Actors' Demands Threat to Fall TV

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — After much argument, the negotiating committee of the Screen Actors Guild has finally settled on the terms they will ask for from TV producers. And these terms (which I know but have been sworn to secrecy not to tell) are so high that it looks like there will be an actors' strike when the contract expires in June.

And if that strike turns into a lengthy one, it could threaten next fall's TV schedule.

Speaking of SAG, they have been divided in recent years over the question of whether or not they should attempt to organize porno film performers. In some feel that they are actors, after a fashion, and deserve union assistance. But others believe they are more freaks than actors.

FAST EXPANSION
PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — The chairman of the Washington State University Department of Engineering says because of the energy crisis and the problems of pollution the engineering field is expanding faster than students can be trained.

Dr. Joseph Brings said with 10 years there could be 10 jobs for every chemical engineering student and the university graduates.

Back Turned, Caruso Gargled

New York — Tenor Enrico Caruso spent an hour dressing and making up for his operatic roles, smoking cigarettes incessantly. Then he would clear his throat by breathing through an inhaler for 15 minutes. Afterward he would gargle with warm salt water and take a sip of diluted Scotch whisky.

Hidden in tiny pockets of his costumes were vials of salt-water so he could gargle with it by breathing through an inhaler for 15 minutes. Afterward he would gargle with warm salt water and take a sip of diluted Scotch whisky.

How Does Your Drug Awareness Rate?

By CROSSROADS STAFF

THE FOLLOWING SHORT DRUG INFORMATION TEST IS OFFERED AS AN OPPORTUNITY TO TEST YOUR OWN DRUG AWARENESS. THE FOUR DRUGS IN QUESTION ARE THE ONES MOST WIDELY ABUSED IN MANCHESTER AND ARE THE ONES RESPONSIBLE FOR THE HIGHEST NUMBER OF OUR RELATED DEATHS IN AMERICA.

Take the test. How does your drug awareness rate?

Identify the following drugs:

1. Ordinary form: Liquid. Medical use: Mild stimulant, treatment of some forms of coma. Potential for psychological dependence: High. Long term effects: Insomnia, restlessness.
2. Ordinary form: Pills. Effect on brain and other body organs: Not completely known. Danger: Accounts for hundreds of deaths and thousands of illnesses annually. Has produced chromosome damage in some lower animals.
3. Effect: Stimulates the central nervous system, inhibits formation of urine, increases adrenal activity, accelerates heart rate and raises blood pressure. Danger: One of the most toxic drugs known, not medical use known. Potential for psychological dependence: High. Availability: 580 billion units produced annually.
4. Ordinary form: Liquid. Average duration of effect: 24 hours.

President Intends To Continue News Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon intends to hold news conferences in the future "as he has in the past, I'm quite confident," a White House spokesman said Tuesday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren made the statement when asked whether Nixon would hold news conferences while the House Judiciary Committee is considering his impeachment and while other Watergate scandal matters were before the federal courts.

Nixon held his last news conference March 19 in Houston, Tex., at a meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Let's Follow Intent Too

Despite the general attitudes of most of us that we need only do what the law requires, no more or no less; we think we should not lose sight of the intent of the law as well as its literal provisions.

The campaign contribution laws now before the governor have as their intent the limitations of influence which may or may not come with large contributions.

The principle is that the more a man gives, the more he might demand, of a successful candidate.

So under the new laws, individuals are limited in the amount they can contribute. But there is a pitfall ahead.

Most candidates, particularly for statewide office, will not have the time to solicit contributions personally if they are to have any time left to discuss the issues with the voters. This means the task of raising money will be delegated to others.

We think that the voter should not only know who has contributed to whom and how much, but the individual who solicited the contribution.

We are aware the laws passed do not include this requirement and we ask the candidates to submit this information voluntarily.

This is necessary, we believe, to publicize the large fund raisers who could be just as demanding upon a candidate for favors as a large contributor.

In this way the letter and intent of the new laws will be met and a great step will have been taken toward improving the moral climate of our campaigns.

Wallace Widening Base

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, tremendously encouraged by his unprecedented virtual third term election as governor, is building a broad base of financial support for a possible bid for the presidency in 1976. He has just paid off the $470,000 unpaid bills left over from the 1972 election.

Wallace workers are raising money, recruiting new supporters and bidding one of the most sophisticated political operations in the country. It is headed by Charles Snider, who ran the 1972 attempt until it was crippled by the attempted assassination of the governor.

A table covered with neatly stacked checks, thousands of small contributions, "are the best contributions you can have," Snider said. "Just small amounts from good citizens." Most are for $10. The largest is for $25.

This is the way all candidates will have to raise their funds in the future. Campaign laws are getting tougher and big contributors are being scared away by the courts and congressional investigating committees.

The current operation is being called the Wallace Stand. Most of the funds are being directed into preparations for this December's National Democratic Conference in Kansas City, the so-called mini-convention. It is supposed to be concerned with rules and regulations, but candidates and politicking will inevitably dominate. The Wallace men don't plan to be out maneuvered.

Gov. Wallace has long excelled at grass-roots fund raising. He passes the hat at rallies, and uses direct mail. Through these efforts he raised a total of $9 million in his 1968 nationwide campaign. The Wallace Stand will be ready if he decides to make another bid in 1976.

Summer Jobs Scarce

This is the year summer jobs for needy teen-agers will be hard to find. If the rest of the country follows New York, there will be 10 applicants for every available job.

Depending on how much money Congress finally appropriates for it, there will be between 600,000 and 900,000 jobs provided for by the Summer Jobs Program for Youth. These are supported by federal funds. There are about 3.4 million young people between the ages of 14 and 21 who are "economically disadvantaged". Their families live below the poverty level, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

At a time of soaring inflation, the lack of summer jobs for willing teen-agers means hardship for many poor families who counted on money earned this summer to carry them along.

One glimmer of hope is the National Alliance of Businessmen. They have been the largest private source of summer jobs. This year, they were counted on for 200,000 jobs. The minimum wage may deter some, but an effort will be made to fill their quota. It is a worthwhile effort.

Baseball For Kids, Not Aging Busy Bodies

WASHINGTON — In the bad old days, the best hitter for average around South Street was my sister Lucy, who once drove a baseball wrapped in bicycle tape through the Deleahy's kitchen window, at least 375 feet from the flat stove we used for home plate in our backyard.
Lucy was not a pioneer in what Freudian journalists call the "sports sex revolution." She made the team because she was a good ball player, and we boys were not about to let the School Street Bunch sign her to a long-term, non-cut contract. In any case, her parents would not have gone around picking out her games because they had better things to do, like cooking supper and putting out tomato plants. If kids wanted to play ball they just picked up sides and played. It was not necessary for Pa to take you down to some fancy-of-ice and register you for a Little League and suggest strongly that if you didn't get to pitch he'd have a little talk with the Board of Selectmen.
There were, in fact, three girls on our team — Lucy, Martha Blackburn and Molly Egan — and all were regulars. Lucy was not only a line-drive hitter, she was a cunning first baseman, adept at the hidden ball trick, and a notorious batter for umpires. Martha may have been the strongest player on the team. She was the catcher, sans mask or belly protector. Molly Egan was in my best ball hawk in a neighborhood outfield and infuriated opposing teams with her stylish dropped bunts.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

We have been subject to some criticism because we refuse advertising for X-rated motion pictures. The number of newspapers who accept this type of advertising is greater than those who don't. We respect the right of those who wish to attend X-rated movies. We assume they ought to be able to do their thing, even if it means attending a dirty movie. Frankly, we have yet to see such a movie that we would class as entertainment.
However, we feel if a community newspaper makes advertising space available for X-rated movies, in a sense it is promoting them. That's our reason for the refusal.

Again we have had a complaint from a subscriber in Florida that four or five issues of the Herald are received all at once. Again, we repeat, the papers for mail subscribers are dispatched to the post office each afternoon. The delay is in the postal system. If space is available, newspapers are moved by air; if it isn't, they travel by other transportation. No, not horse and buggy.
Beginning June 1, we are starting a unique program for our newboys and girls, whom we refer to as Little Merchants, which will give them additional business training.
Instead of paying their statement for papers to the Herald, the carriers will be making the payment on Saturday to the Manchester State Bank. The carriers will fill out their own deposit slip.
Our appreciation to Ed Parker and the folks at Manchester State Bank for their splendid cooperation in helping us set up this new program. The bank has arranged to have one teller available solely for Herald payments.
We also appreciate the cooperation given us by the parents of our newboys and girls toward our new banking program. We believe it is a valuable tool in business training.

Walk-a-thons, bike-a-thons, are popular these days and raise needed money for charities.
Now a fella has come up with what might be called an excellent suggestion, a work-a-thon for noble causes. The charitable donor would pay the charity by the hour for every hour of sweat and toil that is contributed.
What work could be done? Clean up vacant lots, plant gardens, flowers, trees or vegetables, wash windows, sweep sidewalks; the list of jobs could almost be endless.
At the same time, such a work-a-thon might go a long way toward beautifying the City of Village Charms.

The mayor of Fort Dodge, Iowa, came up with a choice recent reply:
"Owners of run-down, unsafe buildings in downtown Fort Dodge should get themselves either a contractor or a lawyer; they are going to need one or the other. Unsafe buildings are going to be torn down. Our ordinance is going to have teeth in it."

We are pleased to see communities moving ahead in planning for the nation's Bicentennial in 1976. While the figures are unofficial, in 1975 there were about 2 1/2 million people in the 13 colonies. Philadelphia, the largest city, had a population of about 30,000 and New York about 22,000.
We were a nation of young people. About half the population was under 16. And we were a nation of farmers. Eighty per cent of the Americans lived off the land.
Perhaps it is only fitting then that our rural communities seem to be in the forefront in planning for our Bicentennial.
As a convenience to advertisers participating in the celebration, The Herald has available a 64-page book of promotional campaigns entitled The Spirit of '76. The guidebook was made available to us by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau.

The House showed good judgment when it rejected the postcard voter registration measure.
Our main objection, in addition to the greatly increased cost of registration, is that the possibilities of fraud are great.

Under the measure, the voter registration forms for federal elections would be distributed by the U.S. postal Service to all postal residents every two years. Separate registration would still be necessary for state and local elections. A new federal agency would have been established to administer the program.
Among those voting in favor of postcard registration were Reps. Bill Cotter and Ella Grasso.

Out in Arizona, the legislature passed a unique bill. The measure requires county clerks to send out sample ballots to all electors in the district. In view of the present price of postage that could get expensive.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has a keen sense of humor.
He commented that if, and when, the impeachment trial of President Nixon reaches the Senate, he expects every senator to be in his seat every day and listen to the proceedings.

It is pretty unusual for senators to have perfect attendance even when they aren't running for re-election. If the Senate action begins just before the November elections, those running for re-election are more apt to be out campaigning.

Our thanks to the students in Mrs. Bartlett's class at Robertson School for their letters expressing appreciation for their tour of The Herald. We particularly liked the letters that were signed "your friend." That's the greatest compliment one can pay to another.

We will celebrate Memorial Day next Monday and it is the earliest Memorial Day since Congress changed to Monday holidays in 1971. However, next year, it occurs May 28. Strive for a safe and sane holiday, particularly if you plan to hit the highway. The major problem that most people are having now with gasoline is simply the price.
In fact, a businessman told us the other day don't be surprised in the near future if gasoline stations start giving away glasses and other premiums to attract customers.

