Israeli-Syrian POW Exchange Begins

By United Press International
Israel and Syria began an exchange of wounded war prisoners today, opening the second phase of a breakthrough agreement to end fighting and separate their armies on the Golan Heights.

Both nations said heavy artillery guns and tanks in the 40-mile-long Golan region were silent for the first time in months, honoring the cease-fire imposed Friday by the signing of the disengagement accord in Geneva.

Twelve khaki-clad Israeli troops, some of them hobbling on crutches and one with his hand amputated, boarded a Red Cross plane in Damascus for the flight to Israel. They were greeted in Tel Aviv with kisses from women soldiers, flowers and handshakes from Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

At the same time, a Red Cross plane carrying 25 injured Arab prisoners, 24 Syrians and a Moroccan, took off from Tel Aviv's Ben Gurion International Airport on the quick flight to the Syrian capital.

The prisoners, who were captured in the October Middle East war and spent months in captivity, quickly became the center of attention in both countries.

Hundreds of relatives and friends of the Syrian POWs jammed the main hall at Damascus airport waiting to hold a welcome celebration. Government sources said Maj. Gen. Mustafa Tlas, the Syrian air force commander, joined the throng.

In Geneva, military delegations from Israel and Syria planned to meet again today for the first of an expected five days of talks aimed at working out the intricate details of the troop separation agreement.

The pact, negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, called for an immediate cease-fire, creation of a Golan Heights buffer zone, troop pullbacks within four weeks and an exchange of prisoners to begin within 24 hours.

Kissinger returned to Washington Friday and said his marathon 32 days of talks may have helped overcome "the wide gulf of distrust and hostility" in the Middle East.

Rains Threaten Midwest

By United Press International
Persistent rains, dumping three to four inches in some areas, swelled rivers to within inches of overflowing today in the Midwest. More rainfall drenched the Northeast and the central Gulf Coast.

More than two inches of rain in the mid Mississippi Valley caused a sudden rise in the river and the National Weather Service predicted it would go above bankful during the weekend.

The weather service predicted the river would crest Monday at 32 feet at St. Louis where flood stage is 30 feet. Friday, the Mississippi was at 27.5 feet.

Flash flood watches were posted throughout Arkansas, Louisiana,

Tennessee, Alabama, West Virginia and Maryland. Roads were impassable in low lying areas of southwest Louisiana and onshore winds increased tide levels on the Gulf Coast, aggravating flooding problems.

Barring additional rainfall, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Iowa City, Iowa, said the Coralville Reservoir would peak "just inches" below its overflow level this weekend. As a precaution, 160 National Guardsmen and about 150 volunteers built a two-foot-high sandbag levy around the fine arts campus at the University of Iowa.

Three to four inches of rain coated parts of eastern Texas and the central Gulf Coast states. Memphis, Tenn., and Charlottesville, Va., each reported an inch of rainfall in one six-hour period.

A tornado was sighted at Austin, Tex., early today but there was no report of injury or damage.

Except for clouds over the Southern California coast, fair skies prevailed from the Pacific Coast to the Rockies. It was also fair in the Plains, the upper Mississippi Valley and the Florida peninsula.

Temperatures early ranged from 37 degrees at Lewiston, Mont., to 87 at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada.

Economic Stability Asked

PARIS (UPI) — France and Germany denounced trade protection measures in Europe today and called for a return to economic stability in Common Market member states.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said the nine-member community must "assert its personality and cohesion."

The new French president and the new West German chancellor made their remarks in a joint statement after 5-1/2 hours of talks late Friday and today.

The statement gave no specifics on planned action, but Elysee Palace officials said the two leaders discussed the massive balance of payments deficits bedeviling most European states — West Germany excepted — which led Italy to erect trade barriers.

After a two-hour meeting at the presidential palace, the two leaders stood on the palace steps while Giscard d'Estaing read their common statement.

"There is a wide identity of view between us on European problems. It is necessary to maintain all the progress made so far toward European unity and to slow down the process leading toward disintegration."

"For this purpose we prefer a return to economic stability within member nations rather than protectionist measures," he said.

"We agreed that the Common Market must assert its personality and its cohesion. European unity is a vital element in world peace," Giscard d'Estaing added. "We agree we must avoid regression in favor of progress in Europe."

After the Friday night meeting, the two leaders surprised aides and passersby with a midnight stroll back to Schmidt's hotel.

Career Day Staged at MHS

Friday was the day about 1,500 students from Manchester High School and the Bennet and Illing Junior High Schools had an opportunity to meet various business representatives from the area who offer career education programs in cooperation with the Cooperative Occupational Education Program (COEP) at the high school.

The Creative School of Hairdressing at 808 Main St. drew the largest crowd. They literally brought their business to the school with hairdressers who were equipped to give hairstyling on the spot to those who were willing to wait their turn—free!

Other participating booths had continuous slides or brochures. All participating employers were equipped to explain details of their particular business, or answer any questions.

Taking part in the Career Day were Travelers Inc.; U.S. Coast Guard; Southern New England Telephone Co.; Hartford State Technical College; U.S. Navy; Loring Studios; Manchester Jaycees; Conn. State Employment Office; U.S. Air Force; Conn. Stenographic Institute; State Police Department; Associated Restaurants.

