

Nixon 'Hush' Money Dialogue Explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon would not discuss blackmail in the White House "if he had to do it over again," but the President now has disclosed everything he knows — both "the good and the bad" — about Watergate, his chief lawyer said today.

Attorney James D. St. Clair said that, contrary to some accounts of transcripts of some of Nixon's key Watergate conversations made public Tuesday, the President did stop hush payments to the original seven Watergate defendants, particularly E. Howard Hunt, when he told aides on March 21, 1973:

"...in the end, we are going to be bled to death. And in the end, it is all going to come out anyway. Then you get the worst of both worlds. We are going to lose and the people are going to..."

"...and in effect look like a coverup. So that we can't do..."

Asked by reporters about the "propriety of discussing Hunt's alleged blackmail demands in the White House, St. Clair said: "I'm sure if he had to do over again, he wouldn't."

St. Clair told reporters that the edited transcripts showed that Hunt, who pleaded guilty as a Watergate conspirator, had threatened to expose activity of former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and "national security matters," apparently meaning the break-in of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

St. Clair conceded that a $75,000 payment in "hush money" was made to Hunt after the March 21 meeting with Nixon with top aides when the President said he first learned of the Watergate cover-up and that money had been paid to the defendants.

But St. Clair said Nixon had no knowledge of the $75,000 payment until the middle of April, 1973. The lawyer also said Nixon did not know when the actual payment was made.

"He did not approve of it and was not told of it," St. Clair said.

St. Clair said of the telephone book-size volume of transcripts: "This is the Watergate story as far as the President is concerned — the good and the bad of it."

At another point in explaining why the White House would defy a subpoena by Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for 64 Nixon tape recordings, St. Clair said, "Everything we know is in the book."

He said that as far as the White House is concerned Jaworski has enough evidence to prosecute seven former White House aides and associates of Nixon who are accused of involvement in the coverup of the scandals.

As for why Nixon made the historic decision to make public some of his most intimate, confidential conversations in the White House, St. Clair said it was a difficult decision but that in Nixon's judgment he believed "the existence of the presidency was at stake."

He said that it was the President's decision to bare the whole story of Watergate and that he, as Nixon's lawyer, concurred in it.

He said that Nixon came to the conclusion that "people were getting more and more imbued with the idea that the President had something to hide."

"He felt the presidency was affected, that the facts ought to be known," he said and the President believed that he should "get out the facts."

St. Clair said the House Judiciary Committee should be convinced of the authenticity of the transcripts, provided the committee Tuesday, by the very weight of the material delivered and that there would be no reason to suspect that any key conversation was excised. "That would not be very smart," he said.

The transcripts released Tuesday indicated that during a two-hour White House meeting on March 21, 1973, Nixon never explicitly rejected a proposal to pay $120,000 to buy continued silence from E. Howard Hunt, one of the seven Watergate bugging defendants. Nixon considered and rejected granting clemency as politically unworkable — and because, "It is wrong."

"It was at this meeting that Nixon said he first learned the full story of the Watergate cover-up from Dean. At one point in the conversation, this exchange is quoted: Nixon: 'You have no choice but to come up with the $120,000... right?'"

Dean: "That's right." Nixon: "Would you agree that that's the prime thing that you damn well better get that done?"

Dean: "Obviously he ought to be given some signal anyway." Nixon: "...get it." (The three dots indicated an "expletive" had been deleted by the White House tape editors).

In the same meeting Nixon said there would be no problem raising $1 million and that he knew where to get it "to take care of these jackasses who are in jail."

Within hours of the meeting, $75,000 was paid to Hunt, according to grand jury evidence. But the White House summary said that "the President not only did not approve of any payment to Hunt, but he did not even know a payment had been made."

At another point in the meeting the two discussed clemency and agreed that it wouldn't work politically and it would involve the President too deeply in the Watergate scandal.

"You can't do it politically until after the '74 election," St. Clair said.

Seeing how the other half lives, especially if the other half is in wheelchairs, was brought home to town officials today as they participated in "Awareness Day."

Proclaimed by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, May 1 was designated as a day of understanding the needs and rights of the physically disabled.

Mayor John Thompson, who in a proclamation naming this week "Awareness Week," urged businessmen and town officials to join him in using a wheelchair for their activities today.

At his office in the Municipal Building, speaking from his wheelchair, Mayor Thompson said, "I didn't realize what a person would have to go through."

The mayor, who in order to simulate total confinement, tied his ankles together with a belt so, as he explained, he would in fact be unable to get out of the chair without assistance.

Convention Delegates Named Town Republicans Re-Elect Officers

By SOL R. COHEN

A. Paul Berte of 57 Tuck Rd. Tuesday night was re-elected chairman of the Manchester Republican Town Committee for 1974-76. He had been chairman since Feb. 1, 1973, when he succeeded M. Adler Dobkin, who had resigned. Berte is associated with the Manchester law firm of Marté, Keith and Clendaniel.

Also re-elected Tuesday night were: Marion Mercer, vice chairman; Mildred Schaller, secretary; and Charles McKenzie, treasurer. Mrs. Mercer has held the post since February 1973. Mrs. Schaller and McKenzie have held their posts since May 1963.

All four were elected unanimously, without opposition. Berte, in his acceptance message, called on Manchester Republicans to "accentuate the positive."

Said Berte, "It seems to be a trail of humans to be pessimistic about things. We have a lot to crow about as Manchester Republicans. We're proud of the present and we're proud of the past. And, it's the past that lays the groundwork for the future. We have a great tradition to continue."

He cited the "litany of the many, many capable Republicans who gave tirelessly of their services to the town and the state."

Among those "giving of themselves today," he named Chief Supreme Court Justice Charles House, Superior Court Judge John F. Shea Jr., Juvenile Court Judge-designate James Higgins, State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, State Sen. David Odegard and State Rep. Donald Genovesi. He gave high praise to former Judge of Probate John Walllett.

Berte pledged to do his utmost "to accomplish the goals we have set for ourselves — with good government in Manchester the top priority."

Calling on all Manchester Republicans to "pitch in," he remarked, "We are still the minority party in Manchester and it will require a lot of hard work to reach our goals."

The committee members observed a moment of standing silence in memory of the late Charles Crockett, who died March 27. Mr. Crockett was a life-long Republican and a veteran member of the town committee.