Utah's Two Senators Blast Lobby Efforts

By LEE RODERICK (Special to The Herald)
WASHINGTON — It is unusual when Utah's two senators take similar political or legislative stands. But both Sens. Wallace F. Bennett, a conservative Republican, and Frank E. Moss, a liberal Democrat, have strongly attacked the lobbying techniques of two professional groups opposing pet pieces of legislation.
The target of Bennett's ire is the American Medical Association, which he accuses of trying to unravel a new program intended to control the costs and assure the effectiveness of medical services under Medicare and Medicaid. The program, introduced by the Utah and enacted into law during the last Congress, is called the Professional Standards Review Organization (PSRO).
Moss has set his sights on tactics used by the American Trial Lawyers' Association to defeat the National No-Fault Motor Vehicle Insurance Act which was passed anyway by the Senate. Moss, who was floor manager for the bill, accused the association of using electronic technology to disguise "a highly organized lobbying effort" against the legislation, which he said favors automobile accident victims over segments of the insurance industry and the legal profession.

Bennett said the AMA effort against PSRO came in a "public relations kit" distributed to the public, press, and the medical profession, and entitled "PSRO-deteriorates access." The kit contained speeches, suggested editorials, and other materials attacking the program, according to Bennett.
Distribution of the kit proceeded public hearings on the effectiveness of the PSRO law, scheduled before the Senate Finance Committee on May 8-9. Bennett, ranking Republican on the committee, vowed to confront the AMA during the hearings with the kit, which he said achieves new heights of distortion and misrepresentation, espousing the most non-professional and least credible aspects of the American Medical Association.
In a letter to the executive vice president of the AMA, Dr. Ernest B. Howard of Chicago, Bennett said, "Surely, after years of testimony and study and suggestions with respect to the PSRO legislation, you know better."

Epps Taken To New Jersey

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee, will keynote the 24th commencement ceremonies May 26 at Fairfield University.
Dash, a Georgetown University law professor on leave while directing the staff of the Senate Watergate probe, will also receive an honorary doctor of civil law from the university.
Three other men will receive honorary degrees. They are William Styron, a 1967 Pulitzer Prize winner, James W. Birkenstock, retired IBM vice president and trustee emeritus of the university, and John J. Sullivan, first selectman of Fairfield.
Epps, arrested by the FBI at his insurance company job in Hartford last week, waived extradition Monday and was turned over to the New Jersey police.
Epps had said when arrested that if he went back to New Jersey his life would be in danger. However, he did not raise that protest in court Monday.
Police said Epps was involved in the Black Muslim "sect killing" last October of John W. Clark, 39, in Camden. Clark's wife and child were kidnapped in the incident.
Two other men are being held by authorities in connection with the alleged crimes. Epps reportedly moved to Hartford shortly after the incident and was married in January.

Toll Collector Gives Out Lollipops

JAMESTOWN, R.I. (UPI) — Harry Shatzer figures motorists deserve more than just a two-minute trip across the Newport Bridge for two bucks, so he gives smiles and kind words.
If you number among the lucky travelers, you leave his toll booth with a stick of gum or piece of candy.
"The way I figure it, what else does a person get for his two bucks," Shatzer, 63, philosophized from atop his stool.
Crossing the bridge across Narragansett Bay isn't half the experience of riding the Jamestown-to-Newport Ferry, says Shatzer, who worked the ferry for 33 years until it was replaced by the bridge in 1969.
Two dollars in those days provided a family of three with a 30-minute sail, a chance to mingle with fellow travelers and talk with Shatzer.
"But here at the bridge you run into a resentment you never found there," Shatzer said. "There's nobody to see, nothing to do. The only thing is to have a friendly toll collector. That's the only thing you can contribute to their trip."
Shatzer is a charmer. The gleam was in his eye as the red MG neared the tollbooth. "Been waitin' for ya all day," he said, leaning out and placing a piece of lemon candy in the hand of a startled young woman.
"Wow. Thanks a lot. What do I have to do to deserve this," she asked while handing Shatzer a pair of one dollar bills.
"Just come back and see me again," he replied.

Patient Care Linked To MMH Fiscal Health, Miller Tells Trustees

"It is our belief that the best possible patient care, which we all want, is inextricably tied in with our hospital's fiscal health, and that these two responsibilities are the first and second priorities of your trustees."

Robert H. Miller, incoming board president, read the president's report given Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees at Willie's Steak House.

Miller said that the hospital's fiscal health is the first and second priorities of your trustees.

This was part of Jacob F. Miller's opening statement in his president's report given Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees at Willie's Steak House.

as administrator, George J. Roy as comptroller, and the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. as treasurer.

At the close of the meeting, a tribute was paid to Miller.

Miller was unable to attend the meeting, having recently undergone major surgery.

He had been deeply involved in the organization of the Capital Area Health Consortium, an alliance of eight Hartford Area hospitals pledged to cooperate in their efforts to avoid duplication of services and to develop new services on a regional basis.

JUNE

Planning by our committee under Bill Thornton had been working for several months in conjunction with the long-range planning committee of the medical staff, chaired by Dr. Martin Duke, and with Roy Ferguson, our architect. Initial steps were made to make a complete inventory of our older facilities to determine their condition and degree of need for replacement.

Building - Dave Bourne reported that all loans obtained for previous construction had been paid off.

Consortium - Announcement was made in Hartford of the creation of a steering committee consisting of an administrative, a medical, and a trustee representative from each of the eight hospitals involved. Our board voted to participate on the steering committee and to endorse the Consortium concept in principle. Representatives to be Ed Kenney, Dr. Butterfield, and me.

In keeping with traditional practice, no board meetings were held during July and August, but there was strong activity in the budget, personnel, and planning groups, reported in September.

SEPTEMBER

The board voted to accept a budget which required added room and board charges of $2 per day plus certain increases in charges for special services. The last prior increase had been in December of 1972.

Resignation of Dave Bourne, controller, was announced effective Sept. 1. After careful evaluation of applicants to replace him, George Roy was selected to start Oct. 1.

The planning committee continued strong activity, and investigated ambulatory and emergency patient treatment in several other hospitals in the state. It was requested by the Radiology Department to gain consent for the installation of megacycle therapy facilities here in spite of previous adverse reaction of the Hospital Planning Commission to this proposal. After another careful survey of the general situation in the capital area made by our administration, it was decided not to grant this renewed request.

OCTOBER

A two-day visit by representatives of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals took place early in the month, and while we did not hear of their findings until the following February, we were approved for two years, with a few minor complaints which we agreed to rectify.

Connecticut Hospital Accreditation Commission - became effective October 1st, and, while numerous hospitals had sent in applications for rate increases prior to that date, the commission decided at its first meeting that it would accept all increases as of Oct. 15 which fell below 6 per cent, but that it would not be retroactive to Oct. 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Any requests exceeding 6 per cent would have to be considered at subsequent public hearings. Manchester's room and board increases, which were 3.2 per cent, were accepted, but the special service charges, which were 4.8 per cent, were postponed, in spite of the fact that, in aggregate, our request only amounted to 4.8 per cent.

To sum up briefly, they were finally granted on Jan. 8 and the

NOVEMBER

Medical staff voted to favor a staff member being placed on the board of trustees.

Medical staff at a special meeting to consider the Consortium, voiced strong disapproval of the tentative bylaws which had been proposed by the steering committee, primarily due to apprehensions on operating provisions.

A special medical subcommittee of the Consortium later modifies these objectionable features, if not all, of our physicians.

DECEMBER

No meeting due to the ice storm.

JANUARY

We may all take pride in the extraordinary cooperation of all groups of hospital employees, including the doctors and the auxiliary, many of whom spent long hours on a voluntary basis to help solve the logistics of special situations encountered.

Special commendations were given to our maintenance men who worked from 14 to 17 hours daily for nearly a week to keep the place going. Ed (Kenney) has received a number of letters of thanks from the 40 or so elderly or ill-at-home patients who were taken in doctor's advice to be given free beds and shelter.

Federal Marijuana Laws Challenged in Court

DAVID E. ANDERSON WASHINGTON (UPI) - Advocates of liberalizing the nation's marijuana laws are adding the courts to their field of operation.

In the past, pot advocates have usually confined their efforts to state legislatures, promoting hearings on liberalizing laws while skirting ballot referendums as too dangerous and the courts because cases could generally be made only after a marijuana conviction.

Now the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) has prepared a court case that it believes puts the pro-pot people on the offensive.

In its case, filed in the U. S. District Court of the District of Columbia, NORML is seeking to overturn both the District of Columbia and federal laws on pot possession.

Two Marijuana Researchers According to a memorandum filed with the court, the main thrust of the NORML suit is, "in a nutshell, that marijuana is not sufficiently dangerous to the user or to our society for its private possession and use by adults to be made a criminal offense."

To buttress its argument, NORML has enlisted the services of two respected marijuana researchers: Dr. Lester Grinspoon, associate professor of psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School, and Dr. J. Thomas Ungerleider, an associate professor of psychiatry at the UCLA Medical Center.

Grinspoon, author of the book "Marijuana Reconsidered", said in an affidavit filed with the court that while marijuana is not a totally harmless drug, it is "the least dangerous psychoactive drug."

"I believe," he added, "the single greatest danger encountered by the marijuana user is that of being arrested by law enforcement personnel."

Grinspoon also said it was a myth to consider marijuana a narcotic—an important point since most of the anti-marijuana laws are based on its classification as a narcotic along with heroin.

"No Evidence" "Clearly marijuana is not a narcotic in any medical or scientific sense of which I am aware, and there is absolutely no evidence that marijuana use has any of the characteristics which compromise addiction," grinspoon said.

Ungerleider, who served as a member of President Nixon's National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse and as a consultant to California Gov. Ronald Reagan's Strike Force on Drug Abuse, told the court in his affidavit: "It is my opinion that the use of marijuana in the adult, even chronic use over a long period of time, involves small danger of physiological or psychological impairment."

He added: "Similarly, I most emphatically do not believe that marijuana poses any threat to the safety or welfare of our society."

Ungerleider also said the alleged connection between marijuana use and criminal behavior was a myth. "The image of the marijuana smoker as a violent menace to society is ridiculous," he said.

"It is my opinion, and it was also the conclusion of the national commission, that neither the marijuana user nor the drug itself constitute a danger to the public safety in terms of crime or aggressive behavior."

With marijuana arrests growing (the figure for 1973 is expected to reach the 300,000 mark), the debate has passed from the merely academic to an issue with significant social consequences.

The District Court is expected to decide in a few weeks whether it will pick up the challenge being presented by the marijuana advocates or dismiss the suit, sending the NORML people back to the legislature.

State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli has retained the Manchester firm, National Media Inc., as public relations consultant in his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor.

National Media is headed by Robert Charnas, president of WINF radio. Agostinelli's campaign committee is in the process of opening an office in the Andrews Building on E. Center St.

U.S. Rep. Robert Steele, R-Second District, also a candidate for the nomination, has made public a personal financial statement, showing he and his wife, Betty, have a net worth of $51,117 and paid a joint 1973 income tax of $7,473.

His assets include equity in his Vernon home, $3,600 in securities and $1,881 in returnable deposits to the Civil Service Retirement Fund.