Also, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corporation in East Hartford; The Manchester Evening Herald; Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce; Manchester, Town Fire Department; Iron Works; U.S. Marines; U. S. Army; Manchester Memorial Hospital—x-ray technician and physical therapist; Manchester Community College—Food Services & Hotel Management, and Data Processing.

Supreme Court to Hear Watergate Tape Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Friday took the momentous case of President Nixon vs. the Watergate prosecutors away from an appeals court and promised an early decision on Nixon's refusal to surrender recordings of presidential conversations.

The court will pass judgment on the very heart of Nixon's legal justification for rejecting further demands for evidence in the ongoing Watergate investigations — the principle that "executive privilege" gives him the right to hold his records in confidence.

The President has cited this principle in withholding tapes and records of 64 conversations subpoenaed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for use in the Watergate cover-up trial, as well as in his disputes with House impeachment investigators. The trial, involving seven former White House and campaign aides, is now scheduled to begin Sept. 9.

The high court has never before accepted such a chilling confrontation between the executive and judicial branches of government. The nearest thing to a precedent was a ruling by Chief Justice John Marshall in the 1807 trial of Aaron Burr.

Nixon's attorneys had urged the court to let the case run its course through the appellate courts and reject Jaworski's bid to skip that process.

Justice William H. Rehnquist retired from the case, which will begin in earnest in July with written and oral arguments, reducing the court to an eight-man panel and setting up the possibility Nixon might defy an adverse ruling to surrender the material to Jaworski.

A 4-4 tie vote would uphold U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's previous order in favor of Jaworski, but it would not constitute a conclusive constitutional ruling by the court. While Nixon has said he would obey a "definitive" Supreme Court ruling on the issue, he has never said what he meant by that. White House aides are now refusing to say whether he would obey any high court ruling.

Rehnquist did not say why he took himself out of the case. The reason presumably bore upon his service as assistant attorney general under former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who is a defendant in the September trial.

The court set oral arguments for July 8 and thus extended its current session beyond normal summer adjournment time.

It directed that all briefs be filed by July 1. The justices could gather up their reading matter and digest it for a week before returning for the fireworks on July 8.

President Make Plans For Middle East Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today moved ahead with plans for upcoming Middle East and Moscow trips and assessed a pair of setbacks dealt him Friday by the Supreme Court and the House Judiciary Committee on Watergate matters.

Elated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's successful negotiation of a Syrian-Israeli cease fire, the President was expected to spend the next several days making arrangements for a journey to the Middle East that could begin as early as next weekend.

Nixon will announce the dates of his swing through the Mideast sometime next week. But aides said he was preparing for a week-long trip with stops in Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and perhaps Syria and Algeria.

Under present planning, he will return to Washington for about a week before departing for a third round of summit talks with Soviet leaders starting June 27 in Moscow.

Nixon will spend a week in the Soviet Union, most of the time in Moscow but with a side trip to the Black Sea also possible.

His talks with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will focus on U.S. Soviet efforts to conclude a new nuclear arms limitation accord.

Returning from a 34-day marathon mission, Kissinger Friday discussed the forthcoming trips with Nixon privately and then briefed Democratic and Republican leaders on his diplomatic breakthrough.

"I believe now that the two sides have learned to understand the thinking of each other and that maybe that hurdle has been overcome." He said. "But still there is a long way to go before we have permanent peace in the Middle East."

But while it was a day of triumph on the foreign policy front, Nixon suffered a legal setback in Watergate matters Friday when the Supreme Court decided it will rule quickly and directly on whether the President must release 64 Watergate tape recordings to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Nixon also failed in his attempt to persuade the House Judiciary Committee to open its hearings and to call witnesses. The impeachment panel decided Friday to keep its preliminary evidence secret.

Farm Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm prices tumbled for the third straight month in May, but the result may be to increase already intense pressures on the administration to raise meat prices by limiting beef imports.

The Agriculture Department's monthly farm price report Friday showed average farm prices down another 4 per cent. They had already dropped 6 per cent in April and 4 per cent in March.

Prices have now fallen 14 per cent since the decline began in February.

Just what the latest decline means to retail food prices — which are expected, for all of 1974, to average 12 per cent above 1973 — remained uncertain.

Average retail prices turned down in April and retail estimates for May seemed likely to show declines for some foods including meat and poultry. But a section of the agriculture report on prices farmers paid for all food and tobacco in May showed a 2 per cent increase from April.

The most critical problem appeared to center around livestock, including beef cattle and hogs, which have now declined for four consecutive months and are 18 per cent below a year ago.

Cattle feeders have been complaining about heavy losses since last fall and hog producers, with their prices down to less than half of last year's record, found a sharply unfavorable feed ratio for May.

The meat animal declines have produced widespread price cuts for retail shoppers in recent months, although administration officials claim the reductions could have been greater if food middlemen had passed on all the farm declines.

But at the same time, pressure has been building for government action to ease the situation for farmers by limiting beef imports.

The government's beef import control program has been suspended, allowing unlimited imports, since mid-1972 when President Nixon lifted all barriers to help protect consumers from rising prices. Now, however, producers claim they are facing an unfair squeeze in which their own temporarily-glutted market is being forced to absorb extra Australian beef diverted here because Western Europe and Japan reduced imports sharply.

