise. I think it should be the end of Watergate. I think as a man he has been harassed enough. This should end here and now."

Judiciary Committee Still Wants Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most members of the House Judiciary Committee say they are not satisfied with President Nixon's offer of Watergate transcripts rather than tapes. The committee apparently will proceed with its impeachment inquiry with what the White House gives it, while continuing to press for more. Nixon's offer of Watergate transcripts rather than tapes, the House Judiciary Committee said Monday, is "a major step in putting impeachment proceedings behind us" and Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott welcomed the "wealth of material," he said was being given the committee.

Temperature Record Set For April 29

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — Summer put its foot in the door Monday with a record-breaking temperature of 91 degrees recorded at Bradley International Airport. The National Weather Service said the reading came at 4:49 p.m. and shattered a record set April 29 that had stood for 83 years. The previous high for the date was 85 degrees recorded in 1911. The weather service said increased cloudiness today could be expected to keep the temperature in the mid 80s with a strong possibility of cooling showers tonight.

Police Pension Amendments Being Drafted

When the Manchester Board of Directors on April 16 approved improved retirement benefits for police personnel (part of the contract package negotiated by Town Manager Robert Weiss and the Police Union), it took the first of two required steps. The second will be approval by the Board of Directors of Pension Plan, to implement the improvements. The Town Pension Board Monday after discussing the improved benefits, vote to instruct the town clerk to draft the amendments and to return the draft to the Pension Board for its review. Following the review, they will be placed on the Board of Directors' agenda for a public hearing and action.

Vernon Church Rejects Tennis Courts

The Church Council of the Talcottville Congregational Church has voted against letting the town put up tennis courts on its property on Elm Hill Rd., Talcottville. The town had asked to use part of the church parking lot to install the courts using money from the Path Talcott Britton Trust Fund for construction costs. The fund specified that money be used for the benefit of the Talcottville section of town. In turning down the request the council cited three major reasons for doing so. It expressed concern that there would be a lack of supervision of the courts and the fact this could be detrimental to the town. A plan to have the courts lighted so they could be used until 10 p.m. or later, led the council to fear this might disturb the residents of the area. The church council also doubted the wisdom of trying up the church land for the some 20 years the courts would be expected to last. Mayor Frank McCoy said he is disappointed in the council's action, but the church owns the property and can make whatever decision it chooses. He expressed the hope that another location in Talcottville can be found to install the proposed courts. He said the Talcottville section of Vernon has no municipal recreation facilities and it had been hoped that the tennis courts could be a first step in supplying such facilities.

Helmet or Horn?

The current protest being presented by motorcycle enthusiasts against the law requiring they wear helmets, reached new heights over the weekend when a large group of riders appeared on the State Capitol lawn.

It may well be that the present design of the helmets does indeed impair hearing and vision. But if so, why change the law - change the helmet.

I'm Not Getting Older

Last week was my birthday and the kids insisted on putting ALL the candles on my cake. "These candles don't bother me one bit," I said. Remember the TV commercial, "I'm not getting older. I'm getting better." "Better at what?" asked Tom as he skinned a finger full of frosting off the cake.

I'm better at braiding beads without leaving frizzy ends. And at ironing patches on jeans and making them stay. I'm better at serving hamburger 10 different ways, at making powdered milk taste like the real thing and at getting cat hair off the upholstery.

I'm better at delegating household jobs to the kids. In after quizzing four children on their number facts, I'm getting better at mine too. I'm better at getting up in the morning, even on rainy days. At hanging the car keys in their proper place and at returning library books before they're overdue.

I'm better at keeping my mind in socks. Most of the time. And I'm better at accepting the fact that I'll never play tennis like Billie Jean King. On the television commercial when they say "You're not getting older, you're getting better," the idea is presented dramatically. Violins sing. Or the surf pounds against the rocks. Or the heavens explode with a cascade of shining stars.

I can't help but wonder: Do you suppose we're talking about the same kind of "better"?

I'm Not Getting Older

Last week was my birthday and the kids insisted on putting ALL the candles on my cake. "These candles don't bother me one bit," I said. Remember the TV commercial, "I'm not getting older. I'm getting better." "Better at what?" asked Tom as he skinned a finger full of frosting off the cake.

I'm better at braiding beads without leaving frizzy ends. And at ironing patches on jeans and making them stay. I'm better at serving hamburger 10 different ways, at making powdered milk taste like the real thing and at getting cat hair off the upholstery.

I'm better at keeping my mind in socks. Most of the time. And I'm better at accepting the fact that I'll never play tennis like Billie Jean King. On the television commercial when they say "You're not getting older, you're getting better," the idea is presented dramatically. Violins sing. Or the surf pounds against the rocks. Or the heavens explode with a cascade of shining stars.

I can't help but wonder: Do you suppose we're talking about the same kind of "better"?

Bolton Residents Vote Appropriations

DONNA HOLLAND

Although a few short weeks ago only a handful of residents turned out to scan the town budget, over 100 residents attended Monday's Town Meeting which adjourned 20 minutes after it began.

All items on the call were unanimously approved except the tennis courts which were approved with only a few nays heard.

Residents approved $20,000 from the capital and non-recurring budget and $20,000 from cash surplus to the Board of Education budget for construction of four tennis courts with metered lighting at Bolton High School.