In 1973, the Steeles had a total income of $43,522, which included his $42,500 salary as congressman.

Third District State Sen. Harry Burke, D-East Hartford, has named Pascal Mastrangelo his Manchester campaign treasurer in his candidacy for re-election.

Mastrangelo, a long-time member of the Democratic Town Committee, is chairman of Voting District 6 and is chairman of the Manchester Housing Authority.

Burke a four-term state senator and a five-term state representative before then, has three challengers this year for the Democratic nomination - all from East Hartford. They are State Rep. George Hamon Jr., State Rep. Richard Willard and City Councilman Stephen Barron.

The Third Senatorial District comprises all of East Hartford and about 53 per cent of Manchester.

Burke said today he is confident the delegates to the July 24 nominating convention will recognize the work he has accomplished for his constituents the past 18 years and will endorse him for re-election.

A $100-a-plate reception for U.S. Rep. William Cotler, D-First District, was held Sunday at the Tumblebrook Country Club, Bloomfield.

Cotler is seeking election to his third term in Congress.

PZC Asked to Reconsider Buckland Commons Ruling

By DOUG BEVINS

The Manchester League of Women Voters is urging the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) to reconsider its March 4 decision approving zone changes for a massive, mixed-use development at Buckland.

The League's "urgent recommendation" for PZC reconsideration of the zone changes came in a letter to PZC Chairman Alfred Sieffert from Mrs. Ditta Tani of 90 Concord Rd., chairman of the League's land use committee.

Of particular concern to the League, according to Mrs. Tani's letter, are issues such as sewerage; air and water pollution; development coordination with state, regional and local planning; and the quality of life.

The League's position statement comes as the PZC-approved Buckland zone changes are being challenged in the Hartford County Court of Common Pleas.

The Buckland Homeowners Association, whose members own property near the proposed development site, are seeking reversal of the zone changes granted to MAP Associates, an investment partnership led by developer Arthur M. Fischer of New York City.

The letter also comes after the report last week that Manchester's sanitary sewer system is operating near capacity and may not be able to handle more development in town. In a PZC meeting with town directors last Thursday, Sieffert said the PZC was unaware of sewer capacity problems when it approved the Buckland zone changes.

The zone changes granted March 4 affected 226 acres of tobacco land owned by the Hartman Tobacco Co. which were previously zoned Rural Residence. The rezoning was for 138 acres of Comprehensive Urban Development (CUD) Zone, 80 acres of Business 3 Zone, and 38 acres of Industrial Zone.

The text of Mrs. Tani's letter to Sieffert, dated March 21, follows: "Dear Mr. Sieffert: The League of Women Voters supports land use policies and powers which foster an optimum balance between human needs and environmental quality."

"League of Women Voters of Manchester wishes to affirm this position by recommending that any decisions on the development of available open space land and wetlands be made only after complete information has been carefully considered by the decision-making bodies and made available to concerned citizens. The areas of particular concern are those of sewerage, air pollution and water pollution.

"We feel that such developments should be coordinated with existing state, regional and local planning for the area. (Proposed Plan of Conservation and Development for Connecticut, Capitol Region Council of Governments Advisory Report, and the Comprehensive Plan of Development for Manchester.)"

"It is of particular concern to us that a development of regional significance be carefully weighed, so that its impact does not adversely affect the quality of life of the citizens of our town.

"In accordance with this position, we are concerned with the zoning changes granted for the Buckland Commons development by the Planning and Zoning Commission, and we urgently recommend that the commission reconsider its decisions," the letter concluded.

Institute on Gifted Handicapped Scheduled At SCSC May 23-25

A three-day workshop focusing on problems of providing educational programs for gifted handicapped children in Connecticut, will be held at Southern Connecticut State College, New Haven starting Thursday, May 23.

The institute, entitled "Creating Awareness and Demonstrating High Potential Among Handicapped Children and Youth," is jointly sponsored by the Connecticut State Department of Education and SCSC. National authorities educating gifted children are scheduled to participate in the institute intended for Connecticut school administrators and teachers.

Irving Newman, SCSC assistant professor of education who is institute director, said the three-day program is designed to draw attention to the need for more concerted effort in Connecticut to recognize gifted handicapped students and then to provide meaningful education programs for them.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert C. Zampano Tuesday ordered the materials relating to the test to be handed over to the attorneys for the Firebirds, an association of black New Haven firemen.

The institute will open Thursday at 9:30 a.m. with a talk by Henry Viscardi, founder and a trustee of Abilities Inc., a Long Island-based industry which employs the severely disabled. Viscardi, who was born legless, will talk on "I'm the Fellow Who Took 'Dis' Out of Disability."

Thursday at 1 p.m. Frederick J. Weintraub, assistant director for governmental relations of the Council for exceptional Children, will speak on "The Right to Appropriate Education: What It Means to the Gifted and Handicapped."

Friday at 9:30 a.m., James J. Gallagher, director of the brought suit against the city and the fire department charging discrimination in their hiring and promotion practices. The case was settled when the city agreed to change its hiring and promotion test to one that was designed to be culturally unbiased.

When the new test was given, however, attorneys for both sides sought to withhold the results because of apparent errors in the computation of the test scores.

Last year, the Firebirds

Frank Graham Porter Child Development Center at the University of North Carolina, will talk on "Special Programming for the Gifted Handicapped."

Bernard Bragg, an actor and lecturer, will speak on his life and work with the National Theater of the Deaf at 1 p.m. Friday.

All talks will be presented in the Bailey Library lecture hall on the SCSC campus.

In addition to the talks, small group discussions chaired by Connecticut authorities on education of the gifted handicapped are scheduled throughout the three-day period.

Black Firemen Test Results Under Wraps

NEW HAVEN (UPI)—A federal judge has ordered the results of a special promotion test for black firemen to be kept under wraps until a challenge to the scoring of the test is settled.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert C. Zampano Tuesday ordered the materials relating to the test to be handed over to the attorneys for the Firebirds, an association of black New Haven firemen.

Vernon Monk Parrots Ousted From Nest Atop Pole

BARBARA RICHMOND
The residents of the Reed St. area of Rockville and the staff of the Tolland County office of Connecticut Light & Power Co. have learned a lot about Monk Parrots in the past few weeks. All because a pair of them decided to make their residence on a utility pole on Reed St.

However, the story that started about four weeks ago has an unhappy ending because the power company had to take the nest down Tuesday. The displacement was made under the supervision of a representative of the State Department of Environmental Protection.

Atty. Martin Burke, a resident of Reed St., said he noticed the birds when they were seen on the other residents but were not where around when a photographer appeared around four weeks ago. Neighborhood adults and children were fascinated by the birds which have the appearance of an over-sized parakeet and are shades of blue and green.

Burke said they were even more intrigued when the birds started to build their nest in the unlikely spot between a wire and a transformer on the utility pole.

Contrary to the way other birds go about building their nest, these Monk Parrots did not pick up twigs off the ground but, rather, personally, with their hooked bills, snipped the twigs right off the tree and then wove them into the nest.

Both Atty. Burke and Kenneth Waldron, manager of the Tolland office of CL&P, contacted the Audubon Society to find out more about the birds that are not usually seen in this area. They were told they are indigenous to South America.

The story started about four years ago when a crate of these tropical birds, flown into Kennedy Airport in New York to go to pet stores, accidentally was broken and the birds, happy to be free, flew off in all directions. Some have been seen at various times in New York and New Jersey.

Waldron said he spoke with Ted Bampton of the State Department of Wildlife and Conservation and he confirmed that the birds in Rockville were Monk Parrots.

Tolland Auditor Finds No Surplus Revenue

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Stanley Malis, a representative of the town's audit firm, Haskins & Seils, appeared at the Board of Selectmen meeting last night and said he checked up the report of Town Manager John Harkins on budget funds available.

Harkins said, "We have reviewed the letter that Stew (Selectman Stewart Joslin) had provided and of the six items mentioned we found that only the $15,000 per capita grant which the legislature adopted after the budget was prepared can be considered revenue not listed in the budget."

Harkins, after checking with Tolland High School principal Roy Neirendorf, also agreed with Joslin's finding that a state grant listed in the 1973-74 budget revenue in the amount of $6,500 will not be forthcoming.

The largest amount that Joslin charged two weeks ago was not listed in the budget revenue was for revenue sharing surplus. That money, says Harkins, is not there. The funds Joslin refers to are those that had been committed and spent, he said.

Harkins said they have not been able to pin down a special education grant of $10,000, but that the transportation (town aid) grant of $18,000 is not unreported revenue, but revenue for the current year and it has been expected against the $71,000 item for town aid.

Of the $193,011 revenue sharing received from Dec. 1972 to date, plus $4,100 interest, $197,065 has been spent, both Harkins and Malis said.

Harkins added that the $8,000 grant for the school administration building was not reflected in the forthcoming budget but, even if it is found, he is looking for $53,737 for the current year.

There were questions raised about the amounts reported on the last budget which Joslin acknowledged was $30,000 short by overestimating revenue sharing in that fiscal year.

Also, a discrepancy in the 1972-73 budget where only $28,000 of $111,000 revenue sharing actually available was recognized, prompted Selectman Kevin Covagnoli to ask, "Is this money (Joslin claims is available) funny money or real money?"

Selectwoman Helen Want questioned why the revenue sharing money wasn't transferred and who was responsible. Joslin said, "I put it together and nothing is incorrect."

Nothing was resolved last night and Joslin requested a meeting with the auditor next Tuesday. Malis can then sit down with Harkins, Joslin said.

The Board of Selectmen will hold a special meeting May 29 at 7:30 p.m. with the auditor and town manager to resolve the matter. Inasmuch as chairman John Burokas asked that it be held in Harkins' office, it is speculated that the meeting will be closed to the public.

The meeting last night left most of the selectmen, and those in attendance, thoroughly confused. Mrs. Wanat said, "I don't understand a lot about it except there is a great discrepancy."

Referendum
Judy Dean, noting there will be less than a week after the reformation on the budget if a referendum on the budget is held, asked for the board's consensus of whether any surplus to be used for education was available. Burokas said it could not give an opinion yet.

The selectmen's May 7 town budget meeting only after the board voted to give any surplus to the Board of Education and the Fire Department, not to exceed cuts in the original requests.

At that time an investigation of Joslin's claim of over $150,000 in unreported revenue had not been completed.

Townpeople at the budget meeting who opposed the $147,741 education cut were in the majority and, if a substantial amount of revenue is found by next Wednesday, it is expected that petitions for a referendum will be filed.

Coventry FitzGerald Pushes Lobby Probe

MONICA SHEA

Tel. 742-9495
John FitzGerald, attorney for the coalition of groups opposing DevCo, has said he will continue to press for an investigation into the lobbying activities of Peter Libassi, president of Greater Hartford Process-DevCo.

FitzGerald said, "The fact that Libassi registered as a lobbyist after the fact does not excuse him from the criminal violation. The fact that Libassi registered is an admission that he did lobby."

FitzGerald had asked the state attorney's office to investigate the matter. The problem is compounded by the fact that Hartford County state attorney is John LaBelle who is also the attorney for DevCo.

LaBelle said, "I will have nothing to do with the investigation" and has turned the matter over to his assistant, George Slightoun.