The committee appointed the following delegates to the Third and Fourth Senatorial District conventions — for selecting state central committeemen and committeewomen. Both conventions will be May 14 at 8 p.m. — The Third District in Raymond Library, East Hartford; and the Fourth District in Capt. Nathan Hale School, Coventry.

THIRD DISTRICT — Elinor Hashim, State Rep. Donald Genovesi, Town Director Hillery Gallagher, Mildred Schaller, Esther Pickles, John Garside, Earl Rohan, Wallace Irish Jr., Dr. Fred Spaulding, Harold A. Turkington and Frank Rizza.

FOURTH DISTRICT — State Sen. David Odegard, A. Paul Berte, Frank Livingston, Roger Bagley, Robert Spillane, Robert Stavitsky, James Farr and Louis Champagne.

Elinor Hashim of Manchester and Charles Stebbins of East Hartford are the incumbents in the Third District and Nina Parker of Glastonbury and Fenton Futner of South Windsor are the incumbents in the Fourth District. All are expected to be re-elected to the State Central Committee.

The Manchester Republican Town Committee, reported Charles McKenzie, its treasurer, is entering the 1974 campaign with a $337.82 balance, with all bills paid.

Day Bright For HELP

By BETTY RYDER

"Sunshine always makes me happy," were the words of a song sung by Miss Debbie Doherty at Project HELP (Handicapped Earning and Living Project) third graduation exercises Tuesday, and even the ominous gray clouds hovering overhead did little to dim the bright smiles of the 17 graduates.

In the outdoor mall on the Manchester Community College (MCC) campus, Fred A. Ramey Jr., director of Project HELP, congratulated the graduates on completion of this food service program.

He cited several assistant instructors who had been instrumental in the program, namely, Greg Germaine, Steve DiMaio, Beth Ramey, and Edward Mongeau, who is the program instructor.

"There are 6½ million such students," he said, "and nine out of 10 can learn to work. Through this program, they are offered the opportunity for meaningful employment."

Ramey further commented that since its inception, there has been a change in attitudes in government agencies, as well as in the communities, and that they are now both fighting for the rights of the handicapped.

"In our three years with Project HELP, we admitted 54 students and graduated 51 including today's class," he said.

"Insofar as employment, employers want employees over 18 years of age. Most cannot and will not employ those under 18."

Ramey said, "We plan to expand Project HELP to other areas of job training and offer additional training to our students."

Robert H. Fenn, dean of faculty at MCC, speaking to the graduates and their parents, said, "You must feel a great sense of accomplishment."

He extended congratulations on behalf of Frederick Lowe, MCC president, who was unable to attend.

Prior to presenting the certificates, Gareth D. Thorne, deputy commissioner of health for the State of Connecticut, said, "We take for granted one of the most important things that can happen to people that is absolutely impervious and essential to the future — that is the wisdom we give to each other as we trek through life."

"We never stop to think that man is educated in this life because he learned from other men who came before him who imparted their knowledge."

"For many years the educational process was relegated only for a few so designated to receive it. In recent years, we are giving greater and greater emphasis on people who had not been included," Thorne said.

"We found out that when we looked and researched to educate all, it gave us all a little stature, new teachers, new books, etc. which came from the people who have worked with those who have not always been included. We have taken up the challenge and the recognition of rights for everyone."

Thorne expressed his pleasure with the way in which MCC has taken up the challenge through its Project HELP program, and said, "great credit and thanks go to those who have made such a program possible."

He told the graduates that as they assume their new roles in the community to continue to learn, ask questions, seek advice.

"But most important," he stressed, "is wear a happy face. A pleasing personality, a smiling face, will make any employer happy to have you work for him."

The Rev. Kenneth W. Steere offered the invocation and concluded the graduation exercises with the benediction. Following the ceremonies, refreshments prepared and served by HELP students were served.

The following are members of the graduating class:

- Manchester: Robert Devaux, Roger Hadfield and Kenneth Jones.
- Windsor: Barbara Wassell, Hector Williams and Gary Mead.
- Mansfield: Mary Crockett, Mary Orsco and Kevin Wheeler.
- Vernon-Rockville: Anthony Bertrand, Ronald Jennings and Fred Rucker.
- South Windsor: Glen Goguen.
- Bloomfield: Janet Allen.
- East Hartford: Larry Chabre and Donna Rainville.

Self-preservation being one of man's basic instincts, it is natural that Portugal's European and African neighbors are looking toward the storm clouds.

It is ironic that the coup that overthrew the Portuguese dictatorship should have come at almost the same moment that South African Prime Minister John Vorster's Nationalist party was winning another mandate to pursue his policy of apartheid, or separation of the races.

Election Monitoring Committee Created

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic and Republican lawmakers have unanimously approved creation of a unique state election committee to monitor compliance with state election laws. The measure, approved Tuesday, is considered to be the key point in a package of election reform bills in the Connecticut Legislature this session. It was the last in a package of five bills aimed at cleaning up the state's election process, now awaiting the governor's signature. The bill was returned to the Senate shortly after the House restored a number of provisions whose removal had emasculated the measure. With the adoption of a bill, Sen. Richard S. Scalzo, R-Bridgeport, said "Connecticut becomes the only state in the country with comprehensive election reform laws. The other measures in the package would shorten the campaign period in the state, limit campaign contributions and expenditures, and require pre-election disclosure of campaign donations and spending. Sen. Nicholas A. Lange, R-West Hartford, said the proposed commission "would usher in a whole new era in the state's election process." The proposed election commission would have subpoena powers to obtain information and material it needs to investigate alleged violations of state election statutes. "I object and strongly resent

Vernon Firm Seeks To Purchase Talcottville Water Co.