Harold Laws, former town counsel, and present chairman of the charter commission, asked what use would be made of the tennis courts. He was opposed to the courts, feeling the Unanimously approved by the department and general public. An amendment to the tennis court proposition offered by Morris Silverstein to take the full $40,000 from the capital and non-recurring budget to avoid raising the mill rate was almost unanimously defeated.

Several residents spoke against the amendment. Residents unanimously approved the proposition for the purchase of a refrigerator and two mixers, total amount reimbursable. Unanimously approved by those attending the town meeting was $1,000 from capital and non-recurring to the Public Building Commission budget for plans for a firehouse addition.

Vernon Fire Funds Wait Study

BARBARA RICHMOND
Following the recommendations of the Fire Protection Committee, the Vernon Town Council voted Monday night not to place money in the proposed budget for any additional building facilities or major equipment for the town fire departments.

The District 2 (Vernon) department had requested an amount of $100,000 for an aerial truck with platform and $20,000 for a four-by addition to the Vernon Center fire station.

The District 1 (Rockville) department had requested an amount of $95,000 for the purchase of an additional aerial truck.

In his recommended budget Mayor Frank McCoy had deleted all of these items noting he did not feel they should appear in the department budgets.

The Fire Protection Committee headed by Councilman Donald J. Dime, in recommending that the items be reinstated, said, however, it recognizes the eventual need for additional apparatus and additional firehouse facilities.

"We feel, however, that there are many aspects of the overall picture which need further investigation, which we intend to undertake and complete by October of this year," Eden said.

He said it would be the committee's intention, at that time, to present a complete package including necessary new equipment and necessary new firehouse facilities.

He said it would offer residents two questions to be placed on a referendum to be placed on the ballot in November for consideration.

South Windsor Plum Gulley Referendum To Be Two Questions

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent

Following a public hearing Monday night on the $2.4 million Plum Gulley project, the South Windsor Town Council said it would offer residents two questions to be placed on a referendum to be placed on the ballot in November for consideration.

The sparsely attended meeting included a presentation by the Rev. John Jay Gagnon, pastor of the church, which explained the background regarding the project as well as the many facilities which would be offered to residents in the area.

The proposal, with an estimated cost of $2.4 million, involves 65 acres of land at Nevers and Sang Hill Rd. It would include a library, community hall, swimming pool, baseball fields, and tennis and hardball courts. The site, according to Father Gay, is an area closest to the highest density of population in South Windsor.

A spokesman for the South Windsor Association of Citizens (SWAC) expressed concern that some residents would not be able to afford a fee that would be charged for the use of ice skating and swimming facilities. The fee, which would help to offset the yearly maintenance and operational costs of the park would probably be in the area of $15 per year, per family for ice skating and $3 for swimming. Mayor Robert Smith explained however that the council had not yet voted on this.

A resident in favor of the project said that she doubted that any family in South Windsor could not afford $1 per week for recreation, "less than the price of a movie or a six-pack of beer."

Mayor Smith also explained a great part of the park would carry no service charge such as the community building, baseball diamonds, which explained the background regarding the project as well as the many facilities which would be offered to residents in the area.

Long time resident Robert Sills said, "I'm in favor of any cultural and recreational activity that the high rise in cost of living had put a strain on the family budget."

The project is scheduled to come to referendum June 15.

Court Reform Bill Sent to Governor

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill streamlining Connecticut's courts breezed through the Senate Monday and was sent to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for signature.

Voting 28-8, the upper chamber adopted a measure merging the Circuit Court with the Court of Common Pleas. The bill was described by its proponents as a first step toward eventual consideration of the state's trial courts into a one-tier system.

As amended by the House, the bill would maintain court sessions at locations in the present circuit courts. However, the chief judge administrator may assign court locations if the former locations are deemed impracticable and inconvenient.

The new Court of Common Pleas, which would have 61 judges would handle civil cases with claims up to $15,000 and criminal cases involving up to five years imprisonment. Major criminal and civil cases would continue to be handled by the Superior Court for which the number of judges would be raised from 46 to 51.

Salaries for the chief judge of the Court of Common Pleas would be raised from $30,000 to $32,500, for the chief judge of the juvenile court from $28,000 to $29,000, for any former Common Pleas judges elevated to $28,000.

In another action, the Senate approved, with an accompanying legislation regulating fuel cost adjustment.

The measure, which was sent to the House, would add two members to the state Public Utilities Commission, for a total of five commissioners.

The commission would hold a public hearing and investigate any proposed fuel cost rate adjustment.

However, utility companies would be allowed to pass on to the consumer higher costs of producing electricity, pending the results of the public hearing. Under the bill, the interim rate would be refunded with interest if it is more than the rate approved by the PUC.

The measure would create an office of consumer counsel within the PUC. The counsel will act as advocate for consumers on matters under consideration by the PUC.

Energy Agency Bill Enacted

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill is expected to sign legislation creating a powerful energy agency and giving the governor broad emergency energy powers.

The Senate took final action on the measure Monday, adding $150,000 to the funding of the act, then passing it on a 34-2 vote.

An amendment prohibiting preferential treatment or discrimination in the sale of petroleum products or heating oil, was rejected by the upper house by a vote of 15-2.