FitzGerald said, "I am concerned as the days go by and we don't hear anything from the state attorney's office. I don't think it should take three weeks to get action on this request for an investigation."

FitzGerald said, "I think

Libassi should be prosecuted and I can't think of any reason why he isn't being prosecuted."

FitzGerald said LaBelle's conflict of interest isn't cured by turning over the case to his assistant. "I don't think this will cure the conflict of interest. One can't clear a conflict of interest by asking a subordinate to review the matter. LaBelle has the right to review any decision made by Slightoun and if LaBelle made his feelings known to Slightoun his review would be necessary."

FitzGerald said, "I submit that an attorney who has a conflict of interest is not in a proper position."

742-9495
To kick off Rural Appreciation Week in Coventry, a farm tour will be held June 1 from 10 to 5 p.m., rain date June 2.

For the price of a ticket, $1 for adults, 50 cents per child or a maximum of $3 per family, farm participants are entitled to visit farms of varying interest and size.

Included in the tour will be the Gowdy farm on Brewster St., the large working farm belonging to the Hills on Silver St., the Halloran farm on North School Rd. which will feature a home moved piece by piece from Gay City Park.

Other farms on the tour will be the Glenny farm on Rt. 44A and the Curry farms on Rt. 31 where refreshments will be served.

Two farms will be shown on Cooper Lane, the Couch farm and the Jacobson farm which will have very many old farm tools on display. At the South Cross Stables on Cross St. show horses will be exhibited. The Yake farm on South St. is also part of the tour.

All proceeds from the tour will go toward the legal expenses for the attorney hired by the coalition of groups in opposing to DevCo's plans for a new community in town. For tickets call Rosemary Laughlin, Forge Rd. at 742-8714 or Kathy Muraski at 742-6847 or any member of the opposing groups.

Delta Chapter of Royal Arch Masons will visit Friendship Lodge of Masons Thursday night at the Masonic Temple. It will portray the Fellowship degree, with Wayne M. Garland, high priest, presiding. Officer dress is summer formal. Lodge opens at 7:30; refreshments will be served.

Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—This has been a good week for visionaries.

There was a group of futuristic scientists at Princeton discussing plans for space colonies that eventually would house most of the world's inhabitants.

The earth would then be used primarily as a beautiful place to visit for a vacation, "one of them explained.

And we had Sen. Barry Goldwater, a far-out Arizona Republican, telling a group of aviation writers that the answer to America's transportation problem is the dirigible.

He said dirigibles could lift heavy payloads, reduce pollution, lower noise levels, fly aloft for extended periods and operate where no airports or runways existed.

Sounds Plausible
The space colony concept sounded plausible enough. But Goldwater's presentation, frankly, struck me as being a bit science-fictionish.

An aerial transit system that operates quietly without damaging the environment, something right out of "Star Trek."

So I decided to check it out with the Future Is Yesterday Foundation, a privately operated "think tank" and research center whose motto is "Progress Through Retrospection."

"Is the senator letting his imagination run away from him, or is his idea actually within the realm of possibility?" I asked Sam Harkenback, the foundation's advanced projects director.

"Definitely the latter," Harkenback replied.

He beckoned me to follow him to an airstrip behind the main laboratory. There he pointed to a large cigar-shaped object suspended from a tall tower.

"A Basic Dirigible
"That," he said, "is your basic dirigible."
"So that's a dirigible," I said wonderingly. "How does it work?"

"The principle involved here is to take a big bag and fill it up with some type of gas that is lighter than air. The bag will then float aloft. Add a propeller to give it forward thrust and a rudder to control direction and you've got a conveyance for passengers or cargo."

I said, "It still has an other-worldish ring to me. Why is the dirigible shaped like a cigar rather than, say, a Tiparillo?"

Harkenback explained that extensive tests were conducted at the foundation's proving grounds. By losing both into the air, researchers established that a cigar is 37 per cent more buoyant than a Tiparillo.

It would appear, then, that I owe Goldwater an apology. He may have his feet in the clouds but he's still got his head on the ground.

MCC Will Give Credit For Life Experience

The initial phase of a Life Experience Assessment project—in which knowledge and skills gained through life experience will be considered for college credit—is expected to start this fall with a limited number of students at Manchester Community College (MCC).

The project, called LEAP, will develop an alternate path to the existing Associate in Science degree in general studies offered by MCC, according to Dr. Robert H. Fenn, MCC's dean of faculty.

Fenn described the LEAP plans, which are being worked out by MCC faculty and staff, as follows:

Knowledge gained through experiences such as travel, military service, employment, social and public service, and independent study, among others, will be assessed by faculty committees.

If found to be applicable to the degree requirements, appropriate credit will be awarded.

When granted, such credit can be applied toward requirements for the degree and considered in the placement of students at appropriate levels in the degree program.

Dean Fenn said current coursework in required and elective areas of the degree will be integrated with academic assessments of the life experience learning.

MCC faculty committees are now drafting specifications for rewriting degree objectives, procedures for assessing the experience learning, and administrative arrangements to implement the program.

Serving as consultant for the project is the Capital Higher Education Service of Hartford, which has obtained assistance for other college faculty.

MCC is among the first educational institutions in the country to undertake an assessment program of life experience, Dean Fenn said.

Bailey Predicts Huge Turnout For Primary

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey predicts a huge turnout for the party primary in Hartford Thursday, matching the forces of Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., and Attorney General Robert K. Killian.

Killian is fighting for his political life in the contest over delegate votes to the Democratic state convention, where each will be seeking the party's gubernatorial nomination.

Bailey predicts a turnout of Democratic voters of 50 per cent or better in a city of 36,000 Democrats.

Certificate of Award

James A. Turek, Manchester collector of revenue, shows the Certificate of Award presented him recently by state Tax Commissioner F. George Brown. The certificate is for successfully completing a three-day seminar sponsored by the Connecticut Tax Collectors' Association and held in Cromwell. Those participating in the seminar received instruction on recent legislation pertaining to tax collection and recovery procedures, and innovations in accounting and data processing methods. Turek has been in his Manchester job since March 25. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Lucy Booths Demonstrate Psychiatrists Are Human

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI) — Psychiatrists anxious to show the public "they don't have horns" are giving out free advice on mental health from "Lucy Booths" in busy shopping centers.

Housewives loaded down with packages, teen-agers shopping for their proms and harried businessmen on their lunch breaks have been stopping at the little booths to meet and talk with psychiatrists.

The Mental Health Association of Hawaii set up the booths as part of mental health month "to bring the subject of mental health into the market place."

Gerard Manion, director of public education for the association, said that three "Lucy Booths," staffed by psychiatrists and psychologists volunteering their time, are functioning at three of Honolulu's busiest shopping centers.

"A little Skeptical" "A volunteer came up with the idea for the booths, but (they) were a little skeptical about what the public reaction would be," Manion said. The booths were named after the character "Lucy" in the Peanuts cartoon strip who is sometimes dispenses "psychiatric" advice from a booth for 5 cents.

"People who have never spoken with a psychiatrist before cautiously approach the booths," Manion said. "Instead of a stuffy office waiting room and a set appointment time, they have an informal atmosphere where there are no fixed hours, no fees, no appointments and no identification necessary."

"We're not overwhelmed by tremendous numbers seeking the psychiatrist's attention at the booth at the same time," Manion said, "so there is enough time to really talk with someone and perhaps offer some good advice."

Today's Thought

Still And Quiet

In the rush of your life, with all the pressures and demands, do you make a time regularly where you are alone... and quiet? Where you spend time just with yourself and Him? Thinking, praying, letting Him speak to you through His Word?

We are so used to noise and hurried activity that this sort of discipline is difficult. Make yourself try it. We were created for it. You'll never regret it.

"Be still and know that I am God." Commune with your own hearts... and be silent." (Psalms 46:10, 4:4 RSV)

Women's Club Plans Season's Activities

The Women's Club of Manchester programs for next season were announced Monday night at its annual banquet at the Colony in Talcottville.

The club will open the season on Sept. 23 with a card party and a showing of fashions by the Rip and Stitch Salon, according to Mrs. Betty Grant, program co-chairman.

In October, the club will have its annual Men's Night program, and its Tasting Supper in December will feature songs by Ralph Lundberg, tenor.

Guests speakers will include Elaine Auchmoody, a professional artist, who will explain what to look for in a painting and how to coordinate home decorations with paintings; Dr. Dick Day of Manchester Community College discussing "Sleep and Dream Patterns"; Hazel Erbe, dramatist, who will present a program on famous men and women; and Steven Monje of TV Channel 3, whose topic will be "Self-Defense in the Market Place."

The club is also planning to have Sally Middleton, the former Miss Connecticut, and her partner, the former Miss Vermont, present a program on "The Total Women."

The club discussed having a dinner and theater party next May.

Mrs. Charlotte Montie of 203 McKee St. was guest of honor at Monday night's banquet. She was cited by Mrs. Mary Fletcher, club president, for her 25 years of service to the club. She started helping the club with preparing and serving refreshments when the club met at South United Methodist Church, Mrs. Fletcher said.

John Hansen of Oxford St. directed and played a leading role in the Mark Twain Masque's production of the "Monkey's Paw," which was the entertainment of the evening.

Two students from Manchester have been elected officers of the Southern Connecticut State College Bowling Club. Diane Siemieniaki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Siemieniaki of 59 Summer St., was elected president. She is a sophomore history major. Barbara Brody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brody of 88 Tracey Dr., was elected treasurer. A physical education major, she was recently named sports editor for the campus newspaper, the Southern News. She is also a member of the girls varsity softball team.

In Concert

Jazz enthusiasts and devotees of music of bygone days will have a chance to reminisce when Woody Herman and his 16-piece band play in concert Tuesday, June 3, at the ShaBoo in Willimantic.

Sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees under the chairmanship of Mark Blante, Herman will perform from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Proceeds will benefit the various Jaycee charities.

Herman won the 1973 Grammy Award for the second best jazz album in the country. He appeared in Manchester two years ago and in Glastonbury last year receiving standing ovations at both appearances.

Tickets at $5 each are available from Blante at Burger King, 467 Center St., or at Ray Beller's Music Store, 1013 Main St.

Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Happiness is the family. But the happy family may exclude children for the early years of a marriage.

The happy family life came over more strongly than the goals of career or making a lot of money in the latest study of American attitudes.

The study, part of a continuing one on U.S. social attitudes, was commissioned by the Institute of Life Insurance, an organization to tell the public what's going on in the life insurance business and to tell insurance people what's going on with the public.

The institute outlined the questions which the research firm of Daniel Yankelovich Inc. put to persons aged 18 on up to 65 and over. More than 2,000 persons were questioned in a cross-section of society which included whites, non-whites, high school, college and post-college graduates, single, married and widowed.

One question concerned whether it was "perfectly all right" for married people to choose not to have children. Almost equally, And overwhelmingly—80 per cent—listed "a happy family life" as a more important goal.

Mansfield Plays It Cool On Impeachment Issue

By DONALD LAMBO WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the midst of escalating cries for President Nixon's resignation

Medical Deduction May Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has tentatively agreed to increase the amount of medical expenses a taxpayer must have before medical deductions can be claimed.

The decision, which could be changed before a final version of the general tax reform bill emerges from the committee, would mean a taxpayer could claim only those combined medical and drug expenses exceeding 5 per cent of adjusted gross income.