You're as young as you feel the saying goes and members of the Senior Citizen Bowling League in Manchester are still "youthful." Ranging in ages from 62 to 90, the 96 members of the league keep active every Tuesday afternoon at the Parkade Lanes.

Bowling is one sport where youngsters from 6 to 106 can have fun and get some exercise at the same time. At the Parkade, and at Holiday Lanes where duckpins are the target, over 100 adult leagues have been formed which keeps everybody on the go.

The joy is not only in making a good score but also in being with family and friends for an afternoon or evening of enjoyment. And if you have frustrations to work off from a hard day at work, bowling can be one solution.

Oldest member of the Senior Citizen League still bowling is Eva Lutz, who will be 90 at her next birthday. Several members still carry averages of 160 or better and that's good in any man's league. If you've never been bowling or haven't dropped in to your neighborhood establishment recently, do so one day soon. You don't know what you've been missing.

A Warning from Burns

"I do not believe I exaggerate in saying that the ultimate consequence of inflation would be a significant decline of economic and political freedom for the American people."
Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, so warned the country in a grim commencement address at Illinois College in Jacksonville, Ill. "It long continued," he said, "inflation at anything like the present rate would threaten the very foundation of our society."
Although the recent rise in interest rates was "troublesome," Burns said it must for a time be tolerated. He pledged continued resistance to swift growth in money and credit, even though one result of that policy has been temporarily higher interest rates.
Observing that unemployment would inevitably rise as a result of efforts to combat inflation, Burns gave a cautious endorsement of public-service employment as a means of easing joblessness, since it will not add permanently to governmental costs.
His only advice was for discipline in consumer spending. He criticized impulse shopping, gadget buying, and thoughtlessness in choosing among the thousands of commodities and services available to the market. He urged comparative price-shopping and said that careful spending habits "are not only in the interest of every family, they contribute powerfully to a new emphasis on price competition in consumer markets."
In a companion commencement address at Upsilon College in East Orange, N.J., Andrew F. Brimmer, a fellow reserve board member, told of three ways of cushioning unemployment, each costing $1 billion: A tax cut, larger government procurement and public-service jobs. Two to three times the jobs would be generated by public-service work at the end of one year, Brimmer said.
We were hoping for a formula to moderate inflation. We got instead a pledge that tight money policy would be maintained, though it keeps interest high. We're still waiting for a formula that will bring inflation to a halt because it is the highest tax on those who can't afford it.

Speed Limits

The time is long past, unfortunately, when infringements of the federal government upon the rights of the states is news. The erosion of state's rights has been going on for years, and in many areas it has been enforced by the muscle of federal funds, which originated in the states.
The Senate has voting 51 to 29 against a proposal that would have given the states the rights to increase their speed limits from the 55 miles per hour which was legislated during the emergency crisis to 60 miles per hour.
The measure was proposed by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas who pleaded the special case of Kansas people who must drive many miles because of the rural nature of much of the state.
Predicting his case upon the end of the oil embargo and the fact that there is no apparent oil shortage at the new high prices being charged, the senator's case made sense to us. The decision would be left to the various states under his proposal.
In many of the sparsely settled states families have to drive many miles to stores, doctors, dentists, etc. A speed limit of 55-miles per hour in these areas is unrealistic.
If you have ever driven across Nebraska, or Wyoming, or Montana, you know how interminable such a drive must seem at the slower speed and much lighter traffic.
We grant readily, that 55 miles per hour is reasonable and desirable in smaller urbanized states, where one community often runs into another. And there is much to be said for the safety factor in states with heavily travelled highways.
The overriding point, however, is that the states should set their own highway speeds, even though federal funds may have assisted in building those highways.

English poet John Massfield was born June 1, 1878.
On this day in history:
In 1812, President James Madison warned Congress that war with Great Britain was imminent. It started 17 days later.
In 1964, the U.S. Supreme Court banned prayers and Bible teaching in public schools.
In 1972, President Nixon returned from his Moscow summit meeting and asked a joint session of Congress for quick approval of an arms control agreement with Russia.
In 1973, Premier George Papadopoulos abolished the Greek monarchy and proclaimed the country a republic with himself as president.
A thought for the day: Poet John Massfield said, "Bitter it is, indeed, in human fate, when Life's supreme temptation comes too late."

Sincere Thanks

To the editor:
We want to say thanks to the grammar school children of Manchester and their parents for the beautiful flowers that were brought to school May 24. We also thank Dr. Kennedy and the teachers of the grammar schools for their interest in the flowers to the Army & Navy Club. The flowers were beautifully displayed around the Civil War Monument Memorial Day. Our sincere thanks to all the above mentioned.

Open Forum Supports Open Space

Dear sir:
Dr. Goldman and the Board of Education unanimously agreed to pursue the goals suggested by the Mott Foundation for the planning of community use of town buildings.
Dr. Goldman cited the fact that eight school libraries sit vacant all summer long as well as many school facilities.
We do not need any more libraries at this time as the last vote showed.
Plum Gulley should be made into a park with picnic benches, seats, flowers, nice trees, etc.
My neighbors and I do not wholeheartedly endorse the Plum Gulley concept as the council has. I must also state that this is not my slanted opinion.
I am against Plum Gulley with its library, recreational complex and community hall facilities. I am for an open space program in our country town.