The House version appropriated $600,000 to carry out the new program aimed at lessening the impact of an impending energy shortage in the state, but the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. Philip N. Costello Jr., R-Madison, boosting the funds to $700,000.

The anti-bias amendment was offered by a group of Democrats: Sens. Wilber G. Smith of Hartford, Anthony M. Carlone of New Haven and Joseph Lieberman of Stamford.

The measure would create a 13-member energy advisory board charged with projecting the state's energy needs over a 20-year period.

Mock Trials Highlight Law Day Celebrations

The Manchester Bar Association this week is joining with hundreds of bar associations nationwide in the 17th observance of Law Day (May 1).

Law Day was first established in 1958 by the American Bar Association to advance equality and justice under law. This year's observance is directed toward youth under the theme, "Young America Lead the Way."

The event, endorsed by Gov. Thomas Meskill in Connecticut, involves ceremonies and special school programs throughout the state.

In Manchester, the bar association's educational program includes appearances by association members at town schools and the presentation of the annually popular "mock trials" at Manchester and East Catholic High Schools.

Atty. Thomas P. Fitzgerald, Law Day chairman for the local bar association, said the program is designed to educate Manchester youth by conveying a deeper understanding and appreciation of what law is and how the legal process functions today.

Association members visiting Bennett Junior High School this week are focusing on the rights and responsibilities under the law.

Fitzgerald said he said members are encouraging support of the legal system and the democratic process.

He also announced the presentation of "mock trials" - involving students - at the local and county bar associations have planned a variety of educational programs, dinners, and speeches throughout the state.

Mayors and first selectmen of seven municipal officials, and judges in all Connecticut courts have scheduled ceremonies at the opening of Wednesday sessions. The 25 local and county bar associations have planned a variety of educational programs, dinners, and speeches throughout the state.

Nixon would go on television: "I don't see why he should describe his answer to the committee's subpoena on television unless he is trying to get public support. I hope he doesn't start playing for public sympathy."

Robert S. Strauss, Democratic national chairman, urged the three main television networks before the address "to reconsider the grant of air time to President Nixon tonight... An appearance on television of the subject of the inquiry appears to be a political action unrelated to the proper legal process."

Even some of the Republicans who said they were satisfied with the offer acknowledged that it was not a complete response to the subpoena.

Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., said it was "not a direct response to the subpoena but it was a situation I can accept." Rep. Lawrence Hogan, R-Md., said he thought it would "satisfy our demands."

Sen. Gurney Charges Political Harassment

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, said Monday he is "absolutely innocent" of charges that he accepted campaign contributions without reporting them.

Gurney, a staunch defender of President Nixon, called his indictment by the Leon County Grand Jury on a misdemeanor charge of violating the state election laws a case of "political harassment of the basest order."

A Gurney aide, John Gardner, said in Washington that the senator's Jacksonville attorney, E. Harris Dittmar, will accept service of the summons and immediately file motions in the circuit court for dismissal.

Other motions will demand a "statement of particulars" outlining facts as the state sees them, a speedy trial, and a deposition from state Rep. Marshall S. Harris, D-Miami, Gurney's major antagonist in the re-election year drama.

Gurney quickly accused state Sen. Richard A. Pettigrew and another Democrat and a confederator for his U.S. Senate seat — of conspiring with Harris to dump up the indictment to embarrass him politically. Pettigrew and Harris said they were not out to torpedo him through the grand jury.

Harris made charges of election law violation against Gurney in a deposition before the grand jury, saying that the freshman senator violated state election laws with $100,000 in contributions collected in his behalf in 1972. "I am absolutely innocent," said Gurney. "This is deliberate political harassment of the basest order."

"A U.S. Senate seat is clearly at stake here," he said in a statement issued from his Washington office. "That's why Harris and Pettigrew started this, so that the Democrats won't have to face me this fall. They cannot beat me in a fair and above-board election, and they know it..."

The grand jury is said to have issued the indictment after watching a videotape of a Dec. 6 news conference in which Gurney admitted learning of the contributions, but said he did not report them to the secretary of state at that time because he was not formally a candidate for reelection and had no campaign treasurer.

Gurney is scheduled to testify before the Jacksonville grand jury May 21.

Funeral services are Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the chapel of Weinstein Mortuary, 640 Farmington Ave., Hartford. Rabbi Leon Wind and Cantor Israel Tabatsky of Temple Beth Shalom will officiate. Burial will be in the Brahler Benevolent Association Cemetery, Hartford.

Memorial Week will be observed at 54 Stephens St. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Israel Emergency Fund in care of the Hartford Jewish Federation, 330 Bloomfield Ave., West Hartford.

Correction
In Monday's Herald, it was stated incorrectly that proposed $27,380 appropriation to the Manchester Highway Department would be funded from 1973-74 General Fund surplus. Actually, it would be from 1972-73 surplus. The 1973-74 fiscal year will not end until June 30 and its surplus, if any, will not be known until the town audit is completed, near the end of 1974.

Catholics Seek Funds To Aid High Schools

With a $500,000 deficit in their high school budgets, Roman Catholic school officials appealed to Catholics in the Hartford Archdiocese Monday to save the schools from financial disaster.