Under current law, medical expenses above 3 per cent and prescription drugs above 1 per cent of adjusted gross income may be claimed. The committee changes, combined with an earlier tentative decision to do away with the deduction of the first $50 of medical insurance premiums, would cost the taxpayers about $1 billion a year.

and exclamations of "disgust" over the Watergate transcripts, Mike Mansfield is playing it cool.

As the House pursues its impeachment inquiry, and the Senate waits for a verdict with growing anticipation, the Senate Democratic leader is preparing caution and calm even as he goes about quietly preparing for "any eventuality."

The stoic lawmaker from Montana has been exceedingly careful throughout the emotion-charged impeachment drama to do nothing that would appear as if the Senate was eager to place Richard Nixon on trial.

When Republicans, almost on the edge of panic, were issuing calls for Nixon to resign, or at least step down temporarily, Mansfield pleaded with his colleagues to "keep cool."

Let the system work its will, he told them. The question of impeachment is before the House where it belongs and Nixon is entitled to the presumption of innocence until "all the facts are in and a verdict is rendered."

His plea for fairness and patience did indeed cool the heated atmosphere perceptively, at least in the Senate. Mansfield intends to keep it that way.

Sitting in the disciplined and quiet surroundings of his Capitol hideaway, Mansfield goes to extraordinary lengths to avoid even the hint that he expects the House to vote impeachment.

"I do not want to be an inquiry into the Senate's rules and procedures by a committee that agreed to a low-key background study into how a trial would be run.

Mansfield wants to be prepared for "any eventuality" but he clearly does not want to second-guess what the House will do.

He has steadfastly urged Nixon to turn over all the tapes and documents sought by the House Judiciary Committee, criticizing the transcripts with the remark, "Code words or lack of words will not be the answer."

But unlike some senators, he has declined to give any opinion of the transcripts or of the specific allegations as they pertain to Nixon's guilt or innocence.

Despite a swirl of controversy, charges and obviously prejudicial remarks by some of Nixon's prospective jurors, Mansfield remains the eye of the storm.

In the end, he hopes, his coolness and persistent objectivity will prevail in the Senate as "the law and the Constitution take their course."

Robert B. Cavanaugh BOLTON - Robert B. Cavanaugh, 12, of Dean Rd. died Tuesday night at Yale New Haven Hospital.

He was born Aug. 4, 1961 in New London, son of Charles J. Cavanaugh and Ledyard J. Cavanaugh of Dean Rd., and had lived in Bolton all his life. He attended St. George's Episcopal Church and was a student at the Skinner Rd. School in Vernon.

He is also survived by a brother, William B. Cavanaugh, and a sister, Laura Cavanaugh, both at home; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh of Ledyard; his maternal grandfather, George E. Alexander of South Glastonbury; and his paternal grandfather, Mrs. Marie Cavanaugh of Little Neck, L.I., N.Y.

Funeral services are Thursday at 11 a.m. at St. George's Episcopal Church. The Rev. John F. Flora III, vicar, will officiate. Burial will be in Bolton Center Cemetery. Friends may call at the church after 10 a.m. on Thursday.

The Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St., Manchester, is in charge of arrangements. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Association of Greater Hartford, 310 Collins St., Hartford.

Mrs. Tracy Brook Private funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Tracy Brook of 124 Manchester Rd., Glastonbury, who died Sunday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Burial was in East Cemetery, The Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St., was in charge of arrangements. She is survived by a sister, Miss Elizabeth O. Frost of Glastonbury. Her name was omitted in Tuesday's Herald.

Bank Displays Vets Exhibit The Manchester Permanent Memorial Day Committee, made up of delegates from each of the veterans organizations and the citizens committee, has placed a display of pictures in conjunction with Memorial Day at the Savings Bank of Manchester Main Office at 223 Main St.

Mrs. Frederick A. Baker and Wesley Bulla put the display together, which consists of pictures of each of the countries conflicts: The Spirit of 1776 (which hung in the Fanny Farmer Candy Kitchen for many years), the U.S.S. Constitution, some of the Civil War Veterans from Manchester, Spanish American War, World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

Three Rockville boys were taken into police custody Tuesday afternoon after they were surprised siphoning gasoline from a car parked at the rear of the Manchester Shopping Park.

One of the boys, 15-year-old John White of 67 Glenstone Dr., was charged with fourth-degree larceny and scheduled to appear in court June 10.

The other two - one age 12 and the other age 11 - were referred to juvenile authorities on the same charges.

The incident was reported to police by Donald Anderson of 49 Tuck Rd., who told police he returned to his car and found the siphoning incident under way.

Five-year-old Timothy Tomko of 53 Eldridge St., was treated Tuesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital for minor injuries he suffered after a run-in with a panel truck on Eldridge St. at noon.

Police said the boy had just bought ice cream from a truck vendor and ran across the street into a tow-owed panel truck operated by Raymond W. Colpitts, 55, of 122 Bretton Rd. Colpitts apparently was unable to avoid the boy, police said. No charges were filed.

In other Manchester Police reports: Cars driven by Robert E. Zikos, 30, of 97 Harlan St., and Robert G. Stuart, 27, of Chesire, collided at about 5:15 p.m. Tuesday at Henry and Summit Sts. Neither driver reported injuries. Stuart was charged with failure to obey sign.

Clarence Perkins, 34, of 7C Ambassador Dr., was charged Tuesday afternoon with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The case was pending in East Cemetery, on Colonial Rd. Court date is June 3.

Police Report

MANCHESTER Two Manchester men face unrelated liquor and marijuana charges in connection with two separate incidents at Manchester Center Springs Park Tuesday night.

Lawrence M. Green, 24, of 17 Oakland St. was charged at 6:45 p.m. with illegal possession or control of a non-narcotic controlled substance. He was released on a $200 cash bond for court appearance June 10.

Kenneth R. Righetti, 18, of 313 Garden Dr., was charged at 7:30 p.m. with illegal possession of liquor on town property, a town ordinance. He was released on his written promise to appear in court June 3.

Green was taken into custody by Patrolman Wayne Rautenberg after he was found sitting on the park's basketball court. Rautenberg said he found cigarette rolling papers and a plastic bag of suspected marijuana in Green's possession.

Thomas Lynch, 21, of 140 Spruce St., Manchester, was charged Tuesday with fourth-degree larceny in connection with the investigation of a complaint made by Arthur Drug Store, Rockville.

He was released on a $50 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, June 4.

Designers

(Continued from Page One) picking engineers in expertise, giving those who have done previous work for the state a built-in advantage over a new applicant.

To have expertise you have to have knowledge of your client, one which cannot be obtained with a policy of rotation," Vednick said.

While recommendations for reforming selection procedures have blurred into impracticality or unacceptability, both professional associations said some changes are forthcoming.

LaBar said his group's parent organization, The American Institute of Architects, was meeting this week in Washington and was expected to come up with a policy paper on selection procedures which the Connecticut chapter can adopt.

Yednick said a task force of designers has been organized to study and make recommendations on the selection process "to eliminate in the people's mind any questions on how designers and architects obtain state contracts."

Vernon Schwebel Says McCoy Right In Handling Walks Contract

BARBARA RICHMOND Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy did handle the West Rd. sidewalk project in accordance with the town charter in the opinion of Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel who had been asked to research the matter by the Town Council.

The report was given to the council at its meeting Tuesday night. Objecting because the report was not included in the agenda given to the council Friday, Thomas Wolff made a motion to table discussion until the June 3 meeting of the council so councilmen would have a chance to digest it.

Councilman Donald Sadrozinski objected to the motion, noting that Schwebel's report "is very explicit...it tells us all we wanted to know and I would not vote to put it on the next agenda."

The report was requested at the May 6 meeting of the council after a letter from Councilman Thomas Benoit was discussed and he questioned the amount of money spent on installation of the sidewalk on West Rd.

Benoit asked how much additional money was added to the original contract price for installation of the walk. The amount in the sidewalk budget was $25,000.

Mayor McCoy explained, at that time, that the Traffic Authority requested that the walk be extended farther than the advertised bid. The low bid for the project was $14,900. The contract price ended up at $23,200 and with other work having to be done in the area the total came over the budgeted $25,000.

The additional amount was transferred from other public works budgets.

Benoit questioned why the mayor had not counseled the council before making the transfer and McCoy explained that he had not run over the budgeted amount for the particular contract.

At that time Councilman Thomas Wolff called for a motion to have the town attorney research the matter to see if the mayor had acted within the framework of the town charter.

In his report Atty. Schwebel detailed the incidents leading to the higher cost of the project. He explained that the bids were advertised for sidewalk installation on the west side of West Rd. from South St. to Peterson Rd., approximately 13,700 square feet.

The bids also included a per-square-yard price for seeding and loaming some 2,300 square yards and the low bid was awarded to Trabucco & Sons.

He said, "During the course of construction it became apparent the bid should have been advertised for Regan Rd. to Peterson Rd. and not South St. to Peterson so approximately 25 per cent more work was installed at the same bid price, standard practice under town contracts."

He said on Sept. 21, 1973, the contractor was paid $10,000 from the sidewalks and curbing account. On Oct. 16 he was paid another sum of $12,000.

He said the later payment was reflected in a direct charge payment signed by the then Director of Administration, Richard Borden. This included payment on sidewalk construction along West Rd. per bid, $8,741.52 and extra general maintenance work to provide drainage and water control to protect the walk from erosion at $2,258.48, a total of $11,000.

The first amount was taken from the sidewalks and curbing account and the later from general maintenance, Schwebel explained.

He added, "Any earlier statements that these funds came from the sidewalk fund or the downstream fund, were incorrect."

On the question of the use of $2,258.48 from the general maintenance account, Atty. Schwebel said Borden gave him the following explanation: "The State of Connecticut, West Rd. being a state highway" first requested the sidewalk lowered to road street water to run across.

"Later they requested a berm installation. This clearly can be seen in the sidewalk on West Rd. Bonoit asked how much additional money was added to the original contract price for installation of the walk. The amount in the sidewalk budget was $25,000.

Mayor McCoy explained, at that time, that the Traffic Authority requested that the walk be extended farther than the advertised bid. The low bid for the project was $14,900. The contract price ended up at $23,200 and with other work having to be done in the area the total came over the budgeted $25,000.

Lefty Tops at Spinning Yarns

Last March during spring training for the baseball clubs was Florida their base of operations, one sunny morning in St. Petersburg's Al Law Field, Lefty Gomez showed up on the visiting team's dugout bench.

Three Manchester men taking in a Florida vacation sipped up to the former New York Yankee pitcher star and heard him spin one baseball story after another.

Gomez has been a story-teller of sorts for nearly 30 years as a member of the Wilson Sporting Goods promotional staff.

One Gomez yarn was true that he spelled that March morning for his Manchester visitors, Jeff Koelsch, Bob Keeney and Lefty Banning.

"I remember my first spring training trip with the Yankees. I had a great record in the Pacific Coast League and felt I had a good chance to stick with the club," he recalled.

"The first morning in camp I came into the dining room and saw Waite Hoyt eating by himself. I went over and introduced myself and sat down and expected to start a conversation with the man who was a big winner with the Yankees at the time.

"I'll never even bother to look up from the paper he was reading while eating and aloud, 'I'll meet you at the ballpark' and continued eating without saying a word."