WASHINGTON - There are two ways to interpret the Supreme Court's invalidation of the Plum Gulley concept as the council has. I must also state that this is not my slanted opinion.

Don Oakley The SLA Writes Its Own Ending

It was almost a foregone conclusion that a group of fanatical and violence-prone as the Symbionese Liberation Army would end up in some kind of spectacular shoot-out with law enforcement officers.
Six SLA members, representing six-ninths of the known total in the "army" (if Patricia Hearst is included as a voluntary or involuntary member), perished in a gun battle and ensuing house blaze in Los Angeles - a final and an immediate end to the Symbionese Liberation Army.
The puzzling thing is that even one otherwise intelligent young person could actually have believed that there was the remotest possible chance of starting a revolution in America, or that the kind of new order the SLA would have instituted was anything that anyone in his right mind would call good.
So said Dr. V.E. McKelvey, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, in an address before the recent Seventh International Water Quality Symposium in Washington, D.C.
Another reason, he said, is that in many places in the United States we lack the "baseline data" from which we can begin to measure changes in water quality - on the one hand the presumably good changes resulting from pollution control programs, and on the other hand the bad changes caused by continuing agricultural, industrial and urban development.
There's one rule of thumb, however:
"Considering that most of the water returned to the environment is of lower quality than when it was withdrawn, and that the amount withdrawn and returned has been increasing at the rate of about three per cent per year, we say with some confidence that water quality of the overall has been declining."
To say that, of course, "is not very helpful," added McKelvey. He reported, however, that the government in the process of establishing the data base required to determine trends in water quality.
The International Water Quality Symposium, an ever-yearly affair, is sponsored by the nonprofit Water Quality Research Council in Lombard, Ill.

Today's Thought

Have you ever said, "I thought yesterday would never end" or "I thought today would never come"?
Well, it did come and it did end and we were there as it occurred. To some it was fearful and to others a freeing of the spirit. To some it brought sorrow and to others joy. Yet, for all of us it was a great event for life goes on.
May this be the moment we remember when time became transformed into a miracle of hope and strength for the living of these days and may every new tomorrow bring us the miracle of God's present love.

The Bible Speaks
by Eugene Brewer.

The savagery of modern man is difficult to reconcile with his intellectual enlightenment. We are horrified at the insane genocide of German Nazism. We shudder at the callous butchery of atheistic Communism. But we seem oblivious to the social and psychological cruelties to which we may be party. Rank prejudice underestimates a flaw in the victims of our bias, while it hypocritically hides the same or comparable faults in those with whom we identify.

We would do well to avoid being stampeded into a position toward another by those who self-righteously profess outrage at his exposed moral methods - methods which they are fully aware have been used to theirs and their allies' advantage, but without public knowledge.

"He that is without sin...let him first cast a stone..." John 8:7.

Community Baptist Church Speaking in Tongues Interest Increasing

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer

The New English Bible version of the story of the Tower of Babel begins with the simplicity of a fairy tale: "Once upon a time, all the world spoke a single language and used the same words."

That simplicity, used primarily as a literary device, contrasts sharply with the unfolding story of the building of the tower and the shattering of the people's simplicity into the complexity of their scattering and the diversity of their tongues.

Babel, and the consequent scattering of the people, has been used many times over the years as a foil for describing the New Testament event of Pentecost, celebrated by Christian churches on June 2 this year.

"Birthday of Church," Pentecost, described in the second chapter of Acts, has often been called the "birthday of the church" and marks the gift of the Holy Spirit, coming "from heaven like the rush of a mighty wind" to Jesus' followers gathered together in Jerusalem.

Historically, Christians have marked Pentecost as the beginning of the church, and in the speech that the Apostle Peter gave after the experience of the speaking in tongues — as the beginning of the missionary endeavor of the church.

CLIFF SIMPSON

Wings Of Evening

When the World Council of Churches was organized in 1948 at Amsterdam I had the privilege of being in attendance. It was a truly historic occasion. Upon my return I reported to the Center Church, Manchester, and to a rally in the Bushnell Memorial.

The theme of the council meeting was "God's Design on Man's Disorder." The basic idea was that God has created the world (design) and within that creation man has sinned (disorder). To make my report more appealing, I telescoped this topic to "Don't Blame God" — for war, hatred, persecution, racial intolerance, pride, etc.

When the Wayside Preacher on the church lawn greeted traffic on Monday morning before my report the legend went like this:

Morning Worship at 8:15-11
"Don't Blame God"
Mr. Simpson preaching

As this column develops through the weeks ahead, is there any better comment to make than "Don't blame God — Cliff Simpson speaking?"

It is my hope that this article will become a dialogue in which ideas can be exchanged, questions about faith answered, and from time to time, original contributions of readers printed. It will follow no hard and fast format but will present recurring features of interest and challenge.

For example, there will be book reviews, items of religious interest, explanations of difficult Scripture passages, background of familiar hymns, a verse for the week, an occasional chuckle, a poem, news from Manchester and around the world, and other features as they occur to me or as you may suggest them.