A request for approval of purchase of the Talcottville Water Co., has been filed with the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) by Rockville Water & Aqueduct Co. The Talcottville company is owned by John G. Talcott Jr., formerly of Vernon but now a resident of Massachusetts. The proposed purchase price of the company is $10,000. Rockville Water & Aqueduct had filed a petition to purchase the Vernon Water Co., another local independent company but later withdrew the request. It is the intention of the Rockville company to raise the rates of customers of the Talcottville company to the same rate as charged its existing customers. The company has filed a request with the P.U.C. for a rate increase. A public hearing on the request was held in Vernon several weeks ago with many objectors speaking especially for elderly persons who they said cannot afford another increase. The PUC has not yet announced its decision on the request which would increase the rates by 15 per cent. The Talcottville customers are now charged a flat rate of $40 a year. If the company is purchased by Rockville Water the customers will go to a metered rate with a minimum of about $90 a year. The company only has about 120 customers and they have had problems over the years, at times being without water for two or three days. W. Neal MacKenzie, president of Rockville Water said, in addition to the proposed purchase price, his company would have to spend an additional $8,000 to $10,000 to install meters. The town only pays the company about $50 a year as there is almost no hydrant service in the Talcottville area. The town could, however, install more hydrants, if the company is purchased. Meanwhile, the town is reconsidering purchase of the Vernon Water Co. since the Rockville Water Co. dropped its request to purchase, reportedly at the suggestion of the PUC. If the town decides against it, then it is likely the Rockville company will reappear. It was indicated that the PUC did not want to act on the request to purchase at the same time it was involved in the request for the rate increase.

Rev-Share Funds Rise

Manchester is one of those Connecticut municipalities scheduled to receive more revenue-sharing funds in fiscal 1975 than they had expected. Manchester is being allotted $68,000, which the U.S. Office of Revenue Sharing says is $72,467 more than originally estimated. However, using local figures, it comes to $142,389 more than estimated. Manchester had been told it would receive $11,453 quarterly (with payments coming in July, October, January and April). That total estimate was $96,700.

Noted Actress Dies at 67

ROCHESTER (UPI) — Agnes Moorehead, nominated four times for Academy Awards for film roles but best known as the sharp-tongued Endora in the television series "Bewitched," died Tuesday at Methodist Hospital of an undisclosed illness. The 67-year-old character actress was under the care of Mayo Clinic doctors and had been hospitalized since April 9. Miss Moorehead's first role was in Orson Welles' classic movie "Citizen Kane." In 1942 she was nominated for an Academy Award for her role in "The Magnificent Ambersons." She was nominated again in 1944 for "Mrs. Parkington," in the television series "Bewitched," and 1964 for "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte." All her nominations were for best supporting roles. Second to acting Miss Moorehead enjoyed her half section of farmland between Zanesville and Cambridge, Ohio. The land was a grant to her great grandparents who came from England.

Taxes Supporting
Federal Flaming
Frisbee Flings

By DONALD LAMBRO
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American taxpayer has some difficulty, understandably, in comprehending President Nixon's proposed $304 billion budget in all its enormity and complexity. So do a lot of people in Congress, the government — and the news media.

Perhaps a brief examination of some of its respective parts might bring home where all that money goes. (Well, not all of it, but some of it.)

Rep. John B. Conlan, R-Ariz., issued a report to his constituents recently which listed some examples of seemingly wasteful government spending. Here are a few examples:

- $8,000 to look into the bisexual behavior of Polish frogs.
- $375,000 to determine if Frisbees might be used to carry flares.
- $121,000 to find out why so many people say "ain't."
- $70,000 to conduct research on the smell of perspiration from Australian aborigines.
- $20,224 to study the mating calls of Central American toads.
- $70,000 to classify and determine the population biology of Indo-Australian ants.
- $20,000 to study the blood

groups of Polish Zlotnika pigs. • $203,979 for the city of Los Angeles to extend travelers aid to migrants who get lost on the freeways.

- $19,300 to try to figure out why so many children fall off tricycles.

"These projects," Conlan told his constituents, "are sadly not just the product of someone's fertile imagination. They are actual federal studies, commissioned by federal agencies and paid for with your tax dollars."

The Arizonan continued: "Unless taxpayers get more friends in Washington ... Congress will continue the squandering waste and misuse of tax dollars that take place here."

"With this year's gigantic tax haul, they may go bananas altogether."

Conlan went on to say that "it is little comfort to any of us as we send in our tax returns to the Internal Revenue Service, that the average cost of federal programs for every man, woman and child in the United States is about $1,500 — more than double the cost per person in 1965."

"Since tax cheaters can be fined and jailed," Conlan said, "perhaps federal bureaucrats guilty of squandering our money should be as well."

Detroit Gang Members Turn to Business

By PATRICIA KOZA
DETROIT (UPI) — Members of two rival street gangs who used to terrorize Detroit's East Side were trying today to learn how to become independent businessmen.

Twenty members each of the "Bishops" and the "Chains," along with five adult supervisors, boarded a bus Monday wearing jackets and ties to take a look at some black-owned businesses in Chicago.

The gangs decided to stop their rivalry following a police crackdown last year. They began working with two community action group leaders and set up community patrols to escort elementary school children as a way to prove they could accept responsibility in the community. Then they asked for help in finding a means of legitimate income.

The Main Reason
"They kept saying the main reason they were on the streets was because they had no jobs," said Bernard Parker, leader of one community action group called Operation Get Down.

The Chains, the former gang Parker is working with, wants to investigate getting a franchise for a McDonald's restaurant.

The Bishops and Chains have set up tours of a black publishing company and other black-owned businesses in Chicago for ideas they can take back to Detroit. Both groups also have set up a meeting with members of Chicago's largest and most notorious street gang, the Black P Stone Nation, in hopes the program will spread.

Gangs have a good chance of making it too, according to Bill Pickard, assistant professor of social work at Wayne State University, who is a consultant with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare on street gangs.

They're Very Successful
"Gang members have a high degree of natural success orientation," he said. "Those guys who have that natural street savvy, once you harness their energy, you find they're very successful in bureaucratic structures."

The Chains and Bishops each have about 75 active members. They eventually hope to set up a corporation with adult sponsors to administer whatever business they finally decide on.

A number of Detroit black businessmen's associations, including the Inner City Business Improvement Forum, have agreed to give some financial support.

Many Americans Mark National Day of Prayer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many Americans paused Tuesday to acknowledge their dependence on God and to "repent of our national sins" in observance of a National Day for Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer.

The observance was planned by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and endorsed by the Senate and the governors of more than 30 states.

The House of Representatives refused to endorse the prayer day because of objections of Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., who believes too many "stilly and senseless" resolutions are brought before Congress.

Hatfield's resolution passed the Senate Dec. 20 and quietly gained support from religious groups across the nation.