"That was quite a reception for a young guy who felt he had the world by a string," Gomez recalled.

INDY LEAGUE Scoring six times in the seventh frame, Remm's Tavern collected an 8-2 win over Turpike TV last night at Keeney Field.

Steve Carrier, Ray Norton and Barry Bernstein each had two hits for Remm's while Bill DiYeo stroked three. Carrier had a home run and RBIs. Ray Tuhig had three hits for Turpike.

FELINE Coming up with five runs in the seventh inning, WINF topped Carl and Carl, 10-5, last night at Mt. Nebo.

Sandy Hall, Nancy Lessig and Chris Dalka each had three hits for the winners who had 12 altogether.

Sharon Lorraine and Rachel S. Pierce struck three apiece for the losers and John Colledo added a pair.

CANDLELIGHT Coming up with its first win of the season last night at Ellington High, 5-4, over Stafford in a North Central Connecticut Conference baseball game. The win boosted the Purple Knights' conference mark to 8-5 and 11-0 overall.

Paul Johnson hurled a five-hitter to pick up the victory while Jeff Nelson led the attack with two RBIs. Stafford fell to 4-10.

Cromwell High kept its unbeaten skein intact at 16 with a 3-1 decision over Rham in a Charter Oak Conference clash. Senior righthander John Hagel fanned 14 to notch the victory. Tom Grande and Ray Carlson each had two hits and 4 RBIs in the attack for the COC champs. John Skich, who allowed just six safeties, took the loss for the 8-8 Sachers.

Also in the COC, Bacon Academy upended Bolton, 16-6 for its 10th win in 17 decisions. Dick Ferring had three hits including a triple to drive in three runs to pace the winners. Bolton dropped to 2-14 with the setback.

Catholic Edges Northwest, 4-2, 11th Triumph in 14 Engagements

By Dick Ledbetter "You couldn't ask for more," commented Coach Jim Penders after East Catholic recorded a 4-2 baseball win over Hartford County Conference foe Northwest Catholic yesterday in West Hartford.

The boys have played very well despite being on the road concerned and with factors more important. The win boosted the Eagles' ledger to 11-3 overall and 6-3 in the HCC while the Indians fell to 4-13.

Shortstop Dan Socha played a key role in the victory collecting a pair of hits and performing well in the infield with his glove.

East opened the scoring in its half of the first. Joe Banning got a lead off single to right and advanced to second as Ron Soucier bounced out. Socha singled to right and when the relay went astray, Banning scored. Starting and losing pitcher Pete Coppell got out of the frame without further damage.

The Eagles extended their lead with a three-run fifth. Bob Love started it off with a line single and Banning sacrificed him to second. Soucier singled driving home Love with Soucier taking second as the right-fielder bobbled the ball.

Socha drove in Soucier and he later came around to score on a passed ball, an error and wild pitch.

Northwest tallied its two runs in the sixth with a triple to right and a single to left.

Finishing strong, Dick's American lacked a 6-1 defeat on Robert's Boys last night at Robertson.

Ron Laliberte hurled a four-hitter and stroked a triple. Carl Biondi and Bob Carr were the two-hit club for Dick's. Jim McAuley had two of Dom's safeties.

Runs were more plentiful when Groman's upended Trudon, 20-15, with a 24-hit attack.

Leading the way were Dave White and Dave Viana, each with four hits, and Rich Riodan, Bob Kowalsky, Bob Brannick and Mark Monette added three each. Riodan slammed two homers, Kowalsky, Brannick and White one each. Bob Westbrook and Les Kreston slugged homers for Trudon and Greg Korokshian had a three-hit night.

DUSTY Jay McConville, Mary Lane, Dave Norris, Barney Tuney and Tom Basille with two hits each paced Savings Bank of Manchester to a 9-5 win over CBT Blue last night at Robertson.

Bob David collected three hits for the losers and John Colledo added a pair.

EASTERN Recording its first victory of the season last night was Trashed over Lock, Stock & Barrel at Mt. Nebo, 19-16.

Harry Cammeyer and Keith MacDonnam each had three hits for the winners with Cammeyer belting two homers. Roger Lajoie and George Kerosone had two apiece.

Frank Cuzen with four and Norm Lutten and Bob Columbe with three each led the losers.

NIKE Farr's scored a 21-4 win over Annulli Construction last night at Nike Field.

Jim Poole had four hits for Farr's with Don Fay, Ken Roback, Bob Bergin and Brian Sullivan adding three each to the 21-hit attack. Bob Person had two homers for the winners.

Handy Swanson and Ron Koespel each stroked two hits for the losers. Annulli committed 17 errors.

REC LEAGUE Registering markers in every frame but the third, CBT topped Second Congo, 15-6, last night at Nike.

Al Pratt had four hits including a homer for the winners with Tom Sokolowsky, stroking three and Jerry Wilson, Brod Whedley and Tom Salzer each making two.

Dick Carley, Jeff Lancaster and Jim Patulak each had two hits for Congo.

CHARTER OAK Behind an 18-hit attack, Charter Oak Restaurant topped Crispino's, 12-4, last night at Fitzgerald.

Bill Shuteran had four hits for the winners with Gary Gott and Al Holmer each going three-for-four including a triple.

Third Straight For Illing Nine

Scoring five times in the opening frame, Illing Junior High won its third straight baseball game yesterday, 6-0 over Sage Park.

Kevin Hallow picked up the win allowing just one hit while striking out 10 and walking three. Billy Finnegan extended his hitting streak to nine straight and Ray Giblin added two RBIs to Illing's total. Illing is now 6-3 for the season.

Wants Long-Term Pact Bruins Coach May Not Return

BOSTON (UPI) - Beg Guidolin who coached the Boston Bruins into the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals this year, says he won't be back unless the Bruins' organization offers him a long-term contract.

Guidolin, who took over the Bruins during the 1972-73 season after then-coach Tom Johnson was promoted to the front office, said Tuesday he was looking for security.

"I have to think about some security," Guidolin said after meeting briefly with Bruins Managing Director Harry Sinden.

"The length of the contract can provide more strength for a coach with his team and maybe a better position about making suggestions for the future."

"It's got to be a long-term deal and if it isn't you can say that I won't be back," he said.

"The job is his if he wants it," Sinden said. "By Thursday I'll have an answer for the sports media on whether I'll be back. And that'll be final. If I leave here without signing a contract that means I'll be going back to Canada without a job," Guidolin said.

'Wasn't My Time Yet' Lightning Bolt Victim Survives

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) - Greg Lehrner, 14, struck by a lightning bolt that hit him in the forehead and came through his right eye, escaped with only superficial burns and a ruptured eardrum which is expected to heal.

"I just think it wasn't my time to go yet," Greg said Tuesday. "I knew it had to be more than luck that I lived."

Greg was at third base, although he was supposed to be the starting pitcher for his baseball team. It was the bottom half of the second inning and the pitcher that took Greg's place was showing some signs of wildness.

"The pitcher threw a ball and the catcher missed it. I took off my glove and shuffled some dirt in front of my feet. The next thing I remember I was in the hospital."

Greg was knocked unconscious and might have died had it not been for two policemen who were coaching another game nearby who gave him a heart massage and mouth to mouth resuscitation.

He lay on the ground for 40 minutes. His legs were fused and had to be pulled apart. The zipper on his uniform melted. His heavy metal belt buckle was so hot no one could touch it. A chain around his neck disintegrated.

When he regained consciousness, doctors told him he had been hit by a baseball.

"I hadn't seen the burns yet," he said. "They told me I was hit with a baseball because they thought I might go into shock knowing I was hit by lightning. I was supposed to pitch that night but my arm was hurting me. There was no lightning before and they said there was none after. It was just a little cloud passing over."

"I guess the greatest feeling I had was when I walked out of that hospital. I could just have been as easy dead as alive."

Red Sox Hitters Come Alive

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox, who have suddenly remembered how to hold a baseball bat, also have gotten a grip on second place in the American League's East Division.

The Red Sox, whose anemic hitting had plunged them into the cellar of the tightly packed division as late as last Friday, blasted the New York Yankees 14-6 Tuesday night on a 13-hit attack paced by Cecil Cooper's four hits.

Rico Petrocelli continued his furious hitting pace with a home run and a double—good for four RBI's. Dwight Evans had two triples and a single.

"I'm staying away from hitting at bad balls and I'm swinging the bat well," said Petrocelli, who has hit safely in the last 11 games. "When you're hot like that, it doesn't matter where you are. You'll hit anywhere."

"When you get in a groove, everything's all right. It's a lot better if the people in front of you and behind you are hitting too. It means you'll get your pitch," said Cooper.

Bill Lee picked up his fifth win against four losses but, oddly enough, the Red Sox 10-run lead after the first three innings almost proved his downfall.

"After getting a lead like that, I didn't have any concentration," he said. "After the fifth inning, I started throwing nothing but garbage and when they found out that my fastball couldn't break a pace of glass, they started to dunk the ball all over the place."

The Yankees got three runs in the fourth and three more in the eighth, before Diego Segui was brought in to mop up.

Jackson Sure A's Will Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reggie Jackson has seen enough to convince him that the Oakland A's will win their third straight American League Western Division title.

"It's too early to predict a pennant or a third straight world championship," the AL's Most Valuable Player of 1973 said Tuesday night after the A's beat the Minnesota Twins 6-1 for their 10th victory in 13 games. "It looks like Kansas City and Chicago are the teams to beat in this division, though, and I think we're favorites to it."

Jackson, who is batting .385, hit his 12th homer with one in a six-run seventh-inning outburst which enabled Dave Hamilton to win his third game without a loss. Gene Tenace, the A's 1972 World Series hero who is off to a slow start this season, started the rally with his fifth homer.

The A's, who lead the AL West by a game, also appear to have found a surprise fourth starting pitcher in Hamilton, who had a 6-4 record and pitched one complete game in 11 starts last season.

"I threw a lot of fast balls although I struck out only three," said the 26-year-old lefthander. "I just tried kind of works as long as you don't walk anybody. Sure I'm kind of surprised to be in a starting role. I went to spring training thinking I would be a reliever."

Baltimore defeated Cleveland 7-1. Boston downed the New York Yankees 14-6. Kansas City topped California 4-2 and Milwaukee shaded Detroit 6-5 in other AL games. Texas at Chicago was rained out.

Changes in NFL Stir Controversy

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's going to be a banner year for Monday morning quarterbacks but it might not be such a good year for some National Football League coaches.

Like them or not, the new rules have become the No. 1 concern of league coaches, who are busily exploring every possible aspect and loophole of the changes.

Oakland's John Madden has done everything but consult a computer on the effect a new rule, which forbids leaving the line of scrimmage before the ball is kicked, will have on the punting game.

"We've figured out that with the time the average punt hangs in the air and the average distance it travels, together with the time it takes your punt coverage to get down field — 4.5 seconds, the coverage time will be 20 yards from the return man when he catches the ball," Madden said. "So that means he'll return it 10 yards, minimum."

Madden's mish-mash of algebra, calculus and physics typifies the attention being given the rule changes by league coaches. And, even without a degree in higher math, fans will be able to lambast coaching decisions.

The changes will put a premium on coaching strategy, and, correspondingly, greater importance on the resident mastermind's maneuvers.

"I still feel pretty much the same way I felt initially," Miami Coach Don Shula said of the rule changes. "Some I can live with and there are others I just don't like."