The Rev. Msgr. James A. Connelly, superintendent of schools for the archdiocese told a press conference that a special parish appeal and collection will begin May 12. Proceeds from the appeal will be used to finance part of the projected operating deficit of about $500,000 for 1974-75. Parents last October responded to an appeal in their first phase a fund-raising development program with $200,000. The five schools to be aided by the fund drive are East Catholic in Hartford, North West Catholic in West Hartford, St. Thomas Aquinas in New Britain and St. Paul in Bristol.

Of the $200,000 raised, East Catholic's donation was $70,000. The appeal in the second or community phase of the development program is addressed to parishioners in the towns served by the five schools.

Towns serving East Catholic High School besides Manchester are East Hartford, Glastonbury and South Windsor.

During the community phase, parishes will sponsor a special high school collection to be taken up at all Masses on the weekend of May 11-12 in most parishes and shortly thereafter in those few parishes which expressed a preference for another date.

Msgr. Connelly said the appeal is not addressed exclusively to Catholics, but that gifts from many non-Catholics have already been received.

"Average tuition at the schools is about $550 per year, with an additional $150 per student paid by his home parish," Msgr. Connelly said. The average cost per student in the diocesan high schools is $600 per year. There are approximately 4,600 students at the five schools.

Local chairmen of the fund-raising program among parents and friends are William Belfiore and Thomas Toomey. Msgr. Connelly said different schools are faced with different financial problems. He said East Catholic has a teaching full student enrollment, but a decreasing number of basic nursing necessitating hiring lay teachers at competitive salaries.

Msgr. Connelly said there are several probable factors why there is a growing shortage of teaching sisters. He said there is a decline in religious vocations. Another possible reason, he said, is that sisters who are teachers are looking into other apostolates of the church.

"There are also the sisters who are entirely leaving the religious life," he said, "as well as those teaching sisters who reach retirement age and leave the field of active teaching."

At East Catholic, of the 61 members of the faculty, 46 are nuns and 45 are lay teachers, said Msgr. Connelly. The sisters start at a salary of $5,500 and a lay teacher starts at an annual salary of $8,100, he said.

In addition to the extra cost of salaries in the schools, Msgr. Connelly also attributed the schools' deficit to inflation.

Vernon Rockville to Get Sidewalk Funds

To keep good faith with the residents of the Rockville section of Vernon, the Town Council Monday night approved a budget of $85,000 in the sidewalk budget of the public works department.

The department request was for a total budget of $215,790 and Mayor Frank McCoy recommended $80,000. This amount to be divided, $25,000 for new walks in hazardous areas and $55,000 for repair of existing walks in the Rockville area.

The original request had this broken down to $194,000 for the reconstruction of existing walks and $30,790 for new, plus $1,000 for supplies and cost.

The council's subcommittee on sidewalks, headed by Councilman Morgan Campbell recommended that the best approach to repairing sidewalks would be to take one area at a time. It was felt if they were repaired by priority, it would cost more money by jumping from one section to another.

The committee originally said it would cost about $300,000 for the total program and recommended this program be spread over a five-year period budgeting $60,000 each year.

and this is the recommendation the council followed in approving the budget. He said another way it could be done would be to bond for the sidewalk budget and the whole program at once.

Councilman Edon questioned the wisdom of this saying, "If you do it that way it would have to go to referendum and may be turned down again. It wouldn't be good for those who need them (walks)," he said.

Councilman Thomas Benoit asked for a rundown on what work had been done with the $25,000 budgeted in the current budget.

Mayor McCoy said a walk was put in on Durr Hill Rd. from the South Windsor line to the existing walk at Skinner Rd.; walks were added on Tunell Rd. and Lake St.; the walk was extended on Rt. 83; a new walk was installed along West St. from Regan Rd. to Peterson Rd.; and preparation has been made to install a walk on South St.

With the exception of the West St. project, all work was done by town crews. A walk installed on Vernon Ave. to Henry Park was completed at the expense of the developer.

Informal, Nostalgic Themes Choice Of Today's Bridal Parties

More than two million couples will say their "I Do's" this year. Along with the nuptial festivities will be millions of showers and parties planned for the prospective bride.

Among the more popular bridal parties, say researchers, are informal gatherings of family and friends in keeping with today's casual lifestyles. Many of these parties have a central theme - "an indoor picnic", "summer flowers" or "old times", with theme gifts provided for kitchen, bathroom, or decorative accessories.

Along with the emphasis on informality, today's young couples also are showing an increased interest in memorabilia - antiques and reproductions, "camp items" of the 1920s, 30s and 40s and nostalgic remembrances of the early 20th century.

One of the most popular reflections of nostalgia has been American Greetings' "Holy Hobby" collection, featuring wistful children in Victorian dress, recalling an earlier, less hectic lifestyle.

From bud vases and decorative wall plaques, to tea and coffee services and full dinner sets, the accessories in this collection make attractive and useful gifts for soon-to-be newlyweds.

These parties with gifts to match help young couples fill in the little things that make a new apartment or home distinctive.

For the bride who is a do-it-yourself fan, there are even Holly Hobby's decoupage kits for making wall decorations and stitchery kits for pillows and pictures. These parties with gifts to match help young couples fill in the little things that make a new apartment or home distinctive.