First — our "Word for the Week." Very fully in the Gospel of Mark Jesus says "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent ye, and believe the gospel." (1:15)

The Christian Church has made different interpretations of this word "repent," one of which is "feel sorry for your sins; do penance." The correct meaning of the word certainly implies regret for past mistakes and the obligation to make restitution, but I agree with Chamberlain's meaning of Repentance that the essential meaning of "repent" is to "change your mind."

"When I was young and became involved in an abstract discussion I would say "Give me a 'for instance.'" Here is one.

A man who has been running around for years having affairs with one woman after another meets someone whom he really loves. His feelings for her as a person is so different from the mere physical attraction he has known in his previous experiences that he suddenly realizes the kind of life he has been living and the depth of love that he has missed.

Now he repents. He "changes his mind" about his past and his future. When before seemed detectable he now spews out of his mouth for the taste buds of his soul are different. He does not merely regret the past but leads a totally new life.

Have you experienced repentance? Have you changed your life style because of it?

Another "for instance": A woman has a reputation for telling a good story, often at someone else's expense. Her favorite jokes downgrade people of other ethnic backgrounds for these usually get a laugh.

Then she becomes acquainted with someone of another race whom she admires. One day her new found friend tells her frankly that she is hurting people with her jokes, that she herself has been hurt by them.

The jokester "repents." She suddenly realizes that she has been boosting her own ego by pushing someone else down. Her new understanding of how other persons feel enables her to change the style of her humor so that the sting is gone.

I believe that this kind of "change of mind" is what Jesus meant when he said: "Repent ye, and believe the gospel."

The title of this column, "Wings of Evening," refers incidentally to the "evening" paper in which it appears, but I chose it particularly in reference to a verse from Isaiah.

"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." (Isaiah 40:31)

It is my hope that those words will help and renew the strength of many who read them, and that they may indeed "mount up with wings as eagles."

The chuckle for this week comes from a book by Dick Van Dyke, "Faith, Hope and Hilarity."

As a comedian who used to teach Sunday School, he writes about comical things children have said. He feels that children's humor is the funniest kind because it is to honesty spontaneous and truly human.

One of his anecdotes comes from a Catholic family in Pennsylvania who invited a little Protestant boy to go wading with their six-year-old daughter in Lake Erie. The girl decided to take off her clothes to keep them dry. As they ran into the water they looked at her carefully and remarked, " Gee, I didn't know there was that much difference between Protestants and Catholics."

As we look forward to the more relaxing days of summer let me share with you a poem of Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

The little cares that fretted me
I lost them yesterday,
Among the fields above the sea,
Among the winds at play,
Among the lowing of the herd,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing of the birds,
The humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what may happen,
I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay,
Among the husking of the corn,
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born —
Out in the field with God.
One final thought for the week: "Love thyself enough to keep thyself lovable."

Firemen Distribute Safety Stickers

The Hebron Volunteer Fire Department has planned a door-to-door campaign to distribute "Young People Present" stickers next week.

The stickers, donated by the Martha Crow Phelps Branch of the Burritt Mutual Savings Bank, has been designed to save children's lives in case of fire.

Firemen will also be giving homeowners a paper entitled "Procedure For Reporting an Emergency." This paper, which may be posted near the phone lists telephone numbers for fire calls and tells what important facts to give when reporting the emergency.

In the Class B division, Ed Strauss copped both the high triple with 501 and high single 175.

In the Women's Class A, Mary Chaves won high triple with 432 and Ann Winner had a 158 high single.

New Bus Route
Here is an important new change for you passengers who use our shopping bus trips on Tuesdays.

In the afternoon it will stop at a place like the Parkade where they can do all types of shopping, especially groceries.

North Grand Union has closed, and Butterfield's is gone, the bus is going to take a new route and wind up at the new Parkade area off Spencer St.

So starting Tuesday, we will reverse our pickup route. We will be picking up on the East Side and North End first. We start at 10 a.m., go south on Main St. to Hartford Rd. and stop at 10:45. Then we stop at Square Village about 10:50 and then on to the shopping area.

We will drop people off along the route at their pleasure, and we ask everyone to be patient with us until we can drop the kinds of changing the time and route.

Pinochle Results
Next comes Wednesday and in the morning we had eleven tables for pinochle with the following winners: May Derby 577, Louise Kohls 575, Will Messier 570, Anna Haug 568, Esther Anderson 560, Majorie McLean 558, Alice Anderson 544, Martha Le Bat 536, John

Firemen Distribute Safety Stickers

These stickers should be placed on children's bedroom windows. Upon arrival at the scene of a fire the firemen would check the home for stickers and search those rooms first.

Should the child be safely out of the house when the firemen arrive they should be told so that they will not enter the house needlessly.

Pathway Cleanup Planned

The Linear Park Committee Thursday night made plans for a Work Day Saturday, June 15 along the paths at Union Pond and Hockanum River, the first fully ekayed sections of the town's linear park system.

Harry Maidment, committee chairman, will direct the cleanup. Scouts and other groups are invited to help clean up storm damage and debris. Brush will be piled by later side of roads for the town to take and chip. Heavy pieces will be sawed up.