Kansas City's Hank Stram is able to take a new, more positive outlook at the rules, designed to inject some life in the NFL's mundane offensive systems.

The changes will put a premium on coaching strategy, and, correspondingly, greater importance on the resident mastermind's maneuvers.

Sunday's 500 Race Ready Despite Suit

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Chief steward Tom Blinn assured all racing interests today that Sunday's 50th running of the Indianapolis 500 will still start as scheduled despite a suit for a temporary injunction to have the million dollar auto sports spectacular.

The suit, filed in Marion County Superior Court Tuesday by attorney Wright Huges Jr., in a seven-plaintiff action against the United States Auto Club and the Indianapolis Speedway, will be heard at 10:30 EDT today.

"There's no way the race will be postponed, except by rain or an act of God," said Indy's chief honcho. "If a judge rules for us, it goes on Sunday. If a decision is against us, then we'll have to provide additional qualifying time for the complainants. Either way, the issue will have no effect on Sunday's race day."

Huges, a former sports car driver from Greenwich, Conn., began legal action when the Speedway ruled that time had run out before a number of his clients could qualify.

"Dunk has taken me out of four games this season when I had a lead and we lost three of them," Holtzman complained.

The A's edged Minnesota 5-4 Monday night but Holtzman, who was 8-2 last year at this time, said he should not have been lifted after the seventh inning.

He was ahead 5-1 when lifted and the A's held on for the 5-4 win.

"Holtzman had thrown 120 pitches in seven innings," Dark noted in defending his action. "Why should I hesitate when I've got relief pitchers like (Rollie) Fingers and (Darold) Knowles?"

Relief Finally Comes

Astros Loss Skin Ends at 10 Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Relief finally came to the Houston Astros.

The Astros ended a 10-game losing streak Tuesday night by defeating the San Diego Padres 5-4 and for the first time in quite a spell, the Astros got some clutch relief pitching which made the victory possible.

Pirates 8, Expos 4

Rennie Stennett and rookie Frank Taveras each drove in two runs to spark Pittsburgh's victory over the Expos. Ken Brett tossed a five-hitter for the Pirates for his fourth win. Bob Bailey homered for the Expos.

Dodgers 3, Reds 2

Joe Ferguson delivered a pinch-hit sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers over Cincinnati. A single by Willie Crawford, an intentional walk and a hit batsman had loaded the bases and Ferguson came through as a pinch-hitter for Dave Lopes. Mike Marshall got the win with two innings of shutout relief. Joe Morgan homered for the Reds.

Atlanta 4-4, San Francisco 1-5

Pinch-hitter Norm Miller's homer ignited a four-run eighth inning that gave the Braves a victory over the Giants in the first game. Carl Morton went seven innings for Atlanta to notch his sixth win. Ron Bryant, a 2-6-game winner last year, won his first game this season in the nightcap with the aid of a two-run inside-the-park homer by Garry Maddox. Bryant allowed six hits in eight innings in winning for the first time after three losses.

In other National League games, Philadelphia downed St. Louis 4-2, New York walloped Chicago 10-5, Pittsburgh beat Montreal 8-4, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-2 and Atlanta defeated San Francisco 4-1 then lost 5-4.

Phillies 4, Cardinals 2

Bill Robinson's three-run homer capped a four-run first inning that carried the Phils over St. Louis. Ed Farmer, making only his second National League start, went 6-2-3 innings to gain his second victory against no losses.

Mets 10, Cubs 5

Winning pitcher George Stone drove in four runs for the Mets with a pair of two-run singles and went the distance, scattering 12 hits, to record his second win. The Mets collected 14 hits off three pitchers, with John Milner leading the way with three singles. Ted Martinez chipped in with a two-run triple for New York while Carmen Fonzona had a solo homer for Chicago.

Bennet Girls Win in Softball

Accumulating 24 hits and 11 walks yesterday, the Bennet Junior High girls' softball team defeated Sage Park, 17-11.

Trailing 1-1 after two frames, Bennet exploded for six in the third to get the advantage. Rachel Rosen clubbed a three-run homer in the fourth to help nail down the decision.

Miss Rosen led Bennet with five hits in five trips to the plate while teammates Colleen Shan and Carolyn Jaworski each stroked three safeties.

An estimated three million ducks and geese die annually in North America from eating lead shot.

Forty members of the Bolton Junior Women's Club were pleasantly surprised at the club's banquet when it was announced the club had received special awards from the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs and that several members had been cited for their efforts.

The accomplishments of the committee include a toy drive that resulted in three carloads of toys, books, dolls, tricycles, chairs and a rocking horse being collected. All items were donated to the Day Treatment Service and Children's Unit at Connecticut Valley Hospital.

Telephone pole swings were purchased and erected at Herrick Memorial Park as well as pine trees that are used as a windbreak at the park's skating area. Club members planted bulbs, staked and transplanted trees and placed wood chips.

Consumer Movement Has Come to Politics

(Commentary)
By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg discovered "The Social Issue" four years ago, it induced Republican and Democratic candidates alike to put on the sheriff's badge.

Law-and-Order Issue
The book had a galvanizing effect on the 1970 congressional campaigns. Some Republicans based entire campaigns on what came to be known as the law-and-order issue.

Water Backlash
The Social Issue played only a secondary role in the 1972 campaign. The presidential race dominated the year, and it seemed to have been decided by the question "Who do you trust?"

First, to restore the popular belief that government — especially the federal government — can function competently and fairly; second, to convince people that government cares about what happens to average citizens.

Republicans traditionally have been campaigners against big, wasteful government — especially in Washington — and usually take the line that they are the ones who can run government efficiently. And the GOP has also cast itself as the champion of the citizen who wants to run his own life and has promised government that will help, rather than regulate, restrict and repress self-

Carrying On Tradition

Manchester children will be busy later this week picking flowers to decorate the Civil War Monument at the center for Memorial Day, thus carrying on a tradition started over 100 years ago. Memorial Day was first started in the south at the close of the Civil War, when some southern women decorated soldiers' graves with flowers. First called Decoration Day, it was established as a permanent institution in 1888 by Gen. Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR). It was in 1878 that Drake Post, GAR, appointed a committee for the Manchester observance of Decoration Day, and in 1877 voted to decorate the graves of dead comrades. Mrs. Luna Hutchinson, a member of Manchester's Permanent Memorial Day Committee for over 30 years, tells how she and other children would go with her father, Marathon Keeney, a Civil War veteran, into the woods and gather wild flowers. He used to tell the children, "This is what we fought for." They then decorated graves in West Cemetery. She also helped to make boutiniers of pansies and lilies-of-the-valley for the GAR veterans to wear in their lapels, she said. Mrs. Hutchinson will be at the Army and Navy Club to receive the town trucks filled with flowers picked by the school children. She will then direct women from Manchester's patriotic organizations in the sorting of flowers and the forming of the sprays which finally will be placed at the base of the Civil War Monument. Harold Beebe, whose grandfather, Corodon Beebe, was a Civil War veteran, tells how he, at the age of 11, and his father would go to a traditional ham and baked bean supper dinner at Cheney Hall. At two o'clock, there would be a Memorial Day service in the hall followed by a march to the park for the placing of a wreath at the monument. As the marchers returned to the hall they were accompanied by the strains of "Marching Through Georgia," he said. As a boy, he remembers helping his father plant geraniums on soldiers' graves, he said. Edson Bailey, former Manchester High School principal, said that Mr. Hotchkiss, Manchester's last Civil War veteran, attended a school assembly in 1955. He was warmly received by the students, Bailey said.

Mrs. Luna Hutchinson and Harold Beebe reminisce as they pause to admire the Civil War Monument, which will be decorated with flowers for Memorial Day. (Herald photo by Dunn)

TBC Okays Illing Plans

The Town Building Commission approved unanimously the plans and specifications for the additions and alterations to the Illing Junior High School at a special meeting Tuesday night.

The plans were prepared by The Lawrence Associates, architects, and presented to the commission by architect Richard Lawrence. TBC Chairman Paul Phillips commended the initiative and thoroughness shown in both the plans and specifications by the architects.

The individual members of the TBC have spent many hours reviewing all of the details of the plans for this school, Phillip said. Very few changes were recommended.

Phillips said this will speed the preparation of plans for distribution to contractors, which should begin this week. Bids are scheduled for opening June 18, two weeks after opening of bids for Bannett Junior High School after which awarding of the contracts for both schools will be considered.

The TBC also approved minor changes to the proposed Regional Occupational Training Center, and Phase III of renovations to 45 N. School St.

Crash Victim Is Satisfactory

Nine-year-old Tracy L. Anderson of 129 Oakland St. was reported in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital, still recovering from injuries suffered when she was hit by a motorcycle near her home Sunday afternoon.

According to an incomplete police accident report, the Anderson girl was struck by a motorcycle operated by Richard C. Ayotte, 20, of New Britain.

Ayotte and a passenger on his cycle — Sharon Mather, 21, of New Britain — apparently suffered minor injuries after the 3:40 p.m. mishap. Details of the incident were not available today.

Cancer Rise Continues In State

HARTFORD (UPI) — Cancer continues to rise in Connecticut with 10,500 cases reported in 1972, a 4 per cent increase over the previous year, the state Health Department reported Tuesday.

UFW Organizers Accuse Officer Of Harassment

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two United Farm Workers Union organizers have filed a harassment complaint against a police officer who they say taunted them by "ostentatiously eating bunches of grapes" in their presence.

R: SAFE LIVING
MANCHESTER PUBLIC SAFETY COMMITTEE

Have you noticed anything different about the road signs these days? New traffic signs are springing up all over the country, even in Connecticut. But why are we replacing our old road signs? Aren't the old ones good enough? The original idea of developing new signs was to create uniformity in all 50 states as outlined by the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1968. Then, in 1981 the United Nations convention adopted a treaty pertaining to Road Signs and Signals. As a result, the new U.S. signs will conform with this treaty.

Heroic Doctor

Two workers digging at a construction site were buried to the waist by a sudden cave-in. A doctor, passing nearby, rushed to the scene and gave lifesaving first aid until they could be rescued by other workers.

In a court test, the company said it was not liable. "We admit his courage," said the company, "but anyone who ventures voluntarily into danger does so at his own risk."

"DANGER invites rescue. The cry of distress is the summons to help. The wrong that imperils life is a wrong to the imperilled victim; it is a wrong also to his rescuer."

Generally speaking, the law pays due respect to the heroic impulse. In fact, most courts will favor a rescuer even when the danger is merely to property, not human life.

This man injured while trying to stop a rolling automobile was awarded damages later from the car owner, who had failed to set his brakes. The court said saving property, although less urgent than saving life, is nevertheless a laudable course of action.

Still, the law does not condone outright recklessness. Another case involved a woman who was killed by a freight train while trying to pull her dog off the tracks. She had leaped over the tracks, the train was in plain sight, bearing down fast.

Under these circumstances, a court ruled, her family could not hold the railroad responsible for the tragedy.

"A person is not excused from the consequences of his own acts in exposing himself to danger," said the court, "where the peril is so obvious."

Bennet Students Visit Concord

Monica Packer, an eighth grade student, transfers the "Author's Hill" on to rice paper by "rubbing" Henry D. Thoreau, born July 12, 1917—died May 6, 1862.