The resolution, which Hatfield says was modeled after a proclamation by Abraham Lincoln setting April 30, 1863, as a day to confess "national sins," says that it is the "duty of nations...to confess their sins and transgressions."

The resolution, originated by Hatfield at a time that the dimensions of the Watergate scandal were unfolding, says, "We have made such an idol out of our pursuit of 'national security' that we have forgotten that only God can be the ultimate guardian of our true livelihood and safety."

It adds that "We have failed to respond, personally and collectively, with sacrifice and uncompromised commitments to the unmet needs of our fellow man, both at home and abroad."

And it says that as a people "We have become so absorbed with the selfish pursuits of pleasure and profit that we have blinded ourselves to God's standard of justice and righteousness for this society."

Lots of Reading
The Library of Congress, the world's largest library, contains more than 72 million books, manuscripts, technical reports, photographs, maps and pieces of music, all stored on its 320 miles of shelves.

"We don't expect any overnight miracles," Pickard said. "Those in Chicago are basically success symbols. You can't expect to open a fast food restaurant in a month."

The building where the bomb went off houses the office of a Christian Democratic senator on the third floor. A Communist party office is next door. Also next door is a movie house showing a film about the last days of Benito Mussolini.

Ban Firecrackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Consumer Product Safety Commission issued a nationwide ban Tuesday on the sale of all firecrackers effective in June. The action means the firecrackers are to be removed from the market before the Fourth of July celebrations. The commission said it also would impose stiff new rules to insure the safety of all other fireworks devices and would launch a nationwide education campaign warning consumers of fireworks dangers. Certain kinds of firecrackers, such as M80s, cherry bombs and others containing large charges of powder, have been outlawed for several years under federal regulations. Tuesday's action extends the ban to all firecrackers. Many states have laws against the sale and discharge of firecrackers and other pyrotechnic devices. Alaska was purchased by the United States from Russia on June 30, 1867, for $7,200,000 or less than 2 cents an acre.

Maryland Faces Suit Over Bear

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UPI) - When state authorities took away Earl Ambrose's 125-pound black bear "Minnie" and put it in the Baltimore Zoo because it is on the state's endangered species list, Ambrose filed suit.
"It's the same as if someone would take your pet dog away," Ambrose said.
"She wouldn't ride in the back," he said. "She'd sit in the front seat just like a dog."
Ambrose said he bought Minnie from a Pennsylvania animal breeder a year ago "because I've wanted a bear since I was a child."
"They said I needed a special permit because the bear was on the list of endangered species," said Ambrose, a trailer park owner who keeps a menagerie as a hobby. "I tried repeatedly to get to (Maryland Resources) Secretary James Coulter for a permit but couldn't get one."
A spokesman for Coulter's office said a 1972 Maryland law "placing seven animals on the state's list of endangered species requires owners of such animals to get a special permit."
The spokesman, who said the dispute was "one of the first endangered species cases to be tried in Maryland," declined because of a scheduled May 23 court hearing to discuss why Ambrose didn't get a permit.
Ambrose and his wife, Evelyn, keep their animals on several acres next to their mobile home park, but they deny the animals were ever used to advertise their business.
"We don't advertise our business here," said Mrs. Ambrose. "We like animals. It's a hobby with us. This is what helps keep us happy - ourselves with our animals."

Ryan Hurls Poorly But Beats Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — How is it that Nolan Ryan can pitch so poorly and still come up with diamonds?
The 24-year-old Texan gave up six runs on six hits, walked seven and hit two batters. But he offset his failings with a season-high 15 strikeouts and his California Angel teammates came up with outbursts of runs in a 1-8 trouncing of the slumping Boston Red Sox.
"My last ball was the best it's been this year," drawled Ryan, "but I struggled a lot out there. I don't like taking more than three days rest. It hurts my rhythm."
Ryan was erratic from the first inning when he hit Boston second baseman Doug Griffin behind the left ear and Carl Yastrzemski on the ankle.
Griffin, knocked unconscious, was taken off the field on a stretcher. He was under observation in intensive care at

Doug Griffin Suffers Concussion

BOSTON (UPI) — The worst sound in baseball echoed through Fenway Park as Doug Griffin crashed to the ground at home plate.
The jinxed second baseman, who had a major injury in each of his first three seasons with Boston, failed to duck on a tailing Nolan Ryan fastball in the first inning Tuesday night and the ball made a "chuck" sound as it struck his unprotected left ear.
Griffin was carried unconscious from the field but regained his faculties in the clubhouse. He was taken to Hanover Hospital where expressed frustration with another facet of Boston's game.

"Our pitching put us out of the game tonight," said Johnson. "Anytime you score six runs off Nolan Ryan, you're doing something well. (Reggie Cleveland didn't throw the ball well at all.) (Diego Segui and Lance) Clemons just couldn't pull it back together to give us time to catch up. We didn't close enough to really cause Ryan any trouble."
Bob Oliver was top Angel in the RBI department with four on three hits. "This game here and one in Baltimore were the best I've hit on the road trip," Oliver said.
The Red Sox, now 10-12, will try to make a move back toward 500 hits tonight when Bill Lee goes against California's Bill Stoneman in the last game of their series here. Rick Burleson will take Griffin's place on the roster.
Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson was satisfied with his team's offensive showing but doctors determined he had suffered "a severe concussion." X-rays showed there was no fracture.

"He was put in the intensive care unit for the night and will be reexamined tomorrow (today)," Sox Manager Darrell Johnson said after Ryan had set down to destroy his team lead.
"The doctor said most likely they won't move him around for a week."
Ryan said he was glad to hear that Griffin had regained consciousness.
"I really bothered me because I don't want to hit anybody," said the fireballing strikeout king. "But those things happen; there's nothing you can do about it."