Wedding

Tedford-Collins

St. Mary's Church, Willimantic, was the scene April 27, of the marriage of Sonia Marie Collins of Willimantic and Stephen Scott Tedford of Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Willimantic. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Irene Tedford of Coventry and Ronald Tedford of Kokomo, Ind.

The Rev. Edward Postin of St. Mary's Church, Willimantic, celebrated the Mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with baskets of assorted spring flowers. Mrs. Tedford wore a mint green dress and gardenia corsage. The couple will reside in Manchester.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Cluny lace fashioned with pleated neckline, long Bishop sleeves, fitted waist. Her matching mantilla was attached to a lace cap. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis and violets.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Andrew Depino of Meriden and Miss Karen Collins of Willimantic, the bride's sister. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant except one was in yellow piping and one in blue.

Miss Brenda Benson of Foster, R.I., the bride's cousin, was flower girl. She wore a yellow chiffon gown with a headpiece fashioned of a ring of flowers.

Ronald Garrison of Manchester was best man. Ushers were Ronald Tedford of Willimantic, the brother of the bridegroom; and Richard Merrifield of Coventry.

Michael Collins of Willimantic, the bride's brother, was ring bearer. A reception was held at the North Windham firehouse in North Windham, after which the couple left on a trip to Pennsylvania. For traveling, Mrs. Tedford wore a mint green dress and gardenia corsage. The couple will reside in Manchester.

The groom and ushers could go very formal or rustic. For a formal ceremony, they'll wear morning coats, striped trousers, top hats and watch fobs gleaming across their vests. If a more informal style is preferred, outfit the gents in suede suits, with full pleated sleeves on their white dress shirts and boots for every-one.

Decorate the church with bunches of wildflowers, or even small bouquets of tiny starflowers.

Bridesmaids can wear gowns of calico in pastels or bright colors, trimmed with matching eyelet. To create the total effect you want, throw a bridal party at which the girls themselves do the sewing. It's lots of fun. And if each girl per-

Marry In Style

Think in terms of total environment when planning a 1974 wedding. Pick a theme. Plan your gown and the church decor around that theme. Then carry it through to the rehearsal dinner and reception, too. Make it a wedding party the guests will never forget.

As one example, take an Old West theme. Your bridegroom should have a tightly fitted bodice and leg o'mutton sleeves. Choose a non-shiny fabric - perhaps a matelasse cotton, or leno stripe embroidered white-on-white. Taffeta petticoats would be appropriate for all the bridesmaids, and would make a lovely rustle as you all walk down the aisle.

Shower Of Ideas For Prospective Bride Sparked By Versatile Paper Products

If you're looking for a different idea in bridal showers, take a hint from a versatile product we use for reading, writing, greeting, eating, and delighting our eyes: paper.

A paper shower not only gives you a colorful potential for decor, but a host of gift ideas the bride will find uncommonly helpful.

Shower with cards. Among the shower gifts suggested by American Greetings Corporation are:

things every homemaker uses but rarely stocks up in advance. For example, the bride who finds she has a supply of cards for most major occasions on hand will thank you each time she uses one.

The year-round card supply should include get-well cards, graduation cards, cards that can take almost any message, congratulatory cards that can be used for almost any event of note.

Of course you'll try to select cards that suit the bride's taste, and you'll find a tremendous selection to choose from in both the contemporary and traditional moods.

Another gift for year-round use are colorful wrappings appropriate to any occasion. Select solid papers or folios with contrasting ribbons, matching tags and bows.

The gift package should contain rolls and sheets the bride can use for everything from birthday gifts to special occasion presents. A third paper possibility is a set of party goods, including paper plates, napkins, table cloth, place cards, graduation cards, which features a series of wistful children in old-fashioned dress.

One of the most popular sets is American Greetings' Holly Hobbie collection, which features a series of wistful children in old-fashioned dress.

Even if you have glass or plastic surfaces impervious to moisture, your guests' clothes aren't indifferent to dripping water.

A coaster that is non-absorbent is like no coaster at all, and that includes plain wood, metal trays, unlined plastic sliders and the fancy silver and glass jobs you got for a wedding present. The latter, by the way, are the original "coasters," often on little wheels, which took the sherry decanter from guest to guest along the elaborate Victorian tables. But decanters aren't cold and don't sweat.

Grandma had the right idea on the way to store her wedding gown — in darkness and in a dry place.

Dyeing experts say the traditional method was sensible, measured by today's scientific standards.

Many an heirloom has been carefully wrapped in tissue paper, often blue, and stored in a trunk in the attic. Modern storage experts recommend the tissue paper, but there is no scientific reason for its being blue.

The tissue should be laid between the folds of the garment, thus protecting each layer from the weight of the layer above. Thus the folds are rounded rather than creased. Creating over a prolonged period causes damage to the fabric.

Cookware's Color, Design Liven

A bride's first kitchen may be large and luxurious or it may be little more than a galley. In either case, it can be beautifully decorated with pots and pans.

The strictly utilitarian cookware of yesterday has been touched by the decorators' color wheel, without impairing its efficiency. Old-fashioned, cast-iron cookware with colorful porcelain finishes — not only sparkle a kitchen but also go directly to the table as serving dishes. This is also true of ceramic cookware with its sprightly designs of vegetables and berries.