As students daily on the Old North Bridge over the Concord River, they ponder what it was like on another April day in 1845, that is, For $28.12, Henry David Thoreau built a cabin exactly like this one near the famous Walden Pond in Concord, Mass. The replica is located here behind the Thoreau Lyceum in Concord. Except for an occasional visit home, Thoreau lived here in seclusion for two years, two months, and two days. Mrs. Ann McGrath (left), curator of the Lyceum, has just finished telling the Bennet group about much of Thoreau's life.

These students are looking at a good real estate investment—in 1845, that is. For $28.12, Henry David Thoreau built a cabin exactly like this one near the famous Walden Pond in Concord, Mass. The replica is located here behind the Thoreau Lyceum in Concord. Except for an occasional visit home, Thoreau lived here in seclusion for two years, two months, and two days. Mrs. Ann McGrath (left), curator of the Lyceum, has just finished telling the Bennet group about much of Thoreau's life.

As they stand on a mound of stones, the touring students listen to Mrs. Jane Langdon of Concord, authoress of youth's books, as she explains this is near the site of Thoreau's cabin on the shore of Walden Pond. A plaque in the stone at the lower right identifies the site which is actually slightly behind and to the left of the group. It is marked with chain linked stone posts.

Story and Photos
By JUNE TOMPKINS

On a cool spring day near the end of April, not unlike a day almost two hundred years ago, members of team 8-K,L,M & N from Bennet Junior High School absorbed some of the historical flavor of the area where some of our nation's independent growth was sparked, and where local citizens contributed much to our country's literature—Concord, Mass.

Planned by Mrs. Judith Rosenfeld, the teacher who introduced her classes to philosophers and writers Henry David Thoreau and Ralph Waldo Emerson, and authoress Louisa May Alcott, and to the incidents which led to the American Revolution, two hundreds of students toured historical sites and "Author's Hill" in the Concord Cemetery, and listened to guides as they related as though they happened just yesterday.

Other team teachers accompanying the group were Mrs. Jean Lambert, Ms. Joan Jovicino and Gerald Fournier. Several parents also went.

Contemplating 19th century philosophy are 20th century philosophers as they examine the "School of Philosophy" next to the Alcott Homestead in Concord, Mass., where Bronson Alcott and Ralph Waldo Emerson taught a form of philosophy known as "transcendentalism." Bronson was the father of Louisa May Alcott.

Swimmers Should Shun Alcohol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—That familiar warning, "don't swim after eating," should be modified to include "or drinking."

Two public health researchers at Johns Hopkins University reported that a study of 46 adults who drowned in Baltimore from 1968 to 1972 showed that 47 per cent had been drinking alcoholic beverages.

"Although it is possible that these high figures reflect factors unique to the city of Baltimore, our impression based on limited data available from the Maryland counties is that alcohol is a widespread concomitant of adult drownings," said Park E. Dietz and Mrs. Susan P. Baker in a report in the April issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

They said the role of alcohol in drowning has been neglected in both popular and scientific media. One reason, they said, is because tests for alcohol in the blood are not usually made in most areas unless there is reason to believe drinking was a factor.

Dietz and Baker examined all 133 accidental drowning cases in Maryland in 1972 in an effort to determine their cause. Sixteen of the drownings were caused by Tropical Storm Agnes, leaving 117 to be analyzed. Only in Baltimore were tests performed for alcohol.

"More especially, the frequency with which alcohol was observed among drowned adult swimmers (11 of 14 or 78 per cent) speaks for itself," the report said.

Overall, the report said approximately 6,500 persons drown in the United States each year. It is the fourth leading cause of accidental death and for ages 9 to 24 it is second only to death due to motor vehicles.

"But, believe me, a long term tight situation is really with us, and unless we conserve, we will be right back with the gasoline lines."

Standard executives concede that until the Arab embargo they themselves were not thinking shortage.

"We were a little late in discovering how much demand was increasing," said Eneas D. Kane, research director. "A year ago we found that demand was up 6 per cent. It had been running with a 3 to 4 per cent annual increase."

The company says its policy has made a 180-degree turn — from promoting consumption to promoting conservation of gasoline.

It has also undertaken a huge refinery building program to increase output. Officials note that, no matter how much oil is available, the quantity of gasoline is limited by refinery capacity and the refineries are now running at full speed.

Present Cost Normal

Bower says he doubts that supply-demand economics will do the job.

"Theoretically it is possible that the price could rise to the point where demand leveled off. But I don't know where that level is. In Europe and some Asian countries, the rate of price increases has been larger than here. The price is double what it is here and there is still the demand."

Although gasoline price increases have sent Standard's profits skyrocketing, the company does not feel the price is out of line.

"If you go back 10 years and compare the price, you see the present cost of gasoline, compared to other commodities, is normal, mainly because for the first eight years of that 10-year period it was very depressed," said Bower.

Keep Engine Tuned

Changing from a "conservation" policy to a "conservative" policy has involved widespread adjustments at the oil company. Marketing people who had been taught that success was selling more of the product had to be retrained to the idea that success is getting customers to hold their needs to last year's level.

"We will not take on new business that makes us furnish lesser amounts in our present customers," said Bower. "Our sales representatives are sitting down with customers, teaching them what they can do to stretch whatever gallons they get."

Standard has prepared a list of tips for consumers on how to get more miles per gallon. Basically, the advice is to keep your engine tuned, drive at moderate speeds (most cars give four more miles per gallon at 50 mph than at 70 mph), and plan trips intelligently.

To show that it is 100 per cent behind energy conservation in all respects, the company has cut down on lighting and lowered the thermostats at its offices and plants. This week, the government awarded Standard a citation for saving energy under the "business and industry Energy Management Program" of President Nixon.

644-1364

Residents of the Miller Rd. area in South Windsor again fought to preserve what they describe as the "natural rural beauty" of that section of town.

A petition signed by 24 neighbors opposed the request of Frank Trantona for a zone change from RR (rural residential) to A-30 for a tract of land presently owned by Sophia J. Hawkins on Miller Rd.

DevCo Releases New Town Plan

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
742-9458

In a new conference yesterday afternoon, Peter Libassi, president of Greater Hartford Process DevCo said "I believe that residents of Coventry will support the new community after they have had a chance to look over and review the proposal and will realize that the alternative to the new community are far worse than having the new community in Coventry."

The press conference was called to make public the details of plans for the new community.

Libassi said DevCo is interested in making public three basic points about the new community: what the proposal actually is; why it is in Coventry's best interest; and that the new community will be good for the region as a whole.

Libassi said, "We own 1,800 acres in Coventry, 25 per cent of this land will be preserved as open space. This open space will not include roads of back yards."

Sixty-five acres have been put aside for schools sites, four elementary schools and one middle school."

He said, "We had taken great pains to preserve bog, wetlands and large trees."

Libassi said the new community would include two village centers, each of which would include commercial and retail space, office space as well as housing.

"The village centers are important because they will be the focal point of community life," he said.

He said, "The new community will contain a total of 6,000 dwelling units in a full range of prices from $25,000 to $80,000. Two thirds of these units will be family-owned with one third of the units rentals ranging from $200 to over $450 monthly."

Libassi said, "The new community would also include 1,000 one-family detached family homes and 110 acres of employment centers with approximately 4,000 jobs on the site. The new community will generate another 3,000 jobs in the vicinity."

Libassi said the new community would include "a walk-in health care center with ten or more full-time physicians and extensive recreational facilities such as an 18-hole golf course, tennis courts and swimming pools."

Libassi said the new community "will be a credit to the town and something that the people of Coventry can be proud of."

Libassi listed six reasons why the new community would be in Coventry's best interest: it will stabilize the tax rates and produce a tax revenue surplus of $16 million dollars by 1990 and $2.3 million every year thereafter; attract additional employment opportunities; supply housing for the elderly; provide additional health and recreational services; provide sewer service and help the town to preserve the rural atmosphere in the rest of the town.

Libassi said the new community will be good for the region because, "It will fulfill a variety of goals which are traditionally in conflict in our society. The new community will show a concern for the environment, show an appropriate concern for education and housing needs and is fiscally responsible."

Libassi said, "It will generate initially an average payroll of $5 million per year for people in and around the new community, with an ultimate payroll of $3 million per year."

Libassi said the plan reflects the needs and interests and desires of the people of Coventry that we have heard during the many hours spent in conversations with Coventry residents."

Rodino Leaves Hearing

Rep. Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, talks to newsmen following a closed session of the committee's impeachment inquiry. The group was told in a letter from President Nixon to Rodino that the Chief Executive would not turn over any more tapes or documents relating to the impeachment panel's investigation of the Watergate case.

Rodino called Nixon's response to the committee's subpoenas "a very grave matter."

He said, "We had taken great pains to preserve bog, wetlands and large trees."

Libassi said the new community would include two village centers, each of which would include commercial and retail space, office space as well as housing.

Officials Turn Back Data

COVENTRY (UPI) — An informal proposal for "new town" development by the Greater Hartford Process, Inc., got a cool reception from Coventry officials.

The Greater Hartford Community Development Corp. (DevCo) development arm of Process, Wednesday sent its first written proposal to Coventry officials.

DevCo also requested a meeting with zoning officials to talk about the project before a formal request for a zoning change to accommodate the community is made.

Mrs. Steve said that request will be discussed at the commission meeting Tuesday.

DevCo plans to have about 6,000 housing units built by 1990, plus schools, business and commercial developments and transportation and other public services.

Power Firm Says Rate Hike Small

HARTFORD (UPI) — The president of Northeast Utilities says interim rate hikes granted to two Connecticut power companies Wednesday won't be far enough.

The Public Utilities Commission allowed Hartford Electric Light Co. and Connecticut Light & Power to raise their rates by only 49 and 70 per cent of the requested amounts respectively.

HELCO wants to increase its revenues $23 million and CL&P wants to increase its revenues by $25 million.

However, the partial increase will provide HELCO with only $13.8 million and CL&P with $17.5 million.

The temporary increases will raise customers' bills by 9 per cent and 10 per cent, respectively, as early as next month.

Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president of Northeast Utilities, the holding company for HELCO, CL&P and three other utilities serving Connecticut and Massachusetts, said the lower-than-asked increases fail to solve the companies' financial woes.

Sillin said the rate hikes are not enough to improve the companies' abilities to raise the capital it needs to continue its construction programs.

Dismissal Asked In Ellsberg Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense lawyers asked Federal Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today to dismiss charges of all five defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case on grounds of "massive, prejudicial, pretrial publicity."

Gesell implied that if the material is not provided, he might dismiss all charges in the case involving the break-in of the Beverly Hills office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg in 1971.

Gesell heard oral arguments for a fourth day on motions leading to the trial. He was expected to rule, possibly later today, on motions about the national security and publicity aspects of the case.

The judge issued a subpoena Friday for personal files of former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, two of the defendants, saying he wanted all "relevant and material" evidence made available to the defendants.

The judge issued a subpoena Friday for personal files of former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, two of the defendants, saying he wanted all "relevant and material" evidence made available to the defendants.

Gesell implied that if the material is not provided, he might dismiss all charges in the case involving the break-in of the Beverly Hills office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg in 1971.

Gesell heard oral arguments for a fourth day on motions leading to the trial. He was expected to rule, possibly later today, on motions about the national security and publicity aspects of the case.