Boating on Union Pond this summer may be set up for a second year. Dr. Douglas Smith of the committee is speaking with Rick Goven of the Youth Commission and Summer Activities in Manchester regarding boat boating sports.

Progress in acquiring easements along the Hockanum River and other town waterways to complete the linear park is being made. Townspeople can now walk around Union Pond on either town land or easements on private land except by the private homes along Kerry St. facing the pond and by Allied Casting Corp. on the north side.

An easement is the right a land owner gives to the town on his property. In this case, the right is just to pass over the land along the waterway.

The committee is seeking easements from Allied Casting on the north shore of Union Pond and along the Hockanum River, from the Nussdorf famly along the south side of the Hockanum River from Union St. to N. Main St. and from the Ball Construction Co. for the north side of the river from Union St. to N. Main St.

Eventually, the committee hopes to have easements connected to town property along the town's waterways enabling a near complete ring to be made around the town. The Hockanum River passing through Manchester from Vernon to East Hartford is the most significant portion of this system. Other parts planned for by the committee include Lydell Brook in the east side of the town and beyond to the reservoir system of the Manchester Water Co. near Bolton and Ver-

Trails from these reservoirs to the town's Porter and Howard Reservoirs in the east side would be the only portion of the system not running along waterways. For these reservoirs, the system could continue down the Porter Brook through the Oak Grove Nature Center to the Hop Brook by Charter Oak Park. Hop Brook is not the prettiest waterway below Charter Oak Park, Dr. Smith noted. But it is a major waterway running along 194 and all it swings north at the west end of town to connect with the Hockanum River near the sewage treatment plant.

Fingers of the system might include Hilliard pond by W. Middle Tpke., the committee member said. The stream leading from the pond connects

News for Senior Citizens

Hi Neighbor. It's that time again and so away we go. First thing is for me to once again publicly thank the Jaycee Wives for the wonderful donation for our bus. If you recall, while we were honoring our Bus Fund Drive the Jaycee Wives held a Casino Night with all the proceeds going for our new bus.

Well, I attended that affair and let me tell you it is not an easy job, and in fact it is a lot of work. The ladies, with the help of the men, really sweated trying to please everyone and to make the night a success.

And a success it was, as the amount they turned over — $650 — tells the story, and on behalf of my staff and the senior members we are most grateful and appreciate your hard work and are happy that we are the recipients.

So we humbly say thanks to all of you and we wish you extended success in your many other endeavors.

Golf Tourney
Now we go with the happenings here at the center starting with our Golf League results. Twenty-five players braved the cold and damp weather to travel to Tallowood and the top scores were: Victor Provost, 45; Al Bolis and Al Bourret, 45; Russ Nettleton and Earl Dickinson, 47.

In the afternoon it was off to the bowling alleys where our Senior League was busy knocking over the hardwood with the following results:

In the Class A division, Sam Schors had a high triple of 518. Lou Gouin copped high single with a 205.

In the Class B division, Ed Strauss copped both the high triple with 501 and high single 175.

In the Women's Class A, Mary Chaves won high triple with 432 and Ann Winner had a 158 high single.

Thursday came around before we knew it and things started off with our Square Dance Club getting back into action and the rest of a week sure put them in a jumpy mood.

After a nifty chicken dinner, we moved upstairs for our Fun Day entertainment. We had a nice movie on Spain and while it was being shown many of the members were getting their pictures taken and filled out passport forms. A question and answer period followed.

We would like to thank the volunteers who manned the office in Jae's absence: Elizabeth Come, Jessica Hayes, Ann Thompson, Esther Gaudette and Violet Dixon.

Nice Guy Speaks Up

When one mentions the nice guys in baseball that he has met, one who stands high in this category is Jim Kaat, the best fielding pitcher in the major leagues and a veteran of long service with the Minnesota Twins, now with the Chicago White Sox.

The answers given to questions recently asked about his feelings are passed along to readers.

Asked why can't some players quit and why do they hang on after they've peaked and thus dim the luster of a fine career, Kaat answered like this:

"I'm a nice guy. In the case of a guy being shuttled back to the minors, it has to be pride. And if you can get $300,000 riding the bench, some guys would rather do that than quit. It beats working for a living."

Commenting on the main retirement problems facing an athlete, the 17-year major league outfielder pitched had this to say:

"I think there are four: 1. Missing the competition, 2. Financial adjustments, 3. Establishing a new routine and life-style, 4. Going from a 'somebody' to a 'nobody.'"

Far too few athletes on top today realize how important is the adjustment to part four of the above.

Sports Awards Nights Due

Cheney Tech's annual sports awards night will be held Tuesday night at 6 o'clock at the school. Pat Mistretta, director of athletics at Manchester Community College, will be the speaker. Baseball Fan Abuse, Rowdism Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Finally, inevitably, the sludge from Watergate has spilled over and begun to contaminate baseball.

The effects keep growing more and more apparent in ballparks all over the country — Candlestick Park, San Francisco; Riverfront Stadium, Cincinnati; Dodger Stadium, Los Angeles; Arlington Stadium, Arlington, Tex.; San Diego Stadium in San Diego and Shea Stadium right here in New York.

Richard Nixon, President of the United States, stands on the threshold of impeachment.