Griffin has been plagued by the injury box since being traded from the Angels' farm system in the fall of 1970 in a deal that gave California Tony Conigliano—whose career was shortened by a beanball thrown by the Angels' Jack Hamilton in 1967.
The lanky second baseman missed 27 days his rookie year with a back ailment; 23 days in 1972, after a Gaylord Perry pitch broke his hand; and 40 days when he broke the same hand after being struck by Earl Weaver.
But this injury could be the

Yanks Get Dividend After Recent Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's the New York Yankees' turn to take a bow for their controversial seven-player trade with the Cleveland Indians.
The Yankee management was criticized in its own clubhouse when the deal was announced last Friday night and it didn't help when the Indians promptly went on a five-game winning streak.
But the swap paid its first big dividend for the Yankees Tuesday night when Chris Chambliss, the key man acquired by New York, hit the game-winning homer in a 4-3 victory over Vida Blue and the World Champion Oakland A's.
Blue, now 8-3, carried a 2-3 lead into the eighth inning but the Yankees went ahead 3-2 when pinch-hitter Rick Dempsey singled and Roy White homered. Chambliss followed with his homer, which stood up as the winning run when Gene Tenace homered for the A's in the ninth.
"I wasn't feeling any pressure because some of the

Down-to-Wire Thriller For Mets over Dodgers

NEW YORK (UPI) — What started out as a laughter for the New York Mets turned out to be a down-to-the wire thriller in Los Angeles.
The Mets jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first two innings but managed to hold the lead before John Miller doubled home two runs in the top of the ninth inning to put New York in front 6-2.
The game was surprisingly reminiscent of Monday's frenzied game in which the Dodgers surged ahead 8-0 and barely hung on to win 8-7. Dodger Manager Walter Alton did a quick know what to make of the scheme of things and said, "8-7 just seems to be the magic number."
Magic or no magic, Cleon Jones, who paced the Met attack with a double and single to knock in two runs, said "If we had lost this game, it would have been like dying."
Miller almost became the goat of the game when he dropped a throw at first from third baseman Wayne Garrett

Tug McGraw One Man Glad Aaron Set Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In 1965, a rookie named Tug McGraw gave up his first major league home run. It was the ball of Henry Aaron at Shea Stadium.
Nine seasons later, Aaron has surpassed the immortal Babe Ruth and McGraw has appeared in more games than any pitcher in New York Mets' history.
"I remember that first homer by Aaron like it was yesterday," McGraw recalled. "I don't think I'll ever forget it."
He was really glad to see him break the record early this season. It took a lot of pressure off him. You have to admire that man so much for what he's done and also for the patience he exhibited through the whole thing. He never once lost his cool."
As a relief pitcher deluxe, McGraw admires people who don't lose their cool. In 1959, the Mets didn't lose theirs and surprised everybody by winning the National League pennant.
"I was written by Ben Bourne, the ex New York Yankee, in 1970."

'Minor Adjustment' Paid Off for Bucks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — There were a lot of doubters hanging around the Milwaukee Bucks as they conceded the National Basketball Association title to Boston on the basis of the Celtics' 98-83 win in the first game of the championship series against the Bucks.
"They heard Larry Costello, the Milwaukee coach, talk about doing something to counter the Boston pressure defense. Costello talked about making a 'minor adjustment' and many experts scoffed at the idea."
But game two opened Tuesday night and Costello's adjustment was unveiled. It resulted in a 105-98 Milwaukee overtime win to even the best-of-seven series at one game each.
The adjustment itself consisted of getting the ball to Oscar Robertson, then sending Ron Williams picked it up and the game went into overtime.
In the extra period, with the score 98-96, Cornell Warner became a hero.
"That was a good move," Robertson said. "I enabled us to get into our patterns quicker."
"That adjustment was the key to the ball game," Bucks assistant coach Hubie Brown

Hannum Fired

DENVER (UPI) — Alex Hannum has been relieved of his duties as coach and general manager of the Denver Rockets and the 26-year veteran of pro basketball will have plans to be part of the team.
"My immediate plans are to continue a search for a new owner for the Rockets," Hannum said after being told his three-year contract which expired Tuesday night would not be renewed.
"I would be part of the team."
Denver's general manager Phil Baizer was named to replace Hannum on Tuesday night.

Coventry School Board Answers Republican Criticism

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495

According to Board of Education members a Republican Town Committee statement censuring the Board of Education contained misleading as well as false information.

The board members said "a recent news release by the Republican Town Committee censuring the Board of Education stated that voters at last year's annual town meeting had indicated opposition to the hiring of an administrative assistant by the Board of Education, when in fact, the board's budget for 1973-74, which included the elimination of the position of pupil personnel director and the hiring instead of an administrative assistant at the same salary level, was passed almost unanimously by over 400 voters at this same meeting."

The board said, "The Republican Town Committee also stated that, 'the board was not working in the best interest of the taxpayers by promoting large salary increases and travel expenses for the school superintendent and an administrative assistant.' At the onset of the town hearing last Monday, Robert Walsh, chairman of the board, indicated that figures reflected in that administrative and clerical salary accounts were not fixed figures as the board was currently involved in negotiations with these groups."

"The GOP committee also said it was fully aware and disapproved that many programs in the school system are suffering so that the Sequential Learning Program can be furthered. SLP is an individualized program intended to upgrade all grades and is presently being planned and implemented for the rest of the primary level. Currently, kindergarten and first grade students are involved in Phase I and Phase II of SLP."

The board said, "Regardless of the total change occurring at the elementary schools, in the past few years many new programs have been successfully introduced into the work school, such as the High Cooperative Study Program, college credit courses in math, English, social studies and art, and the 3-4 year high school optional plan, the Vocational Education Program has been expanded, courses in the English and home economics department have been revised and the Industrial Arts program has been and will continue to be revised in the 1974-75 school year.

"In addition, many mini courses have been added to better meet the individual needs of students, and also girls sport activities at the high school have been increased significantly."

The board said, "In the last three years, the middle school has been the implementation of a Family Life Program, vocational education extended services, and a new science program, and has received the services of additional part-time physical education and art instructors. This year, work was begun in the Language Arts area and the board's 1974-75 budget calls for continuation of the Language Arts program and a proposed improved math program."

Systemwide, Coventry now has a system of a psychological examiner, and for the past two years, staff members throughout the system have been working on curriculum development and coordination, student performance objectives for all curricular areas, and a program, planning budget system."

The board said, "Early in 1973, Dr. Robert Hopkins, pupil personnel director, advised the board of his intention to resign. Board members decided that rather than hire someone to fill the position of pupil personnel director, as such, they would expand the duties required in this position and make that position a coordinator. Dr. Donald Nicoletti was hired by the board to fill the position of administrative assistant. "One of his major accomplishments this year was to provide leadership staff in obtaining State and Federal Grants. At a recent board meeting, Dr. Nicoletti reported that with the cooperation of staff he had received approval of over $32,000 in additional grants to the Coventry school system in the 1973 school year. These included Business Education at the high school, administrative leadership, staff conference and cooperation, and community support. It is the board's hope that this community support will continue."