Most versatile are the gaily decorated pots that can move from freezer to range top to table. The once drab, but necessary, aluminum pots and pans have turned Cinderella with enamel finishes in the most popular colors.

Copper is in a class by itself. The familiar copper-bottomed pans hanging from a rack will brighten any kitchen wall.

The ultimate in cookware, tin lined copper, popular for a great many years, could make a kitchen with only a two-burner stove seem regal.

Cookware need not be considered merely as a necessity by the young homemaker who has an eye on her kitchen's decor.

Brennan-LaPine

St. Bernard's Church, Rockville, was the scene of the marriage of Diane Marie LaPine and Kevin James Brennan, both of Vernon.

The bride is the daughter of Bernard LaPine of Andover and Mrs. J. Sperry Vernon. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brennan of Vernon.

The Rev. John J. White officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with Easter flowers. Gwen Pettigrew was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by Russell Fountain of Bolton, wore an organza and alencon lace gown trimmed with seed pearls and tridacena designed with fitted bodice, Bishop sleeves, high waistline and attached chapel train. She wore a portrait headdress with a cape-length veil edged with lace.

Miss Sharon Warren of Bolton was maid of honor. She wore a gown of printed voile styled with set-in midriff, column skirt and hemline ruffle with matching jacket designed with puffed shoulders and ruffles at wrist with bow closing. She wore a matching picture hat with white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Cheryl of Vernon, the bridegroom's sister; and Mrs. Linda Hart of South Windsor. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in yellow with matching hats.

Raymond Danchuk of Rockville was best man. Ushers were Thomas Christensen of Rockville and Randy Boone of East Hartford.

Mrs. Kevin J. Brennan

A reception was held at the Elks Carriage House in Rockville, after which the couple left on a trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. The couple will reside in Pinney Brook Apartments in Ellington.

Mrs. Brennan is employed by Manchester Memorial Hospital. Mr. Brennan is employed as a mechanic at Metronics Inc., Bolton.

Absorbing Subject For New Hostess...Coasters

The coaster, a necessity in all households, is a little helper which is much misunderstood by the new housekeeper who has never before taken care of furniture, or guests, either.

The main idea of the coaster is to absorb moisture, not just to give the drinker something pretty or amusing to put his glass on. The moisture doesn't mean a leaky glass or shaly-handled guest, but comes from the condensation of water vapor on the cold glass. This is the culprit that will make rings on your tables.

Even if you have glass or plastic surfaces impervious to moisture, your guests' clothes aren't indifferent to dripping water.

Another gift of paper that will help the bride through post-wedding niceties are packets of writing paper with distinctive designs she can immediately put to use for thank you notes.

Gift That Is Unusual

Lucky the bride whose parents or in-laws were practical and far-sighted enough to give her a food freezer as a wedding gift. Now she can carry through on all her good intentions to plan her meals for utmost appetite appeal, balanced nutrition and economy. She can plan meals weeks in advance and hedge against fluctuating food costs by taking advantage of super-market specials or buying fruits and vegetables at "in season" prices. And she can stock up on meat a little at a time so unexpected company won't knock the weekly food budget out of kilter.

And should it need servicing, this model is equipped for Rapid Electrical Diagnosis, which allows a service technician — using special diagnostic equipment — to check the main electrical components in about six minutes. And he can do it without unplugging the freezer, without moving it out from the wall and usually without even opening the freezer door.

Symbols Of A Happy Life Together

Your wedding day is one of the happiest and most memorable days of your life. And, you can preserve every joyous moment in professional wedding candid photos.

In addition to the traditional formal wedding photographs of the bride alone, with the groom and photos of the entire wedding party, your professional photographer will take candid photos of the wedding and reception. Encourage him to take many so you will have a thorough record of the eventful day. Professional wedding candi-ds preserve the festivities and realities of the occasion. Wedding candid range from photos of the bride's dressing room preparations to the newlywed's first dance as Mr. and Mrs. to their departure for the honeymoon. They can include special and unexpected moments during the reception, too.

Remember to make an appointment with your professional photographer as soon as your wedding date is set. You will want to discuss with him the types of photographs to be taken, the lo-cale of the wedding so he can be prepared with appropriate film and equipment, and the sizes and styles of various wedding albums — the ones for you, your parents and in-laws. Your photographer is experienced in these matters and can answer any questions you may have.

While at the photographer's studio, ask him about the attractive thank-you cards in the Kodak Special Moments Collection. These made-to-order cards have a portrait photo on top and a printed message beneath with room for your signature. Your photographer can help you select one of your wedding candid photos for use in these cards. Your wedding guests will want to keep the photograph as a memento of the occasion, and friends and relatives who could not attend will appreciate seeing how you looked on your special day.

It's a good idea to list all important friends and relatives for the photographer so he can be sure to include them as he photographs.

Foot Comfort

For the honeymoon trip, and later, practical brides will opt for casual footwear with built-in comfort and style bonuses, that go from beach to discotheque. For example, the open-air, wooden-sole sandals by Scholl give fashionable support along the seashore, city streets or during busy days at home. Wrapped up in softest leather and trimmed with contrasting piping, the sandals makes the perfect foot note to midriff-baring fashions for apres-pool cocktails and conversation or wherever her active life leads.