He keeps saying he won't resign, and he sounds like the baseball manager who has lost control of his ball club but keeps saying, don't worry, we're going to bounce back soon.

The lawmakers in this country aren't at all sure he will. Much more important, the people aren't sure. They're confused, alarmed and anguished over what happened at Watergate. They have difficulty distinguishing right from wrong and fear places has their general despair become more evident than at the baseball parks.

Baseball fans have taken to verbalizing their dismay and it comes out in a terrible, excessive form of raw abuse upon the ballplayers. Fan abuse and rowdism in baseball aren't really anything new, but now they seem to be reaching unprecedented proportions.

Houston outfielder Bob Watson runs into a wall in Cincinnati and some imbeciles throw beer on him while he lies injured on the ground... Pete Rose of the Reds has been scolded in Los Angeles, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, obscenities so vile that no man possibly could endure them... Sitting in the visitors' dugout at Candlestick Park, Hank Aaron is hit by a thrown orange... Kids have to be stopped by police from turning over players cars at Shea Stadium... Cleveland catcher Dave Duncan is so enraged after being splashed by beer in Arlington that he tries to lead a group of players to the stands and hit nothing like this. In San Francisco, I went back to catch a fly ball and an ice cube was thrown at me. Then came the language. I thought maybe I was getting it because I beat out Bobby Bonds in the MVP, or because Harrison comes from right across the way (Hayward, Calif.). Then in Los Angeles, I'm playing leftfield, there are 38,000 people there and this one group of 20 guys keep yelling "Rose, Rose, Rose!" So loud, you can hear it in our dugout all the way down near home plate. Later they begin throwing things. Ice, garbage, a whiskey bottle and a big firecracker. In San Diego, it was so bad the first night we were there, Sparky Anderson told me to wear my helmet in the field, and I did.

"Some of the things I heard the fans say to me from the stands in San Francisco and Los Angeles I just couldn't believe. I've heard vulgar language in my life, but nothing like this. In San Francisco, I went back to catch a fly ball and an ice cube was thrown at me. Then came the language. I thought maybe I was getting it because I beat out Bobby Bonds in the MVP, or because Harrison comes from right across the way (Hayward, Calif.). Then in Los Angeles, I'm playing leftfield, there are 38,000 people there and this one group of 20 guys keep yelling 'Rose, Rose, Rose!' In San Diego, it was so bad the first night we were there, Sparky Anderson told me to wear my helmet in the field, and I did.

"Boos are part of the game," Rose concedes. "You don't mind them so much, but some of the guys sit there all night and say things about your wife and your mother that nobody in the world can say. How is a man supposed to concentrate when he hears things like that? I went out for three games in Los Angeles. I found myself playing half out of position. One thing I want to emphasize — it's never ALL the fans. Ninety-eight per cent of the fans — Los Angeles are great. They stand up and clap when I go out to my position. But those other two per cent... absolutely unbelievable."

Pete Rose isn't a complainer.

If he complains, there's good reason, and if Watergate is responsible for much of this, which it seems to be, then that's bad. Very bad.

Richard Nixon loves baseball and used to come out to the ballpark. No more. Do you wonder why?

"Everybody is quite apprehensive," he says. "The uncertainty of the future is a little more intensified now because of our national condition, and whatever resentment people have, the ballpark is a very compatible atmosphere in which to show it. This is a form of aggressive or immature behavior with them. The words these people are using on the ballplayers are ones they are normally prohibited from saying. Throwing beer is also a child-like action which fits into the general pattern of repression."

Pete Rose has a theory which pretty much coincides. "We, the people, have a lot of frustration and seem much greater today than they were, say, 20-25 years ago. Stop and think a minute. What better place for someone to relieve his frustrations than in a ballpark park? The ballpark is warm and comfortable. It's outdoors and affords a perfect opportunity for free expression. Where else can a guy walk in and make $100,000 anything he wants, practically to his face, without being answered back?"

Wood Survives Homers To Tack Loss on R Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — When things are working right for Wilbur Wood, even gopher balls don't bother him. Wood, baseball's premier knuckleballer, gave up two home runs to Carlton Fisk Friday night but still gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox for his eighth victory against big losses.

Wood, a Boston castoff, not only had some good stuff going for him but benefitted from a broadside by Fenway Park's short leftfield wall by Dick Allen and Bill Melton, who each hit tape measure homers to provide all the Chicago runs off Boston's losing pitcher, Bill Lee (6-5).

Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson said both pitchers were impressive.

"I thought Lee pitched a ball of a game. So did the other guy (Wood). When Wood's got the knuckleball working he's real tough to hit," said Johnson, whose team has now dropped two in a row.

"It was a well-played ball game," he said. "Two balls were hit out of the park and that was it."

Allen, who batted leadoff for the first time in his career, held off a Lee fastball with one on the top of the third inning and rode it 40-feet over the wall. Melton, the next batter, smashed his homer off a leftfield left tower.

"Allen knew where the pitch was and so did Melton and that was it," said Lee, who was extremely upset after the game.

Melton, a third baseman, saved the game for the White Sox in the bottom of the fourth when he robbed designated hitter Tommy Harper of an extra base hit with the bases loaded and two away.

"It would have got us in good shape if Tommie could have steered that ball away from him (Melton)," Johnson said.