Museums Open Sunday

The Historical Society will officially open the Tolland County Jail Museum and the Benton Homestead, two of the town's oldest and most famous landmarks, on Sunday.

Both museums will be open from 10 to 4 p.m. every Sunday throughout the summer. The Benton Homestead, which will be open Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge to either building.

The jail building, on the Green, opened in 1856 and housed prisoners until 1968. The cell containing the black block and kitchen is used by the Tolland Historical Society as its museum for much that is representative of Tolland's past. There are Indian artifacts, some over 200 years old, as well as early farm and home implements.

Among the additions to the collection this season is an oil painting of a blacksmith shop that formerly stood opposite the Grange Hall, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Duncan.

The Benton Homestead, on Metcalf Rd., was built about 1720. The house, furnishings and five acres of land have been maintained by the society since Dec. 13, 1869. The Homestead, ancestral home of the late Sen. William Benton, contains many unique furnishings and records of the Revolutionary War.

Hebron School Bus Drivers Take Safety Course

NANCY DRINKUTH
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3970

About 200 people, most of them school bus drivers, attended a safety workshop held last week at the Hebron Elementary School. The two-hour illustrated program was conducted by William Adint, executive director of the Connecticut Safety Commission.

The program was developed from one designed by the National Safety Council and was rewritten to suit Connecticut state laws and regulations. Adint has presented the program nine times.

A new state law requires all school bus drivers to have state-organized training both in the classroom and on the road by Sept. 1. A 12-hour course is provided in the classroom and on-road refresher course will be required each year after that.

Adint said that he would like all school bus drivers in the state to have some basic knowledge of First Aid also.

The safety workshop included; boarding the bus, emergency exit procedures, foul weather driving, defensive driving and all elements of school bus safety.

The program was coordinated by Paul White, principal of the Hebron Elementary School who is in charge of all

Both Sides in Strike To Review Positions

The state mediator who met Tuesday with management and labor representatives concerning the seven-week-old Carlyle-Johnson Machine Co. strike said both sides will review their positions before another meeting is scheduled.

The mediator Joseph Farero, said he noted a "slight softening" of positions on both sides after Tuesday's talks in Wethersfield, but company and union officials both said today there was little progress, if any, made.

Tuesday's mediation session, conducted at state labor department offices in Wethersfield, was the third meeting conducted by Farero since 48 Carlyle-Johnson production workers went out on strike March 18.

Among representatives at the session were Carlyle-Johnson vice president Albert Hutchings and field representative James Ingalls of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machinery Workers, AFL-CIO.

Hutchings said today no significant progress was made for Tuesday and the company has not changed its position on several disputed non-economic issues.

Ingalls, also reporting "no progress," said the union has modified some of its positions, workers are determined to remain on strike until the company agrees to change its stand.

The 48 strikers are continuing to maintain rotating picket lines outside the Carlyle-Johnson plant at 53 Main St.

The last contract with the company, which expired March 15 and the old contract expired March 18.

The union workers are seeking the restoration of the company's pension review board, general wage increases, automatic wage progression, classification of job transfer policy, and state arbitration of labor grievances.

The company has maintained that the union demands would allow the firm to operate.

Carlyle-Johnson manufactures electrical machinery for commercial machinery.

Motorist Aid System

Silver antenna poles (like the one above) being installed on several of Connecticut interstate highways aren't radar speed traps but are part of the state Transportation Department's Motorist Aid Call Box System scheduled to be operational by summer. Erection of the antenna poles at half-mile intervals on sections of I-91 and I-84 is the preliminary step in installation of two-way radio emergency units which will be available to motorists in trouble.

Killian Office Opens in Town

"Killian for Governor" headquarters were opened today at 308 Main St., in the premises formerly occupied by the Manchester Redevelopment Agency.

John Dani, co-chairman of the Manchester Killian for Governor Committee, said the headquarters will be staffed and will be open daily to regular business hours.

He said the immediate purpose is to assist their candidate to win the May 23 City of Hartford Democratic primary.

The last contract with Hartford's 70 elected officials was the Democratic State Convention.

Guard Skydivers Enter First Meet

Several Manchester area residents are among skydivers in the Connecticut National Guard Sport Parachute Club which will be competing in the new club's first meet this weekend.

The Connecticut Guardmen team will be the first National Guard team to enter the annual West Point Invitational Sport Parachute Meet, which is open to active and reserve military jump egress throughout the country.

Local participants in the meet, which will be competing in jumps, are Platoon Sgt. William Smith of Coventry, Sgt. 4 Harold Bliss of Rockville, S. Sgt. Raymond Rhoads of Manchester, and Sgt. Theodore Fogor of South Windsor.

Smith has logged more than 400 jumps; Bliss, 200; Rhoads, 250; and Fogor, 45.

The parachutists will be competing in two kinds of events: The individual accuracy contest, in which each jumper leaps from 3,000 feet and tries to hit a four-inch-diameter target, and a team event, in which three skydivers jump from 7,500 feet in formation.

The Connecticut National Guard Parachute Club, formed last year, is open to all members — male and female — of the Guard. They practice monthly at a Coventry drop zone.

Accept Names

STRATFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Softball Association is now accepting nominations for election to the Connecticut Softball Hall of Fame. It was announced Tuesday.

Sylvester Choko, of Stratford, chairman of the Hall of Fame Committee, said the deadline for nominations is May 31.

They explained the canvass is required by state statute and that 24 canvasses — 12 from each party — will go door-to-door, checking the voter list.

The purpose of the canvass, they explained, is to remove those names of voters who are deceased or have moved.