Compact Appliances Ease Newlyweds' Chores

You know the honeymoon is over when you have to wash all the soiled clothes that accumulated on the trip. For most brides who live in an apartment that can be a chore, even with a new husband's help. Usually, the nearest laundry is down several floors or up the street, and that means toting the clothes back and forth. This can be avoided if you have a laundry in your own apartment. With a new compact washer and dryer, such as the Lady Kenmore, you can have just that in only 24 1/2 inches of floor space. The portable washer has agitator wash action, just like big machines, plus a two-speed motor and four wash cycles — permanent press, knit/delicate, normal and short. Fill and drain hoses are combined onto a snap-on faucet connector that attaches to a faucet the same way a portable dishwasher does.

But this is more than just a cut-down version of a full-size washer. Sears engineered it especially to meet the needs of the portable washer user. A new suspension system designed to absorb the vibration created when the washer is running, made it possible to increase the spin speed from the usual 550 rpm to 850 rpm, thus improving water extraction. With 20 per cent more water removed than with previous compact washers, drying time also is reduced. You can choose one of the three matching dryers. If you plan to have your laundry in the kitchen, you may want to select a dryer that uses the same fuel as the range — either gas or 240-volt electric. But if the dryer will be used elsewhere, an electric model would be best. Both the 240-volt and gas compact dryers dry as fast as full-size units. To prevent build-up of hot, humid air in the home, these units should be vented to the outdoors. This can be done simply with a lightweight vent kit that can be used in a double-hung window up to 38 inches wide. If there is not a window handy, the 120-volt model may be your best bet. It requires no special wiring or venting.

All three dryers have cycles to properly dry all types of fabrics, plus end-of-cycle signals that let you know when those Perma-Prest garments are dry and ready to wear. Lady Kenmore compact washers and dryers are only 24 inches wide. If you mount a dryer on a stack stand and store the washer below, you can have a complete laundry in a space only 24 1/2 inches wide.

So look around your new apartment. Why carry laundry down the street when you can do it at home?

Kitchen linens are becoming the nicest part of the kitchen. The dish towels are attractive enough to leave hanging and covers are available for every kitchen appliance, adding color and sparkle to kitchen decor. Nothing Borrowed, Never Blue

Lucky the man who marries a bride who is beautiful, bright and budget-wise. Already she knows that love has no bounds, but income is a different story.

One of the greatest services a wife can perform for her husband over the years is watching the budget. She can help ease the financial pressures on them both by keeping them out of debt.

Obviously there are emergency situations that can't be foreseen. The kind of debt referred to here is the everyday variety — the habit of living beyond one's income. How many people do you know whose entire paycheck goes into installment payments? Don't let it happen to you!

First, determine the actual disposable income. After paying taxes, mortgage, insurance, or rent, and (hopefully) investing in some savings program, the actual cash left for running the household is referred to optimistically as disposable income. Usually it's not enough for comfort. Practice making ends meet, from the very first day of married life.

The engagement of Miss Alberta Frances Machia of Manchester to Mark F. Noonan of Elmwood, has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Twible of Elmwood. The bride-elect was graduated from Weaver High School. She is now associated with the Charter Oak Bank and Trust Company. Mr. Noonan is a senior at Babson College, Wellesley, Mass., and will be associated with an accounting firm in Hartford. The couple plan a Nov. 8 wedding.

Wedding Gifts Beautiful Enough For That First Home

Wedding gifts are meant to literally fill that first home, which is noticeably in need of everything. That's why practicality and service are high on the list of priorities for any potential wedding gift. But to that starry-eyed couple who will have to incorporate your gift into their dream nest, beauty and their kind of lifestyle are equally important considerations. So here's an important tip from the Jewelry Industry Council: everybody stays blissfully happy with a gift from the jewelry store.

Silver has a newness that appeals to young couples just discovering its authentic, lasting precious beauty. And today's bride has imaginative, untraditional ways that make the most of your silver gift. Check her jeweler's bridal registry for a dependable guide to the bride's pattern and item preferences in silver flatware and holloware. For The Bride — Sterling Silver

You've received an invitation to the wedding. It's your best friend's daughter. Or the girl next door. Or your husband's boss's son, and you don't know the bride-to-be. The gift you send to the couple must meet certain requirements. It must, of course, be something the bride wants very much. And it must be within your budget.

Few things meet these specifications so well as sterling silver flatware, still the bride's greatest treasure. Sterling is far and away the biggest seller in jewelry stores throughout the country, according to a recent survey of retailers. The retailers report further that most sterling flatware is usually purchased as a gift.

It's obvious that the young bride is still registering for sterling. Is it because she's urged by her mother to acquire it? Or because she wants to keep up with her friends? Probably not — the 1974 bride-to-be is very much her own person, marching to her own drummer. She's more likely to want sterling because it's "the real thing" — a precious metal with intrinsic value that promises to increase with time. She associates sterling, too, with the good life — and while she may use her set of stainless for everyday, she wants solid silver for special-occasion meals.