Fisk's homers were solo shots in the second and seventh innings.

"Wood's first one (gopher) was a pitch-just-low and inside but I got a hold of it. The second was high, a mistake on my part, and I took advantage of it. I guess even Wilbur Wood makes mistakes, although not very many," Fisk said.

The two teams meet again tonight in the second of a three-game series.

Episcopal Choirs In State Festival

The choirs of four Manchester area Episcopal Churches will participate in the Natchaug Deany Choir Festival Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Pomfret School. The event is open to the public, and a free-will offering will be taken.

The idea for the choir festival originated with Eldon B. Coykendall Jr., organist and choirmaster at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, and is believed to be the first of its kind in the year-old organizational structure of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut.

Participating in the festival will be the Senior, Junior and Children's Choirs of St. Mary's Church, and the choirs of St. Peter's Church, Hebron; St. George's Church, Bolton; and St. John's Church, Vernon.

At the festival, the combined choirs will be divided into two sections, senior choirs and junior choirs (Grades 5 through 8). Warren Geissinger, head of the music department at Pomfret School and organist-choir director at Christ Church, Pomfret, will direct the senior choirs. Dr. Thomas Vasil, assistant professor of music at the University of Connecticut, will direct the junior choirs.

The Unhappy Team of Winners... The Oakland A's

In major league ball, a pitcher is considered very good if he wins 20 games in a season. "Catfish" Hunter has been a 20-game winner during each of the past three seasons.

Catfish got his nickname because he likes to go fishing.

*Jim
"Catfish"
Hunter*

Would you believe a championship team made up of unhappy coaches, players and managers who fight, fume, fuss, bicker and scrap among themselves and still manage to win two World Series in a row?

The team is the "swinging" Oakland A's, one of the most unusual teams in the history of baseball.

Even after winning the 1972 series, the world champs couldn't draw a crowd big enough to fill the stands in their Oakland home park.

Dick Williams, the team's 11th manager in 10 years, got so mad at the owner, Charles O. Finley, that he quit at the end of last year's World Series. He made this announcement on TV before 60 million fans.

The Mini Page talked with the star pitcher, Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who says in spite of all this fuss his team is "probably the closest team in baseball." It certainly is the most colorful.

Catfish says that while the A's owner, Charles Finley, has "a lot of crazy ideas" he has "done a lot of good things for baseball."

Please draw mustaches on each of the Oakland stars below, except Vida Blue and Bert Campaneris. They didn't go along with the idea last season.

Bert Campaneris is good at stealing bases and fielding at shortstop.

Vida Blue won the 1971 Cy Young Award for the best pitcher in the American League.

Reggie Jackson was elected 1973's Most Valuable Player in the World Series and in the American League.

Sal Bando, a third baseman, is captain of the team.

Mr. Finley's Ideas

Mr. Finley has a show business approach to the game that has been a shot in the arm for baseball.

The Oakland A's were the first major league team to wear colored uniforms. When they first appeared in their white baseball shoes and their yellow and green uniforms, it was a real shock. It was not long before many other teams started wearing bright colors, too.

Perhaps Finley's most successful publicity gimmicks were the handlebar mustaches and muttonchop sideburns that he got most Oakland players to grow by promising them $300 each.

Just imagine a whole team dressed in bright yellow and green uniforms with just about everybody wearing a big mustache and you have got the colorful Oakland A's. Let's watch to see what they do this year.

Meet Charles O. Finley

When Charles Finley was 12 years old, he organized a baseball team in Birmingham, Alabama, and made himself manager.

Mr. Finley is now 56 and lives in La Porte, Indiana. He is not only General Manager of the Oakland A's, but also the owner. He has made a lot of money in the insurance business. His motto is, "Sweat plus Sacrifice equals Success."

Owner Finley is very outspoken and has had many arguments with players, managers and baseball officials.

He has had some good ideas. One of them was having the All Star and some of the World Series games played at night so working fans could see them.

He has had some unusual ideas. The A's mascot, a mule called "Charley O," has been led through hotel lobbies and taken to victory celebrations.

One of his pet ideas has been turned down. He wants players to use orange balls and bases so they can see them better.

Mr. Finley also owned a basketball and a hockey team, but he sold them. He's also interested in farming and civic affairs.

Now that you think about it, orange balls may not be a bad idea. What do you think?

Super Sport: New York Mets

Even though they lost the World Series to Oakland, the 1973 New York Mets were amazing. Though suffering from injuries much of the season, the Mets won 20 of their last 28 games to win the National League pennant. Outstanding pitching by Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, and George Stone was the key to their success. Felix Millan and Rusty Staub were big hitters. Manager Yogi Berra's team should be strong again this season.

Mini Do: Jean Pillows

Father's Day is June 16. Make Dad pillows out of the jean legs you cut off this summer.

What you'll need:

- jean pant legs
- needle
- embroidery thread or knitting yarn
- old stockings, cotton or foam rubber for stuffing.
- crayon

What to do:

1. Draw your design in light crayon. Stitch over your design. Do not sew through to the other side!
2. Turn it wrong side out and sew up one end. Sew up the other end, leaving just enough room to poke in the stuffing.
3. Turn it right side out. Put the stuffing inside. Stitch it up.