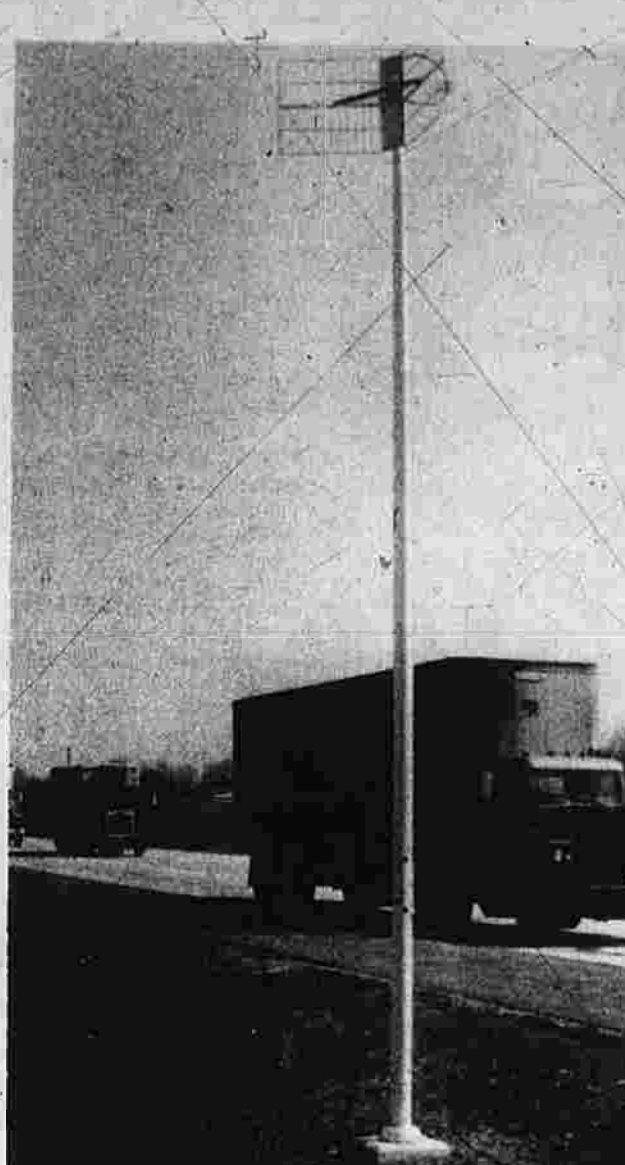

Peck and Stevenson said the canvassers have identification badges. They asked town residents for their cooperation.

Pollack Says Racism Is More Subtle Today

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Louis H. Pollak, defense lawyer in the landmark Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education case, said the moral impact of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling has been dissipated.

Pollak argued successfully against the "separate but equal" doctrine that was the legal mainstay of racial segregation in public schools.

Pollak said Tuesday that racism today is more subtle than it was 20 years ago "but no less debilitating for those affected by it."

Pollak made the comments on the eve of the 20th anniversary of the Supreme Court ruling, prior to being honored by the Yale Black Law Students Union.

Pollak will teach at the University of Pennsylvania Law School and for the past four years as holder of the Southmayd Chair.

Pollak said the moral impact of the landmark decision 20 years ago was more significant than its legal impact because the "separate but equal" doctrine was not truly democratic.

"However 20 years later there are ominous indications that even the moral impact has been substantially dissipated," he said.

"We can only hope that the moral integrity of the Supreme Court, as expressed by its opinion in the Brown decision will continue to be present in other cases..." he said.

State's Tax Burden High

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Public Expenditures Council said Tuesday its studies show Connecticut had the second highest tax burden in the nation in 1972.

The CPCEC said when federal, state and local taxes are considered together, the estimated 1972 tax burden per capita was $2,064, second only to New York with $2,066.

Connecticut was again second to New York when the tax burden was computed as a percentage of personal income. New York paid 8.7 per cent of its personal income in combined taxes while Connecticut taxpayers paid 8.8.

Vernon No Funds Voted to Fight Moths

Six of 10 Vernon Town Council members (two members were absent) are hoping that if they ignore the gypsy moths they may go away. They voted against a $10,000 appropriation in the tree warden budget to fight the moths next spring. He said it would cost $50,000 to $70,000 if the entire town property were sprayed. To do 16 roadside miles it would cost at least $10,000, he said.

Tricarico also commented that if private property were sprayed it would cost the property owner an additional $15 per half-acre. "I think it's better to let God take care of the situation," he added.

He said even if the whole town were sprayed there would still be problems as the residual effect of the spraying is not known.

At any rate it would be too late to spray for this season because to be effective, the spraying must be completed by May 6. To do the entire town it would take five crews, two weeks, Tricarico said.

Councilman Richard MacDonald who originally made the request that something be done to protect the trees from the gypsy moth, said, "We've been saying for four years we hope God will take care of it." He said the $10,000 figure proposed would be pitifully inadequate. He asked the mayor if possibly an emergency appropriation could be made to take care of some of the roadside areas.

Mayor McCoy explained that the council can only appropriate one-half of one per cent of the budget without going to a referendum. He said at the present time the budget (current) is very tight due to additional utility costs.

MacDonald then made the motion to amend the tree warden budget of $5,000 for additional utility costs. "I think we have an obligation to at least start some kind of a program in the spring of 1975," he said.

He said Tricarico's report indicated there were only two areas in town where gypsy moth infestation is light. He cautioned that a tree, twice infested, defoliates and dies.

Columbia Gypsy Moth Masses Heavy

VIRGINIA CARLSON Correspondent Tel. 228-9224

The gypsy moth survey requested by selectmen in February has been completed by the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station. Shows nearly nine times as much infestation as in 1971.

The survey noted that 9,635 acres and four miles of roadside were infested with gypsy moths. Maps showing the location of infested areas will be supplied upon request of the selectmen.

Robert Victor, chairman of the solid waste commission, said there will be 2,000 window stickers available for vehicles transporting refuse to the town landfill area by May 2.

Miss Margaret Anderson has been appointed to the Conservation Commission to replace Mrs. Dorothy Greenway. The appointment was made by the selectmen in response to a recommendation from the Republican Town Committee.

Boat Ramp Stays The boat ramp at Columbia Lake's community beach will remain in its present location, according to a decision of the Recreation Council.

By STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 22 years in the Senate, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, is retiring.

A man who steadfastly shunned the limelight during his political career, he probably is as little known around the country as when he came to Washington.

But in a recent radio program with Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., he gave some advice how to get in and when to get out of politics.

"I'd rather quit," he said.

Retiring Senator Offers Advice to Newcomers

"While people still regard me as being successful than have them feel sorry for me."

Many other senators have failed to recognize — or have refused to acknowledge — their waning powers.

Tragedy of Defeat
As a result, their careers ended in the tragedy of defeat.