Your gift can help bring her closer to her goal of having a usable set by the time of her marriage. But before you make your choice, it's a good thing to check with the bridal gift consultant at the store where the bride-to-be has registered her pattern. She can tell you the pattern name of her sterling, and she has an up-to-date record of the pieces the bride-to-be has received, and those she still needs.

While the bride's parents are generally the ones to start her off on her set of sterling flatware, there are many ways in which you can add to her treasure. A generous gift indeed would be one or more place settings. The most popular place-setting size today is four pieces — place fork, place knife, salad fork and teaspoon.

Today's independent young woman often tailors her set of sterling to suit her individual lifestyle. She may be living in a small apartment for the first few years, and chances are she'll find buffet entertaining a great convenience. Your gift could well be one of the handsome

Temper Pays Off

LONDON (UPI) — Michael Da Costa said the suit he bought for $112 began to fall apart, but the department store where he got it refused to take it back. "I lost my temper, took their suit off and ran round the store naked, shouting at people not to buy anything there," he said. "That did it. They gave me a new suit immediately."

MPOA Favors Angle Parking But Opposes Buying Street

The Manchester Property Owners Association executive board has declared itself in favor of retaining angle parking for Downtown Main St., but not at the expense of "buying" back town control of the mile-long strip.

All of Main St. and S. Main St. is part of Rt. 83 and is under state control for maintenance and traffic planning.

Downtown merchants are opposing state plans to change about 30 angle-parking stalls to parallel parking. The plan is tied in to a $100,000 new traffic-control system installed last fall on Downtown Main St.

Town approval for the parking-stall change was received when plans for the traffic control system were unveiled.

Last month, the Board of Directors instructed Town Manager Robert Weiss to negotiate with state Department of Transportation officials — with an eye out for the most favorable terms under which the town could regain control of Downtown Main St.

At an April 19 meeting with DOT officials, Weiss learned the town could regain control if it paid the state its bare materials and labor costs for the traffic-control system, between $25,000 and $30,000. The town was given to May 14 to accept or reject the terms. If rejected, the state plans to proceed with a change in the parking stalls. If accepted, the town would control the traffic pattern and would set the rules.

In backing retention of angle parking, the MPOA states it is safer than parallel parking and that it reduces exposure to passing traffic and the attendant danger of collision. In addition, it states the downtown merchants, already paying more taxes than anyone else in town, should not be burdened with the loss of valuable parking spaces.

It opposes "buying" back Downtown Main St. on the basis the taxpayers of Manchester should not be burdened with the additional costs of acquiring and maintaining it. In addition, it states, "The citizens of Manchester should not be penalized to satisfy the whim of some petty bureaucrat in the state DOT."

The MPOA's executive board has criticized Mayor John Thompson "for the manner in which he railroaded the Police Pension Plan through the Board of Directors, without even the courtesy of allowing the Pension Board adequate time to report on the merits or lack thereof of the plan."

It said, "Mr. Weiss and Mr.

Thompson seem bent on destroying the actuarial soundness of the Town Pension Plan."

It voted "bouquets to Directors Ferguson and Jackson (they were the two who voted against increased benefits for the police) for speaking out on this matter and brickbats to the rest of the directors for allowing Mr. Thompson to get away with it."

On a third subject discussed at its meeting last week, the MPOA executive board noted "The recent admission by town planners and zoners that overloading at the sewer treatment plant might have to be taken into account in their future decisions."

The board noted further, "Since its inception, the MPOA has questioned the capacity of the treatment plant. We have always been assured that there was no overload, merely inaccurate instrumentation."

It posed the question "Why have town administrators and boards up to now ignored the facts and continued to propose and/or approve plans which would obviously contribute to an already serious condition at the treatment plant?"

Democrats Endorse Earlier

Although the Connecticut General Assembly passed legislation which shortens the election campaign for state and federal office by about one month (it advanced the nominating conventions by that amount of time), it seems to have worked in reverse for local campaigns.

Statewide Democrats (including Manchester's Democratic Town Committee) will endorse candidates for local office during the period July 30 to Aug. 2. During past years endorsements were made between Aug. 4 and Aug. 20.

The schedule, including a primary Sept. 10 if needed, was ordered by the Democratic State Central Committee. Nobody has been able to explain the phenomenon — shorter state and national campaigns, longer local campaigns.

Manchester Democrats, at a meeting between July 30 and Aug. 2 (still to be designated), will endorse a candidate for judge of probate (Judge William Fitzgerald has announced he will seek re-election and already has the endorsement), seven candidates for justice of the peace, a candidate in Assembly District 12

(the incumbent is Republican Donald Genovesi), and a candidate in Assembly District 13 (Francis Mahoney has said he will seek re-election and already has the endorsement).

A candidate in Assembly District 12 will be named by those town committee members who reside in Voting Districts 2-5-7-10. Mahoney, in Assembly District 13, will be named by those town committee members residing in Voting Districts 3-4-6-8. Voting District 9 is part of Assembly

Finger Solves Case

ROME (UPI) — Police investigating an attempted break-in in a suburban apartment said Giovanni Jannulli's own finger pointed at him.

The apartment's superintendent told police he found a human finger with a gold ring on his balcony. Police theorized a would-be thief broke the finger while trying to climb the balcony and when Jannulli showed up in the hospital minus his little finger, they charged him with attempted burglary.