But in a recent radio program with Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., he gave some advice how to get in and when to get out of politics.

"I'd rather quit," he said.

At the polls. The voters may have felt sorry but not sorry enough to return them to the Senate.

As for the young men and women ready to get into politics, Bennett gave this piece of advice, its importance magnified by the Watergate scandal:

"Be sure you've got the financial capacity to make the race and, if necessary, lose it, without putting yourself in debt to any group or any particular faction within the party or in the community."

"And when you've got that kind of stability, you're in a position to get out and run."

The one thing that Bennett cannot offer any of the newcomers is a replica of his own entry into politics.

Running Family Business
Bennett had been running the family business in Utah when, in 1939, he was elected president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

That left the business in the hands of his brother, who is 12 years younger than he. When the year with NAM ended, younger brother "didn't want to give it up," Bennett recalled.

Encouraged by eastern business friends, Bennett decided to run for the Senate.

"I could do it without any risk because I could go back and push my brother back to where he was before and keep on."

Bennett won and conceded his brother has done "a much better job with the business than I did when I was running under him."

The Utah Republican — who has five children, 27 grandchildren and one great grandchild — thinks young people should get into politics.

One of the sons (Bennett did not name him) probably will make a run for political office "when he gets a financial base under him."

And "I have one grandson that you're not going to be able to keep out," Bennett added.

Nonfarm Jobs Increase In Region

BOSTON (UPI) — The number of nonfarm jobs in New England increased by 13,100 between February and March of this year, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. It was in keeping with seasonal expectations.

The major gains were in non-manufacturing industries where 15,800 new jobs were added while manufacturing jobs decreased by 2,700.

Retail stores preparing for Easter contributed sizeably to the increase, accounting for more than one-half of the increase.

The March total of 474,600 jobs was a total gain of 93,000 over the same month a year ago.

Social Security

Q. Several years ago when my husband applied for a Social Security number he was not required to have any Social Security number. Last week when I applied for a card I was asked for identification. Is this something new?

A. Under a 1972 amendment to the Social Security law some proof of identity is now required in order to obtain a Social Security card. This requirement affects native United States citizens and naturalized citizens and aliens. Age can usually be proved with a birth certificate or baptismal certificate. Identity can generally be proved with a driver's license, voters' card, or similar evidence; preferably something that gives your signature.

Q. I lost my Social Security card when my wallet was stolen. Will I have to prove my age in order to get a duplicate Social Security number?

A. No. People applying for duplicate Social Security numbers because they have lost their Social Security cards or changed their names generally are not affected by the proof of age requirement.

Q. I don't see why it is necessary for me to have my birth certificate just to get a Social Security card.

A. The proof requirement is intended to help prevent people from obtaining more than one Social Security number or using a Social Security card under a false identity.

Q. I was born in Canada and have lived in the United States for the past six years. What must I do to get a Social Security card?

A. Application forms are available at any Social Security office. Applicants applying for the first time are required to submit one of the following: An alien registration receipt card, arrival or departure card, or a non-resident alien border crossing card for Canada, Mexico or other evidence of lawful admission to the United States.

Q. I'm going to work as soon as I get out of school. Can I get my Social Security number as soon as I bring in my completed application for a card?

A. No. You should apply for a Social Security number several weeks before you need it. Applications are generally screened against central files in Baltimore, Md., and screening takes time.

Albertus Magnus Selects President

NEW HAVEN (UPI)—Sister Francis DeSales Heffernan, P.O., mother general of the congregation of St. Mary of the Springs in Columbus, Ohio, has been elected the 11th president of Albertus Magnus College, it was announced Tuesday.

Sister DeSales, a native of New Haven, is completing her second term as mother-general of the Dominican congregation. She will assume her new post with Albertus Magnus College Aug. 1 when Dr. Francis H. Horn retires after a three-year term.

Sister DeSales has served as dean of the college and as a trustee for 12 years.

CSEA Challenges CPEC Impartiality

HARTFORD (UPI)—The Connecticut Public Expenditures Council is "partisan by its very nature" because of the top level businessmen who make it up, says a state employee union.

The Connecticut State Employees Association Tuesday challenged the CPEC's position that it is an unbiased and non-partisan research group.

The CSEA said the council is "predominantly laden with representatives from business and industry" and questioned whether its work is in the best interest of the taxpayer.

The bulletin said there has been a steady increase in state services and employees during the period.

"A group such as the above is not a disinterested group," the CSEA said. "It represents the very top level of the large business community of Connecticut. Each business has a strong and overriding interest in the advancement of big business in our state."

The newsletter said the council erroneously reported that state expenditures increased by $901 million between 1968 and 1973. It said the council also said the gross state product has increased by $12.6 billion over the same period of time.

"Actually, the increase in state expenditures is only 7.21 percent of the increase of the gross state product," it said.

"And a closer look at some of the things which increase in expenditure has brought us in services points to the fact that taxpayers have benefited greatly from these increased expenditures."

The bulletin said there has been a steady increase in state services and employees during the period.

Photogenic Puppy

Irene was so captivated by her new puppy that she took him to a neighborhood photographer for a sitting. The pictures were knock-outs. In fact, the photographer decided to sell copies to an advertising agency.

Learning of his intentions, Irene hastened into court for a stop order. And the court granted her request. The judge said that when a customer hires a photographer to take pictures, the pictures become the exclusive property of the customer.

This is the usual rule. While the photographer may retain possession of the negatives, he ordinarily has no right to sell copies without the customer's consent.

It is a different story, however, if the photographer, instead of being hired for the job, takes the picture on his own initiative. Consider this case:

A free lance photographer, putting together an exhibit of his work, took pictures of a prominent businessman. The pictures were his own idea, and he charged nothing for taking them.

Under these circumstances, a court held that the businessman—even though he bought several prints for himself—had no right to pass them along for use in a magazine.

And a free lance photograph of a street scene would not give ownership rights to people who happened to appear in the picture.

A borderline case arose when a photographer was asked to take pictures of a high school graduating class. Was he entitled to the copyright?

Admittedly, the initiative for the picture had come from the students. Still, they had not promised him any payment at all. He could cash in only if the students should decide, afterward, to order prints.

A court ruled that in all fairness, the copyright did belong to the photographer. Since he was taking that much risk, reasoned the court, he was entitled to that much reward.
